Possible fourth avian flu case noted in area

State Department of Ag providing weekly updates

A compost pile in one of the areas affected by Avian Influenza in Dixon County is the burial site for some of the chickens who were affected by the virus.

Since the first case of Avian Influenza was discovered in Nebraska on May 12, the Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA) has been working to update the public and offer advice on preventing the spread of the disease.

Information provided by the NDA earlier this week indicated that until further notice, "the NDA is issuing weekly updates on its response to Avian Influenza. These updates will be issued every Tuesday to keep members of the media and the public informed on the progress being made. If there are any significant developments a press release will be issued."

The June 2 report indicated one new presumptive positive case of HPAI to report. It is located in Dixon County. Current number of farms impacted: 5 Number of counties impacted: 2 (4 farms in Dixon County, 1 farm in Knox County)

The report also indicated that depopulation of the sites known as Dixon 1, 2 and 3 are in progress or nearly complete and composting of the animals is in progress.

The total number of birds involved in the three locations is nearly 4 million.

In a recently identified location, listed as Dixon 4, the birds remain under quarantine as a suspect flock at this time. The flock size is less than 100 birds of mixed fowl.

The location identified as Knox 1 also remains under quarantine as a suspect flock at this time. It is a flock of 3 million laying hens

NDA is coordinating the state response, with staff in the area daily enforcing the quarantines of affected farms; monitoring quarantined poultry farms within a 6.2 mile radius of the affected farms and coordinating testing efforts on those farms; issuing permits for movement of materials such as supplies and egg and egg products outside of the 6.2 mile perimeter; and overseeing the depopulation and composting efforts.

Dixon 4 is a small flock of mixed fowl that is located within the 6.2 mile radius of the other Dixon County locations. The flock was under quarantine and tested as part of NDA's surveillance work. The flock will remain under quarantine as NDA waits for final confirmation testing from USDA.

Knox 1 remains under quarantine at this time based on a presumptive positive test last week. Subsequent testing has not confirmed the presumptive positive. This facility remains a suspect flock and will remain under quarantine and continue to undergo regular testing. In consultation with USDA, it has been determined that the site will require 21 days of negative testing before the quarantine can be released. Biosecurity protocols will continue to be exercised out of an abundance of caution until further notice.

As part of NDA's surveillance work within the 6.2 mile radius of the affected farms, there have been 23 additional farms with poultry that have been quarantined in Dixon County and 29 additional farms with poultry that have been quarantined in Knox County. NDA is working with the Dixon County producers to test their flocks. Testing is on hold at the 29 farms in Knox County due to the lack of USDA confirmation testing at the Knox 1 facility at this time. These farms will remain under quarantine until further notice.

Winside gets ready for celebration of 125 years

Winside will hold its Q-125 weekend June 19-21, celebrating 125 years of history with a three-day festival of activities.

The community was officially incorporated as a town on Oct. 7, 1890. Settlers began arriving to the area as early as 1877, but settlements of towns in the area didn't begin until the 1880's when the railroad arrived in the area.

The railroad between Wayne and Norfolk was completed in April of 1882, and the railroad had planned for towns to be located at eight-mile intervals. Wakefield was located and two other towns - Hoskins and Northside - were scheduled for location, but when Wayne was located further than eight miles from Wakefield, it created a situation where Northside - located four miles southwest of present-day Winside - was too far away from Wayne, but not far enough for another town to be located between the two.

Additionally, Northside was located at the bottom of Apex Hill, which proved to be difficult for trains to start when traveling west. Negotiations with landowners proved to be difficult, and landowners in Northside were afraid the railroad's section house would be moved to new track that was built east of Northside, so they plotted into eight blocks and registered as a town on July 10, 1885.

All was quiet for a few months, but early on the morning of Sept. 13, 1885, the railroad quietly moved its section house to the new tracks east of Northside. By June of 1886, the town of Winside was platted and registered, named because it "won" over Northside.

Winside's railroad depot was built in 1886 and remained until it was torn down in 1967. That site now hosts the Winside Museum and Theophilus Church building.

A fire burned down several buildings in downtown Winside in the spring of 1889, but by 1890 the town was growing with more than 20 businesses established in the community and the town was officially incorporated that fall.

More information on events for Winside's Q-125 celebration will be in next week's edition of The Wayne Herald.

New Providence Medical Center CEO Jim Frank comes to Wayne after eight years as CEO of a critical-access hospital in Burke, S.D.

Frank jumps into new role at PMC

Jim Frank, 45, began his duties as the new head of Providence Medical Center Monday morning, coming to Wayne after spending eight years as CEO at Community Memorial Hospital, a 16-bed critical access hospital in Burke, S.D.

Frank and his family are familiar with Wayne America. Son Tyler is a high jumper with the University of South Dakota track and field team and they have competed in events at Wayne State College. "We have been to Wayne for some track meets to watch Tyler compete," he said in his new office Monday afternoon.

The Frank family is impressed with the place they will now call home. "Wayne is a very progressive community and that is something that attracted us. With our youngest daughter graduating and me looking to advance my career, it seemed to be the ideal time to re-locate and Wayne is a great community," Frank said.

It's been a hectic last few weeks for Frank and his wife, Dulce. Their oldest daughter, Mackenze, just graduated with a degree in journalism from USD, and their youngest, Jaicee, just finished

Pool pass payments discussed

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Issues relating to the new pool and the Summer Sports Complex dominated discussion at Tuesday's Wayne City Council meeting.

The board discussed a suggestion by councilman Nick Muir to allow those who purchase swimming pool passes to pay for their passes as part of their monthly utility bill, similar to what is available to those with memberships to the Wayne Community Activity Center.

"I've had people stop and ask about adding it to their utility bill and just paying it monthly, instead of paying in one lump sum in April or May," Muir told the council.

Acting WCAC director Cassie Harm said that those with memberships to the center who pay via their utility bill "love doing it that way," and she thought the city could utilize a shorter pay period - WCAC annual memberships are separated into 12 monthly payments - for swimming pool passes.

Councilwoman Jennifer Sievers said the activity center membership is a yearly one, and she felt a pool pass payment should be paid over a shorter period of time, suggesting the months of May through August. She also felt it would be helpful to expand the payment plan to include such things as swimming lessons and entry fees for recreation programs such as baseball, tennis or golf.

Councilman Jason Karsky said he also liked the idea, and suggested waiting until the new pool is opened next year.

"To reduce confusion, we should wait until the pool is done and start next year," he said. "There is going to be a run on passes

Opportunity opens for new Laurel restaurant

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

The old saying "When one door closes, another opens" couldn't be more appropriate for Scott and Christy Taylor.

The Taylors' catering business was in need of a new kitchen when they sold their Taylor Seeds operation late last year. Fortunately, opportunity knocked when they bought the former Bears' Den in downtown Laurel and turned it into Claramont Steak & Chop House and Knuckleheadz Bar, which opened just recently.

"We ran our catering business out of our office with the seed business, and when we sold the seed business I lost the kitchen I did the catering in," Christy Taylor said. "This building came available, and we thought why not add the bar and restaurant to go with it."

The Taylors bought the building in early January and began a four-month assault on the building, redecorating, repainting and replacing before opening its doors for the first time in mid-May.

"We totally gutted (the bar) and re-did the whole thing," Taylor said. "We knocked out some walls, moved the bathrooms, took out the false ceiling, expanded the kitchen - we did a lot of renovating to get this ready."

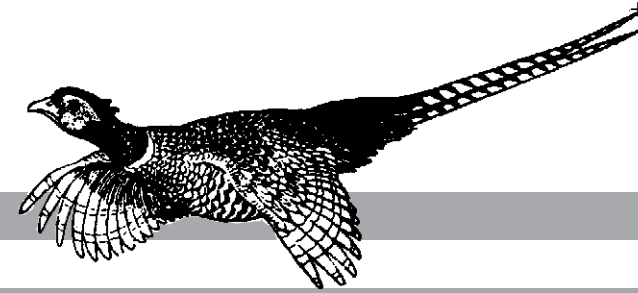

The Taylors decided to rebuild the bar with an automotive flavor. Lights designed from old gas nozzles and Fram oil filters hanging from bike chains, well-worn road signs and a wall hanging made of motorcycle manifolds grace the new bar.

Looking Ahead in Wayne

City Council meetings
Regular Wayne City Council meetings are at 5:30 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month in city hall at Third and Pearl Streets.

Decision Making in 1/4 Second — What's Our Local Police Department Use of Force Policy?

The Huskers offensive line and Kobe Bryant regularly make critical decisions in 1/4 second. The decisions made in 1/4 second by law enforcement officers in recent national shootings are being debated by those of us being protected by the officers.

Besides Nebraska State Patrol, we have our own local, county and city law enforcement responsible to protect us and our life style. Our elected Sheriff and the appointed City of Wayne Civil Service Commission members select and hire your local law enforcement officers. The Sheriff, and the city council are responsible for their department's policies.

Wayne is not Mayberry. Thousands of strangers, travel through Wayne County daily. Our law enforcement officers encounter these folks without knowing whether they are fugitives or grandmas.

I thought it would be interesting to see what our local policy is for use of deadly force in a moment of confrontation and how our officers consider the legal, safety and personal issues in 1/4 of a second.... and at that same time they are legally required to preserve and protect the confronter's civil rights. Police Chief Marlin Chinn has this summary:

"Use of Force Policies and Procedures are in place within law enforcement agencies to use as guidelines on how to respond to incidents they may encounter. These policies dictate that officers use only the force that reasonably appears necessary to effectively bring an incident under control while protecting the lives of the public and of the officer(s) involved.

Officers must decide what is objectively reasonable by a prudent person in determining the appropriate level of force and it's necessity of use. Consideration has to be given with each incident of the known circumstances, including, but not limited to the seriousness of the crime, the level of threats or resistance presented and the danger to the community that they have taken an oath to protect. All of this has to be done usually within a matter of a split second while at the same time be prepared to react to that decision while asking themselves is it reasonable and is it justified??

There are often public perceptions that officers want to be involved in deadly force situations and want the "excitement", however I have never met another officer that wants to take a life and deal with the after effects of that trauma physically and emotionally on themselves, their families, or their community.

In addition to policies and procedures, numerous trainings are conducted in the use of the equipment officers use and carry to become as proficient as possible. Other training is designed to simulate real life situations and conditions to enhance the officer's discretion and judgement while also preparing them mentally for a real event if and when it occurs."

Leadership matters. Leaders need to be cautious in the debate about this issue. People grab onto statements they hear that seem to legitimize their own feelings. Hearing a leader with the weight of a state senator suggesting "he'd shoot a cop if he weren't nonviolent and had a gun" can affect that 1/4 second decision by someone in a confrontation.

Pet of the Week

This week's Pet of the Week at Tenderheart Animal Rescue is Suzi, a beagle mix with lots of energy and enthusiasm. She is a larger dog so don't expect a little shorty. She was returned to us due to skin issues that the adopter couldn't afford to treat. We are working on those now and hope she can find a home with someone who can take good care of her. She would make a great farm dog but would probably like to be inside with you also. She does seem to be suspicious of cattle.

For more information or to adopt Suzi, call (402) 369-6030.

County board turns down lodging tax grant request

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

The Wayne County Commissioners rejected a request Tuesday for a lodging tax grant application since the event was being held at a Wakefield location two blocks north of the Wayne-Dixon county line.

The Wakefield Heritage Organization had submitted a $500 grant request for a 100-year celebration of the Grave Library Building. The application was one of two made by the organization – the second being made with the Dixon County board – as part of their celebration of the city's old library building.

Unfortunately, the guidelines for Wayne County's lodging tax grant application states that the event must take place inside Wayne County, a note that board chairman Randy Larson said would force the county to reject the request.

"Technically, we can't give it to them," he told the board. "The event has to be held here in Wayne County, and I don't see that we have a choice (on approval or rejection) even if we wanted to."

County Clerk Deb Finn said that the group had applied in both counties with the hope that the two counties would each give half of the $500 requested. The final request that was presented to the Wayne County board Tuesday was for $225, but since the event is being held at a location two blocks north of the county line, Larson said the board had no choice but to reject the request.

"It's a technicality and I'm sorry to see it in there, but we have to act on this," he said.

The board also heard from Lois Shelton of the Wayne County Historical Society, who requested a doubling of the amount of money the county gives each year.

Shelton asked for the county to double its budgeted amount of $2,500 – the same amount they have budgeted since 1976 – to $5,000, taking into account that some of that money goes toward Winside's historical preservation efforts as well.

"The $2,500 that we split now is pretty much eaten up with utilities alone, just enough to make sure the pipes don't break again," she told the board.

Shelton said that the historical building in Wayne has windows that are separating on the interior, which exposes historical items to significant temperature and humidity shifts.

"You have a lot of garments, photographic equipment and storage that is being exposed to major temperature and humidity shifts, which isn't good for any of it," she said.

The board took Shelton's information under consideration as they prepare the 2015-16 fiscal year budget.

County Sheriff Jason Dwinell talked with the board about ordering a new patrol cruiser, which will take between 8-12 weeks for the county to receive. The department has room in their budget for a new vehicle, as the county board allows for a new vehicle every two budget cycles.

In other action, the board:

– heard an update from Nic Kemnitz, county emergency manager, relating to activities going on in the Wakefield area as they support the Department of Agriculture in the avian flu cleanup in Dixon County.

– heard from Mark Casey, road and bridge project manager, relating to ongoing road and bridge construction work being done in the county.

– reappointed Jean Nuss and Keith Gamble to the Veterans Service Committee, and Dave Woslager and Nana Peterson to the Wayne County Convention and Visitors Bureau board.

The board's next meeting is Tuesday, June 16 at 9 a.m. at the Wayne County Courthouse.

Open house for Countryview Estates

Four months of work will be showcased on June 12 when Countryview Estates/Careage Campus of Care holds an open house.

The event is designed to celebrate the remodeling of the entire Assisted Living area of the facility.

"We have remodeled the exterior of all the hallways, the common area and the shower spa room. We created four double room suites and four studio rooms which include a kitchen area," said Misty Wylie, Assisted Living Coordinator.

Countryview Estates will be the site of the Friday, June 12 coffee and an open house will be held from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. that day.

"The majority of this area was original to when the facility was built in 1992. Our remodel included new floors, wall, a breakfast area, all new doors and new furniture," Wylie said.

She noted that project was completed in phases and residents were moved to different areas through the construction project.

"Adding the double room suites will allow our residents to have more options. We currently have capacity for 30-32 residents in our assisted living area," Wylie said.

She encourages anyone who may be considering the move to assisted living to consider Countryview Estates.

"All our residents have choices for all their meals. Each lunch and supper includes a main meal, but other choices are available if a resident so desires," she said. Once a month, a special meal is planned for the residents.

Those living in the Countryview Assisted Living area need to be mobile and are free to come and go as they want. The area has its own entry way.

Residents are encouraged to bring their own furniture and other items with them to help make the space feel more like home.

"We also have a guest room available for any of our residents who may have family visiting," Wylie said.

"We have made a commitment to making this place great and we want the community to feel the same way about it," said Ammon Wolfley, Administrator of Careage Campus of Care/Countryview Estates.

The facility prides itself on having a consistent staff, which allows for staff members to know and develop relationships with residents.

"We would like to thank PMSI Construction from Wisconsin for their construction work and Discount Furniture for providing the furniture for the suites," Wolfley said.

"We would also like to extend a special thank you to residents and families here at Countryview Estates for their patience, understanding and help during this remodeling project."

High deductibles may mean lower premiums – but a costly trade-off

By TRUDY LIEBERMAN
Rural Health News Service

A few weeks ago I got an e mail from Judy, a reader who wanted to tell me about trouble she's had paying her medical bills, particularly for prescription drugs. Severe daily headaches had just qualified her for Social Security disability benefits. After she satisfies a two-year waiting period, which the law requires, she will qualify for Medicare as all people on Social Security disability will do whether or not they are age 65. Judy couldn't wait so she looked for other insurance options.

Her monthly income of about $1,300 is too high for Medicaid benefits. "I'm $20 over the income guidelines," she told me. So she turned to an Affordable Care Act policy with a low premium but a $6,500 deductible.

That deductible pinches financially. Until she reaches the $6,500 annual limit, she pays out of pocket for her medicines and other health-care needs while juggling the rent, utility payments, car expenses, insurance premiums, fuel and food bills and praying her car doesn't break down. "Where is all this going to end?" she asked.

Judy is one of the growing numbers of Americans who are underinsured, meaning according to one definition, those who spend 10 percent or more of their income on healthcare costs excluding premiums. That means they are spending money for coverage that might not help them. The financial squeeze is not going to end any time soon not only for those like Judy who bought an Obamacare policy through a get employer-sponsored coverage.

How high deductibles can go is, of course, up to your employer or insurer. This year, policies offered through the exchanges created by Obamacare can require families to pay as much as $13,200 out of pocket. That includes deductibles but also copays and coinsurance, a percentage of the bill.

HealthPocket, a website that tracks insurance costs, says this year the average deductible for bronze policies generally the cheapest sold in the exchanges is $5,181 for individuals and $10,545 for families. Average deductibles for silver plans were about $3,000 for individuals and $6,000 for families. Any way you look at it, those are pretty hefty amounts for low and moderate-income families.

High deductibles come at a high cost. A new report from The Commonwealth Fund, the funder of Rural Health News Service, shows that people suffer both financial and health consequences. The report said that almost half of those who were underinsured had trouble paying medical bills or had medical debt that ate up all their savings. One-third with medical bills took on credit card debt to pay them.

When the survey asked underinsured respondents if they skipped getting care – like going to the doctor, shrugging off a recommended test or treatment, or not filling a prescription because of costs—about 45 percent said yes. When researchers specifically asked those with deductibles of $3,000 or more if they got care, again about 45 percent said they didn't.

These findings run counter to a major goal of the Affordable Care Act, which was to bring more Americans under the insurance umbrella. The crisis of uninsurance is being replaced by a new crisis of underinsurance, says Jonathan Oberlander, a health policy expert at the University of North Carolina.

The theory behind those high deductibles is to make people think twice before going to the doctor and thus to save money for the whole health care system. In other words, if patients now assume more of the cost burden, fewer of them will actually use medical services. The Commonwealth Fund study shows that's true: Patients are skipping care.

But we don't know yet whether that's causing a significant, sustainable drop in the national healthcare tab. Medical inflation has slowed somewhat, but no one is certain the trend is permanent.

I asked Sara Collins, a vice president of The Commonwealth Fund, about the effectiveness of controlling costs through high deductibles. She said it doesn't address the biggest reasons for them. Those "are driven by very sick people and that suggests something more fundamental," she explained.

Are employers and insurers going to sell policies with ever-increasing deductibles when we know people respond in ways that don't help them stay healthy or get better care when they are sick? Or are we going to get serious about pushing back against the power of the big insurers, drug companies, and hospitals, which like things just the way they are?

"What does it take to get affordable medications," Judy asked me. That's the question policymakers must answer.

We'd like to hear about your experiences with high deductible insurance. Write to trudy.lieberman@gmail.com.

Restaurant

"It's something different. There's nothing like this anywhere around here, and people here are into hot rods and motorcycles and poker runs, so I thought having that theme here was something you weren't going to see anywhere else in the area," Scott Taylor said.

The walls are adorned with a number of old county road signs, a gift from the county roads department, Mr. Taylor said.

"They were taking them out to recycle, and they came to me and asked if I'd be interested in them, and I thought they'd look cool in here," he said.

The restaurant has a more relaxed feel to it and can seat up to 100 people, which makes it a great location for catering events.

"We'll have some class reunions to cater for during Ag Days, and we'll be able to use the facilities here," Christy Taylor said.

The Claramont Steak & Chop House will be open Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, offering a very interesting variety of food options, including two specialty meals.

"Josh, our chef, has two specialty steaks – the Claramont, which has a port wine sauce that is amazing; and the Black and Blue, which has a blue cheese sauce on top of it that is outstanding," Christy Taylor said. "We're also hoping to add walleto to the menu, and we have specialty burgers like the Knucklehead Chubby and the Pitboss."

Those specialty burgers (the Chubby is a burger topped with roast beef, caramelized onions and bacon; while the Pitboss includes pepperjack cheese, pulled pork and barbecue sauce) and other traditional bar fare will be available six days a week at Knuckleheadz Bar, which is open Mondays through Saturdays from 11 a.m.-1 a.m., and will also feature a beer garden that should be open very soon.

"We're hoping the weather will cooperate so we can get the concrete laid and finish the fencing," Mrs. Taylor said.

The Taylors employ about 20 people between the bar, restaurant and their catering business, which keeps the family busy.

"Scott and I both work, and we have a great staff working here and in the kitchen," Mrs. Taylor said. "We had a wedding to cater in Hartington, along with having people work in the restaurant and the bar, so you need to have a number of people. We're all still getting into a rhythm here, but it's working out really well."

The Taylors said they put a ton of effort into getting the new bar and restaurant open before the summer, and the word they're hearing from people in the community is that it has been a very good experience.

"There aren't a lot of places where people can go and enjoy a nice sit-down meal, and business here has been great," Mrs. Taylor said. "It's been exciting for us, and we've have people come from Norfolk or Fremont just to check it out, so it's been great."

"We're still kind of learning as we go," Mr. Taylor added, "but the comments we've heard from people is that they're very excited about it, and people are welcome to come check us out."

 Frank finished high school and will join her siblings in Vermillion this fall.

In between, Tyler was competing in the Summit League track and field championships in Illinois, so it goes without saying that Frank is looking forward to getting settled in here in Wayne. "It's been a crazy 60 days with all that has been going on," he said. "We just sold our home back in Burke and we will be moving into our new home in Wayne, so it's going to be another busy time coming up."

Frank brings a good deal of hospital administrative experience into this new position at Chief Executive Officer at Providence Medical Center, having served as either a CEO or CFO (Chief Financial Officer) for three separate medical facilities over the course of his career. Frank began work as an accountant, specializing in hospital auditing, before getting his first taste of medical administration at the age of 25, serving as CFO at a hospital in Chamberlain, S.D. After three years, he returned to a private accounting practice before another opportunity presented itself in Winner, S.D. After eight years as CFO there, he became the CEO at the Burke hospital in 2007. "I've grown up in the business," he said. "I've always been at critical access hospitals, so coming to Providence was a natural transition."

Frank is looking forward to some major projects that will be happening at PMC. "We have a construction project going and a computer conversion coming in November,"

he said. "I've been through numerous computer conversions, and believe me they are always a challenge. PMC is a hospital with a very strong tradition and is sound financially. My first year here will be interesting but I am looking forward to it." Frank says he and his family should be settling into their new home in a matter of weeks.

"Wayne is a great location," he said. "It's close to our kids in Vermillion, and at the same time is close to bigger cities like Sioux City, Omaha and Lincoln. We have family in Wahoo and Butte, so we're close to everybody! I came from a small town, and Wayne is the size of town we want to be in. We're happy to be here and looking forward to meeting people and getting involved in the community."

 that first year and people will be excited about getting memberships."

The council agreed to revisit the discussion in early 2016 as they get closer to the opening of the new swimming pool.

Also on the docket was an ordinance amending the city code to cite those who use tobacco on city property with a misdemeanor.

Concerns had been raised of the use of tobacco products by fans at the Summer Sports Complex and Hank Overin Field, as well as the city swimming pool. A fine of up to $500 could be imposed on those who violate the no smoking ordinance.

Karsky said he was at a youth baseball game recently when a fan from out of town was smoking. While he didn't think it was necessary to call the police, he felt that people need to be aware that smoking is not allowed on city property.

"I don't think we'll get to the point where we're calling the cops. If it gets to that point, that person probably needs some shaking up anyway," he said. "We need to try and promote a healthy environment for our kids."

Mayor Ken Chamberlain agreed, adding, "When the police get called, it's not about smoking anymore."

Councilman Matt Eischeid, who cast the lone dissenting vote on the ordinance, said the city would do well enough to place signs at the facilities indicating that it is a tobacco-free area.

"We can do that without passing an ordinance," he said.

Chamberlain countered, saying the city can't do anything about offenders who disregard the signs if no ordinance is in place.

In other action, the Council:

- approved increases in rental rates of the Wayne Community Activity Center.

- approved an employment agreement with Lowell Johnson, city administrator, for the 2015-16 fiscal year.

- approved the sale of a north-south alley in Carhart's First Addition to Scott Hasemann in the amount of $150.

- approved an ordinance prohibiting parking along a 50-foot stretch on the west side of the center line of Lincoln Street from the north line of West First Street.

- approved the final payment of $19,367.63 to Robert Woehler & Sons Construction for the 2014 Hillside Drive paving and storm sewer improvement project.

Approved final reading on three amendments to city code regarding Section 90, which has to do with agricultural district restrictions.

The council's next meeting is Tuesday, June 16 at 5:30 p.m. at the City Council chambers.

Wayne's sports guru turning 50

By the time you read this, Wayne's reigning senior citizen in the sports media business will, hopefully, be fully recovered from celebrating his 50th birthday.

If you've played any sport in Wayne over the last 28 years, it's a pretty good bet that your name has either been mentioned on the air or in print by Mike Grosz. The master of radio, print and sports information has a part of the Wayne community for almost three decades and has served in just about every possible sports media-related capacity outside of the Internet.

Grosz got his start at KTCH after graduating from broadcasting school in Minnesota. The South Dakota native found a home here in Wayne calling local sports, serving as Mark Ahmann's color guy for Wayne State broadcasts and serving as one of the dependable voices in the small-town radio scene here in Northeast Nebraska.

I first got to know Mike as I was coming up through the newspaper ranks. I moved to Norfolk in 1996 and started running into Mike on a fairly regular basis while doing my duties at the Norfolk Daily News. We spent many days talking sports in the old, tiny press room in the Bob Devaney Sports Center during state wrestling, and shared a lot of conversations and good laughs in between events at the state track meet at Omaha Burke.

Grosz was the man behind the mic for more than a decade before then-general manager (and current publisher) Kevin Peterson talked him away from the broadcast booth and made him sports editor here at The Wayne Herald. Grosz was here for a few years and, from looking back at some of his work that I've seen in the files over the years, he made the transition quite well and did a great job covering the area that the Herald covers each week.

Then came the chance to complete the athletic information trifecta – when Wayne State College was looking for a full-time sports information director, I'm sure they looked at a number of qualified candidates for the job. In the end, they made the decision that, without question, made the most sense – hire the local guy who's been earlobes deep in Wayne State sports coverage and has worked in both broadcast and print media.

It's a job he's held down for more than a decade now, and I can say this about him – not only as a friend, but as a professional – the guy is pretty doggone good at what he does at Wayne State College. You aren't going to find somebody who is more knowledgeable about Wildcat athletics, and is more prepared to provide whatever you need – whenever you need it – than Mike Grosz.

Many a time, I have needed something with the deadline clock ticking loudly and the guys in the press room waiting with very limited patience. Mike knows how things work here and what "deadline day" is like, so if I need a mugshot of a certain player, it takes about half a heartbeat from the time I e-mail him to the time he replies back with that player's photo.

His office is also the source of some great conversation and behind-the-scenes material that is classified as "off the record" for any number of reasons. The opportunity to talk with him about people, venues and things that are not for publication purposes is one that I always enjoy. It was of great benefit to me as I got engrossed in the community in my first days here at the paper, and continues to be an enjoyable break from the everyday duties.

If somebody inquires about a statistic or a historical note about an area sports legend or game that I don't have in my memory bank, it's either Mike or Kevin that I call on first. Usually, Grosz not only has the name of the player, but can recite specific information, the date of the game, who the opponent was

Juniors 2-2 in tournament, get two wins in league play

Two league wins highlighted a good week for the Wayne American Legion Juniors baseball team.

The Wayne Juniors defeated Pierce 14-2 in action Friday evening at Hank Overin Field, using an 11-run first inning to help them to the easy win on a cool, dreary evening.

Payten Gamble had a big night at the plate, recording three hits with a double, triple and four RBI's. Adam Bentjen added three hits and three RBI's, Zane Jackson also had a double and three RBI's and Justin Dean had a two-run single to highlight an 11-hit effort. Bentjen got the win on the hill, allowing four hits and striking out nine.

The Wayne American Legion Juniors baseball team went 2-2 in action over the weekend at the South Sioux City Tournament.

On Saturday, Wayne posted a 4-0 shutout of Yankton, thanks to the one-hit pitching of Caden Korth, who struck out two and walked four in the win. Michael Knieseche singled and scored and Justin Dean added a single to highlight Wayne's six-hit attack.

Wayne lost their second game of the day to Worthington (Minn.), 6-1. Gamble singled and doubled to lead the offense while Korth added a single. Jackson took the loss.

On Sunday, Wayne lost to Omaha

Central 8-5. Mikey Reyes had three hits, including a double, and three RBI's in the losing effort. Tucker Nichols took the loss and had a hit at the plate. Bentjen scored twice, Ryan Jaixen walked twice and Mason Lee stole a base.

Wayne closed the tournament with a 4-1 win over Lincoln Amigos, thanks to the three-hit, five-strikeout pitching of Gamble. Jackson doubled and drove in two runs, Beau Bowers scored twice, singled and stole a base.

WSC soccer adds two

Wayne State women's soccer coach Tom Cliff announced that Hayley Hunter from Ozark, Mo. and Alix Stanley from McCall, Idaho have signed national letters of intent to attend Wayne State and play soccer for the Wildcats in the 2015-16 academic year.

Hunter is a 5-foot-7 midfielder that is transferring to Wayne State from Northeastern Oklahoma A&M and will have two years of eligibility with the Wildcats. She recorded two goals and five assists last season and helped the Lady Norse to an 11-4 record, the most wins in a single season for the program. In high school at Ozark, Mo., Hunter was a Class 3 District 12 and All-Central Ozarks Conference first-team selection as a senior in 2013 while scoring eight goals with seven assists.

Stanley is a 5-foot-7 goalkeeper from McCall-Donnelly High School in Idaho. She posted a 12-7-1 record as a senior last fall, helping her team to a fourth-place finish in the Idaho Class 3A state tournament. Stanley had a 1.30 goals-against average with six shutouts and 134 saves, averaging 6.7 saves per game to earn Most Valuable Player honors.

Hunter and Stanley join 10 other student-athletes that signed with Wayne State in February.

Men's rugby takes fifth at national tourney

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. – A fifth-place finish in the Elite Eight was not a bad outing for the Wayne State men's rugby club.

The Wildcats saw some tough competition in their pool Saturday in the National Small College Rugby Organization 7-on-7 national playoffs, losing to last year's national champions in New England College (17-0) and an always-tough Claremont College out of California (22-7). Wayne State showed its grit by closing out play with a 26-19 win over Susquehanna University, then dominated Lafayette College in the fifth-place game on Sunday, posting a 20-5 win.

"New England College was last year's national champions in sevens and have been in the finals the last two years, and we hung right with them," coach Darrin Barner said. "We made a couple of small boo-boos that they were able to capitalize on, otherwise we were right there with them."

Barner said the same held true in the loss to Claremont, but the team

In the first game, Wyatt Heikes struck out 14 and walked one to get the win. Caden Backer closed the game on the mound. Calvin Starzl led the offense with two singles and a triple, Tanner Walling added a double and triple, and Daniel Judd and Aiden Liston had singles.

In the win over Wahoo, Walling struck out eight while walking two, Judd coming on in relief. Zach McManigal had a single, Walling recorded a single and triple Starzl had a triple, Judd had two singles, Cooper Zara added a single, and Al-

Tyler Lutt threw a two-hit shutout for the 4-2 (2-0 RBL) Juniors, striking out four and walking one. Offensively, he helped his cause with two hits. Korth also had two hits, Bentjen had two hits and scored three times and Casey Brentlinger had a two-run single.

Wayne plays in the Wooden Bat Tournament this weekend with games at Hank Overin Field. They play at 12 p.m. against Wahoo and 8 p.m. against Vermillion.

Rugby

From Page 1B responded well and closed out the tournament with two solid efforts.

"We played very well that third game on Saturday, and we just came out and blew out Lafayette on Sunday," he said. "I was extremely happy with our performance. We're not the most athletic team in the world, but the other coaches I talked to were impressed with our team and were really interested in hearing about our 37-hour bus trip out there."

More than 24,000 people were on hand to watch the national tournament action, with the finals being shown on NBC over the weekend.

The Wayne State men's rugby team finished the season ranked No. 5 in the country and had a 16-4 overall record.

Sports Guru

From Page 1B – calling him a guru of local sports would not be that far-fetched an adjective. He's one of those guys you want for your "phone a friend" option if you've got a sports question standing between you and $1 million on "Who Wants To Be A Millionaire."

Last fall, the Norfolk Daily News featured Grosz on the cover of its fall sports preview edition. It was a great piece of artwork showing Grosz with many hands operating everything from a camera to a keyboard and a microphone. It was a really nice piece done by the Daily News, and I'm sure they appreciate Mike's work as much as we do here at The Wayne Herald.

If you see him on the streets – or find him scouring the weeds of a lost golf ball at the country club – wish of Mike a happy birthday and thank him for a job well done.

Ripple is new AD at Northeast CC

Jacob Ripple has been named the new director of athletics at Northeast Community College. He arrives at Northeast with an extensive resume at the junior/community college level, most recently serving as eligibility and athletic academic coordinator at Blinn College in Brenham, Texas.

Ripple was responsible for the supervision of NJCAA eligibility for Buccaneer sports and advising of student-athletes. Prior to Blinn, he was the assistant athletic director at Garden City (Kan.) Community College. In addition, he served three years as the sports information director and as the assistant executive director of the Broncbuster Athletic Association.

Ripple coached collegiate women's basketball before moving into administration at Garden City. He coached for 14 years and was part of many successful teams, including an NJCAA Region VI Championship in 2000 at Barton County (Kan.) Community College. Ripple also was part of the coaching staff at Sterling College when it had teams make two different appearances at the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Division II National Tournament.

Lease workshops scheduled this summer across Nebraska

The Landlord/Tenant Cash Lease workshops offered in August will help landlords and tenants put together a lease that is right for both parties, and help maintain positive farm leasing relations.

Area workshops include:

- Dakota City Extension meeting room, 1 p.m. on Monday, Aug 10;
- Life Long Learning Center in Norfolk, 1 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 11 and
- Wayne Fire Hall in Wayne, 9 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 24.

Other locations include Ogallala, Fairbury, North Platte, Weeping Water, Grand Island, Leigh, Plainview, Columbus and near Mead.

Topics for discussion include:

- Latest information about land values and cash rental rates for the area and state;
- Expectations from the lease, including typical lease arrangements;
- Lease termination, including terminating handshake or verbal leases where the deadline is Aug. 31, 2015;
- Lease communication, determining appropriate information sharing for both the tenant and landlord;
- Alternative cash lease arrangements, flexible provision considerations for your situation; and
- Other topics, like irrigation systems, hay rent, pasture rental agreements, and grain bin rental will be covered as time allows.

The UNL Extension Educator team of, Allan Vyhnalek, Robert Tigner, Jim Jansen, and Tim Lemmons, will present on these topics and provide common sense tips during the presentation. It is very helpful if both the tenant and landlord can attend together. It is also helpful if the spouse attends. Everyone is welcome to the workshop.

This free workshop is sponsored by the Nebraska Soybean Board. Refreshments and handouts are provided. Registration is requested by calling the host county of the workshop. Register by three days prior to the workshop you would like to attend to ensure that there are enough handouts and refreshments.

This workshop has been held extensively across Nebraska for the past four years with over 2,800 attending. The vast majority of both landlords and tenants find the workshop to be very helpful in improving communications, setting rental terms, and learning about the use of flex lease provisions. As crop budgets are tighten, it is even more important to attend and listen to the latest discussion about leasing issues.

For more information or assistance, please contact Allan Vyhnalek, Extension Educator, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Extension in Platte County at (402) 563-4901 or e-mail avyhnalek2@unl.edu.

Reminiscing about plowing in the old days

Times have changed a lot for the Big Farmer and his former neighbor, Art. They used to farm across the fence from each other. In those days, sixty plus years ago, when they both happened to be in the field on either side of the fence line, a short conversation during a brief stop was in order. Or, if neither were close to the fence, at least a friendly wave was required.

One such event has to be more than sixty years past, because both participants were plowing. (No one plows any more.) Also, both were plowing in their respective fields by starting around the outside and finishing at or near the center. This was also before rubber tires; steel wheels, all around, on both tractors and plows.

The farmer on Apex Farm noticed out of the corner of his eye, movement across the fence. What he saw nearly caused him to lose track of his furrow. There was Art's International 10-20, perfectly following a furrow, but no one was on the tractor! Because some were still using horses on their farms, factories still put metal seats on most of the plows before shipping to the dealers. This kept all customers satisfied, whether they were using tractors or horses.

By: Pat Meierhenry

Sure enough, there was Art, sitting on the plow seat, waving his usual friendly greeting. Perhaps worth noting, one long step on a very sturdy plow hitch is a short trip from tractor seat to plow; return trip, likewise. Also worth noting, the half mile length of the field with ground speed rate of 2-3 miles per hour, creating a situation commonly referred to as Boredom. In the early going, one round of plowing in this 50 or 60 acres would easily take 20 to 30 minutes.

When you consider Webster's interpretation of boredom as the state of mind resulting from many repetitions of the same act or event, most of us might also have split the time between tractor seat and the one on the plow!

Return to those days? No. But... no flat tires, no OSHA rules, no hydraulic hoses to blow out, no EPA. If you can figure out who Art is, you can verify this event. If the Big Farmer remembers it, Art surely does, too.

Addendum: The Big Farmer has loved to tell this story for over sixty years now, and felt strongly that it should be shared for all the old farmers in Wayne County, most of whom can probably vividly picture the deed.

Applications being accepted for Camp

Are you interested in spending a day outdoors at Ponca State Park? If so, consider attending Ponca Day Camp on Tuesday, June 23. Campers need to be ages 8-11 by Dec. 31, 2014. Cost is $18 per camper.

Camp sessions include; 3-2-1, Lift Off!, Archery, Nebraska Game and Parks, Get Up and Go!, and swimming. A camp lunch and snacks will be provided.

Camp registrations are due by 5 p.m. on Friday, June 12 to the Nebraska Extension-Dixon County Office. Anyone interested in obtaining a registration form, please go to wayne.unl.edu.

The Camper should check in between 8:45 and 9:15 a.m. with the camp dismissing at 5 p.m. Youth in Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Thurston and Wayne Counties are invited to attend.

Pender Workshop for Women to be held June 10

Women who own or manage farm or ranch land in Thurston and surrounding counties in northeast Nebraska are invited to participate in a Women Caring for the Land discussion about soil health, farm conservation options, and available resources.

The free program will take place on Wednesday, June 10 at the Pender Fire Hall, 314 Maple Street in Pender.

"Women landowners now own or co-own approximately half of Midwest and Great Plains farm and ranch land, and often want to do more to conserve their land and resources. However, many are unsure exactly how to reach their conservation goals and what resources are available to help them. Women Caring for the Land can help," said Virginia Meyer of the Center for Rural Affairs.

According to Meyer, the program offers a peer-to-peer, informal dis-ussion format to allow women landowners to talk about their individual land stewardship goals, facilitated by women conservation experts who can share resources available such as USDA conservation programs, state loans, and other tools.

The meeting will begin with registration, coffee and resource sharing at 8:30 a.m. A free lunch will be provided, and during an afternoon field tour participants will travel to a nearby location to observe soil characteristics and conservation practices. The tests will measure for soil structure and stability and infiltration.

Meyer suggests participants wear appropriate clothing and footwear/ attire as walking a short distance will be required for the field tour. The group will return to the Fire Hall for dessert and wrap-up, with the meeting ending by 3 p.m.

Maintaining healthy soil is the key to productivity and environmental health for farmland. Women landowners who attend this meeting will learn to assess and improve the health of their soils through cover crops, no-till and strip-till, and other conservation practices.

Meyer also pointed out that all interested women are welcome to these discussions, including owners, operators and inheritors of farmland, regardless of their degree of knowledge regarding conserva-

This is the "last call" for Tractor Safety Training at the Wayne County Fairgrounds in Wayne. The training will take place on Monday and Tuesday June 15-16.

Federal law prohibits youth under 16 years of age from working on a farm other than their parents'. Course completion grants an exemption to the law allowing 14- and 15-year-olds to drive a tractor and to do field work with mechanized equipment. The most common cause of death in agriculture accidents in Nebraska is overturn from tractors and all-terrain-vehicles (ATV). Tractor and ATV overturn prevention are featured in the class work.

Classes consist of two full days of instruction plus homework assignments. Classes are from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. each day. The first day of class will consist of intensive classroom instruction with hands-on demonstrations, concluding with a written test that must be completed satisfactorily before the student may continue driving tests the next day. Classroom instruction will cover the required elements of the National Safe Tractor and Machinery Operation Program. Homework will be assigned to turn in the next day.

The second day will consist of testing, driving and operating machinery. Students must demonstrate competence in hitching equipment and driving a tractor and trailer through a standardized course as well as hitching PTO and hydraulic systems. Please pre-register by June 5 to Dixon County Extension at (402) 584-2234. The cost for the program is $60.

To ensure enough food is provided, interested participants should RSVP by Monday, June 8 to Virginia Meyer at the Center for Rural Affairs at (402) 687-2100 or e-mail virginiam@cfra.org. For more information about this program, visit www.womencaringfortheland.org or call (641) 430-2540.

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes
Managing Editor

Granddaughter is growing up fast

By definition, this column is known in newspaper jargon as a "personal column." The thoughts, observations and conversations contained herein are those of the author and not necessarily reflective of the editorial policy of the newspaper that publishes a "personal column."

So, with that in mind – allow me to get personal this week by showing off more pictures of my granddaughter, Emmie.

Grandpa's little angel turned two months old recently, and as you can tell, the little tyke already has quite the winning personality. The family traits are obvious, particularly when she sees a camera being pointed at her. She's already developing a healthy, if not obsessive, attention-seeking persona and her face just lights up when mommy, daddy or one of the grandparents takes a picture.

I had the opportunity to spend a few days with her during State Track week, and it's amazing how much she has grown in just a short amount of time. She's already talking, can hold her head up (as much as a two-month old can, anyway) and laughs at Papa C's funny faces. We even got to play with an overhead mobile that plays the same song over, and over . . . and over . . . and ohhhhhh-ver . . . again. My daughter, Kylie, said she wasn't sure which one fell asleep first, but my snoring woke the baby up, which woke mommy up – and mommy is REALLY cranky when her sleep is interrupted (another family trait – stop by the office on Wednesday morning while I'm laying out the front section on three hours sleep. I think the ladies in the office are placing bets on when I blow up when the computer doesn't operate fast enough for my interests).

Amazingly, that thick head of hair is pretty much still in place. She is losing a little in the back, but that beautiful hair is still there, which really accentuates the big, bright, dark-colored eyes she flashes. I get a couple of photos a day from her mommy and daddy, which is driving all my Facebook friends crazy with my daily "Best Looking Grandbaby In The World Photo of the Day" postings (three of the most recent entries are shown here).

It's not going to be long before Emmie is talking and walking, which will bring on a whole new dimension of the grandparent-grandchild relationship. Once she hits that stage, it won't be long before she and I will be going to ball games together, going to the Dairy Queen for an ice cream cone and doing all the really cool things that grandparents and grandkids do together. My daughter always had a blast visiting my mom, and she used to cry and carry on when it was time to leave her grandma's house in Norfolk – I fully expect this tradition to continue when she visits Papa C here in Wayne, America.

It's funny when I sit and think about it – it doesn't seem that long ago that I couldn't envision life as a grandpa. No kidding . . . there were times in my life when I wondered if I would even see one of my daughters get married, never mind make me a grandpa. Now that I'm two months into this new gig, I can't remember (or maybe I've just chosen to forget) what life was like without this new addition to our lives. She has been quite the amazing addition to the family, and I am looking forward to watching her grow up.

Capitol View

Lawmakers show independence

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

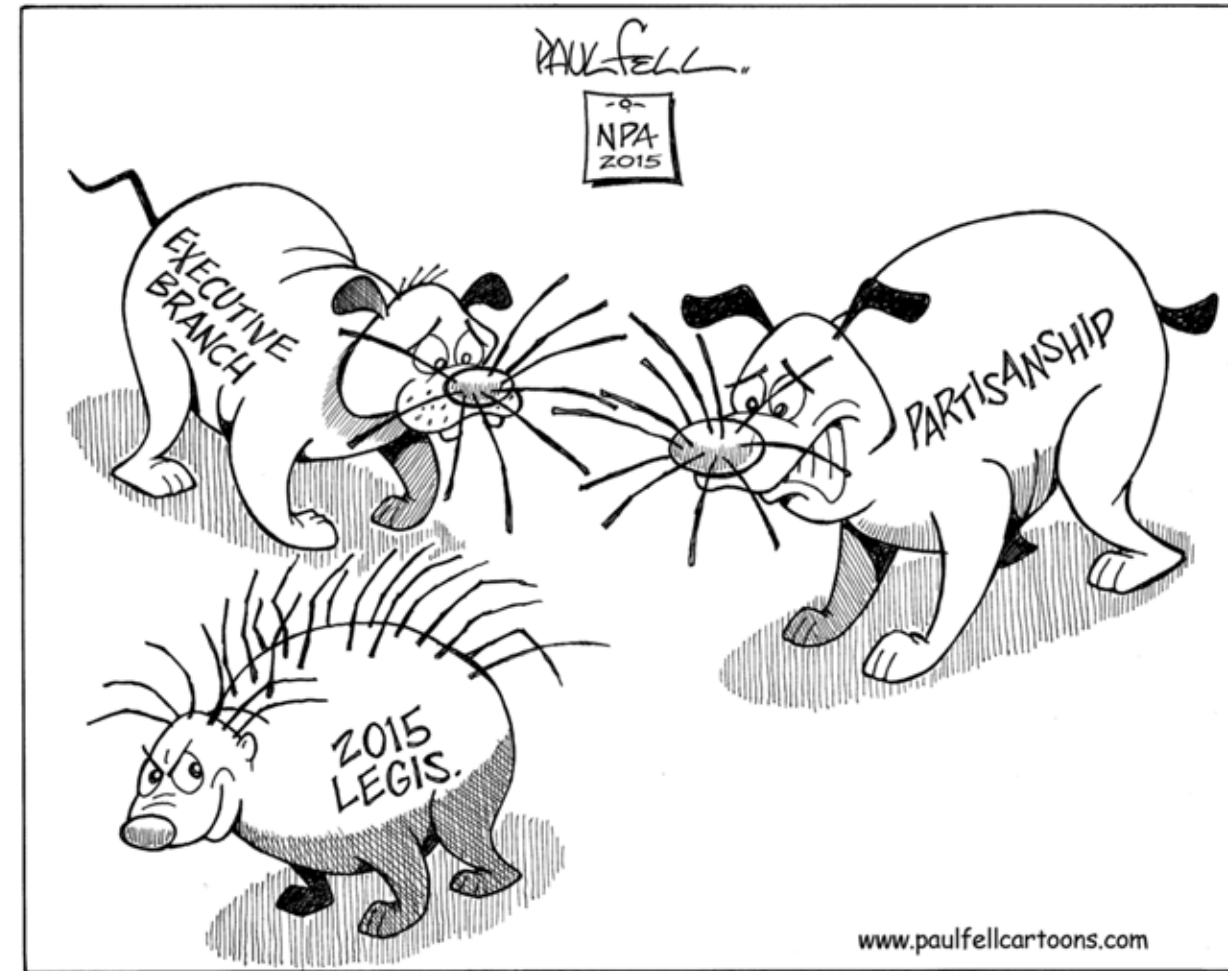

A friend told me he thought this was the worst legislative session he can remember. The Governor said that lawmakers are out of touch with the people who elected them. One senator called his colleagues "spineless wimps." Another said he would work against the re-election of every senator who voted to repeal the death penalty.

Really? Quick! Somebody look up the definition of nonpartisan, as in Nebraska has a nonpartisan legislature. "Not biased or partisan, especially toward any particular political group." Synonyms listed are "unbiased, impartial, neutral and objective."

So, how then are we defining the success or failure of the 104th Legislature? Is it a matter of how many bills were passed or the quality of those changes that were offered to the laws of Nebraska? Or are we focusing on our discomfort with the topics of the three most controversial bills. Perhaps it's because not all of the 35 Republicans in the one-house legislature in this red state voted the party line and supported the Republican Governor. Imagine the independence of some of the Republicans who voted with the 13 Democrats and one Independent simply because it's a nonpartisan body. And those freshmen, what were they thinking? Carrying on like a bunch of thoughtful people and voting their conscience instead of some party line.

As I see it, rating this session boils down to three issues. First: lawmakers voted to raise the gas tax to pay for much-needed road repairs.

Then they came back and voted again to undo the Governor's veto and put the bill into law despite his objection. Second: They voted to allow the so-called Dreamers (young people whose parents allegedly came to this country illegally) to have driver's licenses so they can get to and from work. Nebraska is the only state that still denies that privilege. Third: They voted to repeal the death penalty which hasn't been used in Nebraska since 1997. Ricketts vetoed as promised, but after nearly 3 hours of debate and in spite of a couple of senators flipping their votes, the veto was overridden 30-19.

The death penalty repeal raised the ire of a couple Republican Senators (those two guys mentioned above) and launched the Governor on a rant about the dangers to public safety. His voice was joined by county attorneys, county commissioners and other elected officials statewide who said the death penalty is needed as a deterrent.

Quick! Somebody look up the definition of deterrent, as in the death penalty is a deterrent to others who would commit a heinous crime. "A thing that discourages or is intended to discourage someone from doing something." Synonyms listed are "disincentive, discouragement, damper, curb, check and restraint."

Of the 10 men currently on Nebraska's Death Row, eight of them have been sentenced since the last execution in 1997. You be the judge. How's that deterrent thing working out?

The last briefly successful repeal of the Nebraska death penalty was in 1979 when another group of nonpartisan senators gave final approval to a repeal bill that was handed to newly elected Republican Governor Charles Thone. He vetoed that bill and lawmakers failed in their attempt to override it. Several legislative observers say they think the vote to repeal then was also a show of the Republican senators' independence from the new Republican governor. It was also a show of resentment of party discipline. Could it be that, 36 years later, history is repeating itself?

Thone later assembled a coalition of senators – known as the "Thone Clones" – to do his bidding in the Legislature. But, he only served one term.

Some current lawmakers have said that Governor Pete Ricketts has assembled a similar group known, unofficially, as "Ricketts' Crickets."

Clones are replicas, chips off the old block. Crickets are known for their characteristic rhythmical chirping sound, as in making a lot of noise. Let's see if the new Governor will clone himself or be content with the same old noise.

Legislative Update

Not really proud of accomplishments

The first session of the 104th Nebraska Legislature is over, THANK GOD. While I am honored to serve the 17th Legislative District, I cannot say that I am particularly proud of what we have done this year.

We started off this session back on Jan. 7 with 18 new member in the Legislature, a new governor, and dreams of reducing the tax burden on our fellow Nebraskans.

We knew when we started the year that the biggest issue across the state was that property taxes were way too high. We were going to fix that with help and encouragement from our fresh new governor. Three bills were introduced to lower the percentage of the valuation to be taxed on agricultural property – none of them survived the Revenue Committee. This is the same Revenue Committee that would not vote out of committee a bill that would have exempted veteran service organizations, such as the American

By Dave Bloomfield
State Senator, District 17

Legion, VFW, Sons of the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary, from having to pay sales tax on food sold at fundraisers for these organizations. The committee did find it perfectly acceptable to eliminate the sales tax for the Henry Doorly Zoo and other zoos throughout Nebraska where a good share of the money collected would be collected from folks who live outside the state of Nebraska. The same committee did manage without any problem to pass out a six cent per gallon increase in gas taxes. This tax increase passed on the floor and survived a veto by the governor.

We did manage to pass an exemption on the first $10,000 of valuation on personal property tax that should save everyone that pays that tax around $160. It is not a lot, but it is a step in the right direction.

We as a body passed LB623 allowing the so-called DREAMERS (the children of illegal immigrants that were brought here at a young age and have essentially grown up in the United States) to get their driver's license. That in and of itself is probably not a bad thing – the dirty little secret though is that within that bill is language that would allow those who with full knowledge broke our laws and crossed our borders illegally on their own to also get a driver's license.

We were intent to fix the overcrowding in our prison system and passed a couple of bills along that line but then the body voted to end the death penalty as the means of the ultimate punishment in the most heinous of crimes – again the governor vetoed the idea and again our so called conservative body overrode the veto. This was the final straw, the people of Nebraska are upset and I do not blame them. I am upset too. We have not heard the end of this issue. "Stay Tuned".

There is currently in Nebraska law no process to "recall" elected state officials – my staff is looking into ways to change that.

The one thing I can say is that property tax is no longer the biggest issue for Nebraskans – we, the Legislature, are.

Service learning and 4-H learning

Service learning and 4-H learning work very seamlessly together. Service learning is a research-based teaching and learning strategy that engages youth in service to meet learning objectives and address real-world issues, while 4-H is education for life that uses a "learn by doing" approach and puts a huge focus on community service. Youth who participate in service learning projects can benefit academically, professionally, and personally as they:

- Develop critical-thinking, problem-solving, leadership, decision-making, collaboration, and communication skills.

Jackie Steffen
Cedar County

- Increase personal skills by addressing community needs.

If service learning is to be effective, 4-H leaders must plan in advance for students to reflect on what they are learning. Reflection can seem to be a difficult process, but by asking simple questions the process provides for significant learning to take place. One must make sure that youth understand at the beginning of the activity that you will be asking them some questions at the end of the process so that they will be more attentive to their experiences throughout the process.

Reflection time should feel relaxed so the youth will feel comfortable enough to respond and process what they learned during the service learning activity. To prepare for the reflection time think about some questions you can ask the youth at the completion of the project.

Service learning takes community service or volunteer projects to the next level by emphasizing both service and learning to create a more meaningful experience for youth and that is exactly what 4-H is about.

- Have real-world experiences connected to project areas of their interest.

- Gain a greater sense of the purpose for learning.

- Gain a deeper understanding of themselves and empathy and respect for others.

- Create networks to prepare for career opportunities.

Program will teach ways to prevent diabetes complications

You probably already know that diabetes can lead to devastating problems with the heart, kidney, eyes and nerves. Did you also know that by taking control of diabetes and identifying problems early you can prevent or slow many of these conditions?

The Control Diabetes for Life program on Wednesday, July 1 will be offered from 1:30-4 p.m. at Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department, 215 N. Pearl Street in Wayne.

High blood glucose is a major cause of serious diabetes complications. Recognizing diabetes early and getting your blood glucose levels under control allows for swift action to slow its progression and avoid complications. Lowering your A1C by just one percentage point lowers your chance of getting eye, kidney or nerve disease by 40 percent.

Blood glucose control is just one aspect of preventive care. Following a meal plan, being physically active, losing excessive weight, keeping your blood pressure and cholesterol levels in check, quitting smoking and taking aspirin are all important ways to prevent future health problems.

Good control requires both diligence and willingness to try new strategies. Learn new strategies by attending Control Diabetes for Life. The July 1 session will focus on Getting in Touch with Your Diabetes Self-Management.

"Set a goal to take control of your diabetes. Aim for lower blood glucose levels to feel better now and stay healthy for years to come. Wednesday, July 1, topics include: Health Coaches There to Help You; Summertime Snack Fun; and Food Safety for Those with Diabetes. There will also be a question and answer period," said Amy Topp, Nebraska Extension Educator.

Participants will receive recipes for diabetic appropriate foods. Team-teaching the program will be Stacie Petersen, B.S.N. & Certified Diabetes Educator; and Deborah Willcox, R.D., L.M.N.T., both of Franciscan Care Services in West Point and Debra Schroeder, Nebraska Extension Educator in Cuming County. These sessions are designed to supplement the education that attendees receive from their local diabetes education team and are not a substitute for diabetes classes through your local health care providers.

Control Diabetes for Life is a joint project of University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension and Franciscan Care Services of West Point. The program is offered free-of-charge and will help participants learn to control diabetes and prolong the onset of complications from the disease.

Participants are asked to pre-register by calling the Wayne County Extension office at (402) 375-3310. Please register by Monday, June 29, so the proper number of handouts may be prepared. Nebraska School Food Service Association has approved this session for two hours of continuing education credits.

Finding a stillness in this busy world

Summer vacation has officially arrived at our house. (Although it's gotten off to a cloudy, rainy, stay inside all day kind of start, it still has officially started). Summer vacation is full of all kinds of activities: Summer baseball, and softball has already started for many. Swimming, hiking, and vacations will all soon be appearing in many of our homes. There's even something at our house in a few weeks called Camp Invention!

Summer vacation is that time when our kids get a break from school (and school gets a break from them). Summer vacation is when many of us take a one or two weeks off from our work and take that family vacation, or that weekend camping trip to take a break from the normal busyness of life. If your house is like ours, summer is when you have a few evenings around the fire pit, taking a break before you head to bed.

Life is so busy, that summer vacation is that time of year that we all often most look forward to. Yet I've noticed that even summer vacation is slowly, in many ways, being swallowed up in the busyness of life. We have so many things that compete for our attention, our time, and our life, that summer break may not seem like much of a break anymore.

Psalms 46 gives us what seems like a very simple instruction in verse 10 when it says, "Be still and know that I am God." Yet in our culture of busyness, distraction and fast passed, media driven living, there may not be a more challenging command that the command to simply "be still". Yet, I wonder, if there is a command more needed, in our lives that then that of simply being still, so that we may know that God is God.

This was the heart of God's command of Sabbath rest. A day set aside, free from our everyday work, to be rejuvenated, refreshed, and rested in the Presence of God, as we are reminded of who God is. Jesus spoke of the rest that comes from being in His presence in Matthew 11 when He said, "Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn from me, for I am gentle and humble in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy and my burden is light."

We need to embrace the intent of summer vacation in our daily walk with God. A time daily that we set aside, and take a break from the normal pace of life. A time that we simply sit in the Presence of God, we read His Word, we pray and we listen for His voice. Like summer vacation it's a time, every day, that we should look forward to, that we should long for, and that we should have always on our mind.

In a day and age where we are bombarded with more and more things that need to be added to our lives, maybe what we most need is some daily subtraction. Maybe what we most need is more of nothing, so we can sit in the Presence of the One who is Everything.

"But blessed is the one who trusts in the Lord, whose confidence is in Him. They will be like a tree planted by the water that sends out its roots by the stream. It does not fear when heat comes; its leaves are always green. It has no worries in a year of drought and never fails to bear fruit."

I hope and pray that all of us can have a summer vacation filled with rest, in the Presence of God, as He deepens our roots in Him.
