Board meets new principal, gets budget update

By CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

Russ Plager, who will officially become the Wayne Elementary School principal in less than a month, was present at the monthly meeting of the Wayne Community Schools Board of Education meeting on Monday.

Plager, who was hired by the district earlier this year to replace the retiring Jill Pickenpugh, shared information with the board that will be included in this year's Elementary Student Handbook.

Plager explained a chart that will be included in the handbook describing various inappropriate behaviors labeled as "major" or "minor" and the way they will be handled by the staff and administrators at the school.

"Some of these behaviors will lead to teachable moments, rather than in- or out-of-school suspensions," Plager said.

The handbook received second reading approval from the board.

Superintendent Mark Lenihan presented a budget update to the board, noting that until final valuations are received by the district on Aug. 20, final numbers cannot be determined.

"The projection of our expenditures is very similar to what we presented in March. Our hope is that we can operate the General Fund (of the district's budget) on the same amount we did last year," Lenihan said.

The Wayne district will be losing $1.7 million in state aid in the next fiscal year. Lenihan said that even without that money, the district is continuing to be responsible to the taxpayers, especially those who own agricultural land, which saw a large increase in valuation in the last fiscal year.

"We decreased our levy by 17 cents last year and because of where our levy is, we will not be eligible for state aid for the coming year," he said.

"Hopefully in the coming years there will be a change in the state aid formula to schools. Right now, we (Wayne Community Schools) are getting penalized for doing what is right," Lenihan said.

The length of the day for Wayne Elementary School students will be shortened by 15 minutes, following action taken by the board.

The school day will now run from 8 a.m. to 3:20 p.m., a change that will allow for better traffic flow and less time for elementary school students waiting for the bus.

An annual hearing and review of policies in regard to parent involvement, anti-bullying, student fees and the authority and responsibility of the superintendent took place during the meeting. No changes were made in any of these policies but the review is required to take place before the start of each school year.

Deb Daum was appointed to the position of School Board Secretary. She will replace Suzanne Burbach, who submitted her resignation earlier this year. Burbach will continue to assist the school during the transition period.

The board also received an update on the district's Early Learning Center and the grant received by the district for the coming year.

Special Education Director Misty Bear told the board that the available spots in the three-year program are nearly filled and several openings remain in the four-year-old program.

The Learning Center will be host to the weekly Chamber Coffee on Friday, Aug. 14 at 10 a.m. at the facility located on Providence Road.

The board will next meet in regular session at 5 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 10 in the newly completed District Board Room in the lower level of the high school.

Ground broken for new pool in Wayne

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

They brought big shovels and small ones. Pink ones and blue ones.

From spades to even a few snow shovels, more than 60 local kids helped turn the first shovels full of dirt Friday for what will become Wayne's brand new swimming pool in the summer of 2016.

A reporter-estimated crowd of about 200 people turned out at the Wayne Community Activity Center on Friday morning as city officials got the south side of the facility ready for what will become a $2.8 million swimming center that will replace the old pool, which opened in 1956.

City officials lined out the pool's edge in white paint to show those in attendance where to expect the pool to be located. People will be able to enter the pool from the north and walk in the zero-entry pool. Swim lanes will run east to west, with the diving board on the west end. Extras like a slide, water geysers and a play area will be included with the project.

Heather Claussen, chair of the pool committee, was all smiles as she watched the young ones play in the newly-turned dirt.

"It's an awesome feeling," she said. "We're so excited that we're here today doing this groundbreaking. This is for our kids, and we thought it would be fun to bring them in and dig the hole to help start the process."

Many of the members of the citizens committee that worked on the design of the project were on hand for Friday's groundbreaking, and they were recognized by Mayor Ken Chamberlain.

93rd county fair getting ready to roll

The 93rd annual Wayne County Fair is right around the corner, and Wayne County Ag Society members and other volunteers can be found at the fairgrounds making sure the event goes smoothly.

This year's fair gets underway on Wednesday, July 29 and continues through Sunday, Aug. 2.

Among the most noticeable changes at the fairground this year is the construction of a new building just to the south of the Leland Herman Memorial Arena.

Fair board members and others have put in countless hours constructing a building that will house swine on one end and small animals such as poultry and rabbits on the other end. An arena with seating for spectators separates the two portions of the building.

Materials for the building were obtained from the buildings that were torn down at the former State Fairgrounds in Lincoln.

This year's fair will include a number of familiar events and several new attractions. In addition, there will be some shifting of the days when events will be held.

The majority of items will be entered on Wednesday, July 29 and entry into the fairgrounds that day will be free.

The evening will conclude with a concert at 8 p.m. by Julie and Mike Couch with the Victory Band in the grandstand.

Thursday's schedule includes the traditional 4-H Horse Show, Bucket Calf Show, Dairy Show, Goat Show and Sheep Show.

New to the fair line-up this year will be a number of presentations by K-9's in Flight. The dogs, owned by John Mista have entertained audiences across the country and have appeared on a number of television programs. All of the dogs are rescue animals or have been adopted. The show is designed to emphasize the importance of pet adoption.

The dogs will be on the fairgrounds Thursday through Sunday and have scheduled at least two performances each day.

In a switch from past years, Thursday's grandstand entertainment will be Bull and Bronc Riding, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

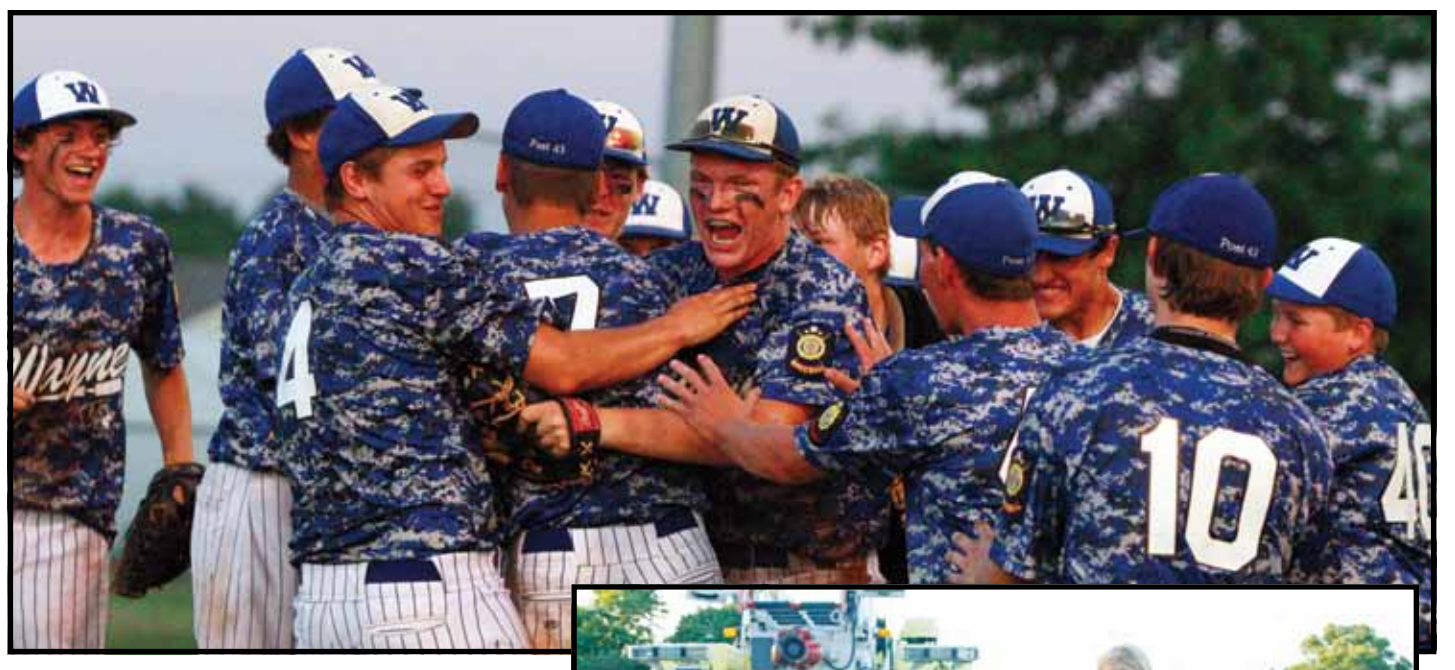

Judging of 4-H swine, feeder calves, breeding and market beef will take place on Friday, July 31, as will the annual 4-H Fashion Show.

One of the more popular attractions will be back again this year as Wildlife Encounters will be on the fairgrounds Friday, Saturday and Sunday for two presentations each day.

Also on tap will be the 53rd annual barbecue, beginning at 6 p.m.

Announcement of the Fair Person of the Year, Ak-Sar-Ben Awards, Farm Bureau Awards and Oldest Active Farmer will take place beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Farmers busy

A large crowd was on hand to take advantage of last week's Farmer's Market Grand Opening. In addition to the usual items available for purchase, the event included a brat feed, consisting of traditional and chicken brats, as well as carrots dogs. Canadian fires making for smoky skies in area recently

By LAURA ANDERSON
Of The Herald

Northeast Nebraska residents may have been wondering where all this hazy smoke is coming from.

This weather is a result of over 25 forest fires that are currently burning in the Canadian provinces of Alberta and Manitoba. A majority of the fires are located in northern Alberta around the borders of Saskatchewan, British Columbia and the Northwest Territories.

Alaska is also having an unprecedented fire season as well. Fires are raging primarily northwest of Fairbanks in the central part of the state.

The smoke from all of these fires is flowing up into the atmosphere and following upper level jet streams south toward the United States into the Plains, the East Coast and even reaching as far as Georgia.

"(The air quality) depends on prevailing winds," Cathy Zapotocny, meteorologist from the National Weather Service Office in Valley, said.

Douglas County Health Department in Omaha issued a statement advising residents to exercise indoors. People with lung and heart conditions are also advised to reduce outdoor activities in case of a medical emergency as a result of the unusual weather.

"(Monday was) the first time I could actually smell it," Zapotocny said.

Visit www.airquality.weather.gov, for daily air quality updates.

The smoke has made for some hazy orange sunsets, pink sunrises and several nights with a red, orange moon hanging in the sky that haven't gone unnoticed either.

Back open for business

Nebraska Harvest Center hosted a ribbon cutting with the Wayne Ambassadors on Friday to officially mark its reopening. The business was one of several that were hit by the tornado that struck Wayne in October of 2013.

over the last several years to get us where we're at today," he said. "Next year would mark 60 years at the old pool, and most of it is still original, so the city of Wayne was due for a new project like this and the turnout today has been unbelievable."

Claussen said about five years of work and planning were done by a group of more than 20 community members, from designing the facility to encouraging taxpayers to vote for a half-cent sales tax increase, approved last year, to help fund the $2.8 million project.

Now that the hole is being dug for the new pool, Claussen said the committee is getting to the fun part of the process.

"We've done a lot of research and had to wait for the vote to go through, and now it's the fun part and we get to do the fun stuff like making decisions on colors and some of the little details for the pool," she said.

Having the swimming pool in the same location as the Community Activity Center will not only put most of Wayne's activity offerings in one location, it will help the city's recreation director as well.

"The city rec director will have the building and the pool all in one place, and that will definitely help out," Chamberlain said. "We have a pool manager who's done a phenomenal job, and it will be nice to have it all in one location."

The only question that remains to be answered is whether or not to add more parking at the activity center. Parking is an issue, particularly during basketball tournaments and youth soccer games, but Chamberlain said the city is going to take a wait-and-see approach.

"Parking is always an issue here with basketball tournaments and soccer," he said. "We've moved soccer to the rugby complex, and we do have the old elementary school where we can park. We'll monitor it, and if it becomes an issue then we'll address it. I don't want to spend money on a parking lot if we don't need it."

As for the old pool, which will close for the final time a few weeks from now, Claussen said the committee hopes the city will make good use of the space.

"The committee has recommended that it would either become part of the park or turned into property people could build houses on. It's a nice area of town, and we'd like to see something positive come out of that space," she said.

Claussen thanked the city and JEO Consulting for their work, and also recognized the members of the citizens committee who worked on the project. Committee members include Claussen, Tammy Evetovich, Jodi Pulfer, Jeff Carstens, B.J. Woehler, Garry Poutre, Betty McGuire, Todd Hoeman, Lowell Heggemeyer, Chad Maas, Jill Sweetland, Mandi Fernau, Nana Peterson, Katie Jensen, Joel Hansen, Jill Walling, George Burcum, Andee Schulz and Chanelle Belt.

Vavra back to ruling the roost, wins 11th National Cluck-Off

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Joel Vavra came to see if his son could defend his title at the National Cluck-Off.

When he saw how good the competition was, though, he thought he'd throw his plume into the event and came away with the title.

Coming up as the last of the 50 would-be hens and roosters to scratch and crow in Bressler Park, he left no doubt who the best rooster in the Wayne Chicken Show henhouse was, winning the adult competition and then beating four-time youth champion J.T. Hobbs of Hoskins to claim his 11th National Cluck-Off title, matching the 11 won by Del Hampton of Fort Smith, Ark., who dominated the event from 1999-2009.

"I wasn't sure that I was going to do it," Vavra admitted after the competition. "But there was some good competition out there other than my son, and I didn't want to go up there if there wasn't any competition."

Vavra's son, Mo, won the Cluck-Off title last year and finished second to his dad in this year's competition. When the elder Vavra hit the stage and let loose his signature rooster crow, it was pretty clear at that point who the best chicken in the coop was.

"I grew up on a farm and practiced with the chickens," Vavra joked. "The crowing is just a natural ability for me."

Hobbs had two brothers and his dad competing in the competition, so there was a lot of pressure on the defending youth champion to bring his best to the stage.

"I was a bit worried at the beginning," he said. "My brother was up there and so were some of my best friends and they're all really good, so it was tough."

Hobbs faced both Vavras in the finals before, and he said he knew he couldn't match Joel's crowing.

"I went up against Joel (in 2012) and I knew I'd be no match, but you've gotta try," he said. "His crow is awesome. I tried to do that, but I'm not quite there yet."

Vavra congratulated Hobbs on the stage and encouraged him to keep performing.

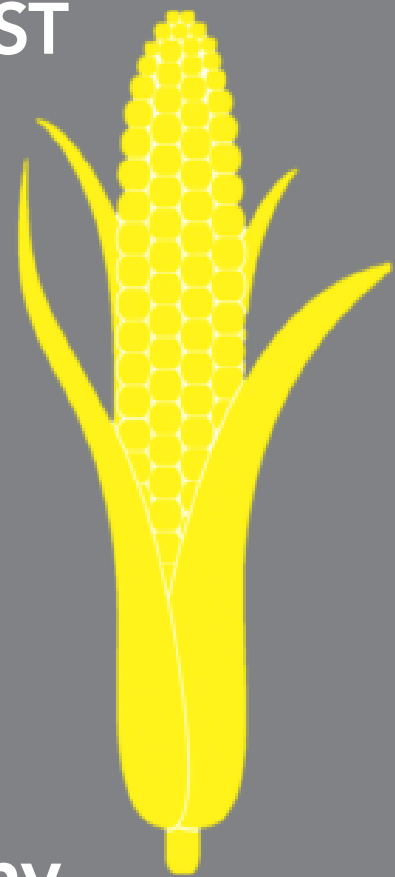

"He did really good up there. I told him to keep teaching his dad," Vavra said.

Wins over O'Neill sends Wayne to state

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

O'NEILL – Legendary Hall of Famer Ernie Banks' favorite quote was "Let's play two."

Well, if you're gonna play 'em . . . you might as well win 'em.

The Wayne American Legion Juniors needed to beat host O'Neill twice to earn their first trip to state since 2010, and they accomplished the feat with wins of 7-2 and 9-2 Tuesday to earn a trip to this week's Class B state tournament in Bennington.

O'Neill had the home-field advantage and an extra day of rest for being the lone undefeated team left in the six-team, double-elimination tournament. None of that seemed to matter to the second-seeded Wayne squad, which jumped on the top-seeded host team early in both games and never let them get into a position where they could overcome the early deficit.

"I'm so proud of the way the kids came back," coach Jeff Zeiss said after receiving a cooler full of ice water from his players following the wins. "After losing the way we did Saturday, it really showed the perseverance and character of this group."

The Wayne Juniors opened the tournament with an easy win over Lakeview on Friday, winning 15-0. The Juniors cranked out 16 hits in the win, including seven doubles. Zane Jackson had three doubles, and Josh Lutt and Payten Gamble each had two doubles to lead the attack. Adam Bentjen threw a three-hit shutout, giving up two infield singles.

Wayne lost a wild 27-16 affair to Central City in the second day of action, committing nine errors in a wild game that saw Jackson go 5-for-5 with three RBIs, but avenged that loss two days later, following up a 14-2 win over Lakeview with a 10-0 shutout that saw Bentjen throw a three-hit shutout, striking out six. Gamble threw a three-hitter in the second win over Lakeview, striking out five and walking three. Offensively, Beau Bowers led the way with two hits and three RBIs. Lutt had three hits and scored twice in the Central City win, while Gamble, Jackson, O'Reilly and Justin Dean each had two hits. Gamble, Lutt and Bentjen each had two RBIs.

Riding the momentum of those wins on Sunday and Monday, Wayne was able to jump on O'Neill early and often in both games Tuesday.

In the first game, Gamble led off the bottom of the first with a triple and came home when Lutt reached on an error. Lutt and Dean both scored later in the inning on a two-out error to make it 3-0, then added two more in the second when Gamble singled and scored and Lutt singled and scored on a hit by Dean. They offset single runs by O'Neill in the fifth and sixth, and Caden Korth threw a complete-game win, scattering six hits and striking out seven to make the second game possible.

"Caden struggled in the first game against Central City, and I just can't say enough about how he came back tonight," Zeiss said. "He just had a gutsy effort for us tonight, and that allowed us to be able to use Adam and Payten in the second game."

Pitching about 24 hours after a five-inning effort the night before, Bentjen was solid in four innings as the starter, and got all the help he

Dirt Devil 10's win Class C title

FALLS CITY – It seemed only appropriate that the two teams with the farthest distance to travel would play for the ASA Class C 10-under state title Sunday.

The Wayne Dirt Devil 10-under softball team brought home the big hardware, winning the state title with a 4-1 win over the North Platte Sensations in the championship game.

It was a total team effort for the weekend, as the Dirt Devils were unbeaten in five matchups and got a lot of contributions from a lot of people, coach Rob Sweetland said. "Everybody contributed in different parts of every game and they all played well together," he said. Kendall Dorey struck out 11 and allowed nine walks and no hits in five innings, and got offensive support from Amara Hurlbert, Virginia Kniesche and Taytum Sweetland to give a Dirt Devils team a state title for the first time since the 14-under team won a state title in 2008.

"It starts with Kendall in the circle," Sweetland said. "She's a hard worker and pitches year-round, and that has been where it starts with this team."

Dorey got a lot of support throughout the lineup on offense.

"Sometimes it was the top of the order, and sometimes it came in the middle or the bottom," Sweetland said. "We had really good baserunning all weekend and the girls made the plays in the field. It was just one of those weekends where it all came together and we got the job done."

The Devils opened with a 6-3 win over York Fusion Gold, riding the 15-strikeout effort of Doring. Hurlbert and Hope O'Reilly each had two hits in the win.

Wayne beat Nebraska City 7-1 as O'Reilly had two hits and Dorey and Hurlbert added hits. Dorey struck out 13 and allowed no hits in the win.

Against Ashland, Wayne posted an 8-2 win. Dorey had two hits and O'Reilly and Hurlbert added hits. Dorey struck out 10, walked five and allowed no hits in the win.

In the semifinals, Wayne dominated Tecumseh 12-1. Dorey, Hurlbert and Hope O'Reilly each had two hits in the win. See DIRT DEVIL, Page 2B

Petersen to join Wildcat basketball

Wayne State women's basketball coach Chris Kielsmeier announced that Alisa Petersen, a transfer from Western Wyoming Community College, has signed a national letter of intent to continue her basketball career with the Wildcat women's basketball program.

The 6-foot-1 forward from Garden City, Utah will have two years of eligibility with the Wildcats and joins high school signings Andrea Larson (Mediapolis, Iowa) and Maggie Lowe (Perry, Iowa) and junior college transfers Kirsten Larson (Kirkwood CC) and Anna Martensen (Kirkwood CC) as members of the 2015 recruiting class.

Petersen comes to Wayne State after playing the last two seasons at Western Wyoming Community College in Rock Springs, Wyo. As a freshman in 2013-14, Petersen accounted for 5.2 points and 5.8 rebounds a contest while helping WWCC to a 25-8 record and a second place finish in the Region IX Tournament.

In high school, Petersen was a three-sport standout at Rich High School in Randolph, Utah. She averaged 18.7 points and 12 rebounds per game as a senior, leading her team to a 29-1 record and a third place finish in the Utah Class 1A State Tournament to earn first-team All-State honors.

needed from his teammates, both offensively and defensively.

Offensively, Wayne's hot bats continued as they struck O'Neill for six runs in the opening inning of the finale. O'Neill helped the cause with two errors and three hit batsmen, and O'Reilly's two-run single with nobody out was the key blow of the inning. Gamble and Lutt had back-to-back singles to start the rally, and that was followed by three hit batters and a walk that helped open the flood gates.

Wayne's defense came up big several times in the finale. In the second, Dean made a diving stab of a line drive at first base to end the inning, and was backed up later in the fifth by Lutt, who sucked up a slow-rolling grounder and flipped to a sprinting Gamble covering first to end O'Neill's last serious threat.

"After that Central City game, we just had to forget it and get right back in the saddle, and we just hit the heck out of the ball the last few games," Zeiss said. "Our defense has kept us in a lot of games this year, and to be able to come back and play as well as we have was great for these kids."

O'Neill's only big inning of the night came in the third, when a two-out double brought in two runs. Bentjen pitched out of trouble in that inning and left two runners on in the fourth before Gamble came on to pitch the final three innings of relief.

"Adam threw last night, then came in and did awesome for us," Zeiss said. "We were hoping to get five out of him tonight, but I could see he was getting tired and Payten really threw hard and came out and performed well."

Wayne takes a 21-9 record into the Class B state tournament, which gets under way Saturday in Bennington. They will face Crete in a 1 p.m. matchup, and Zeiss is hoping the team can carry the momentum from their four-game winning streak into the state tournament.

"We have a lot of momentum with winning four in a row, and we'll show up and go out and play whoever it is," he said. "There's nothing better than taking a group of young men like this to state, and it gives me a lot of satisfaction as a coach to have a group of young men come together like this."

Let the voters decide death penalty issue

On May 27, 2015 the Nebraska Legislature passed LB268 notwithstanding the objection of the Governor to repeal the Nebraska death penalty and in its place life in prison without parole.

Ongoing at this time is a referendum petition drive to put the issue of the death penalty on the general election ballot in November 2015. This will allow the registered voters in the State of Nebraska to decide whether or not the State should have a death penalty law on the books once more.

The referendum petition must be completed by at least 38 of the 93 counties in Nebraska with hopes of gathering at least 115,000 certified signatures to allow the question to be placed on the November 2015 ballot but also prevent LB268 from going into effect in late August 2015. In Wayne County there would be a need to have at least 752 certified signatures on the petition in order to qualify as one of the 38 counties. Should Wayne County not garner the 752 certified signatures by August 27, 2015 the signatures collected would still apply towards the 115,000 goal.

Not only can petitioners in Wayne County collect signatures from its own citizens, they are also able to secure signatures from any registered voter in Nebraska as a separate petition form is used for each county. Having said that, there will be a petition drive at the Wayne County Fair and petitions can be signed inside the Commercial Building during its hours of operation. We will not be circulating the petition except in the Commercial Building.

A couple items each registered voter needs to remember: They must be registered in the county of their residence at the address they currently live. Voter registration forms will be available for anyone wishing to register to vote. However, they must get registered first and hear back from their County Clerk that all is okay before they can sign any petition. Registered voters can only sign once for any petition. Petition signers must sign as they are registered, know their address and date of birth in order to complete the petition form.

Petition circulators in Wayne County include Dave Bloomfield, Hoskins; Roger Brandt, Carroll; Kathy Prince and Jason Dwinell, Winside; and Bud Neel, Wayne. Anyone having questions may contact Bud Neel at (402) 369-1873 or look me up at the Commercial Building at the Wayne County Fair, July 29-Aug. 2. Anyone wishing to assist in gathering the certified signatures please stop by the fair booth in the Commercial Building.

Death, taxes only certainties

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

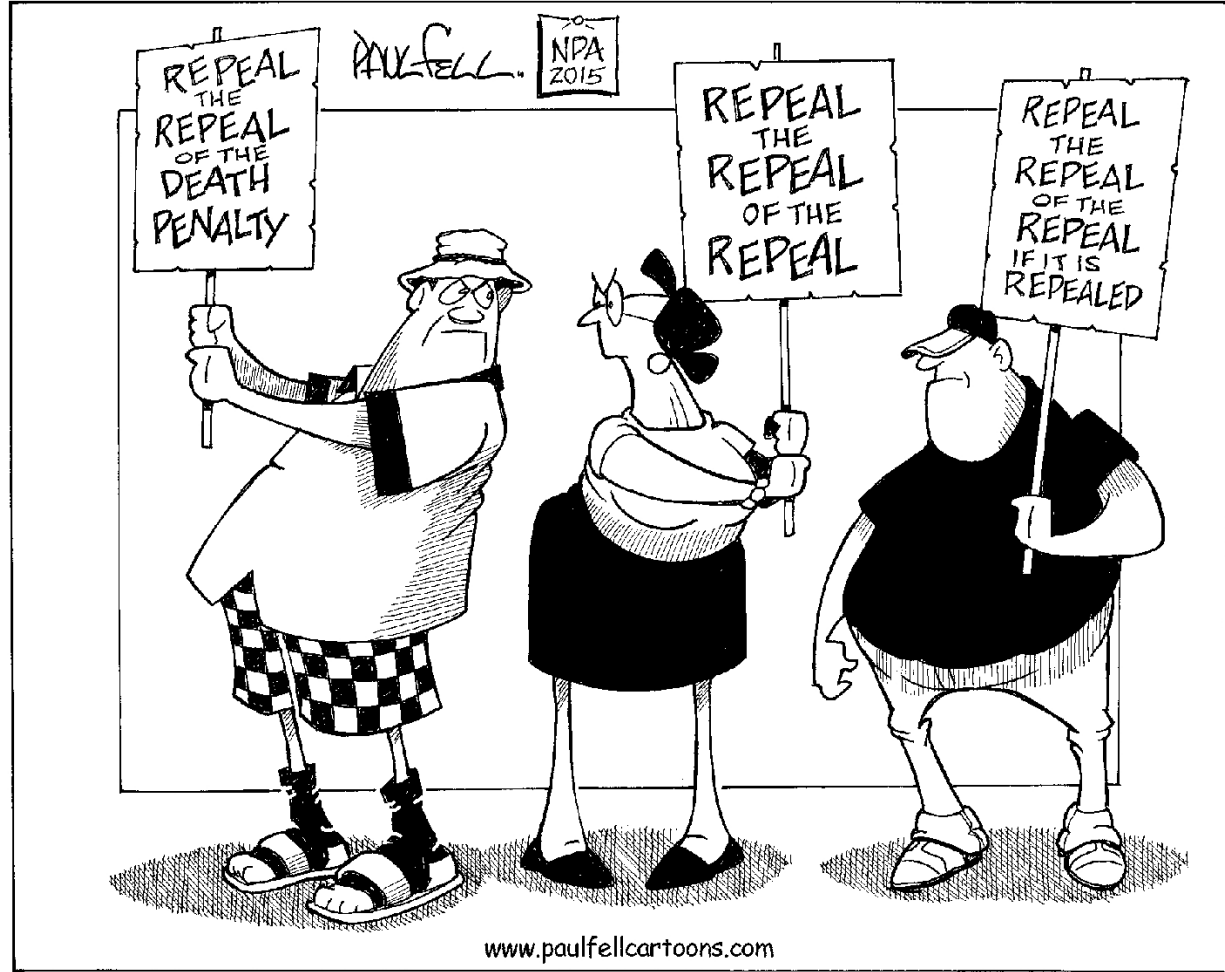

Ben Franklin is credited with saying "In this world nothing can be said to be certain, except death and taxes." The same holds true for the interim of the 104th Legislature, that awkward time between adjournment of the first session and the start of the University of Nebraska football season.

The matter of taxes still rests on the plate of the Legislature, with at least four interim studies scheduled by the Revenue Committee to narrow the focus of the on-going discussion of tax relief. Gov. Pete Ricketts has promoted property tax relief as the panacea. Lawmakers say they want to look at all tax categories and many want to focus on funding formulas for Nebraska schools.

Overshadowing the entire debate is the catastrophe in Kansas where vigorous tax relief efforts the past few years have created a $279 million shortfall and forced state government to make some tough decisions. Independent analysts say that the state faces a $384 million tax increase in 2016 while revenue will still lag behind spending by a tenuous amount. Many state programs have constricted budgets and state employees have gone several years without even a cost of living raise.

So much for taxes. The death issue comes in the form of the Legislature's override of Ricketts' veto of a bill that would ban executions. That decisive action was followed with the formation of Nebraskans for the Death Penalty, a group that is using paid petition circulators to obtain 115,000 valid signatures of registered voters to put the matter to a vote of the people in the 2016 general election. Organizers will need at least 150,000 signatures to have enough valid ones.

By the end of August, getting 5 percent of the state's registered voters to sign up will put the issue on the ballot, but to suspend the death penalty ban from becoming law, those in favor of it will need 10 percent of Nebraska voters to sign their petition. Ricketts and Attorney General Doug Peterson are hoping for the latter. Ricketts has announced that the state has already purchased the necessary chemicals to carry out executions of the 10 men on Death Row. Opponents of the death penalty say the state faces protracted appeals from those 10 if the state wants to carry through with its effort before letting voters decide the matter. The two men have repeatedly said the death penalty remains an important tool for Nebraska's prosecutors when seeking punishment for the most heinous crimes.

So serious is the effort that Ricketts and his father, Joe Ricketts, have each contributed $100,000 to fund the organization. That's $200,000 of the $240,000-plus raised so far. Adding to the drama is the formation of a group opposing the death penalty and the referendum. The new coalition, called Nebraskans for Public Safety, has secured $400,000 through a grant made possible by the ACLU of Nebraska. The group includes members of Nebraskans for Alternatives to the Death Penalty, the Nebraska Innocence Project, the ACLU of Nebraska, faith leaders, conservative leaders, and the Nebraska Criminal Defense Attorneys Association. The group says it will focus on public education efforts showing that the death penalty is broken beyond repair and noting the state has been unable to carry out an execution since 1997.

It is interesting to note that the dissenters in a recent Supreme Court of the United States opinion on a lethal injection execution appeal from Oklahoma also called the death penalty, nationwide, a broken system. The dissent called for someone to present the constitutionality of the death penalty as a whole for consideration by the high court. That would be a welcome discussion.

Nebraska's property taxes ranked 13th highest in the nation, according to a ranking by the Tax Foundation, based on 2012 figures. Agriculture's portion of the total state property tax bill has grown from 19 percent in 2004 to 29 percent in 2014. Farmers have to pay the property tax whether they have a good year or a bad year.

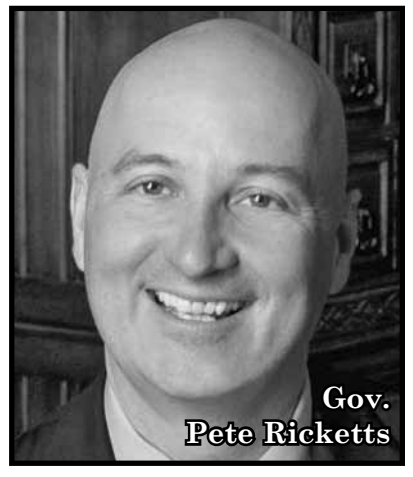

The governor, as did his predecessor, has pushed for more property tax relief. But, to avoid the debacle of Kansas, that loss in property tax revenue will have to be offset by increases in other taxes and fees or more budget cutting. Not an easy solution any way you slice it. Let's hope that clear heads prevail in this situation.

Growing state takes careful planning

Growing Nebraska will not happen by accident - it takes careful planning. Connecting Nebraskans to good jobs is one way we can ensure that our state continues to grow, and it is something that I have directed members of my team to work on in their agencies across all of state government. For job creators, this is particularly important in light of our state's lowest-in-the-nation unemployment rate of 2.6 percent. At the Department of Labor, growing job opportunities means looking for new ways to help unemployed Nebraskans expeditiously reenter the workforce by finding good jobs that fit their skills and experience.

This week, my administration announced the launch of Nebraska's new reemployment system aimed at helping unemployment claimants reenter the workforce and making it easier to find a good job. Our state's program developed by the Nebraska

Gov. Pete Ricketts

Department of Labor is the first of its kind of any state in the nation, and has won approval from the U.S. Department of Labor. The goal of the program is to utilize personal one-on-one assistance to connect the approximately 10,000 Nebraskans looking for work and applying for unemployment benefits with some of the over 50,000 jobs in the state's job opening database.

Our state's reemployment program is unique to other states for a couple reasons. First, nearly all jobseekers who receive unemployment benefits will be required to enroll in an individualized reemployment plan to remain eligible for benefits. Department of Labor staff will meet with each worker to develop their individualized reemployment plan shortly after an application is submitted for unemployment benefits. Second, the reemployment program leverages cutting edge software that requires jobseekers to create a resume searchable by potential employers who can make queries for skill inventory, find resumes with the right experience, and proactively reach out to potential applicants. Previously, the department successfully utilized a limited version of this program for jobseekers with a high probability of exhausting their benefits.

Nebraska's new reemployment program has several components that will ensure that jobseekers in our state have the best resources on hand as they look for their next job. For example, not only will jobseek-ers work with agency staff to develop individual employment plans, but they will also help them to identify goals and objectives and determine the appropriate combination of services for the participant to meet their employment goals. These plans are designed to help engage the individuals and provide them with a clear understanding of where they are going.

Additionally, all participants will be required to create an account on the state's employment website, NEworks. This account will allow individuals access to employment tools and resources, such as a resume builder, a messaging center to communicate with employers and workforce staff, free online learning resources, job search options including a virtual recruiter to identify personalized employment opportunities, and access to their individual employment plan.

Finally, this reemployment program will use assessments to provide data-driven opportunities to jobseekers. The assessments will cover career interests, skills confidence, and work values. The results will be reviewed with the jobseeker to ensure they represent an accurate picture of the individual and to identify areas of knowledge, skill, and ability that they can leverage as productive members of the workforce. The assessments will then be used in conjunction with labor market information and previous work experience to determine options and opportunities that exist in the current job market.

The formal launch of this program in October represents a paradigm shift for our unemployment system. By focusing on reemployment, we can help Nebraskans reenter the workforce more quickly and ensure that they are meeting their career goals, while connecting our state's job creators with talent across our state. If you have any feedback or questions about the program or anything on your mind, please send me your thoughts at pete.ricketts@nebraska.gov or call my office at (402) 471-2244.

the Kid's Spring Craft party for all ages. - $180.57 was raised on the doll house raffle. Howard had the "Golden Eagle." Keith Hill drew the winning name. Peggy McCoy was the winner of the doll house. All members will check out the website cashforbooks.com to report at the next meeting. Prizes for summer attendance will be determined at a later date.
 New business included the fact that the library received a donation of extra books from the book exchange that was held at the Allen school. Peggy donated some Harlequin books and children's books to the Women's Shelter in Sioux City. The books that were donated were books that have not been checked out of the library for more than 20 years. A total of 39 Westerns were donated to the Sheriff's Office that were well worn, and that had not been checked out for many years. Allen's Q125 celebration will take place on June 11, 2016. Library board members should be thinking of ideas for entering a float in the parade and also sponsoring an event. More discussion will take place at the next meeting. Peggy mentioned that some people would be interested in participating in a crocheting class in the library. Dates have not been determined. Howard resigned from the Treasurer's position due to working out of town. Board members expressed appreciation for the time and effort he dedicated to the library. Next meeting will be held on Thursday, Sept. 3 at 7 p.m.

UNMC Chancellor to visit communities in Nebraska

University of Nebraska Medical Center Chancellor Jeffrey P. Gold, M.D., will visit four communities in Nebraska on July 21-22. The goal of the visits is to learn about health care opportunities and challenges in the area, and how UNMC can better serve the communities' needs.
 Dr. Gold will visit health care providers and practitioners in West Point, Norfolk, and Wayne, as well as meet with community and tribal leaders in Winnebago. Bob Bartee, vice chancellor for external affairs, will accompany Dr. Gold.
 "UNMC and Nebraska Medicine are a resource for the state. We welcome the chance to connect with communities, hear how we can help them and provide updates on our progress," Dr. Gold said. "We thank the citizens of Nebraska for the outstanding support they provide to help make UNMC and Nebraska Medicine successful. Together, we are making strides in improving Nebraska's health."

Jeffrey Gold, M.D.

Dr. Gold will provide updates on several fronts, including UNMC's economic impact in rural communities and the recently approved construction of a state-of-the-art education center - the Interprofessional Experiential Center for Enduring Learning (iEXCEL) - at UNMC. He also will provide brief updates about construction projects at UNMC, including the Fred & Pamela Buffett Cancer Center; the Lozier Center for Pharmacy Sciences and Education and the UNMC Center for Drug Discovery (all one facility); and the Lauritzen Outpatient Center & Fritch Surgery Center.

Area youth attends Language Village Immersion Program

Emily Worner has participated in the Concordia Language Villages program by attending a two-week session at El Lago del Bosque, the Spanish Language Village, located near Bemidji, Minn.
 Emily is the daughter of Tami and Greg Worner of Wayne and will be a fifth grader at Wayne Elementary this fall.
 By attending El Lago del Bosque, the Spanish Language Village, Worner experienced a simulated visit to another country. She was issued a passport, exchanged currency and adopted a new name. Over interacting with staff from all over the world, she also learned about the many opportunities available to those who speak more than one language. Worner was immersed in the language and culture of another country through large and small learning groups, authentic foods, holiday celebrations, re-enactments of historic events, songs, dances, crafts, games and everyday conversations.

 Concordia Language Villages, a program of Concordia College, Moorhead, Minn., is a recognized leader in global education offering 15 world language programs. Concordia Language Villages attracts more than 10,000 youth, educators and adults annually from all 50 states and more than 40 countries. Youth ages 7-18 and adults of all language experience levels can take advantage of on-site learning options ranging from a weekend to four weeks.

Reminiscing about life on the farm

First, I want you to understand that we have not lost our allegiance to the World Herald; it arrives at the noon meal, which was dinner, and an afternoon lunch, and supper after the chores were done. Boy, did that bring back memories!

He was also the product of a German, Missouri Lutheran parochial school, so we do have a lot in common. Those columns have been gathered and edited into a book by his daughter. The title of the book is The Land of Milk and Uncle Honey. Uncle Honey was his father's uncle, and he was one of the hired hands for twenty years. His nick name was Honey because he was so kind, but he had an awful reputation for wrecking machinery, taking out fences, and starting fires! Well, guess what? The Big Farmer had an Uncle Carl who helped him out sometimes, and he had some of the same characteristics. In fact, Mr. Guebert says he has had many emails and letters saying this is a common problem with the hired help.

Anyway, I read the book over the weekend and had to chuckle in many places. It made me a wee bit homesick for Apex Farm, but then I thought of all that cooking, and canning, and cleaning up after, and I decided it was good that those days are gone. There is no way I could do it now. And some days, I wonder how I did it then! I do encourage you to get hold of the book, if you can; you will get a few laughs, if nothing else.

the front door every morning at 5 a.m. and it's the first thing we do with our first cup of coffee. Mike takes the Sports section, and I start on the World news.

However, it's good to see a Lincoln paper, too, so we trade with the neighbors. On Sundays, it has a column by a guy named Alan Guebert, who complains a lot about companies like Tyson and Monsanto, and the farm program, and The National Cattleman's Association, etc. Often, I don't agree with him, and, of course, lots of times, I don't know enough about the subject to disagree with him.

But, sometimes, he reminisces about growing up on an Illinois dairy farm in the 60s, with a Dad who made do with old machinery and had to have hired help, who came in for the noon meal, which his mother prepared. In fact, she prepared an early breakfast for the cow milkers, a mid-morning lunch,

Crabapples diseases, fungus in tomatoes explained

Here is some information from my favorite Horticulture Extension Educator Kelly Feehan. I am seeing these things in our area, as well.

Many crabapple trees have branches with leaves turning brown, yellow and reddish, or even orange. There are a number of issues with crabapple trees now.

The most severe problem is fire blight; a bacterial canker disease that kills entire branches with leaves uniformly turning brown as if burnt, hence the name fire blight.

As a bacterial disease, fungicides are not very effective against this disease and once a crabapple is infected, bactericides will not help. Applying pesticides for fire blight is not recommended for homeowners because of chemical availability, potential phytotoxicity, and the critical timing of sprays.

Pruning to remove infected branches is the most feasible control method for homeowners. When pruning, remove all blighted twigs and cankered branches at least 8 to 12 inches below the visible infection. Remove the branch where it attaches to another main branch or the trunk to avoid leaving stubs.

After each cut, sterilize all tools used in pruning to avoid spreading the bacteria within the affected tree and to other plants. Many plants, including cotoneaster, pear, apples and Hawthorn are susceptible. Dip tools in household bleach or ethyl alcohol, or use household spray disinfectants.

The risk of spreading the bacteria is lower if pruning is delayed until mid-winter. Winter pruning can also be accomplished more efficiently because pruning tools do not need to be disinfected between each cut if pruning is done while trees are fully dormant.

Planting resistant varieties is the most effective prevention. Care practices that favor plant growth can be helpful. These include not planting too deep, using a two to four inch layer of mulch around the tree, avoiding excess nitrogen, limiting plant wounds, and correct watering practices.

On some crabapples with chlorotic leaves (yellow color with darker green veins), the issue may be a fireblight canker on the trunk. When cankers are on the trunk, the tree will eventually die.

It is possible the cambium of some crabapples were injured by our two nights of five degree weather last November. Trees were likely not fully dormant by mid-November and could have sustained cold temperature injury.

If cold temperature is the cause, these trees may or may not recover. Only time will tell. Mulching the trees, minimizing pruning and using correct watering may help. Avoid nitrogen fertilization; however a soil applied application of iron may promote green up.

With our rainy weather, there has been an increase in fungal leaf diseases like cedar apple rust and apple scab this year. With rust, leaves will have yellow to orange spots. With apple scab, leaf spots are olive green to brown. Both diseases can cause severe leaf drop in susceptible crabapples, but otherwise healthy trees will be fine. We do not recommend fungicides at this time of year for fungal leaf diseases. The best control of these two diseases is to plant disease resistant crabapples. If fungicide sprays were to be applied for rust or scab, they would need to be applied in early spring just as trees are beginning to bud. Fungicide applications also need to be repeated according to label direction or as long as rainy weather persists.

Spotted leaves on tomatoes are most likely a fungal disease, either Septoria leaf spot or early blight. Rainy weather leads to an increase in foliar diseases. Septoria leaf spots begin as small dark spots. Early blight spots are larger and often have concentric circles in their center. Older leaves are more susceptible and so these diseases often begin at the bottom of the plant and move upward. Heavily infected leaves eventually turn yellow and drop.

Using resistant varieties, mulching plants, using caging or staking and avoiding overhead irrigation will help reduce or slow fungal leaf diseases. If fungicides are used as a control method, applications need to begin as soon as leaf spots are noticed. Both upper and lower leaf surfaces need to be sprayed. Use a fungicide labeled for use on vegetables, such as chlorothalonil or mancozeb. Be sure to follow the waiting period between application and harvest.

Commodity Carnival at State Fair

CME Group – the world's leading futures exchange – and the National 4-H Council – America's largest youth development organization – are partnering for a third consecutive year to bring their popular and award-winning Commodity Carnival fair experience to more than 100 state and county fairs in nine states this summer including Nebraska. Participating Nebraska counties include: Cedar, Thurston, Otoe, Cass, Adams, Phelps, Gosper, Cheyenne, and Scottsbluff. It will also be featured at the Nebraska State Fair and Ak-Sar-Ben.

The Commodity Carnival is an interactive and educational game about the business of agriculture and it teaches young fairgoers how to manage the costs and risks associated with bringing an animal - this year, a hog - to market. Beyond the fairgrounds and throughout the year, the Commodity Carnival mobile app, Risk Ranch, enables people of all ages to try their hand at agricultural risk management from their mobile devices, as well as on-line.

"Fairs have been mainstays of America's heartland since the 1840s, and our CME Group heritage in commodities markets goes back almost as far. We are pleased to return to these fairs with our Commodity Carnival game to teach young agriculture participants the importance of risk management," said CME Group Executive Chairman and President Terry Duffy. "With 4-H, we are able to reach young audiences and provide them the tools to kick-start their thinking about food production and the risks that farmers and ranchers face – knowledge that will become crucial as global demand for food increases in the coming decades."

"We are constantly seeking new ways to empower and educate today's young people," said Jennifer Sirangelo, president and CEO, National 4-H Council. "The Commodity Carnival has proved an invaluable tool for expanding the agriculture and economic education of both rural and urban youth, and the game teaches elements of business that are applicable beyond farming. Our partnership with CME Group allows us a unique opportunity to prepare the next generation of farmers and business leaders for the complexities of the marketplace," Sirangelo said.

Energy Tip

Saving money with summer laundry

Washing and drying laundry uses more energy than you may think. Not only are you running the machines, many times you are also using warm or hot water from your hot water heater.

According to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the average household does about 400 loads of laundry a year. Of those, 49 percent run with warm water, 37 percent with cold water, and 14 percent with hot. Depending on your energy source for making hot water, the average energy cost per load is about $1. It does not take long to see that this common chore provides a great opportunity to use energy more wisely and save on monthly energy bills.

Here are some ways you can reduce your energy costs while getting the wash done:

- Use cold water. According to Energy Star almost 90 percent of the energy consumed by the washing process is used to heat water. You can save a lot of energy by washing your clothes in cold water. Cold-water washing also keeps colors bright, reduces wrinkling, and will not set stains. Although you may find that regular detergent is sufficient, try out cold-water detergents that are specifically formulated to work in cooler temperatures.

- Run a full load. Your clothes washer will use about the same amount of mechanical energy, regardless of how full it is. If you do not run a full load, be sure to set the water level for the amount of laundry you are running.

- Use the washer's energy-saving settings. Be sure to start with the appropriate wash cycle for the fabrics being laundered and do not wash for longer than needed. Some loads only need 10 minutes of washing. Avoid the excessively hot "sanitary cycle," but do choose the "high spin" option to remove more moisture at the end and cut down on drying time.

- If you are in the market for a washing machine, get one with the Energy Star label. Energy Star washing machines use 37 percent less energy and 50 percent less water than regular washers.

- Soak heavily soiled items before washing, and rub collars or other stains with household soap. There's nothing worse than having to repeat a wash because stains didn't come out.

- Use the dryer's energy-saving settings. Select low temperature for delicates and medium for most clothes. Choose auto-dry instead of timed-dry to prevent over-drying. Use a cycle that includes a cool-down period, sometimes known as a "permanent-press" cycle. In the last few minutes of this cycle, cool air, not heated air, is blown through the clothes completing the drying process with less electricity and saving you money.

- Clean the lint filter after each dryer load to improve air circulation and reduce drying time. Periodically, use the long nozzle tip on your vacuum cleaner to remove the lint that collects inside the lint screen slot. Purchase a lint trap vacuum attachment if you cannot get your vacuum's nozzle into the trap. In addition, inspect your dryer vent a couple of times a year to ensure it is not blocked. This will save energy and may prevent a fire. Manufacturers recommend using rigid venting material -- not plastic vents that may collapse and cause blockages.

- Consider a clothesline or drying rack. Drying clothes outside on a line or inside on a drying rack saves about 40 cents per load. Note that it is often recommended that fabrics like wool be laid flat to dry. Plus, line-dried clothes receive less wear and tear and will be static free without the use of dryer sheets.

- Dry towels and heavier cottons in a separate load from lighter-weight clothes, since different materials, fabric weights, and garment sizes will require different amounts of time to dry.

We can learn from Jesus' compassion

It's incredible the amount of hurt, struggle and sadness that goes on every day in the world around us. Turn on your news, or pick up a national paper, or simply get on the internet to see what's trending on Twitter.

I was talking with a friend recently who had just experienced a great loss due to a death in his family and he was sharing about how his faith in God, and the community of believers he was a part of, was what was holding him up, and helping him keep it together. He used a phrase that I had heard before but every time I hear it, it resonates with me, and this time was no different. He said, "I don't know how people go through things like this alone."

In John chapter 11 we get the story of Lazarus being raised from the dead, and we get Jesus' statement that He is the resurrection and the life.

In this chapter there is a lot to digest, but in the middle of all that is in this story there are two words that we should be cautious to not overlook. They are: "Jesus wept."

It's the shortest verse in all the Bible, yet there is a deep teaching for us in it.

Jesus wept. Why? Everybody is weeping around Him and we know why they are weeping. Lazarus is dead! They are sad, because they have lost a brother, a friend, and a buddy. It makes sense that they are crying, but not Jesus. Jesus knows that He is going to raise Lazarus back to life. Jesus knows that their mourning will soon be turned into rejoicing. Jesus knows that their tears of sadness will soon become tears of joy. Jesus knows that their wailing will soon become laughing because the one that was dead will be alive again.

Yet Jesus weeps. Why? Jesus weeps, I believe, because His friends are weeping. Even though Jesus knows their weeping will soon stop, He is saddened because of the sadness those around Him are experiencing, no matter how temporary it may be, and this doesn't surprise me one bit.

Jesus was so great at seeing the people around Him, and being moved by them. Jesus has compassion. Jesus always notices the hurting, the down and out, those who are struggling. No matter how long that struggle, and that sadness may be, it still moves Jesus. It moves Him inside, and moves Him to act on the outside.

How about you? How about me? Take some time this week and re-read John chapter 11. Be reminded about the truth that Jesus is the resurrection and the life and how in Him we to can have new life. As you do that though, don't forget to notice the compassion of Jesus, and we must let that lead us to notice those around us who are hurting. That friend who seems downcast at work, that person at the restaurant who is sitting by themselves and you can tell something is wrong. Let's not forget to see and to stop, to take the time to be affected by those around us. To stop and listen and empathize and care for those who are struggling, no matter how long their struggle may be or how "big" or "small" we think their struggle is, but to simply stop and care because they, like us, are people created in the image of God, who need someone to weep with them, to sit with them, to simply notice them as Jesus noticed us.

Joy Circle talks gratitude at July 8 meeting

Joy Circle of Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne met July 8.

Phyllis Rahn welcomed those in attendance and gave announcements. Elaine Draghu gave the devotions. The Scripture lesson was II Corinthians 11:24-33 in which St. Paul talks about the suffering he had as an Apostle. He was whipped, stoned, shipwrecked. He went without sleep and often had been without food, shelter, or clothing. In all of these hardships, Paul maintained a right attitude. We also have disappointments and frustrations in life where we can either allow them to get us down or not. God loves us and wants us to be free from hurts and anger that result in us having a bad attitude. Why should we smile? A smile boosts the immune system, relieves stress by releasing endorphins, takes 5-53 muscles to smile, and it is easier to smile than frown.

The program on gratitude was presented by Phyllis Rahn. The group did an exercise discussing how we can change bad attitudes to something good. Faith, obedience, happiness, compassion, gratefulness, and humility are just a few of the ways we can show gratitude which will then change our attitudes.

Interestingly enough, we can learn gratitude from 4-year old children who live in the moment, laugh 400 times a day, express emotion, are risk takers, and have fun. A good habit is to start a gratitude journal. At the end of each day, write down five things for which you are grateful. Gratitude is a good attitude.

There will be no August meeting.

Be vigilant about preventing heat-related illness in summer

High temperatures combined with high humidity can increase the potential for heat-related illness according to the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services.

The risk for heat-related illness and death is higher for infants and the elderly, whose internal thermostats do not regulate body temperature well. People with chronic medical conditions, outdoor workers and people who exercise outside are also at increased risk.

Stay cool and help prevent heat-related illness by following these tips:

- Drink plenty of water and don't wait until you are thirsty to drink.
- Avoid alcohol and limit drinks with caffeine.
- Wear loose, light-colored clothing and sunscreen (SPF 15 or higher).
- Never leave children or pets in a parked car.
- Pets can suffer from heat-related illness too. If your pet spends its days outside, make sure it has plenty of fresh water and shade.

- If outdoors, slow your pace and take frequent rest breaks.

- Don't get too much sun. Sunburn reduces your body's ability to dissipate heat.

- Try to limit your outdoor activity to morning and evening hours.

- If you don't have air conditioning, go to a public building where you can cool off.

Electric fans may provide comfort, but when temperatures reach the high 90s, fans won't prevent heat-related illness. Take a cool shower or bath or move to an air-conditioned place.

Check on elderly friends and neighbors. Make sure they're staying cool and hydrated.

Heat exhaustion can develop following exposure for several days to high temperatures. Symptoms include rapid heartbeat, cold, pale clammy skin, nausea, dizziness, weakness, and fatigue.

Heatstroke, the most serious heat-related illness, is a medical emergency characterized by a body temperature of 103 degrees Fahrenheit or greater. Symptoms include hot, red skin, rapid heartbeat, shallow breathing, disorientation, delirium, and coma.

Anyone suffering from these conditions should be moved into the shade or air conditioning. If heatstroke or serious heat exhaustion is suspected, get emergency medical assistance.

The National Weather Service's heat index shows how hot it really feels when relative humidity is factored in with the temperature. It is on the Internet at www.nws.noaa.gov/om/heat/heat_index.shtml.

With So Many Choices, Why Would You Choose to Pay Taxes?

Tax-Free Municipal Bonds 0.59% TO 3.99%*

*Yield effective 07/08/2015, subject to availability. Yield and market value may fluctuate if sold prior to maturity and the amount you receive from the sale of these securities may be less than, equal to, or more than the amount originally invested. Bond investments are subject to interest rate risk such that when interest rates rise, the prices of bonds can decrease and the investor can lose principal value. Any bond called prior to maturity results in reinvestment risk for the owner of the bond. May be subject to alternative minimum tax. Municipal bonds may have original issue discount.

Some of the available issues of bonds are callable. Contact your local Edward Jones financial advisor for more information about maturity dates and applicable call provisions.
