Budget approved, but amendments made

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

The city's tax asking for the coming fiscal year will remain virtually unchanged following the adoption of the 2015-2016 budget during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

City Finance Director Nancy Braden presented the proposed budget based on previous budget work sessions. However, council members voted to amend the final numbers to reflect an additional $4,800 in the library budget for temporary wages for staff. That money will lower the amount the city will be putting into cash reserves.

Considerable discussion was held on the need to make this change and the necessity for departments to stay within their budgets.

Council member Nick Muir requested the additional money for the library staff, while Council member Cale Giese noted that the library has seen double digit increases in operating losses in the last three years.

"I am not anti-library, but we have spent considerable time trying to figure out how to stop the bleeding."

— Councilman Matt Eischeid
On working on the 2015-16 city budget

Council member Jason Karsky said he felt an additional $10,000 should be put in the library's budget and said that he has heard from a number of people he represents that the library is important to the community.

Library Director Lauren Lofgren said that in recent months she has shifted her responsibilities away from some administrative responsibilities such as seeking additional grant funding for the library to some of the responsibilities previously completed by part-time staff.

Since May 1 the library has reduced hours of operation and the number of staff members working during these hours.

Council member Matt Eischeid said that the council has spent considerable time working on the budget and have trimmed areas where needed.

"I am not anti-library, but we have spent considerable time trying to figure out how to stop the bleeding. We set budgets for a reason and let's see how this goes for a year," he said.

The council also accepted a change order for the 2015 Water System Improvements-Water Main Relocation Project and authorized the final payment to Robert Woehler & Sons Construction.

Roger Protzman with JEO Consulting said the changes were due to a number of things the contractors found when the work was being completed, including old water mains.

Protzman also told the council that the 2015 Storm Shelter Project was "substantially complete" and remaining work will be completed by city crews.

Considerable debate was held on whether or not to grant a change order request from Robert Woehler &

Sons Construction, Inc. on the Grainland Road Water and Sanitary Sewer Extension Project (Southview Addition).

The firm had requested an extension from Oct. 1, 2015 to May 1, 2016.

However, John Zwingman with Advanced Consulting Engineering Services, said he recommended the council extend the completion date to Jan. 1, 2016.

Following considerable debate on whether this would set a precedent and make out-of-town contractors less likely to bid on future projects, the council voted to extend the completion date to Nov. 1. Eischeid and Jennifer Sievers voted against allowing for the extension.

Council members also voted to move forward with a request for a formal Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) rate hearing and approved sending a 'Letter of Protest' from the City of Wayne to NPPD regarding their 2016 Wholesale Power Rate Surcharge for those towns that do not sign the 20 year NPPD contract.

The council's next regular meeting will take place on Tuesday, Oct. 6 at 5:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Board of Education sets budget, district losing $1.75M in state aid

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

Money — coming in and going out — took up the majority of Monday's meeting of the Wayne Community Schools Board of Education meeting.

Prior to the start of the regular meeting, the board held public hearings to discuss the district's budget for the 2015-2016 fiscal year and determine the district tax request.

Superintendent Mark Lenihan shared with the board and those in the audience information about the coming year's budget, and noted that the numbers include the fact that the district lost $1.75 million in state aid for the coming year.

He also said that, because the district plans to re-finance the 2010 Build America bonds that were used to fund the construction of the Junior High School and addition at Wayne Elementary School, those numbers were included in the initial budget request.

Lenihan said the general fund expenditures were not raised for the coming year, but with the loss of state aid, the tax asking will be 98.5 cents, compared to 86.6 cents per $100 in valuation in the 2014-2015 budget.

In addition, the budget includes 4.8 cents in bond funds to pay for the renovation of what was then the middle school.

The total tax levy for the district for the coming year is $1.095 per $100 in valuation, which is lower than for the 2013-2014 school year.

Lenihan said the cash flow for the district in the coming months will be different than in the past, with no state aid coming in. All expenditures will be monitored closely and the district will try to find outside sources to fund items such as technology.

On a more positive note, Jay Sperman with Ameritas presented information to the board on the savings to the district with the re-financing of the 2010 Build America Bonds.

The 30-year bonds, originally issued when the junior high school was built and the addition put on at the elementary school, included incentives from the federal government. Those incentives have since

Death penalty issue to go on 2016 ballot

Almost 1 in 4 in Wayne County signed petition during summer

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

A summer-long effort to put the issue of keeping the death penalty in Nebraska on the November 2016 ballot was successful, and a significant number of registered voters in Wayne County helped make that possible.

The Nebraska Secretary of State's Office confirmed that the minimum number of valid signatures were easily eclipsed among the nearly 166,000 signatures that were turned in last month by petition organizers. Only 5 percent of the 1.139 million registered voters in Nebraska — or about 57,000 — needed to sign the petition to put it on the ballot. The effort needs 10 percent of registered voters' signatures to prevent the repeal of the death penalty approved earlier this year by the Nebraska Legislature from going into effect until after the 2016 general election.

Wayne County Clerk Deb Finn told The Wayne Herald on Monday that her office verified 1,206 signatures among registered voters in the county, which accounted for about 24 percent of the county's registered voters.

Wayne State among top schools in report

For the fourth straight year, Wayne State College was recognized in the Washington Monthly College Guide and Ranking and Colleges Distinction, according to U.S. News and World Report.

Wayne State is the only Nebraska public college or university named in this year's report, found online at www.collegesofdistinction.com. The school is listed eighth among 403 colleges and universities in the Midwest, and first in the state in its "Best Bang for the Buck" category, which is based on the economic value students receive per dollar.

Washington Monthly noted that Wayne State was the highest-ranked public institution in the state, and was ranked third among all public and private schools in the state. The school was also ranked first for community service participation and for the quality of its service staff, courses and financial aid support among public institutions in Nebraska.

Washington Monthly ranked Wayne State 89th out of 673 master's universities in the United States, up from 116th in 2013. Wayne State is highest-ranked school among the 16 schools that make up the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference.

"Washington Monthly provides a compelling evaluation of who we are and what we do as a college," said Dr. Mrysz Rames, president of Wayne State College. "Accessibility, social mobility, and affordability form the core of our mission at Wayne State. With so many options available to students, we are understandably proud to serve as an affordable option without compromising the quality of our academic programs."

U.S. News ranks Wayne State second among public institutions in Nebraska and 75th among all Midwest regional universities, both public and private, in the U.S. News rankings, up from 84th one year ago.

Other benchmarks to note among the U.S. News rankings data

— Wayne State's average alumni giving rate is 13 percent, which is the highest giving rate in the Midwest region

— Wayne State is the only top-tier school in the Midwest region to report a 100 percent acceptance rate

Wayne State College has been recognized by a national publication for the fourth year in a row among the top colleges in the Midwest.

— 48 percent of WSC classes have less than 20 students — the college's freshman retention rate is 67 percent.

"Our alumni giving rate speaks volumes about what we are doing here at Wayne State and the confidence we inspire in our supporters," Rames said. "Year after year our graduates and friends provide scholarships and support that allow us to ensure our students have access to a top-notch education while graduating with a debt load much lower than what you find at similar institutions. We are proud to point out that at Wayne State, big opportunities come without the big price tag."

Northeast PPD drops them off at this location when they are chipping trees in the area. To find the pile, turn north off Highway 35 just before the bridge onto Industrial Road, drive north past the former Pacific Coast site to the gravel road going east on the old Rail Road Right of Way. The wood chip pile is a short way east on the gravel road. You have to load your own chips but the chips are free to the public.

New Wayne Comprehensive Plan

Every city that has zoning must base the zoning on a long range Comprehensive Plan for the community that is approved by the Planning Commission and City Council after public hearings. The Comprehensive Plan needs to be updated about every ten years to be relevant with the changes in the community.

To get public input into the new Wayne Comp Plan, a Citizens Advisory Committee will be appointed by the mayor and council to work through next winter with a Comp Plan Consultant to focus on a plan for the next ten years of the Wayne community's development. A copy of our current Comp Plan is available on the City of Wayne website. If you are interested in being a part of the committee give your name to the city clerk's office for consideration.

Joy Circle learns about Bridges To Hope

Joy Circle of Our Savior Lutheran Church met Sept. 9. President Phyllis Rahn welcomed guests and members and gave announcements.

She talked about Pink Flamingo Nite to be held in October which is an evening stressing Breast Cancer Awareness. More information will be available on flyers around Wayne. Phyllis recognized Julie Grono for her birthday in August.

Vera Longe gave the devotions entitled "Reversing One's Course" which spoke about Biblical leaders such as Saul, the jailer of Paul and Silas, and Zacchaeus, who changed the way they were living through the Holy Spirit bringing them to faith in Christ. On Pentecost, the Holy Spirit with its power gave birth to the Christian church. Today "pentecosts" still happen when sinners, having come to faith, confess their sins and promise to mend their lives.

Rhonda Mattingly, Executive Director of Bridges to Hope, spoke to the group. Bridges to Hope was born out of Pastor Bud Christensen's idea when he realized individuals being released from incarceration did not have the basic needs needed to start a new life. Bridges to Hope seeks to accompany former offenders while they are moving out of correctional institutions and into the community.

They collect essential items which will help individuals set up a home after their release. Just a few items they offer are men's and women's clothing, hygiene products, household items, kitchen items, furniture, bedding, and towels. Members of Our Savior donated items listed, and the speaker was able to take back with her these items for Bridges to Hope to use for those individuals ready to reenter the community.

Rhonda brought with her an individual who shared her story with the group. She told how she had developed a deep relationship with God while in prison, believing one cannot do anything without God in her life. She was able to find employment and a place to live. Life has not been easy, but she is giving back by telling others her story.

The next meeting will be Thursday, Oct. 15 at Our Savior Lutheran Church. The "Pink Flamingo Nite" will begin with a meal from 6:30-7:15 p.m. The featured speaker will be Paula Plueger of Norfolk, a cancer survivor, and will be followed by music from the Front Porch Pickers, awareness information provided by Providence Medical Center, a style show by Swans Apparel, door prizes, and much more.

It is designed to be a night out for women, as well as an opportunity to raise awareness of breast cancer. Tickets will be available at the banks, Swans Apparel, and the church office.

Answering small business questions

My business is trying to receive funding from our current bank for a large expansion. They are asking for a business plan, we have been in operation for 3 years, why do they need a business plan if they know our business? - Lincoln

They know your current business, but I would suspect they don't know your future business. Obviously lenders are very risk adverse. If you are considering a "large" expansion, then your operations of the business might change significantly. You may consider it the same business, but it most likely will not operate as the same business. There are significant considerations if your large expansion involves more staff, a larger space, a larger inventory, or a larger contract obligation to name a few. Rapid growth is a real concern for any successful small businesses. In general, growth of a business is exciting. The market is demonstrating that its wants your product or service and your small business might be trying everything it can to keep pace with that demand, but many small businesses struggle to adjust its operations when growing significantly in a short amount of time. The lender knows this might be a risk for them and your business, they want to fully understand your vision for managing a larger business. They might know your current business, but they are not going to know your future business because it is not the same business. It is going to be larger, which is going to present different challenges for you, your small business, your employees, and your lender. I would suggest to provide them a detailed plan on any significant changes to the operational functions of your business. Are your customers changing? How is your billing going to change? What about inventory control? Allowing them to review and understand your plan to manage the growth of the business will allow them to be confident in the future of your business.

I am trying to purchase an existing business, but I think they are asking too much. What can I do? -Portland, Ore.

Let's assume you are the only potential buyer of the business, fully understanding what the business possesses that is of "value" to you will help. The seller might be viewing the value of the business differently than what you perceive. You might value the location of the business and they might find value in its inventory. I would suggest having a detailed conversation with the seller to make sure both of you fully understand the others perception of the how the business is being valued. Most buyers and sellers think there is one value of a business, but actually the value is highly dependent on the perception of all the buyers and sellers involved in the transaction. It's not a question of right or wrong but a question of understanding the buyers and sellers perception of value toward that particular business at a given time. If you are the only buyer involved, your valuation of the business holds more "clout" since there are no other buyers involved driving the price. I would suggest having a complete conversation on the rational of the seller's perception of value toward the business. Many sellers believe in their business and want to sell it for as much as possible, it is your responsibility as a buyer to understand the rational of the seller and how they perceive value.

My husband and I are thinking about purchasing into a franchise, we have never done this before. What should we be considering? -Omaha

Buying into a franchise can be complex and challenging for many entrepreneurs. Here is a top ten list of things you should be asking and considering when buying into a franchise. What information is the franchisor using to predict success into a particular market? What are all the costs associated with the purchase of the franchise? What type of marketing support does the franchisor give? How much does this marketing support cost or is it included in the purchase or is it a percentage of sales? What specific type of support will the franchisor give in the form of training and development of staff? What kind of specific systems and processes does the franchise use in daily operations? What kind of freedom will, you, as the franchise owner have in decision making on suppliers and pricing? Does the franchisor give you access to other franchise owners to discuss operations? Does the franchisor have an operations manual for review? Who decides the location of the business? What is the exiting process? Obviously there are many things to consider when purchasing into a franchise. I would suggest consulting with a trusted advisor before purchasing into a franchise since the complexities of each transaction can vary greatly.

City ends with record receipts

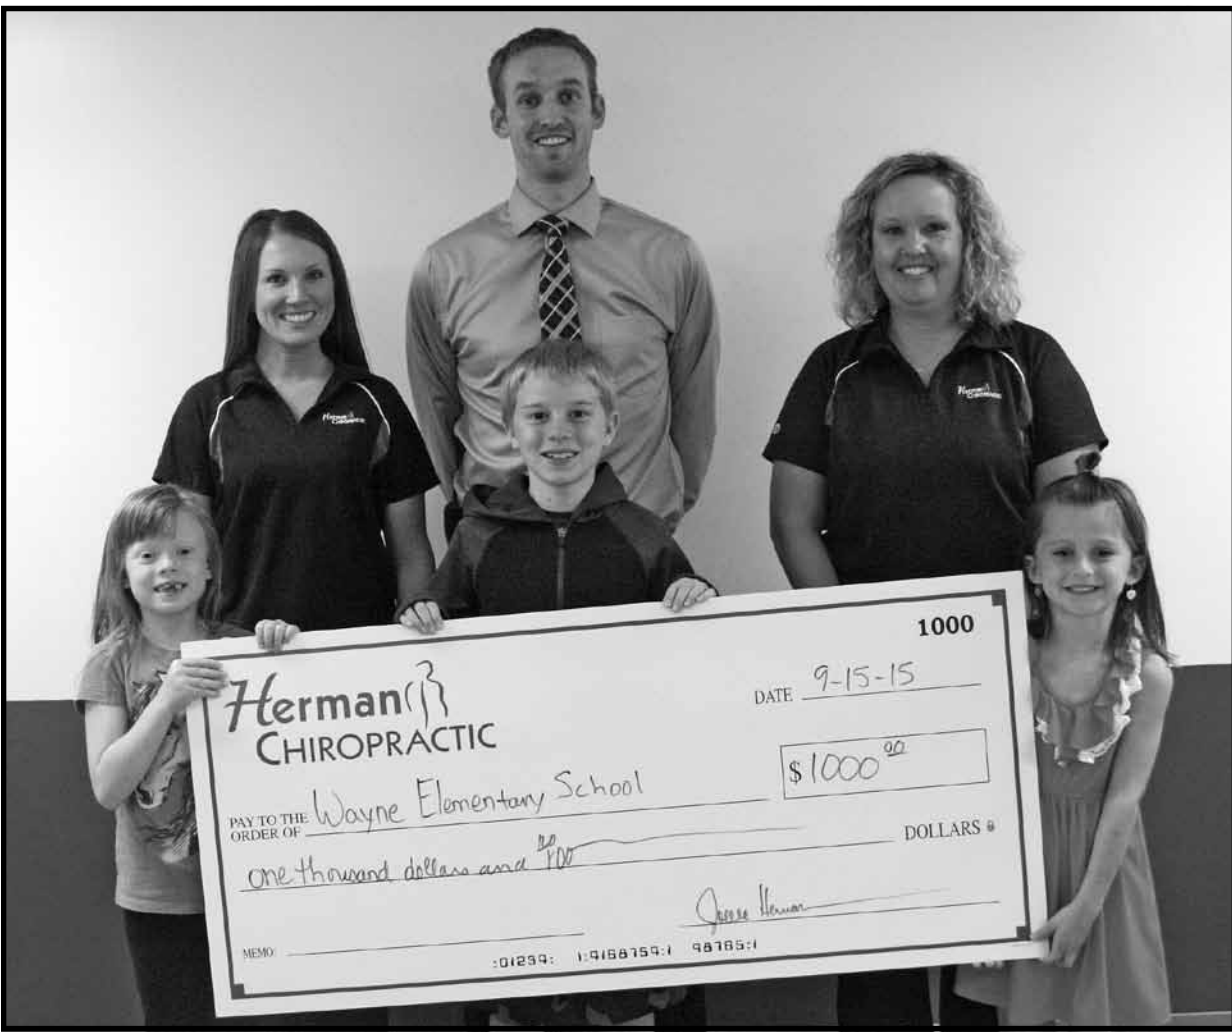

The City of Wayne received a record number in city sales tax receipts for the 2014-15 fiscal year, helped out in part by an additional half-cent added to the rate during the final four months of the fiscal term.

City Finance Director Nancy Braden told The Wayne Herald that September's receipts, based on sales made during July, was $77,329.27. Although that is down more than $13,000 from last month's record number of $90,878.86, it did allow the city to finish the fiscal year with $779,797.97 in local sales tax receipts, averaging $70,890.72 per month.

In setting the budget a year ago, the city projected an average monthly sales tax receipt of $56,205.72. With the help of the additional half-cent of sales tax to pay off bonds for the new swimming pool, that projection was exceeded by more than 20 percent.

Support for supplies

Herman Chiropractic conducted a School Supply Drive recently and patients were encouraged to donate supplies or make a cash donation. A check for $500 was donated to St. Mary's Catholic School (above) and a check for $1,000 was presented to Wayne Elementary School. Involved in the presentation at the elementary school were (front) Sienna Klinetobe, Braydn McCorkindale and Courtney Roeber. (back) Dr. Kiley Calloway, Principal Russ Plager and Dr. Joelle Herman.

diminished, and by re-financing to 10-year bonds, the district can see a savings of just over $1.5 million over the life of the bonds.

Prior to the start of the meeting, Wes Blecke and several of those involved with the recent Taste of Victory Tailgate event, presented the Wayne Community Schools Foundation with a check for $1,781. The amount represents the proceeds from the Celebrity Chef Cook-Off held prior to the Wayne High-O'Neill football game.

Wayne High School guidance counselor Melody Hill presented information to the board on the ACT scores for the 2015 graduates of Wayne High. She noted that the Wayne High School scores were higher than both the national and state scores. She also indicated that 94 percent of the members of the class were planning to pursue post-secondary education.

"We are blessed with really good kids here at Wayne," Hill said.

In other items discussed during Monday's meeting, enrollment for the district, pre-K through 12th grade is 900 students, compared with 888 last year.

Superintendent Lenihan also shared with the board information from the Nebraska State Assessment tests, indicating that the district scored at or above the state average in 19 of the 20 tests in math, reading, science and writing and all the grades at the elementary school scored above the state average.

Each of the administrators presented reports to the board indicating that the school year is off to a good start and a number of activities will be taking place in the coming weeks.

The board will next meet in regular session on Monday, Oct. 12 at Wayne High School.

Trust vital for blind WHS runner

Forty-one girls crossed the finish line before her, but Maura Loberg undoubtedly got the biggest applause of all the girls running in the Wayne Invitational cross country meet on Tuesday.

She heard every clap, every whistle and every shout of encouragement – but saw none of it.

Blind for most of her young life, Loberg pressed on along the course at the Wayne Country Club with the help of Molly Redden, who runs alongside her and helps her navigate around the 5,000-meter course. It took her a little more than 34 minutes to get around the Wayne Country Club's back nine, but she never stopped and kept working toward the finish and the roar of approval from the crowd gathered near the finish line.

Loberg began running in junior high at the insistence of her parents, Ken and Jean. She enjoys the team aspect of the sport and is grateful for the help she gets from teammates and a number of volunteers who help her run in practice and at the meets.

"Everybody is there for each other, and that's really cool," Loberg said. "It's a good feeling getting to the finish line, knowing I was able to get that far and make it."

Redden has been running alongside Loberg during Wayne's three events this season, holding both ends of a foot-long piece of rope to help guide the young runner around the course. She serves as Loberg's eyes as they make their way along the terrain, warning her of coming hazards along the route.

"The biggest thing is making sure I give her cues ahead of time with the turns and the texture of the course with the dips and ruts," Redden said. "I try to look ahead a few paces to let her know what's coming."

Loberg gets help in practice from Redden and assistant coach Courtney Maas, along with volunteers like Molly Burbach, Britney Nordthues and Heather Frank. The biggest challenge for Loberg is making sure she has somebody that she can trust to guide her around the course.

"It's a lot of trusting," she said. "I have to be able to trust the person I'm with and go with my gut and hope they don't lead me astray," she said.

So far, it's worked out well. Redden led Loberg around the course, then turned her loose for the last 20 meters to cross the line on her own.

Cross country coach Rocky Ruhl said he's been impressed with the improvement Loberg has made this season.

"She's got some shin splints, but she keeps fighting and I'm really happy with how she competes," Ruhl said. "You can't imagine what she goes through as she's running, but she's really focused and does a good job, and I'm really proud of her."

Redden said that running a mile and a half in junior high cross

Girls dominate cross country field

Four finishes in top six help Wayne run away with title

Nothing was getting in the way of the Wayne High girls cross country team's success on Tuesday.

Warm temperatures and windy conditions didn't slow down the Blue Devil girls Tuesday at the Wayne Country Club, as the team dominated the medal stand and ran away with the team title of the 2015 Blue Devil Invite.

All four scoring runners finished among the top six individuals, and four other runners – including two JV competitors – placed among the top 15 medalists to give the host team the easy win in the girls 5,000-meter race.

"I was happy with the day," coach Rocky Ruhl said after the race. "It was tough in terms of the heat and the wind, but I thought our kids were focused and we got through that and found a way to compete hard."

Two of the top six runners for Wayne were freshman, and leading the way was Hannah Leonard. She slipped past teammate Marcella Jurotich in the final 800 meters and placed second overall in a time of 22:22.62.

"She's really come into her own," Ruhl said. "You could tell last year when she was running in junior high that she was going to be a good one for us. She put in a lot of miles over the summer and has done well and seems to really be having fun with it."

The other freshman in the top six was Gabi Meyer, who placed sixth in 22:50.73.

"It's really exciting to have her and Hannah both running well for us," Ruhl said. "They both did a great job, and Marcella and Marta (Pulfer) did their thing. We're not Taylor Kumm sidesteps a would-be Wausau tackler on his way to the end zone during Allen's 58-12 homecoming win on Friday.

After early miscue, Allen soars to homecoming win

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

ALLEN – A breakdown in Allen's defensive secondary allowed Wausau to score on the third play from scrimmage.

It was all Allen after that.

After giving up the early touchdown, Allen rolled off 58 unanswered points against an overmatched Vikings squad and ran away with a 58-12 homecoming win Friday at Isom-Hill Field.

Once the Eagles corrected things defensively, they were able to move the ball at will against the Wausau defense and limited the Vikings to less than 50 yards in total offense after the game-opening drive.

"The opening coverage error was a blow that we overcame with some real hard-nosed, team oriented, focused football," coach Dave Uldrich said. "It was nice to see the way we responded to our first-week setback, making errors less in number tonight."

Allen's scoring assault started late in the opening period when Garrett Brentlinger scored on a short three-yard run. The two-point conversion made it 8-6, and was an appetizer for the main course Allen dished out in the second period.

Allen's offense exploded before halftime, scoring four touchdowns in a six-minute stretch toward the end of the period. Taylor Kumm scored on an 11-yard run early in the period and had a 46-yard scoring gallop during Allen's late run of scores before halftime.

Nate Bausch scored on a six-yard run with 7:20 to go to make it 22-6, and Kumm hit Brentlinger with a nine-yard strike less than two minutes later to extend the lead to 30-6. Kumm's long run at the 3:53 mark was followed by a two-yard plunge by Cody Thomas with 1:45 to go, capping the Eagles' 38-point second period to take a 46-6 lead into the homecoming halftime ceremonies.

The scoring barrage continued with the opening kickoff in the second half, as Kumm took the kick and ran 60 yards to paydirt. Kyle Smith added a 51-yard run midway through the period to make it 58-6, and Wausau closed out the scoring by returning the ensuing kickoff for a score.

"The team fed off the large crowd enthusiasm," Uldrich said. "The offensive line is jelling well, and the defense played lights out tonight. It will be a continued process of knowing our assignments, and trusting that everyone does their part each night out."

Allen rang up 364 yards in total offense while holding the Vikings to only 101 yards on the night. Kumm led the Eagle ground game with 156 yards on 14 carries and was also

3-of-4 passing for 53 yards and a touchdown.

Defensively, Bausch led the Eagles with 12 total tackles, Brentlinger added 10, Isaac Verzani

Blue Devils get comeback win

ARLINGTON – The third time was most certainly the charm for the Wayne High football team Friday night.

After two weeks of getting down early and coming up short in a second-half comeback attempt, the Blue Devils got it done on the road Friday, scoring 22 unanswered points in the second half to come away with a 28-14 win over Arlington for their first triumph of the 2015 campaign.

As was the case in losses to O'Neill and Fort Calhoun, the Blue Devils dug themselves a first-half hole and found themselves down 14-0 after a pair of scoring runs by the Eagles' Sam Plugge.

This time, though, the Blue Devils had an answer.

"I was very impressed with how they stayed calm," coach Terry Bear said. "We did some blitzing and put our kids in a tough situation against their running backs, but we made some adjustments and went back to some things we started with, and I was really impressed with how the kids responded."

The Blue Devils got the deficit down to eight points just before halftime when Drew Davie scored the first of his two touchdowns on a three-yard run to make it 14-6 at the break.

Wayne tied the game midway through the third period on a six-yard run by Tyler Pecena, who also ran in the two-point conversion to make it 14-14 heading into the final period.

Wayne scored early in the fourth quarter on Davie's 13-yard run to take the lead for good, but put the game out of reach late in the fourth on a gutsy four-and-goal call from the Arlington 3-yard line. Quarterback Beau Bowers faked a hand-off and took off on a naked bootleg, walking in untouched for a touchdown to give Wayne a two-score advantage and seal their first win of the season.

"Coach (Adam) Hoffman did a really good job with that call, and I was proud of the way we all kept our heads," Bear said. "I was very proud of our offense and how we were able to mix things up, and that's something that will help us down the road."

Bear was happy with the work of Davie, who finished with 46 yards on nine carries to go with his two touchdowns.

"The week before, Drew struggled, and we worked on a lot of things in practice this week and he really brought his 'A' game along and I was really proud of his effort."

Bear was also happy with the way the Blue Devils maintained a sense of calm, even after being down 14 early in the game.

"I like to joke that we're going to keep people in their seats and get

Williams remembered at ceremony

Current and former Wayne State softball players were joined by other Wildcat athletes, campus and community members for a ceremony Monday at the Chapman Complex to remember Kaiti Williams. Speaking at Monday's ceremony were Journey Christian Church college pastor Justin Raulston, Wayne State sports information director Mike Grosz, and Wildcat players Lexie Loos and Sam O'Brien.

Softballers roll to Mercy Invite title

The Wayne High softball team defeated Wahoo Neumann in extra innings to take the first-place trophy Saturday at the Omaha Mercy Invitational and highlight a perfect week of action.

The Blue Devils opened with an 8-0 win over the host team, led by the hot bat of Kortney Keller, who had three hits - two of them doubles - and five RBI's in the contest. Kennedy Maly added two hits and scored twice, Danica Schaefer scored three times and Kiara Hochstein added a pair of runs. Ashton Gibson got the win in the circle, throwing a three-hit shutout and striking out 13 while walking just one.

In the second game, the Blue Devils blew it open late, scoring six in the seventh to take care of David City/East Butler 11-1. Hannah Belt was masterful in the circle, allowing two hits and striking out 12 in six innings with just one walk. Gibson had two hits, including a double, and two RBI's to lead the 12-hit attack. Maly, Belt and Jenna Trenhaile each had two hits and Maysn Dorey scored twice.

In the championship game, Wayne needed a run in the bottom of the seventh to defeat Wahoo Neumann 3-2 in an excellent matchup between top 10 teams.

The game was tied at 2-2 after six innings and the time limit was in effect, so the seventh inning was played with the international tiebreaker. Wayne's defense came up big in the top of the inning, as Maly nailed the potential go-ahead run at home after a fly ball to left, gunning her down at home with Schaefer making the tag.

In the bottom of the seventh, Maly made the big play with her bat, striking a line drive single with two outs to score Sidney Biggerstaff with the winning run for the 10-4 Blue Devils.

Belt and Maly each had two hits to lead a nine-hit attack. Belt struck out 12, walked five and allowed three hits to get the win in the circle.

The Blue Devils breezed to easy wins in triangulars on Monday and Tuesday, taking two at home on Monday and winning a pair of Mid State Conference matchups in Pierce the following evening.

On Monday, Wayne shut out Schuyler and West Point-Beemer at the Summer Sports Complex.

In the opener, the Blue Devils put up eight runs in the first inning and made quick work of Schuyler, coming away with a 14-0 shutout.

Trenhaile's RBI double started the first-inning explosion for Wayne, and Hochstein capped it with a two-run triple. Wayne had six hits in the game, two coming from Schaefer. Gibson threw a three-inning no-hitter, striking out eight and walking one batter.

Wayne got off to a slow start against the Cadets, but heated up and scored four in the fifth to end the game on the eight-run rule for an 8-0 shutout win.

The game was scoreless until the third, when Maly singled Hochstein home and later came home on a Keller double. Hochstein's two-run single in the fourth made it 4-0, and Wayne got four more in the fifth to finish off the visitors.

Hochstein had three hits and two RBI's, and Keller added two for Wayne High. Belt threw a one-hit shutout, striking out 12 batters. On Tuesday, the Blue Devils dominated Pierce and Boone Central/Newman Grove in a pair of three-inning blowouts.

Against the host Bluejays, Wayne scored six in the second to highlight a 12-0 blowout. Wayne had eight hits and took advantage of nine Pierce errors. Biggerstaff's triple was the only extra base hit of the game for the 14-4 Blue Devils. Hochstein had two hits and Maly and Dorey each scored three times. Belt struck out seven and allowed two hits in the win.

Against the Cardinals, Wayne scored 13 runs in the first inning on their way to a 15-1 triumph. The Blue Devils sent 16 batters to the plate in the opening inning as coach Rob Sweetland played his entire lineup in the win.

Maly had two of Wayne's six hits in the victory, including a triple, and two RBI's. Trenhaile also tripled and Jamie Gamble doubled. Schaefer and Trenhaile each had two RBI's. Belt and Gibson combined on a two-hitter, striking out five.

Wayne plays at Madison Thursday and is at Wisner-Pilger on Sept. 24.

Jurotich finished six seconds behind Leonard in third place, with Pulfer following another eight seconds back in fourth. Andrea Torres finished ninth and Molly Hoskins was Wayne's sixth runner in the varsity scoring, placing 11th.

Mandy Stabler was 12th and Marissa Munsell finished 15th, and with just over a minute and a half separating the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth runners, it's presenting a nice problem for Ruhl as he tries to set his varsity lineup toward the end of the season.

"We've got some battles going for those fifth and sixth spots, and having eight girls medal today was great for the team," he said. "When you have eight or nine kids competing like that, it makes for good competition in practice and it makes for a better team because you have to compete hard in practice to get to that next position."

out of the eight scoring teams in the 10-school race and had just one individual medalist, with senior Cole Leonard coming away with a 15th place finish to lead the Blue Devil effort.

While the team's success didn't match the girls, Ruhl said he saw some good things in the boys' lineup on Tuesday.

"Cole got a medal for us and competed hard, and Jonathan ran well, and I think all the kids ran pretty well today," he said. "We'd like to get Jack (Evetovich) back in the lineup. He's been working through some injuries, and when we get him back, we'll be a better team."

Winside and Laurel-Concord-Coleridge boys runners both competed in Tuesday's meet, finishing sixth and seventh, respectively. Both teams had an individual medalist in the boys race, as LCC's Aaron Haahr finished fifth and Marlowe Kampa of Winside was seventh. LCC's Jordan Jensen just missed the medal stand, finishing 16th out of 52 runners. Winside's Dylan Brogren was 18th.

LCC did have one runner in the girls race, as freshman Kayli Naeve placed 31st.

Soccer team loses to in-state, NSIC rivals

The Wayne State soccer team suffered its first two losses of the year, losing to an in-state rival and a NSIC rival at home.

On Thursday, Nebraska-Kearney scored a pair of first-half goals on their way to a 4-1 win at Memorial Stadium.

The visitors outshot Wayne State 11-3 in the opening half and scored twice in a nine-minute stretch midway through the half to take a 2-0 lead at the break.

UNK scored in the 75th minute to take a commanding lead, but Wayne State averted the shutout when Bryana Garcia got a pass from Hayley Hunter and put it home for the Wildcats' only goal. UNK scored in the closing seconds to finish the scoring.

UNK outshot Wayne State 16-10, including an 8-4 advantage in shots on goal. Josie Brown had six shots, two of them coming on goal. Kylie Comba took the loss in goal, making four saves.

In their NSIC opener Sunday at the Wayne State Pitch, Augustana scored early in the second half and tacked on a late one in the closing minutes to post a 2-0 win.

The Wildcats held the Vikings scoreless in the first half after Augustana outshot Wayne State 10-5, but Augustana broke through in the fourth minute of the second half on a score by Courtney Allen. With just over five minutes left, Samantha Tymkowitz added the insurance goal to give the Vikings the shutout win.

Augustana had a 22-12 advantage in shots in the contest. Christina Stasi, Carys Hund and Brooke Buzzell each had two shots for the Wildcats. Comba had nine saves in goal.

Wayne State, 0-2-2 overall and 0-1 in the NSIC, plays at No. 20 Winona State on Saturday and at Upper Iowa on Sunday. Kickoff for both contests is at 1 p.m.

you your money's worth this season, and this team has a never-say-die attitude and they really stayed together and played hard," he said. "We lost Thorin McBride to a broken ankle in this game, and the kids really rallied around him and played this one for him."

Payten Gamble led the team in receptions with five catches for 28 yards, while Ryan Jaixen had three for 38 yards. Bowers was 11-for-18 for 84 yards on the night.

Defensively, Davie led the team with 13.5 total tackles, Cole Koenig had nine tackles and an interception, and Jorge Vergara had six tackles and an interception. Pecena also had a pickoff as Wayne forced three Arlington turnovers.

The Blue Devils got back on the road Friday to face Columbus Lakeview, who got their first win Friday over Kearney Catholic.

"They're one of those unsung rivals and the kids really get up for games like that," Bear said. "We're going to have a great week of practice, and winning is contagious so hopefully we can keep that going and give everything we've got against Lakeview."

Loss to Duluth costly, Allen Osborn lost for season

DULUTH, Minn. - Wayne State lost more than a football game Saturday night.

The Wildcats were overrun by the ninth-ranked Minnesota Duluth Bulldogs at Malosky Stadium, but the 48-7 final count was more painful considering the Wildcats will play the rest of the season without their starting quarterback.

Junior signal caller Zach Osborn went down at the end of the second series with a broken hand, the result of hitting a helmet as he followed through on a pass. The loss of Osborn, coach Dan McLaughlin said, is a part of the game and a challenge his team will need to overcome.

"There were something like eight Div. I quarterbacks who were lost the first week of the season, and it's happened to us now," he said. "It's going to be tough, but we'll pick it up and move on. Taylor Reedy came in and played pretty well and didn't lose his composure."

Reedy was 19-of-39 for 165 yards and threw a fourth-quarter score to Ryan Ludlow for the Wildcats' only score of the night. The Wildcats, after racking up more than 600 yards in a 42-point blowout of Minnesota Crookston a week ago, were limited to 300 yards in total offense by the Bulldogs.

Duluth scored on each of their first three possessions in the opening period to build a 22-0 lead, extending it to 32-0 by intermission. Their first three scores came after drives of 72, 75 and 91 yards, and the Bulldog defense never let Wayne State get in the game after that.

Wayne State came out in the second half with one of their best drives of the night, moving the ball 50 yards in 10 plays before it stalled out at the Duluth 23-yard line. The Reedy-to-Ludlow connection in the fourth capped Wayne State's best drive of the game, a nine-play, 60-yard drive.

Ludlow led the Wayne State ground attack with 66 yards on 11 carries, while Lane Yates added 38 yards on six tries. Nick Roth led the receiving corps with 62 yards on five catches and Ludlow added 26 yards on four grabs. Jonathan Parks also had four grabs for 25 yards.

Defensively, Nate Kroupa led the charge with 10 tackles and Jon Davis added eight.

Wayne State, 1-1, is back home this weekend for a 6 p.m. battle with Northern State at Cunningham Field in Memorial Stadium.

Big third quarter keys Trojan triumph at Winnebago Friday

WINNEBAGO – Wakefield's offense exploded in the second half, turning an exciting game into a one-sided affair as the visiting Trojans handled Winnebago, 62-28.

The Trojans matched the Indians in the first half, as Daniel Nuno scored on a 29-yard run and Isaac Camarena hooked up with Julio Sanchez on a 15-yard scoring strike to make it 14-14 at intermission.

Nuno's 36-yard run midway through the third period started a 46-point scoring barrage between the two teams. Winnebago took the lead briefly on a long touchdown pass and a two-point conversion, but the Trojans came back and scored three times in a two-minute span to turn a two-point deficit into an 18-point advantage and never looked back.

Nuno and Noah Lamprecht each scored a pair of touchdowns in Wakefield's 32-point second period, and Camarena added a short touchdown run of his own to give Wakefield a 46-28 advantage. They put the game out of reach in the fourth quarter with scoring runs by Nuno and Lamprecht to get their first win of the season.

Nuno had a big night for the Trojans, finishing with a career-high 223 yards on 20 carries and four touchdowns scored. Lamprecht added 78 yards on 11 carries with three scores, and Camarena had 86 yards rushing on eight tries, running for one score and throwing for another.

The Trojans play Friday at Neligh-Oakdale.

Wildcats fall short at St. Mary's

O'NEILL – Winside tried matching O'Neill St. Mary's on the scoreboard, but the Cardinals were able to do the visitors one better in an exciting 32-24 gridiron battle Friday in O'Neill.

The Wildcats trailed 8-0 before Marcos Escalera scored on runs of 55 and 41 yards to give the visitors a 16-8 advantage. St. Mary's scored twice later in the period, but the Wildcats evened the score on a 34-yard touchdown pass from Brandon Watters to Escalera, making it 24-24 at intermission.

The defenses kept the game tied going into the fourth quarter when St. Mary's scored on a short touchdown run to take the lead for good. Winside was able to move the ball deep in St. Mary's territory late in the game, but could not find the end zone as they fell to 0-3 on the season.

Escalera rushed for 118 yards on 11 carries and caught two balls for 42 yards to lead the Winside effort. Watters was 4-for-9 passing for 46 yards and also rushed for 24 yards on seven carries.

Defensively, Watters led the team with eight total tackles, and Chase Magwire and Isaiah Muhs each had 7.5 stops. Roy Bullard had 6.5 and Caleb Dwinnell had six.

Winside is home for homecoming this week, hosting Elkhorn Valley Friday at 7 p.m. at Winch Memorial Field.

Trying to keep up with sports

Well, last Saturday's game was sure a lot more fun to watch than the first one. But, even after the first one, a friend commented that it was nice NOT to see someone ranting and raving and yelling on the side lines. I had to agree. This guy Riley is almost too nice to be true! He reminds you of another coach we had once, a true gentleman. And, he had the team going "Hip, hip, hooray" in the locker room, even if they did feel kind of silly doing it. Sometimes, silly is good.

By: Pat Meierhenry

I read the book, Nebrasketball, about Tim Miles, a couple of weeks ago. There is another guy who likes silly, although his side line demeanor is different than that of Coach Riley. I do wish all coaches would remember it's supposed to be fun. Or, as Tom O used to say, "It's about the journey."

their league, and then started losing games! Even with Alex Gordon's help, they don't seem able to get out of their slump. (Even with the Big

It keeps us hopping to keep up with all our teams! The Royals got way ahead of the other teams in Famer watching, and also trying to help!)

We like to keep track of the Wayne State teams, especially since we saw Katie Hughes and Liz Gebhardt play HS volleyball.

Then, there is the softball team at Norris, and they are also struggling. There are a lot of good teams in their conference, and in their district. Dani is third base, and bats third. Since her boyfriend plays football there, we have to at least check those scores.

We watched Lutheran High Northeast beat their first football game on the computer, courtesy of the Norfolk Daily. And last week, they featured the volleyball team as they whipped Norfolk Catholic, so we got to see that. Jace had some good digs, and a couple of Ace serves. We don't get to see Jaxson playing the junior high football games.

And, of all things, one daughter and her husband are Cardinal fans! The Cubs beat them last week; what is the world coming to???

A neighbor's great niece majored in piano performance at Oklahoma U, and they drove down there to hear her senior recital. Her Dad, their nephew, recommended a hotel that was near the concert hall called Sooner Legends. They had a lovely suite, two rooms and a bath, and the walls were COVERED with photos of a real "Sooner Legend", Barry Switzer! Eighteen in all! It was kind of creepy, actually, but we all got a good laugh.

Which brings me back to silly, and laughter, and fun! Winning is more fun than the alternative, we all know that, but I hope they are all having fun. And I pray that no one gets hurt. It's fall, the boys of summer are playing ball; bring on the Hurricanes!

Northeast Community College to host training seminar for leaders

Northeast Community College will host a three-day seminar this month to provide law enforcement leaders with a training opportunity that can help develop more effective work groups and teams.

The Leadership through Understanding Human Behavior seminar will be held Tuesday, Sept. 22, through Thursday, Sept. 24, in the Lifelong Learning Center.

"Participants who attend this training will develop a better understanding of themselves, interpersonal dynamics and how their strengths, weaknesses, and roles within work groups and teams affect a mission's outcome," he said. "They will also learn how to adapt and capitalize on each other's strengths in order to have more effective mission outcomes."

The Federal Law Enforcement Training Centers provide tuition-free and low cost training to state, local, campus, tribal and territorial law enforcement agencies. The advanced training programs and workshops offered are developed with the advice, assistance and support of federal, state, local, tribal and campus law enforcement agencies and experts. Training is continuously updated to ensure accuracy and relevance to today's issues and is certified by each state's Peace Officer's Standards and Training if/when certification is available.

McCarthy said the training at Northeast is open to sworn state, local and/or tribal law enforcement officers.

Officers interested in attending may call (800) 743-5382 or McCarthy at (402) 844-7345.

Cow-calf meeting scheduled

With the high cattle prices and falling feed costs seen over the past two years, many cow-calf producers have had some of their best years ever. But cattle numbers are rebuilding, and it doesn't take long for weather, pastures, and markets to go the opposite direction. Nebraska Extension is presenting a workshop that helps cow-calf producers evaluate their current situation and become more familiar with tools that can help them manage some of the risks they face.

This workshop, "Managing the Cow Herd with Today's Uncertainty," will be held Tuesday, Sept. 22 at the UNL Haskell Ag Lab, one mile east of Concord. Sign-in begins at 4 p.m., and the program will run between 4:30 and 8 p.m. with supper provided.

While attendance is free, pre-registration is required to provide a head count for the meal and program materials. To reserve a spot, you must call Nebraska Extension Dixon Co. at (402) 584-2234 by Monday, Sep. 21.

Don't get me started

So close to suicide; thankful I'm alive

Three hours. One drink. Two steps. That's all that has stood between me and committing suicide at different stages in my life.

Last week was National Suicide Prevention Week, which has helped to raise awareness about suicide prevention. The week was centered around World Suicide Prevention Day, held this past Thursday, Sept. 10.

There are countless reasons one can point to when they ponder suicide. It has become more prevalent today because of Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder, a disease common among fighting soldiers who come home from battle dealing with the trauma of war, as well as those who – like myself – suffered some form of physical, emotional or sexual abuse during their lives.

I've been on the brink of suicide on three different occasions in my life. As I look back on the events that led to those moments, I'm thankful that, somehow, a higher power had stepped in to stop me – though I still, to this day, sometimes wonder why.

The first came when I was just out of high school. I had fallen in love with a girl who was beautiful, talented and did things to my heart that few other women have been able to accomplish since then (I believe the disease is known as "first love"). The problem was – her parents didn't think I was good enough for their daughter, and made it clear that I was to never see her again.

When it became apparent that my first love was being taken away from me, I reacted in a violent manner and was prepared to take my own life. Fortunately, my best friend happened to be at the house when it happened, and he all but hog-tied me and threw me in his car, driving me around town for three hours until I finally had calmed down. It took me a long time to get over that loss, and it was around that time that I had discovered alcohol as a very effective tool in numbing the pain that I was feeling.

Years later, it was another woman who broke my heart and sent me to the brink. My ex-wife and I were in the middle of divorce proceedings, and I was enjoying a night out with friends when I began drinking – and drinking – and drinking – to the point where I thought I was feeling absolutely nothing.

We were at a driving range hitting golf balls, and from out of nowhere I heard a voice tell me that I needed to go home – now. Despite being in no shape to drive, I made my way to my car, drove home and stumbled into my apartment. On the way home, the voice said it was time to end the pain, and I was going to slash my wrists and end it all right there in the kitchen.

Thankfully (and this might be the only time where too much alcohol was a good thing), I'd had one drink too many and never made it to the kitchen. I wound up heaving my guts out in the bathroom, and managed to call my dad to tell him I wanted to kill myself. He came over and spent the night watching over me, making sure that I would be OK and not follow through on my threat.

The last time came almost 10 years ago, and is something I talk about in my book "Call Me A Survivor" that I wrote a few years ago about my life as a survivor of sexual assault.

The combination of the memory of abuse, loneliness, mounting debt and personal and professional disappointments led me to the decision that I needed to end the suffering. I walked to the edge of the Missouri River and was literally two steps away from drowning in its dark, murky waters. As I watched the river roll by, I heard a voice ask how family members would have to explain my death to my children. I couldn't bear the thought of my two girls never being able to have that question answered, which led me to walk away from the attempt.

I have since realized, in the years after that experience, that it would have been the ultimate failure as a parent to commit suicide. I had – and still have – so much to offer them as a parent (and, now, a grandparent), and the pain I was feeling at the time would have paled in comparison to what they would experience, knowing that I was going but never knowing why.

To this day, I face the devil known as depression. My life is nowhere near perfect and there are issues I continue to deal with every day that make me confront my emotional state of mind. Most days are good – some days, I have to work hard just to keep depression from getting the better of me. I have chosen not to medicate myself and face the demon head-on, relying on friends, meditation, the Bible and a variety of self-help methods to keep me on the plus side of the ledger.

According to a recent study, almost 113 people commit suicide every day in the United States – almost five people every hour. It knows no boundaries in age, gender, race or social status – even famous people like Robin Williams have committed suicide.

I used to joke (at least, I THOUGHT it was at the time) that I'd never live to see 30, or even 40. Eight months from today, I plan on celebrating my 50th birthday – and am so grateful that God has helped me make it to this point in my life. No matter how difficult things might be, suicide is never the correct final answer, and I'm so glad now that I never followed through.

NOTE: If you or someone you know or love is contemplating suicide, call the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline at 800-273-TALK (8255).

How Nebraska rates is a great tool

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

These are tough times for Nebraskans. It's football season and the home team is NOT ranked in national polls. In fact, that same team lost the home opener for the first time since God created football. What's a loyal Cornhusker to do?

Well, never fear. Governor Pete – I'm going to run government more like a business – Ricketts has stepped in to save the day. His recently unveiled "How Nebraska Ranks" webpage provides enough statistical evidence about the good things to make Nebraskans proud to live here. It exposes enough of the not-so-good to give critics reason to grumble. It shows enough of the "Middle 30" rankings to give everyone something to aspire to.

For those of you who can't bring yourselves to chant "Go Big Red" – yes, there are some and they have been identified and are reportedly under surveillance – or get excited about football, there is an alternative. For those of you who still feel that "Nebraska Nice" is a lame excuse for a slogan to entice people to visit the state, there is more meat on the bone. For those of you who are trivia buffs, dig deep and enjoy. "How Nebraska Ranks" is for all of you.

Ricketts said the page is a natural outgrowth of applying business principles in state government by starting to measure performance, improve operational excellence, and build a customer-friendly culture. In applying these principles, we have set metrics for agency performance and created job descriptions for cabinet-level positions. While measuring the performance of individual agencies is important to improve their outcomes, it is also important to measure the performance of the State of Nebraska as a whole. Just like with state agencies, measuring performance helps all Nebraskans know where we can build on our strengths and where the state has room for improvement in five key categories: jobs and economic development; education and workforce development; fiscal strength; public safety; and health and welfare.

If you are interested, go ahead and dive-in to the page at www.governor.nebraska.gov/statistics. The rankings are easy to understand and well explained. The graphics are helpful and clearly show the good, the bad and the ugly. My favorite feature, each of the categories has a simple explanation that pops up when clicked.

Quick, what is Labor Force Participation and how does that differ from unemployment rate? The website explains that it is the percent of people 16 or older who are employed or looking for work. The pool does not include people who are institutionalized or in the Armed Forces. For the record, Nebraska has the lowest unemployment rate at 2.7

percent and one of the top 10 labor force participation rates at 69.6 percent. Simply put, Nebraskans either are working or want to work and there are jobs available.

Ricketts said Nebraska has invested deeply in education, and it shows with the nearly 90 percent high school graduation rate and the highest ACT composite score average for states testing over 80 percent of their students. Nebraska also rates in the Top 10 for overall health ranking based on outcomes and determinants in 22 categories selected by a group called America's Health Rankings.

Nebraska ranks in the Bottom 10 with an employment growth rate of .2 percent. That's the rate at which the economy is filling new jobs and may be somewhat linked to another Bottom 10 of average annual wage which is $43,524. That is the average annual wage for all industries in the private sector in Nebraska based on figures from quarterly reports to the Nebraska Department of Labor.

Nebraska ranks in the Middle 30 for: per capita income, $47,073; Poverty rate, 13.2 percent of all Nebraskans are living in poverty; growth in real Gross Domestic Product, .75 percent. That's the percent growth in output from all of the state's industries.

Take a peek at this new webpage. If the numbers don't float your boat, you might enjoy the wallpaper photo of Carhenge up close. I personally like the 62 Valiant at the left edge of the screen and the Chevy Vega wagon on the right side. Carhenge, another one of those things that makes Nebraska rate.

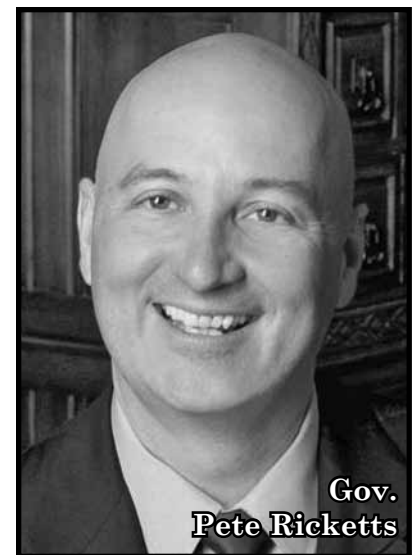

From the Governor's desk

Youth initiative fostering partnerships

As I travel the state, ag producers, manufacturers, and small business owners tell me that one of their greatest barriers to growing their operations is recruiting the right talent with the right skills. The center-pivot industry needs irrigation technicians. Manufacturers face a shortage of welders. IT companies are looking for a broader pool of developers and programmers. To address these challenges, we must always be expanding educational opportunities for young Nebraskans and exposing them to the great career possibilities available to them right here in our state. Introducing our young people to these opportunities early on can help them make Nebraska their home as they look for a place to live, work, and raise a family in the coming years.

To this end, I announced the creation of the Nebraska Developing

Gov. Pete Ricketts

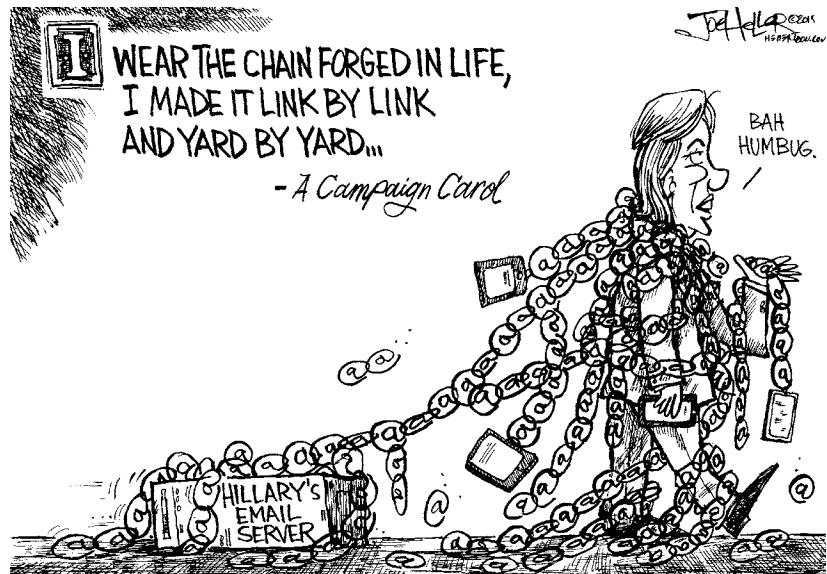

Youth Talent Initiative (NDYTI) in my State of the State address earlier this year. This program will foster partnerships between private industry and public schools that will connect young Nebraskans in 7th and 8th grade to careers in the manufacturing and technology sectors. Through this initiative, the Nebraska Department of Economic Development is providing grants to two businesses per year in the upcoming school years. A few days ago, I announced that Flowserve Corporation of Hastings and Hollman Media, LLC of Kearney received the first two grants.

Both companies are launching great programs in partnership with their local public school districts. Flowserve Corporation is the head of a group of businesses in the Hastings area working in collaboration with Hastings Public Schools and Central Community College. Through their partnership, they are expanding programming that will help create awareness about the kinds of jobs available in the manufacturing industry in the Hastings area and the skills necessary to take those jobs. With the help of the NDYTI grant, they will be able to reach middle school students with curriculum that includes basic instruction in welding, construction, transportation logistics, and design and engineering.

In Kearney, Hollman Media, LLC will expose more than 1,000 students to careers in IT annually through their partnership with Kearney Public Schools. In 6th grade, the program will allow students to use existing software to create simple programs of action. At the 7th grade level, they will facilitate entrepreneurial problem-solving experiences through technology such as LEGO robotics and laser engravers. By the time they reach 8th grade, students will learn basic software development using applications such as the Android App Maker. Students can continue to pursue the interests they have developed through their middle school years in a related Kearney High School program.

Other schools are taking action, and starting their own programs to provide young Nebraskans with new opportunities and address local workforce needs. For example, York High School, in conjunction with Reinke Manufacturing and Central Valley Ag, launched a new program that will allow students to earn an irrigation technician, agricultural chemical applicator, or diversified agriculture certificate from the Nebraska College of Technical Agriculture. All these programs are great examples of how we can help expand educational and career opportunities for the next generation of Nebraskans across our state. Throughout my administration, I will continue to open up new opportunities for our young people. If you have questions or ideas of your own, please contact my office at pete.ricketts@nebraska.gov or by calling (402) 471-2244. I look forward to hearing from you.

Keeping teams, clubs motivated

As we are starting into another 4-H year, the teachings of many business skills may also prove relevant in the club realm. Learning how to motivate is now one of the most relevant and essential skills leaders can possess in today's ever-changing society. Before the 1980s, good leadership was usually synonymous with assertive decision-making. Leaders were celebrated for their courage and risk-taking when shaping strategies. Those times have changed. Today, leaders must go beyond the day-to-day operations and "tough decisions." Leaders in today's society are expected to be social scientists and the great leaders of today and tomorrow are those gifted individuals who have mastered the art of motivation. The ability to understand people and to be able to tap into their respective motives is the skills that make the difference in today's society.

Stanton County

What about making good decisions and tough choices? These are still central to what leaders must do, but today the leader's job doesn't stop there. Once the decisions have been made, today's leaders must be able to motivate others to accept and embrace organizational decisions.

What separates exceptional leaders from ordinary leaders is the ability to inspire and motivate people. There are five unique sources of motivation:

- FUN
- REWARDS
- REPUTATION
- CHALLENGE
- PURPOSE

Each of the five sources requires different organizational and leadership characteristics to tap into them. Exceptional leaders will find ways to tap into each source. Those who tap into just one or two will motivate only a small percentage of others and be less effective. However, leaders who understand the different ways that individuals are motivated will be able to effectively motivate their club members. Here are 10 ideas for leaders to consider when motivating others.

Find out which tasks are the favorites of those you work with.

Find ways to assign more of the tasks they enjoy and fewer of the ones they don't like to do.

Create rewards (less output = less reward, more output = more reward).

Give encouragement and mentor good decision making and leadership skills.

Give leaders and members lots of positive feedback about the way they are performing and working together.

Give praise in front of other people.

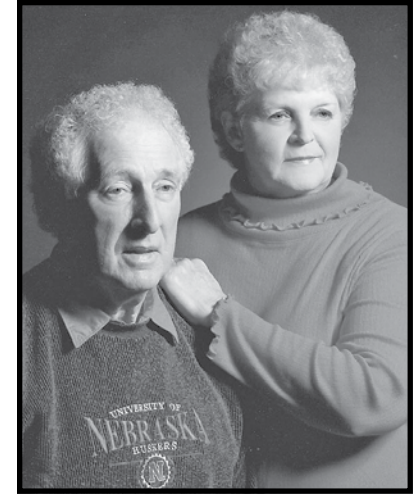

Stay out of their way and let them do the work if they know how to do it.

Assign tasks that require their skills and talents.

Communicate the purpose of tasks that are being assigned.

Make sure the club has a vision and mission that it is pursuing.

Visiting classmate

On the morning of Aug. 16, John, an employee of the Willow Brook Assisted Living Home in York, was busy helping Lorraine Meyer Stansberry, a resident of the facility, get ready for several unexpected guests. Three of her high school classmates, Hollis Frese, Ruth Victor and Pat Straight, and Nancy Powers (widow of classmate Dick Powers) were coming from Wayne to visit their classmate. They had just taken part in their 68th class reunion and were going to update Lorraine on her friends' latest news. The Wayne women were attired in bright blue and white Wayne Blue Devil T-shirts, and brought one for Lorraine to wear also. Lorraine's daughter, Konda, had made arrangements for the women to eat lunch at the facility. They were joined by Lorraine's husband, Jim. The Stansberrys will celebrate their 64th wedding anniversary in December.

Grace Lutheran Ladies' Aid meets Sept. 9

On Sept. 9, President Rhonda Sebade welcomed 16 members, Pastor Feldmann and two guests, Theresa Tiedtke and Karen Temme to the Grace Lutheran Ladies Aid meeting.

The LWML Pledge was recited in unison. Vice-President Ellen Heinemann gave the devotional about Back to School: how articles purchased for our children can become ways to remind them of God. Erasers, pencils, rulers, glue and crayons are just more than supplies.

Mites were collected as President Sebade shared information about the Grant for Clean Water and Evangelism Ministry, who will purchase, ship and administer a 99 percent effective sustainable water filtration system to 568 families and reach over 5,000 with the Gospel.

The Secretary's Report, given by Louise Green, was approved as read. Correspondence included a newsletter from Ryan Janke, seminarian, a thank you from Orphan Grain Train and an invitation from Our Savior Lutheran Church regarding their Guest Night. Barb Greve gave the Treasurer's Report, which was filed for review.

Committee Reports included: Sewing: On Aug. 27, eight people tied seven large and small quilts. Next work day will be on Sept. 24.

Visiting: Mary Janke visited Brookdale, CareAge, Wakefield and Norfolk. Ellen Heinemann sent many cards.

Missions: Confirmands secret pal names were drawn and L.I.F.T. will take the remaining names. It was approved to have Mary purchase the confirmand gifts.

Seminary student: LaVon Biermann will write this month.

Gift: Ellen and Eldon Heinemann will celebrate 50 years of marriage and were given a white cross. The group neglected to give Pastor Mike and Jessica a gift when Heath was born. A decision will be made during coffee.

Old Business included:

Mrs. Heinemann reported that with the Wrap-Up Event held between services on Aug. 30 the Aid finished the remaining convention ingathering gifts. Total given: 72 filled school backpacks, 57 personal hygiene kits, plus $250 for shipping. These, along with 12 pillowcase dresses made by Ruth Victor, were delivered to Orphan Grain Train. Ellen stated that the outstanding generosity of the Congregation as well as the $250 grant from Thrivent made this a very successful ingathering.

LWML District North T-shirts are available; information is available in the summer Leaguer.

It was approved to give a $100 WalMart gift card for the ingathering at the Fall retreat to be held at Mission Central, Mapleton, Iowa on Oct. 24.

New Business included:

LWML Sunday will be observed on Oct. 4. Greeters and readers volunteered as well as two ladies from L.I.F.T. to present a skit about Mite Boxes. Mary Janke will provide flowers for the altar.

Tuesday, Oct. 13 is the date for the Fall Rally to be held at St. John's in Wakefield with the convention theme "Bountiful! Sow, Nourish, Reap." Delegate Jolene Kramer will give a report on the convention. Although the ingathering has not been decided yet, the Aid approved a $50 gathering donation for the event.

Theresa Tiedtke from L.I.F.T. announced that they will be doing the Cookie Walk again (tentatively on Dec. 5) without the gift wrapping event. The gift wrapping left over was donated to St. Mary's Catholic Church for their event. A garage sale in the spring is being planned so all were asked to save their unwanted items.

Pastor Mike gave the Bible Study on President Harrison's article in the latest Lutheran Witness entitled "Where is your God?"

After the Lord's Prayer and the Table Prayer, dessert was served by Joann Temme. Next month's hostess will be Ruth Victor and the meeting will be held at Brookdale.

Peace Prayer Walk is Sept. 21

The Nebraska Synod Justice Committee invites people across Nebraska to join together in prayers for peace on International Peace Day, Monday, September 21.

The Wayne Peace Prayer Walk will start at 7 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 21 at the Willow Bowl at Wayne State College and proceed down Main Street to Victor Park and back again. (A total of approximately 2 miles.) Those who are unable to join the walk are asked to consider joining in prayer from where they are.

Those attending are encouraged to bring prayers, readings or quotes to share during the walk.

The Nebraska ELCA Synod Justice Committee has designated the entire week of Sept. 21-27 as International Peace Week and asks for prayers for peace to join others with this special focus.

The walk is geared toward:

- Have you found yourself concerned by the increase in violence and racial unrest in our country?

Peace

- Do you feel helpless to do anything about it?

You are not helpless. You have the greatest tool available to combat this violence and hatred and that is Prayer!

And he said to them, "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind. This is the great and first commandment. And a second is like it, You shall love your neighbor as yourself." - Matthew 22: 37-39

Methodist church to host screening for Bone and Joint Awareness Month

A woman's risk of breaking a hip is equal to her risk of developing breast cancer, uterine and ovarian cancer combined, according to the National Osteoporosis Foundation website.

This is why First United Methodist Church is hosting Life Line Screening, the nation's leading provider of preventive health screenings on Thursday, Oct. 8.

The screenings provided include an ultrasound of the heel, which is a first-rung osteoporosis risk test.

This is an important test to take during October, a month dedicated to recognizing bone and joint disorders such as osteoporosis.

Screenings include tests to check for blocked carotid arteries, atrial fibrillation, and high blood pressure, which are the three leading risk factors for stroke. Nearly 800,000 strokes will occur this year, taking a life approximately every four minutes.

Other tests check for abdominal aortic aneurysms and PAD, also called "hardening of the arteries" in the legs. Many events also offer blood tests, including cholesterol, glucose and c-reactive protein screenings, as well as take-home colon cancer early detection tests.

Screening packages start at $139. Single tests cost around $70.

For more information regarding the screenings or to schedule an appointment, call (888) 653-6441. Pre-registration is required.

ters requesting a name change to VFW Auxiliary. Excerpts from the September 2015 "Batter Up!" were presented and included the transition to VFW Auxiliary and a reminder to fly the flag on Sept. 11 and Sept. 18.

All members are reminded that the 2015-2016 membership dues should be paid as soon as possible.

Those members present at the Sept. 4 pillow cleaning were Glennadine Barker, Darlene Draghu, Eveline Thompson and Verna

Mae Baier. Also assisting were Brittany Wurdeman and Harold Thompson.

A contribution will be made to the Health & Happiness Fund.

Members will be assisting at a Bingo Party at the Norfolk Veterans Home on Sept. 19.

Amanda Nipp (center), dean of enrollment management at Northeast Community College, holds the letter notifying the College it will receive a $1.1 million Federal TRIO grant. The grant will allow Northeast to serve and assist low-income individuals, first-generation college students, and individuals with disabilities to progress through the academic pipeline from middle school to post-baccalaureate programs. Other members of the TRIO grant writing team include (from left) Michela Keeler-Strom, dean of institutional planning and effectiveness, Faye Kilday, dean of humanities arts and social sciences, Connie Sixta, grants coordinator, and Julie Melnick, director of institutional research.

Grant helps Northeast CC assist students facing education challenges

Northeast Community College has received a federal grant that is designed to provide individualized support and assistance to students who may have faced challenges in completing their education.

At a meeting of the Northeast Board of Governors here this week, Dr. Michael Chipps, President, announced that the U.S. Department of Education has awarded Northeast a Federal TRIO grant, which will consist of $220,000 during the first year that began September 1, with the total five-year amount projected at more than $1.1 million.

TRIO includes eight programs, including Student Support Services (SSS), targeted to serve and assist low-income individuals, first-generation college students, and individuals with disabilities to progress through the academic pipeline from middle school to post-baccalaureate programs. TRIO also includes a training program for directors and staff of TRIO projects.

"Acquiring the TRIO grant is founded on the excellent work of a host of professionals at Northeast who continually work to serve students who experience roadblocks in their educational journey often through no fault of their own," said Chipps. "Special commendation is extended to this team who researched and compiled the information to support the grant application. The receipt of these funds comes at the most opportune time as the College implements its major goals to be fulfilled in our new five-year strategic plan, which highlights student success and student access."

Northeast is one of the colleges and universities selected through a competitive process to receive grants through the U.S. Department of Education for the TRIO Student Support Services Program. Funds are awarded to colleges and universities to provide opportunities for academic development, assist students with basic college requirements, and to motivate students toward the successful completion of their postsecondary education. The goal of this special student support is to increase student retention and graduation rates.

Amanda Nipp, dean of enrollment management at Northeast, said the College will be able to serve 140 students through the TRIO grant.

"Northeast can now provide targeted services to students who are challenged by low-income, first-generation status, and/or a disability. The additional services will strengthen persistence, academic success, graduation, and transfer to four-year institutions. This project will increase current services such as tutoring, advising, financial aid application and planning assistance, career services, and cultural experiences," Nipp said.

New services will also be added for Student Support Services participants including a College and Career Readiness Boot Camp, a kick-off event for new SSS students, a first-year seminar, a first-year Academic Learning Community, success coaching, intrusive advising, supplemental instruction, and student success workshops to improve financial literacy, digital literacy, and non-cognitive skills. A host of institutional staff members and other entities have committed to assisting this project with a myriad of support resources and services.

The grant also includes funding for the hiring of a project director and an advisor.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln's 299-member Cornhusker Marching Band made its 2015 debut Saturday at Memorial Stadium with pregame and halftime performances at Nebraska's football season opener against Brigham Young University.

Among those who are a part of this year's Marching Band is Sawyer Jager of Wayne, who plays the trumpet. He is a senior computer engineering major.

This year's band includes representatives from nearly every region of the country, however, 78 percent of the students are from Nebraska. Twenty-five percent of the students are music majors. The rest are studying in more than 60 other degree programs across campus. Each band member passed two auditions to gain admittance to the group.

Anthony M. Falcone, associate director of bands in the Glenn Korff School of Music, is the director of the Cornhusker Marching Band. Douglas W. Bush is the assistant director of bands and assistant marching band director. Carolyn Barber, Hixson-Lied Professor of Music, is director of bands. Other band staff members are graduate teaching assistants A. J. Burgess, Bradley Nelsen and Melanie Settle. Cory Davis is the percussion instructor and Ashlea Jurgens-Woitzel is the color guard instructor.

Rose Johnson is the administrative technician, Jan Deaton is the office associate, and Nolan Schmit is the "voice" of the band.

The Cornhusker Marching Band, which resides in the Korff School, was founded in 1879 as an ROTC unit and is one of the oldest marching bands in the nation. The marching band has received many honors throughout its 136-year history, including a Distinguished Recognition Trophy presented by John Philip Sousa in 1927 and the John Philip Sousa Foundation's Sudler Trophy in 1996 for high musical standards and innovative marching routines. The Sudler Trophy is the highest honor given to collegiate bands.

The Pride of All Nebraska has been seen by millions of viewers on television including in 2005, when the band was featured on the NBC primetime series "Tommy Lee Goes to College," in 2007 on ABC's "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition," and in 2008 in the motion picture "Yes Man" starring Jim Carrey. The band was the first collegiate ensemble to perform at all of the major football bowl games (Rose, Orange, Fiesta, Sugar and Cotton). The full marching band will travel to the Nebraska at Illinois game on Oct. 3.

REAP grants are due Oct. 31

The next deadline for Renewable Energy for America Program (REAP) grants is Oct. 31, 2015.

This deadline for grant applications has designated funding for small projects requesting $20,000 or less (25 percent of total eligible project costs). Grant requests for this round have a simplified, streamlined process and can be as low as $2,500 for renewable energy projects and $1,500 for energy efficiency projects. All agricultural producers, including farmers and ranchers, who derive 50 percent or more of their gross income from agricultural operations are eligible. Businesses in a rural area, meeting the Small Business Administration size standards, may also apply. A private entity, a rural utility, and rural electric cooperatives are typically eligible, however non-profit and public bodies are not eligible.

USDA Rural Development provides financial assistance in the form of grants and guaranteed loans to agricultural producers and rural small businesses to purchase renewable energy systems or make energy efficiency improvements through the REAP. This program provides funds for the purchase and installation of renewable energy systems and to make energy-efficiency improvements. The renewable energy projects range from installation of solar, geothermal, wind, and biomass; and energy efficiency improvements to irrigation systems, poultry houses, upgrading air conditioning, lighting and refrigeration systems.

Applications are due by 4:30 p.m. on Oct. 31, 2015. Please contact Jeff Carpenter, State Energy Coordinator, at the Nebraska USDA Rural Development State Office, Suite 308, Federal Building 100 Centennial Mall North Lincoln, Neb., 68508, call (402) 437-5554 or e-mail jeff.carpenter@ne.usda.gov.

The next funding deadline will be April 30, 2016 for projects of any size with maximum grants limited to $500,000 for renewable energy projects and $250,000 for energy efficiency projects (25 percent of total eligible project costs). Any eligible applications not funded during the October 31, 2015 funding cycle will be reconsidered.
