Green Team, parking request on Council docket

Representatives of the Wayne Green Team discussed recycling efforts in town and shared an award with the Wayne City Council during Tuesday's meeting.

Sandy Brown and Lois Shelton, representing the Wayne Green Team, gave a short presentation on the group's efforts to get the community more involved in recycling and waste reduction efforts in Wayne, work that resulted in the group recently being awarded the WasteCap Nebraska Green Team of the Year.

"We wanted to share this award with the community and thank the City Council, Mayor (Ken) Chamberlain and the city staff for all their wonderful support, and thank our volunteers for their hard work and to the community for sustaining this effort," Brown said.

The Wayne Green Team has been very active in get-

City Auditorium and the Community Activity Center. They worked with Wayne State College during the end of the school year to get students to find alternatives to throwing away furniture and items such as lamps, encouraging them to sell these items at places like Rustic Treasures. By doing so, the college's end-of-year trash collection dropped by 1 1/2 tons. Recent local efforts by the Green Team to recycle electronics resulted in a 10-ton collection of everything from TV's to computer

Brown said the Green Team wants to work with the city and area trash haulers on efforts to reduce residential waste, stating that the city and trash haulers could implement a "pay per unit" system where those who send out less trash would pay less.

"It makes sense to pay based on how much you use, next to the city's regular trash cans at places like the for the environment and would help save space in our landfill."

> Brown said that similar programs are already in place in Laurel and Carroll, and could be implemented here in Wayne. Shelton, Wayne's former mayor, thanked the City Council and the current mayor for their support, adding "We know (recycling) is not going to be easy, but it will be worth it in the long run."

The Council gave its final approval on a request by Torres Family Restaurant to designate one-hour parking stalls in front of their business at the corner of Second and Logan streets, but Council members warned that, by granting this request, they were opening a Pandora's Box of future requests for one-hour parking in front of downtown businesses.

"I stopped by another business, and the owner there ting the community more involved in waste reduction rather than paying the same amount than a neigh-said he's going to ask for it in front of his business and recycling. Blue cans have been put up all over town bor who might use twice as much," she said. "It's good next," Councilwoman Jennifer Sievers said. "We've opened a can of worms here, and there are going to be more requests coming."

"We have to be prepared," Councilman Matt Eischeid added. "I said this the last time this came up, that this is going to continue and we have to be prepared to say no. We've already granted it once (at the Mineshaft Mall next door to Torres' restaurant) and we're about to grant another one. Eventually, we have to be OK with saying no and deal with the backlash that goes along with it, because that business is going to say how they are being treated differently than the others. It's something the Council has to have an answer to."

Councilman Jason Karsky said that, in the case of the Mineshaft Mall, the one-hour stalls in front of that building serve multiple storefronts located in one grades 3-8 and 11 participate in the Nebraska State Assessment (NeSA) Tests. On Oct. 16, the State of Nebraska released the results of these scores for the 2014-15 school year as part of their annual State of the Schools Report Card.

"We at Laruel-Concord-Coleridge (LCC) School are proud of the efforts of our students and staff as evident by the results on the NeSA Assessments. As a district, we are excited to report that all of our results show a positive trend towards the highest in school history," high school principal Jay

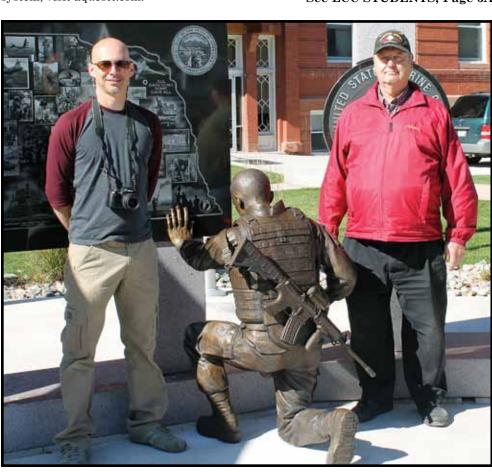

According to the State of the Schools Report, 86 percent of LCC students met or exceeded the state benchmark for Reading. Similarly in math, LCC's performance on the 2014-15 state assessments as a district was 82 percent. In science, the performance was 91 percent; and in writing, the performance was 84 percent.

The State of Nebraska is changing its reporting system for schools. Last year, all Nebraska districts were ranked on a 1-248 scale determined by their performance on all state assessments. Beginning this year, Nebraska is unveiling a new reporting system called AQuESTT (Accountability for a Quality Education System, Today and Tomorrow). Schools will be placed into one of four categories: Excellent, Great, Good, or Needs Improvement. District performance on NeSA Assessments is still included in the ranking, but other factors are also included in the final determination. Those tenants are Positive Partnerships, Relationships and Student Success, Transitions, Education Opportunities and Access, College and Career Ready, Assessment, and Educator

The state is scheduled to release its final classification of schools and districts under

Security upgrades at courthouse noted

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

Members of a security committee in the Wayne County Courthouse discussed upgrading security in the building during Tuesday's County Commissioners meeting.

With concerns about recent incidents of violence in other parts of the country, the committee suggested looking at a 2009 report prepared by a U.S. Marshal that addressed security issues in the 116-year old courthouse building.

"A U.S. Marshal came in and did a survey on the courthouse to see what could be improved and make it more secure for everybody," said Deb Allemann-Dannelly, Clerk of the District Court and a security committee member. "We wanted to bring this before the County Commissioners and see if we want to proceed on this."

Several ideas were expressed during by Clerk Magistrate KimBerly Hansen, Tuesday's meeting, including making the south entrance an exit-only door, putting security cameras in the courtrooms, using hand-held metal detectors and having deputies stand guard at the east entrance to the courthouse when court is in session.

County Sheriff Jason Dwinell said the fact that Wayne County is a rural area doesn't make it any less likely to be the target of a violent act.

"We're not immune or any different from the big city," he said. "There was a shooting at a school in South Dakota last week and you hear about a shooting somewhere about every week. This building was not built with security in mind, and it may be a good idea to have (the U.S. Marshal) come back and do another study."

The possibility of installing security cameras in the courtroom was discussed, but concerns about the use of cameras when certain cases were being heard was raised

Ruth Berglund

Ruth Berglund, 78, of Lincoln, formerly of Wayne, died Thursday, Oct. 15, 2015 in Lincoln.

Services will be held Friday, Oct. 23 at 11 a.m. at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne. The Rev. Mark Beran, the Rev. James F. McCluskey and Deacon Pat Gross will officiate. Visitation will be from 9 a.m. until service time with a rosary service at 10:15 a.m. on Friday, prior to the service. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery in Wayne.

Memorials may be made to St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne and the Alzheimer's Association. Ruth Elizabeth Berglund was born Feb. 4, 1937, in Hartington, to Harry and Hildegard (Bruning) Domina. She began school at St. Patrick's in Havelock, continued her elementary education in Henderson and Las Vegas, Nev. She completed her high school education at Mount Marty High School in Yankton S.D. She married Kenneth Berglund at St. Mary's Catholic Church in West Point on April 3, 1956. Ken's career moved them to several towns across Nebraska and five children were born during their time residing in South Sioux City, Chadron and Broken Bow. They moved to O'Neill in 1968 and then to Wayne in 1979 where Ruth soon began working for People's Natural Gas Co. She also returned to college during their time in Wayne and graduated from Wayne State College. Ruth was involved in many activities through these years and moves, first and foremost the church, and also Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, and the Mrs. Jaycees.

Travel was always a large part of life for Ruth, starting early with trips on the train back and forth from Nevada to school in South Dakota. After starting her own family, there were numerous trips back to Nevada to visit her family that were also camping tours of the west. The station wagon with five kids and the camper trailer visited many national parks. Later she and Ken visited all 50 states, made several trips to Europe, and cruised through the Panama Canal and the Caribbean. She enjoyed the many service projects that they became involved in through the Telephone Pioneers of America. They traveled in several states where she helped work on projects such as building handicapped access facilities at parks, tree planting, and restoration of historic buildings. Always a devoted homemaker and cook, she made the rewards of the fall pheasant hunts into wonderful family gathering meals. As the family grew, one of the great joys of her life became playing with and reading to her grand-

Survivors include her five children, Bradley (Mary) Berglund of Alliance, Cheryl (John) Couch of Carson City, Nev., Jeff (Renee) Berglund of Pierce, Tracey (Darryl) Rouse of Lincoln, and Michael Berglund of Las Vegas, Nev.; 10 grandchildren: Megan, Betsy, Andrew, Morgan, Natasia, Leslie, Aaron, Daniel, Katie, and Alex; four great-grandchildren; four sisters, Donna Jacobs of Reno, Nev., Merelle Taylor of Reno, Nev., Audrey Domina of Sacramento, Calif., and Annette Ruth of Georgetown, Texas.

She was preceded in death by her parents; husband, Ken Berglund, in 2005, sister, Karen O'Neil; and grandson, Jason Berglund.

PMC celebrating Pharmacy Week and American Pharmacists Month

Pharmacy staff at Providence Medical Center is using Pharmacy Week and American Pharmacists Month, Oct. 18-24, to underscore their commitment to patient care.

"Patient care truly is our passion," says Kim Bentjen, PharmD, director of pharmacy at Providence Medical Center.

"Many consumers are not aware that pharmacists play a critical role in preventing medication errors, advising prescribers on the best drug choices, and working directly with patients to ensure they understand how to use their medications safely and effectively," Bentjen said. "Pharmacy Week is a great way to educate the public about how pharmacists can help them get the most benefit from their medicine.

Hospital and health-system pharmacists have been able to take on enhanced patient-care roles because of a number of factors, including the deployment of highly trained, certified technicians and new technologies like robotics that dispense medications. As technology evolves

Sixteen youth from northeast Nebraska ranging in age from 11-15 participated in this year's hunt.

The day began with check-in, followed by a hot dog lunch. During the check-in process, the youth had to show their Hunter Safety Card, which they had obtained by taking a 10-hour course provided free of charge by Nebraska Game and Parks Commission.

After that, the youth picked up their hunting vest, which is theirs to keep, provided courtesy of Nebraska State Council Pheasant Forever and Nebraska Game and Parks Commission. They were also given blaze orange hats provided by the Logan Creek Chapter.

The youth were then split into four groups, and each kid was paired with an adult volunteer "mentor." They took turns throughout the afternoon at six educational

Feels like old times at state tourney

Some thoughts and observations from the state softball tournament and other sports-related festivals on my agenda:

- It was almost like an alumni weekend for me when I made the trip to Hastings for the Nebraska State Softball Championships last

First, my old high school - Milford High - went up against eventual state champion Conestoga in the first round. I didn't get much of a chance to watch the Eagles play, as I was doing double duty for the Norfolk Daily News, but I did get to talk with coach Tom McCann, who had just joined the school district when I worked at the Milford Times back in 1989-90.

I also had an opportunity to interview Twin River coach Renae Van Driel, who Wayne High fans remember from her days as an assistant coach on the Blue Devils' championship teams in 2003-2004. Van Driel was a young college student when I first met her years ago when we both worked at the Norfolk Daily News. She came in on weeknights to take information from area coaches during football and basketball season, so it was a fun – and a little odd – to talk with her in a reporter-coach situation.

- Picking up a copy of the game program for the state softball tournament, I was hoping the NSAA was foreshadowing a sign of things to come this year when I saw a photo of the 2003 Wayne High state championship team in the center of the cover, sandwiched by photos of the 1999 Ralston state championship team and last year's Class C champs from Guardian Angels Cen-

- Speaking of the 2003 championship team, their run to the state title had been the only time in the 23-year history of the tournament that a team had lost its first game and then come back to win six in a row in the double-elimination tour-

The feat was matched this year by Gretna in Class B. The Dragons lost their opener to conference rival Elkhorn South, then eliminated Beatrice, Northwest, Hastings, and top-ranked York before beat Elkhorn South twice to win the title.

During Wayne's first-ever run through the losers bracket to the championship in 2003, they opened with a loss to Cozad, then beat Wahoo, Centennial, Lakeview, Ashland-Greenwood and Fairbury

Of course, they had little problem with the Class C field the following year, shutting out Cozad, Fillmore Central, Lakeview and Ashland-Greenwood, led by the pitching of someone whose name you might recognize - does the name Molly Hill ring a bell?

- Now that softball is over, the attention is on this week's state cross country meet and the hopes that the Wayne High girls will upgrade from last year's runner-up finish to take home the state title. For me, though, the story will be the final race – for the next 6-7 years, anyway – for the Haahr clan

LCC senior Aaron Haahr is running in the state meet for the fourth time this Friday, and he's the last of eight members of the Haahr family to run in the state meet. With two of his brothers running before him, it's taken me some time to be able to write a story about his efforts WITHOUT mistakenly using one of his older brothers' names (Adam, Isaac, Bob, Tom, George, Dave . . . and I think a few of those aren't correct). He's done quite well for himself, though - two medals and a good chance to make it three, matching his older sister, Megan, who won three between 2005-2007.

I've been told the next generation of runners in the Haahr family are still a few years away from putting on the black-and-orange thinclads for the Bears. I'd better start learning their names now, just to get ahead of the curve.

This Friday, Laurel-Concord-Coleridge senior Aaron Haahr will make his fourth trip to Kearney - as an athlete - to compete in the Nebraska State Cross Country Championships.

The pilgrimage to the Kearney Country Club has been a part of Haahr's life almost from the beginning. In fact, with the exception of the 2001 and 2011 state meets, a member of the Haahr family has donned the black-andorange thinclads and competed in the state meet. Eight of Roger and Shirley Haahr's nine children have run in the state cross country meet, accounting for a total of 19 trips since Justin, the second of Haahr's nine kids, first

Wayne State avenged an earlier loss to Augustana this season as the sixth-ranked Wildcats recorded a 21-25, 25-20, 25-21 and 25-18 win Tuesday evening in Sioux Falls, S.D.

After dropping the first set, Wayne State battled back in the second set as junior Michaela Mestl paced the Wildcats with seven kills to help the visitors even the match at one set apiece.

The Wildcats used balanced hitting and stellar defense to win the third set, forcing 11 Viking attack errors and holding Augustana to a .000 attack percentage. The Wildcats caught fire in the fourth set attacking the net, recording 18 kills without an attack error for a .367 percentage to complete the four-set win, with junior Alyssa Frauendorfer recording seven kills

Senior Katie Hughes led a balanced Wildcat attack by also reaching two milestones in the win. The senior had a team-high 15 kills to go with a career-high 33 digs for her 11th double-double of the year. She also moved from sixth to fourth on the career digs list at 1,684, moving past Renee Fuhr (1,683 from 1995-98) and Meredy Dubbs (1,653 from 2005-08) on the all-time digs list at Wayne State.

Mestl added 14 kills, a season-high, and 11 digs for her ninth double-double of the year. Frauendorfer contributed 13 kills with senior rightside hitter Elizabeth Gebhardt adding 11 kills in the win. Courtney Van-Groningen accounted for 22 digs followed by sophomore Bree Ackermann with a season-high 13. Leisa McClintock handed out 46 set assists to go with 10 digs for her fourth double-double of the season.

It was the seventh straight season the Wildcats beat the Vikings in Sioux Falls.

a one-hitter to keep Wayne alive.

Unfortunately, it was the Blue Devils who would be on the wrong end of a one-hit shutout Thursday evening, as Neumann pitcher Jessica Briley pitched 5 2/3 innings of no-hit ball before Hochstein slapped an opposite-field single with two out in the sixth to spoil the no-hit bid.

Neumann challenged Belt early and finally broke through with a four-run third inning. With Briley throwing bullets, she pitched four innings without allowing a baserunner before Schaefer reached on a leadoff error in the fifth.

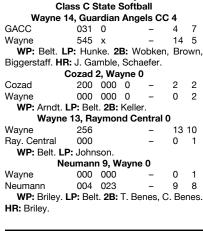

"They got good swings on us early and I knew we'd have to make every single play and not give up any walks," Sweetland said. "When (Briley) is throwing like that, you have to attack that first pitch and not get behind in the count. We watched too many strikes go by and she threw the ball really well.'

It was the final game for Wayne's lone senior, Schaefer, who finished as the school's all-time leading home run hitter and was an outstanding team captain as well.

"I'd take 20 of her if I could," Sweetland said. "She's been an allstar caliber of player the last three years and is just a high-character kid who's always worked hard."

The good news is that the rest of the lineup will be back next year, and with five seniors-to-be on this year's roster, the chances for a return to state look pretty solid.

"It does make a difference having that experience back," Sweetland said. "I thought we had the team to do it this year, but that key game (against Cozad), we didn't get it done and hopefully the girls learn from that. That first win doesn't make you a state champ. It takes three more, and the good thing is there were lot of accomplishments this team had. Not too many teams have what we had this year.'

cluding eight in the final set. Frauendorfer added 10 while Mestl and Alex Opperman each produced six. Mestl led the Wildcats in digs with 15 and had four of Wayne State's five aces while VanGroningen contributed 12 digs. McClintock accounted for 39 set assists.

Hughes had another double-double on Friday with 17 kills and 19 digs to lead the Wildcats to a 25-18, 25-20, 25-18 win at St. Cloud State.

After taking the first two sets, the Wildcats completed the sweep with 15 kills, five coming from both Hughes and Frauendorfer. Wayne State hit .203 for the Hughes was the lone player in the match to record double-digit kills with 17, followed by Frauendorfer and Gebhardt with eight apiece. Mestl and Hughes each recorded 19 digs in the match while Mestl added four of Wayne State's eight service aces. McClintock handed out 35 assists.

Wayne State, 18-3 (10-2 NSIC), will be at home this weekend, hosting the University of Mary Friday at 7 p.m. and Minot State Saturday in a 4 p.m. contest.

mywaynenews.com's Michael Carnes sits down each week to talk to Wayne State coaches about their teams' efforts throughout the 2015-16 season. We'll recap the previous week's games and talk about upcoming opponents.

In the second game, Wayne State exploded to a 28-5 first-quarter lead top-five finisher at state last year, placed 11th in 22:04.64 while freshman Gabi Meyer was 15th in

"I saw some nerves within our group, and I think they really wanted to go out and qualify," Ruhl said.

Sophomore Andrea Torres was 17th and senior Mandy Stabler finished 18th for the Blue Devils, who were outscored 28-39 by Hartington-Newcastle's team for the district championship. "Hartington had one of their best meets of the year," Ruhl said. "We've gone against them three times and they've always pushed us early and we were able to pull away down the stretch. This time, they stayed ahead of us and got the district title, so we're looking forward to the state meet to see if we can get some revenge on them."

With half of last year's state runner-up team on the roster, Ruhl is hoping that the mix of youth and experience will put the team in position to win the school's first state cross country team title since 1996. "Hopefully, the kids who have been there before can talk to the younger kids about what to expect," he said. "We're a pretty tight-knit bunch and I don't think we'll get too high. We'll just go out and do our thing, and I'm hoping we can run as well as we have been this year. If we do that, we can fight for the title.'

The Wayne High boys will be staying home from this year's meet, as they finished seventh and failed to land a spot among the top 15 individuals to qualify for state.

Senior Cole Leonard led the Blue Devils with a 25th place finish. coming home in a time of 19:12.77. Jonathon Vick was 33rd and Nolan Reynolds was 36th, while Dawson French rounded out the team scoring with a 45th place effort.

The good news for the Wayne High boys is that, with the exception of Leonard as the only senior on the team, everybody will be back next season, Ruhl said.

"I thought the boys ran well today and challenged themselves and really did a good job of running as a pack," he said. "We've got five of the six back nxt year, and as they get better and get stronger, we'll be able to move up the field next sea-

Allen outlasts Winside, 38-28

WINSIDE – The Allen Eagles were still holding out hope for making it into the Class D-2 state playoffs last week, and they kept hope alive with a 38-28 win over Winside in action Friday at Winch Memorial

The Wildcats had a size advantage up front against the quicker Eagles' offense, but the visitors were able to overcome the mismatches up front and improve to 3-4 on the season with the tough road win.

"We did some very good things against a physically bigger team than us," Allen coach Dave Uldrich said. "We were cutting down their defensive blitzes and hitting the holes for a very good day on the ground. They usually had one or more person at the line than we could block, but we audibled very

Our defense was the story," he said. "We had a pretty poor three weeks prior to this, and we were able to shut down drives today when they got close to our goal line. The pride and grit of this team came to the top when Winside scored late in the third period and they had to decide whether or not to fold or go answer the call. They did the latter. What a great group of kids."

Allen took the lead late in the first half on Kumm's second score, a one-yard run, but the Wildcats took the momentum in to the locker room, beating the halftime clock with another Watters-to-Escalara connection, this one from 10 yards out, to make it 22-20 in favor of the visitors at the half.

Winside took its final lead midway through the third period on a 28-yard run by King and a Watters-to-Escalara two-point conversion pass to make it 28-22, but Allen responded with Kumm's third touchdown run, a 33-yard scamper with 3:55 to go in the third to tie the game. Kyle Smith hit Chase Johnson with the two-point conversion pass to give Allen the lead for good at 30-28.

It was an exciting fourth quarter as the two area teams battled, but the visiting Eagles put it out of reach with less than four minutes to go when Thomas scored his second touchdown on a one-yard run. ### Wildcats tied for sixth in AVCA Div. II poll

The Wayne State volleyball team moved up three spots into a tie for sixth in the latest American Volleyball Coaches Association Div. II poll released Monday afternoon.

The Wildcats, who upset then-No. 5 Minnesota Duluth on Saturday, moved into a tie for sixth with Wheeling Jesuit. Wayne State is one of five Northern Sun conference schools in this week's top 10.

Tampa University replaced Concordia-St. Paul as the No. 1 team in the country after the Golden Bears were defeated on Friday and fell to No. 4. Northern State, the lone remaining undefeated team in the country, moved up four spots to No. 2 ahead of Ferris State. Southwest Minnesota State rounds out the top five, while Minnesota Duluth is ranked eighth after their loss to Wayne State.

Central Oklahoma moved up one spot to No. 10, giving the Central Region six of the top 10 spots in this week's poll. Other NSIC schools in the top 25 include Augustana at No. 21 and Winona State at No. 25. Other Central Region teams include No. 12 Central Missouri, No. 14 Washington and No. 16 Nebraska-Kearney.

Select resistant soybeans to protect against root rot

This year we have seen several soybean stem and root rot diseases for which the main management action is the use of resistant or toler-

Climate variations in the last few vears have made conditions more favorable for diseases, particularly higher humidity's and higher minimum temperatures at night. Everyone reading this article does not need to use a resistant soybean variety in all their fields, but many farmers would benefit from using them to manage specific disease

If you have a history of any of the problems mentioned below and a major area in a field is affected, make this a criterion in variety selection this year. There are enough resistant varieties on the market that you should be able to find varieties with the total genetic package you need. Unlike other traits that you pay more to have in your variety, disease resistance generally does not cost any more than comparable susceptible varieties.

In recent years we have seen an increase in the number of fields with Soybean Cyst Nematode. Producers are encouraged to use the free testing program administered by UNL and funded by the Nebraska Sovbean Board to determine if a field has SCN. If you have a history of SCN and you have been using resistant varieties, make sure you are rotating the varieties in the field and if at all possible, rotate the source of resistance.

Phytophtora root and stem rot has been very active the last two years. Early planting in wet conditions creates a situation very conducive for Phytophthora if it is present. Dry conditions followed by heavy rains have also been observed to result in significant disease levels in fields with a history of Phytophthora. In most cases symptoms develop within a week of a heavy rain. In addition to using resistant varieties, make sure you use an increased rate of mefenoxam or metalaxyl seed treatment for these fields. Note that seed treatments will only be effective for about 30 days and this disease can infect and kill the soybean plant throughout the season – so resistance is key to soybean varieties are also rated for "tolerance" to Phytophthora by many companies. Research has shown that a high tolerance score with a resistance gene is the best combination for managing this disease with genetics. Producers should keep records on which fields they identify with Phytophthora so that they can select soybean varieties with resistance and/or tolerance to the disease for those fields. This disease will not affect corn. Fields with a long-term history of Phytophthora may require a different resistance gene if you start seeing Phytophthora-killed plants even with resistant

White mold or Sclerotinia stem rot is a disease that starts early in the season. The actual infection occurs on the senescing flower, which the fungus feeds on and infects. All infections in soybean will typically start at a node. You can even tell when the infection occurred based on how high up the plant the stem lesions and fungal growth are. This vear's cool, wet conditions during flowering were favorable for infection. Even at harvest you can identify Sclerotinia stem rot in the field as the stems will be very light (bleached) in color. Upon close inspection you will see dark black bodies (sclerotia) of the fungus on the stems. When dead stems are split, you often will see the sclerotia of the fungus inside.

Management of Sclerotinia stem rot integrates variety selection and cultural management. Longer term rotations can help reduce sclerotia numbers. High plant populations and narrow rows can increase white mold potential. Varieties vary in their level of partial resistance, and no varieties currently have complete resistance. Select varieties with good scores for Sclerotinia in fields with a history of this disease over several years. This is not a disease we see every year in Nebraska, but some locations —typically in bottom areas in the northern half of the state—have it more consis-

Fewer fields were affected by either brown stem rot (BSR) or sudden death syndrome (SDS). While foliar symptoms of these diseases are similar, there are key diagnostic differences in other symptoms. Management differs for the two diseases and requires a different variety selection process. Both can result in patches of soybean plants dying in fields. Foliar symptoms are not always present for BSR, therefore any pockets of stressed or dying plants can be suspect for the disease. Foliar symptoms start with interveinal necrosis; then the spots coalesce to form brown streaks between the leaf veins with yellow

Plants affected by brown stem rot will have some root rot, but it won't be as extensive as plants with SDS where the root system will have a deteriorated tap-root and lateral roots will only be evident in the upper soil profile. Plants will typically pull easily and there may be a dark blue fungal growth on the roots with rot will not have root rot symptoms. With any root and stem rot disease it is critical that you split the stems to accurately identify the disease. This is particularly true when trying to differentiate between SDS and brown stem rot. With SDS the center of the stem will not be discolored; discoloration will be confined to the outer stem layers. The root cortex also will be discolored — a light-gray to brown — and may extend up the stem. Brown stem stem and typically will be brown from the soil line going up. Examination of the split stem may show discoloration starting at the nodes. Variety selection will be your best option for managing both BSR and SDS. Fields with high levels of SDS should not be planted early in future years and should be managed to reduce compactions. Fields with brown stem rot will benefit from longer rotations, but fields with SDS will not be affected by rotation.

Coach's actions are inspiring

Boy, this weather sure does not feel like the middle of October! I'm wearing T shirts instead of my beloved sweat shirts. And, then, before we know it, we will probably be wearing snow suits.

I've been pondering some news lately, about an assistant football coach at a public high school in Bremerton, Wash. Bremerton caught my eye because one of my best loved grade school teachers lives there (in an assisted living facility.) It's also the home of a naval shipyard where my brother was once stationed.

That has nothing to do with the story. It seems that Coach Kennedy has had the habit for years of going to the middle of the field after each game and taking a knee. His prayer is a simple one of thanksgiving, for the game, and for the teams that played it.

Earlier this fall, the administration there sent a letter, asking him to cease and desist since after all the football field is public property. And for a few weeks, he did, and gave a motivational talk to the team instead.

I'm thinking of all the years that Coach Ron Brown led a prayer on the football fields in the Big Eight, from both teams. And about how he led one before the game with Penn State after they had suffered so much bad publicity, and ALL of the players and staff joined him! And about how all of us admired him for Anyway, the coach in Washington decided last week that he was going to do what he had been doing, and let the chips fall. He did advise his team to stand back, as he did the Big Twelve, and the Big Ten not want them to be involved in any keep him in our prayers, and hope discipline that resulted.

Farmer's Wife

As he kneeled and closed his eyes, he felt the presence of others. And when he opened his eyes, he found members of the opposing team, and many of the fans, surrounding him. Just writing this makes me cry. Imagine how it made him feel!

One of his football team, a captain, claims to be an agnostic. But he usually joins the prayer circle, he says, because of the unity it demonstrates. Plus, he respects his coach.

Coach Kennedy does not force anyone to join him.

A week ago, while watching the Lutheran High Northeast vs. Hartington Cedar Catholic game on video stream, courtesy of the Norfolk Daily News, the camera stayed on the field while the Cedar Catholic coach led his team and staff in a prayer, and they all finished with the sign of the cross

Across the field, the Lutheran High guys and their coaches were doing the same. The only thing better would have been if the two teams had joined together. But I was glad that whoever was doing the filming took the time to show us this. And I really hope that coach in Bremerton can continue to "take a knee" after his games. We need to for a positive outcome.

Wayne County Clover Kid's to meet Oct. 31

The purpose of the Clover Kid Program is to promote the positive development of youth to become competent, caring, contributing citizens. The learning experience is the primary reason for involvement in the program. Clover Kids have the opportunity to exhibit at the Wayne County Fair in a noncompetitive environment.

The first meeting for Clover Kids is Saturday, Oct. 31 from 9-10:15 a.m. at the Wayne County Courthouse. Youth ages 5-7 on or before Dec. 31, 2015 are eligible. They will learn about 4-H, how to enroll, and participate in activities involving nature and outdoors. We may even go outside if weather permits, so dress accordingly.

Contact Nebraska Extension in Wayne County (402-375-3310) by 5 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 27 to register so there are enough supplies.

CRP incentives available for working grass and pasture lands

Farmers and ranchers can apply for financial assistance to help conserve working grasslands, rangeland and pastureland while maintaining the areas as livestock grazing lands.

The initiative is part of the voluntary Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), that for 30 years has assisted agricultural producers with the cost of restoring, enhancing and protecting certain grasses, shrubs and trees to improve water quality, prevent soil erosion and reduce loss of wildlife habitat. In return, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) provides participants with rental payments and cost-share assistance.

The CRP-Grasslands initiative will provide participants who establish long-term, resource-conserving covers with annual rental payments up to 75 percent of the grazing value of the land. Cost-share assistance also is available for up to 50 percent of the covers and other practices, such as cross fencing to support rotational grazing or improving pasture cover to benefit pollinators or other wildlife. Participants may still conduct common grazing practices, produce hay, mow, or harvest for seed production, conduct fire rehabilitation, and construct firebreaks and fences.

The Farm Service Agency is accepting applications on an ongoing basis, with hose applications scored against published ranking criteria, and approved based on the competitiveness of the offer. The ranking period will occur at least once per year and be announced at least 30 days prior to its start. The end of the first ranking period will be Nov. 20, 2015.

To learn more about participating in CRP-Grasslands or SAFE, visit www.fsa.usda.gov/crp or consult with the local Farm Service Agency office. To locate a nearby Farm Service Agency office, visit http://offices.usda.gov. To learn more about the 30th anniversary of CRP, visit www.fsa.usda.gov/ CRPis30 or follow on Twitter using #CRPis30.

State going after human trafficking

It has been called the greatest black mark on America's long history -

Our nation was built on the backs of slaves who were brought to the then-new nation known as the United States. Many came from Africa, but slavery knew few ethnic, gender or age limitations as the years and decades passed.

You may not realize it, but a form of slavery still exists in our 21st century world, an evil just as ugly and dangerous – and deadly – as it ever was. It is known as human trafficking.

Like it was in our nation's earliest days, human trafficking has no limits, although a lot of those being forced into it are young children, particularly teenage girls, who are either coerced, or outright kidnapped, and sold as prostitutes being forced into sexual acts for pay by pimps who perpetuate these horrible crimes against our children.

This week, the Nebraska Attorney General's office announced an effort to crack down on human trafficking, using a $1.5 million federal grant that will go toward educating the community about what human trafficking is, bringing both traffickers and their customers into justice, and providing help for those caught in the evil web of the world of human trafficking.

The vast majority of those who "work" in human trafficking work in the sex business. Most are female, ranging in age from adulthood all the way down to preteens. Some go "willingly," but the vast majority are either recruited, coerced or outright kidnapped from their homes, their streets and

A recent report called "A Global Report on Trafficking In Persons" by the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime, which gathered data from more than 150 countries all over the world, found that the most common form of human trafficking – almost 8 in 10 – involves sexual exploitation. The victims are predominantly women and girls, and in some countries it is women - not men - who are trafficking other women.

There have been numerous stories of incidents where trafficking victims were arrested along with their "employers," and this is something that, hopefully, will change with the new effort Attorney General Doug Peterson announced earlier this week.

Working with the Salvation Army, the hope is to help establish response plans for cases of human trafficking in different parts of the state, with the  $\ Legislative\ Update$ goal being to bring an end to the supply and demand for human trafficking. The new strategy will work to shift blame away from the victims of human trafficking and put it squarely where it belongs – on the shoulders of the traffickers and their customers.

Human traffickers operate under the radar. For all I know, we may have individuals living within Wayne County, or somewhere in the area, who are involved in human trafficking. Human traffickers are, in a lot of ways, like drug dealers or distributors of child pornography – unless you know what they're up to, you'd never know they were committing these crimes against our young people.

The National Human Trafficking Resource Center has received more than 18,000 reports in the last eight years of human trafficking, receiving an average of 100 calls per day.

This horrible crime takes place on an everyday basis in the United States, and it's even more prevalent at big-time events, from the Super Bowl (where a sting the week of Super Bowl XLVIII in New York City netted hundreds of arrests), to even events close to home like the College World Series and the annual Berkshire Hathaway stockholders convention (where Omaha police have investigated several reports in recent

This problem exists within our borders. Its tentacles reach far beyond the bright lights of the big city to our rural communities, and its victims face an uphill battle as they fight to get out of its ever-tightening grasp. I'm happy to see the Attorney General's office making an effort to drive human trafficking out of business, and I hope and pray that those whose lives are so violently impacted by this terrible crime find peace, help, hope

ConAgra won't cost taxpayers

By J.L. SCHMIDT Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

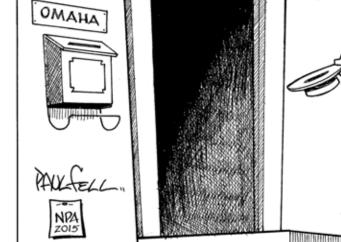

ConAgra Foods has announced it will move its corporate headquarters from Omaha to Chicago and cut at least 1,000 jobs in Omaha. The company was lured to Illinois by tax credits it will receive if it creates 150 new jobs and promises to keep them there for 15 years.

Wait, what? Does that sound familiar to anyone? Does that sound like the package that Nebraska offered to the company back in 1987 under the guise of Legislative Bill 775? Yes, it IS déjà vu all over again.

Let's review. Kay Orr was just a few weeks into her first (and last) term as Nebraska Governor when ConAgra CEO Mike Harper huffed and puffed and said the company would leave the state if it didn't receive tax breaks. The Omaha economy was in a funk and Governor Orr said she thought the tax break package eventually offered to ConAgra was going to boost the economy of the whole state. Most agree that the city and the state paid a pretty high price in the long run.

To her credit, Mrs. Orr admitted some years later that Harper had bullied the state to get what he wanted. The whole thing cost her a second term as governor. But she still thinks that the forever controversial business incentive package was the signature issue of her administration and the right thing to do. It kept companies in Nebraska and lured a few in. Harper's threats soured the public and painted Orr into a corner that she never escaped.

The ConAgra thing also cost Omaha six blocks of history because Harper said he didn't like the historic red brick buildings of Jobbers Canyon – a district on the National Register of Historic Places and the largest such historic district to ever be demolished. It wiped out the potential development of warehouse buildings that would double the size of today's Old Market district with businesses and loft apartments. It another state has been lured into special deals like the one just of-

Even though the tax policy led to the Governor being booed at home football games and caused groups of preservationists to march in downtown Omaha to protest the demolition, many said the city of Omaha was willing to pay to situate a major employer downtown with all the promised jobs and spin-off develop-

Well, it was great for 25 years Omaha. Hope you enjoyed it. Because ConAgra's new CEO lives in Chicago and apparently thinks it despite a statewide freeze on tax breaks for everyone else - will somehow bolster the state's economy.

Illinois Governor Bruce Rauner says ConAgra will still benefit from the Economic Development for a Growing Economy (EDGE) program because the breaks were offered prior to the freeze.

Meanwhile, back in Omaha, Creighton University economist Ernie Goss thinks the ConAgra deal could push the Illinois economy over the edge. "Omaha and Nebraska have their fiscal house in order. Chicago and Illinois have a fiscal house that's on fire," he said. He said the move is sub-optimal for will be easier to bring the company all but the senior management. The to Illinois than to move to Nebras- city and state are impending fiscal ka. And yes, another governor of disasters due - in large part - to for the locals and more corporate Omaha Mayor Jean Stothert says there is already interest in developing the vacant ConAgra property. While that sounds good, the ConAgra buildings are 25-year-old buildings that probably won't last another 25 years. They can't compare to the buildings of Jobbers Canyon, which were four- to six-story, masonry structures, built strong in the late 1800s and early 1900s to serve their warehouse and light-industry functions.

But, let's all rejoice that ConAgra has managed to slip away without costing Omaha or the state any further incentives. Such a move would have meant more taxpayer liability welfare for a Fortune 500 company.

Legislative Update By Dave Bloomfield State Senator, District 17

and transition coaching and peer mentors to support the success of students. This is a step in the right direction – Nebraska as a state has been behind the curve as to how we treat our veterans. Our colleges and universities are also lagging behind schools in other states.

they consider including a veteran's center in their expansion. I will be hard-pressed to support their plans without something for the veterans.

We, in the Legislature, cannot escape criticism in this area, I had a bill last year (LB191) which would have exempted Veterans Service Organizations from Nebraska sales tax, and it went nowhere. While LB191 lays dying a slow death in the Revenue Committee and VSO's across the state are forced to close their clubs, we were able to exempt zoos across the state from the same tax that we force veterans groups to pay. I do not understand the logic and will continue to work to pass LB191! If it is allowed for lions and tigers and bears, oh my, it should be DEMANDED for our warriors!

In the last few years, the Nebraska Department of Labor has also increased efforts to aide veterans in finding employment. If you are a veteran or the spouse of a veteran and you are looking for employment, I would encourage you to look into services offered by the Department of Labor. ### Thank you for Flamingo support

Our Savior Women of ELCA wish to thank you all who attended the First Ever Pink Flamingo Nite Out. Your kind words and positive feed back is very much appreciated.

What started out as a special guest night event evolved into a fun night for all women focused on breast cancer awareness. We couldn't have done it without special funds from PMC, Pac N Save and Thrivent Financial.

The keynote speaker, Paula Pfluger, was a great inspiration to us all. The Style Show by Swans Apparel and the presence of so many vendors was an added feature. The special articles by the Wayne Herald and interviews with KTCH was also appreciated. The general consensus after our evaluation was that we would give it a try again next year.

Look forward to seeing you then. Phyllis Rahn Our Savior Women of ELCA President

Duo Club hosts rally

On Oct. 11 the local Lutheran Laymen League group (Duo Club) welcomed other LLL members from groups in Madison, Norfolk, Pierce and Wakefield to the LLL Annual Fall Rally.

A hymn sing and devotion were given by Pastor Feldmann.

The business meeting was held. A special collection was taken for Nebraska District Special Projects.

Rev. Russell Sommerfeld, past President of the LCMS District, delivered an informative talk on Lutheran Hour Ministries. He spoke about the needs confronting the church internationally and here in the United States and the programs LHM has in place and is developing to answer those needs in their mission "To bring Christ to the nations and the nations to the church". ### THANK YOUS

Thanks to all of you who made my birthday a beautiful day. It will be a treasured memory always. God Bless Cleora Fisher

Thank you from the Ted Gunnarson family for your prayers for us and for your love and kind expressions of sympathy. Thank you to Scott Hasemann, Dennis, Diane and Teri for your tender care and assistance.

We would like to extend our deep and sincere gratitude for the many wonderful people who reached out to our family at the time of our dear father's illness and death. Thank you to Home Health and Hospice at Providence Medical Center for their exceptional care and especially Terri Munter, as well as

Dr. Dobbins and Dr. Lindau. A special thank you to Pastor Kyle Nelson and Roslyn Woods for the beautiful service.

Also, we would like to thank Scott Hasemann and his staff for their amazing compassion and care of every detail. Again, thank you to all those who showed their love and support. The family of Kenneth Gansebom.

The family of Marie VanderVeen would like to say thank you for the many acts of kindness and words of support shown to our family during the loss of our mother, grandmother, and great grandmother.

To the staff at WHCC, thank you for your exceptional care of Mom. To the Hospice staff: Terri, Sandy, Rosalind, and Carol, we thank you for your kindness and compassion. Your words of love and support will always be

Thank you to Pastor Kelly for the lovely service to honor Mom. Tiffany Lamprecht, thank you for your gift of music. Thank you, Lynette Hansen, for faithfully preparing the church for Mom's service. To the Covenant Women for serving lunch, we thank you. To those of you who worked: Lois, Janelle, Donna, Anita, Janis, and Delores, thank you for making the time to help serve. To the ladies of the Covenant Church, thank you for preparing salads and desserts. We received many compliments on how delicious the luncheon was.

To Drs. Dobbins and Martin and their staff, thank you for your compassion for Mom. Your knowledge and forthrightness were much appreciated.

Thank you to Steve Munderloh and his staff for their support.

To all our coworkers and friends, thank you for your loving support of our family during this difficult time. Your words of encouragement, cards and letters, meals, and memorials have made these last several days more bearable.

Calvin, Robert, Lynden, Darrel, Dwight, Brent and families
