Nicholson proudly remembers his service

70 years after World War II, memories still fresh

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

It has been 70 years since the end of World War II, but a lot of the memories of that moment in our nation's history are still fresh in the mind of a 90-year old Wakefield man who served our country proudly.

Bricie Nicholson was drafted soon after graduating from Wakefield High School in 1944 and earned three Purple Hearts during his tour of duty in the Philippines and Japan. The rifleman returned home after serving more than a year overseas, but brought home many memories of his time as a U.S. soldier.

"We went to Little Rock, Ark., for basic training and was there for 17 weeks," he recalled during an interview in the sun room at the Ash Street Apartments in Wakefield recently. "There were some older guys who'd got drafted, and the physical education part of the training was tough on some of them, but I was a young kid and was right at home with the running and other things."

Nicholson recalled a training exercise where soldiers would have to climb up a steel pole.

"You'd have to climb up this pole, and as you were climbing the sergeant would say, 'Hey, I've got a joke for you' and it was hard climbing up that pole without laughing," he said.

Nicholson and his unit traveled by train from Arkansas to Seattle, Wash. He remembered making a stop in North Platte, where he and his fellow soldiers were greeted by the local ladies who had provided sandwiches for the trip.

"My wife and I went back there for a convention a few years ago, and I remember some of the ladies telling stories," he said. "Some of the ladies made popcorn balls, and this one lady talked about how her older sisters had told her not to put her name on the popcorn balls, but she did and she was the only one who got a man out of the deal. The guy went overseas and had her name and they wrote back and forth and eventually got married."

Nicholson rode a boat from Seattle to Hawaii, where they practiced with Browning automatic rifles to prepare for battle in the Philippines, and Nicholson quickly found himself being one of the better riflemen in his unit.

"We'd practice shooting and I couldn't miss from 200 to 300 yards away, and that's what they were looking for," he said. "When we got to the Philippines, the captain called me and another guy in and told us they needed some good riflemen, and so we got into a couple of invasions there."

Nicholson was in the Philippines when then-President Roosevelt reassigned Gen. Douglas MacArthur to Australia for six months.

"I remember when MacArthur said 'I shall return,' and I was on the beach when he came back six months later," he said.

Many of the adults taking part also dressed up for Halloween this year.

tomers' water on and make sure the bank account information is accurate.

City Council meetings

Regular Wayne City Council meetings are at 5:30 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month in city hall at Third and Pearl Streets.

What Does Solar Power and Wind Power Cost?

Assume you buy your own solar panels and the inverter to change the solar direct current to alternating current, raise the voltage to 240 volts and synchronize the solar current with that coming in from the power line. Also assume the panels totally run your entire home during the day, and assume they don't need to be repaired, and assume they last ten years. Since there is no operating cost, then the solar cost per kilowatt hour would be the total cost of the solar panel system divided by the total kilowatt hours the system produces over 10 years. With the federal subsidies and the great improvements in the new solar panels, that cost is becoming competitive with public utility rates.

What should be the cost of the power you purchase at night when your solar system isn't running? Public electric utilities have three cost components: 1) The operating cost of the fuel used to generate plus the manpower and maintenance. 2) The fixed cost of the generators and the business overhead of the power company. 3) The transmission lines, transformers and meters to bring the power to your house. Even if you generate all your power usage during the day with solar, someone still has to supply you with power over night.

That means the public utility still has to maintain the total capacity of the generators and the transmission lines to serve your home half the time. If the public utility gets half the revenue from you that it used to get but still has the total fixed costs to maintain the system for when you need it, who should make up the loss in revenue? Right now there are very few solar systems in place and the affect isn't noticeable. Ten years down the road if 30 percent of homes are using solar power, then some electric rate differentiation will need to be made to avoid having the solar homes subsidizied by the rest of the rate payers. We don't know if that will happen.

A similar issue is currently going on with wind turbine power but those big systems are utility owned and the power from those wind systems is being shared by all the rate payers and the costs of maintaining the big coal and nuclear generator plants for when they are needed is also being shared by all the rate payers except seasonal groundwater irrigation that is on the NPPD demand waiver program and is charged for only the energy.

Tour of Homes to include old and new

The Friends of the Wayne Museum have set the dates and announced the names of those who will have their homes open for this year's Tour of Homes.

Five homes in Wayne and the Wayne Museum will be part of this year's tour, set for Friday and Saturday, Nov. 20-21. Tours will take place from 5-8:30 p.m. on Friday and 11 a.m.-2:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Homes on this year's tour include Dana and Sonya Tompkins, Mark Kanitz and Lukas Rix, Casey and Shona Junck, Adam and Lanie Severson and Matt and Melissa Eischeid. In addition, the Wayne County Museum will be decorated and a part of the tour.

Tickets are $15 each, with proceeds from the event going toward general upkeep of the museum.

Advance tickets for the event may be purchased at all Wayne banks or at the Wayne Area Economic Development Office. Tickets will also be sold at the museum during the tour.

The home of Mark Kanitz and Lukas Rix is located at 218 Lincoln Street.

In the summer of 2013 Mark and Lukas embarked on a two-year mission to completely renovate this iconic 1893 Queen Anne Victorian. The home had been on the market and vacant for seven years and was deteriorating rapidly.

The exterior work was started immediately with a complete tear-off of the roof, which now features period-style fish-scale shingles. They picked five colors, traditional for a 'painted lady' Queen Anne home, to show off the spectacular detail.

Inside, every wall and ceiling were stripped of wallpaper. After extensive repair, most of the original plaster and lath walls were saved and painted. The home is very energy efficient with all new electrical, plumbing, heating and cooling systems.

The traditional white kitchen cabinets are a timeless choice. Stenciled plaster walls were revealed in the foyer area leading upstairs. Like every renovation, some things cannot be put back to the original and the paintings were not able to be saved.

The home was built in 1893 by Eli Jones who was the proprietor of a local livery and stable. The Jones sold it to the Sherbahn family who operated the local brickyard (near Henry Victor Park). The Sherbahns maintained ownership for over 70 years. Mark and Lukas are the fifth owners.

As you walk through the home, you will see original features like stained glass windows on the entire second floor, fireplace surrounds and tile, 'stick and ball' fretwork in the foyer and open staircase.

The carriage house still exists. However, the brick retaining wall along the front of the property and the original curved, wrap-around front porch were dismantled some years ago after disrepair.

Mark and Lukas are delighted to showcase their home to friends and the community. They would also like to say 'thanks' to those who have lent a helping hand with the renovation over the last two years. The support of the community has been great motivation to keep them moving to complete the project.

Adam and Lanie Severson moved into their home, located at 209 Fairway Circle, in May of 2013.

Their five-bedroom, ranch-style home features 16 foot ceilings in the living and kitchen areas, along with large windows throughout to bring in as much natural light as possible.

Natural hickory wood floors make up most of the upper level of the home, excluding the bathrooms and laundry. The laundry room doubles as the entryway from the garage. The large timbers in the main living area add a rustic touch to the home.

The Severson's style of decorating is slightly rustic and natural with simple modern accents.

Their love of cooking and entertaining attracted them to the large Wolf cooking range.

The master bedroom, kids' bedroom and nursery are all located in the same wing of the home. The master bath is tiled in travertine and features a large, oversized tub.

The home of Mark Kanitz and Lukas Rix (above) and Adam and Lanie Severson will be decorated for this year's Tour of Homes.

The lower level is open-concept and geared toward the little ones. It includes two guest bedrooms and a bath with walk-in shower. Across the hall is the craft-office room, where Mom likes to get crafty while the kids play. The family enjoys cozying up to the wood-burning fireplace in the winter and watching football.

and at Okinawa, riding a Higgins boat to shore. He remembered spending several nights in foxholes, hiding from enemy forces.

"You didn't jump out of the foxhole to use the latrine," he said. "One corner of the foxhole was for cooking and another was for the latrine, and if you saw anything moving outside the foxhole you shot it."

Nicholson got his first Purple Heart after being hit by mortar fire during an invasion, and he saved a buddy's life after he and his buddy both lost their helmets during the explosion, with shrapnel catching his left arm.

"I grabbed one of the helmets and it was the other guy's, so I went to hand it to him and he reached out and a Jap took a shot at him and hit the helmet," he said. "It left this crease in the helmet and tore up his hand, and I'm sure that made for quite a story for him to tell when he went home."

On another occasion, his unit had some Japanese soldiers cornered and he was hiding behind a tree when an enemy bullet hit the trigger guard of his gun and ricocheted into his hand.

"The trigger guard on my rifle was made of steel, so when the bullet hit, it caught my hand and just about turned it into hamburger," he said. "A couple of inches either way and it would have killed me."

Nicholson's youthful looks made for some good-natured ribbing when he recovered from his injuries at a hospital in Saipan, located just west of Guam in the Pacific Ocean.

"I remember being on a ship going back to the Philippines and they were going to have a ceremony to pin a bunch of us guys with Purple Hearts, and the one captain took one look at me and said, 'You're too young to get one of these' and I said 'Now you tell me,'" Nicholson said with a laugh. "One of the nurses there asked me if my mother knew I was over there fighting."

On another mission, Nicholson's unit had a Japanese officer surrounded and were trying to disarm him when one of the soldiers was stabbed by the officer with his bayonet.

"He could have surrendered and nothing would have happened, but he decided to fight and so we had to shoot him," he said.

Nicholson got news of the end of World War II while walking back to base one day, thanks to a random truck driver who had heard the news on the radio. He stayed overseas and helped with the post-war effort, serving as a cook on a base in Japan.

"I got put in charge of a crew of Japanese laborers, and we had a lot of fun working together," he said.

"When I finally got instructions to go home I'd never really thought of saying goodbye, but one of the guys I'd gotten to be friends with brought me this nice box with a statute of one of their ancestors in it. It was a treasure of his that he wanted me to have."

Nicholson returned to Wakefield on Mother's Day in 1946 and eventually reconnected with an old classmate that would later become his wife of 63 years, Anita.

"We'd graduated from high school together and she went to Sioux City to a trade school and got a heck of a good job at a bank in Wayne," he said. "I'd gone to a dance in Wayne one night and danced with her a few times, and later that evening I asked if I could take her home."

It would be four years before the couple married and eventually settled on 160 acres of land that they worked for an Indian woman who was living in Pennsylvania.

"I'd been working in a creamery here when I came back, and a real estate guy talked to my dad about a farm south of town, and dad asked me if I'd wanted to farm," he said. "I'd heard a lot of farm talk from listening to the guys at the creamery station and I was single at the time, so I said OK."

Over the years, Nicholson and his wife settled in the small house on the farm and communicated with the owner of the land as they worked it for several years.

One Sunday, as they left a Wakefield church, they got a telegram from a depot agent in Emerson.

"We got a telegram that Sunday morning saying that she had passed away, and a few days later we got this big envelope in the mail with a return address out there, and I said to my wife, 'Boy, the lawyers aren't wasting any time telling us to get off of her farm.'"

Imagine their surprise when, after opening the envelope, they found that they weren't being evicted - and the woman had left the Nicholson's her 160-acre tract of land.

"The first page of the letter directed us to page three, and on that page it said 'I give all my land in Thurston County to Anita Nicholson and Bricie Nicholson,'" he said. "This lady and my wife had had some nice conversations in the letters they had written to each other over the years, so we were quite pleased when we saw that."

Fun, fundraiser in Laurel

An effort to raise funds for both the Laurel Q125 celebration and the Susan G. Koeman for the Cure turned into "Bros & Bras." Organizers presented Laurel businesses with bras and asked them to decorate them or pay a 'fine' as part of the event. A total of 36 bras were decorated and 40 baskets were auctioned off as part of a Silent Auction. In addition, during the event, men modeled the bras and those breast cancer survivors in the audience were recognized. Educational information was also part of the evening. Bras were then auctioned off, with the highest price bra going for $1,000. Organizers hope to make this an annual event and are continuing to make plans for the Laurel Q125, which will be held in June of 2018.

Council

committee had originally requested $10,000 when the grant was first put together, but reduced the request back in 2010 by half after Wayne County started granting an additional $5,000.

Mayor Ken Chamberlain said there is value for the city in awarding the grant, as it allows Wayne Area Economic Development to handle much of the work that goes with awarding LB840 funds.

"Most of our staff in the city is strapped, and I don't think they would have time to do it," he told the Council, which approved the request on a 7-0 vote. Councilman Cale Geise was absent from Tuesday's meeting.

The Council approved applications for payment on the Aquatic Center project, although there were concerns that the project is falling behind.

When asked by Councilwoman Jennifer Sievers about the contractor's progress, City Administrator Lowell Johnson told the Council that Christiansen Construction was "14 to 30 days behind" and may bring a proposal for an extension to the Nov. 17 Council meeting. The Council approved an application for payment of $175,746.94 on a 7-0 vote.

The Council also approved a $146,199.12 payment to Eriksen Construction on the improvements to the wastewater treatment facility, as well as the Grainland Road water and sewer extension project of $99,912.12 to Robert Woehler & Sons Construction.

In other action, the Council:
- approved second reading of an ordinance relating to parking time limits from the alley on East Second St. east to Logan St.

- heard from Johnson on bids for a roof replacement project for Wayne City Hall. Johnson said there were some questions with a couple of the bids that needed to be clarified, and he would have the information available for the Council to consider at its Nov. 17 meeting. The roofing project is scheduled to start next spring.

- approved a revised interlocal agreement with the Nebraska Community Energy Alliance that will improve procedures for the governing body. The agreement allows a vote of NCEA board members representing the 22 cities to amend the interlocal agreement at a board meeting, and establishes an executive committee to conduct some of the routine business of that board when a quorum isn't present for their scheduled meetings.

The Council's next meeting is Tuesday, Nov. 17 at 5:30 p.m. in City Council chambers.

County looks for answers on communication network

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

The Wayne County Commissioners will send one of their members to a Nebraska Regional Interoperability Network meeting later this month to get questions answered regarding a new communication network that the county may have to help foot the bill for.

At Tuesday's meeting in the Wayne County Courthouse, Wayne County Emergency Manager Nic Kemnitz told the board that a meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 18 at the Lifelong Learning Center in Norfolk to discuss a new secure communication network that would connect dispatch centers across Nebraska on a private network that would be set up using microwave dishes.

The state has plans to install the network, but is asking counties to pay for any maintenance costs. Kemnitz said that 12 counties in Northeast Nebraska have yet to sign on to the agreement, and the meeting in Norfolk is being held to address questions other county boards may have.

"We're the last 12 counties to have the system put in place, and they want us (the counties) to sustain it," Kemnitz said. "But if we're not going to use the system here, why waste the money to put it up?"

County Attorney Mike Pieper, who was at Tuesday's meeting, questioned what exactly the county was being asked to commit to regarding the regional network, and how long that commitment would run.

The board also discussed the possible relocation of the Health and Human Services office, which is currently in the Dearborn Mall in Wayne.

Board chair Randy Larsen said the office has had problems with roof leaking that has created water issues in the office. The county has a lease with Woehler Trailer Court LLC on the space and is paying $700 in monthly rent.

Larsen said that county officials have had difficulty in contacting the landlord regarding the issues at the office, and the board asked Pieper to look into the lease agreement.

In other action, the Board:

- gave Larsen the go-ahead to work with Sheriff Jason Dwinell on a survey of courthouse security. The last survey of the courthouse's security issues was done in 2009.

- approved detour maintenance agreements for two projects and a surveying agreement for a future project.

- approved Amy Topp's request for the purchase of an LCD projector for the county extension office.

- discussed an offer for easements and fencing for the Hahn Bridge project, pending communication with engineers of the project.

- designated delegates for election of NACO officers.

- discussed a new cleaning and maintenance job opening.

The County Commissioners' next meeting is Tuesday, Nov. 17 at 9 a.m. at the Wayne County Courthouse.

Wildcats playing it juuust right

Thoughts, observations and hallucinations from the end-of-season section of the "Bits and Pieces" file:

- You remember the old tale about Goldilocks and the Three Bears, where the house-breaking Goldilocks tried out the bears' porridge and enjoyed the baby's bowl that was "juuust right?"

That not-too-hot, not-too-cold vibration could very easily describe the third-ranked Wayne State volleyball team, who will definitely need to turn up the temperature these next few days as the college volleyball season comes to a close.

Wayne State is in a four-way tie for first place in the Northern Sun Conference, and is probably the only team that completely controls its destiny heading into the final two weeks of the regular season. With road wins at co-leaders Northern State and Southwest Minnesota already on their resume, they stand a good chance of winning the conference title if they can knock off the other co-leader, Concordia-St. Paul, and Minnesota State on Friday night.

The home finale on Tuesday, though, could be the biggest game of the final five on the docket. Bam-bi and the other deer from Nebraska-Kearney come to town, and with both teams ranked in the AVCA top 25, a win here would not only give Wayne State in-state bragging rights over the Lopers, but help build a case for hosting the Central Regional tournament in December.

This is a team that doesn't get caught up in all this hoopla, though. I've tried talking to several players about all the what-ifs down the road, but right now their focus is, and has been throughout the year, on the next game on the schedule. This team doesn't care who it is — they take it one play at a time, one set at a time and one match at a time.

Wayne State has been in the neighborhood many times in the past decade. If this team continues to play as well as it has and keeps the approach they've taken to this season, they stand a very good chance of not only getting to the front door of the Elite Eight, but kicking it in.

- I was disappointed for the Wayne High volleyball team after Tuesday's heartbreaking five-set loss to Pierce in the subdistrict finals, but it certainly was not from a lack of effort.

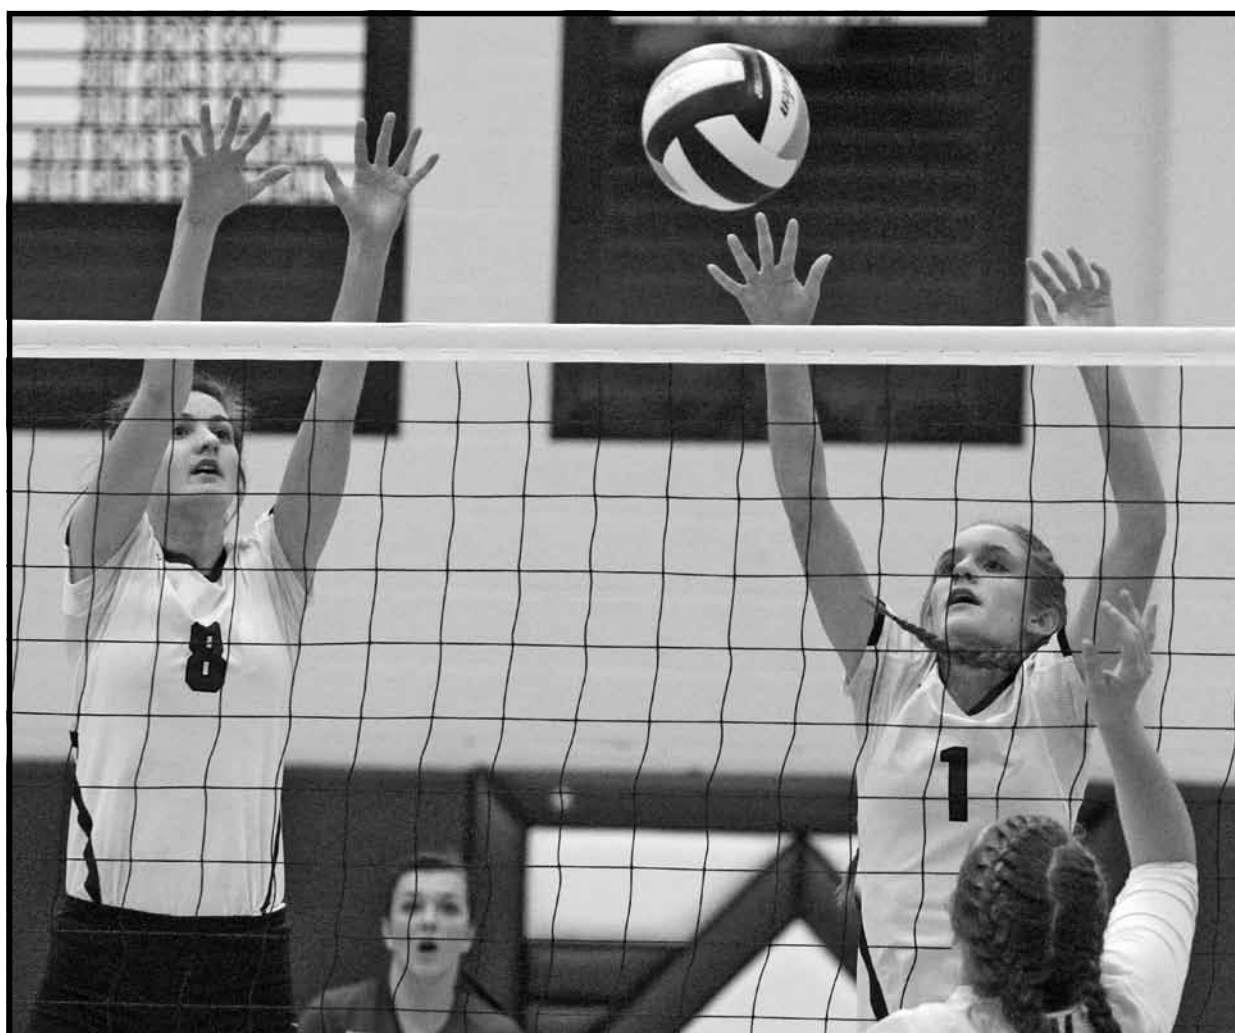

This was one of the best high school volleyball matches I have seen in a while, and it was undoubtedly the best I've seen these girls play this season, and the only disappointment was seeing Pierce come back from a 12-9 deficit in the final set to take the match and end Wayne's season.

On paper, Pierce had the advantage when it comes to overall talent, but there was absolutely no doubt in this reporter's mind which team WANTED that game more. Wayne came out from the first serve and played like a team that didn't want the season to end Tuesday night. Pierce got down two sets and had to battle just to get the match tied and into the deciding fifth set.

The Blue Devils' biggest weakness this year has been closing a team out when they have them on the hook. Wayne had chances to take Pierce out in each of the final three sets, and you can probably chalk that up to youthful inexperience. This was a young Wayne lineup this year that performed quite well and just needs to learn how to seal the deal when they have a team down two sets to zero.

The good news is that only two seniors are gone from this year's team. (Those are both key holes to fill next year, but with a great young lineup returning, Wayne's volleyball cupboard is far from bare.

- For those in the audience who were giddy with my Seattle Seahawks' 0-2 start . . . they're now 4-4 and have an easy second half of the schedule. Bring it on, baby.

Wayne lets two-set lead get away in final Pierce wins C1-7 subdistrict thriller in five

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

NORFOLK — The Wayne High volleyball team had a chance to take out top-seeded Pierce and keep their postseason hopes alive Tuesday night.

Unfortunately, the Bluejays wiggled off the hook twice after losing the first two sets, leaving the Blue Devils heartbroken in a thrilling championship match in the C1-7 subdistrict finals at Norfolk High School, with the Bluejays surviving in a 21-25, 23-25, 25-23, 25-23, 15-13 win.

The Blue Devils survived the loss of their leading hitter early in the match and had an opportunity to repay Pierce for a straight-set loss in the Mid State Conference tournament a week earlier, but couldn't close the deal after winning the first two sets of a tightly-contested, two-hour match.

"We haven't been a down-to-the-wire team this year, and tonight I thought we played well from start to finish," coach Traci Krusemark said. "I was really proud of the fight we gave tonight. We fought hard in all five games and it was a total team effort. I wish things could have come out different, but that's the way it goes."

The Blue Devils took an exciting first set thanks to the work of the team's top three hitters. Solid net play by Melinda Longe, Tarah Stegemann and Allison Echtenkamp got the Blue Devils out to an early lead, and Pierce was never able to get closer than two points

Wayne State club ready to hit mats

The Wayne State wrestling club returns three national qualifiers from last season's 10th place finish in the NWCA national tournament and has its sights set on a better effort this season.

"We've got high expectations," coach Aaron Scheutt said. "We have a number of qualifiers back and I think we can do really well if we get the guys in the room and put in the time. There are a lot of high expectations this year."

Senior Matthew DeGarmo (197), sophomore Spencer Trout (184) and junior Devon Rupp (149) are back to lead a team that has a good blend of youth and experience.

DeGarmo is coming back from a broken arm, but feels the team has a chance to do well this year.

"We have eight returning wrestlers, which is good," he said. "We also have a lot of new freshmen that I'm really excited to see wrestle. There's a lot of promising talent and I'm really looking forward to seeing what they can do."

So is Trout, who battled through an injury during last year's national meet and is hoping to have a better result this season.

"We've got a lot of incoming freshmen who look promising," he said. "Overall I think we have a lot of talent and if we can put all the pieces together, I think we can have a good team and do well at nationals."

Rupp was one win away from All-American status last year, and hopes he can take that next step this season.

"I separated my shoulder in that match last year, and I think I could have won if I didn't get hurt," he said. "I have a pretty high bar set for myself, and we've got a lot of

McClintock sets new set mark in Wildcat upset

Wayne State in four-way tie for first in NSIC race

Senior setter Leisa McClintock made her way into the school record books and helped No. 6-ranked Wayne State pick up another big conference road win with a 25-18, 25-14, 21-25, 28-26 upset of No. 2 Northern State Friday in Aberdeen, S.D.

McClintock just missed her single-game career high with 64 assists, but passed Kasey Meyer Hopwood as the school's all-time leader in career assists. McClintock now has 4,611 assists to break the old mark of 4,606 set by Meyer Hopwood from 1999-2002.

It was also a big night for senior outside hitter Katie Hughes, who recorded a career-high 25 kills and added 25 digs to become the seventh Wildcat with 1,000 kills and 1,000 digs in their career. She has 1,022 career kills and 1,727 career digs.

As for the match itself, the Wildcats trailed 10-5 in the opening set, but got four straight points from Bree Ackerman to take the lead and go on to win the opening set. Hughes and Elizabeth Gebhardt each had six kills in the opening set.

In the second set, Wayne State led from start to finish and dominated play at the net. Hughes had six kills and Michaela Mestl had five to give the visiting Wildcats a two-set advantage.

Northern State rallied to win the third set, coming back from a 19-15 deficit to force a fourth set. Northern led early before Wayne State rallied to tie the match at 7-7, and it went back and forth for a dramatic finish.

Wayne State trailed 24-23 before a Hughes kill tied the match and a block by Gebhardt and Alex Opperman gave Wayne State match point at 25-24. Northern countered and the teams went back and forth before Gebhardt and Alyssa Frauenfelder came through with clutch kills to complete the four-set win.

Frauenfelder and Gebhardt complimented Hughes' career night with 15 kills apiece. Courtney VanGronigen led the defense with 28 digs, followed by Hughes' 25 and Mestl with 23.

On Saturday, double-doubles by Hughes and Mestl helped Wayne State win its 10th straight match in a three-set sweep of MSU Moorhead, winning 27-25, 25-20, 25-21 in Moorhead, Minn.

The Wildcats jumped out to an 11-4 lead in the first set, but had to

Two Wildcats get NSIC weekly nods

Courtney VanGronigen and Leisa McClintock both earned Northern Sun Conference Player of the Week honors.

VanGronigen, a senior libero, averaged a league-high 7.43 digs per set in Wayne State's road wins over No. 2 Northern State and MSU Moorhead. She had a season-high 28 digs against Northern State and added 24 against the Dragons. She is third in the NSIC in digs per set at 5.09 and is second on the school's all-time list with 1,948.

McClintock, a senior setter, averaged 14.71 assists per set last week and became Wayne State's all-time leader in assists, sitting at 4,650 after last week's matches. She had a season-high 64 assists in the win over Northern, one short of a career high, and added 39 in the win over Moorhead. She is fifth in the NSIC with 11.58 assists per set.

hang on to claim the first set after the Dragons battled back to tie the set at 21-21. Hughes broke a 25-25 tie with a kill and a Dragon error gave the Wildcats the opening set.

Wayne State forced eight attack errors in the second set and VanGronigen had two ace serves to help the Wildcats take the second set. The defense came up big again in the third set, forcing 11 more Dragon errors to help the Wildcats close out the match.

Mestl had her 10th double-double of the year with 13 kills and 13 digs, while Hughes had 11 kills and 20 digs for her 13th double-double of the season. Gebhardt added 10 kills and McClintock had 39 assists. VanGronigen had 24 digs and three ace serves and Bree Ackerman had two aces.

With the win, Wayne State settled into a four-way tie for first place in the NSIC with Northern State, Concordia-St. Paul and Southwest Minnesota State, all with 14-2 records.

The 22-3 Wildcats have won 10 straight matches and will be home for a key battle against No. 3-ranked Concordia-St. Paul on Friday at 7 p.m. They face Minnesota State Saturday at 4 p.m., also at Rice Auditorium, and then host No. 12 Nebraska-Kearney in an key inter-state rivalry matchup Tuesday at 7 p.m. at Rice Auditorium.

WSC soccer wins home finale

The Wayne State women's soccer team closed out the 2015 season on a good note with a big win at home and a close defeat on the road to end their season at 4-11-3. Carys Hund found the net twice and Wayne State matched a season high as they dominated Sioux Falls 4-1 in women's soccer action Friday at the WSC Pitch. Hund got the first of her two scores in the 12th minute off a nice crossing pass from Suenly Galvez to give the Wildcats a 1-0 advantage. Sioux Falls tied the game 12 minutes later, then gave the Wildcats the lead back on an own goal when an attempt to clear a pass was kicked into the Sioux Falls goal in the 31st minute to give Wayne State a 2-1 lead at intermission. Four minutes into the second half, Kelsey Engstrom found the net on a pass from Natalie Rech to make it 3-1, and Hund notched her second score from the top of the penalty box on a great pass from Brooke Buzzell in the 56th minute to close out the scoring. Wayne State outshot Sioux Falls 17-9, including 11-2 in shots on goal. Kylie Comba made one save and pitched the win for the Wildcats. The Wayne State women's soccer team played Southwest Minnesota State tough until late, but the host Mustangs scored in the 82nd minute to post a 1-0 win in the season finale for the Wildcats. The game was a quiet one in the first half with only seven shots taken by the two teams. Southwest Minnesota State outshot Wayne State 5-1 in the second half and go the game-winner on a shot by Kendahl Fisher to get the win. Comba had two saves in the losing effort for the Wildcats. It was the final game for seniors Josie Brown, Kara Noesen, Amy Oates, Natalie Poppe and Hannah Thayer.

WINONA, Minn. - Despite a season-high 171 yards rushing and three touchdowns from senior running back Ryan Ludlow, Wayne State suffered a 45-31 loss at Winona State Saturday afternoon. The Wildcats opened the scoring late in the first quarter on a Sam Simon 30 yard field goal, but Winona State scored touchdowns on four straight series to end the first half, the Wildcat defense forced turnovers on Winona State's first three possessions of the second half. Wayne State scored on two of the Warrior fumbles. Lane Yates scored on a six-yard run, trimming the Warrior lead to 28-17 at the 10:47 mark of the third quarter. Wayne State forced another fumble on the ensuing kickoff, converting the miscue into points as Ludlow found the end zone on an eight-yard run to pull the Wildcats within 28-24. Winona State answered with a field goal on the next drive, then put the game out of reach in the fourth, scoring on their first two possessions. Wayne State closed out the scoring in the final minute as Ludlow scored his third touchdown of the day, a four-yard run. The Wildcats will be at home Saturday, hosting Upper Iowa at 1 p.m. at Bob Cunningham Field.

Enjoying the mild November temps

Is this really November? It was 80 degrees here today, and the front door is still open at 10 p.m. It's Jon's birthday, and he is celebrating by attending the Chiefs game in London, and then on to Paris. Sue has tagged along, spending time with friend, Karen, who lives there, and checking out Stonehenge.

Kay, meanwhile, is "down under" with Home Instead, preparing for races by bringing a Fascinator hat (check it out with Google, that's what I had to do.). Thank goodness, Ann had an annual garage sale and a couple of volleyball games to attend, or she would probably have flown the coop, too.

Coach Riley was forced to go to his substitute quarterback, and I was so sure Ryker would do well. I guess he did, over 400 yards and four touchdowns, but boy, those interceptions! Sports writers say this is the worst loss since Hawaii beat us 6-0 in 1955!

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

Murt, in Phoenix, reminded me that these were the kinds of games we all were used to back then. In fact, we would have been thrilled with the close scores, even on the losing side. But times have changed since then, and this is getting BAD!!

At least the volleyball team looked good, and he did play a few more girls. I'm still of the opinion that when your opponent is not doing well, you let all those players on the court who faithfully show up for practice every day.

How about those Royals?? I could not believe that the friends in Orlando stayed up to the bitter end; I should say they watched to the end, they have a TV in the bedroom. Our kids were reminded that Grandma died three years ago today, and she must be dancing with joy in Heaven that her team finally did it again.

I took the car for gas and a wash on Sunday; while fueling, the speaker at the pumps was playing Christmas music! I could not believe it; I did not want to believe it! I just hauled my witch to the store room this afternoon, and hung the Happy Thanksgiving pilgrim on the door.

We drove to Rising City on Sunday for a visitation. The combines were rolling, as were the semis loaded with corn. We got a glimpse in one JD cab of a little blond head riding with his Dad. It kind of gave me a lump in my throat.

And, going by the Starlite ballroom west of Wahoo, the parking lot was FULL of vehicles of all kinds; some more Polka dancing going on, I'm thinking. Almost too nice a day to be inside, but great exercise, I'm sure.

We have a friend married to the state climatologist and he predicts the second mildest El Nino since 1950; I don't mind if he's right, global warming or not!

Time to decide on all gambling here

In the game of no-limit Texas Hold 'Em poker, you're sometimes forced into deciding whether or not to go "all in."

Once again, we are looking at the possibility of being asked to decide whether or not to allow casino gambling within our borders. Three gambling-related petitions are being taken around the state by Keep the Money in Nebraska, a group that is hoping to get a question on the ballot that, if approved, would allow casinos at licensed horse racing tracks in the state.

Now if you know me well enough, you know that I'm pro-gambling and pro-casino. I believe that the state has no right to tell me how to spend my entertainment dollar, whether I decide to spend that dollar on a movie, a rock concert or a night at the blackjack table.

That being said, I think the casino question is the wrong question we should be asking. The question that should be put before voters is this — are we "all in" with ALL forms of gambling, or should we fold and get out of the game completely?

Let's be serious — both sides of the gambling fight are being propped up by outside interests. The greed-driven pro-gambling folks will be propped up by big-money casino interests who would like to expand their operations, while the morally-dubious anti-gambling nutjobs like Pat Loojter and Gambling With the Good Life are being backed by interests outside the state who are very happy with the fact that HUNDREDS of millions of dollars are leaving Nebraska and being put to good use to address our neighbors' social, educational and infrastructure issues (all areas where, not coincidentally, Nebraska is quickly falling behind in).

We already have gambling options here in Nebraska, and have had them for many years. From Bingo at the local church to pull tabs in the local bars, legalized gambling has been prevalent within our borders for decades. The addition of keno in many communities, along with the Nebraska Lottery-sponsored scratch cards and mega-jackpot games like Powerball and Nebraska Pick 5 makes the fact that there is even a question as to whether or not we should risk all the social problems that come with gambling an ironically insane question to even be asking.

According to a recent Associated Press article in the Norfolk Daily News, the Iowa Racing and Gaming Commission reported that Nebraska residents crossed the Missouri River and spent $327 million in Iowa casinos in 2013. Assuming that number didn't change last year or in 2015, we're talking about close to a BILLION dollars leaving Nebraska and being deposited in Iowa's coffers — a billion dollars that could have been used to improve some of our more pathetic highways, improved the quality of education and provided sorely-needed tax relief to the state's taxpayers. (Don't get me started on how much goes to South Dakota, Colorado or the other surrounding states.)

But what about the social problems that casino gambling brings, you ask? People who gamble beyond their means or commit gambling-related crimes would create more issues for the state.

Welcome to reality, boys and girls — those problems are ALREADY prevalent within our state's borders, and guess what? They are created in casinos OUTSIDE our state's borders, and the money that leaves the state isn't coming back to take care of those issues that we are left with on this side of the river. Why should we let one-third of a BILLION dollars leave the state every year and be stuck with the byproduct that results from people making bad decisions with their entertainment dollar, when we can have that revenue for ourselves AND address the issues that come with it?

I find it hilariously hypocritical that the anti-gambling community has their collective panties in such a tight wad over the issue of casino gambling while, at the same time, paying not one second's worth of lip service to the gambling that IS legal in the state. All this effort that is being made to kill casino gambling is taking place and telling us how bad and evil casinos are, and yet they don't spend a second talking about the gambling that IS available within our borders and the problems those games of chance create.

Rather than spend all this time and effort in the struggle to allow casinos to be built within our state, both Keep the Money in Nebraska and Gambling With the Good Life should bring the end-all-of decisions to the table for Nebraskans to vote on — either allow ALL gambling (including sports betting and online poker) to be legal within our borders, or make ALL gambling (including pickle cards, Powerball, scratch cards, keno, etc.) illegal.

It's put up or shut up time — Nebraskans should be given the choice to show their cards and decide whether or not we're "all in" on the issue of gambling.

Future of rural is discussed

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

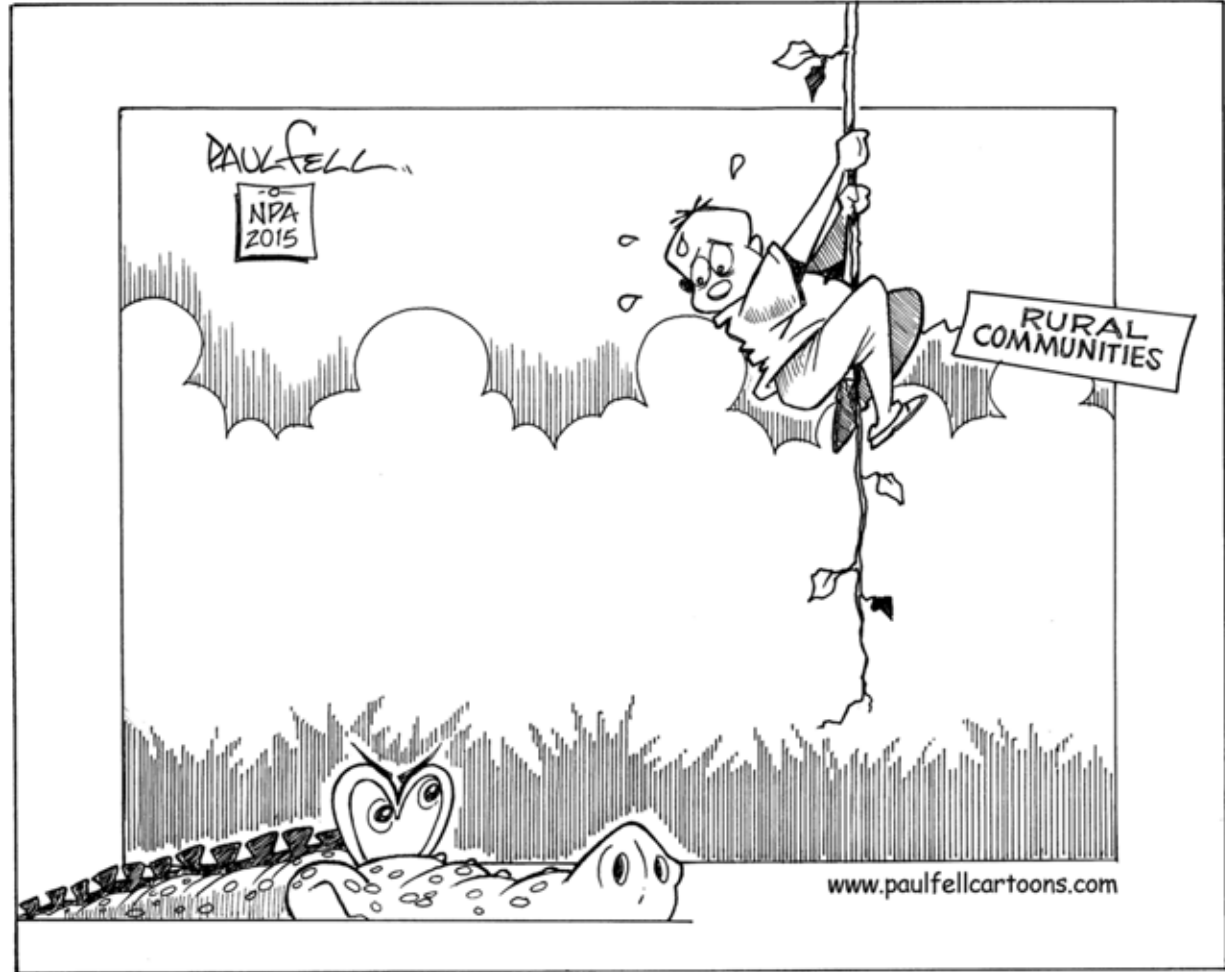

As a youngster I remember trips to Colorado to visit relatives in Greeley. We always drove through Nunn, Colo., and would comment on the water tower that proudly displayed the slogan "Watch Nunn Grow." I recently drove through Nunn, a community of 437 people between Cheyenne and Greeley. The water tower and the slogan are still there. The town looks more like it is holding on than growing. There is a new golf-ball shaped water tower in a housing development a few miles east of town that simply sports the town's name. It is obvious the town has become a bedroom community based on its proximity to places such as Greeley and even Estes Park.

Small towns. Rural communities struggling to hold their own in a mostly agricultural environment. Not just a Colorado problem, or a Nebraska problem. It's a national concern. It is not a problem that is solved by finding one more large employer to locate in or nearby the community. Smokestack chasing doesn't work anymore.

Written plans help, but only if they are implemented. A University of Nebraska official admits that the past is littered with what he called "the road kill of good ideas" for rural America that never panned out. The good news, says NU vice president for Agriculture and Natural Resources Ronnie Green, is the time is right for a sustained partnership between communities and higher education to address the challenges.

That's the goal of the Nebraska Rural Futures Institute, which recently completed its annual conference on the University's Lincoln Innovation Campus, the former Nebraska State Fairgrounds. The conference theme: Hope Inspires Vision. The opening speakers, Howard G. Buffett and son Howard W. Buffett, co-authors of the book "40 Chances: Finding Hope in a Hungry World."

Yes, Howard is the son of well-known investment oracle Warren

Buffett. They spoke about the importance of rural communities and agricultural security. Howard G. Buffett said he makes $10 million decisions in 30 seconds sometimes. That's part of the risk of philanthropic work, which he does through the Howard G. Buffett Foundation. Howard W. Buffett lives in Omaha and farms family-owned property near Tekamah. He has worked for his father's foundation and is a lecturer at the University of Nebraska - Lincoln.

The two Buffetts have worked in countries with political and economic strife, but Howard W. told conference attendees that while he and his father have spent countless days talking to farmers around the world, he appreciates the sense of community he feels when returning to his own farm. One of the greatest strengths of rural towns is that sense of community. People stepping up and lending a helping hand is a founding principle of the United States.

The Buffetts say that one of their goals has been to develop solutions and empower people to implement long-term solutions, giving them the resources they need to pull the leadership out of them. That's one of the reasons they support the goals of the Rural Futures Institute, which was established in 2012 to partner with rural communities around Nebraska and beyond to develop ideas that strengthen those communities and provide opportunities for NU students to implement those ideas.

Green says the Rural Futures Institute grew out of an earlier NU effort, the Rural Initiative, which was a good start but not ambitious or sweeping enough. The institute taps into expertise from all four campuses in the NU system. Executive Director Chuck Schroeder says he wants to help Nebraskans rethink and revitalize rural life with the emphasis on making rural communities the kinds of places where young people can build lives.

That, Schroeder says, will take a comprehensive, aggressive effort to find novel solutions. It's a matter of engaging rural residents who see both opportunities and challenges.

Schroeder says it is important to rethink what it means to live a rural lifestyle. A rural lifestyle should not be a lifestyle of last resort, but the first choice of some of the brightest and best young people who are emerging from universities today.

I like his thoughts. Let's move beyond slogans on water towers and written plans that have long been gathering dust on the shelves of public officials in every rural community in Nebraska. Let's work together to ensure a future for rural.

NSAA looking at transgender policy

A few years ago, I did a couple newsletters on the fact that the Nebraska School Activities Association (NSAA) was looking at adopting a policy addressing transgender students. That policy was never adopted, in large part because the public did not want the proposed policy. The NSAA is once again looking into this issue.

The NSAA currently requires students to participate in activities based on their biological gender. Exceptions are made due to Title IX, which allows girls to participate on a boys' team when there is no team for girls.

Thirty-eight states have a policy in place regarding transgender students. The policies range from those that allow students to participate based on the gender they identify two transgender students that have expressed an interest in sports. The proposed policy could be introduced at the November or December meeting. If you have strong feelings about this issue, it is time to contact the NSAA. They can be reached at (402) 489-0386, fax (402) 489-0934, e-mail at nsaa@nsaahome.org, or by mail at NSAA, 500 Charleston Street, Suite 1, Lincoln, Neb., 68508-1119. It is YOUR tax money that funds our schools; YOU should have some say into what policies are put in place.

Age, condition need for museum trees going to come down

All good things must come to an end — so it is with events and lives. They end for many reasons, some of which are not plain to see.

So it is with the evergreens at the Wayne County Museum. These two trees have stood since the 1940's, serving as markers for the site of one of Wayne's premier houses. Sadly, they have come to an age and condition which requires that they be removed.

The spruce has two trunks at ground level and they are pulling apart, threatening to come down at an inopportune time and cause damage or harm. The remaining tree, having been planted too close to the spruce, has a side devoid of branches. It also has a double leader up high which is destined to split and cause damage.

For the safety of all, the Historical Society has regrettably made the decision to have these trees taken down.

Wayne County

with, some policies leave it up to the individual school, and other policies require the student to have had hormone treatments or surgery. NSAA board has met in executive session to discuss a possible policy. Once they have drafted a policy it will be introduced at an open meeting with a vote at the following meeting.

There are groups that are already weighing in on the issue. The Nebraska Family Alliance and the Nebraska Catholic Conference are encouraging the board to look at a policy that would require students to participate in activities based on the gender on their birth certificate. The ACLU of Nebraska has also contacted the board, according to news releases, giving them examples of policies found in neighboring states. Those examples range from allowing participation based on their expressed gender, to the gender affirmed by their parents/guardians, or being allowed to participate based on a gender determined by a "confidential evaluation" (whatever that means) conducted by the student's school.

NSAA Executive Director Jim Tenopir has said that he knows of

Minerva Club learns about Tennessee

Phyllis Rahn entertained 11 Minerva Club members at the Wayne Senior Center on Oct. 26.

Following the noon meal, the business meeting was opened by President Joyce Mitchell who read "The Stranger" and shared old ad-ages our Mothers used as we were growing up.

Minutes were read and approved. The treasurer's report was given by Donna Hansen. Historian Hollis Frese told the group about books the Club has purchased over the years in memory of deceased members. These books have been placed in the Wayne Public Library.

Plans were discussed for the Christmas meeting. The event will include a gift exchange in the price range between $5 and $10.

In keeping with the theme "States of Our Nation," Phyllis Rahn presented a program about Tennessee. Tennessee was the 16th state to join the nation. The special Tennessee twenty-five piece shows three musical instruments: a banjo representing the bluegrass music that was born in East Tennessee, a guitar standing for the country music that has made Nashville and Middle Tennessee famous, and a trumpet representing the Memphis Blues of the western part of the state.

The Great Smokey Mountains with the low hanging clouds give Tennessee a certain charm. The mountains are made of limestone. Most of Tennessee's 13.6 million acres of forest lie in the east. More than 50 species of trees are native to the state. More than 7,000 caves have been discovered in Tennessee and about 200 more are discovered every year.

In 1812 the United States went to war with England. So many Tennesseans volunteered to fight that the state earned the nickname of the Volunteer. Andrew Jackson from Tennessee became one of the greatest heroes of the War of 1812 and later became president.

Car manufacturing opened in 1982 when Nissan opened a plant in Smyrna. Today nearly 22 percent of the state's income comes from manufacturing. Tourism continues to be important as lovers of country music, beautiful parks and other attractions travel to Tennessee.

Minerva Club will next meet on Monday, Nov. 9 at the Wayne Senior Center with Marilyn Wallin as hostess.

Medicare and diabetes part of Dec. 2 program

Those diagnosed with diabetes, family members and friends are all invited to participate in the Wednesday, Dec. 2 session offered from 1:30-4 p.m. at Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department, 215 N Pearl Street in Wayne.

Of particular interest during this program will be an explanation of Medicare benefits and how to get the most from the benefits available to you or our family members. This is an important session to attend if you have Medicare eligible family members so that you can help them navigate the system.

Everyone's path through Medicare is different, and the road that you take depends on your health care priorities. Under Medicare, you have different options to consider for how you want to receive your benefits. If you are keen on continuing to see your endocrinologist or medical team, you will want to focus on retaining access to your current providers.

Debra Schroeder, extension educator and trained SHIP Volunteer will teach the session on Medicare to help you understand the coverage and various options within Medicare available to provide your coverage.

It is important for those diagnosed with diabetes - both males and females - to learn as much as possible about the disease and make self-management of the disease a top priority in their lives. It is also important for family members and friends of those with diabetes to learn up-to-date research based information on diabetes and self-management.

Participants are asked to pre-register by calling Nebraska Extension in Wayne County at (402) 375-3310. Please register by Monday, Nov. 30 so the proper number of handouts may be prepared. Nebraska School Food Service Association has approved this session for two hours of continuing education credits for food service staff for attending.

What would Jesus post on Facebook?

I know that I have written about social media before and perhaps some will think . . . if she has such a love/hate relationship with social media why does she still have a Facebook account?

The short answer is – I work youth, campus and adult ministry, and it seems that in this day and age the best way to get information out to a lot of people is through social media. If I could figure out a different way to disseminate information to hundreds of people in a short amount of time I probably would choose a different method.

That being said, I do see the positives of social media. We are able to connect with thousands of people all over the world, we are able to see the beautiful moments in their lives and we are able to also let them keep up to date on what is going on in our lives. I absolutely love the wonderful and positive posts and I realize that our lives aren't always positive, so I also appreciate the posts regarding the struggles that we have.

The main reason I wish that I could sometimes disconnect from Facebook is due to the posts that are negative toward other people, organizations and events. I believe we all have a right to our different opinions, but I just believe that we could do this in a way without hurting people. Perhaps this isn't possible but wouldn't it be nice if it were?

I know that my writing this is possibly going to stop people from reading my articles or "unfriend" me on Facebook, but I just feel called to write about this. I have been asking myself a lot lately – what if Jesus had a Facebook account? I researched the internet and I found a lot of articles asking the same question. Here are some questions I found and I have added my own answers.

If Jesus had a Facebook account – what would it look like? I don't think Jesus would post pictures or selfies. I also don't think he would post status updates on miracles he performed or people he cured. He would want others to spread the word of God face-to-face versus posting it on the internet.

If Jesus had a Facebook page, would His posts go viral? I wish that this were the case, but I don't think it would at this time. I notice that people are almost afraid to post things related to God on Facebook, but will post many things that are not God-like. What can we do to change this? I'm not suggesting that people start posting God quotes every day because that can turn people away from their faith, but perhaps share stories of love and hope? Also, share stories of struggles so that others can help in times of need?

If Jesus had a Facebook page, would you hide all His posts? I know that I wouldn't but would some of you? I know that I have found myself hiding certain posts because I don't want to know about the games people are playing. I do however want to know about the important events in a person's life. I don't always know about celebrations or sufferings with friends and family if I don't get on Facebook. I want to know about the authentic events in life. I think Jesus would too. I have been told many times that Jesus knows what is going on in our lives but he wants us to talk to Him about it. I think if we shared our thoughts and feelings with Him on Facebook He would listen.

If Jesus had a Facebook page, would He ever post anything negative? I don't believe He would actually ever post anything, but I think others might for Him. I think He would allow a post about an event that some might think is negative but I don't think He would be negative toward others.

If Jesus had a Facebook page, how many of His posts would you share? I think this is a question each of us has to let settle into our hearts and truly ask ourselves. I would love to believe that I would share anything that Jesus says but would I? Would you?

If Jesus had a Facebook page, would you be on His friend list? And – would you unfriend him the minute he said something you didn't like? I know that I have had people that wouldn't accept my friend request and some who have unfriended me because of something I posted. I will admit that this hurts, but I realize it is a part of life. I believe that Jesus would accept a friend request from anyone and would never unfriend!

If Jesus had a Facebook page, would you follow Him? This question is more powerful than just about Facebook. Many of us go to church on Sundays, but do we truly try and follow him every day? Do we do our best to live out our lives in His name? I know that I fail repeatedly the moment I get up every day, but I also believe that He knows that I am trying. I am trying to be the best person I can despite my struggles and I try my best to love others to the best of my ability.

I know the title of this article was "What if Jesus had a Facebook account?" but I don't honestly think that he would. I don't believe Jesus was about self-promotion or even writing letters. He was truly about connecting with people on a personal level and loving everyone He encountered but He didn't do it for the glory. Although I don't believe Jesus would have a Facebook account I do think that we can be like Jesus in our Facebook postings. Let us strive to post things that would inspire others and not ones that would hurt people.

This is my challenge for myself but for anyone reading this – the next time you want to post something on Facebook ask yourself before you push send – WWJD (What Would Jesus Do?)

God bless you all!

Wayne zone fall rally held in Wakefield

The Wayne Zone LWML Fall Rally was held at St. John's Lutheran Church, Wakefield.

It was hosted by the Tri-Parish of St. Paul, Concord, Immanuel, Wakefield, and St. John, Wakefield. The theme was "BOUNTIFUL – Sow, Nourish, Reap" from 2 Cor. 9:6-11.

Pastor William Bertrand led the hymn sing and gave the opening devotion on 2 Cor. 9:6-11. A generous man will be blessed. Generous sowing, generous nourishing and generous harvesting are an honor to the Lord.

The welcome was given by President Joleen Kraemer, St. Paul, Concord.

The Bible study was given by Rev. Harrison Goodman from St.

Paul, Winside. We cannot deal in stewardship under the law. Being sinners, we use it as a controlling thing making it "what we give, we get." Christ is the giver and we are identified by what He has given us. We are baptized into Christ and receive righteousness only through Him. Jesus is the gift and the giver. We are rewarded for what He has done. He has sown and it is bountiful.

Wayne Zone President Beverly Ruwe opened the business meeting and those present recited the LWML Pledge. Minutes from the 2014 Fall Rally were read by Eunice Johnson, Wayne Zone Secretary, and were approved as read. The treasurer's report was read by Louise Green from Grace, Wayne. Books were submitted for auditing and were found to be in order.

Nominees for election were: Eunice Johnson, Secretary; Rose Mason, Vice President; Rev. Harrison Goodman and Rev. Michael Feldmann for Zone counselor.

The District report was read by Rose Mason from notes given by the Nebraska North District President Crystal Miller. Society reports need to be sent to Beverly Ruwe no later than Nov. 15 and forwarded to the District President no later than Dec. 1. Have an email contact for your society and let us know how many Leaguers and Quarterlies are needed.

Upcoming events are – Retreat, Oct. 24 to Mission Central; Joint Nebraska North/Nebraska South Servant Event April 2, 2016; District Convention Lutheran High, Norfolk, June 17-18, 2016; National Convention, Salt Lake City, June 22-25, 2017.

The Christian Growth committee presented a skit entitled "Fishing at LWML Lake." Fishing for men can be much more rewarding than ordinary fishing with the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

The guest speaker was Missionary Donna Meyer from Davenport Neb. She has trained to be a speaker for Mission Central. She has been in Africa, Indonesia and Papua, New Guinea. In these countries she was a religious educator. There are many tribal fights over witchcraft, suicides because of polygamy and very inadequate medical care. In their hospitals there is no food or laundry. Everything is upside down. In Makow, there is more money taken in at their casinos in one day than in Las Vegas in a year. The main concern is; will souls be brought in before it is too late? Jesus compels us to go.

A National Convention report was given by delegate Joleen Kraemer. She was among 4,436 registered guests. It took place in Des Moines, Iowa. The main theme was "God sends us out to reap the many blessings He has sown."

An invitation to the Spring Workshop will be announced at the January Wayne Zone board meeting. Immanuel, Laurel will host the 2016 Fall Rally. Attendance at the rally was 41 including four pastors and two guests. Offering was $271. In-gathering was $715, which was given to Donna Meyer.

Election report: Rose Mason – Wayne Zone Vice President, Eunice Johnson – Wayne Zone Secretary and Pastor Harrison Goodman – Wayne Zone Counselor.

Rev. Goodman gave the closing prayer after which the group sang "Lutheran Women One and All."

Call for Information

ATTENTION PATIENTS AND VISITORS

On Monday, November 2, Providence Medical Center transitioned to a new electronic health record (EHR) system. We've spent hours and hours training and practicing in preparation for this event, but things may be a little slower than usual as our staff becomes familiar with the system. The reasons for transitioning to the new EHR include enhanced patient safety, greater information security and (eventually) facilitation of more staff efficiency.

Thank you for your patience and understanding.
