Teachers discuss keeping students engaged

Board accepts physical therapy termination by PMC

By CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

Ways to keep students motivated, engaged and provide individualized instruction were shared by fourth grade teachers during Monday's meeting of the Wayne Community School's Board of Education.

Fourth-grade teachers Kim Hix, Colleen Janke and Winter Stewart had earlier presented information at an Educational Service Unit conference on test-taking strategies they use in regard to standardized tests, and shared an abbreviated form of their presentation with the board.

The three talked about how they use data to get to know students and learn what is best for each individual student. They also spoke on the need to keep students engaged and motivated throughout the year.

Board members expressed appreciation to the teachers and the work they do with the students and noted that the district test scores indicate the strategies are effective.

Superintendent Mark Lenihan provided information to the board on the status of playground equipment at the Early Learning Center. He told the board the district is working with Wayne State College students on a community service project.

The Wayne State students met with the four-year olds at the preschool and discussed what the younger kids would like to see on the playground. A drawing has been put together and we hope to have the work done soon.

"We had budgeted $25,000 for the equipment, but with all the partners in this project, we expect to spend far less than that,"

Lenihan said.

In other action, the board accepted a signed notice of termination of therapy services from Providence Medical Center for the district.

The notice affects occupational and physical therapy services for the district and not the athletic trainer. It will take effect with the start of the second semester in January of 2016.

The district plans to contract these services through Educational Service Unit No. 1.

Lenihan also gave highlights of the recently completed 2014-2015 school district audit and highlighted a number of items. He said the district received no deficiencies and noted several areas he would like to address in the future, including replacing tables in the junior-senior high lunch room to make them safer for those who work with them.

Wayne Community Schools Foundation director Lindsay McLaughlin reported that the annual campaign letter for the Foundation will be distributed in the near future.

Board members also listened to information on the district's recent safety evaluation and learned that a very favorable report was received. Improvements such as markings and crossing guards near the school have been positively received. Providing some type of security cameras at the Early Learning Center is one of the areas the district will work on in the future to continue to make the school as safe as possible.

The board will next meet in regular session on Monday, Dec. 14 at 5 p.m. in Room 108 at the high school.

WAYNE AREA VETS HONORED AT SCHOOL'S VETERANS' DAY CEREMONY

'Weird' veteran delivers speech for Veterans' Day

By CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

Labeling himself the 'weirdest veteran who ever spoke at a Veterans' Day program," Fr. Mark Beran spoke to the students and guests at Wayne Community Schools' Veterans Day program on Wednesday.

Fr. Beran, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne, served as a chaplain for the Nebraska National Guard from 2004-2008, including time in Iraq from 2006-2008.

Fr. Beran said he was the only soldier who "never carried a gun, and even though I was an officer, I could not give anyone orders."

Instead, Fr. Beran's role in the military was to ensure the religious liberty of all soldiers.

"The soldiers have to sacrifice a lot when they are serving in the military, but the one thing they should not have to sacrifice is the ability to practice their faith, whatever faith that may be," he told the veterans, students and guests at the program.

Fr. Beran spoke of the various roles he played while in Iraq and noted that it was a "great privilege to be a counselor for soldiers who had any struggles while serving their country."

He said that while in Iraq, his battalion lost four soldiers and "the hardest thing I have ever had to do was to send the soldiers home; but it was also a tremendous honor."

He concluded his remarks by challenging his audience to always welcome those veterans in the audience and all who made the sacrifice to serve their country.

Natalie Bentjen, a seventh grader, and Brock Hopkins, an eighth grader, read patriotic poems during the program and the Wayne High School Band performed several selections, including a salute to the various branches of the military.

Taps were played by Jacob Abraham and Mikayla Bartos.

Colors were presented by three Wayne High School students who are members of the Nebraska National Guard, Colby Keiser, Jorge Vergara and Jasen Davis, along with Wayne High teacher Brendan Dorsey, who is also a member of the Guard.

All the students at Wayne Community Schools, as well as a number of community members, were part of this year's program. Wayne Community Schools Superintendent Mark Lenihan served as the master of ceremonies for the program.

ATM thieves to do time in state pen

Two area men who stole an ATM machine from a Hoskins bank will both serve time in the state penitentiary after being sentenced in Wayne County District Court last week.

Jacob Christiansen, 23, of Norfolk and Cody Murphee, 22, of Wayne received identical sentences from District Judge James G. Kube of 30-60 months in the Nebraska State Penitentiary for their role in the June 23 burglary of Elkhorn Valley Bank & Trust in Hoskins, where they shattered a glass door and stole an ATM machine from the building.

As part of their sentence, both Christiansen and Murphee will receive credit for 133 days already served in jail. They are ordered to pay their share of restitution in the amount of $13,900, in addition to $145 in court costs.

A third man involved in the burglary — 24-year old David Rhodes of Carroll, is scheduled to be sentenced on Wednesday, Dec. 2 in Wayne County District Court.

Sheriff's Office investigating Nov. 2 incident of aggressive driver

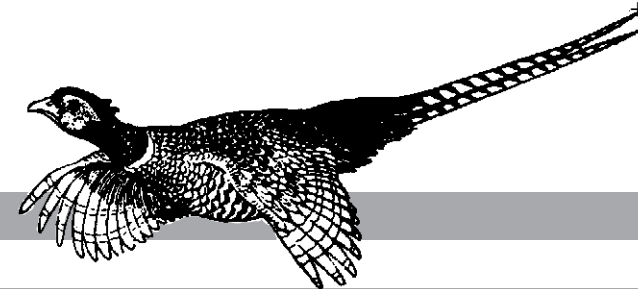

The Wayne County Sheriff's Office is investigating an incident that occurred Nov. 2 that caused four separate collisions.

An aggressive driver was ramming into vehicles, causing them to leave the roadway. The driver caused four separate collisions over the course of eight miles on Highway 35 before he was stopped by the Wayne Police Department as he drove into Wayne.

The sheriff's department is not releasing the driver's name or any possible legal charges, pending the outcome of the investigation.

None of the drivers or passengers involved with the collisions required medical treatment. Damage estimates are still forthcoming.

The Wayne County Sheriff's Office was assisted by the Wayne Police Department and the Nebraska State Patrol.

Obituaries

Eileen Mohlfeld

Eileen Emma Mohlfeld, 78, formerly of Nevada, Mo., died Tuesday, Nov. 3, 2015 at her son's home in Oronogo.

Services were held Friday, Nov. 6 at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Fort Scott, Kan. with Pastor Theodore Cook, Sr. officiating. Burial was in the Fort Scott National Cemetery. Ferry Funeral Home in Nevada, Mo.

Eileen Emma Mohlfeld was born Dec. 17, 1936 in Wisner, the daughter of George and Martha (Hass) Wilhelm. On July 8, 1961 she married Alvin Otto Mohlfeld at St. Matthews Lutheran Church and he preceded her in death on Nov. 11, 2012. Eileen lived with her family on a farm in Wisner where she also attended school, graduating as Valedictorian of the Class of 1954. She and Alvin were the proud parents of four children whom were all born while they family lived on the Nebraska farm.

In the mid-1980's the family moved to Missouri, settling on a farm near Moundville after deciding they might enjoy a bit warmer climate. She and Alvin both worked at the Nevada Habilitation Center for a time and after 22 years of employment Eileen retired in 2008. In early 2013 Eileen moved to Oronogo to be near family.

She was a lifelong homemaker who was well known for her fried chicken, pumpkin and pecan pies, cinnamon twists, and her love of anything chocolate. When time allowed she enjoyed flower gardening, birdwatching, and caring for her cats. But her greatest joy came from spending time with her family, especially spoiling her grandchildren and great grandchildren. She was a longtime member of the First Trinity Lutheran Church in Altona, Neb., before moving her membership to the Trinity Lutheran Church in Fort Scott, Kan. While attending church in Nebraska she served with the Ladies Aid Committee within the church and was also a member of the local Garden Club.

Survivors include her four children, Clark and Connie Mohlfeld of Bennington; Scott and Cheri Mohlfeld of Liberal; Judith and Darryl Evans of Olathe, Kan.; and Keith Mohlfeld and fiancé Lisa Jenkins of Oronogo; grandchildren, Brandon, Dalton, Haley, Paige, and Triston Mohlfeld, Danielle Kimerer, Brittany Evans, Gabriel Jenkins, Christopher Canet, and Cordell, Keeley, and Kelsey Ross; great grandchildren, Brody Ely, Jacklyn and Eloise Kimerer, Branton Walker, Toran Peel, and Dayton Morley; brother-in-law, Carl Henshaw; brother-in-law and sister-in-law Harvey and Bonnie Mohlfeld; and sister-in-law June Wilhelm; cousins, nieces and nephews, along with other extended family members. Of special mention is her beloved kitty, Bobbi, whom was her constant companion.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Alvin; a brother, Donald Wilhelm and sister-in-law, Betty Henshaw.

Contributions in her memory may be made to the National Parkinson's Foundation or Hospice Compassus in Lamar in care of Ferry Funeral Home.

Arrangements were with Ferry Funeral Home in Nevada, Mo.

Pet of the Week

The Pet of the Week at Tender-Heart Animal Rescue is Muffin, a little 4 month old blue-cream tortie kitten. She was a stray from the Wayne Vet Clinic. Muffin has had a difficult time, coming down with an intestinal issue that threatened her life. She is doing well now and we are hoping for someone to treasure her as we do.

If this is the kind of companion you are looking for, contact Tenderheart at (402) 369-3060.

Salvation Army Kettle Campaign to begin soon

It is that time of year again, when in the hustle and bustle of the holidays, the sight of The Salvation Army's Christmas Kettles and the sound of the bells remind us to be thankful for what we have and to think of others less fortunate.

Often when people think of those in need, they picture the homeless in large cities, not realizing The Salvation Army is hard at work here in Wayne America.

As cuts in social services takes a toll on the poor-particularly the rural poor- The Salvation Army in Wayne is asking for our community support. Proceeds from the campaign help local residents with emergency rent, utilities and prescriptions.

The Salvation Army is a United Way Agency. Several local businesses have consented to have the Kettles on display. Businesses with Kettles are Wayne East, Shopko, Bomgaars, Quality Foods, and Pac 'N' Save.

The Wayne Association of Congregations and Ministers have consented to bring their youth and parish members out to ring bells for an hour when possible along with a few Boys Scouts.

There still are vacant slots that need to be filled Friday evenings and Saturday mornings throughout the month of December. Any organization or individual interested in helping is encouraged to contact Phyllis Rahn at (402) 375-1667.

"Your assistance will be much appreciated," Rahn said.

In recent years, the Salvation Army was one of the first agencies that was on the spot during the tornado disasters in 2013 and 2014. Please keep this in mind as you give this season.

Fred G. Dale Planetarium continues fall season

The Fred G. Dale Planetarium at Wayne State College hosts its 2015 Fall season of public shows on Fridays at 7 and 8 p.m. Saturday shows will begin at 2 and 3 p.m.

For this fall season, the planetarium will cycle through 12 different shows, including some brand new shows like Compass, Clock, and Calendar, Earth, Moon, and Sun, and One World, One Sky: Big Bird's Adventure. Included in each show will be a tour of the night sky and a constellation song. Subsequent shows will be on every Friday night and Saturday afternoon until Nov. 21. The suggested donation for all shows is $5 for adults and $3 for kids.

Upcoming shows include:

Friday, Nov. 13 at 8 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 14 at 3 p.m.: "Back to the Moon for Good" - Immerse yourself in a race to return to the Moon 40 years after the historic Apollo landings. See how a competition among privately funded international teams is ushering in a new era of lunar exploration. Learn about the Moon's resources and discover what humanity's future on the Moon might hold. Narrated by Tim Allen, Back To The Moon For Good presents the Google Lunar XPRIZE, and the personal stories of competition and collaboration it inspires. (Target audience age 5 - adult)

Friday, Nov. 13 at 7 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 14 at 2 p.m.: "Rusty Rocket" - Lift off with Rusty Rocket and learn rocket basics, relive great moments in space exploration, and discover how far it really is to the moon and planets. After decades of teaching rocket rookies the basics of rocket physics, Rusty Rocket has announced that this will be his last blast, and he already has plans for how he will spend his free time. Meanwhile, Rusty has one final mission to command: an introductory tour of the solar system for a class of rocket rookies that focuses on the wide variety of planetary environments. Rusty really emphasizes the immense distances between the planets. (target audience age 0 - 10 years)

Friday, Nov. 20 at 8 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 21 at 3 p.m.: "Cosmic Colors" - Enjoy a wondrous journey through the world of color and beyond. Discover why the sky is blue, why Mars is red, and the reason why many things are the color that they are. Tour the interior of a planet leaf, voyage through a human eye, then step into the invisible universe as you investigate x-rays by taking on a monstrous black hole. Explore the world of infrared in a roaring fire, and even discover what may have been the actual color of a dinosaur. Explore the amazing rainbow of cosmic light through Cosmic Colors. (target audience age 5 - adult)

Friday, Nov. 20 at 7 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 21 at 2 p.m.: "Astronaut" - This immersive planetarium show will take you from Earth into space ... and beyond. Experience a rocket launch from inside the body of an astronaut. Explore the amazing worlds of inner and outer space, from floating around the International Space Station to maneuvering through microscopic regions of the human body. Discover perils that lurk in space for a test astronaut and everything that space has to throw at him. ASTRONAUT is an experience like nothing on Earth.

The nearly 100 year old home of Dana and Sonya Tompkins (top) and the newly constructed home of Matt and Melissa Eischeid (bottom) will be among those on this year's Friends of the Wayne Museum Tour of Homes.

Tour of Homes offers insight into Wayne history

The Friends of the Wayne Museum have set the dates and announced the names of those who will have their homes open for this year's Tour of Homes.

Five homes in Wayne and the Wayne Museum will be part of this year's tour, set for Friday and Saturday, Nov. 20-21. Tours will take place from 5-8:30 p.m. on Friday and 11 a.m.-2:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Homes on this year's tour include Dana and Sonya Tompkins, Mark Kanitz and Lukas Rix, Casey and Shona Junck, Adam and Lanie Sevenson and Matt and Melissa Eischeid. In addition, the Wayne County Museum will be decorated and a part of the tour.

Tickets are $15 each, with proceeds from the event going toward general upkeep of the museum.

Advance tickets for the event may be purchased at all Wayne homes or at the Wayne Area Economic Development Office. Tickets will also be sold at the museum during the tour.

The home of Dana and Sonya Tompkins is located at 414 West Fourth Street.

The Tompkins purchased their American four square home in 2012. It has elements of Prairie School and Craftsman styles. It has been known to Wayne residents as the Dr. Walter and Phebe Benthack home. The Tompkins are the sixth family to own the home, which was originally built by John Harrington Sr. in 1919. Harrington owned a lumber yard in Wayne where Carhart's is currently located.

The property includes a detached garage and cottage that was rented until the 1940's. The only addition to the home since it was built is the large family room that was added in 2002 by former owners Roger and Carol Niemann.

Unique features of the home include the beautiful quarter-sawn oak woodwork and floors. There are original built-ins in the office, dining room and breakfast nook. A wood-burning fireplace adorns the living room and is enjoyed by the family on cold winter nights.

Since purchasing the home, the Tompkins have done many renovations keeping to Craftsman style. The kitchen and two bathrooms have been completely redone. They removed the wall between the kitchen and family room and installed new quarter-sawn oak cabinets, soapstone counter tops and hickory flooring in the kitchen.

Renovating the upstairs bathroom involved three men slowly lugging a 300+ pound cast iron pedestal tub up the stairs one step at a time. In Sonya's opinion, "this was the most nerve-wracking part of the project."

New fixtures have been installed throughout. In addition to renovating the basement, the exterior and every room have been repainted.

Christmas is the Tompkins favorite time of the year and every room is decorated. The dining room is decorated with the family's collection of nutcrackers, a tradition with Dana's family since he attended the Nutcracker Ballet as a boy. The table is set with Christmas china belonging to Sonya's mother. While there are many Christmas trees throughout the home, the most meaningful is the real tree in the family room, lovingly decorated with ornaments significant to family memories.

The home of Matt and Melissa Eischeid is located at 227 Fairway

Circle.

Matt and Melissa purchased this lot in 2010 because of the beautiful view of the 18th hole on the golf course and the quiet, friendly neighborhood. With Matt being an avid golfer, this was the perfect location.

They moved into their house in May of 2011. Matt takes pride in their house as much of the work was completed by him. He laid the hardwood flooring that covers a majority of the main floor. He also crafted the arched doorways in the formal dining room and kitchenette area, as well as the entry to the hallway leading to the two bedrooms on the south end of the house. At Melissa's request, the house was designed with the master suite on the opposite end of the house.

The deck was also built by Matt and is a wonderful area for getting together with friends on those warm summer evenings and provides a gorgeous view of the 18th hole of the golf course.

The Eischeids enjoy spending time downstairs in their movie room. It features a projector displaying movie after movie on the 110-inch screen. And what is a movie without concessions? Head over to the bar area where visitors will find a bar top that was constructed by the Wayne High School wood-working class, taught by Dave Hix. It was finished by Matt. The wood came from the farm where Matt grew up. The floating shelves in the bar area are an added touch of rustic to the lounging area.

The Eischeids said, "Whether it's relaxing on the wrap around couch watching the latest movie, or playing a game of pool, friends and family are always welcome at our home."

Anderson announces resignation

The vice president for academic affairs at Wayne State College has announced that he is stepping down from the position next year.

The Wayne Stater reported in its latest issue that Dr. Michael Anderson has announced his resignation from the position he has held since 2012. His resignation is effective June 30, 2016.

Anderson was born in Wayne and spent a good deal of his childhood here, according to the Stater story. His grandparents lived in Wayne for about 50 years.

Anderson has worked in a variety of teaching and administrative positions during his career, including stops at Lincoln East High School, University of Nevada-Las Vegas, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Clarke College and Wisconsin-Platteville. He earned his bachelor's and master's degrees from UNL in 1985 and 1993, respectively, and earned his doctorate degree in administration, curriculum and instruction from UNL in 1997.

In an e-mail to the school's faculty and staff, Wayne State College President Dr. Marysz Rames said that Anderson's early announcement will give school officials an opportunity to conduct a search for his replacement. She said she will work with leaders of the faculty senate to help appoint a search committee that would be involved in the selection process.

"I know we all wish him well in his future endeavors," Rames said in her e-mail. "I want to thank Dr. Anderson for his dedication to Wayne State College."

Anderson was not available for comment at press time.

Wayne NHS students honored

Induction ceremonies were held Nov. 9 for the Wayne High School National Honor Society members. The group was also recognized during the monthly Honor Coffee, hosted by the Wayne Community Schools' Board of Education. Among the activities the Honor Society members take part in was assistance with Parent-Teacher Conferences, which were held this week at the school. Those inducted into NHS this year were (front) Mason Reynolds, Thorin McBride, Cole Koenig and Colby Keiser. (middle) Michaela Fehring, Amanda Stabler, Anna Loberg, Sylvia Jager, Mikayla Bartos and Tabitha Belt. (back) Meg Osnes, Mikyla Bartos, Peyton Roach, Danica Schaefer, Jenessa Kardell and Morgan Carson.

New, traditional activities part of Christmas on Main Christmas on Main is set for Thursday, Nov. 19 in downtown Wayne.

Many activities will be packed into this night leading into the holidays of Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The Parade of Lights will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the corner of Sixth and Main and proceed south to First Street.

This year, entrants will be sorted into two categories, with the Fall/Thanksgiving themed entries leading the parade, followed by the Christmas/holiday entries. Registration forms are being accepted by calling the Wayne Area Economic Development Office.

Among other events taking place that night will be the Fantasy Forest.

Businesses are partnering with local organizations to display decorated trees throughout the Commercial Historic District. By visiting all the displays, shoppers will be entered into a drawing for prizes donated by the merchants. The Farmers Market will have hot cocoa, cider and S'mores available around a fire pit and a Living Nativity will be set up by volunteers from Our Savior Church.

Children will be able to visit Santa and have their picture taken with the jolly elf. Carolers will be on the street and stores will offer special holiday deals and treats.

The Wayne Optimist Club plans to warm the crowds with a soup supper that will be served at Our Savior Lutheran Church from 5-7 p.m.

Something new this year will be the Jolly Trolley that will take riders on a short jaunt around the area spotlighting festively lit properties, including the Rix/Kanitz home that will be decorated for the Friends of the Museum Tour of Homes.

Drug testing, 8-man football approved by Wakefield board

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Junior- and senior-high students who want to participate in extracurricular activities at Wakefield Community Schools may need to take a drug test before they can participate.

The Wakefield Board of Education unanimously passed a random drug testing policy at Monday's meeting that allows the school to randomly test students for drugs or alcohol, with penalties and education opportunities to be made available for those who test positive for drugs or alcohol.

Superintendent Mark Bejot told The Wayne Herald late Monday that the policy is being used as an opportunity to educate children on the dangers of drugs and alcohol and not a "gotcha" form of discipline.

"The policy is designed around educating kids about drugs and trying to give them an opportunity to think about whether or not they should take them, and that they might be tested after taking them," he said.

The school will work with Faith Regional Family Medicine out of Wayne in administering the urine tests at the school. Students will be assigned a number, and the Wayne facility will select a series of approximately 10-12 numbers at random to determine which students will be asked to submit a urine test.

Bejot said that, starting with the winter-season athletics and activities, students and their parents would need to sign an agreement before a student is allowed to go out for that activity. If the number assigned to their name is drawn, they would need to submit to a random drug test.

Positive tests would be confirmed before a student would face consequences. First-time offenders would face a 30-day suspension from participating in activities. A second offense would lead to a 60-day sit-out period, while a third offense would be a 180-day suspension - the equivalent of one school year. In the second and third offenses, the student would have to appear before the school board to ask for reinstatement, while the third offense would include drug and alcohol counseling classes that would be paid for by the student's parents.

"We're not drug testing every kid in school," Bejot said. "The Supreme Court has been very clear that schools can't test every kid, but if they are out for an extracurricular activity, you can test them."

The Wakefield school board also decided to stick with the eight-man game for football in 2016 and 2017, voting unanimously to remain at the eight-man level rather than go back to playing 11-man football.

Bejot said that athletic director Matt Brenn and coach Mike Hassler provided numbers that indicated it would be better to stay at the eight-man level, even though Wakefield would be ineligible for the state playoffs.

"They met with the boys who were interested in playing football, and we're going to be at around 30 players and they voted overwhelmingly to stay eight-man," Bejot said.

The benefits of staying at the eight-man level include allowing the younger, less-experienced players to play a six-game JV schedule, something they were unable to do when the team played 11-man ball in 2012 and 2013.

"We had to cancel a lot of our JV games the last couple of years we played at the 11-man level," Bejot said. "I think we played only one or two games, so the kids in the younger grades weren't getting any experience. Now, we've got six JV games planned and a lot of those younger kids will be able to play and get some experience, whereas if we stayed at 11 we'd risk injuries and have to play younger kids."

Bejot said a number of schools are transitioning from either 11-man to eight-man or from eight-man to six-man, and by staying in the eight-man game, more kids will have a chance to play and enjoy the game.

"You want to have success, but you also want them to be able to play, and we feel we're accomplishing that with what we're going by staying at eight-man," he said.

LCC to switch to 8-man football

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

After a two-year stretch that saw their football team forfeit a third of their games due to a lack of available players, the Laurel-Concord-Coleridge Board of Education decided to make the move from 11-man football to the eight-man game.

At Tuesday's meeting held in Coleridge, the LCC board unanimously approved a recommendation by school administration to make the change from 11-man football to eight-man football. The eight-man game was a staple in Coleridge, where the school won three eight-man state titles prior to the start of their co-op arrangement with Laurel-Concord in 2010. The two school districts merged in 2014.

LCC athletic director T.J. Shiers told The Wayne Herald that the district's projected number of boys interested in playing high school football over the next several years dictated the move from 11-man football to the eight-man game.

"Our realistic estimate (for 2016-17) was about 24 and then 26 the year after," he said. "With next year's freshmen and their parents who expressed interest in going out for football, and those older students who talked to us about going out, we thought it was the best option available and made that recommendation to the board."

Shiers said that current staffing at the school was also taken into consideration, as the school will be looking to hire a new football coach but have not publicly advertised for the position as of press time.

Shiers said the school administration received feedback from the community as well, and much of the feedback was positive as far as making the move from 11-man to eight-man for the 2016 and 2017 seasons.

"I think more people were supporting the move to eight-man," he said. "We didn't have any public input at the meeting Tuesday, but we had received input before and I think the majority of the people in the district are in favor of going eight-man."

The LCC enrollment number for students in grades 9-11 (84) is just over the limit set by the Nebraska School Activities Association as far as being eligible for the playoffs in eight-man football, so the Bears will not be able to compete in the playoffs in 2016 and 2017.

As far as the LCC administration is concerned, it's more about giving kids the chance to play rather than worry about competing for a state championship.

"We made the decision because we thought it was the best thing for the program," Shiers said.

Youth being served this hoop season

So you're all set for an exciting winter full of Wayne State basketball, eh?

Got your tickets? Good.

Updated your Wildcat sportswear? Check.

Got enough diapers to get through March Madness?

Wait... what???

Call them Diaper Dandies, Young Guns, Junior Jumpers or whatever kid-based nickname comes to mind - you're going to be seeing a lot of the majority of young men and women sporting the Black and Yellow in Rice Auditorium the next couple of years, as both Brian Dolan and Chris Kielsmeier will field young basketball squads during the 2015-16 season.

Believe it or not, Dolan's third edition of the Wildcat men's basketball team is actually younger (in average age) than last year's team, which was so young that half the guys had trouble getting into R-rated movies at the Majestic Theater.

Of the 17 players on this year's Wildcat roster, 15 are freshmen or sophomores. Fifth-year senior David Andersen and junior Joel Heesch are the lone "senior citizens" on this year's men's team.

The good news for Dolan and Co. is that, in spite of all that youth, there is a good deal of experience. Many of the sophomores on the team were green freshmen last year who were thrown to the Wolves (and Golden Bears, Warriors, Mavericks, etc.) and got a healthy dose of on-the-job training that will serve them well this season.

There are some young first-year freshmen that could make an immediate impact (keep an eye on Adam Moon and Vance Janssen), and some others who will redshirt (including Wayne High standout Ben Hoskins) and provide future depth for the Wildcats.

The key for this year's team - and for the fans who support them - is patience. While all five of the projected starters are returning from last year (except for Andersen, who started some in 2013-14 and sat out last year with an injury), this is still a very young squad that will face some tough competition, including top-ranked Augustana in their NSIC debut later this month at Rice Auditorium.

I know longtime Wildcat fans are anxious to see the men's basketball team return to their high-flying form from years past, and this is a team that has what Dolan called "an unlimited ceiling" in terms of potential. This team was picked 15th in the NSIC, but I won't be the least bit surprised to see them improve on last year's 7-22 record.

Down the hall, the Wayne State women's program is once again pre-season ranked and picked to finish high in the Northern Sun Conference, but one has to wonder how much of that is based on past reputation, rather than returning talent?

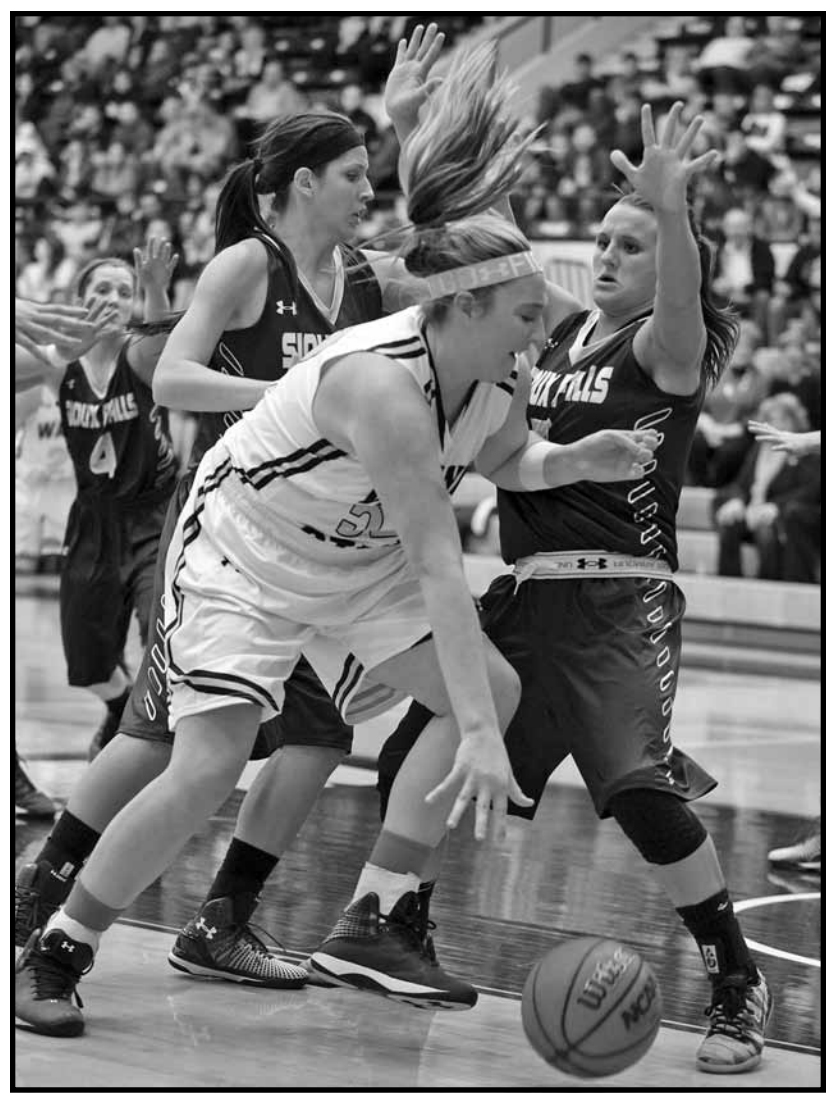

Kielsmeier lost three major cogs to a machine that went 26-7, won the NSIC regular-season title and reached the Central Region semifinals a year ago. The top three scorers all graduated, leaving behind some big shoes to fill.

While there is some good young talent back, the good news is that this team is not as young as their male counterparts and has some solid leadership returning in the form of more experienced players like senior Sadie Murren, one of two returning starters along with sophomore Maggie Schulte, who had a breakout freshman campaign last year in the small-forward position.

Fellow sophomore Paige Ballinger was one of the first ones off the bench, but she's stepping into the starting post position quite nicely - and she'll need to.

It was supposed to be a breakout season for Wayne High grad and Wildcat senior Katie Hoskins, but a freak knee injury in practice has sidelined her. Her presence would

'Cats open with Crossover Classic

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Wayne State women's basketball coach Chris Kielsmeier said his young team will find out where they stand rather quickly when they open the 2015-16 season this weekend with the Crossover Classic presented by The Wayne Herald.

Three conferences are represented by this year's four-team tournament. Wayne State and Northern State of the Northern Sun Conference will be joined by Lindenwood from the MIAA and William Jewell from the Great Lakes Valley Conference.

Kielsmeier said it's good for his team to be a part of the tournament, and even better that they get to open the season in the friendly confines of Rice Auditorium, where Wayne State is 89-7 in Kielsmeier's seven years as the Wildcat mentor.

"It's exciting to open with a tournament and have it at home, and I'm thankful that The Wayne Herald is sponsoring our tournament," he said. "It's not easy to get teams to come to a tournament because everybody wants to host them, but it brings more excitement to the community and you hope you can put your best foot forward as a community and a school and a program, so we're very excited to be able to host it."

Kielsmeier said area fans should see four hotly-contested basketball games this Friday and Saturday, starting with the Wildcats' opener against the Lindenwood Lady Lions, who went 11-16 last year and return several key players from what was a young team.

On Saturday, the Wildcats will face William Jewell from the GLVC, who are off to a 1-2 start after tipping off the season in the CCA Div. II Tip-Off Classic in Anaheim, Calif., last month.

"Both teams have a lot of talent coming back and should be good teams this year, but how well they play early on remains to be seen," Kielsmeier said. "It's a matter of settling down and playing within the flow of your system, and it will be a big test for us this weekend."

Losses to ranked rivals have Wildcats seeking new groove

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

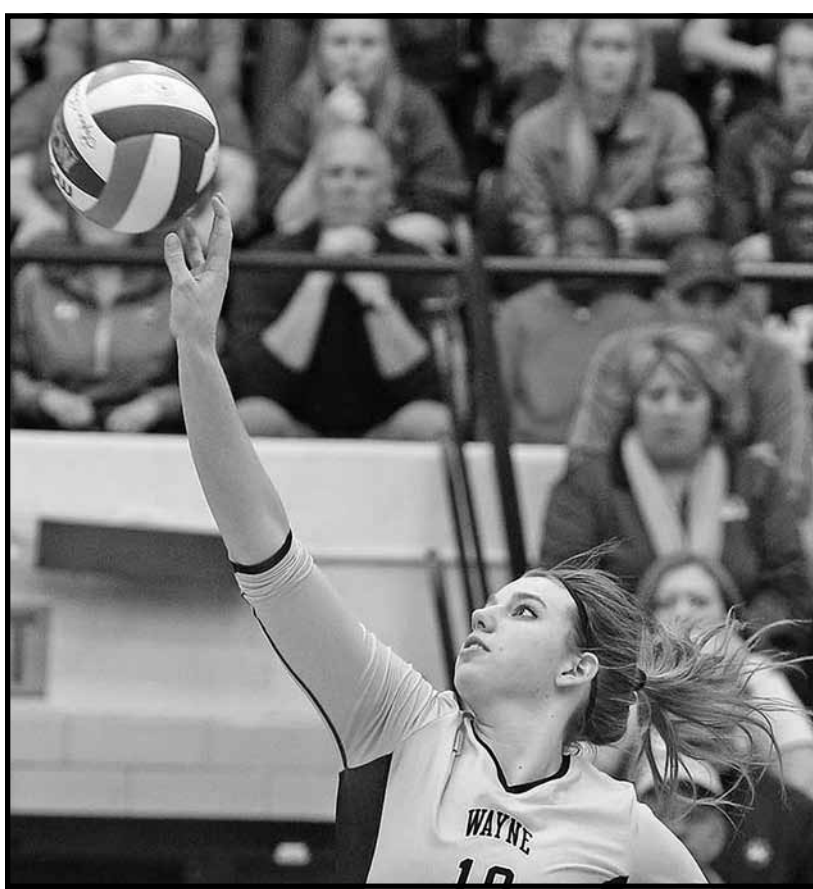

The Golden Apple Trophy and in-state bragging rights were on the line Tuesday in Rice Auditorium. For visiting Nebraska-Kearney, there was much more to play for.

With the 12th-ranked Lopers needing a win to keep in contention for a spot in the NCAA regional, the visitors marched into Rice Auditorium and outlasted fourth-ranked Wayne State, coming away with a 25-22, 25-22, 25-19 win in front of a predominantly black-clad crowd of 1,162 fans.

The Lopers simply dominated Wayne State at the net, hitting .271 as a team and riding the three-headed monster of Kaitlynn Thomas, Annie Wolfe and Tara Ziegels, who combined for 34 of the Lopers' 50 kills on the night.

"They played as good as they could possibly play, and we made some crucial mistakes and couldn't pull it out," coach Scott Kneiff said after the Wildcats' loss for the second time in their last three matches. "We would look like we'd get going, and then we'd spin our wheels and they were just on and had everything rolling."

Two starters lead young Wildcat women's team

Eighth-year Wayne State women's basketball coach Chris Kielsmeier needs to replace his top three scorers and three starters from last year's team that was 28-6 overall, advancing to the NCAA Div. II National Tournament for the fifth time in the last six seasons.

Kielsmeier

The Wildcats won the Northern Sun Conference regular-season title for a second straight year and fourth time in the last five years (18-4), but needs to replace three-year starters Jordan Spencer and Ashton Yossi, who rank seventh and eighth in scoring.

Wynot sophomore Maggie Schulte is one of two starters back for the Wayne State women's basketball team. The Wildcats are looking to win a third straight NSIC regular-season title and return to the national tournament after a 28-6 season last year.

Youth being served for older, wiser Wildcat men

Young, yet experienced is one way to describe the Wayne State College men's basketball team heading into the 2015-16 season.

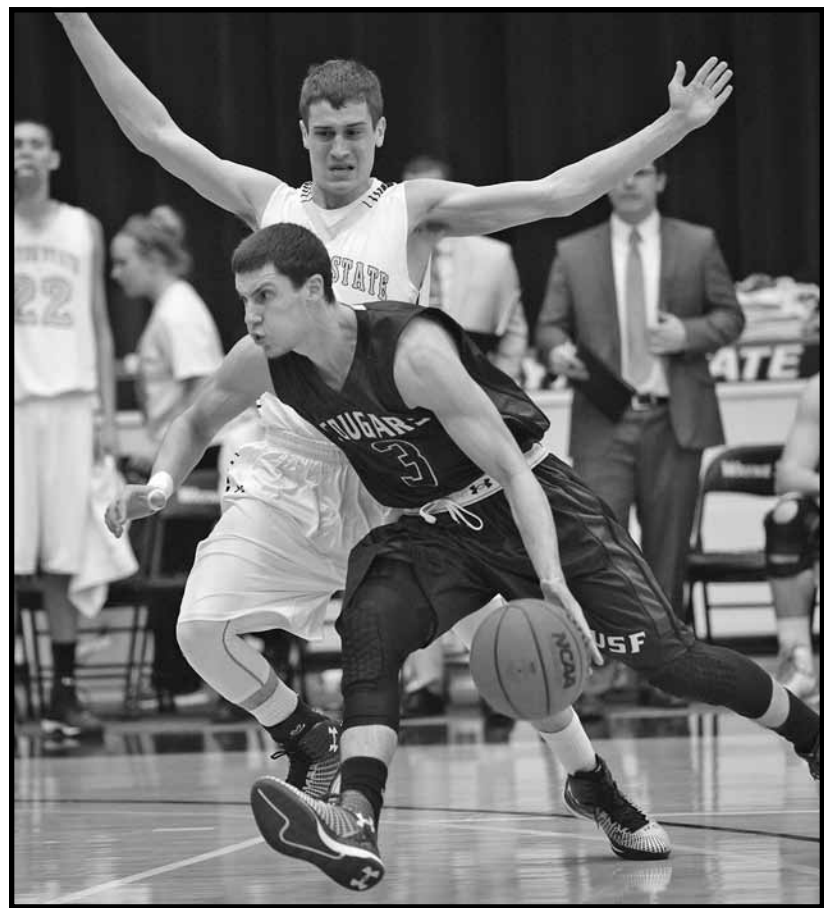

Third-year head coach Brian Dolan begins the season with a roster of 17 players, but has just one senior and one junior to go with eight sophomores and seven freshmen as the Wildcats try to improve on last year's 7-22 record.

Last season, the Wildcats posted a 4-18 mark in the Northern Sun Conference with a starting lineup that included one senior, one sophomore and three true freshmen. That young lineup matured as the season progressed and the Wildcats finished the final month of conference play with a 4-5 record. The youthful returnees, along with a talented group of eight newcomers, has Dolan expecting a better finish than the 15th place prediction.

Wildcats lose Egg Bowl thriller in OT

Upper Iowa got the last word in on the 27th annual Michael Foods Egg Bowl on Saturday, getting a field goal in the second overtime period to post a 34-31 win over Wayne State on Saturday at Cunningham Field.

The visitors rallied with a 17-point fourth quarter to force overtime and ultimately come away with the victory.

Upper Iowa scored first on a 39-yard pass play from quarterback Brent Lammers to Derrick Portis midway through the first period, but the Wildcats answered later in the period with a defensive score. Logan Weinandt batted down a backwards pass, and the ball was picked up by Jonathan Bland. His 37-yard scoop-and-score tied the game at 7-7, and it would stay that way until just before halftime when Taylor Reedy found freshman wide receiver and Wayne High graduate Tayib Toussaint on a 20-yard scoring play to give the Wildcats a 14-7 halftime advantage.

Sam Simon hit a season-long 41-yard field goal in the third period to extend Wayne State's lead to 17-7, and after Upper Iowa scored early in the fourth quarter, Wayne State appeared to put things out of reach when Reedy hit Marcel Dunson with a 42-yard touchdown pass to make it 24-14 with 6:50 to go.

Upper Iowa responded with two scores, getting a five-yard touchdown pass from Lammers to Trey McTaggart with 5:06 left, then hitting a field goal late in regulation to tie the game at 24-24.

Upper Iowa scored quickly on its first overtime possession, but the Wildcats had to survive two fourth-down plays to keep the game going. Reedy and Toussaint connected on a 22-yard pass on a fourth-and-11 play, then Reedy found Jonathan Parks on another fourth-down play from five yards out to tie it at 31-31.

Wayne State had the first possession in the second overtime, but on the second play Reedy was picked off by Upper Iowa's Nick Corley, giving the Peacocks the chance to win. They failed to get a first down, but a 30-yard field goal by Brady Beuschel gave the visiting Peacocks the come-from-behind win.

Wayne State finished with 397 yards in the game to 384 by Upper Iowa. The Wildcats had 46 yards rushing and 351 passing while UIU recorded 112 yards on the ground and 272 through the air.

Reedy was named as Wayne State's Egg Bowl Most Valuable Player, completing 32-of-59 passes for 351 yards with three touchdowns and one interception.

Dunson led a balanced Wildcat receiving attack with seven grabs for 83 yards and one score, followed by Jacob Hjorth with five catches for 82 yards and Toussaint with five receptions for 72 yards and one score.

Wayne State's defense was led by Christian Campos with 12 tackles followed by Jon Davis with 11.

Wayne State, 4-6, concludes the season Saturday with a 1 p.m. matchup at Minnesota State.

Wildcats drop one spot in latest coaches poll

The Wayne State volleyball team fell one spot into a tie for fourth in the latest American Volleyball Coaches Association Div. II top 25 poll.

After losing a four-set match to top-ranked Concordia-St. Paul, the Wildcats are tied with Ferris State at No. 4. NSIC counterparts Southwest Minnesota State and Northern State are ranked second and third, respectively, while Minnesota Duluth is ranked ninth. Other NSIC schools in the top 25 include 20th ranked Augustana and No. 25 Winona State.

Central Region schools in the top 25 include No. 12 Nebraska-Kearney, No. 13 Central Missouri, No. 14 Washburn and No. 15 Central Oklahoma. All four schools are from the MIAA conference.

Two Wildcats named to All-NSIC soccer team

Two Wayne State soccer players were listed on the Northern Sun Conference All-Conference team announced by the league Thursday.

Senior defender/forward Josie Brown was named to the third team, while freshman forward Christina Stasi earned honorable mention honors.

Brown played the final third of the season on defense, but led the team in shots on goal with 23. She had a goal and two assists this season.

Stasi was second on the team in shots on goal with 17 and was co-leader with three goals scored. She also had one assist and scored two of the Wildcats' four game-winning goals this season.

Backer is named to All-ICCAC first-team

Wayne native Meagan Backer was one of four Northeast Community College volleyball players who were listed on the All-Iowa Community College Athletic Conference teams recently.

The sophomore libero earned first-team honors for the Hawks. She ranked 16th in the nation among junior college athletes with 5.48 digs per set this season, good for second in the league. She had over 20 digs in 20 matches for the 17-17 Hawks this season.

Backer was also named to the National Junior College Athletic Association Region XI-A second team.

Crossover

The Lions return all but two players from a year ago and are led by seniors Jenny Rocha and Vanessa Zailo, along with junior Cassidy Gengenbacher, who led the team with 18.4 points per game and earned second-team All-MIAA honors. Rocha averaged 12.7 points per game and earned All-MIAA honorable mention, while Zailo was third in NCAA Div. II with 13 rebounds per game.

William Jewell lost to Alaska-Anchorage (90-63) and Cal State Dominguez (68-63) while posting a win over New York Institute of Technology (68-59) in their season-opening tournament in California. The Cardinals are led by freshman guard Blair Klostermann, who averaged 15.7 points during the season-opening trip; and junior guard Madie Nelson, who averaged 10.7 points per game. Senior guard Logan Antenen and junior forward Chris Keys also played well early in the season for the Cardinals.

Joining Wayne State from the NSIC this year is Northern State, a team that Wayne State battled to the end in winning the regular-season title last year but, like the Wildcats, lost several key players from a team that made it to the NCAA Central Region tournament.

The Wolves return two key players from last year's 26-7 team, including junior guard Paige Waytashek (7.8 ppg) and senior guard Devon Brecke (7.7 ppg). Waytashek is the Wolves' player to watch in the NSIC this season, and is a 33.3 percent shooter from 3-point range. The Wolves were picked to finish 10th in the NSIC this season.

Wayne State opens the Crossover Classic presented by The Wayne Herald on Friday at 6 p.m. against Lindenwood, then faces William Jewell on Saturday at 6 p.m. Northern State will face William Jewell Friday at 8 p.m., then battle Lindenwood on Saturday at 4 p.m.

"It's a big test for us this weekend, and there's a lot we don't know right now as far as how well the younger players will play," Kielsmeier said. "We need to prepare this week and be confident and go out and play our game. We expect to win at Rice Auditorium, and we need to minimize mistakes and if we can keep that number down, I like our chances of winning this weekend."

Youth

have been a great 1-2 punch inside so it will be up to Ballinger and younger players like redshirt freshman Taylor Reiner to make things happen in the paint this season.

The Wildcats have a number of players who have performed well in the early going, and a recent exhibition tour in Canada served the younger kids quite well as they work to grasp Kielsmeier's intensity and demand to play hard AND smart.

Wildcat fans have grown accustomed to seeing the basketball teams at Wayne State succeed, and both teams have the talent in place to have a good deal of success in 2015-16. It's going to take some time, however - with the youth both teams possess, making that transition from high school to Div. II won't happen overnight.

Grab your ba-ba and your binky - these youngin's are going to be a blast to watch this winter.

Wayne State Coaches Show
Exclusively on mywaynenews.com

Interviews with Wildcat coaches recorded live Mondays at 6 p.m. at The Max Available online every Tuesday mywaynenews.com's Michael Carnes sits down each week to talk to Wayne State coaches about their teams' efforts throughout the 2015-16 season. We'll recap the previous week's games and talk about upcoming opponents.

WSC rugby to host regional tilts

The Wayne State rugby teams will play host to regional action this weekend at the Wayne Rugby Park. The top-ranked women's rugby team is going for their third national title in five years in 15-on-15 action and will face Gustavas Adolphus in a 12:40 p.m. matchup on Saturday. The winner will face the winner of the matchup between Wisconsin Platteview and MSU Moorhead on Sunday at 12 p.m.

The winner of Sunday's matchup advances to the NSCRO Final Four in Charlotte, N.C. The Wayne State men's squad is also in action, as the fifth-ranked Wildcats face third-ranked Wisconsin River Falls at 2:40 p.m. The winner of that matchup will move on to the Sweet 16 next week in Indiana. Coach Darrin Barner said that Nebraska Gov. Pete Ricketts is scheduled to be in attendance on Saturday, and there will be plenty of freebies given away during Saturday's games. The first 300 fans in attendance will receive free "terrible towels," and frisbees will be tossed into the crowd after a Wayne State score that can be redeemed for prizes. Admission to this weekend's game is free. The Wayne Rugby Park is located just north of the Summer Sports Complex.

Cross country ends at regionals

The Wayne State cross country teams completed their 2015 season by participating in the NCAA Div. II Central Regional on Saturday in Joplin, Mo. Andrea DeSimone and Molly Kingsley competed as individuals for the Wayne State women. DeSimone, a junior from Plattsmouth, finished 101st out of 208 runners with a time of 23:45 over the 6,000-meter course while Kingsley, a senior from Bellevue, crossed the line in a time of 24:50 to place 154th. Southwest Baptist captured the women's team title with 79 points followed by Minnesota Duluth with 99 points. Augustana (115), University of Mary (123) and Harding of Arkansas (132) rounded out the five teams that qualified for the national meet in Joplin on Saturday, Nov. 21. In men's action, Wayne State placed 23rd overall and were led by senior Justin Brueggemann. The senior from Plattsmouth finished with a time of 32:10 on the 10,000-meter course to finish 58th out of 176 runners overall. Nick Fly was 127th in a time of 33:53. Other Wayne State runners included Cortland Cassidy (145th, 34:31), Jack Doughty (151st, 34:58) and Joey Black (169th, 37:44).

Groove

Wayne State scored the first point of the match on an Alyssa Frauendorfer kill, but wouldn't get another advantage until Elizabeth Gebhardt's tip to open the third set. The Lopers did a good job of finding the middle of the Wayne State defense, with setter Erin Seele setting up her attackers for a number of short attacks that the Wildcats had trouble reaching. "They really passed well in system tonight and were scrappier than we were on defense, which is odd because we're usually the ones outscrapping people," Kneif said. The first set went back and forth between the two teams. Wayne State trailed 20-17, but got kills by Frauendorfer and Katie Hughes and a nice dump into the back corner by Leisa McClintock to tie the match at 21-21. Kearney broke a 22-22 tie with a net violation, and Wolfe stuffed a Hughes attack and finished the set with a kill off a Seele set to give the visitors the opening game. Kearney led by as many as seven points at 17-10 before the Wildcats rallied to tie the set at 21-21. Gebhardt knocked down a kill and Kearney had an attack go wide to tie the second set, but the Lopers came back again and took the two-set advantage into the break. The third set went much like the first, with Wayne State taking its final lead at 9-8 on a Gebhardt kill. Kearney scored four of the night five points to reclaim the lead, and after an error tied the game for the final time at 12-12, the Lopers (26-5) got kills from Wolfe and Kendall Schorer to take the lead for good and pull away with the three-game sweep and take home the Golden Apple - the traveling trophy the two teams have played for since 2011. Michaela Mestl led the 23-5 Wildcats with 12 kills and 17 digs, while Frauendorfer had 11 kills and four blocks and Gebhardt had 10 kills and three blocks. McClintock had 35 assists. Assisting Mestl on defense were Courtney VanGronigen with 15 digs, Hughes had 11 and Bree Ackermann had 10. On Friday, the Wildcats squared off with top-ranked Concordia-St. Paul at Rice Auditorium, and the visiting Golden Bears bounced back from a first-set loss to post a four-set win over Wayne State, 20-25, 25-22, 25-14, 25-22. Wayne State played well early on in a set that saw 10 ties and four lead changes. Wayne State led 7-4 before the Golden Bears battled back. Trailing 19-17, Wayne State got kills from Hughes and Frauendorfer to take a 21-19 advantage, then held off a late rally to win the first set on a Frauendorfer termination. Concordia-St. Paul took control after that, hitting .390 in the second set, holding off a late rally in the third set and hitting .314 in the final set to finish off the upset-minded Wildcats. Hughes had 15 kills and 25 digs to lead Wayne State, Frauendor-fer added 11 kills and five blocks and Gebhardt had 11 kills and four blocks. VanGronigen led the defense with 26 digs and McClintock had 43 assists. On Saturday, Wayne State came back to sweep Minnesota State, winning 25-14, 25-22, 25-21. Wayne State dominated the Mavericks in the opening set and held off a late charge in each of the final two sets to get their second win over Minnesota State this season. Hughes had her 15th double-double with 15 kills and 13 digs, Frauendorfer had 11 kills and McClintock had 36 assists. VanGronigen had 15 digs and Mestl had three service aces. VanGronigen became the second player in team history to record 2,000 career digs with her effort Tuesday. The Wildcats (23-5, 25-3 NSIC) go on the road this weekend to face Upper Iowa on Friday and No. 25 Winona State on Saturday, and both games take on added importance as the Wildcats look to avoid going into a late-season funk that could hurt their hopes of making it to the national tournament. "We have to come back and find that swagger and take care of business this weekend," Kneif said. "We have to really want this weekend and go out and play like we want it. (Upper Iowa and Winona State) are two tough teams fighting to get into the conference tournament and they're going to want it as well, so it's going to be a tale of who wants it more."

The Rugby World Cup is similar to the World Cup soccer tournament, where 15-man teams play a series of games in a pool format, with the top teams advancing to the knockout stage that determines the world champion. "It was an absolutely stunning time," Tinsley said of his trip, which included games in places like Brighton, Manchester and Gloucester.

He attended a match between France and Italy that was played in the Wales city of Cardiff, and the scenery was as colorful as the game itself.

"Cardiff was painted in green for the game between the French and Italians, and the camaraderie between the two teams spilled out on to the field and into the audience," he said. "Even when the French lost, nobody was taunting them or their fans. It was really fun to witness."

Tinsley was able to play with a tour group that played some older veteran players and played with a team representing the New York Police Department that played an exhibition game during the Rugby World Cup. He also watched the American team play, and was disappointed by their effort.

"It was kind of funny," he said. "When the United States played South Africa and South Africa was up like 64-0, their fans were apologizing for beating us so bad," he said. "I was talking to a guy from South Africa about the game, and he was asking about America's 7-on-7 team and whether they have a chance to take gold in the next Olympics."

Tinsley said that the United States' 15-on-15 rugby team isn't on the same level as some of the top national teams from places like Fiji, New Zealand and South Africa, but it wasn't always that way.

"Back when 15-on-15 rugby was an Olympic sport in the early 20th century, the United States won the gold medal," he said. "Our sevens team is among the best in the world, and now that it's an Olympic sport we can hire the best players and they can train at the Olympic Center and be more competitive. We're still in our infancy stages in 15's, though, so it would be a redeeming value for us to win sevens in the Olympics next year after getting spanked this year."

Tinsley, who is working on opening a chiropractic clinic in Wakefield, has offered his help to the Wayne State Rugby Club and is hoping to help the club expand the game to younger players in the area.

"The bad thing is, we're kind of in the middle of nowhere here as far as rugby goes, because the higher-level programs are on the coasts," but it's good to see rugby here at Wayne State and it's good to see the college start to get behind the program by providing transportation for the team.

More than 50 kids participated in a summer rugby skills camp earlier this summer, and Tinsley said he hopes work can continue toward the creation of a high school league with teams in the Sioux City area that could serve as a feeder program for Wayne State's rugby team, as well as other rugby clubs in the region.

And who knows - someday, more people in the area might get the same enjoyment out of the sport that Tinsley did on his trip to the Rugby World Cup.

"It was one of the best experiences I've had," he said. "You have people coming from all over the world, and it's a hooligans' game played by gentlemen. You'll make a lot of friends you thought you never had."

enth and eighth respectively in career scoring at Wayne State; along with Millie Niggeling who averaged 10.9 points and 4.2 boards per game.

Wayne State returns two starters and eight letter winners from one year ago, but with limited experience back from last year, Kielsmeier used an exhibition trip to Canada, getting a head start on the season, with 10 extra days of practice along with four games in two days, to blend in five newcomers with the eight returners.

"The Canada trip was a great experience not only for the players that get to play four games together that are exempt, or to start practices earlier, but for a bonding experience," said Kielsmeier, who has a 172-46 record as Wildcat head coach, including a 119-31 mark in the NSIC. "It was great to see them coming together and to find out who they were going to be as a team. I really feel that the Canadian trip helped our young players get a feel for how we want to play the game and hopefully that will help transpire into games early in the season."

Returning starters for the Wildcats this season are 5-foot-8 senior guard Sadie Murren and 6-foot sophomore forward Maggie Schulte.

Murren averaged 7.8 points per game last season starting all 34 games at point guard, ranking seventh in the NSIC in assists per game (3.4) and fifth in assist/turnover ratio.

"We are really excited for what Sadie will bring to the team this year," Kielsmeier said. "She is a great leader for our program both on and off the court. Sadie understands the system on both ends of the floor and works hard every day to share this knowledge with her teammates."

Schulte started all 34 games last season as a freshman, accounting for 7.8 points and 5.3 rebounds a contest while ranking sixth in the NSIC in 3-point field goal percentage at 39.6 percent.

"We really expect great things for Maggie on the floor this year and are anticipating watching her learn how to lead this team," Kielsmeier stated. "Maggie has been solid for us on both ends of the floor since her first day as a Wildcat, and we need this to continue to happen and for Maggie to really want to be a consistent big scorer for us every game."

The team's leading returning scorer is 6-foot-1 sophomore center Paige Ballinger from Pender, who averaged 8.2 points and 4.6 rebounds per game coming off the bench last season while shooting 61.3 percent from the field.

"Paige is a huge contributor on the offensive end of the floor and is working hard to become a dominant defensive player as well," commented Kielsmeier. "We feel that she will be an outstanding post player in the NSIC this year. Paige is a passionate player who wants to win and competes every time she steps on the floor and that's the type of leadership we need her to show this young team."

Other seniors on this year's team are 6-foot-2 senior forward Katie Hoskins of Wayne and 5-foot-10 senior forward Lauren Davis. Unfortunately, Hoskins suffered a season-ending knee injury in pre-season practices and will miss the 2015-16 season after averaging 3.2 points and 2.8 rebounds a game last season. Davis appeared in 16 games last season for the Wildcats as a backup forward.

The lone returning junior is 5-foot-8 guard Haley Moore (Milford HS), who scored 2.8 points a game last season as a reserve guard behind Yossi.

Returning sophomore letter winners are 5-foot-10 sophomore forward Kacie O'Connor and 5-foot-10 sophomore guard Jasmin Bretoi. O'Connor shot 47 percent from the field and 44.8 percent beyond the arc last season in a reserve role scoring 2.4 points a game, while Bretoi played in 18 games last season and is a long range shooter that produced 2.1 points a contest as a freshman.

The final returner is 6-foot-3 center Taylor Reiner, who redshirted last season and gained experience learning the Wildcat system in practice.

Three transfers and two high school standouts highlight a group of five newcomers to the Wildcat program this season.

Anna Martensen and Kirsten Larson, both 5-foot-10 forwards, played the last two seasons at Kirkwood Community College in Iowa. Both players earned All-Region honors while Martensen was second-team National Junior College All-American last season for Kirkwood, who was 31-6 and placed fifth at the National Junior College Div. II Tournament.

The third transfer is 6-foot-1 forward Alisa Petersen from Western Wyoming Community College, who brings the Wildcats added depth in the post area.

Rounding out this year's Wildcat roster are two freshmen - 6-foot forward Andrea Larson from Sperry, Iowa and 5-foot-6 point guard Maggie Lowe of Perry, Iowa. Larson was a Class 3A first-team All-State selection as a junior and senior, averaging 21 points and 10 rebounds per game during her senior season while Lowe was a Class 4A third-team All-State honoree as a junior and senior after averaging 14 points and nearly seven assists a game during her senior season.

"We have a great group of returners as well as a very talented group of newcomers," said Kielsmeier. "They work hard and have a tremendous desire to get better each day they walk on the court. We have a lot of versatile players that can play multiple positions and score in a variety of ways. Our overall defense needs to get better each day moving forward."

Men

The final transfer is 6-foot-8 forward Adam Moon from O'Neill St. Mary, who joins the WSC program after attending Northeast Community College for one year.

Headlining the group of six high school players is Vance Janssen, a 6-foot-2 guard from Blair who averaged 20.4 points and 5.6 rebounds a game last season to earn Class B second-team All-State honors.

"Vance makes us a more athletic team," added Dolan. "Statistically he can do a lot, but one thing he does well that doesn't show up in the box score is he defends the ball very well."

Other freshmen on the roster this season include 6-foot-5 forward Ben Hoskins (Wayne), 6-foot-4 forward Braxton Murphy (Papillion-LaVista), 6-foot-9 center Spencer Pauley (Denison-Schleswig, Iowa), 6-foot-10 center Rylee Tatum (Norfolk) and 6-1 guard Luke TerHark (Algona, Iowa).

Hoskins averaged over 17 points a game in his junior and senior seasons with the Blue Devils. Pauley was an Iowa Class 3A third-team All-State selection last season averaging 20.1 points and 11.2 rebounds a contest, shooting 54 percent from the field. TerHark is a high scoring guard who led Iowa Class 3A last season in 3-point field goals (72), recording averages of 19.3 points and 3.8 assists per contest.

"We have very good depth on this team and when we go to the bench there is not a ton of drop off," Dolan said. "Our guard play also has a chance to be a strength, although they are young they are a talented group and have a ton of potential. Lastly, this group can really shoot the ball from the perimeter. We may not have that one guy who is a knock down shooter, but as a group we shoot the ball above average from the 3-point line."

Besides playing in one of the toughest NCAA Div. II conferences in the country (Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference), the Wildcats play a challenging non-conference slate to start the 2015-16 season.

The Wildcats open the year in St. Joseph, Mo., this weekend at the Hillyard Tip Off Classic, facing Missouri Western and No. 14 Northwest Missouri State from the MIAA. Another non-conference MIAA opponent for the Wildcats will be Nebraska-Kearney, who plays in Wayne on Monday, Nov. 30. The Lopers are receiving votes in the preseason Top 25 and picked third in the MIAA.

Other non-conference games for the Wildcats are at home vs. Iowa Wesleyan (Nov. 20) and Mt. Marty (Dec. 16), along with a non-conference road game at William Jewell (Nov. 28).

Augustana is the preseason pick to win the NSIC title this season while also being ranked No. 1 in the NABC Div. II Preseason Top 25. MSU Moorhead, last year's Central Region champ, is ranked ninth, while St. Cloud State, Minnesota State and Concordia-St. Paul are receiving votes.

"Our non-conference schedule will be challenging to start the year," stated Dolan. "Between our non-conference and league schedule, we better be ready to go every night - that's when our depth should really stand out."

"Matt Thomas is a key addition for us," said Dolan. "He is a point guard who can score the ball and makes the guys around him better. We will also be counting on Brian Goodwin, who is a crafty guard that can really shoot it."

Wildcat wrestlers open season

The Wayne State wrestling club opened the 2015-16 season with two tournaments that were held at Wayne Elementary School.

On Friday, the Wildcat grapplers took second to the Iowa State wrestling club in a round-robin dual tournament. Both teams beat a combined team made up of wrestlers from Colorado State and Northwest Missouri State, while the Wildcats lost to Iowa State 30-24.

Devon Rupp posted wins in both duals at 149 pounds for the Wildcats, as did Allen native Caleb Thomas at 165.

On Saturday, Wayne State won a six-team round-robin tournament, finishing with 60 team points to edge Iowa State (49). Three Wildcats came away with first-place efforts on the day, as Paxton Sternberg (125-133), Matthew Reeves (141) and Thomas (165) won their respective round-robin brackets.

Caleb Thomas (top) and Devon Rupp both won their weight brackets in Wayne State's season-opening tournament at Wayne Elementary on Saturday.

Energy Tip

Talkin' turkey with holiday energy-saving tips

Okay, I'm talk'n turkey this Thanksgiving; cold turkey as a certified energy manager, that is. My therapist told me that this year, I am not allowed to openly berate my family members every time they do one of those huge, energy-wasting things that always set me off like they did during holidays past. Those confrontations usually led to me being asked to go outside and "efficiently" cool off.

Rather, my psychiatrist advised me to "write-down" the energy-use violation I observe on a piece of paper, tuck the paper in my pocket, and use it to kindle the fireplace at the end of the Thanksgiving weekend. So if you don't mind me practicing my "prescription," here are a few of the major violations from previous family get-togethers.

Like the year when my always-hungry brother, Jimmy, kept opening the oven door to take a peek at what was cooking inside. Doesn't he know that each time he opens an oven door, the temperature inside lowers by as much as 25 degrees? That his curiosity increased cooking time, wasted heat, and delayed dinner by over an hour! Why can't he be like normal people and turn on the oven light to check the turkey and sweet potatoes through the oven window?

Then, there was one year when my niece, Jennifer, camped out in front of the refrigerator because she couldn't decide which of her 30 bottles of salad dressing to put on the table. She would take two out and put one back. Then open the door again, put one back and take two more out. It went on for five minutes! Can't she comprehend that refrigerators and freezers operate most efficiently and economically by keeping the doors closed as much as possible? She could have just taken all the bottles out, since leaving the door open for a longer period of time while taking everything she needed is more efficient than opening and closing it several times.

WSC students are a blessing

Frequently, negative comments are heard about the college students in Wayne. Certainly there is a small minority of students who have earned the bad reputation. But, the overwhelming number of Wayne State students are decent, hardworking, and a blessing to our community!

I am responsible for the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod campus ministry through Grace Lutheran Church for Wayne State students. Let me share one of my good experiences with college students.

Last week, Cup of Grace (LC-MMS campus ministry) sponsored a Mercy Meals packing event for WSC students to pack 36,000 meals for starving children. The Mercy Meals are packed by volunteers and shipped around the world by Orphan Grain Train for only 12 cents a serving. The Mercy Meals make a huge difference for starving children. 200-plus WSC students, parts of athletic teams, and parts of student organizations came and packed. In addition, some people from Wayne and surrounding communities came and packed as well.

Anyway, the WSC college students were a blessing as they packed diligently and conducted themselves with respect and honor while doing the work. Wayne should be thankful to have some of the brightest and best students of Nebraska and surrounding states in our community for a short time.

Thank a Veteran

Veterans Day provides an opportunity to celebrate the commitment and sacrifice of our state's military heroes. It is a day deeply steeped in patriotic symbolism commemorating and honoring generations of past and present military service members and their families. It is a day deeply rooted in our American tradition of honoring the men and women who dedicate their lives to serving our country.

Ever since the guns of World War I fell silent 97 years ago, Americans have gathered to honor the men and women who have served our country in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, National Guard, Coast Guard, and every branch of the military during our nation's conflicts. In the years following World War II, this annual observation earned its present designation as Veterans Day, a day dedicated to paying tribute to the work of everyone who has chosen to wear the uniforms of our nation's armed forces.

Many of you personally understand the sacrifice and patriotic dedication military service requires. For the veterans who are reading this: Thank you for your service on behalf of the people of Nebraska. For those of you with family or loved ones who have served, we understand that your support and love for them carry our servicemen and women through many unbelievable challenges and trying times even after their service has been completed.

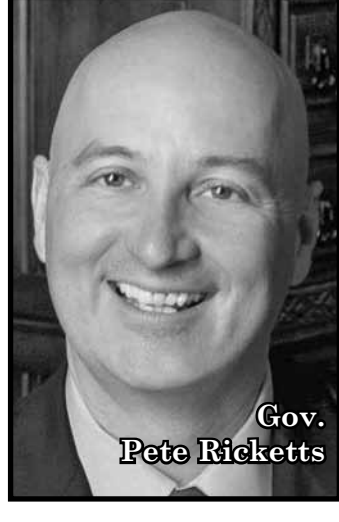

For those who have not served in the military, take a moment to think of all the veterans who play a role in the life of our state's communities. Consider how much these veterans contribute to every aspect of our lives. Veterans serve as police officers, fire fighters, business leaders, teachers and coaches among numerous other professions.

I know from personal experience how the Good Life that our state is blessed with would not be possible without the continued service of our veterans even after they have retired their military uniforms. As the Chief Operating Officer of the online brokerage firm Ameritrade, the gentleman running my new accounts department was a retired Air Force Lieutenant Colonel; the gentleman running my training was a retired Air Force Colonel; and the gentleman who ran my back office was a Marine Captain. That Marine Captain is now the Chief Operating Officer for the State of Nebraska.

For our state and our nation, it is important that we continually honor the work of our veterans, and to thank them. Veterans Day activities are held across Nebraska every year, and they provide a formal avenue for us to publicly celebrate the heroic work of our veterans. Even if you are unable to attend one of the events on Veterans Day, please take the time to thank a veteran by making a phone call, stopping by their desk at work, writing them a note, or finding another way to demonstrate your gratitude.

On this Veterans Day, it is also important to think of the 149 Soldiers of our Nebraska Army National Guard and the five Airmen of our Nebraska Air National Guard who are currently mobilized and to keep them in our prayers. Their work in protecting and defending our country is critical to ensuring that we can pass on the same freedoms to the next generation that we have enjoyed for the past 239 years.

Once again, on behalf of all Nebraskans, Susanne and I thank all of our state's veterans for their service and their sacrifices. You have made Nebraskans proud. You are part of what makes Nebraska so great.

Can wind farms survive politics?

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Nebraska ranks high in wind energy potential, but lags behind neighboring states in turning that into electricity generation. So what's the hang-up in an age of increasing oil prices and an emphasis on a clean environment?

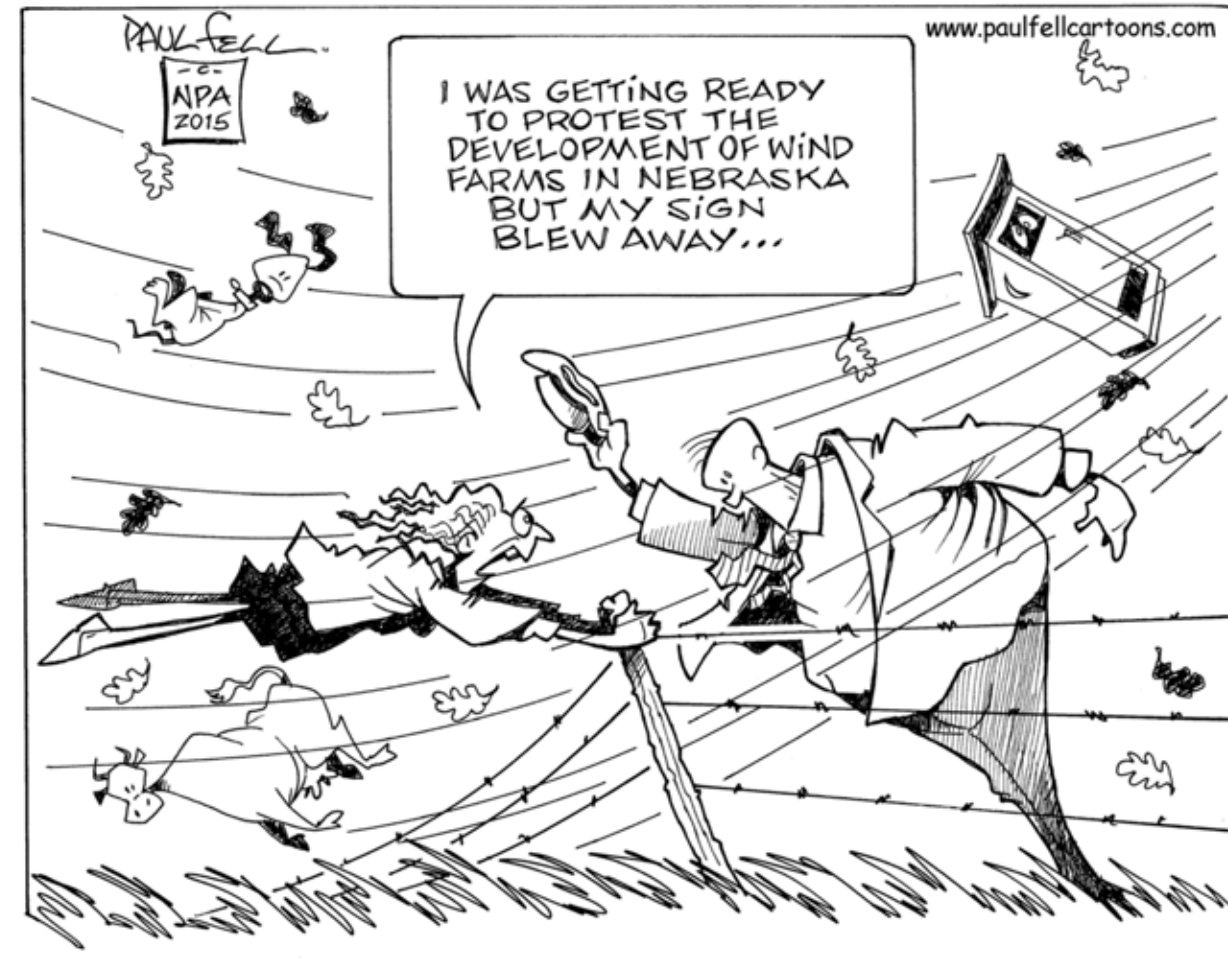

The amount of wind-generated electricity has more than doubled in Nebraska in the last three years. But a bill to offer more incentives to wind-energy developers stalled in the Legislature this year. Governor Pete Ricketts says wind-generated power costs at least twice as much as electricity from coal-fired plants and the state has an obligation to maintain affordable rates for Nebraskans. He does admit that generating and exporting the energy would provide the best opportunity to expand wind power.

Now the Environmental Protection Agency is requiring big cuts in future carbon emissions from power plants through the Clean Power Plan proposed by the Obama Administration. That would normally be seen as a boon to the wind-energy interests, but Ricketts and Attorney General Doug Peterson have added Nebraska to the list of states suing the EPA to halt the plan.

Nebraska is required to submit a plan, written by state experts, that outlines how it will reduce carbon pollution by 40% by the year 2030. The lawsuit filed by Ricketts puts Nebraska at risk of accepting a plan written by the EPA, according to officials of Bold Nebraska, a group that has been battling construction of the Keystone XL pipeline.

Still, developments such as the proposed 200 wind turbine Grande Prairie wind farm in north central Nebraska's Holt County move forward. The project, being built by Berkshire Hathaway Energy -- or BHE Renewables -- will employ 350 construction workers and provide 15 full time jobs when completed. It will spread over 54,000 acres of farm and pasture land stretching from the Sandhills to the Niobrara River.

Some have complained about the aesthetics, the tall white towers breaking up the views of rolling hills by day and the flashing red lights by night. Some say they are noisy. Others express concern about electro-magnetic forces.

Even others worry about migratory waterfowl who use the same swath of energy-producing wind in their annual migration across Central Nebraska. A University of Nebraska-Lincoln wind energy and wildlife expert says the bird migration corridor narrows in Nebraska and millions of Sandhill cranes, whooping cranes and other shorebirds are concentrated in valleys and wetlands along the Platte River. Kearney touts itself as the Sandhill crane capital of America. Kearney is a little more than two hours south and west of Holt County. Wind turbine blades can spin at 200 miles per hour, enough to kill a bird or a bat that might hit it.

The university expert says that turbine pads and roads can also impact species like elk, mule deer, and swift fox, by eliminating or damaging their habitat. Particularly in continuous prairie or grasslands like those found in Nebraska.

So far, there aren't many studies on the long-term or cumulative impacts of wind farms on native wildlife. Migrating birds and endangered species are federally protected. That means heavy fines and jail time for killing or harming them. But a spokeswoman for Edison Mission Energy, which has built four wind farms in Nebraska since 2009, doesn't think that has hampered Nebraska's chances yet. Nebraska Game and Parks has an obligation to review wind farm plans.

Holt County Economic Development executive director Nicole Sedlacek says the Grande Prairie project will be a big economic boost. The increased traffic of construction crews is already being felt and is exciting. But she also worries about where the workers will live. Housing is an issue in rural Nebraska, so the project adds a layer of challenges to the situation. She has turned to colleagues in nearby counties for support. Once completed, BHE says the company will pay landowners $2.5 million a year in lease payments and about $2 million a year in tax payments to be spread around the schools and local governments in the project area. The Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality and State Environment Office have been tasked with drafting Nebraska's state plan to comply with the Clean Power Plan rule, and have said they will host public hearings in the fall to gather citizen input on the state plan. Groups like Bold Nebraska say they will continue to educate and mobilize citizens so their voices are a strong part of the State Plan.

Wind energy seems to be a good deal for Nebraska. Let's hope it doesn't get bogged down in partisan political wrangling, which has yet to serve the state -- or the nation -- well.

Legislative Update

History of Veterans Day remembered

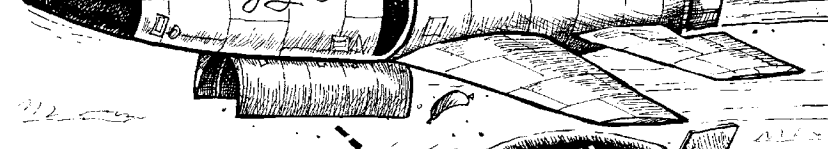

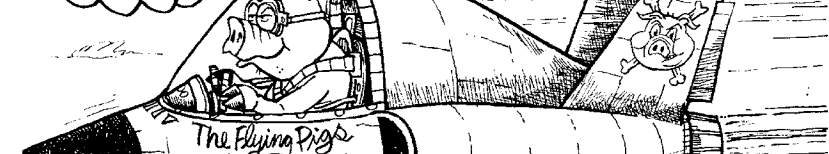

On Wednesday, Nov. 11, government offices and banks were closed in honor of Veterans Day.

As we prepared for Veterans Day, I couldn't help but think that to many it has become just another day that is taken for granted. It is far more than a holiday that some individuals have off.

Here is a brief history of the day we now know as Veteran's Day.

On the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month in 1918, an armistice between the Allied nations and Germany took effect becoming known as the end to "the war to end all wars." In November of 1919, President Wilson proclaimed Nov. 11 as Armistice Day with the following: "To us in America, the reflections of Armistice Day will be filled with solemn pride in the heroism of those who died in the country's service and with gratitude for the victory, both because of the thing from which it has freed us and because of the opportunity it has given America to show her sympathy with peace and justice in the councils of the nations. . ."

Legislative Update
By Dave Bloomfield
State Senator, District 17

Originally, the day was observed with parades and meetings -- which we still do today in some cases. In 1938, Armistice Day became a legal holiday to honor the veterans of World War I. After fighting in World War II and Korea, veterans group pushed for a change in the name and on Oct. 8, 1954 President Eisenhower issued the first Veterans Day Proclamation. This change was made to insure the proper observance of this anniversary, for all veterans and veterans' organizations.

Nov. 11 is not simply another day, it is a day to remember, honor and thank those men and women and their families who have served our great nation in a branch of our armed forces. You can thank them for all of the freedoms that you enjoy today. Our military has never lost a war, our politicians over the last 50 years or so have managed to prevent straightforward victories with less than courageous leadership, but our warriors do not fail.

If you are a current member of our armed forces or a veteran, I would personally like to thank you for your service!

As always, if we can be of any assistance, contact our office at (402) 471-2716 or e-mail dbloomfield@leg.ne.gov.

Colloquia Series presentation set for Dec. 2 at WSC

The Wayne State College School of Arts and Humanities will host its third Colloquia Series presentation of the fall semester, "Aesthetics and Speed: Telecommunications in Contemporary Art," presented by Christopher Holton, interim design professor at Wayne State College.

The colloquium will take place on Wednesday, Dec. 2 at 3:30 p.m. in the Humanities Building, Room 319, with a question-and-answer session to follow.

Holton received his undergraduate degree from Wayne State College in 2010 and earned his MFA in sculpture at Montana State University. He later came back to WSC as a lecturer in the Department of Art and Design. Holton currently teaches design and digital imaging, as well as visual arts experience classes. His work has shown across the Midwest, ranging from Michigan to western South Dakota.

Holton's work is currently on display in WSC's Nordstrand Visual Arts Gallery in a show titled "50,000 Years of Non-Linear Editing."

The Colloquia Series was founded in the spring of 2015 to offer Arts and Humanities faculty the opportunity to present their original research and work to faculty and students across campus in monthly sessions. Featured readers have included Lori Newcomb, Catherine Rudin, Stephanie Marcellus, Michael Grove, Marlene Mueller and Gretchen Ronnow.

Chamber concert set for Nov. 16

The Wayne State College Department of Music will present the WSC Woodwind Chamber Ensembles in concert in Ley Theatre, located in Brandenburg Education Building on Monday, Nov. 16 at 7:30 p.m.

The concert features chamber music presented by the Wayne State Sax Quartet, the Wayne State Clarinet Choir and the Wayne State Flute Choir. The ensembles are directed by Dr. Karl Kolbeck, assistant professor of woodwinds.

The performance is free and open to the public.

Developing the 3 R's in your home

The first semester is coming to an end very soon. Children are busy learning the basic three R's in the classroom (Reading, Writing and Arithmetic). There is still time for parents to support their children with three R's at home. They are the following: Routines, Responsibility, and Respect.

Establish good ROUTINES
Children perform best in an organized and predictable environment. Two routines are critical to school success: the morning routine and the homework routine. Children should wake up the same time every day and have enough time to complete all their morning tasks. These tasks include showering or washing, getting dressed, eating breakfast, brushing teeth and making beds (or other simple chores). For best results, follow the same routine every morning.

To make the morning routine go more smoothly, help children prepare the night before by choosing clothes, packing school bags and making lunch. Set up a "launching pad" where children's school bags, coats, hats, shoes, etc., can be placed, ready to go the next morning.

Don't let children skip on or skip breakfast. Research has shown that children who eat a nutritious do their homework for them. Instead, teach them study and time management skills, and encourage them to make their own decisions.

Parents should check homework every night for neatness, completeness and accuracy. If homework doesn't meet your expectations, chances are it doesn't meet the teacher's expectations either.

Show RESPECT for education

Let your children hear you speak positively about education. Let them know you believe that education is important, especially after high school. Get to know your child's teacher and support him or her. If you have a concern, take it to the source rather than talking badly about the person.

Show interest in your child's school activities. Ask them about school every day and listen attentively when they want to talk about their experiences. Try to get involved in some way. Ask your child's teacher how you can help. If possible, serve as a volunteer in the classroom or other school activities.

For more information about 4-H and Youth Development and school-age programs from Nebraska Extension, please contact the Nebraska Extension Office in your local county or visit the website at 4h.unl.edu or child.unl.edu.

breakfast are more alert in school and have more energy for school-work.

Homework should be completed sometime after school, but before dinner. As the evening wears on, children become tired, inattentive and less efficient. Some children may want to play, relax or eat a snack after school, but should start their homework at least an hour before dinnertime.

Set up a space where children can work on school assignments without distractions and interruptions. Make sure they have all the resources they will need: paper, pencils, dictionary, calculator, etc.

Build RESPONSIBILITY

Homework is the child's responsibility. In fact, school is children's work, their job. They must do well to succeed in life. Make children responsible for their homework. Don't let them become dependent on you to get organized, interpret assignments or solve problems. And don't in Wayne for 46 Years!

It's important to get your eyes checked

Over the past few years I have noticed changes in the quality of my vision. And thanks to regular check-ups with Dr. Larry Magnuson (here in Wayne), it was determined that cataracts were developing - in both eyes.

After my spring appointment, the doctor told me that the right eye also had the beginning of glaucoma. I could tell that something was amiss by the trouble I was having in focusing on musical scores - and even on the computer screen. One of my colleagues who had observed that I was having some difficulty spotting small items in the music I was playing (e.g.: measure numbers) told me that it was noticeable because the "blue was gone from my eyes." And in mid-May of this year, the vision issues were dealt with in two appointments up in Sioux Falls. What a difference it has made!

We are trained from an early age to perceive all things via the five senses - touch, smell, vision, hearing, and taste. Notice that each of these sensory aptitudes is in relation to that which is tangible around us. I remember the time when I was around eight or so and mom was cooking something on the stove; and I wanted to know if the pan was hot. You guessed it: I touched it and found out!

We deal with the world around us as if it was 1) all there is and, as if 2) it will always be there. How unfortunate. As long as we are intent on "walking by sight" we will be unable to consistently "walk by faith" (2 Corinthians 5:7). And the latter is what God needs us to do. This requires special spiritual vision.

Paul tells us in 1 Corinthians 13:12 of the tendency - this side of heaven - to function as if we are "looking through a glass, darkly." And in that same verse he tells us that there will be a time when we will see "face to face". And his words of instruction to the Corinthian church speak of a time when we will know as we are known by the Lord - not in a childish and uninformed way.

Why is this important to remember? Because "seeing is not always believing." Seeing with our physical eyes is only part of the true picture.

In another one of his letters, Paul writes to the Christians in Ephesus (Ephesians 1:18) that he prays that the eyes of their hearts may be enlightened, "that you may know what is the hope to which he has called you, what are the riches of the glorious inheritance in the saints." Because of Jesus' gift of new life to each of us, God is made rich as we come to Him.

This cannot be perceived with our physical eyes.

Just as I needed to have some serious consultation with Dr. Magnuson and eventually an eye surgeon, we need to come willingly to God and have Him show us how to truly see things that He wants us to see.

I was thinking about the tragic story of Samson in the Bible as I rehearsed with a young tenor here at school the other day. In an aria written by Handel from an oratorio that bears his name, Samson (one of the Judges that God sent to help as well as to "judge" Israel) laments because of the darkness that results from his becoming blind near the end of his life. He couldn't see. His first words in this solo are "Total eclipse!" What a sad situation!

In His admonition to the church in Laodicea (Revelation 3:18), the Lord counsels this group of believers "to put salve on your eyes, so you can see." The Laodicean church (in verse 17) felt complacent, self-sufficient, and that they "have need of nothing." They couldn't see accurately.

They needed to have "spiritual eyesight."

Sometimes we need to humble ourselves and come to Jesus, the "Great Physician", and have Him touch our eyes so that we can see - truly see - what He wants us to see. As the people of God, we must be able to see the blind, hungry, naked, and spiritually destitute that are around us all the time.

And we must not miss our own need of the Savior. Daily. Even "Moment by moment" as the old hymn says.

People need to be pointed to King Jesus.

One of the things that has struck me lately is this abiding question: are all the people who need Jesus already attending churches in our community? Or are there still more who need to hear and respond to the truth of the gospel?

Open our eyes, Lord. We want to see You. And we also want to see situations around us as YOU see them. Amen.

St. Paul's Ladies Aid and LWML meet Nov. 4

Winside St Paul's Ladies Aid and LWML met on Nov. 4 with 15 members and Pastor Goodman present.

President Daisy Janke opened the meeting and everyone recited "The League Pledge."

Daisy had devotion on "Give Thanks, For That Which Endures," and then everyone sang the hymn "Now Thank We All Our God."

Pastor Goodman had Bible study on "The Absolution We Treasure."

Old Business: Ladies who attended the Fall Rally at St. John's Lutheran Church in Wakefield on Oct. 13, gave a report of the days' events. The Mary group served six pastors for the Pastors Circuit meeting which was held Nov. 3.

New Business: Advent Supper will be on Wednesday, Dec. 9.

Erna Hoffman reported on visiting the shut-ins in October. Janice Jaeger will visit the shut-ins in November.

The birthday song was sung for LaJeane Marotz, and birthday cards were sent to Bonnie Frevert, Marilyn Brockman, and Susie Schmidt.

The next meeting will be Wednesday, Dec. 2 at 12:30 p.m. with a carry-in dinner. This be will the Christmas program, and all the ladies of the congregation are invited.

Winside church plans roast beef dinner Nov. 22

Winside United Methodist Church will hold its annual Roast Beef Dinner on Sunday, Nov. 22.

The event will be held in the church fellowship hall at 207 Jones Street in Winside from 11 a.m.-1:30 p.m.

The menu will include roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, green beans, lettuce salad, bread and butter, dessert bar and drink. There is a charge, and the dinner is open to the general public.

Carryout in the area is available by calling (402) 286-4914 before the event, or the church on Sunday at (402) 286-4481.

Successful food drive

Mike Sievers, President of the Eagles Aerie, and Julie Addison, President of the Eagles Auxiliary, stand in front of the food collected during an October Food Drive. A total of $125 was contributed, along with a number of food items. The donations will be given to the Wayne Food Pantry.

ATTENTION PATIENTS AND VISITORS
On Monday, Nov. 2, Providence Medical Center transitioned to a new electronic health record (EHR) system. We've spent hours and hours training and practicing in preparation for this event, but things may be a little slower than usual as our staff becomes familiar with the system. The reasons for transitioning to the new EHR include enhanced patient safety, greater information security and (eventually) facilitation of more staff efficiency.

Thank you for your patience and understanding.

Jech's poster recognized by Lions Club

Ellie Jech, a sixth grade student at Wayne Elementary School, has taken the first step to becoming an internationally recognized artist by winning a local competition sponsored by the Wayne Lions Club.

Earning second place was Yair Alcantara and the third place winner was Taytum Sweetland.

Ellie's poster was among more than 400,000 entries submitted worldwide in the 28th annual Lions International Peace Poster Contest. Lions Club International is sponsoring the contest to emphasize the importance of world peace to young people everywhere.

"It is so important that peace be emphasized and shared every day and everywhere," the young student artist from Wayne Community School's said.

The winning poster was selected by Wayne State College Instructor Professor Albracht's Art Education students for its originality, artistic merit and portrayal of the contest theme, "Share Peace." The judging took place last month at the college.

Wayne Lions Club President Judy Stepp said she was impressed by the expression and creativity of the students who submitted posters. "It is obvious that these young people have strong ideas about what peace means to them. I am so proud that we were able to provide them with the opportunity to share their visions."

"Ellie's poster will advance to stiff competition through the district, multiple district and international rounds of competition if she is to be declared the international grand prize winner," Stepp said.

One grand prize winner and 23 merit award winners will be selected. The grand prize includes a cash award of $5,000, plus a trip for the winner and two family members to the awards ceremony at Lions Day with the United Nations.

"Our club is cheering for Ellie as her poster advances in the competition and we hope that her vision will ultimately be shared with others around the world," Stepp added.

Obesity, effects on diabetes to be discussed

The next Control Diabetes for Life program on Wednesday, Dec. 2 will be offered from 1:30-4 p.m. at Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department, located at 215 North Pearl Street in Wayne.

Alarming, more than 85 percent of American adults with diabetes are overweight or obese. Intra-abdominal fat (called "visceral" fat) is more closely associated with insulin resistance and Type 2 diabetes that subcutaneous fat stored directly under the skin. However, it was discovered a decade ago, that when people lose just 7 to 10 percent of their body weight - which is only 14 to 20 pounds for someone weighing 200 pounds - insulin action improves by 55 to 90 percent, leading us to conclude that a lifestyle that results in weight loss should be the prime goal of diabetes management. Especially within the first five years of diabetes diagnosis, losing weight may improve glucose levels, reduce the need for diabetes medications, and possibly even reverse the progressive course of the disease and induce remission.

and their family members to participate. The most important take-home message may just be that women with diabetes need to watch out for themselves and doctors need to watch out for them. While biology is important, it isn't everything. There are lifestyle choices that women and men can make, like exercising regularly and eating well to improve their health. Attending Control Diabetes for Life will help you with your goals for exercise and eating well.

Contrary to what most people believe, it's possible for people with diabetes to lose weight and keep it off once they know the key steps to take. While many diabetes medications help people manage blood glucose levels, quite a few of them also cause weight gain. To deal with weight control issues, those with diabetes can develop lifestyle modifications that will help them lose weight and then keep it off.

Wednesday, Dec. 2 is the third session of three programs in the 2015 series. The theme for the session is Back to the Basics. Topics that will be addressed during the two-hour program are: Protecting Your Family; Obesity and Portion Sizes; and Getting More from Medicare along with other helpful hints. Participants will receive recipes for diabetic appropriate foods.

This session of Control Diabetes for Life will help participants take a serious look at how to incorporate carbohydrate counting, especially focusing on portion sizes, into their diabetes self-management plans. Deborah Willcox, R.D., L.M.N.T., will discuss how obesity plays a role in diabetes self-management and help you to understand how to control and count portion sizes. Knowledge is power and learning all that you can about diabetes and the latest research details related to diabetes will help those with diabetes to hold their blood sugar levels in tighter control and improve their health.

Team teaching the program will be Deborah Willcox, R.D., LMNT, and Stacie Petersen, B.S.N. and Certified Diabetes Educator both of Franciscan Care Services in West Point and Debra Schroeder, Nebraska Extension Educator in Cumming County. The team has over 20 years of experience in teaching diabetes programming.

Enjoying weather, theater and sports

We are all having difficulty believing it's November. We've been told that if it does not freeze by Friday, the 13th, we will have set a new record, one set in 1915. I asked, then, if it was that warm in the fall of 1915, were they also experiencing "global warming"? No one has been able to tell me.

My neighbor informed me today that he had a strange feeling about Saturday's football game; he just "had a hunch" that Nebraska would win. Well, I didn't! And the friends in Orlando fell asleep in the fourth quarter, so were very surprised the next morning!

Friend, Dorothy, who absolutely could not tolerate Bo, had quit going to games, quit wearing red on Saturdays, and quit discussing football at all, is back to her old self, and on our answering machine on Sunday, saying, "How about those Huskers? I told you this was a rebuilding year!"

We weren't home on Sunday to

By: Pat Meierhenry

take her call because we were sitting in the theater at Norris High School, watching our Dani perform as Belle in Beauty and the Beast. The theater was built after the tornado in 2003, and it's very nice. The music department does a major musical every year, and they must like this one, because they did it eight years ago. That was fun, but this was much more so, with Dani in beautiful gowns, singing beautiful songs. We could hardly believe this was the former tomboy who eschewed wearing dresses for years.

It was also fun to watch little kids greet the characters after the performance. One little boy ran up to her and gave a big hug! A little girl, also in a yellow princess dress, stared with very big eyes and was finally persuaded to come close for a picture.

I have one nurse friend who just does not do sports at all! We still laugh about the day she was downtown when old players had been invited back and she saw this bunch of old guys, in red jackets, limping into the stadium, and wondered who they were.

Well, her niece is from Ord, and their volleyball team will be here for State Tournament, beginning on Thursday. She, of course, is all excited, and has asked Aunt Mary to go to the first game with her. It's at North Star high school, on Thursday afternoon, and Mary is nervous because she's afraid she won't know when and what to yell! She gets no sympathy from me; she should have had a dozen years on the bleachers for experience!

Lincoln always gets a certain sense of excitement when the high school teams come to town, and the city is very glad to have the tournament back from Grand Island! Now, if this weather just holds, they will all have a really good time and get back home safely. Win or lose, it's a great experience for the kids, and for the parents, too. And, we both agreed, probably most of the town will be here to cheer. And that's a good thing.

Cornhusker Economics, tree information shared

Don't forget The Wayne Fire Hall will be one of the locations for the 2015 Cornhusker Economics Outlook meeting series that will focus on ag outlook and management decisions for Nebraska farmers and ranchers. The meeting will be from 9 a.m. to noon on Tuesday, Nov. 24.

The annual meeting series is offered by Nebraska Extension and UNL's Department Of Agricultural Economics. The meetings are free to participants thanks to the support of Great Western Bank along with local meeting sponsors. For more information on the outlook meetings visit <http://agecon.unl.edu/ceo>. Please register by contacting the local Extension office at 402-375-3310. Although there is no cost to participants, pre registration is encouraged to plan for facilities, refreshments, and materials.

I like this article from Kelly Feehan on selecting trees and shrubs. Some great information; enjoy.

We have another good fall color year for trees and shrubs. While development of fall color is due to a number of factors, having a late freeze helps. It gives the true colors of leaves time to show themselves after being masked by green chlorophyll all summer.

A common question asked at Extension offices and garden centers during years with good fall color is, "What is that tree or shrub with such beautiful fall color?" People want to know so they can plant one too and I don't blame them.

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension Educator

However, fall color is not the only characteristic plant selection should be based on; especially trees. A tree can take years to reach maturity. Once it gets there, or even half way there, you don't want to discover the tree has negative characteristics that far outweigh those two weeks of beauty. Fall color is a common reason the wrong tree ends up being planted. While it is fine for fall color to be one of the characteristics to look for in a tree; here is a list of other characteristics to select for before fall color.

First look for trees that will grow well in the planting location. Even the best tree with the most desirable qualities will not perform well on a site it is not adapted to. Two examples are pin oak and white birch. Both are beautiful trees with desirable characteristics. However, pin oak is not adapted to our high alkaline soils and often has yellow leaves and dead branches. White birch is not adapted to our hot summers and eventually dies back after being attacked by borers while stressed.

For an oak that is better adapted to Nebraska, and has good fall color, plant a red, white or Shumard oak. River birch is better adapted to Nebraska than white birch. However, even though native to Nebraska, it does not do well on high pH soils and is often chlorotic with yellow leaves.

The next characteristic and equally important one to select for is wood density. Hardwood trees are better quality trees than softwood trees and much less likely to have wind, ice, or snow damage. Many are also longer lived trees. I understand wanting a fast growing tree; but keep in mind many hardwood trees considered to be slow growing do grow faster than expected. This is especially true if they are planted where adapted, planted correctly, and cared for appropriately. If we begin with a large tree that is growing in a small container, or move a large tree with a tree spade so it loses close to 90 percent of its root system, these trees will grow slower because of restricted root systems or root loss. Begin with a smaller tree and you might be surprised at how fast a supposedly slow growing tree can grow.

Examples of weak wooded trees planted for their fast growth include silver maple, Freeman maples like 'Autumn Blaze', poplars and cottonwood. These are beautiful trees that have their place. But for a shade tree near a home, driveway or street, avoid these trees.

Another important characteristic is tree size. What is the ideal size needed for the location and the trees function? Keep in mind many trees grown in town, often on basement excavation soil, will not reach the size listed in the literature. And don't overlook asking about insect or disease issues a tree may have.

Finally, consider aesthetic characteristics like fall color, flowers, seeds and fruits, winter interest and more. If a tree is selected for these characteristics, in the order listed, you will be less likely to plant a problem and much more likely to plant an asset that will provide years of benefits.

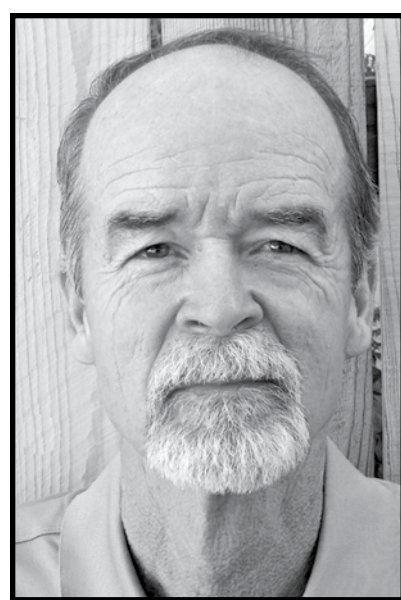

Forum to be held in conjunction with Northeast conference

Northeast Community College will sponsor a forum prior to the upcoming AG-ceptional Women's Conference later this month.

Dr. Gary Sides, a beef cattle nutritionist with Zoetis (formerly Pfizer Animal Health), will speak on modern agriculture and what goes into producing food. The Food for Thought Forum on "Revealing Today's Concerns on What We Eat!" will be held Thursday, Nov. 19, at 7 p.m. in the Cox Activities Center Theatre on the Northeast campus here. It is free and open to the public.

Sides will address a number of issues in his talk including genetically modified organisms (GMO's), antibiotics, hormones, among others.

Sides has extensive beef industry nutrition experience, compiling 20 years with organizations such as Intervet/Hoechst-Russell Vet, Car-gill Animal Nutrition and Moorman

Manufacturing Company. Before putting his nutritional expertise to work for Zoetis and beef producers, he spent two years as a livestock extension specialist with Texas A&M University, in Fort Stockton, TX. Additionally, Sides was a research scientist with Utah State University. Based in Lima, Peru, he worked in the Andes Mountains above 14,000-foot elevation, studying the reproductive and nutritional characteristics of South American ruminants.

Sides earned his doctorate in ruminant physiology and nutrition from the University of Wyoming and both his Bachelor of Science and Master of Science from New Mexico State University-Las Cruces. He is a native of New Mexico and grew up working on family farms and ranches near Roswell and Magdalena. He currently lives in Sterling, Colo.

"There is a lot of misinformation out there about modern agriculture and what goes into the food we eat, said Corinne Morris, dean of agriculture, math and science at Northeast. "Food is at the center of our families table every day. We are excited to offer this opportunity to listen, learn and ask questions about how that food is grown."

The Food for Thought Forum is being held in conjunction with the AG-ceptional Women's Conference.

The Nov. 20 conference, hosted by the Northeast Agriculture Department, is a daylong event that provides a networking venue where women in agriculture can learn more about management skills, gain confidence in decision making, and obtain information to achieve an overall sense of well-being.

For more information on either event, call the Northeast Ag Department at (402) 844-7180.

Wayne High students named for All-State Chorus honors

Each year, approximately 3,000 of the best high school musicians in the state audition for the Nebraska All-State Band, Chorus, Jazz Band and Orchestra, which are sponsored by the Nebraska Music Educators Association.

Selection as a member of one of these groups is one of the highest music honors attainable in Nebraska.

Mark Harman, Chair of Choral Affairs for the Nebraska Music Educators Association, has announced that Morgan Barner, Soprano II; Meg Osnes, Alto II; Jewel Kneifl, Alto II; Sam Bruckner, Tenor II; and Jack Osnes, Bass II; are among the 440 students selected to be a part of the 2015 All-State Chorus.

Guest conductor for the group will be Anthony Trecek-King, Artistic Director of the Boston Children's Chorus, Boston, Mass. The chorus will rehearse Thursday, Nov. 19 through Saturday, Nov. 21 on the University of Nebraska Lincoln campus, the host site of the 2015 NMEA Conference/Clinic.

A final public concert will be held on Saturday, Nov. 21 at the Lied Center for the Performing Arts on the University of Nebraska Lincoln campus.

Wayne WIC clinic is Nov. 18

Wayne will hold the Wayne WIC and Immunization clinic on Wednesday, Nov. 18 from 9:30 a.m.-3 p.m. at the United Methodist Church, located in Wayne at 516 N. Main St. For an appointment or for more information regarding the WIC or Immunization Programs please call (402) 385-6300.

NENCAP's WIC Program provides nutrition education and supplemental foods to income eligible pregnant, breast-feeding or postpartum women, infants, and children to age 5 years.

NENCAP's Immunization Program provides childhood immunizations to VFC eligible children. Immunizations are needed at ages 2 months, 4 months, 6 months and 12-15 months. School required immunizations are needed prior to entry into kindergarten (ages 4-6) and seventh grade. Lead screening is also available by appointment only to children ages 12 months to 5 years of age.

Each child should be accompanied by the parent or guardian. Past immunization records are required. Proxy forms are needed when a parent or legal guardian is unable to accompany the child to clinic. Proxy forms may be obtained by contacting the Pender office at (402) 385-6300. No one will be denied immunizations for inability to make a donation. This project is supported in part by Federal Immunization Program Funds awarded to Northeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership by the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services.

Adult vaccine (MMR, Hepatitis A, Hepatitis B, Tdap, Pneumovax, TB testing) is available to the public. We may be able to bill your insurance company. Call the Pender office at (402) 385-6300 for more information.

NENCAP's Healthy Families is a parent support program where parents can learn about positive discipline, social emotional development and benefits of good physical and emotional health. Parents may be eligible for the program prenatally or until the infant is 3 months of age and is offered at no cost to families. Parents are all offered information and connection to support services in the community.

For more information on NENCAP programs, call the Pender office at (800) 445-2505.

Beef recall is made by USDA

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced Sunday that Omaha-based All American Meats Inc. was recalling 167,427 pounds of ground beef that might be tainted with the E. coli bacteria.

The recalled meat was sold to retailers nationwide, according to a news release e-mailed to the media Sunday afternoon. No illnesses had been linked to the beef. The beef was sold in either 60-pound or 80-pound packages and was produced on Oct. 16.

All the meat being recalled has a sell-by date of Nov. 3 and establishment number 20420 in the USDA inspection stamp. How and where the meat has reached consumers is not known. The problem was discovered on Friday when a positive result for E. coli testing was traced back to the Omaha company.

Consumers are urged to check any meat in their freezers for the sell-by date and establishment number on the package. Consumers who have purchased these specific products are urged not to consume them. They should be thrown away or returned to the place of purchase.

Consumers with questions regarding the recall can call Shawn Buchanan at (402) 734-6901.

The following products are subject to recall:

— 80-lb. (approximate weight) boxes of "Ground Beef 80 percent Lean 20 percent Fat (Fine Grind)" with Sell By Date 11-03-2015 and case code 62100.

— 80-lb. (approximate weight) boxes of "Ground Beef 73 percent Lean 27 percent Fat (Fine Grind)" with Sell By Date 11-03-2015 and case code 60100.

— 60-lb. (approximate weight) boxes of "Ground Beef Round 85 percent Lean 15 percent Fat (Fine Grind)" with Sell By Date 11-03-2015 and case code 68560.

— 60-lb. (approximate weight) boxes of "Ground Beef Chuck 81 percent Lean 19 percent Fat (Fine Grind)" with Sell By Date 11-03-2015 and case code 68160.

— 60-lb. (approximate weight) boxes of "Ground Beef Chuck 81 percent Lean 19 percent Fat (Fine Grind)" with Sell By Date 11-03-2015 and case code 63130.

Just Juniors visit

Wayne State College Professor Ron Loggins and other professors talked to a group of 140 students attending Just Juniors on campus at Wayne State College on Saturday. The program included the opportunity to visit with faculty from every academic area, enjoy lunch and experience a tour of one of Nebraska's most attractive college campuses. Wayne State College will host another event for families with Fridays@WSC on Friday, Nov. 20. To make reservations, call the Wayne State College admissions office at (866) 972-2287, (402) 375-7234 or online at wsc.edu/visit.

Wayne Community Schools and Elkhorn Valley Bank

Partners in Education

We at Elkhorn Valley Bank care about the future of Wayne Community Schools. To do our part, we are going to donate $1.00 each quarter for every student in Grades 7-12 who make the Honor Roll during the 2015-2016 school year. At the end of the year, the money earned will be used toward the purchase of materials to enrich the academic program at their schools.

Below are the names of the students making the first quarter Honor Roll!!
