School choir to get new robes for next year

By CLARA OSTEN Of the Herald

Students at Wayne High School will soon be wearing new attire at choir concerts.

In action taken during Monday's regular meeting of the Wayne Community Schools Board of Education meeting, the board accepted a gift of $7,500 from the Wayne School Foundation. In addition, the board voted to contribute $5,000 toward the purchase of the choir the current robes are more than 20 years old and show signs of wear. He said that there are more than 100 students who will be involved in the choir during the next school year. Estimated cost of the robes is between $12,000 and $15,000.

Borad members received information from Lenihan Lenihan said.

We will be recognizing students who do something good, based on a different character trait each month. We will then send home a note to parents saying that their student did something good. It will be nice to have positive communication with parents,"

In other action, the board gave second reading approval to the Junior-Senior High School Handbook.

Reports were presented by all of the administrators and included information on a handbook workshop attended by Wayne High School Principal Mark Hanson.

Special Education Director Misty Beair told the board that there will be no state writing test for the 2016-17 school year. She also recently learned that the Early Learning Center qualified for a grant for the breakfast/lunch program.

Information was also shared on the school's discipline statistics for the recently completed school year. Declines were seen in several areas, including out-ofschool suspensions, in-school suspensions and special education students receiving suspensions.

Foundation Director Lindsay McLaughlin presented information to the board on the upcoming Gift-A-Thon being conducted by the Foundation.

The goal is to replace many of the individual high school fundraisers with a one-week campaign. The goal is to raise $50,000.

McLaughlin told the board that the students have raised $50,000 in fundraisers in the past; however, they only received $37,000 after expenses.

She also told the board that the Foundation is planning a number of activities for an all-school Alumni Weekend to be held in conjunction with the Wayne

Kaminsky named new WSC coach

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

Wayne State has its new men's basketball coach The school announced the hiring of Jeff Kaminsky late Wednesday morning as the new men's basketball coach. He will take over for Brian Dolan, who was relieved of his duties after three seasons with the

"We are excited to have Jeff Kaminsky take over the leadership of our men's basketball program," athletic director Mike Powicki said in a news release. "Jeff has numerous years of head coaching experience at various levels and brings a track record of successfully re-building programs in challenging situations. Jeff showed he has a vision for the future of Wildcat men's basketball and a clear plan for how to get there. I am confident he is ready for the challenge of turning Wildcat men's basketball into a contender."

Kaminsky has been head coach at Valley

City State University in North Dakota for the past 11 seasons. Last year, the Vikings finished 22-11 and earned a share of the North Star Athletic Association regular-season championship. They advanced to the second round of the NAIA Div. II national tournament for the second time in program history, finishing the season ranked No. 21 in the final NAIA Div. II coaches poll.

Under Kaminsky's guidance, the Vikings have had five 20-win seasons in the last nine years. Kaminsky is 183-144 in his 11 years at the school.

"I want to thank Mike Powicki, Mike Barry and the entire committee for providing me with the opportunity to come to Wayne State College," he said. "I am honored to be the next men's basketball coach at Wayne State and look forward to getting started The Northern Sun Conference is a conference I am familiar with, having been on 15 of the campuses. I have great respect for the conference and I am extremely excited to be a part of it."

Kaminsky, who will take over a young Wildcat team that finished 5-24 last year (3-19 NSIC), is excited about the opportunity to step into an NCAA Div. II program.

"The opportunity to rebuild a program that has an opportunity to be successful again. I have great respect for the tradition of the program and especially for what Coach McDermott was able to accomplish here. The city of Wayne and Wayne State College is appealing to me and my wife Cindy for a lot of reasons, and we are looking forward to being a part of the community and Wayne State College."

Kaminsky has been coaching for 29 years and has won 452 games in his career. He also spent 11 years as head coach at Wisconsin-Superior (1994-2005), where he also served as interim athletic director; and spent seven years as head coach of Mid State Technical College in Wisconsin Rapids, Wisc. (1987-1994), where he took a struggling junior college program and led them to three straight Wisconsin Junior College championships.

Erin Palu, general manager of the Wayne Runza Restaurant, was awarded a top honor at the company's annual meeting last week.

Palu earned the Technological Achievement award. The award is presented to an outstanding individual who collaborates with the Runza National IT team and contributes valuably to their store's technology needs.

Donald Everett, Jr., President of Runza National, stated, "Runza's success in Wayne is largely based on the commitment and dedication from employees like Erin."

Northeast Community College Board of Governors seeking candidates to fill board vacancy

The Northeast Community College Board of Governors is seeking qualified applicants to fill an unexpired term on the Board. Larry Poessnecker, of Atkinson, who represented District II of the Northeast Community College 20-county service area, since 1989, resigned on June 1. District II includes Keya Paha, Brown, Rock, Boyd, Holt, and Knox counties in their entirety and the following Cedar County precincts: Two, Three, Four, Nine, Ten, Eleven, Twelve, Seventeen and Eighteen. Any qualified voter in these counties and precincts is eligible to fill Poessnecker's term that ends in December 2018. To be eligible, the candidate must be a registered voter, a resident of one of the above named counties for at least six months, and cannot be a member of another board relating to education or another high elective office pursuant to Neb. Rev. Stat. §32-604.

A committee of the Northeast Board will evaluate applications, select and conduct interviews, and make a recommendation to the entire Board to fill the position.

Persons who wish to apply for this position may obtain information from the Northeast Community College website at www.northeast.edu.

Completed application forms must be submitted to, and received by Diane Reikofski, board recording secretary, by the end of the day on Friday, July 22. Forms may be submitted online, or applicants may print out the form, complete it and mail it to Reikofski at 801 East Benjamin Avenue, P.O. Box 469, Norfolk, Neb. 68702.

The Northeast Board of Governors consists of 11 members. Two members represent each of five districts in the service area with one at-large member. Each member serves for a term of four years. Persons with questions related to this process are asked to contact a current member of the Board of Governors or the Northeast administrative offices at (402) 844-7055.

USDA celebrates 25th anniversary of loan program

June is National Homeownership month and USDA officials, bankers and housing partners are highlighting USDA's ongoing role to help families with homeowner ship opportunities in rural communities.

This year is also the 25th anniversary of a landmark USDA program that greatly expanded the availability of home financing for rural residents.

Former First District Congressman Doug Bereuter of Nebraska was the legislative author of the Single Family Housing Guarantee Rural Housing (GRH) loan program. USDA launched this program in 1991 to help expand access to mortgage financing in rural areas. There are no down payment requirements, so loans may be made up to 100 percent of the appraised value. Approved lenders originate the loans and the guarantee provided through USDA significantly reduces a lender's risk and increases the lender's ability to reach potential homeowners. There were 75 approved lenders that participated in the GRH program in Nebraska in Fiscal Year 2015 and loans were made in 76 of the 93 counties.

Since the program was created. more than 15,500 rural residents in Nebraska have obtained home ownership with USDA loan guarantees, totaling more than $1.2 billion in rural Nebraska communities.

USDA Rural Development in Nebraska has approximately $120 million available for home ownership through their home ownership programs in fiscal year 2016. To highlight home ownership opportunities, USDA representatives along with other housing partners will be hosting public town hall meetings in 26 communities across Nebraska. Communities meetings are being scheduled in July and August. Look for a meeting that may be coming to your area.

To be eligible, the property purchased by families must be located in a rural community or area. All communities in Nebraska are eligible for USDA housing programs with the exceptions of Fremont, Grand Island, Hastings, Kearney, Lincoln, North Platte, Omaha and South Sioux City/Dakota City. Applicants for home loans may have a household income of up to 115 percent of the median income for the

The Pet of the Week at TenderHeart Animal Rescue is Ollie .

She comes from Wayne and was taken in as a scared stray by a local cat lover. She is still pretty leery of strange situations and people but is adapting nicely. Two area high school graduates have been accepted into the Rural Health Opportunities Program (RHOP) at Wayne State College.

Alexis Oswald of Allen and Amanda Stabler of Wayne are among the students who have been accepted by the Wayne State RHOP program for the 2016-17 academic year.

"The need for rural health professionals continues to grow," said Dr. David Peitz of Wayne State College. "These students have proven themselves to be gifted and dedicated to their profession. They have displayed the potential to develop into strong community leaders.

RHOP is a cooperative effort between Wavne State and the University of Nebraska Medical Center (UNMC) and encourages students from rural areas of Nebraska to return to rural settings after graduation to pursue their career. Individuals selected obtain guaranteed admission to UNMC Colleges upon successful completion of studies at WSC and receive a full-tuition waiver at WSC.

No worries for tree owners about EAB – at least, not yet

The Emerald Ash Borer (EAB) Kentucky coffeetree and other large been "Don't move firewood". that attacks and kills all ages of ash trees has been confirmed in Ne-

Last Wednesday, EAB was found in Pulaski Park in Omaha. What does this mean for tree owners in northeast Nebraska? First, this has not taken those working with trees by surprise. This invasive insect from Asia has been in adjacent states for three years now and it was only a matter of time before it was found in our state.

Nebraska has had an EAB Working Group comprised of government, tree industry, entomologists, foresters, University and private representation constantly updating an EAB Preparedness Plan for a couple of years now. There have been promotions to remove poor growing ash trees in advance and also planting a diversity of different types of shade trees to replace the ash removed or that would have to be removed.

"Probably the most common question I have had so far has been about treatment options. There are treatments available but not all ash trees are ideal candidates. And keep in mind, treatments will probably be needed to be repeated every year. A major concern to be aware of is the negative environmental impacts that the soil drenches, such as Imidacloprid, can cause. Injection techniques are more effective and less dangerous to the environment and these require a certified arborist," he added.

The recommendation has been consistent to not worry about treating your tree until EAB has been found within 15 miles of your location. This insect does not move far on it's own power. Studies show less than 10 miles a year when it is "We need to continue to plant a searching for new ash to infest. It nfs.unl.edu/nebraska-eab. Almost 100 attend 110th Winside alumni banquet

Winside held its 110th Alumni Banquet Memorial weekend, May 28. in the village auditorium with approximately 100 in attendance. The event began with a 5 p.m. social hour and then was followed by an evening meal catered by Vel's Bakery of Wayne.

The meeting was called to order by Kevin Jaeger of Winside. PMA Glenn Kietzmann of Trinity Lutheran Church gave the Invocation and later the closing Benediction for Music was provided by Dave Merkel during the night. All graduating classes ending in "6" were honored this year.

Representing the 2016 class of 15 students were: Halle Brogren, Colby Erickson, Jami Jaeger, Sophie Milenkovich and Jadyn Prince.

There were five members of the 1946 class present celebrating their 70th year after graduation. Present were Virginia Lettman Leonard, LaJeane Miller Marotz, Duane Neary (who introduced his classmates), Laura Quinn Trautwein, and Patricia Waller Podoll.

Introductions were made for the following classes by: Connie Troutman, class of 1956; Roger Hill, class of 1966; Tami Koll Hoffmann, class of 1966; there were no members of the 1986 or 1996 classes; and Korrine Stubbs Bowers class of 2006.

Fun family traditions at CWS

A number of years ago, I worked for a ticket broker in Omaha who sold tickets to concerts and sporting events on the secondary market, much the same way you might buy tickets on StubHub.

One of the interesting things about that experience was the College World Series, which begins its annual two-week festival this weekend in Omaha. The top eight college baseball teams in the country come together, bringing fans from all over the country who enjoy not only the games, but the atmosphere that surrounds this annual event.

I remember helping an older guy in Louisiana out with the purchase of tickets to the CWS. It was April, a good two months before the big event, and he was already ordering his tickets for the tournament without knowing if his favorite team would make it to "The 'Blatt." (At the time, Rosenblatt Stadium was still around, a beautiful stadium that has some great memories for team, LSU, would make it to Omaha, but it didn't really matter to him whether or not the Tigers made it to the big show. For him, the experience of hanging out with fellow baseball fans, meeting old friends who were fans of other teams and meeting new people and getting to know them was the draw for him. He was spending his two weeks of vacation in his decked-out camper parked north of the stadium, and if his team didn't make it, he'd still have a good time.

The guy was hopeful that his

After taking the job here, my daughter and I were looking at doing something fun and different for Father's Day, and she suggested downtown Omaha, and it was an opportunity for us to start a summer tradition of our own.

I've been fortunate to have connections who help us out with tickets every year, and we make it a tradition on Father's Day to take in one of the games. The first few years, we did the evening game, but with me having to drive home after and my daughter being something of an early-to-bed kind of person (a virus she obviously picked up from her mother – early bedtime for me is BEFORE midnight), we decided that the afternoon game was more to our liking.

Something fun – or funny – always seems to happen when we hit downtown. One year, we got these tasty rum-flavored drinks with a funny glass and spent the afternoon cracking jokes about funny sayings they SHOULD have put on the glasses (very few of which can be printed here, unfortunately).

One thing my daughter and I like to do is make a little wager on who wins the game we watch. We pick a team and root for them for that game, and usually there's a reason why we pick the team we're rooting for. One year, we watched Arkansas play South Carolina. She took Arkansas in honor of her adopted sister who lives there – I took South Carolina because, well, they just have a funny name for a mascot. I mean, seriously, what other team can you cheer on by yelling "Go Cocks" without people looking at you funny?

This year, I'm picking TCU because a friend of mine coaches at the school, so she's stuck with Texas Tech (although they were one of the top eight seeds going into the tournament, so stuck might not be the right word here). Loser buys ice cream at Zesto's after the game.

There's a ton of great things to do at the College World Series, and I look forward to spending another Father's Day this weekend with my daughter watching baseball, drinking funny drinks and making more fun father-daughter memories together – provided nobody brings any nacho cheese into our section.

Juniors break out bats, claim Wood Bat honors

WAKEFIELD - When your offense is swinging a hot bat, your defense is solid and your pitching is almost unhittable - you're a pretty tough baseball team to beat.

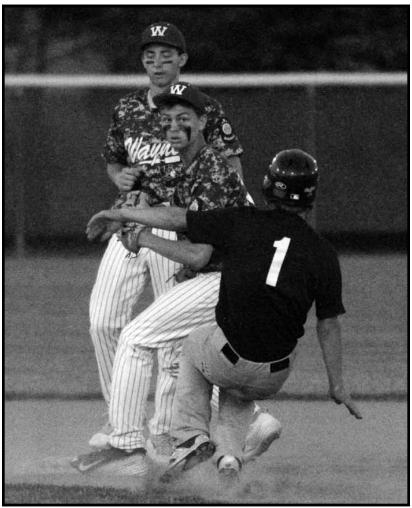

People are finding that out about the Wayne Juniors this summer, as the Juniors bounced back from their first loss of the season with a solid week that was capped by a dominating 10-1 win over Lenox (S.D.) in the finals of the Max Greve Wood Bat Tournament Sunday evening at

But coach Jeff The event had moved to the new Zeiss said he was more worried ballpark at TD Ameritrade Park in about the change in equipment than taking glorified batting practice.

> "I really was concerned more with the wooden bats," he said after the game. "We talked all week about how runs tend to be at a premium during a wooden bat tournament. It's natural to have a letdown after a game like that, but it was a good weekend for the kids."

The Juniors did have a letdown in Saturday morning's matchup with Creighton, as they were limited to just one hit. They made the most of it, though, taking advantage of seven walks and manufacturing enough to post a 4-0 win.

Mason Lee's double was the Juniors' only hit in the win, but they took advantage of six walks to manufacture four runs, two coming in the fifth to put the game out of reach. Tucker Nichols got the win with three innings of no-hit ball, while Adam Bentjen allowed one hit in four innings.

RV industry veteran Andy Shilling has joined Blue Ox as an outside sales representative covering Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama, according to Blue Ox President and CEO Ellen Kietzmann.

Alex Walker, Blue Ox sales manager, said, "We are excited to have Andy on the Blue Ox team. He has many years of extensive industry experience at many levels. Andy has developed great relationships within the industry, and will be a great asset to our team.'

Shilling began his career in the RV industry in 1991 as a sales representative for Woody's RV in Little Rock, Arkansas, and remained there until 1996 when the dealership went out of business.

In 1997, Shilling joined Palm Harbor Village, a large manufactured housing dealership in Benton, Ark., as a sales rep. He was quickly promoted to sales manager in 1998, and later appointed general manager where he served from 1999 to

Shilling recalled, "A colleague I met at Woody's RV started his own dealership and when he opened his fourth dealership, he called me and asked me to run it."

In 2005, Shilling accepted an opportunity to join MHC Kenworth in Little Rock as a sales representative specializing in outside sales, financing, and delivery of industrial vehicles. Shilling joined RV Lifestyle Inc., a California based RV and marine rep firm in 2012, serving as Midwest sales representative.

Shilling is a licensed pilot and enjoys recreation flying in his spare time. He is also an avid golfer, although he laments, as many golfers do, "I love golf, but it doesn't love me as much as I love it."

Time rockets by with grandbaby

The world is getting kind of heavy right now, so let's lighten the load this week with some grandbaby pictures and stories.

Longtime readers know about my granddaughter, Emmalyn, and how much she has grown in such a short time. Next week, she will celebrate 15 months of life, and Papa C has been blown away at how beautiful and full of energy this little girl is.

One of her favorite things to do is call Papa C on mommy's iPhone. It's always the highlight of my day to hear my phone ring and see my daughter's name on the caller ID, requesting a FaceTime call. More often than not, the first thing I see are the big, bright, beautiful brown eyes of little Emmie looking into the phone, and when she recognizes the funny face on the other end, her smile jumps off her face and turns me from an otherwise-intelligent sounding human being into a blithering, baby-talking idiot.

There will be a few moments of laughter as she hears Papa C make funny noises and say funny things, and then -BOOM - she's off to the races. She grabs a toy, waddles over to the entry to the kitchen to look over the gate, then throws the toy over the gate and runs across the living room into her bedroom. She'll play in there for a few moments, then it's back to the phone to stare at the funny guy.

It's REALLY funny when she takes the phone from mommy and takes me on her own little journey. We call it "Emmie Cam" and, believe me, it's not for the faint of stomach. We go up, down, sideways and occasionally get dropped on the floor. The sudden movements are enough to induce nausea, vertigo and bronchitis if you're not prepared for it.

The big thing right now is that she's starting to speak. The vocabulary is pretty limited right now - dada, ma-ma (only when she's angry, pretty, pretty pie and, most recently, buh-bye. We're STILL working on connecting the guy in the phone with the word "pa-pa," but there's a lot of gibberish that's being spoken, which means she's going to have a lot on her mind for some time (as if one member of this family with a lot to say isn't enough, I'm sure some of you are thinking).

Emmie loves it when Papa C comes to visit, and I promised my daughter that there would be more opportunities to get away and spend time with her. I'm hoping she'll be able to come up the weekend of Chicken Days and take part in some of the fun stuff that weekend, and we'll be getting together as part of my annual Father's Day trip to the College World Series with my daughter, so there's a lot more chances for Papa C and little Emmie to hang out and have some fun.

Some friends of mine are trying to figure out how their children grew up so fast, thinking it was only yesterday that they were in grade school and now they're getting ready to graduate high school.

Let me tell you something – as fast as time flies when your kids grow up, it's standing still compared to the time your grandchildren grow. Fifteen months have rocketed by for this

Could they get elected again?

By J.L. SCHMIDT Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

After my column appeared about Governor Ricketts trying to get his Republican legislative ducks in a row by calling out the names of the ones who didn't support him on all of his initiatives, a friend told me it was the senators' fault.

He went so far as to say there were a couple of term-limited senators from his neck of the woods who likely couldn't get re-elected if they could run because the people are so upset with them. The constituents are disillusioned because they don't feel they are being represented by the people they elected, he said.

OK. I get that. It happens every year and this year was no different. It has been happening for years. There have always been a small group of party loyalists who have waited for the governor's direction before taking a stand. This is not unique to the Ricketts' administration and goes back decades.

Nebraska's constitution clearly calls for a separation of powers among the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government. More importantly, it calls for a non-partisan legislature. Yes, leave your party affiliation at the door, please and thank you, and vote for what you feel is the best thing for your constituents. Sounds simple enough. So what's gone wrong?

pol i tics: noun "the activities associated with the governance of a country or other area, especially the debate or conflict among individuals or parties having or hoping to achieve power."

Power. When you voted for the person to represent you, did you think you were giving that person power to do much else than represent you? Did you ever think that your vote would represent an anointing of that person to rise to and your fellow constituents?

Or did you vote for the person because you heard them say something that sounded like something you might say? Did you give them the opportunity to be away from friends and family for a whopping $12,000 a year so they could be your voice in the greater realm of government? I once had a rancher in southwest Nebraska tell me they voted for a longtime incumbent just to get him out of town.

would see the light of day and possibly become law.

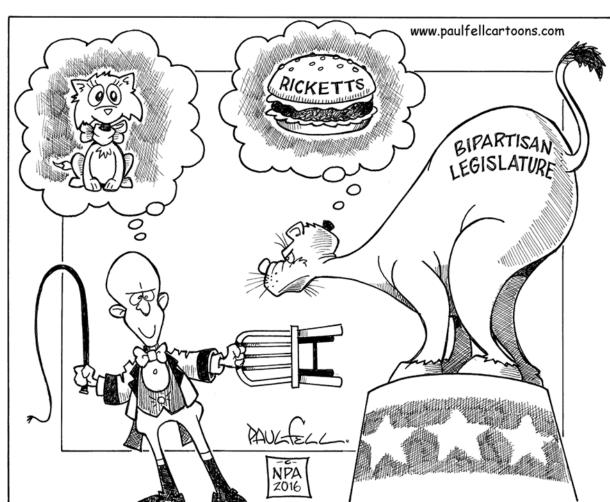

Then they ran into politics and realized they first had to convince 48 colleagues and a governor before they could see the dream fulfilled. I never knew a state senator who finished the first few weeks in office with an assurance that things were going to go his or her way. Only the ignorant or the arrogant would see it otherwise.

Perhaps the biggest thing a sena-Through the years I have had a tor has to get used to is the small number of state senators tell me role they each play in the on-going that they headed to Lincoln with daily grind of government. They an agenda and the best intentions are, at the end of the day, one green of their constituents in mind. They or red light on the unicameral tote higher office) on the backs of you had high hopes that their best ideas board. That's not insignificant, is a reason it must remain that way.

but it does put things in perspective. Each snowflake is unique, but enough of them clumped together can close a road.

Each senator has a stand on an issue and a vote. If someone is manipulating that vote, they have surrendered their individual convictions and their commitment to their

Not voting the way of the governor is not a bad thing and it certainly isn't worth a public chastisement. Remember, the Nebraska Unicameral is a non-partisan legislative body. There is a reason it has worked that way for years and there

I will always fight for local control. It may not be perfect, but it is far better than the alternative. Every election provides you with an opportunity to decide the future of your city, county, state and country - these elections are important, even when you are frustrated and disgusted to the point of not caring. Those local elections are incredibly important, and once those elections are over, go to the board meetings and council meetings. Let your elected officials know that you are paying attention and you care. If, after reaching out to your elected officials, you still are not happy, consider running for the office that deals with the issues you are not happy about. In our system, most elected people are just common folks that have decided to take part.

Participating were: Jonah Brodersen, son of Doug and Jill Broderson; Summer Jackson, daughter of Jav and Holli Jackson; Ky Kenny, son of Joe and Kelly Kenny; and Connor Lemke-Elznic, son of Jason A. Elznic and Melissa K. Lemke-Elznic.

The band members devoted four days of intense practice starting May 31, to learn the music, marching steps and field formations. The band gave their first public performance with a public concert at Harmon Park on June 3. The band led the Shrine Bowl Parade down Kearney's Central and 1st Avenue on Saturday morning and it also performed the pre-game National Anthem and during half-time of the 58th Annual Shrine Bowl football game at Ron & Carol Cope Stadium, on Foster Field, at the University of Nebraska—Kearney.

The band members were hosted by the Masons of Nebraska, and were directed by Brad Weber, retired Band Director from Wayne High School, currently Instructor of Percussion at Wayne State College; Dan Sodomka, Band Director at Aurora High School; and Dr. Dave Bohnert, Director of Bands at Wayne State College.

Brodersen received a scholarship from Wayne Chapter OES No. 132; Jackson received a scholarship from Wayne Lodge No. 120; Kenny received a scholarship from Wayne Lodge No. 120; and Lemke-Elznic received a scholarship from Blue Valley Lodge No. 64. The scholarships covered the cost of the camp. "We demanded a lot of the students during the past

> Coupled with hard work, the members also participated in bowling and a dance. Many are looking forward to the opportunity to use the instruction provided by the band directors when they return to their respective high school bands.

> "The band members worked hard during the week preparing for the Shrine Bowl performances," said Dennis Rix, Grand Master of Nebraska Masons. "They also had a lot of fun meeting new people and enjoyed the activities, but they also understand the main reason for the long hours and hard work. Patients at the Shriners Hospitals for Children will benefit the most from the band's efforts this past week. We sincerely appreciate their contribution to raise awareness and funds to enable the Shriners to help even more children."

> "Masonic lodges across Nebraska support local youth and community projects, humanitarian efforts including a child identification program, academic scholarships, and efforts to support our military," Rix said. "At the statewide level, the Grand Lodge helps to maintain two homes: The Nebraska Masonic Home at Plattsmouth for Masons and their female relatives, and the Masonic-Eastern Star Home for Children in Fremont. The combined philanthropic efforts of Masonic-related organizations amount to more than $2 million a day."

Joy Circle holds June 8 meeting

Joy Circle of Our Savior Lutheran Church met on June 8 at Brookdale. Thirty guests including the Joy

Circle members attended. President Phyllis Rahn welcomed everyone and read the WELCA purpose. She, then, turned the program over to Vice President Lynette Lentz and Carol Bauermeister.

Lynette opened the program leading the group in praying the Lord's Prayer. The program was a musical one in which Carol played well known songs - "Amazing Grace," "How Great Thou Art," "Just a Closer Walk with Thee," "The Old Rugged Cross," and "I'll Fly Away." Between each song Lynette gave the history of the writing of that song.

After the program, a light lunch was served, while those attending visited with one another.

The next meeting will be Wednesday, July 13 with Rodella Wacker presenting the program and Ruth Grone Maier hosting.

Making time for God in a busy world

Three weeks ago I decided I needed to do something to counteract the years of stress, medication (thus weight gain) and overall just feeling worthless – I decided I was going to start a 30-day yoga challenge.

I have kept at it for three weeks, and although my arthritic body and knotted muscles are still not cooperating the best, I still drag myself out of bed each morning to do this. I might not be able to accomplish all of the stretches to their full extent but I have started to feel better.

However, this morning I realized that what I originally had started to try and make myself feel better had suddenly become just another thing on my list of to-dos. I literally went through 20 minutes of yoga stretches and don't remember one thing I did. The only reason I know I did it is because my aching body is feeling

I had been struggling to come up with some heartfelt inspiring article this week. I realized that my yoga experience was just what I needed to write about. I have become so consumed in all my daily events that I have lost track of what is important, which is God!

I know that many of you can understand the insane busyness, especially during these summer months. I start shuttling my boys at 6:30 a.m. each morning and don't stop until activities are over for the day. I have no idea how parents with four or more kids are able to juggle this. I'm not complaining about taking my boys to activities that they love – I just need to find a balance within my life.

at myself and ask how much time maybe – it is because I haven't put the day at 5:30 a.m. every morning and end around midnight, but how always have teased that she was much of that was spent with God? I hate to admit this, but God has wasn't to insinuate that she didn't taken a back seat this last month or have a belief in God and that I did. two and I can feel it.

and prayer I just feel a sense of peace. If I try to pray throughout was like Mary because I just choose the day to keep that peace I truly feel better. I'm not the smartest person, but you would think I would that I was just lazy - but is that the have realized before today why, at truth? the end of each day, I just feel like I have been hit by a Mack truck – it is because I have not spent time

I read somewhere once that God will not compete for our attenthings that obsess and exhaust us into solitude and silence, He will usually leave us to our own devices. This completely makes sense! I ting things done, because obviously have been too consumed with doing this, going there, taking care of this. etc., that I have completely pushed God to the end of the line. I am completely stressed but is it because of and embrace the grace of God before Today, I had to take a hard look all I'm trying to do? Perhaps - but her.

like Martha and I was like Mary. It It was more that she was always When I start the day with God rushing from task to task and taking care of everyone. I joked that I to sit at the feet of Jesus and listen. Of course I have been criticized

No one says it better than Jesus: "Martha, Martha," the Lord answered, "you are worried and upset about many things, but few things are needed - or indeed only one. Mary has chosen what is better, and tion. If we will not withdraw from it will not be taken away from her." (Luke 38:41)

I don't believe that Jesus was telling Martha to not worry about getthings do need to be accomplished; but perhaps don't make that the focus of her life. I think that he wanted her to be a little more like Mary

Question is, how do we do this?

When we have so many things that need accomplished during a day how do we say no? How do we start putting God first?

We weren't put here on Earth to mark things off of our "to-do" list. God didn't create us just we could see how many things we could get done in a day. God created us so that we could know and love him and in return show this love to oth-

I feel I am the worst hypocrite, because I'm always trying to do things "for God" but am I really? If I am too busy for God am I really doing things for him?

At the end of the day we all need to ask ourselves if we are putting everything in front of the first commandment, and that is that we should love God with all your heart, soul, mind and strength.

I am going to start asking these questions to myself and I challenge you to ask the questions as well:

- To what activities or commitments do you give more of your time than you do to God? - What do your priorities say about your commitment to spiritual What changes do you need to make so that you are connected to Christ on a regular basis?

I know that we all live in a busy over-paced, world but I do pray that all of us can try to stop, breathe and appreciate what has been given to us. I pray that we can all try to spend more time with God every day and be more like Mary versus Martha.

God bless everyone!

Sharp Shooters to compete in national events

Seven members of the Sharp Shooters 4-H Club will be competing in two National competitions this summer.

Andrew Simpson, son of Jeff and Colleen Simpson of Wayne, has been selected to represent Nebraska on the Air Rifle team competing at the National 4-H Shooting Sports Championships to be held in Grand Island the last week of June. For Andrew, this will be a three day competition, shooting a different style of match each day. One day will consist of a Sporter 3 position match, with 20 shots fired for score in each of three position, prone, standing, and kneeling. Another day's match will be an all standing position where competitors shoot 60 shots for score. The third match is an air rifle silhouette shoot. The competitors shoot at metal knock

Happenings in this country are discouraging

What do you say? What can you say after yet another massacre, this one with the dubious distinction of killing the most! How do these American citizens become so radicalized that they think they must destroy their peers? By peers, I mean in age, not necessarily in lifestyle. Although the Bakersfield shootings were in his place of employment. The Boston Marathon bombing killed folks who were engaged in extreme fitness activity.

The Paris attacks, the Belgian attacks. Where will it happen next? And, to be totally honest, these happen routinely in Middle Eastern countries, and that seems so far away, we don't always take note. We should. When I do, I shake my head and wonder how we can get it

The politicians will make hay out of this; they already have. My friend in Orlando says the whole city was in a state of shock vester-

ing. But I admit, I haven't felt very pened to common sense? How can optimistic about answers to prayer lately.

Today, on a radio talk show, I was amazed to hear men calling in to say they have a concealed carry gun with them most of the time. And when they go into a restaurant, they sit with their eyes to the entrance, and check out all exits. I've never even thought of such a thing! But maybe I should.

Carrying a gun is not an option for me. And every time I hear about another child shooting a sibling or a parent because they found one and were playing with it, I want to call out the stupid people who leave their guns in places that children can find!

Of course, when I read of a child dying of heat stroke in a parked, locked car because a parent forgot they were with them, I want to find that person and subject him to the same treatment! What has hap-we be so distracted as to forget we have a child in our car???

I'm obviously discouraged tonight as I write. I can't think of a thing to feel good about right now. There was another instance of children being taken out of a home that was filthy and the parents were sitting around, doing drugs.

A friend told me today that she is a 30 year member of AA, and that the young ones are saying most of the crime, most of the child abuse, much of the violence against women, is the result of drugs, not alcohol. How sad.

I don't have answers. All I can do is say I'm sorry. I'm sorry, and I will continue to pray for this country, and for all victims of violence, wherever it takes place. As someone told me once, it's all we can do, and it's the MOST we can do. Amen.

Emerald Ash Borer update presented

The Emerald ash borer (EAB) is now present in Nebraska, finally being found in the Omaha area last week. This was bound to happen but I thought with the quarantines in place it would take a little longer. This borer has been in the news long enough tree owners are asking if they should be treating ash trees. These news reports may tempt homeowners to treat valuable ash trees.

However, the current recommendation of the Nebraska Forest Service and Nebraska Extension is to wait to begin treatment until emerald ash borer is known to be within 15 miles of the tree you are concerned about. This may change but probably not for a while. That is because the borer does not fly very far on its own. According to the Nebraska Forest Service, treating trees beyond 15 miles will likely provide little or no benefit to the tree but will result in unnecessary environmental exposure to pesticides, and if you inject it may even hurt the tree.

Information about EAB and braska Forest Service website. Visit www.nfs.unl.edu.

It can take up to five years for found it is possible it has been in an area for at least a few years. Howfested with EAB are still treatable not worth the expense of treating. and can be saved if the damage is not too severe.

Instead of making pesticide applications likely to be of little benefit, become more informed to help make decisions about EAB. If you have an ash tree, decide if you are willing to treat the tree on an annual basis or if you will replace the tree. Valuable trees, such as those providing shade for a home and are in good condition, may be worth the cost of annual treatment. Now is the time to become familiar with treatment options and to check into the cost. The Nebraska Forest Service has a guide that lists current options.

At that same time, be aware some communities could make it mandatory that infested ash trees be removed. This has occurred in other states where EAB has killed large numbers of ash trees.

Trees with health or structural this borer to kill a tree, so once issues or those not planted in key locations, may best be replaced rather than treated annually. For ever, unlike pine wilt killing Scotch example, if a tree has branch diepine where the tree must be treated back, sparse foliage, conks (mushabout when and how to treat ash prior to the nematode infesting the rooms) on the trunk or branches, or trees can be monitored on the Ne- tree, ash trees that are already in- severe trunk injuries, it is probably

If you are planning on planting a new tree, avoid ash trees. Most types of ash are susceptible to EAB. If you know you will not treat an ash tree once it is infested, do you have space on your property to plant another tree now to take over the landscape function if the ash tree dies?

When Dutch elm disease killed American Elms, many of these trees were replaced with green ash. This created another monoculture susceptible to pests. We could now lose a large percentage of these trees. Let's not make the same mistake Select trees for diversity. A few readily available large trees to plant are honeylocust, American linden, Norway maple, Miyabe maple, hybrid elms and white oak. If you wish to think (plant) outside the box, consider Kentucky coffeetree, shagbark and bitternut hickory, silver linden and horse chestnut. There are more to choose from, these are just a few.

Capital for rural business is available

USDA Rural Business-Cooperative Service Administrator Sam Rikkers has unveiled new rules to expand access to capital for rural

"Access to capital is one of the most important needs for businesses," Rikkers said. "USDA is partnering with the Treasury Department and other agencies to ensure that rural businesses have the resources they need to prosper and grow. The regulatory changes I am announcing today will help businesses expand their operations and create jobs.

USDA awarded more than 3,500 Business & Industry program loans totaling $9.7 billion between 2009 and 2015 to help rural businesses create or retain jobs.

In Nebraska, Hardwood Artisan LLC of Friend received a loan that helped provide the business with working capital funds to start and grow a locally owned woodworking business (www.hardwood-artisan. com). The company produces cabinetry, custom built furniture, reclaimed wood products and hardwood floors and moldings. The company has grown from a one person operation to hiring up to 10 people during its busy season.

Clark Specialty Grains, LLC of Gothenburg to receive working capital funds and to refinance debt which helped support the growth and expansion of the business. Jim Clark, owner of the business, grows and produces organic, food grade, human consumption corn for the tortilla chip industry. The facility received non GMO (genetically modified organism) project process certification. Clark not only grows the product but also contracts with farmers in his area to supply specialty corn to the food industry.

Also in Nebraska, a loan helped

The changes, published in today's Federal Register, make it easier for rural businesses to qualify for loans in USDA's Business & Industry (B&I) Guaranteed Loan Program.

They allow businesses to use the New Markets Tax Credit as a form of equity, and allow, for the first time, employees of a business to qualify for loan guarantees to purchase stock in a business by forming an Employee Stock Ownership Plan or worker cooperative.

Other improvements include:

 New, loan application scoring criteria, including priority for loans to businesses that will create quality jobs, such as those with health care benefits;

 Reduced paperwork requirements to refinance loans;

- Strengthened eligibility criteria for non-regulated lenders (such as privately owned finance companies) to participate in the B&I program;

- Expanded loan eligibility, including in urban areas, for projects that process, distribute, aggregate, store and/or market locally or regionally produced foods.

The stock ownership provisions are modeled after rural cooperative businesses. Co-ops have been economic development partners with USDA for decades. A January 2016 USDA report indicated that cooperatives earned $6.5 billion in net income and generated $246.7 billion in total revenue in 2014.
