Budget, fireworks, water on council agenda

By CLARA OSTEN Of the Herald

Property owners in the city of Wayne will not see any major change in the mill levy following the approval of the city's budget for fiscal year 2016-2017 at Tuesday's council meeting.

The total mill levy, which includes the tax asking for the General Fund. Debt Service Fund, Airport Fund and Airport Debt Fund is 44.995 cents per $100 in property valuation. This compares with 45.0295 cents in the 2015-2016 valuation.

The total asking is less than the 45c allowed by the state for the General Fund alone.

The valuation of property within the city increased from $201,911,956 in 2015 to $208,729,770 in 2016.

Of the Herald

Taxes paid to the county by Wayne County residents will increase by just under $60,000 for fiscal year 2016-2017 following action taken at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

The total tax dollar request from the county is $4,767,389.74, which includes $4,454,190.90 for General Fund expenditures; $1,198.82 for Veterans Aid and $312,000.00 for County Improvement Fund.

Prior to the budget hearing, Gene Lutt spoke to the board on proposed budget.

Lutt told the board that while he understands the increase (in tax asking) is minor, it is not justified. He noted that the state is reducing its spending and the county should do likewise.

The budget includes funding for an additional law enforcement deputy, cruiser and equipment in the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and the paving of Chief's Way and a portion of South Centennial Road.

The additional officer with the Sheriff's Department will bring the department to six officers - the sheriff, a chief deputy and four deputies.

Commissioners listened to information from Ray and Jody Kingsly on road maintenance concerns they had on the county road that runs past their home in northwest Wavne County.

Obituaries Ardith Ann Woolson

Ardith Ann Woolson, 86, of North Platte, died Tuesday, Aug. 9, 2016. As to Ardith's wishes, she donated her body to science. Services will be held at a later date and inurnment will be in Fort McPherson National Cemetery. Condolences may be shared at odeanchapel.com.

Memorials are suggested to your favorite charity in Ardith's memory. Odean Colonial Chapel is in charge of arrangements.

Ardith was born Dec. 18, 1929 to William H. and Clara A. Meyer Victor at Wakefield, where she grew up. Ardith graduated from Wakefield High School then went on to Wayne State College where she received her B.A. in Elementary Education and eventually earned her Masters Degree in Education. On July 17,1954, she married Walter E. Woolson in Wakefield, and their love continued for over 60 years. The couple settled in North Platte where Ardith was a long time teacher in the North Platte School System before retiring in 1991. She was an inspiration for all the children she taught during her 32 years as a teacher. She related many stories of the kids she knew and cared about each one as her own. Ardith was also an active member of the First Evangelical Lutheran Church and volunteered at the hospital. She loved to golf and travel and after they retired, Ardith and Walt did guite a bit of both.

Not only was she a caring teacher, Ardith was a Godly, wonderful, loving grandma. She introduced all her grandchildren to The Letter People, Skip-Bo and Rummikub, and gave each one unconditional support, love and thrifty values. Grandma never met a piece of tin foil that couldn't be salvaged or a container that couldn't hold her delicious iced tea. The older the kids got, the more they appreciated all the things she taught them throughout the years. Grandma loved all of her grandchildren very much and was supportive of their activities from Job's Daughters, to countless sporting events, to endless card games late into the night. She was always there for her grandkids.

Survivors include her son, Al Woolson, of North Platte; granddaughters, Lisa (Jeff) Hernandez, and Jennifer Cole and Haley Tinney; greatgrandchildren, Joseph Orozco, Trysten and Emily Reyes, Gregory and Owyn Beverley, and Zoe and Axel Tinney; as well as other family members.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Walt, in 2015; her parents, William and Clara Victor; and her brothers and sisters.

Job Creators in Wayne

Last week, Williams Form Engineering decided to expand their metal products forming plant in Wayne from 20,000 square feet to 60,000 square feet. In the past 30 years Great Dane Trailers, Heritage Homes, Sand Creek Post and Beam, Michael Foods, Bonnie Plant Farms and others have expanded their operations in the Wayne/Wakefield area.

How does this happen? Somebody has to convince the investors to build here.

Plant Managers are charged with hiring people that can find the best qualified staff for production and maintenance, find the best deals from suppliers, planning efficient production flows, communicating with the owners of the business, and building budgets to create the highest potential profits at our location. The plant managers at our area production plants have proven to the owners and investors they are competent, they get the job done consistently and we are the place for additional investment. Thank them when you see them.

> the previous year. The Board of Governors gave unanimous approval to the College's 2016-17 budgets, which includes a decrease of 4.22 percent in the property tax levy. The action took place following a public hearing during the board's monthly meeting.

The total property tax levy for all funds of 9.1 cents, which includes the two-cent building improvement levy, is down from 9.5 cents in 2015-16. The maximum levy allowed by the state is 11.25 cents per $100 valuation.

Lynne Koski, vice president of administrative services at Northeast Community College, said the owner of a home in Northeast's able value of $100,000 would pay $91.32 or $4.03 less over the previous year. The Board has decreased the property tax levy for 2014-15, 2015-16 and now for the 2016-17 budget years.

During Tuesday's public hearing, Koski reviewed the tax supported budgets of $57,546,265, which also include funding from other sources, such as state aid and tuition paid by students.

"We are generally keeping the tax revenue at last year's levels." Koski said.

Additionally, the College's nontax supporting budgets for 2016-17 have decreased significantly from 2015-16.

Koski said, "The significant decrease in these budgets is due to the substantial completion of the > Dr. Michael Chipps, college president, said the budget supports goals in the College's five-year strategic plan, Vision 2020, that have been defined by the board of governors.

> "We are focused on and intentional about Vision 2020 with objective and measurable benchmarks to our board. By moving toward a data analytic approach, we will better educate the current and next generation of America's workforce.'

> Chipps said with six of ten high wage, high skill and high demand jobs in Nebraska requiring a twoyear degree or less, Northeast is providing business and industry with prospective employees who are well-prepared with the training and skills necessary to do an excellent job.

"Governor Ricketts continually speaks on how important a skilled workforce is to Nebraska. Nebraska's community colleges, including Northeast, are doing everything within their power to ensure that we are able to meet the governor's goals when it comes to deploying sought after workforce. With the largest graduating class in its history last May, Northeast Community College is delivering on its promise to provide those workers. What better story is there than the work of our nation's community colleges?

Shirley Petsche, Petersburg, chairperson of the Board of Governors, said she and the board remain vigilant about keeping property tax increases to a minimum.

"As stewards of taxpayer funding, we take our role seriously and l am pleased that the administration has worked diligently to bring us a budget that includes yet another lower tax levy. This budget keeps Northeast Community College moving forward toward the board's goals in Vision 2020, while maintaining the quality education for which the College is well known."

Dr. Don Oelsligle, Tilden, chair of the finance committee, said considering and approving the College budget is one of the most important duties of the board.

"The process for the next year's budget begins almost immediately after the approval of the budget considered a year ago. This budget, after much thought and discussion, provides a good balance between what we can accomplish and what we can afford. As a board, our primary consideration is providing the proper funding for programs that allow our students to be well prepared to complete their educational goals and enter the workforce."

lic Health Department (NNPHD) Board of Health and the NNPHD Staff are hosting a Retirement Party Open House for Deb Scholten on Tuesday, Sept. 20.

The event will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. at the NNPHD office, located at 215 N. Pearl Street in Wayne.

Health District, which serves Cedar, Dixon, Thurston and Wayne Counties, was one of 14 new local public health departments that were organized in 2002 through interlocal agreements between counties and received a small amount of funding from 2001 legislation that invested the tobacco settlement monies to Nebraska into a Healthcare Cash Fund.

When asked what the health department's achievements are that she is most proud of, she readily responded, "Bringing the 'right' public health professionals together to work as a committed team who has exceeded our organizational capacity in some very challenging emergency response situations in less than two years, including three tornado responses, containing an outbreak of a rare form of TB that exposed over 100 people, and during the seven weeks of the Avian Influenza outbreak in 2015, where the staff worked overtime to monitor the workforce for any signs of 'influenza-like-illness."

Preparedness, Maternal and Child Health - Caring Connections Coalition, Minority Health Initiative, and Infectious Disease Investigation and Surveillance and are funded through grants and contracts with the state and federal agencies.

Scholten added that her work on grant proposal writing teams resulted in purchasing Geographic Information Systems (GIS) software and providing GIS training to all Nebraska rural health department staffs, and being awarded another federal grant that provided Health Literacy software and training to rural health departments during three years of funding, were accomplishments that will continue to NNPHD programs currently in- benefit Nebraska public health departments for many years.

Scholten was in attendance when Nebraska's Health Literacy program was featured as one of three state case studies at the prestigious Institute of Medicine (IOM) in November 2013 at the National Academy of Science in Irvine, Calif.

Scholten was elected as the State Association of County and City Health Officials (SACCHO) for two terms in 2004-06 and organized the first strategic planning session for the then-new Statewide Public Health System's Local Health Departments. There she introduced facilitated Technology of Participation (ToP) methodology to her colleagues. Very quickly, all local health departments, the Nebraska State Department of Health and Human Services and other state agencies began using ToP. After seeing Scholten and Whitney Shipley co-present a ToP workshop in San Antonio, Texas in 2006, the National Association of County and City Health Officials (NACCHO) in Washington, D.C., uses ToP almost exclusively in all of their programs to this day.

Deb Scholten holds a Masters of Arts in Teaching/Guidance and Counseling (MAT), a Certificate in Public Health (CPH), is a Master Certified Health Education Specialist (MCHES), and is a Registered Respiratory Therapist (RRT).

During retirement Deb is looking forward to spending more time with her family, which includes her husband. Jim. a daughter and son-inlaw and their twin daughters, a son and her mother.

ball team put some big numbers up on the scoreboard.

The Trojans won for the second time this season at Eaton Field, cranking out 381 yards in total offense on their way to a 60-28 win over the Homer Knights.

Fresh off a 91-point outburst in their season opener last week, the Trojans' offense kept cranking out the touchdowns, building a 36-6 halftime advantage and putting the game out of reach with a big third quarter that saw them score three times to take a 60-14 lead into the final period.

Wakefield scored on their first possession when Daniel Nuno hit paydirt on a 12-yard run to give the hosts a 6-0 advantage. They struck again on their next possession, courtesy of a 22-yard connection between Solomon Peitz and Ben Klein to make it 12-0.

After the Knights broke a big play to set up their first touchdown, Wakefield answered late in the period when a long run by Solomon Peitz set up the next score. Peitz called his own number on an eight-

Wakefield turned it on in the middle two periods with five scores. Peitz threw a pair of touchdown passes in the last 90 seconds of the second, finding Julio Sanchez for a 30-yard score and hitting Isaac Camarena for a 30-yard connection right before half to give the Trojans a 36-6 advantage.

ALLEN – Special teams play and turnovers can turn a close matchup into a one-sided affair pretty quickly, as those who saw Friday's matchup between Allen and Cedar Bluffs can attest.

The Eagles returned two kickoffs for touchdowns, returned an interception for a third and used a fumble to set up another as the hosts blew out Cedar Bluffs 80-20 in action Friday at Isom-Hill Field.

With more than 400 yards in total offense and the team's highest-scoring game in recent memory, it was not a bad night for those in Eagle Country, according to coach Dave Uldrich.

"Things looked pretty darn good Friday," he said. "Only one turnover, only three penalties, and our defense and special teams had exceptional efforts. Our offensive line opened just enough of a hole most of the evening to squirt through. It was just a pretty solid effort. It was nice to see the kids refocus, trust the process, and one another to do their jobs correctly."

It took all of eight seconds for the Eagles to get on the scoreboard, as Tayler Kumm took a squib kick down of the game. After a Cedar Bluffs fumble, Allen scored again when Garret Brentlinger found Jacob Williams on a 22-yard scoring strike. Kumm added the first of four rushing touchdowns later in the period, a 17-yard gallop that made it 22-0 and the rout was on.

in the second period. Brentlinger got a 26-yard pick-six on defense and added a 58-yard touchdown run, while Kumm scored on runs of 72 and 29 yards to make it 50-0 late in the first half. The Wildcats scored a late touchdown to make it 50-8 at the half, but the game was nevern in doubt after that.

After a Cedar Bluffs score made it 50-14, Kumm took back his second kick of the night to the house, then capped his evening with a 67-yard run to make it 66-14. O.T. Roth added runs of 45 and 53 yards to account for the balance of Allen's 80-point night as they improved to 1-1 on the season.

Uldrich said his team and coaches did a good job of preparing for a bigger Cedar Bluffs team.

"Coaches Wemhoff, Bathke and and ran 48 yards for the first touch- Olesen did a great job with their schemes," he said. "It allowed the kids to get after a much larger team than we were. Now, we need to build more momentum on at Elkhorn Valley, so we can be ready when district play begins."

The Eagles racked up 406 yards in total offense, led by Kumm's Allen would blow the game open 213 yards on 10 carries with four touchdowns. Roth also cracked the 100-yard mark in a backup role, finishing with 114 yards on four carries. Brentlinger had 63 yards on seven tries.

Defensively, Blake McCorkindale led the Eagles with 13 total tackles, Cody Thomas had 12 tackles and Kyle Smith had 10 stops.

Opinion

A busy fall begins Capitol View It's that awkward time of year

The Wayne

era

The Nebraska State Fair is a lines of our economy. As September great celebration of agriculture and begins, Congress is reconvening in a wonderful time to meet old and new friends.

AND DESCRIPTION OF THE OWNER OWNE

When the fair comes to an end, it also signals the end of summer. Throughout the month of August, I have been grateful for the opportunity to travel the Third District and hold mobile offices to talk with Nebraskans about issues ranging from tax reform to trade, and modern agriculture to health care.

United States Congressman

Additionally, I have visited some of our district's innovative entrepreneurs and presented Excellence in Economic Development awards to recognize their contributions to our economy and communities. The 2016-2017 Third District Youth Advisory Council held their first meeting with me in Gibbon to kick off a year of productive discussions about local and federal issues. I have met with producers in multiple counties to talk about obstacles they face due to the overreach of the federal government. Earlier in the month, I had the honor of participating in a send-off ceremony for nearly 100 Nebraska National Guard soldiers and dedicating the new Omaha National Cemetery which will serve veterans and their families throughout Nebraska.

It has been a productive August meeting with people on the front

Washington, D.C. We have a lot of work to do.

The first major issue we must address is funding the government ball is well under way and Husker through the next fiscal year. We know the federal government cannot afford to continue to spend year. The presidential election is money it does not have. If our $19 trillion national debt were evenly distributed among all American citizens, each person would owe nearly $60,000.

Since Republicans assumed the House majority, we have cut spending by nearly $200 billion. These easy, but they are necessary. We must keep moving in this fiscally responsible direction to put our country on a more sustainable course.

In my role on the Ways and Means Committee, I will also conon our plans for tax reform and health care.

Simplifying the tax code is the tax reform blueprint, most Americans could file their taxes on a form to make the tax code fairer for all. which can help improve this proposal.

Our health care plan – an official Republican alternative to Obamacare – eliminates more than $1 trillion in health care taxes and mandates while giving Americans more options to choose from in a staff injured and hundreds of thoumore flexible insurance market. People can take their coverage with them rather than being tied to a certain job or location to keep their insurance. Our plan also includes reforms to strengthen Medicare and empowers patients to make their own health care decisions with their rallied for changes. The American doctors.

These issues impact all Nebraskans, and I am grateful to everyone who took the time to come to my public meetings and visit with me in August to share their thoughts and concerns. I will take your input with me to Washington as we begin a busy fall season in Congress.

The county fairs are over. The State Fair is done. High school footfootball has started.

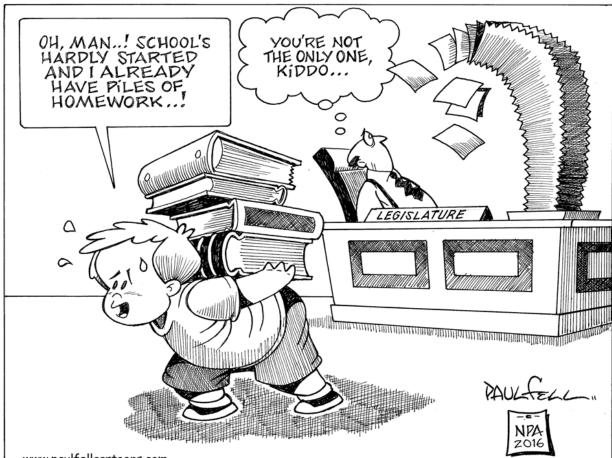

It's that awkward time of the still a couple months away. If you ignore the constant palaver coming from that direction, it would appear that a news shortage has gripped the nation. But wait, there's hope. The Nebraska Legislature continues interim studies season.

There's the glamorous ruminadecisions on what to cut are not tions of the Executive Committee as it tries to decide what to do with the senator who caused a nationally publicized embarrassment by having cybersex on a state computer from a hotel room in another state. They asked him to resign and he tinue helping to lay the groundwork has refused. Heck, the governor has even asked him to resign, but he has refused.

Education Committee to examine (LR586) the effects of transferring public school employees from the system of district-based health insurance plans to the Nebraska State Insurance Program. It's a twist on an idea that former state Sen. Dan Lynch of Omaha often floated. He proposed making Nebraska one school district and all the teachers and administrators state employees. Groene's idea seems tame against that historic backdrop. The hearing is Sept. 10 in Lincoln.

Senator Kate Bolz of Lincoln wants the Business and Labor Committee to examine (LR533) promoting career education and training that can lead to job readiness for middle-skill jobs. Given that recent studies have concluded that some college graduates are not prepared for the job market - or even able to perform basic "adult skills," this could be an interesting hearing on Oct. 21 in Lincoln.

mittee to review (LR564) the statewide comprehensive plan for education. I love these open-ended studies, which often bring fresh new ideas - and, admittedly, some tee will discuss (LR539) that same bad old ones - out of the woodwork. Pansing Brooks' mother was a longtime member of the Lincoln Board of Education.

On Oct. 14, the Legislature's Agriculture Committee will tackle two timely topics. The first (LR612) is a review of the state Auditor's report on the Nebraska Brand Committee. That audit led to the resignation of the Brand Committee's executive director who was then hired for a different Brand Committee job at the same salary. Better wear your boots to this one, it could get deep. The other resolution (LR498) aims to examine the Nebraska Right to Farm Act. That controversial topic failed to gain approval during the last session, but further study is probably Labor Committee will also discuss (LR512) the Commission on Industrial Relations. The Transportation and Telecommunications Commitday to look at the jurisdiction and structure of the Public Service Commission. The committee will also consider (LR519) determining if updates are needed for the state's One-Call Notification System Act. Can you dig it?

Appropriations and Revenue Committees meet on Nov. 4 to discuss the income and expense report from the Nebraska Department of Revenue. Orientation for new senators and a refresher course for the "veterans" will be held at Offutt Air Force Base near Bellevue on Nov. 17 and 18.

Nothing real sexy in any of this, but a number of essential issues to be cleared up by year's end.

Lifestyle

Create successful action plans for improved health around us of the national obesity crisis, lifestyle changes are difficult for most individuals, said Dr. Lydia Kaume, a nutrition and health education specialist with University of Missouri Extension.

"For individuals not yet experiencing health problems, the incentive of better health and reduced morbidity in the future is not motivating enough," said Kaume. "For those in the thick of health prob-

Scientific observations show health providers and counselors have not been successful at achieving behavior changes in clients. To modify lifestyle, one needs personal resolve; small, intentional, gradual changes; and the necessary emotional and moral support.

There is also evidence that wellwritten personalized action plans that are easy to adhere to are effective instruments of behavior change.

Pierce County

To write a personal action plan, follow these guidelines:

1. Define what behavior needs to be changed.

2. Decide how much will be done to change this behavior.

3. Schedule which days of the week you will take action. To increase your chances of success, avoid stating all seven days, just listing two days may be good enough for a start.

success on a scale of 1 to 10. A con- another action plan and resolve to fidence level of 7 or more is recommended.

There are several simple but important health behaviors that a person may resolve to modify that can significantly improve their health. For example, try a few of these changes:

·Increase your hours of sleep. •Plan a weekly meal schedule to reduce the number of times you eat out

• Eat less red meat.

•Add oily fish to your diet.

•Increase the number of days in a week that you eat fruits and vegetables

• Buy whole grain products. • Exercise (10-15 minutes for beginners).

• Eliminate a known stress factor. •Try a new healthy recipe.

WAKEFIELD SCHOOLS (Sept. 12 – 16)

·Attend a health class. Start a diary or meditate.

The goal is to stick to a new be-5. Finally, rate your confidence of havior until you are ready to make modify another behavior. Most Americans are in our current health crisis because most of our lives are hectic. This means busy lifestyles, poor eating habits, poor quality sleep and being physically inactive, which leaves the majority of people fatigued and yearning for more energy. Health conditions and medications can further complicate fatigue.

Ideally, good habits need to be formed early in children so no interventions would be necessary as adults, and we have lots of opportunities to influence the next generation. But we must begin by modeling healthy behaviors today. Writing an action plan and making small improvements, one at a time, can be a big step toward nutrition and lifestyle change.

A Word In Faith

By Carl Lilienkamp

My wife Darlene and I spent a good part of the summer in Alaska. We were blessed to pull our camper to Alaska and back to learn about and enjoy the vast wilderness of Alaska. We also enjoyed parts of Canada, especially the Yukon and British Columbia. We spent several days at Dawson City, Yukon, the epicenter of the Klondike Gold rush of 1897-1899.

While at Dawson City, we toured the world's largest wooden gold dredge, Dredge No. 4. Since we arrived at Dredge No. 4 early, we had time to take pictures and explore on our own. Susan, the tour guide, was there and was very willing to talk. So she shared with me her vast knowledge of living around Dawson City and the Yukon. Susan, now in her sixties, moved up to the Yukon as a young lady and stayed. She would never consider leaving.

One of the things Susan explained to me is why nearly all of the Yukon communities, Dawson City, Whitehorse, Carmacks, and others, have big, huge, spring celebrations. She said they originally started, not as a big party to celebrate the end of a long, harsh, cold, dark winter, but as a way of checking on each

The Bible actually teachdidn't show up? Well, then a group es that God created people to be in of concerned citizens would head community. God said in the beginout to Charlie's cabin and see if he ning, "It is not good for man to be is okay. Susan affirmed again and alone." Israel was a community, again, "people up north watch out for one another--they have to--life sinned, the whole community sufis too harsh." Spending time "up north" this summer, I learned that tament, is a community, called the Susan is right. She is right mainly because, just to survive up north, you have to "stick together." Life is that harsh.

me was so inviting, that I was ready into our human community to bring to sell everything in Nebraska and about our salvation. Even sin is other, to see if everyone is okay. At move to the Yukon. There is some- about an exaggerated focus on self rather than God and others. Do you think God could have figured out a way to save sinful mankind without entering into our fallen earthly community? God could have just decreed from heaven that we are saved. It would have been clean and safe and no suffering, crucifixion or death. But Jesus became one of us, walked our roads, lived, ate, and slept with us. Then Jesus carried our sins to the cross, went to the grave and was resurrected, as proof that death is overcome. Even today, Jesus is at the right hand of the Father pleading on our behalf.

Living in the lower 48, mainly Nebraska, most of my life, I know people stick together here too! The Yukon doesn't have a corner on caring. When there is a tragedy, such as a house fire, the community rallies around the hurt. We saw our community in action when tornadoes hit our area several years ago. Actually we do a very good job of caring when something like a tornado strikes. Sadly, we can miss the smaller everyday times when we need to watch out for each other.

Unfortunately the concept of community is being challenged no matter where we live. Our digitally-connected society seems to be contributing to the disconnectedness. Interestingly, the remote parts of the NORTH, are hardly connected at all by cell-phones and the internet. Might it be a good idea to pull the plug (at least for a little while) on some of the digital devices and social networks so we might see the needs of the persons next to us?

Northeast, other community colleges sign MOU with USDA and National Corn Growers Association

Representatives of five Midwest community colleges, including Northeast Community College, have come together to form a national consortium to sign a memorandum of understanding (MOU) with the United States Department of Agriculture's Natural Resources Conservation Service (USDA-NRCS).

This collaboration, which also includes the National Corn Growers Association and USDA's Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education Program (SARE), was born out of a mutual desire to provide more ongoing education, training and demonstration to future farm producers and agricultural service providers with the goal of improving the health, and therefore the long-term productivity, resilience, and sustainability of soil.

In addition to Northeast, participating colleges include Butler Community College, El Dorado, KS; Northcentral Technical College, Wausau, WS; Northeast Iowa Community College, Calmar, IA; and Richland Community College, Decatur, IL. The hope is to expand the consortium in the coming years.

In response to its customer and stakeholder needs, NRCS recently formed a new Soil Health Division. Among other responsibilities, division staff members will help deliver soil health management, education and advanced training across the country and build partnerships to expand that impact. As part of this effort, NRCS sought community college partners to be a part of their work plan.

"This partnership with the community colleges will leverage efforts of the newly formed Soil Health Division. It will help build a network of the next generation of land managers, experts, educators and technicians who are actively involved in improving soil health," said Dr. Bianca Moebius-Clune, NRCS's director of the soil health division.

As part of the agreement, the colleges also join a growing network (65 sites so far) nationwide working alongside the National Corn Growers Association to test various soil health management systems designed to improve the health of soil to increase yield and profitability and, over time, reduce environmental risks using these practices. These test plots are implemented on the community college campuses; allowing students to learn about these practices and begin to understand their promise for higher yields and profitability, their effect on resiliency against extreme weather and improved utilization and retention of nutrients on the crop.

Nick Goeser, director of NCGA's soil health partnership, said that by working directly with community colleges, they are able to reach a much wider audience of future producers than would otherwise be possible through their project. "USDA-SARE hopes to be able to support the partnership through its grant programs by providing professional development support to the colleges' agriculture educators and educational materials to support student learning in the classroom." USDA's NRCS and SARE programs are a critical link in the education of the current generation of farmers and ranchers; and colleges such as Northeast are considered an important asset in educating the next generation of producers. Many of the approximately 350 agriculture and related program students who attend Northeast each year go back to their family farms or work within the industry once they graduate, while others transfer to fourvear institutions.

Jason Weller (third from right), chief administrator of Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Washington D.C. is joined by representatives from five community colleges during a signing ceremony to form a collaboration to address soil health. Pictured (L to R) are Dr. Liang Chee Wee, Northeast Iowa Community College; Dr. Kim Krull, Butler Community College, Kansas; Dr. Michael Chipps, Northeast Community College, Nebraska; Weller; Dr. Chuck Novak, Richland Community College, Illinois; and Dr. Shelly Mondeik, Northcentral Technical College, Wisconsin. This is one of many partnerships Northeast Community College has engaged in over the past few years. Other industry partners include Helena Chemical, Central Valley Agriculture, Channel/Monsanto, Pioneer, Farmers Pride, Valley Irrigation, Encirca, and Lower Elkhorn

Northeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership receives a $1000 Grant for food pantries

Northeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership received a $1000 Working Here Fund grant for their food pantries. The grant is provided through Farm Credit Services of America's (FCSAmerica) Working Here Fund.

Northeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership will use grant funds to purchase food items for the four pantries located throughout a 14 county service area in Northeast Nebraska. The food items will be used to create emergency food packages to be distributed to clients at the four pantries.

"Our pantries are stocked almost entirely through local donations, which is greatly appreciated, but usually does not include fresh or perishable items like meat, milk, eggs and fresh produce," said Nikki Peirce, grants director at Northeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership. "We intend to use these funds to purchase the items that are not often received through donations such as cost effective meats and vouchers for milk, eggs and produce."

"We are proud to help Northeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership to provide meat, eggs, milk and fresh produce to local families through the emergency food packages," said Zach Gansebom, vice president of retail operations at FCSAmerica's Sioux City office.

Northeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership is one of 108 organizations to receive a Working Here Fund grant in the second quarter of 2016. FC-SAmerica awarded $165,855 during the latest grant cycle ending June 30, 2016.

Northeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership serves an income-eligible population in a 14-county area of Northeast Nebraska, including the counties of Antelope, Burt, Cedar, Cuming, Dakota, Dixon, Dodge, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Stanton, Thurston, Washington, and Wayne.

Farm Credit Services of America is proud to finance the growth of rural America, including the special needs of young and beginning producers. With nearly $25 billion in assets and $4.4 billion in members' equity, FCSAmerica is one of the region's leading providers of credit and insurance services to farmers, ranchers, agribusiness and rural residents in Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming. Random thoughts on recent events

Random thoughts after a three day weekend:

Not a day goes by anymore that we don't read about a murder or a sexual assault in the daily paper. If it's discouraging to us, think about our local police!

Speaking of that, the Lincoln paper reports an increase in calls on Saturday. That is one of the reasons I don't like evening games. Too long a day to tailgate, etc.

It seemed long in many ways. The sports columns have spent reams of paper discussing this year's players, last year's statistics, next year's recruits, ad nauseum..

Mike has had the day circled for weeks. He has a calendar from Hail Varsity that began the countdown on the first day of July. Lately, he had been greeting people with so many days to the first game.

Even on Saturday, it seemed to be a very long day I was one of the almost unheard of. few people in church that evening not in red. That seems to be a universal thing here, even if you are not going to the game.

The whole evening was bathed in tears for me. Sam Folz's parents are very brave. The missing punter was so poignant. The decline of the penalty by the opposing team so classy. And the theft of stuff from his brother in Greeley so low!!

How about that volleyball team? That was fun to listen to, even though it was not televised. And why would it not be televised, when it was in Lincoln? Who knows?

We also listened to Lutheran High's game with Twin River. They more than made up for their first one! So did the other Norfolk teams. Apparently, the loss of the first games of the season by all three is

I'm ready to put on jeans and get rid of the shorts, but the forecast for this week is not going to allow it.

We've been eating peach pie, which is one of the true joys of this time of year. And we are still getting corn on the cob, thanks to the folks from York planting it in sequence.

Friend Marlyce, in Orlando, sent that paper's sports summary. They had ranked all the FBS teams, which is rather ridiculous preseason. An awful lot of the teams on our schedule are ranked above us. AND, UCF won its first game after going 0-12 last year; good for Scott Frost.

I guess that's all, folks, Time to make sure the choppers and combines are ready to go.

Sometimes Palmer amaranth is misidentified as common waterhemp. There is a link in the survey explaining how to tell the difference between the two pigweed species. Here is the link in case you can't get it. http://takeactiononweeds.com/ wp-content/uploads/2014/01/palmer-amaranth-identification-poster. pdf.

Characteristics to look for include petioles that are longer than the leaf blade. Palmer amaranth tends to have rounder leaves than waterhemp, and the canopy is denser. The dense canopy contributes to the greater competitiveness of Palmer amaranth, making it much more damaging to crop yields than waterhemp. Female Palmer amaranth flowers have a long (up to 1/4") with five tepals. Redroot and smooth pigweed have large bracts, but these species have hairy stems compared to the smooth stems of Palmer amaranth and waterhemp. While the flowers of Palmer amaranth are much larger than those of waterhemp, the seeds of Palmer amaranth are only slightly larger than waterhemp seeds.
