Audit, meals, streets on City Council agenda has ranged from $1.80 to $2.20 per meal

clara@wayneherald.com

The financial health of the city, the possibility of making meals at the Wayne Senior Center and the street improvements to be made in the community were all on the agenda for the Wayne City Council on

Terry Galloway with Almquist, Maltzahm, Galloway & Luth PC spoke to the council on the fiscal year 2015-2016 audit of the city's finances. Galloway pointed out a number of highlights on the audit, both in the revenue brought into the city and the cost of operating the city. He had high praise for the city's reporting procedures and noted the city has good cash management. You budgeted $7.6 million in the General Fund and spent only $5.2 million."

Galloway spoke of several areas within the city's expenditures where the city does not spend much. He said that the fact that residents of Wayne pay $141 per capita in property taxes in comparison to the $210 paid by other cities this size was "great news to taxpayers."

Council members approved a proposal from the Wayne Senior Center staff to convert to in-house prepared meals beginning July 1, 2017.

Diane Bertrand, Senior Center Direc-

for the meals themselves.

She said that there are several changes that need to be made before it would be possible to prepare all the meals at the Senior Center. These include additional ovens, a commercial grade refrigerator and more storage. More counter space would also be required.

Someone would need to be hired to prepare the meals, although Bertrand is confident that the additional employee would be able to stay under 29 hours per week.

"I have spoken to the Area Agency on Aging and they are in favor of the plan. This change would bring down the cost of the meals and improve the quality."

The Senior Center's meals are currently provided by Chartwells at Wayne State College. Bertrand said the relationship with Chartwells has been good, but preparing the meals at the Senior Center would be a good thing.

Joel Hansen, City Planner, presented the projects listed on the city's one and six year street improvement program.

The list of projects is required by the state and Hansen noted that because a project is on the plan, does not automatically mean it will be completed, but if a project is not on the plan, it cannot be completed without coming to the council for special approval.

Among the projects on the one year pro-

Geneie Andrews met with the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to discuss a web mapping and informative site for county officials and the public to access information and pay taxes among other fea-

Currently, the company maps 88 of Nebraska's 93 counties. Of those 88, 84 counties are a web-based review product for the public to have access to as well as officials.

"We've been working with this county since the late 1990s and we currently work with 10 percent of the counties across the United States," Andrews said in the meet-ed on the several neighboring counties that already utilize the service, also stating that the time saved by courthouse personnel would be greatly beneficial if people were able to see information from such entities as the County Assessor online, rather than calling and taking time away from employees to answer questions.

While the concept is a great one, the initial cost isn't a small one but there is a discount of 25 percent per tab given if a county were to choose to do at least 4 tabs.

Andrews listed the cost for a site containing assessor, clerk, treasurer and emergency management tabs with the bill over $34,000, but that cost is a one-time build cost. The work that would be necessary to map the county and build the website would all be included in that price.

Yearly maintenance would be required on the site, so in 2018 Wayne County would be required to pay a fee of over $13,000 for maintenance and there on for the number of years the contract locked in that price.

The tabs on the website would make things such as paying taxes online possible and property assessments retrieval a

Nurses gather in the emergency department's recently finished facility in the photo above. The addition to the hospital enabled the department to be housed in one location, rather than three like it had been previously. Other renovations the hospital has on the list to renovate include patient rooms and birthing rooms. Aspects like the administration offices, student health and the hosptial chapel (shown below left) have already been completed, but were part of the project. Signage was added to the drop off area after it was renovated (shown below right) to help visitors and patients find the entrance.

Original project built upon early in construction

Providence adds to scope of project with good reasons

By Calyn Dunklau calyn@wayneherald.com

Healthcare, like many aspects of life, hasn't stood still but has grown in leaps and bounds — be it the technology available or the medical practices.

Because of those advancing technologies and practices, facility improvements were necessary for Providence Medical Center to continue offering its current high standard of care to the over 15,000 residents in the area.

While the hospital was built as a stateof-the-art facility at its construction in 1975, many of the once-modern amenities PMC offered had become outdated in the over forty years that have passed, which is why the governing board and the hospital's administration felt it paramount to begin updates to the facility sooner rather than later.

While there were several areas needing addressed, the most pressing issues were given priority.

The Emergency Department, which was previously located in three different areas of the hospital, was on that list, as was the birthing area in order to meet current comfort expectations of expecting parents. Another area was the patient rooms, which rent medical technology.

Other areas of concern included the building's infrastructure — plumbing and electrical systems — considering they hadn't been updated since the facility's original construction.

It became evident that the needs of the facility warranted an expansion if PMC was to continue being the choice provider in the area for quality healthcare.

"Providence Medical Center has undertaken a forward-thinking hospital renovation plan that will bring the medical facilities of PMC up to the standards of the best current medical facilities," Providence Medical Center CEO Jim Frank said.

Since the initial project was announced, many people have encouraged the expansion of the project itself to ensure the entire facility is once again a state-of-the-art, efficient facility. Additions to the project included renovating the front entrance to make it easier for large vehicles to utilize the drop off area as well as redesigning the lobby to include a welcome desk for guests to access.

The nurses station and nurse call system would be upgraded to enhance care and services provided to patients by nurses.

Central sterilization would be updated to meet regulatory standards for infection control and as well as meeting new building code requirements. The laboratory and radiology areas would be addressed to better accommodate patients.

The computer server room would be relocated to a more secure, controlled area to comply with federal regulations.

Other aspects of the enhanced project included the administration offices and the redesign and location of the Student Health clinic and hospital foundation office along with a reconfigured outpatient area to enhance their experience and employee workflow.

One draw of adding to the original project right away means a more efficient facility overall, with far fewer interruptions and inconvenience for employees and patients alike as well as keeping construction

"It is our belief that these upgrades will make PMC and the Wayne area a more attractive destination for the recruitment of physicians and other medical personnel," Frank said. "This is a community that takes pride in the way it carries itself and presents itself to the region — PMC takes pride in being a part of such a progressive

'Truckin' Through Nebraska Museum' to visit Wayne

First Lady Susanne Shore has the-art custom air-ride, double-exannounced preliminary exhibit and tour details of the Nebraska150 Celebration's largest project, "Truckin' Through Nebraska: A Mobile Children's Museum." The museum exhibit will begin its 42-stop tour across Nebraska in Omaha in April. Wayne will be among the stops for the museum, although the exact date of the visit has not been announced vet. First Lady Susanne Shore said,

We created the Mobile Children's Museum to provide a fun, handson learning experience for children who may not normally be able to easily access a children's museum. Through play, inter-activity and the latest technology, Nebraska's children will explore their heritage and envision their futures. We hope the experience will help power the imagination and create an excitement about learning."

The Mobile Children's Museum is contained in a 53-foot state-ofpandable trailer that is specially designed and outfitted for traveling museum exhibits. The unit is climate controlled, has GPS tracking, Wi-Fi, its own generator and is ADA accessible.

Interior exhibits will include areas where kids will build shelters and test them in a wind chamber or earthquake simulator, design their own 10-acre homestead, test their knowledge of Nebraska, create their own movie, explore toys from the past, craft their own postcards

Exhibits will also surround the exterior of the trailer, allowing for optimal play and learning space. Those exhibits will include a timed "chore" challenge obstacle course, foam block invention area, toy creation station and more.

The Mobile Children's Museum will launch in early April from the Omaha Children's Museum, which partnered with the Nebraska150 Celebration on the project. Shore added, "We could not have accomplished this enormous undertaking without the support and guidance of the Omaha Children's Museum. We are incredibly grateful for their partnership and the expertise they brought to the project."

Omaha Children's Museum Executive Director Lindy Hoyer said, 'We serve the metropolitan area well, and we saw this mobile museum as a great opportunity to stretch our mission across the state. We wanted to work with the Nebraska150 Celebration to help create the mobile museum because it was a great opportunity to engage young children and their families in these communities. I grew up in a small town in Nebraska, and I know how something like this can energize an entire community."

Tour dates and hours of operation will be announced in the coming weeks.

While exhibits in the Mobile Children's Museum are intended for children ages 5-12, audiences of all ages are welcome. Admittance is free and open to the public.

The Mobile Children's Museum is sponsored in part by Children's Hospital and First National Bank.

Planning for the Nebraska150 Celebration began in 2012 when a group of active citizens from across the state formed the Friends of the Nebraska150 Foundation. In 2014, the Nebraska Sesquicentennial Commission was established by the Legislature and 17 members from across the state were appointed by the Governor to lead the initiative. In 2015, the Celebrating Nebraska Statehood Foundation was established to help coordinate efforts and direct everyone toward collective Dicke Cavett (left) and his long-time broadcasting friend Ron Hull will be in Wayne on Feb. 20. The two will present a program in Ramsey Theatre on the WSC campus.

Wayne State College to host Dick Cavett with Ron Hull on stage

Two Nebraskan broadcasting legends will appear together on one special evening as the Black and Gold Performing Arts Series at Wayne State College and John G. Neihardt Foundation present "A Conversation with Dick Cavett featuring Ron Hull" in Ramsey Theatre at Wayne State College in Wayne on Monday, Feb. 20 at 6:30

Best-known as the host of "The Dick Cavett Show," Cavett is a three-time Emmy award winner with a television career spanning five decades. He is also author of Cavett (1974), Eye on Cavett (1983), Talk Show: Confrontations, Pointed Commentary and Off-Screen Secrets (2010) and Brief Encounters: Conversations, Magic Moments and Assorted Hijinks (2014) and has two PBS specials: Dick Cavett's Watergate (2014) and Dick Cavett's Vietnam (2015).

A Nebraska native from Gibbon, Cavett will appear on stage with his long-time friend Ron Hull.

"Dick Cavett is truly a Nebraska son," Hull said. "He has never forgotten his roots and he's contributed his auspicious talent to our culture and myriad Nebraska events throughout his life."

Hull's television career also spans decades, beginning in 1955 as a producer-director at Nebraska Educational Television where he serves as Senior Advisor. Hull also served stints with the Corporation for Public Broadcasting in Washington D.C. and the U.S. Foreign Service in Vietnam. He is also author of Backstage: Stories of My Life in Public Television (2012), an autobiography that includes highlights of his lifelong career.

Hull and Cavett share Nebraskan roots and careers in television. Both have Nebraska's Poet Laureate in Perpetuity in common. Both interviewed writer John G. Neihardt for television.

Neihardt, a graduate of Wayne Normal School (Wayne State College) in 1896 at the age of 16, had returned to Nebraska in the 1970s after a successful career as a writer and teacher at the University of Missouri. During this time, he lived in Lincoln as well as conducted interviews with both Cavett and Hull. Neihardt's popularity exploded after his 1972 appearance on "The Dick Cavett Show" introduced a new generation to the poet's life and works. Hull's interviews in Bancroft also preserved Neihardt's legacy.

"For me, the name 'Neihardt and the name 'Nebraska' are of just about equal weight," Cavett said.

Cavett will also appear for a book signing following the program with DVDs and books available for purchase at the event. Ticket admission for the event is $10 for the general public and free for WSC students, faculty, and staff. Event proceeds will directly support the John G. Neihardt State Historic Site, a branch museum of the Nebraska State Historical Society in Bancroft, Neb.

Michelle Carlson

Carlson is 'Reader of the Week'

This week's Reader of the Week at the Wayne Public Library is Mrs. Michelle Lee Carlson.

Mrs. Carlson is "married to my best friend and I'm a mother to four fantastic children and a parttime teacher of fifth and sixth graders at St. Mary's School."

What is the last book you read? (Or a recent read)?

The last good read I checked out was Sandra Brown's Sting

Who is your favorite author?

My first favorite author was Laura Ingalls Wilder because I grew up watching her TV series with my mom and sister on our farm. Our family visit to De Smet, S.D.was a memorable trip because I got to see the real-life places of this pioneer author. I purchased my first Little House books from her museum there and they were the "biggest" books I had ever read from my little girl view. I still treasure those stories! From then on... I was hooked on reading and where it took my imagination.

I have lost count of the books I've read since those days and my favorite all around author to date would have to be Nora Roberts because she can take me anywhere with her variety of stories.

Why do you read?

I read all types of novels to take a brain break from reality and let my imagination soar. Reading is like breathing to me and it is a super way to relax because I forget about my own thoughts and plans time and place. I'm amazed how words have the ability to make me see a story created just for me!

Have you ever had to give up on a book?

I have given up on some stories just because I ran out of time and some other book lured me away.

Name a book you would recommend and tell everyone why they should read it. I can't recommend just one book, besides the Bible, that everyone should read without a Is there anything else you'd like to comment on about your passion for reading?

Reading to me is a personal journey and the selection out there is without end. Choosing a favorite book is like choosing a favorite color: I can't because my favorite color is rainbow! Just take a look...it's in a book.

Honor performances at WSC

Wayne State College recently hosted two honor festivals - one for band and one for choir.

This year's Wayne State Honor Choir was the largest event to date, with between 350-400 singers attending the event. The concert inclued five ensembles: WSC Madrigal Singers, who sang one song, conducted by Matthew Armstrong; Skutt Catholic Chamber Choir; Women's Honor Choir, conducted by Shelly Armstrong; WSC Concert Choir, conducted by Matthew Armstrong; and a Mixed Honor Choir, conducted by Matthew Armstrong.

The Festival of Honor Bands was made up of three concerts -- two high school (one of which is shown below) and one junior high - with students coming from all over the state as well as Iowa and South Dakota, Approximately 350 students from 65 different schools attended the event this year.

"This festival is a fantastic opportunity for students who are equally excited about playing music to work together to prepare a performance," said WSC music department professor Dr. David Bohnert. "I'm hopeful that students leave our festival more excited about music and take that back to their own school music program. I also think it's a great opportunity for students to make new friends and connections."

Following a public hearing the council approved a resolution and took action for the purchase of the north-south alley and east-west alley from the city's Power Plant to Godfather's Pizza. Jason and Vickie Schulz will be paid $22,000 for the property.

Board Boot Camp to be offered in Laurel

Rural communities are supported by numerous nonprofits organized to manage local projects and events. With the year winding down boards start preparing to transition new members. While willing to serve in new leadership roles, many folks come onto boards with no familiarity or knowledge of how nonprofit organizations function or the legal requirements. Since rules and regulations governing nonprofits change, it's also important continuing board members be periodically updated.

Wayne medals four at Mid State tournament

Reyes walks away with his 100th career match in the first round

Coming away with four medals from the Mid State Conference wrestling tournament is about what coach David Wragge was expecting from his Wayne High wrestling team.

The Blue Devils finished seventh in a tough tournament field and had a runner-up and two consolation champions among their medal haul, and Wragge said he felt the team played up to its expectations.

"I think we did all right," he said. "I think the guys that we expected to do well came through, and some of the guys we thought might struggle still wrestled OK, but didn't turn out as good as we had hoped."

Gage Schultz earned a runner-up medal at 126 pounds, losing to state-rated Damien Kersten of Battle Creek to highlight the Blue Devils' medal haul. Cameron Muhs (120) and Mikey Reyes (220) both won consolation honors, while Isaiah Muhs earned a fourth-place finish at 160 pounds.

For Reyes, Saturday was a special moment as he won his ils can get some kids through 100th career match in the first round of the tournament.

"One hundred wins is an awesome milestone for any wrestler," Wragge said of the senior's achievement. "Mikey came in here as a freshman and bought in and put in the hard work and that's the payoff. It was an awesome accomplishment for him to have."

Saturday's tournament was the final regular-season action for the Blue Devils, and they now set their sights on the B-3 district tournament Friday and Saturday at Bennington High

With the new district format, Wragge said the Blue Devils will see some new faces, but it won't be any easier than past district setups.

"We don't ever see Seward and some of the others that we're not as familiar with, but we'll see teams like Fairbury and Bennington that we've already seen," he said. "We traded Omaha Skutt for Gretna, so as far as the caliber of district it's something we're used to and what we're expecting."

Wragge feels the Blue Devto the state tournament, but they'll have to wrestle well this

CONFIDENCE BOOST

The Wayne High girls basketball team brought home the runner-up trophy from the Mid State Conference tournament after a 66-40 loss to Crofton in the finals Saturday. Team members are (front) Allison Echtenkamp, Kiara Hochstein, Lindy Sandoz, Kelsey Boyer, Morgan Keating, (back) assistant coach Matt Schaub, Ashton Boyer, Allison Claussen, Molly Hoskins, Jamie Gamble, Gabi Meyer, Kylie Hammer, Frankie Klausen, Jenna Trenhaile and coach Lindsay McLaughlin.

Wayne girls take runner-up honors at conference tourney

Getting to the Mid State Conference finals was a nice reward for the Wayne High girls basketball team and puts them in a good place heading into the final week of the regular season.

Coach Lindsay McLaughlin said the Blue Devils played well in all three games, although the 66-40 loss to Crofton in Saturday's finals was a little disappointing.

"It was a good accomplishment getting to that point," McLaughlin said. "The girls played well throughout the tournament, it's just some of the mental mistakes in the Crofton game cost us and you can't afford to have those mistakes when you're playing a team like Crofton. Still, I thought the girls executed what we wanted to do pretty well aside from those mistakes.'

Wayne got a big win in Thursday's semifinals, as the guards carried the fourthseeded Blue Devils to a 46-42 upset over top-seeded Guardian Angels Central Cath-

"That was a really good confidence booster," McLaughlin said. "When we played them earlier and lost to them in overtime, that was tough but the girls knew we were in a position to win that game and this time it was our turn. There wasn't really any doubt within the team that we'd come away with the win there, and if the girls can continue to have that confidence, we're already a tough team to beat as it is and it would make us that much tougher."

Kelsey Boyer hit a pair of 3-pointers to get Wayne off to a 7-0 lead early in the game. Wayne led by as many as eight points before the Bluejays came back with a 9-0 run to take a 14-13 lead. Wayne responded, with freshman Frankie Klausen hitting a 3-pointer at the end of the first half to give Wayne an 18-16 advantage.

Wayne hit three 3-pointers to start the second half. Boyer opened with a trey and Klausen hit back-to-back bombs to give Wayne its biggest lead of the night at 27-16. After the Bluejays ended the run, Kylie Hammer drained a trifecta to put the lead back at 11 at 30-19 late in the third period.

GACC scored 14 straight points to come back and take a 32-30 lead early in the fourth quarter before Klausen's fourth 3-pointer of the night gave the lead back to Wayne at 33-32. GACC led 39-37 midway through the final period when Hammer was fouled on a 3-pointer and converted all three free throws to give Wayne the lead for good at 40-39. Hammer made a key steal and converted to give Wayne the momentum, and Klausen finished the game with two clutch free throws to send the Blue Devils into Saturday's championship game against Crofton.

Wayne's guards scored all but two of the team's points. Hammer led the way with 21 points, Klausen added 14 and Boyer put in nine. Morgan Keating accounted for two Wayne hung with Crofton early in Saturday's championship game, but the Warriors took control in the second period and pulled away with the conference title.

"There were some easy shots we missed early, and if we could hit a few open shots early that would have really helped us get some momentum and build our confidence to do the little things right," McLaughlin said. "Still, getting to conference championship is a great achievement in itself and the girls should be proud of their accomplishment."

Wayne played Crofton close for most of the first half, taking their only lead of the game at 5-4 on a 3-pointer by Kelsey Boyer. Later in the period, Gabi Meyer hit a layup and Klausen nailed a trey to get Wayne within one at 11-10, but that is the closest they would get for the rest of the Jack Evetovich floats in the lane for two points for Wayne during their double-overtime loss to Hartington Cedar Catholic in the semifinals of the Mid State Conference tournament. Below, Tyler Pecena battles two Hartington Cedar Catholic defenders for a loose ball during the tournament.

Wayne boys bounce back for consolation honors

The Wayne High boys basketball team came away with consolation honors in the Mid State Conference basketball tournament, bouncing back from a tough double-overtime loss to dominate Pierce in the third-place game at Northeast Community College.

"I thought we played hard and competed every game," coach Rob Sweetland said. "We got outrebounded the second game but still had our chances and had some shots at the end regulation and the first overtime that didn't drop. We need to do a better job with the lead down the stretch. We had some shots early in possessions and a foul 70 feet away from the basket where they got to the line to tie it up. There are some game management things we could have done better but I was proud of the way we bounced back against Pierce.'

Wayne High held off a fourth-quarter rally by Battle Creek to post a 65-60 win in the opening round of the tournament on Tuesday. Wayne built a 10-point lead late in the first half thanks to 3-pointers by Grayson McBride and Will Anderson and led by eight at the half. They extended the lead to 13 points and hung on in the final period to advance to Friday's semifinals.

Jack Evetovich scored a game-high 21 points to lead the Blue Devils, while McBride added 14 points and Mason

On Friday, the Blue Devils played an exciting semifinal game with Hartington Cedar Catholic and had chances to win, but ultimately came up short in a 77-74 double-over-

The game was close throughout the contest. The Trojans took an early 7-2 lead, but Wayne responded with a Beau Bowers basket and a Payten Gamble trey to tie the game at 7-7. Wayne took its first lead of the game at 12-11 on a Gamble 3-pointer, and after Cedar retook the lead, Tyler Gilliland hit a three to make it 15-13 before the Trojans tied at 15-15 after one period.

Cedar Catholic led by as many as eight late in the half, but Evetovich nailed a long three at the buzzer to help Wayne cut the lead to 30-25 at the half.

Wayne carried that momentum into the third quarter, with Evetovich and Lee scoring to make it 30-29. Wayne retook the lead at 35-32 on a three by Evetovich and another Lee basket, but Cedar came back and led late before Gamble hit a three to make it 38-38 going to the fourth

Cedar led by as many as four, but Wayne came back to take a 50-49 lead on a Gamble trey midway through the fourth period. Gilliland hit a three with under a minute to go to give Wayne a 57-56 lead, but Cedar Catholic hit a free throw to tie the game and send it into the first over-

The lead continued to ping-pong back and forth between the two teams. Wayne took a 68-66 lead on a Gamble layup late, but Cedar Catholic was fouled with less than 10 seconds left after a wild series of passes and hit two free throws to force a second extra period.

As it was in the other five periods, neither team established control of the scoreboard. McBride's three tied the game at 74-74, but Cedar hit a pair of free throws, added another with six seconds left and watched as Wayne's hopes to tie the game with a late three missed the mark, giving Cedar Catholic the win.

Gamble finished with a career-high 35 points, hitting seven 3-point shots in the losing effort. Evetovich and Mc-Bride each had 11, Gilliland had eight, Lee scored five and Bowers and Ryan Jaixen each had two.

After losing a double-overtime heartbreaker in the semifinals the night before, it would have been easy to come out flat in the consolation game. Wayne bounced back, however, using a solid second-half effort to beat Pierce 61-47 for the third-place trophy.

"We were hurting after the Friday loss and I knew we would need to be tough mentally to come back," Sweetland said. "It's one of those games where the team that wants to be there the most will win, and our kids showed up and improved on the boards and were really the more aggressive team Saturday.' Both teams played a lackluster first half, with the Bluejays leading 19-18 at intermission. Wayne came out strong in the second half, however, riding the hot hands of Evetovich, Gamble and McBride to victory. Evetovich opened the second half with a 3-pointer to put Wayne ahead to stay. After Pierce pulled within two at 27-25. Wayne went on an 8-2 run, thanks to a 3-pointer and basket by Gamble and a trey by Evetovich, to take a Pierce got within four early in the fourth quarter, but a basket by Evetovich and a three-point play by Lee built the lead back to nine points and Pierce never got closer than seven points after that. Evetovich scored a game-high 20 points in the win while McBride and Gamble each had 13. Lee had seven, Bowers scored four and Tyler Pecena and Gilliland each had two. The tournament effort put the Blue Devils at 15-5 heading into the final two weeks of the regular season, and Sweetland felt the team is in a good place as they come down the stretch for the postseason.

"I think our schedule has prepared us for where we're at right now, and to be 15-5 we're in a good position going into districts," he said. "We have a full week of practice this week to get better because there are some things we need to improve on."

"This was a tough tournament with UN-L and SD-SU, NCAA Division I schools, Augustana, a NCAA Division II school and Grand View, a six-time NAIA National Champion as part of the tournament. This was good competition for our WSC Wildcat wrestlers,' said Coach Greg Vander Weil.

Several WSC wrestlers posted wins in the tournament, including Devon Rupp, a 149 lb. senior. Rupp had a strong day, going 3-2 with two pins and a win over an Augustana wrestler.

Caleb Thomas, a 165 lb. sophomore also posted two wins in the tournament.

Also picking up wins at the tournament were Ethan Fitzler, a 141 lb. freshman; Matthew Reeves, a 141 lb. sophomore and Spencer Trou, a 184 lb. junior.

Members of the Wayne State Wrestling Club are asking for campus and community support for former standout wrestler and Vietnam Veteran Jerry "Munj" Mundil is currently raising money for the Nebraska Vietnam Veterans Flight to Washington, D. C., scheduled for May 1.

He has scheduled two fundraisers in coming weeks a steak fry and silent auction on Sunday, Feb. 19 at The Grain Bin in Howells and a hamburger feed and gun raffle on Sunday, March 19 at the Schuyler VFW Hall. Both of these events begin at 11 a.m. on the respective dates.

Monetary contributions may also be made to the effort by contacting Vander Weil. Checks should be made out to Nebraska Vietnam Veterans Flight.

"Jerry and his wife, Rose, are tremendous supporters of WSC wrestling and have provided a $500 leadership scholarship for a number of years," Vander Weil said. "We (the wrestlers) would like to be able give something back to him."

Wildcat women claim pair of home wins

The Wayne State women's basketball team posted a pair of wins at home to improve to 17-6 overall and 12-6 in Northern Sun Conference action.

On Friday, Wayne State had to work down to the final seconds before coming away with a 70-65 win over Bemidji State.

Wayne State led 15-4 early in the game and were 6-of-7 from 3-point range in the opening period to take a 26-9 lead. That changed in the second period, though, as the Wildcats couldn't keep the hot shooting going, allowing the Beavers to close within two, 35-33, at the half. Bemidji State tied the game early in the third quarter, but Wayne State took the lead for good with a 12-2 run. Maggie Schulte hit a 3-pointer to keep the Wildcats in front by double digits, but Bemidji State closed to within seven at the end of the period and kept things interesting until the

Anna Martensen's layup gave Wayne State a 63-53 lead with 3:47 to go, but the Beavers made one more run to close within three with :11 left before Katie Hoskins hit two free throws to put the game

Paige Ballinger led the Wildcats with 20 points, Martensen added 14 and Schulte put in 10 for the Wildcats, who improved to 16-6 overall and 11-6 in NSIC play. Martensen led the team with eight rebounds and Ballinger had four assists and four

On Saturday, the Wildcats used a 36-24 advantage in the paint to post a 67-60 win over visiting Minnesota Crookston.

Wayne State never trailed in the game, but couldn't seem to shake the Golden Eagles as they made several rallies to keep things close.

Wayne State built a 17-9 lead after one period, but went cold from the field and that helped Crookston pull to within a point at 28-27 at the Schulte got the Wildcats going in the second half, scoring seven straight points to help Wayne State to a 37-29 lead. Crookston got as close as one before Wayne State rallied to build the lead back up to seven at 45-38 going to the fourth. Ballinger's layup to open the final period gave Wayne State its biggest lead at 47-38, but

Crookston got as close as two points with 2:50 to go before Ballinger and Schulte hit baskets to help put the Golden Eagles away. Schulte score 17 points, Ballinger added 16 and Martensen put in 12 points and grabbed nine rebounds to help Wayne State in the win. Haley

Moore had five assists and Ballinger had five blocked shots. Wayne State is on the road this weekend, facing Southwest Minnesota State on Friday at 6 p.m.

Governor's tax plan information:

LINCOLN — The following is a statement from OpenSky Policy Institute Executive Director Renee Fry on LB 337, which was discussed by the governor and others at a news conference last week:

"LB 337 is unlikely to help struggling small businesses as many are unlikely to have enough income to receive any tax cut at all under the measure. Almost 90 percent of the tax cut would go to wealthiest Nebraskans. The bill also would reduce revenue needed to fund schools, public safety and other services that support our state's businesses, such the Department of Economic Development. LB 337 also would reduce revenue that could help Nebraska lessen its reliance on property taxes, which is the top concern of Nebras-

"Income tax cuts have not grown Kansas' economy and there's no reason to believe that would be any different here in Nebraska."

kans when it comes to taxes.

Below are some facts regarding, LB 337, the income tax cut plan introduced last week during the State of the State Address:

The example middle-class Nebraska taxpayer used to roll out the plan would not receive a tax cut under LB 337. Once the standard deduction is applied, this taxpayer, who earns $29,831, would not pay the top tax rate on any income, and therefore would not receive a tax

Cutting the top income tax rate as proposed in LB 337 will provide the largest tax cut for the wealthiest Nebraskans while providing much more modest tax reductions for middle-class residents. An Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy analysis of a similar tax cut shows the average annual nominal tax cut for the wealthiest 1 percent of Nebraskans would be $6,618 while the average nominal reduction for the middle class would be $43.

If LB 337's income tax trigger was in place since 2000, Nebraska would have enacted multiple income tax cuts including twice as the state just started to recover from recessions (2003 and 2011).

Middle-class Nebraskans have seen tax rate cuts in the past 20 years. LB 970 in 2012 reduced rates for three of the state's four tax brackets, including the two middle income tax brackets. Furthermore, LB 987 in 2014 indexed Nebraska's income tax brackets for inflation. Legislative Fiscal Office data show income tax cuts over the last decade have reduced General Fund revenue by $268 million in FY17 alone.

Rules debate dragged 17 days

By J.L. SCHMIDT

Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

Rules. They're everywhere. We live by the rules of the road, the rules of engagement. Our parents brought us up with rules.

The dictionary defines a rule as "one of a set of explicit or understood regulations or principles governing conduct within a particular activity or sphere"

When that sphere is the heretofore mostly nonpartisan Nebraska Legislature – where Republicans outnumber Democrats 32 to 15 with one Independent and One Libertarian – the rules become even more important to the minority voice. Perhaps that explains why the rules debate in the 105th Legislature has taken so long.

Every year lawmakers agree to adopt a set of temporary rules while they debate permanent rules for the session. Said rules come from the Rules Committee and are open for floor debate. It is usually a cut-and-dried deal with the one recent major bone of contention being the secret ballots for legislative leadership positions. There have generally been a handful of Republican senators who have sought to bring the votes out in the open under the guise of transparency.

Opponents have argued that said transparency simply allows party bosses to identify those lawmakers who are out of line and voting for someone from the "other" party. Such activity would clearly erode the nonpartisan nature of the nation's only one-house legislature. Imagine the horror of someone crossing party lines.

That has been just one of the issues that dragged rules debate on the legislative floor into 17 days of the 90-day session before Speaker of the Legislature Jim Scheer of Norfolk called a one-week delay so his colleagues could address such things as budget adjustments to the current fiscal year in the face of a massive looming revenue shortfall.

The secret ballot issue appears to have been resolved this year – it will remain secret – but another hot issue remains, rules governing filibusters.

Lawmakers are considering several proposals to change the current 33 votes needed for cloture. Cloture motions are filed when a supporter of a bill wants to end a filibuster, which is a delay tactic used by senators who want to kill a piece of legislation. Under the Legislature's current rules, those who want to end a filibuster must obtain 33 votes, the 49 senators.

Cloture forces an immediate vote on a bill and if it fails to advance it is usually considered dead for the which equates to a 2/3 majority of

Is this a big deal? Changing the number of votes required to sustain a minority filibuster could be a major factor in determining or shaping legislative decisions on the many huge issues – tax cuts, budget priorities, state funding for schools and the University of Nebraska – still facing senators. Rules Committee Chairman Senator Mike Hilgers of Lincoln, one of the 32 Republicans, said he wants to change the number of votes required in an effort to reduce the number of filibusters which hit a record high 24 last year.

Hilgers said it has nothing to do with the majority imposing its will, but would require senators to go on record if they oppose a bill. Opponents see it as a balance of power issue further tipping the scales away from the 17 minority members of the officially nonpartisan legislature. One of the senators who opposes the change, Senator Burke Harr of Omaha, a Democrat, said there's a good faith effort on both sides to negotiate the issue. But the sticking point is determining majority rule with minority rights.

Veteran lawmaker – 41 years – Ernie Chambers of Omaha, the lone Independent, said the rules debate has made lawmakers look like a bunch of fools. Freshman Senator Steve Erdman of Bayard, a Republican, expressed frustration that he and his colleagues "haven't done squat" in the 17 days of the session.

Moderate Republican John McCollister of Omaha said the debate is an extension of the opening day activity orchestrated by the "Gang of 27," those lawmakers who met December 30, 2016, to determine who would be elected to committee chairmanships. McCollister said what occurred the first day was "disgraceful" and that such "sneak attacks" violate the nonpartisan nature of the Legislature intended by its founder, George

Freshman Joni Albrecht, a Republican who was elected to chair the Business and Labor Committee over Harr, said she supports the existing filibuster rule but rejected the "gang of 27" label. "We're Nebraska. We're not Washington. We're not Congress."

Let's hope she's right. The last thing we need in Nebraska is Washington gridlock.

Legislative Update

Committees charging at full speed

Friday, February 3rd marks the 22nd day of our 90 day session.

It has been an exciting, educational and slightly frustrating start to the session. I was warned that things move slowly at first, but I am surprised at the pace so far. Hopefully the Unicameral will be able to move on from debating updates to the rules that govern debate to substantive legislation

But while the Unicameral floor may look like a glacier, the Committees which meet in the afternoons are charging full speed ahead.

The Business and Labor Committee, which I chair, meets on Mondays and it has been fascinating work so far.

I'm looking forward to a busy and productive year in the Business and Labor Committee and so far we have had just that. We have 32 bills under the Committee's jurisdiction this year, and the issues and subjects span from bills requested by the Department of Labor, bills regarding workforce development, and bills dealing with wages and labor conditions to name just a few areas.

When I became Chair of the Committee, I expressed my commitment that every bill would receive a fair hearing and consideration by the Committee.

We've had two hearings so far. During those hearings we heard testimony regarding bills like LB 203 introduced by Senator John Kuehn, which dealt with benefits for employers leaving a job without good cause, LB 248 introduced by Senator Burke Harr which creates the Youth Opportunities in Learning and Occupations Act, and my bill, LB 264 which updates a section of the Boiler Inspection Act to account for changes in boiler inspection industry terminology and changes Nebraska's language to match the industry's standard language.

In the coming weeks, we will be hearing a bill which deals with the Family Medical Leave Act. We will also hear about a bill which provides protections for employees with family care responsibilities under the Nebraska Fair Employ-

Legislative
Update
By Joni Albrecht
State Senator, District 17

ment Practice Act.

Following our hearings, committee members meet in what is known as an executive session, which allows us to discuss each bill further and in more depth, to make necessary amendments if needed, and to possibly advance a bill to the Unicameral floor for debate before the full body.

We have had one executive session so far and voted to move several bills, including LB 264 to the floor. Over the next few weeks, as we hear more bills in committee, it is my goal to work with my colleagues who have legislation before my committee to move the legislative process along in an efficient manner as possible. While I can't guarantee a bill will have the support necessary to pass through my committee, each bill will get consideration.

As always, I want to encourage my constituents to reach out to me

Learning to be healthy

Dr. Chad Maas from Wayne State College visited the first grade class of Courtney Maas. His presentation to the Wayne Elementary students was about the human body. He talked about how much sugar and fats are in common foods, bones, and he brought in a sheep brain, a human heart and human lungs. Dr. Maas demonstrated the effects of smoking by showing a set of black, smokers lungs and a set of healthy lungs. He demonstrated the difficulty of breathing for the smoker's lungs.

How are you going to respond?

I'm getting ready to watch the Super Bowl here in about 2 hours as I sit down to write this article. The reality is the game will hinge on many different things. Who turns the ball over, what team can get off the field on third down, Special Teams play, and which quarterback stays off his backside the most.

Many times though I think the most important factor in a game, especially a big game is how a team responds to what is put in front of them in the real time of the game. Preparation is important, and film study matters, but it's those in game responses that players and coaches make in real time that often dictate who wins in the end.

We are living in a time in our culture, where how we respond as followers of Christ may be as important as it has ever been, and possibly ever will be. Often times we seize get to my Facebook page, I cringe at the opportunities before us to post much of what I read, not because of our opinions and thoughts on Face- positions that I disagree with, but book, or a clever shot at what we rather the demeanor in which opinview as the "opposition" on Twitter. ions are posted. over, or even just this season of life, is not the Facebook post I wrote, or the article I shared, or the criticism I laid out against a political party or person, but rather what will matter will be how I responded as a follower of Christ to the people around me. What will matter is how I've shown the love of Christ to a hurting world. What will matter is how I've loved unconditionally ALL people, the same way that Christ loved (and still loves) me unconditionally. We are called to respond as Je-

Students at St. Mary's Catholic School in Wayne celebrated Catholic Schools Week with a variety of activities. Above, the students invited students from St. Michael's Catholic School in South Sioux City and St. Augustine's Indian Mission School in Winnebago to Wayne. They were able to enjoy a performance from Sheltered Reality (center). During the performance Fr. Jeff Mollner and Evan Alleman had the opportunity to try their hand at playing the drums. The final activity of the week involved delivering cookies to several area groups. Students made a stop at the Wayne Police Department and gave cookies to Dominic Consoli (left) and Chief Marlen Chinn. sus responded to us. LOVE. COM-PASSION. A heart for the hurting, the orphan, the widow, and those far from God. Listen to what Jesus said, and may we all respond appropriately to the people and opportunities we have placed in front of us. A response like Christ, would truly be Super.

Him, He will sit on His glorious throne. All the nations will be gathered before Him, and He will separate the people one from another as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats. He will put the sheep on His right and the goats on His left. Then the King will say to those on His right, 'Come, you who are blessed by my Father; take your inheritance, the kingdom prepared for you since the creation of the world. For I was hungry and you gave me something to eat, I was thirsty and you gave me something to drink, I was a stranger and you invited me in, I needed clothes and you clothed me, I was sick and you looked after me, I was in prison and you came to visit me.' "Then the righteous will answer Him, 'Lord, when did we see You hungry and feed You, or thirsty and give You something to drink? When did we see You a stranger and invite You in, or needing clothes and clothe you? When did we see You sick or in prison and go to visit You?' "The King will reply, 'Truly I tell you, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers and sisters of mine, you did for me.' Matthew 25:31-39

Gov. Ricketts announces schedule for Ag Conference industry growing for the next 150

nounced the agenda for the 29th Annual Governor's Ag Conference, an important event for farmers, ranchers, ag leaders and key agribusiness managers in Nebraska.

The conference is scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday, March 14-15 at the Holiday Inn and Convention Center in Kearney.

"As we celebrate Nebraska's 150th birthday this year, we praise the pioneers who worked the land and gave the state such a solid foundation. It took Nebraska grit for our ancestors to come to what was then considered as the Great American Desert and turn it into some of the most valuable agricultural land in the world," said Governor Ricketts. "This conference is a way to support Nebraska's producers by identifying new opportunities and promotucts to keep the state's number one ture to attend."

The Governor's Ag conference speakers understand the importance of Nebraska agriculture and the role it plays in the economic wellbeing of the state. The theme, "Riding the Nebraska Brand" through domestic and international trade, will be a prevailing topic throughout the conference. Speakers will also address economic development in rural Nebraska; the importance of effective partnerships.

"Agriculture is the backbone of this state," said Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA) Director Greg Ibach. "The Governor's Ag Conference is an opportunity to keep current in our industry and to network with colleagues, share ideas and concerns, and prepare for the future. Working to forestall Alzheimer's

I'm not sure which we fear more: cancer or Alzheimer's. But I do know this; I read every article that comes along regarding either one. I had the impression that the more we used our brains, the more we could forestall the dreaded disease of forgetfulness.

I think it's still true, but the latest thing I've read touted three things; surfing the internet, which I do very little of, playing bridge and chess, which I do not do at all, and socializing. That I'm good at it!! It did not give credit to reading at all, much to my chagrin.

I once took bridge lessons and found that it was the only interesting card game. But you have to stay with it to get good at it, and I did not do that. At the time of the lessons, we had two kids and I only worked a couple evenings a week. You all know that the number of kids doubled, as did the hours working as a nurse. There was not time for card playing. I wonder of pinochle would do the same thing? Not saying I play that either, but I know a lot of

When the Big Farmer and I began dating, I soon learned he liked to play chess. So, I thought, I'll have him teach me and we can do that on our dates. Not! I didn't want him to know how dumb I was, so we guit the lessons. Now, our grand children play it, but Grandma does not.

That brings us to socializing. I

I'm talking about face to face, the highway and changing lanes not Facebook, email, or telephone. Although, watching people in public places, I'm gathering it's their phones entirely! How can that be???

Anyway, we go to church on Saturday evenings, unless the choir is singing for the 8 a.m. service. We share the peace, and visit as we go in and go back out. We go to Thursto admit, sometimes, there is more ten, I guess. socializing and less study! But our

In addition, I spend one evening a week at choir rehearsal. This, I'm told, is also good for the brain; not for the socializing, but for the learning of new music. With this young director, sometimes, we are also learning new rhythms. A good thing, but not always easy.

Now comes Parade magazine with a dozen ways to think faster; I'm not sure I need it faster, just more accurate. These include vitamin D, which I'm sure we get in all the milk we drink; go for a drive? The article claims that the concentration required while going down clears the head. Interesting. Another suggestion: never stifle a yawn. I thought a yawn meant I was sleepy, but they say it cools down the brain, leading to better mental efficiency. I can definitely use that.

No-till, cover crops, planned grazing workshop scheduled

The annual no-till, cover crops, and planned grazing workshop will be held Wednesday, Feb. 15 in the Lifelong Learning Center on the campus of Northeast Community College in Norfolk.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. with coffee and rolls provided by the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (LENRD).

In the morning session, Dan Leininger will be talking about soil moisture monitoring and telemetry. Leininger has worked at the Upper Big Blue NRD for 13 years as a Water Conservationist and was instrumental in developing the Nebraska Agricultural Water Use Network which measures soil moisture and crop evapo-transpiration to schedule irrigation on crops. Leininger also manages the Upper Big Blue NRD's demonstration farm that uses crop rotation and cover crops to improve soil health which will reduce input costs and increase profit per acre.

Keith Berns will present: Carbonomics - The "Currency" of Biological Systems. Berns combines 20 years of no-till farming with 10 years of teaching Agriculture and Computers. He is no-tilling 2,500 acres of irrigated and dryland corn, soybeans, rye, triticale, peas, sunflowers, and buckwheat. Berns speaks on cover crops and soil health more than 20 times per year to various groups and audiences.

Mary Drewnoski will talk about the impacts of cattle grazing on croplands. Drewnoski is a Beef Systems Specialist with UNL and is researching utilization of corn residue and cover crop forages for backgrounding calves and feeding beef cows. She will talk about how corn residue and cover crop grazing impacts soil health and how grazing cover crops positively impact crop yields.

Lunch will be provided by the LENRD at noon.

The afternoon program will include: Ray Ward - Managing Fertility with Cover Crops in No-till Soils. Ward, founder and president of Ward Laboratories says "Soil Health" is simply a measure of the interaction of plant growth to microbial activity". Ward will talk about the soil fertility concepts of this "new paradigm" in nutrient management where cover crops are Lance Gunderson will present: Integrating Soil Health Tests with Traditional Soil Tests. Gunderson joined Ward Laboratories in the fall of 2002 and is currently the Director of Soil Health and New Test Development. He will talk about correlating PLFA, Solvita, and Haney tests with standard soil tests in making a "modern day" recommendation for nutrient management plans.

Dan Gillespie, State No-Till Specialist, will discuss Cover Crop Management in corn/soybean rotations, and will highlight management options: seeding, termination, and planting cash crops.

The workshop will end at 3 p.m. and is sponsored by: the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), and the LENRD.

Reserve your seat by Friday, Feb. 10 for the meal count by calling your local NRCS office or the LENRD at (402) 371-7313.

Holiday Inn Express, Norfolk, NE

Time to 'Think Spring'

It seems early, but we need to start preparing for spring and now is the time to think about and even to prune some of our landscape plants and trees. If needed, most plants can be pruned at any time such as following a storm that breaks branches.

However, there are times when it is better to prune than others. Now is the ideal time to prune shade trees, summer blooming shrubs, fruit trees, and shrubs requiring renovation pruning.

February through March is a good time to prune because with no leaves on trees and shrubs, it is easier to see branch structure to determine what needs to be pruned. Also, pruning now allows the most time, an entire growing season, for pruning wounds to seal. In most cases, prune spring blooming shrubs soon after they finish blooming. If renovation-type pruning (removing more than 50 percent of the shrub) is to be done on spring flow-
