Busy season ahead for Visitors Bureau and roads department

By Calyn Dunklau calyn@wayneherald.com

This week's meeting of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners saw the approval of several grants through the Wayne County Convention & Visitors Bu-

Thousands of dollars were approved for numerous activities, events and items such as $1,000 for Bike Ride Across Nebraska's overnight stay on June 7, sponsored by Wayne Area Economic Development and $1,500 for the gun show sponsored by Sons of the American Legion Squadron 252 in mid-July.

Other recipients included Winside's Old Settlers, the Gene Topp Memorial Car Show, Shop Hop by WAED, Visitors Calendar and the Aladdin performance by the Wayne Community Theatre. The funds come from lodging tax grants.

In other news, commissioners discussed numerous bridge and road updates with Highway Superintendent Mark Casey.

Casey recently attended several days of conferences and educational seminars and brought back valuable information regarding the construction of bridges and how the bridges throughout the state will be posted with weight limits.

Currently, a majority of bridges are posted with signs regarding load limits, but new regulations will change the posted limits on several of Wayne County's bridges and require all bridges under 20 feet long to have a capacity posting.

There are changes coming for the posting signs as far as the weights are concerned, however the icons on the capacity signs are staying the same. An ad campaign will be run to help educate the public on the change. Folks with CDLs will receive education on the change. The biggest concern, Casey thought, was getting the word out to those who drive large pieces of ag equip-

Another update Casey brought before the board regarded an Interlocal Agreement with Thurston County for two bridge projects the counties brought to the state's County Match Bridge Program as joint projects. The agreement was simply a contract of who is to do what between the two counties for the project and was voted on unanimously by the board.

During the meeting a public hearing was held regarding the proposed vacating of a portion of 573rd Ave.

The county did a road study which provided the data that Casey thought it would -- that the road can be vacated and turned back to the property owner, which is the same person on both sides.

The board voted unanimously to vacate the road and turn it over to the land owner. Signs will be posted accordingly.

There was discussion at the meeting regarding courthouse hours. Some employees prefer the current 8:30-5 hours while some would like to see it change to 8-4:30.

There was no vote, but commissioners reminded employees that the supervisor of each office had the ability to run their office as they see fit.

The public hearing on the Class C Retail Liquor License application for the Logan Valley Golf Course in Wakefield was postponed until next meeting, May 2.

Council debates myriad of topics including PMC ambulance service

By Clara Osten clara@wayneherald.com

An Arbor Day proclamation, a Green Team report, a request for additional funding for ambulances services, a re-zoning request, a revolving loan application and discussion on providing funding to Wayne State College for services were among the items discussed during the nearly three hour Wayne City Council meeting on Tues-

Mayor Ken Chamberlain began the meeting by reading a proclamation for Arbor Day, which is Friday, April 28. He listed the history of the day and benefits of trees, while encouraging everyone to plant trees in the city.

Sandy Brown, representing the Wayne Green Team, listed the accomplishments of the group in the past year, including collecting 16,000 lbs. of electronics at a recycling event, conducting a Household Hazardous Waste event and recycling 17 tons

She also shared information with the council on upcoming events connected with Earth Day, including hosting Chamber Coffee, the showing of a food waste movie, installation of blue recycling bins in several Wayne city parks and a fall electronic recy-

Brown specifically thanked former Wayne Mayor Lois Shelton for all her work in recycling, both during her terms as mayor and as a member of the Wayne Green

The council spent a considerable amount of time discussing an ambulance service agreement with Providence Medical Cen-

Jim Frank, CEO of PMC, told the council that the hospital is a 501 3C organization and shared information on the hospital, including the number of employees and current projects. He also said the city has had an ambulance agreement with the hospital since the hospital opened. The current contract went into effect in 2007 and requires the city to pay $10,000 per year for services. "At this point, the hospital is losing $100,000 a year on ambulance service. We are asking the city to increase its contribution to $75,000 per year for the operation of an ambulance service or we will no longer be able to provide the service," Frank said.

Considerable discussion was held on other funding options, including the billing for services through insurance and what percentage of the costs of the service may be the responsibility of the Rural Fire Board.

It was noted that 87 percent of calls in the last two fiscal years were within the city and 13 percent of calls were outside city limits

Mayor Ken Chamberlain said the city has a legal obligation to provide ambulance services for its residents.

Randy Larson, representing the Wayne County Board of Commissioners said that while the Commissioners cannot give money to the hospital for the service, they would be able to discuss a request from the Rural Fire Board for additional funding.

Council members said that the $10,000 per year request has not really changed in 40 years and "we have been very naive to think we could have this service for 40 vears without an increase.'

Additional discussion will take place between the hospital, the Rural Fire Board and the council in coming weeks.

Council members approved an ordinance to amend the city's zoning map. The three readings of the ordinance were waived and the ordinance was finally passed.

The Wayne Event Center asked the council to rezone a 650 foot parcel of land north of the golf course to build and operate an event center.

Following the passage of the ordinance, the council approved a plan to extend water and sewer services to the area.

Steve Rames with McLaury Engineering Services, presented two options to the city and explained each. The first would benefit 110 acres of land in the area. He noted that the second, which would cost approximately $362,000, would benefit 146 acres of land and allow for future growth on the north side of 21st Street. A portion of this cost would be allocated to the Beaumont

Following discussion, council members voted unanimously to move forward with the second option.

A revolving loan application from Wayne Sport & Spine in the amount of $70,000 was approved.

Jeff Christiansen with the Northeast Nebraska Economic Development District told the council a committee had approved the request as a 10 year loan at 4.5 percent

The total cost of the project is $290,000 and Christiansen explained where the remainder of the funding will come from, in-

Dr. Levi Kenny practicing now at Wayne Sport & Spine

After 25 years of serving patients at Wayne Sport & Spine, Dr. Robert Krugman has decided to move into a different phase

He is leaving his Wayne practice and has sold the business to Dr. Levi Kenny, who began seeing patients early this month.

Dr. Kenny is a 2010 graduate of Wayne High School and earned a degree from Wayne State College in December of 2013. He then attended Northwestern Health Science University in

While at Wayne State, Dr. Kenny was an intern with Dr. Krugman and recently completed an internship in Sauk City, Wisc. where he was able to gain experience in chiropractic neu-

He passed four National Board Exams in chiropractic care last fall and graduated this spring with a doctorate in chiro-

"I have been attending classes focusing on chiropractic neurology and hope to be able to work with patients who have had strokes, those with Parkinson's disease, autism, concussions or those with traumatic brain injuries," Dr. Kenny said. "With both complex and basic conditions, my approach is always brain-centered, because if I do anything, I certainly want it to be beneficial for the most powerful organ in your body.'

He said that following graduation, the decision to move to Wayne was an easy one.

"The joy of being able to return to this area to serve the people who I know so well cannot be put into words. There is truly not a place I would rather be. I am currently living on an acreage northwest of Wayne with my 91 year old grandmother, who is the "Official Queen" of Carroll," he said.

His parents, Joe and Kelly Kenny, also live in rural Carroll. He has two sisters and a brother.

Dr. Kenny said he sees patients of all ages, from babies as young as two months, to those who are much older.

"I owe a sincere thanks to Dr. Krugman. I give him credit for first getting me interested in chiropractic with the tremendous difference he made in my life as a kid. Not only that, he has provided steadfast guidance for me at every request and has developed and maintained a trustworthy reputation among his patient base and community as a physician. I intend to carry on his style and attitude of service; getting you better and back to living a high-functioning life as quickly as possible," Dr. Kenny

Of his 25 years of practice, in Wayne, Dr. Krugman said, "Twenty-five years ago my wife, Tamra, and I moved back to Nebraska from Reno, Nev. for a better place to raise our children. We found a great community in which to do that here in Wayne. Both of my children received a great education through the Wayne Public Schools, Tamra finished her degree at Wayne State College and my daughter, Kallie, her bachelor's degree through the Rural Health Opportunity program where she continued on to UNMC. She is now a dentist in Norfolk. My son, Trevor, is about to receive his Master's degree in Engineering Management from the South Dakota School of Mines.

"I would like to personally thank all my patients (friends) in northeast Nebraska that I have had the pleasure of knowing and treating over the past 25 years. I will miss you. It's time to turn the page and become more of a full time grandparent. I have been given an opportunity to a more relaxed practice of periodically filling in for doctors who need to take time away from their practice for various reasons.

"I feel very good about turning my practice over to a very intelligent and caring young doctor in Dr. Levi Kenny. He is a hometown young man who wants to return to friends and family and to serve the community's health needs to the best of his abilities. I could not have chosen a more dedicated young doctor for your health needs. Thank you and may God Bless you," Dr. Krugman said

Dr. Kenny will be seeing patients from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Thursday and from 8 a.m. to noon on Fridays.

Wayne Sport & Spine will be holding an open house to welcome Dr. Kenny and wish Dr. Krugman well on Friday, April 28 from 5 to 7 p.m. at the office. Refreshments will be served. Members of the community are encouraged to stop in and meet

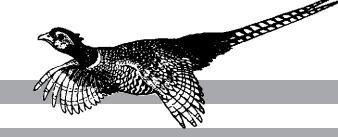

The office is located at 214 Pearl Street. For more information or to schedule an appointment, call (402) 375-3000.

PMC receives $400,000 grant for CT scanner from Helmsley trust

Patients at Providence Medical Center will soon benefit from access to the latest computed tomography (CT) diagnostic technology made possible through a grant from the Leona M. and Harry B. Helmsley Charitable Trust's Rural Healthcare Program.

Helmsley has awarded Providence Medical Center $400,000 for a new 64-slice CT scanner. CT scanners provide essential diagnostic images of structures inside the body. A new CT scanner will allow for faster scans that produce high-quality images, allowing medical staff to quickly determine health status and course of treatment while giving patients access to up-to-date healthcare technology close to home.

Kris Giese, Chief Operating Officer at PMC, discussed the Helmsley Charitable Trust's involvement in rural health, stating the trust helps secure equipment that otherwise would be out of reach for many thanks to the grants available through the trust.

"The new 64-slice CT scanner will provide better diagnostic information for our providers, which means better care and treatment for our patients. Scanning times will be reduced significantly as well as a higher image quality. The scanner will also allow us the opportunity to provide new and expanded services at Providence Medical Center," Giese said.

Providence Medical Center is one of 41 grant recipients across the region to benefit from this round of funding to purchase CT scanners. Helmsley's Rural Healthcare Program has granted over $30 million to support the purchase of new, 32-slice or higher CT scanners in a seven-state region.

"Our goal is to ensure that people who live in rural America have access to quality healthcare as close to home as possible," said Walter Panzirer, a trustee of the Helmsley Charitable Trust. "To achieve this, rural hospitals need to be viable and they need to have up-to-date equipment, so patients can receive essential healthcare services locally. This initiative is one of many that aims to improve healthcare access and health outcomes across the upper Midwest."

The funding initiative was the result of a survey of Critical Access Hospitals in the Rural Healthcare Program's seven-state funding region. Capital equipment, particularly CT scanners, was identified as a top need by many hospitals. In addition, a new Medicare policy went into effect Jan. 1, 2016, that reduced reimbursement for certain studies on CT scanners that do not meet specific radiation dose requirements.

Since 2015, the Helmsley Charitable Trust has awarded 78 grants totaling over $30 million to outfit hospitals with new, state-of-the-art CT scanners.

Providence underwent a rigorous grant application process that was broken into two phases, the first being submitted at the end of 2016. Once the hospital was informed of their passing the first phase, additional information had to be sumbitted to the trust.

"It was a very detailed grant that took a lot of research," Giese said. "We found out in January that we made it through the first round and had to give the trust additional information before we were informed last month that we had received the grant."

In addition to the grant from the Helmsley Trust, the Providence Medical Center Foundation donated $20,000 and the PMC Employee Fund to the Foundation offered $6,000 to go toward the roughly $470,000 purchase of the CT scanner, installation and training necessary to operate the machine.

Both Giese and Providence CEO Jim Frank expressed their gratitude toward the generosity of the trust and the foundation and what this addition will bring to PMC

"We are hoping to add some new services thanks to this equipment, particularly in cardiac diagnostics which we feel will be benficial in our area," Geise said.

"We're very fortunate to receive this to be able to upgrade to the latest technology," PMC CEO Jim Frank said.

The Leona M. and Harry B. Helmsley Charitable Trust aspires to improve lives by supporting effective nonprofits in health, select place-based initiatives, education and human services. Since 2008, when Helmsley began its active grantmaking, it has committed more than $1.8 billion for a wide range of charitable purposes. Helmsley's Rural Healthcare Program funds innovative projects that use information technologies to connect rural patients to emergency medical care, bring the latest medical therapies to patients in remote areas, and provide state-of-the- art training for rural hospitals and EMS personnel. To date, this program has awarded more than $300 million to organizations and initiatives in the upper Midwest states of North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Minnesota, Iowa and Montana. Dwaine Spieker is Reader of the Week

What is the last book you

Other than the reading I do to prepare for classes, I most recently read Hillbilly Elegy by J.D. Vance. I don't read much contemporary prose, so this was a nice change for me. I have always been concerned about America's dramatic change from a rural to an urban culture over the last century, and this book examines the devastating effects of this movement on the author's fam-

Who is your favorite author? My favorite author of all time is British poet Geoffrey Chaucer. I have loved his poetry and his Middle English language since I first encountered it as an undergraduate. In addition to his wordplay, I like his cutting insights into human psychology.

A very close second is the American philosopher Henry David Thoreau, whose book Walden remains one of my personal manifestos. His call to simplify, simplify, simplify is one that grows more and more important the farther into the technological age we go. He also loves wordplay!

Why do you read?

I have always been fascinated by the fact that I, an ordinary farm kid from northeast Nebraska, can read a literary work written one hundred, seven hundred, or even three thousand years ago. I have never really gotten over that feeling. Even across centuries and through translations, I often feel I have more in common with these writers than with many of those writing today.

Have you ever had to give up on a book?

I have indeed had to give up on books, but it's often because life gets in the way of reading. I console myself by saying that that's better than the other way around.

Name a book you would recommend and tell everyone why they should read it.

I think every Nebraskan should read Local Wonders by former Poet Laureate Ted Kooser. This book is a quiet but profound celebration of the place where we live. It's one of the handful of books I think of daily

Is there anything else you'd like to comment on about your passion for reading?

Read the classics. They won't do you wrong.

On Saturday, quality pitching helped the Wayne State baseball team sweep the Beavers, winning 4-2 and 10-2.

In the first game, freshman starter Aiden Breedlove pitched six solid innings of four-hit ball and the Wildcats' offense came to life midway through the game to give Wayne State the win.

Wayne State got on the board in the first inning on an RBI single by David Janes, then took a 2-1 lead in the third when Cody Jenkins came through with an RBI single.

Now is not the time for talk of tax cuts

During our campaigns for the Legislature, we all ran on a platform of lowering taxes. Once elected to the Legislature, however, we quickly learned that there just isn't a lot of fat to cut and that sooner or later, any income tax cut would result in a cut to services we know Nebraskans need, or a shifting of responsibility on to the local level in the form of increased property taxes.

As such, any real talk about income tax cuts should be done in conjunction with a discussion about what services will need to be reduced or what other taxes will need to be raised. Doing otherwise is not fair to Nebraska residents, who ultimately will pay for the tax cuts one

Unfortunately, such a discussion is not being held in relation to LB 461 – a tax cut package that will soon be debated by the Nebraska Legislature. LB 461 is largely an income tax cut proposal that also includes some measures purported to reduce property taxes. LB 461 offers no plan for what services will need to be reduced to fund the bill, which will largely benefit high-income residents and lead to actual tax increases for some other taxpayers. This means it will be up to future lawmakers to figure out how to cover the revenue losses created by LB 461.

Aside from offering no insight into what Nebraskans will have to give up in exchange for LB 461's tax changes, there could hardly be a worse time to be discussing state tax cuts.

Lawmakers currently face a major budget shortfall -- one the U.S. Government Accountability Office found could be the start of a 40-plus year run of budget gaps that states will face as health care and pension costs related to our aging population increase.

And unlike the budget gaps we faced during our tenures, Nebraska's current budget shortfall does not come on the heels of a national recession. This suggests that our revenue shortage could be rooted in more structural issues, including annual revenue losses that occur and grow each year thanks to previous tax changes passed by the

Having served during tough budget times, we can attest to the difficult decisions that we had to make in order to meet our constitutional requirement to balance the budget.

Amid the shortfall that resulted from the recession of the early 2000s, lawmakers convened multiple special sessions, enacted budget cuts, rolled back prior tax cuts and increased other taxes to fill the budget gap.

We had to call a special session and make more painful cuts to key services following the Great Recession, but we also benefitted from in an influx of federal stimulus dollars. These funds helped us avoid even deeper cuts to schools, health programs, public safety and other

There will be no federal stimulus dollars to help our lawmakers this time. In fact, the state is more likely to experience reductions in federal support should the federal government follow through on discussions to cut taxes and spending. This would make maintaining investments in critical services even more difficult.

It's also important to note that budget cuts have consequences. The effects of some of the budget cuts we had to make continue to linger. In spite of efforts to fix corrections issues that stemmed from budget cuts, our prisons remain beset with major problems including unrest among inmates and attacks on prison staffers. And as state aid to K-12 education and other local services was cut, many local governments had to rely more heavily on property taxes for revenue. The budget cuts senators are making to balance this year's budget could lead to even more long-term consequences for important public services that Nebraskans need.

Now is simply not a good time for the state to be considering the tax changes proposed in LB 461. Nebraskans haven't been given a clear picture of the services that would be cut to fund the tax reductions, and our lawmakers already have their hands full as they try to close a large budget gap. Enacting LB 461 in light of our current budget crisis could exacerbate the magnitude of the challenges we already face as a state.

Capitol View

He said it and he meant it

By J.L. SCHMIDT Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

"I did not take this job to perpetuate myself in politics but to make the hard and firm decisions that need to be made to make Nebraska progress." -- Nebraska Governor Norbert Tiemann, 3-13-67

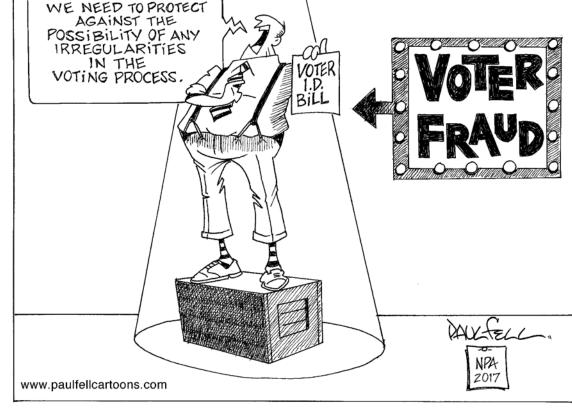

I will admit that Norbert Tiemann is my hero. I wasn't old enough to vote for him (missed it by a year and 6 weeks back when you had to be 21 to vote), but I sure would have. I liked what he had to Read his words very carefully. Refreshing aren't they? And, as it turned out, he meant it. He lost his bid for re-election because everybody tied the state's tax structure to him. But think about what would have happened if he hadn't had the courage to do it for the good of the state.

A bit of history. Voters had wiped out a newly enacted state income tax law and simultaneously eliminated the state property tax, which was the state government's essential funding source at the time; just two months before state senators and the newly elected Tiemann started the 1967 Legislative session. The income tax law fell victim to a referendum vote, and the state property tax was forbidden by a petition-driven constitutional amendment.

State government suddenly and quite dramatically had no major source of revenue. What's a public servant to do but fight for a fair and just system to create a revenue stream. The opposition to Tiemann, a banker from Wausau, was strong in the Omaha delegation, which clamored for a state sales tax.

Tiemann said the income tax was necessary to achieve fairness and tax equity while producing a larger revenue stream that would allow the state to move forward with dramatic change. He also successfully argued that just relying on sales tax would put an unfair burden on low income Nebraskans.

The new tax system provided for a program of state aid to schools, creation of the University of Nebraska at Omaha, increased funding support to build a larger and higherquality state university system, creation of a Department of Economic Development and authorized bonded indebtedness for highway construction for the first time.

Tiemann responded to critics that many legitimate state needs had gone unmet and were amplified to the point where immediate action was necessary. Among the unmet needs were the University of Nebraska, state colleges and the state's mental and correctional institutions. Stop me if any of this sounds familiar. Here we are 50 years later with the same topics on the table.

So it is that on April 21, the 69th day of the 105th Legislature, 50 years after Tiemann's tax measures were debated (also on the 69th day which was April 12, 1967), Nebraska lawmakers will consider a tax package championed by Governor Pete Ricketts and promoted by the chairs of the Agriculture and Revenue Committees.

The measure (LB461) is billed as a comprehensive tax reform package that includes both property and income tax reforms. Ricketts said there are five key elements to the proposal: Property tax reform by changing the way ag land is valued beginning in 2018; Incremental income tax relief starting in 2020 with a reduction in the top rate if triggered by revenue growth; Tax credits for low income families starting in 2019; Corporate tax relief to create jobs by to new or expanding companies. These cuts would also be triggered by revenue growth; Tax relief for all Nebraskans with low and moderateincome people getting the biggest breaks. That contention has been making the state more attractive questioned by at least one tax policy think tank.

Ricketts claims this is responsible tax reform that delivers relief to the Nebraskans who need it most, and is sustainable even as he encourages lawmakers to restrain growth in spending.

He said tax reform would grow Nebraska, unleashing long-term growth on Main Street and in agriculture by allowing working Nebraskans to keep more of the money

The debate will be interesting and time will tell if the comments by Ricketts and some lawmakers are just hollow political rhetoric or truly the words of heroes who don't care about perpetuating themselves in

Legislative Update

Late nights in store as session progresses

Thursday, April 13 was the 65th day of the legislative session. With the end of the 90-day session in sight, we will begin to have what are known as "late nights" in which floor debate will go past the traditional cut off time of 5:00 pm and instead will go to as late as 9:30 pm or later. On one hand this is good, as it gives us more time to debate legislation. We have a number of bills that have priority designation which must be debated on the floor, as well as passing the state budget (more on that later). On the other hand, this does put a stress on Senators and staff. In the past tempers have flared and it is incumbent on Senators make sure that any legislative action taken during this time is the correct

As we approach day 70, we will begin debating the budget. Recently the Legislature's Revenue Committee advanced a comprehensive tax reform package including property and income tax relief measures by a vote of 6-2.

LB461 would introduce an incomebased assessment of agricultural property as well as a restructuring and reduction of Nebraska's personal and corporate income tax rates.

During my meetings throughout the district, one of the major concerns expressed to me is that taxes in Nebraska are too high.

While I agree that we need to take action to reduce the tax burden on our businesses and families, I want to make sure we don't take overreaching steps or move too quickly and risk weakening our fiscal stabil-

One of the major aspects of LB461 that I like is the fact that some measures would be enacted quickly, while others would occur in a series of incremental tax reductions based on state revenue growth projections.

Of course, one thing I've learned in my time here in Lincoln is that bills can change significantly as they work their way through the legislative process here in the Unicameral, so I want to stress that nothing is set

On the floor this week, my bill LB276, which modernizes the definition of hybrid seed corn allowed here in Nebraska, passed on to Final Reading. This is the last stage a bill goes through before being signed into law. In most instances, Final Reading is a simple event in which the bill is literally read by the Clerk of the Senate and then a final vote is conducted.

Nearly all bills which reach this point have had any changes already made and the vote is usually a formality. In rare occasions for some of the more contentious bills, there will be one more debate, restricted to one

There will probably be another round of bills up for Final Reading as early as the week of April 24th.

Even though we are near the end of the session, our work won't be over. During the time between sessions we have the opportunity to examine certain topics in more depth than the time we are in session al-

These investigations are usually called Interim Studies or Interim Hearings. Though usually not dealing with any specific legislation, these fact-finding missions can result in legislation in the future, or help clear up issues regarding bills already introduced.

at what children know and are able to process about subjects that are of interest to them. Our project of the day was to make a "bug hotel" to attract beneficial insects to our yards and gardens.

During the project, one child came up to me and exclaimed, "This is the best day ever!" Now, that may sound silly to us as adults, but

I wonder if his excitement stemmed from the task of constructing with nature (we were building our hotels out of sticks, leaves, bark, etc.). I'd like to think that nature just brings out the best in us.

In fact, there are studies out there that show even a short amount of time in nature can boost our mood. Even though we were not doing our project outside, we brought nature inside to create something using

Evening of choirs bids adieu

An Evening of Choirs promises an apt adieu for graduating seniors and Staff Accompanist Philip Pfaltzgraff on Monday, April 24 at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne, NE. The 7:30 p.m. concert is a blend of contributions by the WSC Concert Choir, WSC Chorale, Choral Union and WSC Wind Ensemble.

The Concert Choir opens the evening with modern works by Kurt Knecht and Javier Busto emphasizing close harmony and cluster chords. They also debut a new piece written in Neo-Renaissance style by WSC faculty member Dr. Matthew Haakenson. Assistant Professor of Music Matthew Armstrong directs the Concert Choir.

The Chorale is a unique vocal ensemble representing three generations of choir participants. Philip Pfaltzgraff directs the Chorale. The Choral Union will be presenting two selections.

A celebration reception, honoring seniors and Pfaltzgraff, follows the performance. The concert is free and open to the public. For more information, contact Armstrong at (402) 375-7358 or maarmst1@wsc.edu.

Joy Circle conducts April meeting

Joy Circle of Our Savior Lutheran Church met April 12. President Dorothy Wert welcomed everyone and made announcements. She reminded the group of Spring Gathering to be held in Bloomfield on Saturday, April 29. Dorothy remembered those who had April birthdays, including Ruth Grone Maier.

Lynette Lentz gave the devotions based on Luke 24: 1-12. Her devotion was entitled, "What Is the Source of Christian Hope?" authored by Audrey Riley, the Director of Stewardship for WELCA.

A quote was cited from a movie which says, "Everything will be all right in the end, so if it is not all right, it is not yet the end." She goes on to say this is a deep theological statement about Christian hope. We consider the example of Mary Magdelene who followed Jesus as He was teaching and preaching taking in everything He said and did, encouraging other women to do the She witnessed the people cheering and waving palms as He rode into Jerusalem, and a few days later she watched His suffering and death on the cross thinking this was the end. However, this was not the end for her When Mary Magdelene went to Jesus' tomb early that Sunday morning, she discovered the story was not over Christ's resurrection means everything will really be all right. This truly is the source of our Christian Hope.

For the program, the group made greeting cards which will be sent to church members throughout the year to let them know we are thinking of them.

The next meeting will be Wednesday, May 10, with Nancy Jo Powers giving the program and Elaine Menke

Living in the joy of Easter

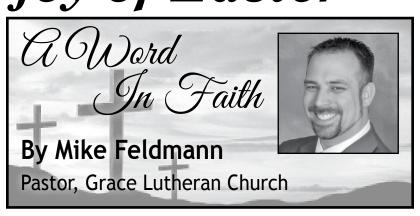

That is the Easter proclamation heard around the world in churches his past Sunday. But something drastic has to happen in order for that

If your church held services on Maundy Thursday and Good Friday, you probably noticed a distinct transition. On Maundy Thursday the Church gathers to remember Jesus instituting, Jesus giving us the Lord's Supper. In, with, and under the bread and wine of Holy Communion Jesus gives us his very body and blood to eat and drink. Jesus gave this meal to his disciples and to us for the forgiveness of sins and the strengthening of our faith as we remember how Christ gave himself up for us that night. In the giving up of himself, he would be stripped of everything ... his clothes, his dignity, and eventually his life. Thus why some churches on that holy night strip the altar area of their church. After the altar is stripped, the congregation leaves in silence.

Then on Good Friday, we gather, possibly in a darkened sanctuary, to hear the Passion Reading of Jesus' suffering and death. We remember the darkness which covered the world in those hours before Jesus' death as he suffered the torments of hell and Satan as he was forsaken by his Heavenly Father while dying on the cross for all of mankind (see Matthew 27:45-50). At the end of the service, as the last candle is extinguished, there is a slamming of a door to remind us of the tomb of Jesus being shut. Again, the congregation leaves in silence.

The darkness of Maundy Thursday and Good Friday is the darkness in which our world continues to live in. The darkness in the world simply is sin. Sin infects everything. It infects our motives, our desires, how we think, and how we treat each other. Sin is a cancer which no matter how hard we try to cure it, on our own our attempts are in vain. St. Paul says in Romans 6:23 that "the wages of sin is death." There is no escaping this darkness. This darkness is what we have to go through in order to experience the joy of Easter.

Easter morning, many of us walked in to church sanctuaries which were full of the sight and smell of Easter lilies, all the lights were on, and the special music of bells, choirs, and trumpets echoed throughout the church. Easter is a grand celebration, the biggest of the entire church year for it is the reason we gather on Sunday mornings, or Saturday nights if your church offers that service. We gather in church around the one and only Son of God who through his death on the cross and his resurrection from the grave forgives sins and gives eternal life to all believers now! Because of this eternal life won for us and given to us as a gift ... we get to live in the joy of Easter.

The joy of Easter is different than just being happy. Happiness is a temporal thing. I may be happy one day because the sun is shining, but I'm sad the next because it's raining. I was happy the day I got married, but I'm sad when I have a disagreement with my wife or when one of my kids misbehaves. I was happy when my favorite baseball team won the World Series last year, Go Cubs Go, but I would have been sad had they lost.

Joy however is totally different than being happy. Joy is not happiness! True joy is found in the One who is at the center of the Easter story. Joy is found in Christ! In prepping the disciples for his suffering, death, and resurrection, Jesus says in John 16:20-22, "I tell you the truth, you will weep and mourn while the world rejoices. You will grieve, but your grief will turn to joy. A woman giving birth to a child has pain because her time has come; but when her baby is born she forgets the anguish because of her joy that a child is born into the world. So with you: Now is your time of grief, but I will see you again and you will rejoice, and no one will take away your joy."

In the resurrection of Jesus which we celebrate on Easter, and every Sunday, we live in joy. We live in joy because we know that no matter what it is that we face, Jesus is there with us. We live in joy because we know that no matter what happens, as a child of God, as one who believes in Him, I know that life with Christ in heaven is a guaranteed thing. We live in the joy of Easter by radiating the love of Christ within us to those around us. We live in the joy of Easter by knowing that because Jesus lives, I will one day live with him in the glorious realms of the new cre-

"Alleluia! Christ is risen! He is risen indeed! Alleluia!"

Grace Ladies Aid discusses upcoming events

Grace Ladies Aid met April 12 in the church fellowship hall. President Fauneil Bennett called the meeting to order and welcomed 12 members and Pastor Feldmann. She led in the group in reciting the LWML Pledge in unison.

President Bennett read a "Then and Now" article about the LWML's 75 year history. Some highlights were: the convention was cancelled in 1945 due to WW II and in 1955 due to delegates from "colored congregations" would not be allowed to stay in convention hotels. In 1969 the convention was interrupted to announce that men were walking on the moon; 1985 was largest convention with 8023 registrants; 1987 was the first million dollar mission goal set; and 1993 was the first and only convention held out-

Secretary Rhonda Sebade took roll call and read the minutes of the last meeting. They were approved as corrected. The movie "The First Rosa" is available in the church office not the church library. A thank you was read from the Janet Heithold and Edmond Heithold families for serving their funerals.

Treasurer Barb Greve gave the treasurer's report. The group voted to pay for the Easter lily for Easter. The ladies also voted to pay for the Quarterlies. Because the group collected $1 too much for the Quarterlies, it was decided to give $20 to church for printing off the Leaguer.

Committee Reports: Sewing - The ladies tied quilts on March 25. They will meet again to on April 27. Kitchen - The council is looking into getting a double sink for the kitchen off the fellowship hall. It was brought up that the church needs a third refrigerator in the kitchen. There was much discussion. KimBerly Hansen will get a bid on a refrigerator. It was tabled until next month. Visiting - Betty Wittig sent many cards and KimBerly Hansen visited. New visiting committee members will be Ellen Heinemann and Mary Janke. President Bennett reported that the visiting day at Brookdale was a big success. Most of the members attended. It was a great morning of fellowship. Funeral - It was reported they served 40 people at the

Leona Nelson funeral. They served sandwiches

Old Business: The "Pajama Prayer Party" will be held Saturday April 22 at Peace Lutheran Church in Grand Island from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. The Wayne Aid has a carload of ladies going. Memorial money has been given to the Ladies Aid. The group voted to give the money to the stained glass window project.

New Business: The Spring Workshop will be Tuesday May 2 at St. John's in Wakefield. Registration is at 9 a.m. The theme is "A Fountain of Blessings Counted as Joy" based on June 1: 2-4. Pastor Ricky Jacobs will be the speaker. All ladies of the congregation are invited to come.

Bible Study: Pastor Mike did a study on the life on Rosa Young.

Leoma Baker and Phyllis Nolte have birthdays this month. The next meeting will be Wednesday, May 10 with Fauneil Bennett host-

The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer and the Table Prayer. Betty Wittig served lunch.

CVA merger approved

Farmway, CVA Board of Directors unanimously approve next step in bring-

After a review of the recently completed merger study, the Board of Directors of Farmway Co-op, Inc. (Farmway) and Central Valley Ag (CVA) both unanimously approved the next step in a merger of the two cooperatives. The merger proposal will now be presented to Farmway members for a vote. "By combining two strong financially-stable cooperatives in a merger, a unified cooperative would provide the opportunity for expanded services and facilities, increased savings, and accelerated equity redemptions for the benefit of our member-owners," said Tim Porter, Farmway Board Chairman. "The Board of Directors asks for member-owner support by voting YES to the unification."

"The results of the merger study were conclusive and both Boards felt strongly in proceeding with a merger of CVA and Farmway," said Dave Beckman, Chairman of the Board for Central Valley Ag. "The study outlined benefits in terms of improved efficiencies and cost savings, which we will feel bring additional value to members of both cooperatives.

Initial merger discussions between the cooperatives began in January 2017, with the respective boards meeting in April to unanimously approve an Agreement and Plan of Merger. Farmway will host area informational meetings throughout May starting with the Farmway Annual Meeting May 4th so members can better understand the results of the recently completed merger study and ask questions regarding the proposed merger. Shortly thereafter, Farmway will hold a series of voting meetings for the Farmway membership to vote regarding the merger. Farmway voting members are highly encouraged to attend these meetings and vote.

Sharing ideas on how to feel younger

It's going to be hard to write this because I'm suffering from extreme hunger and the many trips to the bathroom caused by the stuff I had to drink to prepare for a colonoscopy tomorrow. I'm wondering right now why we subject ourselves to this torture, but I sure don't want colon cancer, either. Good friend Connie is driving me to the place where a dozen docs perform these procedures every day!! As most of you know, they give you a drug that makes you forget the whole thing, and it renders you unable to drive. In fact, all I ever want to do after it's over is sleep! It gives a great

Anyway, it's not a very fun way to observe Easter Monday and it was such a nice day, too. We had a different celebration because Kay and Allan rented a cabin at Mahoney Park and we all met there for a great meal. No one had to clean; I know I appreciated that fact. Plus, the TV allowed the guys to keep track of the baseball games. We have Cubs, Cards, and Royals fans now, so it makes for interesting conversations. Plus, the Huskers, both men and women, were playing. A brass choir doing an arrangement

After getting to church by 7:30 to rehearse the choir number for the 8 a.m. service, and having a rousing Easter service that featured the why I like that one!

of When the Saints and Hallelujah, we ate a quick breakfast when we arrived home and went back to bed! We find as we age that we need more sleep than we did ten years

That's why I was interested in the article in the latest Reader's Digest that features secrets to feeling vounger at any age. Some I've always practiced, like eating breakfast. They also mention reading and socializing; goodness, I should live to be a hundred.

But it said that women who ate onions every day had a 5 percent greater bone density than those who ate them less than once a month. And that recalling good memories for 20 minutes a day can make us feel more cheerful. And, of course, it mentions laughter which is not news to most of us. But they had actually found blood vessel dilation increased 22 percent just from watching a funny clip. And they also reiterate the statistic Llike to use in my talks; 15 minutes of laughing gave the same vascular benefits as 15 to 30 minutes in the gym. Guess

I don't think I'm getting that, but I think I've read elsewhere that vacuuming and cleaning, etc, do count as activity. I hope so! I know I'm ready to rest after doing this house, and it's much smaller than the B&B

Those of us who sing in choir use less medication, are less lonely, and have fewer falls. Who knew? A study in Sweden found that when choir members sang in unison, their heart rates slowed and eventually synchronized. That will be hard for we Lutherans, who prefer four part

After all, we learned it in grade school, and Sunday School, and continue it in special choirs dedicated to choral music; as in St. Olaf, Gustavus Augustus, Luther College, Concordia, et al.

Anyway, I guess general preventive measures like routine colonoscopies are good, too; I try to tell myself whenever I have one! In 24 hours, I'm having a banquet

CALL NOW FOR SPRING DISCOUNTS

Here is an article by Extension Horticulture Educator Sarah Browning that appeared recently in the Lincoln Journal Star. I get this question a lot, and if anyone could solve it they would become very wealthy. It's about rough (and rarely soft) lawns, and the surprising cause.

Each spring, homeowners call Nebraska Extension with two seemingly different questions, but which often have one underlying cause.

The questions usually go something like this: "My lawn has become so rough and bumpy it's difficult to mow" or "There are soft spots in my lawn. My foot sinks into the soil when I walk in this area and I'm afraid I'll twist mv ankle.

Believe it or not, earthworm activity can cause both of these issues.

The natural activity of earthworms is to tunnel and burrow through the soil ingesting organic matter which is swallowed and ground in their gizzard.

Soil and ejected material, basically worm "poop" or castings, are left behind. Worm castings look like finely ground soil or very small soil pellets.

Often worms leave behind mounds of worked-up ity and sometimes gardeners see small holes in the eliminate severe roughness. soil - tunnels the worms have moved through. These mounds of soil are usually very soft and would cause a person's foot to sink when stepped on.

Dry conditions eventually cause the castings to become hard and contribute to an uneven, rough soil surface, which can be annoying.

Another "problem" associated with worms is the movement of large numbers to places where they are unwanted following rain, such as a driveway, sidewalk or patio. After the past several rains you know this to be true.

To hear the passion with which people seek a "control" for earthworms makes them sound like the worst pest imaginable, but it's important to remember earthworms are extremely valuable to the overall health and tilth of soil.

Their activity improves the growing environment by aiding the formation of soil aggregates, which increases air and water movement in the soil. They help decompose many types of organic matter, including grass clippings and thatch, and alleviate soil

So although a rough, bumpy lawn and earthworms on the driveway are annoying, destruction of earthworms is a bad idea and not recommended. There are no pesticides labeled for control of earth-

Although some pesticides and fertilizers are known to have an impact on earthworms, none can be recommended as controls.

Worms become active in spring after soil has thawed. They are noticed more in spring, since they move up toward warmer surface soil during cool spring conditions.

As summer soil gets warmer they will move deeper in the soil again. Generally worms are most active in the top 12 to 18 inches of soil where food is most abundant.

Various practices can help reduce the problem of a bumpy lawn. Bumpiness in sparse, thin lawns will be less noticeable if a healthy thick turf is reestablished through reseeding with a species and variety suited to the site, and through proper fertilization, moving and irrigation.

Remember, roughness accumulates over several years and it should be removed gradually removed soil when there has been a high level of worm activ- not all at once. Mechanical methods are necessary to Core aerifying, power raking and verticutting are all mechanical processes that physically break down some of the bumps in the lawn. Chop up soil plugs from core aeration with your mower and spread them throughout the turf to help level a severely bumpy surface.

Power rakes and verticutters have tines that will shave off the surface of soil lumps, but don't set them to cut so deeply into the soil that they pull out grass crowns or roots. They will pull out dead grass leaves and thatch, but that's OK.

Topdressing, or applying a thin layer of soil or compost, over the lawn can also provide some relief from a bumpy lawn. Spread 1/2 to 1-inch of soil over the lawn and rake it into the grass canopy.

Repeat as needed every 2-3 weeks until the surface smoothness is acceptable. Do not use sand, peat moss, sawdust or wood shavings as a top dress ma-

Use of a heavy roller is another possibility, but while rolling may remove some roughness, it also causes soil compaction.

Compacted soil reduces turfgrass vigor and eventually leads to a thinner lawn. Use rolling sparingly to address soil roughness and follow up with core aeration.

AMERICAN COUNTRY 4-H Club American Country 4-Hers met April 9 at Grace Lutheran Church. President Devan Henschke called the meeting to order. Minutes were reviewed by Secretary Natalie Bentjen. Jamison Meyer, treasurer, gave the treasurer's report. Members had a follow-up discussion about the theme booth for the fair. During the meet-

Brooklyn and Braxton Seibrandt. The American Country 4-Hers next meeting date is yet to be decided.

On April 6 Reagan McGuire, Jamison Meyer and Emily Longe represented American Country 4-Hers by donating their care packages to the Wayne Police Department. These will give young children something fun to during a hard situation. Other packages were donated to Providence Medical Center. Some things these packages included were: Coloring books, crayons, slinky, toy cars, stuffed animals, and many more fun filled items.
