Faculty role requirements change resulting in reassignment at WSC

By Calyn Dunklau calyn@wayneherald.com

While announced in March 2016, the Higher Learning Commission's (HLC) new set of requirements still surprised many on Wayne State's campus.

The HLC, Wayne State College's regional accreditor, made changes to the faculty role guidelines and announced those changes in March of 2016, but granted a deadline extension until September 2017 to allow institutions to make the necessary changes to be in compliance with the new guidelines.

Those guidelines, aimed at putting the most qualified instructor into each role, were revamped and concentrated. Specifically, instructors are now required to possess credentials that are directly related to their teaching field.

Vice President of Academic Affairs Steve Elliot said the guidelines were initially to be instituted in 2015 but there were some changes adopted. Wayne State went ahead with a transcript review at that point for its faculty.

There are some exceptions being made by the HLC, where tested and equivalent experience are being taken into account. The HLC defines equivalent experience as a minimum of 18 graduate hours in the field of study they wish to teach.

The requirements changed very little at Wayne State, Elliot said.

"It was such minimal impact to our campus," said t

Elliot. "Our campus just had to shift some to be more in line with what is now required. The real work that had to be done was on the dual credit side."

Unfortunately for some, the requirements don't take into consideration number of years teaching on subjects, like in the case of Dr. Katherine Butler who possess her degrees in English but also teaches philosophy courses.

In an interview with the Wayne Stater, Butler said, "My graduate courses contained philosophical material, but I can't reach out to my old professors for confirmation because they are all dead."

That means though she has been teaching English and philosophy at WSC for over 50 years, her time teaching philosophy has come to an end. While there is not a philosophy department nor even a philosophy major at Wayne State, according to Elliot, there is a minor and philosophy courses are utilized for general education requirements, so there will still be instructors teaching the classes.

With faculty such as Dr. Katherine Rudin retiring this year, it also brings up some very important questions regarding hiring.

Rudin teaches linguistic courses at Wayne State, but those are required courses for an English degree, which begs the question — does Wayne State hire a linguist or an English professor?

"When we schedule courses, it's about the content of that course, so that is what would determine who See Reassignment, Page 4A

City of Wayne approves $1 million support of Wayne State's Center for Applied Technology

Contributed article

Wayne State College and the City of Wayne have taken a major step forward together with the City Council's approval of $1 million in support of Wayne State's Center for Applied Technology. The Center will deliver education for industry, provide a career academy for local school districts, and serve as a regional hub for innovation and workforce development. The city will provide the funds over two years in exchange for access to college facilities, services, and educational opportunities

"The Wayne City Council has the responsibility to grow our community," said Ken Chamberlain, mayor of Wayne. "If Wayne State grows, our community grows. The Wayne City Council took action to not only further solidify Wayne's relationship with Wayne State, but also ensure our community will continue to prosper."

The college will begin construction and site preparation for the new facility this month, with completion set for December 2018. The city's support with the May 2 agreement signals strong confidence in the college's vision for the Center for Applied Technology. Wayne State offers Nebraska's only Industrial Technology education degree in which teachers can earn certification in these fields. This is critically important with the increased emphasis on high school career academies throughout Nebraska and the need to provide qualified teachers. The city's support underlines Wayne State's service as a gateway of opportunity for students to experience industrial manufacturing in an environment that cultivates interest and excitement in industrial technology. The city's decision also considered the projected economic impact of the facility, and the additional opportunities and resources the college's state-of-the-art facility will provide to the city.

Stan Carpenter, chancellor of the Nebraska State College System, said that this is a unique and innovative arrangement between the City of Wayne and Wayne State College.

"This partnership will strengthen both the city and the college," Carpenter said. "The Center for Applied Technology will be an impetus for strengthening economic development in northeast Nebraska. This facility will bring incredible opportunities to the community and our students."

The new facility will provide updated and adequately sized drafting, construction and woods, manufacturing, welding, power and energy, electronics, and skilled and technical science laboratory/lab support space; two classrooms; faculty and staff offices; and administrative support space. The new facility will also provide networking, computer hardware, robotics, and general computer instructional laboratory space for the Computer Science and Computer Information Systems programs.

Wayne State's Center for Applied Technology, complemented by top-notch faculty who deliver an industry-based curriculum, will attract students from high schools as well as community colleges to seek careers in this growing area. Computer purchases, policy readings on board agenda

By Clara Osten clara@wayneherald.com

Students and teachers at Wayne Community Schools will benefit from new computers following action taken during Monday's meeting of the Board of Education.

A quote of $67,594.84 was accepted from Sterling Computers for lap tops for teachers in the district. The current computers being used are approximately six years old and many are no longer functioning.

The funding for the purchase will come from both the budgeted amount in the General Fund and depreciation funds.

A second quote from Sterling Computers for Chromebooks and accessories was accepted during the meeting.

The $28,447 will be used to purchase Chromebooks for students at the high school, as well as a cart for use at the elementary school. Additional accessories will also be purchased.

This purchase will be paid for from the General Fund.

The board continued its update of policies for the school.

In discussion the 4000 series policies, Superintendent Mark Lenihan told the board that the committee found a number of changes that were necessary. He noted that he liked the way the Perry Law Firm (which is assisting with the update) have the policies laid out. He also said that while conducting the review, the committee found several policies that the school did not have.

A land transfer between Wayne Community Schools and the city of Wayne was completed during the meeting.

City Planner Joel Hansen spoke to the board and explained the need for the transfer.

He noted that during the construction of the new swimming pool, it was determined that some of the school's property was being used by the city and additionally, some of the track area being used by the school was actually owned by the city.

The land transfer involves three parcels of land - two of which will be given to the city by the school and one which will be given to the school by the city.

The land in question is nearly equal in size and will allow the city to work on a one way street through the area this summer. Superintendent Lenihan thanked Hansen and the city staff for the work on this project and said "the cooperation has been wonderful."

The board approved the list of graduates for 2017, pending completion of necessary coursework and noted that graduation ceremonies will take place on Saturday, May 13 at 2 p.m. in Rice Auditorium on the Wayne State College campus.

Preliminary information was shared by the Facility/Safety Committee on the possibility of placing a basketball court on the east side of the elementary school.

Two options were discussed and it was noted that three pledges have been received in regard to financing the project. Additional information will be shared as it becomes available.

The Wayne Community Schools Board of Education will next meet in regular session on Monday, June 12 at 5 p.m. in the juniorsenior high school library.

New doctors join staff at Herman Chiropractic in both locations

By Clara Osten clara@wayneherald.com

Two new faces are now greeting patients at Herman Chiropractic in Wayne and Pender.

Sarah and Tyler, who are husband and wife, join Dr. Joelle Herman, DC in providing chiropractic services to patients in both the Wayne and Pender areas.

Sarah, who is originally from Dakota City, graduated from South Sioux City High School and earned a degree in biology from Wayne State College in 2013.

She then attended Cleveland University in Kansas City. After her graduation in December of 2016 she moved to Wayne and began seeing patients in Wayne.

"I like to treat all patients - from babies to teenagers to older people," Sarah said.

She said her decision to pursue a career in chiropractic care began after watching her mother struggle with health issues that medical doctors could not resolve. "The chiropractors were the only doctors that could help my mother. I went to appointments with her and saw what they did. I decided I wanted to help people without using drugs," Sarah said.

She said that she and her husband went through high school and college together and were married in 2013 before she began chiropractic school.

"Being in Wayne has brought us closer to family. The fact that while I was in college, I worked as an assistant with Dr. Herman allowed me to form a relationship with her as well as learn about the other side of the business," Sarah said.

In her spare time she enjoys listening to podcasts, being outside, spending time with her dog and visiting her parents.

"I also enjoy wearing colorful clothing," she added with a smile.

Tyler Peterson grew up in South Sioux City and graduated from South Sioux City High School. After attending Wayne State College for three years, he transferred to Cleveland University where he earned his bachelor's degree and on April 14 See Chiro, Page 4A

Priming the Pump

If you camp at really rustic campsites you'll know to bring a little extra water along to dump into the old style hand pumps. You have to prime those old pumps to wet the leathers so they'll seal up and pull water up from the ground when you pump the handle.

WSC is doing a press release on an interlocal agreement with the City of Wayne that provides for the prepayment of college services we use and it allows the WSC to the prepayment to help finance the new WSC Industrial Technology program. The state legislature authorizes Interlocal agreements between state and local government agencies to provide services beneficial to two or more entities. Wayne now has a total of 28 Interlocal agreements with the school, county, other area cities and regional entities that provide us services or we provide services This with WSC is the only to. one we have prepaid. This week's Reader of the Week at the Wayne Public Library is Deb Daehnke.

What is the last book you read? One of the last books I read was Once We Were Brothers by Ronald H. Balson. This is a legal story of two 80-old men, Ben Solomon and Elliot Rosenzweig: or is Elliot really Otto Piatek, a former Nazi SS Officer and war criminal? After Ben tries to kill Elliot, he persuades a young lawyer to help him prove who Elliot really is as the plot takes you through pre-WWII Poland to Chicago of today.

Who is your favorite author?

I love the western genre so Craig Johnson, author of the Longmire series, is one of my favorites. In the lighter moments of his books he often has me chuckling out loud. Ruta Sepetys comment on about your passion for reading?

I can't imagine a day without reading and Wayne Public Library and Wayne State College Library are excellent sources to feed any reading habit. (I review Young Adult books for the college library so I use their facilities quite often as well). We are so fortunate to have these outstanding institutions and all the things they offer. Libraries are not just about books any more. They also offer movies, DVD's, reading programs, classes, interlibrary loan and so many other fascinating things. You can even check out the book for the monthly book club, and the last Tuesday of every month a group gets together to discuss the book. It's really fascinating discussing a book with others and learning their 3A is an excellent Young Adult author. She is the daughter of a Lithuanian refugee, and writes outstanding historical fiction about WWII. I also enjoy reading about the Civil War period of history so l search for authors who write in that category. But my reading tastes are always changing and evolving so I enjoy many authors who have a remarkable story to tell in an intriguing way.

Why do you read?

For me reading encompasses so many things. I read to relax, for enjoyment, to escape, to share, and to educate myself. I learned at an early age that if my parents, who really fostered education, saw me reading a book after supper, I might get out of doing dishes. So I took advantage of that and my love of reading continued to grow. Have you ever had to give up on a

This is very difficult since I've enjoyed so many books but one that always comes to mind is the Young Adult book, Salt to the Sea, by Ruta Sepetys. It relates the story of thousands of refugees fleeing to the Polish coast at the end of WWII in front of the advancing Russian army, and tells it from the prospective of four teenagers who are fleeing. She includes the story of the MV Wilhelm Gustloff, the single greatest maritime disaster in history. I knew very little about this part of WWII and nothing about the Wilhelm Gustloff. Helmsley Charitable Trust's Rural Healthcare Program. Helmsley has awarded Providence Medical Center $400,000 to purchase a new 64-slice CT scanner.

CT scanners provide essential diagnostic images of structures inside the body. A new CT scanner will allow for faster scans that produce high quality images, allowing medical staff to quickly determine health status and course of treatment while giving patients access to up-to-date healthcare technology close to home.

Hospital opens newly remodeled nurses station

Vice President of Nursing Services Nicole Haglund said "We are excited to show off our new nurse's station here [at Providence]. It has a nice open feeling that makes it very inviting for those coming in to the facility. Many people often say the nurse's station is the heart of the hospital and we are proud that this design reflects that." When asked about the space, several nurses working in it commented on how they love the openness of the space for the improved sightlines and being a place patients and patients' families feel welcome to stop at.

Wildcat baseball takes three of four at Sioux Falls

The Wayne State baseball team took three of four from University of Sioux Falls on the road to take a 29-22 (23-15 NSIC) record into the postseason.

On Friday, the two teams split a doubleheader, with Sioux Falls taking the opener 12-6 and Wayne State winning the nightcap 3-1.

The opener saw the host Cougars take a 5-0 lead after three innings and cruise to the easy win, chasing Wildcat starter Aiden Breedlove after three innings.

Wayne State got on the board with two runs in the fifth as Bodie Cooper doubled and scored on a Peyton Barnes RBI single, with the second run coming on a Jackson Petersen RBI groundout that scored Tandon Dorn.

The Cougars put the game out of reach with three runs in the fifth and four more in the sixth for a 12-2 lead. Wayne State got four in the sixth, three coming on a home run by David Janes. Petersen drove home the final run with a groundout.

Janes went 2-for-4 with a homer and three RBI while Cody Jenkins was 2-for-4 with a double. Cooper added a double while Aaron Krier and Barnes each singled. Breedlove took the loss, giving up five runs in three innings.

Wayne State's pitching helped the Wildcats manage a split on the day, as Taner Ledezma worked six strong innings and gave up one run on six hits while Keenan Breen and Kyle Kennebek came on in relief.

Wayne State got two in the third as Aaron Krier led off the inning with a homer and Kyle Thompson singled home Cody Jenkins. After Sioux Falls got a run in the fourth, Wayne State got an insurance run in the fifth when Tanner Simons singled home Petersen. Krier was 2 for 5 with a homer to lead a seven-hit attack. Simons and Thompson each had RBI singles while Petersen, Janes and Jake Lemar all singled. Ledezma got the win, with Kennebeck picking up his eighth save.

On Saturday, the Wildcats held off late rallies in both games to finish the regular season on a great note, sweeping the Cougars 4-3 and 11-10.

In the opener, the Wildcats held off a furious USF rally in the seventh to come away with the win.

Wayne State took a 3-0 lead in the third as Jenkins delivered a two-run single that scored Krier and Tanner Simons. Jenkins later scored on a Bryce Bisenius single to left to give the Wildcats the three-run edge.

Sioux Falls scored in the fourth to make it a 3-1 game, but the Wildcats got a key insurance run in the seventh with Petersen walked and scored on a Jenkins single to make it 4-1.

The hosts staged a furious rally in the bottom of the inning, scoring two runs on four hits off starter Bobby St. Pierre and putting the tying run on second and game-winning run on first with two outs. St. Pierre got out of trouble, though, getting a fielder's choice for the final out as the Wildcats held on for the win.

Jenkins finished 2-for-3 with three RBI to lead the way while Bisenius was 2-for-3 with an RBI. Krier, Simons, Kyle Thompson, Tandon Dorn and Petersen each singled. St. Pierre went the distance, allowing three runs on 10 hits with four strikeouts and two walks.

The second game was much like the first as the Wildcats built a lead before holding off the Cougars to take three of four in their See Wildcats, Page 3A

Annual Spring Sprints a hit for students, spectators alike

This year's annual Spring Sprints were held last Friday in weather that couldn't be beat.

The event drew roughly 150 athletes, the largest turnout yet according to one of the event's co-coordinators Kayla Varley. 15 school districts attended.

Varley credited Tracy Krusemark and Jean Arens with the event's start and the success it's seen along with the help of Misty and Terry Baier and several volunteers.

"Every year Mrs. Buryanek brings the National Honor Society students and most volunteer all day," Varley said. "Additional students sought me out to help -- some have a sibling participating or are interested in going into the special education field.'

Varley said the student athletes really enjoy when their classmates stop down to the track to watch and cheer. Students from different classes in both the elementary and high school were able to go to the event at various times to cheer on all the all the atheletes.

"It's a big thing to have a whole class stretched along the fence cheering," said Varley. "They get to see their peers shine in a different way than they normally do,"

Northeast Community College and Mount Marty College sign Memorandum of Understanding articulation agreement benefit from a new partnership between Mount Marty College and Northeast Community College beginning later this

8B

The presidents of the two institutions signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) Friday on Mount Marty's campus here to create an educational transfer pathway from Northeast to Mount Marty.

The MOU will have particular focus in several program areas, including accounting, business administration, criminal justice, elementary education, English literature and creative writing, exercise wellness, human services, nursing and recreation management.

Dr. Michael Chipps, president of Northeast, said although the colleges share a common border with the Missouri River, both institutions see the value in working together.

"For Northeast Community College, there is a significant number of people in the northern portion of our 20-county service area who live in Nebraska and

Jilliane Allemann / Molly, Marie, Lucas & Evan

Students will have the opportunity to work in Yankton and the surrounding area. This agreement recognizes the value of a Northeast Community College-Mount Marty College relationship in assisting the workforce needs of this portion of the region," he said. "These are individuals who are Nebraska taxpayers, yet they make their living from South Dakota businesses. This MOU allows Northeast to align its programming and transferability to Mount Marty for a targeted population of Northeast students.'

> "This agreement enables those Northeast students who want to continue their studies toward a bachelor's degree in a small, private college environment to do so close to home," said Dr. Marcus Long, president of Mount Marty. "Since more than 1,100 MMC alumni live within 30 miles of our Yankton campus, we're already a major contributor to the workforces of northern Nebraska and southeastern South Dakota. This agreement will enable more area students to transfer directly into our programs more easily."

Graduates of Northeast Community College who have earned an associate's degree and who choose to enroll full-time at Mount Marty College will be eligible for the Mount Marty Transfer Scholarship program, as long as they meet guidelines.

Under the program, Mount Marty College will provide up to $10,000 of tuition scholarship dollars for students who meet certain academic criteria, and additional scholarships for Northeast students who graduate with Phi Theta Kappa honors, or those students who are Catholic or graduate from Catholic high schools. Athletic scholarships may also be available.

These are stackable scholarships and are renewable, provided students remain in good academic standing at Mount Marty.

John Blaylock, executive vice president at Northeast, said this agreement with Mount Marty is another opportunity to create an educational pathway for students.

"In addition to Yankton and Sioux Falls, Mount Marty College has a campus in Watertown (South Dakota) and has a similar agreement with Lake Area Technical Institute in Watertown. Northeast is interested in working with Mount Marty as there are five Catholic high schools in our region; and for many of those students, a private Catholic college experience may be desired. This agreement creates a pathway for students to continue their education at a Catholic college at a public four-year college rate."

"We are excited to be collaborating with Northeast Community College," said Dr. Jane Wood, vice president for academic affairs and dean of the college at Mount Marty. "Our Benedictine values and our hospitality closely resemble the personalized attention that students experience at Northeast Community College and I think it will be a natural bridge for them to connect from Northeast to MMC."

The Northeast-Mount Marty partnership agreement commences in fall 2017.

Budget games being played

The State of Nebraska has seen declining revenues over the past year. This reality has made balancing the state budget without increasing taxes my number one priority during this legislative session. To achieve this, I have been working to constrain spending since last summer and into this

Last year, I began working with state agencies to manage their budgets in anticipation of working with the Legislature to address the gap between projected revenues and appropriations. In July, I provided guidance to my cabinet and all state funded agencies urging fiscal restraint. In October, I placed a freeze on non-mission non-essential, out-of-state travel. Additionally, my State Budget ing account. I urge the full Leg-Office reduced allotments, or the islature to reconsider this proposal amount of money made available to an agency, as well as carryover appropriations for state agencies.

Criminal charges have been filed in the death of an inmate at the Tecumseh prison. That marks the first such action in five slavings at the southeast Nebraska facility in two years.

While it represents a benchmark for the troubled Nebraska Department of Corrections system, it also represents a tragedy of overcrowding that forced two inmates into the same cell who should never have been paired. One was a lifer charged with murder, the other a check forger who was days short of a parole hearing and within months of being released. The murderer was charged with yet another murder for allegedly strangling the check forger.

Explanations from the department were incomplete. The results are pending investigation. Sure. Just like the investigation into the deaths of two inmates on March 2 and two more inmates on Mother's Day 2015. How do you suppose the families of the five dead inmates are coping?

No, I don't envy the Department for having to get information from people who are programmed not to snitch. But I do blame the Department for fostering an atmosphere of deplorable living conditions that lead inmates to "riot" – the Department prefers to call them disturbances - to make themselves heard.

I do blame the Governor and the Attorney General and the Department for failing to address overcrowding issues that led to the housing of a convicted murderer with a check forger. The same overcrowding issue that led to an April incident at the Diagnostic and Evaluation facility in Lincoln where there are nearly three times as many inmates as the facility was built to handle.

A fire erupted in a housing unit after an inmate assaulted a staff member, a department spokeswoman said. In a letter received by the Lincoln Journal-Star, a number of inmates wrote that words were exchanged with a staff member who joined two other officers in the glassed-in bubble (turnkey) where the three pointed at the inmates

Following the incident, the Department reported that the staff had been accounted for and were reported to be safe. The staff member who was assaulted did not appear to be seriously injured. That's good news for their families, but what about the inmates' families? Do you suppose they were concerned? Their loved ones (the state calls them inmates or felons or incarcerated people) are at the mercy of the state.

The measure would immediately restore the voting rights of felons on their release. Proponents say it is an important element to helping them re-establish their role in society. Remember, they are humans too. They are sons and daughters and brothers and sisters and fathers and mothers. Consider them among "the least of these" referred to by Jesus in Matthew 25:40.

"The King will reply, 'Truly I tell you, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers and sisters of mine, you did for me.' "

Ricketts rightfully said that the issue requires an amendment to the Nebraska Constitution.

But, given Nebraska's experience with the death penalty: repeal passed by lawmakers; vetoed by the Governor; reinstated by voters in a campaign largely funded by the Governor; it's not clear if resto ration of voting rights would prevail. Besides, Ricketts said "while the rehabilitation of criminals is an important goal of the criminal justice system, the immediate restoration of voting rights is not the answer.'

Treating incarcerated people like humans should be a goal of the criminal justice system. Let's reduce overcrowding by actively supporting alternate courts and sentencing. Let's ensure the safety of those we're institutionalizing with the same fervor as we do those who work there.

This week we gave final approval to LB 409, introduced by Sen. Mike Groene of North Platte, which adjusts Nebraska's school funding formula to match budpassed 43-0, modifies two components of the formula which we use to distribute school funds.

The bill reduces the base limitation rate – the rate at which school budgets are allowed to grow from year to year from 2.5 percent to 1.5 percent. It also increases the local effort rate, which accounts

May 5th was the 77th day of our $\,$ ity, from $1.00 to approximately $\,$

The main focus of this week has been to work through a number of budget bills which we need to pass to keep the state up and running. Right now the budget package calls for general fund spending of $8.9 billion, limiting spending growth to about 1 percent and does so without raising taxes - something that was important to me.

Unfortunately, it does draw get projections. The bill, which $173 million from the cash reserve - which has been created as a "rainy day" fund there to ensure we have money. The cash reserve was an integral reason that Nebraska was able to weather the economic down turn a few years ago, and I am not a fan of taping those funds to cover the budget.

I would have liked to have had for a district's property tax capac- a more robust discussion about where we could find spending I don't think it will be solved over-specifically dealing with propcuts, unfortunately there just was not enough time for us to bring those issues to the floor.

Also this week, LB 461, which would have provided tax relief for taxpayers, failed to achieve the necessary 33 votes to end debate. This was unfortunate as it did end any chance we had to pass meaningful tax reform this year.

The debate proved to be tremendously interesting and at times emotional. I appreciate that people on both sides of the issue have contacted me about this issue, and I took their comments to heart.

One thing to remember is that Nebraska was one of the last states to implement a state income tax 50 years ago. Today, Nebraska imposes one of the highest income tax rates in our region. This didn't happen overnight, and night.

Another criticism of the bill was that it did not adequately address property tax issues.

As I've said, I agree that property taxes in our state are an issue. LB 461 did attempt to address property tax values, but for many it did not go far enough. While I still contend that a little property tax relief would have been better than no tax relief, I understand ag land owners' frustrations.

I do hope this issue will come up again next year. It is a conversation that needs to be had. LB 461 would have provided for a responsible, conditional and stepwise approach to provide tax relief for workers, small businesses, retirees and - yes - ag producers. Now the conversation moves on.

There was an attempt to amend the budget bill with language you!

IDEA grant money put to good use

The IDEA (Inspiring Development through Educational Achievement) Project is a classroom grant program that provides an opportunity for Wayne Community Schools' faculty and staff to receive a grant through an application process.

"Thanks to our matching donors, Ameritas and PacNSave, the WCS Foundation is able to help fund projects that may not funded by district funds through The IDEA Project. The Foundation encourages faculty and staff to apply for projects, materials, and/or programs that will be used directly by students. The IDEA Project is a great way to inspire educational excellence and enhance learning within the classroom," said Lindsay McLaughlin, Director of the Wayne Community Schools' Foundation.

The IDEA Grant selection committee has selected the 2017-2018 grant recipients. Their grant purchases will be made over the summer and will be implemented during the 2017-2018 academic year.

These grant recipients are: Mrs. Karen Schardt's: Batterie de Cuisine - Kitchen utensils and supplies;

Darlene Lilienkamp – Kindles "Having technology for students to use has become very important, especially in the world of ESL (English as Second Language) for students who have an Imagine Learning account. This is a program that was created especially for English learners, preschool through sixth grade. It has interactive activities, videos and games that are research-based to aid language and literacy development. "Student accounts are funded by a Title III grant, and Wayne Elementary is very fortunate to have access to this program. The purchase of these Kindles with the IDEA grant has made it possible for students to have the technology they need to be able to use Imagine Learning in their classrooms at a time that fits into their busy day. Team – Nonfiction Books "Through the IDEA Grant, we were able to provide our students with opportunities to experience and interact with nonfiction text while reading the book Magic Tree House: Rain Forests. The exciting and unusual information in this book kept our students engaged in their learning as they not only read about the rainforests in our world, but they also used their

Karen Schardt – Culinary Skills Equipment

"The IDEA grant provided funding for kitchen equipment and utensils needed for our new Culinary Skills I class. When setting up the course curriculum, I matched it to the State Department of Education standards and objectives listed for this course. To achieve those objectives, certain labs needed to be offered. The equipment that was purchased included double boilers, springform pans, cake decorating supplies, Ramekins with butane torches and scone pans. The equipment was not only used by the 15 students in the Culinary Skills I class, but all seventh graders and the 44 students in Foods and Sports and Nutrition classes. The students were able to do more challenging and involved baking labs with the equipment the Foundation provided."

Wayne State College professor Glenn Kietzmann presented with teaching awards

Wayne State proudly announces that Dr. Glenn Kietzmann, professor of biology, was presented the State Nebraska Bank and Trust Teaching Excellence Award and the Nebraska State College System Teaching Excellence Award at the college's May 6 commencement ceremony. Kietzmann has taught at Wayne State since 1989.

Matt Ley, chief executive officer of State Nebraska Bank and Trust in Wayne, presented the bank's award. This prestigious honor recognizes rigorous standards that require a superior level of effective teaching.

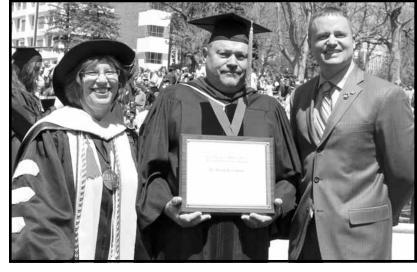

David Ley, the banks' chairman of the board, established the award in 1998 to recognize and reward outstanding teaching at Wayne State. State Nebraska Bank and Trust of Wayne supports the college in many ways, including scholarships. David and Matt Ley both serve on the Wayne State Foundation Board of Trustees.

The Nebraska State College System (NSCS) Teaching Excellence Award recognizes the importance of teaching to the mission of serving students, communities, and Nebraska by providing high quality, accessible educational opportunities. To recognize and foster excellence in teaching across all disciplines at all NSCS colleges, each year a faculty member within the college system is awarded the Teaching Excellence Award by the Board of Trustees. The award recognizes superior teaching, innovative instructional practice, high educational standards, creation of productive learning environments, and the ability to inspire and motivate students. A faculty member who is held in the highest esteem by colleagues and students is nominated from each college and a single recipient is selected by the Board. Kietzmann earned his Ph.D. in 1988, at Iowa State University-Ames, his master of science degree in 1983, at South Dakota State University-Brookings, and his bachelor of science degree in 1981, at South Dakota State University-Brookings.

Keitzmann is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, Sigma Xi, American Society of Parasitologists, Helminthological Society of Washington, Nebraska Academy of Sciences, and past member of the Nebraska Sustainable Agriculture Society. He is a recipient of the Burlington Northern Foundation Faculty Achievement Award for excellence in teaching, as well as the Professor of the Year Award for the Mathematics/Science Division at Wayne State.

Kietzmann teaches human anatomy, histology, parasitology, comparative vertebrate anatomy, biology concepts, and general education biology. He helped create the Rural Health Opportunities Program (RHOP) at Wayne State and has been involved with the program since it began at the college in 1990. He advises pre-nursing and biology students in the Life Sciences Department at the college.

"The following comes as a testament to and an acknowledgement of the great teachers I encountered during my own education, which has not yet ended," Kietzmann said. "There is no greater responsibility and honor for the teacher than to be entrusted with the developing mind and heart of the student that has great desire to do good for all of humanity and who has great courage to eliminate evil in the world."

along with other children. But how important are friendships and how can parents help children develop good friendships?

Children with friends enjoy many benefits. Spending time with friends is fun and exciting for children. Friendships support children's well-being and can help them handle different social situations. For example, from friendships with age-mates children learn...

·social skills like sharing and taking turns;

·about fairness and following rules:

Parents want their child to get out other parents and find playmates for your child. Giving your child the chance to spend time with other children will help him learn how to play with others and practice good social behaviors.

> Arrange play dates with agemates. Try to have a couple of consistent playmates for your child so that she can begin to form a bond with them.

> Look for or set up a play group. A play group gives your child the opportunity to learn skills for interacting with larger groups of children. This will be good practice for school.

Act like a kid and have fun with your child! It may not always be possible for you to have regular play dates for your child, but consider yourself a playmate. Your child can practice social skills by playing with you too!

Teach your child social skills. Children who have social skills, like being friendly, taking turns, and showing kindness, have an easier time making friends. Learning and using positive social behaviors will help your child be someone other children want to spend time with.

Help your child notice positive social behaviors by pointing them out and describing them for him. "Oh look, your sister wants to share her toys.

Notice when your child uses positive social behaviors. Reward her with your positive attention by describing her social behavior. "That was a friendly thing you did, letting your brother go first this time.

bers attended.

Good job taking turns!"

Teach your child how to manage conflict. Conflict with friends and other children is common. You can help your child use some basic problem-solving skills to resolve conflicts.

Ask your child to describe the problem. Then restate it.

Child: "He won't let me have the truck."

Parent: "So we have two truck drivers, but only one truck."

Help your child (and his playmate) think up some possible solutions.

Parent: "What can you think of to solve this problem?"

Child: "He can play with something else."

Parent: "What else could you do?" Child: "We could take turns driving the truck."

Support and encourage positive solutions.

- HARRISON

Parent: "Great! I'll set a timer so you'll know when to switch drivers!"

Be a positive role model. Remember, your child will learn a lot from observing you. Be sure to model the social skills you want to see in your child, both in your interactions with your child and with others.

Giving your child the chance to spend time with age-mates and teaching her positive social behaviors will make it easier for her to enjoy the benefits that come with making friends.

Wakefield's St. John Lutheran Church site of Spring Workshop

The LWML Spring Workshop was held at St. John's Lutheran Church in Wakefield on May 2. It was hosted by the Tri-parish of St. Paul Lutheran, Concord - Immanuel Lutheran, Wakefield and St. John's Lutheran, Wakefield.

The theme of the workshop was "Fountain of Blessing" from James 1:2-4. The event began with a hymn sing led by Pastor William Bertrand from St. Paul Lutheran Church, Concord.

Pastor Bertrand gave an opening devotion. The story in Acts chapter 4-5 tells about the disciples, Peter and John, being brought before the Sanhedron by the temple guard and the Saducees. They were questioned for preaching about Jesus as Christ. They were jailed overnight and warned not to speak about this again. They said they would still obey God and not man. They wanted to put them to death but a Pharisee named Gamaliel ordered that they not be killed. He then told the leaders if what the apostles do is from God, they would only be fighting against God. So after flogging them, they let them go. The apostles left rejoicing because they had been counted worthy of suffering for the name of Jesus Christ.

Tyler Uthof gave a short talk about Thrivent and action teams that can receive $250 for projects as seed money for fund raisers. Thrivent members can receive $250 each twice a year approved by Thrivent for these kinds of things.

Zone President Bev Ruwe welcomed those in attendance and opened the meeting with all reciting the LWML pledge. She announced that the group needs names for the ballot at the Fall Rally in October for election of Vice President and Secretary. This will be held at Trinity Lutheran Church, Martinsburg. It will be up to individual societies as to how much to send to Albuquerque for the National Convention next June.

Pastor Harrison Goodman from St. Paul, Winside gave a Bible study on the theme of the workshop "Fountain of Blessing". In Eden all was perfect but the world is full of sin and pain. The reason for all of this is sin. Suffering, joy and steadfastness is not a lack of fear. Suffering points us to God. Jesus did many things so we would believe and have life eternal. When the side of Jesus flowed out with blood and water, it was almost like a "Fountain of Blessing" as God gave us eternal life in His Son.

A skit was performed by the Christian Growth committee, Rose Mason, Pat Janke and Connie Schutte. It was entitled "Disciple Stew."

Pastor Ricky Jacob from Our Savior Lutheran Outreach & School, Winnebago gave a presentation on what they do there. He has been Pastor there for 24 years. They have 12 in their preschool. Some of the events they have are Family Life where they eat together as a family, Family Life Reconciliation learning that God does the reconciliation. They have the Spiritual Warriors Prayer, the Lord's Praver which teaches Luther's Petitions. Their Christmas service was attended by 60 - 70 members. Spiritual warfare is a real problem on the reservation just as it is in all our lives. He is always grateful for the support given to his ministry where hearts and lives are changed.

The ingathering was made up of monetary gifts designated to Our Saviour Lutheran Outreach & School The total was $856. The Zone offering was $227. Attendance was 33 including six pastors and two guests.

Pastor Goodman led the group in a prayer of thanks for the ingathering gifts and the common table prayer before lunch was served.

+ www.mywaynenews.com God is greater than your biggest fear

What was your biggest fear as a child? Were you afraid of the dark? Afraid of spiders? Afraid of being home alone? Afraid of heights? What are your biggest fears as an adult? Maybe they're some of the same things you were afraid of us a kid. Or maybe you're afraid of public speaking. Maybe you're afraid of dying. Maybe you're afraid of failure. Maybe you're afraid of losing control. Maybe it's something tragic happening to one of your kids that has you afraid. The truth is that all of us, even if we don't like to admit it, have some fears, even as adults.

And our adult fears have this way of paralyzing us, of crippling us. Fear keeps us from trying something new, from going back to school, from applying for a different job, from confronting an issue. Fear can keep you from doing what God wants you to do and from becoming who God wants you to become.

And that's why we should surrender our fear to God. You need to give your fear to God. Now, this doesn't mean that you pretend it doesn't exist; it simply means that you trust God. You trust that He will give you the strength, the wisdom, the courage to face and conquer your fear. I think so much of our fear comes because we have taken our focus off of God. Craig Groeschel says that "fear is placing your faith in 'what-if' rather than in 'God is'. . . Rather than considering that God knows what He's doing and trusting Him, we immediately roll out a long list of what-ifs.' Think about it for a moment.

A Word In Faith

Pastor, Journey Christian Church

Your boss offers you a promotion and you immediately think, "What if I can't do it? What if my co-workers get jealous? What if I don't like the new responsibilities that go along with it? What if I don't like it as well as my old role?" We have this tendency to focus on "what if" rather than in "God is."

David writes about this in Psalm 56. David had been anointed king of Israel and that didn't make the reigning king - King Saul - very happy. Saul became very jealous of David and tried to kill him. And so David is on the run.

The king has posted David's face on "Wanted" posters all over the kingdom. He has enlisted every agency in the government to track him down. But through it all, David trusts in God and surrenders his fear to God.

He says, "Be merciful to me, O God, for men hotly pursue me; all day long they press their attack.

My slanderers pursue me all day long; many are attacking me in their pride. When I am afraid, I will trust in you. In God, whose word I praise, in God I trust; I will not be afraid. What can mortal man do to me?" (Psalm 56:1-4).

I'm like, "Umm, kill you. That's what they can do. Or worse, they can capture you, torture you, throw you in prison, and make the rest of your life incredibly miserable. That's what man can do to you." But David surrendered that fear to God. He took his eyes and thoughts off of the temporary, earthly point of view to an eternal, heavenly perspective. Basically, he was saying, "Even if my worst 'what-ifs' become reality, if I continue to trust God, no one can do anything that hurts me eternally. Nothing can separate me from God or His love for me."

He understood that his worst "what-if" paled in comparison to the goodness and faithfulness of God. So tell God what you're afraid of and then trust Him no matter what. As David says in Psalm 34, "I sought the LORD, and He answered me: He delivered me from all my fears" (Psalm 34:4).

Members of Wayne's First Presbyterian Church finish tying up collection bags for the road side clean-up project on April 23.

First Presbyterian Church of Wayne participates in clean up

Several members of Wayne's First Presbyterian Church (FPC)participated in the church's annual road side clean-up on April 23.

The congregation's project, now in its sixth year, was started by former Pastor Ray McCalla and this year was organized by Jim Paige and Jim Curtiss.

Men and women braved the warm, windy day to walk the ditches and pick up trash on Highway 35 east of Wayne. Earth Day, April 22, inspired the church's pastor Rev. Teresa Bartlett to emphasize humanity's role as stewards of nature and creatures during morning worship.

"As Christians we recognize our deepest purpose and vocation is that each of us has been called to participate with God in caring for this world and its creatures" said Pastor Bartlett. "Every step, every action - whether planting trees, or working for clean water or being a responsible land owner, farmer or rancher

- all reflect that we understand the responsibility and privilege we have been given as stewards.'

Rev. Bartlett further commented that by participating in the road side clean-up FPC members put into action the call to take care of God's creation.

Flow meters required for all wells designed to pump more than 50 gallons per minute

NORFOLK – At the April board meeting of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (LENRD), the board held a public hearing to consider amending its rules to expand the requirement of flow meters.

The amendment added the requirement of flow meters on all public water supply, commercial, industrial, and livestock wells designed to pump more than 50 gallons per minute. The board approved these changes, which become effective on May 26, 2017. The amended rules require flow meters to be installed on these wells by January 1, 2019.

LENRD Water Resources Manager, Brian Bruckner, said, "These high-capacity wells in the district join irrigation wells in the requirement to have flow meters installed. All irrigation wells must have flow meters installed by January 1, 2018."

Sousek added, "We're going to work with the communities in our district, explaining the next steps. This will be a benefit to them in the long run. When a drought hits, especially a multiyear drought, it affects everyone."

In other action, the board also approved cost-share funding for the City of Randolph's Middle Logar Creek channel enlargement and floodplain reduction project.

The LENRD board and staff recently celebrated the retirement of Assistant General Manager, Ker Berney, of Stanton. Ken has been on the staff at the LENRD for almost 40 years. He has formed last ing relationships with, not only his co-workers and the board, but with the numerous partners and agen cies that have worked with the LENRD since 1972.

Top five regrets listed

The Wayne

Another sunny day! And it's 80 degrees; kind of a rapid change, but I'll take it. The leaves on the trees burst out overnight, it seems to me. I was talking about priorities last week; things we would do if we knew our time on earth was limited, things we should be doing anyway. Kay gave me an early Mother's day gift, a book called The Top Five Regrets of the Dying, by Bonnie Ware.

Bronnie lives in Australia. And she worked in banking for the first decade of her life, and did well, but found no fulfillment in it. Of all things, she found she had a gift for taking care of folks in their last days, mostly at home, sometimes in nursing homes. She was with them for those dreaded twelve hour shifts, which gave her time to listen to what her patients had to say, and most had quite a bit to say.

The first wish she found was "I wish I'd had the courage to live a life true to myself, not the life others expected of me". She went on to say we are often products of our environment, which is certainly true, but the person who first expressed this to her had been married to a man who was kind of a tyrant, and was now in a nursing home. She had thought this would give her some freedom to do things she wanted to do, but instead, was diagnosed with a terminal illness. Very it harmed them; especially Harry, sad, for sure. And often, the way I think.

things turn out. So many times, I saw a caregiver die before the care receiver.

The second is a very typical one, "I wish I hadn't worked so hard." Here, too, the patients' wife had begged him to retire and travel. after the kids were grown. But he always had one more project; and then, sure enough, his wife developed a disease that she died of, three months before he was due to retire. You know, we can't make this stuff up! It reminded me of the only Alexander Payne movie I've really enjoyed, "About Schmidt", when Jack Nicholson retires, buys an RV, and his wife dies.

Number three was kind of interesting, too; "I wish I'd had the courage to express my feelings." The fellow who said this to her was a Holocaust survivor. But I immediately thought of Prince William and Prince Harry, who are now telling us they were expected to keep that British stiff upper lip when their mother died, and how much

Four: "I wish I had stayed in touch with my friends". This came from someone who was not computer literate; this is the main thing I use mine for! I'm so much more likely to send an email than to pick up a phone, even though both costs are "bundled" with the cable TV. It feels strange to be able to talk "long distance" for an hour and never see an actual bill.

And lastly, a very sad one, "I wish I had let myself be happier."The patient who said this was echoing Orville Kelly, "Make today count. Appreciate today, we are not guaranteed tomorrow." I'm going to do that today by taking a walk and breathing in the gorgeous smells coming from fragrant bushes.

And, finally, my own lilacs are blooming. I thought they would never get here. You have to make up your mind to be happy, when so many in the world are suffering so much. I do it partly by keeping them in my prayers while I walk. I hope you will take these "regrets" to heart, too. It's a good book!

To assess the extent of the damage, don't just look for frozen or wilting leaves. You need to determine if the growing point was killed. This growing point, also called the apical meristem, is where all new leaves, stems, and branches initially develop on alfalfa. It is located inside the dense cluster of unfolded leaves at the top of the main stem.

Because it is inside a cluster of leaves, the growing point is somewhat protected from cold injury. Exposed leaves and stems all around it can be frozen, wilted, and dying while the growing point cluster survives, waiting for warm weather before continuing to grow. If the growing points in your alfalfa survived the freeze, just wait for growth to begin again.

If the growing point was killed, however, growth will cease on that stem. Any new growth must come from new crown shoots or from lower branches. While the existing plant remains intact, regrowth often is delayed. But you don't have to harvest this damaged growth; plants will begin to grow again on their own although it might take a little longer.

Cutting damaged plants often hastens development of regrowth from good, healthy fields; however it also adds extra stress to plants. If you do cut damaged plants, wait until plants get a little more mature before you take your next cutting. I suggest cutting now only if there is enough growth to justify the time and expense of harvest.

Check your alfalfa plants to truly see if the tops and growing point are dead or if recovery has begun. Then decide whether to harvest or just wait for growth to renew naturally.

Assessor Duffy told the commissioners she was under the impression that if she had Pictometry do a second flight she needed to get a contract signed before the price went up. Wayne Area Economic Development representative Irene Fletcher and Nancy Johnson met with the commissioners to discuss the WAED and City of Wayne grant application to the Wayne County Convention & Visitors Bureau for the Bike Ride Across Nebraska overnight stay in Wayne on June 7, 2017. The request of $2,000 "will be used to offset the cost of renting 4 shuttles to transport riders around the community after arriving from North Bend as part of a 7-day Bike Ride Across Nebraska. Funds may also be used to print welcome materials specific to Wayne attractions and events schedules for the riders during their overnight stay." The Visitors Bureau awarded a $1,000 grant, and that award was approved by the Commissioners on April 18, 2017.

Fletcher stated they were given an outline and schedule along with an extensive list of requirements for hosting the BRAN riders. One of the major expenses is the ability to transport riders around town. Instead of having their grant request reduced from $2,000 to $1,000 they asked the commissioners to reconsider their application and grant them the $2,000 originally requested and consider increasing it to the limit of $3,000.

It was explained that their request was reduced based on one of the grant guidelines --"Money requested for an event may not be used for purchase or rental of equipment." They were granted money for printing expense but not for shuttle rental. Fletcher and Johnson asked that an exception be made since this was a rare and unique event. The riders were staying in Wakefield the next night so perhaps the riders would not only spend the evening but would linger in Wayne before taking off in the morning. The board declined, but would consider an amended application if there were other expenses that would qualify for a grant. Fletcher said no changes would be made.

Bids received from OCC Builders, LLC and JMB Contracting, LLC for the garage replacement project at the Wayne County Courthouse property were opened and reviewed. A motion was made by Larson and seconded by Burbach to accept the Base Bid and Alternates #1, 2 and 3 submitted by JMB Contracting, LLC for a total of $125,928.79. Roll call vote: Larson, Burbach, Rabe – aye; motion carried. Construction will take place between July 15, 2017 and September 1, 2017.

The Nebraska Department of Roads awarded County Bridge Match Program Funds for the replacement of Structure Nos. C001445215 and C009004305 in Cedar and Wayne Counties. An Interlocal Agreement that sets out engineering, construction bidding, and division of costs was approved on a motion by Burbach and second by Larson. Roll call vote; Burbach, Larson, Rabe – aye; motion carried.
