Chamber, volunteers step up to make flags possible again

By Calyn Dunklau
calyn@wayneherald.com

It's been a few years, but the flags that once dotted the landscape of 7th Street in Wayne are back thanks to the Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

"It was probably last spring when we started talking about doing something again," said Wayne Area Economic Development Director Wes Blecke. "The marketing committee was actually talking about doing banners."

The City offered a survey on their website that asked residents if they'd prefer banners, patriotic banners, flags or nothing to line 7th Street.

From the data gathered in the survey, the committee was able to see that the preference was flags or patriotic banners.

After some discussion, the marketing committee decided that flags were the way to go, so the committee went to the chamber board to request the purchase of 58 flags, flag fasteners, poles and holders.

Roughly $1,200 was spent to purchase the hardware and flags, which was a discounted price.

"We bought the flags through our local American Legion Post, so we get them at a discount and they get the credit for selling them to us," Blecke said. "We talked to the city about things and they were awesome to provide poles and cut them, too."

Volunteers helped to not only hoist each flag, but to prepare it for hoisting.

Blecke's own family did the prep work to assemble each flag, drilling holes in the poles and attaching the flags with fasteners while employees from Providence Medical Center hoisted each of the flags.

In previous years, Blecke sat in the back of a pickup as it drove down the sidewalks and hoisted each flag by hand in the back of the truck.

This year the city made two hoisting poles so there was less liability of vehicles driving down the sidewalks.

The flags will wave as long as the volunteers want them to, whether that means letting them fly for a couple weeks surrounding

Five Veterans from Wayne take part in final Honor Flight

Five men from Wayne were among the 654 Vietnam veterans who took part in what has been labeled the final Honor Flight organized by Patriotic Productions.

Dennis Jensen, Bill Kramer, Roger Schwanke, Don Simmons and Bill Woehler all served their country in Vietnam and took part in the one-day trip to Washington, D.C. There, they were able to visit the wall listing the names of those who gave their lives while serving in Vietnam, and toured the other memorials in the nation's capital.

Jensen served in the U.S. Army from 1969 to 1971. He first went to Germany and then to Vietnam.

"When I came home from the army, I flew into Omaha and it was pretty calm. My brother, who had served five years before I did, witnessed more protests," he said.

Schwanke was drafted into the U.S. Army when he was 19. He also served from 1969-71 as a PFC on a Fire Base. He too, had a brother who had served in Vietnam.

Jensen said he first learned of the possibility of traveling on the Honor Flight from his son-in-law.

Both he and Schwanke applied to be a part of the trip late last year and were notified in February that they would be a part of the trip.

Woehler served in Vietnam 1968 during the Tet Offensive as a 20 year-old.

"I don't really remember any protestors when I came home. I flew into Denver and put on civilian clothes and came back to Wayne. I just did what I had to do," he said.

Don Simmons grew up in Clarinda, Iowa and enlisted in the National Guard at age 16. He began his active service in 1956 in the Army and attained the rank of Lieutenant, platoon leader and at times, company commander. He spent time in Vietnam from 1966-1967 and then returned to the U.S. where he went to flight school to become a helicopter pilot. He went back to Vietnam in 1968 for another year.

Later he served in Germany and retired from the military after serving in Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

He found out about the Honor Flight from his neighbor here in Wayne and applied late last year.

The group of veterans met in Omaha on April 30 where they were treated to a supper and "very good entertainment."

They then went to bed for a very short time, because they had to be up by 1:30 a.m. to leave the motel and head to the airport.

The four planes left Omaha at 5 a.m. and got to Washington, D.C. at approximately 8:30 a.m.

"The flights were organized so that those on each plane were from generally the same part of the state. Our plane was sponsored by Norfolk Iron and Metal and was the "Blue Plane," Jensen said.

Upon arrival in Washington, D.C., the veterans were loaded on busses and taken to Lincoln Memorial. From there, they were able to walk to the Vietnam Wall.

Each of the veterans said he was able to pick out the names of people they knew on the wall, although "there were lots of people around the wall."

The next stop was the Korean Memorial (also within walking distance) and then back on the bus.

The next stop, which was the most impressive for Jensen, was the trip to Arlington National Cemetery. There they witnessed the Changing of the Guard, an event that takes place every half hour and takes eight minutes to complete.

"This has been going on since 1937 and is very impressive. I was also impressed with the size of the cemetery - I did not realize it was that big," he said.

The veterans ate lunch on the busses during their trip with food provided by Burger King, Arbys and Chick-Fillet.

Other stops on the trip included the World War II Memorial and the Iwo Jima Memorial.

When it was time to return to Nebraska, those scheduled to return on the Blue Plane spent extra time in the nation's capitol, due to mechanical issues with the plane.

"We left there at 7:30 p.m. and got into Lincoln about 9

American Legion family to distribute memorial poppies

As we near Memorial Day the "Memorial Poppy" of the American Legion Family can be seen throughout our communities in honor of our war dead and in support of our men and women who wear the uniform of the United States Armed Forces.

After World War I, the poppy flourished in Europe. Scientists attributed to soils in France and Belgium becoming enriched with lime from the rubble that resulted from the war. The red flowers also were commonly seen around the gravesites of fallen service members.

In 1918, Moira Michael popularized the idea of wearing a poppy flower in memory of the war dead. She was moved by Lt. Colonel McCrae's poem "In Flanders Fields" when she wrote the following response - "... the blood of heroes never dies but lends a luster to the red of the flower that blooms above the dead 'In Flanders Field.'" Michael started a campaign to adopt the poppy as the national symbol of sacrifice.

On Remembrance Day, a national holiday in France and Belgium, the poppy is often worn to symbolize the sacrifices made by service members around the world during World War I.

The American Legion Auxiliary, the world's largest women's patriotic service organization, distributes the paper poppies around Memorial Day annually. The distribution of this small red flower has generated thousands, upon thousands of dollars raised to support veterans in hospitals, homes and communities and to remember the sacrifice made by our fallen service members. The Memorial Poppy may be seen on around Veterans Day as well.

Locally, members of Roy Reed Unit 252, American Legion Auxiliary, Winside, will be holding its official Poppy Day on Saturday, May 27 from 9 a.m. - noon at Bomgaard's, Pac N Save and Shopko in Wayne. Additionally, canisters have been placed in Winside at Jensen's Café, Winside Store and Fugglies. The Memorial Poppy will also be distributed on Monday, May 29 at the Winside Auditorium for the annual Memorial Day Program at 10:30 a.m.

Donations received through this poppy distribution are provided to the District 3 American Legion Auxiliary President's project, which is the Norfolk Veterans Home, and the second half to the Department of Nebraska, American Legion Auxiliary, for purpose of purchasing the supplies for Veterans to make the poppies and to provide a stipend to the makers if they wish to be compensated.

"Please come out on Saturday, May 27 to Bomgaard's, Pac 'N' Save and Shopko in support of our veterans and to honor our war dead. Your wearing of the poppy has an impact on who we are - A Grateful Nation. God Bless," said Beverly Neel, Auxiliary representative.

Area Emergency Medical Service practitioners gathered at Providence Medical Center on Tuesday evening to be recognized for their hard work. In addition to the meal provided, an educational program was held.

EMS Appreciation night held at PMC draws dozens

This year, the 43rd National EMS Week will be celebrated the week of May 21-27. This time is set aside to commemorate the Emergency Medical Service practitioners who provide a critical component of emergency medicine and the public health safety net.

These highly trained individuals complete numerous hours of education and training annually to ensure their readiness when needed during emergencies. Many of them are volunteers which makes their commitment significantly more impressive. They respond in the middle of the night, during bad weather, and at times that are often inconvenient for their personal and family lives. They have a dedication and passion for helping people and deserve ongoing gratitude.

Kristine Giese, COO at Providence Medical Center explained, "Our yearly EMS Appreciation Dinner is an opportunity to formally honor, recognize and thank the regional EMS squads for their service and commitment. Providence Medical Center is grateful and proud to collaborate with them to provide emergency medical care to the communities we serve."

Nicole Haglund, Vice-President of Nursing Services at PMC highlighted the events of the evening. "In addition to dinner, Providence Medical Center generally provides an educational program for participants related to emergency medical care. This year, Dr. Craig Nemechek and the Mercy Medical Center trauma team provide a presentation entitled, 'Get Off My "Back"board.' They will also review a couple of EMS cases with the squads." Dr. Nemechek is a physician from Mid-lands Clinic in Dakota Dunes, SD, and provides surgical services at Providence Medical Center on a weekly basis.

At the conclusion of the dinner and program, attendees will have an opportunity to tour the new Emergency Department at PMC.

holidays before taking them down and putting them back up again for the next holiday or leaving them up continuously through the summer until after Veterans Day in November.

It's more labor intensive to put the flags up and take them down every few weeks, but it does help the flags to last longer and if additional volunteers would be willing to help, the saying goes "many hands make light work."

The flags are quality flags, but Nebraska wind does a number on them, Wes said.

"I bet we only get three or four good enough to put back up next year if we leave them out all season. Some are destroyed during the season, so we will replace them in the middle of it."

This year the board was able to fit the flags into the budget, but the money has to come from somewhere and the best way to ensure that flags will continue to grace 7th Street is to donate funds to the flag project since there is no guarantee that it will be possible in next year's budget.

Folks have been able to sponsor flags in the past, but the one-time donation of $30 really means one flag for one season, so the sponsored flags from years ago are long gone.

"It's helpful when there are outside sources," Blecke said of the flag cost. "We are always taking donations. You can sponsor a flag for $30 and it's great to do it in honor or as a memorial of someone."

Chamber Coffee

Chad Hoepfner, president of the Wayne Eagles Aerie, spoke of the club's 40 year existence during last week's Chamber Coffee. At right is Julie Addison, current president of the Eagles Auxiliary. Hoepfner shared with those in attendance some of the organizations and causes supported by the Eagles. The group celebrated the anniversary with a dinner and dance on May 20.

Phyllis Rahn (at the podium) served as emcee for the Minerva Club Tea Party and 120th anniversary celebration. She introduced the different groups of ladies in attendance and talked about the club's history.

Minerva Club celebrates 120 years of existence

"The object of this club shall be the intellectual culture and improvement and the promotion of good fellowship amongst its members" has been the goal of the Minerva Club in Wayne for 120 years.

The 12 members of the club, along with 23 guests, gathered recently to celebrate the anniversary of the founding of the club.

Guests for the afternoon tea included members of other clubs within the community, including PEO Chapter AZ, PEO Chapter ID, Hillside Club, Jolly Sewing Club and Acme Club. A member of each of these clubs was invited to tell the history and purpose of each club.

Of special note was Lydia Thomsen, who is 101 years old and still an active member of the Hillside Club. She told those in attendance that the group gets together regularly, but there are only three members left.

Guests were invited to bring a tea cup to the celebration and during the course of the afternoon, shared its significance in their lives.

Musical entertainment for the afternoon was provided by club member Connie Webber.

Phyllis Rahn served as emcee and shared information on "Minerva Through the Ages."

Susan Boust, one of the newest members of the club, shared information on women's study club, which were formed after the Civil War to educate women on relevant issues. These clubs were responsible for starting many of the libraries across the country.

Boust also shared somewhat humorous information on the creation of the Women's Restroom Association and the fact that in the early days there were no public restrooms in Wayne. This led to need for the women to meet in homes.

Boust concluded her presentation by encouraging all those in attendance to "take care of yourselves and support each other."

Club President Mary Ann DeNaeyer concluded the celebration by reading a short story entitled "Pioneer Women." The story was written by club member Donna Hansen and told about life in the Wayne area in the late 1890s when the Minerva Club was first formed.

All in attendance were then told to "go home and make a difference in the world."

 p.m. The reports say there were at least 7,000 people in Lincoln to welcome us home. For me, this was the best part of the trip - to see all those people, including my family there to welcome us home," Schwanke said.
 For Simmons, the best part of the trip was the welcome received wherever the veterans went.
 "When we got into Lincoln, we got off the plane onto a balcony. There, below us was a sea of people. I couldn't believe it. Everyone was shaking our hands and welcoming us home. People were line up for more than a block," Simmons said.
 He went on to add that the trip was very well organized and "very worthwhile. We were able to talk to other veterans who had had the same experiences we had."
 Woehler said the whole trip was "a good deal" and couldn't point to any one part that was his favorite.
 Although none of the five men had been to any of the memorials in Washington, D.C. several had seen the traveling wall when it was in Nebraska.
 While the veterans were in Washington, D.C., their wives were also treated to a day on the town in Nebraska.
 "We had a scheduled trip to the zoo in Omaha and then went back to the Embassy Suites for lunch and a program. We drove to Lincoln, but others were bussed to the Lincoln airport where we then went to the Glacier Hill Winery in 10 busses," Deb Jensen (Dennis' wife) said. The women were fed Valentinos pizza and then received a police escort back to the airport.
 "It was an awesome day and very emotional. There were people clapping everywhere. It was very memorable," she added.

Wayne Fire department responds to Pender area grain bin incident

At approximately 5:30 p.m. on Monday, May 22, the Wayne Volunteer Fire and Rescue Department was called to provide mutual aid to the Pender Volunteer Fire Department.
 A male victim had become trapped up to his chest in a grain bin.
 "The victim was in a high moisture bin of corn when the corn gave way and he was buried. He did have a rope harness on, but was sucked in by the corn" Wayne Fire Chief Phil Monahan said.
 Assistance at the scene was also provided by the Thurston County Sheriff's Office and Wakefield Volunteer Fire and Rescue department. In addition, Life Net was on scene and, during the rescue, was able to provide medical assistance to the victim while he was still trapped.
 A number of farmers and neighbors were also on scene.
 After approximately four hours, the victim was freed from the bin and transported by LifeNet to Sioux City for treatment as a precaution.
 Monahan said he was thankful to the State Fire Marshall's office for having provided the necessary rope rescue classes to prepare his department for calls such as this.
 Twenty members of the Wayne Department responded to the call. They were on the scene until just before 10 p.m.
 Eight members of the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department had just returned from three days of training during the annual Nebraska State Fire School.

Dendinger comes back focused, hopeful for titles

By Michael Carnes
For The Herald

A little over a year ago at this time, Michaela Dendinger was walking around with her right foot in a stabilizing boot, wondering.

Would her foot heal? Would she be able to get back to competing on the Wayne State track team? Would she have a chance to compete again for All-American status and a possible national title?

This season, she's answered those questions with an emphatic "yes."

Dendinger will compete for three national titles this weekend at the NCAA Div. II Outdoor Track and Field Championships in Bradenton, Fla., where she is one of the favorites to win in the shot put, discus and hammer throw.

After completing a rare Triple Crown in winning all three at the Northern Sun Conference Championships two weeks ago, Dendinger is excited about the possibility of competing for national titles this week. That she can compete at all is impressive in and of itself.

While finishing a sophomore season that saw her finish as the national

"My teammates were having success and I was happy for them, but not being a part of it and not being able to go to meets was tough."

runner-up in the discus, Dendinger's right foot was not in good shape — which is bad news when you rely so much on your feet to plant, spin and turn for your throws.

"It was a long process, but there was a bone fracture in my foot in July of 2015 and I was in a boot for six weeks," she said before a recent practice. "When I got out of the boot, nothing was better and I went to a foot specialist, and there was a bone in the ball of my foot that had to be removed because the cartilage in between the bone was degrading."

The surgery meant Dendinger had to spend the better part of eight months in a boot, effectively taking her out of action for both the indoor and outdoor seasons in 2016.

"It was definitely hard, probably the hardest moment of my career," she said. "My teammates were having success and I was happy for them, but not being a part of it and not being able to go to meets was tough."

Wayne State coach Marlon Brink said that any time a college athlete has an injury that keeps them away that long, it always leaves a lot of doubt as to how well they will come back.

"With any injury, you never know how they're going to come back," he said. "She was a runner-up in the discus as nationals as a sophomore, and she's shown the right attitude and never really let it hinder her from reaching the new goals that she's set."

Dendinger credits her teammates and coaches for keeping her focused on making it back to the level she had performed at her first two years as a Wildcat.

"My teammates and Brett (throws coach Brett Suckstorf) were a huge

Wildcats sign California transfer

Wayne State women's basketball coach Chris Kielsmeier announced that Elizabeth Osbourn of Gridley, Calif., has signed a tender and will transfer from Yuba College in California to play basketball for the Wildcats in the 2017-18 season.

Osbourn joins five other high school standouts as members of the 2017 Wildcat recruiting class, including Brittany Bongartz of Ramsey, Minn.; Halley Busse of Winthrop, Minn.; Payton Draper of Waverly, Iowa; Erin Norling from Loretto, Minn.; and Halley Vesey of Indianola, Iowa.

A 6-foot forward, Osbourn will have two seasons of eligibility with the Wildcats after playing this season at Yuba College in California.

She earned All-Bay Valley Conference honors for the 49ers after averaging 13.9 points and 9.1 rebounds per game, shooting 50 percent from the field and 69.6 percent from the free throw line in 29 games.

Osbourn also earned Academic All-Conference honors while at Yuba College, helping the team to a 17-13 record. She spent her first year of college at NCAA Division II Holy Names University in California.

A graduate of Gridley High School in California, Osbourn was a two-time All-Butte View League selection in basketball after averaging 16.6 points and 6.4 rebounds per game to earn league MVP honors.

She was also a three-year starter in volleyball and two-year starter in track and field and named Appeal Democrat Athlete of the Year as a senior in 2015.

"Elizabeth is a versatile player that can play multiple positions and gives our program more depth in the three and four positions," remarked Kielsmeier. "She has the quickness and athletic ability to rebound and guard on the bottom side of our zone. On the offensive end, she has a quick first step that will be able to break down defenders, but can also shoot the three. We really feel that she will be a great asset to our team with her enthusiasm, work ethic and abilities."

Three from area in all-star game

Three area players have been tabbed to play in the 34th annual Northeast Nebraska All-Star Boys Basketball game, set for Friday, June 16 at 8 p.m. at Northeast Community College's Cox Activities Center.

Wayne High standouts Payten Gamble and Grayson McBride, along with LCC senior Jayden Reifenrath, will play on the Dark team, coached by Tony Siske of Norfolk and Frank Gade of Neligh-Oakdale.

Blue Didgets open season with a loss

The Wayne Blue Didgets dropped an 11-7 decision to Bancroft on Monday.

Gavin Anderson started on the mound and went three innings, striking out seven. Austin Heiser pitched two innings and struck out two. Gavin Redden pitched and had four strikeouts.

Kaden Keller, Gavin Anderson and Jamison Meier all had singles. Jase Dean added a triple.

Wayne High junior Kylie Hammer qualified in three events at state and earned a pair of medals, including a runner-up finish in the Class B girls long jump. She also finished sixth in the triple jump. Below, Jenna Trenhaile ended the season on a good note, making the finals and finishing sixth in the Class B girls discus Friday afternoon.

Wayne track teams bring home four medals from state

OMAHA — Wet and soggy conditions made for a state track meet to remember as three Wayne High athletes combined for four medals at the Nebraska State Track and Field Championships.

The story of the meet was the rain, which started up early in the afternoon session as Wayne High athletes competed in Class B action and continued throughout much of the remainder of the meet, letting up to an occasional drizzle by the time Grayson McBride finished up Wayne's weekend in the boys long jump.

"Everybody competed in the same conditions and it put everybody in the same boat," coach Dale Hochstein said of the rain. "Still, in spite of the weather, I felt good about our performances. The kids went out and competed and that's all you can ask for."

Kylie Hammer led the Wayne High effort with a pair of medals, taking runner-up honors for the second straight year in the long jump and posting a sixth-place finish in the triple jump.

Hammer led after the preliminaries with a best mark of 17 feet, 2 inches, and added a quarter-inch to that mark early in the finals. Karsen Sears of Northwest came through with a jump of 17-4 1/2, and Hammer had the last jump of the event in an effort to overtake that mark and win. She got off a good jump that appeared to be long enough for the win, but just barely scratched on the jump, settling for second place.

"She was battling some illness, but she went for it and had a good effort and just scratched by an inch," Hochstein said. "I know she wants that (first place) really bad, but she has another opportunity next year and hopefully she can take it one step further."

Hammer also medaled in the triple jump, and although her best mark of 34-10 1/4 was well off her top mark of the year, it was good enough for sixth place in Class B. She also ran the 200-meter dash, but did not qualify for the finals.

Jenna Trenhaile also came through with a medal in her second trip to state, finishing sixth in the girls discus with a best throw of 124-6.

"Jenna threw right at her season's best, which was great considering those conditions," Hochstein said. "Last year she was able to get down here and compete, so to come back this year and place is great."

The medal-winning efforts of Hammer and Trenhaile helped Wayne's girls score 16 points, good for 16th place in the Class B team standings.

In their final game, Wayne avenged their loss to Pierce with an 8-0 shutout as Gibson threw another one-hitter with nine strikeouts to get the win. Biggerstaff and Jenna Trenhaile tripled and Schaefer had two hits and two runs. Biggerstaff had five RBIs and Trenhaile scored twice.

The Dirt Devils play a doubleheader Thursday at Fremont and host Highway 91 in action next Tuesday.

Dirt Devils 10-under go 1-3 in Norfolk

On Saturday, Wayne fell to Pender (6-3) and Norfolk Golden Girls (8-0).

In the Pender game, Wayne gave up five runs in the first inning and came up short in a comeback effort. Taytem Ellis and Delaney Kruse had hits and Ellis scored two runs. Jersti Jensen also scored a run. Kruse struck out seven in a losing effort.

Against Golden Girls, Jensen had two hits, including a double, and Ellis added a double. Rylin Hall struck out three in the circle.

In the second game, Jensen scored two runs and had a hit, and Kruse and Joslyn Johnson both had hits.

In other action, Wayne dropped a season-opening 16-1 decision to Golden Girls in action Thursday in Norfolk. Jensen had a hit and scored a run for Wayne. Delaney Kruse took the loss in the circle.

The Dirt Devils 10-under team plays Thursday at West Point and Tuesday at Wisner.

Allen boys hang on to win 3,200 relay title

OMAHA - In the 3,200-meter relay, most teams will run their best athlete on the anchor to pull away from the field.

Allen coach Dave Uldrich took a different approach by putting his slowest guy on the fourth leg and it paid off for the area's only gold medal at the Nebraska State Track and Field Championships.

By putting senior leader Tayler Kumm on the third leg of the two-mile event, Uldrich hoped that he would give anchor Devin Twohig a big enough lead to allow him to come home in first place.

And he did - but just barely. "I just wanted to be able to hold on to the lead," an exhausted Twohig said after the race. "I felt them right behind me and I knew I had to give it everything I had. I just wish I could feel my legs right now."

Twohig left everything on the track at Burke Stadium, and it was just enough to hold off South Loup and Humphrey St. Francis for the title. Allen's time of 8:32.9 was a tenth of a second better than South Loup and just over a second faster than St. Francis in a tightly-contested race that opened the Class D boys action Friday afternoon.

Uldrich said that Allen, which has medaled in this event 11 of the last 13 years, including a first-place finish in 2007, wasn't going to lose this race in the final 100 meters the way they did last year when St. Francis and Sterling beat them to the line.

"We said from the first day of practice that we're not going to lose this on the straightaway like we did last year, and that's where we won it," he said. "It was a lot of hard work."

Isaac Verzani got the Eagles in position, handing off to Brogan Jones in third place in the 16-team competition. Jones gave the baton to Kumm in first, and Kumm sprinted out to a big lead, giving Twohig about an 80-meter advantage for that key anchor leg.

"A lot of teams load their slow guy on the third leg, and I knew if we put (Kumm) there we'd be up by 50-100 meters when we got it to our slowest guy and they'd have to spend their load trying to catch him," Uldrich said of the strategy.

Kumm said he knew what his job was when Jones handed him the baton. "Coach told me this is the last time and you've got to give it everything you have, and I just did what I had to do," he said. "I knew I needed to take charge and get that lead for Devin so he could stick it out and we did it together." "It felt really good," Verzani said of his first 800 meters. "I tried to kick early and got it to Brogan in third and he was able to get it up there, but we really wanted to do it for Tayler and get him a championship." "It felt great," Jones said about his leg. "I just trusted the process coach had set up for us and it just felt great and I was able to get it to Tayler in first and he took off."

The 3,200-meter relay win was the highlight of a three-medal performance for Kumm, who also claimed runner-up honors in a soggy 3,200-meter run on Friday, the finished with a sixth-place medal in the 1,600-meter run on Saturday. He didn't make the medal stand in the 800-meter run. Area athletes also brought home medals in the two-day meet, as Winside and LCC both had medal winners at this year's competition.

In Class C boys action, Jayden Reifenthrath was the lone Bear wearing the LCC uniform at Burke Stadium, and he made the most of his time in the high jump pit with a seventh-place finish, reaching the 6-foot mark before bowing out. Winside's Callie Finn picked up her third career state medal, running a solid and consistent race in the 1,600-meter run to take home eighth place in Class D competition. Wakefield had three athletes competing in four events at state. in two events on Friday, the long jump and 200-meter dash.

Allen and Winside had individual performers who also competed. Bri Hingst represented the Lady Eagles in the 300-meter hurdles, while Alex Bargstadt threw in the girls discus and William Bullard ran the 200-meter preliminaries for Winside.

Michaela Dendinger has made a name for herself this year as a contender for national titles in the throwing events in NCAA Div. II. The Wayne State junior is in the top five in all events after finishing a rare "triple crown" win in the NSIC tournament last weekend.

part of it," she said. "They were always super-encouraging and kept telling me that I'd be back and I just needed to keep working at it."

Dendinger had some struggles early on, especially during the indoor season when she qualified for nationals in the shot put and weight throw, but missed the finals by a few inches in each event.

"It was hard coming back," she said. "I couldn't use my right foot for nine months, and then coming back I had to demand a lot from it. There were times the doctor asked if I wanted to keep doing this, and I knew that I did, but I know there were some times where I wondered if maybe I should stop."

She spent a lot of time during her rehab watching videos that helped her understand and improve on her technique, and she brought those mental images she gained from those videos to the circle.

Once the outdoor season got rolling, though, Dendinger let it be known that not only was she back - but she was looking for gold.

The redshirt junior from Coleridge punched her ticket to nationals early and often, recording NCAA provisional or automatic qualifying throws in all but one meet this year. She was the only field athlete in the Northern Sun Conference to earn the league's Field Athlete of the Week honor and was the obvious choice for the conference's Field Athlete of the Year, especially after sweeping all three titles at the conference meet in St. Paul, Minn.

Now, her sights are set on national titles in all three events, and she goes into this week's competition with the second-longest throws in the shot put and hammer throw, and the fifth-best toss in the discus. She could join Nicole Brungardt as the only Wayne State trackster to earn three All-American honors in one national meet, and the first to do it in the outdoor season.

"That's the goal," Dendinger said. "Indoor season really woke me up and I told myself there's no reason I couldn't do this. I've learned a lot from this experience, and it would be amazing to get All-American and win those events. If I could accomplish that, it would be a big highlight and give me something to look forward to for next year."

Her coach believes she can get the job done as well.

"She's right there with a girl from Chadron who's a senior and won at indoor nationals and will test her in those events," he said. "But I'd put my money on her over everybody else."

Dendinger winner of NSIC Field Athlete of the Year award

Wayne State College junior Michaela Dendinger was announced as the Northern Sun Conference Women's field Athlete of the Year in voting by league coaches.

Dendinger won three events at the NSIC Outdoor Track and Field Championships in St. Paul, Minn. last weekend. She took first place in the shot put with a personal best mark of 53 feet, 10 1/4 inches, captured first in the hammer throw with a new school and conference meet record throw of 208-5, and completed the Triple Crown with a first-place effort in the discus at 157-8.

Dendinger was named NSIC Women's Outdoor Field Athlete of the Week all six times during the regular season. She holds NCAA automatic qualifying marks in all three events and ranks second in NCAA Div. II in the shot put and hammer throw and is fifth in the discus. Dendinger will represent Wayne State in all three events at the NCAA Division II Outdoor Track and Field National Championships, set for May 25-27 in Bradenton, Fla. This marks the fourth time in the last six years that a Wayne State athlete has received NSIC Women's Field Athlete of the Year Honors. Paige Pollard won the award in 2012 followed by Sara Wells winning it in 2014 and 2015.

ing on the efforts of senior Grayson McBride, who finished eighth in a tough field of athletes competing in the Class B high jump.

"Grayson jumped well in the high jump and he was one of five kids who went out at that height, so he was one jump away from finishing in the top four," Hochstein said.

McBride also competed in the triple jump and the long jump, but did not qualify for the finals in either event.

Wayne had some close calls in the race for medals, including Nolan Reynolds in the long jump and the girls 3,200-meter relay. Reynolds was in a tie for 10th, while the relay team of Gabi Meyer, Frankie Klausen, Allison Echtenkamp and Kiara Hochstein finished 12th.

"Both Nolan and Grayson (in the triple jump) were one good jump away from a medal, and Nolan's effort in the pole vault looked pretty good," Hochstein said. "The 3,200 relay finished a spot higher than they were seeded and ran one of their best times of the year, and that's all you can ask for in those conditions."

Meyer was one of three Wayne High athletes competing in multiple events, and she ran a solid 800-meter race Saturday morning to finish 14th with a time of 2:28.12. Cody Rogers was also in competition for the Wayne boys, placing 15th in the triple jump.

"It was a really good season for the kids," Hochstein said. "Both teams performed well this year and both had two first-place finishes and beat the majority of teams they competed against. We have some seniors we'll miss and some underclassmen who are looking strong going into next year."

Allen Alums are gathering for a Social at the Allen Fire Hall on Saturday, June 10 starting at 5 p.m., for a light meal and conversation.

Saturday, honor classes 1966 and 1967 have the meeting room at the fire hall reserved for their use beginning at 2 p.m.

The meal in the fire hall truck bay from 5 to 8 p.m., and the street dance to follow at 9 p.m., are all open to the public with no reservations needed. Cost for either or both is $10 when you enter the enclosed area. Dance proceeds will go to the Music Boosters.

Isom's host their Swap Meet this weekend, as they always do on the second full weekend in June. Their location along the side of the highway as you enter Allen from the north provides an opportunity to walk through the grounds, viewing animals, and purchasing a variety of items from vendors there on Saturday and Sunday.

Village-wide garage sales are from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday. Maps will be available at Security Bank and Countryside Gas & Grocery. Contact Marcia Rastede for information.

Swap Meet opens at 10. Around that time will be a kids' money egg hunt. About 11 a.m. they will have the best-dressed animal contest. At 1 p.m. will be "squeal like a pig" and at 2 p.m., "crow like a rooster" contests.

The Class of 1972's 45th class reunion is Saturday, June 10 at noon at the Allen Park. Please bring lawn chairs. For catered noon luncheon at $10 per person RSVP to Vickie Hirschert@vhirschert2015@gmail.com. Phone 402-494-5487

The museum in Allen, located just north of the park, will be open Saturday and Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

Later in the summer members of St Paul Lutheran Church, rural Concord, invites everyone to help celebrate the church's 125th anniversary on Sunday, July 16, 2017. The church service is at 10:30 a.m. with meal, fellowship and program to follow.

As retired Alumni Director, I have not planned a banquet in the gym this year. If someone else wants to step forward and organize something, please do. The Director's job is open. In the meantime, Allen Alumni will meet on the Saturday night of Isom's Swap Meet for a Social at the Fire Hall on odd-numbered years.

Allen Community Club

The Allen Community Club met May 15 at the firehall. The secretary and treasurer's reports were read and approved.

The community clean-up day went well with several tons of trash picked up and sorted. Thank you was extended to Larry Boswell, Milton Boysen, Doug Smith, Jerry Schroeder, and Rick Chase for use of pickups and trailers, to the other adults who used heavy equipment to pack the garbage in the dumpster, to all workers who helped gather the garbage, and to Judy Nice for donating treats.

A suggestion for next year was to not put trash into garbage cans as it made it difficult to dump them and then return the cans to the correct owner. Please leave the garbage in a pile on the curb.

The fifth grade fishing trip went well with every student catching at least one fish. Anyone wishing to have a garage sale from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, June 10 should contact Marcia Rastede at 635-2214 by Wednesday, June 7, to be included on the list and map.

More plans were made concerning the food and drinks for the bicycle riders coming through Allen on June 8. The tent, donated by Genesis Enterprises will be set at the gas station. Anyone wishing to volunteer to help at the food stand should contact Marcia Rastede 635-2214 or Greta Kraemer 635-2826.

Book Exchange

The annual book exchange for elementary students was held on May 12 and for one hour students in preschool to sixth grade were able to "shop" for new books for their summer reading. Students who brought books for the exchange were given the first opportunity to choose from the nearly 500 books on display; then all other students were given the chance to pick between four and six books. Some students got as many as 10 to 15 books. In addition to the re-cycled "new-to-the-student" books, every student was given a new book paid for through Thrivent Action Team money.

Vacation Bible School

The Allen Community Vacation bible School is underway. If you need a ride or need more information contact Pastor Lorrie. If your child needs a ride contact Nicole Johnson 712-389-7494.

Pollinators activity

Fifth grade students from Wayne Elementary School traveled to Ike's Lake recently to take part in a pollinator activity. Several members of the Ike's Club, Pheasants Forever and the Natural Resources Conservation Service were on hand to explain to the students the importance of pollinators in providing the food they eat. The students were able to walk through the Ike's Lake area and observe different types of birds, plants and insects. The final activity of the afternoon was a trips to the Thompson-Barnes Wildlife area to plant one-half acre of wildflowers. Students were able to see the progress of the plants that were planted by last year's fifth grade class.

Because of seed money from Thrivent Action Team, every student at Allen in grades preschool to sixth received a new book for their summer reading.

Legislative Update

Cash reserves not meant for budget

Today, May 23rd, is the last day of the first half of the 105th legislature. We were slated to be in session through June 2nd, which would allow time for Governor Pete Ricketts and the state Senators to work on any last minute legislation or to deal with any bills the Governor vetoed. Beyond the line-item vetoes (meaning the vetoed specific funding without vetoing the entire bill) of the state budget package last week, Governor Ricketts has stated that he will not veto any other piece of legislation, meaning we can end the session early.

As I mentioned, last week we took up overriding the line-item vetoes in the state budget package. Two weeks ago, the Unicameral passed several bills that comprised the $8.9 billion budget package, of which Governor Ricketts vetoed $56.5 million in line-items from the budget. In the end, I chose to vote against the override motion brought by the Appropriations Committee. This was not a vote I took lightly and I heard from constituents on both sides of the issue – those who wanted us to override the vetoes and those who supported the cuts.

One of the main issues facing Senators was the fact that without these spending cuts, Nebraska would have to rely on our cash reserve (or "rainy day" fund) in order to balance the budget. The cash reserve is intended to provide a cushion in case our state faces an unprecedented or unexpected hardship (such as a major drought or other disaster). It is not there to make up the difference in the budget.

Among the provisions vetoed in LB327 was $33.6 million in general funds approved for Medicaid, child welfare, behavioral health, and developmental disability providers.

Overall, for the Nebraska Medicaid program received $1.69 billion in the two-year funding bill, of which Governor Ricketts made a line-item veto of $11.8 million in each of the two fiscal years (roughly 1.62%). I have received assurances from the Administration the line-item veto of funding in the Medicaid aid budget will not result in across-the-board reductions to providers. The Medicaid aid budget is a block appropriation based on forecasts of need and Medicaid has the responsibility to manage the program within its appropriation and minimize adverse access-to-service issues for Medicaid eligible individuals and families.

Legislative Update
By Joni Albrecht
State Senator, District 17

This does not impact services not covered by Medicaid - such as long-term care, nursing home care, and assisted-living care services. The Medicaid program will work with stakeholders to devise an appropriations reduction strategy that protects critical services such as long-term care, and as your Senator I will be monitoring this situation to ensure this promise is kept.

The Division of Developmental Disabilities program was budgeted to receive $303 million over the next two years. Governor Ricketts line-item vetoed $3.2 million in each of the next two fiscal years. Again, I have received assurances the line-item veto in funding will not mean providers will receive across-the-board reductions and that the department will work with stakeholders to devise an appropriations reduction strategy that protects critical health.

From the $333 million two-year funding for the Division of Children & Family Services (CFS), Governor Ricketts vetoed $1.2 million. CFS has identified efficiencies in how it administers drug testing contracts that will garner savings in excess of the amount included in the line-item veto.

With the session winding down, I want to remind my constituents they can still reach me through my legislative office, which remains open to serve you. If you are in Lincoln, stop by room 2010. For those with e-mail access, my address is jalbrecht@leg.ne.gov. Or if you prefer to call, I can be reached at 402-471-2716 or to write me at: Sen. Joni Albrecht

Election Laws: Senators say no to felons voting and voter IDs

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

As a Caucasian septuagenarian, I have to admit that I have never felt disenfranchised, as I have gone to cast my ballot at the polling place in a nearby Lutheran Church in a neighborhood of $200,000 to $300,000 homes. So maybe I don't understand the big push for voter IDs on a real and personal level.

I do understand the push from members of one political party who fear that the other party is somehow "cheating" by getting allegedly unqualified people to cast ballots. I lived in Illinois for several years and understand the jokes – sometimes more truth than humor – about dead people voting in Chicago and boxes of uncounted ballots turning up at the last minute.

But hey, this is Nebraska where the Republicans have a strong majority in the Legislature and always seem to win statewide elections. I can count the number of Democrats elected to statewide office in the last 25 years on two hands. Besides, folks around these parts are still "Nebraska Nice."

So forgive me if I don't understand why Senator John Murante of Gretna and Senator John Hilgers of Lincoln were pushing a proposed constitutional amendment to allow voters in 2018 to decide if a voter ID containing a photograph or digital image should be required prior to casting a ballot. I understand that Senators Murante and Hilgers are both Republicans.

Likewise, I understand why Senators Justin Wayne of Omaha and Adam Morfeld of Lincoln strongly opposed the measure. They are both Democrats. Wayne is a minority and Morfeld speaks out on social issues. I totally get that.

Murante admits that these sorts of election laws have been used in the past to suppress minority votes. But he contends that America currently has a crisis of voter confidence and needs to demonstrate that steps are being taken to ensure that only those who are qualified to vote are casting ballots.

National Public Works Week

OMAHA, NEB. — Each year across North America, National Public Works Week (NPWW) is celebrated by the American Public Works Association's (APWA) over 29,500 members in hundreds of municipalities throughout the U.S. and Canada. This year's celebration will be held May 21-27, 2017, to honor the public works professionals who plan, design, build, manage and operate the infrastructure that ensures a higher quality of life for our communities.

Nebraska Governor, Pete Ricketts has declared that American Public Works Week will be recognized across the State of Nebraska. Eleven members of the Nebraska Chapter of APWA were on hand for this recognition on May 10, 2017. Public works professionals are creative problem-solvers who work around the clock plowing streets, fixing water main breaks, ensuring our drinking water is clean, and cleaning up after fires or storms. They are often the first ones in and the last ones out. APWA's members work tirelessly to improve the quality of life for their communities in which they work.

"The Public Works individuals I know are dedicated public servants with a strong sense of service and stewardship" said Chris Koenig, President of the Nebraska Chapter. "These individuals work long hours doing jobs that are sometimes unpleasant but are critical to a functioning society. One of the goals of our Chapter is to help our members do their jobs better by providing information on new technology and providing training critical to success. The public works industry has embraced technology which has allowed communities to improve traffic flow; evaluate and prioritize improvements to sanitary sewer systems and water distribution systems; expedite construction; and keep the public better informed on upcoming projects."

2017 Theme: "Public Works Connects Us"

The 2017 theme of National Public Works Week, "Public Works Connects Us," celebrates the vital role public works plays in uniting people and communities. APWA encourages municipalities with public works agencies and professionals to take the opportunity to make their stories known in their municipalities during the week.

I contend that only you know your level of voter confidence.

Wayne offered a motion to kill the measure on first round of debate, saying it could cost $3.7 million to provide ID to some 160,000 people. That motion failed, but Murante also failed on a motion to invoke cloture and force a first-round vote. That motion, which required 33 affirmative votes, failed on a 26-17 vote and the measure fell off the agenda for the year.

In a related matter, lawmakers had passed a bill (LB75) sponsored by Wayne to immediately reinstate an individual's voting rights upon completion of a felony sentence or probation. Governor Pete Ricketts vetoed the measure and said requiring convicted felons to wait two years before allowing them to vote provides an incentive to maintain a clean record and avoid subsequent convictions.

Conflicting studies have adressed a link between the restoration of voting privileges and reduced recidivism rates. Ricketts said the results don't prove that it has helped. Wayne said they do and filed an unsuccessful motion to override the Ricketts' veto.

Judiciary Committee chair Senator Laura Ebke of Crete, the only Libertarian in the Legislature, supported the override and said the revocation of the waiting period would demonstrate a commitment to criminal justice reform.

She said it's good policy not to take civil rights away from people if they've paid their debt to society.

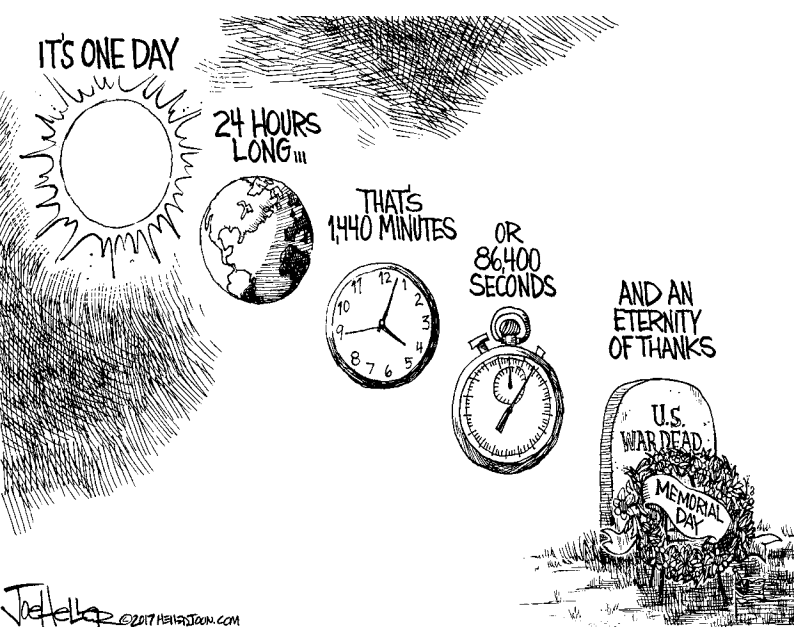

Senator Lydia Brasch, a Republican from Bancroft, said she felt the two-year waiting period allows felons to become reacquainted with their communities and the issues that they will be encountering on the ballot. She said two years is nothing because it goes by so quickly.

I'd like to see her sell that line to someone doing time. In fact, I'd like to see her convince an incarcerated person that they don't understand ballot issues or know the community into which they will be released. She would likely be surprised.

As the father of two young men who are affected by the current law, I do understand this issue. Senators Wayne and Ebke are right and I'd like to see the governor and Senator Brasch talk civics with my sons sometime. They would be surprised.

The issue is dead for now, but unlike the voter identification proposal, felon-voting rights needs to come back next year and for how-ever long it takes to correct this injustice.

Variety of 2017 4-H educational events available

Amy Topp

Extension Educator 4-H & Youth

4-H empowers youth to reach their full potential while working and learning in partnership with caring adults.

In Nebraska, 1-in-3 age-eligible youth participates in 4-H, which is present in all 93 counties. These youth, ages 5-18, participate through camps, clubs, school enrichment, and afterschool programs. All 4-H programs are consistent in placing strong emphasis on life skills, such as problem solving, responsibility, citizenship, and leadership.

With the 2016-2017 school year coming to a close, many families have planned or are planning summer learning experiences. Nebraska Extension across the state is offering numerous summer educational events. These activities involve a variety of different project areas including: Animal Science, Communication and Expressive Arts, Entrepreneurship, Environmental Education and Earth Sciences, Family and Consumer Sciences, Healthy Lifestyle Education, Leadership and Citizenship, Plant Science, and Science, Engineering, and Technology.

In Wayne County, Nebraska Extension offers summer educational events beginning in May. Be sure to check out, wayne.unl.edu for a full listing of 4-H educational events. Many of these workshops offer opportunities to complete projects in which youth can exhibit at the fair. The Favorite Foods Contest and the Presentation Contest are a few of the educational events offered. For the Favorite Foods Contest, youth may learn to menu plan and set a budget for the meal they are presenting. Youth in the Presentation Contest strengthen communication skills by sharing knowledge on a certain topic or by making a video in which they can share a 4-H message.

In addition to educational events offered by Nebraska Extension Offices, within your local county there are also individual 4-H clubs that regularly offer educational experiences where youth work together to complete a similar project. Some of these projects may be community service projects which help out a certain community or cause.

4-H Camps are also part of the 4-H Educational experience. There are local 4-H camps hosted at Ponca State Park, while some other 4-H camps are hosted at the Nebraska State 4-H Camp in Halsey and Gretna. 4-H Camps are day or overnight camps that offer recreation, education, and even career exploration opportunities for youth.

ACME Club holds Guest Day, ends club year

ACME Club held Guest Day at Tacos 'N More recently with six members and nine guests present.

Pastor Carl and Darlene Lillienkamp shared a presentation of their trip last summer to Alaska. They drove and pulled their camper from Wayne through Canada to Alaska. They retold many of their adventures and sights along the way, including the beauty of the areas they visited. They are looking forward to returning again this summer to work with missionaries and see sights they were unable to fit into their first trip. Included in the guests were Darlene's brothers, Dan and Ted Oehlert.

Everyone enjoyed apple-raspberry, or apple pie following the presentation.

President Ruth Victor welcomed each guest and reminded the members of the invitation to Minerva Club's 120th anniversary celebration on May 8.

ACME Club members came together May 15 for the final meeting of the 2016-17 year at the Wayne Senior Center meeting room following lunch at the center.

Bonnadell Koch shared a quote from Eleanor Roosevelt that "many people will walk in and out of your life but only true friends will leave footprints in your heart."

It was reported that a "Memories" photo album was given to the ladies of Minerva Club on May 8. Many different clubs were able to enjoy the afternoon, sharing with the clubs who helped Minerva to celebrate their 120th year of existence. Each guest brought a cup and saucer and shared memories at their tables, stating their pleasure at being a part of the afternoon.

ACME Club made a donation to Nebraska Children's Home and conducted the business of choosing new officers for the 2017-2018 year. It was decided to meet informally during the summer months and on June 5 members will meet at the Senior Center for one of their delicious meals.

Delores Utecht and Betty Witting served snacks following the meeting.

Doctrine, why do we need it?

A few years ago I was talking with some young people about some biblical subjects and the word "doctrine" was used in the conversation. One girl responded, "I hate that word!" I explained that the word doctrine simply meant teaching and referred to that which we believed the Bible taught. She replied, "I know but I still hate that word."

This student expressed a sentiment that is felt by many people today. The word "doctrine" seems to have many negative connotations. First, doctrine is often associated with controversy. People see that different religious beliefs often cause arguments and division. Second, doctrine is associated with narrow-mindedness. People often believe that those who hold strongly to their doctrinal beliefs have been led astray and are not open to the possibility that their beliefs may be wrong or need adjusting. Finally, people often believe that doctrine, particularly biblical doctrine, is not relevant to our current culture and time.

These various opinions are based upon one's own perceptions, experiences, and personal beliefs (doctrines). Most Americans think they are progressive in their thinking and believe that science can explain most everything and/or their experiences determine what is true. They often see truth as relative. So what is doctrine and do we really need it?

As mentioned earlier, doctrine simply means teaching or that which is taught. It may refer a particular position taught by religion or government. It can refer to a body of teachings relating to a particular subject, not just religious subjects. The word used in the Greek New Testament means teaching, instruction, or that which is taught. The verb form of this word refers to the act or process of teaching.

When a person goes to a university they are taught doctrine on various subjects. When we send our children to school they are taught the doctrine of math, science, English, and many other subjects. So we understand that doctrine is not actually a bad word because we all have doctrines that we have been taught or have come to believe about people, government, history, science, religion and many other areas of life.

Yet, the word doctrine, when applied to religious belief systems, is still perceived as a negative word. Do we really need doctrine today? Isn't doctrine a thing of the past? Isn't belief in Jesus enough? Why can't we just believe what our experience tells us is true? Since the Bible is so old, how can its teachings really relate to our current reality?

Our belief system about God, life, and relationships determines how we act. I am referring to what we really believe to be true. We tend to live our lives according to values and beliefs that we have adopted through experience and education. Our parents, family members, teachers, and other influential people have taught us life principles either good or bad.

Every person has a theology, a belief system about God, which affects their life and actions. Even atheists have a belief system about God. Of course they do not believe in God and that does affect how they live their lives. This belief system about God may be called one's faith or religion which involves at least some kind of doctrine.

Rich Mullins wrote a song several years ago called Creed in which he rewrote the words to the Apostle's Creed and set it to music. One line in the song says, "I believe what I believe is what makes me what I am." In other words, he was saying that his belief system affected everything about his life and actions.

One's belief system or doctrine determines how a person will act or react to real life situations. For instance, if a person truly believes that it is wrong to be unfaithful to their spouse, that person will avoid situations that may cause them become attracted to another person. If a person truly believes that any kind of sexual activity is good and healthy between two consenting adults, then that person will not put any limits on sexual experiences.

There are many examples of how one's beliefs determine their actions or reactions to real life situations. Therefore, it may be concluded that one's belief system about life and God (that is one's doctrine) needs to be clearly identified and verbalized.

Take some time to evaluate your beliefs, not what others tell you should believe but what you really believe about life, relationships, and God. Can you clearly state what you believe and how those beliefs affect your life? Do you actually live differently from what you say you believe? What is your belief system based upon? Are your beliefs based upon the Bible, traditions, experiences, or what you were taught by others?

Doctrine (that which one believes about life, relationships, politics, God, religion, etc.) determines how a person lives their life. Doctrine is a part of life, every life.

Rotary Scholarship recipient

Bob Ensz, the Wayne Rotary Club President, recently presented the annual Rotary Scholarship to Wayne High School graduate Lindy Sandoz. She is the daughter of Cory and Gina Sandoz. Lindy will be enrolled in the Rural Health Opportunities Program (RHOP) at Wayne State College, majoring in biology and life sciences. She then plans to attend University of Nebraska Medical Center, majoring in physical therapy.

First Presbyterian Church honors graduates, awards Eleanor Edwards Scholarships

The congregation of the First Presbyterian Church of Wayne recently honored two members, Aaron Ras and Marta Pulfer, upon their high school graduation.

A reception for the graduates was held after worship on May 14. The reception, enjoyed by the graduates and their families as well as the congregation, was served by the Discipleship Team. Audrey Harder made and decorated the cakes for the occasion.

The Eleanor Edwards Scholarships were also awarded on May 14. Eleanor endowed the Presbyterian Church with a financial gift which continues to be the source of scholarships for high school graduates from within the congregation. This year's recipients of the Eleanor Edwards Scholarships were Marta Pulfer and Aaron Ras, 2017 graduates and Jacob Abraham, 2016 graduate. The congregation and Pastor Bartlett wish these young people God's blessing as they pursue further education.

Eleanor Edwards was an active member of First Presbyterian, serving as an elder and active in Presbyterian Women and with the FPC Christian education program. Eleanor taught sixth grade at the Wayne Elementary School for 28 years before retiring in 1973. She was active in the community as a member several organizations, including the Wayne Business and Professional Women, Wayne Area Retired Teachers and Delta Kappa Gamma.

The elders and congregation of First Presbyterian Church give thanks for the generosity of Eleanor Edwards for through her gift she continues to impact the young people of First Presbyterian Church and indeed the world.

The graduates were also presented blankets which had been made by the Sewing Souls women's group. The fleece blankets will be a reminder of the warm thoughts that go with these young people as they further their education.

Pastor Teresa Bartlett commented, "It was a day of celebration and thanksgiving for God's blessing as the faith community celebrated with the young people a milestone in their lives."

The Wayne State College Student Athlete Advisory Committee presented a check recently to the Wayne Backpack Program for $538. The money represents proceeds raised at several events during the spring 2017 semester. Members of SAAC raised money in February from the third annual Pie-to-the-Face event and members of the Wildcat men's basketball team raised money during an April event at Pac-N-Save. WSC SAAC members also helped fill bags for the program once each semester. Pictured are (left) Katelyn Wobken (SAAC President), Jodi Pulfer with Wayne Backpack Program and Abbie Hix (SAAC member).

Ag Summit focuses on economic outlook, technology, markets, more

From global trade to the data and technology use, Nebraska farmers, ranchers, and agriculture professionals will get the information they need to develop strategies for not only this year's growing and marketing season, but also to better position themselves for the future through tough economic times.

The new Agricultural Economic and Technology Summit, to be held at the Kearney Holiday Inn, June 13-14, is a partnership between Nebraska Farm Bureau, the University of Nebraska Lincoln Agricultural Economics, Biological Systems Engineering Department, and KRVN Rural Radio Network.

"With planting and birthing season wrapping up, now is the opportunity for folks in agriculture to get away from the day-to-day grind and get the latest happenings in the world of agriculture. Plus, those attending can compare notes with fellow producers and others involved in agriculture from across the state on how the year is going so far," said Jay Rempe, Nebraska Farm Bureau senior economist.

The summit will feature a range of Nebraska-based and national experts, including Michael Swanson, an agricultural economist and consultant for Wells Fargo; Paul Genho, an independent consultant and visiting professor for the University of Florida; Kent Bacus with the National Cattlemen's Beef Association, who will discuss the ins and outs of U.S. Agricultural Trade; and Al Dutcher, Nebraska's extension agricultural climatologist with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, who will share his insights on Nebraska's weather and climate for the remainder of the growing season.

Jim Pollock, a partner with Prassack Advisors, will share his vision and insight into the adoption and use of technology and how it is fundamentally changing how agriculture operates. Mary Kay Thatcher, American Farm Bureau's senior director of congressional relations, is set to provide a look at the future of farm programs.

The Agricultural Economic and Technology Summit will also feature a series of breakout sessions to dig deeper into a range of subjects important to today's agriculture. Topics include; commodity marketing strategies, technology in livestock production, nitrogen management, livestock market drivers, using data to benchmark efficiency, financial strategies to weather falling income, and UAVs in Agriculture.

"These breakouts will give the summit participants the ability to focus on the topics that are most interesting and critical to the health of their farms and ranches," Rempe said.

Information on the summit, including an online registration form and agenda, can be found at <https://www.nefb.org/agecon> or contact Whitney Kelley at 402-421-4760 or via email at whitneyk@nefb.org.

'Life on the Farm' event held for local students

Nebraska Extension in Wayne County held a new event for fourth graders from Wayne, Wakefield and St. Mary's Elementary schools on May 17.

The event, titled "Life on the Farm", explored many aspects of farm life, including livestock animals, crop management, and new technology in agriculture.

Students rotated from group to group and listened to presenters. Some of the presenters were past and former 4-H members including Brenna Vovos, Lucas Longe, Marta Pulfer, Tarrin Quinn, and Emilie Osten. The Pat O'Reilly family also provided animals.

After the event, students were all given drawstring bags. These bags were provided by Farm Credit Services of America, Nebraska Farm Bureau, and Farmer's Pride. A tractor was provided by Titan Machinery.

The event explored several aspects in daily farm life with topics like livestock, technology and crops in stations that they rotated through.

Tractor Safety Training, spraying advice offered

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension
Educator

This is the "second call" for Tractor Safety Training at the Wayne County Fairgrounds in Wayne.

The training will take place on Monday and Tuesday, June 19 - 20.

Federal law prohibits youth under 16 years of age from working on a farm other than their parents'.

Course completion grants an exemption to the law allowing 14- and 15-year-olds to drive a tractor and to do field work with mechanized equipment.

The most common cause of death in agriculture accidents in Nebraska is overturn from tractors and all-terrain-vehicles (ATV). Tractor and ATV overturn prevention are featured in the class work.

Classes consist of two full days of instruction plus homework assignments. Classes are from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. each day, although the end of the second day depends on how many students there are for the driver's test. We have often got out early in previous years.

The first day of class will consist of intensive classroom instruction with hands-on demonstrations, concluding with a written test that must be completed satisfactorily before the student may continue driving tests the next day.

Classroom instruction will cover the required elements of the National Safe Tractor and Machinery Operation Program. Homework will be assigned to turn in the next day.

The second day will consist of testing, driving and operating machinery.

Students must demonstrate competence in hitching equipment and driving a tractor and trailer through a standardized course as well as hitching PTO and hydraulic systems.

Please pre-register by June 19th to Dixon County Extension at 402-584-2234. The cost for the program is $60.

Two of our biggest problems when we get in a rush, or a bit greedy, are spraying which results in drift to non-target organisms, and pesticides in our water, particularly our surface water.

The Nebraska Department of Agriculture's Pesticide Program would like to remind outdoor pesticide applicators - especially those applying volatile herbicides such as 2,4-D and dicamba - to be mindful of the increasing number of commercially-grown sensitive crops in our agricultural landscape.

Applicators are reminded to read and follow the label directions, including any timing, temperature, and wind speed restrictions.

In addition, please utilize DriftWatch (www.driftwatch.org) to locate commercially-grown sensitive crops in your spray area, and adjust your application accordingly.

Sensitive crops include orchards, vineyards, fruits and vegetables, organic crops, nurseries, and tree crops.

DriftWatch is a voluntary service; however, new commercial crop locations are added frequently.

Applicators can register their business area in DriftWatch, which then allows them to receive e-mail notifications when sensitive crops are added to their spray area.

All outdoor applicators should benefit from this service, including those making pesticide applications to roadsides, lawns and other turf sites, and agricultural fields.

Please remember your non-commercial neighbors as well. Many of us have fruit trees and gardens on our acreages.

How long can corn survive in flooded or ponded areas? Of course, the answer is "It depends". Smaller seedlings are more susceptible than larger seedlings. The effect of standing water on germinating seeds is not well known.

Some hybrids will probably respond better than others, yet differentiating among poor and good hybrids is not possible due to limited data.

A germinating seed is a living organism and as such requires oxygen to survive.

In flooded soil conditions, the oxygen supply will become depleted within approximately 48 hours. Cool air temperatures help to increase the possibility of survival.

Yet, we would not expect survival of germinating seeds to be greater than that of young plants; they should not be expected to survive more than four days.

For more detailed information on corn survival after flooding go to our CropWatch website, and link to <http://cropwatch.unl.edu/2017/corn-survival-saturated-soils>.

Remembering old friends

By: Pat Meierhenry

On Tuesday morning, the garbage gets collected, early; and, this thing must be sent by noon. Well, I put the garbage out the night before, and sometimes, I also write this on Monday eve, but I failed to do so last night. It's now 10:20 am on Tuesday, and I'm meeting a friend for lunch at 11:30. If you have ever suspected that this thing is written with the first thing that comes to my mind, you are right!

I drove back to Lincoln from Norfolk yesterday afternoon, and got hit by pouring rain at Ceresco. It's four lane there, and the speed limit is 65, so some cars just stayed at that, no matter how bad the visibility was. Others slowed down to fifty, so that made the right lane kind of slow. But I stayed in it until I had to start looking for the sign that says Waverly Road, which is where I turn off. It was nerve wracking!!

The trip to Norfolk was necessitated by the death of our long time friend, Harold Wittler. He would have been 91 in July, and had been living at an assisted living facility for the past several months. His daughter had alerted us to his situation deteriorating some time ago, but it's still always a bit of a shock.

I wrote about Yvonne Wittler five years ago; they were our long time 4-H leaders and fellow believers at the Hoskins EUB church. When we were married, they had three little ones, and a fourth on the way. I wondered how she got everything done! I learned that she got along on little sleep, and a had a calm, steady approach to everything. You could not beat her cooking, or sewing!

A grand daughter had made a CD for her grandpa, and it paralleled the one we have for the Big Farmer; driving a Farmall, standing in tall corn, posing in the seed corn hat, etc. Actually, Harold's hat said EVB, for Elkhorn Valley Bank, and I'm wondering why Mike does not have one of those??

Anyway, it was another gathering of old friends, including some from Minnesota, Yvonne's home state, and lot of hugs and sharing and laughter. We've been involved in too many of these lately, another sign of our age, I guess. It made me glad, again, that I had met these good folks around Hoskins a long time ago. They were good to me; still are!

European distributor, METRO to feature beef from Nebraska

Nebraska Department of Agriculture Director Greg Ibach today announced METRO, a French based chain store with 780 stores in 25 countries, will showcase beef from Nebraska in their European stores.

METRO, is self-described as catering to the needs of the key target group of hotels, restaurants and catering firms through exceptional competence in fresh foods.

Ibach announced the news after returning from a trip to the European Union last week, where he was accompanied by University of Nebraska-Lincoln Animal Science Professor Dr. Chris Calkins.

During meetings just outside of Brussels, the two worked together to share the story of beef from Nebraska with key sales, purchasing managers and decision makers from each country where METRO stores are located.

"We are extremely pleased to be able to announce this partnership with METRO," said

Ibach. "The story of beef from Nebraska resonates well in every country, and more and more consumers are seeking high quality beef to serve to their families. This is a tremendous opportunity for Nebraska and we are excited to continue our work to further develop relationships with METRO stores."

According to Ibach, Greater Omaha Packing will be supplying the beef to METRO via INALCA an Italian importer.

In 2016, Nebraska beef accounted for 48.3 percent of the $265.6 million worth of beef exports to Europe.

Later in the trade trip, during a meeting with Goodman's, a fine dining restaurant with multiple locations in London, Ibach and Calkins were able to assist the restaurant's chefs in understanding ways to increase the number of cuts included on their menu, increasing the use of U.S. and Nebraska beef products.

The final stop of the trip was the second Annual Celebration of Nebraska Beef at Zelman Meats in London.

The promotion was geared towards food influencers in the London area and had a large turnout where the story of beef from Nebraska was shared while the attendees were able to enjoy a wide variety of beef products.

The promotional activities were partially funded by the Nebraska Beef Council and represent a continued partnership between Nebraska's beef community and the Nebraska Department of Agriculture to increase the sales of Nebraska beef.

Since the beginning of the partnership in 2005, Nebraska's share of the international U.S. beef sales have increased from 3.6 percent to over 18 percent and Nebraska's market share in Europe has also increased from five percent to nearly 50 percent of total sales.

Nebraska researchers join national team studying psychology of water use

Six University of Nebraska researchers will join colleagues at Penn State University, Arizona State University and the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service (USDA/ARS) to develop a model for engaging communities and stakeholders to ensure adequate supplies of good-quality water both for and from agriculture.

The USDA's National Institute of Food and Agriculture has awarded $2.2 million for the first year of a planned four-year, $5 million project to 18 researchers from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Penn State University, Arizona State University and USDA/ARS.

"The project's main goal is to promote sustainable water management through the use of a proven, flexible, and transferable model of engagement of farmers and other stakeholders," said Chittaranjan Ray, director of the Nebraska Water Center, within the University of Nebraska's Daugherty Water for Food Global Institute.

Case study locations in Nebraska, Arizona and Pennsylvania represent different types of water issues and various institutional settings.

"Development of the stakeholder engagement model will involve testing how what we know, how we behave, and how our institutional partnerships, collective norms and other factors affect the way we address increasingly complex water issues faced by farmers and water resource managers at the local level," said School of Natural Resources environmental scientist Mark Burbach, who is part of the study.

Joining Burbach and Ray from the the university are agricultural economists Lilyan Fulginiti, and Richard Perrin, Department of Agricultural Economics; crops-economic risk management extension educator Jessica Grosskopf, Panhandle Research and Extension Center, Scottsbluff; and Daran Rudnick, irrigation management specialist, Department of Biological Systems Engineering.

The full research group includes nine researchers from Penn State University, including the project's leader, rural sociologist Kathryn Brasier; two from Arizona State University and one from USDA/ARS.

"Part of the viability of this project comes from the depth and diversity of the cooperating researchers from three separate regions of the country," Ray said.

The project will develop a model for stakeholder engagement that transforms the way scientists, extension educators, government officials and others combine their knowledge, communication and engagement skills to effectively reach out to water users who have their own knowledge base, perceptions and societal influences on how and why they use water in their agricultural operations.

"The project will help us better understand how farmers and other water users get information and made decisions about water usage in agriculture" Burbach said.

Researchers will conduct the project in parts of Nebraska, Arizona and Pennsylvania and will also consult with partners in Israel and Australia to learn about their engagement and assessment work. The collected data will be used to help create a transferable engagement model that can be used internationally.

WINSIDE BOARD OF EDUCATION PROCEEDINGS

The Winside Board of Education met in its regular meeting on Wednesday, May 10, 2017 at 7:00 pm in the library. Members present were John Thies, Nate Behmer, Dana Bargstadt, Ryan Brogren, Jon Jaeger and Carmie Marotz.

President John Thies pointed out the Open Meeting Act and called the meeting to order. President Thies led the room with the Pledge of Allegiance. He welcomed the guests and asked if anyone would like to address the Board.

Scott Watters, of Warnemunde Insurance, wanted to let the Board know that he had received the renewal insurance pricing for the 2017-2018 policy year which is significantly less than last year and it still includes the increase of commercial property values and as well as having the updated costs of the automobiles.

Pam Greunke, of Lil Cats Daycare, wanted to inquire of what has progressed with the after school program. She has received calls from parents who want to bring their children to her daycare after school, however she is limited to only 12. Right now she has 19 enrolled, which includes part time and 6 that come after school. The parents she has talked to didn't know that the school was even considering to start an after school program nor the survey. Mr. Shoff stated he was going to update the Board during the meeting regarding the after school program.

Motion by Behmer, second by Jaeger to approve the Agenda. Ayes-Brogren, Jaeger, Marotz, Thies, Behmer and Bargstadt. Nays-none.
