Legacy fund launching

There are few things more important than planning for your future. The biggest gift we can give our future generations in the Wayne area is the opportunity to thrive!

The month of June will launch the Wayne Area Legacy Fund (WALF) helping put dreams to work for our area communities. "The steering committee has been meeting now since last October and we are excited to bring this opportunity for those who want to invest in the future of Wayne and our area communities," commented Bill Dickey, council chair.

"I didn't hesitate to be a part of the steering council. It brings a unique opportunity to provide a non-for profit, tax-deductible way for individuals or businesses to give forward and for organizations, individuals and special un-foreseen needs to be realized." said Eric Knutson, Wayne County Attorney and council member.

The Wayne Area Legacy Fund is an affiliated fund of the Nebraska Community Foundation (NCF), a 501(c)(3) charitable organization. The NCF provides financial management, strategic development and support for communities across the state.

"Part of our process since October was visiting and talking with other communities who have similar funds and learning about how their communities have benefited," explained Dickey. "Wayne is a little behind. We've done a good job of one-off projects in the past and we hope having an endowed fund will benefit the area communities and organizations with a plan and we can start to look for opportunities to promote progress."

Throughout the month of June, the Wayne Area Legacy Fund council will be talking with groups and individuals sharing the structure, concepts and asking for foundation members.

Dickey explained that the foundation members, those first individuals, families or businesses who first contribute are critical to the start of a successful fund (Wayne Area Legacy Fund).

According to Dickey, foundation members will be recognized per their wishes and these are the individuals who will help kick-start a strong endowment fund that will benefit the area communities for generations to come.

The Wayne Area Legacy Fund will have both an endowment and on-going projects. "The Majestic Theatre is our first project that we will be helping support and raise funds for," explained Dickey. "The theatre is enjoyed by many throughout Wayne and our surrounding communities and they need roof repairs and technology upgrades."

Ken Marra, Board Member for the Majestic Theatre said, "We are thrilled to have the Wayne Area Legacy Fund structure and governance. This is a great way for those who enjoy the Majestic to give back and help us continue to make the needed improvements so we can provide state-of-the-art entertainment to our area. We are looking forward to raising $100,000 over time with the oversight of the WALF".

There will be more information coming. The WALF has partnered with Arnie's Ford for a "Drive 4 UR Community" event to be held at the Wayne fire station on June 9 from 10 am to 2 pm.

Ford Motor Company will be donating $20 per family who comes and test-drives one of their vehicles. The WALF council will be serving hot dogs and answering questions at this event as well.

Representative of the Providence Medical Center Foundation Board, Wayne Rural Fire Board and Wayne City Council, along with PMC staff and members of the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department gathered Tuesday night to discuss ambulance service to the Wayne community.

Debate on paying for PMC ambulance service ongoing

By Clara Osten

Three entities - the city of Wayne, the Wayne Rural Fire Board and Providence Medical Center (PMC) - sat down Tuesday night to discuss how to pay for ambulance service for the community.

Earlier this year PMC sent notice to the city that if additional funding is not provided to the hospital for the service, the hospital would not be providing the service after Oct. 8.

The hospital had requested a $100,000 per year contribution from the city for ambulance operations, but through discussions the groups had come to a figure of $75,000 per year, with the hospital absorbing the remainder of the cost.

Mayor Ken Chamberlain spoke first at the meeting and said that during his 10 years of involvement with Wayne city government, he had been under the understanding that the city's $10,000 per year contribution to the hospital was to help with the purchase of a new ambulance.

"I found out recently that the money we have provided is going toward operations of the ambulance. If we assume that 85 percent of the calls for the ambulance are within the city, the city's obligation is $63,750. This would be a big hit to our General Fund. However,

I understand that we have an obligation to do this," Chamberlain said.

The mayor then made a proposal, which he stressed was his proposal and had not yet been discussed by the City Council, that the city pay 80 percent of this cost ($51,000) the first year and increase that number by 12 percent in each of the next two years.

"This would get us to the level we should be funding the ambulance and then we need to discuss what our annual increases should be," he said.

Jim Frank, CEO of the hospital, told those in attendance that the hospital's losses on the ambulance service are "close to $100,000 per year and with the $75,000 figure, we are still losing money. Also, do we want to go through this (negotiations) again in two years? I think this is a pretty fair compromise. It is tough to come up with a definite number for the amount we are losing."

Bryan Ruwe, representing the Rural Fire Board, said he was under the understanding that the hospital had originally asked for $75,000 from the city and $25,000 from the Rural Board.

"Our board has already made the decision to not fund the ambulance service. State statute does not require us to do so and it is not really our problem," Ruwe said. "We are a fire district and have nothing to do with the ambulance."

City Administrator Lowell Johnson said that the cost for the fire district would result in approximately 20 cents per acre in taxes. He said that other fire districts in the area pay costs associated with providing for the service.

It was noted that the board could approach the County Commissioners and ask for funding as part of the fire district's annual request.

At a meeting earlier this year, County Commissioner Randy Larsen told the council that the commissioners would be willing to consider additional funding for the district, but could not act on the hospital's request directly.

Considerable discussion was held during the hour and a half meeting on topics such as reimbursement for ambulance calls, the need for three ambulances and the number of calls that are for the transfer of patients.

Chamber asks folks, businesses to show support as BRAN riders arrive

By Calyn Dunklau
calyn@wayneherald.com

If window decorating, sign making and general hooplah are specialties of yours, the Wayne Chamber of Commerce is asking you to pull out all the stops to welcome the incoming Bike Ride Across Nebraska (BRAN) riders next week.

Riders will arrive in Wayne for an overnight stay on Wednesday, June 7. Wednesday afternoon and evening hold numerous opportunities for communities members to mingle with the riders, Assistant Director Irene Fletcher said.

"Our biggest need is that we want the town to look like we know the riders are coming," Fletcher said. "Decorate and come out to mix with the riders while they are in town."

Members of Journey Christian Church will be at Victor Park to welcome riders and community members are encouraged to join them. From the park, most riders will make their way down the trail toward the summer sports complex where camp is set up before hopping on a shuttle to tour town and make a few stops.

The event offers a little something for everyone with vendors, shopping opportunities and numerous dining options. In consideration of the estimated 1,000 riders and their entourage members, shuttle services will run around town, so drivers and pedestrians alike are asked to pay extra attention and plan for more traffic than usual.

Thursday the riders will leave to make their way to Wakefield, so there could possibly be a number of riders who stick around Wayne for an extended amount of time before taking off for their next stop.

"We don't know if people will hang around Wayne a little longer. There are multiple routes riders can take to get to Wakefield and we expect some to take off right away, but some will probably take the shorter route and stay in town longer."

Maps will be available for riders and community members alike to scope out the various offerings around town.

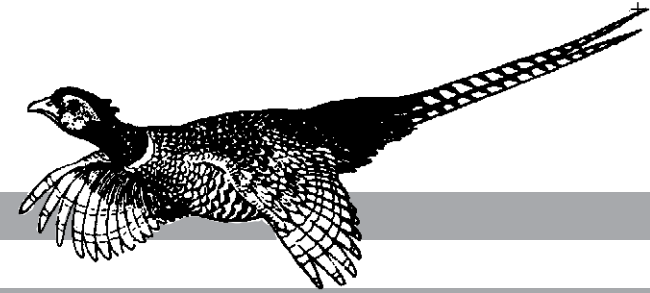

The event wouldn't be possible without the help of numerous volunteers, Fletcher said.

"We have a great team of volunteers. From the City crew to the County Emergency Management to the Wayne Schools, there were so many."

Pair those volunteers with the dozens of organizations, businesses and individuals who've donated time, supplies or funding and it's bound to be a successful event.

Wayne State College students selected for RHOP Program

Emma Evetovich of Wayne is among the more than 20 students who have been accepted into the Rural Health Opportunities Program (RHOP) at Wayne State College.

"The need for rural health pro-essionals continues to grow," said Dr. David Peitz of Wayne State College. "These students have proven themselves to be gifted and dedicated to their profession. They have displayed the potential to develop into strong community leaders."

RHOP is a cooperative effort between Wayne State and the University of Nebraska Medical Center (UNMC) and encourages students from rural areas of Nebraska to return to rural settings after graduation to pursue their career. Individuals selected obtain guaranteed admission to UNMC Colleges upon successful completion of studies at WSC and receive a full-tuition waiver at WSC.

Areas of study under the program include clinical laboratory sciences; medicine; nursing; pharmacy; physical therapy; physician assistant; dental hygiene; radiography; and dentistry.

A shortage of rural health prac-tioners in Nebraska prompted higher education institutions to implement the RHOP program in 1989. Selection of candidates is based on an applicant's residency in a rural Nebraska community, academic potential and commitment to practice in rural Nebraska.

Evetovich is the daughter of Mark and Tammy Evetovich. She is a biology major with a minor in exercise science. Her activities in college include physical therapy club, biology club and intramurals.

Information about the RHOP program can be found at: <http://www.wsc.edu/schools/nss/rhop/> or please call 402-375-7329 or 800-228-9972 or EMAIL: PREPROF@WSC.EDU.

Mowing Your Lawn

Remember we charge $300 per hour including the time to haul away the grass if we have to mow a property. We send a five day notice by mail to the owner and mow it on the day after the deadline date in the letter. If the bill isn't paid we file a lien on the property. We began doing this several years ago because of all the out of town property owners who don't make arrangements to have their property mowed.

New additions to the flock need dressed

By Calyn Dunklau
calyn@wayneherald.com

What began as an activity for creative adults has been expanded to include chicks of all ages.

Cement chicks have arrived from Tekamah at the Wayne Chamber of Commerce ready to be dressed, while only a couple of their adult counterparts from TLC Country Floral near Hooper have yet to be spoken for.

With a deposit of $10, a chick can be taken home to be decorated by the budding artists in the area. If the chick is returned to the chamber before June 30, the deposit is returned.

Standing under 6" tall, the chicks are an easy-to-manage size and if the artist is unwilling to part with their chick, no worries. The cost of purchasing a chick outright is only $10.

With grade-school-aged children in mind, the chicks are sure to be dressed for success in ways likely never seen before.

Like the roosters, the junior-division chicks will be auctioned off during Henoween, the free evening of fun on July 7. The auction takes place after the singing of the National Anthem at 6:30 p.m.

Thanks to shirt sales, chicken sales and generous sponsors, musical entertainment at Henoween is free of charge.

This year a group out of Lincoln called the "String Beans" will perform. The group specializes in songs for children and many of their numbers are about Nebraska, in fact, one of their songs actually references the Wayne Chicken Show.

This year's theme "Good Life. Great place to roost." is a play off of Nebraska's 150 years of statehood.

Only a couple of the famed concrete roosters remain, but plenty of the newest additions to the auction flock are available at the Chamber. Chicks are available to buy or to place in the auction just like the roosters.

Samantha Gwynn, Radon Program Coordinator at the Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department (NNPHD), spoke to a group of public health students who visited Wayne recently.

Public health students take field trip to Wayne

Twenty-five potential College of Public Health students and their advisor visited Wayne on May 17 for a field trip experience to Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department (NNPHD).

The purpose was for the students to get a first-hand account of the daily tasks and program activities of a rural public health department.

The students learned about environmental health programs such as radon testing and mitigation, public health emergency preparedness and response to recent natural disasters in the area, Avian flu and tuberculosis responses and the ongoing work that is done at the local level to address health disparities by including Community Health Workers into the healthcare system.

The visiting students are undergraduate students from a variety of disciplines who also have an interest in public health. They have come to Nebraska for their college education from places as far away as The Bahamas and Canada.

Time was also allowed to enjoy the unique environment of small town America by eating at a local restaurant and enjoying some shopping and viewing other sites on the Main Street of Wayne.

This was the fourth year that NNPHD has been highlighted as part of this field trip sponsored by University of Nebraska Medical Center.

WSC hires new Deans, College Center Director

Judith Scherer Connealy

Wayne State College has announced the filling of three leadership positions - the Dean of the School of Arts and Humanities, the Dean of the School of Education and Counseling, and the Director of Continuing Education and Outreach at College Center.

Dr. Yasuko Taoka will serve as the Dean of the School of Arts and Humanities, Dr. Nicholas Shudak as the Dean of the School of Education and Counseling, and Judith Scherer Connealy as the Director of Continuing Education and Outreach at College Center in South Sioux City, Neb.

Taoka is an associate professor of classics and serves as the chair of the Department of Languages, Cultures, and International Trade at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Ill., where she has taught since 2007.

She earned her B.A. in classics from Grinnell College in 2001. She earned her M.A. in classics in 2003 and her Ph.D. in classics in 2007, both from Ohio State University. She is originally from Nebraska and looks forward to returning to her home state.

"I'm most excited to be in a position to foster and support students, faculty, and staff who are passionate and consummate practitioners of the arts and humanities," Taoka said. "It's an amazing opportunity to be able to do that as my job. I'm a humanist by training and a huge fan of the arts, so I couldn't ask for a better set of disciplines to serve."

"I'm eager to get to know the many different communities at Wayne, both at the college and in town. The School of Arts and Humanities is very active in outreach activities, and I'm excited to attend and facilitate such activities. When I visited Wayne State, I was impressed by the deep collaboration between students and faculty."

Shudak is an associate professor and chair of the Division of Curriculum and Instruction in the School of Education at the University of South Dakota in Vermillion, S.D. He also served for four years as the chair of the Division of Education and the director of the Department of Teacher Education at Mount Marty College in Yankton, S.D. While there, he directed the Master of Education in Curriculum and Instruction program.

Shudak earned his B.S.Ed. in elementary education in 1999 and his M.S.Ed. in foundations of education in 2003, both from Northern Illinois University. He earned his Ph.D. in culture, curriculum, and change from the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill in 2009.

"There are quite a few things that I'm excited about in terms of the position," said Shudak. "I think Wayne State College as a whole is positioned nicely to do amazing work in our respective fields. The recent accolades for WSC are indicative of this. I also like the idea of being in a mission-driven and student-centered environment, and one that prides itself on service."

"Regarding the School of Education and Counseling, I'm excited to be a part of a school that can serve schools and communities in comprehensive ways in terms of the programs and the degree levels we offer, to help improve the lives of those we serve. The School of Education and Counseling is nationally accredited in key areas, which is a very powerful assurance for our communities and stakeholders. And perhaps most importantly, the people I've met and the leadership at WSC are wonderful and are intent on accomplishing greatness. I am excited to be a part of something great."

Scherer Connealy is the assistant vice president of adult and international student enrollment, as well as the designated school official for student and exchange visitor information system (SEVIS) at Briar Cliff University. Prior to that, she was the office manager and recruitment services coordinator at Dana College, the director of financial aid at the College of Saint Mary in Omaha, and the director of continuing education at Briar Cliff.

"So it is very much an honor for me to join the team that leads and grows Wayne State's partnerships in Greater Siouxland."

"Wayne State's sincere commitment to regional service is driving it to reach its full potential in serving Siouxland's workforce and economic development. That is both inspiring and challenging to me, so I know I'm in a good place."

WSC looks forward to these three leaders beginning their duties.

"Wayne State is fortunate to have these three individuals as part of our community of scholars," said Dr. Marysz Rames, president of Wayne State College. "They are outstanding leaders that will join a strong team dedicated to supporting our mission of learning excellence, student success, and regional service. Welcome to the Wildcat family."

Betty Bothwell is 'Reader of the Week' at Wayne Library

What is the last book you read? Mississippi Blood by Greg Isles & The Women in the Castle by Jessica Shattuck.

Who is your favorite author? Jane Kirkpatrick, Clive Cussler and Jack Higgins.

Why do you read? I read for knowledge and enjoyment. No day should go by without learning at least one thing new. It is so easy to imagine the scene as I am reading.

Have you ever had to give up on a book?

There are probably only two books I gave up on before I finished them. Sometimes they are just too slow moving.

Name a book you would recommend and tell everyone why they should read it.

All the light we cannot see by Anthony Doerr. It takes place during World War II. A blind French girl and a German boy try to survive the devastation until their paths cross. The story shows how good-hearted souls can end up on the wrong side of history but still choose goodness.

Is there anything else you'd like to comment on about your passion for reading?

Given what television programming has become, I spend my time reading instead of watching TV. I prefer Historical Fiction, but also read a lot of non-fiction.

I am a retired widow who likes to read and keep in touch with old friends.

Concern

After several options were discussed, including the payment of the money requested by PMC, the hiring of an ambulance service for the city or having ambulance service provided by the volunteer fire and rescue department, Council member Matt Eischied said "we can 'what if' this to death. I just don't want this money to go to pay for a new ambulance."

Frank said that the ambulance is a public service and the hospital can bill patients for the service, but the actual costs are never fully covered.

"At the end of the year, we have to pay the difference. We either need more calls or less calls. We have lots of overhead and shared costs. If the city wants, they can hire someone to provide ambulance service and the hospital can wash our hands of it."

Mayor Chamberlain addressed the three members of the Rural Board that were in attendance and said that if the hospital were to no longer provide ambulance service, the city and rural fire district would have to buy at least two ambulances and the fire department would be responsible for running them.

PMC Board member Galen Wiser said the issue of the city paying for ambulance service goes back to 1982.

"I can't speak for the entire board, but I do believe the mayor's proposal would be better than what we are getting now. I do hope the rural board gets on board with the request."

Following the discussion, Ruwe told those in attendance that his board would bring the request to the County Commissioners before the next year's budget is set.

Mayor Chamberlain said that the council has to answer to the taxpayers and "hope we can find a middle ground. This is a tough time to be paying out of property taxes, but I understand the need."

Frank ended his comments for the evening by saying, "we knew this was going to be a difficult discussion. We want to continue to provide the ambulance service - we just want to lose less money."

The Wayne American Legion Seniors baseball team got the summer campaign started on the right foot with a pair of wins in action last week. On May 22, the Seniors used a six-run third inning and an eight-run fourth to take care of North Bend in a 14-0 win. Wayne had just five hits in the game but took advantage of 10 free passes by North Bend pitchers to post the easy win. Brennen O'Reilly, Payten Gamble, Tucker Nichols, Caden Korth and Justin Dean each scored two runs in the win. Korth had two hits and Dean had a double and two RBI's in the win. Adam Bentjen tossed a two-hit shutout in the opener, striking out nine and walking one on just 76 pitches in five innings of work. On Wednesday, Wayne held off a late comeback by Pender to post a 6-4 victory. Wayne took control of the game early with a three-run inning, highlighted by Nichols' two-run double and an RBI single by Gamble. They added another run in the third, then matched Pender's scores in the fifth and sixth innings to maintain the advantage and come away with the win. Gamble and Mason Lee each had two hits and scored two runs to lead an eight-hit attack. Nichols finished with three RBI's. Tyler Lutt threw six innings, striking out nine and allowing three runs on four hits and three walks to pick up the victory. Wayne, 2-0, hosted Pierce on Tuesday and West Point on Wednesday. They play Logan View at Scribner on Friday.

Kruse got the win in the opener, striking out 10 and walking none while scattering four hits. In the nightcap, Sammi Gubbels and Mackenzie Nissen combined on a three-inning no-hitter, despite walking nine batters in the game, seven of whom scored runs. Gubbels struck out five while Nissen struck out three. Ellis, Jersi Jensen, Joslyn Johnson and Caitlyn Mostek all had hits for the Dirt Devils. Mostek scored a pair of runs.

Dirt Devil 18's sweep Fremont Avalanche

The Wayne Dirt Devils 18-under team posted an easy doubleheader sweep over the Fremont Avalanche last week, posting wins of 10-0 and 12-4 to improve to 7-1 on the season. In the first game, Ashton Gibson tossed a no-hitter, walking just one batter while striking out seven. Wayne scored in every inning, finishing the game off with a five-run fourth inning. Sydney Biggerstaff had three hits, including a double, and scored two runs. Jenna Trenhaile had two hits and scored three times, while Kiara Hochstein had three hits, including a double, and scored a run to lead the offensive effort. In the nightcap, Hochstein and Allison Claussen hit back-to-back solo home runs in a three-run third inning to lead the way. Wayne broke the game open with eight runs in the second inning, highlighted by an RBI triple from Danica Schaefer and an RBI double by Trenhaile. Schaefer had three hits, missing only a home run for the cycle, Trenhaile had two doubles, and Hochstein, Claussen and Maysn Dorey each had two hits. Jamie Gamble pitched three innings in relief to pick up the win. The Dirt Devils host their annual Dirt Devil Invitational this weekend at the Wayne Summer Sports Complex and Wayne State College.

Dirt Devil 14's fall to Kelly's

Manigal, Aliah Schulz, and MiKenzie Schaefer all had singles to highlight the offensive effort. Kayla Fleming walked six in the loss.

Dendinger, Lahm earn All-District academic nods

Wayne State's track and field standouts Michaela Dendinger and Derek Lahm were named to the 2016-17 College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) Academic All-District 7 teams, recognizing their work in the classroom and in competition. Dendinger, a junior from Coleridge, maintains a 3.63 grade-point average majoring in biology at Wayne State College. Earlier this month, Dendinger was voted the NSIC Female Outdoor Field Athlete of the Year after winning three events at the NSIC Outdoor Championships. She recorded first-place finishes in the shot put with a personal best mark of 53 feet, 10

Dendinger wins national title, three All-American honors

BRADENTON, Fla. — After earning one All-American honor, Michaela Dendinger had to wait for a chance to pick up her second. Once she locked up the second, she wasn't about to wait around for her third. Dendinger set the table for her first national championship with her first throw in the preliminaries of the shot put at the NCAA Div. II Outdoor Nationals, uncorking a personal best and school-record throw of 54 feet, 9 1/4 inches and leaving no doubt who was going to come away with the national title in the last of the three throwing events. "I wish I would have done better in the discus, and I just took it out on the shot put pit," Dendinger said after winning her first national title. "Getting my PR and the school record right away made me feel really relaxed, but I'm not going to lie — (winning the national title) was pretty surreal."

The win capped an amazing weekend for the Wildcat junior, who single-handedly helped Wayne State finish 12th in the final team standings with her 21 points. She won three All-American honors, taking runner-up honors in the hammer throw on Thursday and battling to a sixth-place finish in Friday's discus competition. "It was about as perfect a script as a person could ask for," coach Marlon Brink said. "She finished one spot ahead of where she was ranked in the shot and finished the same in the hammer and one spot lower in discus and that doesn't happen very often. For it to work almost perfectly is unheard of and it was exciting for her to finish that well. Her parents and sisters were there to share in the weekend and that made it even more special for her." Her throws coach, Brett Suckstorf, said the junior stuck with the program and had a fantastic national meet. "I thought she had one hell of a weekend," he said. "She executed the game plan almost perfectly. Our goal was to come home with three All-Americans and if we did what we needed to do we could bring home a gold, and it worked." Dendinger started her weekend with a runner-up finish in the hammer throw on Thursday, going toe-to-toe with eventual champion Mel Herl of Chadron State. The two exchanged the lead several times before Herl's mark of 214 feet, 1 inch finished eight feet ahead of Dendinger's best throw of 206-1. "She's a great competitor and she really helped me push myself to get better," said Dendinger, who uncorked four throws of over 200 feet in the competition. "We both have a lot of respect for each other and that really helped us out competition-wise." "It was a battle back and forth between her and (Herl)," Brink said. "She would one-up Michaela and then she'd come back with a better throw, so it went back and forth. It was a great series of throws and the Chadron girl had to throw her career best to beat her." "She and the Chadron girl kept going back and forth until the Chadron girl finally popped off a big one, but I was very happy with the way Michaela competed," Suckstorf added. Friday's competition was Dendinger's toughest, as she had to wait for the final thrower to compete in the preliminaries before advancing with the ninth and final spot in the discus finals. "It was extremely nerve-wracking," she said. "It was based on whether or one girl would get ahead of me and once I was able to get in that relaxed me some." Dendinger immediately moved into All-American status on her first throw in the finals with a mark of 164-7, then improved that to 165-4 to lock down the sixth-place finish. "I was extremely proud of her that day because things weren't going right and the discus wasn't flying right, but she kept focused on what she needed to work on and worked her way up to All-American," Suckstorf said. "When she got to the finals, she relaxed more and her first throw bumped her up," Brink said. "It wasn't her best throw, but there wasn't a lot of wind there and that didn't favor right-handed throwers." Dendinger left no doubt who was going to take control of the shot put on Saturday. Her career-best and school-record mark set the stage and she was almost two feet ahead of the runner-up effort of Herl. In fact, four of the top five throws in the competition were recorded by

Giesselman wins wind dominated Open in playoff

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

Wind was the theme of this year's Wayne Annual Memorial Open Golf tournament as more than 110 players competed against the elements. Fifty-three of those players competed in the Championship Flight and when 27 holes were complete, Fremont's Hunter Giesselman and Homer's Will Anderson were tied at even par 108. It took four sudden death playoff holes before Giesselman emerged as champion.

Anderson fired a three-under par 69 over the first 18 holes to lead Giesselman by a single stroke. Ryan Brendan of Norfolk was just two shots back after a one-under par 71. The threesome were paired over the final nine holes and thus finished in the top three. Wayne's Brooks Blohm carded an opening round 74 and followed up with a 37 for a fourth place finish of 111. Preston Walford and Colin Mitchell tied for fifth place at 112 with Aaron Claussen (last year's champ) notching seventh with a 113. Brook Klinetobe was eighth at 114 and Zabodiel Flores was ninth at the same score. There was a four-way tie for 10th place with Bode Hill claiming the honor by way of scorecard playoff over Parker Grass, Blake Bauer and Wayne's Joey Baldwin. Tyson Bodlak was 14th at 116 with Nate Salmon and Brian Evans taking the last two spots at 117.

There were six flights of players in addition to the Championship flight with Doug Manz winning the first flight with a 76 while Dave Anderson and Shane Schuster carding 78's. Wayne's Rob Sweetland was fourth at 79. Roger Heck won flight two with a 75 with Brent Weitzel finishing second at 80. Weitzel, incidentally, carded an albatross on the par five, ninth hole with a two. Bryce Havlovic was third with an 82 and Tim Carlson's 84 was fourth.

The third flight was won by Brook Darnell with an 81 while Brad Penlerick finished second with an 85 followed by Travis Havlovic at 86 and Mike Lander, 87. The fourth flight was won by Wayne's Kevin Peterson with an 84 as he edged Kyle Webster of Pender by tie-breaker. Joel Ankeny of Wayne was third with an 88 and Wayne's Rusty Parker carded fourth at 90. Dave Beetley won flight five with an 85 followed by Tim Schrage at 86 and Casey Brentlinger, 87. Max McDonald placed fourth at 88. The final flight was won by Wayne's Jim Curtiss who lapped the field with an 83, eight strokes ahead of runner-up Tory Booth's 91. Craig Walling of Wayne was third with a 93, edging fellow Waynian Bill Sharpe at 94.

All-District

1/4 inches, set a new WSC and NSIC meet record throw of 208-5 in the hammer throw and completed the Triple Crown with a first place mark of 157-8 in the discus.

Dendinger was named NSIC Outdoor Field Athlete of the Week all six weeks during the regular season. She posted NCAA automatic qualifying marks in all three events and is competing this weekend at the NCAA Division II Outdoor Track and Field Championships in Bradenton, Fla.

During the indoor season, Dendinger was

All-NSIC in the shot put and weight throw and placed 10th at the NCAA Div. II Indoor Nationals in both events. This marks the first time that Dendinger has received CoSIDA Academic All-District honors.

Lahm, a junior from Columbus, carries a 3.91 GPA majoring in chemistry and health science at Wayne State College. He scored points in three events at the NSIC Indoor Championships in February, earning All-NSIC honors with a third place finish in the heptathlon (4,970 points) while also placing fourth in the long jump (23-6) and fifth in the triple jump (47-3 3/4).

During the outdoor season, Lahm collected a fifth place finish in the javelin (168-2) at the NSIC Outdoor Championships.

In 2015, Lahm was an Academic All-District 7 First Team and Academic All-America Third Team selection as a sophomore and sat out last year as a medical redshirt.

Dendinger and Lahm both received First Team honors and now advance to the Academic All-American ballot, with the announcement of the All-American Team set for June 22.

Dominates

Dendinger.

"I knew I could hit 16 meters right away, and getting my PR and a school record just relaxed me and I was really happy with my series of throws," she said.

Suckstorf said he wanted to see Dendinger set the pace right away and take advantage of the fact that it was the third event in three days and some of that energy might not be left for the finals.

"The game plan was for us to just go at it with those first three throws and leave a big mark and make it really tough for anybody to catch her in the finals," he said.

"She just came out blazing on Saturday," Brink added. "As soon as she hit that first throw, it changed the complexion for everybody. Sometimes when you get that good mark early, it changes everybody's strategy. It was probably the best series of throws she's ever had."

Dendinger felt she was capable of having the kind of weekend she finished with, but was still surprised to call herself a national champion.

"I knew it was in me and I knew I could throw it that far, but it still felt really good the way it came together," she said. "I didn't feel like I had a lot of pressure going down there, and I knew if I could do what I needed to do then the numbers would come so I didn't have to put too much pressure on myself."

That she put together the results she came home with was even more impressive considering that she was rehabilitating and recovering from a foot injury that forced her to redshirt a year ago.

"For her to come back from injury, you don't know at what level they'll come back," Brink said. "She did fairly well at indoor nationals and finished 10th in both events, and that may have motivated her to come back stronger in the outdoor season and helped her focus on what she could control, and that just made her that much better."

"I've told everybody I have talked to that I haven't met a more dedicated athlete than Michaela, and that says a lot because we've had a lot of great throwers come through the program here," Suck-storf said. "She wants to be the best at everything she does, so for her to come back the way she did shows what type of person she is."

And the scary thing - at least for the rest of the throwers in Div. II - is that she's got another year left. With the graduating seniors from this year's group of All-Americans leaving, Dendinger is setting her sights on a rare sweep of the throwing events next year.

"This year I wanted to get all three, but making All-American in them is really good and next year I'd like to go for the Triple Crown," she said. "I just need to trust my training and everything will come out like it's supposed to."

Suckstorf said the key will be for her to continue training as if she's still hunting for that first title.

"On paper she should be the favorite, but I remember Carly Fehring got second her junior year and was the favorite the next year because the winner was a senior and it didn't happen," he said. "You can't take it for granted. You just keep training like you're in second because you never know, but if she keeps working I feel confident she can come back next year and bring home multiple gold trophies."

"We're really excited," Brink added. "There are several seniors this year so she'll be the top returning thrower in the hammer and the shot and one of the top throwers in the discus, so I'm sure her goal will be to try to sweep all three. It's pretty rare - most are good in one or two, but not all three, but she's got the potential to do it."

Home baking food safety 101

Important information on baking at home and how to do so keeping safety in mind

Stanton County

Kim Bearnes

Extension Educator

UNL Extension

The many benefits of baking at home, in the community or in the classroom include and rely on the science and math of food safety—cleanliness, time, measurement, and temperatures.

Step One: Review Partnership for Food Safety Education's "Core Four" <http://www.fightbac.org/food-safety-basics/the-core-four-practices/>

Step Two: Apply following home baking food safety practices;

CLEAN: Replace kitchen cloths, towels daily; change baking mitts or hot pads after use and launder. Sanitize sponges daily.

Before baking, in this order:
• Tie back or cover long hair, remove jewelry;
• Wash hands with warm water and soap;

• Put on a clean apron...clothes carry dirt from where you've been;
• Wash counters; assemble ingredients/tools needed for recipe;
• Re-wash hands as needed before you measure, mix or portion.

After mixing, while products bake:

• Scrape batter/dough from mixing tools/bowls into trash;
• Wash counters, appliance surfaces, tools in warm soapy water;

• Wash hands before packaging cooled products;
• Transfer flour and meal from store bags into clean food-safe containers

• Do not re-use plastic bags raw meat has been stored in - store baked goods in clean, food-safe packaging.

SEPARATE: Follow storage and use rules for fresh eggs, egg substitutes and all perishable baking ingredients. <http://www.foodsafety.gov/keep/charts/eggstorage.html>

• Shell eggs in a separate small bowl to avoid a broken eggshell in the batter;

• Keep bowls and utensils used for eggs or mixing raw batter or dough separate from dry ingredients and dry measuring tools;

• Chop/dice nuts, fruits or veggies for baking on cutting board reserved for ready-to-eat foods;

• Place wire cooling racks on a clean counter away from where batter or dough are mixed.

BAKE/COOK: Food safety experts agree that foods are properly cooked or baked when they are heated for a long enough time and at a high enough temperature to kill harmful bacteria that cause food borne illness.
• Never consumer unbaked

(raw) ingredients, dough or batter. Salmonella and E. Coli are not a treat—skip tasting raw batter or dough or licking spoons, beaters or the mixing bowl.

• Check to be sure product is done at center;

• Brown crust color does not mean the product is done.

• Use a wooden pick to test product at center of pancakes, muffins, quick breads, and cakes for raw batter. Pick should come out with a few crumbs clinging to it, not wet batter.

• Oven-baked products: place food thermometer probe at center of product— wait until temperature maintains level on dial;

• Product browned but not done? Lightly lay foil over crust to prevent over browning, continue baking product until center reaches internal temperature desired.

• Egg wash glazes:

Prepare egg wash and apply just before placing product in heated oven; refrigerate egg wash if you will use within two hours, then discard.

CHILL: Keep refrigerator at 40 degrees F. or below with room for cool air to circulate.

• Refrigerate perishable ingredients, pies, cheese-filled breads or baked goods with perishable filling ingredients (eggs, custards, cheese, pizza, meats, casseroles, cream pies, puddings, creme puffs) - refrigerate within two hours of use, preparation or serving at room temperature;

• Refrigerate custard, cream or egg fillings, batters, and dough if not baked within 2 hours. Cookie, scone, biscuit, pie and yeasted dough may all be refrigerated or frozen for later use.

• Learn more, Dough Sculpting 101 Tips and Techniques <http://www.homebaking.org/PDF/doughsculpting101online.pdf>

• Cool products on clean wire cooling racks, not in pans or on counter tops;

• Yeast breads, unless filled with perishable ingredients, should be stored one to two days at room temperature or frozen, NOT refrigerated;

• More Storage-at-a-Glance information at <http://www.homebaking.org/Lab13a.pdf>

How can I keep from singing?

"How Can I Keep from Singing," one of my favorite hymns, was recently played by our bell choir, The Presbyterian Pealers, in worship. Some may know the hymn by the title "My Life Goes on in Endless Song."

The origin and date of composition are not clear; however, according to Dr. C. Michael Hawn, professor of sacred music at Perkins School of Theology, the hymn is generally attributed to Robert Lowry (1826-1899), a Baptist preacher, educator and composer of gospel songs. It is believed the hymn was composed and published in the late 19th century, perhaps around 1869. Like many great hymns whose words bridge the centuries, "How Can I Keep from Singing" speaks to the 21st century, it speaks words of assurance and offers a reminder that there is more to the world than what we see around us. Contemporary artists such as American Pete Seeger, Christian singer Chris Tomlin, as well as Irish singer Enya have recorded versions of the song which speak to its continued relevance in the 21st century.

The hymn reminds us that each us face storms in our lives, some pass quickly while others linger, for months or sometimes years. In each of our lives there are times when we think there could be no cause for singing, yet that is when the hymn's assurance of Christ's presence with us in the storm reminds us there is cause for singing. The text of the refrain reads; No storm can shake my inmost calm while to that Rock I'm clinging.

Since Christ is Lord of heaven and earth, how can I keep from singing? Sometimes it can be hard to keep singing, to give praise to God when the world around us seems in such turmoil. The news this morning gave accounts of a bombing in Manchester, England in which many, including numerous youth, were killed or injured. Our hearts break as we hear reports that one victim of the bombing was only eight years old. Tensions and violence in various areas of the Middle East, especially Syria continue to be a concern. In Nigeria, Somalia, South Sudan and Yemen a combination of war, violence, drought and poverty have millions of people facing famine.

Issues of poverty are no respecter of state or national boundaries and affect every state and nation in the world. Often it seems we move from storm to storm; the news no matter if it is regional, national or global often threatens to drain the life out of us. There are also the physical storms of recent weeks in which many Midwesterners have had to endure flooding, wind or tornado damage.

In our personal lives many deal with or know of loved ones or friends who are facing diseases such as cancer, diabetes, drug or alcohol addiction or mental health issues. It might seem in the face of all these storms, that we have no reason for confidence or to raise our voices in song. Indeed throughout our lives we sing a variety of songs including those of lament and mourning; however, the hymn writer reminds us that in the midst of the storm we must cling to the Rock, our Lord Jesus Christ.

The Apostle Paul knew about storms. He faced many in his life he writes in Romans 8:38-39; "I'm convinced that nothing can separate us from God's love in Christ Jesus our Lord: not death or life, not angels or rulers, not present things or future things, not powers or height or depth, or any other thing that is created." Paul's words align with the hymn writer that no matter the storms they cannot separate us from our Triune God as long as we trust in and cling to Christ.

The hymn "How Can I Keep from Singing" reminds us that throughout our lives, in the good and the bad, in the flow of life from day to day, the undercurrent in the life of a Christian is the assurance of the deep and abiding love of our Lord Jesus Christ. The final verse of "How Can I Keep from Singing" assures us of Christ's presence and love;

*The peace of Christ makes fresh my heart, a fountain ever springing!
All things are mine since I am his! How can I keep from singing?*

The hymn's sing-able melody and memorable words are wonderful reminders that even in the midst of the storms of life we are not alone, that Christ, Lord of heaven and earth, is with us through the power of the Holy Spirit and we have every reason to keep singing.

Nebraska youth get jump-start for college

A celebration held in April honored Nebraska youth who are getting a jump-start on preparing for college by earning early admittance to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. The students earned pre-admittance by enrolling in Nebraska 4-H, which administers Next Chapter at Nebraska, a college-readiness program that helps students prepare for and succeed in college by providing the skills students need to reach their academic goals.

The Next Chapter program is a collaborative effort between Nebraska 4-H and the Office of Admissions at the university. At the celebration, 58 students received a certificate honoring their enrollment in Next Chapter and pre-admission to Nebraska.

University Chancellor Ronnie Green, Admissions Director Amber Williams and Nebraska 4-H Program Administrator Kathleen Lodi were on hand to provide remarks.

"Even before high school, a student's story matters to us. Next Chapter students are members of the next generation that will shape our world for the better—we want to support them on the path to college," said Williams. "We are excited to partner with 4-H in serving students, and we are looking forward to welcoming these talented future Huskers to campus in 2021."

Throughout high school, Next Chapter scholars will engage in events, activities and curriculum where they will participate in career exploration, develop research skills and experience a variety of learning methods that will help them transition to and succeed in college. Topics covered include reading comprehension, note taking, college visits, and resume and interview skills. All of the activities align to Nebraska State Educational Standards.

In Nebraska, one in three age-eligible youth participates in 4-H, which is present in all 93 counties. These youth, ages 5-18, participate through camps, clubs, school enrichment and after-school programs. College and career readiness is a program priority for Nebraska 4-H.

"Nebraska 4-H strives to empower youth to reach their full potential, and we believe that's achieved through education. Through Next Chapter at Nebraska, not only do we want to inspire youth to choose to continue their education after high school, but also ensure that they succeed once they start college," said Lodi.

Marta Pulfer named 2017 U.S. presidential scholar

U.S. Secretary of Education Betsy DeVos has announced the selection of Marta Pulfer of Wayne as a 2017 U.S. Presidential Scholar.

Pulfer is one of 161 outstanding American high school seniors who have demonstrated outstanding academic achievement, artistic excellence, leadership, citizenship, service, and contribution to school and community. The U.S. Presidential Scholars will be honored for their accomplishments in Washington D.C., from June 18-20.

"I congratulate this year's class of Presidential Scholars for their devotion to academic excellence and their parents and teachers who have guided them along the way," said U.S. Secretary of Education Betsy DeVos. "Today's Presidential Scholars are tomorrow's leaders, and I am confident they will continue to be shining examples as they enter the next phase of their academic careers."

The White House Commission on Presidential Scholars selects honored scholars annually based on their academic success, artistic excellence, essays, school evaluations and transcripts, as well as evidence of community service, leadership, and demonstrated commitment to high ideals. Of the 3.5 million students expected to graduate from high school this year, more than 5,100 candidates qualified for the 2017 awards determined by outstanding performance on the College Board SAT and ACT exams, and through nominations made by Chief State School Officers, other partner recognition organizations or the National YoungArts Foundation's nationwide YoungArts™ competition.

The 2017 U.S. Presidential Scholars are comprised of one young man and one young woman from each state, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, and from U.S. families living abroad, as well as 15 chosen at-large, 20 U.S. Presidential Scholars in the Arts, and 20 U.S. Presidential Scholars in Career and Technical Education.

Created in 1964, the U.S. Presidential Scholars Program has honored more than 7,000 of the nation's top-performing students with the prestigious award given to honorees during the annual ceremony in D.C. The program was expanded in 1979 to recognize students who demonstrate exceptional talent in the visual, literary and performing arts. In 2015, the program was again extended to recognize students who demonstrate ability and accomplishment in career and technical education fields.

Since 1983, each U.S. Presidential Scholar has been offered the opportunity to name his or her most influential teacher. Each distinguished teacher is honored with a personal letter from the Secretary of Education.

The teacher chosen for recognition by Pulfer was Stephanie Reynolds, a math teacher at Wayne High School.

NRCS extends sign up for soil and water conservation funding in Lower Elkhorn

The USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) entered into an agreement with the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District to help farmers improve irrigation water management, reduce soil erosion and install conservation practices through the Lower Elkhorn Water and Soil Conservation Initiative. This Initiative is available through the USDA's Regional Conservation Partnership Program (RCPP).

Producers in the northeast Nebraska 15-county Initiative area (see map) originally had until mid-October to apply, but the sign up has been extended to June 16, 2017. Producers should visit one of the NRCS offices located in the Initiative area to apply.

Robin Sutherland, District Conservationist in the Stanton NRCS field office said, "This Initiative is a great opportunity for farmers and ranchers to receive financial and technical assistance to make their operations more productive and sustainable."

Through the Initiative, NRCS and the Lower Elkhorn NRD work together to provide financial and technical assistance to help farmers apply soil and water conservation practices like flow meters, irrigation water management, nutrient management, as well as adopt soil health practices like no-till and cover crops on eligible cropland.

For more information about the RCPP and other conservation programs available from NRCS, visit your local USDA Service center or www.ne.nrcs.usda.gov.

Excessive rainfall affects residual herbicides

The following is an article found in CropWatch, the University of Nebraska's on line source for agriculture. It was written by Weed Scientist Amit Jhala. For the entire article and references to water solubility tables go to cropwatch.unl.edu.

Soil-applied, pre-emergence herbicides applied at the beginning of the growing season require rainfall or irrigation for activation. This water turns the herbicide into a solution that can be taken up by weeds. About 0.5 to 1.0 inch of rain/irrigation is needed to activate most soil-applied herbicides. Too much rain, however, will cause the herbicide to become diluted and leach or wash away.

Heavy precipitation has created areas of standing water in corn and soybean fields. Pre-emergence, residual herbicides had been applied in some of these corn and soybean fields. Given the current conditions it is important to understand the effect of excessive rainfall on the efficacy of residual herbicides. This effect is complex and influenced by the soil and the chemical properties of the herbicide applied.

Major soil characteristics such as soil texture, organic matter content, and soil pH can affect residual herbicide efficacy. Sandy soil is coarse in texture and can be classified into sand, loamy sand, or sandy loam soil. Soils with a moderate amount of each size of soil particle are considered medium in texture and are classified as a loam or silt loam. Soils with a large percentage of clay particles are considered fine in texture and are called silty clay loam, clay loam, or clay.

Soil particles are negatively charged and attract positively charged herbicides. The attraction of a positively charged herbicide to the negative charge of the soil particles slows leaching. A few herbiicides have a negative charge and do not bind to the soil, making them more subject to leaching, especially if they are highly soluble in water. Residual herbicides must be applied based on organic matter content of the soil and soil type (texture). The herbicide label has information about residual herbicide rates for different levels of organic matter in each soil type.

Soil pH also affects the efficacy of some herbicides by influencing the degree of attraction to soil particles. Low pH (below 6.0) or high pH (above 7.0) soils may affect the availability of certain herbicides by changing the positive charge of the molecule. If the herbicide is more tightly bound to the soil, weed control may be reduced and/or herbicide carryover may be increased. If an herbicide is less tightly bound to the soil and more available, crop injury may increase. Herbicides leach more quickly through coarse-textured (such as sandy) soils that are low in organic matter and will leach more slowly through fine textured (clay) soils and soils with high organic matter.

Major chemical properties of herbicides that affect their persistence in the soil include water solubility, soil adsorption, and microbial degradation.

The solubility of herbicide in water helps determine its leaching potential. Leaching occurs when herbicide is dissolved in water and moves down through the soil profile. Herbicides that readily leach due to heavy rainfall may be carried away from weed germination zones, reducing their efficacy.

Soil adsorption (Koc) is the ability of herbicide molecules to bind to soil particle surfaces. The higher the Koc value, the greater the adsorption of herbicide to soil colloids.

Other factors also affect herbicide leaching. These include herbicide-soil binding properties, soil physical characteristics, rainfall frequency and intensity, and herbicide concentration. In general, herbicides that are less soluble in water and strongly attracted to soil particles (adsorption) are less likely to leach. For example, simazine (Princep), pendimethalin (Prowl H2O), and trifluralin (Treflan) are less likely to be leached by rainfall compared with some other herbicides.

Herbicides leach more quickly as solubility in water increases and adsorption decreases. For example, dicamba (Banvel, XtendiMax), metribuzin (Sencor/Tricor), and clopyralid (Stinger) are more likely to leach during extended periods of heavy rainfall due to their high water solubility and reduced adsorption. A reduced period of weed control is more apparent when lower rates are used and when the soil is coarse (sandy) in texture and organic matter is low.

Several residual herbicides applied pre-emergence in corn and soybean are pre-mixes of herbicides.

For example, Acuron is a premix of four herbicide active ingredients, including atrazine, bicyclopyrone, mesotrione, and S-metolachlor. To consider the leaching potential of this herbicide mixture, consider the leaching potential of each of its component herbicides. The advantage here is some active ingredients in the premix will have more water solubility than others. For example, atrazine has low water solubility (33 ppm); Dual II Magnum has medium water solubility (488 ppm), and Callisto has high water solubility (2200 ppm).

Bottom line, the efficacy of herbicides will be affected to some degree by extended periods of excessive rainfall. If irrigation is available in the field for herbicide activation, choose herbicides that have low water solubility and high soil adsorption, when you have a choice.

Tank-mix two herbicides with different solubility and adsorption characteristics, such as atrazine and Callisto or consider using premix herbicides such as Acuron (Aatrex + bicyclopyrone + Dual II Magnum + Callisto) or Resicore (Stinger + Surpass NXT + Callisto). This will also provide multiple effective modes of action for effective management of herbicide-resistant weeds.

Split the herbicide treatment into two applications when the label allows.

Scout the field two to three weeks after applying the pre-emergence herbicide(s) to determine weed pressure. This will help you think about additional weed control options.

Remember that the period of weed control will be reduced in soil that is coarse (sandy) in texture and has low organic matter.

Be prepared to apply a post-emergence herbicide when weeds are less than four inches tall.

Saying goodbye

Finally, some beautiful weather! After all the rain, the sun is most welcome. The news tonight showed kids in a pool; I think it was a bit too cool for that, but kids are tough.

This was the last weekend for our head pastor. His sermon encapsulated thanks; to Jesus, whose Ascension we observed on Thursday, to those veterans who served and those on active duty who are still serving, and to those of us in the congregation. That's a lot of appreciation to express in fifteen minutes, but he did it.

A teacher sitting next to me at Saturday evening's service commented that he is only the second pastor she has ever had! The church she grew up in had the same one from the time she was an infant to the time she went away to college. Pastor B, as we call him, has been here ten years, and he is the reason she joined this church.

I told her she is spoiled! At my age, I've had to go through the grief process when ministers left many times. And it is a grief response, almost text book from the Elizabeth Kubler Ross.

First the denial; surely he doesn't mean it when he says he is leaving. Surely we can do something to encourage him to stay (bargaining). Anger, because we think some members actually wanted him to resign. Depression, because we know how long it takes to find a new one; and especially because building a new sanctuary is on the agenda, and finally, acceptance, because we know life will go on.

Again, my mantra, "this, too, shall pass." And we wish him the best.

Justin Eriksen, District Sales Manager with Fontanelle Hybrids/Monsanto, presented Lucas Longe with a $1,000 scholarship recently.

Lucas Longe awarded scholarship through Fontanelle Hybrids

Lucas Longe, a 2017 graduate of Wayne High School, has been awarded a Western Knowledge Exceptional Communities scholarship to continue his education.

The scholarship selection was based on an essay contest in which 15 winners from around the state received a $1,000 award for their winning essays. Fontanelle Hybrids' contribution through the contest totals $15,000 worth of educational support statewide.

The contest was open to high school seniors in specific Nebraska counties who were active members in either the National FFA Organization, a 4-H Club, or other agricultural organization.

The students had to write and submit, via the Fontanelle Hybrids website, a 250-word essay on the topic "What new technology will be the biggest benefit to production agriculture in your community?"

LEAD Fellowship apps due

Fellowship applications for Nebraska LEAD (Leadership Education/Action Development) Group 32 are now available for men and women involved in production agriculture or agribusiness.

"Up to 30 motivated men and women with demonstrated leadership potential will be selected from five geographic districts across our state," said Terry Hejny, Nebraska LEAD Program director.

In addition to monthly three-day seminars throughout Nebraska from mid-September through early April each year, Nebraska LEAD Fellows also participate in a 10-day National Study/Travel Seminar and a two week International Study/Travel Seminar.

Seminar themes include leadership assessment and potential, natural resources and energy, agricultural policy, our political process, social issues, understanding and developing leadership skills, agribusiness and marketing and the resources and people of Nebraska's Panhandle, among others, Hejny said.

Applications are due no later than June 15 and are available via e-mail from the Nebraska LEAD Program. Please contact Shana at sgerdes2@unl.edu. You can also request an application by writing Room 318 Biochemistry Hall, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, 68583-0763 or by calling (402) 472-6810. You can visit www.lead.unl.edu for information about the selection process.

(Photos by Clara Osten and Calyn Dunklau)
Area communities hosted Memorial Day services on Monday to honor military members who died protecting the freedoms we often take for granted here. Numerous veterans and active duty military members as well as community members attended one or more of these memorial services in the sunshine. Cemeteries were awash in color thanks to innumerable flower arrangements. The brisk snapping and cracking of hundreds of flags in the wind underlined what Memorial Day is all about: those who gave their all to defend us.
