PMC invites public to coffee, new program signing

Providence Medical Center (PMC), in partnership with the U. S. Department of Labor (DOL) and the American Health Information Management Association (AHIMA), is hosting a morning coffee on Wednesday, July 12 at 10 a.m. in the ambulance garage, on the south side of the hospital, located at 1200 Providence Road in Wayne.

The event, which is free and open to the public, will feature a presentation about Providence Medical Center's successful Registered Apprenticeship USA program and an official signing ceremony. The state and regional directors from the Department of Labor will both be on hand at PMC for the signing as will a representative from AHIMA.

Kathy Jasa, Director of Patient Financial Services (including medical records) at PMC, received information from AHIMA in an email that led to the hospital pursuing the grant funds available in the apprenticeship program.

"AHIMA emailed me saying that in conjunction with the Department of Labor, there were grant funds available," Jasa said of the program. "There were four categories outlined. We chose to take advantage of two -- clinical coding and clinical documentation improvement."

Apprenticeship is an "earn and learn" training model that combines work-based learning with related classroom instruction using the highest industry standards. Companies such as PMC that offer apprenticeship programs may diversify their workforce, improve productivity and profitability, standardize training, reduce turnover, receive tax credits and more.

"We are extremely proud to be the first hospital in Nebraska to be a Registered Apprenticeship site," stated Jim Frank, CEO at Providence Medical Center. "Several of our employees are planning to take advantage of the AHIMA funding opportunities offered through the program and we see apprenticing as a benefit to our organization going forward."

In fact, one employee at Providence Medical Center has already signed up with the program and two more plan to take advantage of it later in the year.

While the Department of Labor has had an apprenticeship program in the works for a number of years, this is the first year that it has been opened up to the health care industry.

"They're really starting to diversify," Jasa said of the department's offering. "We can only see that expanding."

The U. S. currently has approximately 375,000 apprentices working with more than 150,000 employers. President Trump said recently that the nation needs a stronger system of apprenticeship to match workers with millions of open jobs. The most recent budget for the federal government passed with about $90 million for apprenticeships.

A report by former President Obama's Commerce Department found that "apprenticeships are not fully understood in the United States, especially "by employers, who tend to use apprentices for a few, hard-to-fill positions" but not as widely as they could. The shortages for specifically trained workers cut across multiple job sectors including agriculture, manufacturing, information technology and health care.

Boone County Hospital in Albion is the other participant in the apprenticeship program, though it signed up after Providence Medical Center did.

"It's a beautiful thing really -- we get the education we need through this grant, which is good for the hospital and ultimately the patient because it improves the integrity of the patient's health record," said Jasa, who will be taking advantage of the program herself later this year.

Fifty years and counting for local band

Local band Sons of Satan has played on and off for 50 years with and without its original five members, shown here at the first of many times on stage in Wayne. From left, Duane Shell, Bill Blecke, Carl Matson, John Brandstetter and Steve Schram.

By Calyn Dunklau calyn@wayneherald.com

In 1967, five graduates from Wayne High School decided they needed to start a band.

There were a few rules, such as coming up with a catchy name, promoting their brand, marketing their shows in local papers and finding a touring vehicle big enough for the band and equipment to name a few.

Rule #1 was checked off when the members settled on Sons of Satan (SOS). The majority of the original band attended Wayne, where the mascot is the Blue Devil. They tossed many names around but Sons of Satan stuck.

The band made posters and business cards that promoted their brand and advertised their many shows in newspapers across the state as well as outside of Nebraska.

The purchase of a 1962 Ford Econoline van meant plenty of room for all the amps, guitars, microphones, drum set pieces and the band members themselves.

The band began playing terrace shows at area homes and eventually conquered the

Sherman Street Parade

(Photo by Calyn Dunklau) A gang of patriotic bicyclists pedaled down Sherman Street as part of the Sherman Street 4th of July Parade on Tuesday. Tractors, old-time cars, fire trucks and even a calf participated in the parade this year. This is the eighth year the parade has taken place. What started with only a handful of people has grown leaps and bounds. Over 150 root beer floats were distributed after the parade courtesy of Don and Terri Hypse and Bill Melena.

But come Saturday night, the original band will dust off their equipment to play at the All Class reunion. It's 50 years for the WHS graduates who started SOS, so the night is a special one for them.

"As we began preparing for this summer's dance we realized that it was 50 years ago the band played it's first dance," said Steve Schram. "Duane and I contacted Carl, Bill and John to see if they would join the current band members to help celebrate our 50th anniversary. They were all excited about playing a few songs and so that is how this all happened." It hasn't been easy to prepare for the night, as two of the five band members live on opposite coasts. When they arrive in Wayne later this week, they'll meet up with the rest of the band to practice before playing on Saturday night.

Because of their musical abilities and their effect on the area the band was honored by the play on Saturday. "During the past 12 months the band has been working with the Wayne Community Schools Foundation on the first inaugural allclass reunion. As a part of those activities the Sons of Satan will be playing on Saturday night, July 9 starting at 8:00 at the Wayne City Auditorium for the all-class reunion," Schram said. "We hope to see many WHS alumni and look forward to being back in our hometown.'

Seniors hang on to give Wayne sweep of RBL tourney titles

WAKEFIELD - With two runners in and the tying run on third, the Wayne American Legion Seniors' hopes of ending a long drought in the Ralph Bishop League tournament was hanging by a very thin thread.

Fortunately, The Wayne team's hopes for joining their Juniors counterparts as league tournament champions was able to survive. Tyler Lutt scooped up Austin Streeter's rolling ground ball to second base and made the throw to Josh Dean to seal Wayne's 7-6 win over West Point to claim the 52nd annual tournament championship Saturday night at Eaton Field

"I was nervous there, no doubt," a relieved coach Robbie Gamble said after the final out was recorded and the celebration started on the field with players and families. "I don't think there's a big enough lead against these guys because they're a good team. It was a great win and fun to be a part of."

As the Juniors did earlier in evening, Wayne got on the board early and built a lead against the South Division cham-

West Point bounced back in the bottom of the third with three runs, two coming after an unfortunate throw by Tucker Nichols to try and nail a runner at third base ended up hitting the runner in the back and caroming well left of third base, allowing two runners to score. They would tie the game in the fifth to make it a 4-4 game.

Wayne responded in the top of the sixth, however. Korth tripled to lead off the inning and Adam Bentjen reached on an infield single to put runners on the corners. An error by West Point's first baseman brought Korth home to break the tie, and Wayne would add two more later in the inning when Lutt scored on an error and Dean singled home Nichols with what proved to be the winning run.

"Our hitting the last couple of days has really come around," Gamble said of his team's late-inning heroics. "We were struggling at the plate in the middle of the season but are really starting to hit our stride at the right time at the plate."

West Point would not go quietly, however - two walks and a single loaded the bases and a sacrifice fly made it a 7-5 game, and they would add another run when a wild pitch brought home a second run and moved the tying run 90 feet away at third. Gamble, pitching in relief of Bentjen, got Streeter to swat a 2-2 pitch to the right side of the infield where Lutt made the play to finish of

Wayne State College track and field signs Lyons native

Wayne State College head track and field coach Marlon Brink announced that Cole Christoffersen from Lyons has signed a national letter of intent to attend Wayne State College and compete in track and field for the Wildcats. Christoffersen is a graduate of Lyons-Decatur Northeast High School, where he was a three-year starter in football and basketball, a two-year starter in track and field and one in golf while also being a two-year state champion in powerlifting and one year as state runner-up.

In his two years of track, Christoffersen was a state qualifier in the shot put both years and qualified for the discus at Class C State as a senior. This season, he placed ninth in the Class C State shot put (49-2) and was 18th in the discus (124-9). His personal-best mark in the shot put was 54-4.

In football, Christoffersen was an All-District first-team selection at offensive line while receiving honorable mention All-State honors from the Omaha World-Herald and Lincoln Journal Star.

"We believe Cole is a "diamond in the rough" having only competed in track for two seasons at the high school level", remarked Brink. "Cole had former WSC thrower Matt Peter as his coach this past year at BRLD and he is just starting to really take off with his technique. And he has the ideal body frame (6-4, 250) for a thrower. His success as a power lifter also shows he will work hard in the weight room."

He will join seven others as members of the 2017-18 Wildcat men's recruiting class.

ers bracket, 4:30 p.m. Winners bracket, 7 p.m.

Monday's Schedule -- Championship game, 5 p.m. If a second game is needed, it will start 30 minutes after completion of the first game.

Jacob Kneifl threw four perfect innings as Wayne's pitchers combined on a no-hitter in an 8-0 win over Battle Creek to open Ralph Bishop League tournament play.

Wayne Juniors jump on West Point early, win Ralph Bishop League title

WAKEFIELD - Jumping out to an early lead against West Point was what Wayne American Legion Juniors coach Jake Lutt was hoping for, and his team delivered.

The Wayne Juniors put up three-run innings in the first and third frames and rode the pitching of Josh Lutt and Jacob Kneifl to a 7-3 win over West Point to claim the Juniors division of the 52nd annual Ralph Bishop League tournament Saturday at Eaton

RBI's by Lutt and Reid Korth and an error that scored Kneifl got Wayne on the board in the opening inning, and the Juniors coach said that it was important to establish that

"That was very important," he said of the early 6-0 advantage. "We gave up a 3-spot to them in the bottom of the third after we scored those three in the top of the inning, so that was big that we were able to get that

After their three-run opening inning, Wayne doubled their advantage with Lutt's two-run double and an RBI groundout by Tyler Gilliland, giving the North Division champions a six-run advantage against their South Division counterparts.

West Point would cut the deficit in half in the bottom of the third and had their chances later in the game. They left the bases loaded in the fourth and had runners in scoring position in the fifth and sixth innings before Wayne was able to get out of those innings unscathed. They added a final run in the seventh when Gunnar Jorgensen reached on a dropped third strike and later scored on a Blake Bartos single.

Josh Lutt threw 4 1/3 innings to get the win and Kneifl tossed 2 2/3 innings of relief, get-

"Josh did a great job getting ahead in the count on batters early and pitched well, and Jake got us out of that jam in the fifth and pitched well against the top of their order in the sixth and was good to go after that."

Lutt and Trevor DeBoer each had two hits and Lutt had three RBI's in Wayne's sevenhit effort in the championship game.

Wayne opened the tournament in Pierce with an 8-0 win over Battle Creek, doing all of their damage in the fourth inning and riding the combined no-hitter of three pitchers to advance to the division final.

Wayne had five hits and five walks to break a scoreless tie in the fourth inning. Korth started the scoring with an RBI double and later scored on a Bartos single. That was followed by two bases-loaded walks and a groundout by Kneifl to make it 5-0. Another bases-loaded walk, a sacrifice fly by Korth and a single by Lutt accounted for the final runs of the big inning. That was more than enough for Wayne's pitching trio of Kneifl, Drew Buck and Gilliland. Kneifl worked a perfect four innings, striking out four, before Buck and Gilliland finished off Battle Creek in the fifth.

In the North Division final on Friday, Wayne won an exciting pitchers' duel with Pender. Both teams allowed just two hits, but Wayne made theirs count in a 2-0 win to send them to the championship game.

Wayne scored in the third inning when two walks and a Jorgensen single loaded the bases. Korth drew a bases-loaded walk to break the ice and give Wayne the 1-0 advantage.

In the sixth, Gilliland and Tyrus Eischeid were both hit by pitches and Hagan Miller drew a walk to load the bases. A passed ball allowed Gilliland to score the key insurance run, and Trevor DeBoer finished off Pender in the seventh to complete a two-hit, fourstrikeout pitching performance.

The tournament wins move Wayne to 14-11 on the season heading into the Class B, Area 5 tournament that starts Friday in O'Neill. Lutt said Wayne will likely be the fourth seed in the four-team, double-elimination tournament, and getting a win over a West Point team they'll likely see again at the area tournament was huge.

"It's looking like we'll see West Point in the first round again, so this is good to have some momentum going into that matchup against them." he said. "We didn't have a good first outing against them and gave up a bunch of unearned runs, but we pitched well today and fielded well and got the bats going and found some gaps and beat a really good team today. so hopefully we can carry that over."

The costly price of freedom

This week we observed a holiday that for many means a day off of work, a family BBQ and a few dollars worth of fireworks to light off. There's nothing wrong with that picture, it's just an incomplete one.

You see, I'm a lucky girl.

I have numerous family members and friends who decided to put their own lives on hold to ensure the continuance of freedom for every person in this nation. Every single one of them.

Not just the ones who agree with their opinions, practice the same religion or play on the same slow-pitch softball league as them. Not just the folks who do or don't support the most recent hot-button issue gripping the nation. Not just the individuals who agree or disagree with the newest bit of legislation being passed in our government. Not just the people who did or didn't vote for the president.

They fought in Vietnam, Desert Storm, Afghanistan and Iraq for you and I and Sally Smith and Joe Jones and every other person in this na-

Their dedication to this nation is nearly unfathomable, except maybe to one another. Their loyalty, their unwavering patriotism is what keeps the cogs on the wheel greased and turning. It's what allows this nation to keep moving forward, regardless of the mess ahead.

Men and women line up every day to get a semi-warm meal at bases all over globe. They get dressed every morning, or night, or any hour in between, lace up their boots, don their helmets and sling rifles over their backs and walk out the door of their barracks without knowing if they'll return that night.

These are the very men and women who spent their night on a cot or deep in the bowels of a ship or submarine, if they were lucky, or outside on the ground -- whether that's a desert or jungle. These are men and women who have mothers and fathers, wives and husbands, children, siblings, grandparents, cousins, aunts, uncles, friends, church members and coworkers, who hope and pray daily for their safety.

They have lives here. Jobs. Homes. Hobbies.

These are the individuals who decided their lives would be the price paid to ensure the safety of this nation and all it offers to its citizens.

How many of us can say we feel so deeply about a cause? How many of us can say we'd be willing to make our way to the front line to stand side by side with men and women who are willing to make the ultimate sacrifice if that means we will continue to be free?

I know veterans whose lives are forever changed because of their decision to protect this nation and what it stands for. A cousin of mine won't ever be able to play a semi-contact sport for fun again thanks to scar tissue on his brain after a .50 caliber bullet exploded upon impacting the humvee turret shield behind his head. I lost an uncle to an aggressive form of lung cancer that was caused by his exposure to Agent Orange while serving in Vietnam. It was a slow, painful death and little to no comfort found by him during that time. I had two teachers get deployed with the National Guard while I was n school. I know several friends and family members who had parents get deployed, leaving the other to manage a household, finances, school-ng and social lives that once were handled by two people. Our lives have been as cushy and sweet as it they have been thanks to those people and many, many more like them. I'm not saying we've all had walks through rose garden lives, nor am saying that there weren't/aren't soldiers who abuse their status or the

I'm simply saying that by and large, life could be much, much worse f not for men and women, recently and throughout the ages, hadn't stepped up to keep us safe.

I'm saying that more often than not, when you see a person in uniform walking through the mall or a veteran wearing a cap that says "VIETNAM" on it, they serve and served with a great amount of respect for the uniform they wore and what it represented.

Thank them.

why you can do those things.

Got

few perks that may come with uniform.

They deserve it. No matter what capacity they served in, they served.

And that is deserving of a thank you. Heading out on the boat, camping over the weekend, cracking a cold one and enjoying some sunshine is all fine and dandy. But let's not forget

State Patrol probe needs a law enforcement expert and seasoned focus

Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association

The death of a convicted felon in a high-speed chase with a Nebraska State Patrol Trooper has triggered what Governor Pete Ricketts calls an agency-wide review of the patrol. The review will be led by the Governor's Chief Human Resources Officer Jason Jackson.

In a news release, Ricketts said the review will seek to examine the totality of the workforce climate and make recommendations for continuous improvement. That sounds a lot like efforts to determine the climate of the Nebraska Department of Corrections - and we all know how well that has been working out. That department remains plagued by a shortage of staff and violent incidents, ranging from assaults by prisoners against staff to inmate deaths at the hands of other inmates.

State Patrol Col. Brad Rice said the Patrol has a "proud 80-year tradition of serving the state, and throughout those 80 years we've always been looking for ways to better serve." He called the Governor's initiative "another important step to uphold that tradition, and to ensure that we achieve our goal of protecting public safety."

There's that public safety hand again. What about the public safety of Antoine LaDeaux who died in a violent crash last October when he ran a stop sign and tried to outrun a trooper north of Gordon. His car crashed into a ditch and ejected him after a trooper executed a "tactical vehicle intervention" which involves spinning the fleeing vehicle by bumping the rear bumper or fender with the pursuing cruiser.

A Sheridan County grand jury investigated the incident and determined there was no wrongdoing on the part of the Patrol. The TVI procedure is seldom used and only in cases where it can be safely executed. The trooper involved had the necessary approval from his superiors to use the procedure and the event was well documented with a dash cam and transcripts of radio transmissions.

N.PAULFELLCARTOONS.COM

Things got hinky when the trooper's superiors changed the narrative and said the accident wasn't caused by the trooper's actions, but by the driver of the fleeing vehicle who turned his car into the cruiser. Why change the story that was otherwise well docu-

Sounds like a classic case of CYA. If you aren't familiar with that term, it's likely that you have never met a politician, ever worked a job where you made a mistake that you wanted to hide, or quite frankly, watched television or a

The trooper involved said three times that he used the TVI method to end the chase. But, hours later. State Patrol officials in the Panhandle said LaDeaux instigated the collision with his swerving. Dash cam video shows the trooper's cruiser veering into LeDeaux's car. Despite the conflicting testimony, the Sheridan County grand jury concluded that LaDeaux's actions caused his death. Speculation swirls inside the patrol. Was a false narrative used to avoid additional scrutiny of the procedure? Use of such force requires extra paperwork and extra paperwork could play into the hands of an attorney seeking to sue the state agency at the family's request. Were the higher ups trying to avoid such consequences?

Ricketts said Jackson will launch his agency review immediately and complete it quickly.

Well that's one approach. I don't think it's the best approach, but I do agree that something needs to be done.

A good friend who retired from the Patrol said things usually don't go well when people without a law enforcement background are sent to a law enforcement agency for a quick review and policy decisions are then made based on the limited information.

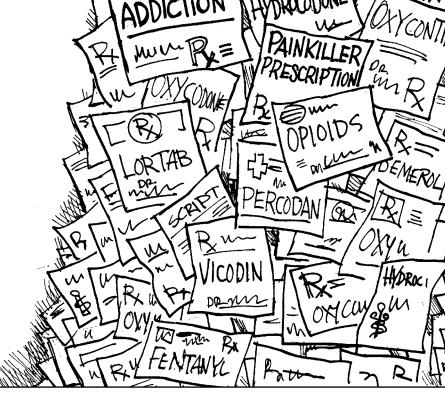

But then, he added, "politics is sometimes more about the noise than the result.

Solar eclipse education offered

Did you know? Nebraska's wide open spaces will be one of the best places to view this year's total solar eclipse on Aug. 21. It has even caught the attention of scientists working with NASA. communities and nearly 40 percent of the state lie within the path of the total solar eclipse event. Educators across the state are going to have the opportunity to learn what exactly and eclipse is and how this will impact animals and plants through hands-on ac-

Nebraska Extension and Raising Nebraska are partnering with the Hastings Museum to offer solar eclipse training for teachers and youth professionals in advance of the total solar eclipse on Aug. 21. The training will provide participants with eclipse resources and lesson plans they can use in their classroom, after-school setting or organization

You might be asking yourself what exactly is a solar eclipse? A solar eclipse is when part or all of the sun is covered by the moon. On average, there are two to three solar eclipses during the year. There are three main types of solar eclipses:

Partial: only covers part of the sun; Annular: due to the distance and the moon's place in orbit, the moon will only partially cover the sun;

And Total-which will be taking place on Aug. 21: Due to the distance and the moon's place in the orbit, the moon will almost cover the sun.

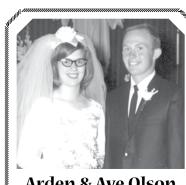

The total solar eclipse is a remarkable phenomenon that not many have the opportunity to witness. Nebraska's wide open spaces will be one of the best places to view the eclipse. Through the educational program that has been created, resources will help youth professionals capitalize on this exciting teaching opportunity

Educational trainings will teach participants exactly what the eclipse is and how they can take lessons from concept to application.

The curriculum will also be applicable beyond the Aug. 21 event, covering topics such as nocturnal animals, how sundials work and why sunlight is critical for plants.

A final training is being offered via Zoom video conference on Thursday, July 27. It is free of charge. To register, visit go.unl.edu/solareclipse. Space is limited.

Romans 8:38-39 "For I am convinced that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor rulers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor powers, nor height, nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord."

Once upon a time there was a young farm boy named Billy who received a very treasured BB gun for his birthday one year. Every time he went to the yard he armed himself to defend and protect his family and home from marauders and villains. One day he was sneaking around the barn, saw something out of the corner of his eye and quickly shot – and to his horror he saw that he had killed his little brother's pet duck. This duck was much beloved – it was his constant companion-following him around the yard whenever he was Billy was horrified! He quickly decided to hide his terrible mistake so he dug a hole and covered it up again with dirt and hay.

That night at dinner his little brother wondered where his little duck companion went. He asked everyone, "have you seen my duck?" Everyone responded no and all Billy could do was to stare at his food. He felt awful.

The next day Billy and his older brother were out chopping wood. The older brother said that he saw what happened and that if Billy didn't do all of his chores he'd tell their mom and day. Billy was miserable! So for a few days he worked his chores and his brothers. He was tired and he was angry and he was scared.

It was about a week later when the older brother came to Billy and wondered why his chores weren't finished. Billy said he wasn't going to do them anymore. The older brother said "Ok then, I'll just tell mom and dad what you did to the duck! And he started walking towards the house. Billy proudly answered back, "I already told them about the duck and they told me that although I can't use my BB gun for a month that I am forgiven." Billy had been freed from the burden and slavery of guilt and fear, freed by forgiveness. By confessing his sin he was restored to a right relationship with his father and mother. He didn't have to hang his head in shame any longer, he didn't need to walk in fear that someone would find out. He didn't have to worry that someone would tell on him.

Doesn't that story resonate with us Christians? Because of the cross and tomb and resurrection of Jesus our Father in heaven has already declared us forgiven! In the waters of Baptism God has washed away the stain of our sin and the accuser has nothing with which to charge us any longer! We can go to Christ and confess our sins without fear knowing that there is nothing we can ever do that is beyond the saving blood of Jesus. If that's not something to celebrate I don't know what is! May you have a Blessed and Happy Independence Day everyone! We are free indeed!

Wayne State student competes at SkillsUSA National Leadership and Skills Conference

Ryan Essink, a student at Wayne State College was congratulated by Mike Rowe, executive producer and television host, at the national SkillsUSA competition held in Louisville, Essink competed in the cabinetmaking contest last week. The SkillsUSA Travel Scholarship, sponsored by the mikeroweWORKS Foundation, the Charles Koch Foundation, and Koch Industries, Inc., provided travel accommodations to the 2017 National Leadership and Skills Conference. "The skills gap is not only real, it's a reflection of what we value," said Mike Rowe, CEO of mikerowe-WORKS Foundation. "To close the gap, we need to change the way the country feels about work. My foundation supports SkillsUSA because it celebrates the kind of skills that are actually in demand. Through excellence and competition, SkillsUSA encourages real-world training, and in the process, lays the foundation for thousands of careers in skilled trades. SkillsUSA works." Travel scholarships were awarded to SkillsUSA members who placed first in their state's SkillsUSA Championships who needed financial assistance to cover their travel expenses to the conference. "By helping the SkillsUSA Travel Scholarship recipients overcome barriers to success, we hope these competitors can recognize the dignity of hard work and find fulfillment within the impressive work they do," said Brennan Brown, director of educa-

About the mikeroweWORKS Foun-

The mikeroweWORKS Foundation is a 501(c)(3) public charity that works hard to debunk myths about skills gap. As CEO of the Foundation, Mike Rowe speaks regularly about the country's dysfunctional relationship with work and challenges the persistent belief that a four-year degree is automatically the best path for the most people. Through its scholarship programs, including the Work Ethic Scholarship Program and the SkillsUSA Travel Scholarships, the Foundation provides financial assistance to people getting trained for skilled jobs that are in demand. The Foundation has granted, or facilitated the granting of, nearly $5 million in education for trade schools across the country. For more information, go to: http://www.mikeroweworks.org. Thoughts on irrigating corn in the vegetative stage

This information also appears in cropwatch.unl.edu. So far June 2017, much like June 2016, has brought high temperatures and limited rains to much of Nebraska, causing some farmers to question whether they should start irrigating corn during the vegetative growth stage.

A few growers started up their center pivots earlier to incorporate herbicides or soften a soil crust to aid emergence and early root growth.

Others, with furrow-irrigated fields, may have made an early application, often before the crop actually needs much water, to wet the furrow and help ensure water will run the furrow length when full irrigation is needed. Stressed corn in northeast Nebraska is also showing up, especially in our poorer, sandier soil pockets.

Aside from these shorter term uses, how much irrigation is needed on corn in the vegetative growth stage?

Stage Irrigation Growth Scheduling for corn should focus on delaying irrigation and reducing nitrate leaching during the less sensitive vegetative growth period and fully watering during the critical reproductive growth

This strategy, called Water Miser, is based on research conbraska and elsewhere that shows in the active root zone. corn is relatively drought tolerant during the vegetative period, productive growth stage, the lower yields much if any. but very sensitive to water stress plant-available soil water (in the during silking through early active root zone) should be main- pacity irrigation systems—espe-

Research conducted in the North Platte area showed that irrigation could be reduced by 1 to 4 inches during the vegetative period without a significant yield reduction as compared to fully watered corn. Last week growers in some areas of Nebraska reported leaf rolling during the heat of the afternoon. Nebraska research suggests that some leaf rolling on a few afternoons during the vegetative stage will not reduce yield materially. Corn leaf rolling will often start in areas of soil compaction like field driveways or

These areas are usually small compared to the whole field, but are evident from the road. The bigger question is what is going on in the bulk of the field. Soil water monitoring is an excellent way to know how much water is in the root zone and give you confidence to delay irrigation.

In summary, research suggests that little irrigation is needed most years on corn during the vegetative stage to produce top yields in the eastern two-thirds
