Beaumont event venue moving forward, expanding offerings

By Calyn Dunklau
calyn@wayneherald.com

When Josie Broders came home to her husband Ranson after a Leadership Wayne class with a question for him, neither one imagined that the question would change their lives.

The question was merely "what does Wayne need?" Simple enough, but after thinking about it and discussing the things Wayne was missing, the Broders settled on an event venue, namely for weddings and receptions.

Once the wheels began to turn it was obvious that what was supposed to be a project for her class, would not just be a project.

"I just asked Ranson what does Wayne need," Josie said. "I had to come back the next day with an idea to share with the group and this is what we came up with."

Josie wanted to design the venue as much as she could so she started with a Sand Creek Post and Beam and made modifications.

Ranson, a drafter at Heritage Homes, draws for a living, but Josie was new to the process, so with his guidance, a scale ruler and some graph paper, the venue space was born.

Other projects from the Leadership classes get expanded on and looked into and in some cases, such as the Wayne Bark Park, things come together and it works.

Josie isn't unfamiliar with the event biz thanks to her mother's successful event planning and decor business with her sisters called Sister's Florals. The business is based out of Emerson, but travels often.

"My mom is an event planner and she's done quite a few things at the auditorium here in Wayne."

With their parents on board to help, be it with the venue or their little guy Hayes, the Broders moved forward with the planning of The Beaumont, looking at several pieces of property before deciding on the current location to the north of the golf course right on Highway 15.

"We looked at properties, some by the hotels in town, and yes, you could build an event center down there, but not like this one," Ranson said. "It doesn't belong in the middle of things. You could put up a steel building but this big elegant barn wouldn't work."

Things went back and forth with the city for some time when the planning started but once the property was ironed out and the city's role was defined, the Broders were able to move forward with designing and building the space.

Both Broders had plenty of ideas to bring into the space -- from the now official bar and grille to hosting bridal shows and a Junkstock-esk day.

Ranson's family are musicians, so having a place for live music was an important addition. Eventually, the hope is that the venue will host a weekly live music night to fill another niche.

"We hope we can offer something to everybody," Ranson said of the options.

Josie continued, "There's a difference between a convention center and a venue in my mind and this is a venue. It has a lot of options and we have a lot of ideas for more."

Women's nights during harvest and hosting graduation parties or corporate meetings are also on the list of things the venue will be capable of handling.

"We would love to have Pheasants Forever, White-tails Unlimited and those types of events out there," said Ranson.

Primarily, however, The Beaumont will serve as a wedding and wedding reception venue for brides looking for a rustic setting for their big day.

The Beaumont itself is a barn kit made right here in Wayne. With large exposed beams and heated concrete floors, the space will offer both style and practicality.

The 15,000 square-foot facility will contain a large ballroom, bar and grille space, and a meeting room along with a bridal suite and a family space. There is a full caterer's kitchen available for use and two patios -- one for the ballroom and one for the restaurant.

The bar and grille is stocked with a full bar, but will have a wide selection of wines to choose from and will be a completely separate area from the ballroom.

"It will be fully stocked but it's more geared toward being a wine bar and we will have tap beer," Ranson said. "It will be a simple menu but it's another option for people."

While Josie has been calling upon her mother's expertise to help with the design and details, some of that has also come from a well-known friend to many -- Pinterest.

The venue will have options for brides to customize their time, whether they choose to do the decor themselves or choose to utilize Sister's Florals. And eventually Josie hopes to offer in-house design services and packages but to begin with, helping brides pick who they want to work with and how they want it set up will be more than enough.

Both of the Broders felt very strongly that it was important to make sure each bride felt that the venue

As he retires, Johnson has high praise for city of Wayne

While Lowell Johnson has been receiving well-wishes and congratulations on the work he has done in the last 17 years, he is very quick to point out those who have helped make this time as Wayne's City Administrator enjoyable.

"I would really like to thank and recognize all the employees of the city of Wayne. These are the people who get things right day after day, week after week that we seldom notice," Johnson said.

He said these include "the guys who drive around at night and keep an eye on things while we are sleeping, the people who bring us clean water every day without fail, the people who manage the wastewater treatment system so we don't even have to worry about it, the people who manage our kids programs and library, the folks who do the risky work to keep our power on, the folks that manage the streets and parks, those who risk their lives to fight fires and respond to other disasters and the folks that manage the money and the process to keep things in the city going."

As of Aug. 1, Johnson has retired from his position and is moving on to other endeavors.

The Wakefield native graduated from Wakefield High School in 1965 and earned a degree in ag economics and education. He spent three years teaching agriculture classes in Stanton before returning to the Wakefield area to farm with his father. From 1984 until 1987 he worked for the USDA Soil Conservation Service and later the city of Wakefield. He also worked at the M.G. Waldbaum Company where he served as the industrial manager.

After earning an MBA from Wayne State College in 1999, Johnson applied for and was hired as the city administrator for the city of Wayne and began his duties in 2000. He replaced Joe Salitros in that position.

"I was impressed with Wayne because it is a growing, interesting community. The community has always been open to taxing themselves for projects such as the Community Activity Center and the swimming pool," Johnson said.

He said that during the last 17 years, one of the highlights has been the recent growth in houses and small businesses in the community.

He listed issues with the police department and the tornado of 2013 as the challenges during his tenure.

"Parking has always, and always will be one of the issues facing the council and mayor," Johnson said.

On his "wish list" of accomplishments that he had hoped would be completed, Johnson

TeamMates program gears up for 2017-2018 school year

Local TeamMates coordinators and board members are planning for another successful year of mentoring after attending the 2017 Annual TeamMates Partnership Meeting.

More than 200 TeamMates supporters gathered at the Nebraska Innovation Campus in Lincoln July 24-26. They had a chance to learn new ideas on how to best serve mentors and mentees. Two-time Olympic Medalist Curt Tomasevich, told his inspirational story as the key-note speaker. Attendees had an opportunity to take a photo with Curt and his medals.

Attending from the Wayne TeamMates program were Coordinator Shalee Hoffman, Board Chair Jill Walling and Board member Craig Walling.

The mission of the TeamMates Mentoring Program is to impact the world by inspiring youth to reach their full potential. Right now, TeamMates is serving close to 8,000 youth in more than 140 communities across Nebraska, Kansas, Wyoming and Iowa. Mentors meet with their mentees one-on-one in school, once a week, during the academic year.

The Wayne chapter currently has approximately 60 matches with students at both Wayne Elementary School and Wayne Junior-Senior High School.

Mentees can be nominated one of three ways. They can be nominated by a parent, a school staff member, or self-nomination. Mentors are not tutors, counselors, nor are they there to "fix" anything—they're there to be friends. Mentors are matched with mentees based on interests and life experiences.

To learn more about the TeamMates Mentoring Program, please contact Shalee Hoffman or Jill Walling or visit the program's website, teammates.org

Council begins work on city budget

By Clara Osten
clara@wayneherald.com

Following a relatively short meeting, the Wayne City Council and department heads gathered to begin work on the 2017-2018 budget for the city of Wayne.

During the regular meeting, council members discussed a request from Lukas Rix to purchase more than 5,000 paver bricks to be used in an area near the 1912 Emporium/Johnnie Byrd Brewery.

Rix had originally offered to purchase 2,500 bricks for 50¢ each but told the council that after doing the calculations, he would need just over 5,000 to complete the project. He offered to pay $2,000 for the 5,000 bricks.

Council member Cale Giese said that in the past bricks were sold for $1 each and in two instances, a negotiated rate of 75¢ per brick. He indicated he was not in favor of selling them for less than 75¢ each.

City staff said that while the city still has a considerable amount of bricks left from several projects, a large quantity could be needed should there be street work in an area that has brick streets.

Following discussion, council members voted to allow Rix to purchase the 5,000+ bricks he would need at 75¢ each. Rix has the option to say 'yes' or 'no' to the offer.

A public hearing was held in regard to amending the city code to allow for unattached structures for multi-family dwellings in an R-3 District.

Huck Jaeger, representing Vakoc Construction Co., told the council that they are looking at putting garages up in conjunction with a multi-family housing project in the Sunnyview area.

Joel Hansen, City Planner, explained the current language in the city code and noted that it had been revised in regard to the R-4 District but had not been changed for multi-family housing in an R-3 District.

Following the public hearing, the council voted to approve the ordinance and waived the three readings.

A resolution was approved to amend an interlocal agreement with Wayne County to jointly provide dispatch services for public safety in Wayne County.

Currently, the Wayne Police Department provides dispatch services to Wayne County law enforcement and Wayne Police Chief Marlen Chinn told the council the agreement had not been update since 2014.

Council members decided to look at the agreement on an annual basis to determine if the amount of funding being requested from the county covered the costs incurred by the city.

At the conclusion of Tuesday's meeting, the council gathered to hear information on the projected income and expenditures for the coming year.

Nancy Braden, City Finance Director, explained the sources of revenue for the city and talked about changes that would take place should the city annex Industrial Park near the Wayne Municipal Airport.

Braden talked about changes in the proposed budget in regard to various departments and noted that the swimming pool and Community Activity Center have brought in more revenue this fiscal year than had been projected.

She also discussed the budget for the police department and listed some areas of anticipated expenditures in the coming year. These include the hiring of another officer and the purchase of a new police cruiser.

The city's fiscal year runs from Oct. 1 to Sept. 30 and additional discussion on the budget will be held in coming weeks.

The Wayne City Council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, Aug. 15 at 5:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Craig and Bridget Pease

Pease is 'Reader of the Week' at public library

This week's Reader of the Week at the Wayne Public is Bridget Pease. What is the last book you read?

Patty Jane's House of Curl by Lorna Landvik from the Wayne Public Library.

Who is your favorite author?

It is hard to pick a favorite author. I like to read book series. One of my favorites is Alexander McCall Smith's, The Number One Ladies Detective Agency. It takes places in Africa. I enjoy reading about other places.

Why do you read?

Reading is something I have been enjoying for as long as I can remember. My mom always took me to the library and in turn my children all love to read because of our time spent there. . . It is fun for me to guess the path the book will take.

Have you ever had to give up on a book?

I do give up on a book if I can't get into it. The Wayne Public Library has so many good books that I just move on to something new.

Name a book you would recommend and tell everyone why they should read it.

A Man Called Ove by Fredrik Backman. The main character is not your average well-loved character. Come to the library and see if you would enjoy it also.

Is there anything else you'd like to comment on about your passion for reading?

Since I started working at the library, I listen to books on CD while traveling every week. Two that I recommend are non-fiction. They are Finding Atticus and King Peggy.

Biography

My husband and I enjoy living in Wayne. He teaches at Wayne State College. We have four grown children and will soon have a sixth grandchild. We also have a dog and a cat.

Retirement

lists completing Phase II of the trail project.

When asked what he will miss most in the coming weeks, Johnson was quick to answer "the energy and challenges of building public and private projects."

He was not as quick to list something he will not miss as he said, "there is hardly anything I don't like, but would have to say the boring, routine things that have to be done."

In retirement Johnson plans to keep busy with volunteer work for Habitat for Humanity and as a substitute teacher. He also said he has a number of projects on property he owns and says he likes to "fix and paint things."

Johnson said he plans to attend the activities of his six grandchildren in Wakefield and the Millard school districts.

His wife, Kathy, also substitute teaches and supervises student teachers through Wayne State College. The couple plan to stay in Wayne and be an active part of the community.

Lowell and Kathy, have two sons. Mark and Shannon live near Wakefield with their four children and Jon and Jessie Shramek live in Omaha with their two children.

Johnson summed up his career and accomplishments over the last 17 years by saying "when you have quality people, you can focus on the building and expansion of the city."

Commissioners to reconvene to discuss hot-button topics for county

The fairly brief meeting of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners ended in a recess. The board will reconvene on Tuesday, Aug. 8 at 9 a.m. for budget work session, discussion on wind towers and further discussion on the county's options for health insurance.

Security of the courthouse and courtroom in particular were discussed by the board. Sheriff Jason Dwinell was on hand and offered to get information on certain security measures and their costs to the board in the near future.

Mark Casey gave a road update which included work being done on Centennial Road. Construction of the road is going well and Casey commented that the contractor had been exceptional to work with.

Another update Casey gave was in regards to the bridge outside of Carroll. When the contractors first started, it was a month behind schedule, but Casey said they were making up time and are currently only 10-12 days behind and would be bringing in a second crew, which left him very optimistic.

With the retirement of Lowell Johnson, the county is in need of a flood plain administrator, a position Johnson previously held in addition to his work as City Administrator. The position is a necessary one as the county is required to have all flood plain permits approved by that person for flood insurance purposes.

Also discussed at the recent meeting was the adoption of a Bond Anticipation Notes resolution that funds costs of the Rural Road Improvement District, in which the amount will not exceed $470,000. By 2020, the remaining sum would be rolled into bonds.

Some county employees listened in on a brief discussion regarding health insurance, but no decisions were made. That discussion will pick up again next week where a decision will be made.

County employees listened to the commissioners discussion on the possible changes to the health insurance offered to them. The commissioners will reconvene to make a decision on the insurance as well as for a budget session next week.

All-school reunion planned for Dixon alum

The town of Dixon has not had a high school since 1958 when the high school closed and students who had been attending there transferred to Laurel or Allen High School.

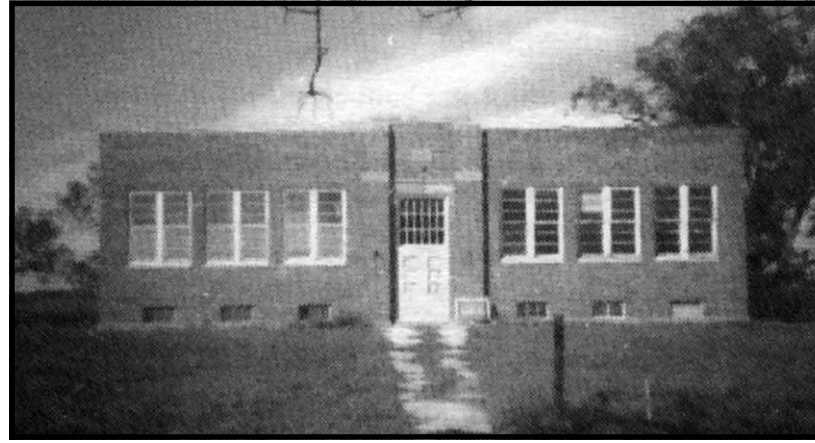

A total of 268 students graduated from Dixon High School between 1929 and 1958. Dixon continued to have a grade school for several years after the high school closed, but it too was discontinued.

The building was torn down many years ago, but for those who attended Dixon School, the memories remain.

Over the years, past students and spouses, teachers and friends of the Dixon School have gathered 24 times to renew old friendships and catch up on what their classmates had been doing.

The 25th reunion will be held Saturday, Aug. 12 at the Claramont Steak House in Laurel. Anyone and everyone who has had ties with the Dixon School is invited to attend. Coffee and conversation will begin at 5 p.m. that day and the banquet, with a short business meeting, will begin at 6 p.m.

Anyone interested in attending this Dixon School gathering is asked to contact Darrel Rahn to make reservations. Reservations should be made by Saturday, Aug. 5 to Darrel Rahn, 572229 Highway 35, Wayne, Neb. 68787; Darrel1939@hotmail.com or by phone at (402) 375-1667.

This rendering of the interior of The Beaumont event venue is nearly what the finished product will look like. The bar, located here on the side wall, will be located on the back now, with a wall of windows behind it to take advantage of the views. The ballroom will have plenty of space for dining and dancing and with the heated floors, no one should be worried about kicking their shoes off to tear up the dance floor.

was their main priority, so hard decisions were made.

Josie decided that it was time to devote herself to the project, so she quit her full time job and became the project manager and fills the role of the venue manager.

Each wedding or event will have unlimited meetings with her and they'll have full access to tables and chairs when renting the space.

The Broders said there would be a person representing The Beaumont at every event -- eventually those will be full time staff members but until things get going, Ranson, Josie and various family members will be stepping in to handle it.

Josie will be as involved or as uninvolved as each bride wants her to be, but there are some things that The Beaumont won't be doing, at least not right off the bat such as catering or offering a free shuttle service.

The Broders will provide a list of preferred caterers to those renting the space. The names on that list will be people who have great reviews from others in the area or have worked with the Broders personally.

There will be some type of shuttle service available for a nominal fee, but the Broders hope to eventually offer the service for free since the venue isn't right next to the hotels.

The Beaumont grounds will be completely accessible for renters to take photos and to have outdoor events or ceremonies.

And how did The Beaumont get it's name? "Our first concert together we went to see this guy Hayes Carl and he sings this song called The Beaumont, which actually ended up being our wedding song," Josie said of the unique name. "It means beautiful hill and if you go out to the site and stand, it fits. You over look the creek and it's a beautiful view."

The tentative grand opening for the space is set for the second weekend in April of 2018.

A website is currently in the works, but for now, those who are looking to get information on pricing for the spaces available to rent are asked to contact Josie through The Beaumont Facebook page.

The barn kit for the 15,000 square-foot facility was delivered Wednesday morning to the site where crews began to unload and organize the timbers. (Contributed images)

Stories from medial facilities are inspiring

Anymore, hospitals and nursing homes are publishing slick magazines that educate the general public about the innovations going on. And I love reading them.

The latest one from Providence stated that the AMPS program there was being well utilized. I certainly had never heard of Amplified Musculoskeletal Pain Syndrome before, and I'm betting most of you had not, either. It sounds absolutely awful, and the fact that this small hospital in the Midwest treats it successfully is inspiring, for sure. (I also love that a scholarship in Verlyn Anderson's name has been established.)

The latest missive from Tabitha features the fifth grade from our church school interacting with the Elders in the memory support unit. Through a program called Alive Inside, they researched and recorded music from the years that these folks were young and perhaps dancing. When they played You Are My Sunshine, for instance, the patients began talking and reminiscing. Of course, I've always believed in the power of music, but this is a special way to use it.

During the few short months I worked on a geriatric unit at the Norfolk State Hospital, a nurse who played guitar and I on the piano would accompany the old songs before we put them all to bed. They enjoyed it, and so did we.

That leads me to the newest from Bryan. It features medical personnel who play in the Civic Symphony, emphasizing the benefit for stress reduction while playing a trombone or a saxophone. It also has a picture of the local brain surgeon playing a grand piano in one of the main lobbies. It states that this doctor is skilled in piano and organ. He reminds me of Dr. Schweitzer, who often played his organ at the end of a long day.

Today, while I sat in the entrance of Madonna Rehab Hospital, I watched the video that is almost always playing, with some of their success stories. Suddenly, I was seeing the effects of the tornado in Wayne in 2014, and there was John Dunning in a Sioux City hospital among a tangle of tubes and machines. You all know the rest of that story; John is back working at the college.

I picked up the publication on a nearby table, called The Independent. One of the stories features a young man from Kansas who is now a quadriplegic, after a roll-over crash. He had a surgery to implant a diaphragm pacemaker, which freed him from a vent and allowed him to go home and graduate from college! They do miracles there. And I'm very thankful for all the folks who participate, in every facility. High five!!

Extension Educator

It's been a busy week with a lot of activities going on at the Wayne and Dixon county fairs.

I would like to thank all the volunteers, judges, superintendents, and parents who make the 4-H aspects a rewarding and learning experience for the kids.

Livestock shows, clothing and other exhibits are a lot like weddings. A lot of effort goes in to the planning and everyone wants it to go perfectly, but usually something has to be fixed or adjusted. It's just a part of life.

Now it's time for a few days off.

It's getting to be time for the 2017 version of Soybean Management Days. This is the 19th annual event occurring on Aug. 8-11. The focus as always is on staying competitive in a global marketplace, increasing profits and meeting the world's growing food and energy needs starting right here in Nebraska.

The field days are sponsored by the Nebraska Soybean Board in partnership with UNL Extension in the university's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources and are funded through checkoff dollars. The efforts of the checkoff are directed by the United Soybean Board.

The field days will offer producers unbiased and research-based information to improve their soybean profitability. The event consists of four field stops across the state, near North Platte, Ord, Auburn, and the nearest one to us near Tekamah on Aug. 11.

Each site has demonstration plots and time for questions. Producers can obtain ideas and insight about the challenges they face in producing a quality crop at a profitable price in today's global economy.

The field days begin with 9 a.m. registration and conclude at 2:30 p.m. Free registration and free lunch is available the day of the event.

For more information about the field days and maps to sites, visit the Soybean Management Field Days Web site at <http://ardc.unl.edu/soydays>, or contact the Nebraska Soybean Board at (800)852-BEAN or UNL Extension at 1-800-529-8030

Wayne County will sponsor a Scrap Tire Collection on Friday, August 11 from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and Saturday, August 12 from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. at the Wayne County Fairgrounds, 301 Pheasant Run, Wayne, NE.

- Wayne County residents only (only "27" county license plates).
- No unloading assistance will be provided.
- No tire retailers - participants must not have accepted fees to accumulate the tires.
- No rims or tubes accepted.

Event is funded by a grant from the Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality.

Nebraska Department of Agriculture responds to increased herbicide misuse complaints

The Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA) has experienced an increase in herbicide misuse complaints alleging crop damage due to herbicide products containing dicamba.

NDA's pesticide and fertilizer program staff are actively investigating these complaints for non-compliance with state and federal laws, but cautions producers that these investigations will not characterize crop damage; acres involved or estimated dollar losses.

During NDA applicator training sessions, NDA strongly encourages all users of herbicides and pesticides, to be attentive to label requirements when selecting and applying products, to be aware of vegetation on surrounding properties, and to be vigilant of weather conditions.

Meticulous cleaning of tanks, hoses and nozzles used for applications is necessary to prevent chemical carryover to the next application. Caution is especially important as farmers have more and varied choices in genetics and crop protection pairings.

This has increased the incidence of crops with differing chemical tolerance being planted side by side.

NDA supports the development of new technologies in the agricultural industry, and stands ready to assist the agricultural community as it determines how to implement the new technologies to be more efficient and sustainable in producing the food supply for a growing world.

NDA does not plan to limit use of dicamba in Nebraska at this time, and will work with state and federal stakeholders, industry leaders and farmers to seek appropriate action to take in the future.

For more information about the NDA pesticide program please visit: <http://www.nda.nebraska.gov/pesticide/index.html>

LENRD board votes to help West Point with flood control levee

NORFOLK — At their July meeting, the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (LENRD) Board of Directors voted to help the city of West Point with their levee certification project. The city's current levee along the Elkhorn River is not designed to exceed the current 100-year flood standard. This project will allow West Point to bring its levee into compliance. The project is expected to be finished by 2021 with an estimated cost of $3.5 million. The board voted to provide 50% cost-share with the city for the project.

The board also voted to start a sinking fund for the levee project. LENRD General Manager, Mike Sousek, said, "We're looking at $1.7 million over the next four years, so the board has voted to start a savings account now for the project to protect the future of this community."

LENRD Projects Manager, Curt Becker, said, "This levee project will prevent hundreds of homes and businesses from being placed in the flood plain. We are not only working to protect the community from future flood events, but also to prevent the required annual flood insurance costs."

In other action, the board directed staff to secure suitable locations for two Automated Data Weather Network (ADWN) stations. The LENRD has the opportunity to obtain equipment for the establishment of additional monitoring locations with no up-front costs. Staff will cooperate with the Nebraska State Climate Office to provide funds to cover the annual maintenance fees as necessary.

The next monthly board meeting will be held on Thursday, August 24th at 7:30 p.m., beginning with the public hearing on the proposed fiscal year 2018 budget.

The LENRD serves all or parts of 15-counties in northeast Nebraska. Visit the LENRD website to sign up for emails from the district.

Final Award

Wayne High School athletic director Rocky Ruhl presents Hannah Belt her award as co-most valuable teammate for the 2016 softball season. It was Rocky's final award presentation before his retirement over the summer.

Former WSC great Brad Ottis tabbed for Nebraska Football Hall of Fame

The Nebraska Football Hall of Fame announced that former Wildcat All-American and NFL standout Brad Ottis will be one of five players for the 2017 induction class this fall.

Ottis is the lone state college player in this year's induction class that includes Nebraska Husker greats Donnie McGhee (1968-70), Randy Theiss (1980-82), Chad Kelsay (1995-98) and Zac Taylor (2005-06).

Ottis becomes the eighth Wayne State College football player to be inducted into the Nebraska Football Hall of Fame, joining Virgil "Joe" Lindahl (1973), Burt Mattheis (1980), Al Bahe (1996), Pat Donohoe (1998), Sam Singleton (2004), Ruben Mendoza (2007) and Robert Kruse (2009). Ottis was arguably the most dominant defensive player to ever play football for Wayne State from 1990-93. The All-American defensive end finished his Wildcat career as the school's all-time leader with 45 sacks among his 217 tackles.

As a junior in 1992, Ottis registered a staggering 17 sacks for 132 yards lost among his 57 total tackles. He added 14 more sacks for 124 yards lost among his career-high 82 tackles as a senior, despite facing constant double teams.

With Ottis leading the defense for Coach Dennis Wagner and quarterback Brett Salisbury and receiver Byron Chamberlain leading the offense, the Wildcats produced the best season in school history with a 9-1 record in 1993.

Ottis earned All-America honors after being selected as the defensive captain of the Omaha World-Herald's All-Nebraska NCAA Div. II football team, before being invited to play in the Blue-Gray All-Star Classic on Christmas Day. He also played in the Senior Bowl.

Ottis was selected by the Los Angeles Rams in the second round of the 1994 NFL Draft (56th overall pick), seven picks after former Husker Toby Wright went to the Rams. After playing 13 games in Los Angeles, Ottis moved with the Rams to St. Louis in 1995. In 1996, he was a member of the Arizona Cardinals, making one start and totaling 24 tackles. He spent five seasons with the Cardinals, culminating with 11 starts and a career-high 38 tackles in 2000. He played in 81 career NFL games with 23 starts.

The Fremont Bergan graduate, who was born in Wahoo, was inducted into the Wayne State Athletics Hall of Fame in 2001. Ottis returned to the Midwest following his NFL career to play with the Sioux City Bandits in the professional indoor football league for several years. He currently resides in Norfolk and served as a volunteer assistant coach at Wayne State for the last two seasons (2015 and 2016).

This year's Nebraska Football Hall of Fame Class will be inducted in Lincoln during a dinner on Friday, Sept. 15 on the Nebraska campus and will be introduced prior to the Husker home game Sept. 16 vs. Northern Illinois.

Football team picked 12th in NSIC preseason poll

Wayne State College has been picked to finish 12th overall and sixth in the South Division in the Preseason NSIC Football Coaches Poll.

Wayne State received 81 points overall and 17 points in the South Division poll in voting conducted by league coaches. Last season, the Wildcats tied for 11th overall in the NSIC with a 3-8 record and were 2-5 in the NSIC South to tie for fifth place.

Minnesota State edged Minnesota Duluth as the preseason favorite in the NSIC. MSU received 213 points and four first-place votes compared to UMD's 209 points and seven first-place votes. Rounding out the top five teams overall are Bemidji State with 184 points and two first-place votes, Augustana at 172 points and one first-place vote and Sioux Falls with 171 points and the final two first-place votes.

In the NSIC South Division preseason poll, Minnesota State garnered 48 points and six first-place votes. Augustana edged Sioux Falls for second 38-35 with both teams receiving one first-place vote. Winona State was a close fourth at 34 points followed by Southwest Minnesota State (30), Wayne State (17), Upper Iowa (14) and Concordia-St. Paul (8).

Wayne State's Offensive Player to Watch is quarterback Zach Osborn. A 6-foot-1, 195-pound senior from Harlan, Iowa, Osborn threw for 2,666 yards and 25 TD's last season while completing 224-405 passes. He ranked sixth last season in the NSIC in total offense per game (279.6 yards) and was ninth in the league in passing yards per game (242.4). Osborn enters this season ranked second in school history in numerous passing categories trailing only Silas Huellen (2006-09), including total offense yards (9,128), touchdown passes (71) and passing yards (8,415).

The Wildcat Defensive Player to Watch this season is sophomore linebacker Tyler Thomsen. The 6-foot-1, 220-pounder from Fremont ranked second on the team last year in total tackles as a redshirt freshman with 66 while appearing in all 11 games with nine starts. He had 42 solo stops and ranked third on the team in tackles for loss with three for 18 yards. Thomsen also had one fumble recovery, one break-up and one quarterback hurry.

Wayne State will open the 2017 football season on Thursday, Aug. 31 at Northern State in a 6 p.m. contest. The Wildcats' home opener is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 9 against the University of Mary at 6 p.m.

No session does not mean not busy

Legislative Update
 By Joni Albrecht
 State Senator, District 17

It has been a busy summer for me, as I am sure it has been for my constituents. Summer has been flying by!

In just a few short weeks, on August 21, Nebraska will be ground central for an amazing celestial event as we celebrate the Great American Eclipse.

Though unfortunately, those of us in northeast Nebraska will not have much of a view of the eclipse, there are many areas of our great state that will offer tremendous viewing opportunities.

Hundreds of thousands of visitors are expected, so if catching the eclipse is on your to-do list, I would recommend planning early. The Nebraska Tourism Commission has been working with communities along the path of the eclipse, and there will be a variety of events taking place before, during, and after the event in many areas of our state.

More information can be found on the Nebraska Tourism's website at <http://neclipse17.com/>.

Earlier this year, I was appointed by Speaker Jim Scheer to serve as a member of the Agriculture & Natural Resources Committee of the Council of State Governments' Midwestern Legislative Conference (MLC).

Since 1933, the Council of State Governments has served officials in all 50 states and the U.S. territories. It is a non-partisan organization which promotes excellence in state government through the exchange of ideas and best practices to help state officials advance public policy.

In July, I was able to attend the MLC - the only event designed for state and local lawmakers from the Midwest - with several colleagues from the Unicameral. We heard from a mix of speakers, held professional development workshops, and had policy discussions on issues of critical importance to Nebraska and the surrounding states.

Closer to home, fair season is upon us and it was great to get out and meet up with folks. Thankfully, the weather has cooperated for the most part, and I got to see a lot of you at various events over the past two weeks. I'm looking forward to the Thurston County Fair, which is only a few days away as I write this.

One question I was asked recently was how my constituents could use their professional expertise to serve the state. While there are many ways an interested individual can donate their time and effort to help their community, one specific way to apply to serve on one of Nebraska's state board and commissions.

These boards and commissions meet regularly and offer a way for citizens to become engaged in both policy and rule-making efforts without requiring an unreasonable commitment.

Each board and commission is unique, and not all have vacancies currently. More information can be found at: <https://governor.nebraska.gov/board-comm-req>

Finally, recently I had the opportunity to sit down with many business, education, and local leaders. I recently had the chance to grab coffee with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's Chancellor Ronnie Green.

With a record high enrollment of 25,897 in 2016 and a fourth straight year of enrollment, the University is excited about the upcoming year.

The University system is the largest employer in Nebraska, and it was interesting having the chance to speak one-on-one with the man who is steering the ship.

Speaking of college, fall is just around the corner. As summer winds down, and we approach the school year, please know that my office is here to serve you.

If you are in Lincoln, stop by room 2010. For those with e-mail access, my address is jalbrecht@leg.ne.gov.

Or if you prefer to call, I can be reached at 402-471-2716 or to write me at:

RONNFELDT FARMS

Dear Editor:

I would like to express my appreciation to the Wayne County Fair Board and all of the 4-H families that have done such a great job with the Wayne County Fair.

Another fair is in the books and it was one of the most user friendly, family oriented venues we have experienced. Between the improved facilities that make exhibition so much better for both 4-H and Open Class participants, Grandstand entertainment, and the other activities that were available it made a great time for the whole family.

This event is a good example of the community spirit here in the heartland of America. Thank you and God's blessings to all of those involved.

Scrap tire collection

Wayne County will be hosting a scrap tire collection Friday, Aug. 11 from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. and again on Saturday, Aug. 12 from 8 a.m. until noon at the Wayne County Fairgrounds.

The Wayne County collection will only take Wayne County residents (27-county license plates). This collection will accept all sizes of car, truck, semi and tractor tires. No rims will be accepted so all tires must be off rim. No rubes will be taken either.

The collection will not accept tires from a commercial retailer. Tires cannot be accepted from any business which charges a tire disposal fee.

There will be no loading assistance available, so plan accordingly.

Agriculture, the heart of the state fair

With all the entertainment, rides and games—the food, shopping and commotion, it's sometimes easy to forget that agriculture is at the heart of the Nebraska State Fair.

Joseph McDermott, executive director of the fair said, "Since 1868 when farmers and ranchers and their families brought their prized animals and baked goods for competition—they also talked to neighbors and friends about the latest farming practices, machinery and most likely shared a story or two. The same is really true today."

"Whether it's Raising Nebraska telling the story of our food from farm to fork, or the agricultural machinery and equipment displays, the State Fair has and always will work to educate Nebraskan's about our number one economic driver—Agriculture," McDermott said.

The fairground complex itself is testament to the fair's dedication to Agriculture. Over $50-million has been invested to create an environment in which the State Fair showcases Nebraskans in 4-H, FFA and open class exhibition. Whether livestock or competitive exhibits, every citizen in our great state can be proud of having the finest State Fair facilities in the nation.

"What we do each year is borne out in our mission. To have interactive and educational experiences promoting families, fun and Nebraska pride. For instance, three days are now dedicated to Nebraska's largest classroom when thousands of school agers from across our state are given free admittance to the fair to experience, to learn, and if they take home even a small portion of what they took in...it's a good day for everybody," McDermott said.

"While its true, we have family focused fun around every corner from concerts and entertainment to the finest carnival midway in the nation, when you boil down all the ingredients that make up the State Fair, agriculture remains at the center," McDermott said, "something that's been true for almost 150 years."

Frese family gathers for reunion

Lynn Frese (left) is the only living spouse with the name Frese and Hollis Frese (right) is the only living in-law.

The Frese family reunion was held July 23 at the home of Larry and Janice Smith. Attending were 31 descendants of Herman and Anna Frese.

There is only one living in-law of the children of Herman and Anna Frese. That is Hollis (Ivan) Frese of Wayne. Lynn (Harlan) Frese is the only living spouse with the name of Herman Anna Frese's grandchildren. There are no great grandchildren by the name of Frese.

Since the last reunion there have been two weddings, three high school graduations and three college graduations. The two marriages were Garret and Kenzie Pasold on April 29, 2017, Arrin and Cara Rathke on June 23, 2017. Three college graduates were Garret and Janey Pasold and Kelsie Haupt. Logan Rahn, Nick Perry and Carli Pfeil graduated from high school. These are all great-great-grandchildren of Herman and Anna Frese.

Diana Leibee passed away Dec. 5, 2016.

The relatives came from Sioux City Iowa and Fremont, Norfolk, Pender, Winside, Carroll, Omaha, Blair and Wayne in Nebraska. The afternoon was spent reminiscing and some went horseback riding with the assistance of Larry Smith.

The afternoon was concluded with homemade ice cream.

DHHS will ship tons of U.S.D.A. food to schools, child cares

Just as families are gearing up for the start of school, the Department of Health and Human Services this week also is preparing orders to make monthly deliveries of more than 4,900 tons of food to about 425 Nebraska schools and child care programs through its Food Distribution Program.

DHHS' Children and Family Division distributes U.S. Department of Agriculture foods donated to schools and child cares across the state. U.S.D.A. supports domestic agriculture by purchasing surplus commodities, and provides it in support of the agency's child nutrition programs.

"As the distributors of U.S.D.A. food to our state's young people, we're glad to coordinate deliveries so our students receive nutritionally rich foods to help them excel at school," said DHHS CEO Courtney Phillips. "Along with our support of Nebraska citizens through other programs, the Food Distribution Program complements our mission to help people live better lives."

Students will be glad to note that their three favorites — cups of strawberry, applesauce and diced peaches — once again will be available this year. Favorite main course meals like whole grain breaded chicken nuggets and patties also will be served. New additions to the menu will be pulled pork and tuna.

In all, DHHS offers 160 different U.S.D.A.-donated foods. Last school year, DHHS distributed 374,581 cases of American grown or produced food worth more than $10 million to Nebraska schools and child cares. The no-cost food comprises 15-20 percent of the food they will serve.

Extending hospitality to all around us

When it was my mother's turn to host the neighborhood Birthday Club, my siblings and I were put to work.

The house had to be cleaned from top to bottom; we would vacuum, wash windows, clean bathrooms, dust and plump the pillows on the sofa. The silverware would be polished; the best china would come out of the hutch. The serving table would be adorned with a tablecloth and centerpiece, which in summer was often, flowers from the garden. Birthday Club usually meant a fancy dessert of some kind as well as nuts and mints which were not standard fare at our house. All of this preparation was a hallmark of hospitality in those days; no doubt similar preparations were made at each member's home when it was her turn to host the group.

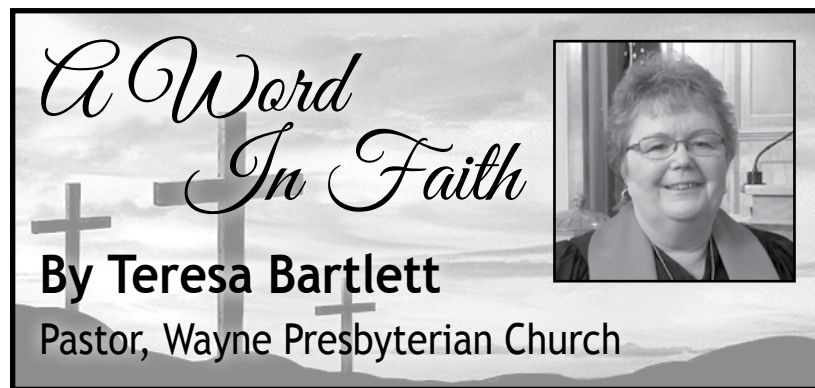

Our farm neighborhood didn't have many young children and my siblings and I were always warmly welcomed at neighborhood club gatherings often getting extra attention and dessert.

Do you remember a time when you were blessed by the hospitality of others, graciously welcomed, made to feel like an honored guest? How did it make you feel to know that your host or hostess had made special preparations for your visit, perhaps preparing your favorite meal or hosting you on a special occasion like an anniversary or birthday?

Practicing Christian hospitality isn't about glamorous table settings or platters of picture-perfect food; it's about loving others through Christ and making people feel special, offering a welcome from the heart. The dictionary defines hospitality as "...the friendly and generous reception and entertainment of guests, visitors, or strangers."

Christ practiced hospitality, gracious welcome, with his disciples, with guests and strangers. As Christians we are called to mirror the hospitality that Jesus practiced, welcoming the expected, as well as the unexpected guest. The gospel of John records Jesus' words; "A new command I give you: Love one another. As I have loved you, so you must love one another. By this everyone will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another." (John 13:34-35 NIV).

We may often think of hospitality as entertaining people in our

By Teresa Bartlett
Pastor, Wayne Presbyterian Church

home, but we can offer hospitality in a variety of contexts; in church, in our neighborhood, in the community and even special events. Recently I spent a week at a Presbyterian Church sponsored event; it's an annual event on my calendar. The conference is hard to describe, but perhaps you can get an idea if I say it's a combination of a family reunion and Sunday worship. It is an event that feeds my soul, not because of the accommodations but because of the hospitality. As a long time participant, I know that hospitality is a part of the ethos of the people and the event.

This gathering of Presbyterians and other Christians from across the country met on a college campus; there are no fluffy cotton robes in the bathroom or chocolates on our pillows at night. While those things are nice, the essence of hospitality is the welcome offered by the planning committee and attendees of the event.

Attendees were folks of all ages from infants to those in their 90's; there were participants in wheelchairs, on crutches, babies in strollers and children riding on their father's shoulders. Greetings and hugs were freely shared as people checked in on Sunday evening. For a week this diverse group of people became a family, looking out for each other, sharing joys and sorrows, eating meals together, worshipping and learning together. Hospitality was practiced throughout the week in classrooms, dorm rooms, assisting those with physical challenges.

For me this week spent with 689 other people of all ages is always a glimpse of how the world could look if we practiced intentional hospitality. Too often we close ourselves off from others because they don't look like us or think like us. What richness of relationship we miss when we fail to offer hospitality, fail to make the stranger our friend. Hospitality can help us change the world; it can be a counter to isolation and fear, for when we spend time together around a table, or over a cup of coffee, when we speak from the heart and listen intently to each other it is likely we will find we have much in common, that we share similar hopes and dreams for ourselves, our families, and our world.

Hebrews 13:2 reminds us; "Do not forget to show hospitality to strangers, for by so doing some people have shown hospitality to angels without knowing it."

Our challenge as Christians is to extend Christ's welcome to every person, friend or stranger, whether inside or outside the church and do so with genuine concern and love. When we offer hospitality to each other we are following Christ's command to love one another; our actions and responses to others often say more than our words.

This week may you take every opportunity to offer intentional hospitality, in word or deed, that you may be Christ's ambassador to the world.

Special worship service

Braden Garwood will sing and play guitar and a potluck picnic will follow on Sunday, Aug. 6 at 10:45 a.m. at Allen Methodist Church. There will be no 9 a.m. service.

New books at the library

An enchanting fantasy-adventure is Wing and Claw, Forest of Wonders by Linda Sue Park.

It is an exploration of magic and botany, family and duty, environment and home. Raffa Santana has always loved the mysterious Forest of Wonders. For a gifted young apothecary like him, every leaf could unleash a kind of magic.

When an injured bat comes into Raffa's life, he invents a cure from a rare crimson vine found deep in the Forest. He saves the animal, but transforms it into something much more than an ordinary bat, with far-reaching consequences.

Raffa's experiments leads him to the forbidding city of Gilden where troubling discoveries make him question who he can trust... and whether botanical inventions including his own might actually threaten the very creatures he wants to protect.

For lighter reading, try Class Dismissed by Allan Wondrow. Class 507b is the worst class Ms. Bryce has ever taught. They are so terrible that when a science experiment goes disastrously wrong, Ms. Bryce quits, but the school office never finds out.

The class can play games all day, read magazines, and doodle everywhere without getting in trouble. The class quickly learns that school without a teacher isn't easy and working together to keep the secret of no teacher is harder than they imagined.

Twenty-one students, zero teacher and one secret can lead to 9,872 things that can go absolutely, completely, horribly wrong.

Preschool Enrollment 2017-2018

Do you have a child who was four years old by July 31? If you do, it is time to start thinking about Preschool. The 2017-18 school year will be the sixth year of preschool in Allen.

Although it seems like all play, preschool also offers certain benefits to children to experience. These experiences include helping to boost cognitive and motor development, enhancing social skills, and increasing independence.

A preschool education helps build a foundation of learning that will follow your child into his/her school years.

If you would like to enroll your child in preschool for the 2017-2018 school year, please call the school for information.

Preparing Your Portfolio for Retirement

Think about this analogy: When an airplane is preparing to land, it doesn't descend 30,000 feet in a matter of seconds. Rather, it happens gradually. The pilot adjusts to the landscape and weather conditions to assure a soft landing. In the years leading up to retirement, you should begin to treat your investment portfolio in a similar manner. Prepare ahead of time to protect your assets and adjust as dictated by market and economic conditions to help assure a soft landing in retirement.

Adjusting your portfolio means taking steps to "downshift" as retirement nears, reducing some of the risks that may exist in your asset mix. While you were focused on building wealth in the years you accumulated savings for retirement, your focus should change as you approach the end of your working years. It's important to protect the wealth you've worked hard to build and position your portfolio to generate your retirement paycheck.

Dealing with unpredictability
Money invested in assets that vary in value, including stocks and bonds, are subject to periodic fluctuations. In prior years, you may have had time to ride out any market turbulence and overcome short-term losses once markets recovered. If you wait until retirement to adjust your portfolio, you may be surprised by an untimely market downturn. This unpredictability could result in a "hard landing" for your portfolio, leaving you with less money in retirement as compared to your plans.

For example, a couple with $1,000,000 saved for retirement may plan to withdraw $40,000 each year from that account, (assuming they withdraw four percent of the principal value annually to sustain 25 years in retirement). If the money was all invested in stocks and the portfolio sustained a 25 percent decline just prior to retirement, the value would drop to $750,000, leaving the couple with $30,000 a year. By contrast, if they positioned the portfolio more strategically prior to retirement, they may have protected themselves, at least in part, from the market's downturn.

A gradual process
The process of shifting from accumulating wealth to an income-generation focus in your portfolio should happen over time. One approach is to gradually reduce your positions in assets that are subject to greater market volatility in the years leading up to retirement. For example, that may mean reducing your portfolio's exposure to stocks while increasing positions in fixed income investments.

However, not all your money needs to be moved out of stocks, even in retirement. Equities historically have offered more growth potential than many other types of investments. Given today's long life expectancies, you want to be prepared for the likelihood that living costs will be higher 20 or 30 years from the time you begin retirement. For this reason, stocks may still make sense for your situation. You may want to reduce your emphasis on investments that seek to maximize capital appreciation and emphasize stocks that tend to be less volatile and pay competitive dividends.

Other strategies may come into play too, such as annuities that provide lifetime income in retirement, or alternative investments that can diversify your portfolio. A financial advisor can help you determine a strategy that suits your specific circumstances as you prepare for a smooth retirement landing.
