Weekend spent by many making Quilts of Valor

By Clara Osten
clara@wayneherald.com

A group of 15 quilters spent a recent weekend at the Quilt Shop in Wakefield with one goal in mind — construct 20 quilts to be given away to area veterans.

The women are part of a Quilts of Valor group that makes and donates quilts to veterans or active service members.

Mary Rastede of Allen serves as the group leader, and along with Janet Sievers of Carroll, owner of the Quilt Shop, worked to get the weekend organized.

Sievers said she was approached by the Regional Leader of Quilts of Valor and asked to have her shop be a Quilts of Valor Shop. After consulting with a number of her customers, she said yes to the request.

The first Quilts of Valor were presented to veterans on Nov. 11, 2016 during a Veterans Day Program at the Wakefield Community Schools.

Rastede said the group presented three quilts that day to area veterans. In February of this year the group handed out five quilts at the Wakefield Health Care Center.

Other quilts were given out at a church in Concord, at Brookdale Wayne, in Hartington and the Veterans Home in Norfolk.

"We have given out a total of 15 quilts in the last nine months," Rastede said. "Of these, nine went to veterans who served in the Army, four to those who served in the Navy, one who served in the Air Force and one who was a Marine. These quilts went to those who had served in World War II, the Korean Conflict and Vietnam."

Quilts of Valor" sewing event started on Friday at 5 p.m. and continued through the weekend until 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Those sewing included Vickie Loofe, Tracy Henschke, Mary Rastede, Diane Keim, Kathy Salmon, Vickie Greve, Imogene Brasch, Diane Zach, Terri Headley, Ann Geewe, Carol Jean Stapleton, Becky Brennan, Jodie Kelton, Coreen Bard, Marcia Henderson, Eileen Gentrup and Shar Sievers. These quilters came from Pender, Wakefield, Allen, Wayne, Beemer, Laurel, Concord and Ponca.

"We are very thankful for the generous donations of food for the weekend. These included donations from Elizabeth Carlson, Liz Ekberg, the Wakefield Legion Auxiliary, Wayne East, Tracy Henschke, Correen Bard and Hilda Pearson," Rastede said.

Planning for the quilting weekend began several months ago and Sievers had prepared all the quilt 'kits' prior to the quilters arriving to allow them to start quilting right away.

"While the majority of the quilts are red, white and blue, they can be any color. They are generally 60" by 80" which allows for a generous lap quilt. Any pattern is acceptable,

Course by UNMC offers education to PMC employees and area EMTs

By Calyn Dunklau
calyn@wayneherald.com

Area Emergency Medical Technicians and nurses from Providence Medical Center soaked up information like sponges at a recent trauma course taught by the University of Nebraska Medical Center (UNMC).

According to PMC's Trauma Coordinator Beth Sievers, this is just one of many parts to getting trauma designated for Providence.

"We're working toward getting designated as a basic or level four, trauma hospital," Sievers said. "It's a long process that takes about a year to get through from application to designation. It means that we have the education and the ability to handle basic trauma."

Right now, the closest level four trauma designated hospital is St. Francis Memorial Hospital in West Point. Sioux City's Mercy Medical Center and Norfolk's Faith Regional Health Services are both higher level trauma centers, but as Sievers pointed out, some times the half hour-plus drive is too far.

"Doing chest compressions for that ambulance ride to Sioux City or Norfolk is very difficult," she said. "Being basic trauma designated means we can get a patient stable and ready to move to a higher level of care."

And that can make all the difference in patient outcomes, Sievers said. Timing is huge in trauma, but so is coordination between those first on the scene and those waiting at the hospital.

Which is why Sievers is pushing for more communication and teamwork between the hospital and the area fire departments and EMTs.

If a trauma occurs in rural Laurel, their fire department and EMTs are going to respond and call ahead to PMC, according to Sievers. If everyone is receiving the same information on how to handle a trauma and everyone is on the same page when the patient comes through the doors, the team of nurses and physicians at PMC are able to address issues much faster.

Having the course taught by UNMC helps to fulfill both the education requirements to be trauma designated and also Sievers' goal of teamwork amongst the area departments and PMC.

"We're very lucky that we got the UNMC program to come through here. There are a lot of facilities that want it and they were able to squeeze us in," Sievers said. "Having everyone get the same information on trauma response really benefits the patients and makes for better patient outcomes."

The course itself is geared for smaller hospitals and EMTs to become better prepared for the inevitable rural-setting traumas and also with pediatric traumas.

Sievers pointed out that while traumatic accidents do cause traumatic injuries, trauma response isn't just for the car wreck or cattle chute accident. Trauma is also breaking a leg or slipping and breaking an arm.

Every topic covered by the course, Sievers said, has a very real possibility of walking through the doors at PMC.

"I want our nurses and the EMTs to be able to go out on a scene and prioritize. The class showed how to look past a huge wound and not let it distract you because there are probably other issues."

Sievers said for nurses and EMTs, the information given at the course is the stuff they "thrive off of" and it's what pushes them to be better at their jobs.

"We're always looking for new and better ways to be more efficient and to become more knowledgeable and this was one of those ways."

Commissioners approve budget with lowest tax dollar request since 2013

By Calyn Dunklau
calyn@wayneherald.com

In a recent meeting of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, the 2017-2018 budget totaling $21,606,880 was approved.

This budget has the lowest tax dollar request since 2013 at $4,590,091.02. The 3.8 percent decrease dropped the tax dollar request by $177,298.72.

This decrease comes in spite of the valuation of the county overall jumping $3.9 million to total $1,908,675,422.

Changes to the general fund's cash reserve came in an attempt to offset new legislation that no longer allows the county to levy against delinquent taxes. Those monies were used as a general fund of sorts as they came in.

The general fund's cash reserve increased from $600,000 to an even $1 million, but $300,000 of that jump was covered by a transfer of inheritance tax monies to avoid any increase in the tax dollar request.

Also included in the general fund for the upcoming year is the funds necessary to hire another Sheriff's Deputy and all the equipment, including cruiser, that is required for such a position.

Another area of the budget discussed was the county's improvement fund, which includes the completion of the new garage and upcoming courthouse security upgrades.

Future plans for the fund include masonry work on the courthouse exterior, chiller replacement, concrete replacement in some places as well as courthouse security measures and roof replacement on the courthouse.

In other news, community liaison Jerad Reimers gave an update on Congressman Adrain Smith's office and asked the commissioners to share any concerns with him so he could relay them to Congressman Smith.

Bids were received for a new tandem axle semi for Commissioner Jim Rabe's district. Nearly 20 bids came in, forcing the commissioners to table the issue until a spread sheet showing all the details of each bid could be made.

Highway Superintendent Mark Casey gave a brief update on bridge projects around the county including the Carroll bridge, which now has a deck poured. Completion on the project is looking like end of September, according to Casey.

The next meeting of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners will take place Sept. 12 at 9 a.m. at the Wayne County Courthouse.

Celebrating another upset win

It was pandemonium on the Wayne High sidelines Friday as the final seconds ticked off on the Blue Devils' 34-30 upset of ninth-ranked Boone Central/Newman Grove Friday at Memorial Stadium. The win was Wayne High's second in a row over a ranked opponent this season, vaulting them into the No. 7 position in the Lincoln Journal Star rankings and No. 9 in the Omaha World-Herald. Highlights are in this week's Sports section. After the game, coach Russ Plager enjoys the win in the postgame huddle.

Diane R. Borgmann

Diane R. Borgmann, 64, of Norfolk, died Wednesday, Aug. 30, 2017 at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha.

Memorial services were held Wednesday, Sept. 6 at Trinity Lutheran Church in Hoskins.

Burial was in Hillcrest Memorial Park Cemetery in Norfolk. The Rev. Rodney Rixe officiated.

Diane R. Borgmann was born Sept. 9, 1952 in Norfolk to Gerald and Ruth (Christiansen) Bruggeman. She attended grade school at Trinity Lutheran School in Hoskins, where she was confirmed in 1966. She graduated from Winside High School in 1970 and attended and graduated from Joseph's College of Beauty in Norfolk in 1995. She married William "Bill" Borgmann on Oct. 18, 1975 at Trinity Lutheran Church in Hoskins. She was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, Hoskins, and the church Ladies Aid. After marriage, Diane and Bill lived in the Hoskins and Norfolk area.

She worked at Northwestern Bell from 1970 to 1981 as a telephone operator. She then worked as a bartender in Hoskins for 20 years and as a beautician for five years at Pat's Beauty Salon in Hoskins. Diane was a fan of many sports. She enjoyed playing volleyball in high school, as well as softball in Norfolk and Hoskins and league shuffleboard. Diane especially enjoyed watching Husker football and volleyball as well as NASCAR races. Diane often attended sprint car races in Nebraska and surrounding areas as a young girl, and the enjoyment of going to the races with family and friends continued for decades. Diane also enjoyed playing cards with her parents and siblings. She was active in her children's grade school.

Kathy Fink

Kathy Fink, 68, of Omaha, formerly of Wayne, died Friday, Sept. 1, 2017 at the Josie Harper Hospice House in Omaha.

Services will be held Friday, Sept. 8 at 10:30 a.m. at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne. The Rev. Jeanne Madsen and Chaplain Deb Hammer will officiate. Visitation will be Thursday, Sept. 7 from 5 to 8 p.m. at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne with family present.

Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery in Wayne.

Memorials may be directed to the Fink family for later designation. Arrangements are with Hasemann Funeral Home of Wayne.

Kathleen Kay Fink was born March 29, 1949 in Bloomfield to Elmer and Evelyn "Mike" (Lovejoy) Klein. She was raised on a thriving northeast Nebraska farm where she contributed to the daily responsibilities of life on the farm. She attended nearby Crofton High School where she was crowned Crofton's Jubilee Queen. After graduating high school in 1967, she attended Wayne State College to pursue a degree in education. During her time at WSC, she was involved in numerous campus activities and was even crowned Queen of the Green and Homecoming Queen during her time there. While at Wayne State, she met her future husband Ron Fink of Schiller Park, Ill. Kathy graduated college in 1971 and started her teaching career at Wayne Community Schools. Ron and Kathy were married in 1972 and planted their own family roots in Wayne where they raised two children, Jason and Carrie. Kathy taught typing, Home Economics, Family & Consumer Science for 33 years, impacting the countless lives of her students and colleagues. After retiring from Wayne Public Schools in 2006, Kathy worked for Haven House in Wayne supporting women in need and also did a short interim at WSC teaching Family & Personal Relationships before moving to their cabin on beautiful Lewis & Clark Lake. Kathy enjoyed hosting her family and friends for long summer weekends and holidays at the cabin. In 2014, after the passing of her beloved husband Ron, Kathy moved to Omaha, where she spent much of her time reconnecting with friends, attending her grandchildren's activities, and sewing. In the last few years, she acquired a passion for yoga, which she did nearly every morning. She also shared a dear relationship with her special friend, Jim Fletcher, who was a dedicated companion in her final years.

Survivors include her three sisters: Judy (Carl) Mumm of LaVista, Barb (Bruce) Debban of Richland, Wash. and Pat (Greg) Hotovy of Lincoln; a brother, Jerry (Lisa) Klein of Venice, Fla.; children: Jason (Annie) Fink of Omaha and Carrie (Brady) Borner of Omaha; grandchildren: Mckoy, Ayden, Josey, Drew and Anna; sister-in-law, Suzanne Andrews of Jamestown, R.I.; nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her parents; husband, Ron on June 10, 2014; brothers-in-law, Carl Mumm and Paul Andrews; and parents-in-law, Frank and Olga (Seplak) Fink.

Pallbearers will be Gene Casey, Randy Pedersen, Don Larsen, Mike Vovos, John Murtaugh, Rick Barner, Dan Rose and Roger Lentz.

Esther (Smith) Orr

Esther Margaret (Smith) Orr, 88, formerly of Omaha, died Friday, Sept. 1, 2017 at Heritage of Bel-Air in Norfolk.

A memorial service will be held in the chapel at Roeder Mortuary, 2727 N 108th Street in Omaha on Thursday, Sept. 7 at 10:30 a.m. with visitation preceding the service. Burial will follow at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Omaha.

Esther Margaret (Smith) Orr was born June 10, 1929 in Omaha. She was baptized in 1929 at Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church near Hoskins. She lived in several Nebraska and Iowa towns during her childhood. She and Clinton Orr were married at Covenant Presbyterian Church in Omaha in 1947 and shared their love for 66 years. Five children were born from this union. Esther taught Sunday School, played guitar for services and programs, was active in and awarded an honorary life membership to Presbyterian Women. She served with her husband as Skippers of the church Mariners group, and both guided their five children by their example on how to live their Christian faith.

Esther demonstrated her love for God, her husband, family and community. She was a dedicated home-maker, valued education and was involved in her husband's and children's interests. She was a past commander of the Wives of Submarine Veterans of WWII, volunteered as a Camp Fire Girls leader for many years, diligently sewed Cub Scout and Girl Scout badges on uniforms, and was a creative seamstress. In 1998 she was awarded the Admiral of the Great Navy of the State of Nebraska certificate by Governor Ben Nelson for her patriotism. Esther's talents included china painting, embroidery, knitting, crocheting and quilting. She also enjoyed her flower gardens. After the children were grown, she enjoyed two trips to England with her husband to visit friends.

Esther loved music, especially playing the Hawaiian and Spanish guitars. Her first recital was at the age of eight at the Honolulu Conservatory of Music in Omaha where she later taught and became co-manager. At age 16, with support from her mother, she opened the Aloha Isle Guitar Studio where she taught guitar, enjoyed performing with her students, and judging competitions in the region. She graduated from Omaha Technical High School in 1946, and studied business at the University of Nebraska at Omaha. After the youngest child started school, Esther was employed as a cafeteria worker for the Omaha Public Schools, retiring in 1994. During retirement, she volunteered at the neighborhood Salvation Army store, continued serving the community through church projects, enjoyed her flower gardens and spending time with grandchildren.

Survivors include her four children, Lynne (Teri) Orr of Uehling, Sue (Donald) Buryanek of Wayne, John (Kerri) Orr of Denton, Texas, Tom Orr of Omaha, and son-in-law John Conoan; one aunt, Margie Meyer; sisters-in-law, Beverly Smith and Jennie Jacobs; 27 grandchildren, 25 great grandchildren; nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Clinton J.H. Orr; daughter, Karen (Orr) Conoan; parents, Edward C. and Leta J. Smith; sisters, Edna Postlewait and Evelyn Smith; brother, Edward D. (Eddie) Smith; brother-in-law Jack Postlewait; mother-in-law Ruth A. Orr; sister-in-law and brother-in-law, Ann and Wilford C. Orr, brother-in-law W.L. (Pat) Jacobs.

Looking Ahead in Wayne

By Wes Blecke,
City Administrator

City Council meetings

Regular Wayne City Council meetings are at 5:30 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month.

Activity Center Hours

The Wayne Community Activity Center will be monitoring hours of activity through the end of the year to see if changes need to be made to open hours. Make sure you are always scanning your membership card at the front desk so we have accurate data moving forward with discussions on possible adjustments to these open hours.

Victor Park Trail Closure

The south trail head at Victor Park is closed for the next month or so. This is due to a Logan Creek bank stabilization project that the City has under construction. The purpose of this is to help stabilize the creek bank by the trail underpass.

This project will also see a few new concrete panels on the trail as some have cracked and started sinking. There are signs posted showing this closure. Please respect the contractors and your own safety and stay off of this trail stretch until they are finished.

Budget

The City Council passed at its Sept 5 meeting the budget for the 2017-2018 fiscal year (or FY 2018). The tax levy (or rate) stayed the same from last year at 0.449995.

This means that if your property is valued at $100,000 you would pay $450 to the City next year in property taxes. This includes the general fund (police, admin, etc) as well as debt service (i.e. streets) and the municipal airport.

Your tax bill as a resident of the City of Wayne will obviously be more than this as the other taxing entities, besides the City, include Wayne County, Wayne Community Schools, Northeast Community College, Natural Resource District (NRD), Educational Service Unit (ESU), Rural Fire District and the Wayne County Ag Society (County Fair)

Providence Medical Center announces completion of capital campaign

Recently, Providence Medical Center announced the completion of its capital campaign with exciting news.

Not only had generous donors stepped forward to contribute toward the fundraising, but in addition, the Gardner Foundation awarded PMC with a grant totalling $1 million, pushing the total funds raised in the capital campaign to $2.5 million.

According to Sandra Bartling, President of the Providence Medical Center Foundation, the foundation was created in 1961 for the purpose of building a hospital in Wayne. It was not until in the 70's when the Missionary Benedictine Sisters offered to build a hospital, if the community would provide matching funds -- and it was the hospital foundation that provided the match for the $1 million hospital.

"Over all these years, the hospital foundation has existed as the community's arm in supporting the Wayne hospital, known since 1975 as Providence Medical Center, and has helped with major capital projects since that time. This latest $2.5 million campaign for PMC renovation and expansion has been no exception," says Bartling. "The foundation has donated $150,000 to the campaign."

Board members had this to say about the feat:

"Back a number of years ago, I was a member of the Wakefield Rescue Unit, and at that time I saw opportunities for new emergency care technologies but they had a cost," says long-time Foundation Board member, Lowell Johnson, of Wayne. "I joined the PMC Foundation Board of Directors in 1990 to be part of area private support for emergency services and medical care. My heartfelt thanks goes out to the generous area benefactors, large and small, who have invested in future technology and services for Providence Medical Center through the foundation."

"I would like to thank the community of Wayne and surrounding areas for their generous contributions to the foundation for the hospital's "Quality Care Close to Home" Capital Campaign. It shows that we all feel the need to have a hospital that we can be proud of and it is a valuable asset to our community," said Foundation Board Chair, William Claybaugh of Carroll.

Providence CEO Jim Frank had these words to say regarding the donations and the project's completion:

"On behalf of the Board of Directors and staff of Providence Medical Center, I want to thank the Wayne community and the entire northeast Nebraska area for the generous support we have received for our capital campaign. We look forward to completing our construction project in March of 2018 and celebrating the completion of our facility renovation. Thank you for your patience and support as we have navigated the renovation process."

Budget, CAC hours debated by council

By Clara Osten

clara@wayneherald.com

Property owners in Wayne will see no increase in the tax asking from the city following the adoption of the 2017-2018 budget at Tuesday's City Council meeting.

Nancy Braden, City Finance Director, highlighted some of the changes in the coming year's budget and explained how final numbers were calculated.

The taxes a homeowner pays may be slightly higher in the coming year, based on the valuation of the home and the $450 per $100,000 in valuation reflects only the city's share of the tax asking. Other entities, such as the county and school, also receive tax dollars from property owners.

Following Braden's presentation and questions from council members, the council voted unanimously to adopt the 2017-2018 Budget, the final property tax request, the annual appropriation bill and the allowable one percent increase in base limitation of restricted funds budget.

All are necessary prior to the start of the city's next fiscal year, which is Oct. 1.

Council members took no action on a recommendation from Bryce Meyer, Recreation Director, to reduce hours at the Community Activity Center (CAC).

Debate centered on how many patrons use the CAC after 9 p.m. and whether or not it was feasible to continue to remain open until 10 p.m.

Currently the CAC closes at the same time the pool does in the summer and remains open later from Sept. 1 through May 31.

Also debated was the need to stay open late on Saturdays and Sundays.

Council member Matt Eischeid asked Meyer to come back to council with numbers of users during the time frame in question. These numbers and the question of hours of operation will be discussed at a council meeting in January.

In other action, the council approved the appointment of Heather Headley as Library Director for the Wayne Public Library.

Headley is a Wayne native and worked at the library on a part-time basis through high school before earning a degree in Library Science. She will begin her duties Oct. 2 and will replace retiring director Lauren Lofgren.

Randall Robertson became the newest member of the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department following approval by the council.

Council members approved a request from Wayne State College for a fireworks display on Saturday, Sept. 9.

This display will be similar to that of last year. Wayne Volunteer Fire Chief Phil Monahan said he had no concerns with the lighting of fireworks but did ask the college to notify the hospital and care center, as well as residents in the area before the event.

Approval was given for a Class LK Liquor License for Johnnie Byrd Brewing Company.

Greg Ptacek, owner of the brewery, showed council members a drawing of the building and explained the area in which beer will be brewed and where serving will take place. Due to delays in getting equipment, the business has pushed back the opening date until sometime in late October.

Resolution 2017-82 was approved, formalizing the agreement between the city of Wayne and Providence Medical Center for ambulance service.

City Administrator Wes Blecke thanked PMC Administrator Jim Frank for the work he and the hospital board have done on the agreement over the last several months.

The Wayne City Council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, Sept. 19 at 5:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Our Savior Lutheran Church installs second Little Free Library

Members of Our Savior Lutheran Church recently installed a Little Free Library in East Park in Wayne.

This is the second library the church and its members have installed. Just over a year ago, a Little Free Library was dedicated on the grounds of the church's Front Porch building, near the site of the former Carnige Library.

The new library is located on the west side of East Park, along Walnut Street.

Ray Novak and Dave and Sue Olson have been primarily responsible for the construction of the libraries.

Members of the congregation have provided a variety of books for readers of all ages. Donations of books are being accepted for the project and they can be dropped off at Our Savior Lutheran Church, located at Fifth and Pearl Streets.

The Little Free Library is designed to carry on the mission of other such libraries - "To promote literacy and the love of reading by building free book exchanges worldwide and to build a sense of community as we share skills, creativity and wisdom across generations."

There are over 36,000 Little Free Library book exchanges around the world, bringing curbside literacy home and sharing millions of books annually.

The idea behind the Little Free Library is to take a book, read it and then bring it back. There is a note on the side of the door (of the library) explaining that this is a library, not a birdhouse, and how the program works.

The newest Wayne Little Free Library is located on the world map of the Little Free Library website.

A third library is being planned by Our Savior Lutheran Church. It will be located at Bressler Park.

In addition to the Our Savior Lutheran Church Little Free Libraries, a fourth library is located on private property at the home of Jason and Vickie Schulz. It is located at 211 Maple Street.

Loftis named 'Reader of the Week'

This week's Reader of the Week at the Wayne Public Library is Charissa Loftis.

What is the last book you read? (Or a recent read)? Title & Author

The last book that I read was Ian McEwan's, Atonement. I'm currently reading News of the World, by Paulette Jiles.

Who is your favorite author?

John Steinbeck is my favorite author, but Louise Erdrich may soon take the lead.

Why do you read?

Reading is cheap entertainment! It's also a good way to learn and explore the world from the comfort of your own couch. Reading can be a useful topic for small talk. "What have you been reading lately?" is a great way to spark a conversation.

Have you ever had to give up on a book?

I never used to but then my good friend, Linda Anderson, told me about her "100 page rule." If she's not hooked by 100 pages she moves on. I thought this was a brilliant idea and have since used it with reckless abandon.

Name a book you would recommend and tell everyone why they should read it.

My top recommendation is Larry McMurtry's Pulitzer Prize winning, "Lonesome Dove." You might think that Westerns aren't your cup of tea, but the richness and depth of the characters and riveting storyline make this book a page-turner. Everyone that I have recommended this to has en-

Is there anything else you'd like to comment on about your passion for reading?

I never go anywhere without something to read.

I moved to Wayne 11 years ago after accepting a position as a reference librarian at the college. I have enjoyed living in the community. In my spare time I teach yoga at the college and Providence Wellness Center.

Wayne High NHS induction ceremony to be held Sept. 18

The principal and faculty of Wayne Jr./Sr. High School have announced that 18 students have been selected for membership in the Wayne High School chapter of the National Honor Society.

More than just an honor roll, National Honor Society serves to recognize students who have demonstrated excellence in the areas of scholarship, leadership, service, and character. Membership not only recognizes students for their accomplishments, but challenges them to develop further through active involvement in school activities and providing community service.

Those students who will be inducted include the following: Shania Anderson, Samuel Bruckner, Nathan Burrows, Halie Chinn, Miranda Fehring, Austin Fernau, Jamie Gamble, Grace Heithold, Cole Hochstein, Kendra Holt, Elizabeth Junck, Ky Kenny, Isaiah Longe, Kecia Schenk, Colton Spahr, Andrea Torres, Jenna Trenhaile and Sarah Wibben.

The community is invited to an induction ceremony to be held at Wayne High School Haun Lecture Hall on Monday, Sept. 18 at 6:30 p.m. A brief reception and photos will follow the ceremony.

Anyone with questions is asked to contact adviser Pam Vander Veen at the high school, (402) 375-3150.

 Several of those quilting do have their own long-arm quilting machines and were able to take the quilts home to complete the quilting process.
 Each quilter works at her own pace, but it is estimated that each quilt takes 12-15 hours to complete.

All the quilts are paid for with private donations, along with several grants. Thrivent donations have also been received for the project.
 "I have had wonderful support from my customers for this project. We are always looking for more quilters to get involved and anyone who would like to become a part of the group or donate to the project can contact me here at the Quilt Shop," Sievers said.
 Plans are being made to distribute these quilts in coming weeks in all the home towns of the quilters who took part in the project.

Chamber Coffee

Bryce Meyer, Director of the Community Activity Center (right) spoke during last week's Chamber Coffee. He thanked the community for its support in recent months. Through generous contributions, the CAC was able to purchase a number of new things for the Youth Center, including a TV, ping-pong tables and tables and chairs for those students using the room to complete homework. Meyer also talked about the facility and upcoming activities.

Dick and Becky Keidel, Habitat for Humanity supporters, were honored for their dedication to the program at the August meeting.

Habitat supporters honored recently

Longtime Wayne residents and members of the Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity group, Dick and Becky Keidel were recently honored by members of Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity.
 At the August meeting, Becky and Dick were praised for their continual dedication and support of this local organization. The couple were instrumental in establishing the Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity in October of 2001 and have been dedicated to the "theology of the hammer" ever since. They have served in various offices and on various committees.
 "Their commitment and contributions to those who need decent, affordable housing in this area has been an inspiration to all of us. Truly, they have expressed the love of God in a real and concrete manner," said Ann Witkowski, a long-time member of Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity who has worked with the Keidels.
 Dick and Becky are moving to Lincoln to be with family and board members noted, "they will be missed."

Winside boys take second at Wisner-Pilger meet

BEEMER — Winside had to runners place in the top 15 as the Wildcats came away with runner-up honors in boys competition at the season-opening Wisner-Pilger Invitational Thursday at Indian Trails Country Club.

Dylan Brogren finished 10th in a time of 19:41.70 and JaShaun Vyborny was two places behind at 19:46.30 to lead Winside, as they broke a tie with Lyons-Decatur for the runner-up plaque.

LCC's boys finished 12th out of 16 teams and were led by Ryan Bathke and Sean Aschoff, who finished 31st and 39th, respectively.

In girls action, Kayli Naeve was 39th and Vanessa Vance with 48th for LCC, while Andi Belt finished 36th as Wayne's lone JV runner.

In JV action, Trace Naeve finished eighth to lead area runners. Eddie Olander and Josh Greunke finished 18th and 24th, respectively.

Mason Lee carries two Cardinal defenders into the end zone for the winning touchdown with less than two minutes to go in Wayne's 34-30 win over Boone Central/Newman Grove. Lee had a huge night with three touchdown catches and a return of the opening kickoff for another score.

Blue Devils 'keep playing' to pull off second upset

Wayne gets second win in a row over Top 10 team

By Michael Carnes
For The Herald

Keep playing.

As the game wore on and the clock kept ticking, Wayne High football coach Russ Plager turned to the players who were going in and out of the game and kept repeating the simple two-word phrase to keep his team motivated.

"Keep playing, boys."

And play they did.

The Blue Devils battled back from a 15-point second-quarter deficit to tie the game in the fourth quarter, then watched senior Mason Lee provide the best illustration of their coach's pleas by catching a pass from Beau Bowers, dodging two Boone Central/Newman Grove defenders and taking three more into the end zone with 1:39 left to give the rejuvenated Blue Devils their second straight upset of a top 10-ranked team with a wild 34-30 win over the ninth-ranked Cardinals in Wayne's home opener Friday at Wayne State College's Cunningham Field.

Even as the visitors responded to Lee's 86-yard return of the opening kickoff with a dominant drive to take a 7-6 lead in the opening period, Plager reminded his charges of what their duties were.

Keep playing.

When a bad punt snap and a minus-5 yard punt gave Wayne the ball at the Cardinals' 9-yard line and they could only manage a 24-yard Juan Vergara field goal out of the opportunity, Plager's words remained consistent.

Keep playing.

When the Cardinals scored two more times to make it a 21-9 game late in the first half, the response was the same.

Keep playing.

Ryan Jaixen responded with an 85-yard kickoff return for a score that gave the Blue Devils a lift, cutting BC/NG's lead to six at intermission, 21-15.

"We talked about keeping up and playing every down, we've talked about effort to the whistle, we've talked about facing adversity when we're in different situations and the kids are buying into it and you saw that today."
Coach Russ Plager

And so it was throughout the evening, as Wayne battled back in the third with Bowers-to-Lee connections of 74 and 24 yards to tie the game, and even after the Cardinals took their last lead on a 31-yard field goal with just over five minutes left, the coach continued his mantra.

Keep playing.

"It's something we talk about," Plager said after the big win. "I'm a big believer that if you focus on something and practice on something and you talk about something, it's going to bleed over into the game. We talked about keeping up and playing every down, we've talked about effort to the whistle, we've talked about facing adversity when we're in different situations and the kids are buying into it and you saw that today."

And so they did. After the Cardinals regained their 12-point lead on a Levi Kruger score early in the third period, the Blue Devils responded with passes of 74 and 24 yards from Bowers to Lee to make it a 27-27 game going into the final period.

Boone Central kicked a 31-yard field goal with less than six minutes to go to take their final lead, setting up the Blue Devils' game-winning drive.

Wayne marched the ball up the field, getting a key third-down conversion on a run by Casey Koenig. A few plays later, Bowers found Lee on the near side and hit the senior receiver at about the 20 yard line. Lee looked as if he might go out of bounds to stop the clock, but instead, he cut back to the inside, escaped three Cardinal defenders, then carried two more into the end zone with 1:39 to go to give Wayne the go-ahead score.

There was a scary moment on the ensuing kickoff when Mike Leatherdale went down with what appeared to be a concussion, but the Blue Devils regrouped and kept playing to the final whistle, which came after Boone Central tried to throw a short pass that eventually led to the play being stopped on the Wayne sideline, setting off the postgame celebration of a big win over the No. 6 (Lincoln Journal Star) and No. 9 (Omaha World-Herald) team in the state.

"It was huge," Jaixen said after the game. "It started in practice this week and we just kept repeating effort, effort, effort and keep going to the whistle and go hard like you will in the game. When all 11 of us do it, it's not too hard."

It's also helpful when you have someone who has as huge a night as Lee had. Counting the 161 yards in punt and kick returns, the senior accounted for more than 340 total yards on the night and scored four touchdowns, three by reception and one with his opening 86-yard kickoff return for a score.

"People don't understand how talented that young man is," Plager said. "He's a really talented young man and we have to get the ball in his hands as much as we can because he can do great things for us."

Wayne made some adjustments in its kickoff return unit that paid off as well, as Lee and Jaixen both returned kicks for scores.

"Coach (Dave) Wragge has done a great job with those kids," Plager said. "We have simple returns that we're executing really well and have some talented players making

Wakefield netters go 1-4 in Northeast Nebraska Classic

The Wakefield volleyball team opened the 2017 season with a 1-4 effort in the Northeast Nebraska Classic, finishing 0-3 in the Silver bracket.

In pool play Thursday, Wakefield beat B-R/L-D 25-23, 25-21 before losing to Wisner-Pilger, 25-13, 25-20.

In the B-R/L-D matchup, Jessica Borg led the net attack with six kills, Andrea Lopez and Breanna Chase each had three and Rachel Brudigam had two. Misty Beltran had two ace serves. Chase had eight assists and Borg added four. Defensively, Emma Pommer had seven blocks, Borg had five, Lopez had three and Chase and Hayden Ekberg each had two. Brudigam had 10 digs, Chase had eight, Jamie Dolph had seven and Borg had six.

Against Wisner-Pilger, Borg had five kills and Brudigam and Chase each had two. Borg had five blocks and Pommer and Devaney Brown each had three. Borg had four assists and Chase had three. Chase led the defense with 10 digs, Borg had nine, Borwn had six and Brudigam had five.

On Saturday, the Trojans went 0-3 on the day, losing a three-set match to Tekamah-Herman (23-25, 25-14, 25-19) before falling in straight sets to Guardian Angels CC (25-14, 25-20) and Lutheran High Northeast (26-24, 25-23).

In the first match, Lopez had five kills, Chase added four and Brown and Borg each had three. Lopez also led with three ace serves. Borg had four blocks and nine assists, while Chase added five assists. Dolph and Lopez each had 18 digs, Chase had 14, Borg had 12 and Brudigam had 11.

In the GACC match, Borg had three digs and Brown and Pommer both had two. Borg had two blocks and three assists, Chase had three assists, and Dolph and Borg each had eight digs while Lopez added seven.

Against LHNE, Borg had 11 kills, Brown added six and Chase and Pommer each had four. Chase had 14 assists and Borg added seven. Dolph and Chase both had two ace serves, Borg had three blocks, and Lopez and Dolph led in digs with 16 and 11, respectively. Brudigam added nine digs and Chase had eight.

Wakefield will host their own tournament with games Thursday and Saturday at Wakefield High School.

Eagles race past Wildcats 42-0

If defense wins championships, the Allen Eagles are starting to make their mark on a path for just that as a stifling defensive effort, combined with a second-period offensive explosion led the team to a 42-0 win at Cedar Bluffs Friday night.

Cedar Bluffs was the bigger team by far and put together two offensive drives that the Eagles thwarted early in the game on downs. The offensive controlled the ball most of the later part of the first period and the entire second period.

Kyle Smith broke the scoring for the Eagles late in the first period on a 28-yard run for a 6-0 advantage, and field position set the Eagles on their way to the second score, as Blake McCorkindale knifed in from two yards out to make it 12-0.

The Eagles continued the first-half onslaught, scoring three times in a four-minute stretch to close the first half on scoring runs by Smith and

O.T. Roth. Roth's 16-yard run was sandwiched around runs of 1 and 32 yards by Smith, helping the Eagles build a 36-0 halftime advantage. With a running clock in the second half, the Eagles tacked on the final score of the night on a Smith 10-yard run early in the third period.

"The defensive effort made and scheme presented during the week were excellent," coach Dave Uldrich said. "It was fun to watch four or five hats to the ball on almost every play. If we continue to do our jobs both offensively and defensively, we will be a fairly good club. As always, the coaches find things to continue to work on and we cannot rest on two wins, but focus on a bigger prize."

The Eagle defensive was stellar against Cedar Bluffs all night, allowing only 13 yards rushing on 22 attempts that forced the Wildcats to throw the ball. The Eagle secondary did a fine job, allowing only four receptions in 16 attempts with Devin Twohit intercepting a pass.

Smith, ran 14 times for 149 yards with four touchdowns to lead the Eagles' 379-yard night in total offense. McCorkindale had 73 yards on 13 totes, and led the defensive charges with eight stops. Freshman Kobe Kumm rumbled 75 yards on 10 carries. Anthony Isom and Steven Cooks each added a fumble recovery.

The win raised the Eagles record to 2-0. They are off this week and will host Elkhorn Valley for homecoming on Sept. 15.

Ashton Boyer (7) and Lauren Pick try to stop a Bergan attack during the Northeast Nebraska Classic at Wisner-Pilger. The Blue Devils went 0-3 in the Gold bracket, playing three tough matches against top 10-rated teams.

Blue Devils take fourth in Gold bracket at Nebraska Classic

WISNER — Going 0-3 in a four-team, round-robin bracket doesn't sound like much of a positive, but Wayne High volleyball coach Traci Krusemark saw some good things from her young team.

The Blue Devils won their three-team pool in the Northeast Nebraska Classic on Thursday in Pender, then found themselves in a four-team Gold bracket that included two preseason-ranked teams. Wayne took two of the three teams to three sets in best-of-three action, but came up short in all three matches.

"We're a good ball club but we're not great yet," she said after losing their final match of the day to Class C-1 ranked North Bend Central in three sets. "We have the potential to be great and I think this team is just getting better each game. We went 0-3 and I hate to lose, but I'm seeing a lot of potential in this team that we can do some good things."

Wayne opened the tournament Thursday with a pair of easy wins in pool play, sweeping Tekamah-Herman (25-12, 25-22) and Pender (25-4, 25-9).

In the Tekamah-Herman game, Kylie Hammer had seven kills and Lauren Pick and Ashton Boyer each had six. Allison Avery had 19 assists. Defensively, Hammer and Emily Armstrong each had nine digs and Korrina Niemann had seven.

In the Pender game, Hammer had seven kills and Boyer and Katelyn Grone each had five. Armstrong had three service aces, and Avery had 16 assists. Armstrong had 11 digs and Hailey Backer added six.

On Saturday, Wayne opened with a two-set loss to Wisner-Pilger, who was ranked in the preseason, losing 25-13, 25-21. They followed that with a 25-22, 23-25, 25-18 loss to Archbishop Bergan, then ended the day with a loss to state-rated North Bend Central, 25-23, 23-25, 25-18.

"All three of those teams are great teams and are all really tall teams," Krusemark said. "I thought we played pretty good defense and did some things well, but not enough to win the match. Winning a game from two of those teams, though, was pretty good."

In the Wisner-Pilger match, Pick had seven kills and Shania Anderson added three. Armstrong had 10 blocks, Hammer had 12 digs and Avery had 12 assists.

Against Bergan, Hammer, Armstrong and Pick each had seven kills, Boyer had five and Anderson put down three. Boyer had two blocks, Hammer had 20 digs and Niemann added 17, and Avery had 25 assists while Erin O'Reilly had three.

In the North Bend match, Pick had 10 kills, Anderson added six and Hammer and Boyer each had four. Hammer and Pick both had two ace serves. Armstrong and Pitck each had three blocks, Armstrong had 12 digs and Boyer added nine, and Avery had 16 assists while O'Reilly added six.

Wayne plays in the North Bend Central Invitational on Saturday.

Young medalist, Wayne second at Stanton

Brooke Young of Laurel-Concord-Coleridge was the medalist and the Wayne girls claimed the runner-up trophy in the Stanton Invitational golf tournament Friday in Stanton.

Young was the only golfer to shoot under 100, finishing with a 93 to win by 14 shots over Georgia Witte of Archbishop Bergan. Wayne's Hana Nelsen was third with a 111.

Nelsen led the Blue Devils to a team score of 491, finishing runner-up to Archbishop Bergan's 462. Megan Keiser placed eighth with a 118 and Kecia Schenk shot 127 to finish 10th. Natalie Bentjen shot 135 and Liz Junck carded a 137.

Taylor French shot 131 to finish 13th while competing as a JV player. Other area scores included Glenda Vance and Nicole Hanson of LCC, shooting 157 and 164, respectively.

Wayne played in the Battle Creek Invitational on Tuesday. Wayne and LCC will be at the Pierce Invitational on Saturday.

Lady Bears drop five-set thriller to start season

The LCC Lady Bears opened the season Thursday with a five-set thriller at Randolph, coming up on the short end of a 19-25, 25-19, 25-20, 25-27, 15-9 decision.

After losing the first set, the Lady Bears bounced back to win the next two sets and take a 2-1 advantage.

The Lady Bears looked to be in contention to close the match in four sets, but Randolph came back from a 21-17 deficit to tie the match at 24-24. LCC regained the lead at 25-24, but Randolph scored the final three points to force a deciding fifth set, and used that momentum to end up with the victory.

Bryn Schutte led the Lady Bears with 12 kills, Lorna Maxon added eight and Delaney Ehlers put down five. Ashley Wolfgram had four kills, Abbie Bloom and Erica Wolfgram each had two and Jozie Schutte had one. Bloom had 29 set assists while Maxon added four.

Bloom recorded five ace serves and Holloway had three. Jozie Schutte had four blocks, Maxon put down three and Wolfgram recorded two. Holloway led the defense with 11 digs, Maxon and Bryn Schutte each had eight, Wolfgram and Ehlers both had seven and Jozie Schutte and Jasmine Galvin each had three.

LCC was at Homer on Tuesday and will play in the Wakefield Invitational on Thursday and Saturday before returning home for their Sept. 12 home opener against Emerson-Hubbard.

Wayne rides pitching to doubleheader sweep

Tori Kniesche threw a no-hitter in the opener and fanned a career-high 22 in an extra-inning nightcap as the Wayne High softball team won both ends of a triangular Tuesday in Dodge.

In the opener, Wayne scored 10 runs in the third inning and added six more in the fourth and Kniesche threw her third no-hitter of the season in a 17-0 shutout of host Highway 91.

Wayne got a run in the first when Annie Kniesche doubled home Kennedy Maly for the game's first run, then came through with a 10-spot in the third to break the game open.

Highlights of the big inning included an RBI single by Sidney Biggerstaff, a two-run single by Tori Kniesche, RBI singles by Abby Ankeny and Masyn Dorey, a two-run single by Jenna Trenhaile, another RBI single by Biggerstaff and runs scored on a passed ball and a wild pitch.

Wayne put up six more runs in the fourth on an error, two walks, a Tori Kniesche RBI single, an RBI groundout by Jamie Gamble and an RBI double by Ankeny.

Wayne had 14 hits in the win, with Biggerstaff, Ankeny, Dorey, Tori Kniesche and Annie Kniesche each picking up two hits. Biggerstaff and Tori Kniesche both had three RBIs. Kniesche threw a no-hitter, striking out 10 and allowing two walks.

In the second game, Wayne needed extra innings to take care of Bishop Neumann, scoring four in the ninth to post a 6-2 win.

Wayne got a run in the first when Annie Kniesche scored Trenhaile with a single up the middle. It stayed that way until the fifth, when the Lady Cavs put up two runs to take the lead, but Wayne responded in the sixth when Biggerstaff brought home Trenhaile with a sacrifice fly to make it a 2-2 game.

Wayne got out of trouble in the eighth and came back with four in the top of the ninth. Biggerstaff brought home Kayla Fleming to break the tie and came home on a Neumann error. Nicole Fertig scored on a passed ball and Gamble came home on an error to give Wayne the win.

Tori Kniesche had an amazing game in the circle in the nightcap, recording a career-high 22 strikeouts in the nine-inning affair. She allowed three walks and three hits in the win.

Offensively, Trenhaile had two hits and scored two runs and Biggerstaff had two RBIs.

Wayne, 9-2, is back home Tuesday, Sept. 5 to host Lakeview in a 6:30 p.m. contest.

WSC soccer goes 1-1-1 to start season at Augustana

The Wayne State women's soccer team opened the 2017 campaign with a win, a loss and a tie.

On Thursday, the Wildcats got the season started with a 1-1 deadlock at Augustana in Northern Sun Conference play Thursday at Sioux Falls, S.D.

After battling to a scoreless tie in the first half, the Wildcats drew first blood at the 54:48 mark as junior forward Christina Stasi found the back of the goal from the right side of the box with an assist from Carleigh Wilson.

Augustana tied the score with just over 10 minutes left in regulation as Samantha Tymkowitz scored a goal at the 79:21 mark. Wayne State had a chance to take the lead in the final six minutes when a shot on a free kick from Alexis Strothers hit the crossbar, keeping the score at 1-1 heading into overtime.

The Wildcats held a 2-1 shot edge in the first overtime while Augustana had a 5-0 advantage on shots in the second overtime, but neither team scored as the game ended in a draw.

Augustana finished the contest with a 29-13 edge in shots and 12-4 advantage on corner kicks. Both teams were called for two offsides while Wayne State had one more foul than Augustana 7-6.

Sophomore goalkeeper Rachel Grisham made nine saves while allowing just one goal in her first collegiate start in goal.

On Sunday, visiting Colorado Christian scored three second half goals to defeat the Wildcats 4-2.

CCU opened the scoring in the 22nd minute when Mollie Monson scored, but the Wildcats countered when Bryana Garcia scored off a Sophie Ketchmark pass to make it 1-1 at intermission.

Colorado Christian struck first in the second half as Monson produced her second goal of the match on a header from a corner kick at the 49:56 mark, but Wayne State came back to tie the game again in the 62nd minute, with Brooke Buzzell scoring on a Natalie Rech assist.

Twenty-nine seconds later, Colorado Christian took the lead for good on a blast by Alyssa Regalado blast from 20 yards out, then added an insurance goal late in the match to secure the win.

Colorado Christian finished the match with an 18-16 advantage in shots while the Wildcats had one more corner kick than the Cougars (5-4).

Buzzell led WSC with four shots and one goal while Garcia had two shots with one goal. Ketchmark and Rech were each credited with one assist. Grisham had three saves in the contest.

Four different players scored for Wayne State as the Wildcats recorded a 5-0 shutout of Black Hills State Monday afternoon at the WSC Soccer Pitch, giving coach Joe Cleary his first win as head coach.

Wayne State scored quickly, as Hannah Knight got her first goal as a Wildcat in the ninth minute of the game off an assist from Stasi. Knight scored again at the 39:01 mark of the game off a pass from Bryana Garcia.

The Wildcats would build a 3-0 halftime advantage late in the first half, as Megan Schuster scored off a free kick from Strothers.

In the second half, Madison Burgard scored from close range at the 54:45 mark, and Shelby Bullard closed out the scoring in the closing minutes on a shot from 25 yards out to give Wayne State the easy win.

Wayne State outshot the Yellow Jackets 24-4 and were 11-0 in shots on goal. Wayne State had eight corner kicks to the Yellow Jackets' zero. Goalkeepers Grisham and Sydney Rogers combined for the Wildcats' first clean sheet of the season.

Wayne State (1-1-1) will conclude its non-conference schedule Friday afternoon with a 3 p.m. contest at St. Ambrose University.

Wildcats take forfeit at Fullerton due to numbers

The Winside football team played Friday's game at Fullerton as a JV game due to low numbers, with Fullerton winning 38-0 in a game called at halftime.

The decision to forfeit the varsity game was agreed upon by both teams. Winside, 1-1, next plays Sept. 15 at Scribner-Snyder.

Late score sinks Wayne State Wildcats in season opener

ABERDEEN, S.D. — Northern State's Chaka Kelly scored on a 13-yard touchdown run with :17 left to give Northern State a 23-16 win over Wayne State in the 2017 college football opener for both teams Thursday evening at Swisher Field.

Wayne State took advantage of a Shaq Paddy interception to put the first points of the game on the board. The turnover forced by the Wildcat defense led to a career-long 45-yard field goal by Ethan Knudson to give the Wildcats the early 3-0 advantage.

Wayne State had a chance to increase the advantage later in the opening period, but the Wolves stopped the Wildcats on the Northern State 1-yard line, and the Wolves' offense took the ball down the field before settling on a 30-yard field goal to tie the game at 3-3.

Northern State got another field goal later in the second period to lead 6-3, but Wayne State responded with an 11-play, 75-yard drive that was capped by a 21-yard scoring pass from Zach Osborn to redshirt freshman tight end Conner Paxton to make it 10-6 with :46 left in the half.

Northern State was able to get in field position with time running out, and kicker Nathan Shaw hit his third field goal of the half, a 48-yarder, to make it 10-9 at the break.

Wayne State scored on a six-yard pass from Osborn to Nate Rogers, capping a 12-play, 97-yard drive that gave Wayne State a 16-9 advantage.

Northern State came back late in the third, using a 29-yard pass play to tie the game at 16-16 going to the final period.

Defense ruled the day in the final period. Wayne State had a chance to score but a 50-yard field goal attempt by Knudson fell short with 2:30 left. The Wolves came back, converted a fourth-and-seven to set up the game-winner by Kelly, who went around the right side to score the winning touchdown.

Osborn was 28-of-43 passing for 262 yards and two touchdowns to highlight Wayne State's 382-yard effort in total offense. Willie Walton was the leading receiver with seven grabs for 99 yards, while Layne Sullivan had six catches for 56 yards. Paxton and Rogers each caught four balls for 27 and 23 yards, respectively, with one touchdown apiece. Rashad Trimble led the ground game with 70 yards on 12 carries.

Defensively, Tyler Thomsen led the Wildcats with 13 tackles and two sacks. Odessa Clark had nine stops and DeWayne Scott had eight. Paddy had six tackles to go with his interception.

Wayne State (0-1) will be at home on Saturday evening, Sept. 9, hosting the University of Mary in a 6 p.m. contest at Bob Cunningham Field.

Offensively, Juan Vergara led Wayne's ground game with 30 yards on 12 carries, while Koenig had 14 yards on six tries. Bowers had 10 carries for 10 yards, Lee had two for nine and Jaixen carried once for six yards.

Lee caught six of Bowers' eight pass completions for 178 yards and two scores. Jaixen and Brennen O'Reilly each caught a pass for 19 and six yards, respectively.

Defensively, senior Justin Dean had a big night with 10 tackles, Koenig added nine, Bowers had eight, Lee had seven and Vergara had six to lead the 2-0 Blue Devils.

After winning two big games over ranked opponents, the Blue Devils need to avoid letting up with 1-1 Arlington coming to town. On paper, the Blue Devils should be favored to win the game, but Plager said the focus needs to be on getting better and getting ready for the next opponent.

"We feel good about what we've accomplished the first two weeks, but our focus now is on getting better every week," he said. "We're a raw team and we have so many things we need to work on, and we'll let the wins and losses take care of themselves."

Added Jaixen, "We're going to wake up Saturday, get our lift in and watch some film and go hard for next week."

No. 13 Wildcats go 3-1 to start season

Wayne State started the season as the No. 13 team in the country and won three of four matches in the Oredigger Classic over the weekend in Golden, Colo.

On Friday, the Wildcats posted four-set wins over Rollins (Fla.) and Eastern New Mexico.

In the opener, Jaci Brahmaer had a double-double to help the Wildcats open with a 25-20, 19-25, 25-23, 25-14 win over Rollins. The redshirt freshman had 13 kills and 11 blocks while hitting .345 in her debut in a Wildcat uniform. Erin Gross added 12 kills and five blocks, Maria Wortmann chipped in eight kills and four blocks and Alyssa Ballenger had seven kills and 13 digs. Megan Gebhardt had 37 assists and seven blocks.

Defensively, Haley Kauth led four Wildcats in double figures in digs with 14, while Bree Ackerman had 13 and Hope Carter added 11.

In the second game, Wayne State forced 36 attack errors and posted a 25-16, 19-25, 25-17, 25-14 win over the Greyhounds.

Gross led the way with 13 kills and a .458 attack percentage while Wortmann put down 10 kills and five blocks. Ballenger had nine kills and Katie Stephens added eight. Gebhardt had 42 digs and three service aces.

On Saturday, Wayne State dropped its first match of the season, losing to 15th rated Cal State-San Bernardino in their final match of the day.

Wayne State opened with an easy three-set win over Western New Mexico, winning 25-23, 25-15, 25-20.

The first set saw the two teams exchange nine ties and five lead changes early in the match. WSC then built a 24-19 lead and held off a late Mustang rally to finish the first set. Wortmann produced three kills and four blocks while freshman Ballenger had eight digs to lead the Wildcats. As a team, Wayne State had seven blocks and forced 12 attack errors on the Mustangs.

The Wildcats took control early in the second set, building an 8-2 lead, and never trailed to take a 2-0 advantage. Wortmann had a team-high four kills in the set while Bree Ackermann accounted for two service aces.

The third set was a battle early with 11 ties and five lead changes until Wayne State scored the last five points of the set to break a 20-20 tie to finish the sweep. Katie Stephens had six kills and six digs for the Wildcats in the third set while Ballenger added 10 digs.

Wortmann led the way with 10 kills and eight blocks followed by Stephens with nine kills and 10 digs. Erin Gross added seven kills and five blocks while Ballenger finished with a team-high 22 digs. Gebhardt had 31 set assists and two service aces while Kauth finished with 11 digs.

In the final match, Cal State-San Bernardino dropped the first two sets, but rallied for a 21-25, 16-25, 25-22, 25-19, 18-16 win to hand the Wildcats their first loss of the season.

The first set saw WSC break a 19-19 tie late and pull away with the first set. Brahmaer produced five kills in the first set with Ballenger recording nine digs for the 'Cats.

The Wildcats hit .419 in the second set with 13 kills and no errors to lead from start to take a 2-0 advantage. Gross led a balanced attack with four kills while the Wildcats defense forced eight attack errors on CSSB.

Cal State San Bernardino started their comeback in the third set, holding Wayne State to a .108 attack percentage, then used 18 kills in the fourth set to force the final set.

The fifth set was a battle with the two teams trading nine ties and four lead changes. Wayne State hit .333 in the set with 11 kills and just two errors but Cal State San Bernardino was slightly better at .393 with 14 kills and the Coyotes edged WSC 18-16 to get the win.

Brahmaer paced Wayne State (3-1) with 16 kills and six blocks. Gross added 14 kills with seven blocks while Wortmann accounted for 11 kills and seven blocks. Gebhardt was credited with 43 set assists and had two service aces while Kauth finished with a team-high 24 digs followed by Ballenger with 22.

Wayne State will be back in Colorado next weekend, playing at the CSU Pueblo Tournament Friday and UC-Colorado Springs Tournament Saturday with two matches each day.

Wynot rolls to 38-0 win at LCC

Wynot scored three first-quarter touchdowns and shut down the LCC offense in a 38-0 shutout win Friday at Haskell Stadium.

The visiting Blue Devils opened the scoring with a 38-yard run by Justin Lange, then added two more touchdowns on runs by Lucas Thingstad and Nate Wieseler to lead 24-0 after one period.

Landon Wieseler added a four-yard run in the second period to make it 32-0 at the half, and Thingstad scored again in the third period to close out the shutout win for the visiting Blue Devils.

LCC was held to 117 yards in total offense. Kobe Heitman led the LCC ground attack with 71 yards on eight carries. Izac Reifenrath was 5-of-12 passing for 60 yards, highlighted by a 32-yard pass to Ty Erwin. Heitman caught three passes for 11 yards and Noah Schutte had two catches for 17 yards.

Defensively, Heitman led the way with seven tackles, Wyatt Taylor added six and Zach Dietrich and Cutter Haberman each had five.

The 0-2 Bears are off this week and will resume action Friday, Sept. 15 at Homer.

Heartwarming stories coming from Texas

By: Pat Meierhenry

After days of watching dirty flood waters, we are getting a lot of stories that are upbeat and heart warming. The first one dealt with those guys, mostly rednecks, who hopped in their trucks, some of them monster with those big wheels, hauling boats and canoes, and started rescuing wherever they saw a need.

I sent it to Clange, my long time friend in Houston, and she said that was exactly the way it was! A canoe brought her neighbors to her front door, and no one knows who owned the boat.. Every day, someone comes down the street with Chick Fil-A or Chinese, for whomever has not had lunch.

Today, Kay forwarded an awe inspiring story of a grocery chain named HEB. I have no idea what the letters stand for. They have over a hundred stores in and around Houston. Their command center is in San Antonio, and 83 of the stores were open last week! The guy described getting ready: shipping water and bread. They have their own bread manufacturing, and typically make fifty different kinds of bread. Currently, they are making white, whole wheat, and hot dog buns.

He has ordered toilet paper from every supplier he can think of, and has told his floral supplier to hold up! He's also sending all kinds of canned goods, like tuna, and none that need refrigeration.

The priest at St. Ignatius took a boat to the front door of the church for 7:30 Mass. There were dumpsters floating in the parking lot. He emailed parishioners to stay home and stay safe! He also reminded them of four things:

1. We are the Church.
2. We will rebuild.
3. Our faith will be stronger because of this.
4. What can we do to help?

Texans are showing us why they have such pride in their state, and how they do not rely on government assistance, though it is welcome, too.

We've also followed the great stories of our own Nebraska National Guard and a Federal rescue team including fire fighters from Lincoln. It makes us equally proud. Our donation went to Orphan Grain Train, with trucks heading south immediately

Meanwhile, keep those prayers coming!

Extension educators gathering information on Dicamba use and Palmer amaranth by survey

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension Educator

Nebraska Extension educators and specialists have appreciated hearing from growers and agriculture professionals on suspected injury to soybean from dicamba use in soybean and corn as this helps us understand what problems exist and to formulate helpful suggestions in the future.

We would like to gather more specific information to help identify what factors may have led to increased soybean injury this year. We are asking for your cooperation by taking an online survey. You can access the survey through cropwatch.unl.edu or go directly to <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/VGXDBT9>

Please feel free to include additional information about your experience with dicamba application or suspected injury this summer via email to dicamba@unl.edu.

Now is the time to identify weed escapes in your fields. The big question in many fields is do you have common waterhemp or Palmer amaranth? Neither is good but your herbicide program for next year could be affected.

Sometimes Palmer amaranth is misidentified as common waterhemp. There is a link explaining how to tell the difference between the two pigweed species and other weeds. <http://iwilltakeaction.com/index.php/weeds/identification>

Characteristics to look for in Palmer amaranth include petioles that are longer than the leaf blade. Palmer amaranth tends to have rounder leaves than waterhemp, and the canopy is denser.

The dense canopy contributes to the greater competitiveness of Palmer amaranth, making it much more damaging to crop yields than waterhemp. Female Palmer amaranth flowers have a long (up to ¼") bract that extends beyond the five tepals and seed capsule. The seed capsule is found within the tepals. The bracts become sharp at maturity, making female plants painful to handle. Female waterhemp flowers have a small bract that does not extend beyond the single tepal or seed capsule.

Male plants have a short bract with five tepals. Redroot and smooth pigweed have large bracts, but these species have hairy stems compared to the smooth stems of Palmer amaranth and waterhemp. While the flowers of Palmer amaranth are much larger than those of waterhemp, the seeds of Palmer amaranth are only slightly larger than waterhemp seeds.

UNL Extension Board - Wayne County meeting planned

The Nebraska Extension Board in Wayne County will meet Tuesday, Sept. 12 at the Wayne County Courthouse. The 7:30 p.m. meeting is open to the public. An agenda is available at the Extension Office, 510 Pearl Street, Suite C in Wayne for public inspection during normal business hours.

DHHS offering free water screen at Husker Harvest Days

Husker Harvest Days in Grand Island from Sept. 12 - 14 gives Nebraskans with private water wells an opportunity to screen for nitrate levels in their water.

"We encourage all private water well owners to stop by and see us for this free nitrate screening. It only takes a few minutes to check to see if your water is safe," said Tom Christopherson with the Environmental Health Unit in the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services.

Private water well owners can bring a cup-size sample of their water in a clean container to the DHHS booth in the Natural Resources Building, Lot #1106, on the southeast side of the Husker Harvest grounds, East Avenue and Second Street. Free nitrate screenings are Tuesday and Wednesday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., and Thursday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

If people forget their sample, take home test strips are also available. New this year, if well owners had a new well drilled or worked on in the last two years, they may qualify for free bacteria and nitrate testing from the state lab. Water Supply Specialists will be on hand to interpret screening results and answer questions.

High nitrates are a threat to infants, pregnant or nursing mothers, and even livestock. High levels of nitrates interfere with the blood's ability to carry oxygen and can cause 'blue baby' syndrome.

Livestock, especially cattle and hogs, are also susceptible to nitrate poisoning. In cattle it results in lower milk production and loss of calves, in hogs it results in loss of piglets.

Water officials said testing can then be done every other year if nitrate levels are low. If levels are higher, testing is recommended every year.

For more information contact the DHHS Water Well Standards Program at (402) 471-0546.

Nebraska State Fair sets a new top attendance record

The Nebraska State Fair's 2017 attendance reached 379,108, which was 4.98% over last year totaling just over 18,000 additional fairgoers. The number is the highest since the State Fair moved to Grand Island in 2010 and even exceeds the 2009 figure in Lincoln when folks said goodbye to the old fairgrounds.

State Fair executive director Joseph McDermott said, "This number is just 10,000 folks shy of the all time high of 389,171 set in 1997. This is as much a positive endorsement as you'll find. We knew we were running steady in attendance, but it's always great to get the final figures and to know we chalked up some very high numbers. This brings our eight-year total to 2,415,137."

State Fair Board chair Chris Kircher said, "This exemplifies what a great job the State Fair staff does in preparing, planning and executing Nebraska's largest entertainment event each year. With this one under our belts, we can get started planning for the 2018 event."

"One of the things will be working to resolve are the issues that concertgoers experienced this year," Kircher said, "The long lines, security and line of sight issues will be addressed and corrected for 2018. We always work off the input from fairgoers to improve what we do from year to year."

"Another number that we're very proud of is that 88% of our fairgoers are likely or very likely to recommend the Nebraska State Fair to others. This is our true indicator of the overall state fair experience. It's what we look at for overall customer satisfaction - and judging by the number - we're still delighting fairgoers from across the state," McDermott said.

The 2018 Nebraska State Fair will take place from August 24 through September 3.

Dr. Sally Harms earns Nebraska Association of Teachers of Science (NATS) Catalyst Award

Dr. Sally Harms of Wayne State College has earned the Nebraska Association of Teachers of Science (NATS) Catalyst Award. This award will be given during the joint conference of NATS and the Nebraska Association of Teachers of Mathematics at Younes Conference Center in Kearney on Friday, Sept. 8.

The NATS Board bestows the Catalyst award on individuals who make significant contributions to science and science education in the state of Nebraska. This is the highest NATS award given, beginning in 1978.

"It is an honor that the Board of Nebraska Association of Teachers of Science (NATS) has selected me as the recipient this year," Dr. Sally Harms said. "I have seen many outstanding science educators awarded this honor. It is a humbling experience."

Harms and three other Wayne State College educators Mary Kuchta, Dr. Al Mitchell and Dr. Jenny Langdon will attend the joint NATS/NATM meeting at the Younes Conference Center in Kearney. Kuchta and Harms will present "Connecting Math and Science" on Sept. 8.

"I credit members who were mentors and later, good friends, with my personal growth as an educator," Harms said. "The organization promotes continued improvement in teaching pedagogy as well as the use of valid scientific content. I encourage all new teachers of science (K-12) to join the organization and participate in the annual conference. The networking that occurs is invaluable to teachers at all levels of experience, but is especially important for those who are new in the profession."

Dr. Harms is a professor of science and science education at Wayne State College. She also belongs to the National Science Teachers Association (NSTA). She has served as a Board member in NSTA and as President of NATS (2007-2008). She assists with other science activities including the Northeast Nebraska Junior Academy of Science Regional Science Fair, and the Nebraska State Science Bowl both hosted by WSC.

Recently, Dr. Sally Harms, professor of science and science education at Wayne State College, was honored with the NATS Catalyst Award.

"I became a science teacher because I loved science, in particular, biology," Harms said. "I was raised on a small dairy farm in Pennsylvania and was always outside. My parents, my siblings, and I did all the work. My parents expected us to be able to operate and repair the equipment, as well as care for the animals and the gardens. I loved learning the names of plants and animals, and when I was very young, my maternal grandfather taught me the constellations. My parents also valued a good education. As the youngest in the family, I had time to watch my older siblings leave home and two of them go to college. I loved (and still do) learning new things and I also enjoy sharing that with others. I always thought I would become a teacher, however, I began college as a pre-physical therapy major because there was an overabundance of teachers at that time. The next year I changed my major to Biological Sciences/Secondary Education. The rest, as they say, is history."

Early in her teaching career, Harms became a NATS member. Harms taught biological sciences in Scribner for her first teaching job, and later all of the sciences when she taught in other districts.

"I gained a new appreciation for physics, chemistry, and the earth sciences, and continued taking graduate level classes to improve my content knowledge. I earned my Masters in Biology and my Doctorate in Education with a focus in science and technology," Harms said. "I love sharing insight into what nature has to teach us. I think we need to stop to take time to appreciate the wonders of our environment. I also know that in order for our students to be successful, they will need problem-solving skills and the ability to analyze data using critical thinking skills. These are the keys to success for future generations as well as for students in my classes."

Greg Ibach, Nebraska Director of Agriculture, was nominated for the USDA Under Secretary position.

Farm Bureau issues statement regarding Ibach nomination

The following statement was issued by Steve Nelson, President of the Nebraska Farm Bureau regarding Greg Ibach's nomination for USDA Under Secretary Position.

"Greg Ibach has a tremendous track record of serving Nebraska agriculture. His years of service in leading the Nebraska Department of Agriculture make him an outstanding choice for the position of USDA Under Secretary for Marketing and Regulatory Programs. We wish him the best as he proceeds in the nomination process."

The Nebraska Farm Bureau is a grassroots, state-wide organization dedicated to supporting farm and ranch families and working for the benefit of all Nebraskans through a wide variety of educational, service and advocacy efforts. More than 61,000 families across Nebraska are Farm Bureau members, working together to achieve rural and urban prosperity as agriculture is a key fuel to Nebraska's economy. For more information about Nebraska Farm Bureau and agriculture, visit www.nefb.org.

Ibach was officially nominated for the Under Secretary of Agriculture Marketing and Regulatory Programs (MRP) by President Donald J. Trump late last Friday. Ibach is a farmer and rancher from Sumner who has served in his position at the Nebraska Department of Agriculture since 2005.

As Under Secretary for MRP, three USDA agencies are overseen: Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service; Agricultural Marketing Service; and Grain Inspection, Packers and Stockyards Administration.

State Fair announces several contest winners

The Nebraska State Fair announced the winners of its New & Unique Food, Hay Bale and Recycle Garden contests.

The Grand Champion winner of the 2017 New & Unique Food Contest was Cactus Jack's Chuck Waggon with the Redneck Reuben. The Reserve Champion award went to JoJo's Gelato with the Gelato Cannoli. Winners were decided by a panel of local celebrity judges.

State Fair facilities director, Jaime Parr, said, "Every year we challenge our food vendors to come up with something new and exciting for fairgoers to try. They delivered this year and made the contest difficult for our judges."

The State Fair also announced the winners of the State Fair Hay Bale decorating contest. Home Federal Bank won both the Grand Champion award as well as the People's Choice Award. Coming in second was Awards Plus followed by Howard's Jewelry in third.

Parr said, "The community involvement in our hay bale decorating contest always blows us away. There were so many great entries and our judges had so much fun. We'd also like to thank all our Facebook followers for voting for their favorite entries."

The results of the Recycle Garden contest were also announced today. State Fair Facebook followers were the judges for the contest. Pat and Val Hinman from York came in first with Chapman Public Schools coming in second and Peg Bunger from Grand Island finished with the third most votes. "We always want to encourage folks to recycle and practice sustainability. By making people repurpose everyday items, we want contestants to think outside the box and look at how almost anything we use can be recycled," said Parr.

Faith can overcome fear

St. Luke 12:32-40 NRSV
12:32 [Jesus said,] "Do not be afraid, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom. 33 Sell your possessions, and give alms. Make purses for yourselves that do not wear out, an unfailing treasure in heaven, where no thief comes near and no moth destroys. 34 For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also. 35 "Be dressed for action and have your lamps lit; 36 be like those who are waiting for their master to return from the wedding banquet, so that they may open the door for him as soon as he comes and knocks. 37 Blessed are those slaves whom the master finds alert when he comes; truly I tell you, he will fasten his belt and have them sit down to eat, and he will come and serve them. 38 If he comes during the middle of the night, or near dawn, and finds them so, blessed are those slaves."

39 "But know this: if the owner of the house had known at what hour the thief was coming, he would not have let his house be broken into. 40 You also must be ready, for the Son of Man is coming at an unexpected hour."

Have No Fear
Fear is something that we all share, yet all of us fear different things. Some of us are afraid of being too high on the earth and won't

By Jeanne Madsen
Pastor, Our Savior Lutheran Church

go on skyscrapers or bridges. And conversely some are afraid of being under the earth and will not venture inside a cave or deep basements. Some are afraid of being lonely and some are afraid of being in crowds. Some are afraid of health troubles and some should be afraid of health troubles and yet aren't. Some are afraid of dogs, clowns, bees, cats, birds, and others love to have them around. Some of us are afraid of financial insecurity whether or not we need to be. Some of us are afraid of people we don't know or understand yet and others embrace meeting new people.

There is a great deal of fear in our world. Perhaps it is no coincidence that the message angels most often share with humans in the Bible is this: "Be not afraid." However it's not always just said by Angels. Jesus said it too as recorded by St.

Luke - Addressing those around him, he says: "Do not be afraid, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom." Jesus understands how fear can take hold of a person's heart, and he does not want his followers to live in fear. So he admonishes them to remember that God is pleased to give them the kingdom, and with this in mind they need not be afraid of anything.

Faith can overcome fear - this is exemplified many times by Biblical characters. Joshua must have been a nervous wreck when Moses dies and left him in charge - however he overcame that and made it through. Joshua 1:6 says, in part, "Be strong and courageous." He needed to learn to trust God and part of that trust was to realize that not all was dependent on him. No matter how weak or strong we are, it is God who works through us, and our insecurities, to make all things possible. Trusting in this promise, we become more open to taking risks for the sake of the Gospel. We are able to try it - to give it a shot - to come out of our shell, as people say.

We have been given a great gift - through the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ we have been put right with God. We have been freed from the need to earn our salvation. We have been assured that God is with us and for us and will accompany us through all of life's ups and downs and ins and outs. This frees us to serve our God with joy and delight and to look at fears in a whole new way.

In the Gospel of Jesus Christ we have been given a remarkable gift: we have been put right with God. We have been freed from the need to earn our salvation. We have been assured that God is with us, and for us, and will accompany us through all of our life's journey. That does indeed free us from the preoccupation of fear... frees us up to serve our God with joy and delight.

Maybe today is the day to step out in faith - follow your heart to where God is leading you - step out in faith to where you feel God is leading you.

Youth can become landscape architects

Libraries across the state of Nebraska have been teaching children this summer how to "Build a Better World" through the 2017 STEM Reading Connections program. This year's reading program focused on science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) projects for children.

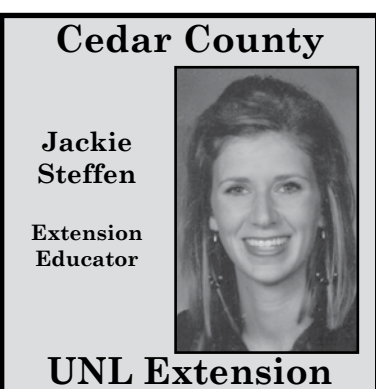

A series of four lessons were created to reach youth in early childhood, elementary and middle school. These lessons are directly tied to the 4-H Pledge.

One unique lesson introduced children to the concept of green roofs and the profession of landscape architecture.

Thanks to the College of Architecture at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, the youth were able to watch an animated video that explained these ideas in a fun and engaging way. The youth then had the opportunity to plan and build their very own green roof using shoeboxes, construction paper, tinfoil and a little imagination.

To finish, they covered their "roofs" with potting soil and grass seed in order to mimic the tasks of a real landscape architect.

This is only one example of a highly engaging lesson that had youth thinking like engineers as they work through the engineering design process.

Although summer is drawing to an end, these lessons that have been created by Nebraska Extension are still available for afterschool, club, and school enrichment programming.

If you are interested in having the youth you work with participate in the STEM Reading Connections lessons that target youth grades preschool-middle school, I encourage you to contact your local Extension office to see if there is a way that you can partner together as you plan your fall youth programming.

Dottie Tiede and Pat Straight visited Lorraine Meyer Stansberry in York recently. All three are Wayne High alumni, having graduated in 1947.

Classmates travel to visit friend in York during August

Dottie Tiede and Pat Straight drove to York on Aug. 17 to visit a good friend and classmate.

Lorraine Meyer Stansberry has been a resident in the Willow Brooke Assisted Living Home for several years.

All three ladies are members of the Wayne High School class of 1947 and this year the class celebrated their 70th reunion since graduating.

Attired in the blue and white "Blue Devils" t-shirts, they ate lunch, toured her new two-room apartment and gathered all the latest news to take back to her classmates. Lorraine and her husband, Jim, will be celebrating their 66th wedding anniversary in December.

Labor Day, football and political campaigning, it must be Fall

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

The State Fair and Labor Day 2017 are history. The Cornhuskers have returned to the football field and a number of folks have cranked up the volume on political rhetoric. It must be Fall.

Time was when Labor Day marked the official start of campaigning for next year's elections. But that changed this year with early announcements from Governor Pete Ricketts that he was going to seek the Republican Party nomination for another term.

Almost as important were the un-announcements of former Governor Dave Heineman and former Legislative Speaker Mike Flood, both of who confirmed they would not challenge Ricketts for the party nod.

At the same time, Republican Senator Bob Krist of Omaha said he would leave the Republican Party to mount an Independent bid for governor. A risky move, but he avoids a head-to-head with Ricketts in the primary while facing the uphill odds of winning independent support. He has been seen as an independent Republican during his 10 years (one appointment, two terms) in the state Legislature, a seat he loses because of term limits.

Wendy DeBoer, a 43-year-old former university educator and attorney, is running for Krist's legislative seat. A Democrat, she is the first announced candidate for the District 10 seat in the officially nonpartisan Legislature. She worked in Kansas City as an attorney and taught philosophy and religious studies at the University of Nebraska at Omaha for several years.

Speaking of Democrats, Machaela Cavanaugh of Omaha, the daughter of former Democratic Rep. John Cavanaugh, has announced she'll be a candidate for the Legislature's 6th District seat now held by Republican Joni Craighead who was first elected in 2014. John Cavanaugh served in Congress from 1977 to 1980 following four years as a state senator. The Cavanaugh family has been prominently involved in Democratic politics in Omaha for three generations.

Speaking of Congress, state Senator John McCollister, the son of former Republican Congressman John Y. McCollister, has announced his re-election campaign. The senator is an independent-minded Republican who has carved out a moderate record in the nonpartisan Legislature. That often placed him at odds with Ricketts who became heavily involved in last year's election by giving certain candidates money to run against Republicans who didn't vote his way.

McCollister knows that his re-election bid will be one of the most widely watched legislative races for that very reason. The governor's 2016 strategy of throwing money at challengers resulted in the ouster of three incumbent senators, fellow Republicans who opposed him on key legislative issues.

McCollister voted to override gubernatorial vetoes of legislation to repeal the death penalty, increase the state gas tax and allow young immigrants who have legal presence in the United States as so-called DACA youths to acquire Nebraska driver's licenses and earn professional and commercial licenses to work in the state.

There is no indication if Ricketts will repeat his strategy in the next election, but he has money and knows how to use it - even buying the best Legislature he can afford. I've said this before, it's his money and it's not illegal to do what he did. But it does bring a sleaze factor to what was once a very nonpartisan Legislature.

If there was a misstep in the recently completed legislative session, McCollister did not provide a vote to attempt to free from filibuster the big package of income tax cuts and property tax reductions that the governor championed.

Another independent Republican, Sen. Matt Williams of Gothenburg, has announced his candidacy for a second term representing the 36th District. He did cast a vote to attempt to free the governor's tax package this year. But, the Gothenburg banker did oppose Ricketts in 2016 on veto showdown votes over the death penalty, the gas tax, DACA driver's licenses and DACA professional and commercial licenses.

Ah yes, it's Fall. You can hear the crisp political palaver and see the money falling like leaves from the trees. Count the seasons: football, Thanksgiving, Christmas and the 2018 Legislature.

J.L. Schmidt has been covering Nebraska government and politics since 1979. He has been a registered independent for 18 years.

How to prepare for the admissions process

By EducationQuest Foundation

College application deadlines typically fall in December or January, so start preparing in early fall of your senior year. Contact your top colleges and ask about their admission requirements and deadlines along with deadlines to apply for financial aid and college-based scholarships.

Most colleges require these items with your admission application:

- Your high school transcript with class rank (sent through your high school registrar/guidance office)
- ACT and/or SAT scores (when you take the exams, have the scores sent to all colleges you're interested in attending)
- List of extracurricular activities
- Application fee (may be waived if you qualify for free or reduced price lunch)
- Some colleges also require an essay and/or letters of recommendation.

For a complete list, see the College Application Checklist at EducationQuest.org.

Stay Organized

Mark all deadlines on your calendar and create a folder for each school to store correspondence and brochures, notes from campus visits, and other college-related information.

Get Help

You don't have to tackle the college admissions process alone!

•Ask your parents or guardian to help you keep track of deadlines, gather required records, and visit campuses. You'll also need your parents' help with financial planning and with completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

•Discuss your future goals with your school counselor or teachers and ask them to help you identify colleges and degree programs that match your goals.

•Keep in touch with admissions representatives at the colleges you're interested in attending. They will make sure you understand important deadlines and application requirements.

•Ask if your high school is conducting an Apply2College event during which you'll get help with your college applications.

•Contact EducationQuest Foundation for free help with the admissions and financial aid processes. Omaha: 888-357-6300; Lincoln: 800-303-3745; Kearney: 800-666-3721; and Scottsbluff: 800-303-3745, ext. 6654. You'll also find free tools at EducationQuest.org.

How to find scholarships

By EducationQuest Foundation

Thousands of local, state and national scholarships are available. Use these resources to find those you may be eligible to apply for.

•ScholarshipQuest at EducationQuest.org houses over 2,000 Nebraska-based scholarships.

After you create a profile, this tool will match you with scholarships that fit your criteria.

•While you're on the ScholarshipQuest page, check out links to national scholarship sites recommended by EducationQuest.

•Visit your school counseling office at least once a week during your senior year to check on local, national, and school-specific scholarships.

•The college you plan to attend is one of your best sources for scholarships. Ask about college-based scholarships you might be eligible to receive.

•Other scholarship resources could include clubs and organizations and your parents' employers and civic organizations.

Criteria for earning scholarships can include academics, community service, leadership, or talents. Some scholarships are based on financial need as measured by the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid), but most are combination of all these criteria. Therefore, to qualify for more scholarships, earn good grades, get involved, and complete the FAFSA.

The benefits of applying for scholarships could be enormous. If you spend 20 hours applying for 20 scholarships and receive $2,000 in awards, you just made $100 an hour!

Follow these tips to increase your chances of earning scholarships:

•Organize scholarships in deadline order and set aside time each week to work on them.

•The application may ask for your activities, awards, honors classes and volunteer or paid jobs. Track this information by using the Activities Resume at EducationQuest.org.

•When requesting a letter of recommendation, give the person provide a specific deadline and a list of your accomplishments and activities or Activities Resume.

•After writing an essay, ask an adult (preferably an English teacher) to review it. You may be able to reuse much of the essay for multiple scholarships.

•Carefully follow the directions on the application or your application may be disqualified.

•Don't ever pay for scholarship services! Talk to your school counselor or EducationQuest about free resources.

Make the most of a college visit

By EducationQuest Foundation

College visits help you discover a school's culture, campus, and the surrounding community while learning about the admissions and financial aid processes.

Visit colleges during your junior year and in the fall of your senior year. Start with the college website where you should find a section for prospective students – and might be able to register for a campus visit. Read the online campus newspaper and get information about student services and employment. Look for departmental web pages to learn about areas of study that interest you.

Schedule your campus visit at least two weeks in advance. Try to visit when school is in session to get the true flavor of the campus. At most colleges, you can join a group campus visit or set up an individual visit. It's helpful to visit your top colleges a second time.

Be prepared to ask lots of questions. For a list, see Campus Visit Questions in the "Selecting a College" section at EducationQuest.org. Also, take notes and photos – you'll be glad you did when it's time to make your final college decision.

Wayne State College has excellent programs that focus on your future

At Wayne State, our focus is your future. The college has served Nebraska since 1910, devoted to student success, learning excellence and regional service.

We provide more than 90 quality academic programs, empowering students to follow their passion from among many excellent academic programs and majors. Through personalized education, we provide an environment that fosters learning and academic excellence.

We are the most affordable four-year institution in the region. Students are not burdened by debt after graduation, which gives them freedom not only financially but the freedom to make further life choices. In fact, one-quarter of Wayne State students graduate with zero student loan debt.

Health Professions

You want a career that lets your care for others shine and secures a future that is right for you. Wayne State's Pre-Professional Health and Applied Human and Sport Physiology programs can get you there. Wayne State has long provided an excellent pathway for students who have chosen to become a doctor, athletic trainer, physical therapist, chiropractor or other health professional. The Pre-Professional Health and Applied Human and Sport Physiology majors lay the foundation needed for admission to the region's best medical schools, where Wayne State students regularly graduate at the top of their class.

Criminal Justice

Wayne State's fastest growing major, Criminal Justice, delivers a broad academic program designed to provide you with the necessary practical knowledge and skills for rewarding careers. Our major covers the theoretical basis for understanding the economic, political, and social environments in which the criminal justice process operates, which means you have the flexibility to apply your degree to careers in law enforcement, corrections, border patrol, governmental agencies, immigration, and asset management protection.

Business Degrees

You have a head for numbers and a heart for business. Maybe you're driven to maximize employee performance within an organization or to hire the right people to the right position. Perhaps your fire comes from influencing customer perceptions, delivering product benefits, and building brand attitudes and loyalty through marketing. You could be looking to grow in the field of agricultural business ventures. Maybe you have a thirst for travel and international business. And most of all, you want to know your degree means that you can get a job after graduation. Whatever your interests are in the business world, Wayne State has you covered with business administration degrees in accounting, economics, agri-business, finance, human resource management, international business, management, marketing, office administration, professional studies, and public accounting to provide the solid foundation you need.

Industrial Technology/Education

Wayne State's industrial technology teacher education program prepares students to enter a teaching career at the junior/senior high school level or to teach in post-secondary industrial technology education programs. Wayne State's combination of lectures, discussions, demonstrations and laboratory activities provides students with the experiences necessary for the development of a theoretical and practical understanding of industry and technology. The program includes work in communication systems, manufacturing systems, construction systems, and power, energy and transportation systems.

Industrial Technology/Manufacturing

A healthy industrial economy requires qualified safety managers, construction managers, drafters, planners, and designers, and manufacturing managers. Wayne State can help build your future in industry with rigorous four-year programs designed to give you the background you need, whether you are interested in workplace safety and productivity, supervising civil, commercial or residential construction, managing the production of documents and drawings that communicate design needs and specifications, or managing resources, processes, and procedures in a manufacturing environment. Our programs provide hands-on opportunities to develop the skills required to flourish as a manager on robotic assembly lines, safety and surveying crews, sustainability teams, production lines, or government regulatory agencies.

New Programs

Wayne State College serves rural Nebraska through educational, cultural, and regional service opportunities. We create innovative approaches to rural needs such as the addition of the Rural Law Opportunities program (RLOP), and new programs of study: a fermentation sciences program for undergraduates, a master's program in sports administration aimed at developing activities directors and athletic directors, and an undergraduate plant sciences program in partnership with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. We have also added three fully online undergraduate degree programs: criminal justice, business management, and human resource management.

Recent Upgrades

The U.S. Conn Library was fully renovated, including addition of a new 1,470-square-foot entry with elevator tower, technology lab, 25 study rooms, new furniture, compact shelving, and eatery area.

Bowen Hall, Wayne State's high-rise residence hall, was completely gutted and renovated from top to bottom for fall 2017. The renovations included all new bathrooms, new lounge areas and study alcoves, new furniture, and new recreational room.

Coming Soon!

Criminal Justice Crime Scene Investigation Facility (2018) To accommodate the growing demand for careers in the field of criminal justice, this lab will prepare students for emergency management, hostage situations, and active shooter scenarios; crime scene investigation, reporting, and evidence processing; and use of evidence in a trial case.

Wildcat Press Box (2018) The new 5,220-square-foot press box will include the addition of an elevator tower for accessibility, along with the needed space and more modern environment for media outlets, fans, and students, as they prepare for careers in broadcasting, journalism and athletics.

Center for Applied Technology (2018) This $15.2-million facility will provide the campus with additional high-tech classrooms and state-of-the-art instructional labs to prepare students for careers in industrial technology education, construction and safety management, manufacturing, drafting, and computer programming. Wayne State College is the only four-year institution in Nebraska that offers an Industrial Technology Education program.

Bound Your senior year at a glance

By EducationQuest Foundation

Your senior year will be jam-packed with activities and deadlines for high school and college. It can get overwhelming, so ask for help from parents, teachers, counselors, and college admission representatives.

Here's a summary of how to plan for college during your senior year.

Year-round
Combat senioritis. Many colleges request copies of your final grades at the end of your senior year, so resist the urge to slack off.

Stay involved in extracurricular activities. Update your Activities Resume at EducationQuest.org for admissions and scholarship applications.

Search for scholarships. Resources include your prospective colleges, your school counselor, local organizations, and free online search sites such as ScholarshipQuest at EducationQuest.org.

Fall
•Attend a Financial Aid Program

to prepare for the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid). Click here for dates and locations.

•Attend a College Fair or Educational Planning Program to meet with college reps.

•Create an FSA ID as fsaid.ed.gov (one for you and one for a parent). You'll need them for the FAFSA.

•Complete and submit the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) on or after October 1 to apply for financial aid. We have free tools to help you.

•Retake the ACT and/or SAT college entrance exams. Colleges use your best score for admission and scholarship consideration.

•Apply to your top 3-4 colleges. This checklist will help you prepare.

Winter
•Watch for acceptance letters from the colleges you applied to.

•Expect a Student Aid Report (SAR) acknowledging that your FAFSA was received.

•Be prepared for verification.

Your college(s) may request documents to verify your FAFSA information.

•Expect financial aid award notifications from the college(s) you listed on your FAFSA.

Spring
•Compare your financial aid award notifications to determine which college offers the best award package.

•Continue to apply for scholarships.

•Make your final college decision. Notify the other schools and decline their financial aid award packages.

•Submit your campus housing registration fee and deposit.

•Register for new-student orientation at your college.

•Apply for a summer job and save as much as you can for college expenses.

Summer
•Apply for student and parent loans, if needed.

•Contact your college roommate to coordinate dorm purchases.

What are you going to major in?

By EducationQuest Foundation

It's a simple question, but the answer may be tough. While you don't have to start college with your major already decided, it's helpful to have a general idea of what you want to study.

Follow these steps in high school to help you make your "major" decision.

1. Evaluate your skills and interests.

Personal Strengths - what adjectives describe you?

Talents - what do you do well?

Interests - what do you enjoy?

Values - what's important to you?

2. Gather facts about majors that interest you. Talk to your school counselor about your selections, and look at advanced classes in each major. Some students change majors because they become disillusioned with upper-level courses.

3. Job shadow. By observing different careers, you may find some that suits you while you cross others off your list.

Follow these steps after you get to college:

1. Join student organizations that relate to potential careers. You'll meet other students with similar interests and discover if the fit is right.

2. Make good use of your electives. Along with core requirements during your freshman and sophomore year, take electives that are in your potential major.

3. Declare your major before your fourth semester of college. This should allow you to finish in four years if you enroll full-time each semester and remain in good academic standing. Talk to your academic advisor about majors, such as education, that may require you to declare when you enter college.

Don't just settle on a major. Take your time, explore your options and make a good decision. Then you can avoid making college a "major" disappointment.

Have a minute for timely advice?

By EducationQuest Foundation

Many college students will tell you that a lack of structure and poor time management nearly led to their demise during their freshman year. Heed their warning and follow their "timely" advice:

Go to class! It's better to hear class information first-hand rather than trying to track down lecture notes later.

Use a planner every day. Schedule time for classes, work, studying - even socializing and exercising.

Use the class syllabus to plan your workload. Divide large projects into manageable chunks and create shorter-term deadlines.

Study in blocks of time. Plan ahead with blocks of study time separated by brief periods to rest and clear your head.

Use the time in-between classes to review for a test, copy notes from a previous class, catch up on textbook reading, conduct research, or do other homework.

Learn to say "no" to activities that will interfere with you achieving your long-term goals.

'Laker family' becomes a tradition for the Harmon family

Iowa Lakes Community College athletics is truly a Laker family affair for the Harmons.

RaeAhna Harmon is the third person in the family to find herself at Iowa Lakes Community College, and all three students have been highly involved in athletics.

A freshman on the Laker volleyball squad, RaeAhna's hard work has paid off - she was recently named Iowa Community College Athletics Conference "Freshman of the Year."

"As a team, we had an up-and-down year, but as a coach, I could always count on RaeAhna to come through and give her all every match," said Coach Lea Hartigan. "She led our conference in kills (525), and team in digs (450). Harmon is a player who contributed positively from both the front and back court."

She shines in the classroom as well.

"This is an outstanding family which I have enjoyed getting to know," said Troy Larson, Iowa Lakes athletic director and head men's basketball coach.

Five years ago, the family journey began for the Harmons.

Parents Kyna and Doug Harmon live in Waterville, Minn., where Kyna is lead manager of Kamp Dels campground. Doug works in corrections.

The first Harmon to venture off to Iowa Lakes was their son, Tate. Coach Larson had attended a couple of Tate's high school basketball games.

"He kept in touch with Tate as the season progressed which was a big deal to Tate," said Doug Harmon.

Knowing it was a big step, Tate and his parents scheduled a campus visit.

"Coming from a small town, we appreciated the fact that there were smaller class sizes where the students and teachers actually got to know one another," Doug said. "Upon our first visit (to the college), we were impressed with the faculty and how personable they were."

And they liked that Iowa Lakes had its own Criminal Justice program.

"We were able to meet with Sonja Fagre, who became a key cornerstone for both of our boys. She did a great job," Doug said. "The teachers are there to teach, and help the students succeed. This is something you will not find in a large university."

Doug also praised the coaches for their work with the younger Harmons, teaching them life lessons and supporting their educational efforts as well as helping them in athletics.

"We have found that our children, starting a junior college, have had a great experience - which made the transition to a four-year school much easier," Doug said.

"I think they recognized the family atmosphere, and it mirrored their family dynamics," Larson said.

Landon followed his brother two years later.

Tate and Landon often brought other basketball team members to their house, where they enjoyed family time with the Harmons and would joke they had been "Harmonized."

The Harmon family has impacted many Iowa Lakes students over the years, leaving a lasting impression on the faculty and staff, who truly consider them Laker family.

How 'being a pain' can help you get to college

By EducationQuest Foundation

If you want to go to college, you need an adult to help you get there. That's why it's important to be a pain - in a good way! Tell everyone you know that you want to go to college. Tell your parents, teachers, school counselor, and coach - and keep asking until you find an adult who will help you.

This person can:

•Make sure you're meeting academic requirements for college

•Guide you to resources if you're struggling with classes

•Help you explore career interests

•Set up visits to area colleges

•Help you complete financial aid and college admission applications

So start asking for help. This is one time it's okay to be a pain!

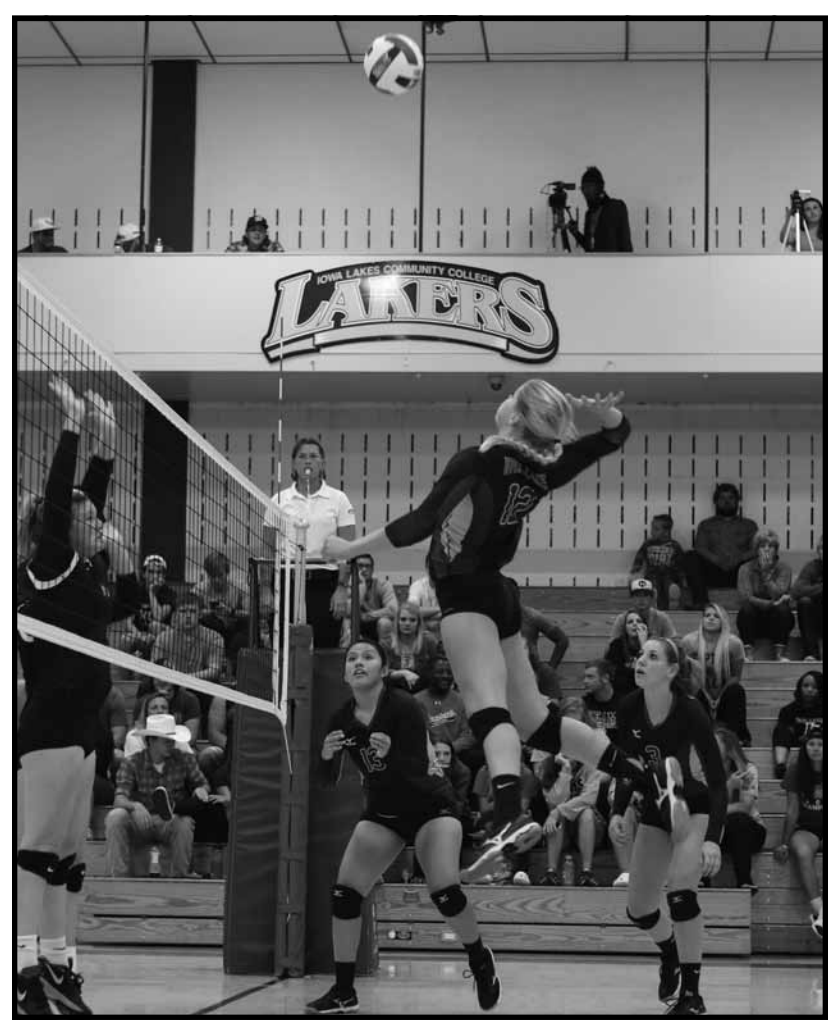

Reward Yourself (you deserve this)

How to prepare for the admissions process

By EducationQuest Foundation

College application deadlines typically fall in December or January, so start preparing in early fall of your senior year. Contact your top colleges and ask about their admission requirements and deadlines along with deadlines to apply for financial aid and college-based scholarships.

Most colleges require these items with your admission application:

- Your high school transcript with class rank (sent through your high school registrar/guidance office)
- ACT and/or SAT scores (when you take the exams, have the scores sent to all colleges you're interested in attending)
- List of extracurricular activities
- Application fee (may be waived if you qualify for free or reduced price lunch)

Some colleges also require an essay and/or letters of recommendation.

For a complete list, see the College Application Checklist at EducationQuest.org.

Stay Organized

Mark all deadlines on your calendar and create a folder for each school to store correspondence and brochures, notes from campus visits, and other college-related information.

Get Help

You don't have to tackle the college admissions process alone!

Ask your parents or guardian to help you keep track of deadlines, gather required records, and visit campuses. You'll also need your parents' help with financial planning and with completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

Discuss your future goals with your school counselor or teachers and ask them to help you identify colleges and degree programs that match your goals.

Keep in touch with admissions representatives at the colleges you're interested in attending. They will make sure you understand important deadlines and application requirements.

Ask if your high school is conducting an Apply2College event during which you'll get help with your college applications.

Contact EducationQuest Foundation for free help with the admissions and financial aid processes. Omaha: 888-357-6300; Lincoln: 800-303-3745; Kearney: 800-666-3721; and Scottsbluff: 800-303-3745, ext. 6654. You'll also find free tools at EducationQuest.org.

What you need to complete the FAFSA

By EducationQuest Foundation

Completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) should go smoothly if you gather these items before you start:

- FSA ID (one for you and one for a parent). Create them at <https://fsaid.ed.gov>.
- Federal income tax forms from two years prior (1040, 1040A or EZ)

For example, if completing the FAFSA for the 2018-19 academic year, use 2016 tax information.

- W-2 forms, and, if applicable, Schedule K-1 (Form 1065)
- Student's driver's license, permit or state ID number
- Student and parent Social Security numbers

Student alien registration number for eligible non-citizens (permanent residents)

Month and year parents were most recently married, separated, divorced or widowed

Current cash, savings and checking account balances

Value of investments (stocks, bond, mutual funds, CDs, etc.) excluding primary home and retirement accounts

Business or investment farm value

Child support (paid and/or received)

Workers' compensation benefits

Untaxed income such as housing, food or living allowances for members of the military or clergy, as well as any non-educational veteran's benefits

For more information about the FAFSA, see FAFSA Tools at EducationQuest.org or contact the EducationQuest location nearest you: Omaha - 888.357.6300, Lincoln - 800.303.3745, Kearney - 800.666.3721, or Scottsbluff - 800.303.3745, ext. 6654.

Academic requirements for admission

By EducationQuest Foundation

Did you know that colleges—particularly four-year colleges and universities—require you to take certain courses during high school to qualify for admission?

Work with your school counselor to create a four-year plan that will ensure you're prepared for college. If you complete (and pass) these courses in high school, you should qualify for admission to any college in Nebraska:

English - 4 years of intensive reading and writing.

Math - 4 years including Algebra I, Algebra II and Geometry, and an additional year that builds on your knowledge of Algebra

Social Studies - 3 years including American History and World History, one additional course in History, American Government and/or Geography, and a third course in Social Sciences.

Natural Sciences - 3 years including Biology, Chemistry, Physics or Earth Sciences. One course must include laboratory instruction.

World Language - 2 years of the same language.

Check the websites of colleges you're interested in attending to learn their specific requirements for admission.

What to consider when choosing a college

By EducationQuest Foundation

Narrow your college choices during your junior year so you'll be prepared to apply for college and financial aid early in the fall of your senior year.

Answer these questions to determine which schools might be the best fit:

What do you want to study?

If you know what you want to study, research schools that offer degree programs in that area. If you don't know, it's okay. Many students begin college "undeclared" and some start at a community college and then transfer to a four-year school.

What kind of school do you want to attend?

Do you prefer a large university or a small college? Are you interested in a community college? What kind of student/teacher ratio do you want?

What can you afford?

Consider the overall cost of college: tuition, room and board, books, transportation costs, and personal expenses. Determine what you and your parents can afford to pay out-of-pocket and plan to apply for financial aid to help make up the difference. Calculate the loan debt your family may need to incur for your college education.

Where do you want to go?

Do you want to live close to home and commute? Do you want to be in a large city or a small town? How big of a factor is out-of-state or private college tuition? If you want to go out of state, investigate reciprocity programs such as the Midwest Student Exchange Program.

Avoid these college search mistakes:

Don't limit your search to familiar institutions. Just because your parents or siblings went to a certain college doesn't mean it's right for you.

Don't limit your search to colleges you think you can afford. The more expensive the school, the more financial aid you may be eligible to receive. Wait until you receive financial aid award notifications to determine which school is the most affordable.

Don't choose a college just because it's near your boyfriend or girlfriend. The school may not be a good match for you – and he or she may not be either!

Don't insist on an out-of-state school just because you want to "get away." Even if you attend college in your hometown, you can still "get away" by staying on campus most weekends.

Find the right fit for college

By EducationQuest Foundation

Thinking about your career interests is one way to find a college that's the best fit for you. Here's how to get started.

Make a list of your skills and interests. Think about classes and activities you enjoy and those where you excel.

Learn about jobs that match your skills and interests. Ask your school counselor about career assessment tools at your school.

Use Reality Check at EducationQuest.org to match your future desired lifestyle with career choices.

Create a career plan to map out steps you should take to reach your goal.

Research colleges that offer a degree or training program in the career areas you may want to pursue.

Pursue job-shadowing opportunities in fields that interest you.
