Approval given to move forward on Country Club Clubhouse renovation

By Clara Osten
clara@wayneherald.com

Discussion on depleting the LB840 funds or providing funding from another source for the Wayne Country Club Clubhouse project was the major topic of Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Council members had heard from representatives of the Wayne Country Club Board on the cost of the project. The board had asked the council to approve an additional $60,000 in LB840 funds as a no-interest, 15 year loan. The council earlier this year had approved a $150,000 loan to the country club for the project.

After debate at the last council meeting, the item was taken to the LB840 Committee for consideration. The committee recommended approving the request.

On Tuesday, council members debated options for the funding, including the use of the remaining LB840 funds or a loan from the city's electric fund.

The Country Club's request will deplete the LB840 funds and as loans are re-paid from these funds, the money will be deposited in a revolving loan fund which will be administered by a different committee.

Nancy Braden, City Finance Director, explained to the council how much LB840 money has been collected through sales tax, where the money has been allocated and what is currently being collected from the loans that have been approved. She also told the council that a portion of the money that is being collected has to be used to re-pay the electric fund, which is where the money has come from to make the loans until the sales tax revenue is received.

Council member Cale Giese said he felt "it is crazy to spend LB840 money on a building the city owns. We could write a check for the whole $210,000, loan the money to ourselves and then pay it back as the Country Club pays us. LB840 is a tool that we may need to use in the future, rather than get rid of all the money now."

Rusty Parker, representing the Country Club Board, told the council that the board had worked with the contractor, OCC Builders, Inc. to bring the cost of the project down and had raised an additional $16,600 in pledges in recent weeks. In addition, the Country Club plans to pay for a portion of the project from revenue they already have and do a portion of the work themselves.

Following a lengthy discussion, the council voted to approve the request to use LB840 funds on the project with council members Cale Giese, Jon Haase and Jennifer Sievers voting against the recommendation.

The council then approved a resolution which will award the contract for the project to OCC Builders in the amount of $519,400 and accepted three alternatives to the bid.

Council members then listened to a request from David Lindner to have a waiver for the installation of a sidewalk on his property at 620 Grainland Road.

Lindner said he felt it was unnecessary to put a sidewalk on the west side of his property "that goes nowhere. There is not a sidewalk on the property to the north of mine and there would be some issues putting one in at the north end of the block due to the slope."

After discussion of the issue, council members approved the waiver, with the understanding that if sidewalks should be required of the properties in the area in the future, Lindner would be required to put one in.

Two ordinances involving parking on Fourth Street near the rugby field received first reading approval.

Commissioners schedule public meeting for discussion on Sholes wind energy project

By Calyn Dunklau
calyn@wayneherald.com

A town hall meeting was scheduled for county members to attend and have their questions regarding the large wind energy project slated for construction northwest of Carroll during a recent meeting of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

The meeting was officially set for Dec. 6 at 6 p.m. in the court room at the Wayne County Courthouse. The three commissioners will be present as will representatives from NextEra Energy, the company building the facility.

According to project manager Phil Clement, all areas of the process will be represented that night, including environmental, construction and transmission representatives, in addition to himself.

On the agenda Tuesday was Bobbi McCormick, a county resident concerned about wind turbines. She brought a variety of questions and concerns to the board, including questioning the setback size and concerns about the turbines falling into disrepair and sitting idle.

Her questions were in part answered during the meeting, before she and others were encouraged to meet with Clement to discuss project-specific details outside of the meeting as there were other appointments on the agenda.

McCormick demanded to see a protection plan for the non-participating land owners, something the commissioners are unable to deliver, once again due to the lack of zoning in the county. The county commissioners aren't able to go further than road access and utility set up, according to county attorney Mike Pieper, without opening up legal issues.

Something that has been brought up on numerous occasions when addressing any concerns the public has with the wind power facility is the fact that the county does not have zoning, something that has been hotly debated in the past. While there are pros to not having zoning throughout the county, there are times when that ties the hands of the commissioners some.

While the commissioners are able to require the company to meet certain road-haul standards and pay certain fees for accessing the county roads with over-sized vehicles, they do not have the ability to demand certain setbacks.

McCormick also questioned a $300,000 payment made by Tradewind, the wind energy company responsible for the Rattlesnake project in Dixon County, to the airport authority that she said she found when looking over meeting minutes. She stated that it looked like a bribe considering an upgrade to the beacon is necessary with the towers coming in, according to her. Commissioners explained that the county doesn't oversee the airport authority and had no knowledge of what the monies could be for and encouraged her to check with the airport authority board.

Clement commented on the accuracy of the information those with concerns had and was willing to leave the meeting to discuss the Sholes wind farm project in a different area of the courthouse. Before doing so, he did briefly touch on some of the issues brought forth by her including that Tradewind and NextEra are not the same company and are not working on a project jointly here. The Sholes Wind Energy Center in Wayne County is completely separate from the Rattlesnake Creek Wind Project in Dixon County.

Upon his return at the end of the meeting, a date was selected for the public meeting. While there have been previous meetings of the commissioners with Clement during board meetings, this public meeting's time should allow more to attend.

Further discussion of the NextEra Sholes project will take place at the public meeting on Dec. 6.

Other agenda items included a visit from Jerry Berggren with Berggren Architects regarding the tuck pointing project on the courthouse.

After a thorough discussion on what was found upon a brief inspection of the exterior of the courthouse, commissioners unanimously approved the hiring of Berggren Architects to set up the bid specs and oversee the project. Berggren brought up tax credits the county may be eligible for in doing the work to the courthouse building.

"It won't be a simple project," Berggren said. "The building has a lot of corners, a lot of decorative features, many of the window sills have fractured. Ideally, we would get started on documents and I would hope by mid February at the latest to bid it."

The next meeting of the board of commissioners will be Nov. 21 at 9 a.m.

If quilts could talk

(Photos by Calyn Dunklau)

Louise and Vincent Grilley show local historian Steve Gross the quilt found by Louise stuffed in a box at the back of a thrift store in Astoria, Oregon. The quilt was made by the St. Paul's Lutheran Aid Society in Wayne and is dated 1932.

From the Midwest to the West Coast and back, quilt takes cross country trip

By Calyn Dunklau
calyn@wayneherald.com

Upon completing her Masters degree in 2002, Louise Grilley decided to take a trip just for herself.

Having always enjoyed history, her decision to drive the Oregon Trail route made sense. Add in all the great thrift and quilt shops along the way and it was a done deal.

One such shop sat in Astoria, Oregon, about as far as you can go before you hit the Pacific Ocean. Sight-seeing led to looking for shops and when she walked into one particular shop, she asked the cashier whether there was any linen, lace or quilts. A pointing finger directed her to a set of shelves in the back of the shop where boxes were stacked.

"I was walking downtown looking in shops and I asked about fabrics," she said. "He said in the back and pointed."

She began sifting through the boxes and came across what she first thought was a beautifully embroidered handkerchief only to find it was a hand stitched red-work quilt.

"I thought 'oh, my gosh, I want this,'" she said. "I thought it was beautiful. It's really art."

And that's what she and her husband have treated it like since she brought it home. It has hung on a wall that gets minimal to no sunlight and acts as a large piece of artwork for their home in Wisconsin.

It was just a few weeks ago when planning a route for mission work the couple is doing in Oklahoma that Louise looked up at the quilt and had a thought.

"I asked Vincent if we would go through Wayne, Nebraska on our way to Oklahoma. It wasn't right on the route but it wasn't out of the way terribly."

Louise thought bringing the quilt home was important for a number of reasons, one for the history and two, to possibly help fund their passion for mission work.

The Grileys have offered the quilt for sale to anyone who might be of interest. Their hope is to use the funds raised from the sale of the quilt to purchase Bibles.

One of the many names on the quilt is Rollie Ley, shown center, who had a rich history in Wayne.

"I think it belongs here. I love history and I wanted to share this with your community," she said. "Vincent and I do a lot of sharing of the word of God. We are retired so we watch our spending. If someone wanted to purchase the quilt, we would use that money to buy large-print Bibles to give out."

The Grileys brought the quilt to The Wayne Herald office for local historian Steve Gross to look over and document.

Once unfurled, the beauty and craftsmanship are evident in each stitch. The quilt is in near perfect condition and the red work has minimal fading.

What makes the quilt even more impressive is the size. 40 wagon wheels make up all but two of the blocks. The remaining two are stitched with "Wayne, Nebraska 1932" and "St. Paul's Lutheran Aid Society." Each wagon wheel consists of 16 spokes, and each is filled with a name.

Three different handwritings are discernible in the name stitch-

Family asking for property to be returned

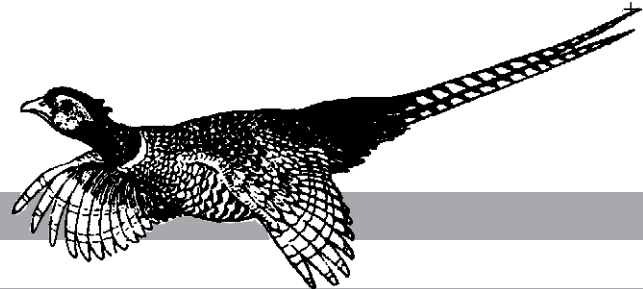

The Witt Family is looking for information regarding an extremely important item stolen from in front of their home over the weekend. The white lamb statue that once graced their property is gone, leaving behind a lot of pain.

To most, the lamb wouldn't seem like much, but when the Witt family wasn't able to bring their daughter home in 1992, that lamb celebrated the milestones she never got to. No other items were taken, and the family wouldn't care if they had been. They simply are looking for the lamb to be returned.

"I just want it returned," Kelly Barker-Witt said. "Returned to where it was found, no questions asked."

Anyone with information regarding the statue can contact Kelly at 402-375-8418.

Dates set for annual Madrigal Dinners

Sojourn through a Renaissance-style Christmas during the 46th Annual Wayne State College Madrigal Dinners Saturday, Dec. 2 at 7 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 3 at 5:30 p.m. The royal dinners take place in the Frey Conference Suite in the Kanter Student Center on the WSC campus.

Madrigal singers, clad in 16th century attire, entertain as the audience indulges in a four-course Elizabethan Christmas feast. The Renaissance journey begins with Princess Abigail anxiously anticipating a Wee Box 3000 for Christmas. Grandmother Margaret, who dislikes electronics, presents Abigail with the unusual gift of a "book." Abigail struggles to create a world based on imagination. Soon her family finds themselves at a Renaissance feast and the book's story comes to life. Abigail learns that sometimes the gift received is better than the gift we "think" we want.

The evening features the 14-voice WSC Madrigal Singers singing holiday and Renaissance music. Traditional favorites include "The Boar's Head Carol, Here We Come a Caroling, and We Wish You a Merry Christmas." German Renaissance selections composed by Hans Leo Hassler and Michael Praetorius are also presented along with Benjamin Britten's well-known 20th century work, "A Ceremony of Carols."

The Madrigal Singers are directed by Matthew Armstrong, Assistant Professor of Music.

The production supervisor is Dr. Sarah Farr, Assistant Professor of Voice. Staff Accompanist Shelly Armstrong plays keyboard. Ticket prices are $30 each through Monday, Nov. 20. After Nov. 20, the per ticket price increases to $35. Purchase tickets through the website at wsc.edu/madrigals. Orders are accepted through noon Nov. 27. All sales are final. No exchanges or refunds. In case of inclement weather, the dinner will be rescheduled. Looking Ahead in Wayne

By Wes Blecke, City Administrator

City Council meetings
Regular Wayne City Council meetings are at 5:30 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month in City Hall at Third and Pearl Streets. We would love to see you there!

Renovations/Addition to the Clubhouse

The Wayne City Council recently approved funding and accepted a bid to renovate and add on to the existing golf clubhouse. This project has been in the works for about three years. The north end of town will look much different next spring with this project taking place as well as a finished Beaumont Event Center.

Comprehensive Development Grant Submittal

The City of Wayne is requesting $350,000 of CDBG Comprehensive Development (CD) Phase II funds from the Nebraska Department of Economic Development (DED).

The majority of these funds, if granted, would be used for approximately 175 ADA ramps at pedestrian crossings primarily in the northwest quadrant of town. City staff and representatives from the Northeast Nebraska Economic Development District will be hosting a site visit with DED the second week of November.

We hope to know if the City receives this grant in early 2018. Additional planning would then need to take place, along with design and bidding out the project.

If awarded, the construction would likely take place early 2019.

Christmas Lights Recycling

It's that time of the year. As you get frustrated with those Christmas lights that don't work or worse yet, intermittently work, remember the City encourages you to recycle those strands. The City provides bins for recycling at both the transfer station and City Hall.

Fire chief notified of fire extinguisher recall

Wayne Fire Chief Phil Monahan has shared the following information he received on the recall of a number of fire extinguishers.

The Kidde company recalled fire extinguishers with plastic handles due to failure to discharge and nozzle detachment.

One death has been reported because of this issue.

The recall was announced on Nov. 2.

This recall involves two styles of Kidde fire extinguishers: plastic handle fire extinguishers and push-button Pindicator fire extinguishers.

Plastic handle fire extinguishers: The recall involves 134 models of Kidde fire extinguishers manufactured between Jan. 1, 1973 and Aug. 15, 2017, including models that were previously recalled in March 2009 and February 2015. The extinguishers were sold in red, white and silver, and are either ABC- or BC-rated. The model number is printed on the fire extinguisher label. For units produced in 2007 and beyond, the date of manufacture is a 10-digit date code printed on the side of the cylinder, near the bottom. Digits five through nine represent the day and year of manufacture in DDDYY format. Date codes for recalled models manufactured from Jan. 2, 2012 through Aug. 15, 2017 are 00212 through 22717. For units produced before 2007, a date code is not printed on the fire extinguisher.

Tour of Homes to feature blend of 'old' and 'new'

The Friends of the Wayne Museum will hold this year's Tour of Homes on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 17 - 18.

Five homes in Wayne and the Wayne Museum will be part of this year's tour. Tours will take place from 5 to 8 p.m. on Friday and 1 to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

The home of Mark Kanitz and Lukas Rix is located at 218 Lincoln Street.

In the summer of 2013, Mark and Lukas embarked on a two-year mission to completely renovate this iconic 1893 Queen Anne Victorian.

The home had been on the market and vacant for seven years and was deteriorating rapidly. The exterior work was started immediately with a complete tear-off of the roof which now features period-style fish-scale shingles. They picked five colors, traditional for a "painted lady" Queen Anne home, to show off the spectacular detail.

Inside, every wall and ceiling were stripped of wallpaper. After extensive repair, most of the original plaster and lath walls were saved and painted. The home is very energy efficient with all new electrical, plumbing, heating and cooling systems.

The traditional white kitchen cabinets are a timeless choice. Stenciled plaster walls were revealed in the foyer area leading upstairs.

Like every renovation, some things cannot be put back to the original and the paintings were not able to be saved.

The home was built in 1893 by Eli Jones, who was the proprietor of a local livery and stable. The Jones' sold the home to the Sherbahn family who owned the local brickyard (near Henry Victor Park). The Sherbahns maintained ownership for over 70 years. Mark and Lukas are the fifth owners.

As you walk through the home, you will see original features like stained glass windows on the entire second floor, fireplace surround and tile, "stick and ball" fretwork in the foyer and an open staircase.

The carriage house still exists. However, the brick retaining wall along the front of the property and the original curved, wrap-around front porch were dismantled some years ago after disrepair.

The home was featured in the 2015 Tour of Homes. Mark and Lukas are delighted to show their home again this year with a few updates. Since 2015 they have opened the 1912 Emporium, an antique and home decor store in downtown Wayne. They will be decorating with farmhouse decor from the store, while still maintaining the Victorian period of the home.

John and Sherry Dorman's home is located at 1300 Meadow Lane.

The expansive lawn with huge shade trees and terraced landscaping proved the perfect setting for this 70's contemporary style home built in 1971 with an addition completed in 1982.

Several local families have called this address home over the years, including the Leys, the Footes and the Lippis. It is always so much fun for the Dorman's when past residents bring their children and grandchildren by to visit their previous home especially at Halloween.

The home of Mark Kanitz and Lukas Rix.

John and Sherry Dorman's home.

Sherry first spotted this home on one of her many driving tours around Wayne when looking to move back to the area to provide assistance to her parents, Dick and Irene Hanson of Concord. Being a lover of natural light, she was intrigued by the many windows, so when the house came on the market in 2012, she coerced John into coming to view it. This 'little project' as John so lovingly calls it, became theirs in October of that year.

Since purchasing the home some of the renovation projects so far have included exterior siding, the addition of a garden shed, and most recently, the outdoor entertaining space was upgraded with a new composite deck. Hopefully, by tour date, new barn plank wood flooring will be installed in the family room as well. Future projects in the works include renovating the sunroom and "husband willing," a new kitchen redo is likely.

Collecting is in Sherry's blood and, as you tour the home, some collections will be more obvious than others. The holidays are a favorite time to showcase some of those collections. John delights Sherry each year on their Dec. 19 wedding anniversary with an addition to her "Nativities from Around the World" collection. You will see sprinkled among many from the U.S., nativities from Israel, Peru, Mexico, Germany, England, Sweden and Kenya. Sherry also welcomes additions to her collection from her world-traveling friends.

Sherry's dad once asked her if she had enough pillows on her bed, to which she jovially replied "like shoes, a girl can never have too many pillows!" Guests are often stymied by what to do with all of the pillows on their bed. You be the judge . . . but there is always a blanket and a pillow nearby to get cozy when extra visitors are around.

John and Sherry's eclectic style elicits this frequent comment from visiting guests. "Your home is so warm and inviting!" There is no more gratifying feeling than knowing visitors have felt so comfortable.

The Dormans have certainly enjoyed sharing their home during this tour and wish the blessings of health and happiness and say "Merry Christmas," "Happy Hanukkah," "Happy Diwali," "Happy Ramadan," "Happy Las Posadas" and "Happy Kwanzaa."

Steven and Dr. Marysz Rames' home is located at 1900 Claycomb Road.

In October of 2016 Steven and Marysz moved into their new home. This 2,650 square foot ranch home has an open floor plan designed for hosting family and friends. The home includes: a formal dining room, living room, family room, den, four bedrooms, kitchen with a nook and a craft room.

The main floor features nine foot ceilings and the formal dining and living rooms have coffered ceilings. A fireplace in the living room adds a warm, cozy feeling that supports the holiday tradition of Santa's Christmas Eve arrival.

The highlight of the main floor is the kitchen that includes wood floors, ceiling high white cabinets and a large island ideal for holiday baking and entertaining.

Adjacent to the kitchen is a nook with a bank of five windows that overlook the beautiful golf course. The lower level is 60 percent finished with a large family room for watching movies or the Denver Broncos on Sunday. Off the family room are two bedrooms and Marysz's craft room that supports her scrap booking addiction.

Marysz and Steven have a long tradition of decorating for the holidays. There are eight trees throughout the home, each with their own unique look and feel.

In the master bedroom is a tree that displays Marysz and Steven's childhood ornaments. The dining room is home to the "memory" tree which is trimmed with items from the family including Marysz's mother's baby shoes, Steven's baby book, their children's stuffed animals and many other treasures. Downstairs is a large tree displaying their children's ornaments, along with the Bronco tree.

This year a Wayne State Wildcat tree will be added to the home.

The grand display is the nine foot live evergreen in the living room, trimmed with bubble lights and special family ornaments, including Marysz's grandparents' ornaments from the depression.

In addition to the many trees, the Rames have a large Hummel collection. For the holiday season several special pieces are featured including the nativity scene that is displayed on top of the corner hutch in the dining room.

The holidays are a special time in the Rames' home. Marysz's father loved to decorate the house and the tradition lives on with her family. Every where you look, you will see Santas, snowmen and other touches of Christmas.

Charlene Rasmussen

Rasmussen is 'Reader of the Week'

The Reader of the Week at the Wayne Public Library is Charlene Rasmussen.

What is the last book you read?

Recent nonfiction book I recommend: "Killers of the Flower Moon" by David Grann. It is the horrifying true story of the treatment of Osage Indians in Oklahoma during the first third of the 20th century. I would recommend it for anyone. It is well written and meticulously researched. I am currently reading "What Happened" by Hillary Rodham Clinton. Current fiction I recommend: Elizabeth Strout's "Anything is Possible," but first read "My Name is Lucy Barton." I have also enjoyed Fredrik Bachman's books recently.

Who is your favorite author?

Some of my favorite authors are Louise Erdrich, Kent Haruf, Ian McEwan, Ann Tyler, Barbara Kingsolver, Elizabeth Strout and Bill Bryson.

Why do you read?

My father used to say I "had my head in a book" most of the time. I read fiction for the sheer pleasure in the use of words and the experience of being drawn into another person's world. I read nonfiction for the same reasons and also for information. Nonfiction writers can also be wonderful wordsmiths. I love to travel and knowing more about the history and natural history of the places I visit adds to the pleasure of traveling.

Name a book you would recommend and tell everyone why they should read it.

I would recommend "The Life and Times of the Thunderbolt Kid" by Bill Bryson as a funny and sensitive account of growing up in the Midwest in the 50s.

Personal / Biography

I am a retired microbiologist and a current yoga teacher. My two adult children live in Delaware and in Norway/Sweden. I am a compulsive gardener, and you will find me in my own flowers or in the library gardens during the summer. I love to travel and hike.

A resolution approving a memorandum of understanding between the City of Wayne and the Greenwood Cemetery Association was approved.

City Attorney Amy Miller told the council that no such written agreement had been in place in the past and this agreement will put into writing what has actually been happening at the cemetery.

Quilt

ing and the entire piece is hand-quilted, with 6-7 stitches per inch. Each block measures 10.5 inches across.

"This is something else," Gross said. "The time that went into this. All kinds of movers and shakers are on this quilt."

Gross went on to comment about the condition of the quilt and the fact that all the names stitched on it are easily read.

Names like Mrs. H. H. Hahn,

Mrs. A. Swan, Dr. Young and Mrs. L. W. McNatt fill the spokes of each wagon wheel. Even banker Rollie Ley had his name on the quilt.

Those names and many others were well-recognized by Gross, some of which he didn't think were part of the Lutheran congregation at St. Paul's. That line of thinking has him convinced there was a celebration in town or something being commemorated with the quilt. Which is why he is delving into the history of Wayne once again to pick out any pieces that may relate to the quilt and how it came about.

One question that is likely to remain unanswered is how it ended up roughly 1,700 miles away from its home.

If only quilts could talk.

If you are interested in purchasing the quilt, please contact The Wayne Herald at 402-375-2600 and ask for the Managing Editor.

Wayne State College announces groundswell of support for groundbreaking ceremony, Nov. 16

Wayne State College is currently recognizing the groundswell of support it received from industry, foundations, private donors, and the City of Wayne for construction of the Center for Applied Technology (CAT) scheduled to open on the college's campus in 2019.

The college will host the official groundbreaking ceremony for the $15.2 million center at 2:15 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 16 in Gardner Hall.

The Wayne State Foundation worked closely with industry leaders around the state to encourage support for the facility, which is projected to serve as a gateway of opportunity for students to experience industrial manufacturing in an environment that cultivates interest and excitement in industrial technology. Complemented by top-notch faculty who deliver an industry-based curriculum, the CAT will attract students from high schools as well as community colleges to seek careers in this growing area. Based on economic analysis, the facility will have a direct economic impact of more than $10 million over 10 years, with a net effect of more than $15 million.

Industry support for the project included a $100,000 gift from Timpte, Inc., the market leader in aluminum bulk commodity trailers; $100,000 from The Raimondo Family Foundation of Behlen Manufacturing Co., a leading manufacturer of farm and ranch equipment and building systems; and a major gift from the Lozier Foundation.

"Timpte Industries' ability to partner with Wayne State College is a winning formula for both institutions," said Dale D. Jones, president and CEO of Timpte. "The new Center for Applied Technology will be a key tool for all area manufacturers. The course content falls directly in line with the needs of evolving manufacturers. We must continue to develop the resources that are capable of implementing the most cutting-edge technologies into our facilities. The opportunity to work directly with the faculty and students is precisely what we need in order to compete in the global market moving forward."

"We are proud to participate and support Wayne State's direction to enhance student and instructor enrollment in STEM related careers," said the Raimondo Family Foundation. "Preparation for leading edge performance in our digital global economy will require continuous learning."

Industry support, combined with private donations and the support of several charitable foundations, totaled more than $1.5 million. These gifts, along with state bonds and $1 million in support from the City of Wayne, were instrumental in ensuring Wayne State could design and build a facility of more than 53,000 square feet with 13 state-of-the-art instructional labs for manufacturing, applied engineering, and robotics.

"These gifts are a testament to the passion, generosity, and foresight of our corporate partners who understand the essential role of higher education in the industrial technology and manufacturing industry," said Kevin Armstrong, CEO of the Wayne State Foundation.

The City of Wayne led the way with $1 million in support of the CAT in May. The Center will deliver education for industry, provide a career academy for local school districts, and serve as a regional hub for innovation and workforce development. The city will provide the funds over two years in exchange for access to college facilities, services, and educational opportunities.

The college began construction and site preparation for the new facility in May, with completion set for December 2018. Wayne State offers Nebraska's only Industrial Technology education degree in which teachers can earn certification in these fields. This is critically important with the increased emphasis on high school career academies throughout Nebraska and the need to provide qualified teachers.

WSC Wildcats fall to No. 1 Mavericks

MANKATO, Minn. — Turnovers plagued the Wildcats early as top-ranked Minnesota State defeated Wayne State 48-27 in Northern Sun Conference football action Saturday afternoon.

Two early first-half turnovers allowed Minnesota State to build a 20-0 lead with 10:20 remaining in the second quarter.

Minnesota State scored on their first possession of the game when Casey Bednarski converted a 43-yard field goal on a seven-play 26-yard drive.

The Mavericks were able to score less than a minute later after redshirt freshman quarterback Mitchell Hansen fumbled at the Wildcat 20. Minnesota State capped the three-play drive with a two-yard rushing touchdown by Justin Taormina to take a 10-0 lead with 9:32 left in the opening quarter.

Another Wildcat turnover led to Maverick points as Hansen was picked off at the Wayne State 44-yard line, leading to another rushing touchdown for Taormina to push the score to 17-0. Minnesota State added another field goal with 10:20 remaining in the first half to make it 20 unanswered points to start the game.

Aaron Bleil threw a 10-yard touchdown pass late in the first half to Willie Walton on the next play to cut the Minnesota State lead to 20-7 after Ethan Knudson converted the PAT.

The Mavericks responded with a touchdown of their own as Ryan Schlichte completed a 27-yard strike to Ty Dennis to make the lead 27-7 with 1:17 remaining in the half.

On the following drive, the Wildcats marched 57 yards down the field and used another touchdown pass from Bleil to Walton to make the score 27-14 at the half.

Wayne State got on the board first in the second half after MSU muffed a punt with Emile Hope recovering the ball at the MSU 10-yard line. The Wildcats used a 23-yard field goal from Knudson to make the score 27-17.

Wayne State tied the game 27-27 with 12:24 remaining in the game when Bleil connected with Nate Rogers on a 45-yard pass for a touchdown. The touchdown pass capped a six-play 80-yard drive for the Wildcats.

Minnesota State responded with a touchdown drive of their own. Ryan Schlichte completed a 35-yard touchdown pass to Trevor Nissen to complete the 76-yard drive and retake the lead 34-27.

The Maverick defense forced a three-and-out to take over possession at their own 46-yard line. Another touchdown pass from Schlichte to Tyler Schmidt with 5:10 left in the game made the score 41-27. They found the end zone one more time with less than one-minute remaining in the game after a two-yard rushing score by Taormina.

State hopes come up short for Blue Devil netters

By MICHAEL CARNES

For The Herald

WEST POINT — Wayne made it to North Bend's front porch three times, but couldn't break the door down.

The Blue Devils battled the state-rated Tigers tough in Saturday's C1-4 district championship at West Point-Beemer High School, but were unable to slow them down at the end as North Bend advanced to state with a 25-17, 25-22, 25-17 win.

Wayne held leads in all three sets and kept things close each time before North Bend was able to come up with some key plays and finish off the Blue Devils in straight sets.

"We fought hard to about 17 in each set, which made it a great match," coach Traci Krusemark said after the game. "But North Bend is a fantastic team and they have a lot of arsenals and weren't going to back down. They got a few breaks and we couldn't catch up."

After a slow start in the opening set, Wayne battled back from an 8-3 deficit and went on a four-point run to tie the set at 12-12. A North Bend error started the run, which was followed by an Emily Armstrong kill, an ace serve by Kylie Hammer and a monster block by Lauren Pick to cap the four-run rally.

Tied at 13-13, North Bend took the lead for good in the opening set with three straight points, then went on three more three-point runs and finished the set with a kill by Emanuel to claim the early lead.

North Bend again got the early surge to open the second set, but a four-point run that included a pair of Hammer kills and a Shania Anderson attack tied the match at 5-5.

Wayne took their first lead at 7-6 in the second set when Anderson dumped a free ball at the net, but North Bend came back with three straight to retake the lead at 9-7. Wayne would answer with a three-point run of their own, highlighted by an Ashton Boyer kill and a Hammer ace, to make it 10-9.

Wayne used a three-point run later in the set with a kill and an ace serve by pick to make it 16-16. The two teams traded points to make it 17-17, but North Bend scored four of the next five points to take control of the set and put it away with a Brooke Fredrickson kill to take the two-set advantage.

The third set was a different story, as it would be the Blue Devils surging to the early 6-1 lead. A kill by Armstrong and a series of errors by North Bend got Wayne the early lead, but the Tigers would come back with a four-point run of their own to tie the set at 7-7.

Wayne trailed 10-9 when they started their last rally, a four-point swing that was capped by an ace serve by Korrina Niemann to make it 13-10, but North Bend came back to tie the set at 15-15, then scored the next four points to take control of the match.

"We tried a lot of things," Krusemark said. "They were trying to swing the momentum and we had it there for a bit, but (North Bend) just has a lot of great players and we couldn't quite get over the hump."

The Blue Devils, who ended the season at 19-13, were led at the net by Pick with nine kills, while Anderson added seven and Hammer and Armstrong each had four. Avery had two kills and Boyer added a kill. Avery had 15 assists, O'Reilly had eight and Boyer had three.

Wayne had eight aces in the match, with Pick recording three, Hammer and Niemann each adding two and Armstrong adding one.

Big plays help Wahoo end Blue Devils' title hopes

By MICHAEL CARNES
For The Herald

After running for more than 300 yards in an opening-round win over Kearney Catholic, Wahoo running back Dylan Egr was the center of attention for the Wayne High football team in their quest to continue the team's best season in more than three decades.

The Blue Devil defense was able to limit him to a little less than half of his output the week before, but three big plays turned the tide for the visiting Warriors and helped them pull away with a 42-8 win over the Blue Devils in the quarterfinals of the Class C-1 playoffs Friday at Wayne State College's Cunningham Field.

Wahoo's offense, defense and special teams all came up with big plays in a key second quarter that helped swing the game's momentum in favor of the fourth-seeded Warriors and helped them end Wayne's 6-4 season.

The first came on the first play of the second quarter. Wayne was trying to answer the Warriors' opening drive that ended with an 11-yard run by Egr, driving 79 yards in 18 plays and facing a fourth-and-goal at the one yard line.

On the final play of the first quarter, it appeared that quarterback Beau Bowers had snuck over on a two-yard surge at the goal line, but he was ruled down at the Wahoo 1-yard line. Play moved to the other side of the field, and Wahoo's defense stuffed Brennan O'Reilly short of the goal line to end the drive.

"I just think if we'd have gotten that one early in the game it would have been different," coach Russ Plager said after the game, referring to Wahoo's goal-line stand. "They had that punt return and that long pass late in the first half and that really changed the momentum of the game."

Wahoo's special teams came up with the next big play late in the first half when Egr returned a Kaleb Anderson punt 50 yards for a touchdown, giving the Warriors a 14-0 lead. After the defense held Wayne on a three-and-out, the Warriors scored again on a 73-yard touchdown pass from Cameron Quick to Billy Hancock, giving Wahoo the 21-0 halftime lead and carrying that momentum forward in to the second half.

Wahoo's opening touchdown was set up by a 37-yard pass from Quick to Brendan Lacey, with Egr scoring three plays later.

Wayne's long first-quarter drive was highlighted by a fumble on a rushed punt by Anderson and a personal foul penalty by Wahoo. O'Reilly broke off a 12-yard run, and Juan Vergara nearly scored on a run down the right side before being stopped at the Wahoo 6-yard line for a 13-yard play.

Wayne's defense held Wahoo's star running back to just 40 yards in the first half, but he wore Wayne's defense down in the second half, scoring on runs of 7 and 5 yards to make the score 35-0 early in the fourth quarter.

"That was the game plan, to try to take him out of the game and make them throw it around and we did that," Plager said. "But they made some big plays here and there and that kind of snowballed on us."

Wayne was able to avoid the shut-out early in the fourth quarter. Bowers lofted a ball down the east sideline to Mason Lee, who made a leaping grab and then broke free for a 56-yard touchdown pass with 8:46 to go in the game. Casey Koenig ran in the two-point conversion to make it a 35-8 game.

Wahoo scored one more touchdown to close out the game, as Ryan Ickler scored on a 12-yard run to send the Warriors into the semifinals against top-seeded Norfolk Catholic.

"That was a big momentum play," Plager said of the goal-line stand. "Sometimes there are two or three huge plays that really swing the momentum of the game, and that was one of them."

Vergara and O'Reilly each rushed for 35 yards on 12 and 10 carries, respectively, to lead the Blue Devil ground attack. Bowers was 4-of-13 for 80 yards, with Zane Jackson catching two balls for 18 yards and Lee hauling in the 56-yard touchdown pass.

The season marked the end of the road Wayne's seniors, including Bowers, Lee, O'Reilly, Ryan Jaixen, Zane Jackson, Garrett Schafer, Hunter Jorgensen, Sam Bruckner, Berto Vergara, Justin Dean and Nate Burrows. Plager praised the work of the senior players who led the team to its deepest trip in the playoffs since 1983 in his first season as head coach.

"I just walked into a fortunate situation with a bunch of kids who had experience and had good character, and we'll really miss those guys," he said.

The 6-4 season included huge wins over Columbus Scotus and Boone Central/Newman Grove, along with the team's first playoff win in 34 years, ending a 10-game playoff losing streak.

"I hope we set a foundational piece for the future of the program," Plager said. "It was a really fun season, and looking back we had four big wins this year (Scotus, Boone Central, O'Neill, Chardon) and I don't think I've ever coached a year where you've had four really fun wins to walk off with, and those were a lot of fun this year."

"Our younger guys will need to keep working in the weight room and developing our skills to get ready for next year," he added.

Lauren Pick splits the defense of North Bend's Megan Ortmeier (4) and Kristin Lux (5) for a kill during the first set of the C1-4 district final Saturday in West Point.

Defensively, Anderson had three blocks for the Blue Devils. Armstrong led the defense with 11 digs, Hammer and Boyer each had six, Niemann and Hailey Backer had four apiece, Pick had three and O'Reilly had one.

It was the final match for the team's two seniors, Hammer and Anderson, both of whom were praised for their play and their role as senior leaders.

"They've both done a lot for volleyball at Wayne High and been great teammates," Krusemark said. "They not only have helped us in volleyball for four years, but have been great teammates who were looked up to by the younger girls. Those are the kind of kids I'd want my kids to be teammates with."

The cupboard is certainly not bare for next year — seven of the underclassmen on the roster were key contributors to the team's success this season, and Krusemark is optimistic about what lies ahead for next season.

"Besides our two seniors, we had a lot of underclassmen who played well and I hope they got a feel for what it's like to be in a district final and work hard for next year. The future looks bright," she said.

Wildcats still No. 22 in AVCA poll

The Wayne State volleyball team held steady at No. 22 in the latest American Volleyball Coaches Association Div. II Top 25 coaches poll.

This is the 113th consecutive week the Wildcats have been in the top 25, thanks to recent road wins at No. 18 Augustana, Bemidji State and Minnesota Crookston. Wayne State is one of seven Northern Sun Conference schools in the top 25, along with top-ranked Concordia-St. Paul, No. 4 Southwest Minnesota State, No. 6 Minnesota Duluth, No. 7 Northern State, No. 15 Winona State and No. 18 Augustana.

Wayne State closes out the season this weekend with home matchups against St. Cloud State on Friday at 6 p.m. and Minnesota Duluth on Saturday at 4 p.m.

Wildcat women's hoops team goes 2-1 in California trip

The Wayne State women's basketball team opened the 2017-18 season with a 2-1 effort in the Div. II Women's Basketball Tip Off Classic, held over the weekend at Santiago Canyon College in Orange, Calif.

In Friday's opener, Wayne State raced out to a 17-0 first-quarter lead and never looked back in rolling to a 77-49 victory over Young Harris College of Georgia.

Junior point guard Maggie Lowe scored on a 3-point play followed by a pair of 3-pointers in the first three minutes of the game giving the Wildcats a 10-0 lead.

Wayne State pushed the advantage to 17-0 before Young Harris finally scored at the 2:10 mark of the first quarter as the Wildcats finished with an 18-8 first quarter lead.

The Wildcats scored the first seven points of the third quarter to push the lead to 20 at 45-25 and never let Young Harris back into the game.

Despite making just 3-of-11 shots in the third quarter, the Wildcats made 9-of-10 free throws and outscored the Mountain Lions 16-11 in the third to take a commanding 54-36 lead into the fourth quarter.

The final stanza was played primarily by Wildcat reserves as all 15 players saw action in the game with 12 of the 15 scoring as Wayne State outscored Young Harris 23-13 in the fourth quarter to end with the easy win.

Lowe was the lone Wildcat in double figures with 15 points, going 5-of-8 from the field including 4-for-6 behind the arc. Kacie O'Connor, Andrea Larson and Brittany Bongartz followed with nine points apiece.

Wayne State won the rebounding battle 49-35 thanks to 11 caroms from Bongartz, Larson and Paige Ballinger each finished with seven.

The Wildcats had 15 assists and just 14 turnovers in the game compared to 11 assists and 17 turnovers for Young Harris, leading to a 25-17 Wildcat advantage in points off turnovers.

Erin Norling, Maggie Schulte and O'Connor each had three assists for the Wildcats. Ballinger had three of Wayne State's four blocked shots.

Wayne State College could not overcome a 25-10 first-quarter deficit on Saturday, losing to No. 16 Azusa Pacific 89-81.

The Wildcats made just 2-of-15 shots in the first quarter and found themselves trailing 25-10 after 10 minutes of action.

Wayne State still trailed by double figures the entire second quarter, but used 12-of-14 free throw shooting to score offensively while making just 5-of-14 shots from the field as Azusa

Pacific held a 43-32 lead at intermission.

Wayne State would cut the Cougars lead to six several times in the fourth quarter, the first coming with 4:16 to play when Ballinger made a pair of free throws to get the Wildcats within six at 80-74. Azusa Pacific answered every Wildcat rally, however, and finished with the eight-point win.

Senior Maggie Schulte paced Wayne State in scoring with a game-high 35 points that included 18-for-20 at the free throw line. She also grabbed 10 rebounds for a double-double. Ballinger also hit double digits for Wayne State with 17 points.

Savanna Hanson accounted for 19 points and 15 rebounds to lead four players in double figures for the Cougars. Gabrielle Kaiser followed with 16 while Rachel Bozlee and Samantha Huddleston added 14 and 13 points, respectively.

Lowe and O'Connor each had three assists for Wayne State, while Ballinger had four of Wayne State's five blocks in the contest.

In Sunday's finale, the Wildcats burned the nets at a 55.6 percent clip to roll past Wisconsin-Parkside 99-56.

Wayne State jumped out to a 32-13 first quarter lead, never trailing in the contest. The Wildcats were a white-hot 14-of-19 from the field in the opening frame, highlighted by 11 points from O'Connor, to take control early.

The Wildcats maintained a sizeable lead in the second quarter and finished the first half with a 52-27 lead.

The third quarter saw Wayne State outscore UWP 29-10 to take a commanding 81-37 lead after three quarters.

Reserves dominated play in the fourth quarter as Wayne State saw 12 different players score in the contest as they came away with the easy 43-point blowout win.

Norling led a balanced scoring attack for the Wildcats with 19 points, going 9-of-11 from the field. She also had six assists. Junior reserve forward Andrea Larson followed with 14 points with Schulte and O'Connor also reached double digits with 13 and 11 points, respectively. Wisconsin-Parkside's top scorer was Carolina Rahkonen with 12 points followed by Ali Bettencourt with 10.

Wayne State held a 44-41 edge in rebounding over the Rangers thanks to seven boards from Ballinger and six by Bongartz. Norling and Lowe each had six assists while Lowe was credited with four of Wayne State's 12 steals.

Wayne State (2-1) resumes play on Saturday with a 4 p.m. game at Nebraska-Kearney.

Rugby women host regional this weekend

The defending national champions of women's NSCRO rugby, Wayne State Wildcat women, are two wins away from a return trip to Atlanta for the NSCRO semifinals and national championship, and will host the regional tournament this weekend at the Wayne Rugby Park.

Coach Darrin Barner said their Round of 16 matchup New York Oneonta on Saturday at 1 p.m. will be a big hurdle for them to clear. The winner of that game will face the winner of Colorado College and Moorhead State on Sunday at 11 a.m.

"This will be a very unique event, having a team from New York in town for the chance to move to the national championship," he said. "We really would like to see everyone in the area cheering us on in this very important game on Saturday."

The Wildcat women come into Saturday's game with their undefeated record of 14-0, including key wins over Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas State, and Barner said the team will need to be running on all cylinders this weekend to go for their seventh national title.

The winner of this regional has won the national championship five of the last six years, and all eyes in the college rugby world will be set on this Saturday matchup.

Also on hand at the game will be many high school recruits coming to see a playoff atmosphere and the facilities at the rugby park. Among those planning to attend are All-American Selma Taylor from Kansas City

Midwest Select, Holly Schupbach from Pulaski, Wisc.; and Zoey Olson from Des Moines Iowa Elite, along with more out-of-state recruits.

Barner said Wayne State and New York Oneonta will match up very evenly, with both teams running a balanced attack by the scrum and backlines.

"The game will be won or lost on who can maintain on offense, time of possession and playing high-pressure defense when the opponent is in the shadows of their own end zone," he said.

Admission to the game is free at the Wayne Rugby Park, located just north of the Summer Sports Complex.

Late run helps Wright State in exhibition win over WSC

Wright State of Ohio used a 16-5 scoring run in the last 8:47 to pull away for a 73-58 men's college basketball exhibition win Friday evening over Wayne State College at the Nutter Center in Dayton, Ohio.

The first half was close as neither team held a lead of more than five points.

The host Raiders scored the first five points of the contest for their biggest lead of the half.

With Wayne State down 9-5, the Wildcats took their first lead of the night at 15-14 on an Austin Esters layup with 13:17 to go in the half. Wayne State pushed the lead to four at 21-17 following a Jordan Cornelius layup with 9:57 to go in the half.

Wright State then went on an 11-2 run and took another five-point lead at 28-23 with 6:33 to play first half.

With Wayne State still trailing 36-32 at the 2:50 mark, the Wildcats used a Kendall Jacks basket and a 3-pointer from junior reserve Trevin Joseph to lead 37-36 before finishing the half trailing 40-39.

The two teams traded several lead changes early in the second half until the Raiders pulled away late for the win.

Down 43-39, Wayne State got a 3-pointer from Jacks and a pair of free throws from sophomore center Tony Bonner to regain the lead at 44-43 with 16:01 to play. A layup by Bonner gave the Wildcats its final lead at 48-47 with 14:08 to go in the contest.

Wright State scored the next seven points to take the lead for good at 54-48. A Cornelius basket at the 9:49 mark ended a scoring drought of 4:19 to get Wayne State within four at 54-50, but that's as close as they would get as Wright State used the 16-5 run late to finish off the win.

Cornelius led the Wildcats in scoring with 12 points followed by Bonner with 10 and Jacks nine. Cornelius and Austin Esters led Wayne State with four caroms each.

Justin Mitchell paced Wright State with 23 points and 12 rebounds followed by Mark Hughes with 21 points. Loudon Love also had a double-double with 17 points and 12 rebounds.

The Wildcats officially open the 2017-18 season next Friday, Nov. 10, when they visit Nebraska-Kearney in a 7 p.m. contest.

Kleeb focuses Wakefield speech on winning elections

Democratic Party Chair of Nebraska Jane Kleeb spoke at a recent event held by the Dixon County Democrats.

On Sunday, Oct. 29, Chair of the Nebraska Democratic Party, Jane Kleeb, spoke to a crowd of 75 at an event hosted by the Dixon County Democrats. We talked about how Democrats engage with people who traditionally don't turn out to vote. We talked about how we rebuild our party by empowering our county parties to talk with their neighbors and show voters how these decisions will affect their lives. We are working to rebuild our Party both in Nebraska and nationally.

"Dixon County is a leading example on how to build our Democratic Party at the grassroots level. Dixon County Democrats of all backgrounds and ideologies are working shoulder-to-shoulder to recruit candidates and train volunteers to help Democrats win elections." Jane Kleeb, Chair, Nebraska Democratic Party.

"We were gratified at the size of the turnout and surprised to have folks from nine Nebraska counties attend. It was reassuring to see so many politically like-minded neighbors. One of Kleeb's messages was the importance of helping rural Nebraska Democrats feel "bold and proud" of their political affiliation, and our Dixon County group will help empower our neighbors by sponsoring county candidate events, staff our booth at the Dixon County Fair, marching in local parades, and attending community events. We will also be partnering with the Northeast Nebraska Democrats to sponsor candidate events for regional and state elections in 2018," said Mary Ellen Ellyson, Co-Chair, Dixon County Democrats.

"We had a great time meeting Democrats from all over northeast Nebraska. I loved hearing what issues people were thinking about and how our party stands up for their values. It was great hearing from our new candidate, George Holm, from the 40th Legislative District. Hard work wins, and Democrats will always out-work Republicans," said Eric Aspengren, Executive Director, Nebraska Democratic Party.

Makerspaces bring more opportunity to Nebraskans

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

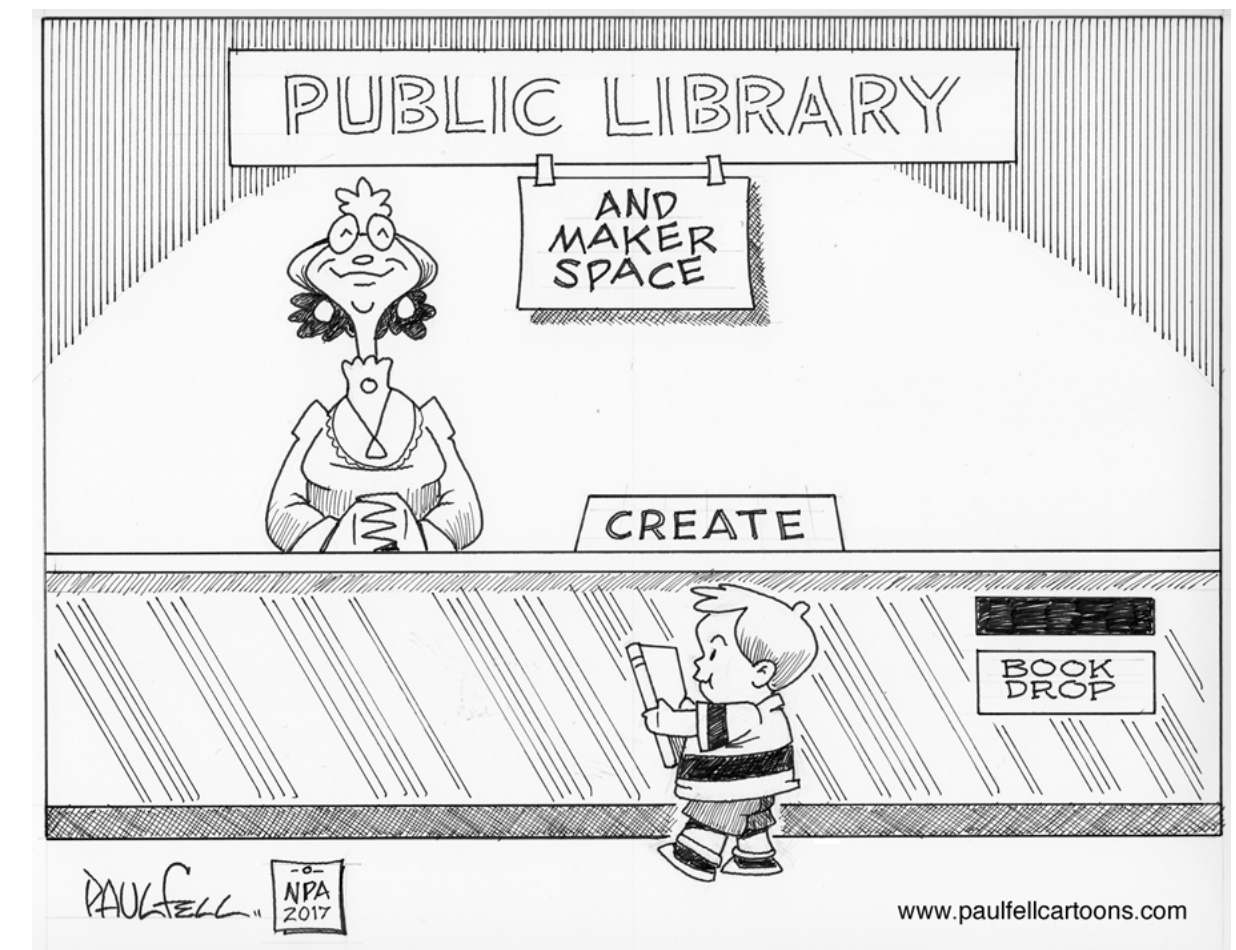

Makerspaces are the new buzz among the young and hip tech-savvy 20-somethings. But they're not something that you'll just find in Lincoln or Omaha. They'll be coming soon to a library near you, specifically 18 libraries from Nebraska City to Scottsbluff, Wayne to Sidney, and a number of places in-between.

Thanks to a recently announced initiative by Governor Ricketts, these spaces -- where creative people can meet, design and turn ideas into things -- will be available on a rotating basis with four "labs" that will offer resources such as: computers; 3-D printers; audio-visual equipment and editing tools; and traditional arts and crafts supplies.

Ricketts said the 18 libraries will be the initial local participants in "Nebraska's Library Innovation Studios: Transforming Rural Communities" project to create library makerspaces. The state Library Commission was recently awarded a National Leadership Grant of $530,732 by the Institute of Museum and Library Services for this partnership project with the University of Nebraska Lincoln Innovation Studio, Nebraska Extension, Regional Library Systems, and local libraries.

The partnership demonstrates how Nebraska communities can use technology and education to empower community residents to create, learn, and invent, he said. The benefits of the project are three-fold: expanding the skills of the workforce; supporting entrepreneurs; and encouraging lifelong learning.

Communities are strengthened by involvement in and support of expanded learning through technology and innovative learning tools not readily accessible locally. Stimulated creativity, innovation, and the exchange of ideas will foster entrepreneurship, skills development, and local economic development.

The Nebraska Innovation Studio—the UNL makerspace—is the creative and collaborative hub of UNL's Nebraska Innovation Campus, that mix of old and new spaces developed on the former site of the State Fair in Lincoln. The primary focus of the space, which is several years old, is on creativity, interdisciplinary collaboration, entrepreneurship, and education.

Nebraska Extension is one of three components of UNL's land-grant mission. Extension educators and specialists put research to work in local communities, businesses, and individuals' lives. Extension personnel live and work in Nebraska communities across the state and engage citizens in recognizing and solving problems.

Ricketts said 12 additional libraries will be selected in 2018 to host makerspaces in 2019/20. The project concludes June 30, 2020.

Library Commission Director Rod Wagner said public libraries are the natural gathering points for people to come together to share materials, knowledge, and experiences. He said libraries have always been dedicated to community partnership, collaboration, and the free exchange of ideas.

Makerspaces are the next step in that progression. Nebraska Innovation Studio founder Shane Farritor said it's very important to provide the opportunity to be creative to people of all ages.

As someone who worked at the public library when I was in high school many decades ago, it is great to see the public library maintain its status as a center of learning and catalyst for community change.

Back before Google and smart phones, the library is where people went for information and new ideas in the arts and sciences and humanities.

They are still places to connect and the perfect host for maker spaces. The collaboration of statewide entities with cooperation on the local level is both noteworthy and heart warming. It's nice to know that libraries still play a vital role in community development and vision for the future.

Congratulations to the Governor and all involved for taking such a grassroots step forward.

Can and should, tis the question

Calyn Dunklau, Editor

During a recent meeting of the Wayne County Commissioners, a man, whose name no one quite got nor could his signature be read on the sign in sheet, called out the commissioners for saying the pledge of allegiance to begin the meeting.

His reasoning behind calling it a 'slap in the face' was because he felt the commissioners are letting the wind energy companies come in and do whatever they please, however they please and not protecting their constituents.

He commented further, equating the wind energy companies signing land leases to the atrocity that was herding Jewish, Gypsy and any other 'undesirable' into the Warsaw Ghetto during World War II.

I'm giving you the whole scenario because even though I wanted to only tell you what this man said, it's my duty as a reporter to relay the whole message. That being said, I don't think it matters what his motivation was for saying what he said. The truth of the matter is that a man, who supposedly has a grandfather who was a survivor of the concentration camps, equated a company doing business without coercion in a free market to the Nazi's roundup of innocent people into a walled enclosure and the subsequent treatment of those people.

Now, in my mind unless someone is actually rounding up groups of people to place them in ghettos or concentration camps or some other equally horrifying act of inhumane violence, there is no drawing parallels.

I have been to the United States Holocaust Museum in Washington D.C.

I'm sure the museum curators change the displays inside the facility but when I visited, the first room I walked into held piles and piles of leather shoes. All sizes. Men's. Women's. Children's.

Shoes that belonged on the feet of masses of people who were handed a death sentence, but forced to first strip down and hand over all their belongings and be told lie after lie of how they were heading for quarantine showers. Shoes that belonged on the feet of mothers, whose children clung to her legs. Shoes that belonged to the fathers with health problems or the grandparents who were bent with age.

Shoes that belonged to feet that belonged to bodies.

Bodies that weren't just bodies, but lives.

Those lives were fought for by men and women as they smuggled children out of cities and countries, hiding them in their attics and in their cellars.

There are thousands who made up the front lines as the world went to war over those lives. Thousands who never made it home to their families because of their service to those lives.

The men and women in uniform today are there to keep such atrocities from happening again as much as possible. They don a uniform and load a rifle and put their lives on hold to ensure entire cultures aren't put to the brink of extinction for someone's twisted ideals.

My uncles didn't serve in Vietnam and in Desert Storm to prevent wind energy companies from establishing a facility in Nebraska.

My cousin didn't take shrapnel to the head, neck and shoulders from a .50 caliber rifle round exploding into a steel plate behind his head while he was perched atop a humvee to prevent a renewable energy company from building wind turbines in the Midwest. He doesn't suffer from terrifying PTSD episodes or sit through countless doctor visits to ensure the scar tissue isn't deteriorating his cognitive function to keep the landscape of Nebraska from changing with the construction of turbine towers.

No, that's not the case.

Those men in my life felt a sense of duty not all feel. They felt responsible for helping to prevent horrifying acts of violence against religious groups, cultural groups, men, women and children in our country and around the world. They decided to make the nation's problems, the world's problems, their own problems. There aren't many in this world who are so selfless.

In absolutely no way is that even in the same ball park as a wind energy company's business. In absolutely no way does what the people who endured atrocities against their people, against their families, against themselves equate to the construction of wind turbines.

To draw parallels between the two is, quite frankly, appalling. It's sickening. It's absurd. It's infuriating.

We live in a land where you are allowed to say whatever you'd like to thanks to that beloved First Amendment, the very thing that allows me to do my job.

That being said, you are only guaranteed that freedom because someone decided that amendment was worth fighting for.

Just because you can say something, doesn't mean you should.

4-H grows true leaders

Last year, National 4-H Council launched the "Grow True Leaders" campaign showing how 4-H and true leaders go hand in hand.

True leaders have real confidence, know how to work well with others, can endure through challenges, and will stick to a job until it is finished.

The 4-H experience is proven to grow true leaders with life skills like confidence, teamwork, curiosity, and resilience.

Participating in 4-H service projects are a powerful way for youth to gain the skills they need to be prepared to lead. Some leadership skills youth gain through service include critical thinking, organization, public speaking, emotional intelligence, the power of action, and empathy.

Involvement in 4-H and service are in close association with each other as service to the community is an integral part of the 4-H experience. Every time a 4-H member or volunteer recites the pledge, it reminds them to provide service to their club, community, country, and world.

There is a great way to see the multitude of the 4-H led community service projects that are happening across our great state. You can visit 4h.unl.edu/community-service-map to view the 4-H Community Service Project Map. On there, you will learn about highway cleanups events, giving baskets gatherings, landscaping projects, and much more. Whether the service projects are small or grand in scale, all service helps to meet the needs of others and makes a difference. This site captures all of those projects and helps to show the pride that 4-Hers have for the communities they call home.

Every day, 4 H'ers across the nation pledge their hands to larger service. And every day, 4 H'ers are rolling up their sleeves and putting their pledge into action - leading positive change that empowers their peers and their communities. 4-Hers across Nebraska are proving through their actions they are strong volunteers and true leaders. 4-H Grows True Leaders!

Filling the basket with prayers of thanksgiving

"Do not worry about anything, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God. 7 And the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus." Phil. 4:6

According to an ancient legend, God once sent two angels to the earth on a special mission, with each one of them carrying a basket. One angel was assigned to gather up all of the prayers of petition, and the other was assigned to gather up all of the prayers of thanksgiving.

The first angel returned very quickly, and her basket was filled to overflowing with requests. "Ah, yes," reported this angel, "the people of God have remembered well the Bible's counsel: 'Ask, and you shall receive.'" Yet the second angel was gone a long time, and when she finally returned, her basket was nearly empty. "I had a hard time finding people who pray prayers of thanksgiving," she said quietly.

With everyone else, I can relate to this in a very real way because I always have plenty of petitions to put into the first angel's basket. Prayers for people I know, prayers for people I don't know, prayers for family, prayers for good weather, prayers for guidance, prayers for health, prayers for strength, prayers for faith and prayers for peace in the world, that we can all find a way to get along.

Often we are so busy petitioning God for things that we need or want that we forget the second angel's basket. And yet, when you think about it, we have so much more to be thankful for. We have a God who never gives up on us - a God who is forever working for good - forming, reforming and transforming the world. We could thank God that we can work for good in the world as well. We are called to help those people that we pray for - people we know, people we don't know, our families. We can help guide those who need guidance, accept guidance from those who can guide us, and we can all get along and work for peace.

November is a month that is associated with giving thanks for all of the blessings that we have been given. I know a person who systematically lists his petitions in one column and then lists his blessings and gifts in another. His list of petitions is fairly short compared to his list of blessings which runs down the page and then spills over onto another. He says that looking at that list of blessings and gratitudes drowns out his negative thoughts and centers his mind more on the goodness of God. God is good all the time; all the time God is good.

As we move through this month, no matter what your circumstance is, why not try making an inventory of those things for which you are truly grateful - those things which are truly good in your life. As you do this remember what the Psalmist: "You have multiplied, O Lord my God, your wondrous deeds and your thoughts toward us; none can compare with you. Were I to proclaim and tell of them, they would be more than can be counted." Psalm 40:5

The following were present on Oct. 29 to be recognized for membership of 25 or more years. They included (front) Philip Griess, Jack Beeson, Joann Proett and Jean Griess. (back) Bev Beeson, Wesley Beckenhauer, Jay O'Leary, Jane O'Leary, Anita Fuelberth and John Fuelbreth.

First Presbyterian Church Celebrates Heritage Sunday

The congregation of Wayne's First Presbyterian Church celebrated the 500th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation and the roots of Presbyterianism which grew from the reformation on Sunday, October 29th. Theologian John Calvin, a leader in the Presbyterian Church, was a contemporary of Martin Luther's, who along with other visionary clergy saw the need for reform in the Catholic Church of their day. The FPC congregation will spend the next few weeks learning about the 5 Sola's of the reformation; "Grace Alone, Faith Alone, Christ Alone, Scripture Alone and To the Glory of God Alone." Rooted in the reformation these doctrinal understandings are key elements of Presbyterian theology.

The congregation also heard a brief history of First Presbyterian Church. The first service was held in 1881 conducted by Rev. G.M Lodge of Shelby, Iowa, in December of 1881 the Presbyterian Church was chartered with 11 members. The current church building was constructed in 1898. Significant changes and improvements to the structure have been made through the years including the addition of a kitchen and Fellowship Hall in 1925. Through the years many projects to maintain and improve the building have taken place including the sanctuary renovation in 2016, painting the building and replacing the front entry steps and railing which were completed in 2017.

Deacons, Sunday school and Vacation Bible school programs have been a part of the life of the congregation from the early days. There have been men's and women's groups, choirs, quartets; the congregation organized a Boy Scout troop in the 1920's. The church continues to minister to the community through the Food Pantry and Coat Closet housed at First Presbyterian Church.

Through the years the women of the church had been active in assisting with the work of the church and many projects related to the decoration or renovation of the manse and the church, offering not only labor but also funds.

The first woman elder was elected to the Session in 1964. Today the Session, the governing body of the local church, is composed of men and women who guide the mission and ministry of the congregation.

A display in Fellowship Hall featured historical photos as well as recent congregational activities and a list of those who have been members 25 years or more. It also contained a history written by Mrs. Dorothy Huse Nyberg for the for the 75th anniversary of the congregation in 1956. In addition a story by Jane O'Leary called the "Presbyterian Nail", a light-hearted look at church history was included in the display. The congregation of First Presbyterian has raised up three men who entered the ministry; Lloyd Cunningham, John Wheatly and Willie Ickler.

Pastor Teresa Bartlett commented "The history of First Presbyterian shows the perseverance and faithfulness of its members in establishing and maintaining a house of worship. We give thanks for those who established this congregation in 1881 and all of the faithful members who have supported the ministry of the church through the years."

As part of the Heritage Sunday celebration those of the congregation who have been members 25 years and longer were recognized. Pastor Bartlett said "It is wonderful to be able to celebrate the witness of 37 members who have participated in the life of this congregation for 25 or more years. We give thanks for God's faithfulness and the variety of ways which the members of the congregation have been and continue to minister to the community." A special time of fellowship was held following worship with cakes prepared by Audrey Harder.

Winside St. Paul's Ladies Aid conducts November meeting

Winside St. Paul's Ladies Aid and LWML met Nov. 1 with 12 members and Pastor Goodman present.

President Pat Janke opened the meeting, and then everyone recited the League Pledge.

Mrs. Janke read a devotional article called "Do I Have to Share?"

After the devotion, everyone sang the hymn "Come, Ye Thankful People, Come!"

Pastor Goodman had Bible study on Christian Burial.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were both read and approved.

Communication: Mrs. Janke read a thank you card from Bonnie Frevort, thanking the Ladies Aid for all the kind things we do.

Pastor read a text from missionary Jana Englehart on how she is doing in The Dominican Republic. Jana said after the hurricanes that went thru the area, they had to put bars on their windows to prevent looters from breaking in. Jana also said that several people have left the area, due to the hurricanes, so the ones that remain are very busy.

Reports: Pat gave a report on the LWML Wayne Zone Fall Rally that was held on Oct. 17 at Trinity Lutheran Church in Martinsburg. The theme for the Rally was "Vocation in Time of Distress". Pastor Goodman did the Bible study, based on the theme of the Rally. Pastor Carl and Darlene Lilienkamp from Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne were the guest speakers. They told everyone about their two month journey to Alaska and how they helped take care of 500 volunteers at the Lutheran Center in Anchorage.

Janice Mundil gave a report on visiting the shut-ins in October. Erna Hoffman will visit the shut-ins in November.

New Business: Erna Hoffman, Arlyn Vahlkamp, Pat Janke and Lorraine Prince will be on the committee to help pack and deliver Christmas packages for the shut-ins on Dec. 11.

Mrs. Janke told everyone that the LWML Nebraska North District Convention will be on June 21-23, 2018 at Lutheran High Northeast in Norfolk.

The birthday song was sung for LaJeane Marotz, Marilyn Brockman and Bonnie Frevort. Birthday cards were sent to Marilyn and Bonnie.

Get well cards were sent to LaJeane Marotz and Rob Langenberg.

In October, Lorraine took a Halloween card and treats to our adoptee, Keri Dangberg, a member of our congregation who is living at North Star in Norfolk.

Lorraine took roll call. The meeting was closed with "The Lord's Prayer" and table prayers.

The next meeting will be Wednesday, Dec. 6 at 12:30 p.m. with a carry-in dinner. It will be the Christmas program with all the ladies of the congregation invited.

FFA students attend EDGE event

Wayne FFA members attended EDGE (Engaging Districts in Growth & Excellence) on Nov. 6 in Blair.

EDGE is typically for Greenhand FFA members, which are all of the Wayne FFA members because it is a new Chapter.

At this conference members learned about time management and serving others while the officers discussed Chapter meetings and member involvement.

Other schools who participated in this conference included Arlington, Blair, Logan View, Mead, Oakland-Craig, Pender, Scribner-Snyder, Tekamah-Herman, West Point, and Wisner-Pilger for a total of 149 students attending.

Wayne FFA gained leadership and time management skills from the conference and enjoyed interacting with students from other chapters.

Farmers encouraged to 'Keep the Stubble' during No-Till November

During a special month-long campaign called "No Till November", the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) is encouraging Nebraska farmers to "keep the stubble" on their harvested crop fields and improve soil health.

The project is mirrored after the national cancer awareness "No Shave November" campaign. The "No Till November" campaign encourages farmers to keep a different kind of stubble by parking tillage equipment in their machine sheds this fall and keep crop stubble on their fields.

"No till farming is a cornerstone soil health practice, which also promotes water quality while saving farmers time and money," said Acting State Conservationist Myron Taylor. "One of the first soil health principles is 'do not disturb.' This campaign is a fun way to remind farmers about the important relationship between tillage and soil health."

Improving soil health increases soil biological activity, which provides erosion control, nutrient benefits and can simulate tillage.

Nebraska State Conservation Agronomist Corey Brubaker says fall tillage disturbs soil and removes valuable cover that can leave soil exposed and unprotected during harsh winter months. Other field-disturbing practices like baling corn stalks also removes valuable cover and nutrients from the field.

"Farmers who bale cornstalks for livestock bedding or sell it to other livestock producers could be entering into a losing proposition due to the lost nutrient value and soil health benefits," Brubaker said.

Based on current commodity prices and the nutrient value in each bale, Brubaker says farmers should leave crop residue in the field especially if the fields are highly erodible and subject to conservation compliance.

"The plant residue left in the field after harvest is a valuable resource," says Brubaker. "The value in cornstalks can be better used for reducing soil erosion, providing extra organic matter content in the soil, and contributing nutrients back to the soil."

In Nebraska, cornstalk bales are currently selling for $45-75 per ton. The estimated cost of baling cornstalks, considering the value of the nutrients removed ($28/ton*), custom raking ($3/ton), and custom baling ($22/ton), is about $53 per ton. If bales are sold at the lower end of the current rate, farmers are not only losing money, but also the benefits of leaving residue on their fields.

Conservationists at the Natural Resources Conservation Service say the best thing producers can do for their cropland is to leave it undisturbed as much as possible. They encourage producers this November to not till their fields and keep crop residue in place to replenish the soil.

For more information on how to protect and improve soil quality, contact your local NRCS office or to www.ne.nrcs.usda.gov.

LENRD to host public hearing regarding Drought Management Plan

The public is invited to an open house public hearing concerning the Drought Management Plan for this area. The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (LENRD) will hold the hearing on Tuesday, Nov. 21 from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Lifelong Learning Center on the campus of Northeast Community College in Norfolk.

The Drought Management Plan defines drought locally and identifies processes to respond to and manage the impacts of future drought events. The open house public hearing will allow for public comment regarding the proposed integration of the Drought Management Plan into the LENRD's Groundwater Management Plan. The public is encouraged to spend as much or as little time as they like at the open house public hearing and it is important to note that written or oral comments carry equal weight in the decision-making process. The hearing is the first in a multi-step decision process, and consideration of the adoption (or modification) of the proposed changes will be determined at a later date.

LENRD Assistant General Manager Brian Bruckner, said, "If adopted, the integration of the goals and objectives of the Drought Management Plan into the Groundwater Management Plan, would allow the district to respond to the challenges of an acute drought situation. The geographic area impacted by the modifications to the District's Groundwater Management Plan is district-wide, all or parts of 15 counties in northeast Ne-

LENRD General Manager Mike Sousek, said, "The LENRD is taking proactive steps to reduce the impacts of future drought events. One of these steps is the development of the Drought Management Plan." He continued, "We must ensure that we protect the water resources of all current users in the district because this is the law. The protocol we are proposing for determining drought in the district is considered to be the most accurate method in the world."

The full text of the proposed amendment is on page 105 of the Groundwater Management Plan, which is available at the LENRD office in Norfolk and on the district's website at www.lenrd.org/latest-news/

Individuals with disabilities may request auxiliary aids and service necessary for participation by contacting the LENRD by Tuesday, Nov. 14. Testimony relevant to the purposes of the hearing may also be submitted in writing (prior to the close of the hearing) to the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource District, 601 E. Benjamin Avenue, Suite 101, Norfolk, Neb. 68701.

For more information on this planning effort, contact the LENRD at 402-371-7313 or lenrd@lenrd.org

Emergency funds awarded

The Northeast Nebraska Region of the State has been awarded federal funds made available through the Department of Homeland Security (DHS)/ Federal Emergency Management Agency under the Emergency Food and Shelter national board program.

The Northeast Nebraska Region has been chosen to receive $26,803.00 to supplement emergency food and shelter programs in the 10 counties of the Northeast Nebraska Region.

The selection was made by a National Board that is chaired by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security's Federal Emergency Management Agency and consists of representatives from American Red Cross; Catholic Charities, USA; National Council of the Churches of Christ in the USA; The Jewish Federations of North America, The Salvation Army; and, United Way Worldwide. The Local Board was charged to distribute funds appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high-need areas around the country.

A Local Board made up of (the Mayor, United Way, et al.) will determine how the funds awarded to the Northeast Nebraska Region are to be distributed among the emergency food and shelter programs run by local service agencies in the area. The Local Board is responsible for recommending agencies to receive these funds and any additional funds made available under this phase of the program.

Under the terms of the grant from the National Board, local agencies chosen to receive funds must: 1) be private voluntary non-profits or units of government, 2) be eligible to receive Federal funds, 3) have an accounting system, 4) practice nondiscrimination, 5) have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and/or shelter programs, and 6) if they are a private voluntary organization, have a voluntary board. Qualifying agencies are urged to apply.

The Northeast Nebraska Region has distributed Emergency Food and Shelter funds previously with Northeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership, Bright Horizons, Haven House, Care Corps Inc., and Salvation Army participating. These agencies were responsible for providing meals and nights of lodging.

Public or private voluntary agencies interested in applying for Emergency Food and Shelter Program funds must contact Krista Heineman at 402-385-6300 for an application. The deadline for applications to be received is no later than 4:30pm on Thursday, November 16th 2017.

Retired school personnel hear from veterans

The Wayne Area Association of Retired School Personnel met at Brookdale in Wayne on Nov. 6. There were 15 members and guests present.

Pat Jenkins-Rohde introduced Brad Wieland and Judge Robert Ensz as the speakers for the meeting.

Brad Wieland is a Veterans Service Officer and interpreted Morse code as he served our country. Judge Robert Ensz was a surveyor and legal clerk in the Vietnam War. He brought his uniform, boots, caps, dog tags, medal of honor and certificates to share with the group. Many stories and personal experiences were shared about the war and memorials.

Three members attended the state convention in October. The group was recognized for community service at the convention.

Mary Lou George gave an update on LB439 which proposes changes in licensure and regulation provisions for assisted living facilities.

Several members helped judge posters for the Lions Club poster contest.

The next meeting for the Wayne Area Retired School Personnel will be Monday, March 5, 2018 at Brookdale. It will begin at 9:30 a.m. All retired school personnel are invited.

Nematode samples, upcoming workshops are topics of discussion

I want to make you aware of a unique opportunity made possible by Nebraska Corn Board support. UNL researcher Dr. Tom Powers' lab is providing nematode analyses at no cost for soil samples that are submitted from corn fields now through spring.

The objective of this project are to learn more about the root-lesion nematode species that are present in Nebraska fields.

Unlike some nematodes, these root-lesion nematodes are extremely common (present in >93 percent of Nebraska fields) and not only in sandy fields. Please send your samples to the UNL Plant & Pest Diagnostic Clinic (P&PDC) for NEMATODE ANALYSIS and be sure to identify it for the Corn Nematode Survey. For more information on nematodes of corn or how to collect samples <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zQOr3p1cz4E>.

They need at least two cups of soil from down to about eight inches deep from the root zone of plants (from within the row). Please package those in plastic bags and ship them with a completed form (at-

As long as we are talking nematodes, if you haven't already tested your soybean fields for soybean cyst nematode you can do that as well. We have sample bags at the extension offices and this is also a free test. In my opinion the soybean cyst nematode is a substantial problem in the area and it is vital to all to have their fields tested to determine if management is necessary.

I know harvesting will be going on for a while but here is a final reminder - through some Corn Board funding we have an opportunity to provide a grain marketing workshop. Maybe you want to take a rest, maybe it will rain, or maybe you can send someone to this free grain marketing meeting.

This free grain marketing workshop will be offered Tuesday, Nov. 14 from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Wayne Fire Hall, to assist grain producers and their business partners in using futures and options to reduce risk in the marketing of their grain.

Nebraska Extension will present information on strategies for using forward contracts, futures, and options to better enable producers in their grain marketing decisions.

Topics covered include using marketing tools to reduce basis and price volatility. The workshop will feature the Marketing in a New Era simulator and Grain Marketing Plan app.

There is no fee to attend. To register please contact the Nebraska Extension Office in Wayne County at 402-375-3310 before 4 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 10. Pre-registration is required so that adequate materials and lunch can be provided. Farmers and business partners are encouraged to attend together, but please send someone. For more information or assistance, contact me at (402) 584-2234, or email keith.jarvi@unl.edu.

Also remember that we will have an "I just inherited a farm, now what?" meeting the next week on Tuesday, Nov. 21 also at the Wayne Fire Hall. If you have recently inherited a farm or are thinking about preparing to pass the farm along and want to know what the next steps are, please come. This is also a free meeting beginning at 9 a.m. and will go to about noon.

Frederick Temme to be inducted into Nebraska Cooperative Council's Hall of Fame

The 72nd Annual Meeting of the Nebraska Cooperative Council is scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 15 at the Holiday Inn and Convention Center in Kearney. One of the highlights of this year's meeting will be the induction ceremony for two new inductees into the Nebraska Cooperative Council Cooperative Hall of Fame.

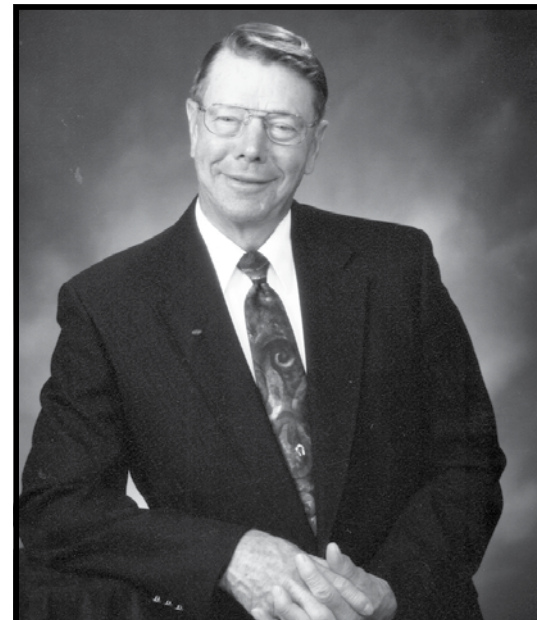

One of this year's inductees is Frederick Temme of Wayne.

The Council's Board of Directors implemented the NCC Cooperative Hall of Fame in 1999 as a way to recognize individuals who have been unwavering in their support of the cooperative system in Nebraska. It is the Council's intent that this prestigious award be reserved for only those who are held in the highest esteem by their peers.

The specific goal of the Cooperative Hall of Fame is to recognize those cooperative leaders whose leadership:

- Was instrumental in the growth and service of their respective cooperative.
- Fostered and promoted unity and a common approach to agricultural cooperatives.
- Improved and promoted a better understanding of the principles and practices of agricultural cooperatives.
- Was instrumental in the defense, protection, and enhancement of the agricultural cooperative movement.

On Nov. 15 the Council will induct the following two individuals into the Nebraska Cooperative Council Hall of Fame: Fredrick "Fritz" Temme of Wayne and Rodney Schroeder who grew up on a farm near Leigh and began his career as an accountant at Gooch Mills in Lincoln. He later accepted a job at the Aurora Cooperative. Rod quickly rose through the ranks and was named CEO of the Cooperative in 1984.

Frederick Temme

Frederick "Fritz" Temme - Fritz is truly one of the most dedicated cooperative supporters that the dairy industry in Nebraska has ever seen. His service on cooperative boards throughout his career distinguish him as a true leader of agricultural cooperatives.

Fritz began farming near Wayne in 1955 after serving his country in the U.S. Army. He began share renting the farm from his father and milking 25 cows. Today the operation, that his son and grandson operate, includes over 1,000 acres of farmland and 850 milk cows.

While building a successful business, Fred also provided leadership throughout the industry. Fritz began his service to his cooperative as a district officer for Associated Milk Producers Inc (AMPI) in 1977. He served on numerous AMPI committees throughout the years and as a corporate director until his retirement in 1998. He served as Chair, Vice Chair, and Secretary of the Dairy Council of Central States ADA; Vice Chair of the Nebraska Dairy Industry Development Board; and as a board director on the Federal Order 65 Production Board and Nebraska Dairy Review Board; and he also had the honor of testifying before Congress.

Locally Fritz served on the Wayne County Extension Board, Wayne County Farm Bureau Board, Wayne County Soil & Water Conservation Board, and Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District Board. He also served on his local school board and church council.

Advice offered for safe pesticide storage over winter months

As we move into winter, store lawn and garden pesticides correctly and securely.

Storage information can be found on the label. Read and follow it for safety and to help keep pesticides from degrading. Incorrect storage of pesticide can lead to accidental poisoning.

A common mistake is pouring a pesticide into a container other than the original. This is against pesticide label law and has led to poisoning.

Here are two examples that occurred this past summer in the United States. In one incidence, a father placed a small amount of insecticide in a cup and set it outside, hoping to kill spiders. His 21 month old daughter found the cup and drank it. In another incident, a gardener poured extra pesticide into a juice bottle. His wife found the bottle in his truck and took it into the house. She later drank some of it, thinking it was juice.

These are true incidents and fortunately, in both cases, the child and wife recovered after medical treatment. However, these cases emphasize the importance of storing pesticides in their original containers only; and in a secure location that can be locked. A common question about winter storage is if a pesticide is still effective after freezing. Safety first, if a pesticide does freeze and expand, know that a glass bottle or a plastic container may crack and leak.

As for effectiveness, according to Clyde Ogg, pesticide safety education coordinator at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln; first check the product label for storage recommendations and any warnings against freezing.

Most liquid pesticides are safely stored between 40 and 100 degrees Fahrenheit. If a liquid pesticide does freeze, it may be less effective in controlling pests.

Pesticides contain active and inactive ingredients. The active ingredient is what kills the pest. Inactive ingredients include solvents, carriers, or emulsifiers that make the pesticide more efficient.

Due to inclusion of some inactive ingredients, the freezing point of many liquid pesticides is lower than 32 degree F., according to a University of Missouri Extension publication on pesticide storage. It is important to read the label for temperature storage requirements.

When a liquid pesticide freezes, the active ingredients can separate from the solvents or emulsifiers, causing the emulsifiers to become inactive, crystallize, and coagulate, breaking down the original product. If frozen, some pesticides can be thawed naturally at room temperature, but never use a flame or heat. Make sure the container has not cracked. After thawing, roll and shake the container to re-suspend the contents. If crystals are still present after thawing, the pesticide should not be used as it will be ineffective. It should be properly disposed of it according to label directions.

Generally, pesticides that are wettable powders or granules are not affected by low temperatures. Moisture, though, can cause caking that may reduce effectiveness. Products formulated in water-soluble packets should not be frozen as they will become brittle and break open. When storing pesticides, Ogg recommends not storing them near heat, sparks, or open flames. Keep containers tightly closed in a cool, locked, well-ventilated place away from children, pets and food items. And store in original containers only.
