Wayne Area Legacy Fund dedicated to the area, to the future

What could be better than having money available to improve and enhance the Wayne area for generations to come? The Wayne Area Legacy Fund (WALF), an affiliate of the Nebraska Community Foundation (NCF), is working to fulfill that dream.

"We are excited to establish an endowment fund," said committee chair Bill Dickey. "The interest earnings from the endowed fund will go back into Wayne and surrounding communities every year whether it's into the schools, non-profit organizations or special projects. Think of it as a savings account for the area."

As an affiliated fund of the NCF – a 501(c)(3) charitable organization – the WALF is currently seeking contributions to this endowment fund.

"We have received donations ranging anywhere from a few hundred dollars to fifty thousand dollars since we kicked off the campaign earlier this year," Dickey said. "Any gift, whether large or small, is something that will benefit the community for years and years to come."

Currently, the Legacy Fund committee of ten members is soliciting donations for the fund in hopes of reaching the goal amount of $1 million over the next three to five years. When that $1 million is in place, there will be about $50,000 coming back to the communities each year from the interest earned according to Stephanie Liska, treasurer.

That $50,000 would be available as grant funding to various organizations, entities and projects -- such as Wayne Volunteer Fire Department, Head Start, Rainbow World, Haven House, foster care programs, any agency under United Way, etc. The list is endless.

"Grants will be awarded twice a year, likely in the fall and in the spring," Dickey said, "with the first grants to be awarded fall of 2018."

Those wishing to receive grants would go through an application process and funding would be approved by the Funds Advisory Committee based on the number of applications and on the availability of funds.

The funds would be available not only in Wayne but also in Wakefield, Winside, Carroll and Hoskins.

"What started out as the Wayne Community Foundation in 2000 has broadened to include all of Wayne

"Any gift, whether large or small, is something that will benefit the community for years and years to come."

County since agriculture plays such an integral and significant part of our community," Dickey said.

Within the fund itself are four line items – General Account, Majestic Theater Account, Wayne County Historical Society Endowment and the Unrestricted Endowment Account. The focus is on growing the Unrestricted Endowment Account because that's where the grant money will be awarded from. However, there are options if one desires to designate toward The Majestic or the Historical Society or the general fund.

Contributions given don't have to be only cash or property, but grain or livestock, retirement plans, life insurance gifts, shares of stock, memorials or honorary gifts or a will bequest can also be accepted. Another popular option has been through Individual Retirement Accounts.

At the age of 70 ½, retirement accounts have a minimum disbursement requirement and instead of taking these funds and paying taxes on them, individuals can designate the minimum distribution be paid directly to WALF. This would benefit the retiree as he would not pay any income tax on those funds.

"It's a win-win. That person doesn't get taxed on that money that has to be disbursed and the Legacy fund is benefitting from the contribution."

Those individuals pledging $3000 or more over a three year period will be considered "Founding Members" of the Wayne Area Legacy Fund.

The committee meets monthly for progress reports and to discuss any upcoming opportunities to spread the word about the fund. Anyone with questions regarding the fund or wishing to contribute can contact Bill Dickey, chair; Jeaney Harris, secretary; Stephanie Liska, treasurer; Jonah Brodersen, Kevin Halle, Jared Heathold, Eric Knutson, Matt Krusemark, Liz Onderstal or Molly Redden.

Veterans have options, assistance available here

By Calyn Dunklau
calyn@wayneherald.com

According to data provided by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, the suicide rate for veterans in Nebraska is 47.8 percent, nearly 10 percent higher than the national average and over 10 percent higher than the midwestern region's region which includes Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Statistics like those prompted the Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department (NeNPHD) to look at ways the department could help veterans, even without being the place to offer services.

"The VetSet program started a couple of years ago," public health director Julie Rother said. "It started with 'no wrong door' training."

No wrong door, Rother explained, means that even if a certain entity that is approached can't help that veteran with his or her needs, they know who to refer them to.

That concept has enabled Rother and the entire staff at the NeNPHD to help veterans looking for assistance or direction. But it's not limited to only public health departments. Numerous departments across the state have built a network with their local services and state services to be equipped to serve their area veterans.

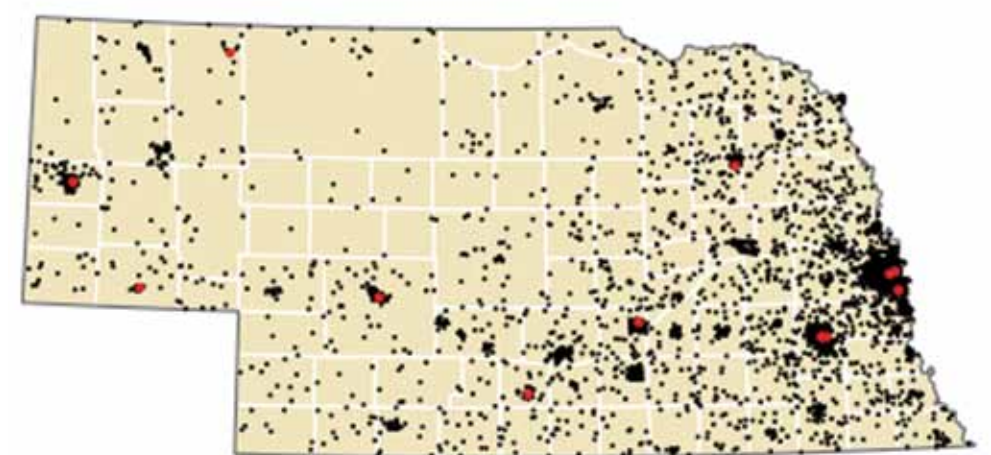

"Often times, veterans just don't know who or what is available to them," Rother said. "It's a real problem here. The isolation in rural communities plays a large role in the statistics we're seeing."

And what about a veteran's main source of support? More often than not, the support system a veteran does have starts with their own family. So VetSet isn't only for the veterans but also their families.

"A veteran's support comes primarily from their family," Rother said. "But what services are available to the support system? How can we make sure they know they have options?"

That 'how' is being met head on. Rother is working hard to pull together grant funding for a position in the NeNPHD that would act as a case manager and directory aid for veterans and their families looking for assistance.

Right now there is a veterans resource page on the NeNPHD website that gives the names and numbers of several individuals and entities who have the ability to assist a veteran, but it's not the same as

This graphic, provided by the United States Census Bureau, shows the veteran population in Nebraska. Each black dot represents 25 veterans while each red dot represents a veterans health administration facility. Other census data included a 4.1 percent veteran unemployment rate for the state compared to the national average rate at 5.3 percent.

talking with someone face-to-face, Rother said. After funding is completely in place, there will be someone in the office at the NeNPHD to assist veterans in person. Rother expects funding to be finalized and the position to be filled in the next couple of months.

While Rother sees veterans struggle with a lack of information on what is available to them, veterans service officer (VSO) Bradley Wieland said the problem he often faces is simply getting veterans to come in.

"The biggest problem I have is just getting those men and women to come in," Wieland said. "There are programs available but every vet has a different need."

Wieland's office is filled with binders full of program opportunities through the V.A., but those are useless without a veteran.

"We have a disability program, an educational program, emergency situation help, but if a veteran doesn't come in and talk to me to see how I can help them, I can't."

The programs available through the V.A. are numerous, and often complicated, which is where Wieland comes in.

"I do the paperwork," he said. "I don't make a final decision on anything. I help get the application process going."

Though he may not be the one who makes the final decision on program qualifications, he's seen enough in his several years as a VSO to have an educated guess on the outcomes.

"People have to apply, even if I don't think it will pan out, they still should apply."

Wieland said the most important aspect of his job is listening. Listening without speaking, specifically.

"It can be hard," he said. "I was a recruiter here for years and we talk a lot. And I'm not a psychiatrist. But you have to know how to listen to them and really hear what they're saying or what they're not saying."

A good majority of Wieland's cases are medical disabilities, most prevalent is hearing loss, but also veterans looking for help through PTSD and anxiety or those simply in need of help navigating how to get into a V.A. nursing home.

While technically speaking Wieland is the VSO for Wayne County, he has helped veterans from other counties.

"Some VSOs won't help a vet if they don't fall within their county. I'm not going to turn a veteran away no matter where they're from. I love my vets and I'm going to take care of them."

Asking for help isn't the 'midwest' way, but no one gets through life on their own, not a single one of us. Reach out, no matter what the reason. You might be surprised at how much it helps.

The Wayne Area Legacy Fund held an open house at The Majestic Theater during the annual Christmas on Main festivities recently. According to Dickey, roughly 100 people stopped throughout the night with great questions and contributions.

46th annual Madrigal Dinners journeys to a renaissance Christmas

Sojourn through a Renaissance-style Christmas during the 46th Annual Wayne State College Madrigal Dinners Saturday, Dec. 2 at 7 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 3 at 5:30 p.m. The royal dinners take place in the Frey Conference Suite in the Kanter Student Center on the WSC campus.

Madrigal singers, clad in 16th century attire, entertain as the audience indulges in a four-course Elizabethan Christmas feast. The Renaissance journey begins with Princess Abigail anxiously anticipating a Wee Box 3000 for Christmas. Grandmother Margaret, who dislikes electronics, presents Abigail with the unusual gift of a "book." Abigail struggles to create a world based on imagination. Soon her family finds themselves at a Renaissance feast and the book's story comes to life. Abigail learns that sometimes the gift received is better than the gift we "think" we want.

The evening features the 14-voice WSC Madrigal Singers singing holiday and Renaissance music. Traditional favorites include The Boar's Head Carol, Here We Come a Caroling, and We Wish You a Merry Christmas. German Renaissance selections composed by Hans Leo Hassler and Michael Praetorius are also presented along with Benjamin Britten's well-known 20th century work, A Ceremony of Carols.

The Madrigal Singers are directed by Matthew Armstrong, Assistant Professor of Music. https://www.wsc.edu/info/20081/music/848/matthew_armstrong/2

The production supervisor is Dr. Sarah Farr, Assistant Professor of Voice. Staff Accompanist Shelly Armstrong plays keyboard. WSC students playing lead roles include Victoria McNamara of Omaha; Brianna Clapper of Council Bluffs, Iowa; Kelsey Kardell of Laurel; Payton Schake of Amherst; Olivia Nottlemann of Bancroft; Jonathan Good of Dodge; Trevor McQuay of Magnet; Emily Popelka of La Vista; Ryan Umland of Jansen; and Joshua Fremstad of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Ticket prices are $35. Purchase tickets through the website at wsc.edu/madrigals. All sales are final. No exchanges or refunds. In case of inclement weather, the dinner will be rescheduled. Please be seated 15 minutes prior to the performance. For more information, contact Dr. Farr at (402) 375-7406 or safarr1@wsc.edu.

Why do you read?

There is no good reason not to! With our long winter nights, there is nothing better than sitting by the fire with a book. Elves and reindeer even love to listen to their favorite stories.

Have you ever had to give up on a book?

Yes! The little gingerbread man because it was just too scary.

Name a book you would recommend and tell everyone why they should read it.

The Christmas Fairy by Anne Booth and Rosalind Beardshaw. It's a delightful tale about a spirited pixie who saves the day.

Is there anything else you'd like to comment on about your passion for reading?

If you get a little restless over Winter Break, take a trip to the library and read a good book by the fire. I would also like to remind you that books make great gifts!

New global business class offered at Northeast

A new global business class at Northeast Community College has students on both sides of the Atlantic saying "Det er for sejt" (that's so cool).

The course, Global Business: A Partnership with Denmark, explores global business in collaboration with Northeast and Aarhus Business College in Aarhus, Denmark. The course introduces the concept of globalization and discusses the opportunities and challenges that businesses face in the changing global economy. Other topics include ethical decision making, business strategy, organization, marketing and human resources, all with an eye toward the global marketplace.

Using collaborative distance learning technology, including cameras and audio, the class pairs seven students on Northeast's Norfolk campus with 24 students from Aarhus Business College. One student on Northeast's O'Neill extended campus also participates using the same distance learning technology.

Some small group assignments the class has completed include analyzing messages about globalization in political cartoons, practicing the ethical decision making process and exploring international Top 100 companies' marketing mixes. Students also participate in language lessons, discussions of cultural determinants and explorations of the similarities and differences between Denmark and the United States.

Northeast business instructors Maryjan Fiala and Cara Hoehne, and Aarhus Business College's Brith Jøker co-teach the course.

"Our students are gaining experience working in virtual teams on an international scale while developing cultural awareness and skills that will benefit them in today's workforce. They are also experiencing firsthand the power of technology and how it seems to minimize the distance between two countries," Fiala said.

During a recent class session, Jøker, the instructor at Aarhus, briefly switched on all the microphones on her end. The lively chatter of a 2 p.m. class in Denmark filled the quiet Northeast classroom, where the Northeast were starting the day bright and early with an 8 a.m. class.

The session opened with a language lesson. In small groups using laptops, the Aarhus students were tasked with teaching their American classmates key Danish words. Within seconds, the Northeast students were repeating "i dag" (today), "næste" (next) and "tak" (thank you) back to their classmates.

And because their Aarhus counterparts already know English (Danish public school students typically begin learning it in first grade), the Northeast students instead taught them the meanings behind common phrases used in everyday American business, such as "red tape" and "ballpark figure."

"It's difficult to select one assignment or project that has had the most impact, as each session is eye opening for both students and faculty," Hoehne said. "Northeast students continue to explore international business topics and discuss the takeaways from their small group discussions during the class periods, even when we are not connected with Denmark."

For their large semester project, the eight groups have been charged with selecting an international company to research in relationship to the course's core topics of globalization, culture, ethics and marketing.

Hoehne said that with direction from Vision 2020, the College's five-year strategic plan, and the program advisory board for Business and Banking Services, the Northeast business department determined that international business skills are essential for students graduating with an Associate of Applied Science degree in business.

"With our administration's support, we are able to provide our students with a course that not only covers international business topics but also gives the students the opportunity to interact with students from another country and culture. Our students have made lifelong connections with their Danish partners while acquiring a better understanding of international business."

When Global Business: A Partnership with Denmark is offered again next fall, the class will have an even more immersive experience built into its syllabus. Students will have the option to join a ten-day trip to Denmark and Germany during the semester.

During their time there, the students will travel to Copenhagen, Denmark and Hamburg, Germany, visit various businesses in Aarhus and spend time on campus at Aarhus Business College, where they will be immersed in the Danish education system and work face-to-face with their Danish group members. They will also give presentations on American culture in other classrooms across Aarhus Business College's campuses.

This spring, the Northeast students will get an early chance to practice their Danish, as the College will host approximately 25 students from College 360 in Silkeborg, which is near Aarhus.

Dr. Michael Chipps, Northeast president, said he hopes Global Business: A Partnership with Denmark serves as a springboard into other opportunities for the College's students.

"It is great that we have this collaboration between our colleges, as Brith, Cara and Maryjan are setting the stage to what we hope will be the development of more classes similar to this across our College community."

Registration for next fall's Global Business: A Partnership with Denmark is open to all Northeast majors. For more information, contact Pam Saalfeld, director of the Center for Global Engagement, at (402) 844-7466.

Defense key to LCC boys' success this winter

Fourth-year head coach Todd Erwin has a ton of gaps to fill but thinks his young LCC boys basketball team can compete if they step up their game on defense this season.

The Bears last four starters, including their top two scorers, from a team that went 17-7 and reached the subdistrict finals last season, but this year's team has a chance to surprise some people with three returning letterwinners and one starter coming back.

"We graduated four seniors, so we will be a young team, however, these boys pass the ball and shoot well," he said. "If we can get them to play hard-nosed defense, we will be able to compete."

Leading the way is 5-foot-10 junior guard Izac Reifenrath, who was a solid quarterback at the point guard position last year. Sophomores Ty Erwin and Noah Schutte also saw playing time last season and should be key contributors to the team's success this season.

Erwin said that Erwin and Schutte, at 6-foot and 6-foot-3, respectively, will be joined by senior guard Logan Hansen as players to watch for the Bears this season.

Twenty players make up the LCC roster this year, led by seniors Hansen, Austin Kempf, Garrett Taylor and Charlie Stanley. Juniors Reifenrath, Cody Babl and Karsen Klooz will also provide upperclassmen leadership.

The Bears have two home games to open the season, with a Friday date against Crofton and a Tuesday matchup with Homer. They'll take part in the Great Northeast Nebraska Shootout at Wayne State College Dec. 28-30.

Six starters back for Wakefield

Coach Eric Burenheide begins his sixth season as Wakefield wrestling coach with one returning state qualifier and a young and inexperienced team that will develop this season.

"We will have a very young and inexperienced team this year that will have to work very hard to get where we want to be as a team," he said. "We have a few kids that are coming back this year that were one match away from the state tournament and will be looking at getting over the hump this year to make the trip to Omaha."

Isaac Verzani is a returning state qualifier for the Trojans this season, coming back at 152 pounds after qualifying for state at 145 pounds and finishing 29-20 last season. His experience and leadership will be called upon in the wrestling room for the Trojans this winter.

Also returning are Charlie Lopez (132), Ben Chase (145), Clay Christensen (160), Nolan Litchfield (182) and Julio Sanchez (220).

Wakefield opens with a home dual Thursday against Pender and will compete in the Howells Invitational on Saturday.

Winside wrestlers put in work, look to reap rewards

Six letterwinners and two state qualifiers are back for the Winside wrestling team as second-year coach Jesse Thies looks forward to an improved season.

"We did a lot of work this summer and have come together to form a good team bond," he said. "The team's consensus is shooting for a conference title and top two at districts to make state duals."

Junior Koby Ellis and senior Jon Escalante are looking for a return trip to state this season. Ellis finished third in the state last year and will be in the hunt at 113 pounds this season. Escalante suffered a knee injury at state and was unable to finish the tournament, but is hoping to get back to state at 195 pounds this season.

Four other Wildcats bring some good experience back this season. Sophomores Matthew Frederick (120) and Carter Jensen (126), junior Michael Jensen (182) and senior Mason King (145) will provide some much-needed leadership and depth to the team this season.

Thies listed a number of newcomers who should see action this year, including freshmen Dominic Reed (120), Cody North (138), Casey North (152) and Tanner Board (170), sophomores Will Stabler (126) and Alex Carlson (132) and junior Trevor Frisch (220).

The Wildcats open the season at the Creighton Invitational on Saturday. They host their own meet on Saturday, Jan. 6, and will also have a home dual with Wayne on Tuesday, Jan. 23.

Also in the wrestling room this season are freshman Trace Naeve, who had success in junior high competition the last two years; and sophomore Wyatt Taylor, who will develop as the season goes on as well.

Wayne girls basketball team has unfinished business

Second-year Wayne girls basketball coach Lindsay McLaughlin said the goal for this year's team is to take care of some unfinished business.

The Blue Devils went 18-7 last season with a senior-dominated lineup, but were unable to make it to the state tournament, which is where this year's team is hoping to finish the season.

"I am very excited about this upcoming season," she said. "We left a lot of unfinished last year and the girls feel the same way. We are focusing on dream bigger this year. We graduated five wonderful seniors, but we have some young kids who will be able to contribute right away."

Senior Kylie Hammer leads a group of eight returning letterwinners. The Wayne State recruit was the top scorer in the state last year, averaging 21.6 points per game to go with 5.8 rebounds. She will be joined by fellow seniors Jamie Gamble (2.1 points, 3.8 rebounds), Molly Hoskins (0.6 points, 1.0 rebounds) and Jenna Trenhaile (0.8 points, 1.4 rebounds) in leading a talented lineup this season.

The Blue Devils have some strong younger players returning to the lineup, including juniors Ashton Boyer, Gabi Meyer and Allison Claussen. Meyer averaged 3.4 points and two rebounds last season. Boyer averaged 1.1 points last season and Claussen averaged about a point a game, and sophomore Frankie Klausen (3.2 points, 1.9 rebounds) is also back from last year.

McLaughlin said that junior Annie Kniesche and sophomore Tori Kniesche should also be key contributors to the team's success this season.

Wayne opens the season Thursday at South Sioux City and will be home Friday to host Battle Creek.

Trojan boys to rely on depth, experience

The Wakefield boys basketball team has some quality experience back from last year's 14-10 team, and with the addition of some needed depth, coach Joe Wendte feels this team can be a tough matchup this season.

Three starters and two returning letterwinners are back for the fourth-year coach, and the addition of two transfers will make for some interesting practice sessions as the team gets ready for this season.

"With a big part of our team coming back from last year and mixed in with much needed depth, I expect to our team to improve from a year ago," he said. "There will be competitions throughout the team for starting spots and playing time that will benefit the team and will only help our chances to win basketball games."

Senior Parker Lehmkuhl and juniors Solomon Peitz and Israel Gardea lead the Trojans as returning starters this season. Lehmkuhl scored 12 points and grabbed six rebounds a year ago, and with Peitz (12 points, seven rebounds, four assists) will give the Trojans a formidable force on the inside.

Gardea, who averaged nine points, five boards and two assists a year ago, gives Wakefield some added pop on offense as a 6-foot-2 forward.

Junior Esgar Godinez leads the two other returning letterwinners, averaging two points and two rebounds a game. He will be joined by sophomore Gabe Peitz, who can play outside or inside. Two transfers, junior Dylan Harder and sophomore Blake Heimann, will be great additions to the lineup, along with freshmen Justin Erb and Blake Brown.

The Trojans open with a pair of home games this week, hosting Pender on Thursday and Allen on Friday before a Tuesday date at Hartington-Newcastle.

Wayne State Wildcat women pick up pair of home wins

The Wayne State women's basketball team picked up a pair of non-conference wins at home over the Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

On Friday, freshmen Halley Busse and Haley Vesey combined for 34 points to lead Wayne State in an easy 88-48 win over Peru State College.

Wayne State never trailed in the contest as the Wildcat bench produced 60 of the team's 88 points.

The Wildcats led 8-4 early and Peru State got within one at 8-7 following a Abigail Niebrugge 3-pointer. Wayne State then scored the next eight points and took their first double-digit lead at 19-9 on an Evelyn Knox 3-pointer with 1:54 to play first quarter. The Wildcats finished the first quarter with a 26-12 lead and outscored the Bobcats 18-15 in the second quarter to build a 44-27 lead at intermission.

Wayne State opened the second half with a 16-4 run to take a commanding 60-31 lead with 3:24 to play third quarter and finished the stanza with a 66-36 lead. Reserves dominated play in the final 10 minutes with the Wildcats holding a 22-12 advantage in scoring over Peru State.

Busse led the Wildcats with 20 points, going 7-for-7 from the field (3-of-3 behind the arc) and 3-of-5 at the charity stripe. Vesey also reached double figures with 14 points, going 4-of-8 from 3-point range.

Wayne State outrebounded the Bobcats 49-22 thanks to six boards each from Maggie Schulte, Paige Ballinger, Taylor Wangerin and Brittany Bongartz. Amanda Brainerd, Busse and Anna Eckert each had three assists while Busse was credited with five steals. Ballinger and Wangerin each had two blocked shots.

On Sunday afternoon, the Wildcats led from start to finish, building a 22-8 first quarter lead on their way to an easy 74-51 win over the Colorado-Colo-Colorado Springs Mountain Lions in the second matchup between the teams.

The Wildcats needed overtime to win on the road earlier in the month at Colorado Springs, but never trailed in Sunday's contest, building a 15-4 lead less than seven minutes into the contest and going 7-for-12 from the field to take a 22-8 lead after one quarter.

The Wildcats would maintain a double-digit lead throughout the end of the first half, and Erin Norling's layup in the closing seconds make it a 42-23 Wildcat advantage at intermission.

Wayne State continued to extend their lead in the second half, leading by as many as 24 before coming away with a 23-point win to drop the visiting Mountain Lions to 0-5 on the season.

Norling led 12 different Wildcat players who scored in the contest with a game-high 15 points, going 6-of-7 from the field and 3-for-4 at the charity stripe. Bongartz also hit double digits with 13 points off the bench, going 5-of-8 from the field and 3-of-5 at the free throw line.

Shanah Leaf was the lone player for UC-Colorado Springs in double figures with 11 points followed by Maddie Golla with nine.

Wayne State won the rebounding battle over UCCS 43-27 thanks to nine caroms from Schulte and six by Andrea Larson. Busse had six of Wayne State's 15 assists and also led the team in steals with three.

The Wildcats (6-3, 0-1 NSIC) return to Northern Sun Conference play next weekend with road trips to Minnesota State Friday at 6 p.m. and Concordia-St. Paul Saturday at 4 p.m.

Men win one of two in Sanford Showcase

The Wayne State men's basketball team got a Saturday morning win and lost on a buzzer-beater on Sunday to go 1-1 in the Sanford Pentagon Showcase over the Thanksgiving weekend.

On Saturday, Kendall Jacks scored 17 of his game-high 20 points in the second half as Wayne State outscored New York Institute of Technology 48-31 in the second half to pull away for a 78-57 victory over the Bears.

The first half was close between the two teams featuring seven ties and six lead changes. After NYIT took an 8-4 lead (biggest lead of the game) at the 16:28 mark of the first half, WSC stormed back and knotted the score at 10-10 following a Tony Bonner 3-point play and pushed the lead to five at 17-12 on a Luke TerHark layup at the 12:17 mark.

The Bears responded and tied the game at 17-17 with the two teams trading ties several times before NYIT took their final lead of the game at 24-22 on a Arvelle Jones III 3-pointer with 5:13 to play in the half. Wayne State took the lead for good following four straight points from Bonner and finished the first half with a 30-26 lead.

Wayne State picked up the tempo in the second half, doubling their first-half production in the first 10 minutes of the second half, leading to a 48-31 scoring advantage over the Bears in the second half to pull away with the 21-point win.

NYIT was within three at 34-31 two minutes into the second half, but Wayne State scored the next eight points to take their first double-digit lead at 45-34 following a Jacks layup with 13:59 remaining.

The Bears were trailing 51-42 at the 11:32 mark when the Wildcats put the game out of reach with the next nine points for a commanding 60-42 lead with 9:38 to play. NYIT never got closer than 14 the rest of the game.

Jacks recorded 17 of his game-high 20 points in the second half to lead Wayne State in scoring, going 8-for-11 from the field. Bonner added 19 points, with 13

Wildcat girls looking to improve

Sixth-year coach Marland Erbst is looking for an improvement from last year's 2-19 record for the Winside girls basketball team this season.

Winside has one starter and six letterwinners back from last season, and Erbst is optimistic that the team will show continued improvement this season.

"We will play hard and improve as the year goes on," he said.

Andi Bargstadt is the lone returning starter this year. The sophomore will be a guard-forward who will be called upon to lead the offense this season.

Four of the other five returning letterwinners are seniors, including Alyssa Brogren, Sarah Wolfe, Victoria Buresh and Katherine Thompson. Junior Kellie Kampa is also back for the Wildcats this season.

Winside plays at Plainview Thursday and Wynot Friday to open the season. They are home for the first time on Thursday, Dec. 7 when they host Clarkson-Leigh. Winside's girls will play in the Randolph Holiday Tournament Dec. 29-30.

Six girls sign with WSC track and field

Wayne State track and field coach Marlon Brink announced the signings of six student-athletes to the Wildcat women's track and field program for the 2018-19 season during the recent NCAA early signing period.

The list of recruits include Cassidy Connell of Holdrege, Alison Dykman from Fremont, Nicole Heeren of Allison, Iowa, Jordyn Pester from Charter Oak, Iowa, Andrea Torres of Wayne and Molli Vasa from Colon.

Connell is a thrower from Holdrege High School where she is a multi-sport standout in softball, basketball and track and field. Last year as a junior, Connell was the Class B runner-up in the shot put with a mark of 40 feet, 8 3/4 inches and also placed 10th in the discus (121-3) while helping her team to a second-place finish in Class B. She was also a Class B state qualifier in the shot put as a sophomore and excels in the classroom with Academic All-State honors.

"Cassidy fits the perfect mold of an athletic thrower," said Brink. "She is very quick and explosive and we feel will only get better and knows how to compete well when it counts."

Dykman is a high jumper from Archbishop Bergan High School in Fremont. She placed seventh as a sophomore in the Class C high jump, clearing 5-2, and was district champion that year. Dykman also holds the school record in the high jump with a top mark of 5-3 1/2.

"Alison has all the tools to be a very good high jumper," remarked Brink. "With year-round training we can help her reach new levels in her jumping that will allow her to be very competitive in the NSIC. She is also a good student and has the desire to push herself at the college level."

Heeren is a thrower from North Butler High School in Iowa where she is a five-year starter in softball, four years in track and field and basketball and three year starter in volleyball. Last spring as a junior, Heeren was the Iowa Class 1A state champion in the discus (123-6) and runner up in the shot put (40-4 1/2). She was also a state shot put qualifier as a sophomore. Heeren is an All Top of Iowa Conference East selection in softball, MVP and All-Conference in basketball and second-team All-Conference in volleyball.

"Nicole excels in all sports, which I think will make her an outstanding collegiate thrower," stated Brink. "She is still improving her technique, so we believe she is only going to get better in college."

Pester is a middle distance runner from Maple Valley/Anthon-Oto/Charter Oak-Ute High School in Iowa where she is a four-year letterwinner in track and field and two years in cross country. Pester was the Iowa Class 1A 400-meter state champion as a junior with a time of 56.97 seconds and ran legs on the state champion 1,600-meter relay and distance medley relay team as a junior.

"Jordyn is a great competitor that will make a big impact on our team immediately," stated Brink. "She has had great success at the high school level and is equally outstanding in the classroom. I am very excited to see what she can do against NSIC competition."

Torres is a distance runner from Wayne High School who has competed in cross country and track and field. This fall, Torres placed 12th for the Blue Devils at the Class C State Cross Country meet after placing 44th as a junior. She is a three-year state qualifier in cross country and has earned Academic All-State honors.

"Andrea has made big improvements and loves to run, which is one of the 'must have' qualities of a good collegiate runner," said Brink. "She is also an outstanding student, which fits the mold of what we are looking for in our young ladies competing for WSC."

Vasa is a hurdler and middle distance runner from Wahoo Neumann High School where she is a multi-sport standout in softball and track and field. Last spring as a junior, Vasa medaled in three events at the Class B state track meet, placing fourth in the 300 meter hurdles (47.4) while also running legs on the sixth place 3,200-meter relay and eighth place 1,600-meter relay team.

"Molli is a good all-around athlete and has good speed and technique, which will help her make a smooth transition to the 400 meter hurdles in college," commented Brink. "Her foot speed will also make her an athlete that can be able to contribute to our relays as well."

Brazil

how they went about their business. They looked more like a mid-January team in the NSIC. They looked good on both ends of the floor and bought into the simple things we wanted to do."

In between games, the team had a chance to enjoy some of the sights and sounds in Brazil, including a trip to the world-famous Christ The Redeemer Statue in Rio de Janeiro.

"I remember standing underneath that and looking up at it in awe," Chris Kielsmeier said. "That was one of those wow moments and something I'll always remember."

The players enjoyed the market and the beach, along with a journey on Sugarloaf Mountain.

"I was a little nervous looking down from there," Ballinger admitted. "You could see most of the city there and it was an amazing view."

"That was my favorite part of the touring," Schulte added. "I love looking straight down like that and you could see the beach and the city and where our hotel was."

Kelly Kielsmeier added to his art collection, getting some great deals on some amazing paintings in the Brazilian marketplace.

"It's a good thing the exchange rate was 3-to-1," he said, laughing. "There was a lot of amazing art down there and the things they can do with a paint brush are amazing. I came back with quite a bit of art."

For the players, the trip was a fantastic experience, not only from the perspective of where they went, but in connecting on a personal level with some of the players they have, and will, play against during their senior seasons.

"It was neat to get to know these girls and there were a lot of neat relationships and bonds made," Ballinger said. "Hopefully we'll get to see them again when we play, since we're all in the same region."

"It was also neat to meet the Brazilian players after the games," Schulte added. "To get to know them in a short amount of time was really cool as well."

The coaches also enjoyed the experience.

"I know you can never do a no-carb diet in Brazil," Kelly Kielsmeier joked. "To be able to meet so many fantastic people and build some new relationships and see some great things on the way was just a great experience."

Chris Kielsmeier was happy with how the team played, and also got a new perspective for how fortunate he and his players are to be able to play the game at the level they play at here in the United States.

"If you watched this team play, you'd have thought they'd played together for a long time," he said. "They were unselfish and played hard and represented the United States and their individual institutions to the highest level, and it was fun to coach a group like that."

"I'll also remember how fortunate we are to have the opportunities we have here," he added. "I don't think I saw a basketball hoop anywhere other than the gyms we played in, and even there it was usually just the two hoops we played on. Basketball is so much a part of the lives of everybody in our program and we have the means to do the best we can in everything with nothing holding us back, and a lot of the kids in Brazil have limitations that we don't have."

Lady Eagles will lean on defense for success

After going 0-21 last season, the Allen Lady Eagles are looking to improve and be a competitive team this season, according to second-year coach Chris Blohm.

Four starters and two other letterwinners are back from last season, and Blohm said the team will be a tougher team this season.

"This season will be determined on our defensive hustle, our pure determination, and our strong will-to-win," he said. "We have a lot of returning key players that have set some high expectations for themselves and the team. We need to focus on utilizing strong, aggressive defense to contribute on the offensive end of the floor."

Bri Hingst is the lone senior on the team this season and is one of four returning starters. Last year, she averaged just over 11 points a game and grabbed about five rebounds a contest, so the team will look to the 5-foot-8 guard for leadership this season.

Also back as starters are juniors Haley Stapleton, Bethany Kneifl and Katie Bathke. Stapleton and Bathke will play on the wings, while Kneifl will see action at forward. Junior Alyssa Boese and sophomore Ally Twohig will also be key players as returning letterwinners for the Lady Eagles.

Blohm listed several newcomers who could see action this season, including juniors Anna Roth, Summer Jackson, Alexis Brahmsteadt and Heidi Johnson; sophomore Alyssia Strivens; and freshmen Carly Dickens, Alli Jackson and Taylor Boyle.

The Lady Eagles open the season Friday at Wakefield and have their home opener the following night against Cedar Bluffs.

Wakefield girls return four to lineup

The Wakefield girls basketball are looking to improve on last year's 6-16 record and have four returning letterwinners to lead the way this season.

Fifth-year coach Chad Metzler said the pieces are in place for the Trojans to have a better campaign this season.

"We should be a competitive team this year, and fun to watch," he said. "The returning letterwinners all saw significant playing time last year, which will provide valuable leadership for our underclassmen that will have to step in and play. As many as 10 players could see playing time this year."

Seniors Kenna Mackling and Rachel Brudigam will lead the way for the Wakefield girls this season. Mackling, a 5-foot-6 guard, scored 6.5 points and grabbed six rebounds a game last season, while Brudigam, a 5-foot-7 forward, was more of a defensive force for the Trojans.

Also returning are two juniors, guard/forward Jessica Borg and guard Jamie Dolph. The 5-foot-9 Borg is the leading scorer back from last year, averaging seven points and five boards a contest, while the 5-foot-4 Dolph averaged five points and three rebounds last season.

Players who should make contributions this season including senior guard Andrea Lopez, junior guard Vlanney Marquez and freshman guard Abby Heimann.

The Trojan girls open the season this week with home matchups Thursday against Pender and Friday against Allen. They play at Hartington-Newcastle on Tuesday.

Three starters back for Wayne boys basketball

Fifth-year Wayne boys basketball head coach Rob Sweetland has to replace his top two scorers from last year, but has a good nucleus to build around for the coming season.

"I like our athleticism and length," he said of this year's team. "We lost our two leading scorers from last year, but we have a couple of kids ready to step in. The players are hungry after a one-point loss in the district finals last year."

Seniors Jack Evetovich (11.5 points, 4 rebounds), Mason Lee (8 points, 6 rebounds) and Beau Bowers (2 points, 3 rebounds) are returning starters and lead a list of six returning letterwinners for the Blue Devils this season. Evetovich and Lee are expected to be solid on the inside while Bowers will direct traffic at the point guard position this season.

Senior Ryan Jaixen is expected to be in the lineup around the holidays after suffering a broken collarbone late in the football season. Junior Tyler Gilliland and sophomore Shea Sweetland should be solid contributors on the outside this season.

Newcomers who look to make an impact this season including junior Marcus Fertig and sophomores Tyrus Eiseheid and Cody Robers. All three bring some good length and quickness into the lineup and should give the Blue Devils some much-needed depth this season.

Other players who should see action this season include senior Brennan O'Reilly, juniors Drew Buck and Aaron Reynolds and sophomore Trevor DeBoer.

Wayne opens the season at South Sioux City on Thursday and will play host to Battle Creek on Friday.

coming in the first half. Junior reserve guard Trevin Joseph also hit double figures with 10 points.

Wayne State held a 41-36 advantage in rebounding thanks to nine caroms from Austin Esters with Jacks adding seven. Jacks had four of Wayne State's 16 assists while Joseph was credited with a team-high three steals.

Sunday evening, Missouri Southern's Braelon Walker made a layup with 0.8 seconds to play giving the Lions a 79-77 victory over Wayne State.

The game was tightly contested throughout with neither team holding a lead of more than five points until 4:24 left in the contest. The two teams exchanged 15 ties and 10 lead changes in the contest.

Missouri Southern took its biggest lead of the first half at 23-18 with 9:15 to play, but the Wildcats went on a 13-3 run over the next 4:20 and took their biggest lead of the first half at 31-26 following a Jacks 3-point play with 4:55 to play before halftime.

Wayne State still held a 36-32 lead at the 1:36 mark of the first half before the Lions tied the game at 36-36 heading into halftime.

The contest remained close until Missouri Southern used a late scoring surge to take its biggest lead of the game, 72-64 with 1:55 to play. Wayne State held a 62-60 lead after a Jacks jumper with 6:48 to go before the Lions went on a 10-0 run over the next 3:11 to take a 70-62 lead with 3:37 to play.

Trailing 72-64 with 1:55 remaining, the Wildcats rallied and tied the game at 77-77 on a Joseph 3-pointer with 5.3 seconds to play. But Missouri Southern's Walker drove the length of the floor and made a running layup from the left side of the basket with 0.8 seconds remaining to give Missouri Southern the two-point win.

Jacks led Wayne State in scoring with 23 points on 8-of-11 shooting from the field and 5-for-6 at the free throw line. Vance Janssen contributed 16 points on 6-of-12 shooting while Joseph and Esters also hit double figures with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

Kinzer Lambert paced Missouri Southern with 22 points with Elyjah Clark adding 19. Enis Memic also hit double digits with 12 points.

MSSU held a 35-24 advantage in rebounding over WSC thanks to nine boards from Lambert while Jacks grabbed five caroms for the Wildcats. Janssen and Joseph each had two assists for the Wildcats while Janssen and Matt Thomas were both credited with two steals.

Wayne State (4-2, 1-0 NSIC) returns to Northern Sun Conference play next weekend with road trips to Minnesota State Friday at 8 p.m. and Concordia-St. Paul Saturday at 6 p.m.

MIKE'S MIC

Watch what you wish for

By Mike Renning
mikesportshome@yahoo.com

Not too long ago I was sitting around the house pondering my spot in the world and thinking I wish I didn't have this long list of things the Darling Wife had scheduled for me which I was ignoring.

If you are ignoring things you have been asked to do it is almost impossible to completely relax. Now, I can ignore a list with the best of them but for blissful relaxation, I need to be list-free.

To make a long story fit in this space, I ended up in the hospital. No, the Darling Wife didn't do anything to me, list-ignoring or not, but I simply got sick.

The best place to go when you are as sick as I was, is the hospital.

you to spew something else out of your mouth besides falsehoods about how you're feeling.

After the first couple of days, when I didn't care if I was in the hospital or down the street at Munderloh Funeral Home, I rather started enjoying my stay.

It was the weekend. I watched 14 different football games on Saturday. I saw GameDay on ESPN in its entirety.

I even caught three high school games replayed overnight (I can't sleep in a hospital).

Another thing I discovered, the Huskers were in 47 highlight clips throughout the day Saturday in the pregame shows and post-game shows. Unfortunately, the highlights were all for the other team.

The current Husker season is a topic which could put me right back there so let's leave that alone...for now.

I had lots of company. All of my kids came to see me, my granddaughters.

Lily was my nurse and Sophia climbed in bed with me so we could tend to all of her "babies".

I think at one time I had three dolls, two dogs, a bear and a giraffe in bed with me while Sophia patted all of our heads to get us to go to sleep.

I nodded off but that bear never did settle down.

The last bit of advice I'll give you is milk it for as long as you are able.

I wasn't home two days and here the Darling Wife came into the living room, where I was so quietly convalescing, and handed me a new list...with five more items on it then the one I was ignoring when I left.

Christmas lights? Really? Before Thanksgiving? I thought taking them down was on the list I had before I went to the hospital.

Capitol View

Meanwhile, at the Nebraska Department of Corrections...

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Police recently arrested an inmate who walked away from the Nebraska Department of Corrections Work Ethic Camp in McCook 11 months ago. He was arrested in Chadron, 292 miles away.

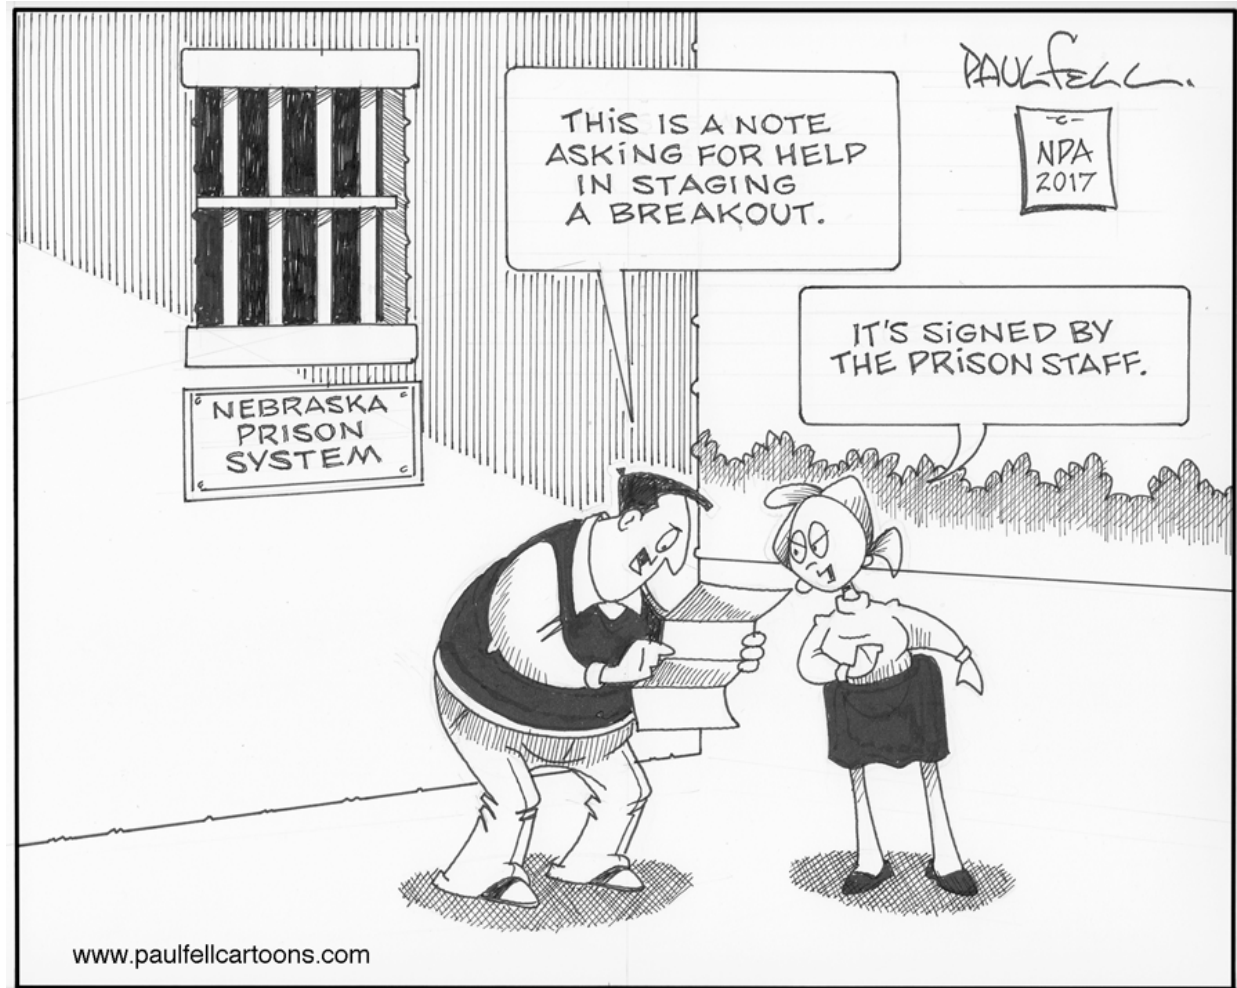

I can't begin to speculate why the inmate walked away from what is easily the "least prison-like" of all the facilities in the state prison system. His escape (the front door of the place is unlocked) and capture were small potatoes in a system that is the second most overcrowded in the United States. But it is indicative of the myriad of on-going problems that have plagued corrections for years.

On top of everything else -- staff shortages; riots; inmate assaults on guards and inmate assaults on other inmates; five murders -- the American Civil Liberties Union has filed a lawsuit against the department. In its annual report, the DOC indicates that Nebraska's prison population inched up more than a percentage point in the fourth quarter of the state's 2017 fiscal year to 161 percent of capacity.

That's an average daily prison population of 5,278 people. The ACLU of Nebraska lawsuit in U.S. District Court was filed on behalf of 11 prisoners, based on crowding, problems with access to medical, mental and dental health care, and conditions in the prisons. ACLU Executive Director Danielle Conrad says the updated numbers show the overcrowding crisis is not improving, and in fact continues to grow, and with it the backlog for rehabilitation programs and medical services.

Lawmakers passed sentencing reform in 2015 and 2016 aimed at reducing the population. Conrad says the whole situation undercuts the disappointing response (to the lawsuit) from Governor Ricketts and shows why he needs to declare an emergency immediately.

Ricketts says all three branches of government have made justice reinvestment and prison reform a top priority, and have invested millions of taxpayer dollars to protect public safety and expand state prisons.

Excuse me, which would be less costly and easier to obtain? Fewer inmates or more prisons. I'm not advocating that we fling the doors wide open and allow those guilty of the most serious crimes -- sex offenses, drug-related assaults, use of weapons and homicide -- to walk out. But lawmakers should take a hard look at sentencing guidelines to change who goes to prison.

Why, for example, do we incarcerate someone who is behind on child support? Taking them away from the ability to earn money to pay it just doesn't make sense. Likewise, drunk drivers who could benefit from treatment outside prison walls are instead sent to prison to sit in a cell and await a chance to get into an already overcrowded treatment program. Some never do and simply jam their time.

The ACLU lawsuit asks that the Nebraska Department of Corrections and the Nebraska Board of Parole immediately address overcrowding, and the lack of adequate medical, dental and mental health care, as well as provide accommodations for prisoners who are blind, deaf, hard-of-hearing or have other disabilities.

The state took the opportunity in its response to the court to comment on the public scrutiny, attention and criticism it has been subjected to by officials, lawmakers, advocates and journalists. There's been much scrutiny of the complex prison system, the state said, and criticism leveled against it related to crowding, health care, management, programming and staffing.

Some of it, the state said, has been constructive and has contributed to meaningful improvements. But some has not been warranted, and inaccurately portrayed the prison system.

Bull. The state would do well to read the inscription chiseled in the Indiana limestone façade of the State Capitol, which reads: "The Salvation of the State is Watchfulness of the Citizen." That quote is attributed to Hartley Burr Alexander, a professor of philosophy who was one of the Capitol's designers. He said it's something he learned from his father.

I gladly support the public scrutiny, attention and criticism leveled at the DOC by officials, lawmakers, advocates and journalists. As a journalist, it's my job, thank you.

Oh, and then there's the matter of the Department of Corrections and the Executive and Judicial branches rushing to carry out the first execution in 20 years. Killing one bad guy is going to do little, if anything, to solve the complex issues that deserve our undivided attention.

T.A.R. offers teens opportunity to get involved with politics and their communities

Want to join a great group of similar minded people that have a common goal? Want to make a difference in your community and country? Are you interested in politics? If you answered yes to any of these questions then keep reading!

Teenage Republicans, founded in 1960, is a youth organization that is an auxiliary of the Republican Party in all 50 states. Clubs are organized on and off campus into middle school, high school, home school, and city clubs. TAR's members develop leadership skills, gain knowledge, and learn about the political process on a local, state, and national level. Teenage Republicans have a great opportunity to serve their community and country while learning about the political process.

As a TAR, you become aware of national and international issues and how current events impact your life. With effective club programming, TAR's grow into leaders and even sway elections. This can make a huge difference in how elected candidates enact laws that affect you and the future! TAR's also hear inspiring speakers and debate today's hottest issues. They meet elected officials, gain unique access to Republican Party events and activities, and establish friendships that will last a lifetime.

Starting a TAR's chapter is a worthwhile task that can showcase a student's motivation to scholarship committees, colleges, and employers. To start a chapter there are three primary steps. Step one is to find some like-minded friends that want to start a chapter with you.

Step two is to find a faculty member at your school willing to serve as the advisor. Step three is to gain approval from your school administration. After that, your group will need to register with National TAR's and then the chapter can take off!

You may be wondering what a TAR's chapter does. Other than the things listed above, TAR's members have the opportunity every summer to attend the TAR's Leadership Conference or TLC in Washington D.C. At this conference, TAR's hear from elected Republicans like Paul Ryan, learn about sister organizations like Young Republicans and College Republicans and have a chance to meet with their own congressional delegation. TLC is also a great way to connect with Republicans from others states and learn about their political environment.

You and your TAR's group can make great connections with political officials and build relationships with other students across America. TAR's chapters can also make a big impact volunteering on campaigns and initiatives. With over 140 members statewide, and more to come, TAR's has the potential to decide the outcome of elections in Nebraska.

If you, or a student you know might be interested in starting up a Teenage Republicans Chapter, then please reach out to the Nebraska Republican Party office. Our phone number is (402) 475-2122, email address is nebraskatars@gmail.com, and you can find additional information at teenagersrepublicans.org.

Youth development programs available in many ways

Amy Topp

Extension Educator
4-H & Youth

Nebraska 4-H Youth Development programs are delivered through four primary modes, including camps, clubs, school enrichment, and after school. Through these delivery modes, Nebraska 4-H offers various educational experiences in all corners of the state built around seven content areas.

These areas include college and career readiness, community development, entrepreneurship, food supply confidence, healthy living, leadership development, and STEM.

School enrichment programs offer non-formal, hands-on educational experiences in classrooms in support of school curriculum. The purpose of a 4-H school enrichment program is to encourage long-term involvement in 4-H, enhance the relationship between 4-H and school systems (public and private), provide informal education to complement formal education, enhance the subject matter being studied, and foster and promote enthusiasm and support for participation in other 4-H programs. Youth do not need to be an enrolled 4-H member to participate in the 4-H school enrichment program.

4-H school enrichment programs are conducted during school hours in partnership with classroom instructors. The educational experience are delivered either by a 4-H staff, trained volunteer, or teacher. Programs include educational experiences that engage youth in hands-on learning opportunities that support the school curriculum.

A high quality school enrichment program:

- Includes a sequential and varied learning experience supporting the school curriculum, an evaluation is completed by teachers and/or youth participants.

- Allows youth are to articulate that the experience is a 4-H sponsored project.

- Uses experiential learning (learning by doing) as a primary teaching approach.

- Shows evidence of fostering the Essential Elements of 4-H Youth Development.

- Includes planned opportunities to learn and apply life skills such as leadership, citizenship, community service and public speaking.

- Provides experiences to develop in-depth knowledge about one or more of the seven Nebraska 4-H content priorities.

- Offers programs, curricula, and procedures that are based in research and are developmentally appropriate for the age of the youth.

- Provides youth and volunteers access to resources of land-grant universities and to county, state, and national 4-H opportunities.

- Fosters youth-adult partnerships that encourage active involvement and participation by youth and adults.

- Provides safe and healthy physical and emotional environments.

For more information on the programs offered in your area, contact your local county extension office.

Acme Club learns about Denali Park

Bonnadell Koch called Nov. 20 meeting of the Acme Club to order at Wayne Senior Center's Meeting Room following a noon meal.

Betty Wittig gave the thought for the day: "A smile is the shortest distance between friends." Following roll call with six members in attendance, Ruth Victor asked that members tell their favorite Thanksgiving food item. Absent from the meeting was member Delores Utecht, who was out of town.

Reports were read and approved or filed for audit. Committee reports that the Thanksgiving favors will be prepared and taken to Providence Medical by Pat Straight. Christmas projects and donations were ok'd as discussed. Next meeting will be held December 4 at the center with holiday treats from all members to be shared during the meeting.

Following the meeting, another of the chosen topics for the year became Denali National Park as presented by Ruth Victor. Denali Park, 100 years old this year, encompasses 6 million acres of wild land in Alaska and has only one ribbon of road running through it. Only 15 miles of that road is accessible by private vehicles; the rest of the 92 mile road and the few dirt roads leading to campgrounds must be traveled by tour and shuttle buses or air taxis to the mountainous areas.

Originally known as Mount McKinley National Park when established in 1917 by President Wilson, the names of both the park in 1980 and the highest mountain peak in North America in 2015, were both changed to Denali. Winter sports are one of the hallmarks of this area and dog sleds, grizzly bears, glaciers covering 16% of the park, permafrost, "Drunken Forest", and beautiful scenery are found within the park. Denali has 587,000 visitors to the park in 2016.

It's that time of year

A line from the favorite Christmas song titled the Christmas Waltz states, "It's that time of year when the world falls in love..." Another cultural favorite is It's the Most Wonderful Time of the Year. Certainly for many people, the Christmas season is filled with much pleasure and happiness. It is a time for families to gather, exchange gifts, and just spend time with one another.

The Christmas season is usually centered on giving and helping others. People tend to give more during this season than any other time of the year. Many non-profit organizations receive a significant increase in donations during this season.

It is also a time for consumers to rack up on great deals at their favorite store. Retailers are all competing for our business and thus often offer deep discounts to encourage Americans to spend more.

Of course this is the most profitable time of the year for the nation's retailers. More money is spent from Thanksgiving through New Year's Day than any other time of the year. Many businesses are able to turn a profit for the year because of this season.

On the other hand many find this time of year to be a bit discouraging. Family get-togethers are not always so happy. Some people will be sad because of a loved one who is no longer with them. In addition, some family gatherings end up resurfacing old wounds and arguments.

Other people do not like shopping with all the crowds of people and the constant push to buy more. Many people find the constant pressure to buy the perfect gift and the obligation to buy someone a gift that you really don't want to purchase to be extremely frustrating.

Those who know Jesus Christ as Savior often become disgusted with the total commercialization of Christmas. Originally, Dec. 25 was set aside as the day to celebrate Jesus' birth. Though we do not know the exact day of his birth, the early church found good reason to place an emphasis on this celebration. Jesus Christ who was miraculously conceived by the Holy Spirit and born of a virgin named Mary, was and is the cornerstone of the Christian faith.

Jesus' birth was so significant that the world has changed the way it dates events in history. His life, his death, and his resurrection have changed the world by setting apart a people who emphasize the love and grace of God for all people. The message of Christianity is that God has come down from heaven to dwell with mankind so that he might become the perfect sacrifice for their sins. Jesus was and is God in the flesh and he has provided a salvation that no mere human could provide.

Followers of Jesus sometimes struggle to keep their focus on the true meaning of Christmas in the midst of a secular society that has little to do with the real Jesus of the Bible. Every year faithful followers of Jesus strive for ways to "keep Christ in Christmas" and remember that "Jesus is the reason for the season."

The Bible reveals to us that Jesus fulfilled many Old Testament prophecies regarding Israel's Messiah, the Anointed One. One of those passages is Isaiah 7:14 where the Lord gave King Ahaz a sign: "The virgin will be with child and give birth to a son and will call him Immanuel." Though originally given as a sign to Ahaz regarding the ending of a two nation alliance against Judah, Matthew reveals to us that this statement is also a prophecy regarding the birth of Jesus Christ. Matthew also adds the meaning of Immanuel which is "God with us" (Matthew 1:22-23). Jesus Christ was born as one who was and is "God with us."

Jesus Christ is God who came to the earth in human form. He dwelled with mankind for about 33 years before he ascended into heaven. The last words of the Gospel of Matthew are Jesus' commission and promise to his followers. His promise was, "And surely I am with you always, even unto the end of the age" (Matthew 28:20). Jesus' promise was not that he would dwell in a physical body with his disciples, but that he would dwell within them spiritually. Colossians 1:27 declares that the mystery of God is "Christ in you, the hope of glory." Jesus dwells within every person who trusts, accepts, him as their Lord and Savior.

Jesus came at his first advent as a baby who grew into a man that lived among common people. He ministered to them through his teaching of God's truth, his healings and miracles. At the predetermined time, he surrendered his life to pay the penalty for the sins of mankind. Rising from the dead never to die again, he continues to provide salvation by the mercy and grace of God through simple faith.

For those who know Jesus Christ as Savior, may we remember this Christmas season that Jesus dwells with us at all times as Immanuel. In all of our shopping and celebrations, Jesus is still God with us. Wherever we go, whatever we do, Jesus is there with us.

He is our hope in times of doubt. He is our comfort in times of sorrow. He is our peace in times of anxiety. He is our joy in the midst of pain. He is our strength when we are weak. He is our friend when we are sad. He is the giver we can never out give. He is our Savior and Lord and He alone is truly the reason that we have a Christmas season.

Whatever your situation this year, whether happiness, joy and hope or sadness, sorrow and pain, may you trust in Jesus Christ as the God who continues to dwell with you and who supplies all your needs.

May you have a Merry Christmas season through our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

Deanery meeting set for Emerson

The Rural Northeast Deanery of the Council of Catholic Women will have a meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 6. The meeting will be held at the Iron Horse Restaurant which is located at 1106 South Main Street in Emerson. Those attending will have lunch at 11 a.m., followed by a meeting.

Blue Christmas service to be held at Grace Lutheran

A Blue Christmas Service will be held at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne on Sunday, Dec. 3 at 7 p.m.

Following the service, there will be snacks and fellowship time.

The service, focusing on the promises of God, is more quiet and meditative than traditional Christmas Services. There is a time during the service when anyone can light a remembrance light in memory of a loved one or other item of sorrow, and at the conclusion of the service, home-knitted prayer shawls are given as gifts.

For those who have suffered the loss of a loved one or other loss, the words of Elvis Presley's classic "Blue Christmas" express a very real pain that is felt during a season marked by joy and celebration. The feeling of loss, during the time when the world says "to celebrate and party", makes the season extra difficult for many, and that is why the Stephen Ministers of Grace are sponsoring this Blue Christmas Service.

This is the 13th year that the service is sponsored by the Stephen Ministers of Grace Lutheran Church. Each year the service and fellowship time has touched specific people in a special way as God's promises are heard and people make a connection with others who care.

"The service is open to the public, and for anyone feeling "blue" this Christmas there is a special invitation to come. Stephen Ministers will be available at the conclusion of the service to offer encouragement.

If you have a friend or relative who is "blue" this Christmas, please invite and bring them to the Blue Christmas Service on Dec. 3 at 7 p.m." said Pastor Carl Lilenkamp, pastor at Grace Lutheran Church.

Holiday activities include cleaning, shopping

There is just one problem with not hosting the holiday dinner; no leftovers! But I'll give them up for not having to figure out where all the dishes and bowls and stuff go back.

Of course, I did my usual declutter job yesterday, knowing that the housekeepers were coming today. That is a luxury I allow myself about twice a year, and we finished with a carpet cleaner, so things look pretty snazzy right now.

The new AD, Bill Moos, has already learned to like Runzas, so that shows he can be a transplanted Nebraskan. I thought Coach Reilly was a total class act on Saturday.

And I got a kick out of the volleyball players bringing their dogs to the announcement party since they are now the "underdogs."

Out of pure boredom, and I remember I did this twelve years ago, too, when I had the other knee replaced, I've tuned into the Hallmark channel when I can get the remote away from the Big Farmer. I like to look at the Christmas decorations. But the stories are SO predictable, and so sweet, I almost feel like I've overdosed on sugar. One thing about them, there is only kissing allowed, so we don't have to close our eyes at all.

One of the neighbors here is a graduate of North Dakota University. In fact, he's in its Hall of Fame. Last Sunday, their basketball team played the Huskers at the PBA. On Saturday, this huge bus was parked in front of the neighbor's house and they fed all two dozen of the players and coaches! She made three roasters full of soup, and I don't know how many sandwiches, and brownies ala mode for dessert. It's kind of a surprise to look out the window and see a huge bus in this quiet little cul de sac.

I picked a construction paper angel off the tree at church that said it was for a 3 to 5 year old who wanted a doll. I thought that would be fun; I hadn't bought a doll for years. First, I got on line. Have you looked for a baby doll lately? There really aren't any. There was something called a Water Baby, and apparently, you had to fill it with warm water. So, in between fillings, we have a squished baby??

Mostly, it's Barbies, and the Frozen princesses, and Cabbage Patch. I stopped at Shopko today on a hunch and did find a newborn baby doll. But was disappointed to find when I got home that it has three little batteries so if you press its tummy, it cries! Three year old little girls do not need dolls with batteries. Oh, well, this will have to do.

I even have my annual holiday letter written; now, all I have to do is address envelopes! Happy Advent!

Now is the time to test for soybean cyst nematode before severe field problems develop, losses occur

Once again here is a reminder to get all fields tested for the presence of a "stealth pest", the soybean cyst nematode (SCN).

In our meetings with growers and consultants over the last several years, we have often heard the comment that some area soybean fields are not yielding as well as they have in the past, or that they have not reached yield expectations relative to the type of soil and varieties planted. While many different causes can reduce soybean yields, recent discoveries suggest that you should consider looking into the soybean cyst nematode as a potential yield-robbing problem.

The soybean cyst nematode (SCN) is the most serious pest of soybeans in the United States, causing farmers millions of dollars in losses each year.

It is a "stealth" pest in that often SCN will reveal no specific symptoms and its effects are often not dramatic. Many farmers do not know their fields are infested with SCN until a severe problem develops. Up to 30 percent yield losses can occur without obvious symptoms.

All counties in northeast Nebraska now have at least some fields with proven SCN infestations. The ground is not frozen, harvest is in, so now would be a good time to check your fields for soybean cyst nematodes, particularly if you have a field that has been dragging in yield recently. SCN is field specific, not all fields in an area will be infested. Most infestations occur when soil from an infested field is carried to a new field by equipment, flooding, or wildlife.

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi

If you decide to take a soil sample for soybean cyst nematode, this can be done at any time of the year, but populations will be highest at harvest.

The test is free and is covered by the Soybean Board. Local extension offices should have sample bags but they can be put in any soil sampling bag. Take samples 6-8 inches in depth in the old soybean row in several places in the field. Mix them together into one sample like you would for a fertility test. You can even test a corn field, because once SCN is in a field it will be there permanently.

That's right, once in a field, soybean cyst nematode will never go away. The key to keeping soybean fields at high production levels is to keep the population of soybean cyst nematode low by crop rotation and the use of resistant varieties.

If the nematodes are not detected soon enough and numbers become high, fields will need to be rotated to a non-host crop for several years. Most seed companies have SCN resistant soybeans available in Nebraska.

In fields found positive for soybean cyst nematode, plan to monitor the population every few years. Populations can and do change.

Contact your local extension office for more information.
