Mayor tells council 'I will not seek a third term'

By Clara Osten
clara@wayneherald.com

Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council began with Mayor Ken Chamberlain announcing that he will not seek a third term as mayor.

Chamberlain said he was making the announcement early to allow for any of the council members whose terms are up, or any other council member to make the decision to run for the position.

He told the council that he felt having been a council member before becoming mayor seven years ago was a good learning experience.

Council members Jill Brodersen, Cale Giese, Rod Greve and Jason Karsky will have their terms expire in 2018. Brodersen indicated she will be seeking a third term on the council. The others said they will likely seek re-election but have not yet made a definite decision.

After weighing several options, the council gave its approval to have Steve Meyer move dirt that has been piled on property owned by Lou Benscoter. The cost for this is not to exceed $12,000.

The dirt was moved as part of the Fourth Street Paving Project. It was originally planned that the dirt would be put on crop land near the project, but the corn had already been planted when the dirt work was done and the property owner did not want the crop ruined.

Benscoter was at Tuesday's meeting and told the council he would like the dirt moved yet this fall for several reasons, including having the property ready for next year's construction season and the fact that the dirt could settle over the winter.

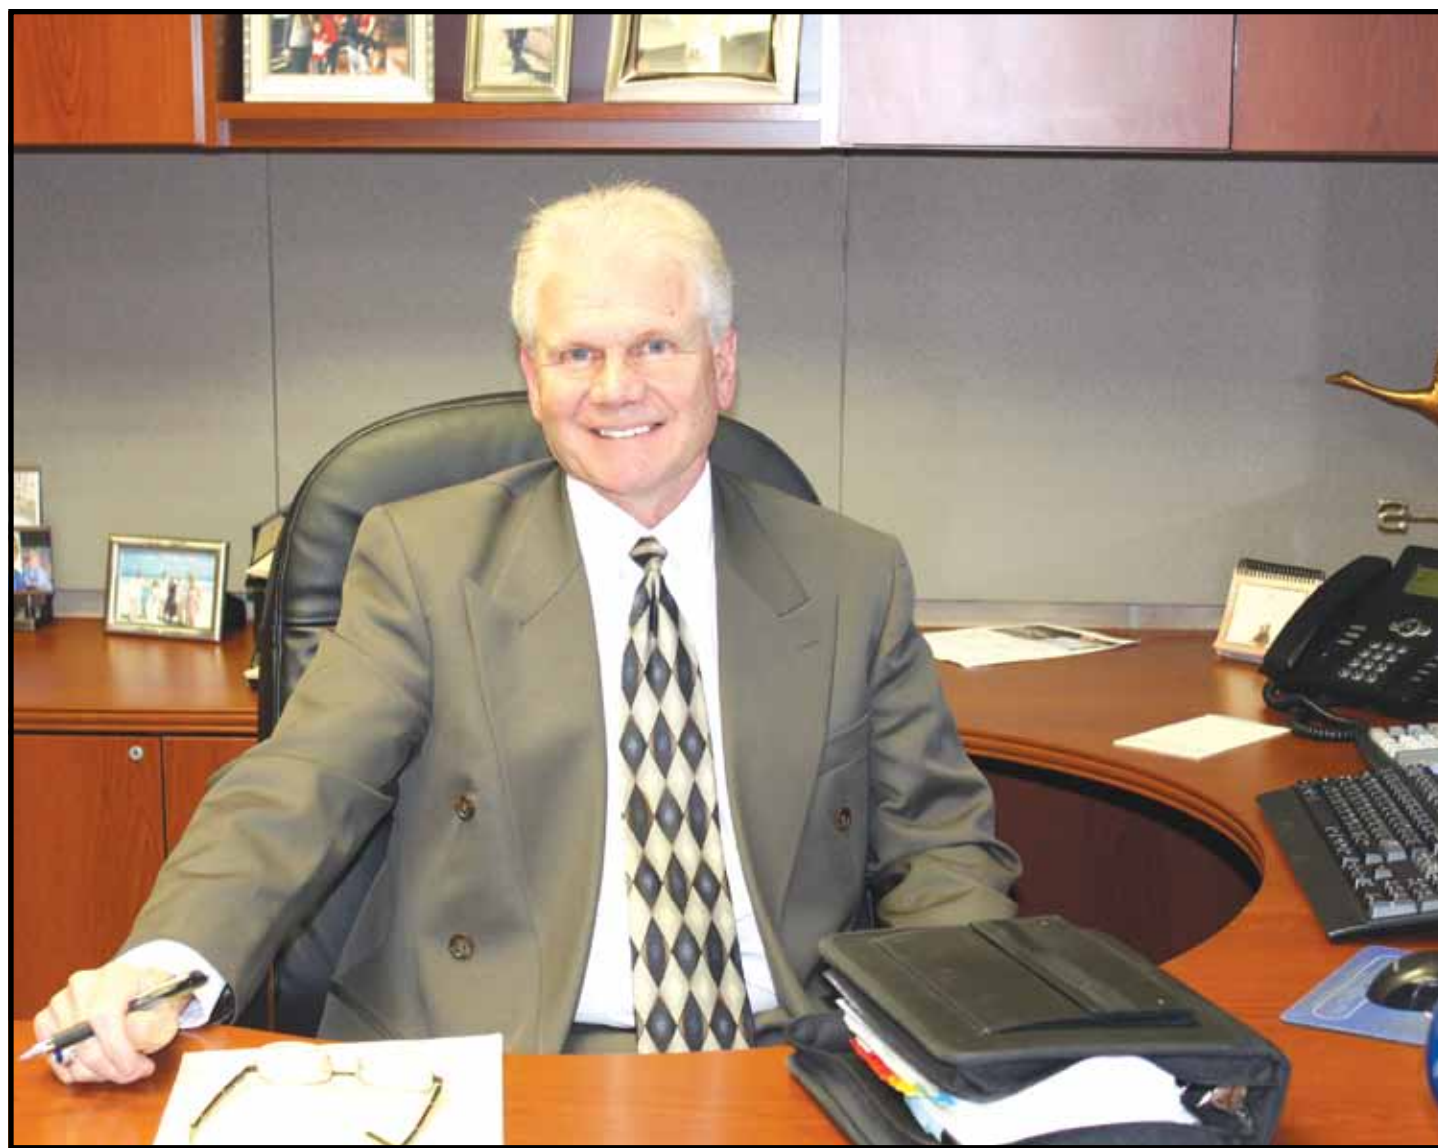

He also said that he would be able to use some of the dirt on his projects, saving the council some money.

In other action the council approved a request to release funds and certification on behalf of a Villa Wayne Improvement Project.

Trine McBride, Executive Director of Wayne Housing Authority, told the council that the organization has been awarded $39,520 in HUD funds for capital improvement projects. These include items such as flooring, stoves and refrigerators at Villa Wayne.

Wayne Fire Chief Phil Monahan spoke to the council on a request by Kelby Herman and Brent Pick to waive the city's

Commissioners hear concerns, discuss upcoming projects

By Calyn Dunklau

A short agenda lead to a brief meeting of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners on Tuesday.

First up was an appointment with Bobbi McCormick regarding the wind energy projects coming into Wayne County.

McCormick and her husband Troy have voiced concerns in previous meetings about the potential for wind energy facilities in the county. The acreage owners say there are leases signed on all sides of their property for the Lincoln Clean Energy facility Plum Creek. That facility is currently non operational, having not sold the energy from it at this time.

McCormick voiced concerns about the non-participating land owner's rights and the setback distances. The commissioners reminded her that due to the fact that Wayne County doesn't have zoning, the hands of the commissioners are tied in many ways. If she, or anyone, wished to have zoning visited by the board, a petition would be needed.

While discussing the wind energy projects, the road haul agreement is being looked over by County Attorney Mike Pieper before the county presents it to NextEra Energy for the Sholes Wind Center. That agreement will impose fees and regulations for the roads being accessed to erect the towers.

Also discussed was the new fee schedule policy for utility lines. The commissioners requested that Highway Superintendent Mark Casey send out a letter alerting businesses in that field of the new policy.

Casey discussed the County Bridge Match Program and possible projects for that, stating that they won't know what has been approved until early to mid January.

The commissioners decided to go ahead with the tax credit process for the masonry restoration process on the courthouse. While it will likely slow the process of the project down, 20 percent of the qualifying work would be refunded as tax credits that can be sold for 90 percent on the dollar. Nearly the entirety of the project qualifies. The funds garnered from the credits would go toward the purchase of new doors for the facility.

Banker has seen 40 years of change

By Clara Osten

Even though he has been involved in the industry for four decades, Tim Keller said as a young person "banking never crossed my mind."

Keller will be retiring at the end of this year and will be honored at a retirement party at F&M Bank in Wayne on Tuesday, Dec. 12 from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Keller was born and raised on a farm near Naper, Neb. and graduated from Chadron State College in 1975 with a degree in business education. He taught business classes and coached at Gordon High School for three years before the president of the Gordon State Bank (Abbott Bank group) called and asked him if he wanted to go into the banking industry.

"The bank president's daughter was one of my students and when the bank was looking to fill a position, she recommended me to her father," Keller said.

Keller was a part of the bank in Gordon for 10 years - two of those as president. During this time he graduated from the Colorado Graduate School of Banking in Boulder Colo.

Then the Abbott banks began a merger process and he was promoted to the corporate office in Alliance to help merge 11 banks into one.

Tim Keller
F&M Bank President

"I did this for three years. This involved a lot of travel and no direct customer contact. I had to travel to all of the banks because at that time there was no technology to work with," Keller said.

While working for the Abbott Bank group, Keller was approached by Phil Burns of West Point who said he was looking for a president to open a new bank in Wayne. The holding company (West Point Bancorp, Inc.) at that time already had banks in West Point and South Sioux City and had the opportunity to purchase the building in Wayne and start a new bank from

WHS alumni named to University of Nebraska - Lincoln's Franco's List

Information courtesy of UNL

Thirty-one University of Nebraska-Lincoln students have been recognized as outstanding agents of character and integrity by being named to Franco's List.

Students who attain the highest level of academic achievement are recognized by their academic dean through the Dean's List. Similarly, Franco's List — named for the late Juan Franco, vice chancellor for student affairs from 2006-2017 — recognizes students at Nebraska who demonstrate characteristics essential to being a person of integrity.

Franco's List awardees represent six building blocks of character: caring, citizenship, commitment, dependability, open-mindedness and respect. Sylvia Jager, sophomore at UNL, is an alumni of Wayne High School. She is attending UNL for elementary and childhood education.

All recipients were nominated by a university community member and selected by a council of peers, the vice chancellor for student affairs' Character Council. Recipients were announced at an awards ceremony Nov. 17.

In addition to Jager, several other students from Nebraska and beyond were also named to Franco's List. Those students include:

- From Nebraska
- Columbus — Emma Kwapnioski, senior, speech-language pathology
- Eustis — Collin Thompson, junior, agriculture economics
- Gering — Jasie Beam, senior, management (entrepreneurship and innovation); Morgan Wallace, sophomore, journalism, and advertising and public relations
- Grand Island — Shayne Arriola, senior, marketing; Lane

Ribbon cutting for Johnnie Byrd Brewing Company

Wayne Ambassadors were on hand for the official ribbon cutting and open house for Johnnie Byrd Brewing Company on Friday afternoon. The business, located in the former Wayne Fire Hall at the corner of Second and Pearl Streets, is open Thursday and Friday from 4 to 11 p.m. and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Wayne's Green Team brings battery recycling to town

Wayne residents can now recycle typical household batteries thanks to a program funded by the Wayne Green Team through Battery Solutions.

You can bring your household batteries to the recycling pail at Wayne City Hall, 306 Pearl Street, during normal business hours, Monday thru Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Most household batteries can be recycled, but you must tape certain battery terminals to ensure safety (e.g., all lithium and lithium-ion with exposed terminals must have clear tape on the terminals).

If not taped, the terminals, or exposed metal parts, of certain batteries can rub together creating a spark.

Examples of batteries you can recycle in the pail at Wayne City Hall are: alkaline batteries (such as AAA, AA, C, D), NiMH or NiCd less than 9 volts, "Heavy Duty" zinc carbon, button cell (watch battery), electronic batteries, and lithium.

Review the Battery Recycling How To Guide at www.cityofwayne.org/greenteam for detailed instructions on the types of batteries recyclable and the types that require taped terminals for safety. Clear tape is available to use at the pail.

"We are excited to bring another recycling option to Wayne as part of our community's zero waste efforts," said Sandy Brown, Chair of the Wayne Green Team. "Recycling these batteries helps reduce waste sent to landfills and keeps harmful metals from leaching into soil and water."

To learn more about how these batteries are recycled, visit <https://www.batterysolutions.com/recycling-information/>.

Founded in 2009, the Wayne Green Team is a group of community volunteers, Wayne State College students and staff, and city personnel focused on minimizing waste and increasing sustainable behavior.

In 2015, the group was selected as Green Team of the Year by WasteCap Nebraska (now the Nebraska Recycling Council), and are one of five rural communities in Nebraska that have participated in their Zero Waste Project. Find more information about the Wayne Green Team at www.cityofwayne.org/greenteam.

Northeast students earn campus promotion honors

Members of the Student Activities Council (SAC) and the Student Leadership Association (SLA) at Northeast Community College have been recognized for their promotion activities across the college over the past year.

Nine members of the groups, and Amanda Kampschneider, business and economics instructor and co-advisor for SLA, attended the Association for the Promotion of Campus Activities Conference (APCA) in Chicago, Ill. recently. Approximately 35 colleges and universities participated in the regional event.

At the conference, Northeast's SAC Escape Room won for Program Event of the Year for the Midwest Region and now qualifies for higher recognition at the APCA National Conference in Orlando, Fla. in February. An Escape Room is a physical adventure game in which players are "locked" in a room and have to use elements of the room to solve a series of puzzles to escape within a set time limit. Escape rooms make great team building opportunities, as they rely on communication, leadership, and critical thinking.

Gilliland of Wakefield, secretary of SAC, won for Student Programmer of the Year for the Midwest Region and also qualifies for national honors. This is the third consecutive year a Northeast student has won this regional award.

In addition, the 5-in-1 car tool that SAC gave away at its annual Sober in October event won first place in the Novelty competition. The tool is a torch light, LED light, seatbelt cutter, window smasher, and digital tire pressure gauge. Sober in October is designed to show the dangers of drinking and driving and binge drinking.

Northeast students attending the conference included Allen Brenner, SLA president, Cuiaba, Brazil; Mika Bromwich, Valentine; Jadin Doerr, Plainview; Deavan Gehm, Pierce; Danielle Gilliland, Wakefield; Logan Mattan, Falls City; Kelsey McCaig, Blair; Tim Mendlik, Stanton; and Tia Smith, Neligh.

Winside Craft Show

What's happening in agriculture?

From upcoming weather, to wind and the newly formed ag program at Wayne High School, area producers were able to learn about topics that will impact the future of the area at this year's Agriculture Outlook Seminar and Appreciation Luncheon. Top, Al Dutcher, Nebraska State Climatologist, spoke on predicted winter weather. Above, John Hay, Nebraska Extension Educator, talked about the available wind in the state. Below, Phil Clements with NextEra Energy, talked about plans for wind energy in Wayne County.

Crafts of all kinds, along with a number of home-based businesses, were on hand for the second annual Winside Tour of Man Caves and Craft Show on Dec. 2. In addition, Santa and Mrs. Claus stopped by to get lists from children. The event, funded in part by a grant from the Wayne County Convention & Visitors Bureau, raised money for the Frank Weible Memorial Ball Park.

"I had never been to Wayne before, but after doing some research and visiting the community, I found that the town met the criteria I was looking for if my family and I were going to move," Keller said.

The Wayne bank was chartered on Nov. 16, 1990 and though the last 27 years have "been lots of hard work, it has been fun to watch the bank and the community grow through the years. I have been very fortunate to have had great directors and employees to work with. Banking takes teamwork," Keller said.

Throughout his career Keller has strived to live by several philosophies - "Relationships are key to everything," "People don't care what you know, until they know that you care," and "Give me the opportunity to earn your business."

"During my career I have experienced the highest interest rates in our country's history and the absolute lowest interest rates, both on the borrowing and deposit side of banking," he said.

When asked to list some of the changes he has seen in the industry, Keller summed up banking by saying "we have gone from being a totally manual operation to a totally electronic operation. We have gone from counter checks to debit cards to internet banking to mobile banking and social media. The speed in which these changes are taking place makes it a challenge to keep up."

He said changes in banking have allowed banks to manage "lots more money with less people."

"During my career I have found that there is nothing permanent except change."

Keller's family includes his wife, Rita; three children, Kurtis, Clinton, Karla, and their spouses, all who live in Omaha, and six grandchildren.

Keller said in retirement he is going to miss the employees and customers, but looks forward to spending more time with his family and friends. He also plans to spend more time golfing, fishing, hunting, traveling, reading and riding his Harley.

"I plan to stay in Wayne, because Wayne is my home."

open burning ban.

The request would allow the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department, along with the State Fire Marshal's training division, to burn an old grain elevator in the southwest portion of Wayne.

Monahan said the process has taken some time, as it was necessary to get hazmat studies completed and approval from the State Fire Marshal's Office. A date for the burn has not been set, but will likely take place in February or March of next year.

Monahan said the training will allow members of the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department the opportunity to gain experience using aerial equipment.

Council members took action to allow East Fourth Street in the Pace Addition to be open as a gravel street with the understanding that it would need to be paved if there is any future development on the lots adjacent to the street.

Joel Hansen, City Planner, told the council that Wayne County has already done work on the street and would spread the gravel. The only cost to the city at this time would be the gravel.

The council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, Dec. 19 at 5:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Wayne State women's rugby defends NSCRO 15's national title

By MICHAEL CARNES

For The Herald

ATLANTA, Ga. — As the old saying goes — offense wins games, but defense wins championships.

And when you've got them both, there's only one word to describe it.

Unbeatable.

The Wayne State women's rugby team capped a perfect 20-0 campaign with a hard-fought 46-26 win over Bentley College in the championship of the National Small College Rugby Organization 15-on-15 tournament Sunday afternoon at Life University, defending its national title of a year ago and bringing home the team's seventh national title in six school years.

"We ended unblemished. It's really good to end that way," coach Darrin Barner said in a phone interview coming home from the tournament Sunday evening. "This was one of our toughest challenges by far. Both Gustavus and Bentley ran similar offenses that we had not seen all year and we had to spend three weeks getting ready for it and the girls got it done."

Barner said that both opponents had a strong short and medium run game, which forced Wayne State to play more of a fringe defense in an effort to counter-ruck and cause a turnover. Bentley dominated the time of possession in the championship game, but Wayne State took advantage of a number of turnovers and cashed in when they had the opportunity to pull away in the second half with the win.

"We probably watched four hours of film on Thursday and two more on Friday for the Gustavus Adolphus game, then four more on Saturday to get ready for Bentley," Barner said. "We didn't commit to a particular de-Leanna Rosberg was named the tournament MVP for the Wayne State women's rugby team after they defended their NSCRO 15's title with a 46-26 win over Bentley in Atlanta, Ga. It is the fourth national title for Wayne State in 15-on-15 rugby and seventh overall, including three in 7-on-7 play.

fensive look and just tried to protect the outside and let them win a couple of rucks, and then on the third or fourth we'd counter-ruck and steal the ball and then would outnumber them in space and used a quick-fire offense to get wide and get around the corner."

Wayne State did that early and often on Saturday, exploding for 57 first-half points on their way to a 78-7 semifinal blowout of Gustavus Adolphus in Saturday's semifinal.

Phinix Svajgi and Turner McPhee each scored two tries in a first half that saw Wayne State hit the try zone 10 times in the first half. Sam Warneke made good on eight two-point conversion attempts and the Wildcats

Ballinger sets new mark to highlight weekend sweep

Paige Ballinger set a new school record and had a big game offensively to highlight a two-win weekend on the road for the Wayne State women's basketball team.

On Saturday, Ballinger erupted for 27 points in just 24 minutes of playing time and became the school's all-time blocked shots leader to help Wayne State to a 79-62 win over Concordia-St. Paul in action at St. Paul, Minn.

After trailing 7-4 early, Wayne State went on a 12-0 run over a stretch of 4:20 to take a 16-7 lead and still led by nine early in the second when the Golden Bears came back to tie the game at the break at 34-34.

The first part of the third quarter was back and forth, featuring six lead changes and three ties, but an 11-1 run in the third period gave Wayne State the lead for good, as Evelyn Knox capped the rally with two free throws to make it 51-41 with 2:20 left in the third.

Wayne State led by as many as 16 with 5:56 to go before the Golden Bears made one last rally, cutting the lead to 67-60 with 3:53 left. Baskets by Erin Norling, Maggie Lowe and Kacie O'Connor pushed the lead back up to 13 points and the Wildcats went on to the 17-point win.

Ballinger produced a game-high 27 points, playing just 24 minutes, while Norling added 12 points and senior Maggie Schulte recorded her second double-double of the year with 11 points and 11 rebounds. O'Connor also hit double digits with 11 points. Anna Schmitt, the NSIC's leading scorer, scored 24 points to lead Concordia-St. Paul. Ellie Gess chipped in 17 points with Brianna Miller adding 10.

Ballinger had four of Wayne State's seven blocked shots in the game and became the all-time leader in the category with 170, surpassing the previous school record of 168 held by Jodie Boss from 2007-09. Halley Busse handed out a season-high eight assists.

In action Friday, the Wildcats used a balanced attack to post an 81-69 win over Minnesota State in Mankato, Minn.

Wayne State used four players scoring in double figures to come away with the win and improve to 7-3 overall and 1-1 in NSIC action.

The Wildcats got off to a quick start, taking a 9-0 lead in the first 2:45 of the contest and led by as many as 16 points, shooting 9-of-13 in the opening period to build a 25-11 lead.

Minnesota State had a 15-2 run in the second period that got them within six at 29-23, but the Wildcats responded with a 10-2 run to rebuild a double-digit advantage and take a 41-27 lead into the locker room.

Minnesota State opened the second half scoring the first eight points to get within six at 41-35, and were within five before 3-pointers by O'Connor and Lowe pushed the lead back to seven at the end of the third quarter 56-49. Wayne State never let Minnesota State get closer than five points in the final period to come away with the win.

O'Connor and Schulte paced Wayne State in scoring with 14 points apiece, followed by freshman guard Halley Busse with 13 and Norling 11. Schulte led Wayne State with eight rebounds, Lowe had three assists, O'Connor had two steals and Ballinger had three blocked shots with Brittany Bongartz adding two.

The Wildcats are home this weekend for conference matchups against University of Mary on Friday at 6 p.m. and Minot State on Saturday at 4 p.m.

Winside girls drop first two games of season

The Winside girls basketball team opened the season with a pair of tough conference road games, falling to Plainview on Thursday and Wynot on Friday. On Thursday, the Wildcats struggled in the middle part of the game against Plainview as the Pirates built a 23-point advantage and came away with a 49-31 win over Winside.

Winside played Plainview close in the early going, but the Pirates outscored the Wildcats 29-9 in the middle two periods to take control of the game. Andi Bargstadt led the Wildcats with 12 points and seven rebounds, while Sarah Wolfe added eight points and four rebounds. Alyssa Brogren and Victoria Buresh each added four points, Kati Topp had two and Kellie Kampa added a free throw and grabbed four rebounds.

On Friday, Wynot's defense proved to be too much for the Wildcats as the hosts coasted to a 50-11 victory.

Wynot built a 29-5 lead at the half and frustrated Winside's offense in posting the easy win, dropping Winside to 0-2 on the season.

Wolfe led the team with six points and four rebounds, while Bargstadt added four points and three rebounds. Buresh had a free throw and Kellie Kampa had three rebounds.

Wildcats bounce back, get split on the road

The Wayne State men's basketball team bounced back from a Friday night road loss to come away with a split in conference action over the weekend. On Friday, the Wildcat men came up short in an 86-58 decision to the Mavericks in Mankato, Minn., as Minnesota State's Charlie Brown poured in a game-high 25 points to lead the hosts.

The game was close early until the host Mavericks took control with a scoring surge at the end of the first half. Wayne State led 14-12 on a Tony Bonner basket with 11:39 to go in the half, but Minnesota State took control of the game and built a 43-28 lead at the half.

The Wildcats made the first two baskets of the second half to close within 11 at 43-32, but the Mavericks scored the next eight points for a 51-32 lead and Minnesota State cruised to the easy win.

Bonner and Jordan Cornelius led Wayne State with nine points each. Kendall Jacks, Wayne State's leading scorer at 17.5 points per game, was held to four points in the contest and saw a streak of 28 straight games in double figures come to an end. Ben Dentlinger hauled in five rebounds to lead the Wayne State defense.

On Saturday, Kendall Jacks scored a season-high 28 points on 12-of-18 shooting to lead Wayne State to a 76-57 victory at Concordia-St., Paul, moving the Wildcats to 5-3 overall and 2-1 in league play.

The game was close midway through the first half with the host Golden Bears holding a 16-15 lead, but Wayne State took the lead for good on a Trevin Joseph 3-pointer to put the Wildcats in front 18-16.

After the Golden Bears got within two at 20-18, Wayne State went on a 16-4 run over a span of 4:20 to take a 36-22 lead with 4:36 left in the first half, then closed the half with a Vance Janssen 3-pointer and a Jacks layup to take a 41-24 lead at the half and maintained a double-digit advantage throughout the second half.

Avan Ward scored 13 points to lead Concordia-St. Paul in scoring followed by Evan Wesenberg and Bryndan Matthews with 12 apiece.

Wakefield boys, girls, handle Allen Friday

Wakefield and Allen renewed acquaintances Friday at Wakefield High School, and the host Trojans came away with wins in both the boys and girls varsity basketball matchups.

In the girls game, the Lady Eagles tried to mount a second-half comeback, but Wakefield answered every challenge and pulled away with a 49-32 win.

Allen trailed by nine at the half and tried to get back in the game in the second half, but Wakefield's full-court pressure created some turnover opportunities and wouldn't let the Lady Eagles back in the game.

Jessica Borg had a good night on both ends of the floor for Wakefield, tossing in a team-high 17 points to go with five rebounds, four assists, four steals and four blocked shots.

Also scoring were Cassidy Brudigam with 11 points, Rachel Brudigam with six points, Kenna Mackling with five points and four steals, Andrea Lopez and Abby Heimann with four points apiece, and Maddie Mogus with two points and six rebounds. Jamie Dolph added four rebounds and four steals.

Bri Hingst scored a game-high 19 points to lead the Lady Eagles. She had a double-double with 10 rebounds and also had four steals.

Also scoring were Haley Stapleton with five points and five steals, Carly Dickens had five points and Ally Twohig had four points and five rebounds. Bethany Kneifl also grabbed seven rebounds.

In the boys game, Wakefield got off to a fast start and built a big lead early before cruising to a 68-31 win over Allen.

Wakefield raced to a 16-2 lead early in the game and led by 17 at the half. They continued to control the contest in the second half and came away with the 37-point win.

Solomon Peitz led four Trojans in double figures with 16 points, while Parker Lehmkuhl, Israel Gardea and Justin Erb each had 12 points. Blake Heimann added eight points, Blake Brown put in four and Gabe Peitz added two.

Allen was led by Brogan Jones and Lukas Oswald with 11 and 10 points, respectively. Kobe Kumm added six points, Reed Hingst added two and Joshua Gorne and Aden Anderson each had a free throw.

After tough loss, Wayne girls bounce back with home win

The Wayne High girls basketball team stumbled in their season opener, but bounced back the following night to get a conference win at home.

On Thursday, Wayne opened on the road at always-tough South Sioux City, and the Lady Cardinals jumped on the Blue Devils early and rolled to a 78-48 win.

South Sioux City's pressure defense created a lot of problems for Wayne in the early going, helping the home team jump out to a 22-8 lead. They maintained that advantage in the first half and pulled away in the second half to take the win.

Kylie Hammer led Wayne with 13 points and Frankie Klausen and Ashton Boyer each added eight points. Also scoring were Gabi Meyer with seven, Annie Kniesche with four, Molly Hoskins with three, Jenna Trenhaile and Tori Kniesche with one.

The Blue Devils bounced back the following evening, overcoming a sluggish first half to come back and earn a 69-57 win over Battle Creek at Wayne High School.

Battle Creek got out to a 15-10 lead in the first period and led 29-22 early in the third before Wayne mounted a second-half comeback.

Back-to-back three-pointers by Meyer and Klausen put Wayne up 33-32. It went back and forth until two Meyer free throws and a Boyer basket put the Blue Devils ahead to stay at 39-36.

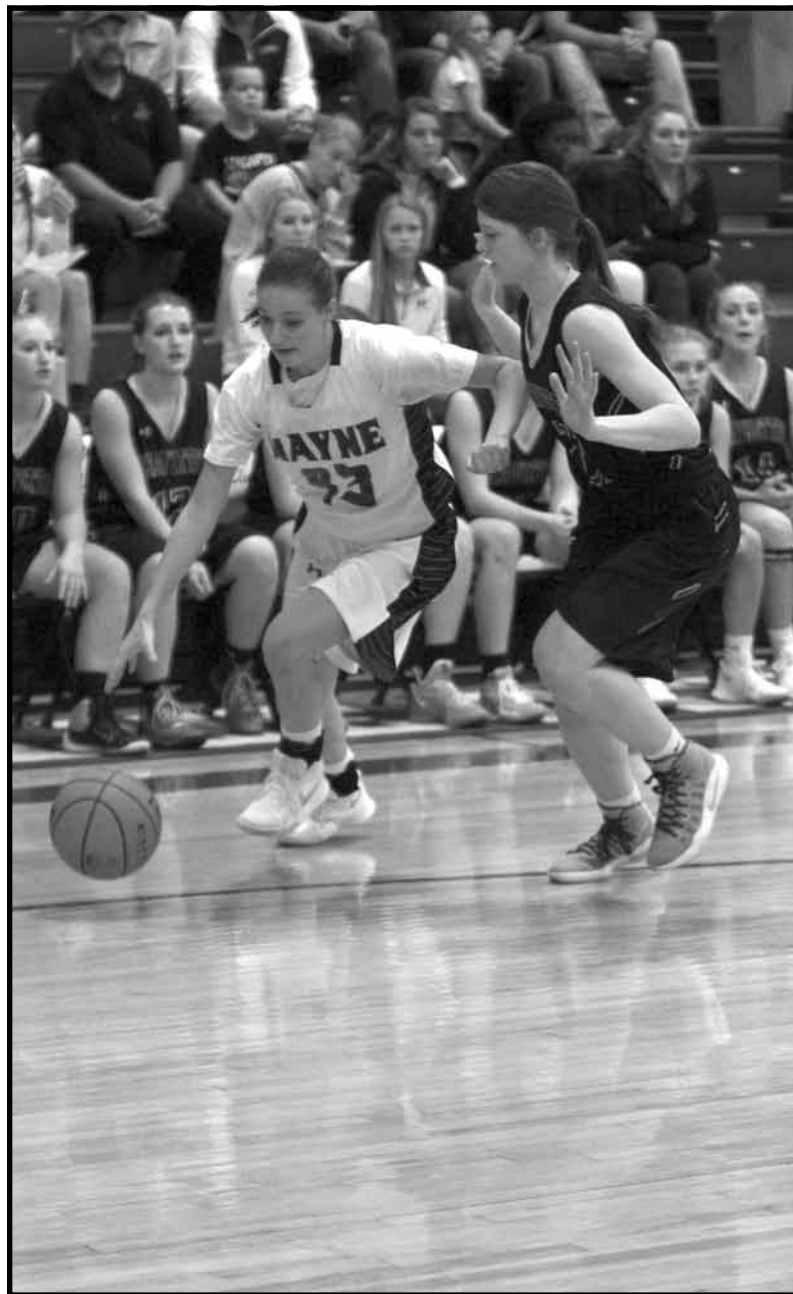

Battle Creek kept the game close until late, but a 13-2 fourth-quarter run, highlighted by a Klausen 3-pointer, helped put the game out of reach for the 1-1 Blue Devils.

Hammer led three Blue Devils in double figures with a game-high 24 points, while Klausen added 16 and Boyer put in 11. Meyer had eight points, Jamie Gamble had four, Hoskins scored three, Tori Kniesche had two and Trenhaile added a free throw.

Hammer had seven rebounds and six steals while Gamble added six boards, Meyer had five and Hoskins had four.

Wayne is at Wahoo on Friday and hosts Columbus Lakeview on Saturday.

LCC girls have hard start to season, opening with an 0-2 record

The going was a little rough for the Laurel-Concord-Coleridge Lady Bears as they dropped their first two games of the season this past week.

On Thursday, the Lady Bears played Siouxland Christian close throughout the game, but the hosts were able to pull it out in the end and hand the LCC girls a 49-45 defeat.

LCC got out to a 16-12 lead after one period before Siouxland Christian came back to take a 22-21 halftime lead. LCC battled back to forge a 32-32 tie going to the final period, but couldn't match Siouxland down the stretch.

Lorna Maxon led LCC with 11 points. Bethany Kardell and Erica Wolfgram added nine points apiece, Makayla Forsberg scored five, Sydney Chapman added four, Nicole Hanson had three and Ashley Wolfgram and Delaney Ehlers each had two.

Chapman led the team with 10 boards while Maxon had six along with a team-high four assists and three steals. Kardell added two assists.

On Friday, LCC's home opener started out on a good note, but Crofton changed the tune and silenced LCC's offense in the final three periods to post a 67-29 win.

LCC played the state-rated Warriors tough and led 17-16 after one quarter, but it was all Crofton after that as they forced 27 turnovers and ran away with the easy win.

Maxon led 0-2 LCC with 12 points and Chapman added five. Also scoring were Ehlers and the Wolfgrams with three apiece, Forsberg added two and Kardell added a free throw.

Forsberg and Erica Wolfgram each had five rebounds and Maxon grabbed three. Wolfgram had two assists and Maxon had three steals.

LCC hosted Homer on Tuesday and will play at Emerson-Hubbard Friday and Randolph Saturday before returning home Tuesday to face Ponca.

Blue Devil boys start season with road win, home loss

The Wayne High boys basketball team kicked off the season with a 59-49 win at South Sioux City on Thursday.

The Blue Devils trailed 6-3 early in the game, but a 3-pointer by Tyler Gilliland and a basket by Jack Evetovich gave Wayne an 8-6 advantage and they never trailed the rest of the way.

Two Evetovich baskets made it 12-8 after one period, and Marcus Fertig hit a 3-pointer to make it 15-8. Another trey by Fertig gave Wayne its biggest lead of the half at 20-11 and they took a 24-17 advantage into the locker room.

South Sioux City would get within four points on two occasions in the third, but Wayne closed the period with a 6-0 run, thanks to baskets by Evetovich and Beau Bowers and two Shea Sweetland free throws, to take a 38-28 lead into the final period.

South Sioux got within three late in the game, but the Blue Devils hit 11-of-18 free throws in the final period to hold off the Cardinal comeback and come away with the win.

Evetovich scored 16 points and Fertig added 14 for the winners, while Sweetland and Mason Lee each added nine, Tyler Gilliland had seven and Bowers had four. Sweetland had seven rebounds and Lee had six to lead the defense, while Lee had three assists and Evetovich, Sweetland and Fertig each had two.

On Friday, Evetovich and Battle Creek's Devon Beckman put on an offensive show for both teams, but the visiting Braves came away with the 68-61 victory.

Stone Kraft helped the Braves to an early eight-point lead after one period, but the Blue Devils rallied behind Evetovich and Lee, with Lee's late layup tying the game at 32-32 heading into the intermission.

The game stayed tight throughout the second half. Evetovich hit a 3-pointer early in the second half to give Wayne a 39-36 lead, but Battle Creek came back with a 7-0 to take the lead for good as Wayne could not regain the advantage.

Evetovich hit a basket late in the third period to make it a one-point game going to the final period, but Wayne could not get closer than three in the final period as they fell to 1-1 on the season.

Evetovich poured in a career-high 27 points on 10-of-15 shooting from the field to lead Wayne, while Lee added 15 points. Fertig finished with nine points, Sweetland added six and Tyrus Eischeid scored four. Beckman paced the Braves with 25 points.

Fertig and Lee each had seven rebounds and Lee added three assists and four steals for the Blue Devils.

WSC indoor track men seventh, women 11th in NSIC preseason poll

Despite a third place finish last season, the Wayne State College men's indoor track and field team was picked to finish seventh out of 11 teams in the 2017-18 NSIC Indoor Track and Field Preseason Coaches' Poll.

Minnesota State was a unanimous selection (teams can not vote for themselves) to win the men's division this season with 100 points and 10 of 11 first place votes. Augustana came in second at 85 points with Sioux Falls third at 72 and the remaining first place vote. The University of Mary was fourth at 63 points followed by MSU Moorhead (62), Minnesota Duluth sixth with 61 and Wayne State seventh at 50.

Senior Antoine Bardou and junior Robert Sullivan were listed as Wildcats to Watch in the NSIC this season.

Bardou, a senior middle distance runner from St. Chely D'Apcher, France, was named NSIC Men's Indoor Newcomer of the Year last season after winning the 1,000-meter run (2:28.95) and placing fourth in the mile run (4:13.69) while setting new school records in both events.

Sullivan, a junior from Bennington, was the NSIC champion last year in the heptathlon with a new school record point total of 5,141. He also placed eighth in the 60-meter hurdles and was an NCAA Indoor National qualifier in the heptathlon, placing 12th at nationals to earn USTFCCCA second-team All-American honors.

The Wayne State women are picked to finish 11th in the conference coaches' poll, with senior Michaela Dendinger named the Preseason Field Athlete of the Year and a Wildcat to Watch in the NSIC along with sophomore Joan Jelimo.

Minnesota State received 13 of 15 first-place votes and 194 points to be picked the team to beat this season. The University of Mary was second at 183 points and one first-place vote with Augustana third collecting the final first-place vote and 159 points. Wayne State was tied with Southwest Minnesota State for 11th with 65 points out of 15 teams that have women's indoor track and field.

Dendinger, a senior thrower from Coleridge, was an All-NSIC performer last year in two events, placing second in the weight throw (63-4 1/4) and third in the shot put (46-0 3/4). She was an NCAA Indoor National qualifier in both events for a second straight year and named USTFCCCA second-team All-American and All-Region in both events.

Jelimo, a sophomore transfer from Gillette College in Wyoming, will compete in middle distance running events for the Wildcats this season. She was fifth in the 800-meter run (2:23) at the Region 11 meet at Gillette.

Winside boys open season with road split

The Winside boys basketball team won their season opener Thursday at Plainview before dropping a Friday night matchup at Wynot.

In Thursday's opener, the Wildcats built a nine-point lead going to the fourth quarter and held on for a 34-30 win at Plainview.

Winside led for most of the game, building a seven-point halftime lead and carrying a 29-20 lead into the final period. Plainview got within striking distance late, but Winside was able to hold off the comeback for the win.

Brandon Watters led the Wildcats with a game-high 15 points, while JaShaun Vyborny added nine points. Dylan Brogren put in six and Layton Petersen scored four points.

On Friday, the Wildcats played Wynot tough for most of the game, but a 19-3 second-quarter run proved to be the difference as the Blue Devils came away with a 51-39 win.

Winside led by two after one period, but the big second quarter turned the momentum in Wynot's favor as they took a 14-point lead into the locker room and didn't led Winside get back within striking distance in the second half.

Watters and Colton Jensen led 1-1 Winside with 10 points apiece. Vyborny added nine points, Brogren had eight and William Bullard put in two.

Winside hosts Clarkson-Leigh on Thursday and Bloomfield on Friday before hitting the road for a Tuesday game at St. Edward.

cats carried that momentum into Sunday's championship game.

"We just did a great job of counter-rucking and causing turnovers that gave us the short field," Barner said of the win. "I couldn't believe what had happened that first half. I was surprised that we scored that many points, but that practice in preparing for it really paid off."

In Sunday's championship game, tournament MVP Leanna Rosberg got Wayne State on the board early in the first half with a score, and Julia Baxter and Brooke Hoelsing added scores to make it 17-7 at intermission.

Bentley scored early in the second half to cut the deficit to five at 17-12, but Julia Baxter got loose and outran the Bentley defense for a 60-yard run that made it a 22-12 game.

Bentley got within 27-19 with about 24 minutes left in the second half, but Wayne State got two scores in a seven-minute span midway through the second half, with Brianna Reehl scoring and Rosberg following six minutes later to make it 39-19.

Bentley scored again with about six minutes left, but Wayne State shut the door two minutes later when Brooke Hoelsing crossed the field on a 20-yard gallop with four minutes to go to put the game out of reach for Wayne State's second straight 15-on-15 title and fourth in six years.

That Wayne State was able to make it back and defend the title was special for Barner, who wondered if the team would be able to make it back after a senior-dominated roster won it a year ago.

"Last year, we were favored to win the whole thing because we had kind of a dream team with our athletic senior class last year, so there was pressure there because we were loaded," he said. "This year, we lost all of that to graduation and this year's seniors really stepped up big-time and worked with the underclassmen to help get us here. When we beat Kansas State by 30 in mid-October, that was a turning point and I knew we'd have a chance to get back and win it again."

The Wildcats had plenty of fan support in the stands at the Life University rugby pitch, including members of Georgians for Nebraska, a group of Husker fans living in the state who came to cheer on the Wayne State team.

"We kind of had a Scott Frost welcoming party with them, and it was great to see them come down and cheer us on," Barner said.

Six Wildcats were named to the All-Championship 15's roster, including Julia Baxter, Anna Fleecs, Turner MacPhee, Shelby Brown, Rosberg and Warneke, who also received the team's Heart and Soul award.

For the seven seniors — Rosberg, Brown, MacPhee, Warneke, Anita Valdez, Nicole Bailey and Alyssa Fisher — it was a great way for them to end their 15-on-15 careers, Barner said. And after getting home and celebrating the title, they'll turn their attention to the 7-on-7 campaign in spring with a golden opportunity to reclaim the title they lost in last year's championship match.

Can they once again be holders of both NSCRO titles by the end of the school year? Barner, for one, is hopeful.

"There's a good chance of that," he said with a smile.

MIKE'S MIMIC

Decoration evacuation

By MIKE RENNING
mikesportshome@yahoo.com

Christmas has become an art form for me.

I love the season, I can sing along with all the standards and I love the secular offerings.

I can belt out "Oh, Tannenbaum," "We Three Kings"; "Silent Night" with the best of them - at least in my mind.

One time, a good friend of mine and myself were in a bathroom in Wasta, South Dakota and we needed, well we were in the bathroom.

We started singing "Silent Night" in harmony and we got done doing what you do in a bathroom in Wasta, South Dakota and we had a crowd - applauding at the entrance. I'm telling you, we were good.

At any rate, that has nothing to do with this.

My Darling Wife is a Christmas nut. Decorations, lights, food just the right way and presents.

I think the little gal believes in Santa.

As we've talked about, she has more snowmen than any Inuit in Alaska.

She has more lights than Time's Square on New Year's Eve.

She has more...you get the idea.

She always sends notification to the family, if you don't use a real tree, you get fake presents.

She also contends, if you don't believe in Santa, you get underwear and socks in your stocking.

I'm not sure what the infatuation is all about, I like new underwear. Good heavens, my best socks come from Christmas.

Now, I can go along with all of her "thinking" and with the granddaughters I can believe it myself - but we must decorate for all this every year.

Over the last 30+ years I have discovered, the Darling Wife needs to light up our house and decorate inside like we are planning another wedding for one of our kids.

Sans the snowmen, which there are 48 now, we have a small fortune tied up in lights.

She always gets them on clearance the year before, yeah right. The year before stuff is not the new stuff and she must have the new stuff.

LED, new icicles, adding to the display - the emerging snowman, the properly decorated Christmas Tree. There is a definite pattern.

Now, don't get me wrong, the Darling Wife can be as frugal as anyone - but not when it comes to Christmas.

I'm wearing the same three pairs of socks from my stocking last year, but we have 1,701 lights strung around a 10X14 deck. I have the same pairs of underwear (three), to take into the wonderful season.

I have talked about the Darling Wife doing things over and over every year - over and over and over.

Well, this year is no different and I am here to instruct younger members of the Christmas equation with a little "experience", if you will.

It takes my little Sweetheart anywhere from three hours and 42 minutes to three hours and 57 minutes to put up all the snowmen, lights, snowflakes, trees, etc.

I have softened a bit from 10 years ago, or so, by not refusing to help set up the "display".

In fact, the past couple of years I have offered to help.

Last year, I ended up helping my neighbor, "Sonny", you remember "Sonny"? His real name is Mark Casey, but I call him "Sonny" in this space to save him any embarrassment.

Anyway, last year, "Sonny" needed some help rotating his battery cables on his pickup and we also changed the air in his tires from summer air to winter air.

Ironically, the processes of rotating the cables and changing the air took about four hours and 17 minutes.

This year, I was really in a pickle. The Darling Wife didn't mention the decorating process until just minutes before she asked me for assistance.

She told me it was time and I was completely unprepared. I'm sure I turned white, I know I perspired heavily and I considered faking a medical condition.

Just as fate would have it, my son Mason called at the exact moment and told me he was going to try and shoot a pheasant and wondered if I'd be around later to put any of his quarry on the smoker.

I immediately thought of a couple of things: Mason knows how to run the smoker and I hadn't been pheasant hunting in ages.

Well, to make a long story fit in this space, I can no longer say I haven't been pheasant hunting in ages.

Remember what I told you about us newspaper people awhile back? For the first time this century, I went pheasant hunting.

Didn't shoot a pheasant but for the first time in the last 56 years, I tasted squirrel. (A story for another time).

Another irony, we went hunting for four hours and 17 minutes - go figure?

Ready or not, here they come

With a shorter than normal football season - sorry Huskers, a four-win season won't get you a bowl game - that awkward time between football and the Nebraska Legislature convening is a lot longer this year.

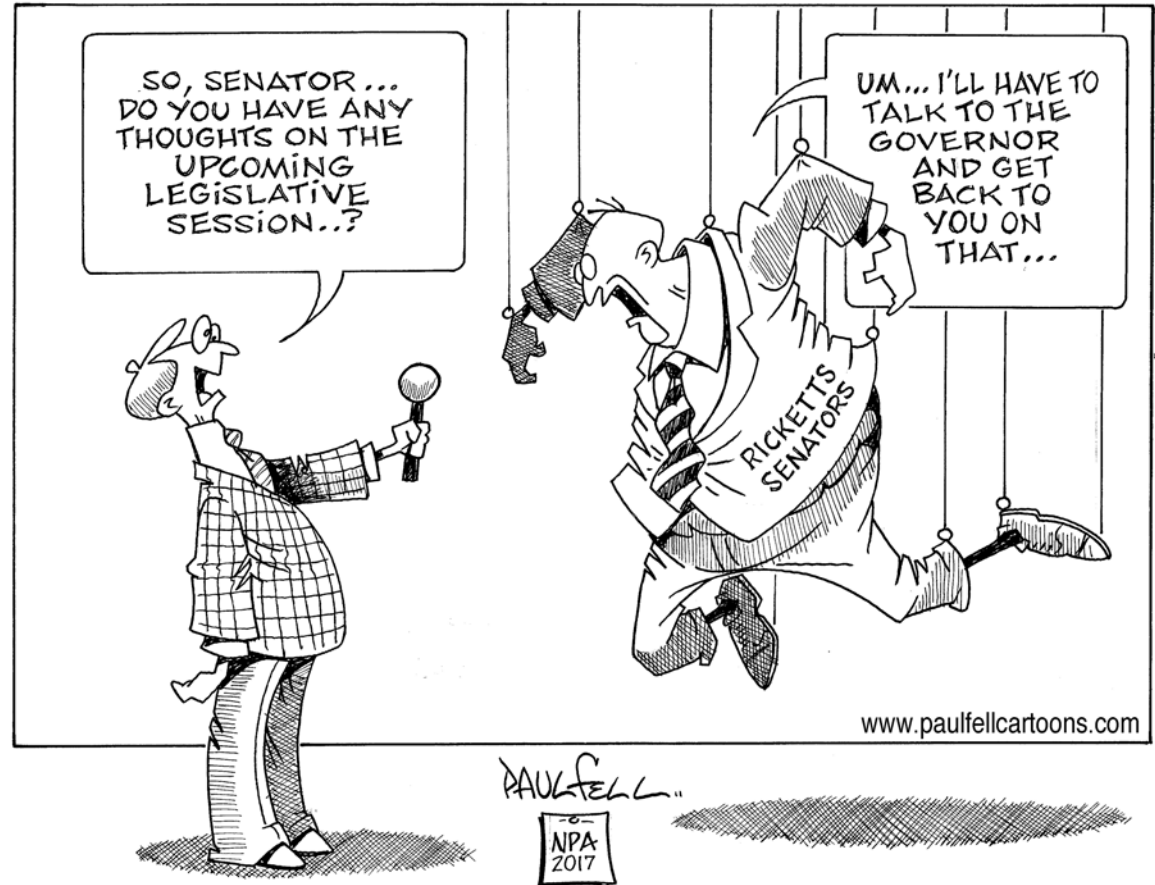

But, while the distractions are few, the state's 49 senators have already met officially to get a glimpse of what lies ahead when the 105th Legislature Second Session convenes January 3, 2018. That retreat is even more important before the "short" session because lawmakers have only 60 days to get things done.

There is always the possibility that the Gang of 27 Republicans who got together before the start of the last session to unofficially decide how things were going to run, will pull the same stunt again before year's end. I will once again remind all of you that while it's not illegal to do so, it's pretty darned disgusting in what is supposed to be a nonpartisan legislative body. Remember, there are 32 Republicans, 14 Democrats, 2 Independents and 1 Libertarian on record as senators.

There is also the possibility that the acrimony, which delayed permanent rules adoption, could once again rear its ugly head. The big sticking point last session was open voting on leadership positions and proposed changes to filibusters. The voting is a moot point during a second session but a matter of pride for those lawmakers wishing to do the bidding of the Republican governor.

To his credit, Speaker of the Legislature Sen. Jim Scheer of Norfolk has served notice that his colleagues can suggest rule changes until the first day of the session and the Rules Committee will have a hearing on those proposals on the second day. Debate on the committee's recommendations will begin on Day 4.

With all that said, what's on the Senator's plates is a pretty familiar meal of tax cuts, education funding, corrections reform, Medicaid expansion and whatever new bills they can come up with during the first 10 days of the session.

Outside the legislative chambers is the drama of the governor and attorney general pushing for the state's first execution of a death row inmate since 1997. You'll remember that a kinder and gentler Nebraska Legislature repealed the death penalty in 2016 and overrode a gubernatorial veto. But, with a petition drive largely funded by the governor's personal funds, the matter went on the ballot and was voted back into law.

Don't expect a full-on legislative debate over the death penalty, but the topic will likely come up during discussions on other corrections issues as lawmakers look at reports from a troubled prison system that deals with staff shortages, contraband, unsolved inmate deaths and an escalating number of inmate-on-staff and inmate-on-inmate assaults. A lawsuit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union on overcrowding issues - Nebraska has the second most overcrowded system in the country - will also factor into those discussions.

The perennial issue of school funding will face more scrutiny. Education Committee Chairman Sen. Mike Groene of North Platte addressed the issue with colleagues during the afore-mentioned retreat. He cited 2015 figures, which show what the state spent on more than 315,000 public school students with an average of nearly $13,000 per student. He said the resultant $973 million in direct school aid that year, combined with property tax relief, adult basic education, special education and other requirements and funding to the state Department of Education, actually brought that figure to $1.7 billion.

Health and Human Services issues will include child welfare, managed care for Medicaid re-ipients and children and efforts to combat opioid abuse and prescription drug monitoring. Some of this discussion will be driven by issues from the Legislature's Planning Committee which has discovered that the state's population is: becoming more concentrated in a few counties (Lancaster, Douglas and Sarpy have 55 percent); getting older; becoming more racially and ethnically diverse.

With continuing revisions downward by the state Economic Forecasting Advisory Board, it's highly probable that budget adjustments will be in order as well.

So, be patient Nebraska friends. The legislative session is less than a month away.

As I sat down to prepare for this column, I began thinking about Christmas and the end of the year. I pondered some of the recent news headlines like the Texas church mass shooting, a potential war with a nuclear weaponized North Korea and the ever-growing political divisions. I wondered, "With all this, how can we move into a joyous Christmas season?"

Then as I began reading the Christmas story from the Bible, a light came on. When I dug beneath the surface, I saw how history has much in common with our day.

The ruthless King Herod, who had been given the title King of the Jews by the Roman Senate, ruled over Israel during the time of Jesus' birth. One day, a large entourage of esteemed, well educated, eastern wise men entered his city after a long journey. When they arrived they began asking, "Where is he who has been born king of the Jews? For we saw his star when it rose and have come to worship him" (Matthew 2:2). Unknown to them, Herod already held the title, King of the Jews, so all Israel became troubled by their questioning. Herod immediately became protective of his position, and determined to strike down his rival, employing a gruesome tactic. He knew baby Jesus could be no more than two years old, and learned from the wise men, He was from the area of Bethlehem. Therefore, he mobilized his soldiers to kill any child under two living there. Jesus was spared, when Joseph and Mary took Him and fled toward Egypt for protection.

History's first Christmas was filled with darkness and despair, but also tremendous hope.

Jesus was born a few miles from Herod's palace. It was intentional. God sent His Son to be born in the presence of evil's most notorious figure, King Herod, and boldly announced His coming. Right on evil's doorstep God came and firmly planted a flag of victory in the form of an empty cross, that His Son one day would die on.

Repeated, Herod and other emissaries of evil have tried to vanquish what is good; time after time they have always failed. In this spiritual battle between good and evil light bursts through the darkness, love smothers hate and forgiveness cuts down the legs of bitterness.

No matter the news headlines or political spins this Christmas, there is hope waiting for you in Jesus' manger. That hope can become yours when you decide to turn your back on the wrong things you have done, and when you are ready to give up trying to be a good person in your own power. Call upon Jesus. Ask Him to make you good, by making you a new person and giving you a new heart. Then in Him, you will find a new beginning.

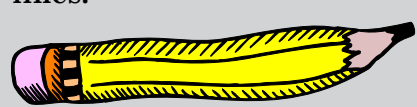

A prayer for you - Lord God, open the understanding of our hearts to the real meaning of the Christmas season. Take our burden of fear or despair. Cleanse our hearts of anything impure. Come to live within us by your Spirit, and fill us with new life, hope and truth. In Jesus name. Amen.

Winning the scholarship game

It's that time of year when high school students are thinking about their futures and how they are going to get there. Here are some tips to follow thru that process.

Follow these tips to increase your chances of earning scholarships:

- Don't ever pay for scholarship searches. Use free resources such as ScholarshipQuest at EducationQuest.org with over 2,000 Nebraska-based scholarships. Free national sites include Peterson's, FindTuition, Cappex, and Chegg.
- Visit your school counselor often for information about local scholarships.
- Focus on local and college-specific scholarships because you're more likely to earn them.
- Update your activities, honors, community service or paid jobs using the Activities Resume at EducationQuest.org.
- Earn the best possible ACT/SAT scores by taking the exam in the spring of your junior year and again in the fall of your senior year.
- Use quality references such as a teacher, coach or counselor. Encourage them to write specific examples of your leadership skills. Give them advance notice and a specific deadline.
- Tailor your essay to the scholarship. Ask an English teacher to read your essay and offer advice on making a big impact. Your essay will need to stand out from other applications.

Congratulations Joshua Schmidt ~ Associate of the Month ~

I would like to nominate Joshua Schmidt for employee of the month. I had the opportunity of working with Josh on a couple of night shifts, and Josh is very attentive to the residents. He is very caring, soft spoken, and genuinely cares about the residents. He is diligent with the cares, does not take short cuts and makes sure the residents are well taken care of. He knows his job well, handles laundry and cleaning duties with pride, and always finds something to do to keep busy. He trained a new associate and these were the words that came from her experience with Josh training her, "Josh is doing a great job training me. He is very knowledgeable and keeps very busy. Also very caring to the residents and their needs." I feel Josh is a great example of a Brookdale Associate.

Church has symbols to remind us of Christ

Sunday, Dec. 3 was the first Sunday of Advent, the beginning of a new church year and the start of a cycle of celebrations in the church which represent the entire life and work of Jesus. Advent, Epiphany, Lent, Easter, Pentecost; each celebration in the church has unique symbols and rituals associated with it.

Most churches include Advent wreaths in their practices for the season. The weekly lighting of the Advent wreath reminds us of the gifts of hope, peace, joy, and love that Christ brings. As we draw closer to Christmas, the increasing candlelight is a visible reminder that Christ, the light of the world, is coming.

In John 8: 12 we read ... Jesus spoke again to the people, he said, "I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me will never walk in darkness, but will have the light of life." Jesus is the "light of the world" thus light has always been an important part of Christian celebrations. Early Christians lit Advent bonfires as markers for the Savior's return. At some point, the focus shifted from the returning King to the newborn one and candles replaced larger fires. Initially one candle was lit for each day of the Advent season. As we light a candle each week on the Advent wreath, we mark the time until

By Teresa Bartlett
Pastor, Wayne Presbyterian Church

we celebrate Christ's birth. Candles have long been a reminder of not only Christ, but also the Star of Bethlehem which guided shepherds and the Magi to the Christ child. In addition to the lighting of the Advent wreath, the Scriptures and hymns we sing remind us of the preparations needed to make ready for Christ's birth and eventual return.

The symbols associated with Advent and Christmas are many and varied. They include stars, angels, candy canes, trees, candles and wreaths.

One example is the evergreen wreath, its circular shape has no beginning or end and reminds us of God's constant love and grace. The evergreen keeps its green needles year round, and reminds us of Christ's promise of eternal life.

First Presbyterian has a tree filled with Chrismsons; ornaments which help tell the story of our Triune God and the work of Jesus Christ in securing our salvation. Chrismsons include a variety of crosses and stars, as well as symbols from early Christianity such as the anchor, lamb, and manager. One ornament is the ichthus or fish. The letters of the Greek word for ichthus form an acronym for "Jesus Christ, Son of God, and Savior."

Another Advent tradition practiced in some churches and homes is the Jesse Tree. People in Jesus' family tree are our spiritual ancestors; they include Adam, Eve, Noah, Abraham, Sarah, Ruth, Boaz, Hosea, Simeon and Anna to mention a few. The Jesse Tree helps us to look backward to all who were in the ancestral line of Jesus Christ, remember their part of the story, and how they point forward to Jesus Christ who fulfills the ancient prophecies.

During Advent we prepare our homes and hearts to celebrate Christ's birth. The time can be marked in weeks by the lighting of the Advent wreath, or by daily adding symbols to a Jesse Tree which tell Christ's story.

Another way of marking the time (especially with young children) is the use of an Advent calendar. They are often paper, usually with a seasonal design with small doors or openings incorporated for each day of Advent. Behind each door is a symbol or verse that relates to Christ. There are variations which include books and even small cabinets or trees. Setting out the manager and telling the Christmas story is a nice ritual for families with children as it helps children learn the Christmas story and builds a family faith tradition.

Traditions or rituals bring continuity to our celebrations in our churches and homes. During this season, as we prepare to celebrate the birth of our Savior Jesus Christ, may you find practices that guide you in marking the days, strengthening your faith and prayerful recognition of Christ's birth. Merry Christmas!!!

Minerva Club plans its upcoming pot luck, gift exchange plans

Phyllis Rahn hosted Minerva Club at the Senior Center on Nov. 27. Twelve members attended.

President Mary Ann De-Naeyer opened the meeting by sharing newspaper columns with some local flavor from the Valentine newspaper that were written by her sister-in-law. They told of heartwarming family and friend holiday traditions and the importance of passing them down to future generations whether you celebrated at home or out on a line camp in central Nebraska.

Historian Hollis Frese noted the Nov. 25, 1963 meeting of Minerva Club was cancelled as it was declared a National Day of Mourning for the death of President John F. Kennedy.

The November 1965 minutes showed the group donated $5 to the Wayne City Litter Basket project. Christmas gifts were purchased for three club members living at Dahl Care Center.

The birthday song was sung for Hollis Frese.

In keeping with the theme of celebrating states, Phyllis Rahn shared with the group at glimpse of California - the 31st state. California is one of those places that can be different things to different people.

To residents, it is home — a place like any other, where real people lead real lives. To outsiders, it is the stuff of make-believe — Disneyland, movie stars and millionaires.

Even its history has a story-book quality. Its road to statehood did not begin with sturdy pioneers in search of land. It began with fortune hunters in search of gold. California's gold rush of 1848-1849 set off an historic population boom.

California grew so quickly that it became a state by 1850, skipping the usual process of first becoming a territory. Today it is the most populous state in the Union, with more than 35 million people.

It's economy is rated fifth in the world, outranking many small nations.

For roll call Phyllis had members share information handed out about the many stars from California from Gene Autry to William Randolph Hearst, a noted philanthropist, to Billie Jean King, a tennis star, Marilyn Monroe, Ronald Reagan, Sally Ride the first American woman in space and Elizabeth Taylor to name a few.

Minerva Club members will meet Monday, Dec. 11 at Fauneil Bennett's home for a noon pot luck meal and gift exchange.

Northeast audio recording technology program releases latest holiday album

Work to produce the sounds of the season at Northeast Community College begin long before most people fire up the holiday music. Students in the College's audio recording technology program have produced another CD of holiday favorites performed by local and area artists.

Eight students recorded artists in the program's recording studio on the Northeast campus as well as on location over the past several months.

This is the 27th year the department has produced an album. Timothy Miller, who began the audio recording technology program in 1983, supervises the sophomore student projects and acts as executive producer of the album. Students in his classes are actively involved in the recording and producing of the disc, which includes both vocal and instrumentals.

Anthony Beardslee, audio recording instructor, said they choose selections for the album by looking at a list of holiday songs that are available in the public domain while original compositions are also considered.

"Once all the recordings are finished, the students will listen to all of the entries, make critiques and notes, and decide which songs will make the final cut," he said.

Beardslee said work on the production begins over a year in advance. "We actually start discussing the project with students during the spring semester of their freshman year. But the real work begins at the start of the fall semester for sophomore students. Depending on the complexity of the song, it can take anywhere from a few days to a few weeks to record and produce one selection."

One selection on the disc has a heartfelt meaning. Abby Uecker, known by her stage name as Abby Nicole, provides the vocals on O Come, All Ye Faithful. It was recorded before she was killed in an accident on the Thayer County fairgrounds in Hebron this past summer.

"This is a re-release and a remaster of the recording that Abby and the Northeast Concert Choir performed in our studio in November 2016," Miller said. "Ben (Viergutz) created the instrumental background tracks and sophomore students from that class recorded the vocal tracks. Although it appeared on last year's CD, we wanted to include it again this year as a tribute to Abby."

Northeast students who worked on the album are Elliot Aliewel, Norfolk; Joshua Brooks, Lincoln; Ezra Broderson, Wayne; Jonathan Dean, Henderson; Justin Jones, Norfolk; Benjamin Viergutz, Norfolk; Josh Talbott, Lincoln; and Hannah Wick, Grand Island.

The CD is only $5. Beardslee said to save on production costs, they only release the disc itself in a sleeve and duplicate the discs themselves, rather than sending to a replication plant. Proceeds are used to allow students the opportunity to attend the National Association of Broadcasters convention.

The 2017 Northeast Community College Holiday Album may be purchased by contacting Beardslee at anthony@northeast.edu or at (402) 844-7364.

Musical provides Christmas inspiration

By: Pat Meierhenry

Monday evening, and the weather guys were not fooling! We have been spoiled for the past month, and I found the wind today really hard to put up with.

We now have a new football coach, and you would think it was the Second Coming! SO much excitement! It was hard not to get caught up in it; people were doing cute and funny things. For instance, during the volleyball game on Saturday eve, there was a sign that said "it may be FROSTie out there, but we are COOKing in here!"

I got a charge out of Scott's answer to a question about modifying his system for the Big Ten. "We will plan for the Big Ten to modify to ours!" That's the right attitude!

Friend Marlyce in Orlando was sorry, but kept telling us what a classy fellow he is. We hope for the best for him and for the team.

Two friends and I journeyed to the Lofte Theater yesterday afternoon and got some Christmas inspiration. The musical is called The Forgotten Carols and is not well known. But a Google search tells me it was written 25 years ago and has been performed by the writer himself every year since in Utah.

The Lofte has only had one director since its inception, and his name is Kevin Colbert. He sometimes plays bit parts in productions, depending on the need. But he had the lead yesterday, necessitated by the quadruple bypass surgery of the fellow originally cast in the part! And he was fantastic!

So was the female lead, who played the part of a nurse. I told her she looked just like I did forty years ago; white dress uniform, white hose, white shoes, and white cap! She also did a super job.

And so, our annual journey to the manger begins. It doesn't seem quite as magical as it did when we were kids, or when our own offspring were kids. We need some little ones again! Hopefully, that won't be too far off. Meanwhile, we are enjoying the cards and letters, the pictures, and the news from friends we often only hear from once a year. It's one of the traditions I don't ever want to give up.

And, I have a new book of Advent devotions that goes with the forty parts of Messiah; so I'll be listening to that great work over and over again. It's all good!

Soybean Day and Machinery Expo, care for plants and trees outdoors discussed

The 2017 Nebraska Soybean Day and Machinery Expo will assist soybean producers in planning for growing season.

The expo runs from 8:30 a.m. to 2:15 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 14 in the pavilion at the Saunders County Fairgrounds in Wahoo. The expo opens with coffee, doughnuts and the opportunity to view equipment and exhibitor booths. Speakers start at 9 a.m. and include university researchers and specialists, Nebraska Soybean Checkoff representatives, soybean growers and private-industry representatives.

Jason Norsworthy, chair of Weed Science at the University of Arkansas, will return and discuss issues associated with dicamba use, including likely causes for non-target damage based on field observations of weed scientists across the United States. Norsworthy will highlight research on off-target movement of the new, lower-volatility formulations of dicamba. He will also provide input on ways to minimize the likelihood for damage from off-target dicamba movement.

Also on the agenda is Michael Swanson, a Wells Fargo agricultural economist. Swanson believes growing top-yielding soybeans requires the right inputs. His talk will focus on getting crop metrics right.

Chris Proctor, weed management educator with Nebraska Extension, is a strong proponent of measuring

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension Educator

herbicides accurately for successful weed control in soybeans. He will discuss how accurate measurements are often overlooked in the big picture of herbicide resistance.

Other expo topics include an update on the Nebraska Soybean Checkoff and association information; visits with representatives from seed, herbicide, fertilizer and equipment companies; and viewing of new farm equipment. A complimentary lunch will be served at noon.

Well, the latest warm/cold roller coaster reminds us that we have an El Nina weather pattern this year, and that usually means a lot of fluctuation in temperatures, and possibilities for severe storms. So how do we protect our plants for the winter?

For evergreens, this could translate into branch breakage. A method used to protect evergreen shrubs from ice or snow loads is loosely tying stems together. If you have a valuable evergreen shrub, have a roll of twine on hand. If an ice or snow storm is predicted, tie the twine end around a stem near the plant's base. Then loosely wrap the twine around and up the shrub to encircle about three-fourths of the plant and tie the twine to a sturdy stem. The goal is to prevent stems from spreading far enough apart to break under a load, but not immobilize them. Leave the twine in place at least until all ice has melted naturally. Never attempt to break ice off of a plant. Snow can be carefully brushed off. It's okay to leave twine in place for future storms, as long as it is removed in spring.

These erratic winter temperatures can cause soil to freeze and thaw. As soil alternates between freezing and thawing, the ground contracts and expands. This is referred to as soil heaving and it can create problems for plant roots; especially newly planted trees, shrubs and perennials that do not have well-established roots.

To prevent this, winter mulching is recommended for fall planted or recently divided perennial flowers. A six to 12 inch layer of mulch, such as coarse leaves or wood chips, placed over plants after the soil freezes, will help prevent alternate freezing and thawing of soil, and damage to newly planted or divided plants. There is still time to mulch this week.

Finally, should tree trunks be wrapped during winter? While tree wraps are not needed on all trees, it does benefit young, newly planted trees; especially those with thin bark like maples and fruit trees. The purpose of tree wrap is to reduce frost cracks and sunscald. These occur when the bark heats up during the day, and then when it gets cold overnight bark or trunk tissue is damaged. Frost cracking or sunscald does not directly kill trees but the damage can lead to stress, decay or insect damage. When tree wrap is used, trunks should be wrapped in late fall after trees harden off and are dormant. The purpose of tree wraps is to shade the bark during winter so it is not exposed to drastic temperature changes. When using tree wrap, start at the bottom and work your way up to where branching begins. Be sure to overlap the wrap so no trunk tissue is exposed; and always remove tree wrap in spring.
