The resignations of a teacher and staff member, along with the hiring of three teachers and a staff member were on the agenda when the Wayne Community Schools Board of Education met in regular session on Monday.

The resignation of Special Education teacher Stacy Johnson, with regrets was accepted. Johnson and her family will be moving to Palmyra. Also accepted was the resignation of Director of Maintenance Travis Meyer, with regrets. The resignation is effective March 2. Meyer is going into business and will be staying in the Wayne community.

Board members approved the hiring of Jordan Widner to fill the Director of Maintenance position. In discussing the hiring, Superintendent Mark Lenihan told the board that Widner "is excited about the opportunity."

Teachers hired at Monday's meeting included Andi Diediker for fifth grade; Jesse Mayo for 7-12 Special Education and Lauren Gilliland for 7-12 Math. Several of these positions will also include coaching, although the exact arrangement has not yet been made.

In other action, the board approved the design of a playground project at the elementary school and gave the Wayne Basketball Development Association (WBDA) approval to raise funds for the project.

Board members also listened to a presentation from Diana Davis, a teacher at school, on a program she and several others are implementing titled "No One Eats Alone." Davis told the board the goal is to help eliminate isolation of students. The plan is to organize students into groups, based on the month of their birthday, to eat lunch with during each of the junior-senior high school lunch periods.

Superintendent Lenihan updated the board on legislative bills in the Nebraska Legislature that are being watched and those that would impact the district. He also commented on early childhood education, stating that 86 percent of school districts in the state of Nebraska provide early childhood education.

Mark Hanson, Wayne High Principal, presented information on the upcoming Job Shadowing Day, set for Feb. 21. Approximately 40 businesses in Wayne have agreed to have students visit their businesses that day. Juniors from Wayne High will have the opportunity to visit a business in the morning and one in the afternoon. They will then be graded on reports from the day's activities.

Included in the report from the Foundation and Community Relations committee was the fact that the annual Alumni Tournaments will be held Friday and Saturday, March 30-31.

The Wayne Community Schools Board of Education will next meet in regular session on Monday, March 12 at 5 p.m. in the junior-senior high school library.

Yoga instructor earns accreditation from Yoga Alliance, promotes practice

"I started practicing yoga in grad school, around 2004, as a way to counter the affects of a desk job. I had always practiced with a video at home, and only once went to a studio class. It was awful, I didn't go back and it took me a long time to practice outside my home again."

These are the words of Charissa Loftis, on her introduction to yoga. She has come a long way since that time, and recently earned RYT500 certification.

"Shortly after I moved to Wayne (2006) I was able to take a class with Charlene Rasmussen that was offered by the Wayne Public Library. I started teaching yoga in 2008, but never really felt comfortable with teaching. In the beginning I found it difficult to establish my own daily practice. Around 2010 I traveled to Kripalu Center for Yoga in Stockbridge, Mass. for about a week and finally found a style of practice that I felt comfortable with. After I returned home, I found a Kripalu trained teacher that was teaching at a studio in Omaha called Omaha Yoga and Bodywork Center (currently named Yoga Now). I traveled to Omaha as often as I could to practice. With more practice and training I became more comfortable teaching and decided it was time to work on my RYT200 teacher training at Yoga Now with Susi Amendola," Loftis said.

She noted that while the state of Nebraska does not require yoga teachers to be certified, it helps. The most widely recognized professional organization yoga teachers is Yoga Alliance. Its mission is to "promote and support the integrity and diversity of the teaching of yoga."

"The more I learn, the more I realize there is so much more to learn and that's why I decided to work on my RYT500 (Yoga Alliance second level of teacher registration). This required an additional 300 hours of training. Through the course of all of this, my meditation and posture practice have become a daily part of my life," she said.

Loftis said there are only 31 people in the state of Nebraska who are registered RYT500 of the 196 registered teachers in the state. There are only three or four outside the Omaha/Lincoln metro area.

Loftis, a reference librarian at Wayne State College, said there are many benefits from yoga, including helping students feel better, physically, mentally and emotionally.

"Yoga can be modified in any way you want to get benefits you want. By practicing yoga, aches and pains fall away gradually and you may not notice until you are not doing it," she said.

Students range in age from infancy to senior citizens.

As to frequency of attending class, Loftis said, "Once a week is good, but you could go every day if you wanted to. I encourage those new to yoga to try a variety of types of classes to find one that fits them. Classes range from relaxing to kinds that would make you sweat."

Ellen Imdieke, who has been a student in Loftis' classes for some time said, "Lower back problems led me to yoga more than 15 years ago. I was surprised how quickly things improved merely by carefully stretching, focusing on under-used muscles, being conscious of proper breathing, and doing various poses to improve strength.

"The interesting part I soon learned was that practicing regular yoga routines made a positive difference in how I felt over all."

"I love yoga. I highly recommend it for any age, male or female. It is not difficult nor competitive. At times you may even wonder if it is doing any good. Well it is. You'll realize that when you miss a weekly class. Another perk is that you can easily practice at home since all you need is a mat.

Wayne is fortunate to have Charissa and the other professional yoga instructors to help meet our health needs."

Loftis currently teaches a class for credit at WSC, group classes at a variety of locations in the community, and works with private clients.

"I prefer to visit with people to see what class would suit them best," she said.

"My training and practice background are therapeutic in nature. I do my best to make my classes accessible to as many people as possible. I also offer a variety of options in my class, so if one thing doesn't work for you, we'll work together to find something similar that does. My classes tend to focus on functional health and keeping bodies and joints feeling good," she said.

For more information about what practice would be best, contact her at yogaforyou1@outlook.com or call (402) 369-0422.

Joe Brogie, a native of Wayne, was cast as the voice of Donatello in the Injustice 2 video game. Brogie has long been working at voice overs but this part was a 'bucket list' opportunity for him.

Wayne native pursues passion in voice overs, lands bucket list part

By Calyn Dunklau
calyn@wayneherald.com

While some of us were simply enjoying cartoons on Saturday mornings during our childhoods, Joe Brogie was studying them.

"Ever since I was a kid I was always listening to things and copying them," Brogie said. "I would say I have a natural ability to mimic voices but I took classes to continue developing characters when I moved to LA."

That move happened only a year and a half ago, but this career has been in the works for Brogie since at least 2010, he said.

"I've been doing voice acting since 2010. It's been a passion of mine like magic is but I didn't have the resources to really get into it."

Prior to his move to Los Angeles, Brogie, a Wayne native, lived in Omaha. His "other job" often took him around the country and even further.

"I kind of have two jobs," he said. "Voice over work is usually during the normal office hours while my shows are almost exclusively nights and weekends."

If you're from the area, you've likely heard about or seen a Joe Brogie magic and mentalist show. If not, you should.

Last week, Brogie was in Omaha for a brief stint before flying back to LA for the week. He'll fly out to Texas this week and have about five hours to sleep between getting back from Texas and doing another event in LA.

"I travel all the time. I feel like I'm gone doing shows every weekend, but I'd rather be busy than twiddling my thumbs."

So when he's not jet setting to blow the minds of innocent audience attendees, he's auditioning for and working on voice over projects.

"I audition almost once a day. When I first moved out to LA, I did auditions every day and drove myself crazy. It was hard in the beginning because there's a lot of talented people here but at the end of the day it's very subject and you have to learn to throw it away after you audition."

Voice over is a difficult niche to break into in LA. Even though you can do it from all over the world with the help of technology, the hot bed really is LA and that makes it hard to get started with so many others interested in those same parts.

According to Brogie, there isn't ever a call to say you didn't get it. You simply turn on the television to see a commercial you auditioned for with someone else's voice. And some times the call to say you did get the part is months later.

Such is the case for what Brogie describes as his 'hands down' favorite part so far.

Donatello of the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles (TMNT).

For those of you not familiar with the four turtles mutated by radioactive ooze who live in a sewer system fighting crime thanks to being trained by their equally mutated rat ninjistu master, these characters come from a set comics and cartoons that once were common place in households across the nation.

Brogie grew up with those turtles so when the opportunity to audition for Donatello's voice in a popular video game came up, he couldn't pass it up.

"They (TMNT) were a comic before the show and did a couple cross overs with Batman in the comics. This is the first cross over outside of the comics."

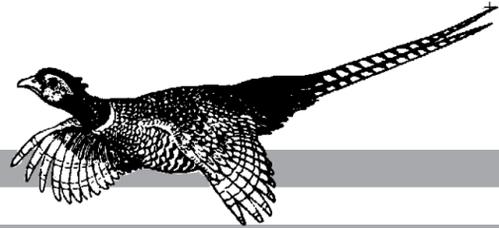

The game, Injustice 2, was actually released in May of 2017, but gamers were told there would be downloadable characters coming in the future that they could access.

Those characters included the TMNT, which become available this month to access.

The family moved to another farm when she was in the second grade. As an eighth grader, they moved to a farm near Randolph. At that time, eighth grade exams were required. Lorene learned she was the valedictorian of all of Wayne County when a reporter from the Wayne Herald visited the farm to interview her. There were about 120 eighth graders in the county in 1935. Lorene attended high school in Sholes and again graduated as valedictorian in a class of seven. After high school, she attended Wayne Teacher's College and earned a three-year teaching certificate after one year. They lived in the new basement for about a year while constructing the new house. Lorene and Alfred built a second house when they decided to move to town in 1977. Lorene remained here until moving to the Plainview Manor in 2016.

Stephanie never missed an opportunity to spend time with her loved ones, and she brought genuine laughter into every life she touched.

She enjoyed traveling and spent time in Europe, performing as a musician and as a vocalist. She also served on a mission trip in India, immediately following her high school graduation. Stephanie took every opportunity to road trip with her brother and sisters across the United States. Her favorite destination she had found in the world was Switzerland, and she had planned to return one day. Stephanie was fiercely independent and took it upon herself to conquer any skill in order to improve her life and those of her students and loved ones. She had recently become politically involved, writing letters and emails and making phone calls to elected officials. Stephanie loved her country and worked to affect positive change not only in the education and arts sectors, but also for the rights of the marginalized individuals. Last year, Stephanie welcomed her nephew, Justin Larson, into her home so he could attend O'Neill High School. She loved him as she would have her own son.

Bucket List

The process included an audition last February and not knowing until months later that he landed the part.

Once he was contacted, Brogie spent a few days in the booth in four hour stretches working on the lines for Donatello. Four hours may not seem like much, but when you have to realistically sound like you're fighting, being hit and yelling, it takes it's toll he said.

In addition to reading lines, Brogie wore a motion-capture (MoCap) camera during his time in the booth. Technology makes graphics more realistic and the MoCap is one way companies achieve that.

"It's a helmet that records your facial expressions so the turtle is doing my facial expressions. It's harder to see on me, being a turtle, but for people who play humans, you can really see it."

This game, Brogie said, is a pioneer in the facial technology and that was a huge bonus for him to be a part of such a project.

"I think the coolest thing for me is that it's a piece of video game history with the turtles mixing in with the DC characters. It's really cool to be a part of that and nerd out a little bit."

It was difficult to keep the secret of who the characters were because so many in the gaming community were eager to find out who these downloadable guests were going to be, but it was worth it.

"It was definitely on my bucket list," he said. "I'm a huge TMNT fan and it was a big deal being such a secret. It was great to be a part of."

WEB's 4th Annual Valentine Son Dance Out of this World

Wayne Elementary Boosters (WEB) hosted a Journey to Outer Space at the 4th annual Valentine Son Dance on Friday, February 2nd at Wayne Elementary School. The results were out of this world with $6,000 raised and 321 tickets sold—the most ever in WEB's four-year dance history. Plus, 90 businesses, parents, and teachers donated auction items, and over 40 parents donated food or time to help.

The evening offered dancing to music by PinMonkey Entertainment, a photo booth by Laura Robinett of LMB Visual Creations, candid photos by Wayne State College student Ellie Thuy Tran, and outer space desserts, including a chocolate fountain and "Eclipse Cookies." Fourth grader Austin Heiser won the raffle for Husker football tickets. The Hoskins Challenge set a record and raised over $250. At the February 25th assembly, over 70 boys will duct tape Mr. Hoskins to the wall and three boys will throw a pie in Mrs. Hoskins' face.

Together with both dances, WEB raised over $11,000—a 12% increase from last year. WEB looks forward to investing these funds back into Wayne Elementary to support its students, staff and families. WEB also thanks the community for its generous support of these priceless experiences.

Upcoming WEB events this spring include Runza Night March 20, Staff Appreciation Week April 30-May 4, Bike to School Day May 11, and the Book Giveaway May 17. For more info, like WEB on Facebook or visit www.wayneweb.org.

Hoskins graduates from basic training

Realtors conduct 'Lunch and Learn'

The REALTORS® at 1st Realty Sales & Management recently held the first in a series of "Lunch and Learn" Seminars aimed at providing home buyers and sellers more information about home ownership and the buying and selling process.

The first seminar entitled "Real Estate 101: Buying a Home" was held on Feb. 7 at the 1st Realty office. This seminar focused specifically on preparing home buyers for home ownership by introducing them to a number of loan products, helping them calculate mortgage costs, and giving them insight into the true cost of a home. The agents also provided a variety of tips to make the home buying process go smoothly for those in attendance.

"We have received a lot of good feedback from those in attendance. The home buying process can be extremely overwhelming, and this seminar was designed to help buyers at all experience levels. Even if you have purchased a number of homes, it is helpful to stay informed about local trends and statistics to give you an edge in a competitive market," said Trisha Peters, Associate Broker with 1st Realty.

Peters, along with Sales Associate Marie Janke, prepared and presented the material for the course based on their own personal experiences and education. According to Janke, "Being able to share our expertise with our clients and customers is vital to both their success and ours. We want our community members to know that we have the resources to help you purchase your next home with ease."

The next Lunch and Learn Seminar is scheduled for Wednesday, March 7 at noon. Next month's topic will be "Selling a Home in Today's Market." Lunch will be served.

The contest is an opportunity for youth age kindergarten to 25 to receive funding up to $1,000 for a project that will make a positive difference in the lives of people in northeast Nebraska.

The Winside YLC asked for funding to provide pool passes, pool bags, towels, and sunscreen to mothers and children seeking shelter through Wayne's Haven House. While the project was not a contest winner, private donors fully funded their project, entitled 'Fun in the Sun for Lil' Ones'.

Allen girls, Winside boys win area matchups

The Allen girls and Winside boys came away with wins in an area showdown between the two schools Tuesday at Allen High School.

The girls game was a low-scoring affair, with the Lady Eagles holding off a fourth-quarter comeback by Winside for a 21-16 win.

Winside led in the first half, but Allen went on a 9-2 run to close the half and take an 11-6 halftime advantage.

Allen led by as many as 10 in the fourth quarter before the Wildcats came back to make a game of it. Alyssa Brogren hit a 3-pointer to draw the Winside girls within striking distance, but they were unable to complete the comeback as the Lady Eagles held on for the win.

Bri Hingst led the Allen attack with eight points, Bethany Kneif added six, Haley Stapleton had four and Carly Dickens put in three. Hingst had eight rebounds and four steals, Kneif had five rebounds, Ally Twohig had four rebounds and four steals, and Stapleton added three boards and three steals.

For Winside, Jackie Escalante led the way with six points, Andi Bargstadt added five, Brogren had three and Kati Topp scored two.

Brandon Watters led three Wildcats in double figures with 16 points, with Dylan Brogren adding 14 and JaShaun Vyborny putting in 11. Colton Jensen had five, Billy Chappell and William Bullard each had two and Caleb Kampa put in a free throw.

Juan Vergara was one of two district champions for the Wayne High wrestlers, earning the title with a 10-4 decision in the 132-pound finals.

Two champions lead five state qualifiers for Wayne wrestlers

FORT CALHOUN — The Wayne High wrestlers put a solid team effort together and came away with a fourth-place finish and five state qualifiers during the B-3 district tournament.

The Blue Devils edged Norris by two points for their best team finish in recent memory, and coach Dave Wragge was proud of the team effort that was put together.

"Everybody wrestled to get us a fourth-place finish in a competitive district," he said. "I think we wrestled up to our competition and every point really helped us out."

The Blue Devils earned a pair of district championships in Saturday's final round, as Juan Vergara and Mike Leatherdale both found themselves at the top of the medal stand.

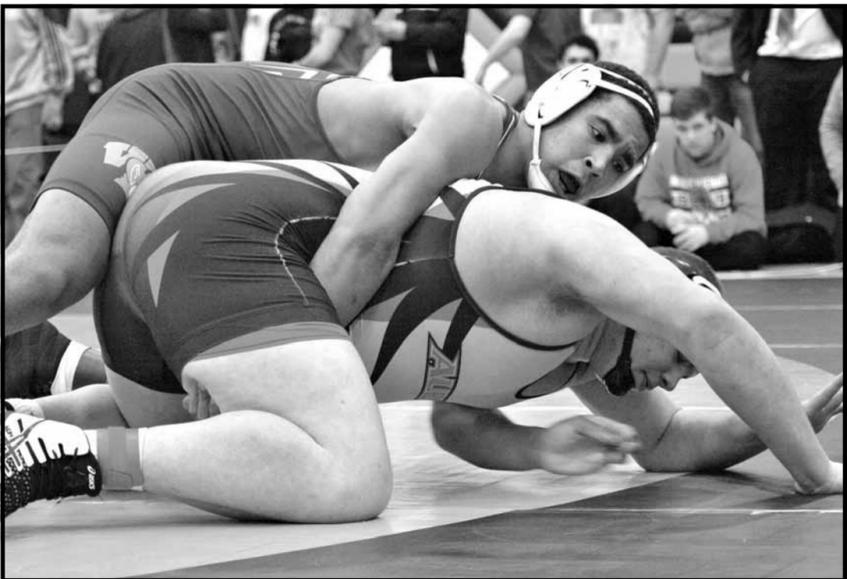

Vergara earned his second trip to state, as the junior dominated Austin Barnts of Fairbury in a 10-4 decision to take the 132-pound title.

"Juan is just wrestling lights out right now," Wragge said. "This was probably the best I've seen him wrestle in his career here. The confidence he takes into every match, he's just one of those cool and calm wrestlers and never panics if he gets taken down. I think, with the draw he has, he has the potential to get on the (medal) podium."

Vergara takes his 36-5 record into the first round against Alliance freshman Asa Johnson, who is 30-14.

Leatherdale capped a fantastic weekend with a come-from-behind win in the finals at 285 pounds, finishing off a three-pin weekend with a third-period fall over Robert Liles of Auburn.

The Blue Devil freshman got thrown for five points early in the match and was trailing 8-1 going to the third period, but Wragge said he stuck to the game plan to wear the bigger opponent out and was able to slip a half-nelson in for the winning pin.

Freshman Mike Leatherdale pinned his way to the 285-pound championship for Wayne, ending the day with a third-period fall over Robert Liles of Auburn.

"That kid was like 6-foot-5 and 286 pounds and Mike weighs 210, and we told him the game plan was to wear him out and get him in the third," Wragge said. "He stayed aggressive and rode him the entire second period, then we chose to start the third and he stayed on him and the kid threw an elbow up high enough that Mike could get a half in and got it done."

The Blue Devil freshman takes a 24-9 record into his first-round matchup against Cody

Thompson, a 24-12 junior from Columbus Lakeview.

Cameron Muhs was a district runner-up at 126 pounds, losing a 13-3 major decision to top-ranked Walker Moore of Blair.

While Muhs (37-9) was denied an opportunity to win his 100th career match, he'll get a chance in Thursday's opening round against Platts-mouth junior Chance Taylor, who is 19-11.

Wildcat women run win streak to eight games over weekend

The Wayne State women's basketball team continued its winning ways with a pair of wins in their final regular-season home games of the season.

On Saturday, Wayne State needed a 23-12 scoring surge in the fourth quarter to finish off a pesky Sioux Falls team in a 64-51 win, running their winning streak to eight games.

The Wildcats (22-6, 16-4 NSIC) took an early 13-6 lead in the contest and led 17-12 after one quarter and Wayne State maintained that advantage as they led 29-24 at intermission.

Sioux Falls had a hot start to the third quarter and took a 33-32 lead on Augusta Thramer's jumper with 4:40 to play in the third quarter, but Wayne State took the lead for good at 39-38 on a Brittany Bongartz jumper as the Wildcats finished the quarter with a 41-39 lead.

The Wildcats made six of seven shots to open the fourth quarter to establish separation from the Cougars. Fueling the run were 3-pointers from Maggie Schulte and Evelyn Knox to give Wayne State their first double-digit lead of the night at 56-45 with 5:43 to play, and they continued that advantage on their way to the 13-point win.

Senior center Paige Ballinger led the Wildcats with 19 points and nine rebounds followed by Bongartz with 12 points. Ballinger and Schulte each grabbed nine rebounds for the Wildcats.

On Friday, Ballinger recorded a double-double and Wayne State outscored Southwest Minnesota State 46-27 in the second half to pull away for a 78-55 win.

The first quarter was tightly contested with four ties and five lead changes, resulting in a 15-15 tie, but Wayne State scored the first five points of the second quarter to take the lead for good at 20-15 and taking a 32-28 lead at the half.

The Wildcats opened the third quarter with an 11-2 run, taking their first double digit lead of the game at 43-30. Southwest got as close as seven at 46-39 with 1:52 to go in the third quarter, but the Wildcats scored the final six points of the third quarter for a 52-39 advantage.

The Wildcats made 4 of 7 3-pointers and 8 of 12 free throws in the fourth stanza, outscoring SMSU 26-16, to finish with the 23-point win.

Ballinger led Wayne State with 19 points and 11 rebounds for her second double-double of the season. She was 5-of-10 from the field and 9-for-11 at the charity stripe. Kacie O'Connor also reached double figures with 11.

Ballinger had four of Wayne State's 14 assists and also had three blocked shots.

Wayne State will close out the regular season on the road this weekend, visiting Upper Iowa Friday at 6 and 8 p.m. and Winona State Saturday at 4 and 6 p.m. They are projected to host a first-round game in the Northern Sun Conference tournament on Wednesday.

Bears, Trojans to be represented at state wrestling

Cesar Sandoval earned runner-up honors at 120 pounds in the C-3 district tournament to lead three Wakefield/Allen wrestlers into the state wrestling tournament.

NORTH BEND — Wakefield/Allen and Laurel-Concord-Coleridge will both be represented among the Class C field at this week's Nebraska State Wrestling Championships. Both teams were able to get wrestlers through a tough C-3 district tournament in North Bend, with the Trojans earning three spots and the Bears bringing home a pair of qualifiers. Returning state qualifier Isaac Verzani led the three Trojans to the state tournament, finishing the day with a third-place finish in the 145-pound weight class. "Isaac is returning and it's good to get him down there," coach Eric Burenheide said. "We've got two juniors and a senior going, and I think all three have a good chance of fighting for a medal. Hopefully we can wrestle our best of the year down there." Junior Cesar Sandoval was a district runner-up in the 120-pound weight class, dropping a 4-1 decision to Brandon Schram of Tekamah-Herman. Senior Julio Sanchez was the consolation champion at 220 pounds, earning a 5-2 decision over Landon Beaver of Wisner-Pilger. Coach Don Maxwell was happy to get Ethan Williams and Zach Dietrich down to state after both suffered devastating heartbreak-round losses at districts last year. "They both got beat in the heart-break round last year, but Ethan wrestled out of his mind the last couple of days and Zach did a great job coming back and got a break with an injury default to the consolation final," he said. "They worked very hard to get here and deserve the trip to state." Williams was the district runner-up at 220 pounds, ending the day with a 9-3 loss to Diego Gurrer of Wood River. Dietrich slipped into the top four at 285 pounds after getting a win by injury default in the heartbreak round, and he finished with a third-period loss by pin to Alex Miller. Class C action will start Thursday at 9:30 a.m. at the Century Link Center in Omaha with first-round and quarterfinal matchups. For Wakefield/Allen, Sandoval goes in at 32-6 and will face Centennial sophomore Gaven Schernikau, who is 34-17. Verzani, at 34-6, meets 39-9 junior Cole Ulmer of Broken Bow. Sanchez, a 35-9 senior, battles Anthony Buresh, a 28-15 senior from Aquinas, in the opening round. The Bears' Williams carries a 32-11 record into an opening-round match against Johnson County Central junior Josh Bailey, who is 22-3. Junior high hoops teams finish season

The Wayne Junior High boys basketball teams completed their seasons Saturday with the Wayne Tournament at Wayne High School.

The Wayne seventh graders won their bracket, beating LCC (49-27) and Hartington Cedar Catholic (32-31).

In the first game, Wayne's full court pressure caused LCC troubles and Wayne rushed out to a 31-11 halftime lead. Wayne's deep bench extended the lead to 45-20 at the end of the third quarter.

Wayne was lead in scoring by Alex Phelps (11). Other scorers were Andrew Jones (7), Brooks Kneiff, Bradyn McCorkindale and Daniel Judd (6 each), Trace Jackson (4), Sedjro Agoumba (3), and Carter Junck, Drew Fertig and Lepiro Kantai (2 each).

In the championship game, the two teams shared scoring runs throughout the game. Wayne's full-court pressure caused turnovers and kept the Blue Devils ahead throughout the game.

Leading the Blue Devils was a hot-shooting Brooks Kneiff with 15. Other scorers were Daniel Judd (7), Alex Phelps and Sedjro Agoumba (3 each), and Trace Jackson (2).

Wayne's seventh-graders ended the season 8-3.

The Wayne eighth-grade boys ran into two more tall and athletic teams during the season-ending tournament, losing to LCC 37-33 and Hartington CC 47-41.

Against LCC, the junior Blue Devils almost erased a 10-point fourth-quarter deficit. Tanner Walling and Brandon Bartos again led the scoring with 13 and 10 points, respectively, with Toby Braun adding five, Jacob Anderson, four and Brendan Swanson, one.

In the consolatio game, Walling and Bartos again led the scorers with 21 and 11 each, with James Dorcye scoring seven on a nice game. Brendan Swanson added two, and was noted along with Anderson and Braun for a nice floor game.

The eighth-grade team finished with a 6-5 record. In other action, the seventh-graders lost at Norfolk Catholic Thursday, 33-21. Scorers for Wayne were Alex Phelps (8), Brooks Kneiff (5), Sedjro Agoumba and Daniel Judd (4 each).

The eighth-grade "A" team lost to Norfolk Catholic 45-20. The locals did some nice things and played hard, but the length of the home team made good shots hard to find.

Max Miller led the young Blue Devils with seven points, Tanner Walling had five, Jacob Anderson notched four, and Brendan Swanson and Yair Alcantara ended the scoring with two each.

In the "B" game, Wayne won 11-5. Camron Weaselhead with six and Yair Alcantara added five points to lead the 'B' team, which finished undefeated at 5-0 on the season.

The Osmond girls sprinted to a 10-point lead after one period and came away with a 57-28 win over the Winside girls.

In boys action, Osmond won a tough battle over the Wildcats, claiming a 52-40 win.

Cornelius hits 1,000-point mark to highlight weekend split

Jordan Cornelius became the 33rd player in Wayne State history to notch 1,000 career points as the Wildcats split their final two home games of the regular season. Cornelius scored a game-high 16 points and reached the 1,000-point mark on Senior Night Saturday, leading the Wildcats to a 78-64 win over Sioux Falls at Rice Auditorium. With the exception of the opening basket of the game by Sioux Falls, Wayne State never trailed in the contest. Five different Wildcats scored early as Wayne State (14-14, 9-11 NSIC) took an early 18-7 lead just 6:30 into the game. Wayne State made 10 of their first 13 shots on the night, but could not shake the Cougars as USF was within three at 22-19 with 8:12 to go in the half. Leading 27-23, the Wildcats scored seven straight to take a 34-23 lead following a Vance Janssen jumper with 3:16 to go before halftime and finished the first half making 17-of-27 shots from the field to take a 39-29 halftime lead. Wayne State never gave the Cougars a chance to come back in the second half as the Wildcats pushed the lead to 20 at the 12:38 mark (53-33). Cornelius became the 33rd player in school history to score 1,000 points when he drained a 3-pointer from the right wing at the 16:47 mark to put the Wildcats in front 48-31. Sioux Falls did close the gap to nine points with 2:44 to play at 71-62, but two Austin Esters free throws and a 3-pointer from JJ Zumbrennen pushed the lead back to 14 and Wayne State went on to the 14-point victory. Cornelius led four Wildcat players in double figures with his 16 points, going 5-of-6 from the field (3-of-4 from the 3-point line) and 3-of-4 at the charity stripe, on his milestone scoring night. Trevin Joseph (13), Austin Esters (11) and Kendall Jacks (10) also hit double digits for the Wildcats. Esters and Brian Goodwin grabbed five boards each for the Wildcats. Janssen handed out five of Wayne State's 12 assists and had two steals. On Friday, Southwest Minnesota State built an early 16-4 lead and Wayne State could never recover as the Mustangs cruised past the Wild-

Wayne State rebounded and got as close as 18-12 on a jumper from Esters at the 11:51 mark of the first half. The Wildcats were still within six at 25-19 following a Janssen trey at the 5:17 mark. Southwest then scored the next eight points for a 33-19 lead before finishing the first half with a 36-26 lead at intermission. Southwest Minnesota State maintained a double-digit lead the entire second half while holding Wayne State to its second-worst shooting night of the season (38.6 percent) as the Mustangs posted the easy victory. Junior guard Trevin Joseph had 15 points for the Wildcats followed by Jacks with 13 and Cornelius with 10. Jacks led the team with nine rebounds and four assists, while Janssen had two steals. Wayne State will close out the regular season on the road next weekend visiting Upper Iowa Friday at 6 and 8 p.m. and Winona State Saturday at 4 and 6 p.m. They will be on the road for the opening round of the Northern Sun Conference tournament next Wednesday.

Wakefield girls' season ends at subdistrict

The Wakefield girls basketball team saw their season come to an end Monday in subdistrict play as they dropped a 55-24 decision to Homer in West Point. The Trojans got off to a good start and led 6-4 after one period, but Homer turned the game around in the second quarter and took a 22-15 halftime advantage, continuing that momentum into the second half to claim the win. Coach Chad Metzler said the team was disappointed to see its season end Monday, but the team saw improvement over the course of the season. "Obviously we didn't want the season to end this way, but we were pleased with the strides that the girls made, as well as how they handled the adversity that was thrown at them this season," he said. "We're proud of this group of seniors and are anxious for off-season workouts to start this summer." Andrea Lopez scored six points and Jamie Dolph and Cassidy Brudigam each had five for the Trojans. Vianney Marquez put in four and Abby Heimann and Rachel Brudigam both had two points. In their final regular-season game last Tuesday, Wakefield dropped a 74-39 decision at home to Winnebago. Wayne hangs on for 40-37 home win Friday

The Wayne High boys had to wait for the final gun before claiming a 40-37 win over the Eagles in action Friday at Wayne High School. The game was a tight battle from start to finish as neither team led by more than six points in a tough defensive battle. Wayne got out to an early 8-2 advantage on baskets by Ryan Jaixen and Jack Evetovich, but the Eagles came back to forge a 10-10 tie after the opening period. Arlington's momentum led them to a five-point lead midway through the period, but Wayne came back to take a 16-15 halftime lead on a Marcus Fertig layup late in the period. There were five lead changes in the third period, with Fertig forging a 27-27 tie with a late basket to end the third period. Wayne scored the first six points of the fourth quarter to take the lead for good, thanks to baskets by Cody Rogers and Mason Lee and two Eve-tovich free throws. Arlington would not go away, though getting to within one point before the Blue Devils broke the pressure with a full-court pass from Evetovich to Lee for the final points of the game. Arlington had two chances at a game-tying 3-pointer in the final five seconds, but both shots went begging as Wayne improved to 13-10 with the win. Lee led a balanced attack with 13 points and Evetovich added 10. Also scoring were Fertig and Jaixen with six apiece, Shea Sweetland had three and Rogers had two. Cameron Muhs was a district runner-up for the Blue Devils, taking second in the 126-pound weight class.

 "Cam qualified as a freshman two years ago and wrestled amazing against the number one kid in the state," Wragge said. "He's tough and hungry to get that 100th win and state is a good place to get that done, so hopefully he can do that."

Senior Hunter Jorgensen finished third at 220 pounds, ending with a first-period pin over John Kerwood of Fairbury. Classmate Berto Vergara also earned his second straight trip to state, posting a fourth-place finish at 160 pounds.

"Hunter had byes to the semifinals and it's tough sometimes not getting to wrestle on that first day, but in the long run he got it done," Wragge said. "Berto had a tough bracket to come through and beat a kid in the heartbreak round who beat him earlier in the year, so he was able to get in out of a tough weight class."

Jorgensen takes his 23-8 record into the first round against fifth-ranked Cooper Kiser of Northwest, a 33-8 junior. Vergara puts his 34-10 record on the line against top-ranked O'Neill senior Cauy Shaw, who is 34-7.

Wayne had four wrestlers come up one win shy of a state appearance, as Reece Jaqua (120), Victor Kniesche (138), Casey Koenig (170) and Daniel Maxson (195) all lost in the consolation semifinals.

"You always want to take more and those heartbreak matches can go either way, but those kids wrestled well for us and helped us out as a team, and hopefully we can get them to state next year," Wragge said.

As far as Wayne's five qualifiers go, the Blue Devil mentor is excited about the team's chances to bring home its first medal since Jorge Dunklau finished fifth at heavy-weight in 2011.

"I really like Juan's shot at state, and Hunter has no rated kids in his quarter of the bracket, so we can be in the running there and his record doesn't show the body of work he's put in," Wragge said. "I think Cameron is hungry to get that 100th and do well there, Berto is on a host streak and Mike is going to surprise some people down there. I like the guys we're taking down, and I think they're going to represent the team, Wayne High School and the town well."

Class B action starts at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday at the Century Link Center in Omaha.

Fast start helps Wisner-Pilger beat LCC boys

Wisner-Pilger jumped out to a big lead early and took advantage of a cold shooting effort to hand Laurel-Concord-Coleridge a 68-30 loss in boys basketball action Thursday at Wisner.

The Bears' usually-dependable long-range shooting didn't help out in the loss, as the Bears shot 1-of-22 from 3-point range. The Gators raced to a 22-4 lead after one period and cruised to the easy win.

Noah Schutte led LCC with 10 points and Izac Reifenrath added eight. Cael Hartung put in four points, while Coby Heitman, Austin Kempf, Ty Erwin and Karsen Klooz each had two points.

Blue Devils pull away with 66-52 home win

The Wayne High girls pulled away late for a 66-52 win over Arlington Friday to cap regular-season action.

The Blue Devils rode the scoring of guards Kylie Hammer and Frankie Klausen to the win, as they scored 27 and 22 points, respectively, to lead the way.

Wayne trailed 16-5 in the opening period before closing with a 7-0 run, highlighted by a Klausen 3-pointer and a basket and two free throws by Hammer to make it 16-12 after one period.

Arlington built its lead back to eight points early in the second, but Wayne ended the half with a 9-0 run, highlighted by another Klausen triple, to give Wayne a 26-24 halftime lead that they would not relinquish.

Wayne led by as many as 12 points after a Jenna Trenhaile basket late in the third period, but Arlington fought back to get within three midway through the fourth quarter. Klausen made another 3-pointer to get Wayne's lead back up to double digits and they were able to maintain the advantage to improve to 16-8 on the season.

Klausen hit four 3-pointers in the game and scored 22 points, finishing behind Hammer, who scored 27 in her final home game in a Blue Devil uniform. Gabi Meyer added seven points, Trenhaile had four and Jamie Gamble and Ashton Boyer each had three.

The Blue Devils played Norfolk Catholic in the first round of sub-district action Tuesday in Norfolk. Highlights of sub-district play will be in next week's edition of The Wayne Herald.

Governor announces schedule for 30th Governor's Ag Conference

Governor Pete Ricketts has announced the agenda for the 30th annual Governor's Ag Conference, an important event for farmers, ranchers, ag leaders, and agri-business managers in Nebraska.

The conference is scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, March 7-8 at the Holiday Inn and Convention Center in Kearney.

"Each year, the Governor's Ag Conference brings together Nebraska's farmers and ranchers to share best practices and create networks that help grow our state's number one industry," said Governor Ricketts. "It's a unique opportunity for our ag producers to discuss the ag industry and provide direct input to the state in our work to support future growth in agriculture. We look forward to hosting Nebraska's ag community for the 30th anniversary of the conference and urge interested farm and ranch families to consider joining us to celebrate this special occasion."

The conference will feature discussions on issues currently impacting the agricultural industry, including: international trade, ag diversification in rural Nebraska, and Nebraska ag leaders undertaking national leadership roles.

"We've worked hard to make sure that this year's Governor's Ag Conference speakers are personally connected with Nebraska agriculture and are well-respected members of the state's ag community," said Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA) Director Steve Wellman. "These speakers understand the importance of Nebraska agriculture and the role it plays in the economic well-being of the state."

The conference starts Wednesday, March 7 at 3:30 p.m. with remarks from Governor Ricketts and NDA Director Wellman.

Following those remarks will be a panel discussion featuring Nebraska producers serving in national leadership roles. Panelists include:

- Don Bloss, Chair, National Sorghum Producers;
- Lynn Chrisp, First Vice President, National Corn Growers Association;
- Jim Miller, Chairman, U.S. Soybean Export Council;
- Terry O'Neill, President, National Pork Board

• Craig Uden, Past President, National Cattlemen's Beef Association.

The annual "Celebrate Nebraska Agriculture" reception, sponsored by Farm Credit Services of America, begins at 6 p.m. on March 7 and features an assortment of food and beverages from Nebraska.

The conference resumes on Thursday, March 8 at 9 a.m. with a panel presentation on international trade and the benefits gained from companies participating in Nebraska trade missions. Panelists include:

- Jerry Wiggs, Greater Omaha Packing Company, Inc. and
- Chris Roth, Reinke Manufacturing Company, Inc.

At 10 a.m., a panel representing ag companies that have built businesses and created jobs for small Nebraska communities will discuss the importance of ag diversification in rural Nebraska.

Panelists include:
• Norm Krug, owner/founder, Preferred Popcorn.
• Troy Becker, co-owner, Unified Pet Products.

The last panel presentation of the day will discuss the growth of the food processing industry in Nebraska, featuring speakers from Costco, Hendrix, and Kelley Bean.

Lunch will be served at noon and will include keynote speaker Greg Ibach, Under Secretary of Agriculture for Marketing and Regulatory Programs of the USDA. Ibach will update conference participants on agricultural activities at the federal level.

"The Governor's Ag Conference gives producers an opportunity to network with colleagues, share information and prepare for the future," said NDA Director Wellman. "We've lined up quality speakers, and I appreciate their willingness to share their knowledge and experience with our conference participants. I strongly encourage anyone with an interest in agriculture to attend."

A $100 registration fee covers participation at activities on both Wednesday and Thursday. Registration and additional information is available online at www.nda.nebraska.gov, or by calling NDA toll-free at (800) 831-0550.

Dixon County Democrats host voter registration event for Latino citizens

As part of its Voter Registration Initiative, the Dixon County Democrats will host Get Ready to Vote, a voter registration opportunity for eligible Hispanic/Latino voters in northeast Nebraska. Get Ready to Vote will be held from 1:00 - 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 17, 2018, at the American Legion Hall in Wakefield. It is open to the public, and refreshments will be provided. Parents may bring their children.

"We planned this event to encourage voter participation of eligible Hispanic and Latino residents. According to the Census Bureau, 36% of Hispanics in Nebraska are U.S. citizens ages 18 and older, thus eligible to vote. In Dixon County, the Bureau estimates that 10% of the 2016 population aged 20 years old and older is Hispanic." Connie Hassler, communications coordinator, Dixon County Democrats.

The event will include a presentation in English and Spanish about how to register to vote and what to expect on election days. Attendees will receive informational packets of voter registration and early voting/vote by mail applications, voters' rights, and an "Elected Officials and Voters' Guide 2018 - Dixon County" brochure. All materials will be available in both English and Spanish. A copy machine will be on site for copying valid photo IDs or proof of current address for first-time registrants. Sealed voter registration applications will be hand-delivered to the Dixon County Elections Commissioner. Addresses for mailing to Elections Commissioners from other counties will be provided to non-Dixon County residents.

Dicamba training available on guidelines for 2108

One of the biggest changes in crop production in the 2017 growing season was the release of dicamba tolerant (DT) soybeans. This technology was great in that it gave farmers a new tool to use in the control of some herbicide resistant and otherwise difficult to control broadleaf weeds. The not-so-great results of this technology was it contributed to a problem with dicamba drifting off-site at the time of application or volatilizing and moving off-site after it had been applied.

I want to be sure that I emphasize that this contributed to the problem and was not the lone cause of the problem! Dicamba-based products have been used for years to control broadleaf weeds in corn fields, pastures and CRP. Some of the injury seen in fields planted to non-DT soybean varieties could be traced to dicamba applications made in these other adjacent to or nearby areas rather than applications in fields where DT soybeans were planted.

Regardless of the cause, more stringent guidelines are in place in 2018 for the use of the three herbicides (Engenia, ExtendiMax, and FeXapan) that have been labeled for use in DT soybean fields. Application of any other dicamba-based herbicide in DT soybean fields is NOT labeled and is illegal. These three products have been formulated to reduce (but not eliminate) the potential of the herbicide moving off-site.

John Wilson
Extension
Educator

Because of the problems experienced during the 2017 growing season, the EPA registered the three products listed above for one year, 2018, at which time they will decide if these products will be labeled in 2019 and beyond and if there will be any other changes beyond those that are required to apply these products in 2018.

So if you want to apply one of these products... Engenia, ExtendiMax, or FeXapan... you first need to have your private pesticide applicator license, just like you would need to purchase, load, mix, or apply any restricted use pesticide (RUP). BUT you also need to attend an additional training that will cover the new requirements associated with the application of any of these three products.

I'm not going to go into what all of the new requirements are, I don't have room and that's what the training sessions are designed to cover. All I will say is applicators will have to keep many more records than they had to when they applied other RUPs in the past.

So you may be asking yourself, how do I get this dicamba training? There are several alternatives for getting this training and I'm sure some of you have done so already. However, for those that haven't, you have three options:

1 - Attend an approved training provided by a commercial company manufacturing and/or marketing these products.

2 - Attend an approved training provided by Nebraska Extension.

3 - Take the UNL Pesticide Safety Education Program Approved Online Dicamba Training.

To help you with the training if you need it, I will provide the dicamba training sessions listed below:

Wednesday, Feb. 21: 10 a.m. — Concord, Haskell Agricultural Lab; 2 p.m. — Dakota City, USDA Service Center.

Thursday, Feb. 22: 10 a.m. — Pender, Pender Fire Hall; 2 p.m. — Tekamah, First Northeast Bank of Nebraska.

These sessions will meet the dicamba training required for private applicators and commercial applicators as well as for those mixing and or loading these products in a commercial operation.

If you want to know what other options are available, go to the Nebraska Department of Agriculture website (<http://www.nda.nebraska.gov>). Under the major heading "Featured Programs" about half way down their homepage, there is a link that says "Dicamba Information." Click on that link and it will take you to the NDA's dicamba website which has many links including: training opportunities, sample labels of the three products labeled for use in DT soybeans, record keeping requirements, sample record keeping forms, and a list of the Nebraska applicators who have completed the dicamba training.

A couple of other things you should understand:

• There is a 60-day exemption for private applicators of other RUPs where an uncertified applicator can apply an RUP under the supervision of a certified applicator. This exemption does NOT apply to anyone applying one of these dicamba-based products. You MUST have your Private Applicator Training AND the Dicamba Training before you apply one of these three products... NO EXCEPTIONS!

• The dicamba training requirements do NOT apply to anyone applying other formulations of dicamba (Banvel, Clarity, Diflexx, etc.) to corn, sorghum, small grains, pasture, CRP or other sites where these products are labeled. These other dicamba-based products are NOT labeled on and it is ILLEGAL to apply them to DT soybeans.

• I will try to answer any questions regarding dicamba training and or application requirements where the answer is very clear.

However, the Nebraska Department of Agriculture is the final authority on any issues related to dicamba applications and use in DT soybeans. So if you have a question that might require an interpretation of the current rules and regulations, it is Nebraska Extension's policy to refer you to the Nebraska Department of Agriculture rather than interpreting the rules or getting the answer and relaying it back to you.

For more information on dicamba training, please contact your local Nebraska Extension office.

HOPE YOUR COMBINE IS HUNGRY.

Analyzing information from the internet

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

You can find all kinds of information on the Net, and I'm beginning to think that most of it is suspect. But some of the numbers that are tossed around are mind boggling.

For instance, one Christian site says that one pornography hub had over a billion hours viewing time in 2016, and that was just one site! The writer then asked if it's any surprise there are so many perverts? It's sad, and depressing.

But this past week, I had a video full of positive news. Not necessarily in that subject, but regarding things we have been concerned about and have read many negative stories about. For instance, on the endangered species list, both the Giant Panda and the Manatee are off. We saw the manatee when in Florida, and have contributed a little bit to their sanctuaries, so that feels really good.

Also, the tiger population has increased for the first time in 100 years. And there are plans to rid the oceans of 40% of the plastic stuff that gets thrown in it. How about the fact that there are 50% fewer homeless vets than there were ten years ago?

I love this one because Jon took part in it; the ice bucket challenge money was used to isolate a gene that is indicated in ALS. That challenge raised millions.

In Malawi, children who are positive for HIV are down by 67%. There are forty new protected marine parks in twenty countries. 50% of the water used in Israel is from the sea, and is used to irrigate the desert into farms. Canada has discovered an Ebola vaccine that is 100% effective. China has ended the ivory trade.

In India, fifty million trees were planted in 24 hours by thousands of volunteers! And here's a good one; world hunger is the lowest it has been in 25 years. We should be reading this stuff in giant headlines!

And, finally, my own observations have delighted to see James Meiergard of West Point make a half court backward basket that eventually was shown on America Strong; followed by a visit from a Harlem Globetrotter when James did it again! James has Down Syndromes, as does the new Gerber baby!! I call that great news!!!

Now, beginning last Friday, we are glued to the Olympics; the slopestyle skateboarders need their heads examined!! Go, USA!!

Secretary Perdue applauds Trump agenda on infrastructure, benefits to rural America

Washington, D.C. — U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Sonny Perdue today praised the infrastructure agenda laid out by President Donald J. Trump, specifically its emphasis on investment in rural America. The plan calls for 25 percent of new federal funds to be dedicated to rural infrastructure needs, as prioritized by state and local leaders.

Perdue issued the following statement:

"President Trump has made it a priority to rebuild our infrastructure since the day he took office and he has followed through on that commitment. No area of the country needs investment in infrastructure more than rural America. With a quarter of the new federal money heading to rural parts of the country, states will have the ability to expand broadband access, increase connectivity, rebuild roads, and supply affordable utilities. Importantly, states will have the flexibility to choose which projects will best meet their unique needs.

"Our Task Force on Agriculture and Rural Prosperity, which President Trump created on my first day as secretary of agriculture, identified infrastructure — and specifically access to high-speed Internet — as a key area where rural America must improve. In my travels across the country, I have heard from the people in the Heartland, and the overwhelming view is that this is just the type of investment they are looking for to help create jobs, improve education, improve the quality of life, and increase overall prosperity. Once again, by his words and deeds, President Trump is proving that he has rural America close to his heart."

What does quality mean to you?

Dixon County

Sarah (Paulos) Roberts

Extension Educator

UNL Extension

What do you look for in childcare for your children?

This often is a cause for concern for parents as they look for somewhere or someone to trust in caring for their child. It can be especially difficult in rural areas of the country where childcare providers are few and far between and the ones that are there are typically full.

So what does quality mean to you? Does it mean ample time outdoors, or sitting in front of a television for a large part of the day? Does it mean interacting with other children close to your child's age or a room or house full of varying ages?

Although quality may look different for each parent and/or family, there are some common characteristics you as a parent or guardian should be looking for when you choose a childcare setting.

Look for a soothing environment. Babies (and children) can get overwhelmed if there is too much going in a room. There should be separate areas for sleeping, eating, diapering, and playing. Infants and toddlers should have the opportunity to explore their environment safely in order to strengthen muscles and experience new challenges. All ages of children should have access to child-size furniture and materials. A variety of books and toys should be readily available. Books should reflect the interests and culture of children. Children should have limited screen time and more hands-on, minds-on activities that promote learning, exploration and discovery.

All programs should be using developmentally appropriate practices with the children in their care. This means that activities are based on children's abilities, interests and level of development. Family and culture should be valued and celebrated. As a parent, you should be able to openly communicate with your childcare provider about concerns, problems, suggestions and accomplishments regarding your child.

Check out www.child.unl.edu, www.naeyc.org or www.zerotothree.org for more resources in choosing quality childcare for your children. Be an advocate for quality childcare in your area and don't settle for low quality. With your help, we can increase the frequency and quality of childcare in the state of Nebraska.

American Heart Month

Patients need to look no further than Providence Medical Center for their cardiac health needs

Cardiac patients need to look no further than their own backyard when searching for the perfect place to see a cardiologist, have a calcium scoring test done or be rehabilitated following a cardiac surgery.

The lengthy list of cardiac services available through Providence Medical Center means more care is available close to home, which is often a deciding factor when choosing a doctor and facility.

Some of the options for cardiac care at PMC include the cardiologists themselves. With both the Cardiac Institute out of Norfolk and Mercy out of Sioux City visiting PMC each month, patients are able to receive pre-op cardiac clearances in Wayne, avoiding the extended travel time.

According to Joan West, Director of Outpatient Speciality Services Department at PMC, in a pre-op cardiac clearance, patients are tested to see whether surgery at that time is an option given the results of the testing.

"We offer pre-op clearances, so for instance if someone has questionable heart problems, they can come to the cardiologist here to be evaluated and get cardiac clearance before surgery. We can do a stress test or a stress-echo or we can do nuclear studies. Most surgeries such as joint replacements require a pre-op cardiac clearance."

The cardiologists can also perform pacemaker checks at Providence.

"They bring over specialized equipment to check the pacers," West said. "That equipment allows them to check the functionality of the pacers to ensure they're working properly."

In addition to the pre-op clearances and pacemaker checks, PMC can also fit patients with a Holter monitor. Using electrodes attached to the chest, a Holter monitor records a patient's cardiac rhythm.

"We can do two different kinds of Holter monitors," West said. "One is a short term, either 24 or 48 hours, or we can do event monitors that can be four to six weeks long. In the case of the long term monitors, patients push a button when they're experiencing symptoms like shortness of breath, light-headedness or chest pains and the monitor will start to record. If it's a 24-48 [hour monitor] they're constantly recorded. The monitor can help doctors correlate what's happening with the patient's heart as they're feeling those symptoms."

PMC offers electrocardiograms (EKG), West said, which monitors the electrical activity in the heart. Monitoring that can help physicians diagnose heart problems such as checking heart rhythm, checking blood flow, diagnosing a heart attack or even detecting abnormalities such as thickened heart muscle.

Vice President of Nursing Services Nicole Haglund discussed how the new 64-slice CT scanner is capable of doing calcium scoring tests.

This test measures the amount of calcium in the walls of the arteries that supply blood to the heart. With this test, the amount of hardening of the artery wall and the risk a patient has to heart attack or stroke can be seen. The more calcium a patient has, the higher their risks are.

PMC also offers vascular ultrasounds to patients. In the case of cardiac patients, a vascular ultrasound technician would perform a vascular ultrasound to detect narrowing of the arteries, West said.

Cholesterol and lipids play a large part in heart health, which is why PMC offers screenings for them. Simple blood tests allow for the levels of lipids and cholesterol in a patient to be looked at, giving the total cholesterol levels as well

Wear Red!

National Wear Red Day was this month with several participating businesses in town showing their support. This is just one way more awareness is being raised about heart disease and strokes among women. Heart disease and stroke cause 1 in 3 deaths among women each year, killing approximately one woman every 80 seconds. At top, on Friday Feb. 2, Providence Medical Center employees joined together in recognition of the 15th year of Go Red For Women! We are all in this battle together...fighting heart disease in women. Below, Ameritas employees wore red recently to shed some light on heart disease. The same day, employees were encouraged to set goals for walking and get their steps in during the work day. Bottom, employees of State Nebraska Bank & Trust wore red in observance of the day.

First Presbyterian Church hosts Lenten suppers, services

Do you ever feel the noise of the world keeps you from finding times of rest, of sitting quietly and being in God's presence?
Most of us have a hard time finding time to listen for God. In the midst of a busy, noisy world First Presbyterian Church's Wednesday evening services will be a time of quiet reflection.
"During worship we will listen for God through prayer, music, and meditation on Scripture as we explore some of the ancient practices of the church. Seeking times of silence should heighten our attention to hear the "still, small voice" of God as well as our own voice," said Rev. Teresa Bartlett.

The themes of FPC Lenten midweek services will be "Listen," and the following are the topics for each week:
Feb. 21: Finding Your Cave: Listening Spaces;
Feb. 28: Finding Your Breath: Listening to Our Bodies.
March 7: Finding a Word: Listening to the Texts.
March 14: Finding Your Power: Listening for Healing.
March 21: Finding Your Mystic: Listening Beyond the Voices.
Prior to each Wednesday's worship at 7 p.m., the congregation will meet at 6 p.m. for a Fellowship meal.

The services and worship will be each Wednesday beginning Feb. 21 and running through March 21.
The community is welcome to join the fellowship meal and worship or either activity.
"Join us as we seek to step away from the noise and busyness of the world to listen for God's guidance and direction," Rev. Bartlett said.
Anyone with questions is asked to contact the FPC office at 402-375-2669.

American Heart Month

Signs of atrial fibrillation — and how to properly treat it

Palpitations of the heart or uncomfortable sensations in the chest can be distressing. Thoughts of heart attack may come to mind, and that anxiety can only exacerbate the situation. While heart attack might be the first thing people think of when experiencing chest discomfort, atrial fibrillation may be to blame for such feelings.

Atrial fibrillation, also called AFib, is a quivering or irregular heartbeat that may lead to heart-related complications. The American Heart Association says that at least 2.7 million Americans are living with AFib. Although treatable, without proper diagnosis, AFib may lead to blood clots, stroke and even heart failure.

Many people with AFib experience no symptoms at all and are unaware they have it until it is discovered during a physical examination. For those who experience symptoms, The Mayo Clinic lists these as some of the more common:

- Palpitations, which can be sensations of a flip-flopping in the chest or even a racing feeling.
- Fatigue
- Reduced ability to exercise
- Lightheadedness
- Chest pain or shortness of breath
- Dizziness and weakness

When the heart is working normally, it contracts and relaxes in a beat. When a person has AFib, the upper chambers of the heart, called the atria, beat irregularly. They quiver and do not move the blood into the ventricles in an effective manner. This irregularity can cause pooling or clotting of blood. Should a clot break off and enter the bloodstream, particularly in an artery leading to the brain, stroke may occur.

A proper diagnosis from a physician is needed before treatment can begin. An examination may include an EKG or ECG, which will show the heart's electrical activity as line tracings on paper. The spikes and dips in the tracings are called waves. An EKG will determine if the heart is pumping correctly.

AFib is more common among people with clogged arteries or diabetes and may develop following valve surgery. AFib also is more common in people with coronary heart disease. As a person ages, his or her risk for AFib increases. Stress also can be a major factor in triggering AFib, according to StopAfib.org.

Once AFib is diagnosed, managing risk factors and restoring a heart to normal rhythm becomes the priority. Doctors use a variety of medications to control heart rate, which may include beta blockers and calcium channel blockers. Medications to prevent stroke also may be prescribed. Surgical intervention may be necessary if medications aren't working.

Atrial fibrillation is a serious condition that requires treatment. Episodes can be managed and treated to help people live healthier lives.

Nebraska Medical Center now able to implant heart device

Nebraska Medical Center is the first hospital in Omaha to offer patients with a type of irregular heartbeat, also known as atrial fibrillation (afib), an alternative to long-term blood thinners with a newly approved device called WATCHMAN.

The WATCHMAN implant reduces the risk of stroke by closing off an area of the heart called the left atrial appendage. Doing that keeps harmful blood clots from forming in the left atrial appendage, entering the bloodstream and potentially causing a stroke. By closing off the left atrial appendage, the risk of stroke is reduced and, over time, patients will be able to stop taking blood thinners. Reasons that someone may be unable to take long-term blood thinners include prior bleeding while on a blood thinner, medication side effects or interactions or an occupation where long-term blood thinners would be hazardous.

"This new device provides doctors with a breakthrough stroke risk reduction option for patients," said Andrew Goldsweig, MD, interventional cardiologist at Nebraska Medicine. "For patients with non-valvular atrial fibrillation, the WATCHMAN implant offers a potentially life-changing remedy which could free them from long-term blood thinners while offering equivalent stroke protection."

People with atrial fibrillation are five times more likely to have a stroke than the general population. Atrial fibrillation can cause blood to pool and form clots in the left atrial appendage. If a clot forms there, it can increase stroke risk. Blood clots can break loose and travel in the blood stream to the brain, lungs, and other parts of the body.

"We are extremely happy to be able to provide this option," said Jessica Delaney, MD, cardiac electrophysiologist at Nebraska Medicine. "We have already implanted our first three devices and have a specialized clinic established to evaluate if WATCHMAN is the right course of treatment for certain patients. It certainly gives us another tool to elevate our already high level of care."

To implant the device, the doctor inserts a small needle in the upper leg, followed by a narrow tube, similar to a standard stent procedure. The doctor then guides the device into the left atrial appendage of the heart. The procedure is done under general anesthesia and takes about an hour. Patients commonly stay in the hospital overnight and leave the next day.

Patients looking to fulfill their cardiac health needs only need to schedule an appointment at PMC. The employees are the heart of PMC and work hard to get patients to their healthiest as quickly as possible.

Air quality and heart health

According to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, studies have shown that air pollution can trigger heart attacks and strokes. The threat posed by air pollution is greater among people who have or have had coronary artery disease, angina, heart attack, bypass surgery or an angioplasty, heart failure, stroke or transient ischemic attack, or blockages in the arteries of the neck or legs.

People who have internal cardiac defibrillators also may be at greater risk of heart attack or stroke due to air pollution. While it's common to assume that air pollution is only a problem for people who live in large cities, the American Heart Association warns against making such assumptions, noting that air pollution can be traced to a host of sources, including wildfires and cooking with wood stoves, that can be found outside of major cities. The AHA also notes that researchers believe pollution has inflammatory effects on the heart.

Cardiac

as LDL and HDL and triglycerides.

Cardiac rehab is yet another cardiac service offered at Providence. For patients who have undergone a major cardiac event such as surgery or a heart attack, strengthening their heart and educating them on properly caring for themselves is paramount to success after the event. That's where the PMC cardiac rehab unit comes in.

Offered three times a week, patients do a combination of exercise and education with a specialized nurse. While exercising, each patient is monitored to ensure their safety. The exercise and education regimen is tailored to each patient, cardiac rehab coordinator Terri Davis said.

While PMC knows scheduling and insurance can play a big part in how many times per week a patient can attend cardiac rehab, patients who are able to make it three days a week are setting themselves up for a better future.

In addition to all of those services, the PMC ambulance service is an advanced cardiac life support service (ALS).

"We run an ALS service because our nurses ride in the ambulance," Haglund said. "That allows us to provide a higher level of care on scene and during transport versus the basic life support that most EMS offer. In some communities, if they had the need for an ALS transfer, they'd be required to call a different facility to request someone for the transfer where patients here don't have to wait."

But the biggest cardiac service PMC offers comes from the physicians and nursing staff who genuinely care about their patients.

"We have a staff that has a real interest in their patients. We don't want patients to just get better because of what we're doing medically. We want patients who are getting better because of that and because we know them and we care about their wellbeing," Haglund said.

Pregnancy and heart disease

Pregnancy is a happy time for many women, but during the nine months of gestation, conditions can develop that put moms-to-be at risk a higher risk of heart disease and stroke.

According to the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Canada, preeclampsia and gestational diabetes can develop during pregnancy, potentially putting women's long-term health at risk.

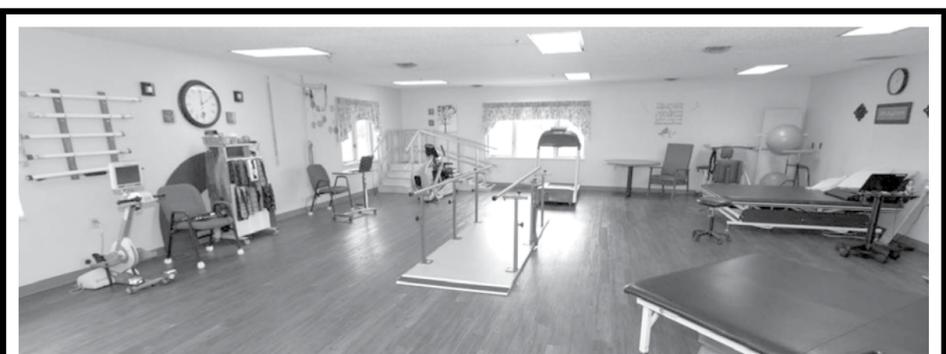

• Preeclampsia: There is no known way to prevent preeclampsia, a condition related to increased blood pressure and protein in expecting mothers' urine. An increase in protein is indicative of a problem with the pregnant woman's kidneys.

• Gestational diabetes: Pregnancy hormones can interfere with the ability a pregnant woman's body has to use insulin efficiently. As a result, women must produce extra insulin while pregnant. If that cannot happen, then blood sugar levels can rise and lead to gestational diabetes. The long-term ramifications of gestational diabetes can be significant, as the condition can raise both mother and baby's risk of developing diabetes later in life.

• Stroke: Women can suffer from stroke at any time during their pregnancy, though the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Canada notes that their risk is high during childbirth and in the first few months after childbirth. Preexisting conditions, are often the culprits when pregnant women or new mothers suffer strokes.

Where is your treasure?

For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also. Matthew 6:21

Most people think that the Bible says, where a person's heart is, there will be treasure also; but that's not what God said at all. It's the opposite! The treasure doesn't follow our heart; but rather, our heart follows our treasure—whether it be a career, a family, or a large accumulation of wealth.

Many people have committed and centered their entire life and career around wealth and saving up for rainy days or retirement. Those are very important things in our lives, but money should never be the primary issue. When people turn their money into their treasure and forget about the love of people around them, it can overtake them with greed and selfishness. There is nothing sadder than

A Word In Faith

By Deb Hammer
Chaplin, Our Savior Lutheran Church

a person who thinks that a pile of money in the bank is their greatest accomplishment in life.

The greatest things in life are not things. God wants us to rely upon Him for everything. He never said we'd be rich, only rich within Him. He never said He'd spare us trials. He also promised us peace that would pass all our understanding, and joy to comfort us in our pain. Life often takes us to places where we never thought we'd end up. God wants us to rely upon Him for everything.

The Bible teaches that our heart will be where our treasure is. The more we serve God and lay up treasures in Heaven (Matthew 6:20), the more our heart will be set upon the things above where Christ is seated on the Father's right-hand (Colossians 3:1-6). The things that we invest our time and our energy into are the treasures to which Jesus refers.

Jesus wants us to spend time with our neighbors, our families, with the people in our communities. The things we value the most, are the things we spend our time on. These are the true treasures of our hearts. These are the things that are the very core of our being and help shape us to be like Jesus and love and serve others.

What are your treasures? To what or whom have you given your heart? Let's focus on our daily lives by mentoring and serving others. Let us give our hearts to God and to one another for where your treasure is, your heart will be also.

Messages shared on 'Living Pro Life'

The Wayne Area Pro Life Breakfast was held Feb. 10 at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Those in attendance heard an update from Marion Miner with the Nebraska Catholic Conference on pro life issues and legislation in the Nebraska legislature. Miner also read a message from District 17 State Senator Joni Albrecht, who was unable to attend the breakfast.

Also sharing his story during the event was Jack Dorcey of the Archdiocese of St. Paul. Dorcey spoke on his work as a sidewalk counselor and the experiences of attending the March for Life in Washington, D.C. He said his mission was "to end abortion" and encouraged his audience to think about how they talk about abortion.

Keynote speaker for the morning was Michael Latawiec.

Latawiec lived his first three years in an orphanage in Romania as an "iron crib baby." He has virtually no contact with any other humans and as a result developed a number of developmental challenges.

"For the first three years of my life, I lived in a crib, without any contact and with nothing to do but stare at my noise.

an American family, the Latawiecs of Wyoming, Minn., and since that time has gone on to become a three time gold medalist in the Para Olympics in jiu jitsu, a form of martial arts.

Michael also served as an ambassador for the Minnesota Vikings professional football team this past season.

His main focus however, is to serve as a sidewalk counselor in front of an abortion clinic and to protect those who need a second chance at life.

He shared the story of how he talked to the father of a baby whose mother was planning to have an abortion. After Latawiec shared his story with the man, the couple changed their mind.

Also taking part in the event were Pastor Troy Reynolds of Journey Christian Church and Fr. Jeff Mollner of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

THANK YOU

Many thanks to my family, relatives and all my friends for the many cards and gifts I received for my 80th Birthday. It made my day memorable. God's Blessings To All!!
Janice Jaeger

Thanks everyone for the birthday cards, well wishes, phone calls and gifts for my 80th birthday and my family for putting all this together. Thank you Larry Lindsay

After a ridiculous fall into a fire and a lot of anxiety to recover, one is sure thankful for all the prayers, cards, flowers, visits and help. One has to be thankful for all the help and care for a month in the burn unit in Lincoln, a month in Madonna and another month in the Wakefield Care Center. It sure was a blessing to have Brad Nuernberger remove the snow from my lane and the family and friends who take care of everything around home. I would like to thank Pastor Bertrand for his visits and prayers, and all others for their words, cards, prayers and deeds. "Thanks To Everyone!"
Bob Hansen
I certainly also appreciated the nice quilt I received from the auxiliary ladies.

Winside Volunteer Fire and Rescue would like to thank Winside and surrounding communities for all the support at the annual pancake and omelet feed.

All proceeds will go to updating equipment.

Winside Fire and Rescue are proud to serve our community and with your support we can continue this with the equipment needed. Thanks to all who came or showed your support in any way ... it is appreciated!
