Resignations accepted, release from contract denied by school board

By CLARA OSTEN,
clara@wayneherald.com

The resignations of three staff members at Wayne Community Schools were accepted, with regrets, during Monday's regular meeting of the Board of Education.

Emily Duerst, Brooke Reeson and Jennifer Cliff each submitted letters of resignation to the board prior to the meeting. Duerst had been teaching Spanish and Elementary Keyboard; Reeson had been teaching second and third grade Special Education and Cliff had served as the K-8 Guidance Counselor for the district.

Board members discussed at length the request from Tracy Anderson, Vocal Music Instructor, to release her from her contract with Wayne Community Schools.

Anderson, who has taught at Wayne for the last 13 years, was at Monday's meeting and said the opportunity for her to teach high school students at Norfolk had come up recently and she felt the opportunity would be a move forward in her career.

Board members said Anderson's position would not be easy to fill at this late notice, as there are not a lot of qualified candidates available.

Several board members praised Anderson for the work she has done while at Wayne Community Schools to promote the fine arts programs.

Following discussion, board members voted unanimously to deny the request.

The hiring of Mallorie Koch to fill the position being vacated by Emily Duerst was approved. In addition to duties at the high school, there is a possibility Koch will assist with ELL classes at Wayne Elementary.

The last day of school for students and staff were approved during the meeting.

The last day for the seniors will be Tuesday, May 8 with practice for graduation (which is Saturday, May 12). Students in K-11 will be dismissed for the summer on Friday, May 18. Pre-school graduation is set for Monday, May 14.

Teachers will be in school until Thursday, May 24 with an option to attend a presentation in Norfolk on Tuesday, May 29.

Bids were accepted for chrome books for the freshmen and a chrome cart. The total cost for the purchase is $33,992.66.

Also approved was a bid from Harris Solutions for $21,160 for software and training support for district's accounting software. Rochelle Nelson, Business Manager for the district, told the board that state regulations are changing and there will be additional requirements in the record-keeping.

Reports were presented from each of the administrators and highlights such items as the recent Kindergarten Round-Up, a district-wide tornado drill and the Spring Sprints event scheduled for Friday, May 4.

The Wayne Community Schools Board of Education will next meet in regular session on Monday, May 14 at 5 p.m. in the junior-senior high school library.

Accidents and fires keep first responders busy over past week

On Wednesday evening and again on Thursday afternoon last week, two two-car accidents occurred.

Wednesday's accident took place east of Wayne and is still under investigation by the Wayne County Sheriff's Office. No details have been released at this time.

Thursday's accident occurred at the intersection of East Highway 35 and Centennial Road. No more details on the accident are available at this time.

In addition to the accidents, the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department went out on two calls earlier in the week and responded to multiple fire calls last week. Dry conditions and gusty winds have made situations difficult to handle.

Providence Medical Center offers education and support through Sexual Assault Response Team

April is Sexual Assault Awareness Month. Providence Medical Center would like to encourage our community to increase their knowledge and awareness of sexual assault and the services available within our community.

According to the Rape, Abuse & Incest National Network (RAINN), every 98 seconds, an American is sexually assaulted or abused. It is estimated that 60,000 children a year experience sexual abuse.

Approximately 30 percent of sexual assault cases are reported to authorities. About 20 million out of 112 million women (18 percent) in the United States have been raped during their lifetime. In a 2012 maltreatment report, of the victims who were sexually abused, 26 percent were in the age group of 12-14 years of age and 34 percent were younger than nine years of age.

Teens age 16-19 years were 3 ½ times more likely than the general population to be victims of rape, attempted rape or sexual assault. Approximately one in seven (13 percent) of youth internet users have received unwanted sexual solicitations.

The Providence Medical Center Sexual Assault Response Team (SART) is made up of staff who are dedicated to getting victims of sexual assault the care they need and providing education on how to ensure one's safety. The SART team was established at PMC in 2001, and is made up of registered nurses and social service staff members.

"Currently PMC has three Sexual Assault

Nurse Examiners (SANE). This means that they have extra education and training in this sensitive matter, allowing patients to receive optimal care," said Carrie Fertig, RN. "Additional team members include Jill Belt, Kiley Wohlers and Leslie Schulz from the Social Services Department, along with Dr. Mark McCorkindale who serves as the program Clinical Director."

The SANE nurses assist providers as needed during examinations and with the collection of evidence. The Social Services Department staff provides support and resources throughout the examination.

"PMC works closely with The Child Advocacy Center in Norfolk to ensure appropriate care is provided for young children," Fertig said. "Examining a child is very different than that of an adult," Jill Belt, LMPH explained. "Should a child sustain medical injuries, they would be treated for these injuries at PMC, however, any further examination and interviewing would be conducted through a Child Advocacy Center."

Fertig explains how a team is activated after a patient who has been assaulted enters the emergency room.

"The emergency room nurse assesses the patient and tends to any medical injuries or needs first, followed by notifying the SART team of an assault case. One of the SANE nurses and a representative from the social service department respond to PMC for the patient's care. At this point, with the consent of the patient, the sexual assault evidence collection is initiated by the SANE nurse. After the examination is complete, all evidence collected is turned over to law enforcement."

In addition to the care and treatment a patient receives, a safety plan is established with a patient prior to dismissal from the ER to ensure they have a safe place to go to.

A patient's care does not end after the emergency room visit. Follow up arrangements are made for the patient with their primary physician and counseling services. PMC staff is very passionate about making sure that both physical and emotional needs of patients are met.

"We want all victims of sexual assault to feel comfortable coming to PMC. Our job is to medically care for them and make sure that every patient has the resources they need. We are here to give them support and a safe place to start," Fertig said.

"If I could tell my child one thing, it would be to look at sexual assault as a health issue. It should not be something that one is ashamed of or afraid to seek help for," said Belt.

If you would like more information or someone to speak to your organization about sexual assault, please contact Providence Medical Center at 402-375-3800 and ask to speak to the Social Services Department.

Kevin Frerichs

Frerichs honored by John Deere dealership

If you cut Kevin Frerichs of Wayne, he may bleed green.

Frerichs recently celebrated his 45th anniversary working at the John Deere dealership in Wayne. Through four ownership changes, construction of a new building, a tornado, and construction of yet another new building, Kevin has seen it all.

When Kevin started as a service technician in 1973, the John Deere implement dealership was located on West First Street in the building currently used as office space by Sand Creek Post 'n Beam. Kevin and the dealership relocated to East Highway 35 in 1975 when the first new building opened. After the tornado destroyed that building in 2013, Kevin began working in yet another new building when Grossenburg Implement of Wayne started over from the ground up.

Frerichs has no idea exactly how many new tractors he has worked on over the years — too many to count through 45 years.

He noted "the tractors keep getting bigger and better, but, in the end, all that matters is that they are all John Deere Green and get in my blood."

Young authors

Boomerfest offers new band, old favorites

Boomers have the opportunity to enjoy a day of fun on April 19 at Boomerfest (formerly Elderfest) at the city auditorium.

From 9 a.m. until 12 p.m., a health vendor fair will be held at the auditorium. New this year, a pitch tournament will be organized and will kick off at 10 a.m.

From 1 p.m. until 5 p.m., crowd favorite the Burt Heithold Band will play before folks are encouraged to go out and about for supper in Wayne.

Also new to Boomerfest this year is a band out of Lincoln which will play in the evening from 6:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m.

"The Burt Heithold Band is a staple and they are back this year. But we also have a new band called the Salt Creek Band. One of our committee members is an active dancer who goes to all sorts of places and knew of them by going to these events where they were playing."

During their time on stage, the winners of the quilt raffle will be announced.

"They used to make quilts for Elderfest and it was really popular. We are raffling off three quilts from past years. Each quilt has the signatures of anyone at the event from that year so people might have family signatures on it."

Last year an estimated 400 guests visited Boomerfest throughout the day and Hays has hopes to get more this year. The event has a Facebook page where they have encouraged vendors to sign up, listed the day's activities and posted photos from past events.

Wayne State baseball drops two to St. Cloud

St. Cloud State posted victories of 4-1 and 12-4 Saturday over Wayne State at the Chapman Complex in Wayne, after the games were moved to Wayne due to excessive snow in the St. Cloud area.

The opener saw St. Cloud State's Shannon Ahern limit the Wildcats to just four hits, as Wayne State scored its lone run of the game in the top of the first when Andrew Hanson walked and scored on a Huskies' throwing error.

St. Cloud State took the lead for good with two runs in the bottom of the first and added another run in the bottom of the sixth to conclude the pitchers' dual as Ahern and Wayne State's Hunter Wienhoff both fired complete games.

Wayne State had just four hits in the game with David Janes going 2-for-3 with a pair of singles. Bryce Bisenius and Colin Chick also singled. Wienhoff suffered the pitching loss despite the complete game effort, allowing just three runs on six hits with five strikeouts and two walks.

The second game saw both teams trade runs early on before the Huskies pulled away late to complete the sweep.

The Wildcats opened the scoring with two runs in the first on an RBI double from Travis Miller and a run-scoring single from Bryce Bisenius.

After St. Cloud State took a 4-2 lead with four runs in the second inning, Wayne State knotted the score at 4-4 with a pair of runs in the fourth when Garrett Graveline walked and scored on a Tanner Simons triple with Simons coming home on a St. Cloud State throwing error to even the score.

St. Cloud State regained the lead with a single run in the bottom of the fifth inning for a 5-4 advantage, then scored multiple runs in the next three innings and held the Wildcats scoreless to complete the sweep.

Senior reliever Brady Johnson was tagged with the loss, allowing one earned run in 2.1 innings of work while striking out three.

Sunday's scheduled doubleheader between St. Cloud State and Wayne State was cancelled due to the weather.

The Wildcats (9-17, 7-9 NSIC) were scheduled to be home Wednesday, hosting Southwest Minnesota State. They will play a four-game weekend series with Northern State Saturday and Sunday at the Chapman Complex, with 12 p.m. doubleheaders scheduled both days.

Jacob Kneifl delivers a pitch during Wayne's 11-1 win over South Sioux City. The freshman lefthander allowed two hits and struck out five in five innings of work.

Wayne scored seven runs with two outs and pulled away for an easy 10-1 win over South Sioux City in high school baseball action Thursday at Hank Overin Field.

The Blue Devils struck first in the bottom of the first inning when Gunnar Jorgensen lined a two-out single to center, scoring Victor Kniesche. Jorgensen later came home on a bloop single by Brennan O'Reilly to make it a 2-0 game.

After South Sioux City used two errors to score a run in the second, Wayne erupted for four runs — all with two outs — to take control of the game.

Hagan Miller started the second-inning rally with a line drive single that scored Kaleb Anderson. Miller scored on a Jorgensen single, and two more runs came home when Trevor DeBoer doubled to right, scoring Kniesche and Jorgensen to make it 6-1.

Wayne go another run in the fourth on a sacrifice fly by DeBoer, scoring Brock Hopkins. They sealed the game with three runs in the fifth on an RBI single by Jacob Kneifl, scoring Blake Bartos, and a two-run double by Miller, scoring Anderson and Kniesche.

That was more than enough for Kneifl, who allowed two hits and two walks while striking out five to get the win. Drew Buck pitched two innings of hitless relief, striking out four and walking two.

Miller, Jorgensen and Reid Korth each had two hits to lead an 11-hit attack. Miller and DeBoer each had three RBIs in the game. DeBoer, Korth, Miller and Zane Jackson all had doubles in the game.

Wayne's Saturday home matchup with Blair was postponed due to the weather. Wayne hosted Thurston County on Tuesday and will host Plattview on Friday before playing at Norfolk on Friday and at Central City/Fullerton on Saturday in Central City. An earlier postponed game at home against Fort Calhoun will be played Monday at 4:30 p.m. at Hank Overin Field.

What Parents Worry About

High-school proms are very expensive affairs. When you add up the prom dresses and tuxedos, prom tickets and pictures, limos, flowers, and those special hairstyles, it's not unusual for the tab to get expensive.

For parents, however, the primary prom-related concerns aren't financial. Our biggest prom worries are the risky behaviors associated with proms, most specifically driving under the influence of alcohol and drugs and unsafe sex. Prom night always seems to be linked with drunken-driving injuries and deaths, date rapes, pregnancies and STDs. It's become the night where teens' poor judgment and dangerous choices have become institutionalized.

Think back to your own proms. While much more expensive and self-indulgent than yours were, the hopes, disappointments, joys and dangers associated with proms have remained essentially the same.

The following tips may ease your prom anxieties, while helping to keep your kids as safe as possible:

Prom Safety Tips

The Talk -- Tell your children that you want them to have a wonderful, memorable prom. Keep that wish as a central focus. They need to give you their complete itinerary for the evening, including whom they will be with, where they'll be going after the prom and the phone numbers where you can contact them. "We'll just be driving around" is not an acceptable response. Come to a fair decision on a curfew, based upon your children's past level of responsibility in this area. Express your concerns about their health and safety and explain to them why prom night makes it more difficult to make safe and smart decisions. Don't be vague -- discuss drinking, drugging, driving under the influence, and sex. Ask them how they plan to keep safe and avoid actions they will regret. Reinforce your belief in their character and in their ability to act responsibly.

The Ride -- If they're not driving themselves, you must know who'll be driving them. Regardless of how many times you have talked about the dangers of driving under the influence of alcohol and drugs, emphasize that these dangers are particularly high on prom night. Your children cannot drink or take drugs and drive. They also must be driven by someone who has not drunk alcohol or taken drugs. You need their promise on these rules. These rules are non-negotiable.

The Connection -- If your children are not returning home right after the prom, you need to be able to contact them at all times until they return home. You also need to be reachable at all times as well. There can be no doubt where your kids will be and with whom throughout the evening and morning. If they're going to other kids' houses after the prom, check ahead of time with these children's parents. You also have a right and a responsibility to ask if these parents are going to allow drinking in their homes. Many parents believe that as long as they "take keys" in a situation like this that underage drinking is permissible in their houses. You must answer the question, "Do I want my kids at after-prom parties where parents aren't present?" Post-prom, parent-child check-in calls make sense. Establish a couple of mandatory call-in times with your kids. You might consider giving cell phones to your kids for the evening, thereby establishing a guaranteed connection.

The Offer -- Give your children the unconditional option of calling you at any time for help or advice. That includes picking them up at any time of day or night, with a promise not to shame or humiliate them in front of others. Assure them that you always welcome being part of their making smart and safe decisions. This unconditional offer of help and advice should be an outstanding offer throughout their lives.

We want to wish all of our High Schools a safe and fun filled prom. Be sure to be safe when you are out and about. Thank you to everyone who is contributing or has contributed to make these nights a great event. The Post Prom parties are a wonderful way to keep our kids safe and still have a great time.

Daniel Ketchelos and Sean McGeary each received honors at the inaugural Wildcat Spirit Film Festival recently hosted by the WSC Electronic Media Program.

Area students win Film Fest Awards at Wayne State College

(Wayne, Neb.) - Two Sioux City students won best of category awards at the first Wildcat Spirit Film Festival hosted by Wayne State College's Electronic Media Program on April 5. The festival had more than 123 entries from all over the continental United States.

Sean McGeary, a senior at Bishop Heelan High School, won Best Regional Horror for his film "Infection," a post-apocalyptic zombie thriller. The film also won three honors at the Global Film Festival Awards (GFFA), a Los Angeles-based independent filmmaker competition that works cooperatively with Internet Movie Database (IMDb).

Daniel Ketchelos, a junior at Siouxland Christian School, won Best Regional Short Under Five Minutes for his film "Left Alone." The film is a narrative about a young girl who loses her first love in a tragic accident. His film was also honored at the Iowa All-State Speech Competition.

Both films received their own showings at Wayne State followed by a question and answer session at the festival. The students, with their respective cast and crews, shot a scene during the Wildcat Spirit Film Festival workshops with WSC faculty and other attendees.

For additional information about the day's events, contact Dr. Michael White, professor of communication arts at Wayne State College, at 402-375-7130, or visit www.wsc.edu/film-festival.

Spring is in the air?

I know all of you are right there with me. Winter has worn out its welcome. We get teaser days and then we are right back to snow and wind. What gives?

I'm working here in the Children's Area at the Siouxland Garden Show this weekend and I have to say, it is putting me in the spring spirit. There are beautiful flowers and garden ornaments all around. Even though we are indoors, it makes me want to go outside and work in my yard. I certainly don't claim to be a gardener, but I am a huge fan of outdoor education.

Though we live in a rural area, there are many opportunities to get outside this spring and summer. Local parks and even your own backyard are wonderful places to start. The World Wide Web offers millions of ideas for outdoor projects and activities for children, but just going on a simple nature walk can do the body wonders. Give your child a paper bag and a list of nature items to find and collect. After they finish their search, talk about each item and why nature is so important in our lives.

Almost any activity can be done outdoors. Even infants and toddlers benefit from the sunshine and fresh air. Once the sun comes out, sit outside for a little while and soak up the rays.

Thinking of starting a garden? Now is the time to start planting. Gardens are a great learning opportunity for children. They can learn science, math, language arts and even social studies. If your child's school doesn't have a school garden, perhaps suggest that they start one. Even growing just a few flowers or vegetables can be a great way to connect children with the natural world and help them learn how and where good is grown. Gardening promotes healthy eating and can be very rewarding. The look on a child's face when he or she eats a home-grown tomato is just perfect!

Connecting children to nature builds the foundation for future conservationists which we will need in years to come.

For more information or ideas on how to engage children outdoors, check out <https://natureeducation.wordpress.com/> or call 402-584-3830.

We are all called to be disciples

The gospels of Mark and John tell us that after Jesus' resurrection he appeared first to Mary Magdalene in the garden. According to the Scriptures, Jesus appeared not only in a garden, but also a locked upper room, on the road to Emmaus, on the beach in Galilee, and to different groups of people. 1st Corinthians 15:6 says that he appeared to more than 500 of his followers. Before Jesus ascended into heaven he gave the disciples their mission:

"Therefore, go and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit. Teach these new disciples to obey all the commands I have given you. And be sure of this: I am with you always, even to the end of the age." Matthew 28:19-20

Jesus modeled compassion, love and service; he ministered to those he met on the roads and in the streets as well as the temple and teaching in the synagogues. Jesus challenged, encouraged, and equipped his disciples.

A disciple trusts in and follows Jesus Christ, seeking to grow in this likeness, committing heart, mind, soul and strength to obey and serve him.

A disciple becomes the hands and feet of Christ, a servant to others, in addition a disciple should be able to articulate why

A Word In Faith
 By Teresa Bartlett
 Pastor, Wayne Presbyterian Church

their faith is important, why it gives them hope and strength.

Even committed disciples make mistakes, after Jesus' death the disciples were cautious and unsure of what to do next. When Jesus appeared to them and they received the Holy Spirit they began to boldly preach and teach in a culture that was hostile to the new faith.

We sometimes shrink back from telling others about Jesus but the Easter season gives us great opportunity to voice the reason for our hope. Jesus Christ took the sins of the world upon himself, gave his life for each of us, and on the third day he rose from the dead; thus defeating death and affirming the promise of eternal life for those who trust in him; this is the reason for our hope, the reason for our joy.

It was in the days following

Christ's post resurrection visits with disciples and others that the church began to take shape. The book of Acts details the accounts of the early church, the phenomenal growth of the new fellowship called Christianity. Led by the Spirit, the early church concentrated on people, on relationships, caring for one another to fulfill Jesus' commission. Acts describes that early fellowship as follows:

"And all the believers met together in one place and shared everything they had. They sold their property and possessions and shared the money with those in need. They worshiped together at the Temple each day, met in homes for the Lord's Supper, and shared their meals with great joy and generosity all the while praising God and enjoying the goodwill of all the people. And each day the Lord added to their fellowship those who were being saved." Acts 2:44-47.

The early church grew not because they had the best pipe organ in three states, or because they served Starbucks' coffee, or because they had a killer media set-up, but because they built relationships, they cared for each other. Those outside the fellowship could see the Christians were different and wanted to learn more.

1 Peter 3:15b reminds us that as Christians we should "... Always be prepared to give an answer to everyone who asks you to give the reason for the hope that you have."

In relationship with others, Christians, using their own unique skills and gifts can share the reason for their hope. Perhaps you can invite someone to join you for worship, Bible Study or at a church event. Express your compassion by sending a get well card, or make an encouraging phone call to someone who is having a hard time. We trust the Holy Spirit to guide us as well as others who want to know more about the hope that encourages and sustains us.

Let us each do our best to answer Christ's call to "...go and make disciples."

WSC partnering with Haven House

Wayne State College Service-Learning students are partnering with Haven House for Sexual Assault Awareness Month in April.

Haven House in Wayne, Neb. offers crisis intervention and prevention services for survivors of domestic violence and sexual assault. The Wayne State College Radio Workshop class, which operates the campus radio station 91.9 the Cat, is working with Haven House during April to raise funds to support the organization's services.

"This will be the 23rd time that the radio station has held an April special event to raised funds for a non-profit organization, almost always Haven House," said Michael Marek, WSC faculty member and radio station advisor. "This year, as a service learning project, we are working more closely than ever with the Haven House staff, and the project continues all this month."

On April 12 and 13, students from 91.9 the Cat will broadcast from many locations around Wayne, calling attention to the need and services provided by Haven House, and asking for contributions. In the days leading up to the event, they will also be visiting businesses in Wayne to ask for support, and performing a "dorm storm" to ask WSC students for their support, as well.

Several businesses in Wayne will invite their customers to support the important services provided by Haven House for all or part of April, including Pac N Save, Quality Foods and Wayne East. Wayne East will contribute $.50 to Haven House for each Nachos order from Sunday April 8 to Sunday the 15th.

Members of the public wanting to recognize Sexual Assault Awareness Month can also contribute directly on the Haven House website: <http://havenhousefsc.com>

Haven House was formed in 1978 by a group that organized from the Association of American University Women and Wayne State College to address the need for services for survivors of domestic violence and their children.

The student-operated radio station 91.9 the Cat has served Wayne and Wayne State College since 1971 at 91.9 on the FM dial, streaming on the web at <http://thecat.wsc.edu>, and via the Tune-In app.

Wayne State College, a leading, public four-year college in northeast Nebraska, is a proud member of the Nebraska State College System.

The Grand Prix began with a welcome from Awana Commander Bill Dickey. An evangelistic music group of six young men from Zambia, Africa sang two songs followed by a brief message from Pastor Todd Thelen. Approximately 120 children, parents, grand-

Northeast prepares to host hundreds of students for national ag conference

From outward appearances, it's classes as scheduled for faculty and the 350 agricultural students at Northeast Community College in Norfolk. However, a closer look reveals a flurry of activity behind the scenes as the College and its Agriculture Department ready hundreds of details in preparation for a major agricultural competition.

and animal science instructor. "We (Northeast) need to put in the time and work to get that accomplished."

Throughout the conference, he said, "We'll be showcasing the campus and its facilities and the Norfolk community."

agricultural mechanics, computer applications and ag knowledge (finals) contests; and April 21 - livestock management, crops, agricultural communications/agricultural sales and equine judging contests. The 2018 conference concludes with an awards banquet that night at the DeVent Center.

The crops judging contest is designed to prepare students for agronomic careers. The two-year college and university contestants vie individually, side by side.

As of late March, 650 students, representing 38 two and four-year institutions, were registered for the 2018 North American Colleges and Teachers of Agriculture (NACTA) Judging Conference to be conducted from Wednesday, April 18, through Saturday, April 21.

"It's a huge undertaking, but we've (Northeast) been involved in competing at NACTA (since 2000), and it's our turn to host," said Mike Roeber, Northeast livestock judging coach Roeber said the registered schools hail from 17 states with a soils and crops judging team traveling from Australia.

Northeast President Dr. Michael Chipps said, "It's an exciting opportunity for Northeast Community College to host ... this great exposition, if you will." The event, he said, will especially showcase the College's agricultural presence that dates to 1973.

Roeber said Northeast hosted the 2005 NACTA Judging Conference, with three faculty still on staff who were involved in that event.

He is currently finishing his third year as president of the NACTA Coaches Association. His duties include scheduling the host judging conference schools, verifying eligibility of participating schools with the NACTA organization headquarters, and providing information to the educational branch of the NACTA organization.

Sarah Sellin, an agronomy and animal science instructor at Northeast, is in charge of the soils competition. The contest, she said, is "very science based" with focuses on such areas as soil slope, type, texture, color, structure and grade.

Roeber said Northeast hosted the 2018 NACTA Judging Conference four years ago, Roeber said, with preparations underway since 2015.

The checklist includes:

- Securing the animals (ewes, beef cattle, and market hogs, lambs and goats) for the 12 livestock judging classes, as well as the dairy cattle and equine judging contests;
- Digging more than one dozen six-foot-deep practice and contest holes for the soils contest; and
- Lining up the official judges for each of the 13 contests.

Bernie Thyen, an agronomy instructor at Northeast, is engaged in a major task: growing more than 120 different species of plants for the crops contest. Thyen, who is coordinating this year's contest, said he began collecting seeds for the contest two years ago.

He said many seeds were collected from plants growing in the area, some gleaned from ditches, fields and even flower pots. Some rare seeds - such as castor, sesame and tobacco - were ordered. A corn plant planted last Dec. 3 now towers 10 feet.

Grow lights, operational from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, simulate mid-summer growing conditions and maintain the plants' normal growing state, he said. Some plants have to be "tricked" so they are headed out or flowering at the time of the contest.

"Can you imagine the challenge to keep plants growing inside this winter?" Thyen asked, noting outside temperatures as low as a minus 28.

Thyen said he has spent "hundreds and hundreds of hours" tending to the more than 300 potted plants under cultivation in a College greenhouse.

Traci Jeffrey, executive director of the Norfolk Area Visitors Bureau, said Northeast's hosting of the NACTA conference is "a great opportunity to showcase Norfolk and Northeast Nebraska, as well as Northeast Community College."

Jeffrey said, "We want to make sure our visitors have a great experience while here with the potential that they'd come back." In addition, she said, there could be possible job opportunities for the students.

There will be an estimated total economic impact of over $80,000 to the Norfolk area from the NACTA conference in terms of meals, lodging, fuel and shopping, she said. It is estimated that a visitor spends an estimated $108 per day if lodging is included.

Tornadoes - fact and fiction

As a follow-up to last week's report about severe weather awareness week, I thought it might be good to review some facts and myths considering our most violent form of severe weather in this part of the country, the tornado. Tornadoes can occur any month of the year, but are most common in April, May and June in Nebraska. They can also occur at any time of day, but are most common between 4 and 8 p.m.

So far this year, we haven't had any tornadoes, but other parts of the country have already had severe weather including tornadoes. Knowing what to do in case of a tornado warning can save your life and the lives of your family. Here are some common myths and facts about tornadoes:

"When confronted by a tornado warning, you should open all the windows in your house to equalize the pressure."

FICTION - This just wastes valuable time. Don't worry about equalizing the pressure, the roof ripping off or debris smashing through windows or walls will equalize the pressure for you.

"Tornadoes have picked people and items up, carried them some distance and then set them down without injury or damage."

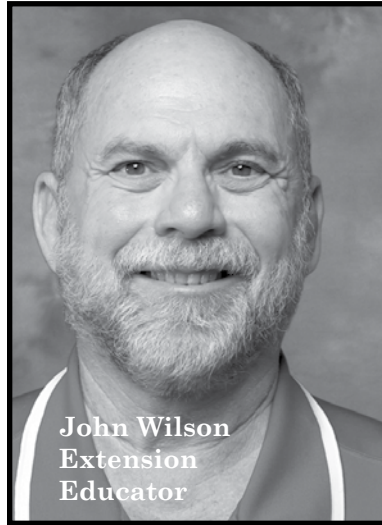

FACT - This seems strange, but people and animals have been transported up to a quarter mile or more without serious injury. Fragile items, such as sets of china have been blown from houses and recovered, miles away, without any damage. However, given the amount of airborne debris, these are the exception, not the norm.

"I can outrun a tornado, especially in a vehicle."

FICTION - Most people will recognize this as a myth. Tornadoes can move at up to 70 mph or more and may shift directions erratically and without warning. It is unwise to try to outrun a tornado. It is better to abandon your vehicle and seek shelter immediately.

"Tornadoes are more likely to hit a mobile home park."

FICTION - This is a myth, it just seems that way for two reasons. First, mobile home parks are common. There are thousands of mobile homes in tornado alley, so there is a good chance that at least one of them will be in a tornado's path. Unfortunately, the second factor is that mobile homes offer little to no protection against even the weakest tornadoes, so when a tornado does strike a mobile home park, the damage is more likely to be significant. Winds that would only lift some shingles on a frame house can easily flip a mobile home.

John Wilson
Extension Educator

"Strong, sturdy brick buildings will protect me from a tornado."

FACT and FICTION - While such buildings will provide more protection in a tornado than a mobile home or timber frame structure, the winds of a tornado can easily launch a 2x4 through a brick wall, and can cause even the sturdiest of buildings to experience roof or wall failure.

"To keep from being sucked into the tornado, you can tie yourself to a well pipe, just like they did in the movie 'Twister'."

FICTION - This is good for movie special effects, but simply is not true. While it is unlikely that a tornado will dislodge a deeply buried pipe, the rope you tie around yourself is more likely to act as a combination tetherball and cheese slicer. Lighter winds will likely cause you to be whipped around at the end of the rope, banging against anything within the radius of the rope. Stronger winds inside the tornado are just as likely to pull your body from the rope and possibly not in one piece.

"A tornado can drive a straw through a telephone pole."

FACT - The forces inside a tornado are incredible, and still poorly understood. But they are certainly strong enough to turn otherwise harmless items into deadly missiles.

For more information on tornadoes, visit the National Weather Service website at www.weather.gov or the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, or NOAA, website at www.noaa.gov.

Ready for warm sun and warm weather

We were teased with warm weather in March, and have endured snow and wind so far in April. The forecast today doesn't sound too bad, but folks are getting anxious for a change. I know one guy who has even planted potatoes, not considering that Easter, and therefore, Good Friday, were early this year.

We saw the accountant last Thursday and the checks are in the mail. So, I figured it was time to get the puzzle out of the box.. Our neighbors gave me one they had done that is simply small photos of crosses in America.. 1000 pieces! It's very slow going. Kay stayed here with her Dad last night and really got quite a lot accomplished, but he's ready to send out for assistance.

I crossed off a few more items from the list of people I wanted to hear this week. A near by church has a tradition called First Friday Jazz. I prefer to go downtown where St. Paul's Methodist has First Friday things like organ recitals, but this is so handy. And this week, they featured The Lightning Bugs..

I kept hearing rave reviews, so got over there on Friday with wind, spitting snow and wet parking lots. I figured there wouldn't be many attendees; I was mistaken! They have their own following, all gray headed, of course. But they really were entertaining, three older fellows on bass, drum, and electric guitar...covering the Mills Brothers, the Ink Spots, Duke Ellington, Nat King Cole, etc.. It was worth the free will offering, and they announced a record crowd of 300.

Then, on Saturday eve, friends involved with the Aldrich House in Elmwood picked me up for the annual banquet there. Actually, it was not at the house, but in the nearby Christian church. After dinner of chicken cordon bleu, and a scrumptious ice cream dessert, we went into the sanctuary to hear Pippa White talk about the Orphan Trains. Using three different hats, she impersonated three different youngsters who were taken from New York City west to new homes.

By: Pat Meierhenry

I had heard many positive things about Pippa, and she lived up to them all. She is a delight to see and hear. I know a man whose father rode one of those trains to Randolph, Nebraska, and stayed there, and did well. They did not all turn out so good, but at least, it got them out of the orphanages. Anyway, it was a good evening, and an interesting experience. And it gave Kay one-on-one time with Mike; always a good thing.

Now, bring on the sun!
