Nationally recognized STEM program coming to Wayne Elementary School this summer

Camp Invention, a nationally recognized, nonprofit summer enrichment camp program, is coming to Wayne Elementary School the week of June 11 - 15.

A program of the National Inventors Hall of Fame (NIHF), in partnership with the United States Patent and Trademark Office, Camp Invention challenges children in Grades K-6 to find their "inner inventor" by learning the process of innovation. Using hands-on activities, Camp Invention promotes science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) learning; builds resourcefulness and problem-solving skills; and encourages entrepreneurship — in a fun and engaging environment.

Each year, the program features a new curriculum inspired by some of our nation's most brilliant inventors — the NIHF Inductees. This year's Fast Forward curriculum features several video challenges from these Inductees encouraging children to be confident in their ideas and explore their innovativeness. These hands-on activities include:

• Optibot[™]: Campers will launch into the future with their own Optibot — a small self-driving robot that senses changes in light.

•Robotic Pet VetTM: Throughout this module, campers nurse their robotic puppy back to health and design and build dog parks as they hammer out ideas for the best park attraction.

•Mod My Mini Mansion[™]: Campers will dream up and design their very own futuristic smart home filled with gadgets, LEDs, technology and innovations!

•Stick To ItTM: Campers will invent something new every day as they explore what it is like to be a physicist, engineer and entrepreneur. Young innovators will invent, make and craft solutions to realworld challenges by building their own prototypes and discovering that anything is possible.

At the end of the program, each camper will bring home two personalized robots! Learn more

For the second time in two years, a Wayne State College has been earned a Fulbright U.S. Student Program award for an English Teaching Assistantship. Henry Dakota Miller will teach the 2018-2019 school year in Indonesia.

Miller second WSC student in two years to earn Fulbright award

Wayne State College is pleased to announce that senior Henry Dakota Miller of Crofton, Neb., has received a Fulbright U.S. Student Program award for an English Teaching Assistantship (ETA) in Indonesia for the 2018-19 academic year from the U.S. Department of State and the J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board. Miller joins Anna Knezevic, a 2017 graduate, as the second Wayne State Fulbright recipient in two years.

Miller is one of more than 1,900 U.S. citizens who will study, conduct research, and teach abroad for the 2018-19 academic year through the Fulbright U.S. Student Program. Recipients of Fulbright awards are selected on the basis of academic and professional achievement as well as cause he is extraordinary among graduating students nationally," said Dr. Barbara Engebretsen, professor of exercise science at Wayne State. "Henry has truly distinguished himself as a person who is committed to and passionate about not only understanding, but addressing biosocial determinants of health disparities locally and globally. To have had the privilege of walking alongside him for the time he has been at WSC is by far one of the brightest gifts of my years in this profession."

Since its inception in 1946, the Fulbright Program has provided more than 380,000 participants -- chosen for their academic merit and leadership potential -- with the record of service and leadership potential in their respective fields.

"My interest in Indonesia emerged after studying abroad in Taiwan and China," said Miller, who majored in sociology and communications. "Having been raised in rural Nebraska, the study abroad experience led me to place a high value on cultural immersion. This Fulbright award will enhance my cultural understanding, as well as create mutually beneficial relationships with the people of Indonesia. It is a great honor to represent my country, and Nebraska, and this is not something I take lightly."

"The college is quite proud of Henry's selection as a Fulbright English Teaching Assistantship finalist," said Dr. Marysz Rames, president of Wayne State. "His year-long experience in Indonesia will provide him with a lifetime of experiences and memories that will fundamentally transform his approach to life, learning, and understanding."

"Henry has spent his time at Wayne State College honing his intercultural communication skills," said Dr. Deborah Whitt, professor of communication arts at Wayne State. "Those skills represent the core principles of the Fulbright mission in promoting international good will, engagement, openness, and mutual understanding. His study abroad trip to Asia two years ago developed into a joint communication research project between students at Providence University in Taiwan and Wayne State College students. The Fulbright opportunity will allow Henry to make new friendships and forge further cultural exchange of ideas."

"As a former student athlete with a minor in international studies and public and global health, I am interested in projects related to sports and community health," Miller said. "In addition, Indonesia's motto 'Unity in Diversity' offers an opportunity to collect stories from different groups in the school and community to promote cultural understanding."

"The Fulbright Award promotes intercultural understanding and service, and Henry has been selected beopportunity to exchange ideas and contribute to finding solutions to shared international concerns. More than 1,900 U.S. students, artists, and early career professionals in more than 100 different fields of study are offered Fulbright Program grants to study, teach English, and conduct research annually in more than 140 countries throughout the world.

The primary source of funding for the Fulbright Program is an annual appropriation by the United States Congress to the U.S. Department of State's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs. Participating governments and host institutions, corporations, and foundations in foreign countries and in the United States also provide direct and indirect support.

In the United States, the Institute of International Education supports the implementation of the Fulbright U.S. Student Program on behalf of the U.S. Department of State, including conducting an annual competition for the scholarships.

The Fulbright U.S. Student Program is administered at Wayne State College through the office of Multicultural & International Programs with the support of mentors: Dr. Eric Colvard (Fulbright - India); Dr. Barbara Engebretsen, (Fulbright Global Scholar - Ethiopia/Nepal); Dr. Jean Karlen, Professor Emeritus of Sociology/Service Learning; and Dr. Leah Keino, director of Multicultural & International Programs.

The next round of applications for the 2019-20 academic year is due Oct. 9, 2018. Interested students are encouraged to begin the application process as soon as possible. For more information, contact Dr. Leah Keino, Fulbright Program adviser, in the Multicultural & International Programs Center, Kanter Student Center #10, at 402-375-7749 or at international@wsc.edu.

Contested candidate forum to be held May 8

A co-sponsored candidate forum will be held on May 8 at the Senior Center from 7 - 9 p.m. The forum will include local candidates from the four contested races.

According to economic director Luke Virgil, the Wayne Area Economic Development Government Affairs committee is co-hosting the event alongside Wayne County Farmers Bureau.

"We wanted to host this event to introduce the candidates to the voters. The committee wanted to include the 11 candidates from the four contested primary races -- the mayoral race, the Republican ticket for the county commissioner District 1 seat, the Republican ticket for county treasurer and the Republican ticket for county attorney. We have received confirmation from some already but we will plan for all of them to be there."

Bill Dickey and Chele Misenbach, both committee members, will act as moderator and timer respectively.

Each candidate will be allotted five minutes to introduce themselves and at the end, Virgil said, there will be time to take questions from the audience. Candidates are encouraged to bring campaign material to be displayed in the lobby.

Virgil said once the primary is complete, the focus will turn to hosting an event prior to the November election.

Rainbow World child care center celebrating 25 years

Rainbow World Preschool and Child Development Center was started by a group of parents who wanted child care for their children.

This group first wrote a grant and, with the help of the city of Wayne and the local banks, they were able to open the child care center in 1993.

The facility, located at 1110 East 14th Street in Wayne, hosted an open house in observance of 25 years of operation on April 20.

Shelly Fehringer became the director 14 years ago.

With the help of some already dedicated staff, we changed the program into a Child Development Center. We concentrated not only on excellent care but the needs of the child in every aspect of their development," Fehringer said.

Rainbow World quickly started to grow and before long grew out of the building. The facility built a preschool /school age addition in 2008 and the Infant/Toddler addition in 2013.

Rocky II? — Ruhl to return to the Wayne High bench next season

A familiar face will be making a return to the sidelines next basketball season.

Wayne High athletic director Dennis Dolliver announced Wednesday that Rocky Ruhl will be coming back to Wayne High School as a head coach next season, taking over the reins of the girls basketball team.

The announcement was made in a news release Wednesday afternoon, one day after Lindsey McLaughlin announced that she was stepping down as girls basketball coach after two seasons.

Ruhl, who retired from his position as coach and athletic director and was named to the school's Athletic Hall of Fame in 2017, returns to the school where he taught and coached for more than three decades, including 20 years as head boys basketball coach where he amassed a 311-155 record with six trips to the state basketball tournament and a third-place finish in his final season as head coach in 2013.

Since leaving his duties at Wayne High School, Ruhl coached ninth grade boys basketball as a volunteer coach.

"We believe we have just hired one of the all-time great high school basketball coaches in Nebraska," Dolliver said. "We are very excited about the future of the program and look forward to many successes on and off the court.'

Men's rugby takes fourth in NSCRO Challenge Cup

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — Wayne State men's rugby made a valiant comeback effort, but came up short Saturday in a 38-19 loss to Mira Costa College of California in the semifinals of the NSCRO Men's Challenge Cup.

The Spartans scored about 15 minutes into the game to take an early 7-0 lead, but Wayne State answered less than five minutes later when Tylor Rowles took a pass on the left wing and raced 60 yards for a try to tie the game at 7-7.

Mira Costa scored again later in the half, then used a late Wayne State turnover to find the try zone and take a 21-7 halftime advantage.

Wayne State made things interesting early in the second half, as Hunter Boettcher spun off a missed tackle and ran 18 yards for a score to make it a 21-12 game.

Mira Cost answered with 24 minutes left to take a 28-12 lead, then scored again eight minutes later to take a commanding 33-12 advantage.

Wayne State had a glimmer of hope after Cole Eaton ran down a free kick in the try zone to make it 33-19 with 11 minutes to go, but the Spartans came back with another late score to put the game out of reach.

The Wayne State men's rugby team came up short in the consolation match Sunday morning, dropping a 46-12 decision to New Haven University.

The Chargers struck early, scoring twice in the first five minutes to take a 10-0 advantage.

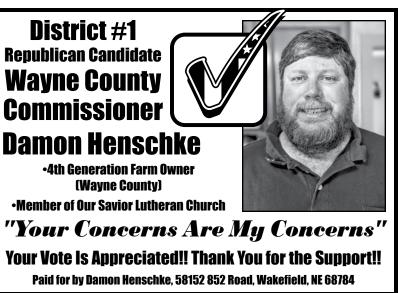

Wayne State saw some hope five minutes later when Yarim Robertson took a pitch off a Charger penalty and raced 55 yards down the near side for the Wildcats' first score to make it a 10-5 game.

New Haven scored two more tries to take a 22-5 advantage, but with 7:15 left in the first half, Rowles picked up an errant Charger pass and took off for an 85-yard sprint to the middle of the try zone for a score. Hunter Boettcher tacked on the point-after kick to make it a 22-12 game.

That was as close as Wayne State would come, however, as the Chargers answered with another score in the final three minutes of the first half to take a 27-12 advantage at intermission.

Wayne State's defense tried to keep the Wildcats in the game and they were able to gain possession deep in Charger territory, but were unable to convert the opportunity into points.

Eventually, the Chargers wore the Wayne State defense down, putting the game out of reach with another try in the final 17 minutes of the game to come away with the consolation trophy.

Helping Grandkids Save for College

With education costs continuing to soar, many grandparents may be wondering what they can do to help their grandchildren financially in the pursuit of a college degree. If you are a grandparent who has the means to lend support, there are a variety of ways you can do so. The best solution for you will depend in part on the timing of when your grandchildren will need the money. Saving in advance

If your grandchildren are years away from needing tuition funds, you can set money aside in a variety of vehicles. One attractive option may be a 529 College Savings Plan, which allows you to deposit up to $75,000 ($150,000 for a couple)1 in 2018 into the plan for each grandchild without incurring gift taxes. That money can be deposited in one lump sum or over a period of time2. Earnings can grow on a tax-deferred basis and be withdrawn tax-free to meet qualified education costs for each grandchild.

fit. Keep in mind that funds withdrawn from a grandparent-owned account for a grandchild will be counted as student income on the FAFSA, which is runs, highlighted by a two-run oppoused to determine eligibility for financial aid. It's worth noting that the recent tax reform legislation expands the tax advantages of 529 plans to expenses for tuition at an elementary or secondary public, private or religious school. Starting in 2018, you may withdraw up to $10,000 annually that is federal income tax-free for elementary or secondary school tuition incurred by your grandchildren during the tax year. Other college savings options include:

• Custodial accounts. Placing cash or other types of assets into a Uniform Gift to Minors Act or Uniform Transfer to Minors Act account will, at a specified age, give the grandchild full rights to the money. That means there is no guarantee the money will be used to pay for education needs.

Opening an account in your name allows you to retain control over the assets, using them for your grandchildren's qualified education expenses as you see

• Education trust. Putting money in a trust that specifies it must be used for education purposes is another option. This approach can come with high legal and administrative costs, but ensures that the money would be spent according to your wishes.

• Coverdell Education Savings Account. These accounts provide a way to grow savings on a potentially tax-free basis, but annual contributions are limited to $2,000 per year per grandchild and are subject to income limits. Paying as they go

If your grandchild is ready to begin college, you can provide help today in several different ways:

· Gift funds to the grandchild. Annual gifts of up to $15,000 for an individual or $30,000 for a couple can be made to the grandchild without incurring gift taxes. A monetary gift will give the grandchild control over the money, which means he or she could put it to use for something besides education.

• Tuition payments directly to an institution. Any amount of tuition you pay directly to a school for the benefit of a grandchild is not subject to gift tax. This does not apply to room and board or books and supplies.

• Lending money. You can provide an interest-free loan to a grandchild of up to $10,000, and lend any amount over that if you apply an interest rate set by the IRS.

Paying after they finish school

If the grandchild has finished college but is carrying debt from student loans, you can offer to help repay them. Any amount paid in a given year is subject to the annual gift tax exclusion limitation of $15,000 per person per year.

Have a family conversation

Before any decisions are made on the best ways to provide financial assistance for higher education needs, discuss your wishes with your children and grandchildren, as appropriate. Talk about your desires to see the grandchildren obtain a good education to help them succeed in life, and be specific about your expectations if you provide support. Then talk to your financial and tax advisor to determine the best course of action given your circumstances and goals.

¹ Five times the annual gift tax exclusion.
³ Maximum accelerated gifting uses the donor's annual gift tax exclusion for gifts to the beneficiary for the current year and next four years. Any further gifts from the donor to the beneficiary during the five-year period will generally reduce the donor's unified credit (lifetime exclusion amount), unless the annual exclusion amount increases.

County Court Clerk Magistrate KimBerly Hansen thanked the board for the SX camera purchased three years ago for Jabber teleconferencing, and the additions to the microphone equipment. Teleconferencing rather than sending deputies to transport prisoners resulted in substantial savings in time and money.

AND DESCRIPTION OF THE OWNER OWNE

mikesportshome@yahoo.com You ever just sit back and smell the roses? Generally, I don't, something hit me the other day and it just made me smile.

Normally, we race through life from this appointment to that appointment, this meeting to that meeting, this function to that function, Monday to Sunday...you get the idea.

I do believe 'good luck' and 'good fortune' are more than partially tied to a frame of mind – if you feel good, good things happen, but I also believe sometimes it is just plain luck.

This past weekend I attended my oldest son's bachelor party.

Now, before you get the impression this was a weekend of mischief, shenanigans and lude entertainment, I will tell you there was no lude entertainment or I'm pretty sure I wouldn't have been invited.

Mischief and shenanigans were constant and the other fact I'll add, the only thing sore on me was my stomach when we left due to the constant laughing.

I'm talking about losing control of your...well, let's just call it full belly laughing.

Obviously, I was the oldest one there, so I was charged with being the 'voice of reason'. Yikes, right? My son Maxwell, the one getting married is a deputy sheriff in Cherry County.

For those of you with a map, it's that huge rectangle in the northcentral part of Nebraska where Valentine is located.

At any rate, Max wanted to have this party away from the hustle and bustle, so to speak.

My youngest son Mason and my son-in-law Bryce were in charge of the location They found the spot. I believe there is a sign around Ainsworth or Wood Lake on highway 20 which states that is the 'middle of nowhere'. Well, where we were is the middle of nowhere but no one has seen the sign. And what a wonderful place it I could sit on the deck of the cabin we were in and watch the turkeys strut around. There was a pond with some cranes, geese and ducks flying in and out. Deer would come over the sandhills and nervously head to water...and I couldn't hear a peep.

nal Four, the Masters, entertained all four of our kids and the night before I had found a 20-dollar-bill. We were in Taylor, Nebraska and I was picking up some charcoal lighter fluid (not the only item we forgot) and I came out of the convenience store and $20 came blowing by. I asked the two people pumping gas and it belonged to neither of them...so there you go.

My Grandpa always told me life is like a wagon wheel. Sometimes your down in the muck and the mud and sometimes you're sitting on top in the sunshine.

At that moment – I was in the sunshine.

Oddly, there was a big ball sitting next to the pond at the bottom of the draw where I was watching the peaceful wildlife. I wondered what that ball was doing in the middle of nowhere and with me wanting to answer all of life's questions as quickly as possible, I went down the hill to

PROPERTY TAX RELIEF

By J.L. SCHMIDT Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

The Wayne

"After all is said and done, more is said than done." - Aesop

Sadly, not a fable with the 2018 Legislature. They talked a bit about important things but did little about them. They did pass some good things: regulation of opioids; education and corrections cleanup measures; raising the speed limit on certain roads. They passed a few questionable or objectionable things: license exemption for equine massages, (really?); exemption of public information on gun registrations and certain public power district records.

But the 105th Legislature, Second Session, will likely be remembered for failure to honestly address and pass meaningful tax reform. There were several proposals on the table but only the one favored by Governor Pete Ricketts and Revenue Committee Chairman Sen. Jim Smith made it to the full Legislature for debate. The reluctance of the two to consider raising other taxes to offset revenue losses caused by increased property tax relief for homeowners and farmers played a big role in the derailment of the measure. Tax breaks for corporations and the states' wealthiest didn't help the bill garner favor.

The odds are slim and next to none that 33 senators will vote to bring themselves back for a late summer special session to deal specifically with property taxes. The governor doesn't support such a move and it's highly unlikely that a workable compromise could be fashioned to stave off an almost inevitable ballot issue, which will give voters a say in the matter. If voters approve a proposed $1.1 billion plan to refund 50 percent of property taxes paid to support schools, the 2019 Legislature will be left to figure out how to pay for it.

the sponsor of a bill (LB829), which would have done the same thing as the ballot proposal, said he doesn't buy the doom and gloom tied to it. He said he's confident that he and his colleagues will figure out how to pay for it. Read that: we'll cut our way out of it just like we did with the state revenue shortfall and budget balancing this session. Kansas? No we won't get as bad as Kansas.

Doom and gloom? Think 1966 when voters did away with the state income tax and property tax. It took several months for the newly sworn 1967 Legislature and new Governor Norbert Tiemann to realize the state had no income.

That ended in enactment of a new state income and sales tax plan. While the plan saved the state, it ended Tiemann's political career. To that, he responded, "so be it." Unlike some others before and after, he said he didn't take the job to perpetuate himself in politics.

Although it wasn't the bill he had hoped to sign, Ricketts made a ceremony out of signing three tax related proposals lawmakers did pass this session. They would: Index state Social Security income tax for inflation (LB738); cleanup Department of Revenue statutes on Homestead Exemptions, audit criteria and benefits for military spouses (LB1089); restore the state's personal exemption credit that was repealed by the federal Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (LB1090).

The 469 bills introduced during the second session brought the grand total for the two-session 105th Legislature to 1,136. Slightly more than 300 of the measures from both sessions were fully debated and signed into law.

A popular idiom from World War I accurately depicts the just finished -- legislative session as "nothing to write home about." That is, it was unremarkable, ordinary and not very exciting.

I also noticed a small door, big enough for a person to crawl in and sit on the chair.

Letters Welcome

Letters from readers are welcome. They should be timely, brief (no longer than one type-written page, double spaced) and must contain no libelous statements.

We reserve the right to edit or reject any letter.

General File, last Tuesday was the last day to hear bills on Select File, and the past two Wednesdays were the last days to passing bills on Final Reading. On Wednesday, April 18th we reconvened to pass the remaining bills on Final Reading and bid farewell to the leaving Senators that had reached their term limit in office or chose not to run for a second term.

As I reflect on the session, I am disappointed in the Legislature's inability to pass property tax reform. The drastic increase in property taxes has become a dire issue for Nebraskans. Every year the legislature is held hostage by trying to create a large omnibus tax reform package that prevents us from achieving property tax relief. We need to stand our ground and produce legislation that gets something done for the people of Nebraska, and I will stand firm and ensure that the Legislature make headway on this issue. Twelve of my colleges and I have signed a letter to the Secretary of State John Gale to request a special legislative session. Secretary Gale will now be asking the remaining senators if they will agree to hold a special session, if twenty more sign on, for a total of thirty-three senators, we will convene in May to work on property taxes. Regardless if a special session convenes to continuing to work on reforming property taxes, and I hope to continue to hear your comments and concerns.

I do not believe that the ballot initiative petition that is circulating in Nebraska is the right solution to provide property tax relief and I fear it will have dire consequences for the state if passed. This plan will put a $1 billion mandate on the state and on citizens that we simply cannot afford. I encourage my constituents not to sign the petition.

On April 9th, one of the first bills we addressed on Select File was the Education Committee's priority bill LB 1081, (Groene) Change education provisions regarding reporting, penal ties, residency, boundaries, priority schools, subpoena authority, poverty, and limited English proficiency and adopt the Nebraska Reading Improvement Act. On General File, Senator Linehan's 2017 priority bill, LB 651 – Adopt the Nebraska Reading Improvement Act, was amended on to LB 1081. This bill mandates that each Nebraska public school student's progression from one grade to another be determined, in part, upon proficiency in reading. School district board policies would facilitate reading instruction and intervention services to address student reading needs. Each student and his or her school district reporting requirement that would have mandated the use of state general funds, effectively reducing the impact on the state budget. LB 1081 was heard on Final Reading on April 11th and passed with a 46-1 vote.

The Business and Labor Committee's priority bill LB 791, (Ebke) Change Nebraska State Patrol employees' bargaining rights, passed Final Reading this past week after many hours during the first two stages of debate. LB 791 makes changes to the State Employees Collective Bargaining Act regarding the Nebraska State Patrol (NSP) to eliminate certain conflicts of interest and to provide for accountability and transparency in NSP investigations. Specifically, LB 791 removes NSP sergeants from the collective bargaining unit and places them in the supervisors unit. LB 791 also removes disciplinary and investigative procedures of the NSP from the scope of collective bargaining. This bill paves the way to provide more transparency and accountability in law enforcement.

My personal priority bill LB 1040 -Provide for commemorative certificates of nonviable birth, passed Final Reading with a 44-1 vote, with Senator Bob Krist as the sole "no" vote. LB 1040 provides the option to request care practitioner. Every pregnancy loss is a tragedy that has a profound impact on women and entire families yet most go unrecognized. Whether a pregnancy is lost at 5 weeks, 12 weeks, 19 weeks, or 20 weeks and beyond, the pain of that loss can be severe and should - and now can - be recognized and honored for those who wish to do so. I want to give many thanks to all of the courageous Mothers; Jennifer Sommer, Laura Linder, Marci Petta, Jennifer Henning, Audra Pace, and Lisa Bresley that testified at the Health and Human Services Committee hearing, as well as to all the senators who spoke in favor of the bill on the floor, especially Senators Brasch, Geist, and Thibodeau for sharing their stories and experiences with pregnancy loss to the Legislature. Governor Ricketts signed LB 1040 into law on April 18th and the Department of Health and Human Services is now working to make the certificates available soon. I am incredibly proud to have sponsored this legislation to give grieving mothers and families begin their healing process after experiencing a pregnancy loss.

I want to encourage my constituents to reach out to me. I look forward to hearing from you!

Visitors were encouraged to make their way around the booths before heading to lunch in town.

Fun for all at Boomerfest

A pitch tournament started at 10 a.m. and raffle tickets were sold throughout the day to win one of the Elderfest quilts. The afternoon and evening festivities included entertainment by two bands. The Burt Heithold Band played during the afternoon while The Salt Creek Band took the stage in the evening. Folks cut loose to old favorites and even helped teach some of the younger crowd members a step or two. Wayne State College students were on hand to help sell raffle tickets, tend to the snacks and dance. Great conversation and even better company rounded off the all-day event.

Acme Club holds 'Game Day' at recent meeting was brought to order by President Bonnadell Koch at the Wayne Senior Center following lunch in the dining room.

Betty Witting brought forth the Thought for the Day — "The best thing one woman can give to another is the warm hand of understanding."

Pennies were collected during roll call. Each member was asked to name her favorite childhood games.

Virginia Backstrom read the minutes and gave the treasurer's report. Other business was conducted as needed. Virginia will prepare tray favors for Independence ACME Club meeting on April 2 Day. Delores Utecht will hostess the April 16 meeting.

Following the meeting the group was led by Delores Utecht and Ruth Victor in a number of interesting games, including a written sheet asking each member to fill in a name of each appropriate town in Nebraska in answer to a statement relating to that town. The group also played Easter bingo, Cootie, as well as dominoes. Members remarked how nice it was to meet and visit as the weather has caused the cancellation of meetings during these bad weather months. Treats and beverages were served during the games.

Learning lessons from Joseph

I love the story of Joseph in the book of Genesis. Joseph started his life by receiving a dream from God. As a young boy, God sent Joseph a dream, (actually two) that showed him he would be leading people, and in a position where his family and people beyond counting would bow down to him.

Yet Joseph's life, didn't continue in such a way that would make one think his dreams would come true. Right after this, Joseph's brothers decided to sell him to some slave traders. So Joseph who has the dream of ruling over people, becomes a slave.

Then there's some hope. Joseph lives his life in such a way as a slave that his master elevates him to a place of leadership in the home. It almost seems like Joseph's life is back on track to seeing his dream come true Then his master's wife tries to seduce Joseph, and he runs from her, but she accuses him of assaulting her and he is wrongfully thrown into prison for a crime he didn't commit. And once again Joseph's dreams seem like a long way, away.

Then Joseph interprets a couple dreams for two of the King's former servants who are in prison with him. He tells one that he is going to be taken out and killed and the other will be taken out and restored to his place in serving the King. Joseph tells the one who will be restored to remember him when he gets there, and to get him out of prison. And once again Joseph has hope. Both men get exactly what Joseph said they would, the only problem is that the restored servant forgets about Joseph for two years, and once again Joseph's dreams seem far away.

Eventually Joseph's prison buddy does remember him and Joseph interprets a dream for the King himself and tells him that seven years of abundance are coming and they will be followed by seven years of famine. Joseph is placed in a place of leadership second only to the King to help store up during the years of abundance so people will survive the years of famine.

To make a long story a little shorter. While Joseph is in leadership his brothers (the one's who sold him) come to Egypt where Joseph is because they and his father are starving. Joseph recognizes them, but they do not him. They come in to meet him and they bow before him and Joseph's dream comes to fruition. Joseph messes with them for a while, but eventually after a couple of trips he reveals himself to them and brings them and his father to live in Egypt with him.

At the end of the story of Joseph in Genesis, after Joseph's father has died and his brothers are afraid that now that their dad is gone Joseph will seek retribution, they come to Joseph telling him that dad said not to kill them. And in Genesis 50:19-20 Joseph responds and says "Do not fear, for am I in the place of God? As for you, you meant evil against me, but God meant it for good, to bring it about that many people should be kept alive, as they are today.

I don't know what your childhood dream was. I don't know what dreams God has placed on your heart, and I don't know how far or how close to those you feel you are. I do know that Joseph teaches us that no matter the roller coaster of life, the reality is that this life is not our own anyway. God created it, Jesus died for it, redeemed it, and will guide it if we let Him, and He will also return to restore all of it to just what He intended. That seems like a dream ending to me.

In the early morning of Saturday, April 7, a bus carrying 24 people journeyed to a pasture southwest of Naper. Nebraska to watch the male Sharp-tailed Grouse compete for the attention of the hens.

As the sun began to rise, several male grouse began their elaborate calls and their courtship dances despite the temperature in the single digits. Several people took up positions in a photo blind that had been strategically set up by the Game & Parks Commission a couple weeks earlier. Other people watched the annual mating ritual of the grouse from the bus.

Even though the birds seemed a little curious about the big yellow bus, they performed their dance within yards of the amazed visi-

A little after 8am, the bus left the lek area and drove into Naper where the group enjoyed a nice hot breakfast at the Naper Cafe. After breakfast, the group enjoyed informative presentations by Kelly & Jen Corman of the Northern Prairies Land Trust and Scott and Cassidy Wessel of the Nebraska Game & Parks Commission.

Land owner, Larry Anderson, and Tessa Combs of NRCS also addressed the group on ways that landowners can work with State and Federal Agencies for conservation opportunities. The group then toured the White Horse Ranch Museum.

The tour was sponsored by The Northeast Nebraska RC&D and North Central RC&D in partnership with the Nebraska Game & Parks, the Northern Prairies Land Trust, the Nebraska Natural Legacy Project, NRCS, and the Nebraska Environmental Trust.

Arbor Day - 'Rooted' in Nebraska

The Wavne

Arbor Day will be this Friday, April 27, and it has its "roots" in Nebraska.

Farmer's Wife

By: Pat Meierhenry

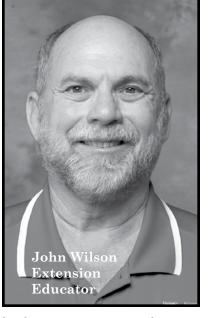

The

J. Sterling Morton described Nebraska as a "treeless prairie" when he moved here from Michigan in 1854. He proposed a tree planting holiday to the State Board of Agriculture in 1872. The first Arbor Day was observed in Nebraska on April 10 that year and more than a million trees were planted across the state.

In 1885, Arbor Day became a legal holiday in Nebraska and was moved to April 22, Morton's birthday. It remained on April 22 until 1989, when the day it is observed in Nebraska was changed to the last Friday in April. Nebraska, 23 other states, and the District of Columbia observe Arbor Day on the last Friday in April.

Arbor Day is observed in all 50 states and the District of Columbia. However, when it is observed will vary because the day frequently coincides with the optimum time to plant trees in that geographic area and this will vary greatly between states, ranging from mid-January to early December.

Arbor Day, or a similar holiday such as Tree Planting Day, is also observed in over 40 other countries. Japan was the first country, other than the United States, to observe Arbor Day ... starting in the late 1800's. Other tree planting landscape is important, there are so many other benefits that trees provide that are easy to overlook. When I ask fourth grade students at our annual Arbor Day tree planting what trees provide, the three most common answers are lumber, food (fruits and nuts) and paper. Here are some other reasons easy to overlook. I call them the three E's.

Economic - Properly placed trees provide shade in the summer, reducing your cooling costs, and protection from winter winds which winter. Those are obvious, but did parks and forests attract millions of tourists each year. However you don't have to go that far. Local parks and woodlots can be a destination for picnicers, bird watchers, hikers, and hunters. One of my favorites is, if it ever warms up and stays warm this spring, wooded areas will be calling many mushroom hunters as well.

So whatever your reason, get out and plant a tree this spring. There is no one best tree, it all depends on your needs, likes, and what you want the tree to do. However, you can narrow your selection and avoid a lot of problems in the future if you answer these five questions when choosing a tree to plant.

•Will this tree grow in my site? Consider the winter hardiness as well as the soil type, drainage and exposure of the site where it will be planted.

• Is this a commonly planted tree? Avoid planting trees that everyone else plants. I'll bet there are many people with ash trees that wish they'd planted something else when emerald ash borer gets here.

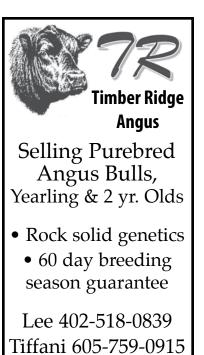

· Is this tree fairly disease and insect free? If the tree you're considering has known pest problems, select something else. There are too many good trees to pick something that has a high likelihood of problems.

• Is the mature tree the right size can cut your heating costs in the and shape for my location or for the needed landscape function? This is pick a tree that would work for their site, but plant it to close to buildings, sidewalks, or power lines.

Will this tree enhance my landscape aesthetically? Consider what the tree will add to your landscape throughout the year. Does it flower in the spring, provide shade where you want it in the summer, have good fall color, or add winter interest?

Definition: "the capacity to accept or tolerate delay, trouble, or suffering without getting angry or upset."

Patience sounds so simple in theory, but we all know that the reality of it is so much more profoundly complicated. We all have that internal clock that is seemingly programmed to switch our mental state in April. We have been making plans and preparations for four months now on how we are going to do it better this year than ever before. We are going to make sure we don't repeat the sins and mistakes of the past. It's nothing new for us to sit here April 15th - 20th and wonder if it is time to start planting. We are used to cool and wet soils, and less than ideal planting conditions. We seem to work around that at some point every planting season. What is different though is that usually, we have our other field work done and don't feel quite so behind before we even start.

The reality of thi year's situation for some of us, especially the farther North that you go is that there is still a lot of field work to do. With all of that field work comes even more opportunities to cause problems for this season. Most of us are going to have a nearly full soil profile to start this crop off with which is great. But that also means that we will have more opportunities than normal to cause compaction layers, whether through spring tillage, fertilizer application, or other trips across the field. So, lesson number one in patience, stay out of the field when conditions are too wet.

I am sure I don't need to remind you about how last planting season went. We planted our first corn at the Innovation site in Bellwood on April 17th. Then we got rained out, and the weather took a turn. The soil temp dropped several degrees before we got back into the field. Against our better judgment, we did a little planting on the 26th of April, but it was 39 degrees outside, and the forecast was to stay wet for a while. So we planted two rounds to compare it to earlier and later plantings. Then we finally got on the field on the 12th of May, and we had a soil that was fit to plant, and was warm enough for germination and getting warmer.

The results of that test were that our last planted crop was the best. Even though the soil didn't cool much for the corn planted on the 26th, it was lagging on yield by a couple of bushels. Where we saw the big difference was the corn planted on the 17th of April into what proved to be cooling soil. We lost around 12 bushels in yield vs. what was planted on May 12th. That equals over 40 dollars off of the bottom line that we have no chance to get back the rest of the year. And our cost to capture that $40, was nothing more than some patience.

As for the take home for today, planting conditions (both today and in the future) trump calendar date. If I could have you do one thing right now, it would be to throw out your calendar and not worry about the date. Planting at the right time has a bigger impact on our maximum profit than planting early. That is why you will continually hear me saying to plant into warming soils, and don't mud it in. All of the technology in the world won't erase planting into wrong conditions. So, do your very best right now to be patient. Last year I harvested 300 bushel plus corn that was 110-day maturity that was planted on May 7th. We can wait for better conditions and still be successful. festivals have been documented as early as 1594 in Spain.

So what makes Arbor Day unique? I've already mentioned a couple things... originating in Nebraska and being observed on different dates in different states. I think the thing that really sets Arbor Day apart from other holidays is other holidays commemorate things that happened in the past. When we plant a tree, we are doing something that looks to the future.

I am frequently asked for recommendations on what tree to plant, usually for a landscape. While our you consider how trees affect the value of your home. A recent nationwide survey of appraisers indicated mature trees can increase the value of a home up to 25 percent.

Environment - Trees can help hold soil from eroding and filter runoff before it reaches lakes, streams, and rivers. In addition, trees remove carbon dioxide and return oxygen to the atmosphere. A mature tree will provide enough oxygen for up to 10 people for a year.
