School board approves adding fourth kindergarten teacher

By Clara Osten,
clara@wayneherald.com

Approval was given to move forward with adding a fourth section of kindergarteners at Wayne Community Schools for the 2018-2019 school year.

Preliminary enrollment figures show that the class will have 81 students. This would result in each of the three kindergarten teachers having 27 students.

Superintendent Mark Lenihan presented information to the board on where an additional classroom could be located and noted that fire codes require kindergarten and first grade students to be on the first floor of a building.

Two rooms in the elementary building could be made into one, 600 square foot room and allow for a class of 15-18 students.

The financial impact of adding an additional staff member was discussed and board members said the class will be assessed on an annual basis to determine how many students are enrolled and the need for the fourth section. They did indicate that the position would be a permanent one, rather than a temporary one.

The board also approved, with regrets, the resignation of Dr. Lindsay McLaughlin as Wayne Community Schools Foundation Director. Dr. McLaughlin has accepted a teaching position with Wayne State College.

The resignation will become effective June 20.

A bid for copy and printing was approved from Eakes Office Solutions in Norfolk. The bid is for $1,986.70 per month with a five year contract.

Superintendent Mark Lenihan told the board that the district currently spends approximately $3,1000 per month on printing costs.

A quote was received from Marco, a firm based in Iowa that was approximately $100 per month lower. However, the district is allowed to give preference to an in-state business. Superintendent Lenihan told the board that Eakes has offered to remove the current equipment at their cost and has several other incentives that make their bid a better option.

First reading approval was given to the 2018-2019 Junior-Senior High School Student Handbook.

High School Principal Mark Hanson and Junior High Principal Dennis Dolliver highlighted some of the changes.

Among these is the way the school will determine the Valedictorian and Salutatorian of each graduating class, starting with the students who will graduate in 2022 (those who will be freshmen during the 2018-2019 school year). The determination will be made on a 100 percent scale, rather than a 4.0 scale. This will allow for grades to be calculated out to several decimal points. In the event of a tie at that point, the ACT score will be used to determine class ranking.

The Wayne Community Schools Board of Education will next meet in regular session on Monday, June 11 at 5 p.m. in the junior-senior high school.

Housing grant, vehicle purchases on council agenda

By Clara Osten,
clara@wayneherald.com

A presentation was held and two proclamations read prior to the dealing with agenda items at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Mayor Jill Brodersen and the City Council presented a plaque to former mayor Ken Chamberlain for his years of service to the city of Wayne on both the City Council and as mayor.

Chamberlain thanked the mayor and council and said "This is very humbling. It has been my honor to serve the city of Wayne."

Mayor Brodersen also read proclamations in regard to Police Memorial Day (May 15) and Public Works Week (May 20-26).

Information was presented to the Wayne City Council in regard to a workforce housing grant for the area.

Luke Virgil, Executive Director of Wayne Area Economic Development, spoke to the council on the money that has been allocated to the city of Wayne, city of Wakefield and Wayne County. The total amount of money that will be used for workforce housing in the three funds is $1,639,000. This includes $622,820 for the city of Wayne; $961,546.67 for the city of Wakefield and $54,633.33 for Wayne County.

Last year the state legislature allocated $7 million from the Nebraska Affordable Housing Trust Fund to be granted to community for provide workforce housing. The money is being allocated through a community and state-wide program known as LB518.

Earlier this year, the city committed $200,000 to a grant submission request for the money and noted that there would be a dollar-for-dollar match from funds contributed by area businesses and individuals.

Virgil noted that $37,500 has been contributed by businesses and the Wayne Area Economic Development has pledged an additional $10,000.

Council members did approve a total of $237,500 to the project (the original $200,000 and the $37,500 match).

Exact details for allocating and distributing the grant money have not been finalized, but Virgil noted that a group of people will be asked to form a board to oversee the

Transportation of generators topic of discussion at meeting

In a brief meeting of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, a main point of discussion centered on the transportation of wind turbine generators through Wayne on county roads.

Highway Superintendent Mark Casey was contacted before the last meeting by a transport company moving the hundreds of thousands of pounds of generators on 21st Street and Centennial Road.

The company agreed to pay for 300 tons of rock to be placed on the graveled portions of the two roads and an additional 300 tons after the transportation takes place but didn't have any response to Casey's questions of costs associated with fixing any realized damages.

Casey and the commissioners discussed how to handle it and decided to hold off signing the permit until the transportation company had an acceptable response about damages.

In other news, the commissioners approved the contract renewal with GIS for the County Assessor at $7,160 per year for five years to keep the price locked in. Previously the contract was for 3 years. The county's cost would have gone up if they elected to stick with a 3 year contract.

Haven House contacted the commissioners in regards to the potential office space availability in the facility they plan to move into. The organization wondered if the county would consider moving the DHHS office to their new facility. At this time, the commissioners elected to make no move, stating the contract is for another two years in their current space.

The commissioners agreed to stay at the $25,000 pledged to the housing fund being set up by Wayne Community Housing Development and Wayne Area Economic Development. The state only awarded 69 percent of the $1 million maximum, but the commissioners agreed the workforce housing crisis was worth spending money on, regardless of how much the state gave.

The commissioner's next meeting will be held June 5 at 9:00 a.m. in the courthouse.

Looking Ahead in Wayne

By Wes Blecke, City Administrator

City Council meetings
Regular Wayne City Council meetings are at 5:30 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month in City Hall at Third and Pearl Streets. We would be super excited if you would join us!

Tree Trimming
The trees are starting to leaf out and new growth is prominent. You may like to trim your trees at certain times of the year, but the City wants to remind everyone to be considerate of those using the sidewalks as walkers, runners, and bikers. The law states that all trees hanging over the sidewalks shall be trimmed to seven (7) feet above the ground. This should be ample height for pedestrians and property owners alike to enjoy the beautiful trees in our community.

Grass and Weeds
With the steady rains the last few days and warmer temperatures, grass and weeds are starting to grow quickly. This is a reminder to mow, and to mow in the lawful direction if discharging grass clippings out of the side of the mower. It is unlawful to allow weeds, grasses or worthless vegetation to grow

12 inches or greater in height. When you do mow, make that first path with your mower blowing away from the curb so clippings are not being deposited into the street. If you should happen to get clippings in the street, please sweep them up and discard them appropriately. It is not allowed "to place...in the gutter of any street, dirt, rock, gravel, leaves, grass..."

If you have questions about these laws, or observe someone violating these laws please contact the City.

Pet Licensing
We will call this the trifecta for law/code reminders for this time of year.

Chapter 90 of the Wayne City Code requires all dogs and cats be licensed during the month of May. New licensing and renewal licensing is $6 per animal. If a pet owner forgets to renew, the cost goes up to $21 on June 1. So get those pets licensed in May and make sure "Scruffy" and "Boots" are returned to their rightful owner should they ever escape your home!

Ikes to hold annual Open Gate Day May 19

The Wayne Izaak Walton League is offering an invitation to everyone to the Annual Open Gate Day on Saturday, May 19.

The gate to the recreational area will be open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. This day coincides with the Nebraska Game and Parks free fishing day so those attending do not need a license.

"All are welcome to come out to the area and see what we have to offer for outdoor activities," said Erin Eilers, President of the Wayne Izaak Walton League.

While visiting the facility everyone is welcome to fish, have a picnic, and enjoy the outdoors. Ike's Lake, from Wayne, is located four miles north, two miles west, and a 1/2 mile north on the right side of the road.

"We encourage our members to use the area for fishing, camping, picnicking, and birdwatching. A 2018 Membership is $60, which is available at Select Appliance. Membership fees go into stocking the lake, maintaining the area, upgrading the facility, as well as aquatic vegetation control which is being done more regularly to promote fishable areas," Eilers said.

The Ikes Club is currently working to do fund raising for a lake restoration project. The group plans to deepen portions of the lake and is looking to put in a well that will help maintain lake water levels, as it is needed.

Anyone interested in donating to the restoration efforts, is asked to drop off donations at Select Appliance.

"Those with children or grandchildren mark your calendar. We will be having our annual youth fishing derby this year on Father's day weekend, the morning of Saturday, June 16. The following day, Sunday afternoon will be rain-out date," Eilers said.

For more information on upcoming events follow us on Facebook at "Wayne Izaak Walton League."

Roy Reed Post 252 - American Legion Family in Winside - will conduct its annual Poppy Day on Saturday, May 26 from 9 a.m. to noon at the following businesses in Wayne: Bomgaars, Shopko and Pac N Save. Junior members will canvas the businesses in downtown Wayne as well.

"We invite the public to stop by our displays and join us by wearing a red Memorial Poppy to remember those who made the ultimate sacrifice and support the future of veterans and their families for generations to come. Donations received are used to purchase the materials to make the Memorial Poppy and to provide for an item at the Norfolk Veterans Home through the District 3 Auxiliary President's Project. We set no price — we accept all donations. Poppy canisters are also placed at the Store and Co-op in Winside," said Beverly Neel, Department Vice President of the American Legion Auxiliary for Nebraska.

Carnes set to assume Outreach Coordinator role at Haven House

WAYNE, Neb. — A new employee who is a familiar face to the area will begin work at Haven House on Monday, May 21, as Michael Carnes has accepted the position as Outreach Coordinator for the domestic violence and sexual assault service center in Wayne.

Carnes has been a part of Haven House for more than five years as a member of its Board of Directors, and is stepping aside from the position to begin work for the area non-profit that helps survivors of domestic violence and sexual assault in Wayne, Cedar, Dixon, Dakota and Thurston counties.

He brings a wealth of experience and contacts to the position, and is a strong advocate for Haven House as a survivor of sexual assault who has written a book about his experience, "Call Me A Survivor," that was self-published in 2012.

"I was already aware of Haven House when I wrote my book, and the staff that was there at the time helped me out with opportunities to speak out about my experience, so when I was asked to join the board, it was a chance I couldn't pass up and I'm proud to have served Haven House in that capacity," he said.

His previous experience as managing editor of The Wayne Herald and his current work as owner of Mikey C Productions and publisher of WayneAmerica.com, along with his background in sexual assault awareness, made him a great fit for his new role as Outreach Coordinator for Haven House, according to Amy Munderloh, executive director.

Carnes said he plans to continue operating Mikey C Productions and WayneAmerica.com while assuming the Outreach Coordinator duties for Haven House.

Michael Carnes

"I'm used to juggling multiple balls at one time when it comes to my work, so to be able to add on the important duties of Outreach Coordinator for Haven House to my current work will not be a problem for me," he said. "Some of my work with Mikey C Productions already ties into what I will be doing for Haven House, so it should be a pretty smooth transition."

Haven House is a 501c3 non-profit agency that serves domestic violence and sexual assault survivors with an array of support services. For more information, call (402) 375-5433 or visit www.havenhousefsc.org.

For a good cause

Dr. Benjamin Martin was pied in the face by Beth Sievers last week as part of a fundraiser to Haven House. Sievers wasn't expecting to have revenge exacted upon her, but Martin said he'd been planning all week to do it if he was chosen to be pied. Employees at PMC put donations in different jars to select who out of CEO Jim Frank, Dr. Mark McCorkindale, Ross Hansen PA-C and Martin would be the lucky winner. PMC matched the donations, giving a total of $1,584 donated to Haven House. Below, Sievers and Martin pose after the pie fight. Wayne State senior thrower Michaela Dendinger completed the throwing triple crown for the second straight year at the NSIC Outdoor Track and Field Championships Saturday, winning the hammer throw, shot put and discus to highlight the Wayne State women's eighth-place finish in the conference meet in Winona, Minn.

Dendinger started the day with a first-place mark in the hammer throw at 203 feet, 3 inches. She followed that with a new NSIC record and NCAA automatic qualifying mark of 54-3 3/4 to take first place in the shot put and completed the triple crown sweep in field events for a second straight year winning the discus at 166-6.

The first-place finish by Dendinger in the discus marked the fifth time in the last six years that a Wildcat thrower was the NSIC champion in the event. Dendinger also won the event last year, preceded by wins from Kacie O'Connor in 2016 and Sara Wells in 2013 and 2014.

Freshman Jadin Wagner earned All-NSIC honors with a second-place finish in the shot put at 47-9, an NCAA provisional qualifying mark. In the discus, O'Connor recorded a fifth-place finish at 143-9 with teammate Kenzie Sullivan right behind in sixth place at 141-8.

Graduate student Mary Alderson completed the Wildcat scoring, taking fourth in the 400-meter dash with a time of 56.64 seconds.

The Wayne State men used depth and balance with two conference champions and seven All-NSIC finishers to place fourth with 92 points.

Minnesota State won a seventh straight NSIC men's outdoor team title with 191 points followed by the University of Mary in second place at 102.5 points and Augustana third with 98.

Brogan Jones won the 400-meter dash and will also be in two relays for Allen at this week's state track meet in Omaha. Below, Dylan Brogren gave Winside a second qualifier in this week's state track meet by winning the 800-meter run in the D-4 district meet at Hartington.

Winside, Allen send qualifiers to state track

HARTINGTON — Athletes from Allen and Winside earned trips to next week's state track meet with qualifying efforts Wednesday in the D-4 district at the Hochstein Athletic Complex.

For Winside, JaShaun Vyborny qualified in two events and Dylan Brogren also earned a spot in the state meet.

After falling one place short each of the last three years, Vyborny hit an automatic qualifying mark in his first attempt in the triple jump and finished fourth with a best mark of 41 feet, 2 inches. He added a second event to his agenda for next week, taking runner-up honors in the 1,600-meter run with a time of 5:09.16.

Brogren gave Winside a third state qualifier, winning the 800-meter run in a time of 2:06.03.

Allen picked up qualifiers in both the boys and girls team races, led by the boys winning two of three relay races with wins in the 3,200 and 1,600-meter relays. The team had a chance to sweep the relays, but a dropped baton cost them in the 400-meter relay. Alli

Jackson was also a double winner, dominating the middle-distance runs with wins in the 400 (1:01.87) and 800 (2:29.29).

Bri Hingst qualified with a runner-up time of 51.08 seconds in the 300-meter hurdles, Desi Martell took runner-up honors in the girls high jump at 4 feet, 10 inches, and Brogan Jones in the boys 400-meter run with a winning time of 53.11 seconds.

The Allen girls 1,600-meter relay team finished second, but can still make it to state if their time is one of the seven fastest non-qualifying marks from the 11 Class D district meets held Wednesday.

Class D will compete alongside Class B during the morning session of the Nebraska State Track and Field Championships on Friday, May 18 at Omaha Burke High School. The two-day meet concludes on Saturday, May 19.

Wildcats go 1-2 in NSIC baseball tourney to end season

Augustana starting pitcher Jacob Blank limited Wayne State to a trio of singles over eight innings of shutout ball as the 11th-ranked Vikings blanked the Wildcats 11-0 Wednesday in the opening round of the 2018 NSIC Baseball Tournament played at Karras Park in Sioux Falls, S.D.

The host Vikings (41-8) plated single runs in the first and second innings and two more in the third to take a 4-0 lead on Wildcat freshman starter Aaron Ras.

Augustana then chased Ras in the fifth by scoring three runs for a 7-0 lead. The Vikings added two runs in the sixth and another in the seventh off Wildcat reliever Charles Hasty for a 10-0 advantage.

Meanwhile, Blank was holding the Wildcat offense in check, as he allowed two base runners in just one inning during his eight innings.

Wayne State scored four runs in the top of the ninth inning to rally for a 9-7 win Thursday afternoon over Winona Bisenius in the first, an infield single by Andrew Hanson in the second and a single to center field in the fourth from Travis Miller. The second inning was the only time Wayne State had two base runners in the same inning, as Hanson led off with an infield single followed by a walk to catcher Garrett Graveline.

Wildcat senior Rob Ramsey produced a pinch-hit double to right field in the ninth inning for the lone extra base hit of the contest for Wayne State.

Wayne State scored four runs in the top of the ninth inning to rally for a 9-7 win Thursday afternoon over Winona

State in an elimination game.

Wayne State opened the scoring in the second on a Hanson RBI single that scored Miller, then took a 3-0 lead with two more runs in the top of the fourth as Miller and Hanson both scored when Thompson reached base on a Warrior fielding error.

Winona State responded with three runs in the bottom of the frame and two more in the fifth to take a 5-3 lead, but the Wildcats evened the score at 5-5 in the top of the sixth with a two-run single from Graveline that scored Miller and Hanson.

The Warriors broke the 5-5 tie in the bottom of the eighth before the Wildcats' late-inning magic sent the Warriors home for the season.

Simons started the rally with an RBI double followed by a pinch-hit run-scoring double from Bisenius. A Miller RBI single gave the Wildcats an 8-6 and Jake Lorenzini added another insurance run with a sacrifice fly that scored Lorenzini. Winona State scored a run in the bottom of the seventh, but Wayne State held on for the win.

Miller went 4-for-5 with four runs scored to lead a 14-hit attack. Simons went 2-for-5 with a double, triple and RBI while Andrew Hanson finished 2-for-4 with a double and two runs.

Sophomore reliever Lawson Zenner recorded the win with two innings of relief. He was charged with two runs on four hits with four strikeouts. Sophomore starter Hunter Wienhoff worked seven innings and gave up five runs (two earned) on four hits with four strikeouts and three walks.

Wayne State was eliminated Thursday evening from the 2018 NSIC Baseball Tournament with a 12-6 loss to Northern State at Sioux Falls Stadium, ending its season with a 21-26 record.

The Wildcats never led in the contest as the Wolves opened the game with a four-run first inning. All of Wayne State's runs in the game were unearned as both teams made five errors.

Wayne State scored two runs in the bottom of the first, using two Wolves errors along with an RBI single from Travis Miller to trail 4-2 after one inning.

Northern State added a run in the third and put the game out of reach with a five-run fourth inning, chasing Wildcat starter Aidan Breedlove.

The Wildcats scored one run in the fifth as senior designated hitter Rob Ramsey singled and later scored on a Northern State throwing error.

The Wolves closed out their scoring with two runs in the sixth and Wayne State scored three runs in the bottom of the eighth, highlighted by an Andrew Hanson RBI triple and RBI singles by Northeast excels in SkillsUSA competition with 19 champs

Northeast Community College students excelled in a competition that showcases the best career and technical education students in Nebraska. Northeast crowned 19 state champion medalists and swept the competition in two categories at the SkillsUSA State Leadership and Skills Conference held recently at the Heartland Events Center and Fonner Park in Grand Island.

In the competition, students in skilled and technical education science contests work against the clock and each other, proving their expertise in occupations such as electronics, computer-aided drafting, precision machining, medical assisting and culinary arts. The philosophy of the championships is to reward students for excellence, to involve industry in directly evaluating student performance and to keep training relevant to employers' needs.

More than 1,500 students competed in the event. Northeast took the top three positions in the Architectural Drafting competition. Marco Moreno, South Sioux City, was named 2018 Nebraska State SkillsUSA Champion while Tanner Stelling, Milford, placed second, and Macy Olson, Albion, was third.

Northeast also swept the medal categories in the Internetworking competition. Jesse Wiseman, Hubbard, earned 2018 Nebraska State SkillsUSA Champion honors, while Andres Bustamante, Burwell, and Kelsi Havlovic, Norfolk, took second and third, respectively.

Several Northeast students took bronze and silver medals in other competitions. Matt Lewis, Bellwood, took silver in Carpentry, while Michael Zavala-Taylor, Lyons, was third in Collision Repair Technology. John Meis, Elgin, took third place in Diesel Equipment Technology; Caleb Storch, Seward, second in Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning and Refrigeration (HVAC); and Bryce Coble, Onawa, IA, earned second in the Masonry competition.

In addition, Tanner Knight, Ord, received a $500 SkillsUSA Nebraska Scholarship Award, sponsored by the Nebraska Trucking Association for his 12th place finish in the Diesel Technology competition.

Twenty Northeast instructors - Tony Hoffman (electrical), Paul Bailey and John Nelson (HVAC), John Knapp and Michael McCarthy (welding), Ryan Hobza and Curtis Brandt (building construction), Tony Milenkovich (diesel), Bowdie Otte (automotive service technology), Brian Anderson (broadcasting), Lynnette Frey and Michael Holcomb (drafting), Dave Beaudette and Tom Hoile (auto body), Jay Pease (plumbing), Richard Chrisman and Brad Vogt (information technology), Phil Shimonitz (graphic design), Steve Wagner (diversified manufacturing) and John Liewer (wind energy) attended the competition as advisors.

City Offers Alley Improvement Cost-Share Program

The City of Wayne will offer property owners the opportunity to improve their alleys on a cost-share basis. The warmer weather makes this the ideal time to plan for improvements in alleys that may become soft and difficult to travel this spring.

Property owners wishing to participate in this program should obtain a petition from the City Clerk's office at 306 Pearl Street and circulate it among the other property owners adjacent to the alley. As in the past, the city will share the costs of improvements with property owners signing the petition being responsible for one-half the cost. The cost to be shared by those signing the petition will be $210 for crushed quartzite red rock for a distance of one block. Improvements will be made after the City Clerk receives the signed petition and as weather permits.

Improvements will be made only on through or open alleys for a full block distance. The city wishes to remind property owners that even though they may not use the alley where improvements are requested, their sewer, garbage collection, telephone, cable television, electricity, natural gas, and other services may be delivered from that alley.

Have a story idea?

We'd love to hear about it!

Call our office at 402-375-2600 and ask for Calyn or Clara.

Open houses will be held next week for the public to tour two student-designed-and-built, new homes at Northeast Community College in Norfolk. The houses will be sold at public auction in June.

The open houses will be held Tuesday, May 22, and Thursday, May 24, from 7-9 p.m., at Northeast Community College. The homes will be auctioned Saturday, June 2, at 10 a.m., at the college.

The first home, a 1,620-square-foot, two-bedroom home with an attached two-car garage, also has main and master bathrooms, formal dining room, main-floor utility room, and coffered and vaulted ceilings. This home also has granite kitchen countertops, Integrity casement windows, and R-21 sidewalls and R-44 attic cellulose insulation.

The second home is a 1,652-square-foot, three-bedroom home, also with an attached two-car garage, main and master baths, formal dining room, and coffered ceilings. In addition, this home has granite kitchen countertops, Anderson casement windows, and R-21 sidewalls and R-44 attic cellulose insulation.

Monty Johnson, dean of Applied Technology at Northeast, said these homes have pre-painted fiber cement siding, asphalt shingles, and laminate flooring in the entryways, kitchens and dining rooms. These houses also have Perche' oak millwork stained to match the built-in custom cabinetry.

Both homes include all water, vent and waste lines extended to floor joist level for ease of hook-up and 2x6-inch exterior stud walls with cellulose insulation throughout. According to Johnson, these homes meet or exceed local and state building codes. All electrical conveniences were installed in accordance with the national electric and FHA code. Circuits are tested and connected to a 200-amp breaker panel.

Buyers must pay 20 percent down the day of the sale and the balance when the home is moved at buyer's expense within 60 days. A sales tax of seven-percent will be collected at final closing.

MIKE'S MIC

Mother's Day is for all Mothers

By MIKE RENNING

mikesportshome@yahoo.com

First off, let me preface this entire diatribe with the fact, my Darling Wife is not pretentious, she explained that fact to me on many occasions early in our marriage, so I know she's not.

In fact, when she first explained to me how she wasn't pretentious, I had to look it up to find out just what it was she wasn't.

Many years ago, when the Darling Wife and I first married, I learned many important lessons about life and the enjoyment of life.

Some of those lessons were self-evident, some were rather hard learned.

For instance, when your extremely pregnant wife asks for ice cream, cheesecake, pickles...anything for that matter, no matter the time of day or night - dutifully get out of bed, go to the nearest grocery store and buy what she requests.

If you ever want to have more children, this is a must.

And by the way, never, and I mean never, tell her you'll get it in the morning.

I was on probation for just such an act for most of the late 1980's.

I had many more serious and less serious infractions to the "marriage code" for the first decade we were hitched.

Just like training a toddler - I spent a lot of time in "timeout".

I'm still far from perfect but I have come to realize there's a dozen or more infractions you need to completely stay away from.

At some point, I may develop a list, but life-lessons are better experienced and not just read in a newspaper or book.

Like the concept of electricity. You can read how alternating current works but until you touch two live wires together, you really don't get it.

Put two live wires together and you'll fully understand why it's easier to just trip a breaker before you think you can do it "live".

Remember back to our bathroom renovation a few months ago...and that was the third or fourth time I ended up on the ground from wiring a fixture "live".

Of all the lessons I have learned, the one mistake I will never make again involves Mother's Day.

The first Mother's Day we spent together was a piece of cake.

Newly married, looking for any reason for a celebration, along came Mother's Day.

I took the Darling Wife to the local truck stop for breakfast. In hindsight, breakfast in bed may have been a better idea, but like I said - the Darling Wife is not pretentious, she appreciated the gesture.

It was the second Mother's Day that landed me in the dog house and the dog in the house.

A couple of single friends and I had decided to go fishing one Sunday in May and had the entire day planned.

We were living in Kadoka, South Dakota at the time and around Kadoka, you drove around to various stock ponds to catch bass.

Where's Kadoka? Well, go west on Interstate 80 and if you get to Wall Drug, turn around and go back east for 40 miles.

At any rate, I got up on that wonderful Sunday morning, gave the Darling Wife a little peck on the cheek, grabbed my fishing gear and headed for the door.

Evidently, I woke the Darling Wife up as she cut me off from getting out the door and had one of the eeriest looks I've ever witnessed across her face.

I looked in her eyes and suddenly felt a cold chill go through my entire body.

The hair on the back of my neck stood up like an angry German Shepard.

She asked me if I knew what day it was?

I responded it was Sunday.

She replied what Sunday, don't you know it's Mother's Day?

Then I uttered the four words that cost me my late 1980's. "You're not my Mother."

In 34 years of wedded bliss there are three things I am absolutely, positively certain about; there is a God, the Darling Wife is not pretentious and I know exactly when it's Mother's Day.

Capitol View

Heavy lifting looms for lawmakers

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Lawmakers failed (again) to deliver promised property tax relief.

Some blame the Governor for meddling and mucking up the water with income tax relief. Others say it was senators who were betting that a ballot issue would be the answer. The ballot issue folded and lawmakers were left to drag the issue to next year's session, much like the unwieldy creature it has become.

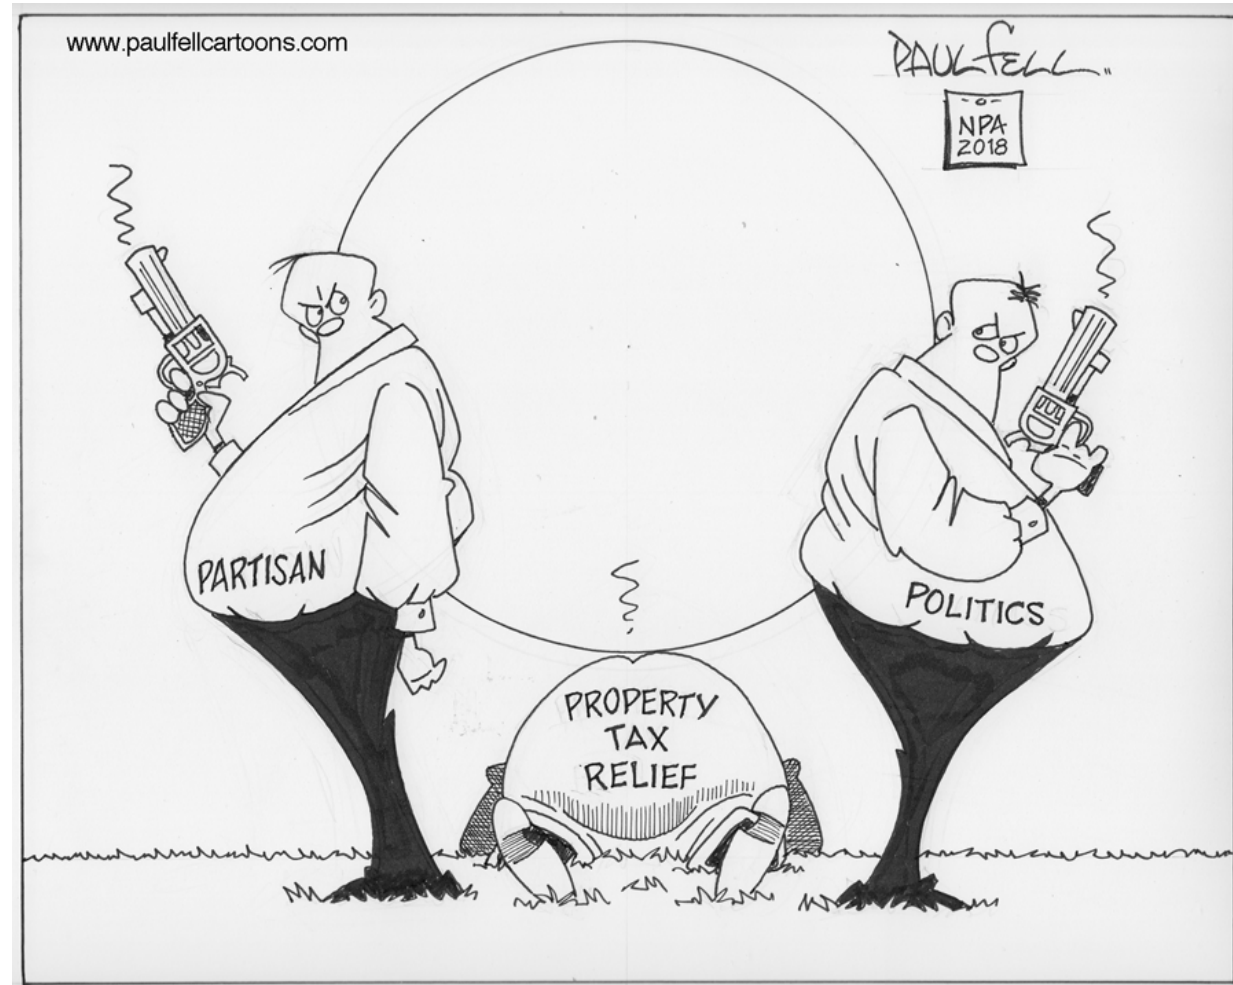

But hey, it's an election year and taking stands on things like taxes can translate into losses. It is safe to say that Governor Pete Ricketts would have liked to use the success of "his" tax bill as a plum. But "his" bill - carried, no make that pushed - by Senator Jim Smith of Papillion didn't get advanced and died at the end of the session with better proposals from several other senators.

So, what's next? There will be a lot of talk. Talk is cheap. It is what politicians do when they face reelection. It's what they do when they don't have any good ideas or are afraid that the ideas they do have might offend someone or cost them votes.

This group of 49 has talked about a lot of things: corrections; expanded health care coverage; property tax relief. The list goes on. Prisons are still overcrowded; the neediest Nebraskans can't afford health insurance; property taxes are still too high.

The statewide petition drive to place a billion-dollar property tax relief initiative on Nebraska's general election ballot this November was suddenly abandoned. The proposal mirrored a bill sponsored by Senator Steve Erdman of Bayard. The Erdman bill and proposals from Senator Tom Briese of Albion and Curt Friesen of Henderson all fell by the wayside as Smith pushed the Governor's bill.

When the petition abandonment was announced, Erdman said he felt like he had been stabbed in the back (again). Not that anybody is keeping track, but the first wound was when Ricketts gave money to the campaign of Erdman's opponent two years ago. The second came during the recently completed legislative session when his bill didn't get top priority.

Perhaps the initiative petition was ill fated from the start. Organizers were gathering signatures to get the matter on the November ballot when spokesman Trent Fellers of Lincoln announced they should have sought a proposed constitutional amendment as a more secure way to guarantee property tax relief.

The proposal promised property tax relief equal to 50 percent of local school property tax needs. The measure would leave it to the Legislature and the governor to determine how to increase state revenue and/or reduce funding for state programs and services to pay for the relief which carried an estimated $1 billion price tag.

However, because the proposal was framed in terms of an initiated law rather than written into the state constitution, Fellers said there had been growing concern among initiative sponsors that the Legislature could take it away. Well duh! Did somebody think of that before the signature drive started?

The Legislature is empowered to amend, modify or repeal any initiative that is enacted by the electorate with a two-thirds vote, or at least 33 of the 49 senators. Erdman said he can't believe that Fellers and others involved didn't know that.

He prefers a theory that somebody put pressure on somebody else "to end this." He said it looks like Nebraskans are going to get the same kind of property tax relief they've gotten for the last 40 years, "and that's nothing."

There is speculation that it could have been Governor Deep Pockets threatening to finance a campaign to undo the initiative. It wouldn't be out of character for Ricketts who threw at least $300,000 at a petition drive to overturn the Legislature's repeal of the death penalty. Ricketts also gave financial support to several challengers to defeat senators who overrode his veto of the death penalty.

As I've said before, he can do whatever he wants to with his own - or the family's - money. It's a free country. But, am I the only person who finds it distasteful - yea even disgusting - that he uses personal wealth to get his own way?

Let's get that topic on the table and discuss it for a change.

J.L. Schmidt has been covering Nebraska government and politics since 1979. He has been a registered Independent for 19 years.

Legislative Update

Interim offers time to learn, connect

With the legislative interim in full-swing, I have had a few great weeks in the district. During the summer I enjoy spending time connecting with constituents and learning about the issues facing our community. As I learn more about the issues our community experiences, I discuss possible solutions with my staff and colleagues and decide if pursuing legislation is the best option. We also continuously research and examine options to address property taxes, education funding, and economic development; my top three priorities in the Legislature. As I continue to pursue solutions to the biggest issues facing Nebraskans, I am happy to listen to constituent concerns and legislative ideas as we gear up for the 2019 session.

I was thrilled last week to attend a ceremonial bill signing for pro-life legislation in Norfolk with Governor Ricketts and fellow senators to highlight Nebraska's proven pro-life budget and legislative record. At the event, Governor Ricketts' highlighted the 105th Legislature's success in passing pro-life legislation; including the creation of the "Choose Life"

Legislative Update

license plates, the passage of my bill LB 1040 that recognizes pre-born life and allows for optional commemorative birth certificates to mothers who miscarry before 20 weeks gestation, and our pro-life budget that prevented Title X dollars from funding abortion-related services. In addition to legislation passed the last two years, Governor Ricketts recently announced a new maternity leave donation program for state teammates. Starting in January, expecting mothers or new mothers who work for the state can receive donated vacation and compensatory time from their co-workers to expand their own paid time off while on family medical leave. This program will give new mothers additional flexibility to invest their time, love, and care in their newborn child. I continue to be inspired by and proud of Nebraska's pro-life record.

Since the end of session, the ballot initiative petition that was circulating to put a $1 billion mandate on the state and citizens to fund property tax relief was disbanded. I did not support the ballot initiative petition and the illogical mandate it would put on Nebraska citizens. I am happy to hear that the Legislature will be given another chance to address property taxes next session. Every year the Legislature is held hostage by trying to create a large omnibus tax reform package that prevents us from coming to a common agreement and achieving property tax relief. I am hopeful, given recent events, that the Legislature will be able to advance a package that will solely address property taxes. I will stand firm and ensure that the Legislature make headway on property tax reform.

I would like to send a special congratulations to the graduating members of District 17. From pre-kindergarten to high school and college, you have all reached a major milestone and accomplishment in your lives and I am proud to represent you. Congratulations! I am excited to see what your bright future holds for you and our community.

I want to encourage my constituents to reach out to me, I look forward to hearing from you!

Lifestyle

How to eat as you age

Eating well helps keep your body strong, your mind sharp, and your energy level up as you age. So put these five types of foods on your grocery list.

The first is colorful fruits and vegetables. The darker the red, the deeper the green, the more yellow, the more orange - they're the foods that have function. Their natural color means they're loaded with vitamins and antioxidants. Blueberries, red raspberries, and dark cherries are ideal fruits, but you can't miss with any of the dark, leafy vegetables like spinach, kale, and Swiss chard. You can have them all year because, when it comes to nutrients, frozen is just as good as fresh.

Dairy is an incredibly important food group for people as they get older. Calcium needs are high and they stay high, and you can't get any other foods with as much calcium as dairy. Milk, for example, gives you nearly all the calcium you need in three 8-ounce servings. Dairy's also a great source of vitamin D - it's essential for healthy bones. Many people don't get enough of it, and with age, it gets harder for your body to make vitamin D just by being out in the sunshine. Stick to low-fat or nonfat milk, yogurt, and cheese.

Whole grains are powerhouse foods that are pantry essentials. A good source of B vitamins, they are also loaded with fiber. Whole-grain foods are easy to find in the form of oatmeal, whole grain bread, quinoa, and many cereals.

A lot of foods will give you the protein you need, like fish, poultry, meat, beans, legumes, nuts, and dairy products. If you choose to eat meat, make it lean. If you can see a layer of fat, it is saturated fat and associated with bad cholesterol. Steer clear of huge portions, visualizing a deck of cards when choosing a serving of meat. If more than that is on your plate, box it up for later or take it off your plate before you begin eating to avoid temptation.

Another essential is fish with Omega-3's. Oily fish like salmon, tuna, and mackerel are great sources of omega-3 fatty acids, which are good for you. Just two servings of fatty fish per week are enough to meet your requirements for this healthy fat. Canned salmon is a good choice because it is often packed with some edible fish bones, adding a calcium boost.

Special Nutrition Concerns for Older Adults

Our daily eating habits change as our bodies get older. Make small adjustments to help you enjoy the foods and beverages you eat and drink.

- Add flavor to foods with spices and herbs instead of salt and look for low-sodium packaged foods.

- Add sliced fruits and vegetable to your meals and snacks. Look for pre-sliced fruits and vegetables on sale if slicing and chopping is a challenge.

- Ask your doctor to suggest other options if the medications you take affect your appetite or change your desire to eat.

- Consume foods fortified with vitamin B12, such as fortified cereals.

Be Active Your Way

Focus on maintaining a healthy body weight. Being physically active can help you stay strong and independent as you grow older. If you are overweight or obese, weight loss can improve your quality of life and reduce the risk of disease and disability.

- Adults at any age need at least 2 1/2 hours or 150 minutes of moderate-intensity physical activity each week. Being active at least three days a week is a good goal.

- Find an activity that is appropriate for your fitness level. If you are not active, start by walking or riding a stationary bike. Strive for at least 10 minutes of exercise at a time and be as active as possible.

- Include activities that improve balance and reduce your risk of falling such as lifting small weights. Add strength building activities at least two times per week.

- Being active will make it easier to enjoy other activities such as shopping, playing a sport, or gardening.

- If you are not sure about your level of fitness, check with your doctor before starting an intense exercise program or vigorous physical activity.

Governor Ricketts declares month of May 'General Aviation Appreciation Month'

The Alliance for Aviation Across America today applauded Governor Ricketts for declaring May 2018 as "General Aviation Appreciation Month." In Nebraska, general aviation supports 7,900 jobs in the state, resulting in more than $1.2 billion in annual economic output.

"Communities across Nebraska depend on general aviation to support their agricultural and economic well-being," said Selena Shlad, Executive Director of the Alliance for Aviation Across America. "In addition, general aviation plays a critical role in protecting crops and growing the food that feeds our nation. We thank Governor Ricketts for issuing the proclamation and recognizing the importance of general aviation."

"Public-use airports are an important piece of infrastructure that play a vital role in supporting towns and cities across the state of Nebraska," said Mark Kimberling, President and CEO of the National Association of State Aviation Officials (NASAO). "We thank Governor Ricketts and Ronnie Mitchell, Director of the Nebraska Division of Aeronautics."

According to the proclamation: "General aviation is vital to many businesses in Nebraska that use general aviation aircraft and local airports to increase productivity, reach far-off markets and to move personnel, equipment, and products."

Remember the Sabbath!

Often we tend to think Sabbath, (if we think of it at all) as an obligation or perhaps a routine habit in this order – go to church, worship, and, if possible, don't engage in labor.

That formula has worked for many years; however, not so much these days. Our world is immediate, 24/7. Many stores are open on Sunday now where they were closed due to "blue laws" years ago. So, people work or shop every single day of the week. Many people work from home due to our digital accomplishments and so the lines of work and business have blurred. I check emails and receive texts many times a day, usually pulling me into realms of tasks and responsibilities that are not even close to the idea of "resting on the Sabbath."

I'm certainly not complaining – I like to be busy. One may even say that I like to be way too busy, which would be a true statement. I'm sure many of you are the same.

So how do we have a Sabbath and "keep it holy" these days? Do we have to literally leave town, pitch a tent somewhere and disconnect from the vast networks of ordinary life? Do we have to go on a vacation to have a Sabbath?

Maybe, instead of feeling guilty for not keeping the Sabbath holy as we think we should, just maybe we are moving back to its intended meaning. The Biblical sense of Sabbath was never intended as some new responsibility that God wanted to add to our busy lives.

Sabbath is simply God's gift of refreshment and because the people of Biblical days were agrarian, the images are often agricultural and very rhythmical. There is a season for planting, a season for nurturing, a season for harvesting, a season for care of the earth. There is a time for rest.

This isn't a suggestion, it's a commandment. Take time to refresh – to lie fallow, whatever that means to you. Take time from your busy world to disconnect, to engage in something that refreshes you. If volunteering somewhere makes you feel refreshed then go do it! If closing your eyes for a well-deserved nap is what disconnects you, then that is what you should do.

Whatever it is that you do, don't make it an added obligation, responsibility or routine habit. Simply try this: Take a deep breath! Let God's gift of "ruach" (meaning air, breath, spirit which is what the Hebrews called God's Spirit) deep into your body. Hold that Gift – until you can sense that your body is being fed, nurtured and renewed. It's as simple as that. We do it thousands of times a day and yet we never notice it.

But as a Sabbath reflection, once in a while, a few times a day, claim breath as a Sabbath moment! And then thank God for that gift and feel refreshed and cherished.

Grace Lutheran Ladies Aid holds May meeting

Grace Lutheran Ladies Aid on May 9 meeting opened by reciting the LWML Pledge in unison. Pastor Lilienkamp led our Bible study "Care of the Earth and Natural Resources". God created the heavens and the earth. We are to be caretakers of God's creation.

Roll call was answered with 14 present. Secretary and treasurer reports were given. The mission grant devotion for $80000 for Lutheran World Relief was given by Rhonda. The money will be used to pay for shipping of quilts, baby care kits, health kits sent to 20 countries each year.

Committee reports: Visiting—Betty Wittig reported on cards sent. Rhonda visited at Careage May 2. Sewing—The ladies sewed in April. They will meet on Thursday May 24. Seminary student—Mary Janke will write the student.

Old Business: LWML District Convention will be held at LHNE in Norfolk on June 22-23. Delegates will be Ellen Heinemann and Rhonda Sebade. The group will give money for each offering. In honor of Pastor Lilienkamp's retirement, the Aid will give $50 to Mercy Meals.

Ellen Heinemann gave the devotion entitled "Joy to the World". Isaac Watts wrote the hymn as an adaptation of Psalm 98, focused on the idea of Christ's second coming.

Ruth Victor a member of Grace Lutheran Ladies Aid has been making pillow case dresses for little girls to be sent over seas through the Orphan Grain Train. She has made over 60 dresses since she has started doing this. She enjoys sewing and embellishing the dresses.

Its focus on the joy that Jesus gives is a welcome reminder for any season. The Aid read Psalm 98 in unison and closed by singing Joy to the World.

May birthdays were Darlene Helgren, Darlene Lilienkamp, and Melvy Meyer. The group sang happy birthday to Melvy.

The next meeting will be Wednesday, June 13 with Betty Wittig as hostess.

The meeting closed with Lord's Prayer and the Table Prayer. Lunch was served by Fauneil Bennett.

Mom

Students at St. Mary's Elementary School honored their mothers and grandmothers with a program on May 14. In addition to a May Crowning ceremony, The students sang several songs for those in attendance. The group then enjoyed a variety of muffins.

Joy Circle devotions center on "mother" at recent meeting

Joy Circle of Our Savior Lutheran Church met on May 9. President Dorothy Wert welcomed all in attendance and gave announcements. She asked that members remember Roberta Carman, who will celebrate her birthday in May.

Dorothy Wert gave devotions based on "Mother." Many have memories of a mother's loving hand to care for them whether they have fallen and hurt themselves or to applaud a success.

Mothers teach bedtime stories and help their children learn to pray. She shares her faith with them. She loves, teaches, corrects, prays, plays, and focuses herself on the health, welfare, and happiness of her children. Of all mothers, there is the one our Heavenly Father chose to be the Mother of His Son. She witnessed her Son perform His first miracle. She watched her Son hang on the cross, yet her Son Jesus took care of her when He said to the disciple He loved, "Woman here is your Son." And to the disciple, "Here is your mother." She is an example to all Mothers as He is an example to sons and daughters. Mothers should be loved, cherished, and honored. They deserves it.

For the program, the group made cards which will be sent to church members throughout the year.

The June meeting will be at Brookdale with the Executive Board hosting.

The hard truth about rocks at the bottom of planting containers
 By Kathleen Cue, Nebraska Extension Horticulture Educator

As we get our containers ready for planting our amazing annuals or that coveted tomato plant, conventional "wisdom" dictates we must first add an inch or so of gravel. Problematic? You bet!

Rocks in the bottom of containers do not contribute to better draining soils and healthier plants. Instead plant roots encounter saturated soils that don't drain efficiently. It all has to do with something called a perched water table.

Ideally, when we water our containers, or Mother Nature provides rainfall, water percolates through the soil and out the drainage hole below. All the roots get water and the excess drains away. In a container with rocks at the bottom, however, water percolates through the soil and, upon encountering the different layer, the water moves sideways, creating a saturated zone. Water in this saturated zone gets "hung up" on the layer that is different.

And it doesn't have to be rocks that are placed at the bottom of the pot. ANY layer of difference will contribute toward a perched water table—a different potting mix, sand, pop cans, and golf balls among them. (I've heard lots of stories about the creative stuff gardeners use!)

To keep potting soil from falling through the pot's drainage hole, place a piece of newspaper, a coffee filter or a paper towel over the drainage hole. This will keep the potting soil inside the pot but still allows water to drain efficiently.

If you're trying to use up a lot of space at the bottom of a really large pot, custom cut a piece of plywood to fit inside the pot at the depth needed for healthy plant roots (nothing less than nine inches deep). You'll still need a drainage hole drilled into the plywood so water drains efficiently. In essence, you're creating a shallower pot within the larger one. If you live in a windy area, stones and bricks can be placed at the bottom of the pot (before the plywood goes in) to provide ballast.

Allen Clean up
 The weather cooperated on a beautiful spring day, May 9, as students picked up trash in Allen. Kindergarten and first grade picked up trash on the school grounds, second and third grades picked up trash and sticks in the city park and football field. Fifth and sixth graders picked sticks and large tree branches, piled them on trailers, and took them to the dump site. Fourth graders picked up trash in the Nature Grove and under the direction of Larry Koester, JoAnn Guinn, and Marcia Rastede, planted seven Colorado blue spruce trees as replacements for Scotch pine trees previously cut down. High school students under the guidance of Sandy Chase, Bea Osbahr, and Nancy Ellis planted flowers in the gazebo area as well as picking trash in that area. Larry Koester instructed fourth grade students on the proper tree planting techniques as they replaced the trees that died from Scotch pine disease in the Allen Nature Grove with seven Colorado blue spruce.

Ground ivy control is topic of conversation

Last week I went downtown for lunch one day. I've come to expect a question or two when I'm out and about, whether it's at the cafe, grocery store, church, or post office. Anyway, in the course of 30-40 minutes, I had one question on flowering trees (spring snow crabapples), one question on something that looked like a "sea urchin growing on an evergreen" (cedar-apple rust gall - I've never heard it described like that before! LOL), and three questions on everyone's least favorite lawn weed... ground ivy!

John Wilson
Extension Educator

When I mention ground ivy, most homeowners and lawn care professionals will tremble, scream, or both... often using words I cannot include here. Ground ivy is probably our second most common lawn weed, right behind dandelions. But it is, by far, the most difficult to control. It is also the most aggressive of our broadleaf lawn weeds.

Ground ivy is in the mint family with a distinct aroma when mowed. It has a square stem and leaves with scalloped edges. It is a perennial weed, coming back from its roots each year. One thing that makes it so aggressive is it sends out runners that can root at each node (where a leaf comes off the runner).

possible. However, when soil conditions are just right, it is possible to pull up a long string of the plant which will bring a smile to the face of most homeowners battling this troublesome weed. So hand weeding is one option for control, but usually a ground ivy infestation is so extensive that it will outlast the will of the gardener to pull the weed.

A thick, vigorous turf is the best defense against all of our lawn weeds. Weeds have a difficult time competing with a good stand of grass. Ground ivy, like many turf weeds, are opportunistic and will establish in areas where the turf is not doing so well. Ground ivy particularly likes shady areas, wet soils, and areas where the turf is weaker... often because of poor fertility and/or improper mowing height.

It's hard to correct the shade, that's why you planted the trees, but you can core aerate your turf in spring or fall to improve infiltration on compacted soils, raise your mowing height to at least three inches (my mower is on the highest setting and never comes off it), and fertilize your lawn to maintain good turf health. It amazes me when a homeowner will tell me they don't fertilize their turf because they don't want to mow as often, but then complain because weeds invade their weakened lawn.

Herbicides are the other option for controlling ground ivy. If you just have a few scattered plants, you can use a non-selective herbicide containing glyphosate (Round-up) and spot treat individual plants with a paint brush. A non-selective herbicide will kill any green plants it comes in contact with so be very careful to minimize contact with adjacent turf.

The other option for herbicides are combination products that usually contain 2,4-D, dicamba, and MCPP or MCPA. These will be more effective than herbicides containing 2,4-D alone. Another option that gives good control are broadleaf weed killers for turf that contain the active ingredient triclopyr, either alone or in combination with other herbicides.

The time of year when you apply these herbicides is important. Fall is the best time to control ground ivy or other perennial broadleaf weeds such as white clover or dandelions. Herbicides applied at this time are moved to the roots as the plant stores food for next year's growth, killing the roots and giving better control. Spring applications give some control, but not as much as treatments made in the fall. Herbicides applied in the summer provide the least control because weeds are often not growing as rapidly then.

The time when glyphosate-based herbicide are applied is not quite as critical as it is for other broadleaf weed killers. However spring or fall applications, when the weeds are actively growing, will provide better control than applications made in the summer. Remember, glyphosate-based products will kill anything green they come in contact with, so if you are using them, be very careful and spot treat only the weeds you want to control.

Ground ivy control from herbicide treatments will be temporary, at best, unless the conditions that initially encouraged the infestation are improved. Combining good management practices with the wise use of herbicides is the best strategy to combat ground ivy, or other weeds, in the lawn. For best results when using any pesticide, always read, understand and follow the directions on the herbicide label.

For more information on ground ivy control, contact your local Nebraska Extension office.

Celebrating a birthday, baby shower

By: Pat Meierhenry

Tomorrow, the 15th, I will hit the BIG 80! A friend who will be 81 the following day called this evening to tell me I will feel old in the morning! I told her I could not feel any older than I do this evening. I remarked to Mike last night that I'm beginning to understand why my Mom seemed to "poop out" before the activity was over.

Since the 12th is the birthday of Florence Nightingale, Nurses Week was observed last week, and of course, Sunday was Mother's Day. So we celebrated it all in one day. Some of the kids, including the new babies, met us at church for the 10:15 service. We got there in time, but I remarked it seemed to be hard for us, we usually go on Saturday evening, and I wondered how I ever got four little ones fed and dressed for Sunday School at 9:30 while the Big Farmer did chores.

Next, we headed for a nice restaurant, and met the rest of the family for a brunch that featured breakfast food, prime rib, and a raft of desserts.

We came back here to open Mother's Day/birthday gifts; they all went together with their Dad to get a bunch of DVDs of the Johnny Carson Tonight show, complete with his Homegoing to Norfolk in the 80s.

Then, a "book shower" for the twins. Tables were decorated with stuffed animals and potted Gerberas and old children's books. Our copy of the Real Mother Goose has a loose binding; I found one on the Classics table at Barnes and Noble. There were some with googly eyes, some about dinosaurs from Morrill Hall, and The Velvet-een Rabbit and The Hungry Caterpillar.

The food table here featured a cake plate with a bunch of cupcakes sporting little colorful book jackets for titles like The Cat in the Hat and Curious George. We even had a tape of the vinyl record featuring Danny Kaye reading Grimm's Fairy Tales.

Finally, we observed a fiftieth birthday with gag gifts and a cake that featured a hill with the question What Hill? Mike actually took a nap through much of this, but I waited until everyone was gone to crash. It was a great day, full of food and family and laughter, and I'm ready for another decade, at least!

I even recuperated enough to do my volunteer gig for Tabitha this afternoon; tomorrow, lunch with two friends who also have birthdays this week. Friends are almost as important as family; I'm blessed to have bunches of both!!

Lower Elkhorn NRD to move to new location May 24

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (LENRD) will soon have a new home. LENRD Board Chairman, Dennis Schultz, said, "It wasn't an easy decision to make because of the district's longtime, strong partnership with Northeast Community College, but the need to be as fiscally responsible as possible is what led the board to approve the purchase of the former Sterling Computer building at 1508 Square Turn Boulevard in Norfolk."

The district will be moving out of its offices in the Lifelong Learning Center (LLC) on the campus of Northeast Community College, which has been its home since the center was constructed 20 years ago. The office will be closed to the public on Thursday, May 24 and Friday, May 25 as they move to their new location.

LENRD General Manager Mike Sousek, said, "The LLC has been a great location for us to grow and expand our programs. However, our lease with the college recently came up for review and the board felt savings to the taxpayer could be realized by relocating."

Sousek said, "With our increasing workload, this location will allow for future growth. The new space has ample storage as well as a building for vehicles and equipment on-site. More importantly, over the next 10 years the district will realize $500,000 in savings just in operation and maintenance costs by making this move. In the end, the taxpayer will be the real winner with this change."

He continued, "We want to thank Northeast Community College for serving as the district's home for two decades. We hope our move provides new opportunities for the college in creating available space at the learning center for other potential partners."

Sousek said the staff and directors are looking forward to making a smooth transition to the new facility while providing the same high-level of public service to the citizens of the district. He said, "We plan to be moved in and open for business at our new location on Tuesday, May 29th."

The VRN question

Every year as we find ourselves having our corn planted, or hopefully nearly planted, we start to focus on what is next for our corn crop. For as long as I have been with CVA, my group of growers that I have "always" worked with in the North have been splitting their Nitrogen applications up and applying a portion of their Nitrogen in season. In the past few years, it makes me happy to see so many of you in other areas that now do in-season fertilizer to split up the feeding of the crop. Last week, I talked about Nitrogen volatilization, and so this week, I thought it would be a natural progression to talk some about the rate that we choose to apply.

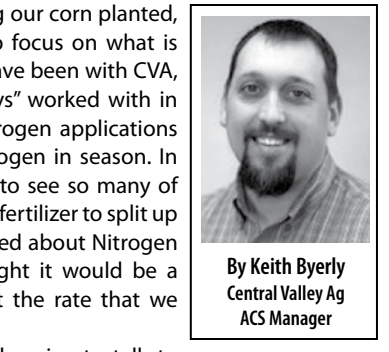

Many Agronomists have been apprehensive to talk to growers about Variable Rate Nitrogen for two reasons; nothing looks worse than yellow corn plants, and a few more units of Nitrogen is relatively cheap insurance. Especially when you consider that choosing a rate in the first place can be a bit of a challenge. If you look at the Nitrogen Rate Equation for corn, seven variables go into making a Nitrogen rate decision. At days end, we can end up with a rate from less than 3/4ths a pound per bushel to over a pound per bushel. So, is it worth doing a variable rate application of Nitrogen this year? But to further complicate the question, how do we go about deciding a method for VRN? For those of you that take Nitrate tests each year in our zone sampling program, you have Nitrate test that changes some of our credits and affects our N rate that we can manage. Some people look at their application of other Nitrogen sources like manure or variable rate nutrient applications like Phosphorus and simply make a map that credits the Nitrogen in those products. These are great starts, but I am confident in this day and age that we have the ability to do much more without a ton of extra work.

Last year was further proof to me that the VR Nitrogen prescription process that our ACS Managers go through to build prescriptions for your operation are unmatched in the industry. With EC data and soil samples married to the Variable Yield Goal, I think we can develop a plan that accounts for your variability in yield, and your variability in soils. For those of you that don't already have all of your nitrogen on for the season, I want you to think about the remainder of what you have to apply. For those of you that will be using anything other than a center pivot, we have an opportunity to vary our Nitrogen rate yet this year.

What I really want you to consider is that for the most part, we already have the pieces we need to create a Variable Rate Nitrogen application for the remainder of your Nitrogen needs this season, and most of us have a system that is controlled via a display in our cab. For those of you that have all of your Nitrogen applied for this year, I want you to file this conversation away in the memory banks for harvest time. I will always be a fan of the advantages of a split application. But, if you apply anhydrous this fall, that is also a prime opportunity to apply our Nitrogen variable rate.

So the take-home for you today is simply this. VR Nitrogen is an opportunity to dial in the right Nitrogen rate for each of the different areas in your field. If we are doing variable-rate seeding on your field, then matching Nitrogen rates to yield goals is going to be quite simple. But even if we are not doing VR seeding yet, that doesn't mean that VRN is out of reach, as long as we are working on our other fertility needs and doing the soil sampling we should be. Working with your Agronomist and your ACS Regional Specialist, we have an opportunity to put a custom plan in place for your operation. One that usually improves your Nitrogen use efficiency and profitability.

COUNTRY CLASSICS 4-H Club

The Country Classics 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on April 28.

Preceding the meeting, the club members volunteered for the Wayne Food Pantry distribution at the Wayne Fire Hall. The 4-Hers sorted and stacked food items, pushed carts to help move items to cars, and helped clean-up.

The club members then met for the meeting at Pizza Hut. Presentations were made by several 4-Hers.

The agenda items were discussed as members enjoyed a pizza lunch. A club project of cleaning up a community park was set as a goal.

The next meeting will be held later in May.

Morel mushroom hunters are out in force this month picking their favorite fungi. The Nebraska Game and Parks Commission reminds them that they must get landowner permission before entering private land.

The non-commercial harvesting of morel mushrooms is allowed on Nebraska Game and Parks owned and controlled properties, unless otherwise signed. Morel pickers should be wary of spring turkey hunters on WMAs.
