Koeber retires after 40 year career in Wayne

When William A. Koeber moved to Wayne in 1948 to establish his Optometry practice, there was no way of knowing that his own son would one day follow in his footsteps and practice in the very same building years later.

For 40 years, Dr. Don Koeber has run a successful business as an Optometrist at Wayne Vision Center. His career has spanned leaps and bounds of technological advancements, something he hasn't taken for granted.

"When I first started practicing we knew what the eye diseases were but we weren't able to treat a lot of them," Koeber said. "That's not the case now."

Things were a little different when he finished schooling and began practicing in 1978 as far as technology and regulations are concerned, but one thing Koeber says has not changed over the years is how much he enjoyed the job.

"I think Optometry is a great profession. It's very rewarding and it's changed a lot over the years but I always have enjoyed the people. The patients are always the most important."

Koeber said he didn't know right away after high school

what he wanted to do, in fact he worked several different jobs throughout high school and after graduating before deciding to pursue Optometry at the same college his father attended.

Koeber moved with his wife Claudia to Chicago to enroll in the Illinois College of Optometry in 1974. Aside from the four years he was living there, Koeber has always called Wayne home.

After graduating in May of 1978, Koeber returned to Wayne to begin practicing with his father. Koeber's plans of practicing along side his father were cut short, however.

"I was able to practice with him for a year before he passed away," he said. "He was diagnosed with cancer while I was in school."

The former Mayor of Wayne, council member and member of numerous boards and committees left a lasting impression of volunteerism and service to the community on his son.

"I don't know how he did it," Koeber said. "He was busy all the time but it was good. The community of Wayne is so supportive and it's easy to be active in it."

Koeber has been a member of Kiwanis since 1969 and has served as president of the organization. He is an active member of the United Methodist Church and has acted as president of the Wayne Country Club. He has also served as president on both the Wayne State College Foundation and the Wayne Athletic Boosters Club in prior years.

In addition to those organizations, Koeber had two children, Todd and Kayla, who were both active in extracurricular activities at Wayne.

"Wayne has been a great community to raise kids in," he said. "It's a fun place to be."

Now, it's his grandkids who keep him busy, which is a big part of his retirement plans, he said. Grandkids and golfing.

"I'll spend time with my grandkids and I'll spend time golfing. It's one of my favorite things to do. I bowl in the winter and golf during the summer. I love to cook too. I have lots of cookbooks that go way back so I'll probably

Kindergarten teacher hired, vision statement discussed by board

Four sections of kindergarten students will be part of Wayne Elementary School following the hiring of a teacher at Monday's meeting of the Wayne Community Schools' Board of Education.

Staci Foote was hired for the position, pending her release from her contract at South Sioux City Community Schools. The release needs to be effective before the next board meeting, which will be Monday, July 9.

Foote has experience with lower elementary schools, as well as following students from grade to grade.

The board also spent considerable time discussing the district's Vision, Mission and Core Values statements. This will be looked at in depth before an upcoming Advanced Ed visit, which is scheduled for Dec. 3-6 and part of the school's accreditation process.

Board members listed a number of ideas in regard to both the vision and mission of the district in regard to students. Among these were the statement that "All means All" in regard to student learning, providing opportunities for all students, and encouraging students to be connected to the staff, school and community.

Board members also at the current vision and mission statements and questioned them with the statement "Are we doing what we say we are doing?"

The Junior/Senior High School Handbook was approved on second reading with two additions to align with district policy. In addition, the bell schedule will be adjusted to do away with the current Reading Period and replace it with Advisory Time. This will help create more uniformity with the length of class periods.

Board members also voted to accept a bid from Dean's Food of LeMars, Iowa for milk purchases for the coming year and agreed that meal prices will remain the same for students for the 2018-2019 school year.

Also discussed during Monday's meeting was the Wayne Community Schools Foundation Contract for Service request.

Superintendent Mark Lenihan said he and current Foundation Director Lindsay McLaughlin have worked on a job description in regard to both the school and the Foundation. In addition, board members discussed compensation for the position, which would involve a decrease in the amount contributed by the district over a three year time frame.

McLaughlin has submitted her resignation from the position and the Foundation is pursuing the hiring of a replacement for the position.

Board members noted that the Foundation has been instrumental in getting the Ag Education program off the ground and has been able to secure a number of grants for the program.

Superintendent Lenihan shared information with the board on the recent Administrative Retreat. He said administrators talked about a number of goals for the coming year and ways to improve the district. These include items such as working with students and families in the English Language (EL) program, the possibility of a summer lunch program and an after school program.

The Wayne Community Schools' Board of Education will next meet in regular session on Monday, July 9 at 3 p.m. at the Early Learning Center. It will be followed by a board retreat at the same location.

Practice makes perfect

Approximately 35 firefighters were on hand to conduct a training class and controlled burn in Wayne on Sunday.

Firefighters from Wayne, Carroll, Wisner, Madison, Neligh, Columbus, Stanton, Malcolm and Humphrey, as well as several instructors from the Nebraska State Fire Marshal's Office took part in the event. It involved groups of firefighters, accompanied by an instructor, entering the burning house to learn proper fire-fighting techniques. At the completion of the training, the house, which was located on East 14th Street, was burned to the ground.

The Providence Medical Center Ambulance crew was also on scene. Find more photos on page 8B.

Ike's Lake fishing improvements ahead with renovation

The annual Ike's Lake Youth Fishing Derby will be held the morning of Saturday, June 16 starting at 9:00 a.m. Children age 2 to 16 can compete for prizes generously donated by area merchants. Parents/grandparents/adults are encouraged to assist their younger children in fishing. The event is free and open to the public. There will be a rain date of Sunday June 17. Check out the "Wayne Izaak Walton League" Facebook page for more details.

The mission of the Izaak Walton League of America is to conserve, restore, and promote the sustainable use and enjoyment of our natural resources, including soil, air, woods, waters, and wildlife. The Wayne Izaak Walton League was chartered in May of 1954 when a farm couple donated the land where the lake is currently. An old shallow oxbow of Dog Creek became the lake. The old oxbow was not farmable and cattle were always getting stuck in it. In 1955 the area was dozed out to form the current lake. An overflow tube and drain tube were installed. The lake filled up the following year with the aid of a shallow well the chapter installed and still uses. In the late 1960's, a portion of the lake was dredged with a small crane. Several times since, the edges of the lake have been dredged with a large backhoe.

Ike's Lake was originally stocked with bluegill, bass and catfish. At times northern pike and crappie were introduced to the lake. Currently, bluegill and bass dominate in the lake.

Membership in the Wayne Izaak Walton League has varied from a high of over 100, to as few as a handful. Many organizations have used the lake and facilities over the years including Wayne State College classes, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, various 4-H groups, Pheasants Forever Youth/Mentor hunts, R-Way clients, and others.

Besides the Youth Fishing Derby, the Wayne Izaak Walton League, in partnership with Logan Creek Pheasants Forever, sponsor the Family Outdoor Day where families can engage in hands-on outdoor activities such as bird mist netting, lake investigations, safe solar viewing, archery, shooting, fishing, and many other things. The event is also free and open to the public and will be held on Saturday, August 25 this year.

The Wayne Izaak Walton League is in the midst of a major fundraising campaign to make improvements to the lake. In the past, summer droughts have caused the lake to almost dry up. These droughts significantly reduce fishing opportunities for many years following.

Renovations are coming to Ike's Lake but in the mean time, guests are still able to fish the majority of the lake as shown above. Less than a quarter of the lake has been drained to allow for dredging, while the rest of the lake remains undisturbed and fishable.

Ike's lake is now in the process of being renovated. The northern portion of the lake is dammed off and water has been pumped out before deepening that portion of the lake. Several companies and individuals in the community including Robert Woehler and Sons Construction, Tom and Terry Sievers, and Tony Hansen are volunteering their time and equipment for water pumping and excavation.

The Wayne Izaak Walton League is looking for donations to have a much deeper well installed along with a higher-capacity pump. The new well and pump will allow the lake level to be optimum throughout the year. Not only will the stable lake level improve fishing opportunities, it will also increase wetland and marsh habitat that is critical for many migratory and resident wildlife.

organize my collection."
One of Koeber's greatest accomplishments didn't come in the form of awards or accolades for his business, but was a personal triumph for him.
"Around 1998-99, I weighed over 300 pounds. I've lost 85 pounds since then. I did it slow and steady and I've kept it off. I really don't think I'd be alive today if I didn't lose the weight. It wasn't easy but I was able to get off some medications after losing the weight."

Another proud moment for Koeber, this time involving his beloved career, was when two different employees of his decided they wanted to go on to be Optometrists themselves after working for Koeber.
During his time at Wayne Vision Center, an eye-catching mural was painted on the side of the building for the centennial celebration in 1984.

That mural brought together numerous community members, from Charles Carhart, who hand mixed all the paint, to Gary Van Meter, the organizer, and Carlos Frey, the designer. Several community members came together to help paint it.

Over the last 30-plus years, wear and tear has taken its toll on the once-vibrant mural, so Koeber was happy when Matt Ley began working on having it repainted.

Like the freshening up of the mural, the Wayne Vision Center will see some changes in the coming months with the new owners, but the vision remains the same in both situations.

New owners Dr. Ben Uhl and Dr. Tyler Lefebber with Sergeant Bluff Eye Care, will be operating the clinic as a satellite location and will likely be tweaking the name just a bit. But, Koeber ber said, their dedication to providing quality eye care is no different than his.

"I wanted to keep the business going and so do the new owners. They are quality doctors."

Koeber's retirement was official as of June 1, 2018 and will be celebrated at a retirement party on June 21 from 4-7 p.m. at the Beaumont.

"I enjoyed what I did. That's going to be the hard part. But the community has been so supportive all these years. I can't say thanks enough. I couldn't have done it all without my wife and the support in this community."

It doesn't take 20-20 vision to see that Dr. Don Koeber will be missed as Main Street's Optometrist just as much as he will miss practicing, but golf is a pretty good time too.

Beaumont to host country band Jason Boland & the Stragglers

Independent country torchbearers Jason Boland & The Stragglers will perform at The Beaumont on July 26 in support of their ninth studio album Hard Times Are Relative (May 18, Thirty Tigers). Together with his longtime band The Stragglers, Jason Boland has remained a true craftsman of genuine, no-frills country music for nearly two decades. In a genre that too often focuses on style over substance, Boland puts substance at the forefront with his intelligent, insightful lyricism that challenges listeners to think beyond the obvious. His unwavering aversion to artifice and audacious attitude is reminiscent of the genre's forbearers, while his deep, baritone delivery and the band's spirited live performances have earned them a fiercely loyal following.

Hard Times Are Relative is immediately gratifying country with a conscience and a shot of adrenaline. The theme running throughout much of the album focuses on our complicated relationship with the past and accepting the inevitability of change. Recently, there has been a healthy resurgence of artists inspired by country traditions ranging from classic to outlaw. Jason Boland has always stood as a beacon of honoring the genre's history while pushing forward to widen its borders. Hard Times Are Relative is yet another solid offering from a band that proves having one foot in tradition doesn't have to be limiting. Hear the debut track, a duet with Sunny Sweeney called "I Don't Deserve You", featured via Rolling Stone Country.

Jason Boland & The Stragglers is a band with staying power. Taking a true DIY approach, with a crew of honky-tonk aces that currently includes Grant Tracy (bass), Brad Rice (drums and background vocals) and Nick Worley (fiddle, mandolin, and harmonies), the band has sold over a half million albums independently and continues to pack houses all over the country. Their explosive live performances and jangly, gritty albums have established a large and devoted fanbase that is not limited by geography. Critics seem to agree, as previous releases have garnered positive coverage from press including The New York Times, Garden & Gun, American Songwriter, The Wall Street Journal, Billboard and many more.

Your passport to northeast Nebraska's history

Alexandra McClanahan,
Northeast Nebraska RC&D Council

Visitors to Northeast Nebraska's museums can celebrate the area's history – and become eligible for cash prizes – by participating in the Passport to Heritage program. Those who visit all 11 museums between Memorial Day and Labor Day will be eligible for the top cash prize of $300.

At a meeting of the Heritage Museum Network at Allen on May 5, members representing the region's museums decided to once again offer the passport program to the public. Discussion at the meeting focused on the fact that the program offers an opportunity to promote the 11 museums which are a priceless means of preserving Northeast Nebraska's rich and varied history.

The Passport to Heritage program began on Memorial Weekend 2016. It was developed by the museum network under the guidance of the Northeast Nebraska Resource Conservation and Development organization. Prizes the first year were books and gifts donated by the area's museums. Cash prizes were started last year and continue this year.

An anonymous donor provided the cash prizes last year. This year, prizes will be supplied by museum participation fees and program advertisements.

"The participation in the program has grown in the past two years," said Dick Haskin, RC&D staffer. "We hope the program draws even more visitors this year."

The passports are booklets available at each participating museum. Once a visitor obtains a booklet, he or she can have each museum affix a sticker in the center section of the book. The center section, which includes a form to fill out, can then be removed and mailed to the Northeast Nebraska RC&D, 702 E. Park Ave., Plainview, NE 68769. The mailing must be completed by Sept. 18, 2018.

Those who collect stickers from each of the 11 participating museums will be entered into a drawing for a cash prize of $300. If 9 or more stickers are collected, the drawing is for a cash prize of $100. For 5 or more stickers, the drawing is for a cash prize of $50.

The booklet includes a description of each of the 11 museums, as well as advertisements for supportive local business.

The museums include:

12-under Dirt Devils qualify for state tourney

After dropping their first game, the 12-under Dirt Devils ran off four straight wins in district play in Bennington before being eliminated and earning a trip to Hastings for the state tournament at the end of the month.

Both of Wayne's losses came against Tekamah-Herman, who beat the Devils 7-2 in the opening round and ended their district run with a 13-2 defeat. In between, Wayne beat the Omaha Royals (19-2), Edge 12-under (11-3), Edge 11-under (2-1) and Yutan (16-9) to earn the trip to state.

In the win over the Royals, Delaney Kruse and Natalie Kruger each scored three runs while Liberty Titiml, Rachel Hobbs, Taytem Ellis and Caitlyn Mostek all scored twice.

Against Edge 12-under, Hobbs had two hits and scored twice and Kruger, Hailey Schroeder and Hannah Gubbels each had two hits and two RBIs. Schroeder also scored two runs.

In the win over Edge 11-under, Gubbels had a double and Ellis had two hits to key the close win.

Against Yutan, Kruse and Hobbs each scored three and Titiml, Ellis, Hannah Gubbels and Sammi Gubbels each scored twice. Both Gubbels and Jersi Jensen had doubles.

In other action, the 12-under Devils swept a twinbill from Columbus Fire & Ice, winning 14-2 and 12-8.

In the first game, Wayne put up five runs in both the second and third innings and four more in the fourth to earn the easy win.

Hannah Gubbels had three hits and Delaney Kruse added two to lead the way. Gubbels, Kruse and Schroeder each scored three runs, and Hobbs allowed four hits and struck out seven.

In the second game, Wayne led 7-3 before Fire & Ice came back, only to see Wayne put up five more in the fifth to claim the sweep.

Schroeder had three hits and three RBIs to lead the Dirt Devils, with Jensen and Madelyn Janke adding two hits apiece. Mostek and Sam Gubbels both scored two runs. Hobbs struck out 16 and allowed five hits and four walks in the win.

Jacob Kneifl threw a four-hitter and struck out 12 to help Wayne win the Wood Bat Tournament with a 6-1 win over Creighton.

Legion Juniors stay undefeated after winning Wood Bat tourney

Teams with good pitching, solid defense and timely hitting are tough to beat, and the teams who faced the Wayne American Legion Post 43 Juniors this weekend found that out the hard way.

Wayne spotted Creighton a run early, then took control down the stretch to post a 6-1 win and claim first-place honors in the finals of the Wood Bat Tournament Sunday evening at Eaton Field in Wakefield.

Wayne did it with a combination of good pitching from Jacob Kneifl, a solid defensive effort and some quality at bats late in the game to run their record to 9-0.

Coach Adam Hoffman said the offense wasn't clicking early in the game, but Kneifl's pitching and a trustworthy defense kept things close until the offense came through.

"It was that way yesterday against Lennox," he said. "We didn't have the bats going right away, but if our bats aren't there then you need your pitching and defense to win games. There are going to be days where you don't hit as well as you always do and that's baseball, and the guys did a great job of adjusting at the plate. Creighton is a good team and made some great plays and we were able to manufacture some runs."

Wayne took the lead for good in the fourth, thanks to a two-out error that brought Hagan Miller and Gunnar Jorgensen home. Wayne picked up an insurance run in the sixth when Trevor DeBoer scored on a wild pitch, then put it out of reach with three in the seventh, thanks to back-to-back doubles by Miller and DeBoer.

DeBoer and Jorgensen both had two hits and Miller had two RBI and scored twice in the win. Kneifl went the distance, throwing a four-hit gem with 12 strikeouts and no walks.

"He pitched really well and trusted his defense," Hoffman said of the lefthander. "He pounded the zone and that's what you have to do as a pitcher and he did a great job of that. It's a lot easier to pitch when you can trust your defense and our team played great."

The Juniors got to the finals with two wins in pool play, shutting out Lennox (S.D.) 2-0 and blowing out Wisner-Pilger-Dodge-Howells 17-3.

In the win over Lennox, DeBoer pitched 6 2/3 innings of four-hit baseball, striking out six to get the win. Wayne had just two hits, as Brock Hopkins had a three-hit game for the Wayne Juniors last week, scoring three and driving in three in a 16-1 win over Battle Creek.

Josh Lutt and Kneifl both had singles. Lutt scored both of Wayne's runs in the game.

Against W-P-D-H, Wayne blew the game open with a seven-run second inning and cranked out eight hits in the contest. Reid Korth had three hits and three RBI, Miller added two hits and two RBI and Lutt scored four runs, with Miller and Korth adding three apiece. Three pitchers combined on the one-hit effort, with Blake Bartos getting the win.

In other action last week, Lutt threw a no-hitter and the offense cranked out 11 hits as Wayne blew out Battle Creek 16-1 Wednesday at Hank Overin Field.

Lutt struck out five and walked three in picking up his first no-hitter of the summer, and he got plenty of help at the plate as Wayne scored in every inning, highlighted by a seven-run third and a six-run fourth inning.

Wayne had four hits in their big third inning, highlighted by a two-run triple by Miller and a two-run double by Brock Hopkins. In the fourth, Miller and DeBoer hit back-to-back doubles that brought three runs home.

Hopkins had three hits, scored three and drove in three to lead the 16-hit attack. DeBoer and Miller each had two hits, Lutt, Miller, DeBoer and Jorgensen each scored twice and Max Miller had a two-run single.

On Monday, Wayne used a big third and fourth inning to outscore the Ponca nine, 11-8.

Wayne got on the board in the first on an RBI single by Korth, scoring DeBoer. Ponca tied it in the bottom of the first and scored again to take a 2-1 lead before Wayne erupted for the first of back-to-back big innings.

In the third, Jorgensen singled Hagan Miller home to tie the game and DeBoer followed with the go-ahead run on a wild pitch. Kneifl sent Jorgensen home with a groundout to short and Korth scored on a sacrifice fly by Hopkins to make it a 5-2 game.

Ponca scored two to get back within a run, but Wayne put the game out of reach in the top of the fourth with five more runs, highlighted by a two-run double by Victor Kniesche and a two-run single by Korth. Kneifl also had an RBI double in the big inning.

Jorgensen and Korth both had two hits to lead the nine-hit attack for the 10-0 Juniors. Kniesche picked up the win in relief of Tyrus Eischeid, with Drew Buck finishing off the save.

The 10-0 Juniors were home to face Columbus Lakeview on Wednesday. They play at Yankton on Thursday and return home for a Saturday matchup against Bennington.

Payten Gamble leans back to avoid being hit by a fastball during the finals of the Wood Bat Tournament Sunday in Wakefield.

Errors the difference as Wayne falls to undefeated Beresford

When two teams battle in a close game on the diamond, errors are usually the deciding factor.

That was the difference in the Seniors championship game of the Wood Bat Tournament Sunday in Wakefield, as five Wayne errors helped undefeated Beresford (S.D.) come away with a 5-3 win.

Coach Robbie Gamble said the team played well enough offensively to win, but mistakes on defense allowed Beresford to come away with the win.

"We outhit them and left the bases loaded a couple of times, but we were very competitive at the plate this weekend and that's a good team we played," he said. "If we shore up some of those errors and clean things up, we'll be fine."

Wayne trailed 1-0 in the third, but took the lead on a two-run single by Hagan Miller, scoring Josh Lutt and Justin Dean for a 2-1 advantage.

Beresford tied the game in the top of the fourth, but Wayne retook the lead in the bottom half when Payten Gamble scored on a passed ball to make it 3-2.

A double and an error in the fifth gave Beresford the lead for good, and another error scored an insurance run as they were able to finish off Wayne to take the first-place finish.

Gunnar Jorgensen had two of Wayne's five hits in the game, including a double. Tucker Nichols pitched well in a losing effort, striking out six and walking three in 6 1/3 innings.

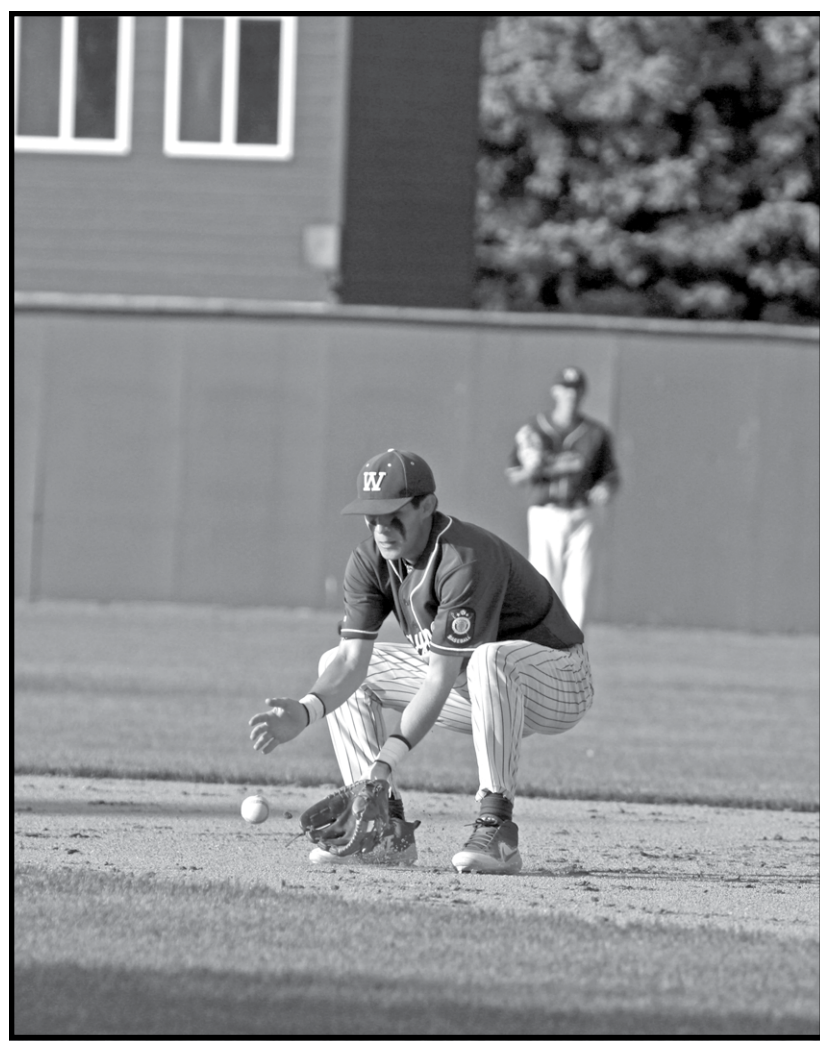

"Our pitching was outstanding this weekend and Tucker took us into the seventh," Gamble said. "The pitching and offense were there, and if we clean up our defense we'll be fine."

Wayne went 3-0 in pool play in the tournament, beating Ainsworth (14-0), Pierce (5-0) and Lennox (11-3) to reach the final.

In the Ainsworth game, Wayne batted around twice in the first inning, as all nine batters scored in the first time through the lineup and three more came home in the second rotation for a 12-run opening inning.

Four of Wayne's seven hits in the first inning were doubles. Gamble opened the game with a double, and Wayne had three in a row later as Ryan Jaixen, Gamble and Tyler Lutt had consecutive two-baggers.

Seven players had hits in the game, as Gamble had three and Jaixen and Brennan O'Reilly both had two. Adam Bentjen and Jaixen combined on the one-hit shutout, striking out a total of seven batters.

Wayne posted a 5-0 shutout against Pierce Saturday evening, as Bentjen and Tyler Lutt combined on a one-hitter with 10 strikeouts. O'Reilly tripled and Zane Jackson doubled to highlight a six-hit effort. Wayne scored two in the first and three in the fourth to post the shutout.

On Sunday, Wayne defeated Lennox 11-3, pulling away late with two in the fifth and three in the sixth.

Jorgensen, Bentjen and Jackson each had two hits. Jackson had a double and a triple, while Bentjen, Dean and Gamble each had doubles. Gamble, Bentjen and Tyler Lutt each scored two runs. Tyler Lutt pitched the win, striking out four.

On Monday, the Seniors needed extra innings to get back on the winning track, coming from behind to force the bonus baseball and ending with a 4-3 win over Ponca.

Wayne scored in the top of the third when pinch-runner Josh Lutt scored on a fielding error. Ponca got runs in the third and fourth and took a 2-1 lead into the seventh, where Wayne tied the game on another error that brought Lutt home to make it 2-2.

Three straight singles in the eighth loaded the bases, and Gamble was hit by a pitch to bring home Miller. Ponca tied the game with a run in the bottom of the eighth, but Wayne got the game-winner in the ninth on a Nichols double that scored Miller, who reached on a two-out walk.

Gamble, Nichols, Jorgensen and Jackson each had two hits as Wayne outhit Ponca 11-9. Gamble got the win in relief of Jackson, who struck out seven and walked two in 7 1/3 innings of work. Gamble struck out three in 1 2/3 innings.

Wayne, 10-3, hosted Columbus Lakeview on Wednesday. They host Laurel on Friday and will play at Pierce on Monday before hosting Al-bion on Tuesday.

He also rushed for five yards on one carry to finish with 260 yards in total offense. Wayne was also represented by quarterback Beau Bowers, who was 7-of-13 for 131 yards with two interceptions and rushed two times for nine yards; Ryan Jaixen, who caught one pass for eight yards and also played on defense; Justin Dean, who recorded one tackle in the game. Other area players in the contest were Noah Lamprecht of Wakefield, who recorded three tackles; and Winside's Brandon Watters.

10-under Devils earn trip to state

The Wayne Dirt Devils 10-under team went 2-2 in district play at West Point and earned a trip to the state tournament in Hastings later this summer. The Dirt Devils opened with two wins, getting no-hitters in victories over Fort Calhoun (5-1) and Tekamah (10-1). Mackenzie Nissen had a hand in both nos, striking out four in the win over Fort Calhoun and teaming up with Charli Sievers on the gem against Tekamah, as they combined to strike out seven. The 10-under Devils lost their final two games, losing to Millard Fury (2-0) and Blair Chaos (6-4) but finishing high enough to earn a trip to the state tournament in Hastings June 29-July 1.

In other action, the 10-under Dirt Devils split a doubleheader with Pender, losing the opener 6-1 and taking the nightcap 9-8. In the first game, Makenna Mattison walked and scored the lone run of the game for Wayne. Nissen pitched the opener, striking out six. In the nightcap, Wayne scored early and led 8-3 before Pender came back to make a game of it. Aubrey Russell had two hits and Nyla Bolles scored two runs in the win. Other runs were scored by Russell, Nissen, Sievers, Reagan McGuire, Joslyn Johnson, Justice Olson and Caylie Hopkins. Nissen and Sievers combined for the win in the circle.

Bronco travel team wins Yutan tourney

The Wayne Broncos travel team dominated the opposition and came away with the first-place trophy at a tournament in Yutan over the weekend. Wayne's bats were hot all weekend as they outscored their opponents 36-7. They beat Yutan-Wentworth 10-3, Weeping Water 15-1 and finished with an 11-3 win over Yutan-Kennedy. In the first game, the team had 16 hits, led by Gavin Redden's 3-for-3 effort. Also recording multiple hits were Aiden Liston, Devin Anderson, Kaleb Mooremeier, Jase Dean and Dominic Dominguez. Wyatt Heikes picked up the win. Against Weeping Water, several players had multiple hits and Redden picked up the win on the mound. In the finals, Wyatt Heikes led the Broncos at the plate, going 2-for-2, with Redden and Joseph Woerdemann also contributing hits. Colson Nelson was the winning pitcher for Wayne.

Wayne students Courtney Brink, Carter Hasemann and Abigail Wieseler participated in the annual State Science Fair Experience at UNMC. Below, Allen student Skyler Rahn also took part in the event.

State Science Experience draws 42 students from across Nebraska

Forty-two eighth-grade students from 23 schools across Nebraska attended the 26th annual State Science Experience June 8 at the University of Nebraska Medical Center. The meet is hosted by the Nebraska Area Health Education Program Office.

The goal of the event is to inspire students, especially those from rural communities, to pursue careers in health care by providing a fun and educational experience.

Local students attending included:

Skyler Rahn of Allen and Courtney Brink, Carter Hasemann and Abigail Wieseler of Wayne.

The students qualify for it by submitting science projects in one of seven regional science meets sponsored by the Nebraska Area Health Education Centers and the Coalition for Life Saving Cures held earlier in the year.

While on campus students were exposed to the health professions, medical research and patient care. Events included hands-on science activities such as:

- Exposure to a variety of health science disciplines through hands-on activities;
- Simulation activities with the SIM-NE truck; and
- Team development and leadership activities at the Omaha Outward Bound School.

The students also were treated to a biomechanics workshop and CAPOW! science show at the Peter Kiewit Institute on the University of Nebraska at Omaha Scott Campus.

The 'catch' of marriage and beyond

By MIKE RENNING
mikesportshome@yahoo.com

As Forrest Gump would say, "Marriage is like a box of chocolates, you never know what you're going to get."

I don't think he said marriage, but I know he said something about a box of chocolates and not knowing what you get.

And marriage is not like a box of chocolates, marriage is a united blessing of two souls which come together for ever and ever.

You know, the 'Death 'til you part' stuff.

The Darling Wife and I got married a while back and there were several times she would have taken the 'death 'til you part' part of the equation and parted with me.

Thank goodness we stayed together and got older.

I'm not sure if she's thinking it won't be so long now when we part - or she's thinking she loves me.

I would like to think it's the latter, but that's what keeps you on your toes.

I'm here to profess I love my wife, country and God.

Well, I love my Mother, Mother-in-Law, brother, Sister-In-Law...I love my family, let's move on.

But, before we get all teary-eyed, let's recount the facts of life.

The Darling Wife and I have four children. Two older girls and two younger boys.

Oldest 32, youngest 23.

Our work is basically done except for messing up the Grandkids - and believe me, we will.

I have already started with Lily and Sophia, and now I get my first Grandson, Hogan.

Both our girls were older, so I spent some time wondering if I would ever get the chance to have a "catch" in the yard with a boy.

While I wondered, I had literally thousands of "catches" in the yard with my girls...and enjoyed every second.

Michala got to where she could actually hurt my hand and Mikenzie always made me smile while we played catch.

Now that they are having children of their own, I would love to go back to that simple time of a backyard catch.

Which brings me to the point of this scribbling.

Grandkids are wonderful. You can teach them absolutely anything you want to teach them and send them home for the parents to deal with.

Although I no longer possess the energy for weekend tournaments, camps and daily workouts,

I possess the energy for a "catch".

Kevin Costner may have built a field in Iowa to have a "catch" with his Dad, but I have a backyard to have a "catch" with Lily and Sophia - and next summer Hogan.

The main thing to remember whenever you are having a "catch" - to some degree you are at the mercy of the thrower.

Do you know how far a five-year-old can throw the ball? Especially if there is a slope away from you? Do you know how a three-year-old has no idea where she's throwing the ball?

Do you know every time a little girl throws the ball and you don't catch it, she's going to expect you to retrieve the little orb?

When I coached little kids in baseball, before every game I would say, go out and play chase - that's exactly what I did with my little Sweeties.

I told the little Sweeties to hit me in the chest with the ball and I would catch it.

The only time Lily and Sophia hit me in the chest, it was sim...simultane...at the same time.

They would stand and giggle as I chased the balls down the hill.

I'm glad I can still play some chase with my girls, but my goodness, I was worn out.

Kevin Costner may have wanted a "catch" with his Dad, but he's never experienced the arm of Sophia.

I will say, we will do it again the next time I see Lily and Sophia, but I'll also tell you, I'm not building a field in my yard just yet.

As for the Darling Wife? I'm sure I was the "catch" of a lifetime, but you know, she isn't building a field in the backyard either.

Signature challenge filed, deserves consideration

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

A Nebraska political activist is challenging the state's process for qualifying independent candidates for the ballot.

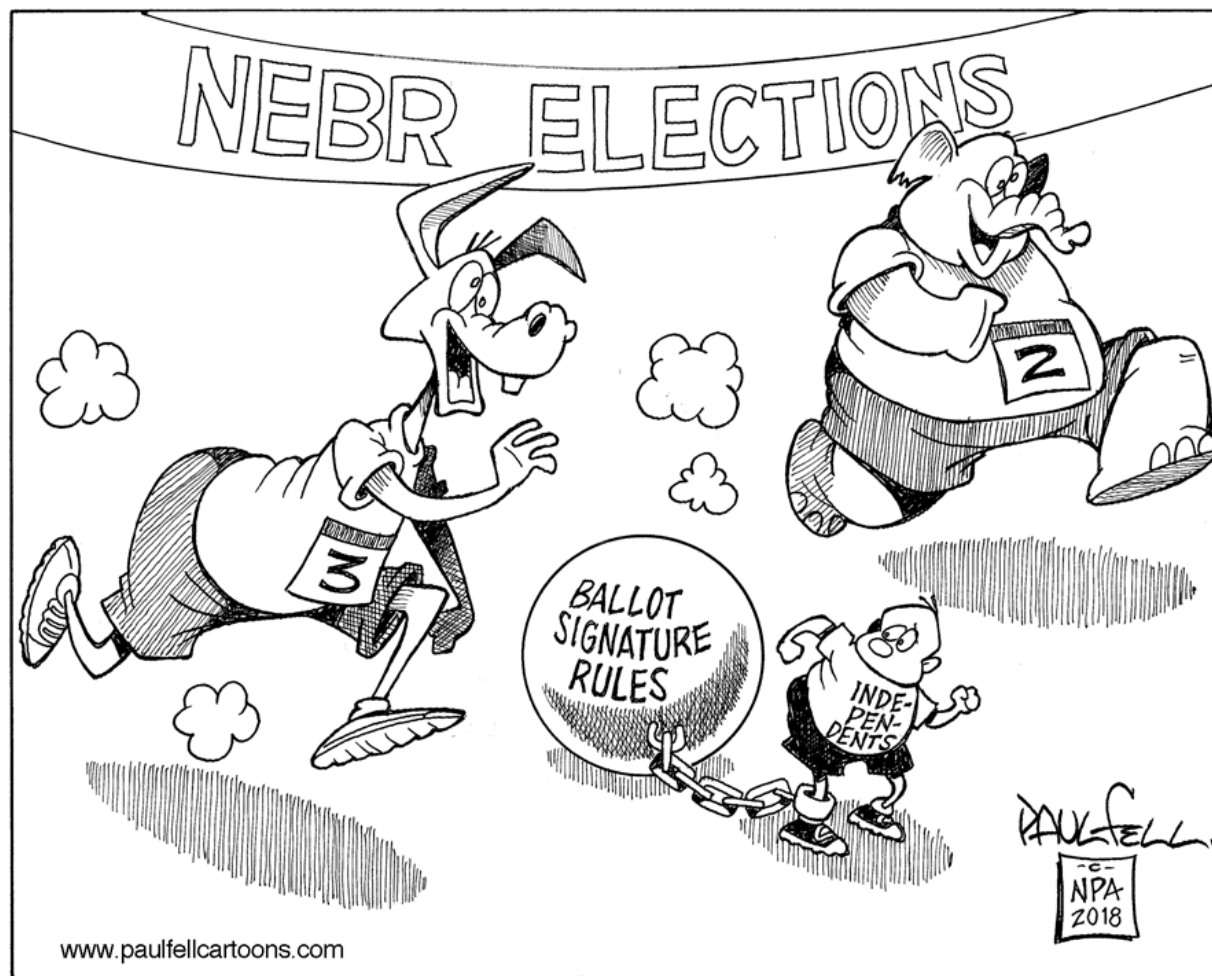

Kent Bernbeck has sponsored or cosponsored five statewide initiative petitions and provided consultation or assistance to four others in the last 20 years. No petition this time, but this time it's personal. Bernbeck wants to be an independent candidate for State Treasurer, challenging state Sen. John Murante of Gretna who just won the Republican primary. There was no Democrat running.

Interestingly, as Chairman of the Legislature's Government, Military and Veteran's Affairs Committee, it was Murante who championed (in 2016) a change in required signatures for independents from 4,000 to 10 percent of the total number of registered voters, roughly 120,000 signatures.

Bernbeck has filed a federal lawsuit to challenge the constitutionality of the law. He said if he is successful, he wants to run against Murante. In 2012 Bernbeck filed a challenge to get Nebraska to return the petition-signature thresholds for ballot initiatives to their previous levels. Bernbeck had a partial victory on the state court level, but the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled he had no standing to sue Secretary of State John Gale.

In this lawsuit he is being represented by the Voting Rights Project of the American Civil Liberties Union which said the state's burdensome system for non-major party candidates seeking to run for office is unconstitutional and has asked the court to prohibit state officials from enforcing it in this year's elections. The ACLU said Nebraska's signature requirement is now among the highest in the country. Thirty-seven states require 10,000 signatures or fewer.

For his part, Bernbeck said he hopes the lawsuit and his campaign will promote accountability and encourage independent candidates to run in future elections. "Voting rights are the cornerstones of our democracy. Nebraska has a long and proud tradition of ensuring fairness in our elections and providing a level playing field for all candidates," said Danielle Conrad, executive director of the ACLU of Nebraska.

She said the 2016 change was the most extreme law in the country for independent candidates to access the ballot and the arbitrary increase serves no legitimate state interest, creates an unequal playing field giving an unfair advantage to partisan candidates, and denies Nebraska voters real choices when they head to the polls to select our state leaders.

Lincoln resident Michael Warner, a registered voter who wants to vote for Bernbeck, has joined him as a plaintiff. Their attorney, Laughlin McDonald, said the case is important to ensuring and upholding the high ideals of a vibrant democracy. Other than Nebraska, no state requires more than 3 percent of the signatures of the last gubernatorial vote for a statewide independent to access the ballot. Nebraska's new law represents a 3,000 percent increase.

In my opinion, the signature change is just another move to dismantle nonpartisan politics in a state that has long prided itself on having a unique nonpartisan political system. It represents another blatant power grab by the Republican Party and Governor Pete Ricketts.

If you don't have these numbers memorized, you should. The Nebraska Legislature is comprised of 32 Republicans, 15 Democrats, 1 Independent and 1 Libertarian. Every major state office is held by a Republican.

I'm not convinced the Koch Brothers and their rich conservative friends want to annihilate Nebraska's Democrats and Independents, but they have made it abundantly clear that Ricketts will have the "best" Legislature that money can buy. The Republican stranglehold on statewide offices will likely also continue.

The signature law that Bernbeck and the ACLU are fighting was the reason that former Republican State Senator Bob Krist - who apparently tired of dangling from the Republican marionette strings and left the party - had to give up on his desire to run as an independent to challenge Ricketts. He ultimately changed his party affiliation to Democrat.

Bernbeck said the new threshold makes it prohibitively expensive and therefore essentially impossible for an independent candidate to achieve ballot access.

But Bernbeck is a fighter. Watch when he puts the smooth stone in his sling and goes after whatever number of Goliaths show up for this fight. Let's pull for the underdog; the independent political nature of Nebraska depends on it.

Legislative Update by District 17 Senator Joni Albrecht

I hope that everyone had a fun and safe Memorial Day weekend! As we spend long weekends with family and friends, I hope each of you joined me in remembering the brave servicemen and women who sacrificed themselves to give us the freedom and liberties we enjoy every day in the great state of Nebraska.

On June 4th, I attended the South Sioux City Area Chamber of Commerce's Legislative Lunch. I presented a wrap up of this year's legislative session and answered questions. It is always encouraging to see so many engaged constituents at local meetings. With the recent grain elevator explosion in the city, I have been inspired to hear of the fast acting and vigilant first responders that have been working to contain the situation. My prayers are with those who have been affected by the explosion.

As Chair of the Business and Labor Committee, I have the pleasure of sitting on multiple workforce related boards and learning extensively about the business climate in Nebraska. The Nebraska Workforce Development Board convenes quarterly with state, regional, and local workforce development systems with the goals of enhancing the capacity and performance of Nebraska's workforce, improving outcomes of Federally-funded and other workforce programs, and promoting economic growth. The Board held a meeting on June 8th to discuss state and local workforce development plans, Registered Apprenticeship programs, and review labor availability studies and talent initiatives. It is estimated that in 2018 nearly $7 million will be allotted from state and local sources for youth, adult, and dislocated worker programs through the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act.

Nebraska offers a Registered Apprenticeship program through the Department of Labor. In October 2016, the Department received an ApprenticeshipUSA State Accelerator Grant that provided additional assistance to the Registered Apprenticeship program. The Department was happy to report that over the course of the grant term, employers with Registered Apprenticeship programs increased by 24%, including new programs in the healthcare and manufacturing industries.

The Registered Apprenticeship system combines supervised on-the-job training with technical classroom instruction in subjects related to the apprentice's chosen occupation. Apprenticeship has been proven to be a very successful strategy for preparing skilled workers to help America compete effectively in the global economy. The apprentice has the opportunity to earn a living while gaining skills, and pay raises are awarded throughout the program as skills increase. Employers and those looking to gain skills, while earning a wage can go to <https://dol.nebraska.gov/EmploymentAndTrain-> ing/Training/RegisteredApprenticeship to learn more about the awesome apprenticeship programs being offered across the state and at home in District 17.

The Department of Labor also offers Worker Training Grants to promote retention of Nebraska Workers, promote the expansion of Nebraska businesses and increase their competitive edge, and train new employees of expanding Nebraska businesses. Employers or labor organizations that are seeking to secure training for demand occupations in a particular industry can apply to receive grants that will assist in retaining employees, supporting apprenticeship programs, supporting training programs, and supporting small business and entrepreneurial training. More information about the application and grant process can be found at: <https://dol.nebraska.gov/EmploymentAndTraining/Training/WorkerTrainingProgram>.

Nebraska offers many more programs and resources aimed at developing, expanding, and retaining our workforce. Resources for both job seekers and employers can be found at <https://dol.nebraska.gov/EmploymentAndTraining> or by calling 402-471-9000.

I want to encourage my constituents to reach out to me, I look forward to hearing from you!

Chautauqua visits Wayne

A number of activities took place in Wayne last week as "World War One: Legacies of a Forgotten War" came to Wayne. Humanities Nebraska and a number of local sponsors brought this event to town. Presentations by Woodrow Wilson (left), Jane Addams, W.E.B. DuBois, William Jennings Bryan and Edith Warton highlighted events taking place in the world following World War One. In addition, to the presentations, a number of activities took place at the Wayne Public Library. Among those was Karen Shoemaker (below) who led a discussion on treatment of German-Americans and effects of the Pandemic Flu. The Wayne Rotary Club also hosted a meal in the Willow Bowl.

Practice makes perfect

Members of the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department hosted a practice burn at a vacant home located on East 14th Street in Wayne. Additional rescue crews from area communities were also on hand for the burn. Burns like this allow for area departments to take part in training sessions as fires are deliberately set inside the structure and drills are conducted. More information on the practice burn can be found in the front section of this week's Wayne Herald.

Everyone loves summertime

Everyone loves summertime and all the fun that comes with 4-H and county fair, but did you know that 4-H is more than just summer activities and the local county fair?

Nebraska Extension 4-H Educators and Assistants deliver 4-H youth development programs throughout the year in a variety of ways. In recent years, Nebraska 4-H has reached one in every three youth in the state, ages 5-19, through school enrichment, afterschool programs, camps, clubs and special interest programs.

Through new and innovative programs, several counties have actually been able to reach one in every two youth in their county.

Not only does 4-H reach a diverse group of youth across the state, Nebraska 4-H offers a wide variety of curriculum projects. With 120 curriculum projects that can be taught to youth in a variety of settings, youth are bound to find something that interests them. Nebraska 4-H prepares young people for successful futures and strives to have a meaningful impact on Nebraska youth through hands-on learning. Educational programs place a strong emphasis on life skills, such as critical thinking, problem-solving, social skills, communication, responsibility, citizenship, and leadership.

To learn more about 4-H in your community or to get involved, feel free to contact your local Nebraska Extension office.

DHHS child and adult abuse and neglect central registry online portal is now live

The Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) launched its Child and Adult Abuse Central Registry Check online in March of this year.

Nebraska Law (Rev. Stat. 28-718 and 28-376) requires that the department keep records of persons DHHS or the courts find responsible for the abuse and neglect of a child or vulnerable adult. DHHS maintains these records in the Nebraska Child and Adult Abuse and Neglect Central Registry.

Previously, Nebraskans could only request background checks via U.S. Mail, email or facsimile. Requests should now be submitted through the new online portal or through U.S. Mail.

The online portal was created because the department is always looking for new ways to effectively serve Nebraskans, according to DHHS CEO Dr. Courtney Phillips. "We want to offer the people of Nebraska the best services, in a timely manner. Helping people live better lives also means keeping up with the latest technological advances and incorporating them into our processes, when possible," she said.

In this case, the online portal helps users more easily request, receive and review background checks. Users are already reporting positive experiences with the portal.

"We love how fast the checks are coming back in the new system," said user Cari Harms, Human Resources Supervisor at CHI Health.

Jeff Kuhl, an office manager at Integrated Life Choices, also praised the timeliness of the system. "We generate hundreds of APS/CPS requests each year, so it's imperative that we are able to submit and receive accurate requests and results with a dependable return time. The new APS/CPS online system that DHHS has launched takes this process to another level, and it's much more user-friendly."

The portal streamlines the background check process by:

- Ensuring clear and accurate requests. All information is entered online.
 - Eliminating the return of requests. Information on requests is sometimes missing or illegible. The portal requires certain information be placed in data fields before electronic submission.
 - Permitting individuals to request a self-check. It is the responsibility of those whose backgrounds are being checked to enter their personal information and verify their identity, reducing the requester's responsibility to verify identities.
 - Allowing the review of all background checks and results. Through the portal, requester's may review background checks and results, download them or monitor progress on requests. This improves access to information.
 - Allowing online identity verifications. A person's identity can be easily verified online.
- As of June 1, 2018 the Central Registry online portal has:
- 3,064 total users;
 - 26,916 background check requests to date;
 - 50 percent have used the online ID verification;
 - 50 percent have used a notary attachment.
- As an alternative to the portal, verification can be completed by a notary and the request sent through the U.S. Postal Service.
- For more information, or to request a background check through the portal, visit <https://ecmp.nebraska.gov/DHHS-CR/>. Questions and/or concerns may be directed to DHHS at (402) 471-9272 or DHHS.CFSCentralRegistry@nebraska.gov.

Locally & Family Owned in Wayne for 49 Years!

In the Garden with Jesus

As crops spring up in the fields around Wayne I'm waiting impatiently for my own crop, not of soybeans or corn, but flowers. When I moved into my home last year the yard was pretty much a blank slate. Thanks to the generosity of many people, I received a variety of flowers and plants. This spring I have enjoyed trying to identify the plants as they emerge from the ground and await the blossoms.

I enjoy the physical act of gardening which includes walking, bending, wrangling hoses as well as raking, hoeing, and digging. The physical activity is good for me as well as being a good change of pace and stress reliever. Gardening uses all our senses, our eyes as we enjoy the beautiful colors and shapes of leaves and foliage, our sense of touch as we dig and repot plants or move them around the garden. The fragrance of the flowers tickles our noses, whether lilacs in the spring or a whiff of roses in the summer and the feathered friends that visit the yard share their songs freely.

I find myself frequently walking in the yard in the evening either watering or looking for changes in the plants. Is the rose bush blooming, do the day lilies need to be deadheaded? Perhaps some fertilizer will perk up the flowering shrubs. As we move into the peak time for blooming flowers in our part of the country changes happen daily.

The Bible has plenty of garden images. God created the first garden. We read in Genesis that God walked in the garden in the cool of the

A Word In Faith

By Teresa Bartlett
Pastor, Wayne Presbyterian Church

day. Adam and Eve were the first gardeners, but they disobeyed God and had to leave the garden.

Jesus used images such as the sower and the seeds, the vine and the branches, mustard seed, and fig trees. Jesus went to the garden to pray before he was arrested, he was buried in a garden.

Mary Magdalene was distraught outside Jesus' empty tomb weeping and was asked by a man why she was crying. The man was Jesus but Mary didn't recognize him and she assumed he was the gardener.

Perhaps that misidentification was not just a random slip; rather a divine one.

It isn't a stretch for me to think of Jesus as a gardener, planting and pruning looking after tender shoots of new growth. Jesus lived with, taught and prayed for his disciples, cultivating a new way of life for each of them. I can imagine Jesus being as diligent about each of us as a gardener with their prized lilies, watching our daily walk of discipleship, perhaps transplanting us into new situations, pruning bad habits and waiting for us to mature and to understand more clearly his teachings and call to discipleship. Jesus wants each of us to thrive, to cultivate of life of discipleship which will bear fruit and witness to our faith.

Creation was spoken into being by God's Word, life began in a garden, and it was beautiful and perfect. In the last book of the Bible, Revelation 22:2b says "On each side of the river stood the tree of life, bearing twelve crops of fruit, yielding its fruit every month. And the leaves of the tree are for the healing of the nations." Our beginning and ending is tied to a garden. Genesis says humanity was made from dust and to dust all of us will all return.

It's good to know that we can trust our gardener, Jesus, to watch over each of us, nurturing and offering guidance as he waits for our relationship with him to come to full blossom.

Northeast Nebraska helped Greece fight weeds

By Stevan Knezevic, Weed Extension Specialist, Haskell Ag Lab

What the Northeast Nebraska and Greece have in common, what would you say?

Weeds, and more weeds, yes, they both have weed species that interfere with local lives.

Weeds are the specialty of Stevan Knezevic, UNL Weed Scientist. The majority of Stevan's research is conducted at Haskell Ag. However, a few years ago Stevan was invited to coordinate a non-chemical weed control project in Greece.

The Mediterranean region of Europe (including Greece) gave birth to a number of civilizations and is interspersed by a dense network of cultural heritage sites. Archaeological sites are often large scale open spaces that enclose a variety of monuments, including free spaces between monuments, which are rapidly colonized by herbaceous plants (weeds), especially during rainy season (November -April). Weed presence between the monuments is not desirable because weeds can: (1) conceal the monuments, (2) interfere with regular maintenance and restoration, (3) obstruct the site access to the visitors, (4) impair the aesthetics of the site (appearance of the site neglect), and (5) increase the risk of fire during long hot and dry summer seasons of the Mediterranean region.

characterized by mild winters and extended dry periods during the warmest months of the year. The herbaceous vegetation of the archaeological sites in the Mediterranean zone is adapted to such conditions and is dominated by plants with short life cycles that during the warm months (summer) are in a dormant stage.

Currently the Greek national law prohibits the use of herbicides in and around archaeological sites because chemicals can deteriorate and stain the historical monuments due to the acidity of the herbicide and/or herbicide formulations.

Complete eradication of weeds (vegetation) is not the intent at the archaeological sites, but rather the management of vegetation at the desirable level, which can be a challenging task. The most common weed control methods at archaeological sites are string trimming and hand weeding. Mechanical cultivation could not be adopted for archaeological sites, due to non-uniform landscape, and potential for mechanical damage of unexcavated archaeological monuments. Therefore, there is interest to develop alternative vegetation control methods for archaeological sites. One such method might be a propane fueled flame weeding, as it is becoming popular in organic crop production.

Propane fueled flame weeding is a non-chemical method for weed control adopted by organic cropping systems, which is the method of weed control that Dr. Knezevic studied from 2008-

Stevan Knezevic worked with officials in Greece to conduct a flaming project in an archaeological site.

2014 at Haskell Ag Lab.

Weed flaming involves exposing plant tissues to heat produced by a propane burner. Flaming differs from burning, as in flaming the plant biomass is not incinerated, but it is rather heated rapidly causing rupturing of the cell membranes. The cell integrity is disrupted due to protein denaturation and cell membrane destruction, hence, flamed weeds die or their growth ability is severely reduced.

Taking into consideration that flaming is a non-chemical method for suppressing weeds it would be beneficial to study its effectiveness in archaeological sites. Therefore, the objective of the study was to determine the effects of propane dose and multiple flaming operations on weed control at several archaeological sites in Greece.

Experiments were conducted over a period of three years (2013-2015) at three archaeological sites in Greece (Kolona, Ancient Messene and Early Christian Amfipolis), representing different bioclimatic types of the Mediterranean climate. Kolona is located at Aegina island, 20 miles south of Athens. Ancient Messene is situated in southwestern Greece (western Peloponnese) while Early Christian Amfipolis site is located in Northern Greece, 40 miles east of Thessaloniki. The main growing season for vegetation in this type of climate is from November until April. From practical standpoint, if weeds are managed until end of April, they are not of major concern during dry hot Summer and Fall due to lack of moisture that promotes emergence or growth of new weed flushes.

Dr. Knezevic designed experiments that involved testing various rates of propane (2-15 Gallons per acre) and multiple timing of flaming operations (1-4 times). Flaming was conducted utilizing a custom designed back-pack flamer with a single nozzle hooded boom. Stevan also visited Greece twice a year to train operators and oversee the progress of the project. The project was funded by the European Union Funds for International Collaboration, which also covered Stevan's travel expenses while in Greece.

Results were clearly visible after the first season. All flaming treatments reduced weed growth, while the highest level of weed control was achieved by multiple applications of the higher propane dose. Flaming treatments significantly reduced weed height across all sites and years. In general, average height decreased with increasing propane dose and number of flaming applications. The flaming treatment applied 3-4 times in 3-week intervals reduced vegetation height to about 3" compared to 50" height in nontreated control, suggesting that flaming treatments can be utilized effectively to control vegetation height. Vegetation height was identified by the managers of archaeological sites as one of the most important factors contributing to the overall enjoyment of the site.

Managers agreed that a 2-3" height is an ideal vegetation height at any historical site. Otherwise taller vegetation can interfere with monument restoration projects, and can also visually impair the monuments or obstruct free access to the site. Since the short vegetation presence is very important to provide a ground cover, the results from this study are encouraging as they suggest that multiple flaming with the dose of about 15 gallon per acre has the potential not only to keep vegetation suppressed for the first 2-3 months of the growing season, but also to keep the vegetation at the desirable height (eg. 3"). Flame weeding can be also combined with other weed control tools (hand weeding, or trimming) as part of an integrated weed management program, especially in those years when weather conditions may not be favorable for flaming (eg. rainy or extremely wet or dry periods).

Results of this project were also published as scientific manuscript in Weed Technology, the official journal of Weed Science Society of America. For reprints of manuscript or additional information contact Stevan Knezevic (sknezevic2@unl.edu, 402-404-0175).

NENCAP shares changes to state car seat law

You may have heard there is a new car seat law in Nebraska. The new law goes into effect on January 1, 2019. The new law will require children to ride rear-facing until they are 2 years old and in an appropriate seat, such as a booster, until they are 8. Additionally, children aged 8-18 will need to be buckled up for every trip.

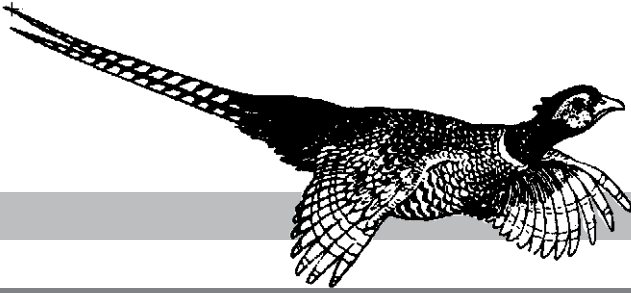

Some people are concerned about where their child will put his or her feet when they are rear-facing. The answer is that the child will cross their legs, bend their knees, or otherwise adjust. Remember the child has never ridden any other way and therefore doesn't know anything different.

Riding rear-facing allows the car seat to absorb most of the crash forces in the event of a crash. Road injuries are the leading cause of preventable deaths and injuries to children in the United States. Keeping our children rear-facing as long as possible is a good step to prevent those injuries and deaths.

Once a child reaches 8 years-old he or she may still need to use a booster seat. The purpose of a booster seat is to help the vehicle's seat belt fit the child properly. When a child can sit comfortably with their back against the seat, their knees bent over the edge of the seat and the shoulder belt lies between their neck and shoulder, he or she is probably okay to ride with just the vehicle's seat belt.

For more information you can contact the Car Seat Fitting Stations at Faith Regional Hospital in Norfolk, St. Francis Memorial Hospital in West Point, Three Rivers Health Department in Fremont, Northeast Nebraska Community Action at 402-385-6300 or go online to www.safekids.org.

Enjoying the benefits of reading a newspaper

By: Pat Meierhenry

One of the benefits of retirement is more time for reading! And I heard a good thing about reading newspapers last night, so will continue to read three dailies!!

When on the computer, you could spend hours chasing down items that pop up; or, reading stuff that comes from friends who thought you should be informed. I usually go to Truth or Fiction or Fact Check before believing it all.

For some reason, I was also getting daily items from a bunch of conservative sites; The Patriot News, Family Research Council, and one that deals only with Muslim/American issues, and there does seem to be plenty of those. BUT, I was finding it depressing, and hard to keep up with, and of course, it was terribly one sided. Even for a die hard Conservative like myself. So, I un-scribed.

One of the Liberal columnists in the local paper is Leonard Pitts, Jr. I read him because I need to know the other side. I have two friends who went to hear him speak recently. In answer to someone asking, "How do we determine which news is accurate?" he answered, "the print."

We have taken the Omaha paper for years, I don't know how many, because it does cover the entire state. But it's getting skimpier. We trade it with a neighbor who gets the Lincoln Journal, which was always skimpy, but one needs to keep up with what's happening in one's community.

When the Kant kids got to high school, their mom ordered the Norfolk paper for us. We find we enjoy it as much, or more, as the others.

We don't take it for national news, of course, but we enjoy the columnists. And, they try to provide both sides, which is unusual.

And, then, there is the dear old Wayne Herald, once a twice weekly, now just a weekly. But we need it to keep us connected to our former community. We find we don't recognize some of the last names anymore, but we think Wynot will never run out of Wieslers, and Winside, Jankes and Jaegers. Our peers are having great grand kids, and having 60th wedding anniversaries, and 80th birthdays. And, we get to keep up with them all this way. I've become a "skimmer", but I still enjoy holding the paper in my hands, along with a good cup of coffee! Here's hoping they never quit printing. I don't want to read them on line!

Advice offered for controlling volunteer corn

I think volunteer corn has been a problem as long as farmers have been growing corn. However, stock rot last summer and high winds last fall resulted in more downed corn in some areas. This is in addition to normal harvest losses. This resulted with more volunteer corn in some fields this spring.

I remember my days in high school when corn hybrids dropped a lot more ears than they do today. Going out to fields and picking up dropped corn was right up there with car washes and bake sales as a money making project for many organizations. Today that has changed as usually much less corn is left in the field after harvest.

What hasn't changed is, despite farmer's best efforts, there will be years when conditions are such that there is a lot more corn left on the ground after harvest. Grazing cattle on stalks is an excellent way to "harvest" this downed corn, but there aren't as many cattle on farms as there used to be... the supply of downed corn exceeds the supply of cattle to graze on stalks and eat it.

All this leads to a dilemma many farmers are facing, more volunteer corn than usual is showing up in their fields this spring. It is important to control this corn as soon as possible because it can reduce yields. How much depends on the amount of volunteer corn. In 30 inch rows, 1/1,000th of an acre is 17 feet, 5 inches. So 3,500 or 7,000 plants per acre would result in 3.5 or 7 plants in 17 feet, 5 inches.

John Wilson
Extension
Educator

Volunteer corn hurts soybean yields worse than corn yields. University of Nebraska research showed 3,500 volunteer corn plants per acre in soybeans resulted in a 10 percent yield loss while 7,000 plants per acre led to a 27 percent yield reduction. These were the yield losses when there were single volunteer corn plants. In situations where there were clumps of volunteer corn from multiple kernels on a dropped ear germinating, 3,500 clumps per acre resulted in a 40 percent yield loss.

In corn fields, 3,500 volunteer corn plants per acre resulted in a 2 percent yield loss and 7,000 plants per acre resulted in a 5 percent yield loss. In fields with 7,000 clumps of corn per acre, yield losses were 14 percent compared to only 5 percent yield loss with that density of individual volunteer corn plants.

So what is a farmer to do? In soybeans there are several herbicides that do a good job of controlling volunteer corn. For example, Roundup does a great job of controlling volunteer corn as long as Roundup Ready corn was not planted the previous year. The same could be said for Liberty if last year's corn did not include the LibertyLink trait. Other options in soybean fields include herbicides such as Select Max, Poast, Assure II, Fusilade, and Fusion which are all labeled for this use.

Controlling volunteer corn in continuous corn is a little trickier. Roundup or Liberty can be used if the corn hybrid planted last year was NOT Roundup Ready or LibertyLink corn and the hybrid planted this year does have the trait that was not used the previous year.

One other option in continuous corn is if the hybrid planted this year is Enlist Corn, a new multiple herbicide-resistant corn. Assure II is the only grass herbicide labeled to control volunteer corn in Enlist Corn. It must include a crop oil concentrate or nonionic surfactant. Apply Assure II to emerged Enlist field corn that is at the V2 through V6 stage of development. Remember that Assure II can NOT be applied in Roundup Ready/LibertyLink corn, only Enlist Corn.

The other option for controlling volunteer corn is cultivation which will control volunteer corn between the rows, but not volunteer corn directly in the rows. Whatever method is used, the key to preventing yield loss is to control the volunteer corn as early as possible.

For more information on controlling volunteer corn, contact your local Nebraska Extension office.

Arboretum Adventure project taking place this summer

By Steve Rasmussen, NFS District Forester and Arboretum Curator

The Northeast Arboretum, located on the UNL - Haskell Ag Lab property east of Concord is a host site for this summer's NSA Arboretum Adventure project.

The Northeast Arboretum is participating in this new program to help celebrate the Nebraska Statewide Arboretum's 40th anniversary. There are close to 50 arboretums across the state that are hosting a rubbing plaque at their arboretum location. Ten of the sites are in northeast Nebraska.

Participants in the Arboretum Adventure act as an "Explorer" to visit the different arboretums and make a crayon or pencil rubbing of the plaque in a guide book.

At each Arboretum you visit, read the clue and look for the plaque with the Arboretum Adventure logo and the name of the Arboretum (see the example on the front of the book). Use your guidebook to make a rubbing of the plaque and collect as many as you can. Keep your guidebook to remind you of your adventure and don't forget to register for a chance to win one of our three family adventure prizes.

The guide book and an Adventure Map that gives the location of the arboretums can be printed from <https://plantnebraska.org/explore>. Or you can stop at the HAL office and pick up a guidebook and start the Arboretum Adventure at the Northeast Arboretum.

The Northeast Arboretum is an affiliate site of the Nebraska Statewide Arboretum and has over 80 different trees and shrubs growing on the property. These plants are labeled with identification plates. Visitors are encouraged to visit the UNL-HAL and Northeast Arboretum to see and learn about what different types of trees and shrubs grow in northeast Nebraska.

For information about the Northeast Arboretum or to schedule a visit for groups, please contact Steve Rasmussen at 402.375.0101 or srasmussen2@unl.edu.

Local students to take part in Agricultural Youth Institute

The Nebraska Agricultural Youth Institute (NAYI) is a unique experience for neighbors interested in agriculture to learn about leadership, personal growth and ag-related career opportunities. More than 200 Nebraska high school juniors and seniors will serve as delegates at this year's 47th annual NAYI, July 9-13, in Lincoln.

Local students taking part include Tyler Gilliland, Megan Keiser and Hana Nelsen, all of Wayne, Jasmine Galvin of Laurel and Nicole Hanson of Concord.

In addition, Hannah Borg of Wakefield is a member of the Nebraska Agricultural Youth Council (NAYC), which helps to organize the event.

NAYI is sponsored in part by the Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA).

"NAYI is an excellent way for Nebraska's youth to explore agricultural career opportunities and increase their knowledge and passion for agriculture," said NDA Director Steve Wellman. "NAYI is the longest running program of its kind in the nation, helping to ensure that there are enough young professionals interested in ag-related careers to meet the growing needs of agriculture in the future."

During the five-day Institute held at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's East Campus, delegates participate in agriculture policy and group discussions as well as career development activities. Motivational speakers and a farm management program help delegates grow their leadership potential and strengthen their pride in Nebraska agriculture. The week also provides delegates an opportunity to network with industry leaders, top-notch speakers and ag representatives.

Since its start, NAYI has shared the importance of agriculture with nearly 6,200 youth from across the state. Delegates apply for and are selected to attend the Institute free of charge due to numerous donations from agricultural businesses, commodity groups and industry organizations.

"I thank all of our sponsors for their investment in Nebraska youth and agriculture and for their continued support of NAYI," said Wellman. "Their generous contributions have helped make NAYI a strong foundation for the youth of Nebraska and the future of our farming, ranching and ag-related industries."

NAYI events and additional youth learning opportunities throughout the year are organized by the Nebraska Agricultural Youth Council (NAYC). NDA selects Council members who are passionate about agriculture and who want to teach young Nebraskans about the state's leading industry. This year's Council is comprised of 21 college-age men and women from across the state.

To learn more about NAYC or NAYI, visit the NAYI website.

Before you put the planter away

Hopefully, by now, everybody is done planting. It has been a very, very long planting season for many of you, especially my neighbors to the North. But mostly by now, we can begin to reflect and evaluate just how our planting season went. This reflection includes walking our fields and evaluating stand and emergence consistency. I am a big believer in the importance of the Net Effective Stand Percentage. In short, the Net Effective Stand Percentage, or NESP is the percentage of viable plants that you have after you remove doubles, skips, and late emergers from your target population. This number is a completely unbiased evaluation of our planter performance and environment that we planted in and had after planting. I think this evaluation is a hugely valuable aspect our growing season; it is basically out final exam to a semesters worth of planning and preparation in the winter.

So in evaluating our NESP, we need to look at spacing quality, skips, doubles and late emergers. Each of these tells us something different about our seed selection, ride quality, or planter performance. If we are seeing seeds that are unevenly spaced, it means one of two things. This problem can be caused by our seed meter itself. We can test seed meters to verify if they are having a seed release problem very easily. But if it is not the seed meter, it means is that seed is bouncing down the seed tube instead of sliding down it. Every time a seed bounces, we lose about one inch of spacing quality. There are a few ways we can improve this problem, the easiest and cheapest is to slow down. Planting 4.5 mph or slower will almost always improve ride quality. But, if that isn't a viable option, we may need to evaluate your downforce system to look at what kind of economic gains we can realistically expect. Finally, there is always technology like speed tubes that will deliver our seed to the furrow directly where we want it. Using them should eliminate issues in spacing.

Skips and doubles are fairly easy to figure out. They are row specific, or they occur across the entire planter. If you see an issue that occurs on less than 1/4 of your planter, you probably have a seed meter issue. If you have a problem that is happening across the entire planter, it can be a number of factors. If the problem ends with a hybrid or variety change, then we are looking at a seed size, or a seed treatment or coating that didn't work well with your meter. "Consistent" issues with skips and doubles across the planter can also be an indication that we may be looking at the need for more talc or graphite to improve seed flow. Seldom do we think to do it, but testing and repairing your meters after planting and before storage is a better option than waiting for spring. It is one less headache next year and ensures proper storage this winter.

Then finally there is the consistency with which our plants have emerged. I discuss it often, but we need to see our plants out of the ground within 24-48 hours of each other for our best yield potential. There is plenty of research out there that shows yield rapidly falls off when a plant comes up more than 48 hours after its neighbor. This delay is almost always caused by inconsistency of seeding depth. I could launch into a whole other discussion about downforce, but to keep things short, there is yield in good emergence consistency, and it can be lost quickly.

So the quick synopsis of today's discussion is that evaluation of our NESP right now with your ACS Equipment Technician, or your trusted advisor is not just recommended but is really mandatory. If our NESP score is coming back below 95% we are losing some cash. If that number is in the 80's, we need to fix something, and now is the time to do it. CVA has put together two very attractive financing options, one for Ag Leader, and one for Precision Planting. Both programs give you the grower 0% interest through 2020 and let us make our payments for planter hardware in November after the crop is in the bin.

Couple this with some great rebate offers and other programs from Ag Leader and Precision Planting, and it's a great opportunity for us to get the planter you have turned into the planter you need. It is often said that "time heals all wounds." This is true with every planter season I have been a part of for the last 20 years. What was an issue during planting and emergence is often forgotten by the time the combine rolls, and is but a distant memory by next April. Few things are as painful as repeating the same mistake. Now is a great time not just on the calendar, but for your expenditures and revolving capital to get the planter ready for the 2019 growing season.
