The Wayne County Board of Commissioners heard concerns about drainage issues from county residents during their recent meeting.

Commissioners discuss damages from flooding, office changes

By Calyn Dunklau
calyn@wayneherald.com

Both County Treasurer Karen McDonald and County Assessor Dawn Duffy were on hand to present corrections during the brief meeting of the Board of Equalization Tuesday morning.

McDonald presented a motor vehicle exemption to the board for Mosaic after they purchased a new vehicle and Duffy needed a signature to allow for the reclassification on a piece of property listed as suburban land use rather than grassland. The reclassification was accepted unanimously.

Duffy also updated the board on the valuation protests, stating there were 12 protests so far.

Immediately following that meeting's adjournment, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners was called to order.

The meeting's discussion centered on insurance, office space and the damages sustained from the recent flooding.

Incoming County Attorney Amy Miller had previously brought the board a request to have the County Attorney office housed on the courthouse grounds.

The commissioners discussed several options, from rooms currently used as storage in the basement to other offices and made a decision to move forward with one such option.

The current meeting room for the commissioners houses a vault which is home to the numerous confidential District Court files that Clerk of the District Court Deb Allemann-Dannelly uses regularly. Her office is located down the hall.

The commissioners decided unanimously that before the start of the new year, Allemann-Dannelly's office will be moved to the current meeting room of the commissioners, putting her in the same space as the court files she utilizes.

Her old office will be turned into the office for the County Attorney, which Miller, her Deputy County Attorney Eric Knutson and a part time office assistant will utilize.

The commissioners will explore several meeting room options in the courthouse and the judicial center over the coming months to find a space that works best, though they are leaning toward utilizing the courtroom in the judicial center.

The commissioners also briefly discussed the office assistant position Miller requested, concerned about the affect that would have on the County Attorney budget.

Miller clarified that she was looking to have the office assistant paid by the county as a part time employee, with no more than 29 hours a week at $15 per hour. This would make the employee exempt from insurance benefits, which were the main concerns of the commissioners.

Some of the damages sustained in the recent flooding included large craters and culverts being washed out.

serious flooding that occurred June 24-25 after incessant rain and the damages that had amounted due to the flooding.

Emergency Manager Nic Kennitz requested that the commissioners issue a local disaster declaration based on the estimated damages costing approximately $130,000.

Kennitz explained that for state and federal aid purposes, damages must be above the allotted threshold for the county to warrant a disaster declaration and assistance. He stated that as a county, the threshold is above $35,000 in damages.

Furthermore, as these disaster declarations are being made by the surrounding counties, the state will look at the cost of the damages combined and if it exceeds approximately $2.6 million, the event would warrant a state disaster declaration and would received help from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

On June 25, Kennitz and others drove the county roads to place barricades up where the water was rushing over the roads.

Kennitz was out with the road crews the following day to check road conditions. After photographing each area, Kennitz estimated roughly 100 locations in the county sustained damage from the flash flooding.

Highway Superintendent Mark Casey has been out rigorously checking county bridges for damages, especially those located on Logan Creek where the majority of the water ran.

Arbor Day Assembly

As a follow-up to the Arbor Day assembly when Tree Board Chairman Marcia Rastede reviewed the history of the Allen Historic Grove, the kindergarten through third grades visited the grove on May 16 to enjoy a picnic lunch and then look at the different kinds of leaves and bark on the tree trunks.

The students read the plaques by the trees to learn the kind of tree and from what historic place it originated as a small seedling.

Allen Book Club

The Allen Book Club is reading "With Love from the Inside" by Angela Pisel. A story about a young woman and her incarcerated mother. Book discussion at Center third Wednesday at 9.

Allen School Activities

There has been a NSAA cooperative agreement between Allen Consolidated Schools and Wakefield Public School. During the May Board of Education meetings a resolution was passed by both Allen and Wakefield agreeing to an extra-curricular cooperative agreement.

The resolution includes the following extra-curricular activities for the 2018-2019 school year:

Junior High Football, Junior High Wrestling, Junior High Volleyball, Junior High Boys and Junior High Girls Basketball, Varsity Volleyball, Varsity Girls Basketball, Varsity Wrestling, Varsity Boys and Girls Golf

If an athlete participates in activities that are held in Wakefield, transportation will be provided by the school. Informational letters pertaining to the specific sports will be sent to parents as it gets closer to the start of that activity.

Highlights of the agreement include:

Team Name: The name for the sport's teams included in the cooperative agreement will be "Wakefield - Allen Trojans". This title will be used on programs as well as the official name listed on the NSAA resolution.

Team Colors: Maroon, white, and gold will be the official team colors.

Team Uniforms: New uniforms will be purchased for varsity girls' sports. Costs will be shared equally between the two school districts. Other sports included in the cooperative agreement will have purchased on an "as needed"/rotation basis. Costs will be shared equally.

Wakefield will serve as the Host School as identified on the NSAA resolution.

Each school will provide at least one or two coaches in each sport. (This will accommodate increased student numbers.)

Head coaches will be determined by administration from both districts.

Coaching costs will be paid based upon each school's extra-curricular salary schedule for their coach.

Games of shared sports will follow the Wakefield schedule.

Home games will be played in Wakefield. We are planning to hold games when appropriate in Allen. Singleton basketball games or possibly a triangular volleyball match may be played in Allen.

Practice will be held in Wakefield; however, Allen facilities will be available and used when appropriate.

Potential and anticipated costs will be shared equally by both districts.

Wakefield's Student Code of Conduct, Eligibility, and Drug Testing policies will be used for the agreed-upon sports.

Allen and Wakefield believe this cooperative agreement is in the best interest of the district as a whole and both communities.

We are looking at working together in other areas in addition to athletics. Curricular programs as well as fine arts activities will be evaluated annually.

Overall, the desire of each Board of Education is to continue to build positive relationships which benefit both districts and ensure viability for future years.

Regular meetings will be held between the board committees as well as administrative teams to evaluate the proposed cooperative agreement as well as developing a process for possible expansion to include other areas.

Nebraska Treasurer looks to return military medals to rightful owners

Nebraska State Treasurer Don Stenberg is reminding Nebraskans to check unclaimed property records for money they may be owed, as well as for loved ones' military medals that may have been stored in safe deposit boxes.

"Every year, our Unclaimed Property Division receives the contents of more than 200 safe deposit boxes from Nebraska banks. The contents often include jewelry, watches, savings bonds, and personal documents, as well as medals earned in school, at work, from fraternal organizations, and occasionally in military service," Stenberg said.

To date, the Treasurer's Office is holding six military medals from four safe deposit boxes turned over to the state, Stenberg said. The medals, the names of the owners listed on the safe deposit boxes, and the years the Treasurer's Office received the medals include the following:

- Mary Turner and Patsy Turner, Lincoln, U.S. Navy Fidelity, Zeal, Obedience, 2016.
- Marijane Austin, Plattsmouth, U.S. Armed Forces Expeditionary Service and National Defense, 2011.
- Adrian Perry and Andre Perry, Bellevue, two medals for Military Merit, 2011.
- No owner listed, Rifle and Grenade, 1991.

"We would very much like to find the rightful owners of these medals and return them to their owners or their families," Stenberg said. "These medals are tangible reminders of the sacrifices made throughout our history by our brave men and women in the service of our country. In particular during this Fourth of July holiday, we offer our gratitude."

Military medals turned over to the Treasurer's Office are held for at least 10 years in the name of the safe deposit box owner. After 10 years, if the owner has not been located, the Treasurer's Office may give the medal to a designated custodian for safekeeping, Stenberg said. The Treasurer's policy, however, is to retain possession of all military medals until they are claimed by the owner or the owner's family.

Stenberg said a law passed by the Legislature in 2012 requires that any military medal removed from a safe deposit box or any other safekeeping repository - when the lease has expired because of failure to pay rent - be retained by the bank and eventually turned over to the State Treasurer after the required dormancy period.

After 10 years, the Treasurer then may turn over the medal for safekeeping to a veteran's organization, a government entity, or the organization that awarded the medal. The Treasurer's Office holds all military medals in the names of the owners of the safe deposit boxes and does not include military medals in its online auction of safe deposit boxes. The office's last auction was last October.

Ways to search for unclaimed property and file claims include the following:

Check the Treasurer's website at treasurer.nebraska.gov. Type a name in the search box on the home page or click on the Unclaimed Property tab at the top of the page.

For amounts less than $500, owners may file claims online through the website.

For an amount greater than $500, an owner may complete the claim form on the website and mail to the State Treasurer's Office, Unclaimed Property Division, 809 P St., Lincoln, NE 68508-1390. The form must be notarized.

Call the Unclaimed Property Division at 1-877-572-9688 toll free or 402-471-8497. Calls are taken 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., weekdays.

Visit the Unclaimed Property office at 809 P Street in Lincoln or in Suite 2005 of the Capitol. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., weekdays. An owner should bring a driver's license and Social Security card.

If filing on behalf of a deceased family member for an amount greater than $500, the owner must provide documentation including a will, death certificate, obituary notice, and personal representative documents.

Pilot Aging and Disability Resource Centers project recently made permanent

Nebraskans with disabilities of all ages and all Nebraskans age 60 and older are eligible to receive needed services through Aging and Disability Resource Centers (ADRCs), a 2016 pilot program that was recently made permanent by Gov. Pete Ricketts.

The ADRCs are managed by the Department of Health and Human Services' State Unit on Aging, which is overseen by the Division of Medicaid and Long-Term Care.

"The main mission of ADRCs is to provide Nebraskans with disabilities and those 60 and older with a single point of entry to navigate and access long-term care services," said Dr. Courtney Phillips, chief executive officer of DHHS. "They also assist advocates and providers for these groups."

Options counselors apply a person-centered approach to assist those in need in making informed choices about long-term care service options. They provide services to clients, families and caretakers both over the phone and in-person, to discuss what is available to meet current and future care needs.

"Making decisions about long-term care services can be challenging, especially for those who are experiencing these needs for the first time," said Dr. Matthew Van Patton, director of the Division of Medicaid and Long-Term Care. "An ADRC options counselor can provide unbiased information that is relevant to specific needs, preferences and goals."

ADRCs can help with an array of services, which may vary by office. Visit the ADRC website, <http://nebraska.networkofcare.org/aging/>, to learn about statewide information available to consumers, families and caregivers.  The Wayne Juniors earned their second straight Ralph Bishop League championship Sunday with a 13-5 win over Pender. Team members are (front) Reid Korth, James Dorcsey, Max Miller, Hagan Miller, Blake Bartos, Vince Kniesche, Josh Lutt, Brooks Kneifl, (back) coach Tegan Nissen, Jacob Kneifl, Gunnar Jorgensen, Trevor DeBoer, Tyrus Eischeid, Drew Buck, Brock Hopkins and coach Adam Hoffman.

Fourth-inning surge earns Juniors back-to-back RBL titles

By MICHAEL CARNES

For The Herald

You have to have everything going right for your team if you want to win a league championship, and the Wayne Juniors had everything going their way in claiming their second straight Ralph Bishop League title last week.

A five-run fourth inning helped the Wayne Juniors go back-to-back in league tournament play Sunday as they defeated Pender 13-5 at Eaton Field in Wakefield.

"We feel really happy for our players the way they played this tournament," coach Adam Hoffman said. "They got progressively better as the tournament went on and it's nice to get back-to-back titles."

Wayne maintained their hold on the Juniors division of the RBL with three solid efforts on the mound, capped by a 71-pitch, six-hit effort from Trevor DeBoer, who fanned nine and did not allow a walk over six innings.

After Josh Lutt threw a solid game in an opening-round win over Tekamah-Herman and Jacob Kneifl followed with a one-hitter against West Point, Hoffman said it was great to see the pitching and defense come together.

"Our pitching from Friday to tonight was money and that's what it's going to have to be," he said. "We need to throw strikes, keep the ball down, pitch to contact and play defense and those guys did a fantastic job on the mound and Reid (Korth) worked well with them behind the plate."

Wayne had five extra-base hits in the game and appeared to have control of things early as they scored three in the bottom of the first, capped by Blake Bartos' two-run double to left to give the Juniors the early lead.

A fielding error helped Pender score two in the third, but the Juniors bats heated up in the fourth inning as they scored five runs, all coming after the first two batters were put out.

Victor Kniesche got the big inning started with a two-out triple to left, then came home on a wild pitch to bring in the first run of the frame. Walks to Lutt and Hagan Miller put two runners on, and Trevor DeBoer loaded the bases when he was hit by a pitch.

The bases were unloaded five pitches later when Gunnar Jorgensen launched a 3-1 fastball that rolled to the center field wall, clearing the bases. He ended the scoring rally when he raced home on another wild pitch to make it 8-2.

"With two outs, two-out hits and two-out runs in the game of baseball are really huge," Hoffman said. "If you're on defense you're one out away from getting out of the inning in a 3-2 game and we explode for five and it was a big momentum changer."

Pender got three in the top of the fifth to keep it close, but Wayne put things out of reach late. Bartos scored on a wild pitch, and then Wayne ended the game on the eight-run rule with four more in the sixth, thanks to RBI singles by DeBoer, Jorgensen and Kneifl, with Jorgensen scoring on a passed ball to end the game.

Jorgensen was 3-for-4 with four RBIs to lead the Wayne Juniors' 13-hit attack. Korth had a double and a triple, DeBoer and Bartos each had two hits and two RBIs and Lutt, Miller and Tyrus Eischeid each scored three runs.

On Friday, the Juniors batted around in the opening frame and cruised to a 9-1 win over Tekamah-Herman in quarterfinal action at Hank Overin Field.

Wayne got all they would need in the first inning, taking advantage of two errors and one hit to put up five runs. Lutt walked and scored on an error and Miller followed with a single and scored on DeBoer's sacrifice fly. A passed ball brought Kneifl home, Jorgensen stole home and Bartos scored on another error.

Wayne got a two-run triple from Kneifl in the fourth, and he later came home on a passed ball. They scored their final run in the fifth when Tyrus Eischeid scored on a single by Miller.

Miller had two of Wayne's three hits in the contest and Kneifl drove in three runs. Lutt, Miller and Kneifl each scored twice. Lutt earned the win, scattering four hits in 4 1/3 innings before Kniesche closed the game in relief.

Saturday's semifinal matchup in Tekamah was a pitching masterpiece for Kneifl, as he threw a one-hit shutout and fanned 11 to help Wayne advance to the finals with a 4-0 win over West Point.

Kneifl was spotless through four innings, save a walk and a hit batter in the second, before giving up a leadoff single in the fifth. Other than that, West Point could not touch the lefthander as he pitched the one-hit gem for the win.

Wayne got two runs in the third on RBI singles by Miller and DeBoer. Later in the inning, Korth doubled down the left field line to bring home DeBoer and Kneifl.

DeBoer had two of Wayne's five hits in the game. Miller, Kneifl and Korth also had hits.

The 16-2 Juniors close the regular season Tuesday at Norfolk and begin Class B Area 5 tournament play this weekend in Wahoo, and Hoffman feels good about where the team stands heading into the postseason.

"We feel good," he said. "We feel confident we can play with anybody but you have to play defense and pitch well and get those two-out hits, and if you can do that you can deflate teams. I was happy with our hitting because it hadn't been the best the first two games, but they came back and got it done and I'm proud of them."

Schaefer Earns NJCAA All-America Honors

Central Community College softball is pleased to announce that catcher Danica Schaefer has earned NJCAA Division II All-American honors.

Schaefer, a graduate of Wayne High School, was named second-team All-American. Last month, she was named Region IX Offensive Player of the Year. For the second consecutive season, Schaefer was the leading hitter for the Raiders with a .466 batting average to go along with 33 RBIs and a team-high 39 runs. She netted two home runs, a team-best 18 doubles and a triple.

"Danica was an outstanding catcher for the Raider softball program the past two years," said CCC head coach Jack Gutierrez. "Her selection as an NJCAA Division II Second Team All-American is the highest honor our program has received in the 11 years of existence. Danica is very worthy of the honor with her .466 batting average and her selection as Region IX Offensive Player of the Year. She will be greatly missed as a player and leader."

In May, Schaefer graduated with honors from CCC. She will continue her education and softball career at Wayne State College.

Wayne trailed 4-1 going into the last inning when Sturm led off with a smash single to right and later stole second.

Chase Nelson followed with a single of his own, driving in Sturm, and he stole second and advanced to third on a wild pitch before being driven home by Austin Heiser on an infield single.

Long layoff hurts Seniors in RBL upset

Payten Gamble, shown here on defense, stole home to score Wayne's first run in their 7-4 loss to Wisner-Pilger-Howells-Dodge in the Ralph Bishop League tournament Thursday at Hank Overin Field.

A two-week layoff seemed to slow down the Wayne American Legion Post 43 Seniors as they were upset by Wisner-Pilger-Howells-Dodge 7-4 in the quarterfinals of the Ralph Bishop League tournament Thursday at Hank Overin Field.

The visitors took advantage of two hits, two walks and two Wayne errors to take a 3-0 lead and never trailed in the game.

Wayne got a run back in the second when Payten Gamble stole home with two out to get the locals on the board, but W-P-H-D extended their lead in the fourth with three more runs, using one hit, two errors and a passed ball to make it a 6-1 game.

Wayne came to life in the bottom of the fourth. Tyler Lutt led off the rally with a single, Zane Jackson was hit by a pitch and Gamble walked to load the bases. Singles by Adam Bentjen and Justin Dean followed as Wayne got within 6-4, and Beau Bowers followed with a single to load the bases with nobody out.

That was as close as Wayne would get, as the visitors got out of the inning with two infield flies and a strikeout to leave the bases loaded. Wayne loaded the bases again in the sixth after singles by Tucker Nichols and Brennan O'Reilly and a walk by Ryan Jaixen, but a ground-out ended the threat and the visitors tacked on another insurance run in the seventh for the win.

Lutt, Bentjen, Dean, Bowers, Nichols and O'Reilly all had hits for the 12-4 Seniors. Gamble scored twice and Dean had two RBI's. Nichols struck out nine in four innings while taking the loss, with Bentjen throwing three innings in relief.

The Seniors' next scheduled contest was at Norfolk on Tuesday. They play at Waterloo-Valley on July 11 before closing the regular season with home games July 13 against Omaha Central and July 17 against Norfolk.

Be considerate of food allergies and intolerances

The 4th of July season often is a time for big meals and sweet treats. If experimenting with recipes, take food allergies and intolerances into consideration.

Allergies are abnormal responses of the human immune system to certain foods.

Symptoms can range from itching and swelling in the mouth, tongue and throat to a severe, whole-body allergic reaction called anaphylaxis. Although rare, it can be fatal. The threshold dose is very low for people with allergies, which means any trace quantities in a food could cause a severe reaction. Common food allergies include peanuts, tree nuts, such as almonds and walnuts, crustaceans, such as shell fish, shrimp or lobster, eggs, wheat, milk, fish and soybeans. Sometimes people can outgrow food allergies. However, testing for allergies should be done by a doctor.

Food intolerance is any other bodily response, such as bloating or gas. The threshold dose for food intolerance is relatively high, meaning people who are intolerant to certain foods probably could have that particular food in small quantities without suffering any serious consequences. Common food intolerances include lactose and sulfites, which are food additives.

Reading ingredient lists used to be difficult when checking for potential allergens and intolerances due to the technical terms used in the lists. However, food companies must use plain English in ingredient lists, so grocery shopping can be a little easier for those with allergies or intolerances.

When cooking at home be sure to clean all shared surfaces, including pots and pans. Separation and cleaning between uses is key to preventing cross-contamination. Some families exclude offending foods from their household altogether.

When eating out, consider avoiding restaurants where the potential for cross-contamination is high. For example, if an individual is allergic to crustaceans, he or she probably should not go to a seafood restaurant. Choose restaurants where everyone can comfortably eat.

Individuals with allergies, who have been issued an adrenaline syringe, or EpiPen, should keep it with them at all times. They also should teach friends and family how to administer the adrenaline syringe in case of an emergency.

These are just a few food safety precautions to consider as you celebrate summer.

Safe as Necessary is focus of Reggio-Inspired learning

By Sarah Roberts, Early Childhood Extension Educator, Haskell Ag Lab

Curiosity killed the cat. Have you ever heard this phrase? Do you believe it to be true?

Think about this in regards to children. When you see your child attempting to climb a tree or running to pick something up, what is first thing you say to them? I would bet that many of you automatically respond with a "Be careful!"

Dr. Mariana Brussoni, a developmental psychologist, writes, "... if we're always telling our children to be careful, when there's no clear or immediate danger and no clear guide as to how you should be careful, it makes children feel like there's a constant threat." (<https://activeforlife.com/keeping-kids-as-safe-as-necessary/>)

The constant curiosity of children seems to occasionally draw them in to doing things that seem risky or dangerous. So, does curiosity really kill the cat?

Now, I know what you're thinking. The safety of children is typically one of the top priorities within a household, especially if those children are under the age of five. Safety is not the underlying issue here. We seem to be going overboard in "protecting" our children from danger. This is where the phrase "safe as necessary" should replace "safe as possible". When children are as safe as possible, they are stripped from the risk-taking practice that is so important for their development. Conversely, when they are as safe as necessary, children have the opportunity to take risks in a familiar environment with the guidance of a trusted adult.

Interestingly enough, I had the opportunity to attend a summer conference at the Boulder Journey School in Boulder, Colo. just last week. They have a fascinating philosophy concerning safety and risky play. Children need to be as safe as necessary, not as safe as possible. This idea stems from the Reggio-Emilia Approach on early childhood education. In fact, the school describes themselves as "a school based on a strong image of children, who are curious, competent and capable of constructing knowledge." This does not mean that children are just running all over the place getting into "dangerous" situations. It means that the adults in their lives trust and guide them as they make decisions towards independence.

The scaffolding that educators provide for the children encourage them to try out new things in a familiar and safe environment as they learn risk assessment using a variety of materials and experiences. This involves experiences and provocations that occur both indoors and outdoors. Children experiment with materials such as wire, loose parts, circuits, paint, fabrics, sand, glue, clay, natural materials and much more.

The school values the unique experiences that children construct by cultivating strong relationships between the environment, the materials, the children and the educators. The administrators and educators at the school note that "our investigations are based on the belief that from the moment of birth, children, as researchers into the meaning of their lives, explore the world that surrounds them."

Using this philosophy, support your children as they express their curiosity in their surroundings as safely as necessary. Allow them to take risks with your guidance. Encourage exploration and investigation. As an adult, slow down and take in the world through the eyes of a child. Open up your own curiosities again and allow yourself to discover new things alongside your child. I guarantee you will learn something new every time.

Young zebra mussels continue to be detected

Microscopic young zebra mussels, known as veligers, recently were detected by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission in a water sample collected at Glenn Cunningham Lake in late May. No adult zebra mussels were found in the lake.

Field sampling for adult zebra mussels will be completed on the Omaha lake's boat ramps, rocks and other hard structures over the next several weeks. Until an adult is found, Glenn Cunningham Lake will be considered a suspect water body.

Each year, larval sampling takes place twice a month starting in May. All suspect water bodies have five samples collected in May and June and two per month in July, August and September. If no adults or additional larvae are found after three years of sampling, the lake will be delisted. The lake will be listed as an infested water body if an adult zebra mussel is found.

The Missouri River has an expanding zebra mussel population along its entire length downstream of Gavins Point Dam. Boats using the river are the likely source of introductory. Lewis and Clark Lake, Lake Yankton and the Offutt Base Lake are the only Nebraska waters that have established zebra mussel populations. Omaha's Zorinsky Lake and Carter Lake are suspect water bodies, but no adult zebra mussels have been found at either reservoir.

It is important not to transport any lake or river water, mud, or plant material away from its source as that could transport aquatic invasive species to another water body. Young zebra mussels are too small to see with the naked eye, so they can be transported unintentionally with water in bilges, outboard motors, live wells and bait buckets. Adults can attach to boats, trailers and aquatic vegetation.

Boaters and anglers are encouraged to follow the Clean, Drain and Dry protocol to prevent the spread of zebra mussels. Visit neinvasives.com for details.

There are no effective treatments to control zebra mussels once they have infested a water body other than draining it to allow the mussels to either dry out or freeze.

The Good News changes everything

For by grace you have been saved through faith, and this is not your own doing; it is the gift of God." -Ephesians 2:8

This changes everything! That is the theme of the ELCA 2018 Youth Gathering, an event that brings together 30,000 teens and adults for worship and faith formation.

And that's where I am as I write this article. I'm sitting in a convention center in Houston Texas, surrounded by Lutheran teens from Illinois, California, Florida, Alaska, Puerto Rico, and so many other places. There are youth here of different races and cultures. There are people here with physical and cognitive disabilities. There are straight kids here and there are queer kids too. Everyone is so different from one another, and yet we all made the journey here because we are Lutheran Christians, we love the church, and we love God!

Throughout the week here, 30,000 of us have been learning about one another, and exploring how this verse from Ephesians is the kind of good news that changes everything. I know my own youth group is beginning to realize that God's saving activity is happening all over the world, not just in Wayne, America. I asked them where they have seen God this week and they told me in the singing, in the testimonies, and even in the huge crowd of faithful people moving all around them.

All Christians confess that the church is more than the people of one congregation. There are faithful disciples all over the globe, who speak different languages, and live very different lives.

A Word In Faith

By Kristen Van Stee

Associate Pastor, Our Savior Lutheran Church

I think every young Christian should have the opportunity to travel and take part in some kind of event that will bring them into contact with other Christians. Because when they realize they aren't alone, they might begin to see God's salvation working in ways larger than human imagination.

And this Good News, that Christ is saving the whole world, that God's love is holding the universe together, that the Holy Spirit is at work in their heart and the heart of others...well this Good News really does change everything.

Youth gathering

Youth from Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne attended the ELCA Youth Gathering in Houston Texas. The event included worshipping with 30,000 others at NRG Stadium, a day of service, interactive learning (a kind of ministry fair with fewer brochures and more activities) and celebrated synod day with hundreds of other Nebraska Synod Lutherans.

The group helped a local Houston school prep an area for a butterfly garden as their day of service project. They capped the trip off with time at the Houston Zoo before heading back home.

FFA officers attend Chapter Officer Leadership Training in Aurora

On May 16 - 17 the 2018-2019 Wayne FFA Officers attended Chapter Officer Leadership Training (COLT) at The Leadership Center in Aurora.

COLT assists chapter officers in identifying and developing their personal skills and leadership styles. They discover how their skills and strengths compliment each other so that they can effectively serve their chapter, school, and community.

Officers worked with other FFA members and Nebraska State FFA Officers to learn how to perform their officer duties. They also worked with their team on goal setting and focusing on the upcoming year's Program of Activities (POA).

The Wayne FFA Officer team also competed in the Opening and Closing Ceremonies competition and earned first in their room against five other chapters.

In order to become a Wayne FFA officer, applicants were ranked on their application, interview, a membership vote, FFA/Ag knowledge test and FFA points that they earned throughout the year through being involved.

This year's officer team is as follows:

- Student Advisor - Allison Claussen;
- Vice President - Mariah Frevert;
- Reporter - Hana Nelsen;
- President - Tyler Gilliland;

Wayne's FFA officer team includes: Allison Claussen, Mariah Frevert, Hana Nelsen, Tyler Gilliland, Faith Junck, Terran Sievers, Erin O'Reilly and Josie Thompson.

Secretary - Faith Junck;
Parliamentarian - Terran Sievers;
Sentinel - Erin O'Reilly;

Treasurer - Josie Thompson.

The event was hosted by Norfolk & Madison Area Chambers of Commerce.

Members attending the banquet were Katelyn Grone, Casey Koenig, Mariah Frevert, Noah Lutt, Hana Nelsen, Tyler Gilliland, Allison Claussen, and Faith Junck.

The banquet's theme was "Uniting the Agricultural & Business Communities" and targeted Madison County and the adjacent counties of Antelope, Wayne, Pierce, Stanton, Boone, and northern Platte.

The Nebraska Director of Agriculture, Steve Wellman, was the keynote speaker and discussed the current and projected agriculture industry in Nebraska.

Area students were also awarded scholarships to assist them in furthering their education in agriculture.

The goal of this event was to raise funds for academic scholarships available to high school seniors and college students in Northeast Nebraska who are or intend to continue their education in the agricultural and agri-business fields.

The event also included awarding several deserving students $750 scholarships to as well as the presentation of the Beef Expo scholarship to the 2017 recipient.

Wayne FFA members helped set up, greeted local ag professionals, assisted in serving the meal, and cleaned up.

Striving to improve the quality of life through the protection of natural resources is NRD's mission

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (LENRD) serves all or parts of 15-counties in northeast Nebraska with a mission of improving the quality of life for all citizens by conserving, developing, and managing all natural resources. The LENRD Board of Directors met June 28 for a regular meeting.

Each year, the LENRD measures the water levels of 240 irrigation wells across the district. From 2017 to 2018, 42 of the wells measured an increase two to five feet. LENRD Water Resources Technician, Dallas Dorey, gave his yearly report at the meeting. He explained, "Overall, the spring water levels throughout the district increased this year, with the exception of the southeast portion. Some wells in the southeastern part of the district saw moderate declines."

More information can be obtained by contacting the LENRD office.

In other business, the board continued their discussion on the City of Norfolk's Johnson Park River Rehabilitation Project along the North Fork of the Elkhorn River. LENRD Director, Jill Barr of Norfolk, said, "The City's plan to create recreational opportunities along the river could attract more people and businesses to the Norfolk area. One of the LENRD's 12 responsibilities is the development and management of recreational and park facilities, and I think it's important that we keep that in mind when reviewing projects like this."

The board will continue their discussion of the project at their next committee meeting and budget workshop on Thursday, July 12.

LENRD Projects Manager, Curt Becker, announced that the district has worked with the producers across the district and have found that all flow meters have been installed on irrigation wells. The board instructed the general manager to issue cease and desist orders, if needed, to any landowner that is found to be irrigating without a flow meter as they continue with their inspections across the district.

In other action, the board approved the cost of living salary adjustment of 1.8 percent for staff and approved the step and grade changes proposed by management for Fiscal Year 2019. The board also authorized the staff to advertise for the Subdistrict 1 Board of Directors seat that is currently vacant. Applications are due by Thursday, July 19. More information and a map of the subdistrict is available on the district's website.

The next board of directors meeting will be held on Thursday, July 26 at the LENRD office at 1508 Square Turn Boulevard in Norfolk. Prior to the board meeting the district will conduct an Open House Public Hearing from 5 to 7 p.m. regarding the Groundwater Management Area and the possible changes to the proposed Phase 2 and Phase 3 Areas in Pierce County and northern Madison County, due to the elevation of nitrates in the drinking water.

Visit the district's website for the latest news and updates.

Summit focused on ag economic outlook, tech and trade

Trade disputes, dwindling returns, changing technologies, fickle consumer tastes, global economics... the challenges and opportunities in agriculture change daily. The 2018 Agricultural Economic and Technology Summit offers up the best opportunity to stay on top of the changes in agriculture, mingle with agriculture's leading players, and discuss issues facing agriculture. The Agricultural Economic and Technology Summit, to be held at the Kearney

Holiday Inn, July 17-18, is a partnership between Nebraska Farm Bureau, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Agricultural Economics and Biological Systems Engineering Departments and KRVN Rural Radio Network.

"We know farmers and ranchers are terribly busy right now trying to stay up with their growing crops and livestock. The summit offers them the opportunity to get away from the day-to-day grind, learn about long-term trends affecting their operations, and get the latest happenings in the world of agriculture," said Jay Rempe of Nebraska Farm Bureau.

The summit is recommended to producers, ag-business professionals, and consultants and is packed with leading national experts like: Jason Henderson of Purdue University, offering his big picture outlook for the agricultural economy; Brian Watkins of Cropzilla, on Ag Technology; Dick Wittman of Wittman Consulting, on farm and ranch transitions; and Brian Kuehl of Farmers for Free Trade, on the trade roller coaster and how that impacts farmers/ranchers and the agriculture economy.

The Agricultural Economic and Technology Summit will also feature a series of breakout sessions to dig deeper into a range of subjects important to agriculture today. Topics include; what successful farms are doing right, UNL-Testing Ag Performance Solutions program, economics of technology applications, big data = better beef, farm policy updates, and data intensive farm management.

"These breakouts will give the summit participants the ability to focus on the topics that are most interesting and critical to the health of their farms and ranches," Rempe said.

Don't start treating for Emerald Ash Borer yet

An article in the Omaha World Herald last week prompted calls to my office about the Emerald Ash Borer (EAB). I wasn't in the office 10 minutes before I got my first call. The article indicated that EAB had been detected in traps in Council Bluffs and also at Mahoney State Park, between Omaha and Lincoln.

While this is not good news, it is still not reason for homeowners with ash trees in northeast Nebraska to panic or start treating their trees... yet.

EAB is a devastating pest to all kinds of true ash trees. It will not attack mountain ash trees which are not related to ash trees despite their name. The bad news is, it will eventually get to this area. The good news is, it isn't here yet and may not be for several or many years.

On their own, EAB can fly and move up to about 12 miles a year, although the majority will only move two or three miles. That is why we do NOT recommend treating ash trees until it has been confirmed within 15 miles of your ash trees. Current counties under quarantine in Nebraska include

John Wilson
Extension Educator

Dodge, Washington, Douglas, Sarpy and Cass counties. It is illegal to move any ash wood products including firewood, nursery stock, ash lumber, wood chips and other ash products out of the quarantined counties. Those materials can be moved within the quarantined area, but not outside of the area.

Currently, the closest areas where EAB has been confirmed is in Missouri Valley, Iowa, in Sioux Falls, S.D., as well as in Omaha and northwest Cass County including Mahoney State Park. So you can see, EAB kind of has us surrounded but isn't close to being within 15 miles of us.

There are two methods to treat trees for EAB, soil drenches and injections into the trunk of a tree. Soil drenches are ineffective on larger trees which leaves injections as your only alternative.

The reason to not start treating your trees too early is in parts of the country where EAB has been a problem for years and trees have been treated with injections, it was found that trees started to go into decline after repeated treatments, just from the injury caused by drilling the holes and treating the trees, not from the EAB itself.

So you don't want to shorten the life of your ash trees with unnecessary treatments for a pest that's not here. The treatments are not inexpensive, so save the cost of making those treatments until they are needed. The cost of the treatment will vary with the size of the tree being treated. Your money may be better spent purchasing a replacement tree rather than treating an existing tree. Also, I do not recommend removing ash trees that are in good health. It may have several more useful years in your landscape.

What I do encourage people to do now is evaluate the trees in their landscape and decide if they are going to treat or replace those trees when the EAB does get there.

A specimen tree in good health and serving a key role in a homeowner's landscape is a good candidate for treatment.

It may be more advisable to replace an ash tree rather than treating it if the tree is not in good health, has had major damage in the past, or may be showing some dieback now.

In many cases, replacement trees can be planted near existing ash trees and allowed to get established while leaving the ash tree in place. You may need to remove some lower branches on the ash tree to allow the replacement to develop.

Then when it becomes necessary to remove the ash tree, you have a head start on a new tree to take its place. When selecting replacement trees, consider well adapted tree species that aren't as commonly used in landscapes.

That way when the next major problem (i.e. - Dutch Elm Disease, Pine Wilt, Emerald Ash Borer, etc.) for some species of trees occurs, you are less likely to lose those trees.

There are a number of good sources for suggestions to replace ash trees including websites for the Nebraska Forest Service and the Nebraska Statewide Arboretum as well as many nurseries.

For more information on EAB including identification and treatment recommendations, contact your local Nebraska Extension office.

Enjoying modern conveniences

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

We've now had more than eight inches of rain in the past week!

I won't complain, but I bet some of the folks in flooded areas are. There was quite a lot of thunder and lightning last night, but thankfully, no hail.

Clara sent a note the other day saying she needed this thing by 8 a.m. on Monday, the 2nd; It is now 10:30 on Sunday eve, my neighbor just walked home from here, and Mike is watching the news. . . it just now dawned on me!

There is a column in the funny papers that features a columnist who works at home and has considerable difficulty finding things to write about; she has nothing on me; as I told a friend, on the farm, and in the B and B, there was always something going on. Not in Taylor Meadows!! Everyone is healthy, and we are all basically staying in the house, avoiding the heat.

I was talking with a nurse classmate the other night, and reminded her that our dorms were not air conditioned, and neither was the hospital. How did we survive? We wore hose, starched dresses, and starched aprons with bibs on top of that. Then I thought of the poor folks in the hospital laundry who had to launder and starch and iron those uniforms! And the ladies in the kitchen had to cook for all the patients and all the students and some of the staff, using the ovens, no matter what the temperature was.

I remember having a big fan in the window of our room; that helped a lot, but we were on the third floor of a brick building, facing west! I guess we were young and tough.

I remember the first car we bought that had air conditioning;

I thought I was in heaven driving it to and from work. It had belonged to a physician at the Regional Center who smoked a pipe, and it smelled good.

But we never did have central air on the farm; just a window unit in the living room, where we all congregated. I thought we were really snazzy in the Farm House; there were two units, one for each floor! I soon became acclimated, believe me.

We take modern conveniences for granted, I'm afraid. I had both the clothes washer and the dish washer going while I took a nap the other day; the height of luxury! I didn't mind the hums at all; they lulled me to sleep.

Have a wonderful Fourth, stay cool, and be safe with the pyrotechnics!!

Wayne County 4-Hers take part in District 4-H Horse Show

The 2018 District 4-H Horse Shows were held recently in five locations across the state with a total of 383 exhibitors and 1119 entries. The 4-H Horse Program is an educational program designed to encourage 4-H members to learn about equine science, care, management and career opportunities related to horses. Youth increase their knowledge of safety precautions needed to prevent injury to themselves, others and their mounts. Learn skills in horsemanship and an understanding of the business of breeding, raising and training horses. They experience the pride of owning a horse or pony and become responsible for its management. Horse competitions teach good sportsmanship through a friendly, competitive atmosphere while developing leadership abilities, building character and assuming citizenship responsibilities. These events also promote future horse industry development and expansion while promoting a greater love for animals and a humane attitude towards them.

Victoria Buresh of Hoskins: Senior Western Pleasure - Blue, Senior Western Horsemanship - Red.

Spotlight on research associates at Concord's Haskell Ag Lab

The following is the second of several spotlights on those conducting research at the Haskell Ag Lab near Concord.

By Asye Nur Ulusoy,
Weed Science Graduate Student

It was an overwhelming moment in my life when I received a scholarship offer from Turkish Government to pursue my Master program in the United States. I grew up in Ankara, capital city of Turkey, and I have never been outside of Turkey before I came to the United States.

I graduated from the Department of Plant Protection in College of Agriculture in 2014 in Ankara and applied for a graduate scholarship from the Turkish Ministry of National Education, which would pay for all of my expenses. I eventually received a full fellowship program to do thesis research in weed science.

Dr. Stevan Knezevic's program was recommended to me by the older colleagues from Turkish Government. Thus I applied and was accepted at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln for the 2017 Summer Semester. In May of 2017 I arrived from Turkey and right away started my project on the Critical Time for Weed Removal in Corn as Influenced by PRE herbicides. I was quickly adapted to work on the field within our weeds team and I feel like this is my new home as everybody helped and encouraged me daily.

I am having a great time working here at the Haskell Agricultural Laboratory where I am gaining valuable experiences and making friends. Dr. Knezevic gave me the opportunity to fulfill and pursue my career and educational ambitions and I am very thankful to the Haskell Agricultural Laboratory with all of their staff.

Separating E and T

Evapotranspiration, or ET is how we measure water movement through our plants. It is a combination of the evaporation of water from the cells on the leaf surface, as well as from the soil surface, and the transpiration of water through the plant and out the leaves and back into the atmosphere. Growers that irrigate pay a lot of attention to ET values because it is an indicator for what our fields will need to stay hydrated and growing healthy crops. I think, however, that there are many misconceptions about ET out there, and whether on irrigated or dryland, we could all use a deeper understanding of ET.

A lot of people mistakenly think that ET values are fairly fixed depending on the growth stage of the crop. After all, when we look up ET values online, we get a number that represents the average for the last few days, and the next few days that is specific to the planting date or anticipated growth stage of the crop. The truth of the matter is that both of these numbers ebb and flow from day to day, and the daily swings can be fairly significant.

Transpiration is the somewhat more predictable of the two numbers, in that the amount that a plant will transpire is largely influenced by its growth stage. The reason it is tied to growth stage is that as roots and leaf increase, so do the photosynthetic abilities of the plant. The more photosynthesis, the more release of CO2, which means the stomata are open and the plant is transpiring air into the atmosphere. However, transpiration is still largely tied to the weather as well. This spring as we had the 90+ degree days and all the extra photosynthesis going on, we saw daily drawdowns of moisture in our soils between 0.17 and 0.24 many days. This was at a time frame when the plants, by the book, should have had a daily ET number of 0.08 to 0.14 inches of water. So why were we trending higher, remember back to our conversation last week about suckers and the plants finding a way to turn that sunlight into sugar. Well, there was a lot of transpiration going on above what is normal for this time of year.

On the other side, there is the evaporation. This number is more tied to the weather because humidity and wind are going to drive this number significantly. The leaf surface of our plants have evaporation from them, but this number is also influenced considerably by our soil, and perhaps to an even bigger degree our tillage and/or residue management. When the bare soil is exposed, it is going to be more at risk to evaporation of moisture that is in the soil. But at the same time, the soil and residue (or lack of) can reflect heat and radiation back up at our plants that increases evaporation on the bottom of the plant surfaces.

So then somewhere in all of this comes the idea of evaporative cooling. Friday, June 15th was a prime example of seeing the concept of evaporative cooling on display. I watched as many people that still had moisture in the soil profile turned on the pivots because it was very close to 100 degrees and the wind was blowing hard. Places in our fields were showing stress in the plants, and many wanted to do something for their crop, so on went the center pivots. Were the plants water stressed? No, they were heat stressed. But unfortunately, there is a long-standing conventional "wisdom" that a shot from the pivot will help both conditions. This turns out to be not only minimally effective, but it was also expensive. I watched on the moisture probes as several fields had 0.60" to 0.75" of water applied to them, but only saw the soil moisture profile increase twenty hundredths. Why? Because the plant was using a lot of water that day in transpiration, and a huge part was lost to evaporation.

ET is a critical part of the plant's growth process, and essential to strong, healthy, high yielding plants. But like so many things in Agronomy, it is not a simple process to understand. The weather plays a huge part in what your plant needs not just to survive, but thrive. Swings of twenty hundredths can occur with the passage of a front, and reading your soil is far more important than trusting conventional wisdom. Trusting your soil and monitoring your plant's water use and rooting habits with a moisture probe like we have in AquaSystems, or even a good old-fashioned soil probe is key to ensuring irrigation and crop success.
