LB840 loan, street closure on last week's council agenda

By Clara Osten,
clara@wayneherald.com

A request to amend the terms of an LB840 loan was among the items debated by the Wayne City Council during the July 3 meeting.

Wayne Area Event Center, Inc./Josie Broders asked the council to amend the terms of the $350,000 loan that the city had earlier given to the business.

The new terms will defer principal payments for three years, but require interest payment through the deferment period; change the loan repayment time line from 10 to 15 years; allow for the repayment period for principal and interest to begin on March 1, 2021 and have the final payment due March 1, 2035.

Originally, a payment, with interest, was to have been made March 1, 2018.

Corby Schweers, representing Elkhorn Valley Bank, and Broders spoke to the council on the request.

Schweers said that he was not involved with the project at the beginning, and would not have requested a payment at this point in the project.

"The (financial) numbers look better than we projected, but I would suggest the business be given until November to make the interest payment," he said.

Council member Matt Eischied told Broders "we (council) want the business to be successful. The City has put forth a lot of money into it. But, there was no dialogue before the first payment was due. There needs to be an improvement in communication."

Noting that 'we want to see the business succeed so we can get our money back,' council members approved the recommendation on a 5-1 vote. Council member Jennifer Sievers voted against the request and council members Nick Muir and Terri Buck was absent from the meeting.

Council members also approved a request to close Windom Street between Third and Fourth Street in conjunction with the State Senior American Legion Baseball Tournament, July 28 - Aug. 1.

Council member Eischied brought the agenda item to the council, noting "this is a big deal for Wayne. It will bring lots of people to town. We would like to have the street closed two hours ahead of each day's games to alleviate congestion. Our main concern is for safety."

Discussion was held on who would be responsible for putting up and taking down barricades and other details in regard to parking in the area.

In other action, council members approved the appointment of Kim Endicott to the Wayne Library Board. Endicott will replace Joel Ankeny on the board and her term will expire on June 30, 2022.

A request was approved to have a fireworks display in conjunction with this year's Henoween celebration on Friday, July 13. Fireworks will be shot from the Wayne Rugby Field.

Council members approved a resolution which accepts a plan to extend city services and set a public hearing date in regard to annexation of an area next to the Southview II Addition to Wayne.

The request is in conjunction with the need to enlarge a drainage ditch along the west and south sides of the addition.

The resolution is the first step in a multi-step process for the project.

Ordinances involving parking in the northeast quadrant of the city, specifically in the area around Sunnyview Park, received first reading approval.

These will make the parking restrictions in the area the same as those in other areas and prohibit overnight parking, which is currently taking place near the park.

The Wayne City Council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, July 17 at 5:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Board of Education conducts July meeting

By Clara Osten,
clara@wayneherald.com

A relatively short agenda greeted board members during the regular meeting of the Wayne Community Schools' Board of Education meeting on Monday.

The meeting was conducted at the Early Learning Center with all board members present.

Approval was given to extend a pending offer to Staci Foote as a kindergarten teacher with Wayne Community Schools. Foote is in the process of being released from her contract with South Sioux Public Schools and needs to be released from that contract before she can sign a contract with Wayne Community Schools. The extension was granted until Aug. 1, 2018.

Four new part-time employees have been hired to fill positions in the kitchen and six paraprofessional have been hired on a part-time basis and will fill positions at the Early Learning Center, Elementary School and Junior-Senior High School. An annual hearing and review was held for board policies dealing with bullying, student fees, homeless students, parental involvement and Improving Learning for Children with Disabilities (ILCD).

Discussion was held on each of these policies and it was noted that there were no major changes from past policy.

Second reading approval was given to the K-6 Handbook, after several changes to policies were made.

Board members approved a number of policies which were up for annual review. Among these was Policy 2101, which acknowledges the superintendent as CEO of the district.

Both the 2018-2019 Teacher Handbook and 2018-2019 Non-Certificated Staff Handbook were approved and second reading waived, due to no changes being made in them.

During Superintendent Mark Lenihan's report, he told the board that the district will be receiving a dividend check of $5,426 from Employers Mutual Insurance based on claims from past years.

Committee reports included a Foundation report on activities scheduled during the Wayne Chicken Show and the fact that applications have been received for the position of Foundation Director.

There will be a Candidate Forum for the six candidates running for the open positions on the Board of Education on Monday, July 23 at 6:30 p.m. in the Junior-Senior High School commons.

Following the regular meeting, the board conducted a retreat, which was facilitated by Nebraska Rural Community Schools Association (NRCSA) representatives Fred Helmink and Robin Stevens.

Topics discussed in small group discussions included assets and strengths of the district, concerns and issues and how to narrow, prioritize and categorize the process.

The Wayne Community Schools' Board of Education will next meet in regular session on Monday, Aug. 13 at 7 p.m. at the Junior-Senior High School library. This is a time change due to an Open House being held prior to the start of the 2018-2019 school year.

Obituaries

Dr. Ralph Barclay

Dr. Ralph Barclay 88, of Wayne, died Monday, July 2, 2018 at a Sioux City, Iowa hospital.

Services were held Friday, July 6 at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne. The Rev. Jeanne Madsen officiated. Burial with military rites was in Greenwood Cemetery in Wayne.

Memorials may be directed to the Ralph and Ann Barclay Athletic Scholarship Fund in care of the Wayne State College Foundation.

Arrangements were with Hase-mann Funeral Home of Wayne.

Dr. Ralph (Tiny) Edgar Barclay was born Sept. 30, 1929 in Macomb, Ill. to Ralph Edgar Sr. and Opal Ore-baugh Barclay. His studies at Bradley University, where he played offensive tackle and linebacker, were interrupted by the Korean war. After his Army service in Korea, he returned to Bradley, where he met and married the bride of his dreams, Ann Cover on Dec. 27, 1951 at the Lutheran Church in Peoria, Ill. He completed Bachelor and MEd degrees. He taught and coached in Galva, Ill., then Carthage College and Western Illinois University. In 1963 they moved to New York where Ralph completed an EdD at Columbia University, was a scout for The New England Patriots and taught at Trinity. In 1965 Ralph joined the faculty of Wayne State College where he taught and coached football and swimming for 35 years. For 14 years his defensive teams at Wayne State were ranked nationally in the top 10. He chaired the Division of Health Human Performance and Leisure Studies and added Sports Management, Athletic Training and Wellness. He was elected to The Wayne State Hall of Fame, as well as the Nebraska High Schools Hall of Fame. He was elected to the Wayne City Council and was an active member of Our Savior Lutheran Church. He felt one of his most memorable experiences was serving as an Olympic Official in Atlanta in 1996. He loved to coach, travel, hunt, fish and was even a gourmet cook. His children and grandchildren enriched his life greatly.

He felt one of his greatest accomplishments was establishing full-time teachers and full-time coaches at Wayne State, which enabled the professors to concentrate on their students' learning, and not be distracted by coaching. He started Fitness for the Elderly and designed the Fitness Trail of Wayne. Ralph was one of the most honest, loyal and kind-hearted individuals ever. He loved going to as many of his grandchildren's events as possible, even if it meant he had to park his car right next to the front door, or on a hill, to see as best he could. His morning coffee with the guys was a highlight of his day, as were his daily drives around town visiting great friends. He was a character and loved by all. He was a man who made a great difference for the good in the lives of his friends and family.

Survivors include his daughter, Patty (Barclay) Wieland of Wayne; five grandchildren, Shelly Justi, Jamie (Backstrom) Travis Dunn, Alex (Jessica) Wieland, Leslie Backstrom and Dillon Wieland; six great grandchildren, Noah, Isaiah, Emily, Jack, Erin and Braxton; a sister, Pat (Barclay) Williams; and four nieces and two nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents; his wife, Ann; daughters, Lesa Backstrom in 2013 and Cathy Justi in 2015; and brothers, Doug Barclay and Roger Barclay.

Honorary pallbearers were Kent Stevenson, John Jermier and Jim Potts.

Active pallbearers were Alex Wieland, Dillon Wieland, Bob Williams, Greg McDermott, Pat Garvin, Kevin Armstrong, Craig Williams and Noah Justi.

Troopers remove 16 impaired drivers in Fourth of July enforcement

Troopers with the Nebraska State Patrol (NSP) took 16 impaired drivers off the road during special enforcement operations over the July 4th holiday.

The effort, which ran from July 3-5, placed an emphasis on taking drunk drivers off the road. Troopers worked to reduce the potential for serious injury or fatality crashes in several counties identified as priority counties by the Nebraska Department of Transportation - Highway Safety Office (NDOT-HSO).

In addition to the 16 arrests for drunk or drugged driving, troopers also issued citations for speeding (432), open container (6), minor in possession (6), driving under suspensions (19), no proof of insurance (15), no seat belt (39), and improper child restraint (9). Troopers also responded to 154 calls for assistance from motorists on Nebraska roads.

This effort, which included saturation patrols and vehicle checks, was made possible thanks in part to a grant for $12,000 from NDOT-HSO.

2017 Nebraska farmland values continue to decline

Results from the Nebraska Farm Real Estate Survey show a statewide average value drop of 4 percent to $2,720 per acre. This marks the fourth consecutive year of declining Nebraska agricultural land values.

Results of the survey are divided by land class and summarized by eight Agricultural Statistic Districts of Nebraska. Respondents of the annual survey included consisted Nebraska land professionals including appraisers, farm and ranch managers, and agricultural bankers.

In the seven land classes, tillable grazing land values dropped by seven percent, the largest of the group. Survey participants suggested that crop prices and property tax levels are the reason for the declining Nebraska farm real estate values.

"The fourth consecutive year of declining Nebraska agricultural land prices reflects the steady year over year reduction in farm income resulting from lower commodity and cattle prices combined with yearly increases to property taxes," explains Hertz Farm Manager Scott Henrichsen. "We're going to see a continual decline in land values so long as farm income for Nebraska farmers remains low with 70% of all farm land purchased each year by existing farmers and ranchers. Taxes are too high to incent investors and farm income too low with credit too tight for farmers to be aggressive with their land purchases."

Earning potential for the major commodities grown across the state, input expenses, and monetary policies influencing the cost of borrowing for future land purchases, will all affect future prospects in Nebraska.

Founded in 1946, Hertz Farm Management is a farmland asset management company. It specializes in caring for farmland owners and their farms through professional farm management, real estate sales, auctions, acquisitions, and appraisals. With 14 offices throughout the Midwest, it manages over 2,500 farms consisting of more than 550,000 acres. For more information, visit www.hertz.ag.

Juniors overcome first-round loss to earn trip back to state

By MICHAEL CARNES
For The Herald

WAHOO — By the time this newspaper finds your mailbox, Wayne American Legion Juniors coach Adam Hoffman could be a brand new daddy.

His team also delivered in the crunch Tuesday, avenging an opening-round loss to Lincoln Lutheran with back-to-back 4-1 and 5-1 wins to defend their Class B Area 5 title and earn a trip to this weekend's Class B State Tournament in Columbus.

After losing 4-2 to Lincoln Lutheran in a lackluster effort Saturday, Wayne rattled off wins over Wahoo (7-5) and Columbus Lakeview (7-3) to earn a rematch with the fifth-seeded Lincoln Lutheran team, then turned to their pitching to carry them back to state after going 0-2 in last year's state tournament.

After getting ambushed by first-game winner Trevor DeBoer with a cooler of water, the soon-to-be dad was beaming with pride after the performance his team put out in winning two games in 90-degree heat at Sam Crawford Field.

"This was just unreal. The kids just never quit," he said, wiping water and sweat off his face. "You could very easily come in after losing that first game and put your heads down, and I'm proud of how these kids stayed together and played hard and pitched well and played defense and hit. They stayed together and stayed so positive after losing a game, and that's just the way they've been. They don't quit and don't give up."

Wayne got a much-needed complete-game performance from DeBoer in Tuesday's first game to force the winner-take-all matchup. He went the distance, taking a no-hitter into the sixth and finishing with a two-hit, five-strike-out effort.

"That's exactly what we needed from him," Hoffman said. "We did have five guys available for tonight, but you just never know and he just came out and set the tone for us."

DeBoer got in trouble just once in the game. Lincoln Lutheran had two runners in scoring position with one out, but DeBoer got out of the jam when Josh Lutt made a leaping grab of a line drive and stepped on second for the inning-ending double play.

Wayne sore single runs in the first and third innings to take the lead. Hagan Miller scored both times, reaching after being hit by a pitch in both at bats. Jacob Kneifl brought him home with a fielder's choice in the first, and he came in on a Reid Korth sacrifice fly in the third to make it 2-0.

Wayne got another run in the fifth when Kneifl singled and later scored on a wild pitch, and Lutt walked and scored on a Korth RBI single to left in the sixth.

The second game was combination of solid hitting, amazing defense and a quality pitching performance by Victor Kniesche, who overcame some early-game jitters and got out of a first-inning bases-loaded jam unscathed.

"He threw a lot of pitches that first inning, but he came back and threw strikes and let the defense do the work," Hoffman said. "It was just awesome for him to step up like that."

His defense also came to play in the finale. Miller made a trio of line-drive grabs, including one in the fifth where he caught the ball and threw a bullet across the field to DeBoer to catch the runner at first in a double play that effectively ended any Lincoln Lutheran hopes of a comeback.

Wayne scored runs in the first and fourth thanks to the hot bat of Korth, who singled home Lutt in the first and then led off the fourth with a triple before scoring on a Kneifl single to right. He added a two-out double in the fifth that led to a run, with pinch-runner Tyrus Eischeid scoring on a single by Kneifl.

"I knew that I needed to take some daddy hacks tonight, and I was getting good pitches and knew I needed to take advantage of it," Korth said after the game.

On Saturday, the Juniors had one bad inning that proved to be the difference, as Lincoln Lutheran came away with a 4-2 victory to send Wayne into the losers bracket.

Lincoln Lutheran opened the game with a run in the first, but Wayne came back to tie the game in the second when Brock Hopkins singled to center, scoring Kneifl to make it a 1-1 game.

Lincoln Lutheran pieced together three hits and scored three runs in the third to take the lead for good. Wayne scored a run in the bottom of the inning when Miller singled and later scored on a groundout by Gunnar Jorgensen to get within 4-2.

Wayne had a chance to cut the deficit in the sixth. Korth lined a one-out double to left and Bartos followed with a single to put runners on the corners. A pickoff on a steal attempt caught Eischeid, running for Korth, in a rundown and Lincoln Lutheran was able to get out of the inning unscathed and hang on for the win.

Korth and Hopkins both had two hits to lead Wayne's nine-hit effort. DeBoer took the loss on the mound, allowing four runs on five hits with four strikeouts in three innings of work. Lutt and Buck held the opponent scoreless over the final four innings.

Wayne bounced back on Sunday, building a 5-0 lead and hanging on for a 7-5 win over host Wahoo in an elimination game.

Wayne got single runs in the second, third and fourth innings and added two more to take a 5-0 lead before Wahoo came back with four in the bottom of the fifth to make things interesting.

In the second, Jorgensen brought home Bartos with a groundout after Bartos and Hopkins both walked and advanced on a sacrifice bunt by Eischeid.

In the third, Miller walked and moved to third on a DeBoer double before scoring on a sacrifice fly by Jorgensen.

Bartos scored on a throwing error in the fourth, then brought two home in the fifth with a single to left, scoring Kneifl and Korth, who singled and doubled to set up the inning.

After Wahoo's big inning, Wayne got some much-needed insurance when Kneifl brought home Miller on a fielder's choice and DeBoer scored on a Wahoo error. Wahoo got another run in the sixth but could get no closer.

DeBoer had two hits and Miller and Bartos each scored two runs for the 16-4 Juniors. Kneifl struck out five and walked two in six innings of work to get the win before Kniesche came on in the seventh to pick up the save.

The Post 43 Juniors cranked out 12 hits and kept their postseason hopes alive Monday with a 7-3 win over Columbus Lakeview.

Ponies make it four in a row with Tri County title

WEST POINT — The contributions came from everywhere, from solid pitching to consistent hitting throughout the lineup.

The Wayne Ponies continued their dominance in the Tri County League with a solid overall effort Monday night in Timmerman Park, cranking out 12 hits and getting a three-hit, 12-strikeout performance from Brooks Kneifl to win their fourth straight league title with a 12-2 blowout of Oakland-Craig.

Fourth-seeded Oakland-Craig scored both of their runs with the help of Wayne errors, the first coming after a leadoff single and two errors gave the black-clad Oakland-Craig squad a 1-0 advantage.

It was all Wayne after that.

Wayne got the run back in the bottom of the inning when Toby Braun reached on an error and scored on a James Dorcey single, then took the lead for good with four in the second, thanks to an RBI single by Calvin Starzl and three straight RBI doubles by Tanner Walling, Braun and Kneifl.

"We do a lot of hitting in the winter months and that really carries over into the summer," coach Zac Braun said after the win. "We've been able to hit with everybody and score a lot of runs, and we're just a good-hitting team top to bottom."

Wayne added three more runs in the third with an RBI single by Brandon Bartos and a two-run double by Walling.

Oakland-Craig picked up an unearned run in the fourth, and Wayne responded with three in the fifth on an RBI single by Bartos and a two-run single by Kneifl. Wayne ended the game in the sixth when Dylan Anderson reached on an error and scored on a single by pinch-hitter Cooper Zara.

Starzl's bat came alive in the finals as he had a single and double and scored three runs. Braun also singled and doubled and scored three times, Walling and Kneifl each had two hits and Anderson and Justin Sherman each scored twice.

Kneifl, who saw four innings of work in a semifinal win Saturday, went the distance and never got in trouble, allowing only three hits and one walk in six innings while striking out 12.

"He just throws strikes," Braun said. "He threw tonight on short rest and threw the ball rally well. We have a lot of pitching depth on our team, and the only two runs he gave up were unearned on errors, so he did a great job tonight."

Wayne earned the No. 3 seed in the 18-team tournament and won the opening game last Tuesday in a 16-1 blowout over Howells-Dodge at the Summer Sports Complex.

Six players had multiple hits in the game, with Walling and Braun each recording three hits to lead the 15-hit effort. Jacob Anderson, Kneifl, Dorcey and Sherman both had two hits apiece. Dylan Anderson struck out nine and allowed one hit and one walk in four innings of work.

On Thursday, the Wayne Ponies beat Wisner 11-1 in five innings to move on to the semifinals.

Wayne broke through with a big fourth inning to take control of the game. Jacob Anderson and Dylan Anderson both had three hits, Kneifl had a double and Braun added a triple. Walling and Sherman also had hits. Dorcey pitched the win, allowing one hit and four walks while striking out three before Walling came on in relief.

Wayne Ponies defeated Arlington Maroon by a score of 8-7 on Saturday night to advance to the finals. They were up 8-0 before Arlington made it interesting with seven runs in the fifth inning off of four errors.

Kneifl had two doubles and Jacob Anderson added a double to highlight a five-hit effort. Braun and Dorcey also had hits. Kneifl pitched four innings and allowed three hits while striking out nine. Dylan Anderson pitched two innings and got the save.

Payten Gamble makes a throw to first in earlier action for the Wayne Seniors, who will close out the regular season with home games this week against Omaha Central and Norfolk before starting Class B Area 5 play in West Point next week.

Wayne Seniors fall at Norfolk

The Wayne American Legion Post 42 Seniors jumped out to an early lead before Norfolk took over the game and ended it on the eight-run rule in five innings with a 13-2 decision last Tuesday at Memorial Field in Norfolk.

Wayne's scores came in the top of the first on an RBI single by Justin Dean and an RBI double by Payten Gamble, but it was all Norfolk after that as they scored four in the first to take the lead and blew the game open with a seven-run fourth innin.

Zane Jackson and Tucker Nichols added hits in the contest to account for Wayne's four safeties. Tyler Lutt took the loss on the hill after giving up six runs on seven hits in 2 1/3 innings.

DeBoer picked up his third RBI of the game in the second with a two-out single to center, scoring Miller, who reached with a double. Two more runs came home in the fifth on RBI doubles by Bartos and Kniesche.

Lakeview got a run in the bottom of the fifth and two more in the sixth to keep hope alive, but Wayne held off the comeback effort to finish off the win and move on to Tuesday's final.

DeBoer had three hits, two of them doubles, and three RBIs to lead the Wayne effort. Jorgensen and Bartos each had two hits, Bartos had two RBI and Miller scored two runs. Lutt threw 6 1/3 innings of six-hit baseball, striking out three and walking five before Eischeid closed the game out for the Wayne Juniors.

The Juniors take a 19-4 record into this weekend's Class B American Legion Juniors State tournament at Pawnee Park in Columbus, and Hoffman feels good about where his team is at heading into the tournament.

"Getting back there the second year in a row, the kids will know what to expect now and we'll head to Columbus and hopefully put on a show," he said. "We had one job to do here and we took care of business, and I'm excited to see these guys get back here. Nothing comes easy and it was just an awesome effort."

Fitness trackers: Do they make a difference?

Fitness trackers have been a popular purchase for adults looking to get in shape.

They are a useful tool for monitoring and measuring physical activity. The biggest benefit of this technology is that it helps you set simple activity goals and makes following your progress easy to do.

Today, these devices range from simple to sophisticated, with a variety of prices. Before you buy, you will want to consider the information available to help you find the right tracker to fit your budget, fitness, lifestyle and fashion sense.

As trackers have evolved, they have become trendy pieces of technology.

Some look like a wrist watch, some have screens, and most are available in a variety of colors and styles.

Do they make a difference? Many studies have been done on the usability, validation and benefits of these devices to the user. One study published in Health Psychology and Behavioral Medicine found that women wearing the technology doubled the number of steps they took and the time they spent exercising per day. Social networking using the devices also increased the effectiveness of physical activity programs for women.

All-day trackers measure steps taken, stairs climbed, duration of exercise and sleep time. Training trackers also measure heart rate, breathing patterns, speed and altitude. Many useful reviews that compare brands and models of devices are available online. See www.bestreviews.com/best-fitness-trackers to learn more. Consumer Reports also has helpful reviews of the many products on the market.

What about kids? With concern for childhood obesity today, an increasing number of trackers are being marketed to get the younger generation moving as well. Remember, motivation is the major benefit of using a fitness tracker. By setting goals, getting feedback and being rewarded, kids could be encouraged to move more.

For younger children, trackers make a game of fitness. For older children and high school athletes, being able to track activity and share their stats on social media can prove helpful.

However, fitness trackers are not appropriate for every child. Children who already are highly motivated and active don't need one. A tracker could add extra stress, making children feel they need to achieve even more.

If children need more motivation to exercise, giving them a fitness tracker alone is not enough. Forcing them to monitor their progress might be discouraging. Support of family and friends as role models is very important.

Keep in mind that a fitness tracker, like a gym membership or a piece of exercise equipment, is only beneficial if you use it.

Granquist reunion

The children of Clarence and Mildred (French) Granquist spent the weekend visiting with their cousins. Over 60 cousins visited together last Saturday in Wayne, spending the day with the families directly descended from Nelse and Elvina (Odegaard) Granquist who had settled in Wayne County. Pictured (left), youngest to oldest, are seven of the eight children of Clarence and Mildred — Tom Granquist, Cathy Granquist Bain, Carla Granquist Myers, Jim Granquist, David Granquist, Lana Granquist Pratt, and Gary Granquist. Unable to attend was Tami Granquist Smead. The family moved from Wayne County to Golden, Colo. in 1955 when Gary was a freshman at Wayne High School and all live in the Denver/Golden area except Lana, who resides in Alabama.

WAARSP meeting held

The Wayne Area Association of Retired School Personnel (WAARSP) met July 2 at Brookdale Wayne for their annual 4th of July Picnic. The traditional 4th of July meal was catered by Vel's Bakery and was enjoyed by all in attendance. A short business meeting was held with pertinent legislative news being shared by Mary Lou George. Charles Maier shared several articles on scams and encouraged the reading of the AARP News Brochure for updates.

Carolyn Peterson and Alice Johnson presented the information that they had researched regarding the purchase of a display flag. The organization voted to purchase a portable display flag and present it to Brookdale Wayne in appreciation for them sharing their facility as a gathering space for group meetings. The flag will be presented on Friday, July 13 at the monthly birthday party.

Carolyn Peterson had the group really thinking by challenging them with trivia questions. Charles Maier closed the meeting by sharing several patriotic poems from memory. His selections were thought provoking and inspiring.

The next regular meeting of WAARSP will be September 4. Retired educators and retired school personnel are welcomed to attend.

The Golden Rule and social media

"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you" (Matt. 7:12)
We've all heard of the Golden Rule. Nearly every culture and every religion have some version of this rule. Some, like the Bible, state it in positive terms: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Others state it in negative terms: "Don't do to others what you don't want done to you." Still others present it as a feeling or emotion: "Don't wish on others what you don't want to happen to you."

I was raised to believe that we treat people in the way we want to be treated and we don't treat people in ways we don't want to be treated.

Jesus takes it a step further by assuming that people won't always follow the Golden Rule. He assumes that there will be times in our lives that people will do exactly the opposite. They will intentionally hurt us, seek to do things to us that we can safely assume they don't want done to them, wish harm upon us and speak to us with malice, and act in ways that do not fit within the parameters of the Golden Rule. Jesus said, "But I say to you, love your enemies, and pray for those who persecute you" (Matthew 5:44).

Over the last year, I have tried to limit my use of social media. It started as a Lenten sacrifice and I realized I felt better and more positive when I wasn't using social media. I have slipped at times and although I love seeing pictures of friends and family it breaks my heart to see how people are being cruel to each other through social media accounts.

I love the fact that we are all different and that we have many opinions. It is what makes the world so very special. However, I believe we can agree to disagree in way that isn't insulting or vicious. I believe we can all follow the Golden Rule - even on social media. Here are

A Word In Faith
By Amy Woerdemann
St. Mary's Catholic Church

some ideas for the next time you want to post or comment on social media.

Don't Bring Dishonor: Our name is special (Prov. 22:1). Our last name connects us to a family. The name "Christian" connects us to an even larger family. What we do online affects more than just ourselves (Prov. 10:1). These areas can reveal who we are: language we use; photos we post; topics we discuss; our attitudes; links we share; and what we "like."

Think Before You Post, Comment, Like and Share: Would it glorify God (I Cor. 10:31)? Is it true, right and pure (Phil. 4:8)? Am I applying the golden rule (Matt. 7:12)? What would Jesus post?

Keep Private Issues Private: Social media accounts want to know what's going on in your life, right now (Facebook: "What's on your mind?"). The temptation is there to type something up quickly, then hit POST. Make it your ambition to lead a quiet life (I Thess. 4:11).

Connect With One Another: Social media allows you to get a peek into other people's lives. But we can use it to encourage a struggling brother or sister in Christ (Heb. 3:13). We can use it to ask for prayers. We can share rejoicing news so that others can rejoice with you.

Don't Let It Be Addicting: When was the last time your phone was not within earshot? We all get 24 hours in a day. Make the most of your time (Eph. 5:16). Have you ever thought, "How did we survive before smartphones came into existence?" Well, we survived. Don't let our lives pass us by.

Use It To Share The Gospel: Jesus says in Mark 16:15, "Go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." Where is the world spending its time? They're spending it on social media. The opportunities are there to share the gospel of Jesus Christ online, just from the click of a button from your home or smartphone.

Christians are called to follow the Golden Rule even if everyone else is breaking it. We are supposed to be different, stand out and reflect Christ to the world around us. If someone hits us, we can't hit them back. If someone insults us, we don't insult them back. If someone steals from us, we don't steal back. If every manner of evil is done to us, it is still not OK for us to do the same to them. Christ has given his church an ethic of love to live by. He models for us a walk that puts others first and relentlessly pursues peace. If we are teaching our children anything other than that, we need to take a step back and really examine Christ's words.

My challenge to you this week is, if you are on social media, share a Biblical post, an encouraging verse, a Godly article, etc. Let us always watch our hearts while we're online (Prov. 4:23).

Grace Lutheran Church of Wayne welcomes new pastor on July 8

The Rev. Michael Buchhorn was installed as the new senior pastor of Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne on July 8.

The service of installation was conducted by the president of the Nebraska District of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod (LCMS), Rev. Rich Snow, who was assisted by Rev. Jeffery Warner, Liturgist as well as other Wayne area LCMS pastors.

NENCAP talks suicide prevention

We often hear, "If you or someone you know is at immediate risk for suicide contact the crisis line." You may ask, "How do I know if someone is at immediate risk?"

As written by Jesse Bering, "In considering people's motivations for killing themselves, it is essential to recognize that most suicides are driven by a flash flood of strong emotions, not rational, philosophical thoughts in which the pros and cons are evaluated critically."

Some direct verbal warning signs include:

- "I've decided to kill myself."
 - "I wish I were dead."
 - "I'm going to commit suicide."
 - "I'm going to end it all."
 - "If (such and such) doesn't happen, I'll kill myself."
- Indirect verbal clues include:
- "I'm tired of life. I just can't go on."
 - "My family would be better off without me."
 - "Who cares if I'm dead anyway."
 - "I just want out."

• "I won't be around much longer."

• "Pretty soon you won't have to worry about me."

Behavioral Clues include:

- Any previous suicide attempt
- Acquiring a gun or stockpiling pills
- Co-occurring depression, moodiness, hopelessness
- Putting personal affairs in order
- Giving away prized possessions
- Sudden interest or disinterest in religion
- Drug or alcohol abuse, or relapse after a period of recovery
- Unexplained anger, aggression and irritability

Situational indicators:

- Being fired or being expelled from school
- A recent unwanted move
- Loss of any major relationship
- Death of a spouse, child, or best friend, especially if by suicide
- Diagnosis of a serious or terminal illness

• Sudden unexpected loss of freedom/fear of punishment

• Anticipated loss of financial security

• Loss of a cherished therapist, counselor or teacher

• Fear of becoming a burden to others

Myth No one can stop a suicide, it is inevitable.

Fact If people in a crisis get the help they need, they will probably never be suicidal again.

Myth Confronting a person about suicide will only make them angry and increase the risk of suicide.

Fact Asking someone directly about suicidal intent lowers anxiety, opens up communication and lowers the risk of an impulsive act.

Myth : Only experts can prevent suicide.

Fact Suicide prevention is everybody's business, and anyone can help prevent the tragedy of suicide

What can you do?

Question. It is okay to say, "Are you thinking about hurting or killing yourself?"

Persuade. Listen carefully, then ask, "Will you go with me to get help?"

Ref. If they will not go with you directly, ask for the commitment to accept help, then make those arrangements together.

According to the CDC (Centers for Disease control and Prevention), men are more likely than women to die by suicide because they use more lethal means such as firearms whereas women often choose poisoning and overdose. Of the 40,000 suicide deaths in the United States each year, women account for 23 percent.

For more information, please contact the Veterans Crisis Line at 1-800-273-8255, the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline at 1-800-273-8255 or NENCAP's SSVF program at 1-800-445-2505.

Spotlight on research associates at Haskell Ag Lab

The following is the third of several spotlights on those conducting research at the Haskell Ag Lab near Concord.

From Northern Serbia's plains to Nebraska's plains

By Pavle Pavlovic,
Visiting Scholar at Haskell Ag Lab, UNL

Helping farmers across the world with new solutions to different challenges modern agriculture faces, as well as making the crops grow more productive and profitable is a worthy goal.

Ever since my childhood years, I have developed a keen interest in the living world around me, especially plants. The choice of agriculture for my profession was a way of combining something I love with something that has tangible practical benefits. I was born and raised in Serbia, a country in southeast Europe (former Yugoslavia). Agriculture has always played a big part in the life and economy of Serbia. The problems modern agriculture faces, especially weed resistance, started becoming an apparent problem in Serbia as well.

After obtaining my bachelor's degree back in Serbia, in 2016, I came in touch with Dr. Stevan Knezevic (a Weed Specialist, at the Haskell Ag Lab) through my Professor back in Serbia with whom I did my bachelor's degree project. My professor works with Dr. Stevan Knezevic on different projects; thus I was recommended to go to Nebraska for the 2017 season.

Working at the Haskell Ag Lab with Dr. Knezevic and his Weed Science Team during an eight-month period in 2017 has been very productive and fulfilling. The time spent here gave me a greater insight into weed-crop biology and ecology, how to set up and conduct a scientific experiment, collect and analyze data. I was also well acquainted with the agriculture of Midwest USA and numerous techniques used in crop production. All these experiences will hopefully help me grow, both professionally and personally, as well as making a contribution to the agricultural development in Serbia.

Currently, I am in my second year of a six-month visit (May to November of 2018) here at the Haskell Ag Lab. This year, just like the last, the project I work on is based on the concept of Critical Time of Weed Removal (CTWR) in soybean crop, but I will also help and learn more about numerous other studies that are being conducted in Dr. Knezevic's program.

The concept of CTWR has been around for a while but gained a renewed interest with researchers and farmers alike in recent years. This was due to an increasing presence of herbicide-resistant weeds across the United States. The idea behind the concept is to encourage timely and diverse use of weed control programs in managing herbicide resistant weeds.

The research findings of the Haskell Agricultural Laboratory have been helping farmers to better understand how widespread weed resistance is and what preventive measures can potentially be taken.

The professional and friendly support provided by all staff at the Haskell Agricultural Laboratory have been a motivation for me. I am looking forward to an even more exciting season than last year.

Pavle Pavlovic (ppavlovic2@unl.edu), Visiting Scholar, Haskell Ag. Lab, UNL.

Commission approves 2019 mountain lion hunting

The Nebraska Game and Parks Commission approved a mountain lion hunting season for 2019 at its meeting June 22 in Ogallala.

The season will provide a harvest opportunity for up to eight mountain lions in two sub-units within the Pine Ridge of northwestern Nebraska. The season will allow the population to remain resilient and healthy, while halting growth or moderately reducing the population size. This will initiate a reduction of the population density in the Pine Ridge to one similar to that of other states that allow mountain lion hunting.

The approved 2019 mountain lion season regulations are:

-- A harvest season will be held only for the Pine Ridge area, which has an established population that can sustain a harvest.

-- The proposed season will allow up to eight mountain lions to be harvested, with up to four of those being females.

-- There are two sub-units in the Pine Ridge: a north sub-unit (north of U.S. Hwy. 20) and a south sub-unit (south of U.S. Hwy. 20). Sub-units are designed to distribute harvest throughout the Pine Ridge. Up to four mountain lions, and no more than two females, may be harvested in each sub-unit. Public lands are closed in the north sub-unit to focus harvest onto private land in Sioux and Sheridan counties, where the majority of landowner input has occurred. The south sub-unit includes public lands for expanded hunting opportunities.

-- Once four mountain lions, or two females, have been harvested in a sub-unit, the season in that sub-unit will close.

-- 320 permits will be issued in each sub-unit, for a total of 640 total permits. Permits will be allocated by drawing.

-- An initial season will run from Jan. 1 through Feb. 28, 2019. The use of dogs will not be permitted during the initial season.

-- If the limits and/or sub-limits have not been reached in a sub-unit by Feb. 28, then a limited number (equal to the animals remaining in the limit) of permittees will be allowed to hunt with the aid of dogs in an auxiliary season. Permits for the auxiliary season will be granted to unsuccessful permittees from the initial season via a lottery. If the auxiliary season occurs, it will take place from March 15-31.

-- Baiting and trapping will not be allowed during any season.

For more information on mountain lions in Nebraska, go to outdoornebraska.gov/mountainlions.

In other business, the Commission:

-- banned the importation and possession of mouflon and aoudad, or any of their hybrids or subspecies, in Banner, Box Butte, Cheyenne, Dawes, Kimball, Morrill, Scotts Bluff, Sheridan and Sioux counties after June 22, 2018. This includes a provision for grandfathering possession, as well as a protocol for escaped animals. Mouflon is a sheep species from southwestern Asia. Aoudad is a goat-like mammal native to North Africa. Mouflon and aoudad are an ecological threat to Nebraska's wild bighorn sheep. They also can carry disease that can impact wild and domestic sheep and they can hybridize with wild sheep.

-- established fees for select future Venture Park activities at Louisville State Recreation Area and Platte River State Park, including a floating playground, paddle sport equipment rental and water cycle rental.

The Commission also held a public hearing for input regarding the listing and delisting of state threatened and endangered species in the Commission's District 7 in western Nebraska.

In addition, staff updated the Commission on the recreational resources in the Lake McConaughy region and environmental issues.

The Nebraska Game and Parks Commission reminds hunters of migratory birds to register for the Harvest Information Program (HIP) beginning on August 1 and announces fall turkey hunting permits will be available August 13.

Game and Parks discusses fall hunting

MIGRATORY BIRD HUNTERS MUST REGISTER FOR HIP

Hunters of migratory birds are reminded of their requirement to register for the Harvest Information Program (HIP) beginning Aug. 1.

HIP registration is required of residents age 16 and older and all nonresidents who plan to hunt migratory game birds in Nebraska between Aug. 1, 2018 and July 31, 2019. These birds are doves, ducks, geese, snipe, rail, coots and woodcock. Among those who must register in Nebraska are hunters registered in another state and holders of lifetime, 64-and-over veteran, and 69-and-over senior permits.

HIP, which is required by federal regulation of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, helps wildlife managers estimate the number of migratory birds harvested each year. Those estimates help biologists set limits and seasons.

Register for the free program at OutdoorNebraska.gov/HIP or call toll-free at 877-634-8687. A HIP number, which must be carried while hunting, will be assigned to each registrant.

Hunting permits may be purchased at OutdoorNebraska.org.

FALL TURKEY PERMITS

AVAILABLE BEGINNING AUG. 13

Hunters may begin purchasing fall turkey permits Aug. 13 at 1 p.m. Central Time. Permits will be available at OutdoorNebraska.org and Nebraska Game and Parks Commission permitting offices.

A fall turkey permit is valid statewide and allows a hunter to harvest two turkeys of either sex with a shotgun or archery equipment. Each hunter may have up to two permits. There is no minimum age requirement for youth. The fall turkey season is Sept. 15 - Jan. 31, 2019.

For more information about turkey hunting in Nebraska, read the 2018 Turkey Guide at outdoornebraska.gov/guides.

Japanese beetles can be cause for concern

Last week I talked about the Emerald Ash Borer, an invasive insect that is causing a lot of concern for homeowners. It has been identified in a few locations in Nebraska and is likely to continue its gradual spread across the state in years to come, devastating the state's ash tree population as it spreads.

Today I want to focus on another invasive insect that is spreading across the state faster and has a wider variety of plants it feeds on. Japanese beetles have been in the United States for over 100 years. They were first reported in Nebraska in 2011. Japanese beetle adults and larvae damage home landscapes and turf, but I want to talk about the damage they can cause in field crops first.

The adult beetles are similar in appearance to the common June beetles but are a little smaller, about a half inch long. Their head and thorax is metallic green and their wing covers are coppery brown. You may have to look closely to see these colors, at first glance they often appear dark brown. They also have a row with five tufts of white hairs on both sides of their abdomen, distinguishing them from a native insect called the false Japanese beetle or spring rose beetle.

Last year most of the calls I received were about Japanese beetles damaging ornamentals, but in other parts of the state where they have become more established, they also caused significant damage in crops. I expect that to happen here, too, as their population grows. They are first cousins to June bugs, but they have an even bigger appetite. They feed for about 4-6 weeks, starting in late June or early July.

John Wilson
Extension
Educator

In soybeans, they feed by skeletonizing the leaves, leaving only the leaf veins. You should follow the same guidelines as you do for other defoliating insects such as bean leaf beetles, grasshoppers, and some caterpillars. An insecticide treatment is recommended when insects are present and damage exceeds 30 percent defoliation on plants before flowering, and 20 percent on soybean once they started flowering.

In corn, they may feed some on leaves, but the real problem develops when they feed on the silks. This may interfere with pollination if they are abundant enough to severely clip silks before pollination. University of Illinois Extension (where they have been a problem longer) recommends an insecticide treatment be considered during the silking period IF there are three or more Japanese beetles per ear, silks have been clipped to less than 1/2 inch, AND pollination is less than 50 percent complete.

Be aware that Japanese beetle numbers are often highest on field margins, so scout across the whole field before making a treatment decision. A variety of insecticides labeled to be used on soybeans and corn would be expected to provide good control of Japanese beetles.

Now a quick note on Japanese beetles in the landscape. Adults feed on over 300 common plants in our landscapes, although roses, grapes, and lindens are among their favorites. They feed during the day, preferring hot weather and plants in full sun. They have chewing mouthparts and consume tissue between the leaf veins, leaving behind a lacy or skeletonized leaf that quickly turns brown.

Keep in mind that trees and shrubs tolerate feeding damage with little significant impact on the plant's health, even severe defoliation, if it only occurs a few times. However, repeated defoliation several years in a row is a greater concern for the long term health of the plant. Perennials may be severely injured or killed from heavy Japanese beetle feeding in one year.

If controls are needed, insecticides, with one of the active ingredients carbaryl, bifenthrin, permethrin, cyfluthrin, and lambda-cyfluthrin provide up to two weeks of control following a thorough application if it isn't washed off by rain. As always when using pesticides, read and follow all label directions.

DO NOT use the Japanese beetle traps found at some hardware stores. They tend to attract more insects to your landscape than they trap, resulting in heavier damage on your plants! If the infestation isn't too severe, then handpicking beetles and dropping them into a can of soapy water is a control option without using any pesticides.

For more information on Japanese beetles and their control, contact your local Nebraska Extension office.

July 15 is deadline to enter NDA's annual photo contest

The Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA) is encouraging 4-H and FFA members to share their passion for poultry by entering NDA's annual Poultry Photo Contest. The contest highlights the state's diverse poultry population and raises awareness of biosecurity measures for poultry owners. Entries must be postmarked by July 15.

"NDA hosts this annual contest to give 4-H and FFA members the opportunity to promote and support Nebraska's poultry industry by taking photos of the wide variety of birds found in our state," said NDA Director Steve Wellman. "It's exciting to see how creative these photographers are and how committed they are to raising quality poultry and show birds."

Winners of NDA's Poultry Photo Contest will be announced during the Nebraska State Fair in Grand Island. NDA will feature winning photos throughout the year in promotional materials and on social media. NDA will also feature information on biosecurity measures that owners can take to keep their flocks healthy and prevent the spread of diseases. Virulent or Exotic Newcastle Disease (VND) was discovered earlier this year in a backyard flock on the west coast. Bird owners should be aware of the basics, practice biosecurity measures to help prevent diseases like VND and avian influenza, and know what to do if an outbreak is suspected.

NDA staff members will judge the photo contest entries based on originality, composition and photographic skills. Contest rules and official entry forms are available online at www.nda.nebraska.gov.

Checking out the eating establishments

By: Pat Meierhenry

One thing about having company when you live in the city as opposed to on the farm, there are more opportunities to eat out. When this former roommate used to visit us at Hoskins, I did a lot of cooking.

On Friday, we checked out a dining spot in the Haymarket called Screammers. The walls are lined with photos of the Scarlet and Cream singers that used to be a big deal at UNL. The wait staff auditions for their jobs because they will be singing to us as well as taking and delivering our orders.

I asked our waitress where she has been singing, and she said at Doane! So, of course, I said Kurt Runestad and she went on about how much she liked him. Well, who doesn't?? She did have a good voice, too.

Tonight, we were at a place called Fireworks that features wood fired food, especially pizzas. But I had the crab cakes and my friend had pulled pork. We had runzas last night and another group of friends plan to treat her to Val's pizza tomorrow eve. You have to have both in Nebraska!

Meanwhile, I'm still enjoying all the good stuff I receive from the Good News Network. For instance, there is a private school in France that outlawed cell phones four years ago. The staff say the students interact and are engaged, and display more empathy.

There is also a shot of two boys at a Little League game, sitting side by side, and they are looking at their phones. It's because one is from Dominican Republic and they are using Google translate to communicate with each other. Amazing!

Finally, somewhere in Cameroon, where Boko Haram is very active, the Christians and Muslims have come up with a plan to try to keep everyone safe. On Fridays, the Christians guard the mosque, and on Sundays, the Muslims surround the church so that both groups can hold services. In a related story, one thousand Muslims formed a human shield around a synagogue in Oslo.

And, finally, four boys have been rescued already from the Thai cave; we pray they can get the others out safely with no more loss of life. Let's keep the good news coming!

Blossom end rot of vegetables explained

By Kathleen Cue, Nebraska Extension Horticulture Educator

So your zucchini has these leathery brown areas on their blossom end? What is this and what can a gardener do about it?

Blossom end rot is confusing because it looks like it's caused by a fungus. It isn't a fungus. Instead it is a lack of calcium that is the cause. Before you rush out to purchase lime or gypsum to apply to your plants and soil, it helps to have a better understanding of the mechanism that is causing this deficiency.

First, calcium exists in abundance in our soils, so applying even more won't help. Further, if we tested the plant for calcium we would find adequate amounts for good plant health. Rather it is the plant's inability to distribute calcium, in this case to the developing vegetables, which is the cause here.

Some things that interfere with a plant's ability to move calcium include extreme heat, high nitrogen fertilization, and roots that are soggy wet or bone dry. While we can't fix extreme heat or Mother Nature's deluge, the good news is that plants eventually figure out the calcium mobility issue on their own. Initial harvests may have blossom end rot, but later ones will be just fine.

Things gardeners can do to help are to irrigate during dry spells to maintain an evenly moist root zone (about one inch/week), refrain from over-fertilizing plants and mulch with shredded newspapers to help keep the soil a little cooler. No other treatment is necessary.

Blossom end rot is prevalent on zucchini, summer squash, cucumber, pepper, and tomato. More information about blossom end rot may be found here: <https://byf.unl.edu/blossom-end-rot>.

Signs

"Sign, sign, everywhere a sign ... Do this, don't do that, can't you read the sign?" - Five Man Electrical Band

There is no doubt that in the last 20 years we have come a long way in reading what our fields tell us. Whether it has been the wide adoption of soil sampling, yield monitors, or even the advent of infield sensors like moisture probes, we have come a long way in learning how to read the signs that our fields give us. These signs, or to be truthful, our willingness to read the signs have unlocked a lot of yield for us in these last 20 years as we have seen the US average corn yield go from 140 to 170+. There is another area of our fields that we have the ability to read that most growers have been ignoring, and needs to be taken more seriously, that is plant tissue testing.

When it comes to any testing that we do in our fields, we are taking a "picture" of what is happening at that moment in time. In the case of soil sampling in the fall, we know that there are nutrients in the residue that will not show up on a soil test, but it is part of the process. The same is true with plant tissue testing. Plant nutrient levels change based on plant maturity, the part of the plant sampled, the hybrid, and even the weather. So we need to look at plant tissue testing from the aspect that it really has two areas of value; monitoring the health of the plant, or diagnosing a problem within the plant.

The diagnostic side is treated much like going to the doctor. I am only going to go if I am sick, and I want answers right now. So we test, try to figure out what is wrong, and what, if any medicine is going to make it better. All too often we only think of plant tissue sampling as a tool in this regard. We go take tissue samples if the crop has poor color, is weak, or is struggling. And then we look to that single test for answers and action. But, much like our own health, the doctor's visit when ill should not make up all of the health care plan. And that is where the monitoring side comes in.

Sampling earlier in the season identifies deficiencies in time to "take action" if needed, to help reach yield goals and manage economic risks. It is a bit like an annual checkup. Our universities and labs have standard values for crops at every growing stage. If you indicate that your plant is at growth stage X, then they will compare the values of your plant with the known standard and advise how far out of bounds that we are. It could be that something in the soil is depleted or in excess. However, it often has to do with weather and rainfall, and the nutrients that are available in the soil because of those two factors have a lot of influence on nutrient availability and uptake.

Late-season samples serve as the report card to tell us how well we did getting nutrients from the soil to where they needed to be in the plant. This report card can help identify where we need to focus on for upcoming growing seasons.

It is important to remember there is a difference between soil and plant deficiencies. If you are only tissue testing or twice per year, it can be a good idea to take a soil sample at the same time and place as the tissue sample to help bring clarity to the process. Not only does it give you soil nutrient baselines at the same time, but it can also reveal issues like compaction, insects, nematodes, or other variations from "healthy" soil that could be contributing to the above-ground symptoms.

Knowing when and where to sample can be a daunting task. Being off a couple of leaves from the ones you are supposed to take, or telling the lab that the plant is at the wrong growth stage can have a tremendous influence on your results. Relying on your Agronomist or Crop Scout to take tissue samples with you or for you is a good policy to go with if you are uncomfortable or nervous about inadvertently skewing your results. Once you receive your test results back, work with your doctor, I mean agronomist, to understand the results and compare them to the proper data sets. Remember, plants are like people in that they are each a bit different. What is "normal" for one hybrid may be very different than what is normal for another. Finally, don't be discouraged by having values that are outside of target ranges. It doesn't mean that you or your trusted advisor are doing a bad job, it just means we need a tweak here or an adjustment there. Some problems are solved by time; others may require a shot, I mean an application of a Macro or Micronutrient to boost health. Tissue, and for that matter soil testing is a very inexpensive way to monitor our crops and help ensure yield potential.

Debra Finn, Wayne County Clerk
Wayne, Nebraska
July 3, 2018

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners meeting was called to order by Chairman James Rabe at 9:08 a.m. on Tuesday, July 3, 2018, in the upstairs conference room of the Courthouse. Chairman James Rabe, Members Dean Burbach and Randy Larson, Attorney Michael Pieper, Sheriff Jason Dwinell and Clerk Debra Finn were present. Notice of this meeting was published in the Wayne Herald, a legal newspaper, on June 21, 2018. A current copy of the Open Meetings Act was posted and accessible to the public.

Rabe presented the following consent agenda items:
a. Approve minutes of June 19, 2018, as printed in the Commissioners Record
b. Approve fee reports
c. Approve payroll
d. Reappoint Daryl Mundil to a 5-year term on the Veteran's Service Committee effective July 1, 2018
e. Approve an agreement with the Nebraska Department of Roads to provide a surveyor to reset corner ties for Project STP-35-4 (124) Winside South & North C.N. 32134
f. Cancel county road check no. 18060225 for $7.11

A motion to approve the consent agenda as presented was made by Burbach and seconded by Larson. Roll call vote: Burbach, Larson, Rabe - aye; motion carried. A motion to approve the regular agenda as presented was made by Larson and seconded by Burbach. Roll call vote: Larson, Burbach, Rabe - aye; motion carried.

Amy Miller opened the discussion on finding an office location for the county attorney's office by saying the courthouse basement location wouldn't work and it would be a conflict of interest for her to be in the same room with District Court files (commissioner room/vault). Larson questioned how to make the best use of the office space on the second floor. It appeared the commissioners would have to move out and then rearrange the offices. Burbach questioned if Miller could just use her private office, Miller stated her preference was to also have an office at the courthouse big enough for three people. After further discussion, a motion was made by Larson and seconded by Burbach to put the county attorney office in the current district court clerk's office and to move the district court clerk to the room currently used by the county commissioners. Roll call vote: Larson, Burbach, Rabe - aye; motion carried. No decision was made on a location for the commissioners. Later in the meeting District Court Clerk Deb Allemann-Dannelly asked why she wasn't included when the board was talking about moving her office. The commissioner room isn't big enough for her office, and there is no room for a counter. Allemann-Dannelly asked if the board would reconsider their decision. The topic was not reopened for discussion.

Charlie Junck presented drainage concerns where the county had replaced a bridge with a three tube system and two drop structures. Someone bermed dirt up around it, so the water no longer drained. Burbach said he would get it cleaned out and working again.

Emergency Manager Nic Kemnitz asked the board to approve a local disaster declaration resulting from heavy rain/storms that began on June 24th. The disaster threshold for Wayne County is $36,000.00, and the estimated loss of labor and materials from this storm is $130,000. If the state threshold of $2.6 million is not reached the county will not receive any disaster funds. Flooding damages discussed

On June 25th, heavy rains caused flooding in northeast Nebraska, including Dakota, Thurston, and Wayne counties. First responder and volunteer response to the flooding was incredibly impressive; the community clearly came out in force to protect areas by filling sandbags and cleaning up debris around their towns. Thank you to all who gave their time and assistance, especially Dakota County Emergency Manager Deanna Hagberg, Thurston County Emergency Manager Tom Perez, and Wayne County Emergency Manager Nicholas Kemnitz for working with local, state, and federal entities to serve our community. It was appreciated and surely did not go unnoticed.

I have been in constant contact with Dakota County, Thurston County, and Wayne County emergency officials as well as Governor Ricketts' office since the flooding occurred. On June 26th, Governor Ricketts surveyed the flood damage and proceeded to sign a disaster declaration allowing state funds from the Governor's Emergency Fund to aid the response to flooding and damage reports from across the state. As of July 8th, Wayne, Thurston, and Dakota counties made disaster declarations and Dakota City and South Sioux City made municipal disaster declarations. It is expected that Pender will make a formal declaration in the near future. Most of the reported damage includes damage to roads, bridges, culverts, and some water treatment facilities. In the upcoming week of July 9th, the Nebraska Emergency Management Agency (NEMA) plans to continue to surveying and assessing damage in the 14 affected counties.

It is important that all public entities and individuals report damages and documented costs to NEMA. Individuals should contact their local emergency management officials to report and address any concerns or damages. Individuals should also contact their insurance company to report damage. There is generally a 30-day reporting deadline to report damages to emergency management officials and insurance companies.

Dakota County Emergency Manager: Deanna Hagberg - 402-987-2106

Thurston County Emergency Manager: Tom Perez - 402-385-6070

Wayne County Emergency Manager: Nicholas Kemnitz - 402-833-5190

In order to receive Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) assistance, disaster damage cost must meet a $2.7 million threshold. Currently, it does not appear that the cost threshold has been met, but preliminary assessments are still ongoing. Additionally, Agriculture Committee Chair Senator Brasch has reached out to the USDA to explore other funding options for disaster relief.

Northeast instructor earns recognition from the American Welding Society

A Northeast Community College welding instructor has won a district-level educator award from a national society. John Knapp has been selected as a co-recipient of the Howard E. Adkins Memorial Instructor Membership Award by Section 81-Nebraska of the American Welding Society (AWS).

The award is sponsored by Mrs. Wilma Adkins and her family and is awarded as a means of recognizing high school, trade school, technical institute and junior college instructors whose teaching activities advance their students' knowledge of welding.

Knapp's distinguished career has spanned an array of fields. He worked in private industry for seven years and has served as an educator since 1988. He began teaching at Northeast in 2011.

In her nominator letter, Shanelle Grudzinski, associate dean of applied technology, praised Knapp's impressive career.

"Not only has Mr. Knapp been instrumental in developing and initiating curriculum changes and facility expansions, he remains influential in the development of opportunities in 21st century technologies for students in areas of robotic welding and welding processes. He also offers techniques that showcase the advancement of science, technology and applications in the welding field."

Grudzinski also noted Knapp's dedication to his students' success.

"Mr. Knapp has mastered the art of being firm but fair, having rules yet maintaining relationships, and most importantly, encouraging his students to try harder and achieve more for the betterment of themselves, their community and the welding industry."

Knapp is active in Section 81 of the AWS, where he serves as the Schools Excelling through National Skills Educations (SENSE) and Student Affairs chairman. He also volunteers as a committee member for the National Center for Construction Education and Research (NCCER).

In his nomination letter, Gregory Schroeter, AWS Section 81 chairman, said, "John brings to the table numerous years of experience that are very helpful in creating new ideas to getting more industry involvement in the American Welding Society. He is a tremendous asset to the industry, and his involvement in the welding community does not go unnoticed."

The welding diploma program at Northeast Community College focuses on the major welding and cutting processes, including Shielded Metal Arc Welding (SMAW), Gas Metal Arc Welding (GMAW), Gas Tungsten Arc Welding (GTAW) and Flux Cored Arc Welding (FCAW). The coursework helps in the development of quality welds in all positions on plate and pipe. Successful completion of the diploma gives students the technical information required for entry-level employment.

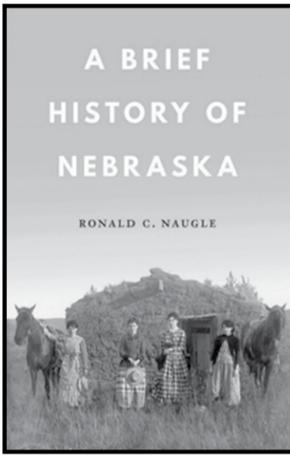

Nebraska State Historical Society promotes its brief new name, new brief history book

The former Nebraska State Historical Society is getting right to the point these days, promoting its new, shorter name, History Nebraska, while publishing a book titled "A Brief History of Nebraska." The paperback by Ronald C. Naugle tells Nebraska's story from prehistoric times up to the present in only 143 pages.

History Nebraska saw a need for short book to introduce readers to the state's history, says Editor David Bristow.

"We have the largest collection of Nebraska historical artifacts anywhere. We've been publishing our quarterly magazine 'Nebraska History' for 100 years. And our website at history.nebraska.gov is the most extensive online resource about the state's history. So we're committed to good scholarship and to telling lots of stories. But where do you begin? That's what this book is about."

For author Ron Naugle, the book distills decades of research. A professor emeritus at Nebraska Wesleyan University, Naugle is co-author (with John J. Montag and James C. Olson) of the 549-page "History of Nebraska," published by the University of Nebraska Press. Naugle also chairs the Nebraska Hall of Fame Commission. "Ron wanted to tell the story for a more casual reader," Bristow said. "He wrote this as an entry point for people's curiosity about the past. His chapters are mostly five pages or less, but he still hits the big issues and major themes. Adults or students can read it in a few sittings."

Nebraska has been inundated by ancient seas, carved by glaciers, and settled by ancient cultures who learned to survive in a land prone to extremes of climate.

As a state, Nebraska was born out of the Civil War, shaped by railroads, and built by immigrants. Settlers were drawn by promises of free land and abundant rain. They endured droughts and economic depressions. They fought for political reforms, fought world wars, and sometimes fought each other.

Along the way Nebraskans chose a unique form of government and re-invented their communities under new conditions. A Brief History of Nebraska is a story of continual change, the back story of the place and people we know today.

The $14.95 book is available at bookstores and online booksellers, or directly from History Nebraska at its sites (in Lincoln at the Nebraska History Museum and the State Capitol, also at Chimney Rock and Fort Robinson), and by phone at 402-471-3447. Readers can learn more about the book and read an online excerpt at history.nebraska.gov/publications

Vision exams encouraged over summer break

Summer vacation is well under way, but did you know that even when your child is out of the classroom, vision problems can have an impact on his/her daily activities?

The Nebraska Optometric Association (NOA) is reminding parents that summer vacation is an ideal time to check for any possible vision issues ahead of the new school year. "Identifying and dealing with vision problems during the summer will help your child start off the next school year right," said Dr. Teri Geist representing the NOA.

"While routine school vision screenings can identify a few potential problems, they aren't designed to evaluate many conditions and may give parents a false sense of security as there are a range of vision problems that may be missed."

"Eye exams performed by an eye doctor are the only way to diagnose many eye and vision diseases and disorders in children. Undiagnosed vision problems can impair learning and can cause vision loss and other issues that significantly impact a child's quality of life," Dr. Geist said. Look out for these 4 warning signs during the summer months - they could be a sign of vision difficulties that require follow up with an eye care professional.

1. Headaches / eyestrain. Is your child complaining about headaches? Perhaps accompanied with watery eyes, particularly during periods of concentration such as reading, computer use or during a movie?
2. Clumsiness on the playground. Does your child seem clumsy and uncoordinated when playing on the playground? This could be due to a lazy eye, otherwise known as amblyopia.
3. Lack of interest in reading: Does your child show a lack of interest in reading books? It is possible that he or she is having difficulty seeing the text as a result of a vision problem. It's worth asking the child if the text seems blurry, if he/she has a headache or simply has difficulty distinguishing the words or letters on the page to determine if there may be an underlying vision problem. Also watch for unusual signs such as eye rubbing, excessive blinking, head tilt and unusual reading distance.

4. Difficulty hitting or catching a ball. Hand eye coordination, which helps track an object as it moves through space, is one of the key components to playing ball.

"Since eye and vision problems can become worse over time, early diagnosis and treatment are essential to optimize children's eye health and vision and to prevent future vision loss," said Dr. Geist. "Making a comprehensive eye exam a priority this summer is one of the single most important investments you can make to your child's education and overall health. While schools typically offer basic vision screenings, a comprehensive eye exam is the only way to detect serious eye health issues."
