Wayne State College and Western Iowa Tech to sign new articulation agreements

Wayne State College and Western Iowa Tech will sign new articulation agreements at a public ceremony on Feb. 15, in the board room at Western Iowa Tech. WIT president Dr. Terry Murrell and WSC president Dr. Marysz Rames will sign new transfer agreements that allow WIT students to seamlessly transfer a wide array of associate's degrees to earn a bachelor's degree at Wayne State College.

Thirty-one program articulations have been written, each laying out the pathway of courses and academic credits from the start of the WIT program all the way through to the completion of the WSC bachelor's degree. These pathways will serve students and the WIT and WSC advisors working with the individual students on their plans of study.

Pathways from AAS to bachelor's degree in technology include accounting specialist, cyber security and digital crime, financial services, human resource management, management, mechanical engineering, network administration and security, office management, technology studies, and welding technology. There is also an agreed pathway for WIT's video and media production AAS to WSC's mass communication and electronic media bachelor's

"Wayne State College has been a great partner over the years, and we are looking forward to expanding our partnership to offer more opportunities to our students," Murrell said.

"Wayne State is proud to work with Western Iowa Tech to provide a high quality, accessible, and affordable pathway to a four-year degree," Rames said. "Our partnership will ensure that students in the region have the best options for following their passion and filling important roles in the workforce.

"The depth and breadth of these agreements, from technology to education and electronic media, demonstrate Wayne State's commitment to partnering with schools throughout our region," Steven Elliott, Vice President for Academic Affairs at Wayne State said. "We have been impressed with the level of preparation demonstrated by WIT students and look forward to providing them with new educational opportunities and expanded advising services in partnership with WIT.'

"The School of Education and Counseling is excited to be a part of this pathway between WIT and WSC," Dr. Nicholas Shudak, dean of Wayne State's School of Education and Counseling said. "Our hope is that through this partnership opportunity, WSC can better serve the students, schools, and school communities in the greater Siouxland area. High school students in Sioux City working through dual-credit and career academies with WIT will be able to continue their studies at the WSC Extended Campus in South Sioux City upon the completion of their A.A. in education degree at WIT."

City of Wayne

Chris Woehler-City of Wayne

Chris Woehler is more than familiar with Wayne's Ward 1. Having grown up there, Woehler feels he knows how to represent those who live there.

When a seat in Ward 1 was coming up for re-election in November, Woehler said he wanted to make sure he could help both his Ward and the City avoid some of the pit falls he's seen other communities experience through his work in construction. Woehler succeeded sitting Ward 1 council member Rod Greve.

"I wanted to make sure Wayne stays up on infrastructure," Woehler said. "I didn't want the community to fall behind like some of the other towns around have. The town can't grow without infrastructure.

Woehler said he's enjoying his work on Wayne City Council and is learning how to work with the decisions of past councils while trying to plan long-term for the future of Wayne.

"It can be tough to deal with things that other people have already voted on, but I'm excited to see the town grow," Woehler said.

Issues like electrical contracts, what to do with the City's lagoon and others have been before Wayne City Council for several years with just as many changing council members. Woehler said he wants to make sure the City is planning short-term, but thinking in terms of longevity.

"We (the council) need to think about what to do and how to do it wisely, in a time-effective way," Woehler said. "As a business owner, I look at a 10 year plan instead of year to year."

Thinking long-term, Woehler said he's looking forward to working on projects that offers something for ev-

Another aspect Woehler is interested in working on is continuing the City's relationships with other government

"I want to make sure we encourage the relationship between the City, County and State," Woehler said.

Trojans punch first state ticket since 2006

Nobody said it would be easy to get to state — just ask the Wakefield boys basketball team.

The Trojans slugged it out in a tough subdistrict last week and held off a second-half comeback in the substate round to punch their first ticket to state since 2006, winning the C2-6 subdistrict last week and then claiming the C2-6 substate title Monday night in Atkinson with a 59-47 win over South

The road to Lincoln was a bumpy one for the Trojans. They started with a tough 47-37 win over Wisner-Pilger in the subdistrict semifinal Tuesday at Norfolk Catholic, then survived a 57-49 win over Howells-Dodge that saw Blake Brown leave the game after a headto-head collision that ended with him being taken to a Norfolk hospital on a stretcher.

Brown returned Monday night and was one of three Trojans finishing in double figures as the Trojans made sure they would extend their season into next week's Nebraska State Boys Basketball Championships in Lincoln.

Coach Joe Wendte said the team has learned to play through adversity this season and showed a lot of determination to get them to this

"Our determination and high character gets us through our games," he said. "We changed our weight program up this season and it's reaped benefits for our kids. We've talked about getting through tough times and if they can get through that, they can get through anvthing.'

In the win over Wisner-Pilger, the Trojans and Gators played a fierce defensive-minded game that Wakefield was able to put away with the help of 6-of-8 free throw shooting in the final quarter. The Trojans led 25-20 at intermission, but Wisner-Pilger came back to close within two going to the final period. The free throws and key 3-pointers by Brown and Justin Erb helped the Trojans advance to Thursday's subdistrict final.

His Trojan teammates responded in the closing minutes, as Erb and Gabe Peitz both hit key shots down the stretch to move Wakefield into 8 the substate round as the C2-6 subdistrict champions.

"He's really become a leader for us the last few weeks," Wendte said of Brown. "You could see the confidence in his eyes and we really needed him against Howells. He's Peiper 11, Jackson 5, Kneifl 7, Heller been a real boost for us and has helped us out on both .

Brown scored a game-high 24 points before leaving the contest. 17 Erb had 13 points, Peitz added 10, Solmoon Peitz had seven and Godi- 7 nez put in three.

On Monday night, the Trojans looked to be heading for a blowout edge over South Loup.

South Loup didn't go down easy, however, as they were able to come back and get within six points going to the final period. The Trojan defense responded, limiting their opponents to just two baskets in the final period to finish off the win and punch their ticket to next week's state tournament in Lincoln.

a career-high 17 rebounds to lead Wayne State in a hard fought 86-77 win over Southwest Minnesota

Southwest Minnesota State led a majority of the first half, taking a 10-5 lead in the first 4:30 before Wayne State rallied with a 9-0 run for a short-lived 14-10 advantage at the 11:14 mark.

The Mustangs stormed back for a 24-19 lead and took their biggest lead of the night at 31-25 on a Taylor Schaefer jumper with 2:20 to play in the half.

Wayne State (19-7, 14-7 NSIC) then closed the half with the final nine points and used a Joseph jumper with six seconds left in the half to take a 34-31 lead at inter-

The Wildcats never relinquished the lead in the second half, but held off numerous charges by the Mustangs. They took their biggest lead of the night at 57-47 with 12:02 to play following a Vance Janssen layup, but Southwest scored eight straight and cut the lead to two at 57-55 and later got within one at 71-70 with 5:29 remaining following a Kenny Byers layup.

With Wayne State leading 76-74 with 2:02 to play, the Wildcats used a Kendall Jacks layup, a three-point play by Joseph and a pair of Jordan Janssen free throws to build a ninepoint lead and held on to that advantage for the win.

Four Wildcats hit double figures, led by Jordan Janssen's 18 points and career-high 17 boards for his eighth double-double of the season. Jacks finished with 17 points and needs just two points to surpass Brad Joens (1,556 points from 1997-2001) for fifth place in all-time scoring at Wayne State. Nick Ferrarini added 16 points with Joseph scoring 12.

Joseph, Mohr and Vance Janssen each had three assists while Jordan Janssen had four steals.

Wayne State will host University of Mary in the first round of the NSIC Tournament on Wednesday at 6 p.m. The winner advances to Sioux Falls for quarterfinal action Sunday, with the semifinals Monday and championship Tuesday at the Pentagon Arena.

the ball, you have to make a gamble and it's going to go one way or the other," Erwin said. "Ponca handled the ball good enough and worked it around, and that was tough for us."

Schutte led LCC with 19 points and 11 rebounds, Erwin had 10 points, Reifenrath had nine points and four assists, Hartung scored four and Haisch had three.

LCC reached the substate round as a wild card after finishing as runner-up in the C2-7 subdistrict at Wayne High School.

They opened tournament play with an easy 77-50 win over Crofton, riding the hot shooting of Schutte and Reifenrath, who scored 23 and 17 points, respectively.

Ty Erwin also hit for double figures with 13 points in the win, with Austin Hall, Cael Hartung and Haisch each adding eight points.

Schutte had a double-double in the win with 12 rebounds while Erwin had eight and Reifenrath grabbed seven. Reifenrath led the team in assists (8) and steals (6).

The subdistrict final with Ponca came down to the end, as Ponca hit a late jumper with :07 to go to come away with a 50-48 win.

It was a close game throughout, but LCC appeared to get control midway through the fourth with a 10-0 run that turned a five-point deficit into a 41-36 advantage. Schutte scored all 10 of the points in that key rally, including a pair of 3-pointers.

LCC had a chance to break the tie in the final minute, but a running jumper in the lane by Erwin rimmed in and out of the basket, and Ponca rebounded and held the ball for what wound up being the game-winning shot, as a desperation 30-footer by Reifenrath at the buzzer missed the mark.

Schutte had 22 points and 11 rebounds in the losing effort, while Reifenrath added 16 points and three steals. Erwin had four points and three assists, Hall had two points and nine rebounds and Hartung added a free throw.

34 years with the Darling Wife makes you wonder

By MIKE RENNING

mikesportshome@yahoo.com

February is always a month which finds me reflecting on years gone by.

Valentine's Day comes around in February and two days later has been the Darling Wife's Anniversary for the past 34 years.

We got married when I was 12, so I'm just coming into my own.

Oh, all right, I probably went too far there, but the other night, I was laying in bed and started to wonder – why is she still with me?

and we have four kids together – all of them both of ours – but in between? My goodness, she should have cut and run 33 years ago. We have broken more things, burned more bridges, started more fires, broken bones, earned concussions, been hospitalized, lost loved ones, wrecked cars...you get the idea. "We" would generally be the kids

I think we all fit in the category as our kids were growing up and as I was...well, older than them.

With our girls, Michala and Mikenzie, I taught Michala how to catch a fastball at the age of eight and Mikenzie how to ride a crib mattress down

We really had no trouble with the ride, it was the stopping at the bottom of the stairs which resulted in all the

We were both laughing when we stopped, but Mikenzie had a bit of a

Now, the boys, Max and Mason and I broke many things in the house and the yard – and the car and the van and the neighbors and... Like the time we were having a famly football game...in the living room.

The Darling Wife was off shopping somewhere – so it was up to me to enforce the rules of house-football.

There was no kicking of the ball, and I made a judgement in the game there could be throwing of the ball.

Michala and Mikenzie were one team, Mason and Max were another, and I was all-time quarterback.

I was throwing the ball to Mason to tie the score at 48-48 when Mikenzie tipped the ball.

It hit off Max's head and hit a snow globe on top of our console TV. The globe was a gift from the Darling Wife's sister, who had passed away and the globe broke.

The water from the globe trickled into the console TV and there ensued a lot of cracking, popping and smoke.

Letters Welcome

Not only did I lose a TV, the globebreakage was probably unforgivable, and Max and Mason lost the game.

We tumbled from the living room into the dining room where Max promptly deposited me on the dining room table – which broke.

Our jubilant fun and laughter comletely stopped as we wondered how we were going to explain the predicament to the Darling Wife/Mom.

On a side note, when Mason came for the $100, I just handed it over - I am not that stupid...at least not by the time he asked.

Capitol View

That green dream or whatever is...interesting

By J.L. SCHMIDT Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

Who knew that one of the loudest new voices in Congress - Rep. Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez, D-N.Y. - would come up with an idea that would impact Nebraska: The Beef State?

Her so-called Green New Deal is a resolution aimed at paving the way for what she and her supporters tout as a government overhaul of virtually every aspect of American life guaranteeing a host of taxpayer-covered benefits for all and a phase-out of Bear with me here, her office says the plan would aim to make air travel obsolete, upgrade or replace every building in America to ensure energy efficiency and give economic security even to those "unwilling" to work. Lofty goals, enough to make one smile about youthful enthusiasm, question intelligence and be thankful that these folks have to run for reelection every two years.

It's the "green" part that raises eyebrows. An FAQ accompanying the proposal notes that it has set a goal of net-zero, rather than zero, emissions in 10 years "because we aren't sure that we'll be able to get rid of farting cows and airplanes that fast." Take a minute to read that again. Now you'll understand Governor Pete Ricketts concern that Ocasio-Cortez is advocating abolishing cattle production.

"As the Governor of the Beef State, this announcement is shockingly ignorant," Ricketts said. "Congresswoman Ocasio-Cortez's plan to end cattle production would kill our state's number one industry, and destroy countless jobs and family businesses. I urge congressional leaders to kill this resolution swiftly and decisively to send a message to anti-agriculture socialists that we will fight for our way of life."

Resistance is not only coming from Republicans like Ricketts. Sen. Mazie Hirono, D-Hawaii, was asked about the plan to replace planes with high-speed rail, and did not seem impressed. "That would be pretty hard for Hawaii," she laughed.

www.paulfellcartoons.com

The non-binding resolution itself would do very little, but it's the first time the policy proposal has been formally outlined for Congress. It says "a new national social, industrial and economic mobilization on a scale not seen since World War II and the New Deal" is an opportunity to tackle systemic injustices toward minority groups, create millions of high-wage jobs and "provide unprecedented levels of prosperity and economic security for all people of the United

With promises of: net-zero greenhouse gas emissions; job creation; infrastructure investment; guarantees of clean water, healthy food and sustainable environment; and a curiously undefined "access to nature," one critic calls it a press release word salad of platitudes, slogans and talking points.

Ocasio-Cortez prefers to call it a comprehensive agenda of economic, social and racial justice in the United States of America. But there is not yet a package of implementable ideas or policy. In fact, some of the FAQ pages have already disappeared from her website and others have been revised. So, who really knows what, when or even if this will all be discussed.

House Speaker Nancy Pelosi said the proposal will "be one of several or maybe many suggestions that we receive. The green dream or whatever they call it, nobody knows what it is, but they're for it right?"

While admitting that she hadn't read it yet, she said she knows "it's enthusiastic and we welcome all the enthusiasm that is out there."

The major Democrat presidential contenders are on board. The Republican National Committee has labeled it as a dangerous socialist agenda.

I'm still thinking about the farting cows. My late father was a butcher and was always amused – maybe even a bit befuddled - by the animal rights activists who abhorred the slaughter of cattle. His favorite line was about the one who said we shouldn't kill cattle anymore because people should just go to the grocery store to get their meat.

Legislative Update

Bills discussed during legislative session

Presidents Day provides us with trict's social studies curriculum is today. America continues to be the best country in the world as we continue to fight for life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. I am thankful for the leaders that have fought for the freedoms and opportunities that make the United States, especially Nebraska, the best place to work, play, and raise a family.

This week we debated Sen. Julie Slama's (LD1) LB 399, Change the name and provisions related to the committee on Americanism, for the second time (a total of six hours of debate is allowed on each bill). LB 399, which I co-sponsored, change the name of the committee to the committee on American civics. The new committee would be required to hold at least two public meetings annually and ensure that the dis-the opportunity to honor and reflect accessible to the public. It also would on the founders and leaders that ensure that the district's curricumade our great country what it is lum aligns with state social studies standards and teaches and assesses foundational knowledge in civics, history, economics, financial literacy and geography. We also debated Senator Tom Brewer's (LD43) LB 575, Require school district policies regarding the provision of information to and access by military recruiters, which allows military recruits to visit high schools and speak with students about opportunities after graduation.

During debate, Senator Ernie Chambers (LD11) referred to the American flag as a "rag" and compared the flag to a swastika while harshly and unfairly criticizing our great county. Senator Chambers regularly criticizes our country and the brave men and women who fight for our freedoms (including the freedom of speech that he regularly enjoys), but his criticisms are ugly and inappropriate. His comments also outrageously minimize the horrors and millions of lives lost during the Holocaust and Second World War. Senator Brewer responded to Senator Chambers' comments during debate of LB 575, his words summarize my feelings perfectly:

"I think I speak for most of us that have worn the uniform, it rips our heart out to hear someone say that they refer to the flag as a rag because for those of us that have brought home those that we've lost it's hard to refer to the flag as a rag because you have to fold it and you have to give it to the parents -- that's awful hard to do."

I am so thankful for the sacrifices of men and women, like Senator Brewer, that have sacrificed so much to protect us and our country. I proudly stand to support our veterans and to honor our flag. God bless the men and women who have fought for our freedoms.

Although some of my colleagues have decided not to protect and support life by voting last year's Title X provisions out of the budget, President Trump's administration made a historic pro-life move this past week The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services followed Nebraska's lead by issuing a new rule that makes any health care clinic that performs or refers patients for abortions ineligible to receive federal Title X funding. Abortion is not a part of family planning; this rule will ensure that only clinics that provide family planning services receive federal funding. While this will not shut down or completely defund family planning clinics that perform or refer abortions, as clinics that offer abortion services can discontinue those services or separate them completely from their family planning services, this is a momentous step towards protecting the lives of the unborn. I proudly support the efforts of the Trump administration and Governor Pete Ricketts to keep Ne-

Waiting for spring

Despite the cold, snowy conditions on Feb. 24, hundreds of people attended this year's Winter-Spring Fest at the Wayne City Auditorium. Hosted by St. Mary's Catholic Church, the event included a roast beef and pork dinner, nearly 60 silent auction baskets and raffles for a number of items.

Mankind is created in the image of God

In Faith

Pastor, Calvary Bible Church

Genesis 1:26-27 declares that God created mankind in His image. The only creature in all of the universe to be created in God's image is mankind. In some way, humans are like God. We are not divine but we reflect God in some way. Theologians have attempted to determine exactly what that means. The image of God is one of the things that distinguishes us from the animals. We have a mind and an intellect. We are able to think, to reason, to learn and to create. The great advances in medicine and technology have come through the ingenuity of mankind.

In addition, humans have the ability to make conscious choices. Though animals can learn some things, they respond mostly by instinct. We all make choices every day of our lives. Most of these choices are due to our free will. Though mankind has a tendency toward evil, he still has the ability

God created mankind to bring Him glory but He gave us the ability to choose to worship and obey. God wanted willing worshippers. However, as a whole, mankind keeps inventing reasons to not listen to God and to try to demonstrate that we know more.

We have been created for relationship: with other humans and Though God is glorified through Creator of the universe.

Every person can be confident in their worth and value as an individual created in God's image. We can also be confident in our worth by the greatest expression of love ever demonstrated. Though we are image bearers of God, we are all sinful. When Adam and Eve sinned, they plunged the human race into a sinful state. Ever since that sin in the Garden, all people have a sinful nature. This nature leads us to sin and rebel against God. However, God was unwilling to just let us perish. He decided that Jesus would come to this earth and become a man so that He could pay the price for our sin. It was a price that no one could pay except by death and separation from God. Because Jesus bore our sins on the cross and rose again the third day, we can have forgiveness and freedom from sin through faith. We are saved by grace through faith in Jesus Christ. When a person accepts this gift of God's grace, then he or she is able to become all that God created them to be. Fallen image bearers can be restored to their original purpose through Jesus Christ.

This is a wonderful and encouraging truth. God has a purpose for each person that He has created. Sin hinders and prevents us from accomplishing that purpose. Yet, we can be redeemed and restored through faith in our Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ.

By Leslie Johnson, Haskell Ag Lab

learn there's more to raising crops than just planting and harvesting.

There's a lot of science, time input, profitable crop farmer.

Soil health not just a trending topic and decisions that go into being a (food) to grow the most grain pos- come when it is needed or when sible (highest yield). You do your you'll need to turn on the pivot. Fi-At the right time, you plant at best to control the weeds, which nally, fall comes and you're ready Talk to any farmer and you'll the perfect depth and population compete for nutrients and water to harvest. It's fulfilling to see the (the number of seeds per acre). You that the crop needs, and check for trucks and wagons fill up and you fertilize your field to make sure pests that can reduce yields. You the crops have enough nutrients worry about whether the rain will know that you've made it through this year.

But there's no rest for the farmer. Many times before harvest ever begins, a farmer is already thinking about next year. "How much fertilizer will I need? What variety of corn will I plant? What weeds are going to be a problem so I can figure out how to manage them?"

Many of us take the soil we stand on for granted, including myself. I mean, it's everywhere - especially on my carpet with two boys in my house. However, without soil, we can't grow crops. Farmers know that soil is a critical part of farming, and making sure that soil can continue to grow crops for many years to come is at the forefront of every farmer's mind - sometimes without even realizing it.

When you hear about programs focused on soil health you might wonder, "What in the world are they talking about? Dirt isn't alive." Well, it's true that the soil itself isn't living, but if you listen to scientists in the ag community, they talk about a soil solution. The soil solution includes not only the soil particles, but also water, air. and all of the organic matter and living organisms within the soil. Now that, is certainly living; it's a whole other world down there! Like we as humans live with water, air, and other animals above ground, so do the worms, insects and microorganisms below ground. It's that ecosystem that people are referring to when talking about soil health.

All of these living organisms contribute to growing a bumper crop. Worms and burrowing insects break down the organic matter (crop residues like leaves and stems) into smaller pieces and incorporate it into the soil. Their burrows also act as channels for water to flow into the soil rather than running off when it rains a lot. Bacteria and fungi help to degrade that organic matter even more so that the nutrients in the crop residue are in forms that are available for future crops to use as "food". All of these things impact the amount of water and nutrients the soil can hold and therefore how much plant life (crops) it can grow. I help lead a group of folks across 12 states in the North Central part Health Nexus. The Soil Health Nexus was initiated in 2015 and land-grant universities, SARE, InterTribal Ag Council, National Soil Health Partnership, and NRCS.

·Increase access to soil healthrelated research and educational programs, ·Increase critical soil health

The goals of the group are to:

knowledge and skills, Promote conservation system practices that enhance soil health and associated ecosystem services.

· Provide long-term organizational support for soil health research and education.

So when farmers go to workshops or study websites like http:// soilhealthnexus.org to learn more about soil health, they're looking for ways to help the organisms in the soil flourish with healthy populations, thus making their crops grow better, not just this year, but

Members of the Wayne FFA chapter celebrated FFA Week Feb. 18-22 with a variety of activities. Each school day had a "Dress Up" theme and on Feb. 21, an appreciation breakfast was held at the Wayne City Auditorium for all those who have supported the program. The week ended with a pep rally at the school on Feb. 22 involving the students and teachers.

Grateful for those who serve in all kinds of weather

Greetings from snow packed Lincoln! We got about six more inches on Saturday, with a wind, and they say more is coming; oh, happy day! We do have snow removal guys, but they are running out of places to put it!

On the news tonight, there was a list of the coldest months of February, and this one is only the twelfth. I can't believe it. The coldest was in 1936, so the winter must have mirrored the summer during the Depression. Next, were 1979 and 1978. I do remember working the evening shift the winter of '78 and picking up Kay, who was a baby, from Grandma Meierhenry, and driving north of Hoskins on what they called Old 35 between huge drifts on either side, and one lane only. I just hoped I did not meet anyone; chances were good that most people were snug in their beds by then. AND, no cell phones if I had any trouble.

I'm pretty sure between going back and forth to Norfolk to work for thirty years, plus, traveling all over northeastern Nebraska in home health care and hospice, my personal Guardian Angel must be exhausted. And I did not give her any rest when I began work in southeastern Nebraska. I bet she thinks the jaunts here to the grocery store, or the drug store, are a piece of cake. Actually, with all the snow packed streets, it's also

I just talked to my friend in Waco. You may have heard that their volunteer fire department went out to the Interstate last Saturday afternoon to assist the York EMS folks and four of them were just getting out of the ambulance when a semi hit them! Those four were injured, and one, a gal, is still in the hospital. That is just the worst luck! One ambulance is done for; the other one can probably be repaired; both were the latest acquisitions.

You've heard me before, extolling the folks who volunteer for this kind of stuff! Would you be willing to leave a warm house, get into all kinds of gear, and drive a rig in a blizzard to give a hand to people who risked going out in it? Part of me says if you are dumb enough to think you have to drive in that, you should have to suffer the consequences. But that is not the way it works, is it?

Thank goodness for people who simply want to be able to help their community. Again I say, when you see a volunteer fire/ rescue squad person, thank them! And may God bless them and keep them safe.

called AgriSync. Very simply explained, AgriSync is an app for a Smart Phone that lets us serve you in a few different ways remotely. Let's say that you called one of our equipment technicians because you were having trouble getting a guidance line to load up properly on your display. Now, usually, you would call in, and we would try to decipher what page you were on, what you were seeing, and talk you through the problem while you pressed buttons. The problem with this is that sometimes the party on either end doesn't communicate exactly what they see or need, so it can take several minutes to get through the problem. With our app, we can stay connected to you on the phone, but also start a one-way video call with you. You answer the call on your end, and we can see the outward facing camera on your phone. So instead of describing what you see, we see the same thing and have you up and going in a few seconds.

You and I both know that you are going to need somebody to come out for a service call, so how would AgriSync help in this instance. By making that call with your AgriSync app, our technician can see the harness, and know if they need to plan on fixing it, or bringing a new harness out of inventory. Having the right part when they arrive can easily save you a couple of hours or more of downtime, when downtime is unacceptable.

Advice offered for grain bin safety

After extended rains last fall, corn and soybeans may have been stored at a higher moisture content than usual. This moisture, along with the resulting molds, can lead to grain and particularly soybeans going out of condition and clogging or crusting in the bin. It may be tempting to enter the bin to break the crust and facilitate grain movement, but it is unsafe and can be life-threatening.

On Feb. 9, a Nebraska City farmer and another man were loading out soybeans from a farm near Unadilla. When the flow of beans to the auger stopped, the farmer entered the grain bin to loosen the bridged beans. Unfortunately, he became entrapped in the grain and when he didn't respond to calls from outside the bin, rescue workers from three towns were called. They cut into the bin perimeter to empty the grain, but unfortunately, it was too late to save the farmer's life.

In less than a minute of becoming entrapped, a person can become engulfed in grain and suffocate. When you are trapped by grain and exhale to breathe, the grain flows into the space created by the movement of your chest, placing pressure on your chest and reducing the space that your lungs have to expand during your next inhalation. Each time you exhale a breath, the space around vour chest decreases.

Keeping grain in good condition is one of the first and most important steps in grain bin safety. Storing wet grain, as was the case for many last fall, can lead to molds and clogs. Also, with fluctuating cold and then warm temperatures, grain freezes and thaws. As the grain cools, condensation builds up and as it freezes, the ice can create bridges or clogs that will interfere with grain flow from the bin.

Farmers and farm workers are encouraged to never enter a bin without a safety plan, including always having someone outside the bin to monitor their safety. There are four scenarios that can cause grain entrapment:

Flowing grain. As an augur ter column of grain that can quickly pull down someone working on top safe. Whenever possible use inspection holes and grain bin level markof the grain to loosen it. Always have someone close monitoring the ers rather than entering the bin. If bin while you work, stay in commuyou have to enter the bin: nication with them, and establish emergency hand signals to commulifeline that is securely attached to nicate over equipment noise.

Grain bridge collapse. Out-ofcondition grain can crust over, and as grain shifts at the bottom of the bin, large air pockets can form underneath the bridge. While it can be tempting to break a bridge by tapping on it, when it gives way, your weight can quickly swift, causing you to fall into the space and be covered by grain. When possible, use a long rod from outside the bin to prod the crusted grain.

Grain wall avalanche. Frozen or out-of-condition grain can cling to the bin's sidewalls and when prodded, flow to the bin floor. Don't underestimate the amount of grain involved and don't work where the grain wall is higher than you are. Wear a safety harness.

Use of a grain vacuum. These tools can move several thousand bushels of grain in an hour. If a hose is dropped and becomes buried, flowing grain can shift and the surface can become unstable. You could be pulled under and carried toward the auger outlet.

Understand the hazards on your farm, think through the possible scenarios of what could happen, moves grain out from the bottom of plan how to avoid them and, if necessary, how to respond. Don't take shortcuts when working in enclosed spaces with grain. Take time to stay

What kills trees?

Nebraska Extension Horticulture Assistant Educator

Trees in native undisturbed sites live, on average, to be about 150 years old. Downtown trees have a life expectancy of 7-17 years; suburban trees 30-40 years; and rural trees 60-

Why is there such a difference in life expectancy between trees in native sites than those in disturbed sites? Certainly there are acute factors, like hail, herbicide drift and insect infestations that can kill trees but the chronic issues overwhelmingly pre-dispose trees to shortened lifespans.

While difficult to see, pre-disposing effects are basically unhealthy environments. This leads to unhappy trees with dysfunctional roots. Some common pre-disposing factors in-

· Trees are planted too deep;

- · Grade changes around existing trees;
- · Soil compaction;
- Trees are overwatered;
- Exposure to long term drought; ·Live in confined root spaces;
- · Have girdling roots;
- ·Are not winter hardy;
- · Are not adapted to growing in soils with a high pH.

Most of us do not recognize a tree in decline until 12-20 years after the tree has been planted. Amazingly enough, unhappy trees will grow but lack the energy to really thrive. Too often, this means conditions are not reversible and the problem cannot be remedied. What tree owners do notice are acute conditions—leaf scorch, chlorosis, early leaf shed, smaller leaves and reduced tree stability—symptomatic of the larger problem of unhappy trees with dysfunctional roots. Trees have a limited ability to adapt to adverse growing conditions. Those living in adverse conditions are subject to a decline spiral, succumbing to short term "problems" that healthy trees growing in good environments can readily withstand. If we select, plant, and manage trees with the intention that they not only survive but thrive, many tree problems are preventable, resulting in longer lived trees. Check out Cornell's Woody Plant Database to search for trees and shrubs suited to specific conditions: http://woodyplants.cals.cornell.edu/home.
