Wayne County gets creative mapping flood damage, observes Severe Weather Week

Despite the recent bout of extreme, severe weather, the state of Nebraska is observing Severe Weather Awareness Week to encourage the public to stay ready in case of weather emergencies. The National Weather Service has a dedicated page, weather.gov/safety/, to inform the public of storm terminology and information.

Severe weather alerts

In Wayne County, something as simple as sending a text message can keep members of the public informed about emergencies and weather concerns. Wayne County uses CivicReady, an alert service that sends out weather alerts and emergency alerts to those who have signed up.

Signing up can be as simple as texting the words "Join Wayne" to 30890.

"With the text sign up you're going to get emergency alerts, tornado warnings and severe thunderstorm warnings," Wayne County emergency manager Nic Kemnitz said.

While texting to sign up gives users the basic alerts, the public can go to [\[tyme.org/237/CivicReady\]\(http://tyme.org/237/CivicReady\) to sign up for text and/or call alerts for the cities of Wayne and Wakefield, the villages of Carroll, Hoskins, Sholes and Winside as well as county-wide alerts. When signing up online, users can also get alerts for severe thunderstorm and tornado watches; winter storm, tornado, severe thunderstorm, flooding, flash flooding and blizzard warning as well as red flag fire warnings and emergency messages.](http://waynecoun-<div data-bbox=)

Kemnitz said implementing the Civic Ready service came about after Wayne experienced a severe weather event.

"A lot of it came from the Wayne tornado," Kemnitz said. "All they (the public) could hear were the sirens coming and going and then the people started to congregate around the perimeter of Great Dane because the people didn't know what was going on."

Kemnitz said it's now easier for his department or dispatch to send out an alert to warn the public of upcoming weather or to alert them to things like road closures or downed power lines.

In recognition of Severe Weather Awareness Week, Kemnitz encouraged the public to always be aware of their surroundings and be cognizant of weather forecasts. He also said being prepared is important.

"FEMA used to say be prepared to be on your own for 72 hours, now that's been updated to 96," Kemnitz said. "If the power is out or you can't get out, you need to have enough basic supplies to get by for a few days."

Flood mapping

Kemnitz and Wayne County road crews have been working hard since the flooding earlier in the month. After photographing and marking flood damage, Wayne County has debuted an interactive map which can be found at the GIS site wayne.gworks.com. Kemnitz is encouraging those interested in seeing flood damage to visit the website instead of venturing out themselves.

"Don't drive around the barricades or drive down roads that are tore up or washed out if you want to see how the damage is, go to the site," Kemnitz said.

When visitors go to the website, select the "Emergency" tab at the top of the page to load the map. Next, select the "Identify" tool (an encircled 'i'). The map will show dots that are either red, signifying a road is closed; green, signifying a road has been repaired; or yellow, signifying a road is open but rough.

When a user clicks on a dot, a pop up will appear on the right side of the page with a geographical list of dots. Clicking on individual entries on that pop up will bring up information and a photo of the road. Clicking on the photo will enlarge it.

"A lot of counties have this mapping program for the assessor, but as far as I know, we're the first county to attempt this," Kemnitz said. "Even the GIS people hadn't done this before."

He said because this application of the GIS site hasn't been used before, there are still a few glitches, but the maps are still the best way for the public to survey damage. Road crews will update daily with road repairs or newly found damage.

At waynecountyne.org, there is also a link to a wealth of flood resources and information including phone numbers for flood recovery assistance and public health information.

WayneAmerica.com's flood relief t-shirt and supply drive has reached 40 percent of its 5,000-shirt goal. WayneAmerica.com publisher Mike Carnes said he's collected over 2,000 shirts so far. On March 26, volunteers at the Wayne Eagles Club and Journey Christian Church began the sorting process. Shirts and cleaning supplies collected will go to flooding victims. Donations can be dropped off at Main Street Garage, Journey Christian Church, Viera, Quality Foods, Pac N Save and Magnuson Hopkins Eye Care in Wayne. Above, tables quickly filled up with sorted shirts at the Wayne Eagles Club, sorted and folded by several volunteers, like those below.

Severe Weather Terminology

Severe Thunderstorm A thunderstorm is severe when it produces: <ul style="list-style-type: none">✓ Quarter size hail (1") or larger✓ Winds at least 58 MPH✓ A tornado	Tornado A violently rotating column of air extending from a cloud and is in contact with the ground. Be cautious! It may not be visible until it has picked up enough dirt and debris.
Flash Flood A rapid rise in water that occurs with little or no advanced warning. Usually the result of intense rain over a short time. Can also be caused by dam or levee failures and ice jams.	Funnel Cloud A funnel shaped cloud extending from a cloud. Is associated with a violently rotating column of air extending from a convective cloud that is not in contact with the ground.

Scott Bonsall (in back) works with Hader rescue personnel to treat a "patient" in UNMC's SIM-NE truck during a joint training session in Winside this week.

SIM-NE brings training to Winside

The SIM-NE (Simulation in Motion-Nebraska) truck traveled to Winside on March 26 to provide training to local EMTs and rescue personnel.

Rescue personnel from Winside, Carroll and Hader took turns dealing with a 'patient' in the truck during a series of simulated medical emergencies.

The 44-foot truck is a state-wide, mobile education system that brings state-of-the-art, hands-on training to healthcare professionals in rural and frontier counties in Nebraska. It is coordinated through the University of Nebraska Medical Center.

At Monday's training, attendees had the opportunity to work with the simulation equipment in both an emergency room and ambulance module.

The simulators inside the truck are able to talk, breathe and bleed. The simulated patient's condition changes according to the treatment it receives.

Participants use real medical and rescue equipment that rural providers would use. There are four mobile units located across the state - in Norfolk, Lincoln, Kearney and Scottsbluff. These SIM-NE units provide standardized, high quality training to ensure consistent outcomes to rural EMS agencies and critical access hospital emergency rooms.

According to information provided by the University of Nebraska Medical Center, "SIM-NE is a partnership of educational institutions, academic departments representing a number of disciplines, charitable organizations and public agencies that are dedicated to improving the health and well-being of Nebraskans."

SIM-NE was initially funded with a $5.5 million grant from the Leona M. and Harry B. Helmsley Charitable Trust. The funding supported four SIM trucks, equipment, patient simulators, supplies and operational expenses for the first three years, allowing training to be at no cost for EMS providers.

Wayne State College adds Criminal Justice option

Wayne State College recently added a criminal justice option to its nationally recognized master of science in organizational management program. The criminal justice administration and management focus area is open for admissions and will begin its first classes in the fall 2019 semester.

The program is fully online and requires just 36 credit hours to complete. Wayne State's online graduate tuition is among the most affordable in the state.

"Criminal Justice is a growing field and with a master's in criminal justice administration and management, professionals in this field will be in high demand," Dr. Tammy Evetovich, dean of the School of Natural and Social Sciences said. "We have exceptional full-time faculty ready to offer courses in this new program who will work with all types of students to help them reach their goals and advance in their careers."

The specialization is structured to prepare students for leadership and professional positions in the criminal justice field. For those who want to move into command positions, where leadership and management skills are in high demand, criminal justice professionals with a master's in criminal justice administration and management will be needed in many sectors of society.

"Earning a master's degree in criminal justice positions you to work in the private sector, allows current employees to be a more competitive applicant for career advancement, and so much more" Dr. Lisa Wanek, assistant professor of criminal justice said. "Wayne State's Criminal Justice Department is ready to help you achieve your career goals with our new MSOM CJ Program. Students can earn their master's degree online with 24/7 access to courses that fit their schedule with some of the lowest online tuition rates in Nebraska."

Based on information from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, most jobs in management are typically found in emergency management, university campuses, environmental protection, or in federal agencies such as the Department of Homeland Security. Because this degree is so broad it can be applied to a number of positions within these sectors, from an air marshal or policy analyst to a corporate security officer or an emergency management director. Other jobs may be correctional officer supervisor, police and detective supervisor, criminologist, and security management.

More than 1,000 students take part in 35th Northeast scholastic contest and quiz bowl

Wayne Community Schools won the 2019 Class C High School Scholastic Contest hosted by Northeast Community College on Wednesday in Norfolk. Wakefield Community School was second and Cedar Catholic High School in Hartington placed third.

In the Class D contest, Wausa Public School claimed first-place honors. Howells-Dodge Consolidated Schools was second followed by a tie for third between Plainview High School and Rock County High School.

Over 1,100 students from 48 Class C and Class D schools participated in the scholastic contest and a quiz bowl competition. The quiz bowl was won by Oakland-Craig, with Lutheran High Northeast taking runner-up honors.

During the Scholastic Contest, students were tested on subjects such as accounting I and II, administrative professional, agri-science, algebra I and II, American government and history, technical mathematics, art history, auto body and frame dimension diagnosis (written and lab), automotive technology (written and lab), basic construction (written and lab), biology, business English, business law, calculus, chemistry, computer literacy, drafting and English composition. Other tests included foods and nutrition, general science, geography, geometry, library usage, literature, medical terminology, music, parenting/child development, personal finance, physics, health, wellness, sports and physical education, psychology, public speaking, small engines, Spanish, trigonometry, vocabulary, welding and world history.

Individual student medals were awarded for first, second, and third place in each test, in each class. Team plaques were awarded to schools receiving the most points in Class C and D. Championship and runner-up plaques were awarded for the Quiz Bowl with members of the championship team receiving individual medals.

Each first-place championship school from Class C and D was awarded a $1,000 scholarship from the Northeast Community College Foundation. The scholarship is to be presented to a student from the winning schools who participated in the 2019 Scholastic Contest, will graduate this spring and will register as a full-time student at Northeast for the 2019-2020 academic year. In addition, Northeast will award tuition waivers of $1,000 each to 24 seniors (12 in each class) who earned first place on their exams. Winners will be determined based on the highest percentage earned on the respective exam.

Lyle Kathol, vice president of educational services, said on going flooding and subsequent damage in the region prevented some schools from participating this year.

"Even though we had eight schools unable to take part due to road and travel restrictions, the schools participating expressed appreciation to have an opportunity for their students to compete in an academic activity. If the additional schools participated, our totals would have been over 1,300 individual students.

Kathol said the event requires extensive coordination by all divisions of the college in order for it to run smoothly.

"I would like to express my thanks to all of our faculty, staff and students who had a part in making this such a great event for future Northeast students. I want to especially thank our faculty for updating exams and serving as exam proctors during a regular teaching day. And a special appreciation goes out to the staff who performed behind the scenes work to make this event a huge success."

Wildcats go 1-2 in Emporia Classic

The Wayne State softball team split their first two games Thursday in the Emporia State Softball Classic and went 1-2 for the weekend.

In the first game, Makenna Adkison fired a complete-game four-hit shutout and senior second baseman Abbie Hix drove in all five runs in a 5-0 win over Washburn. The Wildcats scored twice in the second inning as Hix laced a two-run single up the middle that scored Kamryn Sparks and Ashley Hernandez. They extended the lead to 3-0 in the fourth when Hix was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded, scoring Sparks. Wayne State closed out the scoring with two runs in the sixth as Hix singled to left field, bringing home Raquell Penke and Hernandez.

Hix and Hernandez each had two hits to lead a six-hit attack. Hix had five RBI while Hernandez had two doubles and scored twice. Sparks doubled and Penke singled for the other Wayne State hits.

Adkison fired a four-hit shutout in the circle for the win, her third complete game of the season and second shutout. She allowed four walks and struck out two.

In the second game, errors cost the Wildcats in a 10-5 loss to host Emporia State.

Wayne State scored five runs in the second inning to take the early advantage. Hix continued her hot hitting with a two-run homer, and Emily Chandler doubled and scored on a Baylee Rial single to make it 3-0. Annie Grammer walked and scored on a Kortney Buresh single, and Rial scored on a bases-loaded walk by Sparks to make it 5-0.

Emporia State responded with four runs in the third, helped out by two Wayne State errors, then tied the game in the third before scoring four in the fifth on one hit and two more Wildcat miscues. They added another run in the sixth to close out the win.

Hix led a seven-hit effort with two hits and two RBI's, while Chandler had two hits, including a double. Ruresh, Rial and Morgan Vasa also had hits.

Adkison took the loss in relief of Maddie Moser, giving up five Wayne State threatened to score in the fifth inning as Grammer tripled with one out, but was left stranded at third base.

The Wildcats mounted another scoring threat in the seventh as pinch-hitters Michaela Smith and Kamryn Sparks opened the inning with singles. A Kim Vidlak fielder's choice moved runners to second and third with two outs, but the Riverhawks got Kortney Buresh to ground out to end the game.

Northeastern State held a 5-4 advantage in hits over the Wildcats. Grammer tripled for the lone extra base hit for Wayne State while Smith, Sparks and Chandler each singled.

Vanderveen suffered the pitching loss, charged with two runs on three hits over 3 1/3 innings with four walks and no strikeouts. Adkison worked the final 2 2/3 innings with scoreless relief, giving up just two hits with one strikeout.

Freshman starters Ryan Obrecht and Cade Herrmann couldn't be touched by Bemidji State as the Wayne State baseball team posted a 5-2, 6-0 doubleheader sweep over the Beavers Friday.

In the opener, Obrecht fired 6 2/3 innings of scoreless ball to carry the Wildcats to the win.

The Wildcats built an early 4-0 advantage, using a Beaver error to score a run in the first and adding three more in the second, highlighted by a Brendan Madsen double and a two-run homer by Logelin.

Wayne State added another run in the fourth on an RBI single by Bisenius, then put up one more in the eighth when Lorenzini doubled and came home on a double play.

Madsen led Wayne State's nine-hit attack with two hits, an RBI and a run scored. Miller also had two hits and Lorenzini scored three runs.

Herrmann earned the win, working five innings and allowing just two hits with four strikeouts and two walks. Relievers Grant Carl, Mitch Gullikson, Aaron Ras and Josh Renken each worked an inning and the Wildcat defense was solid with three double plays turned in the contest.

The Wayne State baseball team made it a perfect weekend, following up Friday's doubleheader sweep of Bemidji State with a sweep of Minnesota Duluth in a three-game weekend set.

On Saturday, Wayne State's top four batters recorded 13 of the team's 15 hits on the day to lead the Wildcats in a 8-3 and 2-1 sweep over the Bulldogs.

The first game saw Alex Logelin and Kyle Thompson combine for five hits, three RBI and four runs scored to power the Wildcats.

Wayne State struck early with two runs in the first and three more in the second for a 5-0 lead to set the tone in the opener. Logelin and Thompson each doubled in the first with Andrew Hanson adding an RBI single.

In the second, Brendan Madsen doubled and scored on a Duluth throwing error after stealing third. Logelin doubled down the left field line on a 13-pitch at bat and scored on Thompson's RBI single up the middle with Thompson later scoring on a throwing error from a failed pickoff attempt.

The Bulldogs got on the board with a single run in the third along with two in the fifth, but Wayne State scored single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings to put the game out of reach.

In the fourth, Madsen walked and scored on a Bryce Bisenius single. The fifth inning run was a result of Andrew Hanson reaching on an error and scoring on a bases-loaded hit batter with the run in the sixth coming on a bases-loaded walk to Jake Lorenzini that scored pinch runner Colin Chick.

The Wildcats had nine hits in the win, led by Thompson going 3-for-4 with two RBI and two runs scored. Logelin was 2-for-2 with a pair of doubles and two runs scored while Madsen also doubled. Aidan Breedlove (4-2) fired five strong innings to earn the win, fanning five batters while allowing five hits and three runs.

All the scoring was done in the first two innings of the nightcap as the Wildcats held on for the twin-bill sweep.

Both teams scored in the first, with Wayne State producing the game's final run in the bottom of the second. Logelin doubled in the first and scored on Thompson's RBI single to left field, while Garrett Graveline walked and scored on Madsen's RBI single in the second.

Minnesota Duluth had two innings when they left multiple runners stranded, and starter Hunter Wienhoff got out of the jams in the sixth and seventh innings.

Bisenius led a six-hit effort, going 2-for-4 with a pair of singles while Logelin had the game's lone extra base hit, a double. Madsen, Thompson and CJ Neumann each singled. Wienhoff worked seven long innings to notch the win, throwing 139 pitches. He gave up four hits and one run while walking six and striking out seven. Aaron Ras worked a perfect inning of relief and Charles Hasty pitched the ninth to earn his third save, striking out two and walking one batter.

On Sunday, Wayne State provided late-game drama to finish off the three-game sweep of the Bulldogs, using three ninth-inning walks to post a 4-3 win.

The Bulldogs took a 2-0 lead in the top of the third as they finally found some success against Lawson Zenner. With runners on second and third with an out, Tyler Wojciechowski found a gap to left field for a two-RBI single.

The Wildcats matched Minnesota Duluth in the bottom of the inning, grabbing two runs back to even the score. A stolen base from Brendan Madsen and two balks sent the junior home before an Andrew Hanson double brought Kyle Thompson around to send the game to 2-2 into the top of the fourth.

After Lawson Zenner's fifth strikeout of the afternoon in the top of the fifth, the Bulldogs rallied for three straight singles to grab another run and go on top 3-2.

Wayne State again matched scores with Minnesota Duluth to bring the score to 3-3. Alex Logelin's singled, moved to second on a wild pitch and moved to third on an error, setting up Thompson, who singled to right to tie the game.

Andrew Staebell pitched three innings of relief before Ras came on in the ninth and kept the game tied, setting up the Wildcats' ninth-inning heroics.

The Wildcat offense moved Lorenzini, who doubled to start the rally, to third on a sacrifice bunt, forcing the Bulldogs into two straight intentional walks to load the bases. Bisenius stepped up to the plate, forcing a five-pitch walk to end the game and complete the series sweep over the Bulldogs.

Hanson led the Wildcats offensively, going 3-for-4 with two doubles and an RBI. Thompson also added an RBI on 2-for-3 hitting, while Bisenius earned an RBI on his ninth-inning walk.

Ras was credited with the win, moving his record to 2-1 on the season.

Northeast falls in doubleheader action against Highway 81 rival

COLUMBUS, Neb. — After sweeping its in-state rival less than 24 hours ago, the Northeast Community College softball team found itself on the losing end on Friday night, falling to Central Community College 13-12 and 13-8 in Columbus, Neb.

A seven-run fifth inning seemed to seal the deal for the Hawks (2-12), but the Raiders added a run in the sixth and two more in the bottom of the eighth to walk-off Northeast in extra innings.

Rosario Garcia (Northglenn, Colo.) was 2-for-4 at the plate, with five RBI, two runs, a walk and a home run. Madison McKewon (Springfield, Neb.) went 2-for-4 with three runs, a double, a stolen base and a walk.

Freshman Lindsey Anderson (Dunlap, Iowa) was saddled with the loss, tossing five innings, allowing five earned runs off 12 hits.

The Hawks exploded for a four-run first inning, but the Raiders quickly responded with six runs in the bottom of the second. Northeast was unable to muster any offense in the latter innings as CCC pushed across a combined six runs in the bottom of the fourth and fifth innings. The game was ultimately shortened due to darkness.

Sydney Kelley (Omaha, Neb.) went 3-for-4 at the plate, adding three runs, two doubles and a stolen base. Garcia added a double and four RBI.

McKewon took the loss, throwing five innings, allowing seven earned runs off 14 hits.

The Hawks square off with Iowa Western Community College in a doubleheader beginning at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Hawks split with NIACC in Yankton

YANKTON, S.D. — The Northeast Community College baseball team opened its conference portion of the 2019 season on Monday, taking the final game of the day 7-4 against North Iowa Area Community College, after dropping the first game of the doubleheader 4-0 at Bob Tereshinski Field in Yankton, S.D.

NIACC kept the Hawks' bats quiet, allowing just one hit throughout the seven-inning affair. Jackson Tingwald (Ralston, Neb.) picked up the lone hit for the Hawks (8-6, 1-1 ICCAC). Justin Hilton (Lincoln, Neb.) took the loss on the mound, tossing seven innings, allowing three earned runs off four hits, while walking four and striking out four batters.

The final game of the day was a different story for Northeast.

NIACC cruised to a 3-1 lead after three innings, but the Hawks wouldn't go down without a fight, putting up a four spot in the bottom of the fourth. The Hawks added two insurance runs in the bottom of the eighth.

Shortstop Derek Botaletto (Omaha, Neb.) went 2-for-3 at the plate, adding two runs, a double, an RBI and a walk. Mills Macek (Blair, Neb.) was 1-for-3 with two RBI, while Tanner Hunt (Elkhorn, Neb.) and Drew Smith (Elkhorn, Neb.) both went 1-for-1 with four walks.

Andrew Altstadt (Columbus, Neb.) picked up his first win, tossing one and one-third innings, allowing two hits and striking out two. Lane Koetter (Grand Junction, Colo.) had another dominant performance on the mound, throwing four innings in relief, allowing just two hits, while walking two and striking out four.

The Hawks return to action tomorrow at 11 a.m. for another doubleheader against NIACC in Yankton.

March Community Club Meeting Minutes
The Allen Community Club met March 18. Vice-president Sharon Puckett called the meeting to order. The secretary and treasurer's reports were read and approved. There was no old business. Several items of new business were discussed. The annual Easter Egg Hunt will be at 10 Saturday, April 20 in the park or firehall if inclement weather. Community clean-up day will be May 8. Volunteers with or without pickups and trailers are to meet at 12:30 at the school parking lot on May 8.
Townpeople are asked to have their garbage at the curbside that day as no one will be allowed to go inside homes to carry out items.

In an effort to help facilitate the process it is requested that no weekly garbage be on the curbside (let the maintenance men pick that up on their weekly Thursday or Friday pickup day). Make separate piles of twigs and branches. Make separate piles of metal items, and if possible, take items and leave by the dumpster across from the firehall the day before. Elementary students and non-track high school students will be picking up trash in public places in town. Flowers in the planters on main street and at the gazebo area will be planted later in the spring.
On June 8, we will be observing Allen Day in conjunction with the Lov-a-Lop Swap Meet and alumni reunion activity. The Allen Community Club will sponsor the annual garage sale day. Anyone wishing to have a garage sale should contact Marcia Rastede at 635-2214 to be included in the listing and map.
The graduating classes of 1968 and 1969 will be honored and the alumni and friends are invited to the catered meal starting at 5. Reservations aren't necessary for Saturday evening. Any group wishing to sponsor any other activity should contact Kathy Boswell at 635-2289.

With summer and parades approaching, anyone willing to drive a vehicle in neighboring town's parades should contact Marcia Rastede 635-2214. Meeting adjourned.

Safe driving encouraged

Turn Around; Don't Drown. We read those words on highway signs, in advertisements, on social media, and in newspapers and magazines; yet the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention report that more than half of all flood-related drownings occur when a vehicle is driven into flood waters. Second highest percentage of deaths is from walking in or near flood waters.

Although floodwaters are beginning to recede in many areas, dangerous driving conditions will continue for some time.

Driving through floodwaters isn't the only danger.

With many of Nebraska's highways closed as a result of flooding, motorists are reminded to remain cautious on marked detour routes as additional traffic will be traveling in new patterns for the foreseeable future. Unfamiliar routes and increased traffic require patience and awareness to keep all travelers safe.

Plan ahead and check www.511.nebraska.gov for updates on conditions and closures. For those traveling in neighboring Iowa, check <http://511ia.org/>.

As always, motorists are reminded to make sure everyone in their vehicle wears a seat belt and children are in an approved car safety seat.

In agriculture news: Livestock producers do not need to wait for FEMA approval prior to disposal of dead animals. Producers are advised to take photos and keep detailed records of the animals they dispose of. For further information on animal disposal, refer to the disposal of animal carcasses guidance at <http://deq.ne.gov/Publications/Pages/06-201> and call the Department of Agriculture at 1-800-831-0550.

The long cord — evolution of the phone

By MIKE RENNING
mikesportshome@yahoo.com

Recently, I remember when I was younger, and I was so impressed when my parents got a longer cord on our phone in the kitchen to give mobility when you talked to a "certain someone" or a Grandpa or Grandma you were going to converse with for more than five minutes.

I could go back in the laundry room or behind the refrigerator to keep my parents from hearing exactly what I was planning.

We complain, or at least I do, about how the current generation of my children and now my Grandchildren are constantly on the phone.

Well, we did it to ourselves. For one thing, we had kids who are evidently much smarter than I am — I just needed a longer cord.

They needed a whole new media to assure they are/were safe from censorship from the parental guidance they desperately wanted to avoid.

Even with the longer cord at my house as a teenager, we still had two phones and you never were certain when my Mom or Dad would pick up the other phone.

My Mother was very adept at picking it up undetected — she would notify my Dad — and as the joke goes — that's when the trouble started.

When my kids were younger, we all had to have a computer at home. Then we all had to get the internet at home.

Remember the old dial-up internet?

When school got out in the afternoon and through the evening, there were times you couldn't get on the internet at my house.

And, at the time, I really didn't want to or need to, but the Darling understood it was a way to keep track of our kids.

I was the iron hand of justice at our house, I didn't need any devices to control my kids.

If you're all done snickering, I think we know who the parent was at our house.

Anyway, we evolved into MSN, where my kids chatted with other kids online on the computer, went on to Facebook, graduated to Snapchat, Instagram and Twitter — the last four items were available on a phone.

Remember in the fledgling stages of MSN, "POS" meant "parent looking over shoulder"?

I have recently called a car a "POS" or a situation a "POS", but that's an entirely different acronym.

Instant gratification with no parental involvement.

None of the billionaires involved with any of those media outlets want you to know what they have done to parenting, but they want you to know how immediate they are and how popular they are.

They are popular, they are immediate, but are they good for me? I don't think so.

Now, I like some Facebook to reconnect with friends, I tolerate Twitter for its immediacy when I'm covering a game — oh, I really don't. Wait to read it in the paper.

The other stuff is just a way to get a longer cord.

I may be a dinosaur and I hope I am, but technology has set us forward...and back.

My Granddaughters, Lily and Sophia always want to watch videos on my phone.

That's all well and good, but they could be talking to Papa and learning some of the infinite wisdom I have to offer about life, boys and, well, Papa.

All right, stop the snickering again.

Our Grandson Hogan is in the months for calculating his life, so he just wants to chew on a phone.

They'll have to turn 25 before they realize how special I am and I'm not sure I'll make it — I'm already, well, quite a bit.

I'm not doing this scribbling for sympathy, I'm doing it for reality.

We need to remind our kids and teach our Grandkids to spend some time just talking to each other.

Don't text me, don't message me, don't "hit me up" on Facebook, Instagram or Twitter.

Call me, or come see me.

Good heavens, I can talk from anywhere and you don't even need a longer cord.

Nebraska Strong! Here's another challenge

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Blizzards on one end of the state, floods on the other. Nebraska, now more than ever, it's not for everyone!

Nebraska has 79,056 miles of rivers, more than any other state, and it seems like every one of them flooded. Disasters have been declared in 80 percent of the state and thousands of Nebraskans were forced to find high ground with friends, relatives or in shelters.

On March 12, Governor Pete Ricketts declared a state of emergency to deal with two very different, yet equally devastating weather disasters. All hell was yet to break loose, but it did a few days later. A week later Vice President Mike Pence visited Nebraska, one of those mostly square states out west, to view the damage.

What he found is Nebraska Strong. If you must ask: we do it on our own, without fanfare; we don't draw attention from the national media; we are a flyover state and we accept that, maybe even embrace it.

Ricketts spent several days before Pence's arrival touring flooded areas, viewing the devastation from the air and meeting with concerned officials and applauding volunteers on the ground. He did his best to expedite the federal disaster aid paperwork required by the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

"We are going to be far over what we need to be to declare that. We've got bridges out and levies broken, lots of roads, utilities, everything," said Ricketts.

But, he added, it's Nebraskan optimism that's truly helping everyone get through this tragedy.

"The spirit of Nebraska, there have been so many people impacted and they just have a spirit of how they're going to get through this."

Touring flood damage is somewhere in the When You Become Governor handbook. It's also a given that reporters will accompany the governor at some point, usually as a pool reporter tasked with sharing information with the rest of the media.

Legislative Update

Flooding, legislative business continues

On Friday, March 22, I had the opportunity to meet with the emergency managers and communities leaders of Dakota, Thurston, and Wayne Counties. We are so lucky in District 17 to have amazing leaders, law enforcement, and first responders that worked with the community to address the damage from the recent floods. The emergency managers of each county deserve special recognition for all the hard work they have done. Deanna

I did such a trip with then-Governor Kay Orr in a military helicopter years ago. It's not glamorous work, but necessary.

Some years earlier I flew in a fixed wing aircraft with a different governor and a couple state senators and military personnel to see a massive blizzard that buried the Sandhills and scenic northwest Nebraska.

But neither of those incidents held a candle to what Nebraska is enduring right now. The flooding has even impacted high and dry Lincoln, the Capital City miles from any massive rivers. The city has been under mandatory water restrictions because the pumps in the Platte River well fields near Ashland, have been flooded. Lincoln's water comes from the aquifer beneath the river, but pumps that aren't pumping are problematic.

Getting places has also been difficult. Not only because roads have buckled, bridges have been destroyed, but flooding has persisted. I visited with a woman and her three young children from Wahoo in a Lincoln church on Sunday. She said she couldn't get to her church in Wahoo and opted to make the 37-mile drive (one way) to Lincoln instead.

Yup, Nebraska, you can't get there from here. At one point, 79 highways and 1,568 miles of roadways were closed. Residents of one north central Nebraska county had to go to South Dakota as part of a detour caused by flooding and infrastructure damage. Grandparents had to miss grandkids' dance recitals and birthday parties. The stories were repeated statewide.

While flooding took its toll on livestock, blizzards compounded calving for farmers and ranchers in central and western Nebraska. The state Department of Agriculture said they have been overwhelmed with the outpouring of support for producers. They are working to coordinate with people who have offered hay, feed stuffs, fencing materials and equipment.

The grim task of estimating the damages to infrastructure, real and personal property continues with an initial estimate of $1.3 billion likely to increase. Other costs will come. But Ricketts and others are certain that Nebraska will remain strong.

As someone who survived the big blizzards of 1949 and 1975 (and a lot of others in-between), I share that optimism. This has been a long hard winter and March has been a particularly bad actor, but I have seen the tiny green shoots of crocus and peonies sticking their heads up through the mulch.

J.L. Schmidt has been covering Nebraska government and politics since 1979. He has been a registered Independent for 20 years.

Legislative Update
By Joni Albrecht
State Senator, District 17

Helpline is available 24 hours a day for motorists in need of assistance. Drivers can reach NSP by dialing *55 from any cell phone or 911 in an emergency.

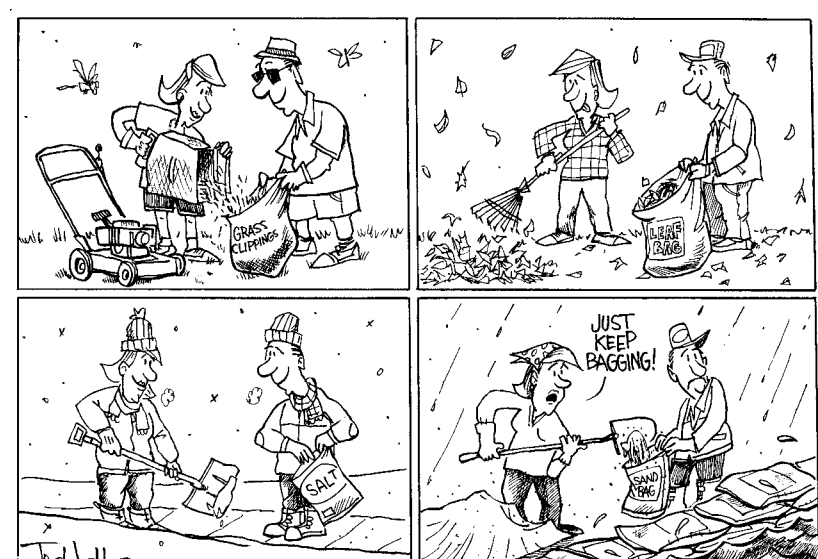

On Wednesday, March 20, I introduced LB 209 to the Judiciary Committee, which I designated as my personal priority bill this year. LB 209 will benefit all women who, after beginning the abortion pill process, want a second chance at choice. LB 209 would add a new section to Nebraska's informed consent law to include information to help women access the abortion pill reversal process. The legislation simply requires that when a woman walks into an abortion facility, she must be given all the information she needs to make a truly informed choice about her pregnancy, including the information she needs to find help and reversal treatment if she happens to change her mind after taking the abortion pill mifepristone. In Nebraska, 55% of abortions are so-called "medication" abortions — those caused by abortion-inducing drugs. Recent studies have demonstrated it is possible to greatly increase the chance that a mother can save her baby if she begins a standardized abortion pill reversal protocol soon after ingesting the abortion pill, but only if she knows it is possible and where she can find medical help.

Wednesday, it was announced that two bills I am sponsoring have been designated as Speaker Priority bills: LB 222, Change the Volunteer Emergency Responders Incentive Act, and LB 595, Change Office of Dispute Resolution to Office of Restorative Justice and Dispute Resolution and change powers and duties of the office. The Agriculture Committee also designated LB 320, Change various provisions of the Pesticide Act and update federal references, which I introduced, as a committee priority bill. I look forward to working with my colleagues to passing these bills this year.

Live coverage of committee hearings and the full session of the Unicameral is available at www.netnebraska.org/capitol. This week will conclude committee hearings and next week we will begin full day debate.

It is of great importance that I hear from my constituents to effectively do my job as your voice in the Legislature. I encourage my constituents to reach out to me and I look forward to hearing from you.

PROM Checklist

- ★ Prom Gown
Bring pictures of the dress style or styles you like and keep a color in mind to avoid getting overwhelmed by all of the options available. You may also want to bring along a trusted friend or family member who will give you an honest opinion and help you make the most flattering dress choice.
- ★ Tuxedo Rental
Choosing your tuxedo early will give you the best selection of styles, but make sure your measurements are taken within 30 days of prom to ensure the right fit!
- ★ Fancy Footwear
Ladies, be sure to choose a heel height that's comfortable for dancing, or consider bringing a cute pair of flats to slip on later in the night. Guys and girls can both benefit from wearing their shoes around the house before the big night to break them in a bit.
- ★ Jewelry & Accessories
Fashion jewelry is a great way to put the finishing touch on your prom look without breaking the bank. Don't forget a pretty little clutch to hold the essentials, and remember to throw in some flossers or mints for after dinner.
- ★ Picture-Perfect Hair
Look online for hundreds of hairstyle ideas, and practice with a friend to find the one you like best. If you're planning to have your hair professionally styled, be sure to book your appointment well in advance to ensure availability.
- ★ Makeup & Beauty
Consider using products like a primer, HD foundation and setting powder and spray to keep your makeup in place all night. Take along your lip color and blotting sheets to touch up your look throughout the night.

- ★ Prom Transportation
For safety, make sure any transportation company you use is registered, licensed with the state and properly insured. Schedule your limousine's arrival a little early to allow some time for pictures with the vehicle.
- ★ Corsage & Boutonniere
Order your prom flowers after choosing your dress, but at least a week before the big night. Pick up on the day of prom to ensure the freshest flowers. Corsages can be worn on the wrist or dress, or even in the hair or pinned to a clutch.
- ★ Manicure & Pedicure
Prom season is prime time for nail salons, so it's smart to book an appointment in advance if having your nails professionally done. Either way, choose a polish color that has undertones similar to your dress, or choose a neutral tone and have some fun with nail art or sparkles!
- ★ Prom Photos
For the most flattering photos, angle your body toward the center of the shot when posing. In group photos, stagger yourselves on different levels – sitting, standing and leaning – versus posing in straight rows. You may also want to practice your pose in the mirror, or repeat a look from your favorite photos of yourself.

True Leaders provide flood response School Lunches

Nebraska is a True Leader. The state has more miles of river than any other state in the nation and is home to the largest aquifer. Due to recent rain, snow, and natural snowmelt occurring on top of frozen ground, our state has recently experienced historic flooding in numerous counties. The need for assistance is growing.

4-H, America's largest youth development organization, empowers young people to be true leaders who can endure through challenges, who know how to work well with others, and who will stick to a job until it gets done.

Nebraska 4-H calls all True Leaders to use their confidence, independence, resilience, and compassion, to assist in the flooding recovery efforts that are currently taking place across the state.

We want to share resources to help you, your family, and community members, as they recover from the flood, assist with the recov-

The Flood's Impact on Young People

Flooding can cause stress. Keeping young people informed about situations like flooding is important to help calm emotions and to ease the transition process. Numerous resources are found at flood.unl.edu/families. Nebraska Extension: Flood Resources - Children & Family Resources. Some tips for working and communicating with youth include:

Be a calm and reassuring presence. Remind youth that over time things will get better.

Acknowledge feelings and allow youth to talk about their feeling and concerns. Let youth know that it is okay to be sad, scared or confused.

Build Resiliency. Help youth think about positive coping skills. It might be going for a walk, writing in a journal, engaging in an art project, or thinking about things that they are thankful for.

Create an environment where youth can interact with their peers. Peer support can provide emotional support for youth.

Simply, listen. If ever youth need adults to listen, it is now. Remember you don't have to have all the answers. Silence is okay. Youth just need to know you care.

Employees with Blattner Energy, Inc. (the 889 Sholes Wind Project firm which is constructing the wind turbines near Randolph) conducted an all-site food/money drive, with the intention of giving back to the communities they are a part of. An employee of the company mentioned the Wayne Backpack program and shared information on how many children in Wayne it supports. In just over a week and half, employees raised just over $1,000 and several boxes of food. Some of the food will be used for the Backpack program the other food items can go to the Food Pantry. Pictured with some food that goes into the backpacks each week is Deb Daehnke, a volunteer with the Backpack Program and Food Pantry.

Take time to slow down and listen to God

I bought something new this year for my quiet time with God. ESV came out with a new journal series. What they've done is each book of the Bible is an individual book, and when you open it, the page on the left is the Scriptures, and the page on the right is a page with lines to journal in.

I'm a big fan of, and have utilized "read through the Bible in a year" for many years, and will probably do that again at some point. However, this last year, I felt like many mornings I was just going through the motions, or rushing through my five or six chapters that were on the schedule to get through my daily "assignment" of reading. I felt like God was telling me to slow down, to digest more, to listen more, and to sit and dwell more with Him in the Word.

Slowing down. I don't know about you, but that's never really

A Word In Faith
By Justin Raulston
Christian Student Fellowship

been my strong suit. Now don't get me wrong the older (and fatter) I get the slower I seem to be moving, but slowing down, and cutting the busyness out of my life has never been a gift of mine. And let's be honest - it's not really something that is encouraged or rewarded in our culture in America is it? None of us brag about how little we have to do this week, or how much rest we got. It's not very often that someone comes up to me and says "Man I just killed that two hour nap I took. I dominated it! I had a nap on my list, I laid down, fell asleep and just owned it!"

We are "a schedule" culture. A "let's cross it off the list and get onto the next thing" culture. Yet over and over again in Scripture, we are told to slow down, to get away, to sit in the presence of God and just be with him.

Psalm 46:10 says "Be still and know that I am God."

Matthew 11:28-30 says "Come to me, all who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn from me, for I am gentle and lowly in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light."

Psalm 37:7a says, "Be still before the Lord and wait patiently for him,"

I've been using these journals since the middle of December, and as of today I've only been through the Gospel of Matthew and I'm 13 chapters into the book of Genesis now. The reality is I'm not getting through nearly as much Scripture as I did last year, but I can tell you that a lot more Scripture is getting into me.

All I had to do was slow down, and listen to God.

USDA announces availability of additional emergency programs in Nebraska

USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) State Executive Director Nancy Johner has announced that emergency grazing of Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) acres is authorized for all Nebraska counties, due to the impacts of recent adverse weather. Johner also announced that 45 Nebraska counties have been approved to begin accepting applications for the Emergency Conservation Program (ECP) to address damages from recent flooding.

"FSA has a variety of disaster assistance programs to support farmers and ranchers through times of adversity," Johner said. "Once you are able to evaluate your losses, it is important to contact your local FSA office to report all damages and losses and learn more about how we can assist."

Emergency Grazing

The emergency grazing authorization is effective immediately and ends April 30. The authorization was granted to address the impacts of the recent extreme weather, including flooding, snowmelt and mud. CRP contract holders who are interested in using this emergency grazing authorization must contact their FSA county office to complete required paperwork before allowing grazing to begin.

"It is important for CRP contract holders to work with their FSA county office before moving their own livestock onto these acres or allowing another producer to move livestock there," Johner said.

Emergency Conservation

The approved ECP practices under this authorization include debris removal; fencing replacement and repair; grading, shaping and leveling of impacted fields; conservation structure rehabilitation; and shelterbelt rehabilitation.

ECP enrollment deadlines will vary by county as the timeframe is set by each county committee. More information on ECP enrollment deadlines will be provided by FSA county offices. Counties approved to begin accepting applications include: Antelope, Boone, Boyd, Buffalo, Butler, Brown, Burt, Cass, Cedar, Colfax, Cuming, Custer, Dakota, Dixon, Dodge, Douglas, Franklin, Garfield, Greeley, Hall, Harlan, Holt, Howard, Keya Paha, Knox, Loup, Madison, Merrick, Nance, Nemaha, Otoe, Pierce, Platte, Polk, Richardson, Rock, Sarpy, Saunders, Sherman, Stanton, Thurston, Valley, Washington, Wayne and Wheeler.

ECP assists producers with the recovery cost to restore agricultural land to pre-disaster conditions. Approved ECP applicants may receive up to 75 percent of the cost of approved restoration activity.

"Dealing with natural disasters is never easy, especially when you have to consider the health and safety of livestock, but it's important for producers to call our office before they take action to permanently repair damages," said Johner.

Producers with damage must apply for assistance prior to beginning reconstructive work in order to qualify for cost-share assistance. This allows FSA offices to assess the need for on-site inspection and environmental compliance requirements, taking into consideration the type and extent of the damage.

The use of ECP funds is limited to activities to return the land to the relative pre-disaster condition. Conservation concerns that were present on the land prior to the disaster are not eligible for ECP assistance.

Another Runza Night record set for Wayne Elementary

The community of Wayne helped set another new record for Runza Night on March 19, raising $600 for Wayne Elementary School.

This is the highest amount ever in the six-year history of these events. Wayne Runza donated 15 percent of all sales from dine-in, carry-out, and drive-thru directly to the school.

Runza Rex made a special appearance throughout the event and brought smiles to many faces, while Wayne Elementary staff volunteered in the dining room serving customers and clearing tables.

Liam Rockhill won the Runza Challenge and will receive a $10 Runza gift card donated by WEB. His first guess of the evening at 109 was the closest to the 111.5 Runzas sold.

Since 2013, the Wayne Runza has donated over $5,000 to support Wayne Elementary School. "Thank you to everyone who came out to show their support, and especially to Runza Restaurants for their incredible support of the Wayne community and its elementary students, staff and families," Sandy Brown, with the Wayne Elementary Boosters, said.

As flood waters recede, danger level increases for farmers, ranchers

Even after the flood waters in Nebraska and Iowa recede, multiple and serious dangers from major flooding will remain.

To assist farm and ranch families with safe flood recovery, members of the Central States Center of Agricultural Safety and Health (CS-CASH) at the University of Nebraska Medical Center College of Public Health collaborated with the AgriSafe Network to create an on-demand webinar that provides information on farm flood hazards and safe methods of clean-up and recovery.

The webinar can be viewed at: <https://attendee.gototraining.com/r/3044877948417814274>

Major safety concerns related to any post-flood event include:

- Chemicals released from barns, homes and other on-farm sources and businesses. The chemicals may be found in water or in the form of vapor or fumes. Local authorities can assist with handling chemical spills.
- Contaminated well water.
- Human and animal communicable disease. Water-borne (hepatitis A), vector-borne (West Nile virus), bacterial (tetanus), and fungal (histoplasmosis) spores found in dust, dirt, animal droppings and animal carcasses are among the disease threats related to flood waters.
- Mold, which is part of our natural environment, can be present in high concentrations and occur in unusual areas where flood waters resulted in wet buildings or materials not typically exposed to water. This can result in production of microbial volatile organic compounds (MVOCs), which emit chemical-like odors and can become noxious respiratory irritants.

"In dealing with the extra stress created by conditions left behind from a major flood, anxiety and fatigue levels can become overwhelming, leading to major depression, generalized anxiety and posttraumatic stress disorder.

Because major flooding such as that seen in Nebraska can result in serious increases in bacterial and fungal populations and high levels of mold, it's critical to wear safety goggles and N95 (or greater) respirators that fit your face and are approved by the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH). Waterproof, cut-resistant gloves also are key to working safely, Emanuel said, and people should always work in a properly ventilated area.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) provides recommendations regarding the proper personal protective equipment (PPE) to wear when entering a home or building that contains mold. This information is found at <https://www.cdc.gov/mold/What-to-Wear.html>.

Farm and ranch flood-related resources are available on the CS-CASH website: <https://www.unmc.edu/publichealth/cscash/documents/2019-Flood-Resources>.

State rallying around flood victims

For some reason, when I see video of big semi rigs heading out for flood relief, I find myself with tears. Today, it's on the Orphan Grain Train website; a tanker of water heading to Spencer. Last week, it was the convoy from Hy Vee and Norfolk's own Hiland Dairy going into Fremont! Now, semis full of hay are coming, and some has been lifted in by helicopter!

Congressman Fortenberry's newsletter this week reminds us of the great basketball game played at the state tournament between North Bend and Auburn, with Auburn pulling away to win. So, of course, the Auburn team and the town are sending relief supplies to North Bend! Plus, I talked to a Knight of Columbus last week and they were taking their weekly fish fry to North Bend; think of the work in hauling the fryers, the fish, all that stuff, and what a morale boost it could be.

By: Pat Meierhenry

People are so generous! Donations of supplies have filled trucks, and there is more bottled water in this state, I believe, than in the rest of the country.

I just had a call from Phoenix; the old pen pal who has been seeing the photos on national news. A nun from Rome has offered her prayers. And our dear new pastor keeps telling us he loves Nebraska, Nebraska Strong!

I overdosed on music this weekend; Saturday eve was at the Lied for the 125th anniversary celebration for Concordia University: jazz band, symphonic band, male choir, women's choir, and an a capella choir. Today, one of my favorite groups, the Nebraska Brass, did a show that highlighted show tunes from all sorts of venues: opera, Broadway, and even the circus.

Mike has been glued to the basketball tournaments all week.. I cannot believe that UCF came within ONE measly point of knocking off Duke; they play other games there besides football, I guess. And tonight, Sunday, he tried very hard to help the Huskers at TCU, but it was not to be. The Cinderella team has played its last game. They displayed a lot of heart. And there are a bunch of old ladies in our association who agreed that it's not couth to name a replacement coach before the current one has finished his season.

Unfortunately, that's the world of college sports; and I guess it only gets worse at the pro level. We will miss Tim Miles' personality; hopefully, Jerry Bush's grandson smiles a lot, too. Shoot, we all remember Jerry Bush! How can this be?

Spring burndown treatments available for winter annual weeds

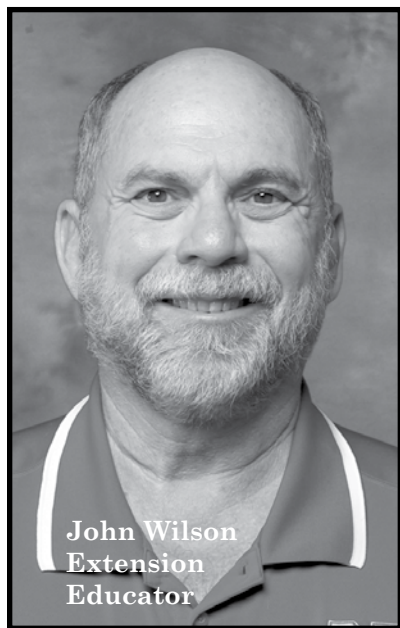

With the short timeframe for fieldwork this spring prior to planting, early weed management may fall to the bottom of the priority list for many. For those who have persistent issues with winter annuals such as field pennycress, henbit, or horseweed/marestail in no-till, an early burndown treatment may be worth the extra effort this spring.

Winter annuals resume growth soon after the arrival of warm temperatures. You'll have to wait until your fields are dry enough to get in without tearing them up or creating compaction. But once these weeds are actively growing, they will be susceptible to herbicide treatments.

Applications made prior to planting increase the consistency of control of these weeds, particularly horseweed or marestail. Many of these weeds are either flowering or beginning to bolt (when the stems elongate) at the time of planting. Achieving full control of weeds at these stages becomes difficult.

Effective burndown treatments should follow herbicide label suggestions for carrier type, carrier volume, nozzle type, and environmental considerations. Treatments made on sunny days with warm daytime (>55F) and nighttime (>40F) temperatures will generally be more successful than those in cooler conditions.

When selecting burndown treatments, consider the likelihood of resistant horseweed biotypes in the field. Glyphosate- and ALS-resistant populations are widespread across the state. Adding 1 pint of 2,4-D LVE or 1 ounce of Sharpen to glyphosate will increase the consistency of horseweed control, even in fields without glyphosate resistance.

John Wilson
Extension Educator

Check pesticide labels for planting restrictions; most 2,4-D labels have a 7-14 day planting restriction for corn or soybean following 2,4-D application. Ester formulations of 2,4-D allow for a shorter interval to crop planting than amine formulations. In addition, esters often perform better under the cool conditions commonly encountered with spring applications.

There is an additional benefit to controlling winter annual weeds in fields infested with soybean cyst nematodes or SCN. This pest can reproduce on the roots of field pennycress or henbit in addition to soybeans. So controlling these winter annual weeds may reduce the reproduction level and number of SCN eggs in those fields.

The use of an effective early burndown against winter annual and early spring weeds is an important first step to achieving a clean field for crop planting. By including a product with residual activity, fields should remain weed-free and will allow for a delay in the next herbicide application until after crop planting. While this application is not necessary in many fields, those no-till fields with known winter annual weed issues may be good targets for an early burndown this spring.

For more information on controlling winter annual weeds, contact your local Nebraska Extension office.

The 4 Rs of Manure Management: Right Time

When is the right time to apply manure? When the crop is out of the field and the pens need to be cleaned out, right? There are a lot of compromises that must be made as we decide when we are going to apply manure. Obviously, we need to keep our cattle pens, chicken barns, and hog pits in condition to maximize animal production and keep future storage available, so we manage our manure resource responsibly. A great time to make application is in the fall. The crop is out, the weather is nice (sometimes), and we get the freeze/thaw cycle to break up some of the compaction we create with all that heavy equipment in our fields. What if we can't get it on in the fall? Springtime is generally a rush to plant, set up our weed control, and catch up on any fertility not already applied. Winter is tempting, but we need to be careful about putting manure on frozen soils especially when there is much slope to the field causing the opportunity for large amounts of nutrient-rich runoff.

Besides the physical and environmental concerns about timing manure application, we need to think about the effect of application timing on the nutrient needs of the crop. Phosphorus, potassium, zinc, calcium, and most nutrients are best looked at from a long-term fertility perspective. We are balancing the soil's fertility with the needs of the crop and the likelihood of response given our soil test levels. In most cases, application timing is not as important as managing nutrient levels profitably. Nitrogen is the outlier here. Nitrogen just wants to get away from us. We want to get it in the crop, and it seems to want to disappear through leaching or denitrification.

The best time to have nitrogen available for a crop is just before a crop really needs large amounts of it. In corn that is approximately V5-6. From V6 to R3 corn uses a tremendous amount of nitrogen. Timing some or even most of our nitrogen to match this uptake curve is the best way to get our applied nitrogen into the plant. We know that it does not make sense to apply most nitrogen fertilizer products in the fall. The one exception we sometimes allow is applying anhydrous ammonia in the fall in medium to fine-textured soils (silt & clays) when temps are under 50 degrees F and declining. This works for two reasons: 1) ammonium is relatively stable in the soil. 2) the bacteria that facilitate the conversion of ammonium to nitrate are killed by the causticness of anhydrous ammonia and recover slowly when temps are under 50 degrees. To help keep our N in ammonium form we will often add a bactericide such as N-Serve to our anhydrous ammonia to slow the conversion to nitrate.

When we apply manure, we need to understand the form of nitrogen we are applying. If the manure nitrogen is largely organic in form, then it will take mother nature, time, and warm temps to convert it to ammonia and eventually nitrate. If the manure N is largely in the ammonia form, then it can convert to nitrate rather quickly. If we are going to apply this manure N in the fall or early spring, we may want to try to protect it from converting to nitrate too early. Growers applying liquid manure products such as dairy or hog manure should consider using a nitrification inhibitor such as Instinct II from Corteva or More Than Manure from Verdesian. These products can help us get the nitrogen in the manure into our plants and keep it out of our groundwater or from being lost to our atmosphere.

How to handle flooding, ponding around trees

By Kathleen Cue,
Nebraska Extension Horticulture Assistant Educator

The 2019 spring flood has had a devastating impact for all parts of the landscape, including trees. While the extent of the damage to trees may not be realized for years, how and if trees survive depend on several factors.

Certainly the fact that the floods came when the trees were dormant is a factor in their favor. Flooding is always hardest on actively growing trees.

The length of time tree roots are submerged will determine whether they can survive. The water left behind after a flood (ponding) is more detrimental to trees because water replaces air in soil pore spaces. Since roots require oxygen to complete their metabolic processes, the lack of oxygen in waterlogged soils causes root death.

Some tree species, like the baldcypress, cottonwood, and willow tolerate the waterlogged conditions that flooding brings, mainly because they are able to regenerate new roots relatively quickly. Others, such as sugar maple, redbud, shagbark hickory and spruce are intolerant of waterlogged soils and will show symptoms of yellow leaves, lifting bark, brown needles, defoliation and crown dieback because of their slow regeneration of new roots.

Healthy trees, like healthy people, naturally have more resiliency when adverse events happen. The more robust the tree, the better able it will be to reestablish the defenses necessary to survive the flooding. Healthy trees will have greater root regenerative capacity and more resistance to secondary insects and diseases that overcome unhealthy trees.

The stuff the floodwaters carry is a factor when determining if trees will survive. Deposited soil, raw sewage, petroleum products and a host of other contaminants are challenges to root survival.

What Can Be Done

Replace soil around flood-exposed tree roots. Likewise, remove all flood-deposited soil around trees, clearing away all excess around the trunk itself and continuing beyond the dripline. For trees toppled because of dislodged roots, small and medium-sized trees can be righted and staked for stabilization. Remove rock, landscaping fabric, and mulch (if it hasn't washed away) to allow sunlight and air circulation help with water evaporation from soils. Plan to remove broken branches at the proper pruning time of April, May or June. Although it is human nature to want to help, trees stressed due to flooding should not be fertilized.

More information about how floods impact plants may be found here: <https://flood.unl.edu/horticulture>.
