Swans Apparel to celebrate century mark

It's rare that a business stays open for 100 years. What's rarer still is for that business to be in basically the same spot, selling basically the same things with only four owners keeping the doors open. Swans Apparel in Wayne is one of those rare businesses, and to celebrate, owner Jennifer Claussen is throwing a party.

In 1919, Maude McLean, who would later become Maude Swan, and Anna Mc-Creary opened a millinery in the same location Swans women's store is at now. By the 1930s the Swans were living above the clothing and hat store that would bear their name well over 80 years later.

has been the driving force behind it, isn't lost on Claussen.

"I think their biggest legacy would be enhancing the community and providing quality items and customer service," Claussen said. "I think that's what they wanted to begin with and that's what I've been taught by Marie (Mohr, Claussen's one-time employer who bought the store in 1982 and sold it to Claussen and her husband in 2015) and I think that's been handed down from each generation of business owners to the next. I think they would be proud to see that continue on."

It was that attention to quality and community that kept Claussen at Swans. Having previously worked at corporate-owned clothing stores, she could tell the differ-

"That mom-and-pop shop feel is really what did it for me and after I was working here, within that first year, I (knew) this is where I want to stay. After I got to know the customers and I created those relationships with them, I didn't want to leave," Claussen said.

Claussen has stayed to become the lucky owner who gets to ring in a century with

"We're doing 'Cheers to 100 years' because so few businesses get to celebrate that," Claussen said.

The celebration will take place Friday, May 10 through Saturday, May 11. Swans That longevity, and the reputation that Apparel will kick off the weekend by hosting Chamber Coffee Friday morning. From there, shoppers can enjoy a slew of refreshments, some of which will be provided by other Wayne businesses. Friday evening from 5-7 p.m., Lesli Sturm will provide mini-manicures for shoppers. Wakefield Community Schools holds armed intruder drill

By Sarah Lentz editor@wayneherald.com

School shootings are unfortunately a realty educational professionals, law enforcement, parents, students and society as a whole are trying to grapple with. To ensure that they are prepared should an emergency situation arise, Wakefield Community Schools have been running drills with the staff and students for five years. This year's crisis drill, which took place April 25, was more complicated and involved than ever before, but that's the way Wakefield superintendent Mark Bejot likes it. "Practice does improve your process," Bejot said. "It takes a lot of coordination and that's also been a positive learning experience working with emergency management. God forbid it should ever happen but if it does we've got practice in there and know what things to encounter. Every time we find new things that we didn't consider."

This year's crisis drill was an armed intruder scenario. An officer fired both a rifle blank in the gym and a handgun blank down one of the school's hallways.

Bejot said drills using blank gun shots were a little scary, especially for the elementary students at first, but said his staff has done a great job of explaining the situation and dispelling fear for all of the students. As soon as the first shot sounded, 470 students, faculty and staff went into lock down

Kemnitz said making the drills as realistic as possible helps the school and the responddents to understand the event if something

"The life-like (atmosphere) helps the stuwere to occur," Kemnitz said. "It also helps the officers prepare for the stressful situations that could arise."

In the past, staff and students knew when the drill was happening. This year, to make it more realistic, the time wasn't pre-planned, so a handful of students were out in the halls. Several minutes after the first shot, Wayne County deputies did an initial sweep of the school looking for "intruders." From there, law enforcement went from classroom to classroom unlocking doors and sending students safely out of the building.

"The identification and going through the rooms...just seemed like the processes were so much better defined and completed," Bejot said. "We got through the building in probably the shortest time in all the drills we've

After students were cleared they walked to one of two "reunification centers," a safe place off school grounds where parents can pick up their children. This year law enforcement and emergency management agencies also tested out a new parental identification program that will aid in the reunification process. While there's always room for improvement, both Kemnitz and Bejot said they were happy with Thursday's drill.

"Every crisis drill that's conducted helps our students, our staff, our emergency personnel improve their skills," Bejot said. "It was amazing to me to watch and think about the various drills we've had and how much improvement has occurred by all the partners involved in the process.'

"Wakefield has been pretty progressive and we appreciate that," Kemnitz said.

Dixon and Wayne County Sheriffs' offices, Emerson Police Department, Nebraska State Patrol and Dixon and Wayne County Emergency Management representatives were on hand for the drill. Three Wayne State College Criminal Justice students also participated as "actors" who tried to blend in with the students. They were quickly discovered by law enforcement and "apprehended" as teachers were fast to spot extra people amongst their students.

Parents who were able to pick up their children after 11:30 took them home, otherwise, school dismissed at 2 p.m. More photos from the drill can be found on mywaynenews.com.

Two arrested following pursuit, manhunt in Wayne County

According to a press release, troopers with the Nebraska State Patrol (NSP) arrested two people following a pursuit and four-hour manhunt April 26 in Wayne County.

At approximately 10:20 a.m., a trooper was dispatched to the area near 579th Avenue and 847th Road south of Wayne to a report of a possible vehicle fire. Once the trooper found the Chevrolet Silverado, the

The truck was determined to be stolen. After a short pursuit, the vehicle drove into a field and troopers and law enforcement partners set up a perimeter. The NSP Aviation Support Division and Police Service Dog Division were called in to assist in the search. Officers with Nebraska Game and Parks and the Cuming County Sheriff's Office also assisted.

After nearly four hours, both suspects were found in separate locations about a mile apart, close to where the pursuit began. Both were arrested for possession of stolen property, flight to avoid arrest, and possession of methamphetamine.

Rodney King, 49, of Centerville, S.D., and Connie Dominguez, 45, of Wayne, Neb., were lodged in Thurston County Jail.

Lynn Herbert Lessmann, 69, of Gretna, died Monday, April 22, 2019. A funeral service celebration will be held at 2 p.m. on Friday, May 3 at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, 11204 S 204th Street in Gretna, with visitation with family an hour prior Roeder Mortuary, Inc. - Gretna

Chapel, 11710 Standing Stone in Gretna is in charge of arrangements.

Lynn Herbert Lessmann was born Jan. 21, 1950 to Betty and Willis Lessmann in Wayne. He was baptized and confirmed at Grace Lutheran Church. He graduated from Wayne Public Schools in 1969 where he played football, baseball, and basketball. He continued with basketball at Wayne State College. Lynn relished sharing these stories of past wins, losses, and lessons with his children, teammates, and others. On May 27, 1972 Lynn married Gloria Magnuson in Concord. The couple lived in Omaha for a short time and then returned to northeast Nebraska to make Winside their home. Lynn worked at Winside State Bank as banker, realtor, and insurance agent for most of his career - all of which he enjoyed. Lynn was actively involved in his St. Paul's Lutheran Church, school, youth programs, and community boards and events. After 26 years, Lynn and his wife, Gloria, returned to the Omaha area to Gretna. There he worked in real estate and started Lessmann Insurance Agency, which he ran until his retirement. Lynn was a member of several Gretna community groups and Good Shepherd Lutheran Church. Lynn is remembered for his devout faith and his goodness as a husband, father, grandpa, brother, uncle and friend to so many. An avid sports fan and outdoorsman, Lynn enjoyed Husker football, Husker basketball, Cardinals baseball, local high school sports, golfing, fishing, hunting, and sharing that enjoyment with friends and family. In the spirit of giving, Lynn continues to give through the donation of his body to research studies of frontotemporal dementia (FTD) and amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS) at Mayo Clinic. Changes to battery recycling program in Wayne

Starting May 1, there will be two significant changes to the Wayne Green Team's battery recycling pro-

Only small, household batteries will be accepted for recycling. These include alkaline, zinc carbon, NiMH, NiCd, less than nine volts, non-lithium button cell, and lithium and lithium-ion with exposed terminals that require taping for safety. The Green Team will no longer accept large batteries, such as lead acid, electronic batteries and batteries over nine volts.

The battery drop-off location will also move to the Wayne Public Library from City Hall.

The battery recycling program started in December 2017 has been a success, preventing over 500 pounds of batteries with toxic materials from entering the landfill in the first year of the program, according to a press release from The Wayne Green Team. Unfortunately, it has also cost more than expected—$1,700. Each bucket holds up to 55 pounds of batteries and costs $110 to send to Battery Solutions for recycling. Many boxes of larger-sized batteries, such as lead acid and nine-plus volt batteries, like drill batteries, have been left at City Hall and these require additional funds to ship.

Although the Green Team finds the community's willingness to recycle batteries is wonderful, the current focus is on recycling small household batteries. Until the Wayne Green Team can raise more funds to support this program, larger batteries will not be accepted. Free-will donations are welcome and appreciated at any time via City Hall.

See the updated Battery Recycling How to Guide online at cityofwayne.org/greenteam. It is important to note which batteries require taped terminals to safely ship and avoid any spark or fire. Clear tape is provided next to the battery recycling bin at the library.

The Wayne Green Team would like to thank the community for its support of zero waste and trying to recycle right in Wayne. For more tips on the Green Path to the Good Life, find the Wayne Green Team on Facebook andcityofwayne.org/ greenteam.

Softball ends season with three-game winning streak

After struggling through the Northern Sun Conference slate of games this spring, the Wayne State softball team ended the season on the right note, winning three of their final four games and seeing a new team record established.

On Saturday, the Wildcats capped the season with a sweep at Minnesota Crookston, winning 8-6

The Wildcats trailed 5-1 entering the top of the seventh in the opener, but produced seven runs on six hits and three Golden Eagle errors to storm back for the improbable win.

Raquell Penke started the rally with a two-run single that scored Kamryn Sparks and Taylor Menard. Kortney Buresh and Kim Vidlak each added run-scoring singles in the inning. The final runs to cap the rally scored when Emily Chandler reached on an error to bring home Vidlak and Buresh.

Wayne State had 16 hits in the win – all singles, paced by Abbie Hix going 3-for-4. Penke ended 2-for-4 with two RBI and two runs scored while Vidlak, Chandler, Menard, Sparks and Morgan Vasa each had two singles.

Maddie Moser pitched a completegame win for the Wildcats, fanning six batters while allowing just six hits and six runs (one earned).

The second game saw Wayne State build a 4-0 lead, then hold back a Golden Eagle rally in the final two innings to complete the Wayne State opened the scoring in the first with two runs when Chandler blasted a two-run homer. scoring Vidlak. The two RBI's made Chandler the all-time RBI leader at Wayne State with 148, surpassing the previous mark of 146 held by the late Kaiti Williams (2012-15).

Wayne State claimed a 4-0 lead in the top of the sixth with two runs as Menard doubled and came home on a Kamryn Sparks two-run blast. Meanwhile, Wildcat senior starter Riley Vanderveen was shutting down the Golden Eagles, firing four innings of no-hit ball until yielding a leadoff double to open the fifth.

The Golden Eagles scored three runs in the sixth and loaded the bases in the bottom of the seventh on Wildcat reliever Maddie Moser, but a groundout to first base ended the game, allowing the Wildcats to complete their first conference sweep of the season.

Stasi, Janssen earn NSIC academichonors

Wayne State seniors Vance Janssen and Christina Stasi were named as the Northern Sun Conference Men's and Women's Honor Student Athlete award winners from Wayne State College.

Each Northern Sun Conference institution nominates one male and one female student-athlete for the Britton and Kelly Awards. The nominees must meet criteria that includes a grade-point average of 3.5 or better on a 4.0 scale, evidence of academic excellence beyond the minimum grade-point average (scholarship prizes and other academic recognition), evidence of participation in the life of the institution and evidence of participation in at least twothirds of the varsity events of the individual's primary sport.

Janssen is a senior men's basketball player and maintains a 3.719 GPA majoring in pre-pharmacy and chemical health science. He started all but one game in his four years on the basketball court at point guard and averaged 12.1 points and 3.5 rebounds per game as a senior to earn All-NSIC honorable mention honors, helping the Wildcats to a 21-10 record and a share of the NSIC South Division regular season title.

Janssen ended his Wildcat career ranking second in career steals (165), fifth in career assists (289) and 19th in career scoring with 1,153 points.

He was awarded the Butch Raymond Scholarship by Sanford Health and is a three-time selection to the NSIC All-Academic Team. Janssen will graduate from Wayne State College in May and has been accepted into pharmacy school at Nebraska Medical Center where he will continue his education.

Andrew Hanson launches a solo homer for Wayne State during Sunday's doubleheader with Augustana. The Wildcats lost two of three to the 24th ranked Vikings in their home finale.

On Saturday, Travis Miller brought Andrew Hanson home with the game-winner with two out in the bottom of the ninth to give Wayne State an exciting 4-3 win over the Vikings.

The Vikings scored first in the opening inning, but Wayne State countered in the bottom of the inning when Hanson singled home Alex Logelin, who made an impressive slide to avoid the tag and tie the game at 1-1.

Wayne State's defense made two great plays to get out of trouble in the second. The Wildcats gunned down a runner at home, with Miller finding Kyle Thompson as the relay to catcher Jake Lamar to get the out at the plate. The defense followed with a 6-4-3 double play to end the

The Vikings took a 3-1 lead with a pair of runs in the fourth. Wayne State got one of the runs back when Hanson singled home Logelin in the bottom of the fourth, then tied the game in the sixth when Thompson walked and went to third on a Bryce Bisenius single. The throw to third was wide, allowing Thompson to come home with the tying run.

The game stayed tied until the bottom of the ninth, when the Wildcats had Hanson on second with two outs. Miller lashed a single into right center, and Hanson wheeled home and slid head-first into home plate with the game-winning run, giving the Wildcats the upset win.

Aidan Breedlove pitched six solid innings for Wayne State, striking out four batters on five hits. Aaron Ras provided three innings of norun ball, striking out four of his own on four hits to pick up the win

Hanson was 3-for-4 to lead the way for Wayne State on offense. Logelin went 2-for-3 on the day with two runs scored, while Bisenius finished 3-for-5.

The $15.2 million state-of-the-art facility opened to the public with remarks from WSC president Dr. Marysz Rames, Business and Technology dean, Dr. Vaughn Benson and WSC senior Ben Aschoff. Students and staff led tours of the facilities and equipment.

"This building makes me wish I started school four years later so I would really get to use this building," Aschoff said of the 53,000 square foot facility.

Future industrial technology teachers, diversified manufacturing administrators, construction and safety managers, drafters, and computer programers can all hone their skills in the CAT building. Faculty like Dr. Molly Curnyn are grateful for the new building thanks to the college administration, deans and department chairs as well as do-

"There are just so many people that made this possible and it's a unique opportunity to kick up my game as well,"

The building opened for students at the beginning of the Spring 2019 semester. More information can be found at wsc.edu.

Entering the fourth quarter

The Legislature is entering the last quarter of its 90-day Legislative session. In the final weeks, there are many opportunities for Senators to put some points on the board and make our state more competitive. There are also great risks, however, that Senators could raise taxes, spend too much, and threaten our state's public safety. Here are a few of the top debates that will impact you as this legislative session starts to wind down.

Largest Tax Increase Ever: Last week, the Revenue Committee held a hearing on AM1381 to LB289, the largest tax hike in Nebraska history. It was met by overwhelming opposition. While only four people testified in favor of the tax increase at the public hearing, 49 people opposed it. Nebraskans testifying against AM1381 represented agriculture, business, education, construction, grocers, retail and local governments. Despite the public outcry against their plan, the Revenue Committee has only signaled they will add even more new taxes.

Another Tax Increase: Last week,

I vetoed LB472, which proposed to allow counties to raise the sales tax without a vote of the people. This bill is supposed to help Gage County pay off a hefty federal judgment they received. Traditionally, the Legislature has not authorized political subdivisions to impose new taxes on Nebraskans without a vote of the people. In Nebraska, we trust the people to make political decisions on a myriad of issues. These include referenda on the death penalty and Medicaid Expansion. Despite the claims by supporters and you will make the right decision for your community. Senators will consider my veto this week, and I urge them to sustain it.

Controlling Spending: It's a 90day session, which means the Legislature is working on the next two-year budget. In January, I proposed a budget which controlled spending, held the rate of growth to about three percent, and included $51 million of property tax relief. Last week, Senators voted to cut in half the amount of new property tax relief for you in the budget. This decision by the Appropriations Committee sends the message that the Legislature would rather keep taxpayer money for future spending than give taxpayers the relief they have been asking for. At a time when our farmers and homeowners need relief the most, it is wrong for Senators to withhold property tax credits. As the Legislature's Appropriations Committee moves their budget package to the floor, I urge Senators to restore the full amount of property tax relief I recommend-

Public Safety: Over the last four years, Nebraska has made muchneeded investments in our Corrections system to keep people safe. For instance, we recently signed a performing and most experienced corrections officers. This new agreement will make it easier to attract and retain great teammates. As a part of the budget, Senators are now considering a request for 384 high-security prison beds. This will help Corrections better manage their highest-risk inmates and add capacity to our system. Over the years, some have suggested letting dangerous criminals out of prison early instead of building the capacity the system needs. This approach risks public safety and will Marijuana: Early in the session, the Legislature's Judiciary Committee held a hearing on LB110, which will broadly legalize marijuana, ostensibly for medical use, by allowing people to grow marijuana in their own homes for any ailment. na is that doctors cannot prescribe of LB472 to the contrary, I believe it and pharmacists cannot distribthat you, the taxpayer, must have a ute it. That means both production voice in decisions about new taxes, and distribution are unregulated and left to multinational compadistribute high-potency, addictive marijuana. Nebraska has seen how marijuana legalization has wreaked havoc in other states. Just last November, Missouri legalized "medical" marijuana. By February, Missouri was flooded with marijuana candy that was packaged to market to kids. For example "Stoney Patch Kids" are packaged like Sour Patch Kids. Add to that the increase in traffic accidents and fatalities around the country due to stoned driving, and it is clear it's a big risk to Nebraska's families. While the bill has not advanced from committee yet, the committee may still bring it back. I will work with Senators to safeguard public health and stop LB110 from becoming law.

> As session starts to wind down, we are entering the most critical phase where Senators will decide whether to raise taxes or provide tax relief. Will they spend more of your money or lower your taxes? If you'd like to contact your Senator and let them know you want tax relief, not tax increases, you can find their information at NebraskaLegislature.gov. To contact me, you can email pete.ricketts@nebraska.gov or call (402) 471-2244.

Capitol View

The writing of history

By Kent Bernbeck

Guest Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

It's a rare occasion when you are able to influence or even write history. When average Nebraska citizens lost their right to petition their government in 1994, many - no, actually most - didn't even notice or pause to care if they did.

This loss of voting rights came in the form of a Nebraska Supreme Court ruling on Friday, May 13, 1994, with only four of the seven regular members present (two of them retired later that year). They doubled the signature threshold for all statewide petitions; financially inhibiting grass roots ideas and issues - leaving Nebraska with the highest signature requirement in the country.

In response, and for only the third time in U.S. history, the citizens removed the junior Justice who wrote the decision in an unprecedented grass roots, door-to-door campaign to Vote NO on Judge Lanphier." The campaign signs called for his removal in every neighborhood across much of Douglas, Sarpy and Cass counties.

Whoa, you are saying! "I just signed and will vote on a medical cannabis petition, voted on the death penalty. Medicare expansion and even one to increase minimum wage." You must ask, "What do all of the recent petitions have in common?" They are funded by national or state organizations. When was the last time you were able to vote on a measure not sponsored by millions of dollars from someone or somewhere else?

Can't remember one can you? Because it's been 25 years since Joe Citizen had a say on what measures get petitioned! With the court's arbitrarily high threshold making it disproportionate to our population, it now takes upward of a million dollars just to collect signatures because of the size of campaign you must manage and fund. And because we have had a 25-year drought of petitioning in Nebraska, almost all campaigns 'import' professional circulators; driv-

Now with two prominent and very powerful state senators, from opposing parties leading Nebraska's Unicameral Legislature, they neither have the will, determination or motivation to return the signature threshold to the one that worked fairly and judicially for 82 years and 41 election cycles. Our beloved one-house legislature was placed on the ballot only after the third petition effort by Sen. George Norris in 1934.

Mind you, these are not ordinary state senators; Mike Groene (R) from North Platte and Adam Morfeld (D) from Lincoln, both second term senators, have each led successful statewide petition campaigns. Groene's were primarily grass roots, locally funded spending limit campaigns where Morfeld's have been funded by national progressive efforts on Medicare expansion and medical cannabis.

Because both Senators know and understand the burden placed on the grass roots-based campaigns by the 1994 Supreme Court decision doubling thresholds, one would logically think it might have been a priority to one or both petitioners. Yet they too are becoming complicit by letting the offensive and rogue decision stand and closing a blind eye to the effects they both know have happened to their unknowing and often uncaring constituent's voting rights.

Could Senator Groene be concerned with the number of "progressive" petition campaigns in recent years? Maybe it's the changing demographics that are holding him back? Maybe Senator Morfeld doesn't fully appreciate how the ideas that came from coffee shops and town hall meetings have not been heard at the ballot box for twenty-five years. I'm sure he was quite young in 1994, as was I.

Neither of these seasoned petitioners and soon to be term-limited state senators have much time to correct this injustice to our voting rights. It would take a constitutional amendment, voted on by the citizens to correct the 1994 decision. State and federal courts have referred the matter back to the citizens time and again as myself and others have challenged it.

The question is: are these modern-day political titans and history makers of our legislature willing to demonstrate an un-selfish, nonpartisan, bi-partisan leadership that "had been" the hallmark of Norris's Unicameral? I know these men, and I would expect nothing less from either of them. They too know that history is being written.

The truth about "medical" marijua Legislative Update

Clock is ticking for 106th Legislature

We are down to the last 23 days of nies who have financial incentive to the 106th Legislature for 2019. Many bills have passed across our desks and many were mere adjustments to bring up-to-date or take off the books as obsolete. Discussing of priority bills from here on out will be our main focus.

> This week there was a joint hearing with the Revenue, Nebraska Retirement Systems and Educations Committees. As you know our main objective here at the People's House is to pass a balanced budget. This hearing addressed LB289 and AM1361 that will change provisions relating to county assessor inspections of real property for property tax purposes and many other issues that affect the three-legged stool. Much give and take will be on the table to ensure all avenues of revenue are earmarked correctly and that the spending habits of the state stabilize so this process can benefit Nebraska. Even though a balanced budget is presented every two years, it does affect the in-between years rightfully so.

> Property tax relief for all Nebraska has been a main focus. Finding that right avenue of leveraging the burden of taxation is a complicated task. Many Senators have spent endless hours in conversation of the pros and cons of this legislation that will bring about this relief for all.

The mid-March weather across Nebraska has placed an unforeseen task to the State to meet the needs of those who have been impacted greatly from the blizzards and floods. We have hundreds of people in our communities assisting with ensuring citizens' damages and needs are being addressed in a timely manner. From last week's briefing with the Nebraska Department of Transportation the agency has gone from 3,300 miles of closed roadways down to 11 miles closed. The Nebraska director Kyle Schneweis had nothing but praise for the roads department employees, the contractors and citizens for the progress that has been made through this horrific season of storms and dam-

LB177 would change a termination date for bonding authority of Natural Resources Districts. With 67 – 70 percent of District 17 constituents voting "no" on this matter it is only right that I continue to protect your vote and led a filibuster on LB177 and did vote "no" on the matter as well. The Papio-Missouri NRD is the highest financed NRD across the state and the only NRD to come to the Legislature to expand their scope.

Two other school systems in Columbus and Fremont also are in the pilot program. We were fortunate to have these students visit the Capitol this week and give their personal story of what this program has provided for them. There are 39 states that have this program in one stage or another and Nebraska is hopeful to have greater participation from schools in the near future. Commissioner John Albin, Nebraska Department of Labor, was instrumental in bringing this learning aspect to the state and is looking forward to expansion. Currently we operate under I-JAG (Iowa) with hopes of having a Nebraska JAG. You may access jag. org to learn more of this concept in (Photos by Clara Osten) Boomerfest 2019 hit the Wayne city auditorium on April 25. The public was invited to the various Boomerfest events including a health and vendor fair in the morning. Providence Wellness Center held their senior workout class, Senior Monkeys, during Boomerfest and avid card players attended the free 10-point Pitch tournament. Swans Apparel was also on hand for a fashion show. Door prizes and freebees were given away all morning.

After a mid-day break, two bands, crowd-favorite Burt Heithold Band and Jim Casey and the Lightning Band got the crowd moving. Light snacks were provided throughout Helping the Boomerfest committee this year were Wayne State College students taking part in a service-learning project. They were students in Dr. Dan Miller's classes and were required to write reflections of their conversations with the attendees. Along with mixing and mingling with event guests, the students also ran a photo booth. The multiple generations had a great day chatting and, of course, dancing.

Many interesting facts about Presidents were shared. The nation's first President, George Washington, chose the actual sight of the U.S. Capital - land carved out of the states of Virginia and Maryland. In 1791 Washington commissioned Pierre L'Enfant, a French engineer to design the city. L'Enfant imagined a grand avenue or "mall" lined with trees and gardens surrounded by the U.S. Capital building, Memorials to U.S Presidents, National Museums and many other historic landmarks. The city is said to be a place symbolic of the spirit that is America. In the daytime over 400,000 commuters enter the city. More than 25 million people visit the National Mall each year. Helping the Hungry

Knights of Columbus Council 8579 sponsored a "40 Cans for Lent" food drive to collect food and other items for the Wayne Food Pantry during Lent. The "40 Cans for Lent" project is a part of the Knights of Columbus' Orderwide Food for Families Program. The drive netted over 1,350 pounds of food and other items to help stock the shelves at the Food Pantry. Pictured with the pickup load of food and other supplies are Lanie and Reese Rethwisch, Stephanie, Jacen, and Carter Hasemann and Ron Gentrup, Project Chairman.

Your faults do not define you

May is a big month for us. Our daughter is graduating from Wayne State College and our son is graduating from Wayne High the follow-

And so we're busy getting our house ready. Our kitchen is getting a complete makeover and we're rushing to get the backsplash put up while at the same time finishing the patio project from last summer. On top of all that you have the general stuff like cleaning the garage and shampooing the carpets and just making sure the house is clean.

I've talked with some parents of other seniors who are doing the same thing, rushing around trying to get everything ready. Why do we do that to ourselves? It's not about us. It's about our graduates and their accomplishments. But we wear ourselves out trying to im-

Don't we do the same thing when it comes to God? We think we need to get everything cleaned up, get rid of all our junk, get all our prob-

Satan wants toriously from the grave, our faults you to think you, but you're not. He and failures no longer define us. will accuse you, slander you, remind often feel that our sin defines who But you are not your sin. In Christ, we are, like we have a big scarlet there is no accusation against you letter on our chest, a big read "S" that can stick.

There's this meme that's been press God when we forget that it's going around on social media that not about us. It's about Jesus Christ says, "The devil knows your name but calls you by your sin; God Because of what we celebrated at knows your sin but calls you by your That's an easy truth to forget. We you over and over again of your sin.

The apostle Paul says in Romans the inside out.

8 that God has called us to be like Jesus and He has made us right and one day we will be glorified. And then he says, "What, then, shall we say in response to this? If God is for us, who can be against us? . . . Who will bring any charge against those whom God has chosen? It is God who justifies. Who is he that condemns? Christ Jesus, who died more than that, who was raised to life – is at the right hand of God and is also interceding for us" (Romans 8:31, 33-34).

Satan may condemn us, but Jesus is interceding for us, pleading our cause to God. And as Paul says at the beginning of that chapter, "Therefore, there is now no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus" (Romans 8:1). There is no condemnation. Your sin no longer defines you. You are not your sin. If you are in Christ, there is no condemnation, no shame, no guilt.

So come to Jesus in all your messiness and let Him clean you up from

ALLEN COMMUNITY NEWS Jeffrey Scott Green obituary

Memorial service for Jeffrey Scott Green, former Allen resident and 1988 graduate of Allen High School will be held Saturday, May 4 at Concord Evangelical Free Church 2 p.m. Refreshments to follow. Green passed away April 11, in Tacoma, Wash., after a twoyear battle with leukemia. Annual Community Club

Easter Egg Hunt a success

Nearly 75 children participated in the Allen Easter Egg Hunt on a beautiful spring day, April 20. The morning opened with a game of egg golf which was harder than expected as eggs took unexpected bounces in the grass. At 10, the signal was given and the hunt began. It took only a few minutes to find the over 300 eggs hidden. Before, during and after the hunt, the Easter Bunny visited with the children. Many children enjoyed their first post-winter play on the playground equipment before finally leaving the park nearly an hour later. Community Members young and old enjoy a wonderful morning for an egg hunt. Allen named Tree City USA

Allen has been named a Tree

City USA for the 26th consecutive year by the Arbor Day Foundation for its commitment to effective urban forest management. Allen achieved this recognition by meeting the program's four requirements: having a Tree Board and tree care ordinance, maintaining an annual community forestry budget of at least $2 per capital, and observing an Arbor Day Assembly. The theme of the 2019 Arbor Day Assembly was "Trees Helping Birds and Birds Helping Trees.'

The Arbor Day Foundation is a nonprofit conservation and education organization with the mission to inspire people to plant, nurture and celebrate trees. ALLEN CONSOLIDATED

The 2019 Allen Arbor Day

Assembly was held April 25 in the school gymnasium with the school students and public invited. Everyone was welcomed by Tree Board Chairman Marcia Rastede who presented a power point with the theme of "Trees Helping Birds and Birds Helping Trees." The students were able to tell that trees help birds by providing food and shelter and birds help trees by eating harmful insects and spreading the seeds. The power point showed pictures of the serviceberry, flowering dogwood, mulberry, crabapple, and white oak trees and their flowers/ blossoms and fruit/acorn while the narration told about each tree and its fruit and seeds. The power point also showed pictures of various birds which liked the various fruits. Pictures of birds shown were the robin, bluebird, cardinal, catbird, waxwing, grosbeak, bluejay, woodpecker, grackle, mock-Science & Art Showcase will be ingbird, oriole, tanager, thrush,

Advice offered on raising kids

Grandchild number six turns 21 today! It makes me feel older.

And I've been comparing notes with other old ladies lately about things we have in common. For instance, we don't want to learn new technology. They keep telling me I need an instant pot and an air fryer; I do not; and I probably would not figure out how to use it.

We are taking more naps. And cleaning house less. One told me Saturday evening that she remembers when her mother told her she was tired of dusting, and so is she! I am, too; along with vacuuming and scrubbing the kitchen floor, which needs it right now!

I shared with other friends my age today at lunch that I like to read John Rosemond's columns; he talks about the days when children sort out their differences with their she appreciated it. And, while they peers without adult intervention.

One of our group proceeded to tell of the days when she was raising her five; when asked how she did that, she answered she took care of the first thing in front of her; if it was a nose that needed blowing, she helped blow; if it was someone who needed a diaper changed, that was taken care of.

She felt the writing bug hit her one day and sat down and wrote a treatise titled "Why I Let My Children Fight," and sent it off to Redbook magazine. I haven't seen a Redbook for many years, but that used to be widely read by young housewives.

They liked it, and they printed it, and she received a check in the mail. Not only that, but another were talking, two of my friend's offspring were wrestling on the kitchen table and two more were fighting and yelling at each other so that it was difficult to talk on the phone!

We had a mental image of that. and had a hearty laugh. Another white haired lady contributed that she had five also, four were boys, and she overheard one tell the other to tell their story to mom in the way she would want to hear it!

I truly do not understand how someone raises four boys, they just have such a talent for breaking things, losing things, and generally keeping their sisters in an uproar! And I still believe that is what school sports are for, so they are too tired for all of that by the time they get home from practice. Somehow, were raised, not parented. Now is the time for controlling noxious weeds

With all the flooding and related damage, it's been easy to put controlling noxious weeds on the back burner this spring.

Fall may be the best time to control noxious weeds, but don't neglect your opportunities this spring. Besides, many weeds require consecutive treatments in fall and spring to get good control. Here are some tips to help you get on top of these weeds.

April, May or June is the best time to treat our three most common noxious weeds, depending on which species. We could have a weed of the month, because the timing is different for each of these three noxious weeds. However, the late spring gives us time to control the one we'd normally control earlier in April. Rainy periods when it is too wet to get in the field and plant may give you an opportunity to control these in pastures or CRP.

Musk thistle is the noxious weed easiest to control in the spring. Musk thistles formed a rosette, much like a big, prickly dandelion, last summer and fall. It continues to grow in this form this spring. Normally, in late April or early May it bolts, or sends up a flower stalk, and is more difficult to control. I haven't noticed any bolting yet, which means we can still get good control as long as we don't wait too

With rain and warmer weather now, musk thistle rosettes are fairly easy to control with several different herbicides. Once they bolt, many herbicides will not give adequate control and the ones that will give some control are more expen-

If they've started to flower, a hoe or shovel is your best method of control, but it is important to clip off and destroy any flowers to prevent them from going to seed. If you cut purple color in the flower, even if it isn't fully open, some seeds will ma- ada thistle is usually found in dense ture on the dead plant and perpetuate your battle with this weed.

The normal time to control leafy spurge in the spring is in early to mid-May when the spurge buds or starts to bloom. It appears to have a distinct pale yellow flower on an upright stem. Often wild mustards are confused with leafy spurge. The easiest way to distinguish between the two is to break the stem or leaves. Leafy spurge will have a milky sap, like a milkweed, while mustards do not have a milky sap.

In spring, you should treat leafy spurge just as the top leaves, which look like flowers, start to turn yellow. This weed generally grows in patches and you should spray 20 to 30 feet beyond any plants that you see to get those coming up from the roots. This perennial weed has an extensive root system and you may need to come back several weeks after your initial application to treat any weeds that escaped.

Canada thistle is the last perennial problem weed you normally control in the spring. Unlike other thistles, you want to wait until flower buds form which typically good coverage with your sprayer is the biggest challenge because grass off a plant and can see the distinct may be as tall or taller than the thistles. As with leafy spurge, Canpatches and it is important to spray beyond the plants you see around the edges of the patches.

There are two important things to remember when trying to control these noxious weeds... First, fall is the best time to control them when the plants are storing nutrients in the roots for growth the following spring. The plants move herbicides applied in the fall to the roots which gives better control.

However, if you have these weeds this spring, that means you missed controlling them last fall or you didn't get complete control. You need to treat them now rather than waiting until fall. Then you should come back this fall to control the ones you missed or that came up from seed over the summer.

Second, none of these weeds will be completely controlled with a single herbicide application. One reason they are classified as "noxious weeds" is because of the difficulty of control. Even if you control all the top growth of any of these weeds, there may be some that come back from seeds or roots.

For more information on controloccurs in mid- to late June. Getting ling noxious weeds, contact your county weed superintendent or your local Nebraska Extension office.

Rule # 5 that planters are not a tillage tool needs to be taken to heart. Over aggressiveness with row cleaners mess with seeding depth and cause emergence issues; issues we often blame on other parts, or our own failures like Rule #8, choosing the seeding depth. Row cleaners don't have to move 100% of the residue. That's why opener disks are sharp.

I know that as we all get into the fields and are planting as fast as we can that it is hard to think about anything other than the next field on the list. But with so much on the line right now, we can't afford to ignore the details. Call it stepping over dollars to pick up dimes, or whatever analogy you want. But at the heart of it all is still one simple notion. Details and agronomics pave the way for success, not just speed and technology.
