Commissioners meet Tuesday

By Sarah Lentz
editor@wayneherald.com

The beginning of a new month means the Wayne County Commissioners met on May 7 at the Wayne County Courthouse.

Wayne County Emergency Manager Nic Kemnitz gave the commissioners an update after consent and regular agendas were approved. Kemnitz said that he and Wayne County Highway Superintendent Mark Casey attended a FEMA training session on May 3 and both would be meeting the County's FEMA contact person on May 9.

At the last meeting, the commissioners approved an agreement to allow FEMA workers to use office space in the courthouse annex building. The FEMA representative who will meet with Kemnitz and Casey this week will help the county assess and fix flood damage. Kemnitz also said he's in the process of replacing his nine-year old work laptop. He and Casey also reported that NextEra is in the process of erecting their final two wind turbines.

Wayne County Attorney Amy Miller told the commissioners a public hearing would need to be held for the sale of a 8.5' x 418.9' strip of ground between Runza and the National Guard Armory in Wayne. The tract went into County control as the result of unpaid taxes, so it will eventually be up for sale or lease based on the public hearing.

Wayne County Treasurer Tammy Paustian requested authorization to execute electronic payments for her office through Elkhorn Valley Bank. Paustian said she writes over 90 checks a month, so electronic payments will save her valuable time. The commissioners approved, asking her to begin implementing electronic payments in the new fiscal year beginning in August.

The next Wayne County Commissioners meeting will be Tuesday, May 15 at the Wayne County Courthouse at 9 a.m.

Luna's Mexican Restaurant, formerly of Wakefield, has taken over the old Torres Family Restaurant space, keeping the building a family-friendly place.

Family-owned, operated Luna's moves to Wayne

By Julia Baxter
For The Wayne Herald

A family-owned restaurant, Luna's, has relocated from Wakefield to Wayne. After opening six years ago, owners Emperatriz Nuñez and Gumaro Jimenez-Nuñez decided that it was time for a change of scenery and a new clientele base.

"We didn't even have plans to move here, about four weeks ago the real estate agent who was selling the place called me and was like, do you want to rent Torres?" Nuñez said. "I said you know what let me ask my husband and I told him we should start a new adventure."

Luna's, named after one of the Nuñez's six children, has a mix of traditional Mexican cuisine as well as an American take on Mexican food to apply to a broader variety of taste buds. Not only is the atmosphere family based but so are the people running it as the food is prepared and served by the whole family.

"My husband and I, we both worked at restaurants for somebody else, and we know what we need to do, and we just thought, 'Why don't we open our own business?' We have the kids, and we decided to open our own family restaurant," Nuñez said.

Nuñez also noted that the fact that she and her husband get along so well is part of what makes it easier for the family business to thrive, but the closeness of her family came from some hard times.

"The tornado came and my family was one of the ones affected, because we had a trailer park and the tornado took everything and left us literally in the street. We had to sleep in the school for like two weeks. It was like 17 families all together, and we decided to expand the business to get the money to get back up. My family was always pretty close, but with the tornado we got even closer," Nuñez said.

She also noted that even though she is happy to have moved to Wayne, they had ties to the community in Wakefield, and people loved the food so much that some of their regular customers followed the business to Wayne.

"(Moving to Wayne) was one of the best decisions I've made. I'm happy. I'm so excited that my customers from Wakefield followed me. About five of my customers that are always in Luna's they come up here too. To me, that's a lot because they make you feel special," Nuñez said.

Council debates land usage on city-owned property

By Clara Osten
clara@wayneherald.com

An eight acre parcel of city-owned property was the subject of nearly an hour's worth of debate at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

The property, which is owned by the city, is located near the Summer Sports Complex. It is currently the site of the city's brush pile and the Community Garden.

City Planner Joel Hansen told the council that during a Planning Commission meeting on May 6, considerable discussion was held in regard to lot size and the need to put in a street off Fourth Street and possibly connect to the lagoon property.

Hansen told the council that the Planning Commission had voted 5-1 to approve the preliminary plat for the area which would allow for the eight acre parcel to be divided into four large lots with a street running north/south through the middle of the property. The street would begin at Fourth Street and go south.

Hansen also noted that the city has a definite shortage of area for large apartment complexes and these lots would be large enough to allow for this type of use.

"Right now, this area does not have a legal description and can't be sold. This entire process includes creating a preliminary plat, a final plat, conducting a future land use study and having the area re-zoned," Hansen said.

Council member Jill Brodersen said she felt creating the preliminary plat was "a little pre-mature. We should have a plan for the entire area before we move forward."

Chele Meisenbach, a member of the Planning Commission, was at the meeting and voiced her concerns with the plan.

"I am not against housing (in this area), just not now. I don't feel a street in this area would be safe with all the activities that take place there and parking is an issue. If apartments are put in this area, it can't be used for recreation," Meisenbach said.

Council member Terri Buck asked if the current lagoon committee could decide what is going to happen in the lagoon area before making a decision on developing the lots.

Council member Matt Eischied told those who were not in favor of the preliminary plat "if you don't like the plan, come up with a better plan. Until the lagoon is gone, we can't decide what is going to go there. We need to start somewhere and make a decision on where the street is going to go."

Following considerable discussion, including a comment from Council member Jon Haase on postponing any decision, the council voted 5-3 in favor of approving the preliminary plat. Voting against were Chris Woehler, Jill Brodersen and Jon Haase.

Council members approved a resolution approving JEO Consulting Group, Inc. as the special engineer for the Transmission Water Main from North Well Field to City Limits Project. The cost of the services is $121,000.

It is anticipated that the project could be bid out this fall with work to begin in the spring of 2020.

Two ordinances regarding parking on South Sherman Street received first reading approval. These will involve the area that has recently been developed south of Grainland Road which currently does not have parking regulations.

The placement of a retaining wall in the city's right-of-way was discussed.

BJ Woehler, representing Robert Woehler & Sons, said the business is remodeling the building on Fairgrounds Avenue and would like to put in a small retaining wall to assist with the grade of the property. He showed pictures of where the construction would take place and how it would affect the sidewalk in the area.

Following discussion, council approved the request.

The final item on Tuesday's agenda was discussion regarding the Standard Specifications for Construction of Water, Sewer, Storm Sewer and Paving.

This item involved a second section of the manual which is being reviewed by council members.

Mayor Cale Giese read a proclamation in regard to National Public Works' Week, which is May 19-25 and noted the importance of the work done by public works employees.

The next regular meeting of the Wayne City Council will be Tuesday, May 21 at 5:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Copsey, center, instructs masons from around the state during the Rediscovers Traditional Mortar: The More Sustainable Solution workshop on May 7.

New masons learn old tricks during workshop

Nigel Copsey, stone mason and building conservator, in conjunction with History Nebraska and Nebraska Masonry Alliance, is leading two, two-day workshops in Wayne. Copsey has traveled from England to teach interested masons the not-often-used, but traditional preservation techniques he specializes in when restoring historic buildings.

Copsey is an advocate of the "like for like" method of repointing mortar, which has masons matching more traditional, quicklime-based mortars on older buildings. Modern mortar tends to be too inflexible, causing old bricks, like those that make up the Wayne County Courthouse, to crack and break.

Attendees of the Rediscovers Traditional Mortar: The More Sustainable Solution workshop will spend one day in a classroom learning through demonstration and explanation and the second day on hands-on work on the Wayne County Courthouse.

Berggren Architects, the designers of the courthouse restoration project have worked with Copsey and Kingery Construction to come up with a plan to preserve the historic value of the Wayne's courthouse.

Looking Ahead in Wayne

By Wes Blecke,
City Administrator

City Council meetings

Regular Wayne City Council meetings are at 5:30 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month in City Hall at Third and Pearl Streets. We would love you to take part in your local government.

ADA Curb Ramp project

The contractor has started the ADA Curb Ramp project within the limits of 13th Street to 3rd Street, and Sherman to Pearl. After sending letters and plan documents to all property owners impacted by this project, the City held an open house to address questions and concerns. The plans have also been posted on the City website.

If anyone has questions about this project, please contact Joel Hansen or me at City Hall.

Nebraska Street project contractor approved

The City Council has approved Robert Woehler and Sons Construction to work on the Nebraska Street project.

This project will start and be completed in 2020. The main question you likely have is why not construct this project in 2019 instead of 2020? By waiting until 2020 the City will save just under $72,000 on this $1.2+ million project. While I would like to have seen the project completed this calendar year, $72,000 is a lot of money that we can put into other street repairs.

The project will address the storm water issue area residents are experiencing during quick, hard rainfalls. The new street (concrete) and upsized storm sewer pipe will make a huge improvement to this area.

Pheasant Run

Water Main project

JEO Engineering was approved to design the water main to create a redundant loop from the north well field to the City.

This project will provide increased reliability for water quantity. This project will be designed now and bid out this fall for spring 2020 construction. The estimated cost is $3 million.

The project will hopefully be funded by a low interest loan from the Drinking Water State Revolving Loan Fund. The City has the potential of up to a 12 percent loan forgiveness with this financing. The loan will be repaid by monthly water rates.

Plating City property for potential development

The Planning Commission on 5-1 vote and the City Council on a 5-3 vote took the first step in preparing to develop City property along the new Fourth Street by approving a preliminary plat of City property.

Much discussion concentrated on where a road would go to connect Fourth Street to the old lagoon area, what type of development was wanted and the entire process of preparing the land ultimately for sale. Some Council members wanted to see a plan regarding the old lagoon before planning the area to its north.

The next steps will be for the Planning Commission and City Council to consider a Final Plat along with amending the Future Land Use Plan and finally a potential rezoning of the land.

Community Visioning Session scheduled

Wayne Area Legacy Fund (WALF) will be hosting a community Visioning Session on Thursday, May 30 at 6:30 p.m. at the Wayne Country Club and everyone in the community with ideas for the future are invited to attend and participate.

"We have examples all over this community where vision was put into action," WALF's advisory committee chair Bill Dickey said. Rainbow World, The Senior Center/Library, The Majestic, Parks and Park equipment, the Community Rec Center and more all came together because a group of people have an idea."

Dickey explained that the kickoff session will inform the public on the WALF progress, facilitate a visioning session to identify Wayne County area projects that can make a difference and help define the focus, priorities and next steps.

Through the generosity and commitment of individuals and organizations in the Wayne area the WALF will have limited funds available this summer to invest back into the community.

"We're looking forward to the day when we can give out big checks to community projects, but right now, we are starting small and looking forward to announcing our second check presentation this summer," Dickey said.

"Community foundations are designed for individuals and organizations to come together, promote progress and ensure the quality of life in the Wayne area for generations to come," Eric Knutson one of the original advisory members said.

Knutson further explained that there is still time to give to the WALF and be one of the founding members. The fund is taking commitments through June of this year and founding members will be recognized at future events later in the year. To learn more about the Wayne Area Legacy Fund or how to apply for funds for community projects, plan to attend the Visioning Session or contact Bill Dickey at bill.dickey67@gmail.com.

Obesity, mental health challenges for Northeast Nebraska

The Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department (NNPHD) which serves Cedar, Dixon, Thurston and Wayne Counties, together with Pender Community Hospital and Providence Medical Center have been working together since 2018 on data collection that will help them better understand the health needs of Northeast Nebraska. The data collected shows that obesity is a major problem for the health district with higher prevalence for adults (34.4 percent) in the district than in Nebraska (32.8 percent), and even higher prevalence for children in Northeast Nebraska (26 percent) than in the nation (18.5 percent).

Data also shows that people of the NNPHD Health District generally fair better than Nebraska to access health care when needed; however, people are not accessing preventive services as recommended. Not as many people in the area have gotten health screenings for cancers, like breast, cervical, colon; cardiac health, cholesterol and blood pressure screening; and other preventive services such as vaccinations, than people in Nebraska as a whole.

Mental health is another area of concern and was identified as the second health issue needing improvement for the district as identified by 36.82 percent of respondents on the recent Community Health Survey conducted as part of the data gathering. The 2019 Community Health Assessment comprehensive data can be viewed at nnphd.org/public-health-data/local-data.html. A paper copy of the data can be obtained by contacting the health department. The public is invited to comment on the data prior to the Tuesday, May 21 planning meeting.

Planning is the next step in the process now that the data has been collected. The public is invited to participate in the planning meeting where officials and the public will work together to review the data, identify priorities and develop a Community Health Improvement Plan for the area, which can be used by any organization to help inform and support their work. This planning meeting will be held on May 21 from 2-4 p.m. via Adobe Connect. Those interested can participate in this meeting through this website address: rjrconsulting.adobeconnect.com/nnphdchip/

Members of the public can also attend in person at the Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department, 215 N Pearl St, Wayne.

Sheila's Country Garden turns 30

By Sarah Lentz
editor@waynewe.com

When one travels down Highway 57, it's easy to miss Sheila Schmidt's two greenhouses and gift shop that make up Sheila's Country Garden.

In fact she says many of her customers tell her they've driven by the business for years commuting from one place to another before stopping in. When they finally do, she said they're glad they did. Sheila's Country Garden turns 30 years old this spring and Schmidt said the business's birthday weekend is the perfect time to stop.

Schmidt has a long history and love of gardening.

"I come from a family of eight, so mom and dad always had a big garden," Schmidt said. "My grandpa always had a big garden and I just always wanted to be out there."

In 1989, Schmidt was the mother of five children ranging in age from one to eleven. In the back of her mind, however, she'd been holding on to a dream.

"I always had this idea in the back of my mind that I wanted a greenhouse," Schmidt said.

She and her husband Kenny discussed the idea and, for awhile, contemplated the perfect time to potentially open a business. Then they had a revelation. "There's not ever really a perfect time so we decided to do it right then," she said.

The Schmidts started the venture with one 20' x 48' greenhouse, eventually expanding to three by 1997. In 2011, two of the original buildings were torn down to make room for a large greenhouse and in 2000, Schmidt added the gift shop which was added to in 2007.

Whether it's the plants she grows or the items in her shop, Schmidt said she goes out of her way to find unique things that can't be found everywhere.

Many of the plants Schmidt sells have been grown by her before they're available for customers because she likes to ensure she gives gardeners the right advice, even if it differs from the plants' care cards.

"I love talking to the people and getting their plan of what they want to do," Schmidt said. "I like to help people be successful."

Helping others find gardening success has led to her business thriving after 30 years. Most importantly, Schmidt's passion for her work is still there. "I love it just as much as I did the first year," she said.

Also 30 years older, Schmidt said she's starting to notice things are a little harder to do physically than they were in 1989, but Kenny and her children are on hand regularly to help out. Sheila's Country Garden is just the right size for one person to fully manage, and that's the way Schmidt likes it.

The public is invited to help Schmidt and her family celebrate 30 years of Sheila's Country Garden from Friday, May 17 through Sunday, May 19. Throughout that weekend, Sheila's will be hosting an open house with give-aways and trivia with prizes. On Saturday, May 18 the Schmidts will be grilling at the business outside Hartington, offering customers lunch. That Friday and Saturday, Sheila's Country Garden will be open from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. and from noon until 5 p.m. on Sunday.

For more information about the business located at 87930 NE-57, find them on Facebook by searching Sheila's Country Garden, or call (402) 254-6379.

len was fourth and LCC was sixth, with Winside finishing seventh.

Wakefield prepares for districts at Norfolk Catholic

Coach Mike Hassler was happy with his team's day at last week's Norfolk Catholic Invitational, their final tune-up before this week's districts.

"Absolutely beautiful way to end our track season," he said. "The conditions were as about ideal as you would want them for a track meet and our kids performances showed that. I thought we got out of the meet what we needed to. Some kids we needed to back off and rest a little bit and others we felt like we needed to push for one more track meet. All in all the effort was there, the performances showed that and as a staff we feel like these kids have put themselves in a good place to compete at districts."

In girls action, Jamie Dolph led the way with a runner-up finish in the 3,200-meter run and Breanna Chase finished third in the 400-meter dash.

Wakefield earned fourth-place finishes in both the 400-meter and 3,200-meter relays, while Anna Lundahl placed fifth in the discus and Kaleigh Mattes took sixth in the 1,600.

In boys action, the Trojans' 3,200-meter relay of Charlie Lopez, Gabe Peitz, Logan Bokemper and Sam Heitz ran another solid race, easily winning in a time of 8:28.9.

The Trojans had multiple medalists in two events. Peitz and Heitz were fifth and sixth in the 800, while Solomon Peitz took third and Zephann Tinsley was fifth in the triple jump.

Wakefield's 400-meter and 1,600-meter relays both finished third. Other medalists included Dylon Harder (100, 4th), Erb (200, 6th), Kaden Kratke (400, 5th), Juan Lopez (3,200, 5th), Israel Gardea (shot put, 5th), Divon Tinsley (110 hurdles, 4th) and Zephann Tinsley (300 hurdles, 3rd).

The Trojans will compete in what is expected to be a very competitive district meet on Thursday in Hartington, and Hassler said he hopes his kids will step up and leave everything on the track this week.

"Every season is different and how you get to that finish line is always a journey," he said. "We have definitely had some ups and downs this season, but every time it has seemed like we were down a new kid stepped up to the forefront and helped pull our teams through. I think we have always been a team that competes well, but this year I think we have found that we have a lot of kids that are fighters and compete just a little harder when things aren't going their way. That's a good place to be as headed into districts. There are going to be quite a few opportunities to qualify kids for Omaha at districts, and hopefully we remember what got us there and how to fight for it."

Wildcats close regular season with split

The Wayne State baseball team closed the regular season Thursday afternoon with a doubleheader split against Upper Iowa at the Chapman Complex.

The doubleheader, moved to Wayne due to inclement weather in northeast Iowa, saw the Wildcats rally from a 6-0 deficit to win the opener 10-7 before dropping the nightcap, 10-5.

In the opener, Upper Iowa touched Hunter Wienhoff for six runs in the second inning, but the Wildcats' bats picked it up in the third. Alex Logelin had a two-run single, and Andrew Hanson followed with a two-run triple to cut the deficit to 6-4.

In the sixth, Travis Miller had an RBI single to score Bryce Bisenius, and Logelin followed with his second two-RBI single. He came home on a single later in the inning as the Wildcats batted around to take a 10-6 lead.

Upper Iowa added another run late in the game, but the Wildcat pitching staff held on to give Wayne State the first-game win.

Cade Hermann got the win in relief, while Andrew Staebell earned his fourth save. Logelin was 2-for-4 with two runs scored and four RBIs. Hanson added two RBIs as well.

In the nightcap, Wayne State scored early on an error, but the Peacocks came back with a run in the second, two runs in the fourth and three more in the fifth to take a 6-1 lead. Wayne State was able to get within two runs at 7-5, but the Peacocks added three in the eighth to put the game out of reach.

Ryan Obrecht suffered his first loss of the year in eight decisions. Andrew Hanson and Brendan Madsen both went 2-for-4 in the contest.

Wayne State (32-16, 23-12 NSIC) will compete in the NSIC Tournament at St. Cloud, Minn., starting Wednesday. The Wildcats are the fifth seed and will face Minot State in a 12:30 p.m. game in the first round of the eight-team, double-elimination tournament that runs through Saturday, May 11.

Wayne Run Club youth and mentor runners start a 5K with a whopping 89 athletes running.

Wayne Run Club has quite the kick

By Kevin Peterson Of the Herald

Wayne first grade teacher Courtney Maas is always looking for ways that define teachable moments. Her passion for running has transformed into leading a group of elementary youth down a path known as "The Wayne Run Club." A club that started just two years ago with 31 youth, doubled to 62 this year.

"I was involved with a group called "Girls on the Run" which is a national non-profit organization," Maas said. "The Wayne chapter was started by a college student several years ago and I took it over with Casey Hurner when she left and there were just six girls. It doubled to 12 in a short time but I was very concerned as to why it was just limited to girls since the organization is about more than running."

She approached the Community Activity Center and pitched her idea of a Wayne Run Club for girls and boys with the idea of building confidence in the students and teaching life lessons along the way, and of course running a couple times a week as a group for a period 15 to 20 minutes.

"Girls on the Run had rules such as an entry fee, a fee to run the annual 5K and a mentor for each girl. In the spring of 2018 I approached Wes Blecke and Bryce Meyer from the City and Activity Center and both were in support of the idea," Maas added. "The City supported the idea through the use of the ac-

Run Club

"We have a number of kids who might not be involved in activities if not for the run club," Maas said. "We teach that your brain is a muscle and you have to train it like a muscle by working on a positive mentality. It is a growth mindset versus a fixed mindset."

Maas said students were given a flyer at school as well as publicity at the activity center for the program to get started.

"It is a spring, seasonal club and we met each Tuesday and Thursday at 4 p.m. at the Activity Center in the northeast quadrant of the gym," Maas said. "We did a character lesson first with four major goals for each lesson building confidence, character, health and friendship."

Students in grades three through six were encouraged to consider the program whether they were Wayne Elementary students, St. Mary's students or home-schooled students.

"It is great watching the kids interact with each other," Maas continued. "To see sixth graders talking and working with third graders and encouraging each other is awesome."

Each year The Run Club does a community service activity.

"This year we made cuddle kits," Maas said. "We purchased pajamas, blankets, a book and a stuffed animal and Dr. Burrows promotes the program by supplying tooth brushes and tooth paste. Last year our community service project was donating items to Haven House and a representative came and spoke to Wayne liffe and Kayla Arnold," Maas said. "They did such a great job."

The conclusion of the season is marked by a 5K which was held recently. The course began at the Community Activity Center and went through Victor Park and Grainland Road. The smiles and feeling of accomplishment after the kids complete the 5K is so awesome to see. The building of kids' confidence through true life lessons is a constant theme for the Wayne group and it's safe to say the Wayne Run Club has quite the kick.

I'm gone fishin'

By MIKE RENNING
mikesportshome@yahoo.com

Every spring, or at least the last 43, or so, the arrival of spring brings with it the yearning to go fishing – at least for me.

I don't mind fishing through the ice in winter, in fact, I rather enjoy it, but spring springs me fishing motor into action.

Probably 95 percent of some of my best fishing days involved fishing with my Father-in-Law around Kadoka, South Dakota.

Now, if you don't know where Kadoka is located, get on Interstate 90 and go west to Wall Drug, which ironically is in Wall, South Dakota.

Turn around and go back east 40 miles and you are at Kadoka.

"Kadoka" is similar to the Lakota word for 'hole in the wall' which refers to a hole in the wall to the Badlands which are nearby.

Which doesn't have a lot to do with this tale, but it is a little knowledge pertaining to where all this fun occurred.

In the early stages of my fishing relationship with my Father-in-Law I was fairly nervous...well not really nervous but more scared to death.

I wasn't real sure how happy he was about his new son-in-law and he was taking me to very remote areas where I still wouldn't have been found – in this was over 30 years ago.

As he kept bringing me back with him, I started to become more comfortable, but I was still very aware of where we were and how to get back to civilization.

When he finally let me drive his vehicle on occasion, I knew I had made it – until this one day.

The Badlands of South Dakota are aptly named and the area receives about as much rainfall as a couple of good thunderstorms in eastern Nebraska.

But as the saying goes, "when it rains it pours."

The White River wandered past Kadoka about 10 miles south of town. In general, the river is small enough to walk across most of the time, but when a good gully-washer went through it became a raging mess of brown muddy water.

There are several little creeks that run into the White River as it snakes through western South Dakota and when there was a good rain, it was time to hit those creeks.

Pass Creek hits the White River near Kadoka. Near Kadoka is relative because "near" out there is around 26 miles. (Again, I always made sure where I was and how to get back.)

Where Pass Creek runs into the river there is no access to the bank of the creek, but the catfish swim up the creek seeking food floating down the creek and frankly, clearer water.

My Father-in-Law pulled up to the bank and indicated we were going to fish in this spot as he had a lot of success there over the years.

As I peered over the bank, I realized it was about a 24-foot drop down to the creek.

Well, we started catching fish – a lot of fish.

Every time we would catch a fish, I would go over the bank/cliff and retrieve the fish, so we could throw it in the cooler to take home to clean and eat.

I would jump over this cliff and my Father-in-Law would lower a rope to pull me back up to safety.

For probably the first time in all of fishing experiences together, I was catching the bulk of the fish and as the day wore on, I possibly started bragging about my ability to catch fish.

After I had caught about six fish in-a-row, I jumped off the cliff to the bank to retrieve another of my many catfish.

Back in that day, I believe the daily limit for catfish was 25 fish.

As I was explaining to my Father-in-Law the certain "technique" I was using to catch all of these fish, I noticed the rope he was using to pull me back up the bank was out of my reach.

I jumped up and grabbed it and the entire rope fell to my feet.

Then I heard the door shut to the Suburban, I heard the Suburban start, and I heard it gradually drive away.

I learned two things that day. My Father-in-Law did not like a brag-gart and wading through a mess of brown muddy water is not easy whether going upstream or downstream.

With a month left, here's some of what they've done

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

With less than a month left (18 legislative days) the 106th Legislature has been making progress on some lower profile measures that don't often take THE spotlight like property taxes and the budget.

A sampling of measures passed ranges from relief for Gage County in a massive federal judgment stemming from a botched murder investigation 34 years ago to allowing the Tourism Commission to capitalize on an advertising campaign that has, honestly, taken the country by storm.

Lawmakers gave 43-6 final approval to a measure stemming from the "Beatrice Six" case in which a federal judge awarded more than $28 million in damages to six men and women wrongfully convicted of the rape and homicide of a Beatrice woman in 1985. After they were exonerated by DNA evidence, the six sued in 2016 and the county was unable to pay after it learned its insurance policies had either lapsed or otherwise wouldn't cover the expense.

The bill (LB472) was brought by former County Board member Myron Dorn of Adams who was just elected to the Legislature. It authorizes a county board to adopt a resolution to impose a sales and use tax of 0.5 percent on transactions within the county to pay a qualified judgment rendered against a county by a federal court for a violation of federal law.

The state tax commissioner will administer and collect the tax for a three percent fee. The money may be used only for the judgment and the tax will end after the judgment is paid or after seven years, whichever is earlier. The bill further requires that the county property tax levy be set at the 50-cent maximum for each year it imposes the tax.

This appears to be the only way out of the unfortunate mess for the county.

Appropriations Committee Chairman John Stinner of Gering offered a bill (LB637) to allow the Nebraska Tourism Commission to develop and approve state marketing campaigns and develop and sell tourism products such as cups and T-shirts and banners and whatever in the wake of one of the state's most successful tourism campaigns. Revenue will go to the commission's promotional cash fund.

Stinner told his colleagues that the department was swamped with requests for such items after the "Nebraska, Honestly it's not for everyone!" campaign went viral before it was even launched. The Commission realized it didn't have the authority to create and sell such items. The 49-0 vote approved the measure, which takes effect immediately, just in time for peak summer travel season.

That's better than nice. Two measures that will help economically disadvantaged areas of the state were offered by Omaha Senator Justin Wayne and passed by his colleagues. The first, Legislative Resolution 14, passed 43-2, will allow voters to approve a Constitutional Amendment in 2020 to extend the maximum length of time to repay tax-increment financing indebtedness in certain cases. If approved, the amendment will authorize the Legislature to extend the maximum repayment period for TIF indebtedness from 15 to 20 years if, due to a high rate of unemployment combined with a high poverty rate as determined by law, more than half of the property in a project area is designated as extremely blighted (a census tract with an average unemployment rate that is at least 200 percent of the average state unemployment rate and an average poverty rate of more than 20 percent).

Wayne also offered a bill (LB87) to require the state Department of Economic Development to provide a preference for grant applications at least partially located within an opportunity zone as designated by the federal Tax Cuts and Jobs Act. The bill passed 49-0.

This is an opportunity to erase the black eye that TIF has earned over the years.

Lawmakers also passed LB713, sponsored by Omaha Senator Tony Vargas, to require the legislative fiscal analyst to create additional revenue and budget reports throughout the biennium to provide sustainable funding for projects into the future.

This is essential planning that transcends the edict that one Legislature cannot bind a subsequent one.

Also passed was LB390, introduced by Lincoln Sen. Patty Pansing Brooks, to require the state Department of Education to develop a model memorandum of understanding to govern the use of school resource officers or security guards. The document will include training requirements for the officers and requires the school to maintain records of each student referral for prosecution, including the reason for each referral and federally identified demographic characteristics of each student.

This, too, just makes sense.

Legislative Update

Bills passed as legislative session winds down

The Nebraska Department of Transportation announced a new website dedicated to the 2019 flood on April 4. Nebraskan's will be able to view updates on the progress on repairs to State highways and bridges as connectivity is restored by going online at: <https://dot.nebraska.gov/news-media/nebraska-flood-2019/>.

Governor Ricketts signed LB 399, introduced by Senator Slama (LD1), into law last week. LB 399 passed the Legislature on a 44-2-1 vote and updates Nebraska's law on American civics in public schools. The Governor also signed LB 302, introduced by Senator Hughes (LD44), which merges the Department of Environmental Quality and the Nebraska Energy Office into a single agency. Starting July 1, the new Department of Environment and Energy will be under the direction of current Department of Environmental Quality director Jim Macy.

On April 2, we began full-day debate at the Legislature and advanced multiple priority bills from General File. This week we advanced LB 268 (Friesen, LD34) which would expand broadband access by making it easier for customers to switch telecommunications companies. Under LB 268, customers would only be required to show that he or she is not receiving high-speed broadband service at the time of application to be eligible switch service providers. In passing LB 268 we hope to encourage larger telecommunications companies to invest in new rural broadband service or maintain current infrastructure. Increasing access to rural broadband is extremely important as we grow the communities in our state. I supported LB 268 and the bill advanced to Select File on a 37-0 vote.

We also debated LB 483 (Erdman, LD47) which would change farmland value for property tax purposes based on the income it can produce. Beginning in the 2020 tax year, the newly created Agricultural Land Valuation Board would create an agricultural land valuation manual

By Joni Albrecht
State Senator, District 17

that county assessors would determine capitalized net earning capacity. Agricultural productivity value would be determined by: dividing agricultural and horticultural land into major use categories described in the bill and then dividing those categories into subclasses based on soil productivity classifications; computing a net revenue based on an eight-year Olympic average of annual net incomes, in which the highest and lowest one-year values are discarded; and dividing the net revenue by a discount rate determined by each county's eight-year Olympic average of annual precipitation. LB 483 stalled on General File but may come back for a second round of debate.

Live coverage of the full session of the Unicameral is available at www.netnebraska.org/capitol.

It is of great importance that I hear from my constituents to effectively do my job as your voice in the Legislature. I encourage my constituents to reach out to me and I look forward to hearing from you.

Disease Control and Prevention, skin cancer is the most common cancer in the U.S. Melanoma is the most dangerous, while basal cell and squamous cell carcinomas are highly curable but can lead to scarring and high medical costs.

Which of these steps do you take to help prevent skin cancer?

- Seek shade from ultraviolet (UV) rays, especially during midday (10 a.m. to 2 p.m.).

- Cover up to protect exposed skin.

- Wear a hat with a wide brim.
- Grab shades that block UVA and UVB rays.

- Rub on sunscreen with an SPF of at least 30 and UVA and UVB protection. Reapply every two hours.

- Avoid tanning beds, which are considered carcinogenic by the Food and Drug Administration.

Do You Know the ABCDEs of Melanoma?

Melanoma is the most dangerous form of skin cancer. With early detection, it almost always is curable, so check out any moles, brown spots or growths on your skin. Know the warning signs:

- Asymmetry - the halves do not match;
- Borders - uneven, scalloped or notched;
- Color - variety of colors including brown, tan, black, red and/or blue;

Diameter - usually larger than the size of the eraser on your pencil (1/4 inch);

Evolving - look for changes in size, shape, color, elevation or symptoms such as bleeding, itching or crusting.

How do I protect my skin?

The American Academy of Dermatology offers these tips for selecting anti-aging skin-care products:

- Start with sunscreen and moisturizer. The sunscreen should be broad spectrum and waterproof, and have a sun protection factor (SPF) of 30 or higher. An anti-aging moisturizer helps minimize fine lines and is the "secret ingredient" in many anti-aging products.

- Treat your No. 1 aging skin concern, whether it is wrinkles, age spots, dryness or another issue. Start with one product because using several products at the same time can irritate your skin. No one product can treat all signs of aging on skin.
- Buy a product formulated for your skin type. If you have oily, dry or sensitive skin, buy the appropriate product.

- Read product labels and select products that offer the following:

- Hypo allergenic - the product still can cause an allergic reaction;

- Non-comedogenic or non-acnegenic - does not cause acne;

- Consumer hotline - for contacting the company with questions;

- Have realistic expectations. Remember that anti-aging skin-care products deliver modest results.

- Select a product in your price range. A higher price does not mean it is a more effective product.

- Give it time to work. You may need to use the product for six to eight weeks or longer to see results. You must continue to use the product if you want to see continued results.

- Check out www.aad.org/ public for more information from the American Academy of Dermatology.

Asking 'why God? Why?'

By Clint Decker
Hope for Today

Clay Center, Kansas -I was recently visiting with some high school seniors and asked them what their classmates thought about God. "They're sometimes confused", they said. I asked them to explain. "They see bad things happen in the world and wonder why. If God is God, then why didn't He prevent it?" Immediately, I thought how so many adults wonder the same thing. No matter if we are a teenager or senior citizen, this is a common response to tragic situations.

We see stories of this in the Bible. This is one of many things I like about God's Word. It shows what real life is like.

When Jesus, God's only Son, hung on the cross and was near death, He looked toward heaven and cried out in anguish, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?" (Matthew 27:46)

When King David led the nation of Israel and was facing enemies who threatened the future of his nation he wrote, "Why, O LORD, do you stand far away? Why do you hide yourself in times of trouble?" (Psalm 10:1)

When Moses was struggling to lead the Hebrew people, tragedy struck and the people rebelled. Moses lamented before God, "O Lord, why have you done evil to this people? Why did you ever send me?" (Exodus 5:22)

It is natural for us to question or even become angry at God when bad things happen. But when they do, how are we going to respond? It is one thing to analyze and talk about situations from a distance, but what about when you are right in the middle of it? Here are four ways Jesus responded to the evil and injustice of His own circumstances.

1) Accept the reality of evil and believe it can be defeated. When Jesus faced His death, He understood the evil that exists in the human heart and the evil systems in our world. He accepted its reality, but determined to walk through it, knowing evil would not overcome Him, but He would overcome it. Do not live in denial of your painful situation. Accept it. But know that Jesus is bigger, greater and more powerful. And when you place the full weight of your trust in Him, you can overcome.

2) Turn toward God, not away from Him. As Jesus hung on the cross feeling the weight of the world on His shoulders, He cried out, "Why God?" Notice, He did not complain to the thieves crucified next to Him or to others nearby. Rather, He turned His words of sorrow toward God, pouring out His heart and remaining faithful to Him, enduring to the end. Our emotions in the moment can lead us away from God, where we complain to others, mumble to ourselves or even lift our first toward the heavens. No matter how dark things get, keep turning to God. Do not believe your circumstances have the final say. Trust in God. Trust in Jesus.

3) Face evil with a spirit of forgiveness and graciousness. Jesus faced His unjust circumstances and accusers with forgiveness and graciousness. This does not come naturally. Our tendency is to lash out at others and become bitter and isolated. Only with the Spirit of Jesus in us can we live as He lived.

4) Overcome evil with faith in God. The Scripture teaches that Jesus faced His death with joy. How did He do that? He knew that He would rise again and conquer all the evil and injustice around Him. When devastating news comes, grab hold of Jesus. Endure. Persevere. If you have trusted in Christ, your suffering will be for a season. We do not know how long it will last, but our victory is certain. This is the believer's certain hope, as Jesus rose again and overcame, so will we.

A prayer for you to pray - "Lord God, I take my questions, frustrations and anger, and lay them at your feet. I turn from my sin of unforgiveness toward others and anger toward you. Lord, be my Savior from my sin and my Savior in this dark valley. Rescue me oh God! Change my heart today. Give me hope. Give me You. In Jesus' name. Amen."

Exploring your world view: how do you know what you know

At Calvary Bible Church, we have been studying the concept of world views in our adult Sunday School class.

A world view may be simply defined as a set of beliefs and presuppositions which we hold (consciously or subconsciously) about the basic makeup of our world, reality and the existence of life. It is how a person views the world and understands everything around them: life, relationships, government, morality, possessions, work, etc. It is a person's view of reality.

Everyone has a world view whether they know it or not. It is like a pair of glasses through which one views reality. Can you identify your world view? There are five basic questions that everyone will ask at some point in their life. The answer to the five questions form the basis for your world view.

The questions are:
1. Why is there something rather than nothing? or What is the origin of life?

2. What is the meaning and purpose of life?

3. What happens to you when you die?

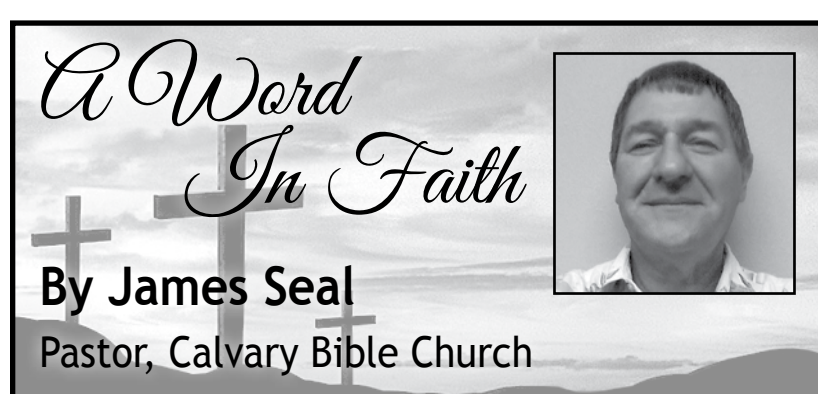

4. How do you determine right and wrong?

5. How do you know that you know?

Space does not allow me to delve into all of these, so I would like to deal with only one: How do you know that you know?

The reason for this question is that it is the foundation for answering all the other questions. This is the truth question. How do you know what is really true? How do you know that what you believe is correct?

Many people today look to their

A Word In Faith
By James Seal
Pastor, Calvary Bible Church

opinions and life experiences as their primary source of truth. While experience is a great teacher, it cannot teach us everything about life and the universe. Opinions are just a person's perspective on how he or she understands something. Their opinions may be valid but not more valid than another person's opinion. Opinions and experiences change with time like the changing of the wind. Neither are a valid source of truth for all people.

Other individuals look to science as their source of knowledge. Some believe that science equals knowledge. However, science is a tool we use to understand and discover things about the natural world. Science can only tell us so much. In addition, the views and discoveries of science are constantly changing. A true scientist is open to discoveries that challenge his or her beliefs about the world.

Science often offers theories or proposals of how life worked in the past. Some scientists become so convinced of their theories that they declare them to be facts.

An example is the Big Bang Theory. This has been accepted by many in the scientific world as the way the universe began. However, no one was there and no one saw it. In addition, there are plenty of scientists who are poking holes in this theory because it really cannot explain how something came into existence from nothing.

Still other people look to political and religious figures to reveal to them what is true and what is the meaning of life. In this group there are many different forms of religious thought. One must evaluate the source of the teaching and the reliability of that source. Again space does not allow a detailed discussion.

This brings me to share how I would answer that important question. I would say that the Bible, as passed down to us through the years, is the most reliable source of truth. It lays for us a foundation that describes the only true God and His creation of all things that exist. It describes the history of the creation of mankind and God's interaction with people. It reveals God's nature and character and gives us the purpose for our creation and existence. It reveals how we can come to and how we can know this Almighty Creator.

Many have sought to discredit the Bible and its transmission through the ages. Yet, when a person truly investigates the facts surrounding the Bible reliability, it can be easily demonstrated that the Bible is the most reliably transmitted text from ancient times. Its message has stood the test of time and is still changing lives today. I, for one, am convinced of its source, its reliability and its message.

The Bible answers all the other questions in the list. It is the foundation for the true follower of Jesus Christ. That person is not ashamed of its message or in the Savior it reveals. The follower of Jesus Christ lives his or her life in accordance with the teachings of the Bible even though some parts are difficult to understand.

How would you answer these five important questions about life? What is your source of authority by which you declare your answers to be correct? Can you defend what you believe based on a reliable source of truth?

For me, I have found the Bible to be the most reliable source of truth even when compared to science or other sources of information. I have looked deeply into the claims of science and have found that real science does not contradict the Bible. I have listened to the opinions of other and found that sometimes I agree and sometimes I disagree. I have discussed and read about other religious ideas and thoughts and compared them to the Bible.

In the end, I have not found a more profound and reliable source of truth on which to answer the other four questions about life.

If you would like to discuss this issue further, I would be happy to sit down over a cup of coffee.

Heithold in collegiate honor society

Grace Heithold of Wayne has accepted an invitation of lifetime membership in The National Society of Collegiate Scholars (NSCS), the nation's preeminent certified honor society for high-achieving first and second-year collegiate students.

"NSCS is more than just a symbol of academic achievement; it is a distinction of honor," Stephen E. Loflin, NSCS founder said. "Our scholars are some of the best of the best, committing to academic excellence early in their collegiate journey. They embody the NSCS pillars of scholarship, leadership and service, and many go on to become active contributors within their respective fields. Most notably, a handful of NSCS alumni scholars have been recognized on the Forbes 30 Under 30 List."

Heithold is a 2018 graduate of Wayne High. She is the daughter of Bryan and Mary Heithold of Wayne and attends Creighton University.

Chipps to retire May 31

With the end of the academic year at Northeast Community College, members of the Board of Governors believe this is an ideal time to move forward to fill the president's position.

Dr. Michael Chipps announced this spring that he would retire from the presidency of Northeast Community College on or before Dec. 31. In the time since the announcement, the board and Chipps have been discussing how to ensure a smooth transition in selecting the next president.

"Dr. Chipps has finalized his plans for his last official day serving as president to be May 31, 2019. We certainly appreciate his desire to move the process forward," said Steve Anderson, of Concord, board chair. "The goal of the Board of Governors is to recognize and honor Dr. Chipps' stellar 40-year career in higher education. Conversely, as we are about to close another academic year, it is prudent for us as a board to begin the search for our next president."

Anderson called Chipps an exemplary leader during his seven years at Northeast.

"He has led this institution to new initiatives, programming and other opportunities that have allowed our students to excel and have a 'full college experience.' We will be forever grateful to his dedication, his commitment and his work in solidifying Northeast's reputation as among the nation's top rural community colleges."

Anderson said as the board works to identify the next president, interim leadership will be taking over beginning June 1, and the plan will be considered at the May 9th Board of Governors meeting.

He is confident the Board of Governors will find a new, qualified leader for the college.

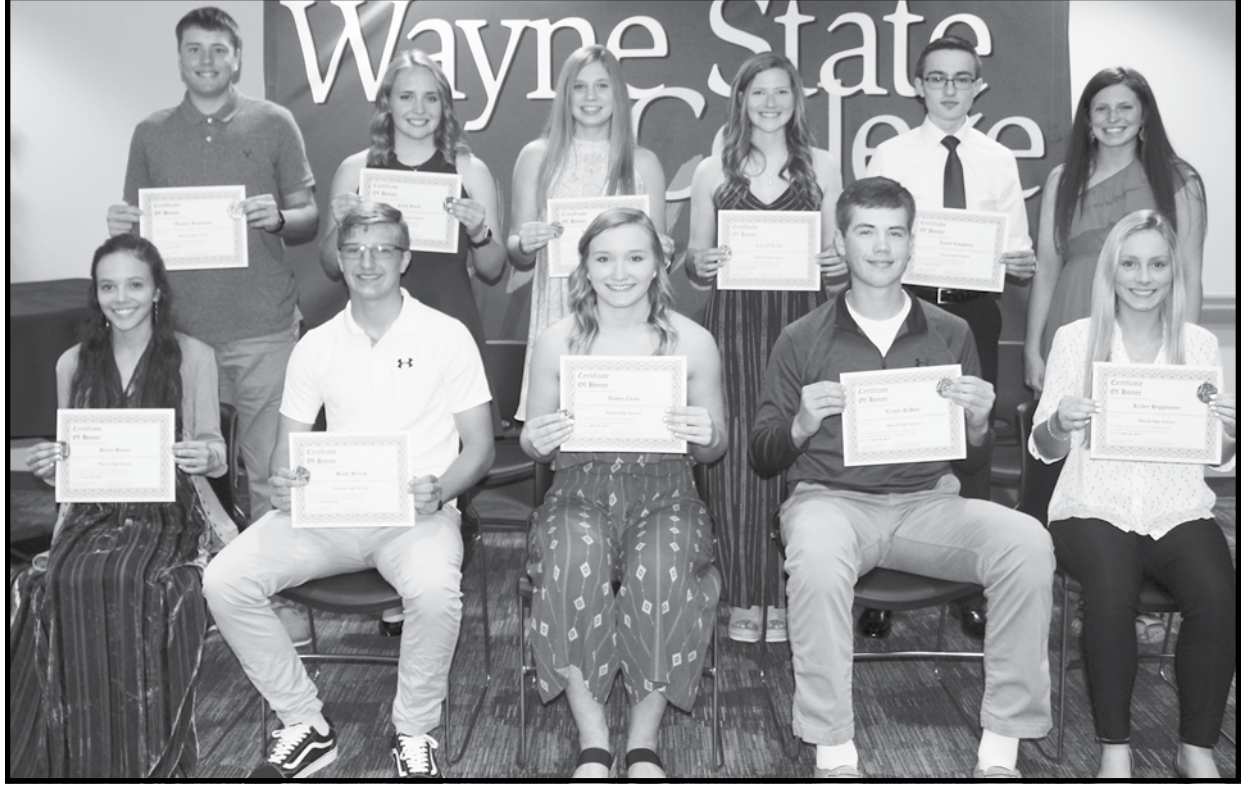

"With as much as we have going on, the drive to carry our initiatives forward, the reputation we have earned, and with the faculty and staff we have, Northeast Community College is a most desirable place. With that said, the board will move forward immediately to seek our new president," Anderson said.

A public reception to celebrate Chipps' career will be held following the Board of Governors' next meeting on Thursday, May 9. It will be held from 2-5 p.m., in the Hawks Point Dining Facility on the Norfolk campus. In order to accommodate the reception, the start time for the board's regular meeting has been moved from 3 p.m. to 1 p.m. on May 9, in the College Welcome Center.

Sharing a tornado experience

We have always had sort of a tornado plan; living in Nebraska, you have to... but I've only been involved in a couple real warnings. One, at Winside school, when Sue was in sixth grade and they were putting on a little play for parents on a spring afternoon.

When the sirens went off, we all went to a basement; I think it was the place where the students did ceramics, and hunkered down to wait for the all clear. Some of the little ones were crying. When we got out, we heard that it had touched down just west of town, and it had! But it also hit Omaha, bad, including Bergan Hospital, so ours did not receive any special notice.

Then, my last summer at the hospital, I was night supervisor when we had to move patients into the halls. I ended up with the new moms and babes in what I think was the post operative recovery rooms. Again, no big deal.

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

This past Sunday eve, a good friend of ours who is now head of the Cather department at UNL was seeing the fruition of an idea of hers to use one of the books to create a song cycle. The composer read the most significant novels and chose "My Antonia."

He even visited Red Cloud and of course, the Cather archives at the University. The Lincoln Symphony Orchestra was to perform it at the Lied, featuring a guest violinist and vocalist. It was a big night for our friend, and we were excited to hear it.

Kay went to an early "pre-talk" and I elected to go for the 6 p.m. performance. Sue came to stay with her dad, and I left the house at 5:15. When I was almost downtown, the tornado sirens started wailing. I could not see a funnel and the other cars kept moving, so I did, too. But it was scary.

It started to rain and I was very impatient with the red lights. I hustled into the car park and grabbed my rain coat and headed for the elevator. I decided that might not be such a good idea, so walked down the steps. When I came out, I was right across from the performance hall, so ran in the puddles in the street. Ushers were saying, "don't worry about your tickets. Get in and go to any seat!"

As you probably know, a tornado did hit west of town and we waited quite a while for our program, but it was all worth it. The famous Lee's chicken place looked kind of beat up; after all, it's an old building. But, once again, I was fortunate. And the season has just begun, right? Time to review our plan. And hope for the best.

Achieve uniform plant emergence for better yields

This spring has been a challenge for many farmers to get crops planted. On a recent call with my counterparts across the state, some reported 75 percent or more of the corn planted while I was estimating that 15 to 20 percent of the corn was planted in our area. Corn planting has been delayed by cool temperatures and frequent rains this spring.

Spring rains resulted in saturated soils, cool soil temperatures and soil conditions below most of our standards for planting. Yet the calendar presses us into thinking we are losing yield potential because of delayed planting. Some farmers were guilty of 'mudding in' at least some corn this year. Others may have planted too fast and rough fields resulted in planter bounce and uneven planting depths.

Seeding depths around two inches are optimum for most conditions. Two root systems exist in corn, the first helping to establish the young seedling and the second carrying it through the entire season. The seminal roots emerge from the seed while the nodal roots emerge above these, at the lower nodes.

Planting too shallow results in shallow nodal root formation. The nodal roots form at a relatively consistent soil depth of 3/4 of an inch regardless of planting depth. This is triggered by light interception as the seedling grows toward the soil surface. Planting too shallow results in a very short mesocotyl and, as a result, very little distance between the seminal and nodal root systems.

John Wilson
Extension Educator

All of this may spell trouble. Although soil temperatures at the surface warm up faster than deeper in the profile, it also dries faster. Seed planted into dry soils may not germinate, or worse, may imbibe moisture and then die without timely rains. Corn will absorb 30 to 35 percent of its weight in water before germinating, soybean absorbs 50 percent.

When planted into dry soils, whether shallow or not, corn emerges more erratically than soybeans. Planting corn shallow also exposes seedlings to more potential damage from either pre-plant or pre-emergence herbicides as well as fertilizer injury.

Shallow nodal root formation often shows up as rootless corn syndrome. Even later during the growing season, plants are more susceptible to root lodging when planted shallow due to inadequate root formation below and above ground.

In addition to all of these plant responses to shallow planting, it is good to remember that planter closing wheels are designed for two inch planting depths. In ideal conditions, the best seed to soil contact occurs at two inches.

On average, a two-inch planting depth ensures the best root formation and potential for uniform emergence. Planting deeper delays emergence. Nevertheless, the best planting depth varies a bit with soil conditions and with current and impending weather. For example, in cool, early spring soils, planting at 1 1/2 inch deep may work well. Yet in dry conditions, the planting depth may need to be deeper than two inches to tap into consistent moisture. In general, more problems occur with shallow planting than with deep planting. Never plant shallower than 1 1/2 inches.

Also, check planter settings often. All of us have the tendency to want to hurry up and plant and assume everything is OK. Check the actual planting depth every time you enter a new field or plant in different soil and moisture conditions.

So take the extra time to check your planting depth and seed placement. The time it takes will be offset by better yields this fall. Plant-to-plant uniformity in germination, emergence, and growth are essential to maximize yields. Ideally, every plant should look like every other plant.

For more information on planting for a uniform crop, contact your local Nebraska Extension office.

Retired School Personnel meet in Wayne

The Wayne Area Association of Retired School Personnel met May 6 at Brookdale in Wayne.

After a pre-meeting coffee and social gathering, President Pat Jenkins-Rohde called the meeting to order. Nine members and two guests were present.

Remembrance passages were read from a magazine article followed by members sharing memories of Caroline Peterson, a long time member who passed away recently.

Pat Jenkins-Rohde gave a community service report after reading a passage from Guideposts.

"In our lives it is important to find our purpose. Purpose comes from passion, mission, vocation, and profession. Doing what you love on a daily basis is purpose. When we volunteer or do good things for others, our purpose becomes more defined. All members keep track of their volunteer hours, and the tally of those hours is outstanding," she said.

Three new members will join the group at the next meeting. They are Becky and Bill Wilson and Dorothy Lipp.

Charles Maier gave a report on shams and scams. Cyber hackers are scamming corporation, hospital, business, and individual email accounts and phones. Most software is untraceable. The FBI and other government agencies are working on scam research. Scams are global, so most come from Iran, China, and Russia.

Alice Rohde gave a report on gratitude. When something bad happens in life, people can try to focus on the positive side. An example was given of a man who lost his wife at a very young age. He was grateful for all the little things hospital staff, family members and friends did to make the last days of her life special.

Mary Lou George gave a legislative report. In 1994, Nebraska citizens lost their right to petition their government. Nebraska has the highest signature requirement in the country. The legislative session is starting to wind down, and it is important to contact your state senators and let them know your opinions on issues that are up for vote.

Jenny Gubbels was presented the 2019 Chapter and REA Unit Community Service Award. She has been organizing The Aspiring Young Authors Festival for many years. Hundreds of our area youth have been recognized for their writing talents through the years. She gave a report on this year's festival.

The NARSP Active Educators Scholarship representative has been chosen from a group of very qualified applicants. The state winner will be chosen in the near future.

The next meeting will be held Monday, July 1. This will be a Fourth of July picnic at Brookdale in Wayne at noon. The program will feature Alaska highlights.

Nebraska Extension Board - Wayne County meeting planned

The Nebraska Extension Board in Wayne County will meet on Tuesday, May 14 at the Wayne County Courthouse. The 6:15 p.m. meeting is open to the public. An agenda is available at the Extension Office, 510 Pearl Street, Suite C, in Wayne for public inspection during normal business hours.

Christmas Morning – For Farmers It's In May

Three years ago this week I began writing these articles and doing these videos. In the three years that have come and gone, I have covered a lot of ground. One thing I have found is that I tend to gravitate toward some common topics each year, even though the timing isn't always the same. We all know that Christmas is December 25th, and furniture and electronic stores like to promote Christmas in July. But for those of us in our area of the world, our Christmas day on the farm happens sometime in early May (usually).

Watching days get crossed off the calendar after planting until emergence is much like an Advent calendar. Scratching the dirt and digging is the farmer's equivalent to shaking wrapping paper covered boxes. And while I could continue with silly similarities, the emotions and anticipation are no doubt parallel. Then it's finally here, the day that our crops emerge for the year. It's like being six years old again on Christmas morning and finally finding out that you got what your heart desired - green fields.

But the similarities don't stop there. Sometimes your stand isn't what you wanted or expected — kind of like getting socks from your Grandma. You are appreciative but disappointed.

The time for me to talk about the importance of consistency in seeding depth and planting into consistent moisture has passed. So, if you remember my 10 rules last week, it is going to be time to put rule #10 into play. Measure your planters' performance in May and June. But what is the best way to do that you might ask? You have two choices, flags, or the Precision Planting Pogo.

What we are going to do is get ourselves 150 flags of one color, 50 flags of another color, and a black marker. On the day that your corn begins to emerge, I want you to go out and mark every plant that has come out of the ground with a flag that you have written "1" on. On day two, mark every new plant with a flag with "2" on it. On day three, mark every new plant with a flag with "3" on it. Then we aren't going to come back until day ten, and mark any new plants with a "W" for weed. Finally, we are going to take our second color flag and mark any skips or doubles, or spacing that is off by more than two inches that we have out there. Do this in at least three spots to get an average of planter performance.

After day ten, we count. Count every "1" that we have out here, and divide by our target population, and so on for all of our different flags. For optimum yield, the percentage of emergence on day one and two combined should be 97% or better, with 85% or more emerging on the same day. If you have more than 5% emergence after day number three, call our equipment team. There is work to be done on your planter that will pay you back several times over. We also need to look closely at that second set of flags. If we have more than 3% for spacing error, doubles or skips, we have meter or seed tube issues we need to investigate.

Again this year though, our ACS Equipment team will have a chance to extend what we can do and take more measurements out in the field after the crop is up and growing through V5. Precision Planting developed an app called POGO Research that works with a tool we call the POGO stick. This tool digitally connects to our iPad and the tool to let us measure spacing, singulation, and emergence. The POGO platform isn't a replacement for the flagging process on our fields. It is really looking at the horizontal placing of our seeds (meter and seed tubes), more than the vertical spacing (seeding depth and emergence.) But even with that being said, it will still give us the ability to "get an idea" of our emergence.

So this is where the Christmas analogy ends. Christmas is the end of the wants and desires that we had for the days and weeks leading up to that day. Emergence day is the visible payoff for planting, but it is just the beginning of a growing season that will have many emotions over the next several months. Doing this work at emergence time not only tells us about our planter performance, it also helps us core and rank fields for potential, and gives us tangible info to use as we make other decisions during the year. So relax and congratulate yourself on a job well done as the corn comes up, but stay after it, there is still a lot to do.
