Laurel family finally finds 'A Kidney for Rachel'

By Kdra Sommersted-Simmons
For The Wayne Herald

High school is a time with few things to worry about, especially during senior year. However, that isn't the case for Rachel Hangman. Not only does she have to worry about homework, friends, and dances, she has the added worry of her kidneys.

Hangman was diagnosed with vesicoureteral reflux (VUR) at six months old. At 11 months old she had an eight hour surgery to correct the VUR and other related complications. When she was in kindergarten the reflux returned and doctors discovered that her good kidney was having trouble, which meant another surgery followed by medications and weekly shots.

She was stable until May 2018 when she suddenly started losing weight, was always tired, had no appetite, and stopped growing. — All signs of kidney failure.

Last fall doctors told her it was time for dialysis. She had surgery for the dialysis tube in September, and started dialysis in October.

Dialysis is not an easy treatment. She and her family have to make sure that everything is clean: her machine and solutions. Hangman has to hook herself up to the machine every night at nine and be on the machine for nine hours each night. The machine does what her kidneys are supposed to do. If it doesn't drain right or she wasn't on it for nine hours, she would have to be late for school and on it longer. Even as difficult as dialysis is it was the option that allowed her the most time at home instead of at a hospital.

Even so, all of the procedures and check-ups means that Hangman has missed many school days to travel to Omaha twice a month for appointments.

Soon she will be receiving a kidney from a donor. She and her family are a part of the pair-a-donation.

Pair-a-donation works as a kidney swap between two families. While no one in Hangman's family is a tissue match, they are a match for another patient needing a kidney. Hangman's aunt was a match with a patient in a similar predicament, so each patient will receive a donation from the other family.

After receiving her new kidney, Hangman will no longer be on dialysis. Instead, she will be taking 10 pills daily for the rest of her life to prevent rejection of the kidneys.

Rachel Hangman, of Laurel, has suffered from kidney disease since infancy. Soon, she'll be receiving a transplant.

County commissioners meet

Road and bridge updates dominated the discussion at the first Wayne County Commissioners meeting in the month of June.

The Temme Bridge, a roughly $880,000 federal aid project that has been in the works for several years, may hit another snag. Highway Superintendent, Mark Casey, said Herbst Construction, the company contracted for the project, reached out to see if work could be delayed yet again, this time until Aug. 12 without penalty.

Both Casey and the commissioners had concerns that approving an August start date may lead to the request for even later start dates. The commissioners asked Casey to contact the Nebraska Department of Transportation to see if the commissioners can approve the Aug. 12 start date, but apply retroactive penalties going back to June 3, the originally scheduled project start date, if Herbst Construction doesn't begin work by August.

While no action was taken, the commissioners discussed where to place a water line the City of Wayne is discussing placing in the County's right of way. District 1 commissioner, Terry Sievers said he'd prefer to place water lines at least eight feet deep down the center of the county road, while District 2 commissioner Dean Burbach had concerns about that placement. The City will consult with JEO Consulting before the commissioners make any sort of decision.

The commissioners voted unanimously to approve Resolution No. 19-05, a resolution to provide joint services between the City of Wayne and County of Wayne.

County Assessor Dawn Duffy set the date of the next rural property protest hearings for Tuesday, July 16, following the regular Wayne County Commissioners meeting.

The next Wayne County Commissioners meeting will be held in the Wayne County Courtroom at 9 a.m. on Tuesday, June 18.

Several resolutions passed during council meeting

In a meeting that lasted less than one half hour, the Wayne City Council approved five resolutions, gave final approval to two ordinances and first reading approval to another.

The five resolutions involve declaring locations along the Phase 2 Trail to remain public. These include the Community Activity Center, Ashley park, the west water tower, an area in the Western Ridge II Addition and space currently used for utility and greenspace purposes.

City Administrator Wes Blecke said the city has received notification that bid letting for the project is scheduled for July with construction to begin in September.

Council members gave final approval to two ordinances regarding parking in the southwest portion of Wayne. The area involved is on South Sherman Street and Grainland Road.

First reading approval was given for Ordinance 2019-7, which adopts the Standard Specifications for Construction of Water, Sewer, Storm Sewer and Paving manual for the city.

City Planner Joel Hansen told the council

he had worked with city employees Jeff Brady and Casey Junck to go over the language in the manual. He also discussed with a local contractor the wording to be included in the manual.

Council members also approved a request from the Wayne Kiwanis Club to close off a half block of Second Street on Saturday, July 13 from 6 a.m. until the start of the Chicken Show parade.

Bob Foxhoven, representing the Kiwanis Club, spoke to the council on the need to move the location of the club's omelet feed. He said the street location would allow parade goers the opportunity to attend the omelet feed and noted that the street would be closed for the parade later that morning.

A resolution was passed in regard to accepting the work on the Beaumont First Addition Water and Sewer Extension Project. This will allow the city to formally accept the project and assess the costs of the project to the property owners.

Council members also set the date for the Board of Equalization hearing on Water Extension District No 2017-01. This public hearing will be held Tuesday, June 18 at 5:30 p.m. during the council's next regularly scheduled meeting.

Caring and congenial

Allie Davis, registered nurse at Providence Medical Center in Wayne, was named the 2019 first quarter Congeniality Award winner. In the nomination that was read at Chamber Coffee, special note was made of how comforting Davis' kindness is to patients when they come in for treatment.

Legacy Fund meeting exceeds expectations

An unexpectedly large crowd attended the Wayne Area Legacy Fund visioning session on May 30.

Over 60 citizens gathered to discuss one big topic - What future do we want for Wayne? WALF chairman Bill Dickey said he was happy with the turnout.

"I think there's a lot of interest with some of the things that are going on with the after school program, some of the opportunities that people will have for some grant dollars coming in July and August will be available to the Legacy," Dickey said. "I just think that there's a lot of people in the community that are interested in what's going on."

Wayne High graduate, Kara Weander-Gaster, and Janny Crotty, from the Nebraska Community Foundation (NCF) facilitated a discussion about what makes northeast Nebraskans proud of their communities and how to get them to an ideal place in 20 years.

The diverse make-up of those in attendance helped get a full picture what Wayne, as a community, wants.

"I really appreciated that we had a diverse group, both in not only interest, occupation, business, but also ages from high school all the way through seniors," Dickey said. "It was just really well balanced. We had people from the college, from community schools, from the business district, from the hospital. It was a real collaborative effort thing, just to be able to do that."

Several common themes came up amongst the nine break-out groups participating in the discussion. Housing, growing the business community in Wayne and access to health care and culture were among popular topics. At the end of the night, participants were able to volunteer themselves to work on issues brought up during the discussion.

WALF members will now go over topics brought up at the meeting.

"We will sit down with the facilitators from that meeting, and we will have an opportunity to analyze the information and have a chance to review the handouts that were given to the volunteers for information as far as who is interested in serving in what capacity and possibly reviewing that information that came in as well," Dickey said.

WALF has funded several projects for community betterment, not just in Wayne but in the surrounding area, since its founding in 2017. The organization also hopes to create a $1 million endowment, which would, ideally, be able to support grants for area not-for-profit organizations.

Looking Ahead in Wayne

By Wes Blecke, City Administrator

City Council meetings

Regular Wayne City Council meetings are at 5:30 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month in City Hall at Third and Pearl Streets. It would be our honor to have you join us for a meeting.

Trail Update (Phase II)

Is the trail that was first approved back in 2003 really about to be built?

The State of Nebraska Department of Transportation recently contacted the City and indicated the trail should be advertised for bids in mid to late June with a bid letting in July. The tentative construction start date is Sept. 23. This is all for 2019!

I know what you are thinking... we have heard this before! I am with you; I won't actually believe it until I see the advertisement myself. But with that said, we are much further than we have been before. The State still has to obtain qualified bidders and ultimately accept the bid obviously before construction can commence. Hold your breath because this might actually happen. Stay tuned for more updates.

Trail Update Repair (Phase I)

Thank you for your patience with the closure from the flood damage on the trail segment at Highway 15 (Victor Park). The City is waiting to have a FEMA case worker assigned to the project before we can proceed with repairs.

An initial cost estimate was nearly $1 million to replace that segment. Why so much you might ask? Anytime you are working around water and having to stabilize a creek bank, it is going to be more expensive. We currently believe that the City will be responsible for around 12 percent of the cost. We will try to keep you updated on these actions as well, but for now we are in a holding state.

Grant Funds

The City has utilized grant funding in the past to leverage our own investment with those funds. I feel the City has been very successful in doing so, not just with the current Mayor and Council but previous ones as well.

The current projects using grant funds include both the ADA pedestrian improvements (2019) as well as Nebraska Street improvements (2020). We are considering applying for another grant by the end of August. One potential project staff is considering is some, if not all, of Pine Heights. There have been some utility issues along this street as well as the obvious "wear-out" at the intersections of 10th and Pine Heights and 9th and Pine Heights. There are other areas of the City that need repairs/replacement as well. We know there are a couple areas in the Westwood Addition needing attention as well as others around town.

If you have sections of streets or utilities that you would like the City to address (at least get on the One and Six Year Plan so we can address them), please let Joel Hansen or me know.

Poisonings still happen in summertime

Summer is usually a time for enjoying picnics, swimming and grilling out. It can also be a time for more poisonings because the days are longer and children are outdoors more.

As the seasons and weather change, so do the types of calls to the Nebraska Regional Poison Center. Some examples of calls to the Poison Center in the summer months include; bites and stings, insect repellents, hydrocarbons, glow sticks, fireworks, food poisoning, and swimming pool chlorine.

Bites and Stings: This category can include bee stings, spider and snake bites. Close observation for allergic reactions is important, especially in the first hour after a sting. Ice is ok for most stings and bites, with the exception of snake bites. Some of the old wives tales on treating bites and stings aren't always correct. Always call the Poison Center for assistance.

Insect Repellents: Only use insect repellents that are meant to be used on the skin. Avoid over-application. The long word for DEET is N,N-diethyl-m-toluamide. Most labels will have the long chemical word listed. Use concentrations < 20 percent. A higher concentration does not mean that the product will work better, rather it means that it will be effective for a longer period of time. Use repellents only when outdoors and wash skin with soap and water when coming in. Picaridin is an odorless synthetic ingredient found in some bug repellents and is a safe alternative to use on children. Follow all label directions.

Hydrocarbons: This category can include gasoline, kerosene, lighter fluids and torch fuels. The hydrocarbon group is slick and oily. One of the main risks with ingestion is that it may "slip" into the lung causing a chemical pneumonia. Store all of these products in the original container and well out of reach of little hands.

Glow Sticks: Glow sticks are a common call to the Poison Center. The liquid on contact with mouth, skin and eyes can be irritating.

Fireworks: Fireworks may contain a number of toxic chemicals and can be dangerous if swallowed. Always call the Poison Center for case specific recommendations.

Food Poisoning: When firing up the grill or heading to a picnic, it's important to take some precautions. Remember to keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. The USDA recommends fully cooking all meats to ensure bacteria are destroyed to prevent food poisoning. Meats should be cooked to 160 degrees. Always use a food thermometer.

Swimming pool chlorine: When too much chlorine is added to water in a swimming pool, contact with the skin and eyes may result in redness and a burning sensation. If you suspect an overly chlorinated pool, rinse your skin and eyes immediately, contact the lifeguard/pool manager, and call the Poison Center. Chlorine from an indoor pool, or opening a container of chlorine pool tablets may cause coughing or tightness in the lungs. Seek fresh air immediately.

The Nebraska Regional Poison Center is a free community service to the public.

Call 1-800-222-1222 and talk immediately to a Registered Nurse or Pharmacist 24/7/365.

A Kidney for Rachel

"I can't play sports anymore," Hangman said. "Just in case it hits my stomach or something."

She said not playing volleyball is the most disappointing aspect for her, but she has to make sure nothing happens to the dialysis tube that is wrapped around her stomach. Before going on dialysis, Hangman played volleyball for the Laurel-Concord-Coleridge Lady Bears. With her new kidneys, she will be able to play volleyball again but only after her senior year. Along with not playing sports, she can't swim in rivers and lakes but she can in chlorinated water like swimming pools and baths.

"She does all this without complaint or making excuses," Donna Hangman, her mother said. "She never gives up and tries to stay as focused as she can."

She wants others to know it's a hard fight, but she keeps going. Hangman should be receiving her transplant near the end of June.

In the beginning she will have her blood drawn two to three times a week to make sure the kidneys don't reject, and she will be taking about 30 pills for the same purpose. Hangman will be home in isolation for a month to help her not get sick with her immune system being down.

"I'm just glad I'm almost to my goal," Hangman said. "My goal is a transplant."

Her next goals are to stay healthy and graduate high school.

Donna set up "A Kidney for Rachel," a Facebook page to keep family and friends updated on her daughter's health.

"My friends and family are really supportive," Hangman said. "It's nice to have them."

Hangman's sister Emily said their aunt has made two quilts to raffle off for offsetting expenses the family has to endure. People can purchase one for five dollars or five for $20. On the Facebook page, Hangman will announce the winner of the raffle live on June 22.

The Hangmans encourage everyone to look into being organ donors. Those interested can find more information at secure.nebraskamed.com.

Economic Developers to visit Wayne for annual conference

Economic Developers from around the state will be visiting Wayne for the Nebraska Economic Developers Association (NEDA) and Nebraska Diplomats joint conference beginning Wednesday, June 12 and running through Friday, June 14. Wayne won a 2018 bid to host the conference and Wayne Area Economic Development director Luke Virgil hopes to show off the community.

"Economic developers look at communities in a very different light," Virgil said. "I'm hoping that (those who attend the conference) get a good feeling about Wayne."

The conference will be held at Wayne State College and will feature panels and breakout sessions.

Virgil said conference attendees will also have a tour of the CAT building. They will also get to see the progress the community has made in the past few years.

"Everyone talks about the tornadoes in 2013, but we've really highlighted all of the building in the last four to five years after and how people have really pushed past that," Virgil said.

Conference participants will begin arriving on Tuesday and Virgil encourages the community to be welcoming and show off the natural charm Wayne has.

"As the economic developers start arriving on June 11, we're hoping the community rolls out the red carpet," Virgil said.

The Winside Museum is currently exhibiting a collection of uniforms from all branches of the military dating from World War I until present day. The display will be in Winside until June 16.

Winside museum display honoring our veterans

The Winside Museum paid tribute Memorial Day weekend to veterans from all branches of the military with a Military Uniform and Memorabilia exhibit of veterans from World War I through present day.

The museum has over 30 uniforms that have been given by their loved ones who remember them proudly wearing it to protect our freedoms. The uniforms tell the stories of the veterans who have represented the community honorably during several of the war periods our country has been in.

"We are proud to claim that we have a uniform of a USS Indianapolis survivor who served during WW II; the uniform of a prisoner of war who served in the U.S. Army in the European Theatre and was liberated from Stalag VH-A at Moosburg, Germany by American forces; and memorabilia from a Navy Pilot who named his jet, the "Village of Winside," said committee member Shelli Keiser.

The committee worked very hard on this project, including having all the uniforms cleaned. This was made possible by the a generous donation by the Sons of American Legion Squadron #252 (SAL) of Winside.

Committee members responsible for the display and cleaning were Lori Finn, Shelli Keiser, Jan Topp, Bob and Peg Krueger.

The church museum will again be open for viewing of this display of military uniforms and memorabilia on Sunday, June 16 from 1 to 4 p.m. during the Winside Old Settlers car/tractor show.

"Come in and see this extra impressive display and learn the histories of our area service members," Keiser said.

NEST 529 encourages summer reading in annual Read and Win $529 Drawing

Nebraska State Treasurer John Murante and First National Bank of Omaha announced the annual NEST Read and Win $529 Drawing.

Open to submissions from Nebraska residents beginning June 1 through Aug. 16, the Read and Win Drawing invites readers statewide, aged 12 years old and younger, to enter for a chance to win a $529 contribution into a NEST 529 College Savings Plan account.

Five entrants in each of Nebraska's three congressional districts will be randomly selected for a total of 15 winners, each of whom will be awarded a $529 account contribution. Each winner's local library—specified on their entry to the Drawing—will also receive a prize of $250.

"From novels to picture books and everything in between, reading is a way for us all to connect with each other, broaden our understanding and expand our knowledge of the world," said Treasurer Murante. "We hope to instill this lesson in readers throughout Nebraska with the Read and Win $529 Drawing, and are pleased to continue supporting children across the state in pursuit of their academic goals."

"The NEST Read and Win $529 Drawing is a prime opportunity to show the wealth of positive benefits that result from developing and maintaining a strong aptitude for reading. Not only is reading the foundation for a potential-filled future, it's also a skill that pays dividends financially—both through this scholarship and well into one's academic and professional careers," said Deborah Goodkin, Managing Director, Savings Plans, First National Bank of Omaha. "We look forward to rewarding another group of young summer readers for their dedication to academic and financial preparedness, and are proud to help support the local libraries in their work."

NCC begins presidential search process

The Northeast Community College Board of Governors is beginning a national search for the institution's next president.

It has secured the Pauly Group, a Springfield, Ill. organization that conducts presidential and senior administrative searches at the community college and technical college level. Pauly Group has been providing community and technical colleges with candidates for more than 25 years. Angela Provart, president, is personally involved with every search the firm conducts and works closely with her team of nine consultants and the college throughout the process.

Steve Anderson, Northeast board chairperson, said the board and an advisory committee will work with Pauly Group to conduct a national search.

"The Board of Governors recognizes the key leadership role of the college president in engaging with our various constituency groups. Therefore, we are seeking feedback on the characteristics that demonstrate that an individual has the necessary qualities, expertise and vision that reflects Northeast's commitment to student success and the region it serves."

Anderson said the board will establish time in conjunction with its next monthly meeting to hear from various stakeholders and constituents to determine what they feel are important attributes for Northeast's next president. This includes meetings with faculty and staff followed by a community forum conducted by Pauly Group representatives.

"I encourage members of the public to attend the open forum in order to give us their collective opinion in what they desire in the next leader of the college. This is a great opportunity for the board to hear from our constituents as well as faculty and staff as we move forward in the search process."

The community forum will be held Thursday, June 13, from 5-6 p.m. in the Lifelong Learning Center on Northeast's Norfolk campus. In addition, Northeast's three extended campuses in O'Neill, South Sioux City and West Point and its two regional offices in Ainsworth and Hartington will host live viewing sites so the public may participate in the forum from those locations.

The O'Neill extended campus is located at 505 E. Highway 20, and the South Sioux City extended campus is at 1001 College Way. The forum may be viewed in West Point in the Donald E. Nielsen Career and Technical Education Center at 200 W. Washington St. The Ainsworth office is located in the ESU #17 Training Center at 1292 E. 4th St. (E. Highway 20). The forum in Hartington may be viewed at Hartington-Newcastle Schools at 501 S. Broadway Ave.

For those unable to attend the forum, a brief online survey will be available from June 14 - June 28.

"We will continue posting frequent updates of the search process on the Northeast website," Anderson said. "We look forward to receiving feedback as we undertake this most important endeavor."

In order to accommodate the schedule on June 13, the start time of the board's regular monthly meeting will be held one-hour later at 4 p.m., in Room 1108-B in the College Welcome Center on the Norfolk campus.

The Wayne Community Theatre group finally has a place to call home and the thespians are making good use of their new facility in preparing for the summer production of Annie, which will be staged in July.

The new theatre home in Mineshaft Mall is currently being renovated to be used as a permanent community theatre with seating for 125. The goal of the group is to have the facility finished this summer.

The project, the brain child of Ted Blenderman and Dave Headly, was brought before the community theatre board about a year ago.

Anxious to have a home base for rehearsals and set preparations, the board approved renting the southeast section of the building and work began to "gut out" the facility. Plans for the new theatre include a portable stage, moveable proscenium and platformed seating for the audience.

The Wayne Community Theatre was first organized in 1937 as The Wayne Players. Over the years dramatic activity died down and eventually ceased. Renewed interest in the 1970s brought a revival of the organization as an extension of the Wayne Arts Council. Assistance in the revival was offered by the late Henry Ley and Helen J. Russell and the theatre group has been offering entertainment to the community for over 20 years.

"We've enjoyed many years of good business here," Larry DeForge, manager, remarked Friday. "The remodeling program is an expression of Gamble's interest in the future of Wayne."

DeForge has been manager of the local Gamble store for over four years. He said that some of the company's executives will be present for the grand opening Wednesday and the firm will have marked down a lot of merchandise for the occasion, plus having a drawing.

Wayne FFA members learn about corn planting

Several members of the Wayne FFA, along with Advisor Toni Rasmussen and Kurt Daum, planted 10 acres of corn just north of Wayne on May 16. The land and inputs (seed and fertilizer) have been donated to the FFA for use this season by Kevin Koenig.

The students took turns driving the tractor and learned about seed population and other vital elements of growing the crop. Through this experience, students are able to gain hands-on experience with production agriculture. Throughout the summer, Wayne

FFA plans to host crop scouting days and a field day. Students will also be involved in harvesting the crop this fall. "Thank you to Kevin Koenig and Kurt Daum for providing this valuable experience for the students," said FFA Reporter Noah Lutt.

Service learning and citizenship for youth

Most of us have done some type of a community service project. Maybe picking up trash along a roadway, donating resources for a food drive, or visiting residents at a nursing home.

This is one step to be more community focused for youth audiences. A core activity of positive youth development programs should deal with service learning opportunities for youth. What does this mean? Youth are able to examine the issues in the community and develop a plan to achieve the project. They are able to apply knowledge, skills, and critical thinking to the problem.

Dakota County

Angela Abts

Extension Educator

UNL Extension

There are three components to a service learning project: youth involvement; meaningful service; and reflection. Youth will be able to learn valuable skills as they plan, organize, and implement the project. They may see a need in a community that adults have not addressed before, and adults play a critical role in helping youth prioritize the community needs.

A key component of service learning is reflection which occurs before, during, and following the project. They are able to reflect on the experience to discuss the "What", "So What", and "Now What". Youth are able to make the connections of the service project and how it will influence lifelong learning.

Here are the five steps to implement a service learning project:

1. Assess and identify the need;
2. Plan and prepare;
3. Experience meaningful service;
4. Analysis and evaluation;
5. Celebration.

Service learning ties in well with citizenship and leadership development for youth audiences.

What does citizenship mean to you? The definition of citizenship is the character of an individual viewed as a member of society. This definition happens to follow the mission of the National 4-H program to empower young people to be well-informed citizens who are actively engaged in their communities and the world. 4-H is a valuable program to teach all youth about using positive character traits to help within the community. The service learning projects that youth are able to address can fall into the 150 different 4-H projects offered in Nebraska 4-H. All 4-H youth can challenge themselves to try new service activities within their projects to develop a sense of volunteerism for their community.

Learning about service learning, citizenship and leadership happens all the time within 4-H activities. Youth might serve as an officer of a club to learn about parliamentary procedure, join a committee to plan out an event for the club, or be a part of the service learning project.

One of the capstone events familiar to many is the 4-H CWF (Citizenship Washington Focus) trip that youth attend during their high school career. 4-H teens learn about citizenship and how they are a contributing member of society; travel to Washington, D.C., to see the United States government in action and learn about the past through historical sites, and plan a service learning project that they could complete after the project.

There are many opportunities for youth to serve our local communities.

For more information about the 4-H and Youth Development, please contact the University of Nebraska Lincoln Extension Office in your local county or visit the website at <http://4h.unl.edu/>.

Four marks of a true man

By Clint Decker
Hope for Today

Like most men, I learned what a man was primarily from my father, other men in my community and on TV. My favorite TV character growing up was the Six Million Dollar Man. When I was 20 years old though, my life changed when I came to know the supreme model of manhood - Jesus. He taught me what it was to be a real man. Jesus said, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life" (John 14:6). Truth refers to reality, what is not hidden. The life of Jesus was lived openly. He showed the world how to live a perfect life, no matter if someone is a man, woman, or child. In Jesus, I see what kind of man I am to be.

1. A real man has purpose. Jesus said, "I must preach the good news of the kingdom of God to the other towns as well; for I was sent for this purpose" (Luke 4:43). Jesus had a purpose for His life and work. What about you? When you follow Christ with all your heart, He will show you your purpose. Read His Word. Ask Him, then patiently wait, and He will reveal it to you.

2. A real man has love. Jesus said, "... just as I have loved you, you also are to love one another" (John 13:34). Jesus loved a small group of men He mentored. He loved by telling them directly and showing them through acts of service. Jesus' greatest demonstration of love was when He died and rose again for the sins of the world. He modeled love through sacrifice, by putting the needs of others above Himself, even to the point of death. Men, love your wife, family members, friends and even your enemies, the way Jesus did.

3. A real man has a pure heart. Jesus said, "... everyone who looks at a woman with lustful intent has already committed adultery with her in his heart" (Matthew 5:28). Jesus was single, ministered to women and had women among those who followed Him, yet in all this, He never lusted. He was pure in mind, heart and body. Men, say no to pornography. Say no to sex outside of marriage. Say yes to Jesus, and invite Him to purify your mind and give you power over temptation.

4. A real man has right priorities. Jesus said, "... what does it profit a man to gain the whole world and forfeit his soul? (Mark 8:36). Jesus was incredibly successful. Yet, despite His celebrity, He forfeited the riches of this world for something far greater. Men, be excellent in all you do, but do not look to your career, possessions, income or achievements for your worth or identity. Live for more than that. Do not forfeit your eternal soul in the pursuit of temporal things that provide momentary pleasure. Live fully and wholly for Jesus. In Him is found everything you need in life.

Do you want to know what a real man is? Look to Jesus! Follow Him and change your family tree for generations to come.

A prayer for you - "Lord God, I pray that the men who read this will become men like Jesus. Help them to have purpose in life and work, to love like Jesus did, to have a pure heart and for you to be their number one priority. Enable them to take the first step today by turning to you and away from their sin. Bring them to call upon you in belief and for forgiveness, then transform them into new men. In Jesus' name. Amen."

We are not meant to do life alone

John Maxwell tells the following story:

There was a brick layer who tried to move 500 pounds of bricks from the top of a four story building to the sidewalk below. His problem was that he tried to do it alone.

On an insurance claim form, he explained what happened: "It would have taken too long to carry the bricks down by hand, so I decided to put them in a barrel and lower them by a pulley which I had fastened to the top of the building. After tying the rope securely at the ground level, I then went up to the top of the building. I fastened the rope around the barrel loaded it with bricks and swung it out over the sidewalk for the descent. Then I went down to the sidewalk and untied the rope, holding it securely to guide the barrel down slowly. But, since I weigh only 140 pounds, the 500 pound load jerked me from the ground so fast I didn't have time to think of letting go of the rope.

And as I passed between the second and third floors, I met the barrel coming down. This accounts for the bruises and lacerations on my upper body. I held tightly to the rope until I reached the top, where my hand became jammed in the pulley. This accounts for my broken thumbs.

By Justin Raulston

At the same time, however the barrel hit the sidewalk with a bang and the bottom fell out. With the weight of the bricks gone, the barrel weighed only 40 pounds. Thus my 140 pound body began a swift descent, and I met the empty barrel coming up. This accounts for my broken ankle. Slowed only slightly I continued the descent and landed on the pile of bricks. This accounts for my sprained back and broken collar bone. At this point, I lost my presence of mind completely and let go of the rope. And the empty barrel came crashing down on me. This accounts for my head injuries. As for the last question on the form, "What would you do if the same situation arose again?" please be advised that I am finished trying to do the job alone."

I don't know about you, but often I'm tempted to try to do this life alone. I think I can handle it alone. I don't want to bother people, or ask for help, or be a burden. Yet the Bible over and over again tells us that we were never meant to do life alone. Clear back at the beginning of creation, God looks at Adam and says "It's not good for man to be alone." The book of Hebrews tells us to not give up the habit of meeting together, but rather encourage and exhort one another as we await Jesus return. Galatians 6:2 tells us "Carry each other's burdens, and in this way you will fulfill the law of Christ."

Even Jesus did ministry and life in community. Why do we think we can or should try to go it alone? When we try to do life alone, when we think we don't need help usually the bottom falls out, and we are left broken and banged up from life. Why not make the decision now that we are finished trying to do life alone.

Ecclesiastes 4:9-12 "Two are better than one, because they have a good return for their labor. If either of them falls down, one can help the other up. But pity anyone who falls and has no one to help them up. Also, if two lie down together, they will keep warm. But how can one keep warm alone? Though one may be overpowered, two can defend themselves. A cord of three stands is not quickly broken.

The agreement includes the following activities for the 2019-2020 school year: Junior High Football, Junior High Wrestling, Junior High Volleyball, Junior High Boys and Girls Basketball, Junior High Track, Varsity Volleyball, Varsity Girls Basketball, Varsity Wrestling, Varsity Boys and Girls Golf.

If an athlete participates in activities that are held in Wakefield, transportation will be provided by the school. Informational letters pertaining to the specific sports will be sent to parents as we get closer to the start of that activity.

One of the major changes that will take place in the second year of the cooperative agreement pertains to junior high activities. Starting in the 2019-2020 school year, junior high activities will include students from

Allen, Wakefield and Emerson-Hubbard. In addition to adding Emerson-Hubbard students to the junior high cooperative, Allen Consolidated Schools will also be adding junior high track as a sport that is shared between the three schools.

For any questions concerning the cooperative agreement for extra-curricular activities please contact the office.

Anyone can attend this insightful totally-online event by registering online at <http://bit.ly/NHFVcon> and then view the event at the weblink provided on a computer or mobile device, Thursday, June 6 at 10 a.m. CT. There is no cost to participate in the unparalleled conference.

In the opening session, National Hog Farmer Content Director Ann Hess unveils the top companies that made this year's Global Mega Producer list.

Jim Long of Genesis and Dennis Smith of Archer Financial Services will provide insight as to the market trends shaping the global hog industry in 2019 and beyond. Moderated by broadcaster Max Armstrong, with Farm Progress and This Week In Agribusiness, this will be a session not to miss.

In addition to an in-depth look at the global hog industry, the virtual conference explores the latest innovation happening at the barn level with an emphasis on achieving a higher level of individual animal management and increased performance and efficiency.

The past year has brought greater attention to the safety of the feed being given to pigs than ever before due to the outbreak of African swine fever in other countries. The pork industry has implemented important management practices to help secure the feed supply. But, there is still work to do as the ASF situation is fluid and ongoing research is conducted to guide decisions. Additional speakers include Scott Dee of Pipestone; Liz Wagstrom of the National Pork Producers Council; Leah Wilkinson of the American Feed Industry Association, and Brooke Humphrey of Provimi for a discussion on the state of feed security and research on approaches and best practices to help mitigate your risk.

The event is made possible by Provimi, ChoreTime/PigTek, Genesis, Alltech, Hubbard, Merck, Kent Nutrition Group, Pork Checkoff, Kemin, ADM Animal Nutrition, Hog Hearst and IL-Tek Lighting Solutions and International Nutrition.

Learning the 'bees'ness

What's the buzz all about? Bee hotels! Several 4-H youth from Wayne, Garfield and Madison counties constructed homes for solitary bee species at a 4-H Summer Fun Workshop hosted by Nebraska Extension in Madison County. First, the 4-Hers constructed a basic house, then they drilled various-sized holes in untreated wood blocks. The bees will nest in these holes. Bee hotel workshop participants included (left) Addyson Sherbeck, Myles Tiedtke (Wayne County 4-Hers), Callista Reichmuth, Justine Reichmuth, Kyler Schapmann, Finley Smith and Brodrick Tiedtke (Wayne County 4-Her).

Capitol View

Here's some of what lawmakers accomplished

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Despite a warning that it was a Trojan Horse, lawmakers passed a bill to allow farmers to honor a practice first tried in Nebraska in 1887, growing hemp.

More than 40 years ago I wrote about a Panhandle farmer who still had the government contracts for growing Hemp during WWII. It's not a new thing and just might be the right thing to boost a struggling agricultural economy that has been hammered by low commodity prices, tariffs and weather-related disaster.

The 2018 Farm Bill legalized the cultivation and sale of hemp by removing it from the federal Controlled Substances Act. States that wish to regulate hemp production first must submit a plan to the U.S. Department of Agriculture for approval. As passed, LB657 requires the state Department of Agriculture to establish, operate and administer a program to license and regulate those who cultivate, process, handle or broker hemp, defined as cannabis with no more than 0.3 percent delta-9 tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), the plant's main psychoactive compound.

Among other requirements, license holders must be at least 18; not have had a cultivator, processor-handler or broker license revoked in the five years preceding the application; and not have been convicted of a felony related to a controlled substance within the preceding 10 years. License holders consent to background checks; entry onto and inspection of all sites where hemp would be cultivated or processed; testing of hemp samples; destruction of hemp found to have THC concentration greater than that allowed by the act; and annual inspections by the department to verify that hemp is being grown in accordance with the law.

Before the bill (LB657) passed, one senator cautioned that this could be the Trojan Horse that opens the door to statewide legalization of marijuana. I will just assume that the senator has never smoked or talked to anyone who did smoke Nebraska Ditch Weed. Lotsa fiber, not much rush.

A fee on hemp seed and hemp fiber sold or delivered in Nebraska will pay for a commission that will periodically report to the governor and the Legislature on policies and practices that result in the legal growth, management, marketing and use of the state's hemp industry. Good for farmers.

Lawmakers approved a plan (LB149) to raise the legal age from 18 to 19 for purchasing and possessing electronic nicotine delivery systems, flavored liquids containing nicotine and tobacco products.

In an attempt to thwart the resale of such e-cigarettes and vaping devices to younger teens, individuals younger than 19 who purchase or use such devices will be guilty of a Class V misdemeanor and an individual selling or providing such products to those under 19 will be guilty of a Class III misdemeanor.

A multi-faceted crime bill (LB686) was passed. Among the provisions:

• Allowing a court to enter a deferred judgment for a person found guilty of committing a crime and placing the person on probation. After successful completion of the terms of probation, he or she would have their charge dismissed without the entry of judgment. People without felony convictions, two or more prior deferred judgments or one in the past five years are eligible.

• Prohibiting a person from bringing an electronic communication device into a correctional facility or providing it to an inmate. Violation of this provision will be a Class I misdemeanor, punishable by up to one year in prison, a $1,000 fine or both. Attorneys, public counsel employees, law enforcement and first responders are exempt from the prohibition. The Corrections director also can exempt certain staff members as necessary. Seizure of an electronic communication device is authorized.

• Prohibiting the state Department of Corrections, after March 1, 2020, from placing a member of a vulnerable population in restrictive housing. Vulnerable populations include inmates who are younger than 18, pregnant or diagnosed with serious mental illness, developmental disabilities or traumatic brain injury. The department could create secure mental health housing.

All steps in the right direction. Lawmakers passed a bill to allow counties of 150,000 or more residents (Douglas, Lancaster and Sarpy) and metropolitan and primary class cities, to use a design-build method for projects that fall under the Transportation Innovation Act. This bill is aimed at speeding up construction of Lincoln's South Beltway project to connect Nebraska Highways 77 and 2 to divert major truck traffic from Highway 2 through south Lincoln. Good for Lincoln.

Any adult employed at a residential child-caring agency would be required to pay for fingerprinting and a national criminal history record information check at least once every five years. Employees will also be checked against state sex offender, criminal and child abuse and neglect registries under the Health and Human Services Committee sponsored bill passed by the Legislature. Good for the kids.

Despite their failure to act on several major issues, lawmakers did accomplish some minor victories.

Legislative Update

The final days of the long session

We are down to our final day for this 90-day session. Yesterday on Thursday, May 30, my priority bill, LB 209, which would expand the information required to be provided during a medical abortion, passed while on final reading. This legislation will simply strengthen Nebraska's informed consent law. I believe that women deserve to know all of the medical information before receiving a chemical abortion. A medication abortion is a two pill process and my bill requires a woman be informed that it may be possible to continue their pregnancy after taking the first pill. The required information will direct the woman to the Department of Health and Human Services to be referred to a medical professional who can assist her in continuing the pregnancy. This was the longest that I have debated a bill before. The debate for this bill took all of the allotted time that it was given at every stage. We debated 10.5 hours on LB 209. The vote was 36 to 12. I am very pleased that this pro-woman bill is headed to Governor Ricketts' desk.

Even though I was a no vote on this year's budget I am pleased that we took a step in the right direction by getting the great people of the state of Nebraska some needed property tax relief. This year's budget had a 2.9 percent average two-year increase in spending. The increase rate in spending was irresponsible which is why I voted in opposition of the budget. I want to cut spending not increase it. However, I am pleased that the budget will deliver $550 million in direct property tax relief over the next two years.

Legislative Update
By Joni Albrecht
State Senator, District 17

LB 720, known also as the Imagine Act, did not pass. The Imagine Act is a replacement package for the Advantage Act for business incentives designed to keep Nebraska competitive. I was originally in favor of the bill but that changed once I saw the amendments that were put on the bill. I believed that the amendments hurt the bill rather than helped it. The amendments did not help bring any additional property tax relief which is what led several rural Senators to pull their support from LB 720. We still have another year before the Advantage Act sunsets in 2020 so I am confident that we will see some form of this bill again next year.

On May 24 we had a reading of LR 150 recognizing National Poppy Day. The Poppies were given to each Senator for the recognition of Memorial Day. U.S. Army Veteran, Dennis Otte, of Wayne, handmade the Memorial Poppies. In attendance for the reading were the Department Officers of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Beverly Neel is the Nebraska Department President of the American Legion Auxiliary. She serves as my Administrative Assistant and has been the assistant in District 17 since 2010. Her work this year has been exemplary and I am happy to have her as a part of our team.

In addition to the excitement of the end of the Legislative Session, our office is delighted to welcome a new staffer to our team! Mackenzie Martin-Fisk has joined our office as our new Legislative Aide. She will be your main contact at the Capitol office. Mackenzie has worked in both the Missouri State Capitol and the Nebraska State Capitol. She worked in the Missouri State Capitol in both the Senate and the House of Representatives for a few years before moving to Nebraska to work for a local nonprofit. After two years in the nonprofit sector, she chose to get back into state government and worked for Senator John Kuehn in District 38 for more than a year. Mackenzie and her husband, Shayne Fisk, live in Lincoln, with their three year old corgi, Athena.

The Governor's Youth Advisory Council (GYAC) is also now accepting applications. Applications are available on the NE Children and Families Foundation at projecteverlast.org/councils/gyac.html or by calling (402) 817-2003.

The First Session of the 106th Legislature is ending a week sooner than scheduled. We were set to Sine Die on June 6, but Speaker Scheer choose to end on Friday, May 31. I am excited to head back to District

17 and to be with you, my constituents, again. I will be planning town hall meetings for June so stay tuned for that. It has been a true honor and one of my greatest privileges to represent District 17 during this 90 day session.

It is of great importance that I hear from my constituents to effectively do my job as your voice in the Legislature. I encourage you to contact me and I look forward to hearing from you. You can reach me by phone at (402) 471-2716 or by email at jalbrecht@leg.ne.gov

Delayed soybean planting decisions needed

I'm sure there has been, but it's hard to remember a year when we had so much rain in April and May. This has put many farmers behind getting a crop in the ground. The only thing good I can say about this is it has kept replanting to a minimum... only because it hasn't gotten planted the first time.

The latest USDA NASS report released on May 28 showed that soybean planting was 56 percent complete across the state, behind 84 percent last year and 74 percent of average. Emergence was also delayed with 23 percent of the crop emerged compared to 49 percent last year and an average of 36 percent. Delayed planting always brings questions on what management changes should be made for the later planting date.

The question I continue to hear more is, "Should I switch to a shorter season variety?" The quick answer is, "Not yet!" Research has shown that farmers should stick with their regular maturity soybeans until around the middle of June... and hopefully everyone will be done by then.

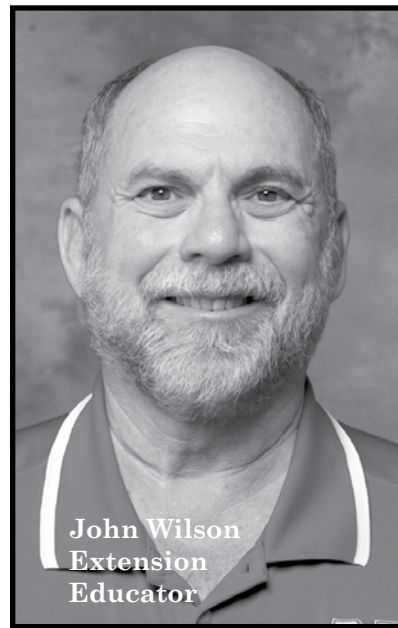

Changing to shorter maturity groups is not needed at this time because late planted soybeans will require fewer days to reach maturity than if the same variety was planted earlier. Because soybeans are photoperiod sensitive, flowering and development will be triggered by day length, resulting in similar maturity among planting dates. However, earlier plantings have more nodes and a higher yield potential.

A two-year research study conducted at the University of Nebraska compared soybean planting dates. The first year compared plantings done on May 2 and June 16. Even though planting was delayed by 45 days, maturity was only delayed 7 days for several MG 3+ soybean varieties. The following year, the study compared an April 28 and a June 17 planting date. The mid-June planting delayed maturity by 22 days even though the planting date was 50 days later.

A similar soybean maturity groups and planting dates study conducted by South Dakota State University had similar results. Switching from a 2.8 to a 1.8 MG variety at a later planting dates reduced the time to maturity by only five days. Therefore, changing maturity groups will not make a large difference in maturity date so keep this in mind if you are considering switching to an earlier maturity group.

If planting is delayed past June 15, you may want to go with an earlier MG variety recommended for your area. You might want to reduce the maturity by 0.5-1.0 MG. Frost before maturity becomes a concern with late June or early July plantings, but using a maturity group much shorter than this and you will sacrifice even more yield potential.

John Wilson
Extension
Educator

The next consideration is row spacing. With late planting, narrower row spacing are encouraged if it fits into your operation. The longest day of the year occurs on June 21, and all days get shorter after that. Soybeans need as much sunlight as possible to make pods, seed, and yield. Narrow rows will help close the canopy sooner. This helps plants capture as much sunlight as possible and also aids in weed control.

Some sources recommend increasing the seeding rate by 10 percent for soybeans planted after early June. Research at Iowa State University did not show a yield response with higher seeding rates at later planting dates. Also, given that there is a wide range of seeding rates, a blanket statement of a 10 percent increase could mean a lot of different things to different farmers.

Finally, it's important to be aware of crop insurance considerations and your options. June 10 is the last planting day to get the maximum coverage on soybeans and that drops one percent a day through July 5. Review your policy or check with your insurance agent.

In summary, right now soybean producers should:

- maintain their current maturity group, or reduce it no more than 0.5-1.0 MG in mid-June;
- narrow their row spacing if they can, and
- consider hiring someone to custom plant to finish their planting sooner.

For more information on delayed planting or replanting, visit the University of Nebraska CropWatch website at <https://CropWatch.unl.edu> or contact your local Nebraska Extension office.

Regional 4-Hers receive recognition for communication skills

Several area 4-Hers received awards at the Northeast Regional 4-H Public Speaking Contest held on May 31 at Wayne State College in Wayne.

Forty-three youth from 15 counties throughout the state competed in their respective age divisions in the 2019 Regional 4-H Speech Competition. Additionally, 23 contestants from seven counties in the northeast district competed in their respective age divisions in the 2019 Regional 4-H Public Service Announcement (PSA) competition.

Contestants earn the opportunity to participate in regional competition by winning their age division at the county level. Contestants may compete in one or both categories. Contestants are awarded purple, blue, or red awards in recognition of their accomplishments in speech or PSA; in addition, the top four individuals in each division received medals.

The four winners of the senior division speech and PSA competition are given the opportunity to compete for awards at the State 4-H Public Speaking Contest to be held in Grand Island during the Nebraska State Fair. All youth competing in state competition and staying for awards will receive special awards. The top two speech and PSA winners in State 4-H Public Speaking Contest receive scholarships.

Seniors selected to advance to the 2019 state competition from the Northeast Regional Competition in the Speech Category are: Levi Schiller, Cuming County; Paul Roscoe, Burt County; and Luke Olson and Andrew Koehlmoos, Holt County.

Seniors selected to advance to the 2019 state competition from the Northeast Regional Competition in the PSA category are: Tyson Snodgrass, Reece Snodgrass, and Anna Wooldrik, Cuming County and Ashley Pischel, Holt County.

Public speaking is a communication with many career possibilities. Present 4-H members and 4-H alumni have identified communication skills as some of the most important life skills gained through their 4-H experience.

The Nebraska State 4-H communication program is sponsored by the Nebraska Rural Radio Network, which includes KRVN, KNEB, and KTIC. The Northeast Regional contest is conducted by Nebraska Extension with support from Wayne State College.

Helping others

Members of the Country Classics 4-H Club recently collected cash donations to assist those in the ag industry who have been impacted by this spring's flooding. The local Bomgaars store matched the $500 collected and the group worked with the Farm Bureau to determine wheat there funds (in the form of Bomgaars gift cards). Added Value of Creep Feeding

Many producers are still questioning the worth of creep feeding calves this year, and understandably so with the conditions we have been dealt. Therefore, I took the time to utilize a tool from Purina Animal Nutrition called Creep Feeding Economics. What this program provides is information that compares calves being fed no creep, creep, accuration creep, and a grain-based creep.

An estimated weaning weight of a calf not supplemented with creep feed is around 500lbs, where a calf fed through our CVA creep program will wear closer to 592lbs, and a grain-based program closer to 569lbs. So let's break down the estimated returns on creep programs:

Accuration Creep: Accuration Creep program consists of 30 days of creep being feed to each calf (or until 120lbs) and then 70 days on Accuration. With creep costs of $246/ton and Accuration at $265/ton and a conversion of 4:1, the estimated return after figuring interest and labor costs is $50.79. The projected average daily gain, or ADG, is .88.

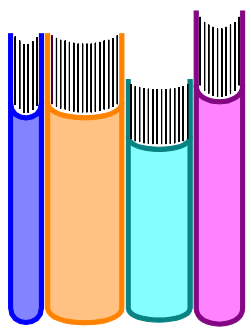

Creep: The CVA calf creep program feeds each calf creep feed for 100 days. At the cost of $246/ton and a 6:1 conversion, the estimated return after interest and labor is $32.34 with a projected ADG of .92.

Grain-Based Creep: Grain-based creep feeding is fed at the same 100 days, and for this example, is estimated at $225/ton. Conversion for this mix is at 8:1 and the estimated return after interest and labor is $13.24 with a projected ADG of .69.

Please keep in mind that this tool is not a guarantee and values are an estimate only. Maximum production efficiency and performance can be influenced by type and condition of cattle, management, pasture conditions, health of cattle, and weather.

But for all producers still questioning whether or not to creep feed their calves this year, I hope this demonstrates the value of supplementing calves throughout the summer and answers some questions on what programs offer the greatest return on investment. For more information, contact your local CVA feed sales specialist or visit cvacoop.com to learn more about Central Valley Ag's Feed Division.

THANK YOU

A tremendous "thank you" to the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department for responding to the fire at our house on August 11. It has been an overwhelming experience, but with the help of so many, we are getting through this. We want to thank Fire Chief Phil Monahan and his crew of volunteers for their quick response and the Carroll, Wakefield and Winside Fire Departments for their assistance. We also want to thank our wonderful friends and neighbors, especially the two young men who called in the fire, Heather with the American Red Cross, Grace Lutheran Church, and Scott Hasemann who brought cold drinks for the firemen. We especially want to thank Brian Bowers with State National Insurance and Kent Rucker with Farmers Mutual of Nebraska. Brian went above and beyond the duty of being an insurance agent to help us with the demolition and all it involved! It is times like this when you appreciate the outstanding community we live in!
Diana Langemeier and family

Thank you to my family and friends for the many cards I received for my 80th Birthday! Maxine Meier

A big thank you! To everyone who sent cards, gifts, and came to my birthday celebration. So many surprises. It made my day, and all the years I have lived were worth living for. May God Bless each of you. Phyllis Salmon
