After the flood: moving from relief to recovery

President and CEO,

Nebraska Community Foundation

The floods of March 2019 were unprecedented in nature. Vast swaths of water and ice scouring the land and leveling everything in their path. Ice chunks the size of cars. Water where no one ever imagined there would be water. Seventy-six of Nebraska's 93 counties have been designated for FEMA public assistance; 104 of 532 municipalities and five tribes have an emergency declaration. So far at least 628 homes have been condemned and 3,417 have been impacted. These are big numbers in lots of our hometowns. In Verdigre (population 575), 65 businesses and 78 homes have been affected. In Lynch, the hospital was severely impacted. In St. Edward. Osmond and Dannebrog, downtown was underwater. Our neighbors in Bellevue, Fremont, Genoa, Newman Grove, Niobrara, North Bend, Peru, Plattsmouth, Spencer, Valley, Wood River and many, many more Nebraska hometowns are struggling and need our help.

And the truth is, we do not yet know the full extent of the damage. Conservative and early estimates

Generous donors have already given millions for flood relief. Now we must turn our attention to flood recovery. Please visit Nebraska-Hometown.org for more information on how communities and organizations are working with NCF to further recovery efforts in hometowns across the state.

NDOT to conduct survey activities along US-275, Norfolk to Wisner

The Nebraska Department of be conducting survey work in preparation for a proposed future project on the U.S. Highway 275 US-275) corridor.

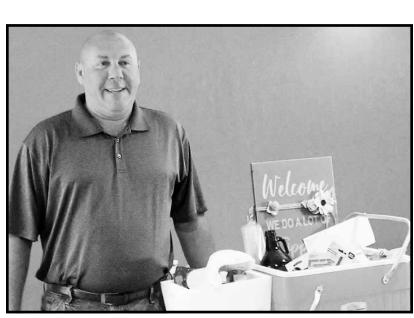

The project, known as Norfolk -Wisner, would take place approximately 0.25 miles east of the junction of US-275 and Nebraska Highway 57 and extends east and south to approximately 0.25 miles southeast of Wisner. The project would expand approximately 15.5 miles of the existing two-lane highway on US-275 to a fourlane expressway by constructing a new, parallel two-lane roadway on one side of the existing US-275.

As part of the future project preparatory process, NDOT will be conducting survey activities along US-275 from Norfolk to Wisner, including at the Sharpe Homestead, located at the southwest corner of US-275 and Transportation (NDOT) will soon Nebraska Highway 15. The survey effort may include roadside survey crews, large industrial equipment, and/or automobiles.

Activities along the corridor will include sub-surface level examinations, which will involve trenching along both sides of the US-275 corridor. If a property location is needed to be examined and the ground surface would be disturbed, NDOT will contact property owners in advance. In addition to trenching, archeologists will be conducting geophysical investigations at the Sharpe Homestead. On-site personnel will be easily recognizable via high visibility clothing and marked vehicles.

NDOT is planning to conduct the majority of these surveys from June through July 2019.

Special presentation to Legion

Last year, the Wayne American Legion Post 43 Juniors won the American Legion Class B state title and were presented with a special set of trading cards made by Mikey C Productions. The local company had each player and coach autograph a card, and those cards were turned into a special framed work that was presented to the Wayne American Legion between games at Hank Overin Field last week. Mike Carnes and Mary Vanderbeek of Mikey C Productions present the work to Denny Lutt, with members of last year's championship team standing in the background.

There is no need to fear the dark

Chaplain, Providence Medical Center

ArchOmaha Unite brings thousands of Catholics to Omaha

A Word In Faith

Rev. Anna Speiser

Psalm 139, verses 11 and 12 say: 11 If I say, "Surely the darkness shall cover me, and the light around me become night," 12 even the darkness is not dark to you; the night is as bright as the day, for darkness is as light to you. I have two young children, who, like many youngsters, sometimes struggle to fall asleep. One of their big concerns is the dark. It's important they have on a light—a nightlight or a bedside light, and finding just the right shade of light, low enough to fall asleep, but bright enough to give some comfort, is a delicate balance.

It seems like a fear of the dark comes so deep and naturally to us as humans. One can imagine our early ancestors, gathered around a fire, fearful of the unknown and what dangerous creatures might lurk out there in the dark, just beyond the light of the campfire.

Our verse today, however, speaks of another vision of the dark. That to God, there is no need to fear the dark or to be scared of the night, for "darkness is not dark to [God], the night is as bright as the day." In essence, there is no dark and hidden place where God is not. There is no scary or hidden place where God will not go. Maybe that's someplace out in the world,

We don't have to feel shame and guilt about those parts of us that maybe that's in our own life.

we rarely let out of the bag and share with others, because God knows us and loves us. It's not so much that God meets us in the light, in those times when we are perfect and have it all put together. No, instead, it's in our darkest times, times of failure, times of loss or regret or shame, that God is

God doesn't wait for us to join him in the light, but instead comes to meet us in the night. And perhaps it's in those darkest moments that we most authentically experience God.

One of my favorite spiritual writers, Pastor and Professor Barbara Brown Taylor, wrote a beautiful book called Learning to Walk in the Dark, filled with many nuggets of wisdom. In this book she suggests that it is in the darkest moments of her life that she has most fully experienced God. "During the day," Taylor says, "it is hard to remember that all the stars in the sky are out there all the time, even when I am too blinded by the sun to see them."

"For," she says, "...new life starts in the dark. Whether it is a seed in the ground, a baby in the womb, or Jesus in the tomb, it starts in the

May you know new life this day, and know that even in those dark places of your life, God is there, waiting to meet you.

Lindy Sandoz among students selected for RHOP program

Lindy Sandoz, of Wayne, was pro- medicine; nursing; pharmacy; physmoted from alternate to full status in the RHOP (Rural Health Opportunities Program) at Wayne State College. "The need for rural health professionals continues to grow," said Dr. David Peitz of Wayne State College. "These students have proven themselves to be gifted and dedicated to their profession. They have displayed the potential to develop into strong community leaders." RHOP is a cooperative effort between Wayne State and the University of Nebraska Medical Center (UNMC) and encourages students from rural areas of Nebraska to return to rural settings after graduation to pursue their career. Individuals selected obtain guaranteed admission to UNMC Colleges upon successful completion of studies at WSC and receive a full-tuition waiver at WSC. Areas of study under the program include clinical laboratory sciences;

ical therapy; physician assistant; dental hygiene; radiography; and dentistry.

A shortage of rural health practitioners in Nebraska prompted higher education institutions to implement the RHOP program in 1989. Selection of candidates is based on an applicant's residency in a rural Nebraska community, academic potential and commitment to practice in rural Nebraska.

Sandoz is the daughter of Cory and Gina Sandoz. She is a biology life sciences major. She participates in pre-physical therapy/occupational therapy club, First United Methodist Church College Ministry and intramural sports. She also participates in the honors program.

Sixty years is a long time

You know what? Sixty years is a long time. But it went by very quickly. I'm still recuperating from a sixty year reunion of my nursing classmates from what was Lincoln General Hospital.

Like a lot of them, I did not apply anywhere else; my friend Donna Jean, had gone there; I would, too. Unlike a lot of them, I did not go to college first; many of my classmates had a year or two of that; one even taught school before she joined us.

There were forty-eight to begin with, and forty-one graduated in an impressive ceremony at First Plymouth Congregational church here in Lincoln. Our capping ceremony had also been in a church, even though Lincoln General was not affiliated with any denomination, like Bryan was.

Because Bryan eventually purchased Lincoln General, we are now officially part of their alumni. And they do an alumni weekend in June that includes presidential teas for the fifty year classes, a reception at what is now Bryan West, and a luncheon at Bryan

And on Sunday morning, just two of us attended the Pentecost service at First Plymouth. My heart is still warmed by all the hugs; I know the chances of my seeing some of these dear people again are not too likely, and I'm just so grateful that we were able to experience one more gathering like this.

Is it time for alfalfa harvest... finally?

It seems like the weather has put everything behind this year, including alfalfa harvest. Now it sounds like we might get a break in the weather and a chance to catch up on a number of things including that first cutting of alfalfa. Rain has delayed most folks from cutting alfalfa. If you haven't taken the first cutting yet, you may want to consider changing how you cut this crop. Even if it is not blooming heavily, you might be surprised to find that it already has started to grow your next cut-

Walk into your alfalfa field before cutting and look closely at the base or crown of the plants. Do you see short, new shoots starting to grow? If so, these new shoots are the new plants that your alfalfa hopes to turn into your second cut-

How tall are these new shoots? Are many of them a couple inches taller than your usual cutting height? If you cut these new shoots off – along with the first growth your alfalfa plants will have to start a whole new set of shoots for regrowth. This could cause a delay in second cutting regrowth by as much as one week.

To avoid this, raise your cutting height just a couple inches so you don't clip off most of these new, second-growth shoots. This is especially important for growers using disk mowers because they tend to cut very low. Your regrowth then will have a head start toward your next cutting. And since the stubble you leave behind has quite low feed value, the yield you temporarily sacrifice is mostly just filler.

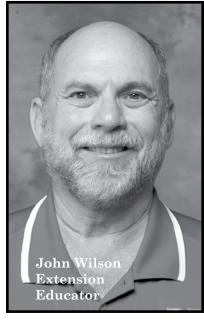

Normally I suggest cutting alfalfa as short as possible because that maximizes vield and it doesn't affect rate of regrowth. But a late cutting that already has new shoots growing is different.

Other than rain, the most important weather factor affecting the rate of hay dry-down is sunlight. Temperature, humidity, soil moisture content, and wind speed all are important, but solar radiation has the greatest impact on drying rate. In fact, research has shown as much as a 10-fold increase in drying rate as solar radiation changes from heavy cloud cover to full sunlight. No other factor affected drying rate even half

While you can't control sunlight, you hopefully can time your haying operations to take advantage of it and avoid potentially cloudy

Another step is to spread your cut hay out in as wide a swath as possible to expose more hay to direct sunlight. This does two things. Sunlight keeps stomates, or the microscopic pores, open on the leaves, which is the fastest way for moisture to exit the plant. Stomates in the dark inside or bottom of windrows will close, preventing rapid moisture loss.

Wide windrows also enable hay to absorb as much sun energy as possible to heat hay and help moisture evaporate. This may bleach hay more than thick windrows, but fast dry-down usually is more fice. valuable than green color.

Another practice to facilitate faster dry-down is to mechanically condition your hay. Also, turn it gently after the tops get dry to expose moist hay under the swath to the sun and drying conditions. Make hay while the sun shines. is an old, old saying but today's science has shown just how true it to impossible this spring.

Nitrogen Loss

We have had a lot of rainfall this year. Flooding in Nebraska, Kansas, and Iowa has made national headlines. What is the impact of all of this water on the nitrogen we applied for our crops? Here at CVA, we try to help our growers make the most efficient use of the nitrogen they apply while trying to match the nitrogen they apply to the goals they have for yield on their farms. We all know that heavy and frequent rainfall events can lead to leaching nitrogen below the root zone or losing nitrogen to the atmosphere. What happens on your farm depends on the function of your soil type,

By Tim Mundorf CVA Nutrient Management Lead

when you applied your nitrogen, and what form you applied. Also, a factor, if a nitrification inhibitor was included in the application. This week, we discuss this issue and how to think about the potential for loss and if you need to come back and add additional nitrogen to what you may have already applied.

Some important points to consider:

- 1. What are your yield goals and previous crop?
- 2. How much N has been applied?
- 3. How much are you considering applying during the growing season?

4. Has a large portion of the nitrogen you already applied been lost through denitrification or leaching?

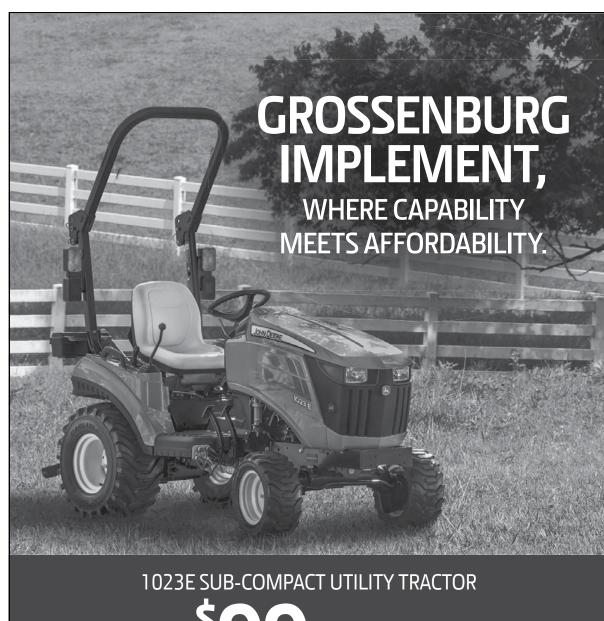

This may be a good time to brush up on the nitrogen cycle. CVA has recently developed the SOIL TALK podcast that spends about an hour and a half talking about nitrogen management during the first three episodes. Those podcasts can be a good refresher for you. SOIL TALK is available on SoundCloud, Spotify and Apple Podcasts.

If you think you have had N loss that may negatively impact your crop get with your FSA or ACS Regional Manager. They can walk you through application options as well as tools such as the Presidedress Nitrate Test or Adapt-N nitrogen modeling tool to assess where you are at now and if you need to consider adding more nitrogen to your program this year. Don't forget about our tissue sampling programs to look at what nutrients the plant says it needs. The plant itself may be saying it is already short of nitrogen or some other nutrient.

Report of Destroyed Real Property

JUNE 5, 2019 (LINCOLN, NEB.) - The Department of Revenue, Property Assessment Division, announces that a new form has been created (Form 425), pursuant to 2019 Neb. Law LB 512. Please review the instructions on the Form 425.

The Form 425 is to be used by owners of real property whose property has suffered significant property damage as a result of a calamity occurring on or after January 1 and before July 1 of the current assessment year. A calamity is defined as a disastrous event, including, but not limited to, a fire, an earthquake, a flood, a tornado, or other natural event which significantly affects the assessed value of the property. Destroyed real property does not include property suffering significant property damage that is caused by the owner of the property.

1. Damage to an improvement exceeding 20% of the improvement's assessed value in the current tax year as determined by the county

2. Damage to the land exceeding 20% of a parcel's assessed land value in the current tax year as determined by the county assessor; or 3. Damage exceeding 20% of the property's assessed value in the

SEWER CLEANING NOTICE

During the next couple of weeks, the City of Wayne Sewer Department will be having sewer mains cleaned in various parts of the City. While a considerable amount of cleaning will be done in the eastern part of the City, there are a number of other small areas that might also be cleaned. Please watch for notices on your front door from the Sewer Department.

In this process, high pressure water is forced through the sewer pipe to clean it. This pushes solid materials to the manholes so they can be removed by vacuuming. This entire process is necessary to keep obstructions out of the sewer system and to insure proper drainage of waste.

Residents should be aware that when this process is done, the high pressure water pushes the air in the sewer line which occasionally enters the private sewer lines into homes and businesses. If this happens, it usually results in the air exiting through toilet bowls, shooting the water out of the toilet bowl. This air should exit through the sewer vent of the building, but inadequate venting or location of toilets can cause the air to exit through the toilet. This is a rare occurrence, and keeping the lid closed on the toilet during this time will keep most of the water in the bowl rather than on the floor.

If you have any questions about the sewer cleaning process or the areas the sewer main cleaning will take place, you may call the Wastewater Treatment Plant at 375-5250.

Fear of retaliation and distrust broke the 2019 Legislature.

As lawmakers approached the end of a session shortened by four days at the Speaker of the Legislature's prerogative, passage of an upgraded economic development incentive bill was tied to the approval of a property tax relief bill. Both failed after threats of retali-

Distrust of one another as individuals became almost as strong as Democrats not trusting Republicans and vice versa, in the officially nonpartisan Nebraska Unicameral. Speaker Jim Scheer and several of his colleagues mentioned the situation in remarks on the final day of the session. All of this played out against a well-established (four years) record of retaliation by a Governor who has been known to make large personal cash contributions to defeat candidates he opposes - even members of his own

So, it was a bit of a surprise on the last day of their shortened session that lawmakers overrode a gubernatorial veto which had been characterized as a property tax increase. Omaha Senator Justin Wayne and others called bull on the Governor's assessment of a bill (LB492) creating a Regional Metropolitan Transit Authority as a $17

"The bill allows the Omaha Transit Authority to convert itself into a new political subdivision that will have broader taxing authority," Governor Pete Ricketts said in his veto message. "LB 492 amounts to an incredible $17 million property tax increase for all residents of Omaha and Douglas County because it moves the transit authority's property tax levy authority outside of the city and county tax lids and authorizes the new authority to double its existing property tax levy amount.'

The measure is permissive and simply allows participating entities to solve a transportation problem, Scheer said. The override vote was 33-16.

A second override of a bill (LB533) from Omaha Senator Michaela Cavanaugh was scrapped after the sponsor warned her colleagues that the bill, dealing with wording on marriage license paperwork, advanced unanimously from committee and cleared three rounds of debate before passage with no objections. The Governor vetoed the bill saying he would direct the Department of Health and Human Services to make the changes administratively.

Currently, the state marriage license applications refer to Groom/ Party 1 and Bride/Party 2. Cavanaugh proposed to reference all couples on the marriage license application, the marriage license, and the certificate of marriage as Applicant 1 and Applicant 2.

"The term selected in the bill is workable for the marriage license application at which time the couple are applying for a license; however, both the marriage license and the formal certificate of marriage are issued after the parties are married," Ricketts veto message said. "They are no longer 'applicants.' The mandated use of this term would be factually inaccurate on both the marriage license and the marriage certificate."

Cavanaugh said "every single person in this Legislature should be put on notice by the Governor's action on this bill" which had no opposition and had not generated comment from the Executive Branch before the veto. At least one lobbyist and one colleague tried to urge her to push for an override vote, but she declined.

Veteran Sen. Ernie Chambers of Omaha warned his colleagues that he may derail the next session his last after 44 years before he is again term-limited. "You can set the rules, but I set the pace," he said. Scheer, noting the divisiveness that caused tax reform and a renewed business incentive package to fall by the wayside, urged his colleagues to take the summer to reflect and get to know one another better.

In closing the session, Ricketts said the example of "Nebraska Strong" in response to the Spring storms and state-wide flooding, is a picture of what can happen when we work together.

Lawmakers introduced 739 bills in the opening 10 days of the session. Of that number, 294 passed. They did fulfill their constitutional obligation to pass a balanced budget. But, beyond that, it wasn't a very pleasant or productive time.

Lincoln Senator Patty Pansing Brooks sadly noted that some of her colleagues did not attend the annual Sine Die party on May 30. The event features skits and an opportunity to unwind and put the session in perspective.

Apparently, some wounds will take more time to heal.
