Wayne airport authority recognizes Fullerton

Members of the Wayne Airport Authority recently presented Dan Fullerton with a plaque and congratulated him in becoming the Instructor of Aviation Pathway at the Grand Island Career Pathways Institute.

Fullerton retired from active duty with the U.S. Army in 2019 (after having served from February 1996 - February 2019) as a UH-60 Blackhawk Helicopter Mechanic Crew chief.

He came to Wayne to attend Wayne State College and will graduate in December with a degree in Industrial Technology Education.

"This fall, I will complete my final requirement of student teaching at Grand Island Career Pathways Institute (GI-CPI). I will be part of their brand new Aviation program starting this fall," Fullerton said.

"My background as a BlackHawk helicopter mechanic while on Active Duty, combined with the teaching degree that I am finishing, make this a dream job. The GI-CPI Aviation program will be the first of its kind in Nebraska. Curriculum for this program was developed by the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association (AOPA)," he added.

Fullerton went on to explain the make-up of the program.

During the first year of classes, students will learn the fundamentals of aviation using STEM hands-on projects to explain the science of Aviation. In the second year students will move into a more in-depth look at the science of aviation and begin to use Flight Simulators to teach the cause and effect of the science behind powered flight.

In the third year coursework will focus on understanding flying environments and preparing the students for the pilots ground test. Also implementing simulator flight scenarios.

Students will begin to build a RV 12 airplane, which is a two-seat sport plane.

The fourth year is the capstone the entire pathway, with students working on more extensive flight scenarios and preparing students for actual flights with a flight instructor.

The flight portion has to be completed with a certified flight at the airport; however, the students will take their classroom simulator experience saved on a flash drive and shorten the cost of their instructor pilot's testing.

Commissioners approve road haul agreement with Plum Creek Wind

By Kadra Sommersted-Simmons
For The Wayne Herald

On June 18, the Wayne County Board of Equalization and Board of Commissioners met in the county courtroom. Wind power and a new water line were among the topics of discussion.

County Equalization approved corrections of the March 19 assessment roll as well as the Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department vehicle exemption for a new van.

Plum Creek Wind, LLC, and Wayne County signed a road haul agreement for use of the county roads leading up to creation of the Plum Creek wind farm. Plum Creek is expected to be working on a lay down yard in late August or early September with turbines expected to be delivered in January 2020.

Highway superintendent Mark Casey said that he was happy with the terms of the agreement with Plum Creek saying, "We learned from the last one."

Wes Blecke, Wayne City administrator requested use of the County's right of ways for a new main water line. The new water line would stretch over about six mile across 575 Ave. and around Muhs Acres area and across Dog Creek. Currently, the main water line brings in roughly 90 percent of the town's water. Further discussions about where to place the water line will be had prior to the expected start of construction late summer next year. District 1 commissioner, Terry Sievers would like to see the water line placed in the middle of the road or off the shoulder, while District 2 commissioner, Dean Burbach, would prefer the line be run through the road's ditch. Sievers was concerned that if the line was run through the ditch his crew may not be able to clear them. The commissioners approved the request for use of right away.

At the last Wayne Commissioners meeting, Herbst Construction had requested to push back the start date for construction on the Temme Bridge from June 3 to Aug. 12, without incurring penalties. The commissioners asked Casey to look into the possibility of retroactively penalizing Herbst if they did not begin construction by Aug.

12. Casey reported that the contract would not allow that, and commented that Herbst was aware that taking other projects could mean they'd be delayed thus incurring penalties.

Both the commissioners and Casey agreed that they would penalize Herbst for lost working days starting in June.

"They were very aware of what they needed to do," Sievers said.

Jared Reimers, from Congressman Adrian Smith's office, spoke about the Congressman's main focuses which are trade, healthcare and deregulation. Reimers mentioned that Smith generally supports what the President is trying to achieve except from tariffs.

Action to transfer unused funds in the General Fund office budgets to a Security Fund led to a discussion about courthouse security. Clerk of the District Court, Deb Allemann-Dannelly told the commissioners that they've officially been discussing security worries since 2009. She and other County employees would like to see increased security measures at the courthouse. Wayne County Assessor, Dawn Duffy, said that were someone to come into the courthouse with "ill intentions," employees are basically trapped because anyone has access to any office right now. There is a $350,000 budget line for security, but determined that the Security Committee needs to meet and come up with some safety ideas before moving forward with new security measures.

Twenty-one Cusip additions were approved as pledged by Elkhorn Valley Bank and one was withdrawn. Funds from the Miscellaneous General Function Fund and County Road Districts 1, 2 and 3 were approved for transfer to other funds.

The County Commissioners approved the amendment of the main agenda for a sale date of property between Runza and the National Guard armory in Wayne to change from June 18 to Wednesday, July 10 at 10 a.m. on the main floor of the Wayne County Courthouse.

The next Wayne County Commissioners meeting will be Tuesday, July 2 at 9 a.m. in the County courtroom.

Loren Kucera

Loren Kucera honored as Professional of the Year

According to a press release, Loren Kucera has been named the 2019 Nebraska Economic Developers Association (NEDA) Professional of the Year in the service provider category.

The award was presented by NEDA, the largest association of economic development professionals in Nebraska at its Annual Conference in Wayne on June 13. Kucera is the center director at Wayne State College for the Nebraska Business Development Center. He is recognized for his accomplishments and dedicated service to economic growth in the State of Nebraska.

Kucera has been employed in economic development for the last 25 years, after receiving his Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Administration at Wayne State College and his Master of Business Administration from the University of South Dakota.

Kucera has been active in many economic development and other professional organizations over the years. He currently serves on the Northeast Nebraska Economic Development District, has served on the board of directors for the Nebraska Economic Development Corporation since 1996, and just recently completed six years, including a year as President on the Board of Directors of the Northeast Economic Development, Inc. He is also a member of the Norfolk Area Small Business Resource Team and serves as Treasurer for the Northeast Network.

In his current position, Kucera has been involved in many notable accomplishments over the years, including the preparation of 554 business loan applications. Of those 554 applications, 442 resulted in nearly $250 million spent, creating or retaining 3,353 jobs since 1994.

The Norfolk Area Economic Development Team had nothing but good things to say when asked about Kucera, "Loren has become the 'go to' person some lenders and economic developers call to discuss how a project could be structured, can SBA be involved in a project, can 'the district' be part of the project, etc. The fact that everyone respects Loren's knowledge and ability is a testament to his effectiveness. We have been fortunate to call him a partner throughout the years and feel he is very deserving of this recognition."

Parks are topic of council discussion

By Clara Osten
clara@wayneherald.com

Parks - how many, how big and what to put in them - were discussed at length during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

A discussion item on the agenda allowed concerned citizens, council members and city staff the opportunity to provide input on the parks in the community.

City Planner Joel Hansen shared with the council the history of the various parks in the city of Wayne. He said that counting the area of the golf course, the city has 158 acres of parks.

"I began working for the city in 1990 and since that time, we have added lots of area to the city, including the number of parks," he said.

Hansen noted that when the lagoon area is developed, this number could increase and would "really change the face of the community."

Lou Wiltse and Jason Barelman, who live in close proximity to what is known as Nebraska Street Park, told the council "this is a park with a wonderful, neighborhood feeling to it. It is used by college students and young children in the neighborhood."

Both expressed the need for additional and/or updated equipment in the park.

The park is jointly owned by the city and the State of Nebraska. College staff are currently maintaining it.

"I would like to see more 'natural' equipment put in the park and some of the equipment there updated. Maybe someone could help build pieces of equipment for the park," Wiltse said.

It was noted that any new equipment placed in a park is subject to safety regulations and these do not allow for home-made equipment.

Christine Brummond asked the council if a small park could be constructed on the south end of Sherman Street in the area that has been recently developed.

"There are probably 20-25 young kids in the new development. The park wouldn't need to have a lot of equipment. I want the kids to have someplace safe to play," Brummond said.

Council member Matt Eischeid said the area is only three blocks from Wayne Elementary School, which has a number of pieces of playground equipment. He said that distance is much shorter than from parks in other parts of town.

"This is an on-going issue that we (city council) deal with every year. Park equip-

Imanol San Martin, director of Wind Operations and Maintenance at Enel Green Power North America, Inc. led a tour of the Rattlesnake Creek Wind Farm outside of Allen. The site has been in operation since December 2018. The Facebook data center in Papillion purchased 310 Megawatts of the 320 MW farm. On June 13, the Papillion Data Center officially came online and began serving traffic. The data center is supported 100 percent by wind power from Rattlesnake Creek.

Fire department responds to two calls

The Wayne Volunteer Fire Department responded to two calls this week.

On June 17, at approximately 10:15 p.m., firefighters responded to a call at the Donner Apartments on North Main Street.

They found a fire in a kitchen stove. The apartment was filled with smoke, but firefighters ventilated the building and no damage was reported.

No one was injured in the incident.

On June 18, at approximately 7:50 a.m., firefighters were called to the Community Activity Center where an alarm had sounded. It was determined that rain water had gotten into the panel, causing the alarm to sound.

Fire Chief Phil Monahan stressed that all residents need to check smoke alarms to make sure they are in working order.

He said that recent changes in the law require that all smoke alarms, both battery-operated and hard wired, need to be changed every 10 years.

Albrecht hears concerns from constituents during interim town halls

District 17 Nebraska Senator Joni Albrecht had a busy Monday on June 17, holding town hall meetings in all three counties in her district. Albrecht used the time to wrap up the session with those in attendance and field questions from her constituents. "It was funny, just about everyone had the same questions," Albrecht said.

Of the topics on people's mind were of course, property tax relief and what was accomplished in the Legislature this session.

"We have $550 million, going back to the public for property tax relief, and then Senator Erdman had LB 425, that is, between January and July 1, you can go to your assessor's office, and they'll be a form. If there was a fire, a flood, a tornado, or if your home was damaged by something like that and you had to rebuild, then you would have to pay for the property that it sits on, but not the dwelling for that particular year,

Endicott turned passion for author into action with Laura Ingalls Wilder Research Center

Fans of "The Big Bang Theory" know that Amy Farrah Fowler loved "Little House on the Prairie." Fans of the sitcom also know that the male characters on the show often dressed in costume and attended comic book conventions, which were based on real-life events.

What if Amy Farrah Fowler knew she could have dressed in a sweeping calico dress and sunbonnet and got to geek out over Pa's Fiddle or Almanzo Wilder with other Little House fans? TV-character Amy may have never had that opportunity, but real-life Laura Ingalls Wilder fans, such as Wayne's Kimberley Endicott will be attending LauraPalooza 2019, the bi-annual conference sponsored by the Laura Ingalls Wilder Legacy and Research Association (LIWLRA). This year's event will be held July 7-10 at Stoney Creek Hotel & Conference

Kimberley Endicott

Center in Onalaska, Wis., with a conference-ending day trip to Pepin, Wis., Wilder's birthplace and the setting for the first book, "Little House in the Big Woods."

Interest in Laura Ingalls Wilder has seen a bit of resurgence in recent years, in part thanks to "The Big Bang Theory" references, the Pulitzer Prize-winning biography "Prairie Fires" by Caroline Fraser and the best-selling "Pioneer Girl" memoir. But for Endicott, Wilder's life and books is a life passion, which led her to first become a member of LIWLRA and eventually a member of the organization's board of directors.

"I started reading the books and watching the television show when I was in elementary school. It helped shape my love of American History and the westward movement" said Endicott.

Endicott first learned about LauraPalooza through an article on Facebook. Since the first conference, Endicott and her fellow participants learned details about specific incidents from the books (the location of the seed wheat in "The Long Winter" and the Brewster school in "These Happy Golden Years"), the rocky relationship between Wilder and her daughter, Rose Wilder Lane, Ingalls and Wilder ancestry and stories of their pioneer travels, and international reaction to the books (the conference attracts

NSCS Board approves two years of tuition for state colleges

The Board of Trustees for the Nebraska State College System (NSCS) unanimously voted to set tuition and fees for Chadron, Peru, and Wayne State Colleges for the next two years.

Full-time students attending the State Colleges will pay an additional $4.50 per credit hour in tuition for the 2019-20 and 2020-21 academic years.

This is the first time in NSCS history that the Board of Trustees has set tuition for two academic years.

"The Board felt that it is important to set the tuition rate for two years to provide stability for our students and their families," said Gary Bieganski, Chair of the NSCS Board. "Our state colleges are and will continue to be the most affordable and accessible option for Nebraska students to receive a high-quality four-year postsecondary education."

The 2.54 and 2.48 percent increases respectively are the lowest increases the NSCS has been able to implement since the 2014-15 academic year. The lower rates are due to the support of the Governor and Legislature in providing an increase in the general fund appropriation, which covers most of the NSCS's core needs for the biennium.

"The Governor's and Legislature's commitment this year will ensure that the State Colleges remain an affordable 4-year degree option for students in Nebraska as it helps maintain the distribution between state and student cost of attendance," said Paul Turman, NSCS Chancellor. "Maintaining this critical balance is a top priority for the Board of Trustees as they weigh tuition increases each year."

Appropriations will increase by 3.7 percent for each fiscal year of the biennium.

Students at Wayne State College will pay $181.50 per credit hour for undergraduate class in the 2019-2020 school year and $186.00 for the 2020-2021 school year.

Graduate students will pay $227.00 per credit hour for the 2019-2020 school and $232.50 per credit hour for the 2020-2021 school year.

It could be more than a week before members of Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne will know the fate of their heavily damaged church building.

The church was hit by lightning and fire early Saturday morning and fire fighters from four towns battled for four hours before it was extinguished. The blaze gutted some sections of the building and destroyed the roof over the sanctuary.

The entire building suffered fire, smoke and water damage and the fire chief's estimates place the property value loss at well over $1 million.

Pastor Frank Rothfuss said insurance adjusters won't have the damage figures totaled up until next week and any structural assessment of the standing walls will take some time as well.

Fire chief Dutch Sitzman ordered people kept away from the east wall of the church building because the unsupported rock edifice was seen to sway when fire hoses were trained on it during the height of the Saturday morning fire. He said heat damage to the mortar in the rock walled 1948 structure leads him to question its structural soundness.

Recognition for 47 years of service

Recently, Gene Hansen was recognized by the Nebraska Public Power District Board for 47 years of service to the City of Wayne. Hansen retired from the City power plant this year. The NPPD Board signed a resolution in Hansen's honor. The resolution, which was presented by NPPD President and CEO Pat Pope, noted Hanson for his "endless quest to bring success to the residents of Wayne, while always delivering the message of the great value inherent in the public power model."

Wayne State College Athletics reinstates varsity Women's Golf program

Wayne State College Director of Athletics Mike Powicki announced today the reinstatement of the women's golf program for the 2020-21 school year to the Wildcat athletic department. Powicki stated the school will be hiring a coach this summer and spend the 2019-20 school year recruiting student-athletes to begin competition again in the 2020-21 school year. The women's golf program at Wayne State College was suspended at the end of the 2012-13 school year. "I am extremely excited to be able to bring back our women's golf program," remarked Powicki. "Since coming to Wayne State our institution has been very committed addressing gender equity and Title IX within our athletic department and the reinstatement of this program is another example of that commitment. I am thankful to have such great support from President Rames and our Nebraska State College System for aligning the appropriate resources to support this program the right way." Powicki added, "Our goal is to build a successful women's golf program and to provide an excellent student-athlete experience. I also want to thank the Wayne Country Club Board and staff for being so supportive of Wildcat Women's Golf being able to call that facility home. The Wayne Country Club provides an excellent home course and has a history of hosting NCAA Division II tournaments featuring NSIC and Central Region teams. Wayne State College created the women's golf program in 1990 and began competition in the Northern Sun Conference in the 1998-99 season before being suspended in May, 2013. Wayne State College is a member of the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference and now offers 14 sports (six male, eight female).

attendees from all over the world). Each LauraPalooza ends with a trip to a "home site," one of the many towns Wilder lived in and wrote about. "The learning about Laura comes in many vehicles at the conference. I don't love science, but when Barb Mayes Boustead and Jim Hicks make science a part of Laura's world, it suddenly becomes more interesting. We have also learned the differences between how the books are translated in Japan and in Europe and had the opportunity to hear many researchers speak" said Endicott.

LauraPalooza is an academic conference, but one doesn't have to be a PhD or a researcher to attend. Participants don't need to be a librarian or a writer, either, although they will meet a lot of those at the conference, many of whom discovered Wilder through their own careers and passions. But there will also be plenty of people who are huge fans of the television show first and came to the books later in the life, and those who are collectors of Laura-related artifacts. What brings everyone together is the love of Laura Ingalls Wilder, no matter how you got there.

But what brings everyone back is not just learning about Wilder's history, but the friendships made. LauraPalooza began in 2010, at the same time Facebook and other social media sites became mainstream, making it easier for friendships to foster and grow between conferences. There are a number of Facebook pages, formal and informal, designed to allow fans and academics keep in touch and share stories, news events, and research. "The combination of learning about a person that I admire and the friendships that you make at these conferences are amazing. I have friends from all over the United States and the world who have the same interests as I do and we get together every other year to learn even more. Sometimes it works out that we have little Laura side trips in non-conference years where we visit a homesite or a Laura event and as many people that can attend come," said Endicott. Anyone interested in Laura Ingalls Wilder, her life and her books, is welcome to attend this year's LauraPalooza event and to join the LIWLRA. For more information, visit the organization's website at beyondlittlehouse.com.

Idaho standout signs with Wayne State

Wayne State College head track and field coach Marlon Brink announced that Liam McGonigal of Hailey, Idaho has signed a national letter of intent to attend Wayne State in the 2019-20 academic year and compete in men's cross country and track and field for the Wildcats.

McGonigal is a distance runner from Wood River High School in Idaho and was a four-year letterwinner in cross country and track and field. He earned All-Great Basin Conference honors in track and field as a junior and senior and recently placed seventh in the Idaho Class 4A 3,200-meter run with a personal-best time of 9:43.78. In cross country, McGonigal earned All-Great Basin Conference honors as a freshman and has a personal-best time of 17:06 in five kilometers. McGonigal was also named

Most Inspirational Track Athlete as a junior and senior.

"Will should be able to make an immediate impact and contribute to our team's success in both cross country and track and field," remarked Coach Brink. "He has proven to be a good competitor and his times are reflective of that — and he has ran those times at altitude, which will make a difference when he comes down to a lower elevation to train and race here at Wayne State College."

Brink added, "I am excited to see what Will can do with some good teammates to train and push him in his training. He has been able to handle a high volume of mileage in his training at the high school level but will be challenged by tougher competition at the collegiate level."

Juniors lose three of four last week

The Wayne American Legion Post 43 Juniors had a rough outing last week, losing three home games in last week's four-match stretch.

West Point followed with single runs in each of the last four innings to take the lead. Wayne tied the game in the sixth when Toby Braun scored on a Blake Bartos double, but Brandon Bartos was tagged out trying to score what would have been the go-ahead run. West Point scored its final run in the seventh to claim the win.

Brandon Bartos had two of Wayne's five hits in the game. Gunnar Jorgensen took the loss in relief.

In Friday action, Wayne went on the road and came away with a 3-1 win over Elkhorn Mount Michael.

Both teams finished with three hits, with Korth accounting for the third Wayne safety on a double. Jacob Kneif struck out six and walked one in the complete-game win.

On Saturday, Wayne dropped

Hopkins was 4-for-4 and Max Miller was 3-for-3 to highlight the 12-hit effort. Korth and Jorgensen each had two hits and Bartos, Jorgensen and Hopkins each had two RBIs. Brooks Kneif threw four innings in a no-decision while Korth picked up the loss in relief.

AARP Nebraska makes donation to support disaster recovery for farmers, ranchers, rural communities

LINCOLN, NEB. - AARP Nebraska in collaboration with the AARP Foundation is donating $20,000 to relief efforts in Nebraska.

This is an effort to support the communities recovering from the bomb cyclone storm in March that caused historic flooding and impacted tens of thousands of residents.

Nebraska communities continue to face a range of challenges, especially in largely rural areas of the state, where a greater percentage of residents is over the age of 50 and the average age of farmers is 55.

"When natural disasters strike, every dollar makes a difference. These funds will help local organizations address the immediate needs of low-income seniors, as well as support long-term recovery efforts in the area," AARP Foundation Senior Vice President Emily Allen said.

The donation has been allocated to the Nebraska Farm Bureau Foundation to provide emergency aid to Nebraska farmers, ranchers and rural communities affected by recent storms and flooding.

"This was a devastating storm and we want to do what we can to help our fellow Nebraskans," AARP Nebraska State Director Connie Benjamin said. "We hope that our donation to the relief efforts will help those in need."

Priority will be given to efforts to restore health and safety in rural communities and to farm and ranch households that have been damaged or displaced by the natural disaster.

The Nebraska Farm Bureau Foundation was selected because of the scale of the flooding and the impact on many rural communities and farms and ranches in the state. One hundred percent of the donations will be distributed to Nebraska farmers, ranchers and rural communities affected by the disaster.

People may donate or apply for aid at nnefb.org/get-involved/disaster-assistance. The next application deadline for assistance from the Nebraska Farm Bureau Foundation is June 21, 2019.

In addition to donating funds for relief efforts, AARP Nebraska teamed up with the Better Business Bureau in May to hold a series of public events in central and eastern Nebraska on disaster prevention and recovery. The program focused on how older adults should prepare for disasters and on scams and fraud that target disaster survivors.

Significant property damage means –

The Scenic Route
By Sarah Lentz

When I went chasing waterfalls

Stamp number: two
Drive time: 4 hours and 13 minutes
Miles away: 230.1 miles
Worth the trip?: You bet

In my first column, writing about my travels using the 2019 Nebraska Passport, I decided to start the journey in lovely Wayne America. On this trip I gassed up my car and ventured to my ancestral homelands—the Sandhills.

I absolutely love the Sandhills. Almost all of my family lives there and have for a very, very long time. It's God's country, people! I can't stress enough that if you've never been further west than Grand Island, you're not living right.

My first stop in the west was to Smith Falls, outside of Valentine. The Niobrara is the state's most scenic, amazing, ecologically diverse river, according to me. It is beautiful.

Smith Falls is a 63 foot high water fall from a cold-water spring that feeds the Niobrara. Many out-of-towners see the fall for the first time while tubing or canoeing on the river, an incredibly popular summer activity. There's a whole cottage industry of Niobrara outfitters in and all round Valentine, the biggest town in quite a large radius around Smith Falls.

For those who don't want to freeze their bottoms off in the icy river (though I'm a firm believer that everyone should, at least once in their lifetime), there's also a Smith Falls visitors center equipped with bathrooms, drinks to purchase and very helpful rangers. On my trip, the ranger on duty happened to be a Wayne State grad—how's that for a coincidence? Got to love Nebraska.

Though I've gotten there by boat and inner tube in the past, this time I took the land route, a solid choice for the following: people who like nature, people who like walking, plant enthusiasts, adventurous spirits, as it turns out, the Morningside football team and for pretty much anyone else. The walk from the visitors center to the fall is about a mile and does require climbing some steps that can get pretty steep, so use caution and take your time if you need to.

The whole region is a beautiful green this summer, an emerald oasis really. From the visitors center's back porch, I descended the stairs leading to the clearly marked dirt trail, which runs through a large clearing with trees and (fairly safe) wildlife all around.

After walking a short distance I came to a bridge. As I haven't taken the land route to Smith Falls in my adulthood (I was born in Valentine and visited several times as a child) I had no idea that the foot bridge was there. Fun fact, the bridge was Verdigre's bridge until it was dismantled there in 1991 and put across the Niobrara at Smith Falls in 1996.

From the bridge I spotted a large group of tubers, which is always fun. It's hard to be in a bad mood when you're surrounded by picture-book natural beauty and the party atmosphere of going down the river.

Shortly after crossing the bridge, you can feel the temperature drop and hear that sweet, relaxing sound of the rushing, falling water. You basically find nirvana before you can even see the waterfall.

Eventually, I came to the wooden ramp that takes visitors up to the fall. Though the hike is over a mile, it really doesn't feel that long and the path and ramp make what could be quite an incline a lovely nature walk full of wildflowers.

Shortly after I started the final ascent, I had to wait off to the side as members of the Morningside football team came down the "up ramp," but I've decided to forgive them for keeping me from the gorgeous sight I came upon when I was finally able to finish my journey.

Smith Falls is small but mighty. The side banks of the clearing that the fall spills into is beautiful sandstone absolutely covered with a wide variety of flora. On the floor, there are several large boulders that have fallen thanks to gravity and time. The only way to describe it is picturesque.

The water cascades gracefully from an overhang above the trail's end. The cold mist covers visitors, and if you're brave enough to amble down to the stream where the fall empties, you can enjoy the instant energy charge that only freezing cold creek water can give you.

I think sometimes we buy our own myth, that Nebraska is nothing but flat corn fields. When you're faced with breathtaking landmarks like Smith Falls, you remember that we're not, we're so much more than that — we're a vast state full of all kinds of terrain and hidden gems and though we might not be for everyone, as our tourism motto states, most Nebraska natives know what we have and love it.

Smith Falls, like a lot of places in the Sandhills, gives me an instant feeling of tranquility. There's no doubt that being that far west highlights how isolated and rural that end of the state is, but it's so peaceful. It's easy to disconnect from the hustle and bustle when Mother Nature serves up areas like Smith Falls.

We all need to unplug from our phones, from our computers, from our hectic schedules. There's no better place to do that than in places like Smith Falls.

Tying up some loose ends

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Governor Pete Ricketts and First Lady Susanne Shore want to recognize Nebraskans who played a role in the recovery from the bomb cyclone that struck the state in March and caused heavy rainstorms and floods, which required disaster declarations for 81 counties and 104 communities.

Nominations of "flood heroes" for their extraordinary acts of bravery will be accepted online at nebraskaimpact.com/flood-heroes. The nominations will be reviewed and honorees selected and recognized later this year.

"During the most widespread natural disaster in state history, Nebraskans rose to the challenge to protect their families and assist their neighbors," First Lady Shore said. "Many worked overtime, risked their personal safety, and generously contributed their time and money to give aid to their communities. We look forward to hearing stories of the heroes in our midst. We also want to give them official recognition for their service to our state."

Good for the Governor for wanting to recognize the "heroes." How about all of you living in those 104 communities stand up and take a bow right now for being "Nebraska Strong."

Speaking of strong, the Governor is highlighting two new metrics, which he says indicate the state's economic strength. Nebraska has the least state debt per capita and the second-highest workforce participation rate among U.S. states.

In a recent news release from his office, Ricketts said a June 3 Moody's report reveals that Nebraska has the lowest total net tax-supported debt (NTSD) — only $23 — of any state in the nation. Having a high level of NTSD places a state at risk of insolvency when debts come due.

Additionally, Nebraska ranked second among the 50 states in the Bureau of Labor Statistics' May 17th report of state labor force participation rates. The monthly report measures the percentage of a state's population that is working or actively seeking employment. Nebraska's high labor force participation rate and low unemployment rate are evidence of a strong labor market, Ricketts said.

Hats off to the Bish brothers for planting the first industrial hemp crop in Nebraska in more than 60 years in a field near Giltner. Brothers Andrew and Jacob Bish, along with Andrew's daughter, Eliana, hand-sowed two test plots of Nebraska heirloom hemp for research, not commerce.

While the Nebraska Hemp Farming Act was signed into law by the Governor last month, the regulatory framework being built by the Department of Agriculture and the Nebraska State Patrol has not been finalized. New regulations have been enacted by the state, preempting any potential federal regulations that go into effect next year, but the state permit application process is still undefined. That means farmers who plant hemp this year, as the planting season draws to an end, are potentially in violation of state and federal law.

Andrew Bish, the chief operating officer of Bish Enterprises and the founder of Hemp Harvest Works, argues heirloom hemp — which is also known as feral hemp, wild hemp, or ditchweed — is exempted from the licensing requirements under the law. The first plot was planted in rows to study how spacing constraints affect the growth of hemp plants that will be harvested for their seeds or stalks; the second was planted in a vegetable garden-style plot to study how to best harvest flowers key to the manufacture of CBD products.

"What we're doing here isn't going to create the commodity Nebraska needs," Andrew Bish said. "But hopefully it will inspire others to have confidence in moving forward."

Omaha Senator Justin Wayne, who sponsored the Hemp bill (LB657) urged caution so that the rules and regulations can be thoughtfully created and adopted. He said he understands the frustrations of the Bishes and others who want to start growing the crop. "We have to make sure we protect the farmer and the public, he said.

Bill Achord, president of the Nebraska Hemp Association, dismissed Wayne's concerns. Hemp is "regulated up the yin-yang now," Achord said, mostly based on long-held fears and misinformation. If they take longer to write the rules, so be it, he added.

"How are they going to regulate it more? It's a crop, all they've got to do is test it," Achord said.

The ag department and state patrol are still working on a way to best test the product as directed by Wayne's bill, said Taylor Gage, the governor's director of strategic communications.

Finally, kudos to the nine state Senators who voted "no" on the motion to adjourn the Legislature sine die on Day 84 of the scheduled 90-day session. While it seemed that the 37 who voted "yes" were ready to call it quits — or maybe just realized the wheels were coming off the wagon — the nine of you recognized your obligation to the people who elected you to not be quitters.

Legislative Update

Still busy during the interim period

My office has remained busy during the interim as all of us prepared for many town halls that I hosted on June 17 in all three of the counties in my district.

I was excited to be able to have the opportunity to connect with my constituents and to be able to fill you in on the ins and outs of this year's legislative session. I would also like to thank all of you that called or emailed us at my office with concerns and ideas that you would like to hear and talk about at the town hall meetings. Hearing from constituents is always something that I look forward to and it helps me be a more effective Senator.

In addition to preparing for the town halls, my calendar was also filled with several great events in the District. On Saturday, June 15 I was able to attend the "Cornerstone Laying Ceremony" with the Brethren in Rosalie. The ceremony for the new Olive Branch Masonic Lodge No. 274 was a traditional ceremony for the laying of the first stone. It is virtually the same ceremony that was used by Brother and President George Washington when he laid the Cornerstone for our nation's Capitol. In Wayne, I was able to attend a joint event between the Nebraska Diplomats and the Nebraska Economic Developers Association. At the event they gave awards to those who have contributed to Nebraska's economic development. It was an honor to be around such great Nebraskans. Also in Wayne, I was able to attend the Northeast Cattleman's dinner and fundraiser at the Wayne County Fair Grounds. The Nebraska Cattlemen raise money for various youth scholarships for Nebraska students. It is always such an enjoyable event for a great cause.

I would also like to take some time to wish all of the fathers in my district a heartfelt, Happy Father's Day. I am truly grateful for all of the lessons and love that I have received from my Dad through the years.

We had another great program take place. The Junior Law Cadet Program of the Nebraska State Patrol and the American Legion occurred.

Every year, high school juniors

Students participate in daily calisthenics and receive training in firearms, self-defense, fingerprinting, K-9 handling, accident and criminal investigation, lie detector testing, and state patrol car driving. Students stay at the Nebraska State Patrol Training Academy in Grand Island. This year's Junior Law Cadet Program began on June 10 and ended on June 13. I am proud to announce that District 17 had two students participate in this year's program. I would like to congratulate Daityn Chase from Jackson and Stuart Hasemann from Wayne. I am excited to see where life takes you both.

It is of great importance that I hear from my constituents to effectively do my job as your voice in the Legislature. I encourage you to contact me and I look forward to hearing from you. You can reach me by phone at (402) 471-2716 or by email at jalbrecht@leg.ne.gov

Advice offered to nourish and protect your skin

Skin is the largest organ in the body. Skin serves as a protective barrier to help prevent harmful substances from entering the body. Damaging sun rays, chemicals, pollution and smoke all can affect the skin. Therefore, if we really want to protect our bodies, we need to commit to protecting our skin and making it a powerful barrier.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, skin cancer is the most common cancer in the U.S. Melanoma is the most dangerous, while basal cell and squamous cell carcinomas are highly curable but can lead to scarring and high medical costs. To prevent skin cancer, take these steps:

- Seek shade from ultraviolet (UV) rays, especially during mid-day from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
- Cover up exposed skin and wear a hat with a wide brim.
- Wear sunglasses that block UVA and UVB rays.
- Remember to rub on sunscreen with an SPF of at least 30 and UVA and UVB protection. Reapply sunscreen every 2 hours.
- And finally, avoid tanning beds, which are considered carcinogenic by the Food and Drug Administration.

mal function. Two of the most important barriers protecting the skin are sebum, a substance secreted by sebaceous glands to reduce water loss and prevent infection, and pH (alkalinity or acidity). The low pH of the skin's surface helps protect against disease-causing bacteria.

Factors such as the sun, pollution, chemicals, smoke, tanning beds and continual hand-washing with antibacterial soaps can break down the skin's essential barriers for protection. These environmental and behavioral factors can lead to damaged skin as a result of the oxidation process. Continued sun exposure can result in dry, flaky, wrinkled, aged skin and potentially skin cancer.

In addition to applying sunscreen, consuming antioxidants from foods may offer some protection against these damaging factors. Plant-based foods such as fruits, vegetable, beans and nuts/seeds are good sources of natural antioxidants.

Of the foods scientists have tested, these are some foods especially high in antioxidants:

- Red, kidney, pinto and black beans;
- Blueberries, cranberries, blackberries, raspberries, strawberries;
- Red delicious, Granny Smith and gala apples;
- Red cherries, prunes, black plums;
- Artichokes, potatoes;
- Pecans and other tree nuts such as pistachios, walnuts and almonds.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, July 9.

Editor's note - the following minutes were inadvertently omitted from the May 23 edition of the Wayne Herald and are being printed here in their entirety.

The VFW Auxiliary to Post #5291 met May 14 at the Wayne Senior Center Meeting Room.

President Glennadine Barker presided. The opening prayer was read. The April minutes were approved and the treasurer's report was filed for audit.

Excerpts from the May edition of The Golden Rule were presented. The Membership committee reported the auxiliary is now at 120 percent.

The Americanism committee reminded everyone of the true meaning of Memorial Day. "The flag on the veterans' graves lets everyone know and remember a veteran who was in the service who gave us freedom."

At the District 3 meeting, the auxiliary received a certificate for membership achievement by Dec. 31, 2018. The Department President, Liz Davis, addressed the group.

Members of the auxiliary will place Auxiliary flags on departed members graves, weather permitting.

The auxiliary will sponsor the monthly birthday/bingo party at the Norfolk Veterans Home on May 29. Members are encouraged to participate.

Installing Officer Darlene Draghu presided at the installation of all officers who were present.

Closing ceremonies were conducted and the closing prayer was read.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, June 11.

Joy Circle learns history of Father's Day

Joy Circle of Our Savior Lutheran Church met on June 12. President Dorothy Wert welcomed everyone and gave announcements. She named those with June birthdays: Pastor Jeanne Madsen, Elaine Draghu and Ruby Nelson, who will be celebrating her 100th birthday. Lynette Lentz gave a program on Father's Day. Citing from the The Senior Star, she gave a brief history of honoring fathers. On July 5, 1908 a church in West Virginia sponsored an event to honor 362 fathers who had died in the previous December's explosions at the Fairmont Coal Company mines in W.V. Father's Day was first celebrated in the United States on June 19, 1910 in Washington state. In 1972, President Nixon established a permanent national observance of Father's Day to be held on the third Sunday in June. In the Scriptures, from Genesis to Colossians, Lynette shared various passages referring to fathers and how we should listen/honor them. She shared a story of a young boy born to an unwed mother. He went through life dreading the question, "Who is your daddy?" One day a preacher came into his life and told him, "You are a child of God." "Boy, you have a great inheritance. Go and claim it." The boy smiled for the first time, and he was never the same again. This young boy turned out to be the former governor of Tennessee. She shared a reading from Erma Bombeck about God creating the father. The group shared memories of their fathers. Refreshments were served by Dorothy Wert. The next meeting will be held Wednesday, July 10 with the program and devotion given by Nancy Jo Powers.

We should all be 'free to serve my neighbor'

"A Christian is a perfectly free lord of all, subject to none. A Christian is a perfectly dutiful servant of all, subject to all." -Martin Luther On the Freedom of a Christian

As a Lutheran pastor, I often choose to use the words of Martin Luther when speaking to my congregation about our duty to love our neighbors as ourselves. Although no good work will earn us salvation (or brownie points) in God's eyes, we have been saved so that in thanksgiving of this amazing gift we might share love and good works with our neighbors.

I think this distinction makes sense to many and conjures up examples of good works we might extend to our neighbors such as forgiveness and charity. But one important aspect of Christian service that I feel needs uplifting is that of Christian hospitality.

The word "hospitality" may conjure up in your mind Martha Stewart and back-issues of "Good Housekeeping". But Christian hospitality is so much more than the good china set on the dining room table for guests. Christian hospitality, that important aspect of serving our neighbor, will often entail real sacrifice.

You shall treat the stranger who sojourns with you as the native among you, and you shall love him as yourself, for you were strangers in the land of Egypt: I am the Lord your God. - Leviticus 19:34. ESV

Then the King will say to those on his right, "Come, you who are blessed by my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. For I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, I was naked and you clothed me, I was sick and you visited me, I was in prison and you came to me." Then the righteous will answer him, saying, "Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you drink? And when did we see you a stranger and welcome you, or naked and clothe you? ... -Matthew 25:34-46. ESV

Do not neglect to show hospitality to strangers, for thereby some have entertained angels unawares. -Hebrews 13:2. ESV

In order to welcome a stranger among us with the same love that God first shows us, we may need to go way out of our way to do so. We may need to actually make room

A Word In Faith

By Kristen Van Stee
Associate Pastor, Our Savior Lutheran Church

for someone in our community, in our church, even in our own house. We may need to give up something of our own for the sake of the other such as a portion of our own meal. And we must certainly raise our own voice out loud in public in support of the stranger and the foreigner who are in need of help and welcome.

Eighty years ago, the Lutherans of North America gathered their resources and began making serious efforts to sponsor refugees from post-WWII Europe to immigrate here to our own continent. At first, this was done out of solidarity with their many fellow Lutherans in Europe. But after beginning this important work for the sake of refugees, Lutherans here kept it up, even after the post-war refugee crisis waned. Instead, Lutherans began sponsoring refugees and asylum seekers from all around the globe, no matter their race or religion.

Today Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Services (LIRS) is at the forefront of helping and advocating for displaced peoples around the globe. Through LIRS, Lutherans have a long and dedicated history of resettling people in need, but our work is not yet done. Today there are more displaced people around the globe than there has ever been in human history. Speaking bluntly, never before has there been so many strangers in need of our hospitality as there is now.

According to the United Nations, for every 21 refugees in need of resettlement, only one will actually be resettled in a new country outside of a refugee camp. For many refugees, they will most likely spend the rest of their lives living in tents with no hope of a new home. Likewise, asylum seekers from Central America are fleeing from unprecedented rates of gang violence and homicide. To stay in their home country is often a death sentence. These people who are literally running for their lives are also in need of a new home.

So what kind of Christian hospitality are we willing to extend to those in need? Will we see the face of Christ in the refugee and the asylum seeker? Or will we come up with convenient excuses as to why we can't help a neighbor in need?

Now is the time to be generous in our welcome and sacrificing in our efforts. June 20 is World Refugee Day and a perfect day to begin practicing Christian hospitality. If you would like to learn more about this issue and find out how you can help refugees and asylum seekers, please check out Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Services on their webpage: www.lirs.org

NDA encourages horse owners to consider West Nile virus vaccine

Historic flooding and above-normal precipitation can have a major impact on the mosquito population. With that in mind, the Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA) is encouraging horse owners to visit with their veterinarian about vaccinating their horses against mosquito-borne illnesses like West Nile Virus (WNV). WNV is transmitted through the bite of an infected mosquito.

"All of this precipitation around the state will likely mean higher levels of mosquito activity," said State Veterinarian Dr. Dennis Hughes. "Higher numbers of mosquitoes don't always correlate with higher incidence of disease, but it's a possibility that we can prepare for."

Hughes said typically Nebraska sees the most WNV cases in horses in August, so now is a good time for horse owners to consider vaccination. Mosquito season often runs through October.

"The vaccine to prevent West Nile Virus in horses is highly effective and should be administered at least three weeks prior to exposure to mosquitoes carrying WNV," said Hughes. "Vaccination helps prevent horses from contracting the virus, and if they do get it, improve their chances of survival."

Horse owners are also encouraged

Pollinators needed for healthy, biodiverse ecosystems

By Craig Derickson
State Conservationist for the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service in Nebraska

The week of June 17-23 is National Pollinator Week. Its intent is to raise awareness that pollinators need us, and we need pollinators.

Between 75 and 95 percent of flowering plants need pollinators to help with pollination. This accounts for two-thirds of crop plants — or one out of every three bites of food we eat.

As pollinators gather nectar and pollen, they also provide $217 billion dollars to the global economy. That's quite a chunk of change for this diverse batch of insects, birds and mammals.

Unfortunately, many of the world's pollinators are at risk. Monarch butterflies have declined by 90 percent in the last 20 years. A quarter of bumble bee species are thought to be in serious decline. Pesticides and other toxins have also negatively impacted other crucial pollinators.

But it's not all gloom. An army of agencies and nonprofit groups have assembled to help restore and protect pollinator populations. And there are things you can do in your very own yard to help pollinators flourish.

First, you can incorporate pollinator friendly plants into your landscape. Native plants are typically best, and the diverse use of flowers is best, meaning different shapes, colors and times of bloom. Natives include beardtongue, tickseed, black-eyed susan, native sunflowers, purple coneflower, bee balm and milkweed.

Avoid using pesticides. While pesticides kill those pesky bugs, they take out a lot of beneficial bugs, too. Explore non-pesticide options when protecting yourself and your plants. Planting certain plants can ward off unwanted bugs or attract those good bugs to ward them off for you.

You can also promote pollinator habitat in your community. Green spaces like parks and golf courses can provide valuable habitat for pollinators. As urbanization continues to deplete natural lands, these green spaces can serve as sanctuaries for pollinators. Encourage your local leaders to use landscaping best suited for pollinators.

Roadsides are another resource for helping pollinators. American roadsides have 10 million acres of land that could be ideal habitat. Ask your local and state highway officials to allow native vegetation to colonize roadsides, creating an aesthetically pleasing vista for motorists as well as helping pollinators.

USDA and the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) recognize the importance of pollinators. We have conservation programs that provide funding to landowners to establish pollinator habitat on their farm and ranching operations.

For more information on how you can help protect pollinators, visit your local NRCS field office.

More than 200 students selected to attend 48th annual NAYI event

More than 200 high school juniors and seniors, sharing an interest in agriculture, will gather in Lincoln in July to develop leadership skills, explore career opportunities and learn more about the state's number one industry. The Nebraska Agricultural Youth Institute (NAYI) is the longest running program of its kind in the nation. Sponsored in part by the Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA), NAYI will be held July 8-12 in Lincoln on the University of Nebraska's East Campus.

Among those attending will be Hunter Borg of Allen, Kylie Kempf of Carroll, Katie Bathke of Dixon, Jasmine Galvin of Laurel and Allison Claussen, Hana Nelson, Josie Thompson and Tyler Gilliland, all of Wayne.

"NAYI is one of the best ways for students to learn more about Nebraska's diverse agriculture and the hard-working people who help make our ag industry great," said NDA Director Steve Wellman.

During NAYI's five-day program, delegates participate in agriculture policy and group discussions, farm management activities, and a variety of networking opportunities with peers and industry leaders. Learning about various career options is another important part of NAYI as a quarter of the jobs in Nebraska are related to agriculture.

"Career development at NAYI helps students realize that there are many ag-related jobs available including those in science, finance, marketing and sales, technology

Commission to consider mountain lion season

The Nebraska Game and Parks Commission will consider a staff recommendation to approve a proposed 2020 mountain lion season when it meets June 21 in Alma.

The meeting will begin at 8 a.m. at Alma Country Club, 102 Dick Brown Memorial Drive. A public hearing on the mountain lion recommendation will begin at 9:30 a.m.

The proposed season would provide a harvest opportunity for up to eight mountain lions in two sub-units within the Pine Ridge of northwestern Nebraska. The proposed season would allow the population to remain resilient and healthy, while halting growth or moderately reducing the population size. This would initiate a reduction of the population density in the Pine Ridge to one similar to that of other western states that allow mountain lion hunting.

For more information on mountain lions in Nebraska, visit outdoornebraska.gov/mountainlions.

In other business, the Commission will consider staff recommendations to:

- amend regulations regarding practice and procedures for public and equipment repair," said Wellman. "Agriculture is expanding, and Nebraska needs new and talented people to step up and be a part of the ag industry's next generation of workers."

Since its start, NAYI has shared the importance of agriculture with nearly 6,400 youth from across the state. Delegates apply for and are selected to attend NAYI free of charge due to numerous donations from agricultural businesses, commodity groups and industry organizations.

"Generous contributions from sponsors help make NAYI a strong foundation for the youth of Nebraska and the future of our farming, ranching and ag-related industries," said Wellman.

NAYI events and additional youth learning opportunities throughout the year are organized by the Nebraska Agricultural Youth Council (NAYC). The 21 college students who serve on NAYC are chosen by NDA to share their passion and knowledge about agriculture with young people across Nebraska. During NAYI, NAYC members provide valuable insight and advice about agriculture, college coursework and career building.

To learn more about NAYC or NAYI, visit the NAYI website at nda.nebraska.gov/nayi/. Follow NAYI activities on Facebook by searching and liking the Nebraska Agricultural Youth Institute. On Twitter, follow the_nayc or #NAYI19.

Commenting on meatless 'burgers' West Nile

Our three daughters made it here for Father's day and our son called, so The Big Farmer made out okay. However, no matter how he asked, no one wanted to work on the current puzzle: a piece of hay in a pile of needles! Neighbor Sonnie comes faithfully, and they quietly try to find the pieces. I think they are crazy!

Speaking of crazy, what do you think about meatless Runzas? If you read this little weekly essay, you already know that I like beef! And I admit that no one needs a lot of it, but it is good for you, and if raised and butchered correctly, very tasty. We had some little steaks last week that had NO marbling, if you can imagine; and no flavor.

Therefore, I'm finding the meatless burger craze hard to understand. One outfit adds beets, so that it looks like blood. Even Tyson is on the band wagon, making some kind of hybrid with peanuts. I know it's not possible to feed everyone quality beef, and I know that starving kids in undeveloped countries need protein, and that is often provided by peanuts. And I like peanuts. But not in my hamburgers!

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

Some of these outfits are spending a lot of time and money in coming up with these imposters. I'm of the opinion that milk should only be applied to what comes from a dairy animal, not that which comes from rice or almonds. The same thing applies to beef; if you are calling it a burger, it needs to be made of beef, or lamb, or buffalo; or deer, bear, elk, or wild pig. But it should not be made of vegetables.

I also recognize how hard it is to get enough fruit and veggies in our diets. But this is not the way to add them, for sure. I checked the price at Burger King; $3.29. That's no bargain. Their veggie burger is made of beans. That could also be a problem.

Their ad says their buns are meatless, too; huh? I'm guessing that means no milk in the recipe, I don't know that for sure. Anyway, they all have something like that on their menus.

It's a free world; I do think my vegan friends are missing out, but it's their choice. And I guess it's the choice of the folks at Burger King and all the other meat using companies. But I sincerely hope they eventually drop them from their burger for lack of interest.

I don't like 'Meatless Mondays' either, as you can probably guess. Taco Tuesdays are a lot better. If we need a protein substitute, we eat eggs. Have you noticed that the powers that be have back-tracked on their advice 20 years ago, when they were sure eggs caused elevated cholesterol levels? Now we are told they are healthy, which I have maintained all along. It's no fun to be right when you don't know who you can taunt about it! So I will just mention it here. (smile).

Time to tune into the Royals, who don't seem to know how to win these days. And our Florida State guys got beat in the CWS tonight; remember, we beat Michigan THREE times in regular season!

to remove mosquito breeding points by eliminating any pools of standing water. If possible, animals also should be moved indoors during dawn and dusk, when mosquitoes are most active. Other preventative measures include: avoid turning on lights inside the stable during evening and overnight; remove birds that are in, or close to, the stable; and use mosquito repellants.

Clinical symptoms in WNV-in-fectured horses may include a loss of appetite, depression, lethargy/drowsiness, muscle twitching, lack of coordination, weakness of the limbs or partial paralysis.

More information on WNV can be found at www.nda.nebraska.gov. Search for West Nile Virus. To report suspected cases of WNV, contact a local veterinarian, NDA at (402) 471-2351, or the U.S. Department of Agriculture/APHIS/Veterinary Services at (402) 434-2300.

Preventing Dicamba drift is a concern

Drift has been a concern since man first discovered he could put pesticides and water in a tank, pressurize it with a pump, and push it out specially designed nozzles. However, in the last few years the concern about spray drift reached an all-time high. The development of dicamba-tolerant soybeans has offered a new tool to manage problem weeds, but it has also created more potential drift injury problems.

Dicamba is the active ingredient in Banvel and many other sister products and premix herbicides. While recognized as an excellent broadleaf weed killer, herbicides containing dicamba are also recognized as having a greater potential for moving offsite and injuring susceptible crops and plants.

The last few years, there have been many more cases of offsite injury because more soybean acres have been treated with dicamba. The problem isn't limited to drift from soybean fields, more corn acres are also being treated with dicamba to help control herbicide resistant and other broadleaf weeds.

Requirements for applicator training and for the actual application of these products continues to evolve to address and reduce the number of the frequency of off-site herbicide injury. So it is more important than ever to read and follow the label closely if spraying your soybeans with one of the herbicides containing dicamba specifically labeled for use on dicamba-tolerant soybeans.

John Wilson
Extension Educator

There are more stringent record keeping requirements and more "rules and regulations" regarding the application of these products. This is why applicators must carefully read, understand, and follow the label directions to prevent this type of injury. Things you need to consider include:

- Even though a soybean variety is dicamba-tolerant, it is illegal to apply just any product containing dicamba to that crop. Certain products have been formulated and labeled for this use which have a lower drift potential than products you might use to control broadleaf weeds in your corn or pastures.

Also, there are restrictions on what you can or can't add to the spray mix because some of these products may break down the drift resistant properties of these formulations. Most notably is to NOT add ammonium-containing additives such as ammonium sulfate. This can destabilize the product and significantly increase volatility. Do not tank-mix with any other pesticides or adjuvants that are not listed on the label for the same reason.

Other restrictions that you need to be aware of include:

- What nozzles you must use to minimize creating fine spray droplets that are more likely to drift.
- Restrictions on the wind speed and whether they are blowing toward or away from sensitive crops.
- Air temperature and the time of day which can cause temperature inversions to occur.
- The ground speed you can travel when applying these pesticides.
- The sprayer pressure you can use to avoid creating fine spray droplets.

The minimum gallons per acre you must apply when using these products.

The maximum height of the boom over the crop canopy.

The untreated buffers you must leave when making an application. The width of these buffers will vary with the rate of herbicide you are applying. Remember you will need to do something different for weed control in these buffers.

As with anything new, there has been a steep learning curve for those adopting this technology to prevent injury to their own operation, that of their neighbors, and the environment. Perhaps the best advice is, if that little voice in the back of your mind says, "Are you sure you want to do this?", that's a good indication this is NOT the time to do it. Common sense and good judgement are hard to beat.

For more information about preventing spray drift, go to <https://cropwatch.unl.edu> and type drift in the search box for specific information, or contact your local Nebraska Extension office.

Hoof health for Feedlot and Cow Calf Producers

I was visiting with a producer last week and he quoted a phrase his mother told him, "Never complain about the rain, but you can complain about the mud all you want". This year that saying couldn't be more true for cattle producers. While feedlots are trying to keep their pens in the best condition possible, cow calf producers are facing similar issues. Do you take the risk of possibly damaging pastures in order to get pairs off the dry lots and save money by not having to start the tractor and mix feed every day or do you wait? Sometimes the right decision is "as clear as mud".

By Brandi Salestrom
CVA Feed Sales Specialist

Besides land and money factors, wet conditions can cause other issues as well. Mud and wet conditions over prolonged amounts of time can cause hoof health issues for all cattle. Correctly identifying early signs of lameness and diagnosing can be a challenge. For a producer to maximize productivity, they need healthy cattle. At Central Valley Ag, we help producers meet this challenge by offering performance trace minerals from Zinpro such as Availa 4.

Zinpro is an organic trace mineral company known worldwide for their expertise in bovine and swine foot health. Trace minerals are required in small amounts and an example of a few are Zinc, Copper, Cobalt, Manganese, Selenium, and Iodine. Two of the most common cases of lameness are foot rot and toe abscesses. Foot rot is an infection between the toes that has a foul smell where a toe abscess is an abrasion in the toe leading to infection in the hoof. This condition is painful and normally has no swelling. Zinpro developed a Step-Up locomotion scoring system to help detect early signs of hoof disorders. This system uses a 0-3 scale to rate severity with 0 being normal and 3 severe lameness. Work with your veterinarian to determine a treatment program if a lameness is suspected.

Central Valley Ag has access to Zinpro products, and our most commonly used mineral is Availa 4. Availa 4 contains zinc, cobalt, copper and manganese. These trace minerals are required for immunity, reproduction, skin and hoof integrity, growth and muscle development, milk production, fiber digestion, and energy. When fed in a proper balance, animals can cope better with stress. Availa 4 comes in a variety of options in either bags or tubs and can be combined with hi mag or fly control. For any questions about hoof health or products from Zinpro such as Availa 4, contact your local CVA feed sales specialist.

Barbecue Ranch Quesadilla Wedges

Spice things up with this southwestern-flavored quesadilla.

Ingredients

16 ounces frozen pepper (green, red, yellow peppers) stir-fry blend, 1 package

1/4 cup diced onion
1 1/2 cups shredded barbecue beef
1/4 cup barbecue sauce

1/2 cup light ranch dressing
8 whole wheat tortillas 8-inch
1 1/2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
Non-stick cooking spray

Directions

Prepare stir-fry pepper blend with diced onion added and heat barbecue beef according to package directions. While vegetables and beef are cooking, mix barbecue sauce and ranch dressing in small serving bowl; set aside for dipping sauce.

On a tortilla, evenly layer 1/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons each of shredded beef and cheese. Add about 1/4 to 1/2 cup vegetables. Cover with a second tortilla.

Repeat for total of 4 quesadillas. Spray large skillet or counter-top grill with non-stick cooking spray. Cook each quesadilla for 3 minutes on each side or until golden and cheese is melted.

Cut into 8 wedges; serve with barbecue-ranch.

Notes

This is a good way to use up leftover barbecue beef. In addition to the frozen veggies, you can also stock a bag of frozen onions to use in this recipe.

For fajita-ranch quesadillas, substitute chicken strips for the shredded beef. Mix light ranch dressing with salsa instead of barbecue sauce for dipping.

Our farmers feed our future

Thanks to our farmers, Nebraska is a leader in agriculture. Their passion for farming helps feed the future of our community. We believe in investing in this future. We've been making ag loans since we opened our doors, and we'll keep doing so for generations to come.

Relief funds help offset tariff issues

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) recently announced up to $16 billion in relief to U.S. agriculture as retaliatory tariffs from trading partners continue to disrupt U.S. export activity.

International Dairy Foods Association president and CEO Michael Dykes, D.V.M., commended the announcement and appealed to the Administration to continue to focus on growing food and agricultural exports for dairy and other agriculture products.

"I applaud the Administration and leadership at USDA for working quickly to finalize a package of enhanced assistance that begins to address the uncertainty felt by U.S. food and agriculture due to disruptions in trade," said Dykes.

"While the share for dairy is not yet known, this trade relief package will include important market facilitation payments to dairy farmers as well as financial resources to continue USDA purchases of dairy products including fresh, nutritious milk to benefit food banks and food insecure Americans. Fresh milk is the most requested item at U.S. food banks, and this assistance from USDA should allow milk to reach those in need. While we welcome this support for the dairy industry, we strongly hope trade mitigation measures are replaced in short order by expanded trade opportunities. Retaliatory tariffs by China and other important markets have led to huge losses for our IDFA members while the Chinese market has increased dairy imports since the initial tariffs went into effect last July. Sales of U.S. dairy to China are down through March, with U.S. cheese exports declining 44 percent and U.S. whey to China falling 32 percent during the past nine months. What we need is a predictable, transparent and rules-based system of international trade that provides the agricultural economy with certainty and a clear path to growth. Most importantly, we must regain market share from our competitors who have benefited from these trade disputes. Over the next decade, China represents a $23 billion market opportunity for U.S. dairy, and it is essential to our nation's economic future that make the most of it."

Gov. Ricketts proclaims June as Dairy Month in Nebraska

Governor Pete Ricketts proclaimed June as Dairy Month in Nebraska during a ceremony at Omaha's Henry Doorly Zoo on June 1. Dairy Month is celebrated in Nebraska each June to highlight the importance of Nebraska's dairy farmers to agriculture and the state's economy.

"Dairy farmers in Nebraska make significant contributions to our state's economic growth as well as high-quality milk for our families. Thanks to their good work, Nebraska is a top-ten state in both production and revenue per dairy cow," said Governor Ricketts. "Our state's plentiful feed supplies and abundant water resources, along with our pro-agriculture policies, make Nebraska an ideal home for dairies."

Nebraska is a net exporter of milk, sending two million pounds out of state each day. Thanks to the state's central location, milk produced locally can reach almost every corner of the continental United States within two days. Nebraska's cow numbers are up 7% since 2014, and dairy farmers anticipate additional growth in the coming years.

Kris Bousquet of the Nebraska State Dairy Association (NSDA) touted the state as a great place for dairy processors to do business. "A processor who comes to Nebraska will have immediate access to milk produced right here, and dairy farmers will be thrilled to reduce their transportation costs in the process," he said. "The next dairy processor to stake a claim in Nebraska is going to have the pick of the litter in terms of location and the opportunity to connect with dairy farmers."

A team of organizations have joined forces to lead the state's Grow Nebraska

Dairy initiative. These include the Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA), Nebraska Department of Economic Development, Nebraska Public Power District, the University of Nebraska, the NSDA, and the Alliance for the Future of Agriculture in Nebraska.

"Nebraska is a great place to milk cows," said NDA Director Steve Wellman. "We have abundant, high-quality feed and water resources that lead to a top-ten level of milk production per cow. Nebraska is ready to grow and add value to our agricultural products through the dairy sector."

To learn more about the potential for dairy production and processing in Nebraska, visit <http://NebraskaMilk.com> or contact Kris Bousquet at krisbousquet@nebraskamilk.org or 531-207-4291.

What is the Nebraska State Dairy Association?

History

The core of Grow Nebraska Dairy is the Nebraska State Dairy Association (NSDA), University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension, Alliance for the Future of Agriculture in Nebraska (AFAN), and Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA). We expand our partners to include Nebraska Department of Economic Development (DED), Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD), communities, and other stakeholders. The four core members jump-started the recruitment effort in 2012 with efforts to recruit dairies.

In 2013, the Midwest Dairy Association began a "Path Forward" project to look at the future of the dairy industry in the upper Midwest. This is when the Grow Nebraska Dairy name began.

In 2014, the Nebraska legislature authorized the dairy study by the Nebraska Department of Agriculture.

In 2015, a Dairy Summit was held in Lincoln to communicate the mission, goals and the future plans of the Grow Nebraska Dairy team. The Dairy Summit, attended by Senators, commodity groups, the University, dairy producers and other key stakeholders, shared the direction of the Grow Nebraska Dairy team recruit dairy processors to Nebraska, and that is still the focus today.

Mission

Working to support and grow a viable dairy industry in Nebraska.

Milk - From the farm to the table

Clean & Clear

For many consumers, understanding the journey their food takes from the farm to their table is as important as the taste and the nutrition of the food itself. A food is said to have a "clean label" when its label shares information about how it was produced on-farm and processed prior to arriving at the store.

A clean label also means the food carries a short, understandable ingredient list. Nearly 30 percent of consumers say clean labels impact their purchases.

We recently surveyed Midwest dairy consumers and asked them if milk and dairy products deliver clean labels. Consumers noted the top two factors indicating a clean label to them were "no artificial ingredients/flavors/preservatives" and "ingredients easily read or recognized." More importantly, these same consumers said milk and most dairy products provide these clean label benefits.

Using this same definition, milk and dairy products deliver clean labels far more than milk alternatives.

Milk has only three simple ingredients, while milk alternatives have eight to 12, including flavorings and stabilizers.

Milk takes only 48 hours to journey from the farm to the store — milk alternatives can take weeks.

Milk products go through pasteurization and homogenization to ensure safety and quality, but these processes don't impact milk's unmatched nutrition package of nine essential nutrients.

Producing fresh, local, sustainable dairy foods

Milk, cheese and yogurt are some of the freshest and simplest foods we can include in our diets ... and all three take just a few steps and a few hours to get from the dairy farm to your table. That's because the dairy farms and farmers that produce them can be found near you — in all 50 states — making them truly a locally grown or produced food choice.

Fresh & Local

Some foods are only grown in certain areas of the country, but dairy is local and based in all 50 states. There are more than 50,000 dairy farms in the United States, including more than 8,000 here in the Midwest. In fact, milk's journey from the farm to the grocery store takes only about 48 hours! Not only is this journey fast and efficient, it enhances milk safety and quality — you can be sure your grocer is selling dairy that's very fresh. In these same two days, milk also makes its way to nearby school cafeterias, fueling kids with nutritious food and boosting the local economy. Many schools provide fun and educational activities for students to learn more about cow milk production and how dairy fresh food gets from the dairy farm to their lunch tray. Through Farm to School programs, everybody wins!

Real & Safe

There are countless choices in the dairy case, but with claims such as organic and antibiotic-free, how do you know what to choose?

Good news — all milk, as long as it is pasteurized, is wholesome, safe, nutritious and dairy fresh. That's because all dairy farmers, regardless of their farms' size or ownership, follow strict regulations and best practices in cow milk production for the health of their families, their cows, their neighbors and you.

Milk products go through pasteurization and homogenization before arriving in the dairy case. Safety is always of the utmost importance, and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommend drinking only pasteurized milk. Don't fret, however, because "pasteurization does not significantly change the nutritional value of milk," according to the CDC. It is still nutrient-rich and contains protein and carbohydrates.

History of cheese is shared

According to ancient records passed down through the centuries, the making of cheese dates back more than 4,000 years.

No one really knows who made the first cheese. According to an ancient legend, it was made accidentally by an Arabian merchant who put his supply of milk into a pouch made from a sheep's stomach, as he set out on a day's journey across the desert. The rennet in the lining of the pouch, combined with the heat of the sun, caused the milk to separate into curd and whey. That night he found that the whey satisfied his thirst, and the cheese (curd) had a delightful flavor which satisfied his hunger.

Travelers from Asia are believed to have brought the art of cheese making to Europe. In fact, cheese was made in many parts of the Roman Empire when it was at its height. The Romans, in turn, introduced cheese making to England. During the Middle Ages - from the decline of the Roman Empire until the discovery of America - cheese was made and improved by the monks in the monasteries of Europe. For example, Gorgonzola was made in the Po Valley in Italy in 879 A.D., and Italy became the cheese making center of Europe during the 10th Century. Roquefort was also mentioned in the ancient records of the monastery at Conques, France as early as 1070.

Cheese making continued to flourish in Europe and became an established food. In fact, the Pilgrims included cheese in the Mayflower's supplies when they made their voyage to America in 1620. The making of cheese quickly spread in the New World, but until the 19th century it remained a local farm industry. It wasn't until 1851 that the first cheese factory in the United States was built by Jesse Williams in Oneida County, N.Y.

As population across the United States continued to grow dramatically, the demand for cheese increased and the industry gradually moved westward, centering on the rich farm lands of Wisconsin. In 1845, a band of Swiss immigrants settled in Green County, Wisc. and started the manufacturing of foreign cheese in America. Most Wisconsin farmers began to believe that their future survival was tied to cheese and their first factory was a Limburger plant which opened in 1868.

The wholesale cheese industry was thus born and showed phenomenal growth during the latter half of the 1800s. By 1880 there were 3,923 dairy factories nationwide which were reported to have made 216 million pounds of cheese that year valued at $17 million. This represented almost 90 percent of total cheese production that year. By the turn of the century, farm production of cheese had become insignificant. The 1904 census reported only factory output, which totaled over 317 million pounds. As cheese demand continued to grow and spread rapidly, manufactured and processed cheese production increased dramatically. Total natural cheese production grew from 418 million pounds in 1920 to 2.2 billion pounds by 1970. Rising demand for cheese throughout the 1970s and 1980s brought total natural cheese production to more than 6 billion pounds by the beginning of the 1990s. Processed cheese also experienced a surge in consumer demand with annual production exceeding 2 billion pounds a year by the beginning of the 1990s.

Currently, more than one-third of all milk produced each year in the U.S. is used to manufacture cheese. Recent increases in the overall demand for farm milk have in large part been due to the continued growth of the cheese industry. As consumer appetites for all types of cheese continue to expand, so will the industry.

Tariff

USDA said that the trade mitigation payments and assistance to producers will be expanded to cover a wider variety of commodities, including to dairy farmers and for dairy products. USDA said the program is expected to go into effect by July 2019. Dykes stressed that the outstanding details on dairy farmer payments and the $1.4 billion commodity purchases are very important to IDFA members, who have already suffered a loss in dairy product sales in foreign countries where they have invested significantly to develop these export markets.

"Secretary Perdue understands and appreciates the role American food and agriculture play in global trade, and we're grateful to him and his team for their support," Dykes said.

The International Dairy Foods Association (IDFA), Washington, D.C., represents the nation's dairy manufacturing and marketing industry, which supports nearly 3 million jobs that generate more than $161 billion in wages and has an overall economic impact of more than $628 billion. IDFA members range from multinational organizations to single-plant companies. Together they represent approximately 90 percent of the milk, cultured products, cheese, ice cream and frozen desserts produced and marketed in the United States and sold throughout the world. The diverse membership includes numerous food retailers, suppliers, cooperatives and companies that offer a wide variety of nutritional dairy products and dairy-derived ingredients.

Those who are lactose intolerant don't have to give up milk products

Lactose intolerance is one type of food sensitivity — it's not an allergy. It is the result of not having enough lactase, an enzyme that digests the natural sugar in milk, lactose. Lactose intolerance is a very individual condition, which means people are able to tolerate different amounts of lactose.

Most people can continue to enjoy the taste and health benefits of low-fat and fat-free dairy foods by drinking lactose-free milk, having small amounts of milk with meals or including natural cheeses or yogurt in their diet.

Enjoy Dairy Again

If you are lactose intolerant, below are some ways you can enjoy dairy again:

- Try lactose-free milk and milk products. They are real milk products, just without the lactose, and provide the same great nutrients as regular dairy foods.
- Start with a small amount of milk daily and increase slowly over several days or weeks.
- Mix milk with other foods, such as smoothies, soups or sauces — or pair it with meals. This helps give your body more time to digest it.

• Top sandwiches or crackers with natural cheeses such as cheddar, colby, Monterey jack, mozzarella and Swiss. These cheeses are low in lactose.

• Shred your favorite natural cheese onto soups, pastas and salads. It's an easy way to include dairy that is low in lactose.

• Enjoy easy-to-digest yogurt. The live and active cultures in yogurt help to digest lactose.

How do I know if I'm lactose intolerant?

People who are lactose intolerant have a hard time digesting the sugar (called lactose) that is naturally found in milk and may experience discomfort after consuming dairy foods. Stomachaches, bloating or gassiness can have many different causes. Your doctor can help you find out if you are lactose intolerant or if your digestive discomfort is caused by something else.

What's the difference between lactose intolerance and a milk allergy?

A milk allergy is caused by a reaction to the protein in milk. This is different from lactose intolerance, which occurs when your body has a hard time digesting the natural sugar (or carbohydrate) in milk. While people with milk allergies must avoid dairy, avoidance is not necessary for those who are lactose intolerant.

Why does dairy matter?
Milk and milk products are an important source of key nutrients, such as calcium, phosphorus and vitamin D, for all people — including those who are lactose intolerant, or cannot easily digest lactose, the sugar found naturally in milk. Health and nutrition experts agree that it's difficult to get enough of these nutrients without dairy in your diet.

A message from Nebraska State Dairy Association Executive Director

Nebraska is poised for expansion in the dairy industry. We have the natural resources to support tremendous growth. The Ogallala Aquifer lies under Nebraska and provides ample water for irrigation; Nebraska is the number one irrigated state in the nation with more than nine million acres being irrigated. Crop and alfalfa production is very consistent even in a dry year.

Nationally, Nebraska is ranked number one in irrigated acres, two in ethanol production, three in corn production, four in alfalfa and soybean production. When you consider Nebraska's availability of land, open spaces and support for livestock, it is apparent our state is the land of opportunity for dairy.

Dairy processors will find great opportunities in Nebraska. The state has excellent infrastructure with access to high quality roads and railroad transportation. Interstate 80 runs east and west through the state and most parts of the U.S. can be reached within two days. Nebraska is a pro-agriculture and pro-business state. In fact Forbes ranks Nebraska as the 3rd best state for business in 2016.

Nebraska has a broad coalition of support to grow the dairy industry. Our Grow Nebraska Dairy team includes representation from Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA), Nebraska Department of Economic Development (DED), Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD), the Alliance for the Future of Agriculture in Nebraska (AFAN), the University of Nebraska - Lincoln (UNL), Nebraska State Dairy Association (NSDA), as well as support from many other state and local partners. This team is highly engaged and highly motivated to grow the dairy industry.

If you have any questions or need any additional information please contact me or any of the dairy team.

Sincerely,

Information shared on Midwest Dairy

General Information

Midwest Dairy™ represents 7,000 dairy farm families and works on their behalf to build dairy demand by inspiring consumer confidence in our products and production practices. We are committed to Bringing Dairy to Life! by giving consumers an excellent dairy experience and are funded by farmers across a 10-state region, including Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma.

Midwest Dairy is dedicated to dairy nutrition research and education, and is committed to child health and wellness through our collaborative program, Fuel Up to Play 60.

Our History

Midwest Dairy weaves through 100 years of dairy history. Farmers in Iowa, Missouri and eastern Kansas formed Midland Dairy Association in 1971. Their counterparts in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota combined their state promotional organizations in 1993, forming the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council of the Upper Midwest. These two larger organizations joined forces in 2000, forming the Midwest Dairy Association and adding dairy farmers and territory in Arkansas, western Kansas and eastern Oklahoma. The American Dairy Association of Illinois joined Midwest Dairy a year later. The American Dairy Association/Dairy Council of Nebraska became part of Midwest Dairy Association in 2011.

Midwest Dairy Quick Facts

We represent 7,000 dairy farm families to 39 million consumers in 10 Midwest states, including Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma.

Midwest Dairy is a part of Dairy Management Inc. (DMI), yet focused on Midwest industry priorities. DMI is the domestic and international planning and management organization that builds demand for dairy products on behalf of America's 40,000 dairy farmers.

Midwest Dairy is an affiliate of the National Dairy Council, which has been dedicated to nutrition research, education and communication since 1915.

There are 26 billion pounds of milk produced annually in our 10 states. That is 12 percent of total U.S. milk production.

Dairy farmers in the Midwest invest 15 cents for every 100 pounds of milk they sell. Midwest Dairy receives 10 cents of this mandatory funding for regional programs. The remaining five cents goes to the National Dairy Board to fund national promotional, research and export programs carried out by Dairy Management Inc.

Midwest Dairy is directed by a 34-member dairy farmer Corporate Board with 13 of those members serving on Dairy Management Inc.'s national board.

We have 66 staff, including 17 registered dietitians and other specialized experts, across 10 states from North Dakota to Arkansas.

Our farmer-funded programs do not represent specific brands or dairy cooperatives, and we do not participate in regulatory activities or influence government policy.

What is the Nebraska State Dairy?

Dairy farmers in the Midwest invest 15 cents for every 100 pounds of milk they sell. Midwest Dairy receives 10 cents of this mandatory funding for regional programs. The remaining five cents goes to the National Dairy Board (NDB) to fund national promotional, research and export programs.

Many states enacted checkoff laws in the 1960s, setting a mandatory contribution for all dairy farmers. These laws increased funding for promotional programs and equalized contributions based on production levels. A national checkoff took effect in 1984, and remains in place today. Farmers contribute 15 cents per hundred pounds of milk to promotion and nutrition education programs. The national checkoff also provides funds to explore new markets for surplus dairy products from the United States.

The board of directors, consisting of dairy farmers from throughout the region, govern the activities of Midwest Dairy. Board members are selected to division boards first, and then may be elected to the Corporate Board. Some of these representatives also serve on the board of Dairy Management Inc. (DMI), allowing local input on the development of national promotion programs. All board members represent their fellow producers in directing how funds are allocated.

Breeds

Holstein
The Holstein is the most common of the dairy breeds and is known for her black-and-white spots.
Origin: The Netherlands. A Dutch settler brought the first Holstein to America in 1621.
Characteristics: In addition to her black-and-white markings, she produces more milk than other dairy breeds.
Fun Fact: Did you know Holstein cows' spots are like snowflakes? No two are exactly alike.

Meet the Dairy Cow Breeds of the U.S.

Information provided by Midwest Dairy™

Dairy cattle are cows bred for their ability to produce milk from which dairy foods are made. In the U.S., there are seven different dairy cow breeds, including Holstein, Jersey, Brown Swiss, Guernsey, Ayrshire, Milking Shorthorn and Red and White Holstein.

Brown Swiss
Many dairy historians consider the Brown Swiss the oldest of the dairy breeds.
Origin: Alps of Switzerland
Characteristics: Brown Swiss vary in color from silver to dark brown and are large with large ears. Their milk is ideal for making cheese because of its high protein-to-fat ratio.
Fun Fact: Brown Swiss have a kind nature and docile temperament.

Channel

Characteristics: The Jersey ranges in color from light to dark brown, has big eyes and a docile nature. The most heat-tolerant of dairy breeds, she produces milk with very high butterfat content.

Fun Fact: Borden Dairy introduced the famous Elsie the Cow, a Jersey, in 1936. You can follow her on Twitter at @elsieborden.

Jersey
The Jersey is the smallest of the dairy breeds, weighing in at 800 to 1,200 pounds, while the average cow weighs about 1,500 pounds.
Origin: Isle of Jersey in the British

Guernsey
The Guernsey is known for its rich, golden color of milk because of its high levels of beta carotene, a source of vitamin A.

Origin: First raised by the monks on the Isle of Guernsey in the English Channel Characteristics: The Guernsey is a range of fawn to golden in color, often with white legs and white areas on the body.

Fun Fact: Because of Guernsey's renown as a unique producer of rich, golden-colored milk, she was given the title "Golden Guernsey."

ty, Ayrshires are found in most parts of the world, including Southern Africa.

Milking Shorthorn
The Milking Shorthorn is considered a dual purpose breed which can be used for milk or beef production.
Origin: Great Britain
Characteristics: Large in size, Milking Shorthorn is white and roan in color, but also can be mostly red with some white markings. Its milk is known for its high protein-to-fat ratio.
Fun Fact: Milking Shorthorn is part of the Shorthorn cattle breed originally developed for beef production.

Red and White Holstein
The Red and White Holstein is the most recent breed to be recognized, coming in to the breed family in 1964.

New economic analysis of U.S. dairy industry released

In honor of National Dairy Month, the International Dairy Foods Association (IDFA) has launched an updated version of its popular economic impact tool, Dairy Delivers®, which measures the combined impact of the dairy products industry at the national, state and Congressional district levels across the United States.

Updated for the first time since 2017, Dairy Delivers® is the most comprehensive and current analysis of how the production and marketing of all dairy products—milk, ice cream, cheese, butter, yogurt and cultured products, and ingredients like protein powders and whey—positively affect the U.S. economy. Data include direct and indirect measures of output, wages, jobs, state and national GDP, and contributions to taxes at the local, state and national levels.

Overall, the dairy industry supports the U.S. economy in these ways:

- Contributes 1 percent to national GDP;
- Adds $620 billion in total economic impact;

- Supports more than 3 million total jobs;
- Provides a $64.5 billion contribution to federal, state and local taxes (not including sales taxes paid by consumers)
- Generates $38 billion in direct wages for workers in dairy industry

"Not only do dairy foods offer unparalleled health and consumer benefits to people of all ages, but they also drive growth, support jobs, and contribute to a healthy economy. As the voice of the dairy industry, IDFA is proud to introduce Dairy Delivers 2.0, the most comprehensive picture of dairy's impact on the U.S. economy," said Michael Dykes, D.V.M., president and CEO of IDFA. "There is new economic data detailing how the five major segments of dairy—milk, cheese, ice cream, yogurt, and ingredients—make a difference across country. From dairy companies and cooperatives to food retailers and suppliers, IDFA's members are dedicated to making safe, delicious products that nourish and sustain people while delivering for our economy."

Users of Dairy Delivers® will learn how dairy products contribute directly to the U.S. economy, including:

- Milk: Adds $51.4 billion in direct economic impact and supports 64,400

- dairy industry jobs.
- Ice Cream: Adds $11 billion in direct economic impact and supports 26,100 dairy industry jobs.
- Cheese: Adds $50.9 billion in direct economic impact and supports 52,200 dairy industry jobs.
- Yogurt & Cultured Products: Adds $5.5 billion in direct economic impact and supports 6,900 dairy industry jobs.

Dairy Ingredients: Adds $14.1 billion in direct economic impact and supports 9,300 dairy industry jobs.

Using IDFA's Dairy Delivers® website at www.idfa.org/dairydelivers, users can click on an interactive map of the United States to learn how dairy impacts their community. Just select an area of the country that interests you—options include the full United States, any of the 50 states, or any of the 435 Congressional districts. Once you click on the state and/or district that interests you, select View/Print to generate your own detailed fact sheet or economic impact report.

Throughout the month of June, IDFA will share 51 short social media friendly videos on Twitter, Facebook and YouTube (@dairyidfa) detailing the economic impact of the dairy industry in the United States as well as in each of the 50 states.

Program helps get milk to the hungry

Hunger affects one in eight Americans, including more than 12 million children, according to Feeding America. In fact, there are more than 41 million Americans struggling with hunger and living with food insecurity, meaning they do not always know where they will find their next meal.

The Dietary Guidelines for Americans recommend three servings of dairy every day — that's about one gallon of milk per person per week. Families who rely on food banks are missing out on milk in a big way.

Milk is one of the most requested and nutrient-rich food items in food banks, yet there's a shortage because milk is rarely donated. Food bank clients receive the equivalent of less than one gallon of milk per person per year, leaving many families without access to milk's essential nutrients, including 8 grams of high-quality protein per serving and three of the top nutrients most likely to be missing in the American diet — calcium, vitamin D and potassium.

Milk companies and dairy farm families have partnered with Feeding America to introduce the Great American Milk Drive — an easy way for you to take action and donate much-needed milk to hungry families in your community.

Simply go online at www.GiveAGallon.com to donate milk to those who need it most. AND, by entering your zip code, you can ensure that the milk is delivered to a local Feeding America food bank in your community!

Milk Is a Local Food

Milk travels from the cow to the grocery store in about 48 hours.

- 1 Healthy cows provide milk.
- 2 Milk is cooled to below 45°.
- 3 A tanker transports milk to a milk plant.
- 4 Ongoing testing is done for quality and safety.
- 5 Milk is pasteurized, homogenized & put into bottles.
- 6 Milk is transported to the grocery store.

Junck family has two 'princesses'

While the United States does not have kings, queens, princes and princesses as the heads of government, the Dwaine and Priscilla Junck family of Carroll can claim to have two princesses in their family.

Daughter Elizabeth was crowned the 2018 Nebraska Dairy Princess in February of 2018. When she attended the Nebraska Dairy Convention this year to crown her successor, she was surprised to learn that it was her sister, Faith, who would be taking over as princess for the coming year.

"Liz (Elizabeth) was the dairy princess last year and got to crown Faith. She skipped out on a couple (college) classes so she could be at the coronation, but never dreamed she would crown her sister," Priscilla said.

Faith, who will be a senior at Wayne High in the coming year, recently attended Moo at the Zoo at Henry Doorly Zoo in Omaha where Gov. Pete Ricketts signed the dairy proclamation.

Serving as the runner up Dairy Princess for the coming year is Whitney Hochstein from Wynot.

One of the activities the two women attended was the Central Plains Dairy Expo in Sioux Falls, S.D. in March. They took part in some training while there and spent a day at the Expo, networking, doing interviews and promoting dairy.

In the coming months Faith will be attending a number of events throughout the state, promoting the dairy industry.

More than 960 food, ag groups urge congressional ratification of USMCA

On June 11 organizations representing U.S. food and agriculture including the International Dairy Foods Association (IDFA) called on members of Congress to swiftly ratify the U.S.-Mexico-Canada Agreement (USMCA).

In a letter sent to Congress, more than 960 groups representing the U.S. food and agriculture value chain at the national, state and local levels called on Congress to support ratification of USMCA. The letter reiterates that USMCA will benefit the U.S. economy by boosting agricultural export markets and creating a more level playing field for American businesses with customers in Mexico and Canada.

"USMCA meets the U.S. dairy industry's top priorities to ensure a more level playing field, including preserving duty-free market access to Mexico, eliminating the unfair Canadian Class 7 pricing program and increasing market access to the Canadian market," said Michael Dykes, D.V.M., president and CEO of IDFA. "The U.S. dairy industry, which supports more than 3 million jobs in the United States and pumps $620 billion into the U.S. economy, is making a strong appeal to Congress to vote to ratify this important trade deal. USMCA will ensure that our dairy industry grows valuable market share and continues to be viewed by our North American customers as a reliable supplier."

Over the last 25 years, U.S. food and agricultural exports to Canada and Mexico have more than quadrupled under the former North American Free Trade Agreement, or NAFTA, growing from $9 billion in 1993 to nearly $40 billion in 2018 and helping support more than 900,000 American jobs in food and agriculture and related sectors of the economy. USMCA builds on the success of the NAFTA agreement, makes improvements to further enhance U.S. food and agricultural exports to our neighbors, and would deliver an additional $2.2 billion in U.S. economic activity.

The International Trade Commission's recent report on USMCA confirmed that the agreement will improve market access for U.S. farmers, ranchers and food producers, as well as positively impact both the U.S. agriculture sector and the broader national economy.

One in four American manufacturing jobs are related to agriculture, and USMCA, once implemented, will strengthen the U.S. farm and agriculture economy and further support and secure vital market access for U.S. farmers, ranchers, and agri-businesses.

about one teaspoon of the barbecue sauce in the center of the foil. Place one chicken breast half over barbecue sauce and spread another teaspoon of sauce over chicken. Top with quarter of the potato, bell pepper and onion. Sprinkle with a little of the salt and pepper.

Fold foil in half to cover contents; make narrow folds along edges to seal. Repeat with remaining ingredients to assemble three more packets. Place the four packets on a baking sheet and bake for 35 minutes.

Open foil packets with scissors and carefully pull back edges as contents may be very hot. Sprinkle a quarter of the cheese over the top of each chicken breast and return to oven, unsealed for two minutes or until cheese is melted. With a spatula, transfer the contents of each packet onto individual serving plates.

Notes

One cost-savings tip is to buy bone-in chicken breasts and remove the skin.

Judging the cows.. and kids

Dairy calves and cows were judged in several categories during the 2018 Wayne County Fair. The Dairy Show includes the judging of how the 4-Hers are able to control their animals, their knowledge of the animal and its care and presentation in the ring. The animals themselves are judged in several age categories.

Tackling food waste, FDA supports standard terminology for date codes

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) urged food companies to adopt voluntary standardized terminology for date labeling of food in an effort to help reduce food waste in America. In a letter to the food industry, Frank Yiannas, FDA deputy commissioner of food policy and response, said FDA "strongly supports" using the phrase "Best If Used By" on packaged-food labeling for dates related to optimal quality.

Not everyone in the dairy industry will be able to use the voluntary terminology, however.

"Notwithstanding FDA's letter, it is important to note that the dairy industry is subject to state regulations for code dating milk. Some states require code dating nomenclature using 'Sell By' or similar terms, thus prohibiting the use of the FDA recommend terminology," said Danielle Quist, IDFA senior director of regulatory affairs. "Also, FDA's recommendation only applies to date labeling that indicates the best quality, not safety."

Although FDA's position aligns with labeling suggestions from the Grocery Manufacturers Association and the Food Marketing Institute, IDFA has advocated for using the phrase "Best By" due to limited space for date labeling on dairy and food packages. IDFA also supports providing additional language that outlines proper handling and storage practices, such as "Keep food waste page on IDFA's website.
