Commissioners talk bridges, banking at Tuesday meeting

By Sarah Lentz editor@wayneherald.com

The Wavne County Commissioners met in the Wayne County courtroom on July 2 to discuss County business. Of the topics discussed were bridge and road updates and county banking transfers and county employee insurance.

Steve Muir from Elkhorn Agency Insurance came before the commissioners to discuss renewal of county health insurance. Muir commended the commissioners for deciding to "self-fund" more and taking higher deductibles to keep premiums down. Muir also said that fewer claims had been paid out this year than he expected, which was also a good thing. The county will continue with the same coverage they had last year, except that premiums have gone up 10 percent, which Muir said wasn't unusual.

Highway superintendent Mark Casey told the commissioners he was nearly done updating rural county addresses for the 911 system. Commissioners will be tasked with putting up new address signs in the near future.

Herbst Construction has incurred 18 days worth of liquidated damages for the delay on the Temme Bridge project. Casey said the construction company recently told him they expected to be done with the project by mid to late December.

Casey told the commissioners he has received several driveway permits for the Plum Creek wind project. In total, Plum Creek is expected to use 45 driveways for about 82 turbine towers. In addition to permits and bridge construction, Casey told the commissioners that he will have another meeting with a FEMA representative on Monday, July

The commissioners tabled a resolution that would authorize the execution of an ACH Origination Agreement for up to four transfers a month between the county and Elkhorn Valley Bank & Trust. The resolution was tabled because Wayne County Attorney, Amy Miller noted that the fee for these types of ACH transfers was $45 a month. The commissioners said they would reach out to county bankers and discuss more cost-effective options, if there are any.

The commissioners then recessed until Monday, July 8, when they will meet with representatives from Berggren Architects and Kingery Construction and walk around the courthouse and discuss stone work that will take place during the restoration project.

The next commissioners meeting will be on Tuesday, July 16 at 9 a.m. in the courtroom of the Wayne County Courthouse.

An executive session to discuss electric-Kushnir of Chalfont, Penn.; Callie Hast- ity, discussion on the purchase of a pick-up and how to handle ATVs, UTVs and golf carts on city streets were among topics debated during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

The city is able to purchase a 2019 Ford Jerry Allemann, representing the LENRD, presented the check and a sign to be displayed near the Verascourt Play area at College Hill Park. He told the council that the LENRD is "happy to support projects such as this with a goal to provide recreation and conserve natural resources." Tracy Golden, General Manager of Northeast Public Power, introduced himself to the council and talked about the power district's goals for providing for safe, reliable and reasonably priced power to the area.

After a lengthy discussion and input from City Attorney Amy Miller, council members tabled the second reading of an ordinance to amend the city code dealing with all-terrain vehicles (ATV), utility vehicles (UTV), golf cars and lawn movers on city streets.

Miller told the council they needed to determine what their goal or purpose was with the ordinance and said that an option would create two ordinances, one for ATVs

The juror, Amber Hansen, painting professor at University of South Dakota at Vermillion, selected the works that will be featured in the exhibit.

Golden talked about the technology being put into place to help pinpoint electri-

F-350 Super Duty pickup with a diesel engine through the state bid system from Arnie's Ford for $40,750. The city would take delivery of the vehicle after Oct. 1 of this in place for ATVs and UTVs and the city year and it would be paid for with funds from next fiscal budget.

Council member Chris Woehler questioned the need for a pickup with a diesel engine and noted that the current vehicle used by the city would be a better fit for moving concrete forms and safer for city employees.

"There is nothing heavy enough that the city needs a diesel pickup and we have a $50,000 truck that is just sitting around. With it, city employees can put the concrete forms on with a skid loader, which is much safer," Woeher said.

Joel Hansen, City Planner, said the city crews work with concrete in small segments and generally only have to load a few forms. He also noted that the street department would use the new pickup to move snow if necessary and would not have to have the diesel engine if the council chose to go with the gas engine option.

Following debate, the council voted 6-2 in favor of the purchase with council members Woehler and Jon Haase voting and UTVs and another for golf cars and lawn mowers.

It was noted that there are state statutes statutes have to be at least that strict. The city can make additional requirements.

The ordinance will come before the council at a future meeting.

Council members approved a request from Wayne State College acknowledging the requirements for the use of the highway for the Homecoming Parade and Band Day on Saturday, Oct. 5.

A resolution was passed approving an employee agreement for City Administrator Wes Blecke for one year. Blecke's salary for the coming year will be $101,000

JEO Consulting will serve as the special engineer for various city of Wayne projects in 2019 following the passage of an resolution at Tuesday's meeting.

JEO will have an office at City Hall and spend time in Wayne each week. The firm will be available for consultation and the city will receive a discount on engineering services for future projects.

The council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, July 15 at 5:30 p.m. in council chambers.

statutes. The discussion turned to allowing or not allowing certain "modes of transportation" on city streets/sidewalks. The second reading of this ordinance was tabled at the last meeting to give Council additional time to think about the issue and to talk to constituents. The main discussion points include safety (age, license, helmet, flags) and whether these "vehicles" should be allowed on City streets and sidewalks? This includes discussion of mowers, golf carts and 4-wheelers.

Next, the Council will meet at a budget workshop (or two) and discuss the budget for the next fiscal year (Oct. 1, 2019 - Sept. 30, 2020). After Beth takes these comments and figures from the Council, she will finalize a draft to be acted upon at a future meeting.

Advice offered for removing problem trees

By Kathleen Cue, Nebraska Extension

Horticulture Educator

Seedling trees come up in the oddest places, and in some cases, totally unnoticed. In the neighborhood I drive through, I observed a mulberry tree growing up through a shrub rose.

The mulberry thrived, gradually completely shading out the rose. Eventually the rose owner noticed the mulberry and tried to remove it, resulting in the loss of both plants. The key lesson here, other than mulberries being aggressive growers, is that by simply taking note of what is going on in the landscape and taking action while problem plants are young, time and effort is saved later.

Tree seeds have multiple ways of dispersing—wind and birds being the most common. Mulberry, boxelder, ash, silver maple, cedar and Siberian elm are often the worst culprits, producing a huge number of seeds and sowing themselves into cracks, finding a place amidst desired plants and insinuating themselves in the tiniest patch of bare earth. The flying saucer-shaped seeds of Siberian elm and the winged seeds of silver maple are ex- cut down, only to re-sprout, have cellent mechanisms for wafting into new places.

The seeds of mulberry and cedar are a favorite food of birds, with the seeds moving unscathed through their digestive tract. Wherever birds roost, droppings are deposited along with a healthy dose of fertilizer to get the seedlings off to a good start.

Seedling trees that come up in lawns are easily managed just by the act of mowing, killing them at a vulnerable size. Shrub and flower borders, vegetable gardens and containers aren't mowed so require diligence on our part to keep volunteer trees from becoming monsters.

Approaching this task is easier when trees are small, making the chainsaw and loppers unnecessary, especially when complete removal consists of pulling out seedlings between the thumb and forefinger.

Larger trees that have been enough sugars stored in their root system to make removal by pruning alone unlikely. When digging out problem trees is not a possibility, drilling multiple holes into the stump and applying a herbicide is a simple way to address problem trees.

If your own financial circumstances allow for the hiring of landscape management professionals, then having eyes on the landscape isn't going to be a problem. Lacking a professional landscaper, monitoring what is going on in the landscape is the next best thing to address potential issues before they become real problems.

The Wayne Herald – Thursday, July 4, 2019 Camp Invention closes on sixth year in Wayne

Sixty-five campers attended the sixth annual Camp Invention at Wayne Jr. High School June 10-14. The first through sixth graders enjoyed a week of creating, designing, building and testing their inventions. Their days were filled with independent designing, as well as working collaboratively with other campers on various projects.

During the five day camp, campers went through four modules each day. They created innovative gadgets and learned about patents in Innovation Force, taught by Phylis Trenhaile.

In Orbots, Jennifer Thomas guided students in creating attachments for their orbots to complete various challenges like playing soccer and knocking down towers.

Emily Sims taught Deep Sea Mystery where campers created island-survival tools and underwater equipment to better study marine life.

Farm Tech, taught by Annette Chase, consisted of the campers making several inventions to improve performance on the farm.

Five Leaders-In-Training (LIT) assisted the instructors and campers during the day. Our LIT's were Mason Bodlak, Nina Hammer, Abi Hawthorne, Olivia Holmes and Levi McKay.

Seven high school Leadership Interns assisted campers as they led them through the four modules, Camp Invention Games and Base Camp activities. This year's Leadership Interns were Micah Carson, Maggie Fehringer, Stephanie Casarrubias-Gonzalez, Makayla Heithold, Ruby Kinzie, Mikenzie Schafer and Sarah Tompkins.

Parent volunteers, Mary Kuchta and Jill Walling, assisted campers throughout the day. Megan Raulston was a camp parent who assisted with marketing. The camp was directed by Sonya Tompkins.

This was the sixth year hosting Camp Invention in Wayne, and campers come from the Wayne, Pender, Wakefield, Wisner, Beemer, Winside, Pierce, Emerson and Laurel school districts.

A Nebraskan author, Penny S. Roth, will get to join Wayne's children for the start of Chicken Show Weekend.

"Every year we try to do a story and a craft on Henoween, the Friday before Chicken Days weekend," Kim Warner, youth services librarian, said.

Warner said the tradition of a kids reading and crafts is a good way to get them excited and give them an event.

"(Roth) is a Nebraskan author," Warner said. "She is from Butte, Nebraska, and she has always wanted to come to Chicken Days. She wrote a book called 'Chickenfriend' that came out in October."

Roth has always wanted to go the Chicken Show and thought it would be a good way to finally come.

Roth is a kindergarten teacher for Boyd County Schools. She reached out to Warner to read for the children on Henoween. She wrote "Chickenfriend," a children's book on a friendship between a young boy and a chicken. The young boy's name is Josi and he named his chicken Chickenfriend. After more chickens come into the picture their friendship goes through a test.

Along with reading her book, Roth has a puppet friend who will be helping tell the story as well as jokes. She will even join the children in crafts after the reading.

Roth will be reading for the children starting at 4:30 p.m. and will be there until 5:30 p.m. She will be having a meet and greet, signing and selling books during the time as well.

The air rifle competition included 31 different state Air Rifle teams from across the country. The Nebraska team placed second overall in the nation and James Simpson placed second individually across all competitors in the aggregate score of all three days.

The competition included Three Position shooting on June 25 for 20 shots - Prone; 20 shots - Standing and 20 shots - Kneeling. The team placed first.

On June 26 the competition was all standing for 40 shots and the Nebraska team placed first in this discipline.

+ 4A The Wayne Herald – Thursday, July 4, 2019 Food pantry in need of donations

donations are generally less in the summer has led to a number of empty shelves at the Wayne Food Pantry, located in the basement of Wayne's First Presbyterian Church.

A total of 62 boxes of food were given out during the month of June at the Food Pantry, a number that is considerably above average.

"Sometimes we see the number of people we help increase as the temperatures rise. I am not sure if it is because of high costs of air conditioning or the fact that children are out of school. It might be a combination of several factors," said Deb Daehnke, one of approximately 10 volunteers who keep the Food Pantry operation-

At that time, 144 people used the pantry in the period from January to June. This year that number was 580 people. In 2012, a total of 454 people received assistance from the food pantry. During 2018, that number was 1119 people.

"Our canned soup shelves are nearly empty and the cereal supplies are nearly gone," Daehnke said. Other items currently needed include spaghetti/pasta, canned chicken, pancake mix and syrup, tomatoes, crackers and paper towels.

She noted that the Food Pantry is designed to provide temporary assistance to those in need and can only be used three times per year.

The volunteers at the Food Pantry have had to purchase a number of items in recent weeks to re-stock the shelves.

On Friday, July 12 (Henoween), a candlelight vigil will be held in Wayne to advocate for the safety and dignity of migrants being held in U.S. Detention Centers.

All who are concerned about the reports of inhumane and dangerous conditions in these detention centers are invited to join in this peaceful call to conscience. Lights for Liberty is a national "coalition of people, many of whom are mothers, dedicated to human rights, and the fundamental principle behind democracy that all human beings have a right to life, liberty and dignity." Gatherings are being organized at detention centers and in local communities throughout the country on July 12

The Wayne group will gather at 8 p.m. at Henry Victor Park, at the south end of Main Street, for a brief message on the purpose of the vigil. Participants will receive a small LED candle and will walk silently along Main Street to the parking lot of Our Savior Lutheran Church, where a brief service will conclude the vigil.

"Please join us in this non-partisan and interdenominational vigil. Our intent is to draw attention to the inhumane treatment of migrant children and families, many of whom are asylum seekers trying to come legally through ports of entry. As Americans, we do not accept the human rights abuses in these overcrowded and unsafe centers. We cannot ignore the separation of children from parents, and the reports of sexual abuse and deaths of human beings in U.S. custody," said Joan Sudmann Shapiro, one of a group of concerned citizens organizing the event.

Wayne State College will be integrating a new beach volleyball program into its women's varsity repertoire starting this spring. While the college recently announced the addition of a women's golf team starting in the 2020-21 school year, they also broke the news of beach volleyball to be played this coming spring just a few days later.

Although beach volleyball has rules and handicaps that make it different from court volleyball, the beach volleyball team will consist of current and future players from the school's court team, making the new addition a logical place to start building more opportunities for female athletes.

Drawdown set to begin at Powder Creek Reservoir in Dixon county

Water levels at Powder Creek Reservoir in Dixon County will begin to drop July 8 as the beginning of a project to restructure the lake's fish population.

The fishery has been dominated by small panfish in recent years. A drawdown to reduce the lake volume by 40% will crowd predator and prey species. The desired effect is higher predation on panfish, a reduction in the panfish population, and, in the near future, faster growing and larger fish.

"In essence, this is an attempt to hit the reset button on the fishery," said Jeff Schuckman, Northeast District fisheries manager for the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission. "Summer drawdowns are a proven fish management technique and have been utilized at nearby Buckskin Hills Lake with a positive result."

Another product of the drawdown is the promotion of emergent vegetation growth along the lake edges, which should benefit the largemouth bass population.

The boat ramp likely will be unusable during the drawdown period. The lake will be allowed to refill in mid-September, and supplemental stocking of bass and walleye will take place in October.

dressing the host's attitude toward is faith? It was her belief, trust and We are all naturally wired to be independent and achieve. We want to earn what we have. Our culture is set up that way from our parent and high school coaches, to our professors and bosses. Work hard and succeed. It is up to you. Faith in Jesus is opposite. This woman simply had faith and her life was instantly transformed. She believed Jesus was the Son of God. She believed she had done wrong and needed forgiveness. She trusted that Jesus had the power to forgive. She was confident Jesus was sufficient for all she needed. Then Jesus said, "go in peace." No doubt the immoral life she led weighed on her. She not only needed forgiveness, but peace. Often the foolish things we do cause great amounts of stress and anxiousness. In one moment, her simple faith brought forgiveness and peace. Lay your burden down at the feet of Jesus. Have faith in Him. A prayer for you - "Lord God, I pray you will help the readers to end their search. Hope for Today

There are millions of people carrying such heavy burdens all across our world. They cannot sleep at night and wake up tired. They have regular appointments with their counselors. Their attempts at hobbies and exercise are strategies to find relief. What burden are you carrying? If you want to find the peace you have been searching for, it is found in a person – Jesus.

Once He was invited to dinner at a religious leader's home. Other religious leaders also came, and together they sat down at the table and began visiting. Jesus' fame as a preacher rose quickly, so word continually spread where He was. A certain prostitute who was impacted by Jesus and His ministry learned of His whereabouts. She made her way into the house and found herself standing before Jesus and the other guests. She stood without saying a word, then began weeping. So much, that her tears fell on Jesus' feet. Seeing that, she bent down and began wiping the tears off with her hair.

During the whole process, the rewoman and Jesus. Noticing this, a positive attitude, perseverance or faith. In Jesus' name. Amen.'

This prostitute was looking for something, just like all those preachers in that room, all the people in her city, and like you and me. Her search took her into prostitution, for others it is different.

But when she heard of Jesus, something awakened in her that no doubt said, "This is it!" And she overcame the barriers before her to get to Jesus and when she got there, He did not disappoint her.

She found forgiveness for all the wrong she had done! The guilt and shame she had been trying to outrun was finally washed away. How did that happen? Faith. Jesus said. "Your faith has saved you."

Wow! It was her faith that provided forgiveness.It is interesting to note, what Jesus did not say. He did not say anything about religion, morality, goodness or education. Just faith. He did not refer to anything ligious leaders were incensed at the about personal will power, having

Are you a firecracker for God? Chickens

It's that time of the year again when we plan Fourth of July picnics, parades and when we see fireworks stands spring up in vacant lots

It sure brings back memories for me. I grew up in Minnesota which is a state that doesn't allow the many and varied fireworks that are available here in Nebraska so my choices were a bit limited; however, I did very much enjoy setting off firecrackers.

A particular favorite was placing firecrackers under whatever discarded tin cans I could find, lighting the fuse and quickly backing up to watch how far the can would fly into the air. It was even better when I'd tie many firecrackers er." That phrase is normally used for a person who is full of life, full of purpose, full of snap. As disciples in this day and age I wonder if people could call us "firecrackers for God?" What does it take for our fuses to be lit and explode with enthusiasm for the Lord? How can we make the Good News of the resurrection of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ fly even further because we all work together to really give it a burst of energy and enthusiasm? When we tie our energy and enthusiasm together as Christians we can really make a big noise and a spectacular display for God.

Guest column Commonly asked questions about skin cancer

Q: What are some types of skin cancer? A: The three major types are basal cell, squamous cell and malignant melanoma. In general, one in five, or 20 percent of people in the U.S. have had or will have some type of skin cancer. In Australia where the sun is intense, two out of three skin cancers are basal cell, one in four are squamous cell, and one in twelve are malignant melanoma.

Q: Should I go to a dermatologist for screening?

A: The dermatologist is the most experienced with skin cancer, but primary care providers can help, too. Realize, however, that the first person to discover skin cancer should be you, along with a partner to look over places you cannot see. Self-screening is especially important for those at high risk for skin cancer.

Q: Who is at high risk for skin cancer? A: At highest risk would be anyone who has had a bad sunburn or excessive lifetime sun exposure, especially when young, and those with light complexion, freckles, blue eyes, blond or red hair. At higher risk for malignant melanoma are those with many moles, with a prior personal history of skin cancer, and with a famly history of malignant melanoma.

Q: Does sunscreen help prevent skin

A: This is widely presumed to be true but not yet scientifically proven. In fact, some speculate that people who use sunscreen may feel emboldened to expose themselves to more hours of damaging sunlight. Also, using sunscreen to shield skin from sunlight may possibly result in vitamin D deficiency. All that said, it is my opinion there is enough evidence to use sunscreen all year long and, if you live in the northern climates, take 2000 IU of vitamin D daily

Q: How do I know when to go to the doctor?

A: The ABCDE mnemonic helps in knowing when a skin lesion might be dangerous. A: asymmetry or irregularly shaped; B: border fuzzy not sharp: C: more than one color in it: D: diameter wider than pencil width; and E: lesion evolving or changing. It is common to mistake a benign and safe look-a-like seborrheic keratosis for a possible malignant melanoma. Seborrheic keratosis is light brown to black, raised, and waxy. If one can partially peel or scratch off waxy material with a fingernail, then it is likely a benign keratosis. Malignant melanomas can be either flat or nodular...but never waxy.

Community donations to help FPC send chickens around the world are welcome. The special offering will be received on Sunday, July 14 (the final day of this year's Chicken Show).

A drone is an unmanned aviation system (UAS) and can range in size from less than a half-pound object that can sit in the palm of one's hand to super-sized drones that may be fixed-wing and as large as a bus.

Matt King, certified drone pilot and his team of instructors in his company, "Drone Camp," travel the country hosting hands-on learning sessions for students generally between the ages of seven and 15. He led the two Northeast camps.

"Students spend three comprehensive days learning about drones and industry. We're also the only drone education company in the country that teaches an ethics portion in addition to the rules, so we tell them that what's legal is not always the right thing to do.

Activities in the camp include a basic overview of Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) rules and regulations; drone simulators, including a drone racing simulator participants can download to their own computers; and a fast-paced search and rescue mission where participants must use maps, drones and teamwork to deliver items. Drones are becoming extremely popular with approximately two million of the non-commercial devices sold this past Christmas season alone.

King said the industry itself is changing as the current administration has reduced some of the regulations that allow for more innovation.

"That's why you are hearing more about the possibility of things like Amazon offering drone delivery of its packages, potentially, in the near future," he said. "It is happening now, Program (EQIP) sign-up for farmers in Nebraska who could not plant their crops because of flooded or wet fields. This sign-up provides technical and financial assistance to help farmers plant cover crops, an alternative to letting fields go fallow and uncovered. The deadline to apply is July 19, 2019. This is an extension of the June 21 sign up deadline announced in April.

Excessive moisture and flooding in 2019 have prevented or delayed planting on many farms across Nebraska. Many producers are unable to plant crops by a final planting date or have experienced significant delays in planting.

Fields that are saturated for an extended period can lose important soil organisms. Cover crop roots add organic matter and create pathways for air and water to move through the soil, which is key to restoring its health.

"Cover crops help farmers manage soil erosion, weeds, and pests and

Work currently being done to maintain conservation structures as well as sediment removal, debris removal or grading and reshaping can be stabilized and protected from further erosion and damage by planting a cover crop.

Eight points shared for success with post-emergence herbicide applications

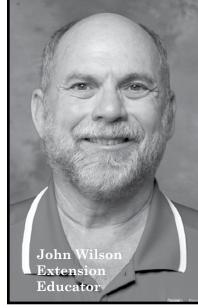

The Wayne

The following is an article Greg Kruger, Weed Science and Application Specialist with the University of Nebraska, prepared for Crop-Watch (https://cropwatch.unl.edu). Since this is such a timely topic this year, I thought I'd share it here.

With the wild spring and slow, wet, cool start to the growing season, many fields did not get the early-season residual herbicides they usually would. In many cases, this means a heavier reliance on postemergence herbicide programs. As we start to think about post-emergence programs, it is important to remember the following guidelines:

All pesticide labels are different. Applicators should carefully read each label before applying the product. While I know that I probably write these words in vain for many, I cannot overemphasize how important this is, especially for Enlist One, Enlist Duo, Engenia, FeXapan, and Xtendimax as the labels are more prescriptive and precise than many other labels on the market.

Start clean; stay clean. While most will think of the weeds in the field when they first see this (and that is a good recommendation for weed management...), in this case I'm referring to the sprayer. Cleaning the sprayer before and after applications, particularly when going from one product to another, is critical to ensure that unintentional accidents do not occur. When thinking about the new 2,4-D- and dicambatolerant systems, it is even more imperative that you are thorough in cleaning all of the potential contamination sources.

Use BIG droplets. Use as coarse a droplet as possible without compromising the efficacy of the product. If coverage is a concern, default to higher spray volumes (gallons per acre) instead of smaller droplet sizes. Keep in mind that for the new 2,4-D and dicamba products, there are specific nozzles, pressures, and even tank-mix partners (including adjuvants) stipulated for application.

Watch the wind. The wind speed and direction are the most critical factors that should be considered for any application. As a general rule,

Breakdown of bills before the Legislature is a 700 percent increase in drift at 90 feet downwind. This general trend holds true if the wind goes from 5 to 10 mph or 10 to 20 mph. Many pesticide labels include information about the maximum wind speed for application and many cap at 10 or 15 mph. Know the product you are applying and the in-field conditions during application.

Don't get caught in an inversion. The feared, dreaded, and somewhat mystical temperature inversion is one of the most dangerous conditions for a pesticide applicator. There are numerous ways to check for an inversion, ranging from using apps and weather forecasting websites to setting off smoke. There are even devices you can buy to detect inversions. Use all methods possible to make sure you avoid these dangerous conditions. Once particles and/or vapors are entrapped in inversion layers, there is no telling where or how far the pesticide will Keep it low and drive it slow. Keep the boom height at the minimum required to get a good overlapping pattern, recognizing that the new dicamba products have a maximum boom height of 24 inches. If you have 30-inch nozzle spacings, this may not be a good sprayer to use for the new dicamba products. Driving at slower speeds will help keep the boom at an appropriate height. In general, we see that the faster the application is, the higher the boom height becomes. Keep beled for that crop and field.

when the wind speed doubles, there driving speeds below 15 mph for applications of the new dicamba products.

> Build in a buffer. For some products, like the new dicamba products. buffers are required. Even when buffers are not required, make sure you take time to know what sensitive areas are around your application area and minimize exposure risks. Scouting the area around the application site before spraying is ALWAYS a good idea!

Follow through. After the application is made, continue to monitor the field for whatever pest you are targeting. Escapes and pesticide application failures are the first steps toward resistance. Make sure your applications are successful.

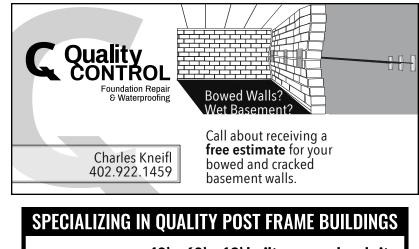

While this is not a comprehensive list of things to consider, these checks can help ensure a good start to the mid-summer application season. With the late summer that we are experiencing this year, postemergence applications could be as difficult as ever and it is important to use good judgement and be proactive whenever possible. As we get later into the summer, the temperatures usually rise, making applications even more difficult.

There is one last rule of thumb: When in doubt, sit it out. Remember that every product that is labeled for a particular crop is not necessarily right for every acre. There are high risk situations where we may not want to take a chance spraying a particular product even if it is la-

Legislative Update

There were some great ideas that were expressed to me during my town halls and I am excited to dive into the research side of getting the nuts and bolts figured out on each item first before we proceed any further.

Like always, if you have legislation ideas or thoughts then please feel free to reach out to my office and I will do some digging on those.

It has been another busy week for Educational, Health, and Social Ser-District 17. We have been working vices Finance Authority Act (NEHS-FA). LB 224 will now allow NEHSFA to also be a conduit issuer for private cultural institutions. Private cultural institution means any private not-for profit corporation or institution that (1) has a primary purpose of promoting cultural education or development, such as a museum or related visual arts center, performing arts facility, or facility housing, incubating, developing, or promoting art, music, theater, dance, zoology, botany, natural history, cultural history, or the sciences, (2) is described in section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and is exempt from federal income taxation under section 501(a) of the code, (3) is located within this state and is not owned or controlled by the state or any municipality, district, or other political subdivision, agency, or instrumentality thereof, and (4) does not violate any state or federal law against discrimination. The bill passed on final readeran Affairs Committee. I believe, though, that this is something that we need to continue working on and we will be working on it during the interim and bringing it back to the floor next year.

·LB 722 would authorize seizure of Gray Devices under the Nebraska County and City Lottery Act. LB 722 prohibits by definition games (of skill or chance) that make use of a Gray Device, which is a mechanism that accepts currency and awards monetary prizes or something redeemable for monetary prizes, and which uses casino-style games, card games, certain amusement games, or bingo, keno or pickle card themes. The bill, as written, was not brought to the floor. However, parts of LB 722 were amended in Senator Lathrop's LB

538. The Department of Revenue was pleased to have the two bills come together to make LB 538 as strong as possible. LB 538 was passed on final reading on May 23 with a vote of 44

Constant Nutrition vs. Least-Cost vs. Fixed Formulas for our Horses

This week I want us to dive into what happened with all of my legislation during this year's legislative session.

I introduced nine pieces of legislation this year. Seven of the nine bills passed and only two stayed in committee.

The nine bills that I introduced were:

•LB 209 was our informed consent bill. It would require information, materials, and reporting regarding continuing a viable pregnancy after taking mifepristone. LB 209 will also require the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services to publish information on finding a qualified health care professional who can administer the reversal process in their print materials, they also will publish this information on their website, and update this information as necessary. It was passed on final reading on May 30 and the vote was 36 yes, 12 no, and 1 present but not voting. I was excited to see this true labor of love get signed into law by the Governor.

•LB 222 will change the Volunteer Emergency Responders Incentive Act. The Volunteer Emergency Responders Incentive Act was created in 2016 to award a $250 refundable tax credit for volunteer emergency responders who meet certain criteria. LB 222 will amend language in the Volunteer Emergency Responders Incentive Act to simplify the administration of the tax credit. The bill was passed on final reading on April 26 with a vote of 46 yes and no opposition. Our office recently mailed out a packet of information on this bill to all of our district's fire departments.

•LB 223 will provide duties with regard to a state-sponsored insurance program for members of the Nebraska National Guard. LB 223 provides further guidance within state law on the state-sponsored life insurance program, ensuring National Guard members maintain the opportunity to access information and enroll in the program. The bill was passed on final reading on March 7 with 46 yes and 1 present but not voting.

ing on March 15. The vote was 41 yes and 2 present but not voting.

·LB 307 will change provisions relating to certain Department of Environmental Quality Funds. LB 307 updates state revolving fund statutes to be consistent with federal laws that allow states additional flexibility to administer the Wastewater Treatment Facilities Construction Loan Fund and the Drinking Water Facilities Loan Fund. The bill was passed on final reading on March 7th with a vote of 45 yes and no opposition.

•LB 320 will change various provisions of the Pesticide Act and update federal references. LB 320 amends the Pesticide Act, by updating the federal regulations adopted by reference relating to changes in the applicator certification program as set out in 40 CFR Part 171. The changes primarily include certification categories for private applicators, requirements related to training and supervision for restricted use pesticide (RUP) applications by uncertified applicators, and setting eighteen as the minimum age for licensed RUP applicators. LB 320 also amends the Pesticide Act by clarifying product registration requirements, jurisdictional issues for out-of-state registrants and licensed applicators, and other clean up provisions. The bill passed on final reading with a vote of 49 yes and no opposition.

·LB 595 will provide for restorative justice under the Dispute Resolution Act, Nebraska Juvenile Code, and the Student Discipline Act and in compulsory attendance collaboration plans and change provisions relating to mediators under the Parenting Act. LB 595 would amend the 1991 Dispute Resolution Act in order to explicitly incorporate restorative justice into the Supreme Court's Of-·LB 224 will rename the Nebraska fice of Dispute Resolution's mission and purpose and to sustain its successful restorative justice pilot efforts conducted since 2015. The bill was passed on final reading on May 13th with a vote of 47 yes and no opposition.

•LB 581 would require the use of generally accepted accounting principles in preparing budgets under the Nebraska Budget Act. LB 581 proposes potential language to encourage accessible, uniform, and easy to understand budgets and audit reports of political subdivisions. LB 581 was not passed and stayed in the Government, Military, and Vet-

Horse owners have a wide array of options when it comes to feed programs. Plus, many of the sales tactics become confusing when trying to make the decision of which brand to purchase. Here, I hope to give readers a better understanding of their options and explain why our feed team at Central Valley Ag believes in Purina's research and their idea of Constant Nutrition.

As you shop, the first thing to remember is your horse's nutrition requirements. By working with be completely different.

By Brandi Salestrom

CVA Feed Sales your feed sales specialist at CVA, we can help you Specialist review the guaranteed analysis and determine if a feed is appropriate for your horse. Determining age, body condition, and activity level will help narrow down the wide variety of options. However, a label only provides a small amount of information, so please consult with a feed specialist when in doubt. Different feeds may have a similar amount of protein and fat, but the formulas could

So how do you know what formula is the best for your horse? There are three types: Fixed formulas, least-cost formulas, and constant nutrition formulas. Fixed formulas use the same ingredients in the same amount for every bag. This sounds like an excellent idea until you study the differences in content between ingredient loads. Oats, for example, have a vast array of variations when they come into a mill. Weight, guality, and cleanliness may change per region and season. These differences vary enough to alter the nutrient quality per bag.

Least-cost formulas have an appealing ring, but keep in mind you get what you pay for. What least-cost formulating means is that the feeds are adjusted based on ingredient cost. So even though they are still required to meet the guaranteed analysis, the changes in ingredients can affect taste, and may even cause digestive upset, which is something we all fear as horse owners.

The last formula is what our Purina partners recommend and is what CVA have found to be the best option. Constant nutrition formulas provide consistent nutrition in every bag. With the standards Purina places on their suppliers, all ingredients are inspected, sampled, and analyzed. Minor adjustments are made to keep feed accurate and ensure consistent nutrition in every bag.

As a horse owner, I personally understand the importance of awareness when it comes to the differences in formulas and the nutrition value they offer. And I rest assured knowing my horses are getting the most consistent product for my dollar by using Purina feed that is formulated using the idea of constant nutrition.
