Commissioners hold special meeting to talk shingles

By Sarah Lentz
editor@wayneherald.com

An emergency Wayne County Commissioners meeting was called last Friday. The Oct. 21 meeting was called to determine how to proceed with shingle placement on the Wayne County Courthouse.

Jerry Berggren, from Berggren Architects met with the commissioners to discuss how to move forward with the shingling. Work has already been done on part of the northeast corner, but some were unhappy with it.

Dist. 1 commissioner, Terry Sievers, said he had received phone calls beginning last week when the shingles were initially put up. He said constituents were calling to complain about the orange colored shingles. In order to receive tax credits for the courthouse restoration project, the Nebraska State Historical Society had to approve the project, including shingle color.

"We're basically stuck with these colors unless you want to give up your tax credits," Berggren told the commissioners.

Five different colors of synthetic slate shingles have been approved; a light slate color, dark slate, orange, dark brown and a brown/green. All colors are historically accurate to colors that would have been available when the courthouse was initially constructed.

When done last week, the shingles were placed in random order, which was also historically accurate, according to Berggren. He laid out two other potential patterns of color placement so the commissioners could see their options, to either cluster individual colors together or to continue random placement. Berggren said if the commissioners decided to cluster the colors they'd lose at least four days of work and material.

Sievers made a motion to continue to place the shingles in random order. Dist. 2 commissioner Dean Burbach seconded.

The next regularly scheduled Wayne County Commissioners meeting will be Tuesday, Nov. 5 at 9 a.m. in the district court room of the Wayne County Courthouse.

From left, Jeff Keagle, Sherri Lundahl, Mark Victor, Shannon Johnson, Arianne Conley and Bree Brown, Wakefield's Board of Education, met Tuesday night for a president-called special meeting to decide what, if any action needed to be taken regarding the failed co-op with Allen Consolidated Schools and Emerson-Hubbard.

After school board vote kills Wakefield co-op, board president calls special meeting

By Sarah Lentz

After three public input meetings, 10 months of work by the board and co-op committees and time and effort put in by students, coaches and teachers, the cooperative agreement between Wakefield, Allen Consolidated Schools and Emerson-Hubbard remains dead since being voted down by Wakefield's school board on Oct. 9.

The potential co-op had received quite a bit of public support, especially from students at the three schools. Allen and Emerson-Hubbard's school boards passed approval of the cooperative unanimously. Wakefield voted 3-3 and thus, the agreement was shot down.

The split vote came after a new name, mascot and colors had been designed and decided by students, with the help of Wakefield football coach Mike Hassler. Wakefield's decision to walk away elicited some strong reactions.

Jenna McAfee, who lives in Wakefield and whose children go to Wakefield Community Schools, started a petition on website change.org to request the board re-evaluate their decision to not participate.

"My daughter will be in high school next year, and she and all the other students from the three schools were pretty much promised new opportunities, such as softball, cross country, unified bowling, girls golf, etcetera, when the three schools joined together," McAfee said. "Last month, the board passed a co-op timeline 5-1. This month, some of the wording changed in the motion made and it failed with a 3-3 vote. Essentially, we are letting three people decide that the cooperative is not in the best interest of our school right now."

McAfee's petition hit 441 signatures ahead of Tuesday night's meeting.

On Oct. 22, the public was again invited to Wakefield Schools's gym for a final discussion of the co-op. School board president Mark Victor made it clear however, that the board was not meeting to talk, they were there to listen.

"The six board members are here tonight to listen to you as part of our obligation to represent you as our elected school board," Victor told the audience. "Respecting the decision of our 3-3 vote regarding the co-op, we are not here to explain our votes, nor are we here to answer questions regarding why we voted the way we did."

Rather than passing out cards for questions, as had been done at previous meetings, the board asked those who wanted to speak to sign up at the beginning of the meeting. Steve Greve and Dan Loofe came forward asking the school board to reconsider, while Hassler and fellow Wakefield teacher Iris Borg stood by the school board's decision to not participate.

"It was a learning experience for me and the students that I worked with, even though none of what we worked on is going to be put to use at this moment, it was not a waste of time," Hassler said. "I've worked very closely with our school board, especially since June to try to figure out what is best for our students."

"When the time is right for co-op, there

Area sophomores attend Career Day in Wayne

The 2019 Northeast Nebraska Career Day was held on Oct. 15. This event is organized by Nebraska Extension and is held on the Wayne State College campus during the college's fall break.

This event is for sophomores in high school, and this year, 44 northeast Nebraska high schools participated. A total of 1,196 students were able to participate in three different career sessions and two different college and career readiness break-out sessions. There were 88 different presenters who were excited to share information about their career or college readiness topics.

The event is in its 16th year, and during this time, AHEC (Area Health Educational Center) has also coordinated the medical track which is able to accommodate 350 students.

"It is important for high school students to explore opportunities for the future and doing well in high school and participating in a variety of activities in school and the community as well as experiencing college campuses allows students to think ahead to their future and career choices," said Amy Topp, Extension Educator with the Nebraska Extension in Wayne County.

Dean Nicholas Shudak, Dean of Education and Counseling at Wayne State College welcomed the students to campus and SueEllen Pegg, College Relations Director for the College of Agricultural Sciences and Natural Resources at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln gave a keynote address.

State Nebraska Bank & Trust announces new Blue Devil Branch at Wayne Elementary School

State Nebraska Bank & Trust and Wayne Elementary School have joined efforts to offer a unique in-school savings program for students called the SNB Blue Devil Branch. With parental permission, students in kindergarten through sixth grade will now be able to open a savings account at school.

Starting Oct. 24, the SNB Blue Devil Branch will be open on Thursday mornings, 7:30-8:20 a.m., in the school cafeteria to accept student deposits. The emphasis is on regular savings, not big balances.

"We are excited to offer students the chance to save money from a young age and build strong habits to become lifelong savers," said Russ Plager, principal of Wayne Elementary School. "Having the branch in the school makes it both easy and exciting

Providence Medical Center announces addition of Avera eCARE emergency services

Providence Medical Center provides emergency services to thousands of patients in the area each year. Open 24/7, the ER is equipped to handle any patient that comes through the door. However, access to a second set of eyes and ears can be beneficial in critical cases. With funding from the Helmsley Grant, the new eCARE Emergency service will provide that extra support to Providence Medical Center's clinicians when needed.

At the push of a button, local physicians and emergency room staff have immediate, virtual access to a team of physicians and nurses who specialize in emergency medicine.

eCARE Emergency supports patient care in several ways:

- Access to board-certified emergency physicians 24 hours a day
- Connects rural communities to highly trained specialists
- Activation of emergency transport teams as early as possible
- Additional support during multiple emergencies
- Fewer transfers so patients can stay close to home
- Collaborative approach allows local caregivers to focus exclusively on patient care

"eCARE Emergency gives us the ability to extend and enhance the level of health care in our community," said Jim Frank. "It gives us access to the same type of specialists available in larger cities, enabling us to access additional resources, right here in our community, and keep patients here whenever possible."

"We are fortunate to be able to take advantage of the generosity of the Leona M. and Harry B. Helmsley Trust from whom a grant was received that facilitated the addition of telemedicine technology to our Emergency Department..." said Kris Giese, Risk Management COO, who applied for the grant.

Giese went on to say "The technology won't replace care by our local physicians or hospital staff, but it certainly will provide them with the opportunity for additional support when needed. With the sensitive camera and microphones that have been installed in a couple of our ER rooms, a physician can be available instantly to start critical care before our local provider arrives and in some cases, even before the ambulance arrives. To allay any concerns about confidentiality, the audio and video equipment is not in use unless we activate it and the encounters are never recorded. Patients are informed prior to utilization of the system and can refuse it. In emergency medicine, there are circumstances where every minute counts. Telemedicine is such a great option for hospitals our size that don't have the capability of staffing an onsite emergency physician on a 24 hour per day basis."

Avera eCARE offers one of the largest telehealth networks in the United States, supporting more than 380 health centers, clinics, long-term care centers and correctional facilities within a fourteen-state region.

Wakefield meeting

There will be more answers than questions. There are not right now. When the time is right for the co-op, that decision won't need to be rushed. It has been. When the time is right for the co-op, Wakefield should not feel pressure from other school districts. We do," Borg said. "Do I think there will be a co-op? Yes. I don't think 2019 is the right time."

Both Greve and Loofe addressed the audience and school board and talked about how, to them a co-op is a logical way to give students at all three schools more opportunities, not just on the court or field but in the classroom, expanding programs like ag education, drama and other fine arts.

After members of the public spoke, one board member who voted no, took the opportunity to speak.

"I appreciate that Mark mentioned that we were not here to answer any questions or answer to why we voted the way we did, so I speak tonight for no one but myself," Sherri Lundahl said. "Students, I know you want answers too. I cannot sum up 10 months worth of information into one answer, but I do want to give you some insight of things that I considered in this vote."

Lundahl said the board worked diligently with faculty and students as well as the other schools to determine what was best, not just for activities but also academically. She said they looked at current student numbers and projected class sizes to help them make a decision.

"My vote 'no,' simply meant that after considering things in the areas I just mentioned, and more, I didn't feel that it was in the best interest of our district, as a whole, to enter into a prolonged cooperative agreement at this time."

With Lundahl's statement finished, Victor called for a motion to adjourn. He told the public as far as the board was concerned the issue, for now, was settled.

"No matter where you are at tonight, the issue of the co-op was ended in the current framework," Victor said. "As it stands, the board needs to be allowed to work on future opportunities. There will be, starting tomorrow, meetings discussing how to best proceed from there."

After the meeting, Victor said the whole process from start to finish has been a learning opportunity for community members and students alike.

"We're all growing through this process, and it is a process, if it is to happen. We'll have to come to terms with it on each end and as it was mentioned, we're probably rushing it because there's a lot of folks who have some pretty strong emotions," Victor said.

Victor mentioned that moving forward, there will be more opportunity for members of the Wakefield community to interact with the school. The Nebraska Association of School Boards (NASB) will be gathering information.

"Coming up in November, we will be having our NASB community engagement program. Its design is to have our community come together and say basically what they want to see in the future," Victor said.

The next Wakefield Community Schools District Board of Education meeting is scheduled for Nov. 11 at Wakefield School.

for our elementary students to reach these goals."

The new branch will be staffed by fifth and sixth grade student tellers under supervision by bank employees and Andi Diediker, fifth grade math teacher and the program's school contact. The branch will be closed over the summer months and reopen each school year.

These special savings accounts are only active at the SNB Blue Devil Branch. On the student's first deposit, State Nebraska Bank & Trust will deposit $5 into the student's account to help them get started. Instead of interest, students will receive fun incentives from the bank based on frequency of deposits, such as coupons to the Scholastic Book Fair, the Majestic Theatre, the Wayne Aquatic Center concessions, and Udder Delights. Students will maintain their accounts during their time at school, with withdrawals allowed when either the student leaves Wayne Elementary or graduates from sixth grade. More account details can be found at statenebank.com/about/blue-devil-branch.

This unique program is part of a state-wide effort led by the Nebraska Council on Economic Education to teach financial literacy to youth. Currently, there are nearly 30 in-school savings programs operating in Nebraska and Iowa. The SNB Blue Devil Branch is the first in-school bank in northeast Nebraska.

"The goal of this program is to provide our local Wayne students opportunities to not only learn about savings and how banks work, but to also become savers themselves," said Matthew Ley, CEO of State Nebraska Bank & Trust.

Lessons will also be taught in classrooms about financial literacy, led by Wayne State College economics professor Dr. Lindsey Doctorman and her team of college students, in partnership with the Nebraska Council on Economic Education.

"We really are trying to establish life-long habits for saving and budgeting and understanding money," Sandy Brown, director of marketing at State Nebraska Bank & Trust said. "It's just that weekly idea of savings, we think help make that translate as adults."

The community was invited to attend a ribbon cutting and grand opening ceremony for the new branch on Oct. 24.

Wildcats get weekend split against ranked foes

The Wayne State volleyball team bounced back from a tough five-set loss and finished the weekend with a sweep in matchups against top 10-ranked conference opponents. On Friday, No. 7 Minnesota Duluth captured an NSIC volleyball marathon win over No. 11 Wayne State, 25-18, 24-26, 21-25, 25-14, 15-11. The visiting Bulldogs controlled the first set, hitting .343 with 16 kills while forcing eight WSC errors. The Wildcats trailed a good share of the second set, but forced 11 UMD errors and rallied late to tie the match. Katie Stephens had four kills to pace the Wildcats, who had five players record kills in the set. Minnesota Duluth built early leads of 9-4 and 14-11 on the Wildcats in the third set, but Wayne State came back to take a 2-1 lead in the match. Tarrin Beller had three kills and three blocks to pace the Wildcats, who forced nine more errors on Duluth in the third set. The fourth set was close early with six ties and three lead changes, but Duluth closed the set in dominating fashion to force what would be an exciting fifth set. The fifth set featured 11 ties and seven lead changes, but Wayne State could not overcome stellar hitting by Duluth with 10 kills and just one error in 17 attacks for a .529 percentage as the Bulldogs scored the final four points of the match to take the win. Beller and Stephens each had 12 kills for the Wildcats. Beller also had seven blocks with Maddie Knobbe and Rachel Walker adding three each. Libero Haley Kauth recorded 17 digs with Hope Carter adding 14 and Walker 11. Walker also handed out 36 set assists. The Wildcats rebounded nicely on Saturday, as freshman outside hitter Kelsie Cada recorded a team-high 12 kills while the Wildcats recorded 11 blocks and forced 22 attack errors to sweep No. 8 St. Cloud State, 25-20, 25-22, 25-19. In the first set with the score tied at 9-9, Wayne State took control of the set with five straight points for a 14-9 lead on their way to taking the first set. Jaci Brahmmer and Cada each had four kills to lead the Wildcats. The second set saw two lead changes and six ties and saw both

Southwest Minnesota State posted a match-high 20 kills and hit .378 in the opening set, then held off a Wildcat rally in the second set to take a 2-0 advantage. Wayne State trailed for most of the third set before rallying to win the set to keep the match alive. SMSU held a 18-14 lead, but the Wildcats rallied and took the lead for good at 21-20 on a SMSU attack error and used back-to-back kills from Katie Stephens for a 23-20 advantage before finishing off the third set. Everything clicked for the Wildcats in the fourth set. Wayne State held Southwest to a minus-.031 attack percentage by forcing 12 errors that included six blocks. The Wildcats were also efficient at the net with 10 kills and just one error on 20 attacks for a .450 percentage to force a fifth set against the Mustangs. The fifth set was a tight battle until Wayne State scored the final five points to snap a 10-10 tie as the Wildcats pulled off another rally for the victory. Wayne State held a 10-8 lead with SMSU scoring the next two points for a 10-10 tie. An SMSU ball handling error and service ace from Duffy gave the Wildcats a 12-10 lead. Kills from Cada and Beller put the Wildcats in front 14-10 with match point coming on an SMSU attack error to cap the comeback. Beller led Wayne State in hitting with 16 kills followed by Brahmmer and Stephens with 11 each. Beller also paced the Wildcats in blocks with seven. Kauth recorded 16 digs with Carter adding 13 and Cada producing 11. Kauth, Carter and Duffy each had two service aces. Walker recorded 45 set assists. The Wildcats (17-3, 8-3 NSIC) will be on the road this weekend, visiting Minnesota Crookston Friday at 6 p.m. and Bemidji State Saturday at 1 p.m.

teams make runs. With SCSU leading 13-11, the Wildcats scored five straight points to force a Husky timeout. Wayne State built a 21-15 led, but the Huskies got within 24-22 to force a Wildcat timeout before Brahmmer ended the second set with a kill on set point. Wildcats end season with 72-8 loss

The Winside football team saw their season come to a close Friday with a 72-8 loss at Top 10-ranked Plainview. The Pirates rang up 48 points in the first quarter and did all of their damage before halftime. Winside was able to get on the board in the fourth quarter on a four-yard run by Gabe Escalante to close out the scoring. Escalante led the Winside rushing attack with 72 yards on eight carries, with Art Escalante adding 35 yards on seven tries and Matthew Frederick putting up 17 yards on eight attempts. In passing, Frederick was 6-of-8 for 43 yards and Art Escalante was 3-of-16 for 34 yards. Cayden Ellis

The two teams traded field goals in the first extra session, with Eue connecting from 36 yards for Northern State followed by a 37-yarder from Knudson to keep the score tied at 23-23 heading into the second overtime. Wayne State had the ball first in the second overtime and Knudson delivered a 42-yarder, his fourth field goal of the game, giving the Wildcats a 26-23 lead. Northern State used a 23-yard pass play on the second play of the second overtime to have a first-and-

Wildcats drop double-OT thriller

Northern State scored on a one-yard pass on fourth-and-goal from the one-yard line in the second overtime to hand Wayne State a heart-breaking 29-26 loss Saturday in Northern Sun Conference football played at Bob Cunningham Field in Wayne. It was the second overtime loss in the last four meetings for Wayne State against NSU (29-27 in 3 OT in 2013) and the fourth straight meeting between the two clubs decided by seven points or less. The first half was controlled by the visiting Wolves, who held a 17-3 lead at intermission. Northern opened the scoring with a Payton Eue 38-yard field goal, followed by an 87-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Hunter Trautman to Dakota Larson in the first quarter for a 10-0 lead. Wayne State got on the board with 3:31 to play in the second quarter on an Ethan Knudson 21-yard field goal, but Northern State scored right before halftime on a four-yard pass from Trautman to Greg Lux with three seconds to play, giving the Wolves a 17-3 lead at halftime. Wayne State scored 10 points in the third quarter to cut the Northern

State lead to 17-13. Redshirt freshman quarterback Andy McCance found Mason Lee on a 26-yard scoring pass following a Northern State fumble with 11:38 to play in the third quarter, and Knudson drilled a 36-yard field goal at the 7:39 mark to get the Wildcats within four going to the fourth quarter. Northern State took a 20-13 lead on a 41-yard field goal from Eue with 10:29 to play, but later in the quarter Wayne State tied the game as the Wildcats drove 99 yards on six plays under the direction of backup quarterback Tavian Willis. The scoring drive was capped with a 24-yard scoring pass from Willis to tight end Corbin Foster, goal at the one. A false start penalty moved the ball back to the six and Wayne State held the Wolves to force a fourth-and-goal, where the Wolves used a bootleg pass and a one-yard score from Trautman to tight end Colton Drageset to finish off the game and give the visiting Wolves the double-overtime win. McCance, who returned to the lineup after missing three games with a broken left hand, was 12-of-29 for 132 yards with one score and two interceptions while Willis was 5-of-10 for 93 yards and one score.

Lee was the leading Wildcat receiver with seven catches for 90 yards and one score, followed by Foster with four grabs for 59 yards and one score. Deshawn Massey was the top WSC rusher with 62 yards on 16 carries.

Defensively, linebacker Nicholas Joynt had 20 tackles with one sack and a forced fumble. Jalen Burgess and Tyler Thomsen each had seven tackles with Thomsen recording a fumble recovery.

Reid Korth (33) made five trips to the end zone for Wayne in Friday's 42-24 win over Boone Central/Newman Grove.

Korth's five TD's help Wayne secure playoff bid

The Wayne High football team was on a mission Friday night.

With a chance to secure an undefeated home docket for the first time in more than 35 years and a spot in the Class C-1 playoffs, the mission was most certainly accomplished as the Blue Devils ran their way to a 42-24 win over Boone Central/Newman Grove at Wayne State College's Memorial Stadium.

The Cardinals picked up an early lead on a 31-yard field goal, but it was all Wayne after that as they rode the legs of fullback Reid Korth in the first half. The junior scored on runs of 6, 5, 17 and 6 yards in the first half to stake the Blue Devils to a 28-10 halftime lead, then added a fifth score on a five-yard surge in the third quarter to put the game out of reach.

Blake Bartos put the ball in the end zone in the fourth quarter on a 19-yard run to close Wayne's scoring and cap a night where the Blue Devils put up all of their 348 total yards on the ground.

Korth led the charge with 181 yards on 19 carries, while Bartos added 156 yards on 11 tries. Tyrus Eischeid had two carries for 10 yards and Kobe Nelson carried three times for one yard.

Victor Kniesche led a solid Blue Devil defense with 14 tackles and an interception, while Tristan Landanger and Cade Janke both had seven tackles. Korth and Mike Leatherdale each had six stops, Bartos and Gunnar Jorgensen picked off passes and Eli Barner had a fumble recovery.

The win improves Wayne's record to 6-2 overall and secures a spot in the 16-team field for the Class C-1 playoffs, regardless of Friday's outcome at Bishop Neumann. A win over Neumann could put Wayne in position for a first-round home game, depending on how the rest of the field fares in the final week of the regular season.

Soccer team loses heartbreaker, salvages tie at home

The Wayne State women's soccer team saw their winning streak end with a loss and a tie at home last week.

On Friday, MSU Moorhead scored a goal off a corner kick with just under 15 minutes remaining to give the visiting Dragons a 1-0 victory over Wayne State to snap the Wildcats' three-game win streak.

Wayne State had the wind at their back in the first half and held a 10-1 advantage on shots over the Dragons, but could not find the back of the net with several shots sailing high on the Wildcats.

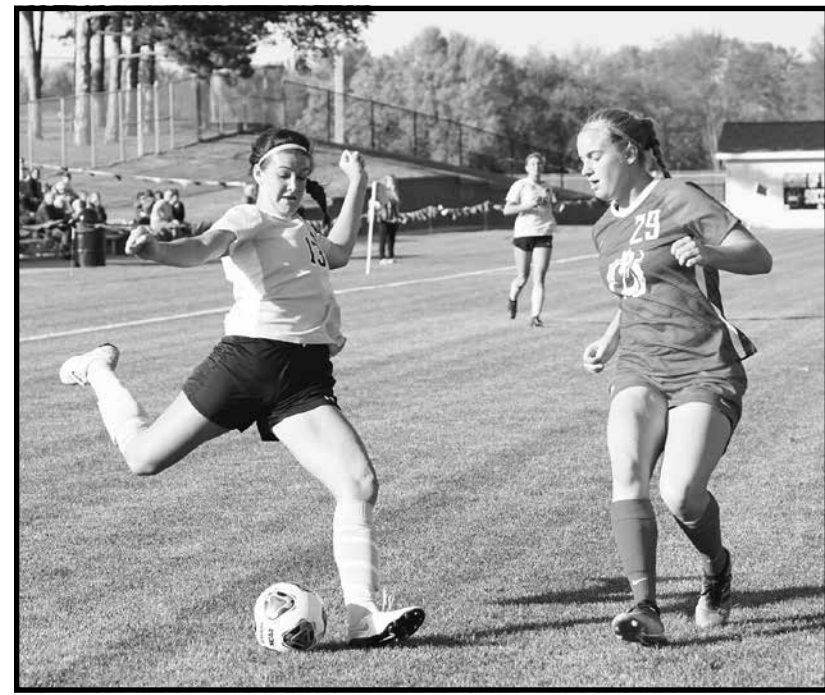

The Wildcats still maintained a shot advantage over Moorhead in the second half, but with just over 15 minutes to play the Dragons had three consecutive corner kicks and converted on the third one as Lindsay Brownell scored on a header in front of the goal off the corner kick from McKenzie Ickert at the 75:39 mark for the lone goal of the contest.

Wayne State had one last chance to score with a corner kick with just over six minutes to play but could not get off a shot as the Dragons held on for the win.

Wayne State finished the contest with a 14-3 advantage in shots over Moorhead including 7-3 in shots on goal. The visiting Dragons had one more corner kick than WSC, 6-5, and were called for 15 fouls compared to eight on WSC.

phia Ketchmark with 3:33 left in regulation allowed Wayne State to salvage a 1-1 tie against Northern State at the WSC Soccer Pitch.

Northern State struck for a goal early in the second half as Shianne Rosselli blasted a long shot past Grisham at the 52:44 mark for a 1-0 lead.

The score remained 1-0 until the final four minutes as Schuster placed a header past NSU goalkeeper Haley Hillstrom following a corner kick from Ketchmark with to send the contest into overtime tied at 1-1.

Wayne State got off three shots, all on goal, in the first overtime and had one shot with one corner kick in the second extra session but neither team could score.

The Wildcats finished with a 17-11 advantage in shots and 10-6 in shots on goal over the Wolves. Wayne State also held an 8-3 advantage in corner kicks.

Wehner and Megan Phillips each had four shots and two shots on goal for the Wildcats. Ketchmark and Brooke Worrel also had two shots on goal while Schuster scored with Ketchmark recording an assist. Grisham recorded five saves while allowing one goal in the contest.

Wayne State (5-4-4, 5-3-2 NSIC) will be on the road next weekend, visiting Bemidji State Friday at 6 p.m. and Minnesota Crookston Sunday for a 1 p.m. contest.

Producers encouraged to reduce compaction at harvest

I love fall, harvest time is one of my favorite times of year. Watching fields being harvested takes me back to my days of growing up on a farm in the Platte River valley. One big difference is our soils out there were sandier than most soils in northeast Nebraska and susceptible, but less prone to compaction. Our recent rain really wasn't needed. Most area fields already had more than enough moisture going into October, a time when crop water use almost or completely stops. This lack of water use by plants leads to wetter soils susceptible to compaction from field traffic and machinery. The size of farms has increased leading to larger and heavier equipment. However, equipment size is only one factor that causes soil compaction.

John Wilson
Extension Educator

Rushing to the field when the soil is wet, combined with the weight of equipment, and traffic pattern in the field, can increase the chance of severe soil compaction. Maximum soil compaction occurs when soil moisture is at or near field capacity because soil moisture works as a lubricant between soil particles un-

4. Reduces soil aeration;
5. Decreases soil available water;
6. Reduces infiltration rate;
7. Increases soil bulk density;
8. Increases sediment and nutrient losses;
9. Increases surface runoff, and
10. Damages soil structure.

So what should you do? Here are four management decisions that will help minimize soil compaction during and after harvest.

Use dedicated travel lanes. Many combine operators use "on-the-go" unloading into a grain cart to speed harvest. In areas that received excessive rainfall recently, you may want to consider either having dedicated travel lanes in and out of the field for the grain cart. Also, be sure the grain cart wheels are in the same rows as were used by the combine. The second pass over the same soil contributes less to compaction than driving on new soil in different rows.

Check tire size and pressure. Properly adjusted tire size and correct air pressure for the axle load being carried is a second management tool. Larger tires with lower air pressure allow for better flotation, reduced pressure on the soil surface, and increases the "footprint" on the soil.

Check soil moisture. The most effective way to minimize soil compaction is to avoid field operations when soil moisture is at or near field capacity. So it is important to check soil moisture conditions prior to starting any harvest or tillage operation. A simple way to check soil moisture is the "feel" method by using a soil probe to get some soil from a couple feet deep.

Push a ribbon of this soil between the thumb and index finger. If it breaks off within one or two inches, the potential for creating compaction is less. However, if the ribbon stretches out four or five inches, it is still too wet. Chances are good that being in the field under these conditions may cause more problems than it will solve. Waiting an extra day or two can reduce soil compaction significantly.

Reduce tillage. Delay any tillage operation until soil conditions are drier than field capacity and remember the benefits of conservation tillage systems. In wet conditions, the best choice producers can make is to stay away from the field and avoid traffic on wet soil to reduce soil compaction. How you approach fieldwork after a heavy rain event can impact your soil for future growing seasons.

Two final benefits of staying out of fields when it is too wet are not creating ruts that will require tillage to fill in before planting next spring, or worse yet, having a picture of your combine or tractor buried to the axle circulating on the internet or posted on Facebook for all your friends or neighbors to see.

Discussing the price of wine

Monday evening, and I just put out the trash; the wind almost blew me over! It's been like this all day; at the grocery store, posters were flopping in the entry way. Happy to have some dry days to harvest, but I can only imagine the dust they are stirring up. Thank goodness for air conditioned cabs, right?

Kay is always looking for fun things for her parents. A few weeks ago, she arranged for her Dad to visit the 9 Mile Prairie. Mike was reluctant, knowing he would be riding in a Gator and not knowing how he was going to get in and out of it, and then, hang on while riding in it! All his fears were for naught; and there was a side so he did not have to worry about sliding out; plus, the UNL prof who drove the thing gave him a short lesson on the conservation practices he was seeing. He came back totally pleased.

By: Pat Meierhenry

A couple of weeks ago, Kay ordered tickets to the Omaha Symphony for their presentation of Rogers and Hammerstein, at the Holland Center. I had never been to this venue, and was excited about seeing it and hearing the music.

It was a wonderful evening, but as another participant said, "I knew all the songs, and wanted to sing along!" We were kind of in the nose bleed section, but could see all and hear all; that was the important part, the sound was excellent. There were three soloists, all very professional and experienced, and as they said, these songs are part of the Great American Song Book; they are classics.

The Holland Center is all metal and glass, very modern. And very expensive! We got there early, so my friend, Jan, offered to buy each of us a glass of wine; hers was eight dollars; I ordered the expensive stuff, ten bucks! She gave the extra two for a tip, and we tried to enjoy it! Knowing it came for five dollars a bottle at the grocery store.

I was sharing this tidbit at the latest meeting of the Hookers the other day, and neighbor Judy told us of buying a bottle of wine on a cruise; Beringer, you know, the other wine for five dollars. The price on the cruise? Thirty dollars!

What are the Hookers, you may ask? These are a group of my neighbors who knit, crochet, or hook caps. They have given away hundreds, to the Winnebago school, hospital nursery, schools in Lincoln with a high poverty rate, you name it. I am not a Hooker, but I was a guest for the wine and cheese; and I'm pretty sure the stuff she served was not that expensive. I may have to join them!

Let's Talk Minerals

Just yesterday a member of the sales team heard a cattle producer make the comment "I only buy the cheapest mineral, if any, because I don't think my cattle need it and all mineral is the same anyway." As a cattle producer myself and being in feed sales this comment made me cringe. With tough markets and needing every possible healthy, live calf we can get, minerals play a vital role starting at conception. Without the use of mineral, it is difficult have our cows bred back every year and may lead to lost performance and profit potential. The myth that grass provides everything a cow needs has been proven wrong by several studies done on the changes of grass quality throughout the year.

By Brandi Salestrom
CVA Feed Sales Manager

Research done at Purina Animal Nutrition show the cattle offered organic trace minerals breed back sooner, have increased conception rates and reproductive performance early in the breeding season, have less disease in calves, and have better average daily gains. While the investment of mineral may seem costly, break it down to cost per head per day and the performance gained in return. When suggesting a mineral, I start by explaining phosphorus levels in each mineral. This time of year, a 12 phos mineral will become more popular, where a lower level is used during hi mag season, and usually a 7.5 phos is used during the summer months as it can be combined with options such as altosid (fly control) or Availa 4. I encourage producers to know what normal intakes should be with each mineral option they choose.

Some minerals are bitter causing some cows to under consume. Also, some cows may over consume due to an imbalance. If a cow is craving a certain ingredient it will consume until satisfied. Consumption can also be controlled by management. Placement of mineral feeders near loafing areas or water may cause over consumption as well as smaller confined pastures. For these situations, a cooked tub may be a better choice vs loose mineral. If in a large area, keep in mind a tub or feeder needs to be placed for every 20-30 head.

I encourage producers to visit with your local CVA feed sales specialist and review what your cow herds requirements are throughout the seasons and put a program together. We also have the ability to compare different mineral tags to see where they stack up. For more information about CVA and their feed offerings, visit one of their locations or cvacoop.com.

Buffer strips are a common sense approach to land conservation

The Nebraska Buffer Strip Program is administered from fees assessed on registered pesticides.

Cropland adjacent to perennial and seasonal streams, ponds, and wetlands can be enrolled in buffer strips, which are designed to filter agrichemicals such as fertilizers and pesticides. Two kinds of buffer strips are eligible - filter strips, which are narrow strips of grass; and riparian forest buffer strips containing trees and grass. The minimum widths are 20 and 55 feet, respectively; the maximum widths are 120 and 180 feet, respectively.

The program is designed to be used in conjunction with the USDA Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP), or other programs, however it can be used by itself, as well. Rental rates are calculated as follows:

For irrigated cropland where CRP, CREP, or other governmentally-funded programs are also used, rental rates are $250 per acre minus payments from the other programs.

For irrigated cropland where CRP, CREP, or other governmentally-funded programs are not used, the rental rate is $225 per acre minus any other program payments.

For non-irrigated cropland enrolled in CRP, CREP or other governmentally-funded programs, the rental rate is equal to 20% of the average CRP soil rental rate.

For non-irrigated cropland without CRP, CREP, or other governmentally-funded programs, the rental rate per acre is equal to 120% of the average CRP soil rental rate plus $5 per acre, minus the payment rate from any other programs.

In no case may payments from all programs exceed $250 per acre.

Interested landowners should contact their local Natural Resources District or USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service office to begin the application process.
