City of Wayne's mural project at Majestic Theatre complete

By Sarah Lentz
editor@wayneherald.com

Muralist Dave Loewenstein completed work on "The Illuminated City," on the north wall of the Majestic Theatre in Wayne. The scene celebrates aspects of the community and drive-in movie culture of the past.

"It's first, inspired by the location, The Majestic Theatre..." Loewenstein said.

"It's really inspired by that kind of signage we used to see at drive-in movie theaters all around the country, some of which were right around here. My thought was to celebrate the culture, the history, the pride of the community, using these drive-in movie theatre marquees as the format for talking about other things."

The mural has symbols celebrating the area's landscapes, as well as businesses, Wayne's educational institutions and some local businesses. Within the work there are also constellations and something Loewenstein said he saw a lot of as we were working throughout the summer, fireflies.

"The idea is really to create some energy, excitement, vibrancy around this place, but also to uplift and celebrate the community as a whole," Loewenstein said.

The work got its name from Loewenstein's incorporation of different types of light.

"What I realized as the design came together was that my theme was, as much as it was about Wayne, it was about different forms of light whether it was light generated by electricity or light generated by stars or light generated by fireflies," Loewenstein said.

The City of Wayne commissioned the work and chose Loewenstein who began working in July. He said the final design grew out of several meetings, both with City officials and with community shareholders who were interested in bringing fresh art to the community of Wayne.

Loewenstein is from Lawrence, Kan., and is both a muralist and printmaker. He's worked on around 20 public works like that of Wayne's. More examples of his work can be found on his website, daveloewenstein.com/

Wayne State welcomes second largest freshman class in college's history

Wayne State College proudly announces the second largest class in its history with 821 new freshmen on campus for the 2020-21 academic year. The 11.7 percent increase is just five students short of the largest ever class that entered in 1968 during the height of the Vietnam War.

The freshman class growth, combined with a 2.41 percent increase in graduate students and a 5.94 percent increase in returning undergraduate students, puts the college at 3,865 total students, which is 4.77 percent more than fall 2019. Wayne State's total enrollment has grown 20 percent in the past three years.

"We are delighted to sustain such positive growth at the College," said WSC President Marysz Rames. "The challenges we all face with the pandemic and its effects on so many aspects of our lives made our work that much harder. But the flexibility and creativity of our employees helped maintain the face-to-face experience that so many of our students indicated was a priority for them. We are hopeful that our community's commitment to public health will see us through to a safe and successful fall semester."

Opportunities for Wayne State students come in the form of expanded academic offerings, new initiatives and partnerships, access to the most affordable four-year and graduate degrees in our region, generous scholarship packages, and new and renovated facilities. Each of these areas played a critical role in positioning the college for sustained growth.

"To welcome another record freshmen class to Wayne State is a direct reflection of who we are as an institution," said WSC Admissions Director Kevin Halle. "That is, we are accessible, affordable, and committed to providing opportunities."

The College has continued to add to its quality academic programs to meet the demand of the Nebraska economy and workforce. Additional academic pathways include agriculture, engineering technology, fermentation science, mechanical and agricultural engineering, manufacturing management, applied science, and accelerated nursing.

"Wayne State is a bold first choice for students from all walks of life," Rames said. "We provide a quality, personalized education from distinguished faculty and staff who care about you and want you to be successful. Our continued growth is a clear testament to our living and learning environment, which values hands-on, experiential learning."

One of the chief new initiatives at Wayne State is a partnership with the Aksarben Foundation's Northeast Nebraska Growing Together program launched last spring. The first cohort of 26 students received scholarships provided by the Aksarben Foundation and began their education at WSC as freshmen this fall for a three-year on-campus education to be followed by a fourth year of living in Norfolk while working for a local business. This year, WSC students will be pursuing degree programs across business, communications, and computer science.

The College announced in August that the Nebraska Legislature approved the Career Scholarship Program to provide funding for student support aimed at growing the state's workforce in high demand fields. The newly created scholarships will provide a total of $1.6 million to be awarded to Wayne State students over four years who are pursuing careers in critical workforce areas. The funding will help support WSC's Cooperative Education program as part of the Growing Together initiative.

In addition to providing consistent and generous assistance to students through a robust scholarship process, the College lowered the online rate to $359 per credit hour for graduate-level courses for PK-12 educators. Graduate-level courses that lead to master's degrees in curriculum and instruction and special education are included in the new rate, which makes these degrees among the most affordable in the state for teachers.

The past five years at Wayne State have been marked by several new and renovated facilities, which included the construction of the Center for Applied Technology, Northeast Nebraska's premier industrial technology, manufacturing, and computer science facility. The College has also added a Criminal Justice Laboratory, completely renovated its high-rise residence hall, and made dramatic improvements to athletic facilities and the Kanter Student Center.

"Although presented with some challenges late spring and summer, our staff and the campus continued to serve prospective students through creative online opportunities," Halle said. "We were available then and we are available now as we enter a new recruitment cycle."

Little Red Hen Theatre announces auditions for 'A Christmas Carol'

The Little Red Hen Theatre of Wakefield, announced auditions for its upcoming production of "A Christmas Carol." An inventive adaptation of the classic Charles Dickens story, actors and technicians will breathe life into the story of Ebenezer Scrooge through visual effects, ghosts, mime and imagination as told by ragtag group of traveling players, clowns and musicians.

Due to COVID-19, the theater will be holding auditions via a video submission process. Interested actors can find guidelines about how to submit auditions at littleredhentheatre.com.

Due to COVID-19 the theatre will be putting the production on its feet using safety guidelines and protocols that were put in place for its summer musical production.

According to Managing Director T. Adam Goos, this includes practicing social distancing at rehearsals, wearing masks, daily disinfecting of the rehearsal space and asking participants to self monitor for symptoms accordingly.

"We're looking forward to putting a great show together for the community but ask our actors to do their part in helping us all stay healthy, both at rehearsals and out in the community," Goos said.

Rehearsals for the production will begin in October and wrap up in early November. Currently, the theatre plans to film the production for streaming throughout the holidays in December.

The Little Red Hen is looking to cast up to 10 actors of any gender, ages 13 and older, to play any of the following roles:

- Stage Manager - Scrooge
- Prop Boy - Tiny Tim
- Director - Marley, Christmas Future
- Leading Man - Bob Cratchit
- Leading Lady - Christmas Past, Mrs. Cratchit
- Young Leading Man - Fred

- Ingenue - Belle, Mrs. Fred
- Character Woman - Charitable Woman, Mrs. Fezziwig,
- Old Clown - School Master, Mr. Fezziwig, Jake the Fence
- Clowns - Ali Baba, Parrot, Christmas Present, Scavengers, Carolers

The production is an ensemble show and will utilize non-traditional casting, meaning that anyone could be asked to play any part in the show. In addition to actors, the theatre is looking for volunteers to assist with the technical elements of the show as well. This includes assistant directors, stage managers, and helping with lights, sound, costumes and set. Interested actors and technicians are encouraged to visit littleredhentheatre.com for more information and to download audition and technical volunteer packets. Audition videos must be submitted to the theatre by Friday, Sept. 18.

After roughly 20 years serving Wayne County, KimBerly Hansen is retiring.

Clerk magistrate reflects on work of office

By Clara Osten
clara@wayneherald.com

For approximately 20 years KimBerly Hansen has worked with those involved with the Wayne County Court system.

Hansen began her work as a records clerk in a temporary position, working with Clerk Magistrate Carol Brown. After the person who previously held the position was unable to return to work, she stepped in as full-time clerk.

When Brown retired in 2006, Hansen was appointed by the judges in the district to fill the position of Clerk Magistrate.

"For a few years, I did have someone to work with me, but since that person left, I have been by myself in the office," Hansen said.

County Court is in session at least three Mondays per month. At other times there are juvenile trials, civil trials and other matters needing court attention.

"In the years I have been here, there have only been two jury trials that have been handled by the county court," Hansen said.

She praised the work of all the attorneys and judges she has worked with throughout the years for working to resolve cases in a timely fashion.

Approximately 10 percent of the criminal cases that are first filed with the County Court are bound over to the District Court. The remainder are resolved through the work of the attorneys involved.

In addition to criminal cases, Wayne County Court deals with juvenile cases, civil cases, small claims cases, traffic violations, probate, guardian/conservator and adoption.

Hansen officially retired from her Clerk Magistrate position on Aug. 31, at the end of a full day of court cases.

"The time I have had at my office has been cherished. I always enjoyed anyone who came to the office, for whatever reason," Hansen said.

"The people at the courthouse are your work family and are a great bunch to be around," she added.

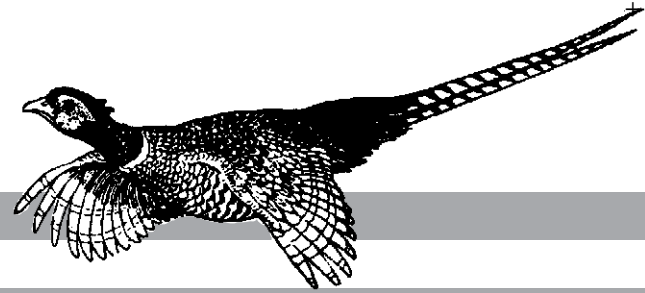

Hansen also praised local law enforcement, saying "in Wayne County and the surrounding counties, we are fortunate to have the law enforcement that we do. The Sheriff's offices, the Wayne Police Department and that State Patrol were super to work with throughout the years I have been here."

"I can say I will miss you all," she said. Her plans for retirement include spending time with her family, which includes her husband, Kelly, five children and 12 grandchildren.

She plans to help her husband with work on the farm and "has a lot of projects on my bucket list."

Obituaries

John H.F. Haye

John H. F. Haye, 91, of Wayne, died Wednesday, Sept. 2, 2020 at the Wakefield Health Care Center.

Services were held Wednesday, Sept. 9, at First United Methodist Church in Wayne. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery in York.

Memorials may be directed to John's family for later designation. Arrangements were with Hase-mann Funeral Home of Wayne.

John H. F. Haye was born on Oct. 9, 1928, near Scribner. He graduated from the University of Nebraska with a degree in agriculture. Farming was his passion for his entire life, working with his brothers even while in college to purchase land. He farmed near Omaha, Blair, Herman and Bancroft, and he also followed Michael, for two seasons.

John served in the Army Reserves, working with the Army Corp of Engineers to build roads and bridges in Nebraska and Colorado as the Korean War came to a close. John was a foreman with Serta in their furniture building division before leaving to farm full time. He enjoyed working with wood and upholstery all his life and built sofas, chairs, kitchen cabinets, pergolas, trellises and clocks. His last project was to build birdhouses in the shape of the farmhouse his parents built near Bancroft.

In 1957 John married Ann Louise Taylor in Omaha, Nebraska. They were married just short of 40 years at the time of her passing. During that time, while John farmed, Ann worked as a nurse and they raised their four children. They enjoyed their time with their grandchildren and life on the farm surrounded at times by a horse, cows, other farm animals, and dogs and cats. After Ann's passing, John married Doris Granquist Gaunt in 1997, fully retired and moved to Wayne. John and Doris were members of the First United Methodist Church in Wayne. They enjoyed dancing and traveling to visit their family throughout the US and also accompanying his children on trips to the national parks. In later years, both John and Doris resided at the Wakefield Care Center.

He is survived by and will be greatly missed by his children Susan (Robert) Smith, Steven Haye, and Jeffrey (Jenyl) Haye; by his siblings Henry (Lynn) Haye, Charles (Madelyn) Gleeson, Richard Gleeson, Eunice (Fred) Jalaas, and Marian Haye (widow to Julius); by his grandchildren Bria (Tommy), Branden (Sandra), Olivia, John, and Claire; by his great-grandchildren Riley and Hailey; and by numerous nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents, George John Haye and Christina Adeline Margret Windhusen Haye Gleeson; his stepfather, Leroy J. Gleeson; his wife, Ann Louise Taylor Haye; his wife, Doris Granquist Gaunt-Haye; his son, Michael J. Haye; and his brother, Julius G. Haye.

Blood drive held in Wayne

For over 15 years, Wayne and surrounding communities have been supporting the local blood bank, LifeServe Blood Center, at the community blood drives organized by Dennis Lipp.

The blood drive was held Aug. 26 to help the blood center keep inventory levels high as we work our way through a season of illness and uncertainty. LifeServe Blood Center was able to collect 31 units of blood that have the ability to save up to 93 local lives.

The following donors hit milestones with their most recent donation: Adam Endicott - one gallon, Andrew Bose - two gallons, and Suzanne Olson and Stanley Polenske.

The next drive will be Wednesday, Sept. 23 from noon - 5:30 p.m. at the Wayne Fire Hall.

"Thanks to everyone who came out to show their support, be sure to text 'LIFESERVE' to 999-777 to make your next appointment and we look forward to seeing you next time!" said Allison Wegner, LifeServe Blood Center Territory representative.

September is Health Aging Month

For the past 20 years, September has been recognized as Healthy Aging Month, an annual occurrence to raise awareness about the positive aspects of growing older - targeting the 70 million Baby Boomers (born between 1946-1964) and more than 65 million members of Generation X (born between 1965 - 1980).

Both groups share common interests and desires: staying active and vital as long as possible, both physically and mentally. A recent study conducted by P. Klaiber, J.H. Wen, A. DeLongis, and N.L. Sin for the Journals of Gerontology in July, 2020, and reported by Dr. Janis Sayer of the Mather Institute, contends that older age is associated with higher levels of emotional wellness, even in the face of the COVID-19 pandemic. The study measured perceptions about the stress brought on by COVID-19 (including safety, finances, and work-related concerns).

The Mather Institute report suggests that older adults, on average, have been more psychologically resilient than younger adults during the pandemic. While both groups have felt considerable stress related to COVID-19, older adults felt they were better able to cope with stressors than did their younger counterparts by mentally reframing the situation as a growth opportunity.

Younger and middle-aged adults polled had greater concerns about COVID-19 than did older adults related to emotional well-being, finances, and work.

Finding it difficult to look on the brighter side of life? Try these tips for aging healthfully, no matter what your age:

- Promote good physical health by being active and staying socially engaged with others, whether through your church, a volunteer organization, friends or family.
- Maintain a healthy diet and get regular check-ups and yearly physicals.
- Take charge of your health and research the many ways you can use your health insurance to take proactive steps in keeping healthy. You may be entitled to a variety of healthcare screenings as you get older; it's important to know exactly what tests and screenings you should be having, based on your age and gender.
- Surround yourself with people who make you smile and laugh.
- Research your family tree and talk with your physician about your family history. Your health care provider can provide insight on inherited conditions and make suggestions on lifestyle changes to help you have the longest, healthiest life possible.
- Be realistic. Some living modifications may be necessary as people age; falls may become more prevalent and medication management may be needed.
- Remaining active and engaged is the best gift you can give yourself. Staying physically and mentally active and nurturing social connections with friends and family are all part of the bigger picture in helping to keep your mind and body well.

Weather in Nebraska

After temperatures in the 90s over the weekend, Wayne and the surrounding area received much-needed rain and saw temperatures drop into the low 40s Tuesday and Wednesday. Reports of nearly an inch and a half of rain were common throughout the region. The forecast calls for more rain and seasonal temperatures for the weekend. This is welcome news to all those planning to attend the 40th annual Wayne Chicken Show at the Wayne County Fairgrounds on Saturday, Sept. 12.

Northeast places added focus on inclusion, diversity, equity

NORFOLK, Neb. – Northeast Community College has an idea, or make that an IDEA. In reaction to the civil unrest that has gripped the nation this summer, the College is addressing issues of inclusion, diversity, and equity to ensure that everyone feels welcome on all Northeast campuses.

As the unrest was unfolding in June, Northeast President Leah Barrett asked a series of questions in a video message on the Northeast website as to how Northeast can be a place where it can engage in positive dialogue on the challenges facing society.

"There are no easy answers, but dialogue is imperative to find solutions," Barrett said. "The mission of Northeast Community College speaks to the dedication of the success of students. It is so important that Northeast welcomes all students in an effort to help them reach their goals in an environment free of harassment and discrimination."

Barrett said as Northeast continues to seek solutions to ensure a safe college environment for all, open dialogue sessions with students and employees have been held as it seeks "authentic engagement."

"Our college, especially community colleges, need to be places where all of our students, all of our employees feel welcome no matter their race, their gender, their ethnicity, their sexual orientation, their political belief. We need to be a community and we need to support each other," Barrett said. "This is a time when we are all affected by the civil unrest occurring around the United States and throughout the world. It is often hard to watch, but we have to face it and we have to talk about it."

Following the dialogue sessions, Barrett appointed a group of faculty and staff members to IDEA (Inclusion Diversity, and Equity Alliance) to continue to look at developing strategic processes around these areas. The group's work will delve into several areas, including a review of policies and procedures to determine if there are barriers to anyone achieving success through their studies or work, ensure that the college is welcoming to all, and make certain that Northeast is celebrating different cultures among those on campus and through the curriculum.

Members of IDEA are Pam Saalfeld, director of the Center for Global Engagement, Paul Muncy, instructor of world history and geography, Jessica Dvorak, director of human resources, Tom Wiese, technical support specialist, Carissa Kollath, director of student activities, and Amy Seaton, adult education intake coordinator in South Sioux City. Over the summer, Saalfeld and Wiese attended a meeting of the Norfolk Mayor's Diversity Council that featured a trainer from Omaha who focused on inclusivity.

Saalfeld said inclusion, diversity, and equity start with being kind to one another and understanding elements of people's lives that may be different from their own. She did not experience many differences in other cultures growing up in a small town, "but I knew what humanity was."

"I was not an expert, by any means," Saalfeld said, "but I know how to listen and I know what hurt is and that's what we're missing today. We don't have to be experts in race relations, riot prevention or law enforcement, but we know how to be human, we know how to love, we know what hurt is. We're missing those pieces and that's what we need to get back to."

Muncy said people need to speak out when confronting different forms of racism, bigotry or misogyny.

"If we see someone being sexually harassed, we would step right in, but when we see harassment of

Legislative Update

District 17 has lots going on

The legislative session may be adjourned, with state senators not due back until session begins in January 2021, but there is still plenty happening. I continue to review requests for legislation, talk and meet with constituents and stakeholders, and get out into District 17 as much as possible ahead of harvest time. Moving away from lawmaking for the week, I'd like to let you know about a few happenings at the local, state, and national level

Wayne State College has modified its 2020 Homecoming activities due to COVID-19. Some activities have been canceled, while others have been re-scheduled for the spring and some are being held via ZOOM meetings. It may not look exactly the same as in previous years, but Chicken Show will be happening on Saturday, Sept. 12 and the event will celebrate 40 years of fun for District 17 families. The event will take place at the Wayne County Fairgrounds, 302 Pheasant Run, Wayne, Nebraska. There will not be a parade this year, but there will be fun, fellowship, and fireworks! I am looking forward to attending and visiting with my neighbors. Be sure to say hello!

As most are aware, schools in District 17 and throughout the State are each doing things differently. As will the health departments, my office will be paying attention to the new numbers of COVID-19 positive tests as schools open. It is more important than ever so important to keep your children home if they are ill.

There will be a 9-11 ceremony in Dakota County at Siouxland Freedom. I plan to be in attendance and hope to see many District 17 residents there as well. We should never forget that date in our history. It is important to remember the lives lost, the heroic efforts of so many, and the way we came together as a country to respond to the horrible attack on American soil.

STATE

FOREST FOCUS: Did you know that Nebraska has 1.5 million acres of forest land? Well, it does. On Sept. 4, United States Secretary of Agriculture Sonny Purdue joined Governor Ricketts and University of Nebraska Chancellor Ronnie Green in a signing of an agreement "to promote good stewardship of Nebraska's forests." Congressman Jeff Fortenberry also attended the signing. We frequently see Secretary Purdue in Nebraska because of his great interest in Nebraska's role as an agricultural leader and his support for Nebraska's commitment to its farmers, ranchers, and its rural lands.

UNEMPLOYMENT: Fortunately, we are seeing new and continuing unemployment claims decreasing, as more and more Nebraskans return to work. We have certainly done our part to protect our healthcare system throughout the state, and it is good to see businesses opening. As businesses re-open, people go back to work. As people go back to work, families and businesses get back on their feet. Working together, we can each act collectively to help this happen successfully.

Unemployment claims in Nebraska for the week ending Aug. 29 were down 13.3 percent from the week before. The United States unemployment rate fell back into the single digits in August, as well.

The Nebraska Department of Labor (NDOL) reports it has paid unemployment benefits to over 130,000 individuals throughout the pandemic.

I realize the struggle is not over but I am glad to see our state reopening and am committed, as many are, to shop and dine and do other businesses local-

September is National Preparedness month. "Make your plan today, and be prepared to take care of yourselves for at least 72 hours after a disaster," is the advice given by Bryan Tuma, Assistant Director of Nebraska Emergency Management Agency (NEMA). NEMA and local emergency managers across the state are urge Nebraskans to use this month to plan for potential disaster.

I would like to thank emergency managers Deanna Hagberg (Dakota County), Nic Kemnitz (Wayne County), and Tom Perez (Thurston County) for their hard work and dedication to providing great service to District 17 residents.

In the event that these or other local officials and relief workers are not able to reach you or your family immediately during a disaster for whatever reason, it is important to have food, water, and supplies to sustain you and your family until help can reach you. Some items, like a first aid kit may immediately come to mind, but, do not forget batteries, waterproof matches, and water purifier tablets.

Director Tuma suggests each family assemble an emergency kit that sustains them for at least three days. A thorough list of items that should be included in your emergency kit, as well as specific supplies for businesses, health-care facilities and schools can be found at bereadynebraska.com. You can also follow NEMA on Facebook at facebook.com/nema.page and on Twitter at twitter.com/NEMATweets for preparedness tips throughout the month.

We continue to work together as neighbors and friends to help keep one another safe. I count it a privilege to live and serve in a state that continues to show we can overcome all obstacles.

As always, it is of great importance that I hear from my constituents to effectively do my job as your voice in the Legislature. I encourage you to contact me and I look forward to hearing from you. You can reach me by phone at (402) 471-2716 or by email at jalbrecht@leg.ne.gov

Troopers arrest 73 impaired drivers in Drive Sober campaign

Troopers with the Nebraska State Patrol (NSP) removed 73 impaired drivers from the road during the "Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over" campaign to close out the summer driving season.

"This summer driving season has been unique, but our troopers' dedication to keeping Nebraska roads safe has been steadfast," said Colonel John Bolduc, Superintendent of the Nebraska State Patrol. "As we move into the final months of the year, we encourage all drivers to do their part as well. For whatever reason you're traveling, drive safely and drive sober."

The effort, which ran from Aug. 21 through Sept. 7, was part of a national campaign involving law enforcement agencies throughout the country. NSP's portion of the effort was made possible thanks in part to the grant for $20,000 from the Nebraska Department of Transportation – Highway Safety Office.

In addition to the 73 arrests for driving under the influence, troopers also issued citations for speeding (1,196), driving under suspension (97), no proof of insurance (54), open container (24), minor in possession (17), no seat belt (26), and improper child restraint (13).

Troopers also performed 767 motorist assists for drivers in need of help on the road.

The campaign also marks the end of NSP's "100 Days of Summer" annual campaign focused on safe driving during the summer months. Between Memorial Day weekend and Labor Day weekend, troopers performed dozens of enforcement and education operations to keep Nebraska roads safe. Troopers assisted more than 4,700 motorists in need of help during the summer campaign and arrested 320 people for driving under the influence.

During the "100 Days of Summer," excessive speeding continued to be an issue on Nebraska roads. Troopers issued 390 speeding citations for motorists exceeding 100 miles per hour. That figure is more than double the 192 such speeding citations during the same period last year.

WSC Department of Music celebrates the music of Beethoven with two faculty recitals

Ludwig van Beethoven is revered as one of the most influential and prolific composers of all time. In celebration of his 250th birthday, the Wayne State College Department of Music presents two faculty recitals dedicated to Beethoven's works.

A Night of Beethoven Part I features Dr. Angela Miller-Niles, piano, on Thursday, Sept. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in Ramsey Theatre. A Night of Beethoven Part II showcases the virtuosity of Miller-Niles, piano; Dr. Melissa Derechailo, horn; Dr. Sarah Farr, mezzo-soprano; Melissa King, flute; and Shelly Armstrong, piano.

The second performance takes place Friday, Sept. 25 at 7:30 p.m. in Ley Theatre. Both concerts are free and open to the public.

The first concert stretches both skill and style as Miller-Niles presents some of Beethoven's cherished solo piano sonatas. Repertoire includes the mischievous and exuberant op. 10 no. 2, the theatrical op. 26, and haunting and hypnotic op. 31, no. 2, often called "The Tempest".

The second recital highlights collaboration between Miller-Niles and WSC music faculty and staff.

Sonata for Horn and Piano, op. 17 is a delightful piece filled with melodic texture. Serenade for Piano and Flute, op. 31 contains a charming set of dance pieces. The six song cycle An die ferne Geliebte, op.98 expresses intense longing for a loved one. This is Beethoven's only song cycle. Three Marches for Piano 4-Hands, op. 45 is a brilliant, colorful masterpiece in the four-hand genre.

For more information, contact the WSC Department of Music at (402) 375-7359.

Above is just a small selection of cement chickens that will be up for auction on Saturday, Sept. 12 during the 40th annual Wayne Chicken Show.

Chicken Show this weekend, WAED encourages public to bid on cement chickens

The Wayne Chicken Show is right around the corner. Though the celebration will look much different this year, some of the old favorite activities will be observed, including the cement chicken auction on Saturday, Sept. 12.

"We've had a lot of talented artists return their chickens beautifully decorated so be sure to check them out," Abby Schademann, Wayne Area Economic Development marketing, events and tourism coordinator said.

Sales from the cement chicken auction help fund the event itself. "The money raised from the cement chickens goes to help fund all of our free activities for families and kids, so be sure to come out and support it. Who doesn't need a cement chicken in their yard," Schademann said. Along with large cement chickens there will also be some smaller chicks sold as well.

This year, all events that would usually take place at Bressler Park and downtown, will take place at the Wayne Fairgrounds. The cement chicken auction is set to begin at 1:30 p.m. Other activities include the Chicken Crowing Contest, beginning at 10 a.m. Food and craft vendors will be set up between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. throughout the fairgrounds.

A performance from the Wayne State College Marching Band is set for 11:30 a.m. in front of the grandstand. Car enthusiasts can take part in the Crowing Motors Car Show from noon to 4 p.m. Ted and Alice Miller will be "on stage" at noon.

The World's Largest Chicken Performance will take place at 1 p.m., just prior to the auction.

The Live Chicken Flying Contest will take place at 2:30 p.m. with attendees able to "rent" a chicken in hopes of having bragging rights for the longest flight.

The long-standing Best Chicken Legs on a Human Contest will begin after the Flying Contest and will be followed by the National Cluck-Off.

The final events of the afternoon will be the Egg Drop/Catch and the Egg Toss.

More information can be found at chickenshow.com or by calling the WAED office at (402) 375-2240.

Wakefield man found guilty of murder

On Sept. 3, Andres Surber, was found guilty of the 2016 murder of Kraig Kubik, of rural Emerson. A jury found Surber guilty of first-degree murder, use of a firearm to commit a felony and felon in possession of a firearm. The charges carry a mandatory sentence of life in prison without parole.

Surber, along with an accomplice, Brayan Galvan-Hernandez shot Kubik and dismembered his body, disposing of his torso, arm and leg in a culvert near his home and the rest in the trunk of car.

Kubik, who was 41 at the time of his murder, left behind a young son, who initially told a teacher that his father was dead. A search of Kubik's home revealed that someone had sustained a serious injury, but it took a search of the property and surrounding area before Kubik was found.

After receiving a tip about suspicious activity on property owned by the Surber family, the police were led to Surber and Galvan-Hernandez. During the trial, the jury heard of DNA evidence and fingerprints linking Surber to the crime.

Galvan-Hernandez plead to second degree murder in 2017 and was sentenced to 50-60 years in prison.

Throughout the judicial process, Surber was found to be mentally incompetent to stand trial twice, and had is competency re-instated twice.

Surber will be sentenced in Dakota County district court on Friday, Nov. 6.

Wayne State College, Northwestern College partner for athletic training program

Wayne State College and Northwestern College in Iowa are now partnering to offer two different pathways to a Master of Science in Athletic Training (MSAT), including a 3+2 option and a reservation agreement.

The 3+2 program allows students to receive a bachelor's degree in applied human and sport physiology from WSC and an MSAT from Northwestern, all in a total of five years. Three years would be completed at WSC and two years at Northwestern. Students must complete 90 credit hours at WSC before transferring to Northwestern. At the end of the five years, students would receive their MSAT and be ready to sit for the Board of Certification exam.

"This is a terrific opportunity for students to experience all that WSC has to offer and complete a master's degree in athletic training at a well-recognized regional institution, all in five years," said Dr. Kris Fox, ATC, CSCS, professor of applied human and sport physiology at Wayne State College. "The 3+2 program allows students to enter the workforce a full year ahead of the traditional route."

WSC and Northwestern also have an agreement in which Northwestern's MSAT program reserves two spots each year just for WSC students. This can be for students pursuing the 3+2 route or the traditional route.

Wayne State has a similar 3+2 partnership with Midland University and a similar reservation agreement with the University of Nebraska-Omaha.

For more information on WSC's athletic training program and partnerships, please visit wsc.edu/pre-athletic-training.

students of color or gay students on campus, we sometimes don't step in when we should. If we're going to build that broader culture, that does have to be something we expect all students to participate in," Muncy said. "We need to aggressively expect all of our students to have some type of stake in doing something about it."

Muncy would like to see Northeast address hiring employees who bring in more diversity. He said it would be more productive for students to have additional faculty and staff who come from different backgrounds.

"When we talk about hiring, we want to hire the best person for the job and that is often about qualifications. But beyond the best person for the job, I think for a lot of our students of color, it's harder for them to go to a white faculty or staff member. Not that they wouldn't have been supportive, but they haven't been through those experiences," he said. "And I think for many of our students that have to deal with racism and all of the other 'soft effects' of racism, things that are not as overt. How would they know if a white faculty member can actually empathize with them?"

Northeast Community College is also beginning to take steps to be more inclusive through student-related events. Kollath said the diversity and inclusion organization, Hawks United, is reforming with Emily Norman and Tonya Brandl serving as advisors. In addition,

Norman and Wiese will advise the Pride (LGBTQ) Club. Kollath said they also are working on developing better awareness strategies of these and other groups across the college community.

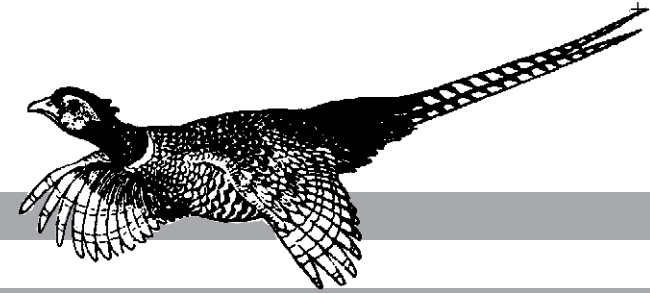

Muncy is asking his colleagues to encourage their students to participate in the clubs.

"I think that creating that type of community, both internationally, regionally and here on campus will be positive and major driver in making positive change."

Barrett has elevated IDEA's work as it will become a reporting entity of the College's President's Council, which is the primary recommending body to the president regarding procedure and strategic priorities. Initially, members of IDEA will work to give themselves a presence throughout the college now that the academic year is underway.

Saalfeld said the group is beginning to meet to develop short-term and long-term goals some inclusivity, diversity and equity are common themes at Northeast Community College.

"These goals will be developed with an eye toward being, as President Barrett put it, 'interwoven into the fabric of our institution.' We are excited with this new vision, this new idea," Saalfeld said. We're looking forward with working with faculty, staff, and students across the college to make our world a bet-

Dominating second half propels Wayne to 35-19 win

By MICHAEL CARNES
For The Herald

WEST POINT — After taking advantage of some late first-half momentum, the Wayne High football team took control of the second half. Using a 5-1 time of possession advantage in the second half, third-ranked Wayne used drives of 11 and 13 plays to put away No. 10 West Point-Beemer and pull away with a 35-19 win over the Cadets. The Blue Devil offense simply wouldn't give possession back to the Cadets in the second half, limiting the hosts to just one possession in the third and two more in the fourth, the last a single play in the final two seconds of the game against the JV defense. "I think we have some big, physical kids up front, and as the game went on it really wore on them," coach Russ Plager said of his team's dominating second-half effort. "We got some confidence going (in the first half) and had some energy that really helped, and I think we just have a tough, physical football team." The Cadets hung around in the first half, taking advantage of Wayne's lone turnover to map out an eight-play drive that finished with a 12-yard pass from Jesus Barragan to Keegan Doggett for a 6-0 lead in the final minute of the opening period. Wayne answered early in the second, using runs of 24 and 19 yards by quarterback Tanner Walling to set up a 12-yard gallop by Victor Kniesche for the equalizer. Yair Alcantara's point-after made it 7-6 just eight seconds into the second quarter. West Point-Beemer would score again on a 17-yard run by Doggett, but Wayne took the lead for good on the ensuing possession, going 49 yards in seven plays before Reid Korth scored the first of four touchdowns on a one-yard run to make it 14-12. Korth found paydirt in the closing seconds of the first half, breaking a pair of tackles and sprinting 59 yards to make it 21-12, setting the stage for what would be a dominating second half for the Wayne offense. The Blue Devils turned to their senior running back, who rushed eight times or 60 yards on the first series of the second half, capping an 11-play drive that took up half the period with a 12-yard run. After a three-and-out by the Wayne defense, the offense returned drained the third-period clock with another methodical, ground-eating drive. Thirteen plays and 63 yards later, Korth leaned over from a yard out to make it 35-12 with 9:14 to play. Wayne's defense was outstanding in shutting down West Point-Beemer's run-pass attack, save for the final two seconds when the Cadets scored on a 90-yard run against Wayne's second string. And the offense jumped on Korth's back, as he finished the night with 28 carries for 186 yards and four scores. "He's a good football player," Plager said with a smile. "He showed what he can do last year and is continuing to do that this year. He's a tough kid, he's a smart kid and he's tough on defense as well."

and they'll be gunning for us after last year," Plager said of Friday's 7 p.m. matchup at Wayne State College. "We're going to have to come out and play clean football." Wayne 35, West Point-Beemer 19

Erica Wolfgram goes for a dig during the Lady Bear's win at Ponca. LCC and Randolph went five sets to determine the winner.

Dorey's one-hitter leads Wayne to 8-0 win at SSC

Kendall Dorey threw a one-hit shutout and struck out 13 to help Wayne improve to 7-1 with an 8-0 shutout at South Sioux City on Thursday.

Wayne broke a scoreless tie in the third when Hope O'Reilly singled home Mikaela McManigal with the first run of the game. Wayne would break the game open in the fourth with three runs, two coming on a two-run single by Brooklyn Kruse, and Brianna Nissen closed the scoring with a two-run single in the sixth.

That's all Dorey would need, as she needed just 78 pitches to throw a one-hit, one-walk gem with 13 strikeouts to get the win.

McManigal scored three times and Kruse and Nissen each had three RBIs in the contest. Nissen led the team with two hits while McManigal, Kruse, O'Reilly, Tatum Sweetland and Logan Miller all had hits.

Wayne plays Tuesday at Columbus Lakeview before returning home for a Thursday matchup with Tekamah-Herman.

15 assists. Defensively, Redden had seven digs and Jones and Sievers each had four.

Losing to B-R/L-D, Wayne was led by Pick with 17 kills and five each from Longe and Klausen. Krusemark had 27 assists and Pick had three blocks. In digs, Redden had 17, Klausen had 14, Backer had eight, Krusemark had seven and Pick had six.

Closing out with the easy sweep of Wakefield, Pick had 12 kills and Klausen added five. Krusemark recorded 14 assists. Pick had three blocks. Klausen led in digs with 16 and Redden added five.

Wayne was at Columbus Scoutus on Tuesday and will be at the North Bend Invite on Saturday before returning home for a Sept. 15 matchup with GACC.

Lady Bears win five-set thriller

Randolph and Laurel-Concord-Coleridge went the distance in a wild matchup Thursday, with the host Bears coming away with the five-set win, 29-31, 25-23, 16-25, 25-20, 15-12.

Erica Wolfgram had a big night at the net, finishing with a team-high 16 kills. Kinsey Hall added seven kills, Megan Forsberg put down six, Mollie Schutte had five, Berniece McCorkindale had four and Haley Christensen had three. Hall had 20 assists and Christensen added 14.

LCC had 22 ace serves in the five-set marathon, seven coming from Hall and four each from Christensen and Wolfgram. McCorkindale had three and Forsberg and Paige Cook each had two.

In blocks, Christensen and Mollie Schutte each had three and McCorkindale and Hall both had one. Christensen and Hall each had 15 digs and Jordyn Urwiler and Cassie Granquist had 11 apiece, followed by Wolfgram with eight, Forsberg with seven and Kaylee Donner with five.

On Tuesday, LCC handled Ponca in three sets, winning 25-23, 25-11, 16-25, 25-21.

Wolfgram had 15 kills, McCorkindale added nine, Hall had seven and Schutte and Erica Benson each had six. Hall had 14 assists and Christensen picked up 11.

Benson had four ace serves, Wolfgram added three and Hall had two. Hall led the team in digs with 15, Granquist added 10, McCorkindale had six and Christensen had five. Donner, Urwiler and Wolfgram each had four digs.

LCC quarterback Evan Schmitt gets ready to fire a pass up the field during Friday's 46-16 loss at Stanton.

Stanton dominates in second half of 46-16 win

STANTON — The LCC football team got off to a good start, but Stanton shut the Bears offense down in the second half and came away with a 46-16 win in a battle of unbeaten Friday.

Evan Schmitt connected with Deagan Puppe on a seven-yard pass to tie the game at 8-8, and the Bears took a brief lead when Evan Haisch scored on a one-yard run for a 16-8 advantage.

Stanton cut the deficit to two points at the half, then took control in the second half with three third quarter touchdowns to win the game.

Haisch finished the night with 91 yards on 21 carries to lead the LCC ground attack. Schmitt was 5-of-13 for 33 yards in the passing department.

Defensively, Austin Hall led the way with 10 total tackles, while Haisch and Sutton Ehlers each had seven stops. Cael Hartung and Puppe both had five stops.

The 2-1 Bears are off this week and return to action Friday, Sept. 18 at home against Elkhorn Valley.

Eagles get first win of season

After having to cancel their season opener due to COVID-19, the Allen Eagles got one in the books with a 32-22 win at Mead on Friday.

The Eagles, 1-0, scored three times in the opening period to take control of the game. Kobe Kumm scored on runs of 1 and 7 yards and threw an 18-yard pass to Ty Krommenhoek to stake the visitors to the three-touchdown advantage.

The Eagles led 24-8 at the intermission after Anthony Isom scored on the final play of the period on a 54-yard run, and Allen put it out of reach late in the third when Kumm scored his third rushing touchdown of the night on a 1-yard sneak.

Isom finished the night with 173 yards on 19 carries and Kumm rushed 17 times for 74 yards to lead the Allen offense.

Defensively, Isom had a team-high 13 tackles, RRRRR Hingst had 11 and JJJJ Olesen and SSSS Sullivan had 10 apiece.

Allen faces a key district test Thursday when they play at Bloomfield.

Nebraska Extension partners to spread safety awareness this harvest season

Safety around powerlines should always be front of mind when operating large farm equipment, and Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD), Nebraska Extension and UNMC Central States Center for Agricultural Safety and Health (CS-CASH) are partnering together to spread awareness about potential dangers as harvest season approaches.

NPPD, Nebraska Extension and CS-CASH will be hosting events at multiple locations across the state which will feature a "Look Up and Look Out" custom combine and an ATV and grain bin entry safety simulator. First responders will be on hand to provide education on how to exit machinery safely in case of contact with a downed power line or pole structure.

"We want to make sure farmers and equipment operators who are working around power lines know what precautions need to be taken in order to perform their work safely," says NPPD Transmission and Distribution Construction and Maintenance Manager Scott Walz. "If a piece of equipment gets too close to a powerline or makes contact with a line it can result in serious or fatal injuries, and our main concern is that people are able to go home safe at the end of the workday. Hopefully these events will help remind people to keep a focus on safety."

The scheduled events will provide lunch to attendees and will take place at the following locations:

- Scottsbluff Panhandle Research and Extension Center on Tuesday, Sept. 1
- Buffalo County Fairgrounds southwest lot in Kearney on Wednesday, Sept. 2
- York County Fairgrounds on Wednesday, Sept. 9
- Madison County Extension, 1305 S. 13th St. in Norfolk on Thursday, Sept. 10
- Red Willow County Fairgrounds in McCook on Friday, Sept. 25

Agronomy and Horticulture seminar series begins Sept. 11

The fall Agronomy and Horticulture seminar series begins Sept. 11 with "Physiological and molecular perspective on seed development under higher temperatures" presented by Nebraska's Puneet Paul and "Organic Carbon Materials for Nutrient Retention in Nebraska Soils" by Nebraska's Jennifer Cooper.

Paul, postdoctoral research associate of agronomy and horticulture will present on climate change, especially the rising temperatures and how it threatens crop productivity.

Cooper, postdoctoral research associate of agronomy and horticulture, will talk about proposed mechanisms for retention of nutrients on organic carbon surfaces with the aid of iron using advanced nanoscopy techniques.

All seminars will be presented via Zoom beginning at 3:30 p.m. and can be found at agronomy.unl.edu/agronomy-and-horticulture-seminar-series

Dates and topics for the series are as follows:

- Sept. 18: "Genetic and Environmental Regulation of Meiotic Re-combination." Gregory Copenhaver, professor and associate chair, Department of Biology, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

- Sept. 25: "Who's Learning From Who? Integrating Farmer Perspectives into Research and the Classroom," Randa Jabbour, associate professor, Department of Plant Sciences, University of Wyoming, Laramie, WY.
- Oct. 2: "A Machine Learning-Based Framework to Prioritize Genes with Phenotypic Impact," James Schnable, associate professor, Charles O. Gardner Professor of Maize Quantitative Genetics, Department of Agronomy and Horticulture, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.
- Oct. 9: "Sites and Sounds of microRNA160 in soybean roots and nodules revealed by quantitative imaging," Senthil Subramanian, associate professor, Graduate Coordinator, South Dakota State University.
- Oct. 16: "Strategies for Sustainable Agriculture: Challenges and Opportunities," Kusum Naithani, assistant professor, Landscape Ecology, (Contributed photo) Nebraska's Puneet Paul and Jennifer Cooper will present during the university's Agronomy and Horticulture seminars. University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

- Oct. 23: "Using Economic Experiments to Study Human Behavior under Farmland Conservation Programs," Simanti Banerjee, associate professor, Agricultural Economics, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.
- Oct. 30: "A paradigm shift in the omies and Horticulture, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

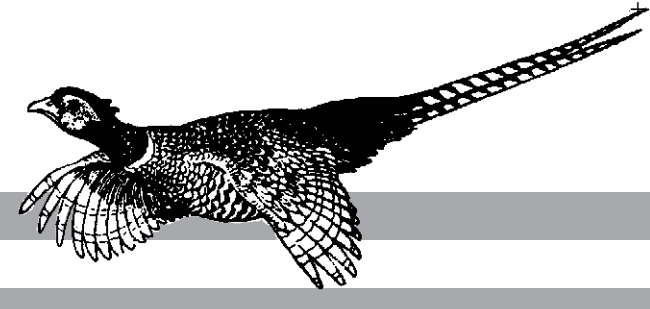

- Nov. 13: "(Some of) The Economics of Agricultural Innovation," Julian Alston, Distinguished Professor, Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics and Director of the Robert Mondavi Institute Center for Wine Economics, University of California, Davis.
- Nov. 20: "Soil and Nutrient Management in Nebraska Panhandle," Bijesh Maharjan, assistant professor and Extension Specialist, Agronomy and Horticulture, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.
- Dec 4: "Genetic gain, genetic diversity, and genomic selection, can plant breeders have it all?," Jessica Rutowski, assistant professor of Small Grains Breeding, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.
- Dec 11: "Recent advances in understanding synthetic auxin herbicide resistance in weeds," Todd Gaines, associate professor of Molecular Weed Science, Department of Agricultural Biology, Colorado State University.

All the events are scheduled to take place from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and will be marked with identifying banners for exact location. The events will also be supported by local public power districts that serve the surrounding area. Events in Norfolk and Kearney will include live line safety demos

"Nebraska Extension and CS-CASH continue to be valuable health and safety resources for our ag producers around the state, and we are excited to partner with NPPD to promote harvest safety as the season gets underway with more equipment heading out into the field," says Nebraska Extension Educator, Susan Harris.

The events are open to the public and will all be held outdoors to encourage social distancing. Attendees are encouraged to wear masks at the event, where CDC guidelines will be in place.

Ideas when working remotely on teams School Lunches

As companies debate whether or not to bring employees back to the office full-time, they scramble to refine their remote work policies. I found this article and wanted to share it with you as we head into the fall. Here are several recommendations on how to keep things as consistent as possible for teams.

1. Make team meetings a priority. Team meetings are often some of the only interactions you'll have with your team when working apart so schedule them, prioritize them even if it there isn't anything urgent, and be socially present. While written communication is the lifeblood of a remote work environment, a lot can get lost in the medium. Humor and tone can be easily misinterpreted, and there is no chance to hear a person's voice, see the expression on their face, or read their body language.

Virtual meetings are a chance to get those emotional cues, and to build rapport with your teammates. Just be careful not to schedule too many meetings, or your team may feel like they don't have enough time to actually get work done.

2. Show personal interest. Use meeting time to get to know your teammates better. You can schedule a virtual breakfast or lunch together. You should use open-ended questions when speaking personally. For example, don't ask "How was your weekend?" Instead, try "What did you do this weekend?"
3. Be present. Try these:
 - making sure your camera is on so others can see you;

Stanton County

Kim Bearnes

Extension Educator

UNL Extension

- keeping your microphone off mute when practical;
- giving both verbal and non-verbal cues, such as a head nod, an "mhmhm,"
- keeping phones face down and maintaining eye contact.

4. Check in. While being sure to give colleagues time and space to do work, check in with a short hello via an encouraging message, a project-relevant news article, or a funny photo. You might also consider scheduling a "virtual coffee break," similar to the way you might do so in the office.

5. Recognize your teammates. Be sure to send a message to a colleague congratulating or thanking them, share kudos in team meetings, and utilize your company's recognition program.

6. Invite colleagues' participation. It can be challenging for more introverted colleagues to participate in-group meetings--and even more so in a virtual environment. Team leads can help compensate for this by directly asking these participants for their input.

7. Set team norms. Norms set clear expectations for how you work together with your team, but they're often assumed rather than explicitly stated, leaving opportunities for confusion.

Set some expectations:

- for how long it should take to respond to emails/pings, taking off-hours and time zones into account if needed.
- clarifying task expectations and ownership within a team, including when they can move forward if a team member is unreachable and when it's better to get a response.
- what is the best way to share information?
- how often to stay in touch.

Once you establish these norms, they should be documented and circulated to everyone on the team. This puts everyone on the same page, reduces stress, and can reduce the problem of low productivity.

8. Use the right medium. How do you decide whether to send a message or do a call? Too many calls and your people will feel burnt out. But you can also waste lots of time exchanging messages when a five-minute call could provide answers to multiple questions.

9. Make well-being a priority. Your well-being is more important than ever.
 - set up a comfortable office space to physically separate your work and home life.
 - set limits on your workday so as not to work too many hours.
 - get up every hour for a short break.

Schedule buffer time--blocks of time in your schedule that serve as buffers between meetings or other high-concentration work. This gives you a chance to take a walk, surf the internet, or do anything else you want to decompress--helping you to avoid virtual-meeting burnout.

Others in history have sought to 'get back to normal'

It has been about a month now since we have "gotten back to normal". Or as normal as we might begin to think. Kids are in school, college has started, people have hopefully gone back to work. And things are beginning to look up. But this isn't the only time that we have needed to "get back to normal." Nor is this the only time our country has faced hardship and challenges. We look for ways to stay connected with each other, and we are realizing just how important those connections are.

And there was another group of people who needed and wanted to get back to normal. That group was the Apostles. And the time for them came right after Jesus had been arrested, tried, ridiculed, mocked, and crucified on old wood with rusty nails.

Their Rabbi... their teacher... their friend had been killed! They thought they had seen the last of him and they feared that if they weren't very careful they might just be next. After all, the religious leaders had even been moved to try and kill Lazarus along with Jesus. Lazarus was a nasty reminder for the people of how much authority and power Christ actually had. He had so much that even death itself stood no chance against him. And yet, he did die. He died in the most horrific way known to man at that time, and this fate could be the Apostles too.

So after a few days of hiding out, the Apostles began to leave Jerusalem. Life must go on, and they must begin to take care of themselves once more. Even if wild rumors were circulating that Jesus had risen! Even if the tomb had been found empty by the women, what could that really prove? Potentially it just shows that the gardener had moved his body so that no one would know where it was. Maybe it was another cruel jape that the religious leaders had concocted. Perhaps it was just the Romans who wanted to have a laugh at all of them. But whatever it said to them, the truth was still there... Life must go on!

So, we hear of a couple of disciples on their way to another town called Emmaus. They are planning to do a little social distancing. But little do they know that their lives will never be the same again, because the man they meet along the road has changed everything! At first

A Word In Faith

By Erik Christensen
Associate Pastor, Grace Lutheran Church

they don't recognize him, and they don't realize who they are walking with. But, after asking them about their conversation this man begins to open the scriptures to them. This man begins to speak truth into their hearts, and he reminds them of things that they had heard before. Things that were confusing at the time, but now too good to be true almost. And they love being with him so much that when they arrive at Emmaus they beg the man to stay with them. They beg him to not go any further that evening, but to come in and enjoy a fresh dinner. And the man relents. He follows them, he stays with them. He remains in their presence, until something amazing happens.

As they sit down to eat, this man takes bread and he breaks it and immediately their eyes are open. They recognize him! Why? Because this is the same thing he had done the night he was arrested. He was giving them His body and His blood to eat and drink as the means through which forgiveness is obtained. And again, immediately they knew they had to race back to Jerusalem to tell the others.

After all, they couldn't keep this truth to themselves. They couldn't run away after seeing what they had just seen! Their Rabbi... their teacher... their friend Jesus was ALIVE! Alive indeed, and his life was the beginning of something new! His life marked the difference from the past and the present. No longer were they alone and cut off from God. They were, are, and always will be God's loved children in Jesus! And that amazing news is as real today for you and me as it was for those two men on the road to Emmaus! That amazing truth is what does make the difference for all of us.

We look back at our past, and sure we miss certain things. We look back at our past and sure we can't wait to be able to go to sporting events, or concerts, or plays as we once did. We look back at our past and reminisce about the times when we didn't all have to wear masks when we knew we were going to be around other people. And we can't wait to "get back to normal."

And don't get me wrong - I can't wait to do some of these things myself.

But I pray that the lessons we have learned during this time never leave us. The lessons that remind us of the importance and value of every single life. The lessons that tell us that we are and can be united in ways that maybe we have only ever dreamed about. Lessons that help us hold onto one another even if it is through a simple phone call or zoom session.

The most important lesson that I think we should learn is that we aren't the ones in control. We desperately fight for our normal life. But we need to understand that the one who is always in control is with us. He is remaining right by our side throughout all of this. He is working in big and small ways to help us because He loves us.

There is no greater time than now to share your faith in Christ with someone else. Because today is the day He has given us! Today is the day to see the possibilities. He is opening, and today is the day that we can realize that because He lives, we have been changed FOREVER!

Different perspectives

Well, this was not the answer our son-in-law was hoping for, but we knew it was a possibility. He is not guilty of deception regarding cattle numbers in his feed lot, but it took place on his watch, and as he says, he did sign the contracts.

We have lived under this cloud now for three years. He has made extraordinary efforts at restitution, including what remains in escrow, which he has given up any claim to. In order to move forward, he took his attorney's advice and entered a guilty plea. Both that lawyer and the probation officer that day felt confident that there would be a probation offer. Instead, he was told to self-report to a federal prison in December.

I guess, as many people have told him, this is the time you find out who your friends are. They have received many texts, messages, and calls of support. I wrote down a quote that spoke to that the other day. "Whatever the challenge, we all have enough strength within us, as long as we have enough support around us."

By: Pat Meierhenry

I have so appreciated the messages and prayers from friends through this whole ordeal. Sometimes, this, on top of losing Mike, seems more than we can bear. While the whole world seems to have gone crazy this year, with a virus, and protests, and riots, and looting, our own grief is very private.

As a mother, you want to make things right for your kids! And especially when I feel this whole mess could have been prevented, I want to fight someone!

But we don't get to choose what life hands us, and this is an especially hard, bitter pill to swallow.

Putting things in perspective, even though I'm disappointed that we won't be watching Husker football or volleyball this fall, it's a minor blip for me. I have to read the news releases and tell myself they are talking about a man I have known his whole life, one who has always been straight with me, one who has been a partner to my daughter in raising three good kids, and one who really does not deserve this. But I also know he has taken responsibility for it from the day he first discovered what was going on.

Please continue the prayers, we will be needing them!

Husker Harvest Days: Nebraska Extension exhibits to cultivate new opportunities for producers

Husker Harvest Days along with Nebraska Extension invites Nebraskans to participate in the Farm Progress Virtual Experience Sept. 15-17, where usual best of show exhibitors will merge into a powerhouse virtual experience.

"Creating a virtual farm show that has value to farmers and out exhibitors is important to all of us," said Matt Jungmann, National Events Director for Farm Progress. "An important focus for the virtual event is that the field demonstration are captured on the show sites. Where the machine would have run if the show had gone on."

"Knowledge that Helps Cultivate Opportunities," is the theme of Nebraska Extension's program this year and will highlight topics in the areas of:

- Reproduction and nutrition strategies in cattle, presented by UNL Beef Systems;

- Soil health management practices, presented by the Cover Crop/Soil Health Team;
- Water management decisions,

presented by the Irrigation and Water Utilization Team

- Utilizing agriculture technologies on farms to improve productivity, profitability, and sustainability, presented by the Precision Agriculture Team

- Pest management and pesticide application practices, presented by the Pest Management Team

- Farm financials education and analysis for successful operations, presented by the Department of Agricultural Economics

- Environmental impacts, presented by Community Environment

- Mental health for agricultural producers, presented by Rural Wellness

- Developing agricultural leadership, presented by the Nebraska LEAD Program

- Youth programs in college and career success, presented by the Career & College Readiness Team

- Choosing University of Nebraska agriculture education programs, presented by the College of Agricultural Sciences and Natural Resources and the Nebraska College of Technical Agriculture.

"It is the hope of the Nebraska Extension, CASNR, and NCTA Husker Harvest Days teams that the information being provided will help participants increase their knowledge to help cultivate opportunities and to develop strong solutions to the diverse issues that are facing rural Nebraskans," Ronald Seymour, Nebraska Extension Educator.

St. Paul's Ladies Aid gathers in September

Winside St. Paul's Ladies Aid and LWML met on Sept. 2 with six members, one guest and Pastor Engebretsen present.

Pat Janke called the meeting to order and everyone recited the LWML pledge. Pastor Engebretsen gave the devotion on "Where in the World is God," based on Bible verses Luke 13 verses 2 and 3, Romans 8 verse 1. Hymns "Now Thank we all our God," "We Praise you and Acknowledge You O God," and "I am but a Stranger Here" were sung. Pastor Engebretsen closed his devotions by singing The Lord's Prayer

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given. Mites was collected.

Lorraine Prince read communications from our seminary students, Aaron Wendorff and Jordan Schut.

DeLana Marotz gave a report on visiting the shut ins. Daisy Janke will visit in September.

Committees: The Anna group reported on serving Bev Voss's funeral. The Mary Group will host the Wayne Zone Fall Rally on Tuesday, Oct. 20 and the Esther group will serve the Pastor's conference on Monday, Nov. 2.

In October the Aid will honor departed members Gertrude Vahlkamp and Bev Voss with a memorial service.

The nominating committee for the President's and Treasurer's positions will be Janice Mundil, Daisy Janke and Lorraine Prince.

The birthday song was sung for Erna Hoffman. A birthday card was sent to Keri Dangberg. Get well cards were sent to Dawn Peter and Harlin Brugger and a thinking of you card sent to Marilyn Brockman.

The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer and Table Prayer.

Anniversary cake and ice cream was served for lunch since it was the Ladies Aid's 90th Anniversary.

The next meeting will be Wednesday, Oct. 7 with Claire Brogren serving.

ACS Innovation Series | Virtual Event

Like many events in 2020, Central Valley Ag's ACS Innovation Series looked a little different this August. Each year these events are open to anybody interested in learning about the research and development driven by CVA agronomists at these plots. However, this year to create a safe environment for attendees, a stricter schedule was developed. Various time-slots and start times at each location helped lessen the crowd at the event and kept growers and employees at a safe social distance.

VIRTUAL EVENT

An even safer way for producers to learn what CVA has been up to this growing season has been developed. A Virtual Event allows growers to view videos on the variety of topics discussed at the event, review data sheets associated with the findings, and plot playbooks mapping everything in detail. We thought with COVID constantly changing the regulations of events throughout the year, that we better provide an entirely online event for producers. Research and development doesn't just stop because of COVID. The growing season continues, nobody knows that more than our farmers. Continuing to collect the data, share our findings, and provide our customers with the best recommendations is our top priority. The virtual event was just another way we could help share our findings with growers.

ORGANIC SITE

This year, CVA hosted its first Organic ACS Innovation Event in Marquette, Nebraska. We all have had the opportunity to extend our knowledge through our Organic Innovation site this summer. Seriously, who would think that we would be testing 12 different fertility treatments for organic corn? The information gathered at the organic site is available to view on the virtual event site alongside the conventional site information.

Attend the ACS Innovation Series virtual event by visiting, www.cvacoop.com.
