Wayne County Republican Convention scheduled

The Republican Party of Wayne County Nebraska will hold its 2022 County Convention in person on Thursday, April 7 at 7 p.m. at Wayne County Courthouse Courtroom, located at 510 Pearl Street in Wayne. Elevator access to the courtroom is available.

The purpose of the Convention is to (a) establish representation in all ten (10) voting precincts within Wayne County, at least one registered Republican male voter and one registered Republican female voter per voting precinct; (b) election of county party officers; (c) election of delegates and alternates to the Nebraska State GOP Convention; and (d) updates to the County Constitution.

Establishment of representation in all voting precincts in Wayne County would be known as the County Central Committee (CCC) having the ability to coordinate events in the county and be the governing board between County Conventions. The County Party has four elected officers; namely, Chairman, Vice Chairman, Treasurer and Secretary and would be members of the County Central Committee. Thus, the CCC would have 24 registered Wayne County Republicans voters. County Conventions are held each even-numbered year within the County.

The Convention is open to all registered Republican voters in Wayne County. Should you be unable to attend the Convention but would like to keep informed, please send your name, address, phone number and email address to bneel-2022waynecogop@gmail.com.

The group will use your information solely for the purpose of the County Party. They are also looking at holding a monthly meeting and if you have a preference of a certain day of the week, please let us know. We are thinking perhaps a Saturday morning would work best but that could change depending on the response we receive.

Wayne County is in Congressional District 3 with representation of Congressman Adrian Smith. Since the 2020 US Census, redistricting has occurred across the state and within Congressional District 3. The Republican Party of Wayne County Nebraska is now in CD316. along with Dakota and Dixon counties. Wayne County had previously been in CD307. The three counties would have representation at the State Central Committee. For advance planning, the Nebraska State GOP Convention will be held in Kearney July 8 - 9, 2022, at the Younes Conference Center South, 416 West Talmadge Street. Kearney Neb. 68845. Senator breaks down budget bill

This week the Legislature spent the majority of the week debating how to use the American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funds granted to the state of Nebraska from the federal government as part of the Covid stimulus package. The American Rescue Plan granted $1.04 billion to the State of Nebraska for spending needs, which is more than 25% of the state's annual general fund budget. Advanced The Legislature gave first-round approval on March 22 to the last of three main bills comprising the Appropriations Committee's midbiennium budget adjustment package. The state budget is structured on a two-year basis, with the budget enacted during legislative sessions held in odd-numbered years. Adjustments are made during sessions held in even-numbered years. The mainline budget bill and another measure that would authorize and provide certain fund transfers, create funds and change and eliminate provisions regarding a fund were advanced last week after successful cloture votes. LB1013, introduced by Speaker Mike Hilgers of Lincoln at the request of Governor Ricketts, would change provisions relating to the state's Cash Reserve Fund, also known as the rainy-day fund. Gering Senator John Stinner, chairperson of the Appropriations Committee, said the cash reserve "dual purpose" for Nebraska. Guerin has won many different ribbons at the shows that he has competed at.

Local business owner wins big at competition

By Morgan Cardenas editor@wayneherald.com

Dawn Jacobson has been a dog groomer for 35 years and owns Canine Design. Her business has been open for almost 11 years now but she also enjoys competing with her dogs in shows.

Recently, Jacobson competed in a five day conformation show with her Glen of Imaal Terrier, Guerin, in Kansas City, Missouri. A conformation show is where dogs are measured by how closely they conform to the standard of their particular breed. The dogs are meant to know how to stack, which means to stand correctly, and must be breed standard in proportion so they move correctly, showing they are a good specimen of what the breed is supposed to be.

"There's a lot of waiting because you're only in the show ring for two minutes," Jacobson said. "Depending on how many dogs are in the showing of your breed, it could be just six minutes that you're showing that day or it could be longer depending on if the breed is bigger that is showing."

Jacobson explained that at shows, you rent a spot at the show to set up your table with a chair and the dogs stay in their crates until it's their turn. She normally arrives for shows at 8 a.m. or earlier. She said that sometimes, depending on what you are competing in, you could be there until around 7 p.m. Groups are the last ones to show in the competition

"He's been invited to the UKC (United Kennel Club) National Championship in June in Kalamazoo and we're working on the National AKC (American Kennel Club) Championship in Orlando in December to get invited

Before Guerin, Jacobson was showing a different Glen named Marissa. Marissa had an accident where she lost an eye but was still able to compete. She retired after winning her championship. Jacobson is also starting to show a couple of puppies, one is another Glen and the other is an Irish Red and White Setter. Jacobson has competed in shows off and on for around 25 years now.

"I do it for fun," Jacobson said. "It's a hobby - a very expensive hobby. It's just me and my dog but it's all just for fun."

Jacobson and Guerin will be competing in a show in Wisconsin this week and have many more planned for the rest of this year.

Consumer Challenge for 4-Hers held in Norfolk

On March 17, a total of 18 4-Hers representing the counties of Cedar, Knox, Madison, Pierce and Wayne participated in the 4-H Consumer Challenge at the Sunset Plaza Mall in Norfolk.

The 4-Hers were able to choose two challenges to test their consumer skills. They worked in groups of two, each group picked two challenges to investigate. Teams were then allowed to go to stores in the mall and decide what they would possibly purchase for each challenge.

The four challenges that they could pick from included: Design Decision, purchasing accessories for a bedroom; Shopping in Style/Attention Shoppers, purchasing a Spring outfit; Child Development, putting together items for a Babysitting Kit for a preschooler; and Youth in Motion, providing a healthy snack and physical activity for their club members during a community service project.

The actual items were not purchased, but 4-Hers investigated and explored choices that they would possibly purchase for each situation and shared their findings with Extension staff. The staff then provided them with written comments.

The event is organized by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension in Wayne County.

economy by virtue of volunteer services. Volunteering also helps various service organizations by cutting down costs of operations and making services available to a larger audience. When youth volunteer, the larger community also benefits. Volunteerism promotes positive citizenship among youth by encouraging them to be more engaged in their own communities. Youth who volunteer feel more connected to their community, are more likely to show concern, and to stay in or return to their communities. Youth volunteerism contributes substantially to community vitality. While volunteerism is focused on helping others, perhaps the biggest benefits to volunteering are reaped by the volunteers themselves. Studies suggest that youth volunteerism contributes to identity development, enhancement of skills, including marketability, increase selfesteem, development of empathy for others and improvements related to positive youth development. Volunteer endeavors also facilitate the development of significant relationships. Through these activities, you are able to meet like-minded individuals, as well as a possible range of people they would otherwise not encounter.

ACME Club learns about Carhenge

dent Bonnadell Koch called the meeting to order with all available members present. Betty Wittig presented the "thought for the day" as follows: That sad moment when you realize your childhood is over." Minutes were read and approved. Mary Lou Erxleben gave the financial report and it was filed for audit. There was no old business. Correspondence was presented. New business presented and discussion included plans for the April 4 Guest Day. Following the meeting, Virginia

Backstrom treated the members to snacks and presented information on Carhenge and the Car Art Reserve located along Highway 87 near Alliance. Carhenge was created as part of a family reunion project to honor Jim Reinders, the patriarch of the family. The family spent the days of the reunion placing the original 25 cars onto a plot of land to resemble the English Stonehenge created many centuries ago. The cars are partially buried into the ground and placed atop others to create this centuries' old look. All were painted a flat gray during this 6-day event held by the family in June of 1987.

Since that time, there have been more artistic additions. In 2006 a visitor center was constructed that is

On March 7, ACME Club Presi- open from May through September. A poem was written onto a display and is titled The FOURD Sea-

> "Here lies three bones Of foreign cars. They served their purpose While Detroit slept. Now Detroit is awake and America's great!"

This poem was written next to four vehicles planted into the ground and painted in the colors of Spring, Summer, Fall, and Winter. Two of these vehicles are painted white; and I'll let you figure out which two vehicles are painted in Cars in the Carhenge display include vehicles from the 50's, 60's, and 70's. There is also an "Auto Graph Car" that has been autographed in the style of street and train painting. Since that car, originally painted white and standing on end, was added to the site others have tried to add their autographs, as well.

Visitors will find an outdoor bench made from the end gate of a pickup and painted in bright colors. You may surely find other fun sites and places for the kids to play when you stop along the highway to enjoy Carhenge. Phone ahead to (308) 762-3569 for more information and to find out what other celebrations may be happening when you make your visit.

God is always at work in our lives

This week I was reminded of a quote attributed to theologian Fredrick Buechner "Here is the world. Beautiful and terrible things will happen. Don't be afraid."

Our human experience is always a pendulum, between good and bad, beautiful, and terrible. Often not an either/or, but sometimes a both/ and, occasionally on the same day! Beautiful and terrible things are happening in our world ALL the

Amid the news of events such as war, natural disasters, disease, violence, discord, and the pandemic, it can feel like we are bombarded with terrible news. We may want to cover our eyes and ears, so we don't have to see or hear any more.

I heard the expression once that sometimes when we feel we've been buried, we've instead been planted, and God is at work growing something new. Beauty and joy can come from dark places. Think of all those spring bulbs just waiting to emerge. Look to the sunrise which follows the darkness of night and see that our Triune God is at work offering the assurance that we are not alone, and beauty can be found around us. The words of Psalm 46:1-3 offer comfort and assurance in challenging days: God is our refuge and strength, an ever-present help in trouble. Therefore, we will not fear, though the earth gives way and the mountains fall into the heart of the sea, though its waters roar and foam and the mountains quake with

Even in dark days we need to try to minimize the suffering and pain of others, to show love to our neighbors as Christ taught. Since the early days of the Ukrainian war, I've been struck by Ukrainian mu-

Americans can also offer financial support for humanitarian aid. When you give be sure to donate through trusted agencies such as your church or a well-known international organization. bad things happen and neither can we. Sometimes misfortune is of our own making by our poor choices, sometimes people are in the wrong place at the wrong time. Sometimes terrible things like violence and war are the result of human sin, manifest in trying to take, hold power or control others. No matter the source of terrible things. God understands our suffering and is with us. God has promised to redeem all things, suffering and injustice do not have the last word in our lives and world.

Read Luke 13:1-6 and you will see that Jesus used the news of his day, as we can the news of our day, to remind us that life is a gift, that God wants to be in relationship with each of us. None of us know the number of our days, how or when they will end, but we do know life is not to be squandered but rather spent in relationship one another and with our Triune God, an everpresent help in beautiful or terrible

Choose behaviors that reduce cancer risk

Cancer is a broad term which encompasses many different diseases, and each type of cancer has different patterns and tendencies. But at its core, cancer means a group of cells which is growing uncontrollably, due to one or multiple genetic ations; "but we are still the same group of Bible believers who prefer a traditional worship service of hymns, and direct Bible teaching. We enjoy Christian fellowship, prayer and the occasional potluck." Early in 2021 the congregation began looking for a new facility that would be ADA accessible after concluding that those changes would not be possible at the Main Street location. The group reached out to an available building for leasing options and started the process of sorting through the building contents. They explored the option of selling the stained glass windows and 110 year old wood work through auction.

God took the plans and turned them around to serve His purpose. He provided a buyer for the Main Street property, a lease agreement to a facility with no steps and a modified auction plan.

The ministry is simple — preaching and teaching the Word of God to people looking for a relationship with Jesus Christ and securing their eter-

Winside American Legion Auxiliary to meet

Roy Reed Unit 252, American Legion Auxiliary in Winside will meet on Saturday, April 2 at 10:15 a.m. at the Winside Legion Post. The Unit needs to have its annual report into Lincoln by April 20 so members are asked to have their information at the meeting or email to Beverly or Laura by April 13. Memorial Day is fast approaching and the Unit will be creating its five-poppy wreaths for seven area cemeteries around Winside. Members are being encouraged to come a bit early so the work can get done on Saturday.

Attendees are asked to bring suggestions for the Memorial Day dinner. Volunteers are needed for Poppy Day, Saturday, May 28 from 9 a.m. to noon at Wayne locations: Bomgaars, Pac N Save, ACE Hardware, Quality Foods, downtown and a Poppy display at Kinship Pointe. Anyone who wants to join in this is asked to show up at one of these locations and there is always room for more volunteers. Displays will be set out in Winside at Wayne County Bank, Co-op Store and Co-

Everyone is invited to wear a Memorial Poppy over the Memorial Day weekend, May 27 - 30 to honor our veterans and remember those who have worn the uniform of the United States Armed Forces. We especially remember those who gave their all - their lives for our freedoms. Freewill donations are accepted at all locations.

Proceeds from the annual Poppy Day are used in service to Veterans. No funds are kept by the Unit. The Unit is allowed to recover the cost of the Memorial Poppy though. The Unit ordered 2.000 small Memorial Poppies this year to meet our needs of making our 5-poppy wreaths and to have extra for the general public to wear one. We sincerely appreciate all the support we receive to this program. The Unit also plans to participate in the Color Guard for the Fourth of July parade in July. Again, volunteers are welcome. aThe group has also distributed the Memorial Poppy to parade spectators. Donations are accepted there as well.

can be hard to separate fact from fiction. Truthfully, many cancers occur at random, and even modern science does not yield any clues as to how to prevent such cancers. Supplements and products marketed as "cancer prevention" do not have sound medical data, and I would advise skepticism of any product purporting to "cleanse" or 'detox.'

However, there are environmental factors that increase the risk of many cancers. Let's focus on those. Smoking increases the risk of cancer - not just lung, but also bladder, kidney, cervical, and numerous other types of malignant tumors. Additionally, chewing tobacco significantly increases the risk of head and neck cancers. Quitting tobacco is the most impactful lifestyle change one can make to reduce their lifetime cancer risk.

Sun protection is essential for reducing the risk of most skin cancers, including melanoma and the more common basal or squamous cell cancers. Experts recommend sun avoidance, protective clothing, and use of sunscreen with SPF 30 or greater when out in the sun.

Human papilloma virus is a common virus which increases risk of cervical, penile, and many head and neck cancers. We have highly effective vaccines which can prevent this cancer-causing virus. The first vaccine is recommended at age 11 or 12, as it is most effective when administered in adolescence; but the vaccines are now FDA approved up to age 45.

Other components of a healthy lifestyle including a healthy diet, exercise, and lowering alcohol intake, can also reduce your lifetime

Most importantly, have a yearly conversation with your primary care provider about age-appropriate cancer screening. In rare cases, a strong family history of cancer may warrant genetic counseling, as some inherited abnormalities merit more aggressive cancer screening. Thus, providing a thorough family history to your care provider is crucial too.

In summary, though many cancers appear out of sheer bad luck, there are many things one can do to reduce overall risk of cancer. None of those things include spending money on products touted as "antioxidant," "detoxifying," or "cleansing." So, my advice: save your money and focus on the data-driven recommendations.

LENRD board votes not to study a bypass channel for Battle Creek sources District (LENRD) is currently working with the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) and JEO Consulting Group (JEO) to complete a study of the Battle Creek Watershed.

At their March meeting, the LENRD board members discussed whether to sign an additional contract with JEO to further study a diversion channel to protect the City of Battle Creek. The diversion channel was being revisited to give the board members more information about this alternative.

"It comes down to, what is this board comfortable with spending. No matter which way you go, there will be tough decisions and people's lives are going to be affected," said Mike Sousek, LENRD general manager. He continued, "We have al-

He added, "This project offers an opportunity to stay ahead of potential future problems by joining together and pooling resources. By continuing with this agreement, we hope to avoid the pitfalls of overdevelopment and improper management as well as provide lasting benefits to our mutual economic and environmental interests.

The Interlocal Cooperative Agreement for the Lower Platte River Basin Water Management Coalition was also accepted by the board. The seven NRDs in the Lower Platte Basin along with the Nebraska Department of Natural Resources have Bruckner said. "The plan focuses on water use policies and practices that contribute to the protection of existing surface water and groundwater uses while allowing for future water development. Sharing stories of special women in history

Somewhere, in a newspaper or magazine, I read something to the effect that March is National Women's Month. What?

I wondered when that happened, so, of course, it's to the computer and Wikipedia for some answers. Well, it turns out it's National Women's History Month. Oh, okay. It's sponsored by the National Women's History Alliance and their website is a fountain of information. All of it's pretty interesting. Of course, there is quite a lot

Today, there is a group of nurses calling themselves the Nebraska Nurse Honor Guard. They dress in whites, with caps and capes, and carry a Nightingale lamp. They honored Anita Brenneman at her service a few months ago, and folks had no idea the lamps they carried had any significance. Well, it doesn't look like the lamp Florence used, but we all received one of these little white candle holders at our capping ceremony.

Thinking of strong women in my own life is easy; it starts with my Mom. She was a farm wife to begin with, and she really never stopped gardening and canning and baking. But she worked outside the home for much of my life, and still always kept house, and quilted, and crocheted, and embroidered.

She soon had a stack of pictures, but she's been telling our stories ever since. Only problem is, most of these stories don't end up being in history books. They are only in our family tales, and it's up to us to pass them down. Some have made it into Successful Farming, but I know for a fact there are lots more of them immortalized in cook books!

And that's okay. I don't even care if we are part of Women's History Month. I just want my kids to hear the stories of wringer washing machines, and new born calves behind the cook stove, and pumping water, and using the two holer.

And I'll keep telling them, you can count on it. I don't care if they do think that was in the Dark Ages. When you really think about it in the context of history, it was not

Legumes, disease resistant alfalfa discussed

Warm weather should get you looking forward to spring. I'm sure one thing you won't look forward to, though, is paying for nitrogen fertilizer on your pastures.

Avoid this expense by adding legumes to your grazing land. Five years of grazing research in eastern Nebraska showed that brome/ legume pastures produced almost four-tenths of a pound higher average daily gain on yearlings than did straight brome pastures fertilized with 50 pounds of nitrogen.

That may not sound like a lot to you, but that much faster gain for the full season produced an extra fifty-one pounds of beef per acre, with no nitrogen fertilizer. Adding the value of heavier yearlings plus reduced fertilizer expenses can result in nice amount of profit, espe-
