Future projects discussed during council retreat

By Clara Osten,
clara@wayneherald.com

Updates on several items and future projects for the city of Wayne were discussed during a council retreat on May 31.

The meeting began with Casey Junck, Water/Wastewater Superintendent, updating the council on the work of his department.

He told the council that his department includes five full-time employees.

During the last year, the city pumped 293,626,000 gallons of water. This number was considerably higher than the previous year, in part due to the fact the city had to flush the water system several times in an attempt to get good water samples from the new transmission line.

Junck also talked about the possibility of purchasing chlorine in bulk if the city chooses to continue to chlorinate the water in the future. He presented some preliminary cost estimates for doing so and explained what work would need to be done.

Another item Junck discussed during the retreat was private sewers in the city.

He listed a number of areas within the city that are serviced by private sewers and said that he doesn't know when these were installed and said most of the homeowners affected are unaware of this.

"I would rather deal with these situations ahead of time, rather than when there is an emergency," Junck said.

Council members said that a decision will need to be made on how to deal costs of making the necessary changes.

Considerable time was spent during the retreat on the topic of sidewalks, extension of sidewalks in certain areas and possible changes in the city's trail system.

One of the areas under discussion is along the north side of Highway 35 from Greenwood Cemetery to Pheasant Run. It was noted that many people walk along the highway to get to the businesses on the west side of Wayne.

Several other areas in the city were also discussed as possible locations for sidewalks.

Discussion centered on how to go about determining the best location for the sidewalks, how to cover the costs and plans moving forward.

The council directed city staff to get an engineer's estimate and determine whether the project could be paid for with a Public Works Grant.

City Administrator Wes Blecke updated the council on the results of the recent election in regard to sales tax issues.

The retreat concluded with each of the council members listing future priorities and projects they felt were important.

Among those was the future of the current City Hall. A number of possibilities were discussed and additional input will be gathered.

The Wayne City Council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, June 7 at 5:30 p.m.

Gov. Ricketts, First Lady debut 2023 Nebraska license plate design

Governor Pete Ricketts and First Lady Susanne Shore revealed the design of the next general issue Nebraska license plate. The design is a mosaic pattern depicting the Genius of Creative Energy and is based on artwork inside the Nebraska Capitol Building.

The original "Genius of Creative Energy" mosaic kicks off a series of mosaics around the Nebraska Capitol, all working together to relate the State's history to the ideals of Western Civilization.

Designed by world-renowned artist Hildreth Meiere in 1927, the Genius brandishes a lightning bolt in his right hand and is propelled across the sky by harnessing the power of the four elements.

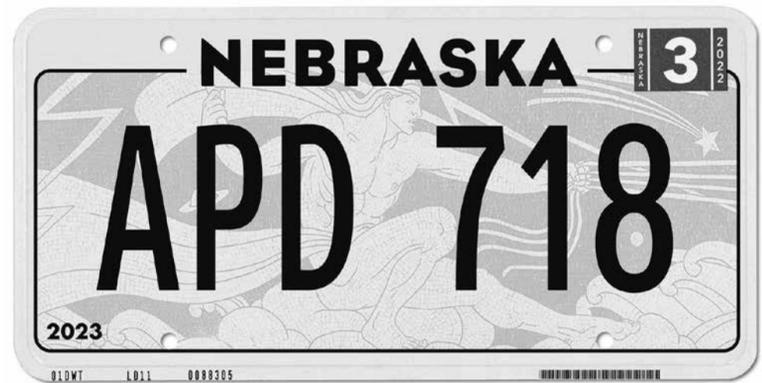

The license plate design pays homage to this Genius and all the mosaics in the Nebraska Capitol depicting Nebraskans' shared story. It was designed by Nebraska-based brand and design consultant Drew Davies. "I'm deeply honored to have the opportunity to design a license plate celebrating the creative energy of all Nebraskans," Davies shared.

"I want to thank the countless Nebraskans who have come to us with ideas and feedback over the years," said First Lady Susanne Shore. "Ultimately, we found a design that every Nebraskan can relate to. I especially want to thank Drew for unleashing his creative genius to depict our state's own."

More information on the artwork in the Nebraska Capitol can be found: www.hildrethmeiere.org/commissions/nebraska-state-capitol-foyer-floor. During the announcement, the First Lady also shared plans to release video footage showcasing the mosaics around the Capitol. The videos are expected to be released in conjunction with the new license plates.

A new license plate is designed and implemented every six years, as is required by Nebraska law. Production of the plates is underway, with distribution to begin in January 2023. Owners of vehicles with a standard issue license plate will receive new plates from their county treasurer in the month the vehicle registration expires. This currently amounts to approximately 1.3 million vehicles statewide.

Ruby Kinzie (right) was the recipient of the first Wayne County Democratic Party Scholarship. Making the presentation was Karen Granberg, secretary of the party.

Wayne County Democratic Party presents scholarship

Ruby Kinzie has been awarded the first annual Wayne County Democratic Party (WCDP) scholarship for the academic year 2022-23.

Ruby is the daughter of Logan and Kris Kinzie of Wayne. She has been accepted into the Honors Program at University of Nebraska, Lincoln, where she plans to attend this fall.

The Wayne County Democratic Party scholarship fund was established this year by a member of the WCDP, for the purpose of supporting and encouraging the political involvement of young people in Wayne County.

The WCDP application requires an essay by the applicant that describes the applicant's political activity within the community. Essay readers are chosen from the community and rate the essays on communication skills strength, authenticity and experience.

"Congratulations, Ruby, and best wishes to the Wayne High School, Winside High School, and Wakefield High School Classes of 2022," said Karen Granberg, who presented the scholarship during the recent Honors Night at Wayne High School.

A letter to Nebraska's graduates

Dear College Graduates, Congratulations! You did it! You persevered through a once-in-a-century pandemic to earn your degree. Your disciplined study and hard work have paid off. You've put yourself in a great position to move toward your dreams. It's an exciting moment.

As you consider your next step, I encourage you to put down roots in the Good Life. We want you here in Nebraska. Our state has a lot to offer: great-paying jobs, family-friendly communities, and an unparalleled quality of life.

There are plenty of great-paying jobs being created in communities all across the state. Over the past 18 months, we've seen major investments from 3M in Valley, AGP in David City, Becton Dickinson in Holdrege, Kawasaki in Lincoln, Novozymes in Blair, Nucor in Norfolk, Monolith Materials in Hallam, Preferred Popcorn in Waco, Scoular in Seward, and more. At 1.9%, Nebraska currently has the lowest unemployment rate of any state, at any point in history! There's never been a better time to be a graduate looking to start a career in Nebraska.

As established businesses grow in Nebraska, startups are also thriving. Investors are looking to support young entrepreneurs. For example, Burlington Capital and Invest Nebraska announced a partnership in September to raise $11 million in seed funds for ag tech innovators. Companies in Nebraska brought in more venture capital in 2021 than in any previous year.

In addition to having abundant career opportunities, Nebraska is a great place to raise a family. There's a reason why we have the fourth-highest birth rate in the nation. We have good schools, excellent entertainment for kids such as our world-class zoos and children's museums, and safe and supportive communities.

It's not just my opinion that we have a kid-friendly state. Nebraska has received national recognition for our children's well-being. Our work to improve child welfare was recognized with the Jim Casey Building Communities of Hope Award in January 2020. In 2021, Nebraska ranked #7 out of 50 states for child well-being according to the Casey Foundation. Compared to the national average, kids in Nebraska are more likely to be proficient in reading and math, more likely to be physically fit, and more likely to enjoy economic well-being.

Gov. Pete Ricketts

While a great place to work and raise a family, Nebraska also has a wonderful quality of life. We have some of the best turkey, water fowl, and deer hunting anywhere in America. With nearly 80,000 miles of rivers and streams, Nebraskans have abundant opportunities to fish. The sandy beaches of Lake McConaughy and the Calamus Reservoir are attractive destinations to soak up the sun or take a swim. This year, we passed major legislation to enhance water recreation in Nebraska. We're constructing a new marina at Lake McConaughy, significantly expanding the marina at Lewis and Clark Lake, and creating a 3,600-acre reservoir between Lincoln and Omaha.

Nebraska also boasts one of the best college sports scenes in the nation. Omaha is home to the College World Series, will have the NCAA volleyball Final Four in 2022, and regularly hosts the Olympic Swim Trials. Nebraska Cornhuskers, Creighton Bluejays, UNK Lopers, and Omaha Mavericks athletics are all big draws.

With these abundant options for recreation and entertainment, it's no wonder Nebraska ranks as the #6 state in the nation for work-life balance. In fact, SmartAsset lists both Lincoln and Omaha among the top ten cities in America for work-life balance. While Nebraskans work hard, we prioritize spending time with our family and friends. We enjoy the Good Life together—at county fairs, small town festivals, holiday parades, church picnics, and backyard barbecues.

Nebraska has welcoming communities where neighbors are quick to lend a hand. We've seen this through floods, wildfires, and a global pandemic. Nebraskans give generously to those in need. We volunteer our time and talents to strengthen our communities. It's ingrained in us to take care of one another through thick and thin.

The pandemic has reinforced the attractiveness of our way of life here in Nebraska. We didn't shut down our state due to the coronavirus. As a result, Nebraskans were able to continue spending time with loved ones and engaging in their communities. People want and need that social connection. In Nebraska, we made it a priority throughout the pandemic.

We've also made ongoing investments in public safety in Nebraska. Over the past year, we've seen people flee states that have neglected public safety and move to states that respect law and order. Here in Nebraska, we support our law enforcement 100%, and we're fully committed to public safety.

I sincerely believe that Nebraska is the best place in the world to live, work, and raise a family. I hope you'll choose the Good Life as you begin your career and start your family. The State has created a website to highlight the many things that make our state great—from our affordable homes to high-quality natural environment. I invite you to visit it at TheGoodLifelsCalling.com.

If you want to learn more about what Nebraska has to offer graduates, email me at pete.ricketts@nebraska.gov or call 402-471-2244.

Once again, congratulations on your graduation! May God bless your future plans. I'm hopeful they'll lead you to one of the many wonderful communities here in Nebraska!

History lesson

Last week's Chamber Coffee was hosted by the Greenwood Cemetery Association. It included a demonstration by Marta Nelson (above) of newly acquired software. (below) Amy Bowers welcomed those in attendance at the coffee and talked about the history of the cemetery, upcoming projects planned at the cemetery and the ongoing capital campaign.

Capitol View

Counting colors, election speculation has begun

Commentary by J.L. Schmidt
Statehouse Correspondent
Nebraska Press Association

"How do Democrats get elected in Nebraska? When Republicans are divided."

That's the opening line of a fundraising letter from Nebraska Republican Party State Chairman Dan Welch.

"In fact, disagreements between Republicans helped launch the careers of Bob Kerrey in 1982 and Ben Nelson in 1990. Both served as Governor and went on to cast decisive votes to further Democrat policies in the United States Senate," Welch continued.

Republican incumbent Charles Thone lost to Kerrey after surviving a primary race against four competitors including: former North Platte Mayor Robert Phares; Millionaire Kimball oilman Stan Juelfs; former Nebraska Wesleyan President Vance Rogers of Lincoln and locomotive engineer Richard Hedrick of Waverly.

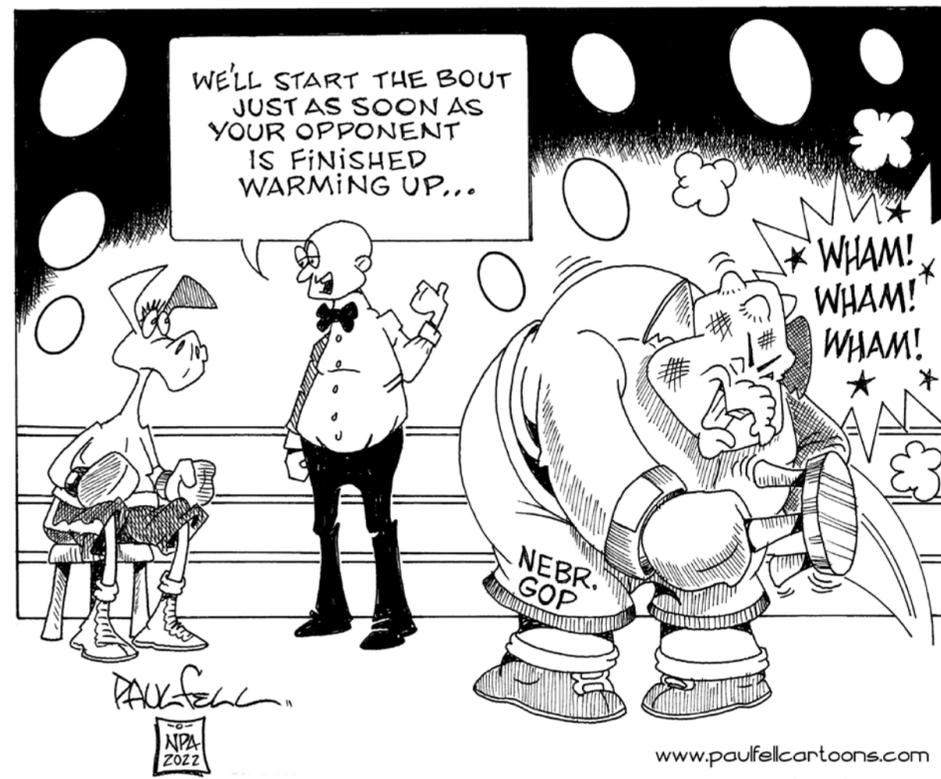

Republican incumbent Kay Orr lost to Nelson after giving away the farm to then Omaha-based ConAgra, which had threatened to leave the state without the passage of a massive tax support measure (LB775). The measure passed but Orr couldn't overcome the negative backlash and was handily defeated by Nelson.

Welch didn't mention Jim Exon who defeated Republican incumbent Norbert Tiemann after he was forced to implement a new state sales and income tax to provide the money to run state government. Voters had eliminated the tax system in the same election that put the Wausa banker in office. He admitted he had to do the unpopular thing that cost him his political future.

Exon served as Governor from 1971 to 1979 and was elected U.S. Senator from 1979 to 1997. The Democrat Exon never lost an election. He is the only Nebraskan other than George W. Norris, the architect of Nebraska's unicameral legislature, to win five consecutive statewide elections.

But enough history, albeit important. What about today when we talk red vs. blue instead of Republican vs. Democrat?

Following Nebraska's recent messy Republican primary, unofficial tallies from the Secretary of State's Office show Republican candidates leading in two legislative districts now held by Democrats, while a Democrat leads in one district held by a Republican. If that holds through the general election, Republicans will have 33 seats in the 49-member Legislature, most likely making debates filibuster-proof and enough to push through controversial bills.

Nebraska Democratic Party chair Jane Kleeb said she's confident of keeping all 17 seats currently held by Democrats and possibly adding one or two.

"There's lots of potential of red to blue," she said. "I'm not worried that we're going to lose any seats."

Nebraska Republican Party Executive Director Taylor Gage is equally bullish about the GOP's showing in the primary and optimistic about the general election.

"Obviously we started off in a really strong position," he said. "We're going to pick up seats in November."

The Nebraska Legislature is non-partisan, meaning that candidates appear on the ballot without party labels and political parties play no official role in the legislative process. But increasingly the parties and the incumbent governor do get involved in elections and, within the Legislature, votes on some high-profile issues split along generally partisan lines.

Kleeb said the heated Republican gubernatorial primary brought out more Republican voters than Democrats for the primary. That inflated totals for Republican candidates in the primary but is unlikely to be repeated in November. In both Douglas and Lancaster counties, the number of Republican ballots cast equaled about 43% of that party's registrations, while the number of Democratic ballots cast was closer to 30% of party registrations.

In addition, national interest in two Nebraska congressional races will likely focus on getting more Democrats to vote. The Omaha-area race pitting Democrat State Sen. Tony Vargus against the GOP incumbent, Rep. Don Bacon, has the potential to flip a seat. Likewise, Democrats will also focus on getting term-limited Democratic State Senator Patty Pansing-

Brooks elected to the Congressional seat recently held by Republican Jeff Fortenberry who resigned after being convicted of campaign finance violations.

"Progressive issues on the ballot help," Kleeb said. Pending the outcome of petition drives, voters may be asked to increase the minimum wage and legalize medical marijuana.

Gage said Republicans have more candidates, including for all the state's top elected positions and 23 of the 24 legislative races. University of Nebraska Regent Jim Pillen, a Republican, squares off against Democrat State Sen. Carol Blood of Bellevue in the governor's race.

Come November, will we be seeing redder or maybe a splash of blue?

Blue Devils finish 12th in Class B State Golf Tournament

By MICHAEL CARNES
For The Herald

SCOTTSBLUFF — Given the chance to do it over again, coach Andi Diediker said he thinks his Wayne High boys golf team would like another shot.

The Blue Devils struggled through the two-day, 36-hole competition at the Nebraska Class B State Boys Golf Championships at Scotts Bluff Country Club, bringing up the rear of the 12-team field with a two-day total of 761.

“We shot two of our higher scores this season, and I think the pressure of playing at state and dealing with some firm and fast greens that we weren’t used to seeing during season, I think if we could do it again we could have shot a few strokes better,” he said.

Wayne got off to a rough start on the first day last Tuesday, carding a 378. They improved by five shots with Wednesday’s round of 373, but were still 29 shots behind McCook

Men’s Golf Tournament draws more than 100

The annual Wayne Men’s Memorial Open golf tournament was held Sunday at Wayne Country Club with more than 100 competing in the different flights. This year’s winner was a first-time champion in the event as Andrew Bauer escaped the 27-hole event with a one shot win over Wayne’s Joey Baldwin. The Brandon, SD resident fired a one-under par 71 through the first 18 holes and followed with a 2-under par 34 over the final nine holes to finish at 105. Baldwin, meanwhile fired an even par 72 through the opening 18 holes and carded a 2-under 34 in the championship round.

Baldwin had one miscue that hurt him during the first round when a shot on hole nine hit a tree and ricocheted out of bounds to the left. He carded a 37 on the front nine with birdies on holes two and six with a bogey on eight and a double on nine with the out of bounds. He recovered nicely on the back with an eagle on the par five 13th and a birdie on the par five 16th with a pair of bogeys on holes 11 and 14 to close out at one-under 35. In the final round he birdied holes two, seven and nine with a lone bogey on hole three.

Bauer had two birdies and a double bogey on his first nine holes of the day for a 36 and then birdied holes 10, 13 and 15 on the back with bogeys on holes 12 and 18. In the championship round he birdied holes two, five and seven and had a bogey on hole one for this 34.

Plainview’s Matt Meuret finished third on the day with a one-under par 107 while Wayne’s RW Eakes tied for fourth place at two over 110 along with WCC’s Brett Koester, Norfolk’s Tommy Swalley and Owen Rickner who graduated from Wayne High School. Jason Peterson of Omaha also tied for fourth place. Wayne’s Doug Rose tied for ninth place at 111 with Nate Koch. Wayne’s Alex Salmon rounded out the field of placers in 11th with a 113.

There were four additional flights of golfers with net scores determining places in each flight. Laurel’s Chad Johnson and Dave Anderson tied for first place honors in the first flight with net scores of 4-under 68 while Bruce Schrage was third at 72 tying with Pender’s Jeff Baker.

Andrew Bauer of Brandon, SD tees off on hole eight during the championship round of the men’s open Sunday at Wayne Country Club. Bauer would go on to shoot 2-under par in the final round and won the annual Memorial Open by one shot.

Wayne’s Rich Rethwisch was fifth at 73. Flight two was won by Laurel’s Jerry Nelson at net 64 with former Wayne native Adam Diediker carding a 66 for second. Jayme Bargholz, also a Wayne native was third with a 68 followed by Nick Nelson and Jeff Bambas with 71’s.

The third flight was captured by Pender’s Brook Darnell with a net score of 10-under par 62. Seth Diediker was second at 63 followed by Dave Beetley at 67. Jason Berg of Osmond was fourth with a 69 and Wayne native Jacob Triggs rounded out the field of placers with a 70.

RW Eakes tees off on hole six during the final round of the Men’s Open on Sunday. The former Senior PGA tour player and part-time Wayne resident tied for fourth place overall with a two-over par 110 with rounds of 38-36-36.

Wayne’s Joey Baldwin takes aim on hole number six and Wayne Country Club during championship golf action on Sunday. Baldwin finished runner-up over the 27-hole format with a two-under par 106 with rounds of 37-35-34.

Tanner Walling finished 18th overall in Class B. This was his second trip to state after qualifying as an individual in 2021.

in the 12-team field. Norris easily won the state title with a two-day total of 598, including an impressive 294 on the final day. Omaha Skutt was second with a 627.

While the team total was disappointing, there were some bright spots in Wayne’s first trip to state since 2009, highlighted by seniors Tanner Walling and Drew Sharpe.

Walling, a state qualifier as an individual a year ago, was in the mix for a top 15 finish, placing 18th overall with a two-day total of 162.

“Tanner’s had a phenomenal season for us,” Diediker said. “He won a number of events this year and had his sights on medaling at state. He was close last year, and there are probably a few that he left out there this year that he could have made up, but he played really well.”

Sharpe came on strong late in the season, saving his best round for when the team really needed it at districts.

“Especially the last month of the year, Drew has really come on,” Diediker said. “He’s has the potential to shoot a low round and at districts he really showed up and had his most complete round of the season. He had a good second day at state and I was pleased with how he ended his season.”

Junior Bo Armstrong had a tough round on the second day, and his coach said he flashed something of a sarcastic smile as he ended his season with a birdie on the final hole Wednesday for a 94.

“He got off to a good start and hit some bumps in the second round, but at least he ended it with a birdie,” he said. “This was his second trip to state and the good thing is he’ll be back next year and hopefully he can improve on this year’s performance.”

The other two seniors on the team, Kyrian Bartos and Camron Weaselhead, shot two-day totals of 232 and 235, respectively, and Diediker praised both of their efforts during the tournament and the season.

“You need to have five and you score four, and they were always there for us this year,” Diediker said. “Kyrian’s score at districts helped get us into the playoff. There were a lot of nerves for both of them that first day, but they each improved the second day and I was pleased to have them on the team this year.”

Armstrong is the only member of this year’s varsity who will be back in 2023, and Diediker said a group of hungry JV players will need to work hard over the summer to earn one of the four spots that will be available on next year’s varsity roster.

“We’ve got a lot of gaps to fill around Bo,” he said. “We have some JV guys who have played some this year, and it’s going to be a challenge to fill those spots. We’ll need people to step up, but we’re looking forward to the challenge.”

Wolfpack comes home 14th from State Golf Tournament

By MICHAEL CARNES
For The Herald

COLUMBUS — It was a tough two days for the Tri County Northeast boys golf team in their first trip to the Nebraska Class C Boys Golf

State Championships.

Battling both the challenging Elks Country Club and the wrath of Mother Nature, the rain-soaked Wolfpack came home in 14th place in the 15-team tournament after shooting a two-day total of 774.

"I feel like we didn't shoot to our potential," coach Scott Hansen said of the team's effort. "The weather was rough and it was a wet, cold and rainy couple of days, but I thought we could have scored a little bit better."

While some of the early golfers were able to tee off in cool and cloudy conditions, by the time the last few golfers hit the links, the showers had started and were a non-stop nuisance for the 96 kids who compete in the two-day tournament last Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Everybody has to play in the same conditions, and I think the combination of that and being at a venue where there were a lot of fans walking around might have played into it, but it was still a great experience for the kids," Hansen said.

Both seniors Nathan Oswald and Garrett Blanke qualified last year as individuals, and both were able to bounce back from rough rounds on Tuesday to improve their showing on Wednesday.

"Nathan teed off late that first day and it started raining shortly after he teed off, and it was just horrible weather to play in," Hansen said. "Garrett was disappointed with his round Tuesday, but he shot much better the second day and shot a 37 on the back nine, so he finished strong for us."

Oswald led the Wolfpack with a 173 for the 36-hole tournament, tying for 30th overall, while Blanke shot a 179. Following them was Ben Jorgensen with a 200, Brody Floyd with a 227 and Ryan Anderson with a 230.

Both Jorgensen and Floyd will be back for the Wolfpack next year, and having the experience of playing at a state tournament will give them something to shoot for again next spring.

"Ben placed third for us at districts and has really improved this year, and Brody is a junior so we'll look to him as a senior leader next year and he just needs to work on being more consistent," Hansen said.

Wayne State brings home two All-Americans from nationals

ALLENDALE, Mich. — Wayne State's track and field teams came home with a pair of All-American honors at the 2022 NCAA Div. II Outdoor Nationals track and field meet.

Mckenzie Scheil and Brooklynn Chipps placed second and third, respectively, in the hammer throw Thursday afternoon to earn All-American honors.

Scheil, a graduate of Fillmore Central High School, scratched on her first two attempts in prelims before recording a mark of 180 feet, 10 inches to qualify eighth for the finals. In the finals, Scheil scratched on her first throw but followed with marks of 187-10 and 195-5 on her final throw to move up to second place.

It's the third time Scheil has collected All-American honors in the hammer throw, placing second last year along with a seventh place finish in 2019. Scheil entered nationals with the top regular season mark of 201-4 at the Wildcat Classic in Wayne on March 25.

Chipps, a junior from Elgin, finished third in the hammer throw with a top heave of 192-11. In the prelims, Chipps scratched two of her three attempts but posted a mark of 186-7 on her second attempt to enter finals with the fifth-best throw. Chipps recorded her top mark of 192-11 on her second attempt in finals after scratching on her first throw. She finished finals with a mark of 182-9 and collects her first All-American honor.

Scheil fouled on all three attempts in the shot put prelims Saturday morning. She was competing in the shot put at the national championships for the second straight season after placing 12th one year ago. She entered this year's nationals ranked 18th in NCAA Div. II in the shot put with a top season mark of 47-5 3/4 at the South Dakota Twilight Meet on May 6.

Wayne State's Cole Christoffersen finished 17th out of 20 competitors Thursday afternoon in the men's hammer throw. The Lyons-Decatur graduate posted a mark of 186-0 on his third and final throw in prelims after fouling on his first two attempts. A mark of at least 197-9 was needed to qualify for finals in the event.

Christoffersen entered nationals ranked 14th in NCAA Div. II with a season-best effort of 200-7 set at the South Dakota Challenge in Vermillion April 21.

Dylan Kneiff finished 12th Friday afternoon in the men's high jump. With the 12th place finish, Kneiff collects second-team All-American honors.

The sophomore from Pilger cleared the opening height of 6-7 1/2 on his third attempt to move onto the next height. He advanced to the next height after clearing 6-9 1/2 on his second attempt, but failed on all three attempts at 6-10 3/4 to be eliminated.

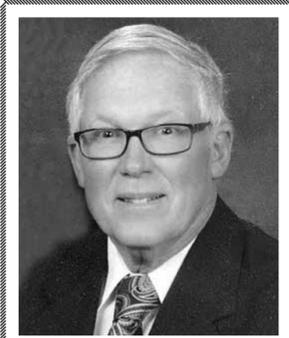

Kneiff entered nationals tied for 10th in NCAA Div. II with a new WSC school record mark of 6-11 1/2 at the NSIC Championships in Aberdeen, S.D., May 14.

Weekend filled with good activities

It's been a good, long weekend for me, and I just have some musings to share this morning.

I spent half an hour in the cemetery south of Waco at St. John's, the church my parents were baptized, confirmed, and married in. Someone had already been there, with tinted roses on both graves. The last names on the large markers were all familiar to me, and this country church always brings back memories.

When I was very young, the men sat on one side and the women and children on the other. When we did the Confession, those who were able actually got up, turned around, and knelt at the pew...no kneelers for us!!

But it was windy out there, and walking in that grass made my poor balance poorer, so I then headed to York and checked in at the B and B where I had a reservation. Also, when I was young, I always admired the beautiful, old, large homes in the eastern part of the city by the college. This time I stayed in one!

Only about fifty of us gather at Chances R anymore; the school

By: Pat Meierhenry

closed in the 70s. But that number has been consistent enough that we will hold it again next year. Mind you, the "reporter" for the class of '52 was pretty feisty for being 88 years old. She informed us the softball team had been unbeaten the whole four years she was in school. She also told us the first volleyball uniforms were blue jeans and yellow T shirts!

A classmate who complained to me of long COVID last year was back in form; she told me not to send emails because she was never home! If I needed to talk to her, I have to call. (or text, we agreed we had to learn to text for our kids!)

We also agreed most of us have symptoms of long COVID much of the time; they are talking about brain fog, fatigue, and muscle aches. So how do we know the difference?

When I arrived home on Sunday, neighbor Caroline brought me the book we are reading for Book Club, The Postmistress, which is another WWII story. This one focuses on the reporting that went on, from London and from France. In fact, last night, I found "Edward R Murrow reporting from London during the Blitz" online.

Since I am also plodding through a book about Secretary of State Stanton, during the Civil War, I am again struck by the changes; they had telegrams and trains; while during WWII, we had radio broadcasts as it happened.

I'm reading the Stanton book because it's written by a fellow named Walter Stahr. I have no idea if we are related, but the tall marker in that country cemetery says Carston Stahr, the name of my great grandfather who came here from Oldenburg. Sometime, after I finish the book, I will attempt to contact Walter and find out where he's from.

Last night, Monday, Sue and Monte brought a Val's pizza and we finished with rhubarb cobbler; a friend from church left some rhubarb on Sunday. We all are happy to have that first cobbler in the spring, and it depends on the generosity of friends.

We also checked out the locations for the cemeteries the Wayne Herald mentioned for Legion honor guards; we found them all except the Swedish. Who knew there were Swedes in that German community? Apparently, it's north of Hoskins, but I don't think I've ever seen it. Hope your weekend was good.

Water, weeds, grass hay discussed

Water Demand on Pasture
By Brad Shick

As the year begins to heat up and cattle are on pasture, it's important to make sure there is adequate water for livestock. How much do cattle need and where should it come from?

The water requirements for cattle depends on their size, class, and environmental conditions. Cattle will receive some of their daily water requirements when they are consuming high moisture feedstuffs such as fresh forages when grazing pastures, silages, or green chopped feeds. Feeds that are high-energy increase the water requirement.

High humidity, greater temperatures, and other environmental factors also increase the water demand. A study by the University of Georgia lists the water requirements for days when the daily high temperature is 90°F. With these conditions, a growing or lactating animal needs two gallons of water per 100 pounds of body weight. This means a 1400 pound, lactating cow will need close to 28 gallons of water daily with 90°F daily highs. If the calves are 250 pounds, they will need about 5 gallons. Some of the water will come from grazed forage and for the calf, some water will come from the milk.

Having fresh, clean water should always be a priority. The ability to have water close by should also be a goal, although sometimes it's simply not possible. More water locations can help meet the water demand and could also help grazing distribution too.

Keep an eye on water this year and make sure livestock have enough.

Spring Spurge Control
By Ben Beckman

Yellow-green patches in a pasture might look pretty for the uninitiated, but the tell-tale bloom of leafy spurge is not a spring sight many of us want to see.

While there are many plants livestock producers may consider pasture weeds, one that is held in particular dislike is leafy spurge. Besides being on the Nebraska noxious weed list and requiring control, this hardy perennial spreads aggressively through seeds and root buds. With an extensive root system that can reach depths up to 15 ft., once established spurge is hard to control.

While biological and cultural control methods may provide some reduction in growth and seed production, those wanting complete control might consider an herbicide treatment as the best option.

Multiple chemicals have action on spurge, however for spring treatments, control at bud or true flower stage is recommended. Early application at the bud stage is limited to 2,4-D ester or a Picloram/2,4-D mix. A later flower stage application opens up or options to Curtail/Cody/Stinger, Streamline, a mix of Sharpen + Plateau or a mix of Overdrive + Tordon.

Unfortunately, a single treatment will not control spurge, so continued monitoring and retreatment is necessary. An effective strategy is pairing spring applications that prevent seed production with a fall treatment to control new growth.

Leafy Spurge can easily take over a pasture, but with vigilance and regular treatment, control can be achieved.

Grass Hay Harvest
By Jerry Volesky

Smooth bromegrass and other cool-season grass hay fields are growing rapidly with seedheads appearing. When do you typically cut your grass hay?

Ideally, cutting your grass hay so the grass nutrient content matches with the nutritional needs of your livestock is best. Now that's a different way to look at it, isn't it? But doesn't it make sense to harvest hay that will meet the specific needs of your livestock and minimize your supplement costs?

Crude protein and energy concentration declines in grass hay as plants become stemmy and mature. As this happens, the types of livestock that can be fed that hay with little or no supplements become more limited.

For Sandhills subirrigated meadows, haying typically starts in early July. However, if harvest occurs around the third week of June, then that hay will have significantly higher crude protein content. Earlier meadow harvest will have lower initial hay yield, but it will also provide a longer regrowth period and extra growth for fall grazing.

So, a good approach is to plan what type of livestock will receive the grass hay from each field. Young livestock need high nutrient concentrations so cut that hay before or just when heads begin to emerge. If the hay will go to mature dry cows instead, let the grass produce a bit more tonnage and cut it after it is well headed out, but before seeds develop.

Matching your hay harvest with your plan of use can pay handsome dividends in lower costs and less supplementing.

Learning the ropes

Students from several of Toni Rasmussen's Ag classes at Wayne High School assisted in planting the plot just north of Wayne this spring. The group extended thanks to the Koenig family and the staff at Grossenburg Implement for assistance with the project.

USDA to allow producers voluntary termination of Conservation Reserve Program contract

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will allow Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) participants who are in the final year of their CRP contract to request voluntary termination of their CRP contract following the end of the primary nesting season for fiscal year 2022.

Participants approved for this one-time, voluntary termination will not have to repay rental payments, a flexibility implemented this year to help mitigate the global food supply challenges caused by the Russian invasion of Ukraine and other factors. Today, USDA also announced additional flexibilities for the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) and Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP).

"Putin's unjustified invasion of Ukraine has cut off a critical source of wheat, corn, barley, oilseeds, and cooking oil, and we've heard from many producers who want to better understand their options to help respond to global food needs," said John Berge, USDA's Farm Service Agency State Executive Director in Nebraska. "This announcement will help producers make informed decisions about land use and conservation options."

FSA is mailing letters to producers with expiring acres that detail this flexibility and share other options, such as re-enrolling sensitive acres in the CRP Continuous sign-up and considering growing organic crops. Producers will be asked to make the request for voluntary termination in writing through their local USDA Service Center.

If approved for voluntary termination, preparations can occur after the conclusion of the primary nesting season. In Nebraska the primary nesting season ends July 15. Producers will then be able to hay, graze, begin land preparation activities and plant a fall-seeded crop before October 1, 2022. For land in colder climates, this flexibility may allow for better establishment of a winter wheat crop or better prepare the land for spring planting.

Organic Considerations
Since CRP land typically does not have a recent history of pesticide or herbicide application, USDA is encouraging producers to consider organic production. USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) provides technical and financial assistance to help producers plan and implement conservation practices, including those that work well for organic operations, such as pest management and mulching. Meanwhile, FSA offers cost-share for certification costs and other fees.

Other CRP Options
Participants can also choose to enroll all or part of their expiring acres into the Continuous CRP signup for 2022. Important conservation benefits may still be achieved by re-enrolling sensitive acres such as buffers or wetlands. Expiring water quality practices such as filter strips, grass waterways, and riparian buffers may be eligible to be re-enrolled under the Clean Lakes, Estuaries, and Rivers (CLEAR) and CLEAR 30 options under CRP. Additionally, expiring continuous CRP practices such as shelterbelts, field windbreaks, and other buffer practices may also be re-enrolled to provide benefits for organic farming operations.

If producers are not planning to farm the land from their expiring CRP contract, the Transition Incentives Program (TIP) may also provide them two additional annual rental payments after their contract expires on the condition that they sell or rent their land to a beginning or veteran farmer or rancher or a member of a socially disadvantaged group.

Producers interested in the Continuous CRP sign-up, CLEAR 30, or TIP should contact FSA by Aug. 5, 2022.

NRCS Conservation Programs

USDA also encourages producers to consider NRCS conservation programs, which help producers integrate conservation on croplands, grazing lands and other agricultural landscapes. EQIP and CSP can help producers plant cover crops, manage nutrients and improve irrigation and grazing systems. Additionally, the Agricultural Conservation Easement Program (ACEP), or state or private easement programs, may be such an option. In many cases, a combination of approaches can be taken on the same parcel. For example, riparian areas or other sensitive parts of a parcel may be enrolled in continuous CRP and the remaining land that is returned to farming can participate in CSP or EQIP and may be eligible to receive additional ranking points.

Other Flexibilities to Support Conservation

Additionally, NRCS is also offering a new flexibility for EQIP and CSP participants who have cover cropping included in their existing contracts. NRCS will allow participants to either modify their plans to plant a cover crop (and instead shift to a conservation crop rotation) or delay their cover crop plans a year, without needing to terminate the existing contract. This will allow for flexibility to respond to market signals while still ensuring the conservation benefits through NRCS financial and technical assistance for participating producers.

Producers and landowners can learn more about these options by contacting FSA and NRCS at their local USDA Service Center.

Effects of caffeine in energy drinks explained

Research has shown that energy drinks are quite popular with teens. Since Red Bull® debuted in 1997, energy drinks sales have increased to more than $6 billion in annual sales in the United States. Not to be confused with sports drinks, many energy drinks on the market contain caffeine, a variety of B vitamins and minerals as well other ingredients such as taurine (tau'-ren), glucuronolactone (glu-ku-ro'no-lak' ton), and guarana (gwah-rah' nah). The B vitamins are involved in energy metabolism. Caffeine increases alertness and improves performance, taurine and glucuronolactone decrease fatigue, and guarana is a natural source of caffeine.

So what is so special about energy drinks and why are teens and young adults drawn to them? Some teens and young adults alike are attracted to energy drinks because of the supposedly improved athletic performance and increased endurance associated with energy drink consumption. College students have been reported to use energy drinks for increased energy, sleep avoidance, studying for long periods of time, driving for long periods, and mixing with alcohol at parties. Regardless of why a person may consume energy drinks, caution should be taken since caffeine is a central nervous system stimulant and too much can cause an increase in heart rate, elevate blood pressure, nausea, anxiety, dizziness, restlessness and tremors. Although energy drink manufacturers are required to list caffeine as an ingredient on the label, they are not required to list the amount.

The amount of caffeine varies between energy drink brands, so one should not assume the amount in one brand is the same as the amount in another. Consumers need to contact the manufacturer if the amount of caffeine is not stated on the label. Studies suggest a moderate amount of caffeine (100-200mg) intake a day is safe; however, caffeine affects people differently depending on their gender, size, and their sensitivity to caffeine's effect. Therefore, vulnerable populations such as children and pregnant women should limit their caffeine intake because of the side effects associated with higher consumption.

If one is trying to decrease his or her caffeine intake, it is recommended the caffeine is reduced gradually to avoid withdrawal symptoms such as severe headaches, irritability, muscle aches, and temporary depression.

Is there a problem with my thyroid?

By Kelly Evans-Hullinger, M.D.

Hypothyroidism, the condition of the thyroid gland not making enough thyroid hormone, is a common hormonal disorder. Perhaps because hypothyroidism is common and its symptoms can be widespread and vague, misconceptions abound. Let's cover the facts.

Symptoms of hypothyroidism can include fatigue, dry skin, weight gain, and hair loss. These symptoms can occur for many other reasons, so fortunately a very simple blood test can tell us whether an underactive thyroid is the culprit.

If hypothyroidism is suspected, the best thing to test first is TSH, or Thyroid Stimulating Hormone. TSH is made by the pituitary gland in the brain which physiologically responds to levels of thyroid hormone circulating in the patient's body. Under normal conditions, the pituitary gland signals the thyroid gland to make more thyroid hormone. So, if thyroid hormone levels are low, TSH levels will be high. The pituitary gland is trying to tell the thyroid gland, "wake up and make some more hormone, pal!"

If the TSH level is normal, in short, the thyroid is not the problem and probably no other testing needs to be done along those lines. If the TSH is elevated, another blood test for free T4 should be done. Free T4 is one type of thyroid hormone. Other types of thyroid hormones do exist but testing for them is far less reliable. In hypothyroidism, the TSH will be elevated, and the free T4 will be low.

Okay, so when we find a patient has hypothyroidism, what next? In general, we do not need to dig for a cause. Unless the person has had removal or ablation of the thyroid gland, we can assume they have Hashimoto's thyroiditis, the most common reason for hypothyroid-

The Prairie Doc

ism. Hashimoto's is an autoimmune disease which eventually destroys thyroid producing cells. Antibody testing is possible for Hashimoto's disease, but it generally is not necessary.

Treatment of Hashimoto's thyroiditis and any cause of hypothyroidism is simple...replace the thyroid hormone. This is done with a synthetic version of T4 hormone, the most reliable and standardized form of which is levothyroxine. Other types of thyroid replacement exist, but levothyroxine is universally recommended in all but a small minority of cases. Pretty much all patients can expect to take medicine indefinitely, though repeat TSH testing should be done periodically to make sure the dose is proper.

In summary, hypothyroidism is an easily diagnosed and easily treated condition. If you are having symptoms of this hormonal deficiency, discuss a TSH blood test with your primary care provider to see if a simple intervention might help you feel better.

Kelly Evans-Hullinger, M.D. is part of The Prairie Doc® team of physicians and currently practices internal medicine in Brookings, South Dakota. Follow The Prairie

Doc® at www.prairiedoc.org and on Facebook featuring On Call with the Prairie Doc® a medical Q&A show celebrating its twentieth season of truthful, tested, and timely medical information streaming live on Facebook most Thursdays at 7 p.m. central.

The possibility of compassion

The art of compassion is "Christ-Like" behavior. Compassion is the presence of mind to respond to a person or situation in need without judgement. It is simply the art of one's nature to become a Christ figure to the places of suffering.

Often it is a presence, a holding of one's hand, with prayer offering hope to the bleakest of conditions. The Gospel of Compassion begins when Jesus enters the temple and reads from the scripture of Isaiah: "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me,

Our Savior to host State Patrol program

Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne will host an evening program put on by The Nebraska State Patrol.

The event will be from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 9.

The Program is titled: THE CIVILIAN RESPONSE TO ACTIVE KILLER EVENT (CRAKE).

Lt. Paul Hagen (NSP) will present a two hour program discussing Disaster Response Psychology, Active Killing Events, Options for a Civilian Response to an Active Killing event, Law Enforcement Response and Workplace Violence / Harassment.

The program will involve audience participation and a question / answer portion at the end.

For more information, contact Pastor Jim Splitt at Our Savior Lutheran Church at (402) 375-2899.

because he has anointed me to proclaim good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim liberty to the captives and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed, 19 to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor." Luke 4:18-19.

The metaphor or image of compassion in the life of Jesus is that of the Good Shepherd. Jesus wanted us to have life and have it abundantly. There are many examples of Christ, the Good Shepherd in scripture. Jesus was compassionate to children.

We remember Jesus welcoming the children. Let the children come to me, for such is the kingdom of heaven, Matthew 19:14. Jesus also goes to the bedside of Jarius' daughter and brings healing. Luke 8:41-42.

He was a teacher and spoke in parables, he had followers, the disciples, whom he taught to carry on His ministry, and he brought healing of mind, body and soul to many. There are 37 recorded miracles recorded in the Gospels.

Over and over again, the Gospel show the compassion of Jesus to women, to children, to those sick and those shunned by society. Jesus' ministry can be summed up in the word compassion.

What must we do to overcome violence in our society, to address the many forms of abuse and neglect that plague so many, to heal the brokenness and divisions among peoples? Is compassion the answer?

The possibility of compassion lies within the heart of every believer. I believe deeply that the young man who slaughtered teachers and children in a Texas School was starving for compassion. I believe those who lack self-esteem and self-love can turn to evil out of resentments and pain.

More than ever, we need to be the living presence of Christ in our world, shepherding those suffering pain and hurt, with abundant love and acceptance to change the course of their lives. When I was a Chaplain at The Children's Village in Dobbs Ferry, New York I had a poster on my wall for all the children to see; GOD DON'T MAKE NO JUNK.

I believe the greatest ecumenical movement for our churches today and the people of God is to learn and live compassion, to find those individuals suffering from the inner pains of loneliness, depression, suicidal or homicidal ideation, and all forms of self-defeating thoughts, ideas and behavior, and bring them Christ's love and acceptance. The Gospel of Compassion is the Gospel of Christ.

The most important moment of Compassion is what is done for all humanity and the suffering of sin we must all face. It is the crucifixion of Christ. Christ's own suffering is the ultimate sacrifice, but also the full compassion of Christ giving his life for us. Our pilgrimage to the Cross and to the empty tomb is a walk of faith. We too are to be compassionate as we walk with feet washed, sins forgiven to share this message with others.

The Gospel of Compassion becomes our story of being the incarnate Christ to others.

Word in Faith is a collaboration of Wayne Association of Congregations and Ministers (WACAM), an organization partially funded by the Wayne Community Chest.

It helps to share your story

With the storm approaching, my wife texted me after work to come home right away. Within minutes, after I left the clinic, she called me again to tell me NOT to come home and to seek shelter immediately.

At first, I thought I could make it home, but then the wall of wind hit, and a tree fell onto the road in front power. Because of timing of the storm, many people were still on the roads coming home from work. I saw them on the roads with me. Others were trying to secure possessions outside their homes. Many were hit by flying debris and fallen trees. I saw them in the emergency department after the storm. This was a reminder for me to be prepared ahead of time, heed warnings, and seek shelter before the storm comes, not when it comes.

For the last few weeks following the event, I heard people share their experiences during the storm. Some had conversations with me, but I also witnessed many other conversations going on at work, outside with neighbors, and at the grocery store.

If you have been through something difficult or traumatic, there are benefits of sharing your story. It does not help to hold it inside. Talk to someone who can listen, whether it is a friend, family member, counselor, your doctor, or an anonymous person on a helpline. Consider writing or drawing. Find ways to process what you have been through.

Many communities are healing through neighbors helping neighbors and people sharing their stories. This is what our grandparents did when they experienced terrible blizzards, drought, and war, and this is what their ancestors did before them. They helped each other through hardships, and they shared their stories.

Recently many communities in our region suffered from storms with strong winds that blasted through rural and urban areas in numerous states. Thousands of trees were uprooted, communities went without power, some lost their homes, and unfortunately, lives were also lost. While some people were visibly injured, others hurt psychologically.

In my community there were warnings of a storm coming, but it came sooner than expected and most people were surprised at its

Handle poison hemlock with care

Educator in Dodge County

Socrates.
Poison hemlock, Conium maculatum, is a biennial and a member of the parsley family. Umbels of white flowers, similar to Queen Anne's lace, sit atop cutleaf pinnate foliage. Blooming begins in May and extends into July.
What sets poison hemlock apart from plants with similar flowers and foliage, such as dill and parsley, are the stems, which are dappled with purplish-maroon blotches. Left uncut, plants can reach a height of 10 feet. Poison hemlock grows in moist soils, preferring low-lying ditches, roadsides, creek banks, and disturbed sites. It is found in Saskatchewan and Manitoba, extending south throughout the upper and lower Midwest regions.

Human and livestock ingestion of the poisonous alkaloids found in poison hemlock will cause respiratory failure. Humans have inadvertently poisoned themselves when mistaking it for wild parsnip or parsley. Historically, children have been poisoned when using the hollow stems as whistles.
A recent news story chronicles the near-death of a man who, when cleaning out a weedy patch in his backyard, inadvertently aerosolized poison hemlock while using his chainsaw. Breathing in the particulates, he came close to dying from respiratory failure. Likewise, poison hemlock should not be burned as the smoke can carry the alkaloids, causing respiratory difficulty and/or triggering an asthmatic reaction. There is no antidote for accidental poisoning, confining medical intervention to treatment of symptoms.

Poison hemlock that has been growing at a site for any length of time will develop a copious seed bank harbored in the soil. Because it is a biennial, the plant won't flower and produce seed until the second year of growth, with a hard freeze killing off two-year old plants.
Persistently removing flower heads before seed set will eventually exhaust the number of seeds in an area. Be sure to wear gloves, long sleeves, and long pants when working directly with poison hemlock or doing any work in a mixed area of brush and weeds.

As mentioned, using a chainsaw or mower will aerosolize bits of the plant, increasing the likelihood of breathing in poison hemlock. Instead, hand-pull or chop down plants, placing them in a trash bag for removal from the site. If using herbicides, it's best to target first year seedlings with a herbicide containing a combination of triclopyr and 2,4-D.

MINUTES OF THE SPECIAL MEETING OF THE WINSIDE PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD OF EDUCATION

Meeting Date: Thursday, May 26, 2022, at 8:00AM. Location: Elementary Multi-Purpose Room

Present Members: Jon Jaeger, Carmie Marotz, Josh Kruse, Tarrin Quinn, Kate Falk, and Landon Grothe; Superintendent: Mr. Offner. Notice of the meeting was printed in The Wayne Herald on May 19, 2022.

President Jon Jaeger called the meeting to order, welcomed guests and visitors, and pointed out the Open Meetings Act posted on the wall in the meeting room.

Motion by Falk, second by Marotz to approve the Agenda. Ayes-Grothe, Jaeger, Marotz, Kruse, Quinn, and Falk. Nays-None.

Scott Gatewood, of DLR, regrettably stated that the bid for the electrical portion of the project came in even higher than what was expected. Mr. Gatewood recommends making the tough decision of continuing with the project in its entirety, reducing the project or wait to rebid.

President Jaeger suggested to move the discussion item of the Building and Renovation project to this point in the meeting. Members agreed. Members of the Board each stated their concerns and opinions on how to proceed with the construction. Each Board member agreed at this point to wait on the construction. They want to give the economy time to remedy itself and rebid the project this fall. Once this time has passed the Board will communicate with DLR to bid a portion of the project or the complete project. With this decision made, there was no reason to discuss the Lease Purchase.

Mr. Offner was informed this past week that an additional student with special needs will be attending next year. This brings the need of hiring an additional para for the 2022-2023 school year. The Board agreed to look at hiring another para.

Mr. Offner communicated with the County Assessor. This conversation resulted in a better understanding of the Nameplate tax and how it is distributed among our accounts. This also led to an estimate of what next year's evaluation will be. Mr. Offner presented a rough draft of the budget for the 2022-2023 school year.

The Lease Purchase authorization died with a lack of a motion.

A motion by Quinn, seconded by Kruse, to reject the Kingery Construction Company as our general contractor for the building and renovation project for the amount of $18,193,985.00 Ayes-Jaeger, Marotz, Kruse, Quinn, Falk and Grothe. Nays-None.

The next regular Board meeting will take place on Monday June 13, 2022, in the Multi-Purpose Room at 6:30 PM.

Motion by Grothe, second by Falk to adjourn. Ayes -All. Nays-none. Meeting adjourned at 9:06AM.

Sandra Hansen, Disaster Recovery Specialist for Wayne County, led a discussion on American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funds. The US Treasury awarded the funds to counties based on population. The Final Rule provided more flexibility and has four primary uses: Replacing lost public sector revenue; Public health and economic impacts; Premium pay; and Water, sewer & broadband infrastructure. Funds must be obligated by December 31, 2024, and spent by December 31, 2026.

If the US Treasury determines the funds were spent on an ineligible project, notice will be sent to the county, and reimbursement is required within thirty calendar days. Failure to reimburse could result in legal action against the county. After discussing this information, a motion was made by Sievers and seconded by Burbach that Wayne County has the right to appeal any ineligible project determination. If a project is found to be ineligible, 100% reimbursement must be paid to the county within sixty days. Roll call vote: Sievers, Burbach, Rabe – aye; motion carried.

Those in attendance at the meeting discussed various county projects that might fall within the guidelines of the ARPA Funds. The board will continue this discussion on Thursday, May 26th, at 9:00 a.m.

Claim #22050138 was pulled from the General Fund claims. A motion was made by Burbach and seconded by Sievers to approve the claims as amended. Roll call vote: Burbach, Sievers, Rabe – aye; motion carried.

MINUTES OF REGULAR MEETING OF THE WINSIDE PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD OF EDUCATION

Meeting Date: Wednesday, May 11, 2022, at 7:30 PM. Location: Multi-Purpose Room
Present Members: Jon Jaeger, Carmie Marotz, Tarrin Quinn, Kate Falk, and Landon Grothe; Superintendent: Mr. Offner; Principal: Mr. Friedrich. Absent: Josh Kruse. Notice of the meeting was printed in The Wayne Herald on May 5th and posted on Winside Public School's monthly calendar and website.

The meeting was called to order by President Jon Jaeger. He pointed out the Open Meetings Act posted on the wall in the meeting room and led the room with the Pledge of Allegiance.

President Jaeger made a motion to excuse Josh Kruse from the meeting, Marotz seconded. Ayes-Grothe, Jaeger, Marotz, Quinn, and Falk. Nays-None. Absent Kruse.

President Jager welcomed the visitors and referred the visitors to the sign in sheet for anyone who would like to address the Board. No one signed up to address the Board at that time. It is noted that Bobbi Heinemann signed in later during the meeting after this agenda item took place.

DLR representative, Scott Gatewood, approached the Board with concern as a confirmed bid from Kingery had not yet been settled. Kingery continues to negotiate for an electrical subcontracting bid. Mr. Gatewood reluctantly asked the Board for an additional two weeks in order for a settled bid to be negotiated. Discussion among the Board and Mr. Gatewood took place with scenarios on how to proceed with the renovation and construction. Members gave their views of concern with the economy and the possibility of a future recession. Members also provided their notion of the student's needs and reiterated the outcome of the vote of what the community wants for the school. Members assessed costs of continuing with the entire project, a portion of the project or just waiting to see what the economy will do. At that point, First National Capital Markets representative, Tobin Buchanan gave the Board details from their attorneys, on the current Bond, if the Board waited on a portion or the entirety of the construction. Mr. Buchanan also indicated that the resolution authorizing the creation of a Leasing Corporation in order to enter into a Lease Purchase agreement was still an option. Mr. Buchanan and Mr. Offner provided three scenarios of taxable valuations and compared them to the current. Mr. Offner also presented figures on the incoming Nameplate tax.

Motion by Quinn, second by Grothe to approve the Consent Agenda that consisted of the following: the Agenda; the approval of the minutes of April 11th, Regular Board Meeting and the April 25th, Special Board Meeting; the Option Enrollment: 2022-2023 one out; and permission to the Old Settler's Committee for the use of the facility and grounds on the weekend of June 17 through June 19. Ayes-Jaeger, Marotz, Quinn, Falk and Grothe. Nays-None. Absent Kruse.

Mr. Offner reviewed the Activity Reports followed by the Financial Report. He presented the Budget and highlighted on the April draws. Mr. Offner provided the claims for the General Fund, the Special Building/Bond Construction Fund, and the Lunch Fund.

Administrative reports began with Mr. Friedrich presenting the Principal's Report. He announced that the Continuous Improvement Committee members are working on the details of the goals that have been set. Mr. Friedrich provided the end of the year activities for the student. He is currently working on lining up trainings for the new math curriculum. Mr. Friedrich has the master schedule complete. He indicated that all fifteen students received their diplomas during the Graduation ceremony. Mr. Friedrich delivered the enrollment breakdown as of May 10.

Mr. Offner presented the Superintendent's report. Mr. Offner indicated that the building committee may have to meet, once the contract is settled with Kingery. Since there is not a settled contract there will not be a building committee meeting scheduled at this time. Also, because there is not a settled contract, the facility summer improvements are placed on hold. Mr. Offner continues to remind the Board members of the conference held in November. He announced that one parent had come to him indicating the need of an after-school program. Mr. Offner has looked into vans. He was told by the dealer the 2023 vans will be out in August and September. However, the auto dealers continue to find it difficult to fill their inventory. Mr. Offner gave a handout of a brief overview of LB 644 and gave the Board details of this law.

Mr. Offner has been reviewing, with other Superintendents, pay for substitute teachers. The current pay is $125.00. Mr. Offner suggested raising this cost to $140.00, in order to be competitive with surrounding schools.

Mr. Offner presented the Post Bid Value Engineering Service contract from DLR. This covers the services that have been beyond the normal time frame since the bid contract has not been settled. These hourly services costs are not to exceed $55,000.00.

Mr. Offner advised to accept the classified contracts for the 2022-2023 school year.

Mr. Offner asked if there was any other discussion on the building and renovation project. He wanted to remind the Board that prior to the bond, the bid was at $16 million. Cuts and reductions took place then, to reduce it to the $12 million. If continued cuts and reductions take place, the State codes will not be met. The Board continued to discuss their options and concerns. Jaeger recommends that the Board wait the two weeks to see what kind of bid can be settled with Kingery. DLR stated they should have the bid by the 25th of May. Jaeger suggests having a special meeting to review the settled bid on May 26th.

Mr. Offner asked for discussion regarding the Lease Purchase. The Board agrees to continue to wait with this Lease Purchase until a settlement with Kingery is met.

Mr. Offner presented the 2022-2023 coaching and sponsorship assignments. The Board reviewed the assignments.

Mr. Offner recommends renewing a five-year contract, with Eakes Office Solutions for copier services with an average monthly payment of $1,500.00.

Actions began with a Motion by Marotz, second by Quinn to approve the Financial Report, Budget Report and Claims on the following: the General Fund of $388,412.08, the Special Building/Bond Construction Fund of $24,525.08, and the Lunch Fund of $23,324.31. Ayes-Marotz, Quinn, Falk, Grothe and Jaeger.

Nays-None. Absent- Kruse.
