Engage in important history, education at Juneteenth events

Wayne's third annual Juneteenth celebration, themed Music for the Soul, takes place Friday through Sunday, June 17-19, with a variety of fun and educational activities for everyone to enjoy.

On Friday, starting at 7 p.m., the weekend begins with a showing of "How it Feels to be Free," at the Wayne State College Planetarium. This documentary showcases the experiences of black female artists who changed American culture through their art and advocacy.

After the movie, participants can engage in a discussion about the film and the themes found within it. The planetarium will also have a light show following the showing, depicting the night sky in Africa accompanied by music.

On June 18, the movie "Summer of Soul" will play in the Planetarium from 1 to 3 p.m. This documentary holds tremendous significance not only for Black history, but also for this year's theme of music.

The film depicts the 1969 Harlem Cultural Festival where numerous attendees and performers, such as Stevie Wonder and Mahalia Jackson, celebrated Black culture and music. This event, though large and occurring during the same year as Woodstock, has been forgotten by popular media.

Footage from the festival, condensed into two one-hour TV specials broadcast in 1969, was found and released in this documentary in 2021, after sitting in a basement for around 50 years.

The documentary garnered an abundance of praise and awards including "Best Documentary Feature," "Best Music Film," "Grand Jury Prize" and more.

"We specifically chose this film to display because of its recency, with it just coming out in 2021, and its proximity to our theme," organizer Endia Casey-Agoumba said.

Sunday, June 19, brings the main event of the weekend festi-ties, starting with a 2.5-mile walk at 3 p.m.

From 5 to 7 p.m. at Bressler Park, the group will host games, music and food from Joe's BBQ Food Truck coming from Norfolk. Since this celebration lands on Father's Day, many of the activities will have a Father's Day theme.

Participants can win prizes in games such as "Bad Dad Joke Battle," "Black Music Trivia" and "My Dad Would Rather," where kids and their dads will answer a series of questions and try to get them to match up.

Juneteenth first became recognized as a national holiday in 2021, but the date has held significance for centuries, Agoumba explained. On Jan. 1, 1863 President Abraham Lincoln issued the Emancipation Proclamation, declaring slavery illegal in all states.

However, not every city freed its slaves immediately. Specifically in Galveston, Texas, this feat took two years. Finally obtaining their freedom on June 19, 1865, this group of people held a massive celebration to commemorate the actual end to slavery's reign of terror.

Through this celebration in Wayne, Agoumba and the other organizers hope to bring education and shared feelings of community to the town.

"Though we are in a small, not very diverse town, we are all Americans," Agoumba said. "We should all celebrate the great points in our history and remember the shadows."

Since its first installment three years ago, Wayne's Juneteenth festival has expanded greatly. As area residents become more educated, interest and passion for the event has tripled. In the future, Agoumba wishes to see the event as a staple in the community, bringing in people from Norfolk and other surrounding towns.

The majority of Tuesday's Wayne City Council meeting revolved around a public hearing in regard to a remonstrance petition for the sale of a parcel of land owned by the city of Wayne.

Earlier this spring, a group of concerned citizens put together a petition to delay the sale of a parcel of land in the southeast portion of the city. More specifically, the parcel is Lot 3, Southeast Addition in the city of Wayne.

Petition organizers turned in 638 signatures to be verified by Election Commissioner Debra Finn. A total of 625 valid signatures were required to delay the sale of the land.

City Attorney Amy Miller discussed the process and noted that after going through the signatures, it was determined there were 611 registered voters living at the addresses listed on the petition whose signatures were valid. The determination by the Election Commission was that there were not enough valid signatures to halt the sale of the property.

Miller also discussed several state statutes that deal with the remonstrance process and the process of obtaining signatures.

She also noted that the council "can accept or deny the findings of the Election Commissioner."

BJ Woehler, who submitted the petition, told the council he didn't agree with the Election Commissioners findings and "I am asking for more time to get affidavits from those whose signatures on the petition did not match that on their voter registration card. I didn't get this information until Friday and would like to know what the council would want to verify these signatures. This has been a huge learning curve."

Lee Brogie spoke on the issue and said the "remonstrance was an attempt to delay the sale for one year to allow for time to look at other opportunities."

Josh Moening with Bluestem Energy Solutions provided information on solar energy during Tuesday's meeting.

She also read several state statutes in regard to the ability to vote in an election if a voter has moved.

Chele Meisenbach, a member of the Wayne Planning Commission spoke during the public hearing and told the council that she has "talked to lots of people and I haven't heard anything that makes us want to give an extension. There are deadlines and we need to meet them. We need to work toward moving forward on this project."

Mayor Cale Giese said those in support of the remonstrance petition should present evidence on why the council should change its mind and he did not see any evidence.

Following the public hearing, the council voted unanimously to accept the findings of the Election Commissioner. It was noted that that vote did not prevent the council from amending decisions on the actual project.

Council members also listened to a presentation by Josh Moening with Bluestem Energy.

Moening, who is the mayor of Norfolk, presented information on a 2.5 megawatt solar farm and the benefits to the city.

He shared information on what would be needed to bring the solar farm to Wayne, cost estimates and savings in the future.

"Solar costs have come down considerably in the last 10 years and more communities are looking at solar energy," Moening said.

Dr. Marysz Rames, President of Wayne State College, told the council the college has been looking at ways to diversify their energy sources and "moving forward, we would like to be a partner in the discussion and would be happy to be part of a committee looking at solar power."

In other action, the council tabled a request from Joe Gubbels for compensation for a fence on his property.

A fence on Gubbels' property was damaged when work was being done on the Wayne Pedestrian Trail. Since that time, the trail was installed along three sides of his property. Two of these were originally farm ground.

"I went from having no neighbors to being surrounded on three sides by the trail. This has impacted my privacy. Also, the trail is a lot closer than expected on the west side of my property. It would be difficult to put in any type of natural barrier," Gubbels said.

Council directed city staff to get measurements of the area involved and bring back information to a future meeting.

A bid of $64,187.97 from Kay Contracting was accepted for the 2022 Golf Course Sewer Improvements Project.

The bid is for labor only as the city is supplying the materials. Work will begin after the Wayne Chicken Show and is scheduled to be completed by Sept. 1.

A request from the Wayne Baseball Association was approved. It will allow for the closure of Windom Street from north of Third Street to the intersection of Fourth Street during home baseball games.

The Association noted safety concerns with youth chasing foul balls into and across the street as the reason for the request.

The Association would be responsible for putting up and taking down the barricades before and after each game.

Approval was given for Allo Communications to use the old Riley's area on South Main Street for a company event on Tuesday, June 21 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

A resolution was approved providing for an interlocal agreement to share law enforcement resources between the City of Wayne and the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State College, dba Wayne State College.

Police Chief Marlen Chinn told the council the city has had an agreement with the college since the early 2000s and the current agreement, which includes the city providing law enforcement on the campus for 18 hours a week, is for a three year period.

He highlighted several changes and requests from the college, including having an officer at home football games as much as possible.

Council members approved Mayor Giese's request to appoint Brandon Mainquist to the LB840 Revolving Loan Fund Review Committee.

The Wayne City Council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, June 21 at 5:30 p.m.

Groups give their proposals for the ARPA funds

By Morgan Cardenas

At Tuesday's meeting, the Wayne County Commissioners discussed bids and the ARPA funds.

First, the Board of Equalization approved the listing of omitted property and clerical errors on March's assessment roll.

The Commissioners meeting started with two bond payments. The first was the Highway Allocation Fund Pledge Refunding Bond Series 2021 Interest payment of $1,930.00 with a fee of $200.00, totaling $2,130 on June 15, 2022. The second was the Highway Allocation Fund Pledge Refunding Bond Series 2019 Interest payment of $12,368.75 with a fee of $200, totaling $12,568.75 on June 15, 2022. They also approved designating MIPS as the printer for the LB644 postcards.

Then Amy Miller, County Attorney, explained potential changes in the Adult Diversion Program. The current Diversion coordinator will not be able to continue with the program due to her current job at Faith Regional. Miller said they are looking for a replacement for the position and are currently looking at a possible candidate. She explained that they may have to change the diversion fee in order to cover costs but they are still working on the logistics of everything.

Don Skokan, Winside Fire Department, proposed using the ARPA Funds for their department. Skokan explained the work that this department did during COVID-19 and the risks that they had to take. He hopes to use the funds to help with equipment.

Helen (Ankeny) Abts

Helen Louise (Ankeny) Abts, 97, of Dixon, died Wednesday, June 1, 2022, at the Wakefield Assisted Living Center in Wakefield.
 Funeral services were held Monday, June 6 at the United Methodist Church, with Pastor Debra Tompsett-Welch officiating. Burial was in the Concord Cemetery in Concord.
 Memorials are suggested to the family for future designation.
 Arrangements were under the direction of Bressler-Munderloh-Smith Funeral Home in Wakefield.

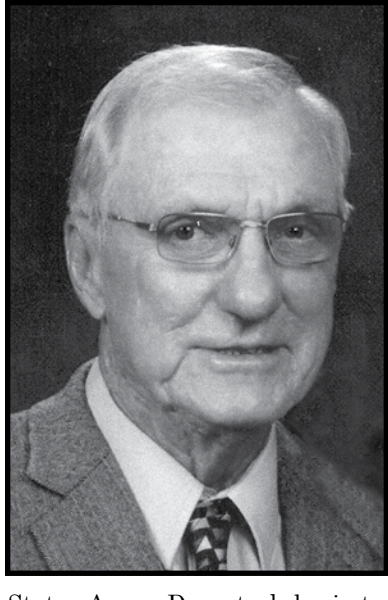

Helen Louise (Ankeny) Abts was born Dec. 5, 1924 in Dixon, the daughter of Chester and Grace (Hall) Ankeny. Helen grew up on the family farm north of Dixon.
 In early life, Helen had a love for riding horses, but her father didn't want her to ride the work horses in the evening as they had to work the next day. They did have neighbors though, that needed their horses exercised which made them some of Helen's favorite people.
 She graduated Valedictorian from Dixon High School in 1942 and then finished a two-year teaching certificate from Wayne State College. Helen taught in the Wakefield and Belden Schools. It was while she was in Belden, that she met Louie. Helen was married to Louis Abts on April 10, 1949 at the Dixon Methodist Church. To this union the couple had three sons and two daughters, David, John, Karen, Richard and Cheryl.
 Louie and Helen farmed around Belden and Dixon over the years. She was busy caring for children, and animals alike. She did all chores inside and out. She was a devoted wife and mother and helped break ground to have classes in schools to help the handicapped. She and Louie also joined other parents in helping to form work opportunities for the handicapped after their school years. She cared for Louie at home, after he had been diagnosed with Alzheimer's until he passed in 1996.
 Helen was an excellent mother to all her children, but her mothering duties didn't end when her children became adults, Helen cared deeply for Karen, and you would often see Helen taking Karen to as many activities as she could. So much of what she did included attending sporting events of her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren. This included winning Fan of the Year at Wakefield Community School with her daughter, Karen.
 Helen's faith was a cornerstone of her life which guided her to be the kind, loving person she was. She taught Sunday School for years as well as overseeing the youth group.
 Helen was known for her angel food cakes, ability to recite poetry from memory and her beautiful handwriting. Every evening she completed the Omaha World Herald crossword puzzle while watching a sporting event on "mute". She was an avid Husker fan through good times and bad.
 At the age of 94, when she agreed to purchase hearing aides, she nestled into her easy chair to complete her nightly puzzle and then thought, "where did all these crickets come from?" She realized where the problem started and removed the hearing aides and the crickets at the same time.
 Survivors include her children, David (Marilyn) Abts and John (Nancy) Abts of Laurel; Richard (Denise) Abts of Dixon and Cheryl (Steve) Greve of Wakefield; 11 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.
 She was preceded in death by her parents, Chester and Grace; husband, Louis; daughter, Karen; grandson, Max Greve; brothers, Ron (Lois) Ankeny and Earl (Marge Armfield) Ankeny; sister, Lois (Dale) Westadt.

Gerald Baier

Gerald Baier 80, died quietly at home on Wednesday, April 13, 2022. A Celebration of Life will be held Saturday, June 11 at 11:30 a.m. at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne.
 Survivors include his wife, June; a daughter, Tracy (Dean) McCormick; a granddaughter, Dakota (Shayne) Kelly; grandsons Wyatt (Jade) Jacobson and Dylan McCormick; one great grandson, Kenton and sister, Ruth Ann (Terry) Kardell.

Dean W. Janke, Sr.

Dean W. Janke, Sr., 84, of Winside, died Sunday, June 5, 2022 at Faith Regional Health Services in Norfolk.
 Services will be held Friday, June 10 at 10:30 a.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winside. Visitation will be held Thursday, June 9 from 5 to 7 p.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winside. Burial, with military rites, will be in Pleasant View Cemetery at Winside.
 Memorials may be directed to Dean's family for later designation.
 Arrangements are with Hase-mann Funeral Home of Wayne.

Dean W. Janke, Sr. was born Nov. 30, 1937 to Alfred and Elsie (Eckert) Janke in rural Stanton County. He was baptized Dec. 26, 1937 and confirmed March 25, 1951 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winside. Dean started school at Rural District #50 and later attended Winside Public School, graduating in 1955. After graduation Dean and several of his classmates enlisted in the United States Army. Dean took basic training at Camp Carson, Colorado and was then stationed at Fort Ord, California. While in the service, he married his high school sweetheart, Lydaisy Mann in Torrance, California on Dec. 21, 1957.
 After his discharge in 1958, they returned to Winside and purchased his great grandfather's, then grandfather's farm three miles south of Winside. It remains the family farm with the fourth generation - son, Dean Jr. - living there now. There they raised four children - a son, Dean Jr and daughters, Darci, Dawn and Darla.

Dean "retired" from farming, if farmers ever retire, in 1992 and moved to Winside. He was active in St. Paul's Church serving as an Elder, Council Member and Sunday School teacher. He also served on the Winside School Board and drove school bus for many years. Dean was elected to the Winside Village Board from 2000 to 2012 as Chairman of the Board, thus earning the nickname of "Mayor".
 Through the years, Dean enjoyed his church, traveling and vacationing by car, playing cards, Co-op coffee, IH tractors (pulling, restoring, fixing), car shows with his restored '63 Ford Fairlane, Cornhusker anything, but most of all, anything family. He spent many hours traveling many miles attending games, concerts, and events of his children and grandchildren. He was a father of four, grandfather of seven, great grandfather of six and "old grandpa" of two.
 Survivors include his wife, Lydaisy; a son, Dean (Debbie) Janke Jr. of Winside; daughters, Darci (Kenny) Frahm of Winside, Dawn (Charles) Peter of Winside, and Darla (Tenn) Harbin of Tarkio, Missouri; grandchildren, Shane (Nykee) Frahm, Brady Frahm, Rachel Peter, Matthew (Jaycie) Peter, Dean "Will" Janke III (Taylor), Deserah Janke, Ashley O'Mack; great grandchildren, Christian Frahm (Rachel Field, fiancée), Cale Frahm, Keenan Myers, Wyatt Frahm, Tucker Janke, and Beau Janke; sister, Donna Miller of Garden Grove, California; sisters-in-law, Rose Janke of Winside, Dorinda Janke of Norfolk, Carol Janke of Norfolk, Marsha Thompson of Fremont, Georgiana (John) Meyer of Lincoln; brother-in-law, Andy (Sue) Mann of Woodland Park, and many nieces, nephews and cousins.

He was preceded in death by his mother and father, Alfred and Elsie Janke; brothers, Norris Janke and Randy Janke; brothers-in-law, Dean Miller and Roger Thompson; niece, Jennifer Miller, and nephews, Scott Janke and A.K. Mann.

Letter to the Editor

Words of encouragement for fathers

Dear Editor,

On the evening of, Friday, May 20, a tragic, fatal plane crash, marred the May Day STOL 2022 celebration, at the Wayne airport and left its impact on that celebration and on the people of Wayne.
 For some unknown reason, immediately after the accident, God, put me right beside this special man, who had just died in that crash. Seeing him laying there dead, has left an unforgettable imprint on me.
 Since then, I've been searching to find out who this man was. I've discovered a man named Tom DaFoe, - a husband, father of five, a person who had a passion for everything he did, including faith, family, farming and flying.
 The main purpose of this letter is to encourage all, especially fathers, to go to Tom's facebook page, learn about the life of Tom DaFoe, then scroll down to June 20, 2021, where he presents a live video, speaking about fatherhood.

 In this video Tom is very direct and honest. The main theme of what he said in his video is that he wants fathers to be encouraged. He said fathers sometimes get such bad publicity, "not meant for you". "Fathers are meant to be strong. God made you this way, to protect, provide and care and love with compassion" Tom said. "Fatherhood is such a great honor, such a responsibility and such great joy"
 It's difficult to understand why his life was tragically ended that day, but may the tragedy of Tom's death, through the inspiration of his life, lead us to continue to carry his message in all of our hearts. Tom would have wanted that...May all of us pray for the strength his family now needs...and may Tom be resting in Eternal love and Peace...and as Tom said in some of the final words of his video..."take that step to be a dad, just love and enjoy it".
 Happy Fathers Day!
Ann Witkowski, Wayne

Moving Day

A house that was once located northeast of Wayne, made its way to its new "home" three and one-half miles south of Wayne, along Highway 15 last week. Ensor Movers, Inc. moved the house along county roads, crossing Highway 35 three miles east of Wayne. The process is quite time-consuming as crews worked to ensure no structures or power lines come in contact with the house.

Take a tour filled with a shared love of history and gardens

Members of the Wayne County Historical Society are planning a "Tour of Lawns and Gardens" event for Saturday, June 11. The event will run from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and includes stops at the Wayne County Museum (Seventh and Lincoln Streets) and seven locations in and around Wayne. Terry and Sandy Bartling's nearly 100 year old property showcases original street bricks from the City of Wayne in their backyard patio and fire pit, a variety of birds and other wildlife and vibrant plants including Korean Lilacs and Verberna.

Scott and Chele Meisenbach created a Colorado-inspired oasis, drawing from their love of hiking and camping. Visitors to this site will find a fun walkway, stumps cut into outdoor seating, a pond and more. Mike and Bonnie Fluent's garden, blooming with vivid perennials, has served as a major source of inspiration for Mike's art. The family of the late Nana Peterson, wife of Carter 'Cap' Peterson, has carefully crafted a garden in her memory. Nana's Garden includes a seating area and plants that have special meanings. The family has more projects planned throughout the summer. Al and Julie Thomsen display a custom-made potting shed and a new fire pit. The pair find joy in continually updating their space. Carter 'Cap' Peterson also has his own garden included in the walk, featuring a pool, variety of hostas and a quaking aspen, all designed by Nana. The property of Mic and Deb Daehnke consists of over 30 species of trees, shrubs, and viburnums, two rock gardens, vegetable beds and an assortment of flowers. Deb has worked with the Northeast Nebraska Master Gardeners for 21 years and works to protect the area through pesticide-free growth. The event is a fundraiser for the Wayne County Historical Society and tickets are $15 each. Those wishing to purchase tickets are asked to contact Marlene Broer at (402) 369-2862 to reserve a ticket. Advance registrations are required. The event will be held rain or shine. The event is funded in part by a grant from the Wayne County Visitors' Bureau.

Community art

Jill Brodersen (center) a member of the Public Art Committee, spoke during last week's Chamber Coffee hosted by the group. She explained the process of selecting the 12 sculptures that will be part of this year's Sculpture Walk in Wayne. Several of the pieces have already been installed along Main and Pearl Streets and others will be put in place in coming weeks.

Health planning meeting date set

The Northeast Nebraska Rural Health Network (NRRHN) has released the 2022 Community Health Needs Assessment (CHNA) which can be found at nnpd.org. The CHNA will guide the Community Health Improvement Planning (CHIP) process, which will kick off with a meeting June 30, from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Wayne Fire Hall. Lunch will be served to those who attend. The CHNA is a report that looks at the health status, behaviors and needs of people living in the health district which includes Cedar, Dixon, Thurston and Wayne Counties. The purpose of the report is to identify major health concerns, gaps in services and other factors that may prevent people from being as healthy as possible.

ers to weight management including lack of access to healthy food and infectious diseases including COVID-19. Mental Health was once again chosen as a top concern in the community health survey among a list of choices. While the Nebraska Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance System (BRFSS) Dashboard indicated that key indicators including frequent mental distress went down in 2020, mental health is still an issue, especially given continuing low numbers of mental health providers available to area residents. Cancer was the third most often chosen in the list of health concerns in the survey. Cancer incidence for lung, colon/rectum, and prostate have been higher than the state average. The age adjusted mortality rate for this region (158.4 per 100,000) is higher than the state rate (150.3) or the national rate (149.4) (CDC 2016-2020). Even though obesity was not among the choices provided for health concerns for the district, challenges to getting healthy food and getting enough exercise were among the top six choices for health concerns of the district. For more information, contact Network Director Lori Steffen at 402-375-2200 or at lori@nnpd.org.

Proposals

Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department, also gave her proposal for usage of the ARPA Funds. Rother talked about all the services and plans they made with COVID-19. She talked about the testings that they would do and distributing the vaccine when it first came out. Rother said they would like to possibly build a new place for them due to outgrowing their current space but would like to stay in Wayne if they can. Finally, Mark Casey, Highway Superintendent, discussed the two culvert bids that came in. One was from Midwest Service and Sales with a total of $102,309.08. The other came from B's Enterprises for a total of $87,606. The Wayne County Board of Commissioners will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, June 21 at 9 a.m. in the Wayne County Courthouse.

Snow plow gets a new name

Monica Greve, who has been employed with the Nebraska Department of Roads for 35 years, recently got a new name for her snow plow. She will be operating "Ice Breaker 2000" as she clears the roads in the future. The Communications Division of the Nebraska Department of Roads reached out to schools across the state participating in the Drive Smart program and asked students to Name a Snowplow. Over 300 entries were received and 17 names were chosen from submissions from seven schools. Among the schools participating was Bloomfield Elementary School in Bloomfield. Students there had eight names selected as part of the contest. Monica Greve, Tom Sievers and Jen Faling from the Wayne office of the Nebraska Department of Transportation (NDOT) visited the Bloomfield Elementary students and gave a short presentation and answered questions from the crowd. The students received snowplow stickers and candy and were allowed to sign the wing of the snowplow. Each of the winners was presented with a poster board with the name chosen and a toy replica with the name on the truck. In addition, the school received a larger truck full of candy. "It was a really fun event and I'm not sure who enjoyed it more, the kids or us adults," Sievers said. The winning entries submitted by the Bloomfield students and the areas the snowplows are located include: Blizzard Buster in McCook; Blizzard of Oz in Elkhorn; Drift Slayer in Ogallala; Snow Angel in Holdrege; Snowbuster in Seward; Snow-tal Annihilation in Omaha; Plover Power in Columbus; and Ice Breaker 2000 operated by Greve from the Wayne NDOT office.

A variety of local groups put together floats for last year's Laurel Ag Days Parade. Several new events are being planned for this year's festivities.

Win prizes, dance your heart out, wrestle a pig and celebrate dads at Laurel Ag Days

This summer's big event in Laurel kicks off Friday, June 17 and runs through Father's Day on June 19.

The festivities begin at 6 p.m. that Friday with free admission to an all ages pool party at the Laurel pool. There, attendees have the opportunity to win prizes from local businesses.

These businesses will drop ping pong balls into the pool sporting their logo for participants to quickly round up. The next day, anyone who has a ping pong ball can go to the corresponding business to collect their prize.

The first day of activities ends with a family movie night at Haskell Field. Bring a blanket or chairs, your family and friends and a craving for popcorn from one of the banks in town, and enjoy the movie Encanto starting at 9:30 p.m.

Wake up early the next morning at 7:30 a.m. to register for the 5K/1-mile Barnyard Dash hosted by the LCC XC Team. The $10 registration for the 8 a.m. run, starting at the Shelter House in City Park, will go towards the team as a fundraiser.

At 10 a.m., the parade will start its procession at Hillcrest Care Center and travel down Oak Street. Registration begins at 9 a.m. at the care center and organizers will post a parade map on Facebook soon.

The rest of the day on Saturday, June 18 is packed full of fun events for all ages.

In the park, a picnic lunch will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Inflatables will also run from 12 to 3 p.m.

The LCC FFA will sponsor two exciting fundraisers in the park.

At Cow Patty Bingo, from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., participants can buy individual squares on large bingo "card" for $50 each. If the cow lays a patty on their square, the person will win a prize.

Students in the LLC FFA have also spent three weeks planning an Ag Olympics event, packed with fun, ag-inspired challenges. Registration costs $20 for teams of four people.

Some of these challenges include barrel racing, where two team members will ride horse and cowboy style through a course, a five-gallon bucket carry, a tractor tire flip, pig wrestling and more.

Comprised of over 40 students, the organization will use the funds raised during the weekend to cover costs for conventions and competitions throughout the upcoming school year. They also plan to give back to the alumni that have offered immeasurable support to the members throughout recent years.

"We are excited to have this opportunity to be active in the community and we hope everyone comes out to support and have a great time," president of the LCC FFA and Student Representative of the Laurel Chamber of Commerce, Maddy Graham, said.

Evening activities begin at 5:30 p.m. with the LCC Alumni Association Banquet hosted by the Laurel VFW.

From 8 p.m. to midnight, the band known as Loose Cannons will play during the Street Dance, located on Main Street between Oak and Cedar Street.

On Sunday, June 19, three Father's Day activities will round off the lively weekend.

The Laurel Veteran's Club Breakfast will run from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

At 10 a.m., the Cedar View Golf Course plans to host a Father's Day Golf Tournament.

A Coffee/Open House event at the Hillcrest Care Center from 3 to 4 p.m. will conclude the 2022 Laurel Ag Days.

Anyone with questions about the events should contact Rachel Steffen at 402-750-4077.

"Everyone is invited to experience and participate in this fun and fast weekend," Steffen said.

Kasey's legacy lives on through Owlet project at local hospital

A program to provide Owlets to new parents at Providence Medical Center is being helped in part, by the family of Kasey Hansen.

According to her family, "Kasey was a kind, quiet and thoughtful person who always made time for her loved ones. Anytime her family or friends asked her to do something she responded with a resounding "sure"! Her loved ones described her as having a heart of gold."

Unfortunately, that very heart of gold failed Kasey. She died in May of 2017 of a heart attack caused by a spontaneous coronary artery dissection. This is a tear in the layers of a coronary artery and blocks blood flow to the heart muscle.

Kasey lived with a condition called Turner syndrome. This is a genetic disorder where one of the X chromosomes is misshaped or missing completely. Kasey's muscles were particularly affected by this disorder. She essentially had to work twice as hard as most people to do any sort of movement.

"But if you ever met Kasey, you never would have guessed that she fought every day to have a typical life. She had a bright and cheery disposition. She never used her disorder as a crutch. She wanted to be known as Kasey. Not the girl with Turner syndrome. This disorder is also known to cause cardiovascular issues. Ultimately, it was this disorder that caused her heart attack," said Diana Davis of Carroll, one of Kasey's aunts.

Kasey was only 31 years old when she passed away. Her family, friends and dog, Lucy, were heartbroken with the loss of their daughter, granddaughter, sister, niece, friend, coworker and dog mom.

But they also knew they were blessed to have had Kasey in their lives. That is when they decided to carry out acts of kindness in Kasey's name. She would not have wanted people to wallow in sadness because of her death but instead to spread kindness to others. Just as Kasey had spread kindness to everyone in her life.

The idea caught fire and a Facebook page was made for people to share their acts of kindness in honor of Kasey's name. The Facebook Group is called "Kasey's Kindness Acts". The acts of kindness ranged from monetary donations to many funds, care packages delivered to senior citizen centers, food items delivered to food drives, sun catchers for families that just had a baby, supplies to an animal shelter, extra movie tickets purchased for people in line behind them, the list goes on and on. These acts of kindness eased our aching hearts knowing that Kasey's light continued to shine on through these acts of kindness.

Kasey was very close with many of her aunts. One of these special aunts started a fund in Kasey's name at Providence Medical Center in Wayne, nearby where Kasey

The fund is called "Kasey's Owlet Fund".

An Owlet is a monitoring system for babies that helps track things like heart rate, oxygen level and sleep. Two owlets are given to families of babies born at Providence Medical Center per year. It is very fitting that these devices help put families at ease as Kasey was very good at putting people at ease due to her relaxed demeanor and cheerful disposition. Her honor lives on through these acts of kindness.

"We are honored that Kasey's family has started this fund at Providence Medical Center. These Owlet Monitors provide many parents with peace of mind and the families we have been able to send one home with are very grateful," says Providence Foundation Director, Rachel Miller.

"We are hoping to create more awareness for Kasey's Owlet Fund to help her family keep Kasey's memory alive through this amazing act of kindness. Anyone can donate to this fund where we gift two families a year with an Owlet. If we can grow this fund, we would be able to gift more Owlet Monitors to more families," says Miller.

Anyone who would like to make a donation to the Kasey's Owlet Fund is asked to contact Rachel Miller, Foundation Director at 402-375-7922 or rmiller@providencemedical.com.

This photo of Kasey Hansen and her family was taken prior to her death in 2017. Since that time, her family has encouraged the community to take part in "Kasey's Acts of Kindness."

Pender Community Hospital awarded USDA Rural Healthcare Grant

Pender Community Hospital recently announced that it has received a $1 million USDA Emergency Rural Healthcare Grant to increase its telehealth capabilities through an improved electronic health record (EHR) system. The current EHR will be phased out in December 2022.

The new EHR will provide seamless integration of all patient data, from scheduling clinic appointments and completing registration to results from diagnostic lab work and x-rays; the new system will also allow for the quick and easy electronic transfer of medical records.

"Since the start of the pandemic, our patients have looked to do more online, and our board and community is requesting a more developed patient portal and telehealth services," said Interim CEO Shane Schuster. "Our goal in procuring our new EHR is that we can provide services to all patients, regardless of their location."

The new system improves the access and timeliness of patient records, which is critical to providing rural patients quality care close to home. The cost of the new EHR includes not only the purchase of the system itself, but also the appropriate hardware and training necessary to optimize the new system.

The organ has been almost entirely paid for with memorial contributions, representing to the present congregation, the love and respect for many former members and friends of the church. A dedication service will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday with Merle Ring, Wakefield, as guest organist. Arrangements for the purchase and dedication of the instrument were planned by the organ committee of Mrs. W. C. Swanson, W. S. Bressler, Mrs. Wallace Hughes and Mrs. Edith Childs.

More than $48,000 is raised during Relay For Life event
Hundreds of cancer survivors, caregivers, family and friends were on hand to take the opening laps of the 2012 Wayne County Relay For Life on Friday night. A number of them were still at the Wayne State College Rec Center Track to take the final lap, which was actually for the first lap for the 2013 Relay, at 6 a.m. Saturday morning. The threat of rain caused organizers to move the event indoors, but all other details of the event went on as scheduled. Survivor and Caregiver laps kicked off the evening. Food provided by a number of businesses and groups, including steak sandwiches prepared by the Nebraska Cattlemen, was plentiful throughout the evening. A variety of games for all ages kept Relay participants awake and entertained throughout the 11-hour event. A midnight Fight Back presentation by cancer survivor Diane Roeber stressed the importance of regular check-ups and knowing the signs your body is giving you. More than $48,000 was raised as part of the 2012 Relay For Life. This included the purchase of more than 950 luminaries that lined the track in honor of cancer survivors and in memory of those who lost the battle against cancer.

Reminiscing about driving decades ago

I mentioned last week that my peers and I aren't going to be able to tell the difference between long COVID and aging symptoms!! I've been thinking about that, and I have to admit I've had to remember an experience with a Home Health client in Nehawka.

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

When you are getting services from Home Health, you are supposedly "home bound", meaning you are unable to leave the house without assistance or taxing effort. I knew for a fact he was getting in his car every noon and driving a couple blocks to the Senior Center for lunch. As a Medicare provider, I had to remind him of the restrictions. He replied he could drive easier than he could walk! (He had a wound on one foot that required daily dressing changes, which is why we were seeing him.) Well, now, I know how he felt! I've been to Waco and back today for a funeral, taking the "scenic" route, Highway 34, so I don't have to fight the trucks on the interstate. And, I am really enjoying that 2018 Es-ties. I told her that was definitely not the case in rural Nebraska; we were all driving by the time we were freshmen; and in the case of the guys, several years before that, so they could be on the tractors.

I had a "Holstein" Ford because it was a cream color with a black door from a salvage yard. When the pen pal from Chicago came for a week in summer, we took that thing to the hay field and taught her to drive! And she became quite proficient; if you can drive in Chicago, I'm convinced you can drive anywhere. She now lives in Phoenix, and is still driving. Of course, both of us have automatic transmissions now.

At the alumni affair a week ago, one of the fellows who graduated four years ahead of me told us about the time he drove into town in his '38 Dodge, where he was to meet eight other guys for a baseball game in Henderson that afternoon. Well, the guys were there, but no adult, and no coach. Of course, no cell phone to call home and ask what to do.

Instead of that, they all piled into the Dodge and took the back roads to Henderson, played the game, and even got brave enough to come home through York and on the highway back to Waco. He never did tell us who won the game, but he commented that apparently, no parent asked how they got to that game, and no boy mentioned that he drove.

Technically, we were to drive to school and back; that's what a school permit was for. But we all admitted to fudging about that. I remember friend, Marlyce, taking a pickup load of wheat to town to the elevator and I rode shotgun; not sure how I acquired that job.. But we thought we were pretty smart.

So, to be honest, I didn't feel too guilty about the fellow from Nehawka going uptown for his noon meal. He received more than food, as all of you who eat at the Senior Center know, and we nurses knew to schedule our visits in the morning to catch him home. And we did get that wound healed up!

Herbicides, alfalfa, hemlock discussed

What's In A Name
By Ben Beckman

One tool that can be used to great effect when controlling weedy plants is an herbicide application. To get good control, we must be sure we have the right product to address the weed we want to manage. Proper weed ID is critical for this first step, but herbicide trade names don't help make this pairing any easier.

Our UNL website: <https://water.unl.edu> provides more alfalfa irrigation details. NebGuide, G1778, "Irrigation Management and Crop Characteristics of Alfalfa" is a useful free resource.

Poison Hemlock And Livestock
By Melissa Bartels

Have you noticed tall weeds with umbrella-like white flowers in pastures, ditchbanks and along the roadsides? It may be poison hemlock and be careful as it is poisonous to livestock and people.

cludes turning hungry animals out into fresh pastures containing hemlock, some hungry animals will eat the first green plant they come too, palatable, or not. Be sure plenty of water, salt, and mineral are always available, as animals deprived of water or mineral may eat abnormally, increasing the risk of consuming some hemlock. Consuming just five pounds of foliage can be potentially lethal for cows, while just two pounds can be deadly for horses.

Fortunately, hemlock usually is not palatable to most livestock. Animals won't eat much of it unless it is the only green plant around or if the plant has been altered in some way. Do not and I repeat, DO NOT try to control hemlock during the grazing season by mowing or spraying with 2,4-D + Dicamba. This alters the plant and can actually increase its palatability, making it more likely animals will eat enough of it to cause poisoning.

Instead, control poison hemlock in the early spring or fall when animals are not in the pasture or fence off large patches from livestock if control is necessary.

For example, let's look at a popular pasture herbicide; Grazon P+D. Grazon P+D is a picloram and 2,4-D mixture with a wide spectrum of broadleaf control in pasture settings that was especially liked for its action against leafy spurge. Currently discontinued by the original manufacturer, there are other picloram/2,4-D generics that producers can find and use. Don't worry, if you still have some Grazon P+D on hand, you can use that up too.

Now this is where things get a bit confusing. About the time Grazon P+D was phasing out, another herbicide hit the market, Grazon Next HL. This Corteva product, despite a similar name, is a Milestone/2,4-D mix that doesn't control leafy spurge. It does have great action against many other broadleaf weeds found in range and pasture, however.

We need to be careful and not confuse Grazon Next with another Corteva product: Graslan L. Graslan is a Tordon/2,4-D mix which again has a wide spectrum of control against broadleaves in range and pasture and does have action on leafy spurge.

Herbicides are diverse and selecting the right one can be tricky. It's easy to assume a similar name or manufacturer means similar control will occur, but this isn't always the case. Read the product label, especially the active ingredients and controlled species portions, for a successful application.

drought-tolerant, irrigation makes it possible to produce higher yields. This perennial forage does not have specific critical growth stages when less sensitive to water stress. When moisture stressed, the plant will slow or stop growing and go dormant. Then, when water becomes available, growth resumes.

Since alfalfa has a longer growing season, it uses more water annually compared to other crops. However, you can over-water alfalfa, resulting in plant injury, disease, and possibly weed invasion. Irrigation can be challenging due to multiple harvests preventing watering for about 7 to 10 days per growth cycle and frequent heavy equipment traffic compacting soils. To reduce compaction, stop irrigating 2-3 days before cutting the alfalfa; and irrigate again when alfalfa regrowth begins. Heavy irrigation of alfalfa stubble may encourage weed growth.

Irrigation scheduling efficiency can be improved with using ET gages or soil moisture monitoring. Accurate weather forecasts can also allow growers to take full advantage of rainfall events and reduce irrigation applications.

As temperatures increase, daily water use is also increasing. Generally, the most yield impacting irrigation occurs just before the second cutting followed by the third and fourth growth periods typically requiring 6 to 7 inches of irrigation. Peak water usage is about 1/3 inch per day in July and August. However, hot, windy and dry days can move the maximum water demand up to 1/3 inch per day.

Poison Hemlock And Livestock
By Melissa Bartels

Have you noticed tall weeds with umbrella-like white flowers in pastures, ditchbanks and along the roadsides? It may be poison hemlock and be careful as it is poisonous to livestock and people.

Poison hemlock is on the list of top ten poisonous plants here in Nebraska. This weed can be found throughout the state, especially in wet or moist soils along streams, roadsides, and pastures. Hemlock has fern-like leaves, with purple spots on the stems. Poison hemlock is a biennial broadleaf plant, meaning it will grow as a rosette its first year and produce a stalk with white flowers in its second year of growth. They have taken off growing around the state with the recent much needed rain.

So how can you manage this weed? It's critical that you avoid overgrazing pastures that contain hemlock. When adequate forage is available to graze, animals select healthy, palatable plants to eat and avoid the hemlock. But if grass gets short, even unpalatable poisonous plants might be eaten. This in-

Checking things out

An open house was held June 5 at Providence Medical Center to showcase Phase One of a renovation/addition at the facility. The project includes a new radiology and outpatient clinic. PMC staff were on hand to give guided tours of the new area and provide information about the different testing and services they provide. The hospital has since moved into Phase Two, which has resulted in the closure of the main entrance to the hospital. Those visiting the hospital are asked to use the Physical Therapy entrance.

40 assets that youth need to succeed

Studies conducted by the Search Institute in Minneapolis, Minnesota during the past 25 years, of more than 6 million young people in the United States and around the world

Thurston County

Jennifer Hansen

Extension Educator

UNL Extension

to understand: how young people experience developmental assets, variations in those experience for different groups of young people, and how experiences of assets relate to key outcomes, including both high-risk behaviors and thriving.

Grounded in extensive research in youth development, resiliency, and prevention, the Developmental Assets represent the relationships, opportunities, and personal qualities that young people need to avoid risks and to be successful. These 40 assets are powerful for all young people, regardless of their gender, economic status, family, or race/ethnicity. Levels of assets are better predictors of high-risk behaviors or of a youth's likelihood to thrive than poverty or being from a single-parent family.

The average young person experiences approximately 20.6 of the 40 developmental assets. Females report higher average levels of assets (21.3) than males (19.9). The most common assets reported by youth are: integrity (75%), achievement motivation (75%), and family support (73%), positive view of personal future (73%), positive peer influences (72%), honesty (71%), and responsibility (70%).

The least commonly reported assets by young people were: positive family communication (33%) youth as resources (32%), adult role models (32%), parent involvement in schooling (32%), community values youth (25%), and reading for pleasure (22%), and creative activities (20%).

The more assets that a youth has, the fewer high risk behaviors they will exhibit. Youth with low asset levels (0-10) assets engage, on average, in 7.7 of the 24 risk behaviors, compared to 0.7 risk behaviors among their peers who experience 31-40 assets.

Of the 40 assets, 20 are labeled as external assets. External assets revolve around positive experiences in the environment from parents, school and community. These external assets are further organized into four groups: support; empowerment; boundaries and expectations; and constructive use of time.

The remaining 20 assets are labeled as internal assets. These assets focus on the self-concept of the youth; their morals and ethics; and their desire to create for themselves a positive future. The 20 internal assets are also divided into four groups: commitment to learning; positive values; social competencies; and positive identity.

Adults who interact with youth in any setting have a responsibility to help youth development their assets. Assets don't happen accidentally. Most often adults must strategically plan opportunities and experiences to enhance certain assets. Adults who work with youth organizations such as 4-H; mentoring; scouts; summer recreation leagues and faith based organizations can implement activities that create an asset based experience.

City councils and county government can make youth development asset promotion the culture of their community to ensure that each youth have the opportunity to be successful...all because the adults surrounding them care about their future. More information on the Search Institute and the 40 developmental assets can be found at: <http://www.search-institute.org>

Winside St. Paul's Lutheran Ladies Aid meets in June

St. Paul's Ladies Aid met June 4 with five members and Pastor Blanken. Pam Minds, Kathy Janke and MarFaye Marotz were welcomed as guests with Pam Minds becoming a member. Claire Brogren presided at the business meeting. The LWML pledge was recited and the mite box offering was taken. Pastor Blanken had devotion on 1st Corinthians chapter 15 with hymn singing and closing in prayer. Minutes of the previous meeting and the treasurer's reports were approved. A new refrigerator was purchased and given in memory of LaJeane Marotz by her family. A letter that was received from Marilyn Sievert was read. Now that are two seminary students who have graduated and received their calls into the Pastoral field. The Aid will be looking for a new seminary student to sponsor this fall. Janice Mundil and Lorraine Prince gave a report on visiting the shut in's and Arlyn Vahlkamp will visit in June. The LWML district convention will be July 22 - 23 in Columbus. Anyone interested in attending is asked to contact Claire Brogren. Shut in Birthday cards were sent to Bryon Janke and Fauneil Weible. The Birthday song was sung for Claire Brogren and Pastor Blanken. Next meeting will be Saturday July 2 with Sally Pichler serving. The meeting closed in prayer.

We need to find time to tend to our spiritual home

We all have some type of emotional connection to and memories of the place we call home. A house has a foundation, roof, and walls; however, it isn't a home unless it is shared with people who we love and share joys and sorrows.

Home of course can include all those critters we love. Sadly, for some "home" brings memories of fear, shame, danger or anger rather than love, safety and security. Home is a basic need no matter if you live in a tiny house or a McMansion, home should be a place of comfort, security, rest and renewal.

In the gospel of Matthew, Jesus tells of two house builders, a wise and a foolish builder, one built on the rock the other on the sand (Matthew 7:24-27). Jesus tells us the SAME trials came to both homeowners: BOTH had rain; BOTH had floods, BOTH had winds. 1

The difference between the two wasn't just the foundation they selected but their practices. The owner of the house on the rock was wise, and put the words of Christ into practice, the other owner was foolish and didn't put Christ's words into practice and his house fell in the storm.

Too often we build homes on comfort, privacy, entertainment, and safety, without making room for God. Then when the rains of trial fall, or the floods of crises come, the winds of life beat against us, the once strong house falls apart. 2 Christians are not exempt from the storms of life; the difference is that as a Christian you can have a foundation that holds up through the storms!3 Psalm 90:1 NLT says "... Lord, through all the generations you have been our home!" The Bible is clear that God is our spiritual home, our refuge, our foundation. It's comforting to remember that no matter what we may face, we are protected and safe when we look to God as our permanent home.

A Word In Faith

By Teresa Bartlett
Pastor, Wayne Presbyterian Church

The Apostle Paul writes in 1st Corinthians, "For no one can lay a foundation other than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ." (1st Corinthians 3:11 ESV) Jesus Christ is the cornerstone of our faith, the foundation on which the apostles built the church and which every disciple builds their lives. A safe home must have a good foundation, walls and a roof, do we pay attention to how we build our spiritual homes? At its highest and best home should be a place of unconditional love, peace, overflowing joy and secure, we find these same things in our spiritual home with our Triune God. In life and in death, we belong to God and are at home in God, the reverse is also true God needs and wants to be at home in us. God needs and wants to abide in us. 4

A house needs regular maintenance, attention must be paid to the structure, the roof, plumbing, electrical, as well as the damage insects or rodents can cause. If we see an issue but do nothing, even a minor problem can develop into something that may bring the house down. Our relationship with Jesus needs to be maintained just as one must maintain a physical home. The building and maintenance of our spiritual house is ongoing work whether we are 6 or 96.

Sin can erode our foundation in Christ if we don't pay attention to the practices of faith. We may think regular church attendance is maintaining our spiritual house, or because we went to Sunday School as a child and know the stories of the Bible, we're good. That's only part of building and maintaining a firm foundation. The practices of worship, prayer, reading God's word and living as disciples of Christ help keep our faith foundation strong enough to withstand the storms and turn away from sin. Whether an individual or a church, if your life is just hearing God's word and not doing it, then your life is built on the sand and will not withstand life's storms. 5

Just as home is foundational in our growth and development throughout our lives our home may also be a way God has given us to reach out to others, to share gifts of welcome and hospitality. Think of the home of Mary and Martha and their offering hospitality, comfort, security, rest and renewal to Jesus and the disciples. Your home might be a catalyst for building a spiritual foundation for you and your family, as well as offering others welcome, comfort, and security. 6

Rev. Dr. Henry Fawcett was one of my seminary professors. He and his wife had no children of their own, but created a family through offering their home as a place of refuge. The Fawcett home was the alternate home for a dozen or more young men over the years, helping them build a foundation of faith with Jesus as the cornerstone. Several of these men went on to be pastors, reflecting the influence of their faith and Rev. Dr. Fawcett and his wife.

Building your life on Christ, the solid Rock, allowing Christ's voice to be the regular stabilizing, guiding, shaping, correcting, and comforting foundation in your life will make all the difference in and out of stormy weather. 7

With our lives built on the rock we know the words of the Apostle Paul to be true, "nothing can separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord . . . neither death nor life, nor angels, nor rulers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor powers, nor height, nor depth, nor anything else in all creation."

Thanks be to our Triune God who is the architect, foundation, and builder of each of our lives.

Word in Faith is a collaboration of Wayne Association of Congregations and Ministers (WACAM), an organization partially funded by the Wayne Community Chest.
