I had when we were "little fellows" folks couldn't have music in their homes unless someone could play the piano or organ.

Subsequent correspondence, which is given in detail in the statement, passing between the members of the state Educational Board of Arkansas and A. L. Caviness of Fairbury, a member of the Nebraska annual board, was to the effect that Dr. Thomas had not been definitely chosen. The board asserts Dr. Thomas dealt falsely with it.
The statement is signed by the four members of the board who voted to remove Mr. Thomas.

Over 70,000 people registered for land at the recent government lottery. These most familiar with its district contend that almost one of this land is worth the cost of buying, but the registration shows the scarcity of land in the United States and the land hunger of her citizens. The wise man will avail himself of the opportunity to buy the land adjoining Wayne which will be sold by Christensen Bros. and at the purchase price, Saturday, November 3.

THE HOME TOWN

The average western town depends upon the agricultural resources of the country in its domestic activity for its support. It is but little more than a local trading post. It has no jobbing houses, no manufacturing with which to bring money into the community from a large trade territory. Such a town, when it becomes a deserted village, sees the stores close their doors and every dollar saved by the small order houses of the town centers is forever lost to the community from which it comes; going into channels that carry it far and away from the locality where it was created in wealth from the soil was equivalent.

In any instance money was saved by sending away for goods that can be bought at home, there would not be so much room for criticism. She often, the item of freight is not so considered. Quality is not so carefully taken into account as it should be. Service is given for the reason—because they know the freight and freight rates, to make a true estimate of costs. You must be a good judge of all sorts of merchandise to be able to make a true comparison of quality. "The proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof," and so the proof of a great deal of merchandise is in its wearing qualities. Making a fine piece of furniture is a shoddy piece of goods.

When you send away for anything you pay in advance. You go to the depot for the shipment and in your own handling. You cannot make an immediate exchange if the goods are unsatisfactory. You cannot telephone the last minute for something to be forgotten. I can see you talking about service. A safe place is to buy of dealers at home, in whom you can place confidence. Are you giving your town a poor moral and financial support?

If America discourages the town, she will kill the nation.

MORGAN'S TOGGERY

O. E. WOOD EXPLAINS THE FARMERS' UNION TO CHEAPER DISTRIBUTION

Importance of Municipal Centers—Herald Urges Cooperation for Mutual Benefit.

In answer to the article appearing in the Wayne Herald last week, I wish to say that the Farmers' Union is a business organization among the farmers for the purpose of marketing all products of the farm more directly to consumers; thereby being able to get more money for his product, and the consumer more product for his money. Also, to get all supplies direct from the manufacturer and the mills thereby eliminating unnecessary cost in distribution. Now we are glad to have the cooperation of the towns in helping bring about more direct distribution for it will be harder and take as long as we make the fight alone, but we will win, for the farmer and the farmer are the foundation of all business. We want our rights as business men, which we have never had; that is to sell our products at cost of production plus a reasonable profit. Then the farmers will have more money, and as a direct result, the towns will be better. For when the farmer succeeds, all business succeeds. The following are the main purposes of the Farmers' Educational Cooperative Union of America:

To secure equity, establish justice, and apply the Golden Rule.
To discourage the credit and mortgage system.
To assist our members in buying and selling.

To educate the agriculture classes in scientific farming.

To teach farmers the classification of crops, domestic economy, and the process of marketing.

To systematize the methods of production and distribution.

To eliminate gambling in farm products by means of trade, cotton exchanges and other speculations.

To bring farming up to a standard of other industrial and business enterprises.

To secure and maintain profitable and uniform prices for cotton, grain, livestock, and other products of the farm.

NOTE: V. L. WOOD, Nebr. The above explanation appeared in last week's Winside Tribune. The Herald would not print on any organized effort that would be detrimental to the farmers—any organized effort that would not destroy rather than build up, that would not injure their interests indirectly and ultimately while seeming to help them presently.

If towns are worth anything to a country, the better and stronger they are made, the better it is for the territory they serve. If they are valuable, it is important to know just how they can be made better, and that will come not unless there is positive proof that the benefit to society—speaking in a broad sense—will exceed and justify the damage.

Mr. Wood suggests getting "all supplies direct from the manufacturer and the mills, thereby eliminating unnecessary cost in distribution." Dealers in towns are usually middlemen and where would they find it if the proposed action could be made to crystallize itself?

In the next breath, Mr. Wood cheerfully invites the cooperation of the towns. If it would be better for a farming community to have no flourishing town, no strong educational and social center, to help them presently.

On the other hand if the farmer doesn't like the farm, why doesn't he change in some other business? Because his training and experience have been along other lines, and he would soon find his successful career heading down the road of "disappointment" and failure. All lines of activity are important, and all are necessary for a well-balanced, prosperous and happy condition of society.

Mr. Wood mentions the Golden Rule, and the Herald favors its practice not only among farmers, but among townsmen. The Herald urges its practice among farmers and townsmen in buying and selling, in church, school and society generally. The Herald would have the Golden Rule bring men and women from "quarrels and quarrels" in a closer relationship—a clearer understanding of their ups and downs, their joys and trials, their hopes and fears. The Herald would have writers take the public more fully into their confidence, and show what they are doing to render service, and show whether they are adequately rewarded or not. Let there be organized cooperation among the farmers and townsmen for the publishing of the farm on the one hand and the town on the other, thus mutually working to secure equity, establish justice and apply the Golden Rule, as expressed by Mr. Wood.

Present Day Discontentment. At the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening, Bro. "Everyone is anxious for more of this world's goods, and this world's pleasures, and contentment has now become a religion with multitudes." In the face of this universal discontentment, he declared that God's law should control. "This shall be our motto: 'I will be content with what I have.'"

That John the Baptist, who preached to the employees of his day. "Be content with your wages," would be the motto today in any of our industrial centers. Not only the workmen, but the employees also were actuated by the spirit of greed and covetousness, and a larger justice was the object of the mob's anger. "Ministers of the gospel are as restless as others," he complained. "The majority of the preachers of today are longing for a change of place. They are restless as the children and more active congregations. They covet the larger salary and the more congenial surroundings. Love, who left Christ through his devotion of the world, is far more honored over the death of Mr. Deets, and many of the faculty and the students will attend the funeral at Upland. Mr. Deets died at Upland Tuesday night. He was 78 years old and was a large investor in real estate at Long Beach and elsewhere. He is reported to have left $1,000,000, which is willed entirely to his widow. Among the properties owned in Long Beach are several occupied by Deets families, one of which he only recently received a clear title through a supreme court decision after several years of litigation. He was also owner of the Brentwood apartments, Pico and Ninth streets, Los Angeles. Death resulted from over-eat of the stomach, which he had been afflicted for several years.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.

After the first frost, the backbone of summer never shows midseason form. We make concessions; it would be all right for a cycloped man to wear a monocle. Possibly there is less misery because life here sometimes beats death in the sporting game. It is hard for a woman to take proper care of her plants without sheltering the children.

AVOID SEDATIVE COUGH MEDICINES.

If you want to contribute directly to the cure of coughing, whooping and pneumonia, use cough medicines that contain cocaine, morphine, heroin, and other sedatives, when you have a cough or cold. An expectorant like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is needed. That cleans out the culture beds or breeding places for the germs of pneumonia and other germ diseases. That is why pneumonia never results from a cold when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It has a world-wide reputation for its cures, treatments no morphine or other sedative. Their Attachment.

"Do animals possess the sentiment of affection?" asked the school teacher of the little girl.

It has been suggested that birds, habitually make use of steam in traveling from one part of their range to another. MYSTERY OF SIGHT

Most Wonderful and Inexplicable of All Our Senses.

LIMITS OF THE HUMAN VISION.

There Are Colors All About Us That the Eye Cannot See, as We Cannot Distinguish Beyond the "Spectrum" of the Spectrum Red and Violet.

No two persons see precisely alike any more than any two animals hear precisely the same. The differences in these perceptions are due to the wide disparities not only in the organs of vision and hearing, but also to the differences in mental makeup of the individuals.

There are more involved problems as to sight than any other sense. It is the most wonderful and at the same time the most inexplicable sense that we possess. Every school child is taught that we see because rays of light reach the retina of the eye after passing through the transparent media, that curved surface which is in direct contact with the external air, the aqueous or watery humor, and the crystalline and vitreous humors.

The eye is thus made up of "three separate lenses, through which the light passes before reaching the retina. When observed from outside it is plain that all the lenses appear to be reversed in the eye. We see everything upside down, but in some way this reversal is corrected, so that things appear to us as they should, though this simple point has not yet been explained by the most advanced science.

But the eye sees not only images and light; it also distinguishes color. And here is one of the greatest problems with which the eye has to deal. The white light of a ray of sunshine is divided by a prism into all of the colors from red to violet, and it is one of the greatest triumphs of modern optics to have proved that what we call color is nothing but the spectrum with which some parts of the ray of sunshine strike upon the retina.

The eye can perceive waves striking it as long as they are within the violet, but there are many rays both below and below the red and violet, the extension of the spectrum as they rise. The human eye can perceive these because the lengths of the waves or the frequency with which they strike upon the retina are too great to be seen for the human eye. Yet they are most important, exerting a great influence upon human beings.

The ultra violet rays are known now by their chemical action and are termed chemical rays, while the infra red rays are heat rays and are known as such. So it is evident that there is much that the eye does not or cannot see, even with all the mechanical aids which have been provided in telescope, microscope, etc.

What really carried the message of light to the brain corner of vision, which is at the back of the head, is the optic nerve, and the fact that if you have a pin in the back of the head it is frequently due to eye strain is admitted by all physicians. If you feel that strain and headache located at the occipital, the back of the head, you can get an ophthalmologist and let the ophthalmologist will correct the error of vision.

Your eyes may be wrong in any number of ways. Either there may be a defect in some one of the lenses or the nerve may have become weakened or the muscles of accommodation by which the eye is focused may be wrong. The last is probably the commonest of troubles and may be easily corrected if promptly taken in hand by an expert.

Cross eyes are only defects of muscular control, and the latest researches point to the necessity for correcting the error as promptly as possible. Many parents make the fatal mistake of not calling in the specialist even when they notice that an infant "crosses the eyes." But it is in the early stages that this trouble may be best corrected, and the chances of permanent cure are the greatest.

It is never too early to get glasses upon the child who requires them. It is often too late to save the child from permanent injury of the most beneficial, most expensive and most useful organ.—New York World.

Mark of Social Distinction.

"The Hugginses," said Riberock Holmes, "are very popular with the wealthy classes."

"How do you know?" queried a companion of a brilliant answer.

"Because there are 40 million cross eyes in the present century in France or Great Britain."

"I don't see the point," said I.

"You auto," said Riberock.—Newark News.

DEATH OF JOHN DELFS.

John Delfs entered death's portals on Wednesday last week, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. J. Jensen, at the age of seven or eight years of almost continuous suffering. A few weeks ago, he was taken much worse, and from that time on, he grew weaker day by day until the saviour called him home, where suffering and sorrow are never known. The deceased was born at Bensburg, Germany, March 30, 1834, in 1858, he came to America, and located in Sargy county, Neb. Later, he moved to Douglas county. In 1880, he moved to Wayne county, and has lived here ever since, first locating south of Winside, and later, moving north of town, where he remained until he retired and moved to Winside a few years ago. In the month of February, 1888, he was joined in holy wedlock to Miss Margaret Passant. This happy union was born four children, and all live to mourn the loss of a most devoted and loving father. His wife preceded him to the grave one year and five months. The children are: Mrs. J. J. Jensen of Winside, Ed Delfs of Osmond, Mrs. Martin Kiebler of Osmond, and Hans Delfs of Winside. He tried to live a righteous life. His whole ambition was to raise his family in the proper way, and now he goes to reap his reward.
