THE SECOND NUMBER IN LECTURE COURSE AT STATE-NORMAL CHAPEL

Dr. T. B. Heckert Discusses Dentistry and Its Opportunities—Other Normal News.

The second number of the industrial and vocational lecture course arranged for the students of the Wayne State Normal was given Friday morning by Dr. T. B. Heckert, on the subject "Dentistry and Its Opportunities to Young People."

After giving an interesting sketch of the history of dentistry, Dr. Heckert proceeded to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of the profession. Among the disadvantages he mentioned are close confinement, strain on the eyes, history of nervous exhaustion, and a moderate income.

Any young man or young woman of average ability and good health and habits would make a good dentist. A dentist is a useful member of society and is assured employment and a fair degree of success in any community.

Income from dental office in Nebraska runs from $1,000 to $12,000 per year. The $12,000 practice was a partnership, the highest single practice in the state being $8,000.

Opportunities for the dentist outside of other practice: He may become a commissioned officer in the army or navy; may work in the steel, iron, or tin industry; may enter the employ of manufacturing corporations; may sell his services to penal and reformatory institutions; do research work or instruct in schools.

Requirements for admission to the dental college is a four-year high school education. It takes about three years to complete a dental course in a standard school, the total cost of which including tuition, books, instruments, etc., is about $3,000.

In closing Dr. Heckert gave an excellent discussion of the necessity of caring for the teeth of school children if they are to do good work and of the necessity of everyone maintaining a vigorous mouth.

The regular meeting of the Literary club was held Thursday evening, February 25. Two especially interesting features were a paper entitled "The Meaning of Tragedy" by Miss Ina Hughes and the reading of the story "The Courage of the Commonplace" by Mrs. Bright.

GETS NINETY DAYS IN JAIL FOR DESERTION

H. E. Hayes who has been employed at Winside, was arrested Tuesday on a charge of failure to support his family, and following a hearing before the county judge at this place, he was sentenced to ninety days in the county jail.

The defendant pleaded "not guilty" and at the hearing testified that since December 7 he had given his family a total of $45. The judge did not figure the amount was adequate support, and accordingly pronounced him guilty.

This kind of case gives rise to demand for a law that would permit authorities to set a man to work and appropriate his earnings for the support of his family. The man, provided with board and lodging is likely to suffer less punishment than the balance of the family. The state of Washington has a law, governing care of the kind under consideration, which might well be imitated in Nebraska.

LETTER FROM OBERMAN.

Last week Fred Schmill of the Wayne vicinity received a letter from his sister who lives in Germany. She says she wishes the war were over, but believes it will last until the enemies are defeated. She says that she is in the war and that the youngest one was wounded in the left arm, while the others are still in the trenches. She says four millions of fresh troops are ready to go to the front, and that one of them is her brother. She hopes that with God's help, Germany will be the victor, adding that Germany did not want war and that the emperor tried to avoid war. She says that England intends to starve Germany, but that she is not sure of it. She says that she is pretty well cared for the population.

In order to save money, no houses are being built. The women are industriously working in the fields. The horses of the farming people being used in the war, farm work being done by the women. The soldiers from the Russian army. She says Hindenburg, the chief of the eastern German army, captured many thousands in one day.

WAYNE BOY DOING Y. M. C. A. WORK IN ENGLAND.

Lincoln Journal, Feb. 25: Willdon Crossland, one of the Rhodes scholars from Nebraska attending the Oxford university in England, is one of the American students who have spent their winter vacations doing Y. M. C. A. work in the military camps of England. Mr. Crossland, while on duty, was six miles from Scarborough at the time of the German bombardment. Another time he was six miles from a Zeppelin attack. The Nebraska writes that he feels no danger in England; and especially since most of the Zeppelin fleet have been destroyed. However, he says, of late he has ceased making frequent journeys to the eastern coast of the islands. Mr. Crossland was graduated from the Nebraska Wesleyan university in 1913 and went to England the following October. His home is at Wayne, Neb.

The Y. M. C. A. workers serving in the British army as second lieutenants. The experience is novel, for the men, many of whom are Americans, do not compromise their neutrality by being in his majesty's service, nor do they incur the slightest risk.

The unusual "army service" was made possible by the enterprise of the association board of control in securing at the beginning of the war, permission to place in many of the larger camps rest rooms, either tents or huts, for the benefit of members, and for service as a social center to the camp as a whole. The experiment was so successful that after an inspection by several members of the parliament and of the British cabinet, it was determined to make the venture a special arm of the army service to accompany the army wherever it goes.

The Y. M. C. A. officials have not been slow to improve the offerings here. They have placed temporary marquees in practically every camp in England, and these are being superseded as rapidly as funds allow by permanent frame buildings with kitchen, sleeping apartments for the staff, and every other thing necessary for effective work.

This tent or building, usually sixty by forty feet, is without doubt the social center of the camp. Non-members as well as members are welcome to all the comforts and privileges of the place, an arrangement which precludes the possibility of the association becoming a select club. Magazines and newspapers, writing tables with free paper and envelopes, games of chess, checkers and dominoes are provided for the "Tommy's" while off duty. Especially attractive to many of the soldier musicians is the piano, which utters the most impossible combinations of harmony and discord in struggling through such classics as the "Lone" and "The Merry Widow," and improved types like "On the Mississippi." The luxury of a photograph adds to the general effect. A miniature postoffice, operated by the staff, does a thriving business in stamps and letters, and in receiving letters to be mailed. Perhaps the most popular and busy part of the whole establishment is the commissary department, a counter at one end of the tent, where soft drinks, cake, candy, cookies, tootsies and hot cocoa are sold for a minimum charge, usually two cents.

There is no idea of profit in selling to the soldiers. The association is happy if the receipts cover the expenditures, as is not often the case. The loss is looked upon as an investment which will be returned with interest after the war. The proposition would be much less of a financial success if it were not that the services of all the helpers except those of the voluntary and cook are entirely voluntary and gratuitous. Most of the workers take their annual vacation in this way, their railway expenses being paid to the camp and return. Their first duty is to make friends with the soldiers and to show them by serving them what the Y. M. C. A. stands for. Other duties are those of catering to their eight or nine hours a day, sweeping, filling the lamps and keeping the place presentable and always ready for inspection.

The work of the Y. M. C. A. is doing cannot be overestimated. Many of the men before leaving camp for the front have been profuse in their thanks for the comforts which they had enjoyed. They are excited to have anything and everything that is done for them. As a rule they are good, clean fellows. Many in the army medical corps are college men, who would have no place of entertainment and no social life except what the camp offers. There is no Y. M. C. A. concerts and location entertainments, are the weekly events which are anticipated with much pleasure, sometimes given by an obliging traveling company, often by the soldiers themselves. The officers frequent attendants at these affairs. It is not difficult to become intimate with the "Tommy," who derives an inordinate pleasure from mimicking the American pronunciation and the nasal twang, which one acquires with a cold, and from a frequent repetition of the most amusing expression, "I guess."

Although there are inconveniences such as wading about in the mud, being dressed by the continent rains and sleeping between damp blankets, all the officers are enthusiastic over the work. Many will spend their spring vacation with the army, while some go to France.

REV. GOBST SUFFERS PARALYTIC STROKE

Rev. William Gorst for many years a well known Nebraska minister of the Methodist church and who removed from Wayne to a ranch near Worland, Wyo., two years ago, for the benefit of his health, suffered a stroke of paralysis recently. He remained in the hospital, but will sincerely regret his misfortune.

The Worland, Wyo., Grit gives the following account of his experience:

While in town last Saturday Rev. Wm. Gorst was suddenly stricken with paralysis. He remained in the Gray Hospital until Wednesday afternoon, when he had sufficiently recovered to be able to be taken to his home northeast of town. At present Mr. Gorst, who showed wonderful recuperative powers, is doing nicely.

Mrs. Gorst came to town early Saturday forenoon in order to make some final arrangements for a meeting of the Upper Hanover Canal company, of which he is secretary, and which was to hold an important meeting that afternoon. He had put up his team in the Huber barn, and suddenly feeling ill, went into the office and lay down on a cot. No one paid particular attention to this, thinking it was merely some man who wanted to take a nap. He was probably about 10 o'clock in the forenoon. After dinner the other officials of the company began to wonder why he did not appear, to attend the meeting, and finally they phoned to Mr. Gorst's home.

They were told that he had left home early in the forenoon, and that Mr. Gorst has worked so hard in the interest of the company, they began to look all over for him. Finally they found his team and happened to enter the office about 3 o'clock, they found him where he had lain down in the forenoon. He was immediately taken to the hospital and placed under the care of Dr. Gray.

Mr. Gorst was paralyzed on the entire right side, caused by the rupturing of a blood vessel at the base of the brain, but is doing nicely at present and will be able to be moved again in a short time, it is hoped, feeling as well as ever. The day before he spent the entire day at the site of the big flume south of town, working in the cold in order to get things in shape so as to make a report at the meeting of the stockholders the next afternoon, and it is thought that the exposure helped to cause the stroke.—The Worland (Wyo.) Grit.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

First Baptist Church. (Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor). At last we have made definite arrangements regarding our special meetings. These are to begin next Monday. We have two splendid helpers coming to us. We feel like our plans this spring ought to meet the needs of the field most perfectly. Mr. Waldo, who will do the preaching for us, is known to be a strong of the Wayne people. He is a real, sympathetic preacher. He has a pastor's heart, and a gentleman's manner. He has recently held a short series of meetings with the students of Grand Island. President Taft speaks in the highest terms of his services to the college. For over four years Brother Waldo has been the successful pastor of the First Baptist Church in this church. His church loves him and have good reasons for doing so. You will be glad to hear Mr. Waldo preach.

Prof. Ira Deal of Waterloo, Iowa, will be our singer. As a soloist, a choir leader, a hymn writer and a Christian gentleman, he comes highly recommended. Those who have heard Professor Deal speak in highest praise of his ability in song and the genuineness of his work. He will come on Monday. He will bring sufficient song books for all to have one to use.

These two men will be our helpers. They are not going to do the work themselves. They cannot. Let every member of our church be their helper. Let us start our work off next Sunday with a strong, enthusiastic service. Concentration of effort in work and prayer will be necessary for all of us.

The pastor is away a few evenings this week helping Brother Harris at Norfolk. He will be here Sunday and will preach at both services. Miss Myrtle Herring will have charge of the Young People's meeting Sunday evening.

To-morrow (Friday) afternoon there will be a missionary tea at the home of Mrs. Alter, beginning at 3 o'clock.

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church. Rev. F. E. Blessing, Pastor. Sunday school 10 a. m. Morning worship 11 a. m. Luther League 6:45 p. m. Evening worship 7:45 p. m. The subject of the sermon for next Sunday morning will be "The Ascend of Man." 2 Cor. 4:16. Man is the most wonderful creature in existence. He is the most complex of God's creatures. He is a quick, intelligent being. He is the only one of the latter the man of the man. Each of these natures possesses a characteristic peculiar to itself. The characteristic of the outward nature is, it passes away, it perishes. This is very evident when we see men, when they are in their physical existence, when they are fully developed. At this period they are stronger and more active than at any other period in their life. Then we notice that they begin to lose their strength, they become less active. Their limbs become stiff, their muscles hard and set, so that it is difficult for them to get about. The outward man perisheth. But on the other hand the characteristic of the inward man is, renewal or development. This is the ascent of man.

In the evening the subject of the sermon will be "Seeking Jesus," John 6:24.

The topic of the Luther League will be "Killing the Fair," 2 Tim. 4:7. All young people are invited to the Luther League meeting. Lenten services will be held during holy week, March 22-April 4. There will be a meeting of the church council on Friday evening in the pastor's study.

Choir rehearsal Thursday evening in the study of the church.

Catechetical class Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in the study of the church.

Cardinal invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. S. Xneophon Cross, Pastor). Evangelistic meetings have been announced to begin on March 22 to be conducted by Mr. William J. Challosser of Omaha. Special attention is called to the evening service for next Sunday. The entire service will be in charge of the choir and will be mostly a program of music.

tribute of the church this week in which the various bulletins of the church and the church boards can be placed to that every one can be supplied with our church literature. We have many screened members in the Teachers' Training class last Sunday morning and there is room for seventeen more. Come and bring a friend with you. Visitors are always welcome in this class. A new class of students has been secured and will be in session next Sunday.

Church going is a means of grace, and divinely appointed. It is helpful and restful. It is a fine investment of your time. It develops the best powers of the man. But, too easily neglected. Absence from next Sunday's services will make it easy to stay the next week.

The Y. P. S. C. E. will meet at 6:30 on Sunday. The subject will be "How to Make this a Happier World." The lesson may be read in Proverbs 3:13-18. Mrs. C. F. N. Klassen will lead the meeting. We make an appeal to all the young people of the church and to the students. Come in and spend an evening with us and get acquainted. Let us give good example to your children and your neighbors by attending some Sunday school regularly. Our doors swing a welcome to you, and you will find our services interesting, instructive and helpful to you. Come and join us. We have them graded for every age, from the babies to gray haired men and women. There is a seat and a welcome and an opportunity awaiting you.

Methodist Church. (Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor). The Children's Ministry societies meet in the church Sunday afternoons once a month. The last meeting of the society was on the first of February with an excellent attendance and a very interesting lesson led by Miss Merriman. The meeting next Sunday afternoon will be led by Mrs. Crossland. Let every one come and bring some one else, as this is our first thank offering for the year. Everybody is welcome. Come and help in this great work for the Master.

The pastor received four members into the church on probation last Sunday morning. The church is glad to welcome these new members and will be glad to welcome many others who should be identified with the church whenever they are present. We are sorry to lose from our church anti community. Bro. J. F. Marsteller and family who are leaving us this week for their new home in Chadron, Neb., where Mr. Marsteller will be near his business interests. The church gave the Marstellers a farewell reception in the church on Monday evening.

The pastor is preaching a series of sermons dealing with the events of the Passion week. The sermon last Sunday morning was on the Triumphal Entry. The subject for next Sunday morning's sermon will be "Monday—The Day of Parables." The Brotherhood of the Methodist church will have charge of the evening hour of worship. Prof. C. H. Bright will speak on "Some Phases of Missionary Work Abroad." Professor Bright has been in the far east for some time is competent to speak on the subject from first hand observations and will, doubtless, make a very interesting and helpful message. We hope that our people will make it convenient to attend the special revival meetings at the Baptist church. Let us lend a hand for the expansion of the Master's kingdom.

Evangelistic Meetings. Special evangelistic meetings are to begin at the Baptist church next Sunday. Beginning Monday evening the pastor is to be assisted by two very strong helpers. Rev. W. R. Haggerty will be the first. The pastors of Lincoln, will do the preaching. There is something very attractive in Mr. Waldo's preaching. He is strongly sympathetic. He loves men and seeks to help them. His sermons are large, manly, hearty and sound. They like his sermons. You will like them, too. Hear his first message next Monday evening.

Prof. Ira L. Deal, soloist and choir director from Waterloo, Ia., will also be a helper. The people of Wayne enjoy and appreciate good singing. Prof. Deal comes to us as one who is able to meet this demand. He is a man whom people that have known him, recommend very highly. His solos are especially his "Chorus work is full of heart and life." These two men will be a strong force in the religious life of the community. You want to hear them.

THE CIGARETTE LAW. Complaint is made that the anti-cigarette law in Nebraska is not effective, and accordingly a bill to amend it has been introduced in the legislature, the purpose being directed wholly at safeguarding the young. The Norfolk Daily News of February 6 contained the following editorial comment on the proposed change.

PROTECT BOYS BY LAW. One of the acts which the present Nebraska legislature should perform for the good of the state is to enact a law which will prevent the sale to or purchase by boys of cigarettes. The present law forbids the sale of cigarettes to any and all persons and it has so overstepped the mark that it is utterly disregarded. There is no town in Nebraska where cigarettes are under the ban. And the evil feature of the situation is that little boys can and do procure them as well as grown up men. Every state that has tried an absolute prohibition on cigarettes has had the same experience. Such a law is so sweeping, so drastic in its provisions that its enforcement is impossible, and the law becomes, as a result, nothing more than a farce. Nobody thinks of trying to enforce the measure, because that would be impossible. And consequently the bars are thrown down indiscriminately to men and little boys alike. A law which begets not even a pretense of enforcement, is worse than no law at all. A law that is wantonly violated, and the violation winked at by the entire public, is a demoralizing influence in any community because it breeds disregard for all laws.

arettes to all men can be enforced. That fact has been demonstrated by actual experience in Nebraska, in Minnesota, in Pennsylvania, in Oklahoma, in South Dakota and in many other states. It is being demonstrated in Nebraska today, and has been demonstrated every day since the law was introduced. But a law forbidding the sale of cigarettes to boys under 18 can be enforced. The very men who violate the present law would help enforce such a law as applied to growing boys.

By making the penalty severe, dealers who sold to minors would be effectually stopped in their traffic. Minnesota two years ago repealed a law such as Nebraska has and enacted one forbidding the sale to minors. Improvement has been marked. Samuel Adams, for fifteen years superintendent of schools at Pittsburgh, Pa., has recently made a statement that marked improvement has resulted in Pennsylvania as a result of a similar law forbidding the sale to minors. In many states the social improvement societies, and the W. C. T. U. have been instrumental in repealing such laws as Nebraska now has, because of the impossibility of their effective enforcement, and a substitution of a law prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to minors because the law can be enforced and because it is among the growing boys that the damage is done unless there is a law that prevents the sale to them.

It is better to have winter linger somewhat than to have it come back suddenly with spring work ahead. The season is well along and farmers need every day to get their feeding done in time.

With the return of springtime when renewed animation will be seen on every hand, let Wayne business interests make a renewed and determined effort to extend and multiply trade relations.

Efficiency in the world of business is in the world of mechanics is what brings big results. Carefully working out and executing details and making persistent advertising a duty, will pay the price exacted by success.

The buy-it-now movement has awakened widespread interest and it is said to have produced desired results to a considerable extent. The intention was not to encourage extravagant buying, but early buying—the purchase now of things needed a few months hence.

New restrictions imposed on both sides to the European war on American trade will increase the hardships attending purely humanitarian efforts. Multiplying difficulties in the way of reaching European ports may prevent this country from performing the service to mankind which we are able to perform. Grim war, it is indeed, all that Sherman said it was.

The Fremont Tribune thinks there is enough ground on which to deride the democratic administration without ringing in the European war as a source of division and opposition. The Tribune concludes editorial treatment of the subject by saying: "It will not be for the country's good for a division among our congenial citizenship along racial or nationality lines. These things are sure to leave scars that will not readily disappear. They react upon ourselves. The way for us to remain neutral is to remain neutral." It will not help any to divide into different camps according to our sympathies in the European war. To do that would be to do the very thing for which we would be condemning the administration."

The Wayne State Normal is carrying out a program of lectures treating of different vocations. Men selected to handle the subjects speak from experience as well as practice. Medicine and dentistry have been presented, and will be followed by other vocations. Students will learn more of the inside—more of the practical. If any have figured that there are soft berths in any profession or business, and that it will work and big pay, the delusion is likely to be shattered. Students will learn that to succeed in any line of endeavor, hard work is not the least among essentials. The practical men of experience tend to broaden the student's viewpoint and enable the student to be more useful as a teacher or select some other vocation with clearer understanding.

The board after due consideration orders the county treasurer to refund the said sum of $10.29 to said under protest.
Comes now John Kay and says that for the year 1914 he was assessed on eleven hogs in Logan precinct at $19.25 actual value, for $385.00 assessed value; that he paid said tax under protest, amounting to $11.45 for the reason of a gross error in assessment; that the assessed value should be $208.50 actual value or $39, assessed value, which would make said tax on said hogs figure $1.16, and he now asks that said tax or difference in tax, amounting to the sum of $10.29, be refunded him, and that the county treasurer be ordered to refund the said John Kay the sum of $10.29. The board after due consideration rejects said protest, being a duplicate.
Whereas, on January 6, 1915, James O'Connell appeared before the board and made request for county aid, and upon motion was allowed, and further notice, the sum of $400 per week for groceries and wearing apparel; and the county to furnish him the board no order said allowances discontinued from that date.
Comes now Lambert W. Roe county treasurer, and makes application as provided by law, for clerk hire in the sum of $600.00 for the year 1915. On motion it is hereby resolved to allow the county treasurer to retain from the fees of the office over and above the sum of $200.00 as treasurer's salary, the sum of $800.00 for clerk hire, provided by law, and collected by the office of the county treasurer shall make in the aggregate the sum of $2000.00; all fees earned by the office in excess of this amount to be paid into the treasury of the county as provided by law.
Whereupon the board adjourned to March 16, 1915.
Charles W. Reynolds, Clerk.

PLEA FOR RAILROADS.

Hastings dispatch in Tuesday's Omaha "World Herald": "William H. Hirt of Columbus, Mo., editor of the Missouri Farmer, addressed a large body of representative business men today on general business conditions and his invitation to railroad men to attend a conference for the plea for the right to raise passenger fares from 2 to 2-1/2 cents in Nebraska. F. N. Clark, president of the Commercial club, presided at the meeting.
The railroads are asking for an increase in fares at this time, simply a fact bearing," said Mr. Hirt. "The interstate commerce commission told the president of the American Railways to carry their case to the people, to present it in the form of public expression, and that is precisely what we are attempting to do. We are living in the era of letting the people rule, and we are now assuming that the people are the ones to pass upon our case; therefore, we are here presenting it to them, and you know they will hear us fairly."
"American business is in the position of a patient who has been compelled to take the medicine of a dozen different doctors, each doctor having prescribed a different medicine with particular kind of nostrum. As a result we are in the throes of an industrial nausea. Securities and investments are generally discredited."
"Touching the broad situation, Mr. Hirt made the showing that the railroads of the country pay out for labor almost 50 per cent of every dollar they earn. He showed that it cost practically double to operate a railroad what it cost a few years ago. For instance in the matter of a railroad pay to employes, he showed that in fourteen years the pay of engineers had increased 36 per cent, firemen 64 per cent, conductors 46 per cent, ordinary trainmen 70 per cent, with similar increases all along the line. The same was true of supplies and equipment. In 1900 railroads paid $1.44 a ton for coal; now they pay $1.81. Then they paid 38 cents for ties; now they pay 52 cents and up in Nebraska for

The "Tom Thumb Wedding" was given in the M. E. Church on Friday evening by about sixty children with children from three to ten years of age. The church was filled with a large and appreciative audience. The dainty costumes of the children made the entertainment one of the most interesting seen in Carroll. The party seemed especially fitted to the children and the spirit in which they entered them was pleasing to all. Little Marjorie Linn was the bride and she was induced a very interesting one. Edward James made an excellent bridesman. In fact, each child deserves special mention, but on account of their great number this would be an impossibility. It was a complete imitation of a "society" wedding, and those who were in charge are to be congratulated on the success of the entertainment.

He fled the horse out into the horse lot, and nearly as any one knows, it whirled and kicked him before he knew what was coming. How long he lay in the snow is not known, but long enough to become thoroughly chilled. Although unconscious he finally found his way to the house and gave Mrs. Douthitt a terrible scare when he entered the kitchen, with a gash that required several stitches, in the side of his face, and four teeth kicked out. Mrs. Douthitt hastily summoned a physician and some men to help and Wednesday evening Mr. Douthitt is reported as improving nicely.

HERALD EXCHANGE CLEANINGS OF WEEK

Sunday Service.
Wakefield Republican: The impression is prevalent that the electric light service ordinance does not include Sunday in its 24-hour service. For the information of our readers we say that we have read the ordinance carefully. Sunday is not mentioned and no day or period is excepted from the 24 hours; the ordinance does not even leave to the discretion of the village board. We believe the present plan of running when needed on Sunday is sensible. We mention the matter merely to correct a mistaken idea.

Seeing America.
Bixby in Lincoln Journal: It is recommended as a measure of economy that Americans for the next thirty years confine their sight-seeing to America. The discovery of this country is comparatively recent, but its mountains and lakes and the Yosemite, and grand canyon of the Colorado, and the buttes of Dawes county, were all old when the Pyramids were built. The most to be seen in Europe for the next twenty years will be deserted trenches, mangled cables, poisoned gas, and broken hearts.

Campaign Circulars.
Bixby in Lincoln Journal: A bill has been passed forbidding the printing and circulating of unsigned campaign circulars. Such a law, if it can be enforced, will curtail mightily the activities and pleasures of some of the most capable liars "we have with us." No method of dignifying an unconfirmed rumor is more effective than the anonymous pamphlet which permits the author to say what he has heard, and add to it all he wants to hear, without fear of successful contradiction. A villain of this character is hard to catch, but once in the toils, this new law aims to make him sorry he ever did it.

To Remedy Tax Dodging.
Aurora Republican: Tax dodging will lose much of its popularity in Nebraska if House Bill No. 478 becomes a law. This is a bill which personal list each year, giving the amount of personal property received, assessed, and paid by the man, woman, firm and corporation. While it will make a little business for the printers, the fees are held down to a merely nominal figure, and as experience has proven that it will have the effect of vastly increasing the total amount it cannot be held objectionable on account of the expense. The bill has a fair show to pass, and it certainly should prove a wholesome bit of legislation.

The Small Town Daily.
Fremont Tribune: The failure of the "Drug Free Press" at Grand Island has resulted in an instructive and interesting symposium contributed by several daily papers published in towns of the Grand Island class. The sad feature of it all is that in such towns, whether there be one daily paper or two, the real money is that there is no money in running a daily. A daily paper in a small town is a metropolitan luxury, not a small-town necessity to the extent that it becomes a profitable investment. The newspaper game is a fast one. It involves expenditure of tremendous energy and where the field is small, the reward is generally the irreducible minimum. It is possible for weeklies to get out with a profit where dailies must be perpetual losers. Business men do not want to invest in newspaper in small towns. The rewards are not sufficiently alluring. The temptation that proves seductive is the publicity that newspaper work gives. There are those who wish to see their names in print and who are flattered with the attention their ideas in the paper. But the public doesn't care a whoop for them. They win only by strenuous work and upon plain merit, and the chances for financial success are slim that for purely business reasons business men do not invest their money in small town dailies.

The Past and Present.
Lincoln Trade Review: Lincoln's second inaugural address delivered fifty years ago almost to a day from this writing is given place in Lincoln Herald's recent issue. The Des Moines address and in many ways and with many people, it is given first place over any of the great historical papers of the martyred president. At the time of this second inaugural, the Civil War was yet in full force. Now, fifty years later, this world is in a conflict as great in its war features among civilized nations as the Civil war was great in the United States. Many will draw a parallel between times then and times at the present. The way Lincoln put righteousness above even other surrounding condition, is illustrated in the following extract from that wonderful second inaugural address that stirred the American people as has no other inaugural of any president since the foundation of this republic. In speaking of the war then raging and in the hope for its conclusion, the extract from the inaugural address is one of the great classics in literature: "Heaven read the same Bible, and pray to the same God; and each invokes His aid against the other. It may seem strange that any man should dare to ask a just God's assistance in 'wringing their bread from the sweat of other men's faces'; but let us not forget that we are not judged. The prayers of both could not be answered—that of neither has been answered fully—'The Almighty has his own purposes. 'We unto the world because of offenses' for it must needs be that offenses come, but we are to be judged by whom the offense cometh. If we shall suppose that American slavery is one of those offenses which in the providence of God, must needs come, but which, having continued through his appointed time, he now wishes to remove, and that he gives to both North and South, this terrible war, as the war due to those by whom the offense came, shall we discern therein any departure from those divine attributes which the believers in a living God always ascribe to him? 'Fondly we hope—fervently we pray—that this mighty scourge of war may speedily pass away. Yet, if God wills that it continue until all the wealth piled by the bondsmen of 250 years of unrequited toil shall be sunk, and until every drop of blood drawn with the lash shall be paid by another drawn with the sword, as was said 3,000 years ago, so still it must be said, 'The judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether.'"

DARING COSSACKS

Russian Rough Riders an Old and Famous Body.

ONCE KNIGHTS OF FREEDOM.

In Former Times They Were Known Entirely as Defenders of the Poor and the Oppressed—Deadly as Marksmen and Experts With the Sword.

The popular conception of the Russian Cossack is a whiskered avroty who rides with bow and arrow, and comes to do acts of pillage and of rape and then goes back again into the bosom of the tall grass from which he came. By many he is supposed to be long to a legendary life whose history stretches back into the blackness of the dark ages from which he has not yet emerged.

No; the Cossack is in many respects like the simple Russian peasant. It is not he who is the cowboy of the steppes, whose life is made in the saddle in his wild villages far from being oppressors, the Cossacks were once known entirely as the defenders of the poor and the oppressed. They belonged to an order of rustic "knight" the "knightly", the Knights of Freedom.

The name Knight of Freedom originated in the middle of the 14th century and was applied to men driven from the more settled countries and who under the blue sky of the steppe led a life of freedom without the interference of kings, potentates and powers. There was a time when noble land heavily taxed upon the subject and human life was held in small account.

The thirteenth and the fourteenth centuries saw the Cossacks developed into communities in the immediate neighborhood of the river Dnieper and along the hills and thither to keep watch and over the domain of the emperor. The cowboy gallop of the great southwest in this country, who are now disappreciated in their American life, are Cossacks in spirit. When they become cavaliers, Texas Rangers or rough riders they are American Cossacks.

There were some criminals among the Cossacks, but they had no place in the Cossack community. Some were behind them all their past. Some were worse for political reasons, others had been hunted for taking into their own hands the redress of some wrong or what avails a name after all? When the officers of the state came inquiring into the Cossack community for some delict and they found that nothing was known of them at all, for the Cossacks permitted men to divert themselves of former titles and to begin the free life with a new nomenclature. To them the demerit were "Big Nose", "Yellow Bullfins" or some other nicknamed names.

While other people paid taxes the Cossack was subject to no such luxurious levy. He was known to the power of his sword and his pistols. He insisted always that he was not to be assessed, but that he should give military service when Russia required it of him.

When the Cossack communities were first founded they inhabited only by men. The Kazanets took over the name of Cossack, but it is a name which has been many changes. The Cossacks have families and their own home life. At first, however, young and daring they were sent to hunt for wild beasts, Cossacks, and there was no system of civil government more practical than was the observance of the laws of the steppe.

"Oh, a constituent of mine from Elwood. He's been a follower of mine throughout my political career, and he voted for me whenever he had the chance." "How much did he borrow?" "Fifty cents," replied Silvery, with a slight upward turn of the mouth. "Well, damned Kern, that fellow is smarter than I thought he was. He can tell the difference between a dollar and a fifty cent one." Philadelphia Inquirer.

A BABEL OF TONGUES.

The World's Languages Now and What May Be in the Future.

How many men, if asked how many languages there are in the world, could give anything like an accurate answer. The very fact that a man is able to speak languages rarely exceeds two implies the massive tongue in many ancient straggle, but it is not without some of the most curious instances. There are more than 600 languages spoken by mankind, while the number of dialects exceeds this.

A century hence the probability is that there will only be four languages in importance: the world of the West Europe may produce a newer and a stranger language than English (Spanish, Italian, French, German, etc.) and in Australia there will be a new language, the "maori" language. Spanish will be used in South American states. Then there may take on some more richly in the world of the West and the East, and in Asia and in Oceania. So that in future these four languages will enter into competition in a never-ending competition—Exchange.

ERRORS OF SCULPTORS.

Statues in England Need Far Colder Blunders in Modeling. Some of the statues in public places in England are notable for certain errors in their carving. One of the former of Sir Anthony Ashley at Wiltshire, Somerset. Carved out of the marble, the statue is a faithful representation of a cabbage, indicating that Sir Anthony introduced the vegetable from Holland into the country.

Even more peculiar is the carving on one of the four panels on the Queen Victoria statue in George Square, Glasgow. The statue is a faithful representation of a cabbage, indicating that Sir Anthony introduced the vegetable from Holland into the country.

Our Longest Canal.

The longest canal in the United States is the Erie canal, which covers a distance of 263 miles. It is the longest canal in the world, and is the longest canal in the world. It is the longest canal in the world, and is the longest canal in the world.

Beauty of Zambezi Falls.

To reach the site of the scene of the Zambezi Falls, Rhodesia, one must have time to linger and watch the ever-changing scene. The depths of the river are a hundred feet or more, and the river is a hundred feet or more deep. The river is a hundred feet or more deep, and the river is a hundred feet or more deep.

She Was Frank.

The moving picture Frank was having trouble in getting one of the scenes. The girl was supposed to resist an attempt to kiss her, but the rehearsal was far from satisfactory.

Modern Supercalculations.

"My ancestors came over in the Mayflower." "Yes?" rejoined Mrs. Cummins. "Yes, as they were bound to go." "Yes, as they were bound to go." "Yes, as they were bound to go."

A Matter of Years.

"The woman said she was a hundred and water than on charity. The tramp said she was a hundred and water than on charity. The tramp said she was a hundred and water than on charity."

THACKERAY WAS BORED.

Amusing Incident of the Author's Second Visit to Boston.

During Thackeray's second visit to Boston Mr. James T. Fields, his host, was asked to invite Thackeray to meet with a group of students at the club which was to be held at the house of a distinguished member.

Then began a series of gentlemanlike fates impossible to describe. He threw an imaginary paper—most of course upon the floor—and he turned to the speaker several times with a paper folded, which he caught up for the purpose.

Never Give Up!

Be not weary; discouraged or out of humor because practice falls short of theory in some particular; if it happens to be beaten; return to the charge—Mareus Aurelius.

Does Your Spine Shiver?

"A shivering spine" says a psychologist, "is the highest form of artistic temperament. Does a shiver run up and down your spine when you listen to beautiful music or read a stirring novel? If so, you are a true artist." "Does a shiver run up and down your spine when you listen to beautiful music or read a stirring novel?"

Now Arise, O Israel!

He bought for it cents a quarter. She desired, while the artist was back to a friend of friends, so she asked, "How much for a piece?" "It is the same," he replied, "as you said calmly, laying down four dimes."

An Artful Dodger.

Mr. Balfour is credited with knowing more good stories about the house of commons than any other member. One of the same house was the speaker of the press gallery just about 100 years ago. He had an excellent opinion of the British House of Commons.

SEARCHLIGHTS IN WAR.

How They Are Worked by the Army and Navy.

In modern warfare the searchlight is invaluable. On dark nights at sea it is the only means of finding the enemy. On land it is the only means of finding the enemy.

According to the Navy and Army. Illustrating, one advantage of this distant control is that the objects picked out by the searchlight are seen more quickly and more definitely, for the operator stands behind the light and looks along the beam his vision is not so far as that of the operator. A second advantage is that the light can be placed in an exposed position without endangering the man who runs it.

VIRTUE OF AN APPLE.

The apple has become so familiar as the commonest of all fruits that its value as man's greatest friend in the treatment of various ailments is realized. It was called the "fruit of the gods" because it was believed to be the magic renewer of youth to which the gods were indebted for their everlasting growing old and feeble.

Male acid of apple neutralizes the acidity of the stomach. It is a good fruit to eat and it helps to keep us young. Apples are good for the complexion, as their acids drive out the impurities of the skin.

Does Your Spine Shiver?

"A shivering spine" says a psychologist, "is the highest form of artistic temperament. Does a shiver run up and down your spine when you listen to beautiful music or read a stirring novel?"

Napoleon as an Editor.

The Alton Telegraph says already of sufficient importance over a century ago—promptly a dispatch from Napoleon. On Oct. 20, 1807, he wrote to Chateaubriand, his foreign minister, complaining that "the latest edition of the Almanac de Gotha is full of errors."

One of Many.

"What kind of work could you possibly do around here?" "I'm in the line of a round handy man. I can hold a door open, light a match for you, look out for you, see if it's time for you to drop letters down the chute or tell folks you're out when you're in."

Peg o' My Heart

SYNOPSIS

Frank O'Connell, young Irish patriot, is shot and wounded by British soldiers while making a home speech. He is aided by Angela Kingsnorth, an English society girl, who defends him.

Angela takes O'Connell to her brother's home and helps to nurse him. He recovers, and she and the girl become fast friends.

One day in November Angela received the following letter:

Dublin, Ireland, Nov. 18. — Dear Lady of Mercy—I have served my sentence in the horrible punishment of my treatment, of my surroundings, of the deplorable conditions I have had to endure. I have been in the hospital for some time, but I have never been able to get my strength back. I am still very weak and I am sure that I shall never be able to get my strength back. I am sure that I shall never be able to get my strength back.

They have offered me the position of doctor in the hospital. I am sure that I shall never be able to get my strength back. I am sure that I shall never be able to get my strength back.

My dear Mr. O'Connell—I am glad to hear that you are well. I am sure that I shall never be able to get my strength back. I am sure that I shall never be able to get my strength back.

CHAPTER V. Angela Kingsnorth stayed only long enough in Ireland to permit of Angela's recovery. He went into the sick-room and found her lying on the bed. She turned her head on him and refused to speak to him.

For a moment a flush of pity for his brother's sake came into her heart. She looked so frail and worn, so despondent. After all, she was his sister, and she had done so much for him. He would not let her go. He would not let her go.

To this Angela sent no reply. "When the fever had passed and she was stronger arranged to write him for the journey to London.

As Angela walked unaided in his carriage, leaning on the arm of the driver, she felt the force of the kick her brother gave her. She passed him without a word. Nor did she speak to him once again.

When they reached London she refused to go to the Kingsnorths' house, where her brother lived, but to a distant cousin of her mother's, Mrs. Wrexford, and made her home with her, as she had often done before.

Her communication with her brother, despite the ministrations of her sister, Monica, and Mrs. Wrexford, was a gentle life, while capped widow, whose only happiness in life seemed to be in worrying over other people's troubles.

One day she begged Mrs. Wrexford never to speak of her brother again. Mrs. Wrexford respected her wishes and never again mentioned him.

When O'Connell's letter came Angela showed it to Mrs. Wrexford, together with her reply. "Do you intend if I see him here?"

"The kind that comes to me?" "The kind that comes to me?" "The kind that comes to me?"

"Or good fortune?" "Or good fortune?" "Or good fortune?"

"I do not consider the widow. I only listen to what she says." "I do not consider the widow. I only listen to what she says."

"I do not consider the widow. I only listen to what she says." "I do not consider the widow. I only listen to what she says."

He stretched out her hands to him. "My love is yours, just as yours is mine. Let us join our lives and give them to the suffering and the oppressed."

"I don't think what I am." "You are the best that is in me. We are at odds."

"Your favour was crucified so that his people should be redeemed. You have given the soul of your body so that your people may be free."

"I am happy now and he volunteered to a whisper." "Three days afterward Nathaniel Kingsnorth returned late at night from a political campaign."

It had been a great evening. "I think that life was about to give him what he most wished for, the dearest ambition was, apparently, about to be realized."

He had been called on as a staunch Conservative to add his quota to the already wonderful array of brilliant speakers of sponsored citizens and admirable speakers. Kingsnorth had excelled himself. Never had he spoken so powerfully.

"Then arose a picture of her sister Monica."

Irish life his brothers were enthralled. When he sat down the cheering was prolonged.

When he left the gathering he had a hand of iron and driving them to vote according to his judgment and his desires.

He poured out a liquor and stood singing it as he turned over the letters brought by the night's post. One arrested the letter and read it aloud. As he read the letter every vestige of color left his face.

CHAPTER VI. A House of Cards. "The letter slipped from his grasp. All his dreams had vanished in a moment. His hopes of cards had toppled down. His ambitions were surely and positively destroyed at one stroke. He mechanically turned the letter and read it aloud. It had been his death sentence. It could not have affected him more cruelly."

ly shared by Carroll-people. It is inconceivable that advertising Carroll every week in a paper covering the whole county does the town or any of its institutions an injustice. Advertising is worth anything—and the Index would contend that it is—a service which conveys to all parts of the county Carroll news every week gives advantage and benefit rather than injury. The Herald pays for the service and is careful to publish news that will help the town and its people. In return for the service, the Herald has not asked Carroll merchants to advertise in its columns nor furnish job work as evidence of appreciation for the good done, although the size of the Herald's circulation even in the Carroll vicinity would fully warrant judicious use of the paper's advertising columns. The injustice to Carroll, mentioned by the Index, would be done if Carroll correspondence were eliminated from the Herald—not only get Carroll news, but county news generally—news from the county board, local courts, and county seat generally, and news from Winside, Holy Hills, Sholes and other points in the county. The Herald makes it possible for Carroll people to have, besides news of their own town and vicinity, the news gathered from all parts of the county—in one paper, in addition to being eliminated, it is more convenient to take a paper encompassing everything of interest rather than being compelled to take a half-dozen papers necessary to serve the same purpose. The Herald makes the Index charge a reflection, see that its futile attempt to choke off Herald representation in Carroll, which, if successful, be such an injustice to Carroll and vicinity that the result would operate as a boomerang rather than a triumph for that paper.—Herald Editor. AT JONES' 1915 WALL PAPERS Distinctive wall papers! Something unusually new and up-to-date in color and design is shown in our very complete line. At no other time in the history of the wall paper industry have plain papers, or papers without patterns enjoyed such a wide popularity as now, and never before have plain papers been so handsome and so decorative as at the present time.
