

WINSIDE LAWYER IS SLASHED BY DOCTOR

WOUND PENETRATES LUNG

Dr. J. G. Neely states H. E. Simon as Culmination of a Ill Feeling Between Doctors.

H. E. Simon, an attorney at Winnside, was stabbed by Dr. J. G. Neely, general physician at that place Saturday night, and had a narrow escape from fatal injuries. Mr. Simon received a wound about two inches deep, somewhat over an inch from the heart and extending into the lung. Other cuts penetrating the clothing were not serious. Barring unexpected complications, Mr. Simon will recover, according to word from his bedside. Up to this time no complaint has been filed against Dr. Neely.

It is reported to the Herald that feeling has existed between Dr. Victor Simon, son of H. E. Simon, and Dr. Neely, and as understood the senior Simon went to the doctor's office to inquire into some unfriendly reports which he had heard. Mr. Simon understood to have said that some sharp words passed between them, and then Dr. Neely attacked him with a knife and later drove him out of the office at the point of a revolver. Dr. Neely is understood to have said that Mr. Simon assaulted him and that he then used the knife which he already had in his hand, later drawing a gun and ordering Mr. Simon to get out. As to the good, Dr. Neely says his two little girls witnessed the fray.

Mr. Simon did not realize how seriously he had been hurt until he felt blood running down until his shirt was under the influence of his brother-in-law, Dr. B. M. McIntyre who with Dr. Simon made an examination.

Mr. Simon is a well known Wayne county lawyer, having served at one time as county attorney. Dr. Neely has been practicing medicine at Winnside for a number of years, and is a cripple.

ATTACKS BROTHER WITH A JACK KNIFE

Gust Paulson who had been drinking and had become quarrelsome, attacked his brother, Pete Paulson, with a jack knife as their home in Wayne Friday night. The two brothers and their mother have been living in a house in the eastern part of town. It is reported that Gust came home under the influence of liquor, and that when his brother attempted to put him out of the house, he drew his knife and commenced slashing. A gash an inch deep cut over the stomach, and another gash nearly missed the liver. Several other small cuts were found on different parts of the body. Dr. J. J. Williams was called and dressed the wounds. The doctor says his patient will recover unless unforeseen complications set in.

Gust Paulson has been arrested and is in custody awaiting an examination on a complaint charging him with assault with intent to murder. He will be given a preliminary hearing next Saturday.

NEARLY $200 TAKEN FROM BILLIARD HALL

Late Friday night the safe in the pool hall of W. M. Hostettler was robbed of between $170 and $180 in money. The individual suspected of the crime is known to be a resident of town some afterwards and has not been seen since, though efforts are being made to locate and capture him. When Mr. Hostettler checked over his cash and deposited it in the safe the suspected individual was waiting in the room and proceeded to do so at a desk near by. In his hurry Mr. Hostettler did not lock the safe door, and it is believed while he was busy in another part of the room, the money was taken. The safe was not recovered until Mr. Hostettler opened the safe the next morning. The officers were notified, and then it was discovered that the one who had been looting around familiarly, had departed.

MOVEMENT TO PAVE IS GOING FORWARD

It is understood a local committee will within the next few days push forward the petition looking to the paving of Main street. The selection of material for paving will be given careful attention, taking advantage of the drainage of the city. Many suggest brick for the street as far north as the Baptist church, and then suggest concrete or asphalt. In the business district where traffic is the heaviest and drainage is not at all objection, brick is usually favored. Many favor paving to the Baptist church as a first step, and then creating other paving districts, and extending the improvement as fast as possible.

The normal board of education met in Wayne last Monday and held a session at the school. There was full attendance at the meeting; the following being present: Dan Morris, president; Kearney; A. L. Caviness, secretary; Kearney; Col. T. J. Majors; Peru; A. H. Viole, Norfolk; H. E. Resch, Chadron; Dr. A. O. Thomas, state superintendent; Lincoln; George E. Hall, state treasurer; Lincoln. A meeting of the registrars was called by the secretary for the purpose of working out a uniform system of records and accounts. The Peru school was represented in this meeting by Registrar R. D. Overholt, Kearney; Registrar J. H. Elliott, and President Sparks acted for the Chadron school.

About the members of the board were guests of the domestic science class authorized to be served in the rooms of that department.

The regular routine of business was taken up at the forenoon session, and vouchers for the various institutions for the month of January. In the afternoon the board listened to the reports of the presidents and of the executive committee, and granted requests for the purchase of equipment and supplies.

At this time a check dividend was taken until eight p. m., and the members were then entertained at dinner by President and Mrs. Conn.

The business at the evening session consisted very largely of the consideration of the board as permanent improvements during the biennial period which will close on March 31, 1917. The board recognized the need of additional buildings at Wayne, and President Conn was authorized to have plans prepared for a new gymnasium and manual training building and submitted for approval at the next meeting. This matter will receive definite action at the April meeting. It is reported that the board adjourned to meet at Peru on April 10.

State Normal Notes.

The measure of teaching efficiency is receiving considerable attention in school supervision. The people of Wayne have already learned that Mr. Gaston is a live wire and he will without question make a splendid secretary of their commercial organization.

P. M. Corbit had an exciting time at his home east of town Thursday morning as the result of the chimney connected with the furnace catching fire. When flames were discovered shooting from the chimney, neighbors hurriedly gathered to render assistance. They put out the fire and made certain that it had not communicated to the house. The damage was slight.

William Beckenhauer expects to begin the erection of the new building to accommodate his undertaking business as soon as the weather will permit. He hopes to start next later than the 1. The proposed building will be 40 by 54 feet with a cellar basement. The first floor will contain office, parlor, show room and chapel. The basement will be decorated a bath room and morgue.

He will see his garage and use an auto horse which latter has already been bought and will soon be here for service.

J. H. Foster arrived home Thursday from Charley, Tenn., where he spent three weeks visiting relatives and reviewing scenes familiar to him. He had not been there before in eleven years. He explains that when he fractured three of his ribs while on a fox hunt, and in descending a mountain, the bark slipped from a tree on which he was walking, throwing him violently across the timber. The breath was knocked out of him, and he thought he was seriously hurt. He has almost recovered from the effects of the accident. Mr. Foster says in the mountains where he was visiting a substance for making dyes was discovered, and a factory employing

2,000 men has been established. He is loud in his praise of the good situation in Tennessee. Such improvements for the facilitating of travel makes him think this country ought to bump along in the direction of better roads.

George Mimer relates an experience he had during the memorable blizzard of January 12, 1888. A man had sent a telegram to be delivered to his home in Wayne and wanted an answer to it. He was anxious to find out if members of his family were safely housed and all right. He finally wired an offer of $25 for delivery of the message. The blizzard was raging, and it took a great deal of courage to battle against it for any considerable distance. But the reward was attractive and George decided to try to win it. He struggled through the terrible storm, and returned with an answer which was dispatched to the anxious individual who had been sent away from home. It would be comforting to be able to say the reward was paid fully and cheerfully, but it wasn't. When George met the man for whom he had ventured into the storm, the elements were calm and the sun was shining and accordingly he could not figure the task worth the price promised. George received only fifty cents.

Another week has gone by and there has been little change in the political situation. On the republican side the announcement that the dry forces had united on Pollard and would ask McKelvie and Maggett to withdraw, caused a little ripple and brought out an emphatic announcement from McKelvie that he was in it to stay.

On the democratic side the situation remains the same. The advent of Bryan, Berge and Shields gives the dry men a chance to split the dry vote and this has encouraged the wet ones to again take courage in the hope that they can defeat Mr. Bryan for the nomination. They do not seem to be imbued with any idea that it would be better to take Berge as the lesser of the two evils, but would prefer to have a moist candidate who could be depended upon.

Someone spring the name of Merston L. Corey of Clay Center last week as the man upon whom the wet crowd could unite with some show of winning, but somehow the boom, after sprouting, did not continue to grow. There is some hope that possibly the meeting of the state committee in Omaha Saturday night have resulted in finding the Mosed, but so far nothing has developed and so it is expected that perhaps democrats may conclude to let Mr. Bryan have it and then show him how far he will get in the regular election.

WILSON SAYS HE WILL RUN.

Washington, Feb. 14.—President Wilson today contended formally for the first time to the use of his name as a presidential candidate in the coming campaign. At the same time he declared he was "entirely unwilling to enter into any contest" for re-nomination.

The decision of the president's attitude in line with the plans of his political associates, is expected to bring into the open the campaign being made in his favor throughout the country.

Mrs. Wilson's declaration was made in a letter to the Ohio secretary of state who had written that candidates for delegates from that state to the national convention must signify their choice for president by February 25, and that no presidential candidate could be named in that connection without their consent.

In several other states where such requirements are imposed Mr. Wilson's name already has been placed on primary ballots, and his friends generally have taken it for granted that he would be a candidate if convinced there was any considerable popular demand for it.

THE PREPAREDNESS ROCK.

Fremont Tribune: Preparedness is the rock upon which democracy is splitting. The resignation of Secretary Garrison emphasizes the trouble at Washington. He wants to go farther than congress is willing to go. He wishes to create a continental army, whereas the congress favors the advancement of the National Guard to the first line. Even in this can be seen the conflict between militarism and democracy. Garrison is not for militarism, of course, but his proposal is a tendency in that direction, whereas the members of congress feel the power of the people against it. The president has undertaken the task of bringing the country up to the Garrison idea, but he has not yet succeeded. His efforts are now to be opposed by Mr. Bryan, who is organizing to follow in his wake on a speech-making tour. This will make the line of cleavage more distinct.

Bryan's friends in the house hold the balance of power and his attitude in no wise diminishes the size of the rock in the president's way.

CHALLENGES BRYAN TO PUBLIC DEBATE

Omaha, Feb. 15.—Richard L. Metcalfe, former governor of the Panama canal zone and now publisher of a weekly paper in Omaha, has sent a telegram to William J. Bryan of Miami, Fla., suggesting a joint debate on the question of preparedness on the shores of Nebraska. It had been stated in the press that Mr. Bryan intends to deliver in Nebraska between March 20 and the date of the state primary a series of speeches in opposition to the administration preparedness policy. Mr. Metcalfe asks that a joint debate be arranged in each congressional district.

Does Not Speak Officially. Mr. Metcalfe has been intimately associated with Mr. Bryan in journalistic and political work for twenty-eight years.

Mr. Metcalfe declares in his letter that he speaks "with no official authority nor factional prejudice," but he declares he believes he represents a large part of the rank and file democrat in the state.

Mr. Metcalfe's telegram says: "Newspaper dispatches say that from March 20 to April 18 you will make a campaign before the primaries in Nebraska urging democrats to oppose the policy of preparedness."

It is among those Nebraska democrats who believe that the most important duty now pressing upon the American people is that of providing our country with adequate national defense and giving our president who is trying to discharge that duty the support which he is entitled to.

Proposes Six Debates. "You have always advocated the presentation of both sides of a public question. I am therefore encouraged to believe that you will accept my offer to meet you in joint debate upon this question. I propose six of these debates, one in each congressional district of Nebraska and at such times and places after March 20 as may be agreed upon.

"No one knows better than I do of your power upon the stage. I have, however, such faith in the correctness of the national defense policy and am deeply impressed with the duty resting upon the humblest American citizen in the crisis which I believe confronts our country, that I have concluded to make you this offer hoping to offset your power as a debater with the righteousness of my cause.

"In proposing this I speak with no official authority nor factional prejudice. I believe, however, that I do speak for many thousands in the rank and file democrats here who feel that some Nebraska voice should be raised on behalf of national defense."

ADDITIONAL PRAISE SHOWERED ON WAYNE

Wayne is still reaping reward in favorable-press notices as a result of the recent meeting of editors. Following were found in exchanges this week:

One Editor's Regret. Bloomfield Journal: The Sunday World-Herald is liberally decorated with photos of the editors of Northeast Nebraska, who attended the editorial meeting at Wayne on January 28 and 29. Taken collectively the editors are rather an intelligent lot of fellows, much more so, in fact, than a person who saw only one of them at a time would imagine. One regret is that that we were not there and could not have our "mug" printed with the bunch.

Mose Warner, Humorist. Hartington Herald: Mose Warner of the Lyons Mirror, one of the veteran editors of northeast Nebraska, suffers the usual penalty of the wit. He has made so many jokes and been laughed at so often that people refuse to take him seriously, and when he tries to speak to the audience takes that as a cue that it is time to laugh. Hence, it was that at the editorial banquet, when Mr. Warner was relating a pathetic story about a man who was frozen to death in the early days on the prairie, the banqueters broke into peals of laughter, and nobody seemed to be at all impressed by the sad narrative. And this was not because the people at the banquet were so hard-hearted or lacking in feeling, but simply because Mose Warner was suffering the penalty of the professional humorist.

Successful Meeting. Niobrara Tribune: The writer attended the Northeast Nebraska Press association at Wayne, January 28 and 29, and expected to have a write-up last week. When we got home we found the future linotype operator under the care of the doctor, and two double page ads, and a large amount of other work to be disposed of and the write-up was forgotten in the rush. It would not be made now except for the fact that we desire to express our appreciation of the hospitality of the Wayne people, and particularly Editor Huse of the Herald and Editor Gardner of the Democrat, whose work made the association such a success. The writer stopped at Boyd hotel, and found one of the most accommodating and hospitable landlords it has been our pleasure to meet. Among the "big guns" present were Victor Rosewater of the Omaha Bee, E. O. Mayfield of the World-Herald and John B. Kennedy of Omaha, republican candidate for senator. The next meeting will be held at Norfolk in July. Aui Weidersen.

Another Pleased Editor. Oakland Independent: Whatever other people think of the matter, the fact remains that a newspaper-man's life is composed mainly of hard work and long hours at it. Therefore it is proper that he should get away from the office occasionally and mingle with his fellows. That was the burden of several talks at the recent editorial meeting at Wayne.

Something was mentioned last week about the banquet, which was in all ways excellent, but the main purpose of getting together was to discuss problems of the printer and to find a solution for them. There were some good things brought out by the different speakers, among whom were Dr. J. T. Hays of the state normal school, J. J. Ahern, Wayne merchant of the wide-awake variety, and a number of editors. These men spoke along practical lines and from the viewpoint of men outside the newspaper sphere.

Among the post-prandial speakers, who aimed to please rather than instruct, were such men as John L. Kennedy, candidate for United States senator; Eugene O. Mayfield of the World-Herald; Victor Rosewater of the Bee, N. A. Huse of the Norfolk Daily News and Rev. W. L. Gaston, pastor of the Baptist church who with the happy faculty of saying pithy things in a pleasing manner.

A teacher of English at the Wayne high school spoke pretty caustically of newspaper English. Her leisurely prepared paper, couched in polished English, was good, but if she had to do, as the average country editor, attend to half a dozen other things while writing a paragraph, she might be a little less severe on the scribes. There is much slovenly writing in the newspapers, it is true, but every editor receives so much poor copy from people from whom one would expect better, that criticism of the kind impresses these same editors very little.

A word should be said about the splendid institution, the state normal. Most of the editors were

Of the editors it might be said that their papers reflect pretty accurately the personality of their publishers. There are those who are inclined to be a little bumptious, and others who are modestly itself. Of the latter kind are the editors at Wayne. They publish two of the best weeklies in the state, and yet do not feel impelled to boast about them.

Chicago Tribune: Irrespective of whatever qualities Justice Hughes may have for the presidency, it would be an unfortunate precedent if a member of the supreme court were found willing to have such a

WEEPS FOR EUROPE.

Norfolk Daily News: The suffering in the trenches on the European battle-fields, the enormous death toll and the scarcity of food, brought about a pathetic scene in the office of the Hoskins Headlight a few days ago, according to a Norfolk business man. The Norfolk man was conferring with Postmaster Harry Ralston when a pioneer Wayne county farmer came to the postoffice for the latest news from Europe. After some discussion of the latest reports in newspapers, the old man broke down and cried bitterly out of pity for the sufferings of the unfortunate ones in Europe. According to the Norfolk man, an old man who appeared to be a German, though some offered prayers for the soldiers on both sides and expressed the hope that the war would soon end.

Just a Word to Farmers. Announcing the fact that we are now ready for the spring trade in Implements and Farm Machinery, and have made a timely purchase of the most complete and largest stock in our line ever shown at Wayne. But quantity did not alone have consideration. Quality counted more than price, and with our experience in purchasing used to best advantage we think we can offer you the best that is to be had in the way of farm tools. Just now we ask you to consider our TRACTORS the coming motor power for the farm. Better and cheaper than horses in many ways. Spring is almost here and that will call first for plows, harrows, discs, seeders, then planters, cultivators, hay and harvest tools, not forgetting the corn binder and wagons toward the close of the season. Then always we have the repairs, and the lesser things on the side, Gasoline engines, DeLavel cream separators, washing machines, hog oilers, tanks and tank heaters, buggies and that most valuable vehicle on the farm known as the Manure spreader. From time to time, you will hear from us as the season advances, but we want this week to impress upon all that for the season of 1916 we are going to put Wayne on the map as the place to buy implements, and that the center of attraction for the farmer from now until fall will be Kay & Bichel's Leading Implement House Wayne, Nebraska

SAVINGS SERMONETTE

NUMBER FORTY-THREE

KEEP PEGGING AWAY

It is not what we can do by spasms of hard work or saving that will count—it is what we do regularly seven days in a week, twelve months in each year, that counts. The man who saves five dollars this week and two and one-half dollars next week will soon find himself with more of the two and one-half dollars weeks than the five dollar man. The man who puts aside a sum regularly and has a definite system is the man who has the money when he needs it to grasp his golden opportunity. The waste of money is frequently not due to extravagance, but to the lack of a definite system. Cut out the waste and keep pegging away—saving regularly and persistently.

The Poet Philosopher

AFFECTION.

The men of simple manners please; they boast not of their pedigree, or look profound, or put on airs, or out-awe their neighbor's pride. The wise man's every action states, "I'm just like other mortal creatures; I'm here a while to toil and spin, and try to get my harvest in, and when I leave this vale of groans, I'll come and Die. I'll take my bones." It gives the stitches in the side to see a man swelled up with pride, assuming divers foolish airs, and who, in every act, declares, "The way I'm made is so fine, that I can't see any of my fellow mortals." When I was formed, one fateful day the Maker threw the mold away, and said, "Improvements now shall cease—I have produced the masterpiece!" When your important guests so greet that all the rest of us look cheap, laugh at yourself a while, my friend, and let your affection end. Sit down in silence and review the foolish things you say and do, and realize, with many a sigh, how blamed ridiculous you are.

GRATITUDE.

The truth's discouraging and hateful, but mightily awe-inspiringly great. We go forward and speak our money to make the poet's lives more sunny; we carry soup and pies and ganders to folks who have the yaller jaunders, we carry, in bowls of chiny, to some poor wretch shedding briny, we cough up, out of our bank, roll dainties, to help the sad and needy orphan. They thank us in their Greek and Russian, in High Dutch, Low Dutch, French and Prussian. So far as words go they are grateful, they thank by language, by the plentiful. But, in their hearts probably smirking, they say, "What's the use of working, to earn our victuals bread-and-cheese, when jays like these are so bit-amazed easy?—They'll do us when we're looting greedy, they'll feed us when we're feeling greedy; they'll bring provisions to our attics, and dope us with what we have rheumatics?" Still, though unworthy some are proving, we on our knees round, we're lauding, tributenants and collars smelly, distributing our soup and jelly.

WORKERS.

It's good to work, with might and main, until the workday ends; it's good to work, with sweat and rain, but do not work your friends. The toiler's worthy of his hire, wherever he may be, though he be punishing a tyre or chopping down a tree; though he be furrowing the land, or hauling the bacon home, and makes the wheels go round. Reward for toiling with a vim the true distinction lends; so work until the right groove's rim—do it right, and you'll win. The witting worker seldom sees the lean wolf at his door; he has his wieners and cheese and other grub in store. Men's admiration be commands, no matter where he may be; he has his words, both his hands, but does not work his friends. There is no sadder, sadder sight, is any night boord, than is the husky, lazy wight who's cut out work for good.

We all have seen his maddening tear, have heard his whining tones, a guilder there, a kroner here, from all of us he bones. To gain a dime this shameless shirk to lowest depths descends; for when a man is out of work, he starts to work his friends.

MONEY TO LOAN.

Oh, "Money to Loan" is a common sight, it everywhere greets these eyes of mine. In twenty strange ways, in this small town, the cheerful legend is hanging down. There's money to loan to the merchant prince when bad collections have made him wince. There's money to loan to the farmer bold who owns wide acres of fertile mold. There's money to loan to most any skate, who has abundance of real estate, or hogs or cattle, or bonds or stocks, to be security for the rocks. But not a bank or a dally chest, or a lend to people who need it most! Go up those stairs, where it most "Loan" sign is, oh, bustled pilgrim with pallid phiz, and ask the agent, you'll find up there, to lend you a buck or two, if you desire. You can't hit the wall when he throws you down, so hard you'll rattle the drowsy town. There's money to loan if you're cutting ice, there's money to loan if you're at the price, but not a ruble or yen or luke, or perpenditure you're out of luck.

UNAPPRECIATED.

The young man labors hard at home, and writes a story of a poem, and, hoping to receive long green, he sends it to a magazine, or maybe to some daily sheet, which wants hot stuff that's keen and sweet. Then back it comes, by early mail, with a note that writes across his wall. The editors are all combined to hate that great and fertile mind! Or else they didn't read his stuff, but calmly set it down as guff and shipped it back with his own stamps—what a waste of paper in his day! Lured to a talk that was myself, when viewing bundles on the shelf of tales and other gems of thought, which editors returned as rot. But, friend, the editors were right! The editors are mostly white, and if it's not so, it's damn near white, and I can see in their minds or date a symptom of the genius flame, they do not snuff the glowing spark with hither sneer or cold remark, but try to fan it to a blaze, and nourish it with smiles and praise. Other editors, oh, they are coarse—mixed—but when I've time I'll have them fixed. The editors, all o'er this sphere, are looking, looking, year by year, to find the writers who can write, and finding them brings keen delight. So, if you cannot sell your junk, it is because the junk is muck.

THE HAS-BEENS.

I read the papers every day, and oftentimes I find what I hate. There's hope for every boy who in life's battle fails. I've just been reading of a gent who joined the has-been ranks, at fifty years without a cent, or credit at the bank—without any other means of support, refusing to be lost, and captured, fortune and renown; he's now in Easy Street. Men say that fellows down and out never leave the rocky track, but facts will show, beyond a doubt, that has-beens can get back. I know, for I who wrote this rhyme, when forty odd years old, was down and out, without a dime, my whiskers full of mold. By bad disaster I was trounced until it jarred my spine; I was a failure so pronounced that I had to go home, and after I had soaked my coat, I said (at forty-three), "I'll see if I can catch the cat that has escaped from me." I labored hard; I strained my dome, to get my daily grime, until my temples, in my own home, went into a tumph. And any man who still has health may with the winners stack, and have a chance at a vault and wealth—for has-beens do come back.

THE FLAG.

Bright-hued and beautiful, it floats upon the summer air, and every thread of it denotes the love that's woven there; the love of velvet, of the fields of red; and women old, who mourn their dead, but mourn without despair. Bright-hued and beautiful, it courts caresses of the breeze; and, straining at its staff it waves, and the stars manifest, on other flags, that once were gay, long long ago were laid away, and many men, whose heads are gray, are thinking now of these. Serene and beautiful, it waves, the flag our father, who knew in a season, and in part, the waves, and gains a brighter hue; and may it still the symbol be of all that makes a nation free; still may we cherish Liberty, and to our God be true.

THE EYES OF LINCOLN.

Sad eyes, that were patient and tender, sad eyes, that were steadfast and true, and warm with the unchanging splendor of courage no ill could surpass. Eyes dark with the dread of the morrow, and we for the day that was gone, the sleepless companions of sorrow, the watchers that witnessed the dawn. Eyes tired from the clamor and goading, and dim from the heat of the years, and hollowed by pain and foreboding, and strained by repression of tears. Sad eyes that were wearied and blighted, by visions of sieges and wars, now watch o'er a country united from the luminous slopes of the stars!

VICTORY IN THE AIR.

Harrington Herald: The political prospect of the republican party this year appear to be particularly bright, and sagacious observers are confidently predicting that it is going to win all along the line. In the last election, circumstances favored the democrats in a wonderful degree, but under the circumstances, we do not see how they could have failed to win—but this year the situation is quite different. In the last election, it was a divided republican party against an united democratic party, but this year it's quite the reverse. The republicans in state and nation are united and aggressive, while the ranks of the democrats are split by internal dissension, and the prospect of the republican party for victory all along the line become enhanced as the days go by.

FOR PRESIDENT.

Lincoln Club: If no other filigees are made for the republican nomination for the presidency under the preferential primary there will be four men from whom the voters can take their choice. The names are Henry Ford still stands, as Mr. Ford has made no effort to have his name taken from the ballot. At the time his name was filed by Omaha parties Mr. Ford was out on the raging waters of the coast of Mr. Bryan's peace, and of course had no chance to withdraw his name. Since he has returned home he has not appeared to take any interest in the matter, and it is presumed that his name may appear on the ballot, but some patriot reminds him that his name will appear.

The other candidates are H. D. Estabrook of New York, Senator Cummins of Iowa, and Theodore Roosevelt of Ohio. If any other filigees of these will want his name withdrawn, and so Nebraska republican voters will have a chance to make a choice.

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS.

St. Louis City Journal: The story of current commercial activity is told in a nutshell by Bradstreet's in a statement that the past week probably was the busiest ever experienced at this time of the year since comprehensive statistics are here made out by commercial reports and all indexes of current trade. Something of the situation in the steel industry was indicated in an announcement by one of the leading companies that it could accept no orders until June. Prices for steel products are steadily rising. The difficulty, however, is not getting orders at the prices fixed, but in securing deliveries within what buyers demand. The absorption of the Cambria Steel company by the Midvale Steel and Ordnance company makes another formidable industrial combination. The plants of the consolidated company will be destroyed by the war orders for months to come. A rise in oil stocks followed the announcement of plans to consolidate important Mexican and California oil properties.

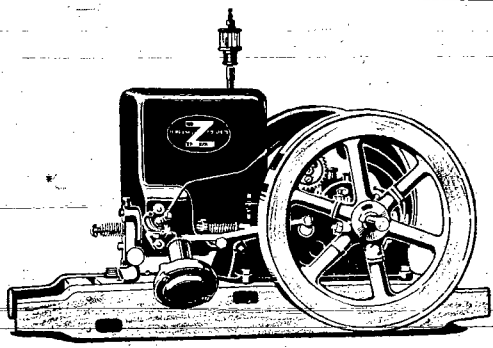

The January bank statements showed the highest level of bank deposits ever recorded. Banks as a rule are carrying an unusually large percentage of their deposits in their vaults. Notwithstanding increasing demands of business, cash remains available for all legitimate demands at rates that are unprecedentedly low for a period of prosperity. New York banks are reported to be taking commercial paper at a shade under par, a sign that the redundancy of money is not leading to any orgy of securities speculation. For this the credit is due in part to the conservatism of bankers in refusing to encourage speculative investments, and in part to the wariness of the investing public in fighting shy of investments in securities which are under suspicion of inflation.

Prospective labor troubles remain the most unfavorable development in sight. Unrest among railway employees and in the anthracite and bituminous coal fields may culminate in strikes during the spring.

CAR SHORTAGE.

Nebraska Farmer: Nebraska railroads were 2,000 cars short of the number necessary to fill immediate orders from shippers at the middle of last week, according to car reports compiled by the state railway commission. Perhaps many more cars would have been ordered if there had been any chance of getting them, so that the figure 2,000 probably does not fully express the car shortage at that time. Scores of elevators are full to the roof, and have had to shut down. With elevators clogged farmers cannot sell grain. This is a sore-lacking experience when prices are high. Farmers can be consoled somewhat, however, by the thought that prices are not likely to decline so long as grain cannot be delivered. The reason for the car-shortage is that so many cars are tied up in eastern states and along the Atlantic seaboard. Last week an official of the Union Pacific was reported to have said that 10,000 of the cars of his company were in eastern states, and a Burlington official said that 9,500 of the cars of his company were off its lines. No wonder there is a car shortage here. It is reported that cars loaded with grain are standing in eastern freight yards while shipments of munitions take precedence. This is another instance in which the great war is anything but beneficial to farmers.

CITY COUNCIL.

some day a lizard will run over your grave. Say it, and get through with what was through your audience before you started. You are aging—some when your favorite cold weather sport is sitting beside a cheerful fire. Every time two church members quarrel they disgust some third man and send him to hell. If you are thoroughly reliable don't betteling about it cut into your evenings a great deal.

On motion the mayor was requested to execute contract with the C. St. P. M. & O. Ry. company with reference to crossing the track in the alleys with the light wires. The following resolution was prepared by the city attorney and presented and read before the mayor and council: "Resolved that the city of Wayne shall furnish 3,886 KW of electricity for power purposes to the Nebraska State Normal of Wayne, without further charge on expense to said college, and any alleged agreement or contract between said college and said city whereby said college should pay $360 per year for light, is hereby revoked—and cancelled—and shall henceforth be void and of no force or effect."

A motion was made by Hiscox and seconded by Hanssen that the resolution be adopted as read. The motion was declared carried and the resolution adopted. The clerk was directed to file claim against the state for labor and material furnished in the sum of $52.05.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.

A girl's notion of a successful career is to get married. A man never knows how much kin a woman has until he marries her. Don't get too conceited, because

The average man says a complaint doesn't stand for much but he usually "stricks around" for one.

It is hard to determine which is the crime in this country, committing a crime or getting caught at it.

Man learns slowly, but in time he comes to understand that a clove is a clew rather than a disguise.

Women have other foolish notions, but none of them, so far as available statistics show, wears side whiskers.

When a married woman picks out galls for her kin and for her husband's kin, her kin never gets the worst of it.

The conversation is never as important as it seems when you can just hear the noise of it, but can't make out the words.

Suspicion is what hurts. Tell the truth about your hurts, and the weak spots in the institution probably will grow stronger.

It is hard to describe a certain Atchison man except by stating that he is the kind of man who writes until his friends have grabbed his arm before he strikes, "Let me at him, let me at him, and I'll save his head for him."

"Buy it in Wayne" should be the motto of every man in business in Wayne or in any way interested in Wayne.

Hold-line democrats find out that President Wilson has come around to the republican viewpoint or opinion and the voters are likely to say somewhat at the invitation to support him.

Wayne county people interested in the state normal located at this place should and doubtless do appreciate the potent force which Philip H. Kobl exercises in behalf of proper development of the institution.

It is the belief of many newspapers whose editors have read carefully the utterances of Justice Hughes, touching the republican presidential nomination, that he will accept it if it is tendered to him. It is inconceivable that duty to public service could suggest any other course.

It has been suggested that the state ought to increase the State Normal site at this place from twenty to fifty acres. It is suggested that parts of certain streets could be vacated and returned to the State Normal plot. With proper parking, driveways and tree culture, the site could be made very attractive.

It has been urged that when the time comes for preliminary incident to the annual spring election two conventions ought to be held and two sets of candidates nominated. It is pointed out that deciding the question of municipal elections at one convention, resulting in a mere endorsement by the whole electorate, inevitably means minority rule.

Fair-weather friends are worth something, but not enough to place great dependence on. It is the friend who rises to your relief in an emergency—the friend who responds to your need in a dark hour without hope or thought of reward—that really counts. Such friends are few in number, but they are priceless.

The city of Beatrice which adopted the commission plan for handling municipal affairs a few years ago, is now talking of changing to a "mayor-council" plan employing one man-an expert-to look after all the business of the city. The one man assumes all responsibility, and reduces everything to strict business principle. The one-man system has been tried in different cities, and is reported working satisfactorily.

The ineffectual yellowness in the paper now being used, as frequently explained, is due to dyes heretofore furnished by Germany. No manufacturing institution in this country seems able to make the colored dyes, and thus the unbleached complexion of the paper. It is surprising that dependence has been so wholly placed on the supply of any foreign country that the product is injured when the supply of such source is shut off.

That Justice Hughes will not accept the republican presidential nomination is still being reiterated. But if the nomination is offered him by the republican convention on the firm conviction that he is the one above all others needed to weld together the different factions of the party, we do not see how he can refuse. It is his duty to accept in his hands the key to the success of the party, the party which favored and honored him, he cannot justify himself in finally refusing to use it.

Richard Metcalf, editor of the Nebraskaan, an Omaha publication, and a well known Nebraska democrat, has challenged William J. Bryan to a series of debates on the question of "Progressive". Mr. Metcalf proposes to uphold the position of the national administration. It is understood that Mr. Bryan expects to make a tour of Nebraska before the primary in opposition to the president. Whether he will accept the challenge or not, is not at this time known. Anyway, it is safe to predict that Nebraska democracy will be torn by Bryanitis the coming season.

It is reported that Col. Cecil Lyon of Texas, formerly conspicuous in the councils of the progressive party, issued a statement, following a visit to Oyster Bay, to the effect that republicans must nominate Roosevelt in order to win. Why go to Roosevelt to find out how Roosevelt would run as a presidential candidate? Is Roosevelt in possession of reliable inside information that he is the only man who could pull the republican party to victory? Is it possible only one man—and that man the one who deserted and split and defeated the party—can now reunite the party and lead it to victory? Or will a "write biased in such an assumption.

It has often been suggested that doctors suffer more bitter rivalry within their ranks than any other profession, and if this claim is true it may be attributed largely to the fact that they of necessity go into different homes where sickness and impatience in the struggle for health cause carelessness and exaggeration of the doctor's claims, and complaints. An inmate of a sick-room does not feel well enough satisfied with the force to exercise nice circumspection in repeating criticisms. The doctor goes from one sick atmosphere to another, and his patients are carelessly told to magnify, and he is apt to become embittered, often unjustly, against his professional rivals. He must be a strong man, indeed, to rise above such influences to which his business draws him, and regard other doctors with a feeling of magnanimity and good will.

MRS. PHILLIPS' ADDRESS.
The criticisms of Mrs. Phillips, teacher of English at the Wayne high school, which were directed against the newspapers at the recent editorial meeting at Wayne, have been copied by the Wayne newspapers. Mrs. Phillips criticized two things especially: the newspaper's use of English and the comic supplements. She censured the newspapers—some of them anyway—for using English and comic supplements. She said the funny papers as degrading. Victor-Rosewater, replying to Mrs. Phillips, said he believed that the English employed by the newspapers would compare favorably with that used by any other class of writers, and in regard to the comics he said he did not believe they were any more degrading to the minds of children than many of the juvenile books that had been written. He said he had read the comic supplements. Of course, the average newspaper English is not what it ought to be, but most of it has an redeeming virtue, which some of the more classic English lacks—it is interesting. We do not believe they exercise a corrupting influence upon the minds of children. We have not observed that the funnies exploit human weakness or deformity, as the comic supplements do. They are entertaining, while far enough from being intellectual, is not unwholesome and their characters such extravagant caricatures that there is not much danger of their being imitated.—Harrington Herald.

Mrs. Phillips does not wish to be understood as directing unqualified criticism on newspaper English. She sought to differentiate between the good English used in most publications and the disintegrated and illy constructed English appearing in some newspapers whose editors are either careless or ignorant, or both. She thought she made the point clearly in the so-called "funny" paper, she did not expect to work reformation, nor did she expect to change a line of policy meeting popular demand and apparently necessary in competition among Sunday papers. She only wished to arouse attention to objections in accordance with her convictions. The very objections which she pointed out in the Sunday "funny" supplements kept conservative journals from using them until driven to do so by public demand. She does not wish to appear in the attitude of merely finding fault. She appreciates the high standard of the American newspaper having questions in the course of her address reference to it as the "greatest miracle of the age."

On account of the absence of Mr. Becker, the leader, Mr. Brownie Allen directed the concert.

Farmers' Institute.

The Farmers' Institute proved very successful this week. All the sessions were largely attended and a general interest was manifested. All of the exhibits were very good. The outside speakers served for the lectures were thoroughly acquainted with their subjects and gave interesting and instructive talks.

C. L. Carlson of Norfolk gave a most enlightening lecture on the people of South America as he has studied them. They are very progressive people and all of the provinces but four are making advanced steps in civilization. In a great many ways they are ahead of the Americans. He also said that Costa Rica and Finland were the only countries in the world without a poor house. This was due to the fact that there were no millionaires in the land.

Miss Frances Wyman gave some practical hints on dressmaking. She advocated a more general use of dress-forms for the purpose of saving time in making garments. Her talk on the efficient kitchen was also instructive and practical. Saturday evening Mr. Woods told of his observation of farms made during a recent tour over the state. He advocated the saving of steps on the farm as well as in the kitchen. One farm visited the farmer walked three and one-half miles daily to do his chores, while another farmer who considered the placing of his barn site, walked on 60 feet daily doing the same amount of work.

INJUNCTION ISSUED.

Omaha, Feb. 16.—A temporary injunction restraining the Nebraska state railway commission from interfering with a proposed increase in interstate passenger rates by the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific roads was granted here last night by a court in chancery, consisting of three federal judges. The road, now in the hands of a receiver, announced that passenger rates in this state would be increased from 2 to 3 cents per mile.

The Missouri Pacific railroad which is also in the hands of receivers was granted a similar injunction. Hearing of an appeal on this injunction is pending. The temporary injunction in the Rock Island case will hold until the case is decided on its merits.

Holds Rate Confiscatory.

In its decision the court held the Nebraska 2-cent passenger rates unconstitutional under the rate confiscatory. Further the court held: "The present income measured by the expense of the last three years is inadequate to pay a reasonable return upon the actual value of the property of the railway commission of the state of Nebraska."

Railroad Claims Loss.

The railroad represented that it sustained a loss of 87 of 1 per cent on its passenger business in Nebraska in 1915. Rock Island officials said the increased rate would be more effective as soon as the receiver of the road, Jacob M. Dickinson, executed a bond of $50,000 in accordance with the court's instructions. Purchasers of tickets at the increased rate will be given a coupon entitling them to recover the difference due to the increase if the railroad is eventually defeated. Judges who constituted the court in chancery were U. S. Magistrate Martin J. Wade and Walter I. Smith.

From Ponca Journal, March 3, 1881:

You may expect to see the river break up soon. And soon high water will be the rule. We expect to see the lands along the river inundated, and those living there to climb to higher ground or float away on the tide.

Since the roads are choked full of snow and all means of traveling are next to useless, people are led to regret that balloons are not in vogue. With a balloon, and the usual double-breasted-blizzard, one might skip over the earth in a right lively manner.

The first of the month, Tuesday, was bright and pleasant, and was withal the finest day for a long time.

March thus came in as gentle and peaceable as a lamb, and it remains to be seen whether it will keep up its ancient reputation and waltz out, like a Kantankerous and rip-roaring lion.

The orange crop in Florida was not all spoiled this winter by the frost. In northern Nebraska, however, and especially in Dixon county, we think it can safely be said that the entire orange crop was frozen solid. The above disappointing news which will be a great cross no doubt, we should not insert, only for the lack of anything else to publish.

An article from the Milwaukee Sentinel this week, describes the massacre of Gen. Custer and his band, and a brave by the name of Rain-in-the-face boasts of the glory of having killed Custer. We have no possession of a tomahawk which for years was the constant companion of Rain-in-the-face until last summer, when it was obtained from him while on a visit to Fort Peck, and was afterwards brought from there by Mrs. N. S. Porter.

Saturday evening a letter was received by parties of this place from Fort Peck, Montana territory, which said that the Missouri river had broken up at that point and that they were having the most tremendous flood ever known there.

There is naturally about half a mile wide, and at the time the letter was mailed it was three miles across, and still rising. The current of the stream is usually a mile and half wide, and flows in a constant companion of the water now flows within fifty feet of them. Five or six Indians and some twenty or thirty ponies have been drowned.

How Mr. Davis Got Rid of a Bad Cough.

"Some time ago I had a very bad cough" writes Lewis T. Davis, Blackwater, Del. "My brother, McCabe Davis gave me a small bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. After taking this I bought half a dozen bottles of it but only used one of them as the cough left me and I have not been troubled since." Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

DO YOU HAVE DIZZY SPELLS?

Do you have dizzy spells? Do you feel as though you were going to faint? Do you have aching throats, nervous headaches, or a general feeling of uneasiness? If so, you need a kidney medicine. Dr. Doan's Kidney Pills are the only medicine that will cure you. They are the only medicine that will cure you. They are the only medicine that will cure you. They are the only medicine that will cure you.

Will ache through my kidneys and back and I also had dizzy spells and headaches. The kidney secretions were unnatural and plainly showed that my kidneys needed attention. Doan's Kidney Pills drove away the self—it's only a symptom of some deeper-seated trouble. Much dizziness is caused by disordered kidneys failing to filter all the poisons, from the blood. These poisons attack the nerves and dizziness results. If you are subject to dizziness, it is good reason to suspect your kidneys, and if you suffer backache, kidney secretions, you have further proof. Many Wayne people have learned the value of Doan's Kidney Pills in just such cases. Read this Wayne resident's statement:

"Mrs. Joseph Schmatzig, Wayne, Neb., says: 'I was troubled by a heavy, aching back and a general feeling of uneasiness. I had a kidney ailment, and my doctor told me to take Doan's Kidney Pills. After taking them for a few days, the pain disappeared and I felt much better. I have since taken a course of Doan's Kidney Pills, and my kidneys are now in good health.'"

CORN BREEDING AND PRICES

Wallace's Farmer: An examination of the reports of the grain exchange in Chicago for a couple of days, tells the story of a season of soft corn. On Monday, January 25, 35 cars were received, of which six were No. 2 or better, seven No. 3 and 342 lower grades. The next day, 72 cars were received, of which six were No. 2, twenty-six No. 3, and 710 of the lower grades. On the first mentioned day, the price of No. 2 corn was from 74 to 78 cents, good deal of talking and blowing while sample grades from 30 to 60 cents. On the next day, prices ran a little higher.

Why do we refer to this? Simply to show the extent of the damage done to corn not only in Iowa, but in the other states tributary to the Chicago market. We have had a good deal of talking and blowing in the United States Department of Agriculture, and by the state departments, about the "bushels" of corn, a large part of which sells at from half to two-thirds the price of sound corn, and most of the rest below the price of the better grades. It is the quantity of bushels we sell that counts, but the quality and the price, which is determined by the quality.

The principal reason is to enforce a lesson as have been trying to teach farmers of the corn belt—that there is no profit in growing a type of corn, but for the season. It is money we are after in growing corn—good bushels. We have to pay the seed, and the same thing is true of these low grades of corn that they go on the high. Hence the difference is greater than appears at first sight.

How shall we grow this high-grade corn? First, by selecting a type of corn that will mature in the ordinary season of the locality. Secondly, by maintaining the fertility of the soil, so that it can develop the corn to the utmost limit of the season. This is done by continuing to bring on all there is in it. Lastly, by getting it sown as early as possible, and then putting it in good crops, properly cultivated and well cared for. There is about as much money in forty bushels of No. 2 corn, or even No. 3, as there is in fifty of No. 5 or No. 6, and twice as much as there is in selling sample corn. Corn that has more to give as sample, and is for immediate use only.

The weather is not under the control of the farmer. In a year of surplus rain and less than the usual amount of heat, it is not always possible to grow high-grade corn, no even No. 3. But after all, the quality of corn in a normal season depends on the farmer more than on anything else. You must not ask the corn to undertake too big a thing, to give off more than it can give. You must not, for lack of fertility in the soil, grow bunnies instead of ears, or immature corn instead of sound. It will be further noted "in the next issue" of the winter why we must poll in quality than spring. This is also due to climatic reasons. It will also be noted that western wheat, both Durum and hard, has a much larger proportion of high grades than of low. This is just what we have been expecting.

POLITICS.

(Bixby.) Judge Howard thought to serve the state. But that was not to be his fate.

Since Charley Bryan has thought to run, the judge, among the rest, is out for him, sans coat or vest.

Bold as a lion, firm and strong. He strives to roll in prose and song. The Bryan chariot along.

In face of ruin and of wreck. Judge Howard on the burning deck. Will stand and get it in the neck.

On the wide ocean's pathless stretch, Who trims his sails the breeze to catch. Is known as a time-serving wreath.

Not so the judge—his heart beats warm. For every phase of true reform, And he has nerve to face the storm.

In forward moves that he has made, The judge has spoken, unafraid. And dared to take a spade a spade.

I dare to say before next fall, The judge will hear stern duty call. And help to crush King Alcohol.

Hasten the day when he shall ride The water-wagon and abide. To let the horns go with the hide.

Come—let us hurry every grudge— And rid our glorious state of budget; Get in the game—I'll help you, judge.

SCIENCE CLUB.

A very interesting session of the Science club was held on the evening of February 8. The topics for the evening were light and petroleum. Miss Marguerite Forbes read a paper "Petroleum" which was of special value to the prospective teachers and of general interest to the public. Her discussion did not emphasize the scientific significance of the oil, but exploited its economic value. The present age demands great quantities of petroleum. The rate of consumption is of such enormity that unless care and judgment are used the United States, in a few years, will have exhausted its supply. Miss Forbes suggested that we avoid, where possible, the use of the products of petroleum as a fuel and to discontinue its exportation. Miss Gladys Woods explained the properties and volatility of light, as well as discussed and blackboard illustration.

The last number of the program dealt with the diffraction of light. Miss Elsie Meyer, Miss Gladys Woods, Herman Siegel and Professor Britton performing interesting experiments.

Members of the club feel that students can ill afford to miss these meetings. It wishes the public to know that any one interested will at all times be welcome.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

The Sioux City Tribune of Tuesday evening gave the information that Miss Mabel Banks will not be an applicant for reelection to the position she now holds in the Sioux City schools, and that she is to be married at the close of the present school year. While a student at the normal she was prominent in school activities and won a place on the debating team that defeated the Kearney State Normal.
