CHAUTAQUA DRAWS CROWDS EACH DAY

Victor Murdock, Lieut. Lee Nichols and Gov. H. A. Buchtel Talk on War.

COMEDY NOVEL FEATURE

Welsh Male Singers Make the Musical Hit of the Week in Two Concerts Yesterday.

The main feature on Saturday, the opening day of the eleventh annual chautauqua for the community of Wayne, which is being held in the big tent on upper Main, was Victor Murdock's able lecture on "National Remedies for National ills."

The former congressman from Kansas declares that America was drunk on materialism, material success and social frivolities. He looks to the future to change emphasis from materialism to spirituality.

Among other thrillers Mr. Murdock recounted his experiences in London and Paris at the time of the Zeppelin raids.

Without six months the railroads, the streets, the control of all food products will be under government management, predicts Mr. Murdock, adding that even the prosperous middle class will soon feel the pinch.

Mr. Murdock believes that America rests the responsibility of leading the nation to a clear understanding of broadening the scope of the children of liberty crushed by the Carlist.

The afternoon program on Sunday consisted of solo, duo and choral songs by the High Anderson singers, who were enthusiastically received because of their clear enunciation and thorough understanding of the songs.

Miss Meredith's "Sixth Street Song" was especially appreciated. The lecture of the afternoon was "Success Where You Are" by Harriette Gann.

The speaker also discussed success as doing the things rewards for which would be given beyond the stars. She stressed the necessity of having God in the heart as the source of success and the individual "hustle" that grand thoughts, for "thinking paints the face from the inside."

The speaker was very hopeful of the outcome. "When you think how nobly the comparatively young British and French troops checked the Prussians at the Marne and fought them to the present standstill, it is not reasonable to expect that now, with all the spirit and preparation, and the troops together with the 'Somme' will be able to drive the Germans from Belgian soil back into the twenty countries," asked Lieut. Nichols.

American newspapers were scored for painting life in the trenches so black. "The Tommy in the trenches more than makes up for all the hardships and danger," was the lieutenant's opinion after six months in the front lines in France.

The series of pictures ended with a photograph of President Wilson on the screen, which was greeted with enthusiastic cheering. Five large auditions of the evening's program.

The crowds at the programs on the third day were very small on account of the rain during the afternoon and evening. A short musical program by Rounds' All-Star Ladies' orchestra was the only feature in the afternoon.

The musical program at night consisted of several numbers on both string and wind instruments, together with flute, violin and saxophone.

Following a miscellaneous program by the Clare Vaughn Wales Lyceum players Tuesday afternoon Governor Henry A. Buchtel of Colorado delivered a stirring message, entitled "America and the Great War."

The governor himself is of German descent, but he has no sympathy for the spirit of hatred and democracy exhibited by the Kaiser and his following in Germany.

One of the most unique features of the three act comedy drama "Rejuvenation" staged by the Clare Vaughn Wales company Tuesday evening, was the leading lady, the Misses English Lord Deaksonville, who had not enough ambition to even put his wonderful "Elixir" tablets on the market.

The music yesterday afternoon in the charge of the Royal Gwent Welsh singers twelve talented men was splendid. A miscellaneous program of choruses, quartets, trios, duets and solo songs was included in the program.

The reading of the modern morality play, "Experience," was the big feature of the program. In portraying the many virtues and vices of the world, it was a play with whom youth mingles as he travels through life and in depicting such widely different scenes as the "Prime of Life" and "The House of Old Soul."

BONNIE MORAN INJURED BY JUMPING FROM TRAIN

With Donald Dewey Had Boarded Freight for Swimming Hole.

Bonnie Moran, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Moran, was severely injured Sunday when she jumped from a moving freight train near Winslow. Bonnie and Donald Dewey, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dewey, boarded the west-bound freight train Sunday afternoon with the intention of riding out to the swimming hole, a few miles west of town. When they reached that place the train was going so fast that the boys were unable to jump off, so decided to ride into Winslow. Instead of the train stopping at Winslow as they had supposed it would, it went right through the town. The train stopped and decided to jump off. Donald received a few minor bruises, but Bonnie got a hard fall which left him unconscious. A fine of $100 was levied on the boys for jumping from a moving train. It is believed one rib was fractured. He was taken home immediately by Dr. V. E. Siman and Dr. R. M. ...

LOCAL GARDENERS VERY SUCCESSFUL AT CANNING

Exhibit of 150 Jars Shows Results of Cold Pack Canning.

With the canning demonstration at chautauque yesterday, the series of canning schools closed for the season as no room is longer available at this time. However, Garden supervisors, Herman Siemens, who was in charge, has given suggestions and helps to anyone who is interested in the work prior to September 1, when he expects to leave for Chicago. Should any organization have a room Mr. Siemens would be glad to conduct a class at a convenient time.

More than 150 jars of vegetables, canned by the cold pack method by the children of the garden club, were on display yesterday. Many of the children have become expert in this work, and are capable of canning any vegetable without help.

Tomatoes, sweet corn and cucumbers are being gathered from the club gardens now in great abundance. Mr. Siemens is devoting the greater share of his time this week to helping Mrs. Kayser with the children's pageant, which will be staged on the last afternoon of the chautauque.

DEATH OF POPULAR GIRL

Former Student of Wayne Normal Passes Away at Laurel

The sad news of the death of Miss Esther M. Uter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Uter of Laurel, came as a shock to many of her friends in Wayne this week. Miss Uter died Saturday morning in Laurel while under the influence of an anesthetic. The funeral services were held from the Catholic church in Laurel Monday morning and were attended by a large number of friends. Interment took place in the Laurel cemetery.

Esther M. Uter was born on a farm south of Wayne, December 3, 1917, at the age of 25 years, 8 months and 1 day. Twenty years ago she moved with her parents to a farm near Laurel where she lived until the time of her death.

She was a graduate of the Laurel high school and in 1913 graduated from the state normal school at Peru. The following year graduated from the State Normal at Wayne, after which she attended a year and a half at the state university. At the Wayne Normal she made a host of friends among the students and the members of the faculty. She was a student of unusual ability and a general favorite with every one.

Last Christmas she was elected to fill a vacancy in the student body at Wayne and her service was so successful that she was re-elected for next year.

"Our Mary"

The World's Sweetheart, Plays
"The Little American"
Better Than "Womanhood"

Thursday, August 16th

Many who have seen Mary Pickford star as Angela Moore in "The Little American," say that as a patriotic film it surpasses "Womanhood." It is spectacular, but it is something more, something finer. Most of "The Little American" features scenes at the front, near the firing line. The story, brimful of human interest and heart appeal, is briefly this:

THE STORY: Angela Moore, a Washington girl is courted by Count Jules of the French embassy, but her heart is centered on Karl Von Austrein, a German-American. Both her lovers go to war, one in the French reserve, the other with the Germans. Angela sails to join her aunt in her French chateau, and Karl, when he hears that the Veritania has been torpedoed imagines his sweetheart drowned. He later encounters her in a dramatic scene during the firing of her aunt's chateau. When she is sentenced to die as a spy, he realizes the relentless grip of the Prussian machine, and throws down his sword. Meanwhile, Jules, hearing Angela's screams over their secret spy telephone, concentrates his guns on the chateau. The two lovers manage to crawl across the "No Man's Land" between the warring armies, and are picked up by Jules the following morning at the foot of the crucifix of a ruined chapel. What happens thereafter you will see next Thursday night at the Crystal.

"DON QUIXOTE" MONDAY, AUGUST 13

A refreshing relief from war pictures and war thoughts is "Don Quixote," a story of Spain in the 16th century. Crazed on the subject of knight errantry, Don encounters all sorts of adventures as he fights for his lady fair. The costuming for "Don Quixote" is wonderful, and the scenery charming. It's delightfully different. Also, a two-reel Keystone comedy.

After Nancy dies, Violet Mercereau slips into the part of Susan, the daughter, who, reared in poverty in New York, gets so desperate as to steal soup for her father. RAINS DESCENDED IN TORRENTS ON MONDAY

People were reminded of Noah's flood Monday. It may have been the anniversary of that memorable flood. It will be remembered by the oldest inhabitants that Noah was given a tip and advised to build an ark, which he had the good judgment to do. When he got the household ready for service and had headed together members of his family, the heavens were unrolled and the water came down in torrents. As the rivers and creeks, including Logan and Coon creek and Dog creek, went out of their banks and spread over the earth, the ark arose buoyantly and triumphantly. Those not in the ark were terribly soaked and drowned. The Herald will remembers, as do other Bible students, that the rain lasted forty days without intermissions, and that water covered the earth for 150 days. When the ark landed on Mount Ararat, Noah was so inhibited over his release from restricted quarters that he turned a handspring and published a card of thanks.

As a preface to Monday's down-pour, clouds gathered and reconnoitered early Sunday. They examined the country carefully, and then dispersed. Where they went, no one knows, but that they collected together an immense array of able-bodied recruits, all well-tes-tified. They commenced assembling Monday morning, and at noon Aquarius was ready to turn loose the aggregation. Water came down in sheets. In one minute Mr. Hogue-wood was assured that his street sprinkler could be taken out of commission for the day. About three inches of rain fell during the afternoon. Growing crops were so thoroughly soaked that Aquarius will serve this country now by suspending animation for a considerable time.

day, but when you'd touch our pocketbooks, that is another thing, gadzooks! Oh, how the children must admire the groups. Bill, with marbled face, who tell all day what they would do if they were twenty-one or two, and who shrug up and fawn away if asked to help Y. M. C. A. or any worthy arm cause—those heroes battling with their jaws!

EMMA GOLDMAN.

All day long fair Emma sits in her little whitewashed cell; for a time she'll throw no fits, urging hoboes to rebel. For a time she'll boast no cause, and she'll disassociate herself, and her gaited perch jaiva will enjoy an earned repose. In the sunny days of peace she went shrieking over the plain, saying government should cease and that anarchy should reign. When the dove of peace is near, floating on its downy wings, we don't care what's for us, we hear, and we grin at Emma's rages. When the sword is in its sheath, and we are not called to fight, foolish freaks may grind their teeth, cursing everything in sight. All the emblems may be changed, and their whisks may with foam, may for wreck and ruin paint, fill the blinded cows come home. When the sounds of war arise, and the ride of battle rolls, all the cracks, if they were wise, would proceed to hunt their hutes. In a time of blood and fire, when the youth to battle fare, all the windmills should retire to their dreary moulins. Emma thought she'd rant and yell just as in the times of peace; in her little whitewashed cell she is using elbow grease.

MARCHING HOME.

When they come back from blood-stained fields, the country's hero fighters, displaying on their helms and shields the scales of Prussian-brightners, when they come back across the foam from active German hunting, how proudly they'll land with hunting! The hands will ply to beat the band, brave airs in handsome doses, and pretty girls, on every hand, will poll the boys with roses. And there'll be music in the kirk, loud organ peals and singing, and every man will quit his work, and keep the well-woman singing. "I'll be there to be the blacker lad, who's clanked and dodged the fighting, when from Poree or Petrograd the boys come home aking! I'd hate to be that young man then, disgraced beyond redemption, who claimed a savior or a siren as reason for exemption. Oh, better far to fill a grave in some red field uncharted, than sink around when banners wave—no great sin, but hoisted. When we, to see the hero-back before the court house rally, the headless fellows, who were black-will hide in some dark alley.

EASY WORK.

It's easy for the man who's right to talk like a seven-saps-to-fellow toiling in the ditch, long hours for meager wages, to tell them that all wealth is dross, a frost, or pretty near it, that everything's a total loss, except a cheerful spirit. Now, I have earned one bone a day, at heavy grinding labors, so I feel honest when I say wise things to toiling neighbors. It's easy for the man who's hale, who never had yaller jaundice, to hand out bank to those who ail with rich or mumps or glanders; to tell them that they ought to smile and wave their hats and chorion when toothache or disorder, head lice, or causing pain, tumoral. But I, who write the cheer-up rhyme, to brace some aching brother, have rheumatism, call the doctor, and jumping gout, the rheumatism, and I'm in pain. So many giving in advice and optimistic chatter, and telling how to cut the ice, when busted flat or flatter. And most of them have never seen old Kaiser Bill, and they're tolling for a wretched bone in quarters, fields and ditches. And few of them have been I, even from him, the names, several, and few of them, methods, have seen the count of the afflicted. It's easy work to dish the lunk when you are clothed in idleness, to one who, sweating far a plunk, is sore in need of twenty-

READY TO GO.

I've seen all things a man may see. I've known all things a man may know, and when Death's summons come, I'll come to meet him "All right," and gladly go. But ere I climb the sunset hill, and leave this world of tears and toil, I'd like to see old Kaiser Bill, first in some cheaper grade of oil. Long years I've lived, and done my work as best I could, with talents few; a couch beside the old gray kirk will seem inviting when I'm through. But I'll pass through Johnny's chair, to roam in Eden's groves afar. I'd like to see old Kaiser Bill adorned with feathers and with tar. I do not understand the men who have to live when life's a bore, who must be called and called again, before they'll start to other shore. I do not understand the dread with which I'm greeted, as a woman of clay, who're pleasant to be used, that sticking round in people's way. I'll gladly go when lout and shell, ring out, and give a son of clay, a hero's name. I'd see old Kaiser Bill placed in the taxidermist's hands.

WHAT AMERICA NEEDS MOST
Omaha, Dec. 18.—What America needs most is this moment, is a better understanding among all the people of the full meaning of patriotism and loyalty.

Every time we read of internal dissensions in Germany or hear stories about approaching popular revolution against the German war lords, we conclude that Germany is not doing it in a great or courageous way. We forget, however, that in precisely the same way the Kaiser and his war lords, who we may be sure keep fully posted on what is going on over here, were assured the added strength of the opposing force represented by the entrance of the United States into the war by reports they get about back-pulling, traitorous, German activities in this country.

The certainty that the people of the United States are earnestly and solidly for "America first," as against all enemies, driven straight home to the German warriors, would be the most powerful factor imaginable to make them realize the terrible and to hasten the advent of peace. Every manifestation of open resistance or halfhearted support to the measures adopted by our government for the vigorous prosecution of the war means, therefore, increased cost in life and treasure for the attainment of the goal just as concentration of force and prompt action means quicker peace and less outlay to get it.

As the Bee has more than once pointed out, we are in this war to the finish and we are every loyal American, regardless whether he previously thought we should get in or stay out, should have but a single purpose now and that to achieve peace by every means possible through the display of unstinted and undivided Americanism.

NOT THE ONLY ONE

There Are Other Wayne People Similarly Situated.

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Wayne residents? After you have read the following, quietly answer the question.

Mrs. Ira Hoshow, Wayne, says: "I was confined to bed for several weeks with a severe attack of grippe, upon recovering, I found my kidneys had become weakened. I was a great sufferer from sharp pains across the small of my back. My head throbbled for hours, at a time and I could not rest at all. Dr. Doan's Kidney Pills removed the backache and my kidneys were strengthened. In three weeks all symptoms of kidney trouble had disappeared."

Almost six years later on July 15, 1916, she added: "Doan's Kidney Pills which I get at Felber's Pharmacy, keep me in good health."

WHY The Dry Air Space?

TO MAKE FUEL DO DOUBLE DUTY

A little fire makes a lot of heat, but heat is hard to confine. It goes right through iron and is wasted. Asbestos blocks its escape much better than iron. But a dry air space heats anything ever devised to prevent its escape.

All ranges use the three-wall construction or asbestos between two layers of iron. The Copper-Clad adds a fourth, the asbestos gets pitted, soaps. This copper sheet is full of little holes. The tips of the domes rest against the iron body and all around them is a Dry Air Space just like a thermos bottle. The heat is caged. It can't get away. A given amount of fuel does double duty because the dry air space holds the heat in the range. If this saved but a novel of coal at a meal it would mean over a thousand shovels a year.

Then insist on the range that can't rust out, the range with a dry air space—the Copper-Clad Range.

Low Cloverleaf Spreaders

THE SPREADER THAT SPREADS EIGHT FEET WIDE OR MORE

The "Why" of the Wide Spread

After years of experience of designing manure spreaders the International Harvester company woke up to the fact that a spreader was not a success unless it threw a wider spread than the mere width of the beater. Thus it was that the new Cloverleaf spreader with a 45-inch box and an 8-foot spread was put on the market.

The speed of the apron is increased so that the manure is fed to the beater twice as fast. Therefore the density of the strip on the ground per square foot is the same as it would be from the old style spreader. But since the spread is twice as wide the unloading time is shortened by practically 50 per cent and the traveling distance reduced an equal amount. Should you hesitate on buying a Cloverleaf wide-spreader?

The "How" of the Wide Spread

To secure the wide spread it was only necessary to, in some way, receive the manure as it came from the beater and change the direction of its motion to the sides instead of to the back. This is done by means of two steel discs attached just back of the beater. The discs, which are fitted with angle irons on the inside, revolve rapidly in opposite directions. The beater throws the manure directly against the discs and it is caught and thrown out in a wide spread.

The width of the spread may be changed by adjusting the wings at the side. If wanted, the strip may be cut down to just the width of the box or it may be extended until the beater is throwing a strip 8 feet wide or more.

FEATURE 1.	FEATURE 2.	FEATURE 3.	FEATURE 4.	FEATURE 5.	FEATURE 6.
Manure Pulverized. When you use the Cloverleaf spreader the manure is given two beatings. It is cut and torn by the beater, and is then caught by the wide spreading apron and thrown out upon the ground. A hood so holds the manure that the discs cut on every part of it. And the finer the fertilizer the sooner it becomes thoroughly mixed with the soil.	The Slatted Roller. Has a particular advantage because it is flexible and allows most any size of a load to be put onto it. Light manure may be piled high in the center, and the slatted roller revolves on top of the load, retarding the top and crushing the lumps so that all the manure is fed to the beater uniformly.	Roller Bearings. Always lighten the draft, but the roller bearings on the rear axle of the Cloverleaf are contained in self-aligning boxes which revolve on rollers, or twisting the rollers. The bearings operate in clean grease held in dust-proof oil cups. Trouble with the draft of the Cloverleaf is entirely overcome by this arrangement.	All-Steel Frame. Because all the strain of hauling comes on the frame nothing but the best steel is used in the Cloverleaf. And besides the frame is strongly braced and trussed to withstand the strain of any load piled on the spreader. The steel bars, cross-bracing the main frame, absolutely do away with any giving or sagging.	Load Pulled Straight. The pull of the load on the Cloverleaf is straight from the frame. The tongue is attached at about the level of the bottom of the box, and the horses are relieved from the constant worry and strain of neck weight. And the narrow front trucks save the horses' front legs and shoulders from being bruised by the tongue.	Gears Very Heavy. The worm-and-worm-gears, which in fact meet the strain of the entire load, are very heavy, and, in addition, are enclosed in an iron case, dust and dirt tight. These gears are also reversible which feature lengthens their life 100 per cent. They do not work with a jerk, but with a steady motion throughout the unloading operation.

Ideal Way to Apply Manure

The only practical method for spreading manure on high-priced land and when high-priced labor is used, is with an up-to-date machine. It has been tested over again and again that corn, wheat and hay actually yield more per acre after even one application of fertilizer. If you are going to fertilize at all, do it the right way—with a Cloverleaf spreader.

Why A Spreader Pays For Itself

Not only does spreading manure scientifically increase crop returns, but it saves labor as well. When the spreader gets into the field it requires only 3 to 5 minutes to spread the entire load. Hauling the same load with a wagon would take at least twenty minutes. You will almost save enough time in a year to pay for the latest model Cloverleaf spreader.

A camp meeting was held in Scott's grove. A large crowd from Wayne, Wakefield and the neighborhood turned out and pitched their tents. On Sunday the grounds were crowded with visitors from all over the county.

From Ponca Journal, September 5, 1878:

It is reported that Mr. Blank, who ran a saloon here three or four years ago, is in St. James residing with a vulgarly known as Jim Jams. Two or three men are required to hold him, and no hopes (or fears) are entertained for his recovery.

Wesley Bates, Jim Quinn and Jim Exans went on a fishing excursion up the river the other night. They flourished and enjoyed a round all night which said flourishings and cavortings resulted in the capture and impalement of one single, solitary, slim, sick, slender, slimy, six-inch garter.

Mr. Kenan who resides near G. Mattison's mill, (about seven miles up the river from Ponca) states that everybody in that neighborhood is now making hay. Small grain is mostly thrashed, and corn is becoming an immense yield. As to how the grain turned out, Mr. Kenan states as an example, that on fifteen acres he had 210 bushels of wheat, and on seventeen acres he had 812 bushels of oats. This is doing as well as the most sanguine could wish. The corn on Mr. Kenan's place will average 80 bushels to the acre.

The pastor of this church will be glad to take a little vacation beginning about the 15th, instant, and hereby expresses his gratitude to friends who have made it financially possible to go.

Daniel Webster said that the biggest thought that he had ever entertained was the idea of a personal relation to a personal God. In one of his great speeches he extended this thought into a great appeal to men to do their duty. We will consider the matter as it applies to us next Sunday at the hour of morning worship. We expect to preach next Sunday morning and then away for the rest you have so generously granted.

The evening preaching services will be discontinued during the rest of the month of August. There will be a grand Sunday evening rally service on the evening of September 2. Don't Starve Your Battery

A starving battery is in a worse fix than a starving man—it gives no warning of its weakened condition. It suffers and struggles along until the last ounce of energy is gone. Then it "quits" suddenly.

Your battery may be "starving" right now. Maybe it needs a crank or a freshening charge to restore it to its normal healthy condition.

Let our experts inspect and test it today. Our service is at your disposal—no matter what make of battery you use. We'll add distilled water if needed. If repairs are necessary, we carry a complete line of battery parts for all makes of batteries.

Some day you will need a new battery. Try the Prest-O-Lite Battery. It will give you more power, more endurance and longer life—more value than any other battery. We have the correct size for your car.
