

NE Vo Tech School Gets New Name

All officers of the Northeast Vocational Technical school were re-elected and the school received a new name at the Thursday meeting of the school's board of governors.

In addition, steps were taken to get the school in operation. This was the board's first meeting with its recently-named administrator, I. Don Maclay.

Maclay has previously served on the board but resigned and Alan Cramer, then vice president, was named in his place.

Re-elected was Cramer were Stephen Finn, Neligh, vice president, and Dennis Poeschl, Stanton, secretary. Poeschl has served as board secretary since the board's formation more than a year ago.

New name of the school unofficially, will be Northeast Tech. The official title of the school remains unchanged. According to Nebraska statute it must be "State Vocational-Technical School No. 3."

First efforts to start operation of the school involve a request to Norfolk Junior College officials to turn over the licensed practical nurses course to the vocational school.

Maclay was instructed to contact the junior college officials to get their feeling on the matter. The first class of 30 students is scheduled to start in September in classrooms in the old Norfolk Junior high building, presently used as the college library.

Expenses for classroom space are paid by the state's Board for Vocational Education, Maclay told the governors. Mrs. Don Brennan is course director.

The course requires space for a laboratory that will contain eight beds and office space for staff.

Classes also would be held at Valley View Lodge and at the children's wing of Clarkson Memorial hospital in Omaha.

If college officials are interested in the offer, a special meeting of v-tech officers may be called soon.

Anticipating the possibility that other classes may be started by the beginning of the new year, Maclay was instructed to start looking for more available space.

Board member Cleon R. Roselius, Norfolk, was appointed by Cramer to work with Maclay to find and furnish office space in Norfolk for the administrator, dean, a secretary and coming board meetings. Applications already have been considered for the post as secretary.

John Watson, O'Neill, and Ronald Aschoff, Osmond, were appointed with Maclay as board members to attend the area Vocational Technical School council coming up Aug. 23.

All three will be voting members and will have terms of one year.

That council will select officers and plan for representatives to attend unicameral sessions and discuss any legislation affecting vocational-technical schools throughout the state.

A subject planned by the board for discussion at the council is a plan for students from the Northeast Tech area to attend other operating vocational technical schools with Northeast Tech paying part of the tuition to the other schools until courses can be arranged at the Norfolk site.

Three board members were appointed to help Maclay in the search for a dean of instruction for Northeast Tech. Named for this task were Stephen Finn, Neligh; Phil Knerl, Ponca, and Gerhard Albers, Beemer.

A suggestion that the school take over the operation of the State Hospital herd of dairy cattle and use it for dairy instruction was delayed for study at a later date. The suggestion came from State Senator S. H. Brauer, Norfolk.

Necessary bonding of school employees was arranged, insurance needs of the school discussed and a financial report made.

Finances of the school now stand at $510,000 invested and a bank account of $47,420.

Next meeting of the board will be Sept. 12.

Dixon Co. Pre-Fair Day Set Tuesday

Dixon County's Pre-Fair Day gets underway Tuesday morning at the Dixon County Fairgrounds.

On tap during the day will be a dress revue, demonstration contest and song contest. Girls from each event will be eligible to represent Dixon County at the State Fair in Lincoln in September.

The dress revue opens the day's activities at 8 a.m. The public is invited to attend the activities.

Winside Boy 'Fine'

Alan Melerhenry, six-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Melerhenry of Winside, is getting along fine, according to his mother. Alan was kicked in the stomach August 1 by a Shetland colt.

Doctors at the Lutheran Hospital in Norfolk were forced to operate to repair internal injuries. He was released from the hospital Tuesday. The accident occurred while he was staying with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Steckle, in Madison.

Grand Champion of Show...

Two Top 4-H Beeves to Jack Sievers

Jack Sievers came to the Wayne County Fair Friday determined to have a winner and took home two instead, carrying away Grand Champion and Reserve Champion honors with his two Hereford calves.

His 1,145-pound entry was considered tops by the judge.

The two top calves in Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn herds were called into the ring for show honors. When the champion had been picked the judge, after detailed inspection of the remaining calves, walked through the ring to elap Jack's second calf on the rump, calling "reserve champion."

Judging of the grand and reserve champions had been planned for Friday evening before the grandstand crowd, but an evening rain forced a change of plans and the few spectators sat beneath canvas-covered bleachers at the ring-side or peered from windows of the 4-H calf barn.

Competing against Jack were the champion Shorthorn owned by Ronnie Magnuson and the reserve champion Shorthorn owned by Susan Dorsey; the champion Angus shown by Kim Baker and the reserve champion Angus owned by Diana Janka.

Pictures of other purple ribbon winners in the 4-H calf competition as well as other categories are included on other pages of this issue of The Wayne Herald.

WSC Dean Ends Summer Workshop

Donald G. Merriman, Dean of Students at Wayne State College, was among 26 college personnel specialists from throughout the nation selected to attend the 1968 Summer Workshop in College Student Personnel at Michigan State University.

The workshop seminar, July 29 to August 9, was designed to provide in-depth study in two principal areas of responsibility in student personnel services. One aspect concentrated on the development and administration of college counseling programs.

The other concerned the development and administration of college placement services.

Two outstanding authorities in personnel administration, Dr. Harold Korn, assistant director of the Counseling Center at Stanford University and Dr. James O'Connell, director of placement at Iona College in New Rochelle, N. Y., directed the two aspects of the workshop.

The program was organized by Dr. Walter F. Johnson of MSU's department of Counseling and Personnel Services.

Father Wm. Kleffman Leaving Wayne

Rev. William C. Kleffman, pastor of St. Mary's Parish in Wayne, has been appointed pastor of St. Agnes Parish in Omaha, effective Tuesday, Aug. 20.

Father Kleffman has served as pastor at Wayne since June of 1953. An Army chaplain during World War II, Father Kleffman has been chaplain of the Wayne State College Newman Club in addition to his pastoral duties at St. Mary's.

He was ordained in Omaha at St. Cecilia's Cathedral in 1941. Prior to his Army service, he was assistant at Blessed Sacrament Parish, Omaha.

After serving as chaplain in the Army, he was assigned to St. Rose Church at Hooper and St. Lawrence Church at Scribner.

His successor at St. Mary's will be Rev. Paul J. Begley, who has been pastor at St. Mary's, Hubbard, since 1964. Father Begley was ordained in 1955.

The parishioners of St. Mary's have planned a farewell in honor of Father Kleffman which will be held Wednesday, Aug. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in St. Mary's Hall. The public is invited.

WSC Grads Omitted

Kenneth D. Denesla, Wayne, Lois B. Dunklau, Randolph, and William K. Ericksen, Wayne, were omitted from the list of students graduating from Wayne State College Wednesday.

Denesla and Dunklau received bachelor of arts in education degrees. Ericksen received a master of science in education.

The names were omitted from the original release containing the names of those graduating.

Hoskins Youngster Suffers Broken Leg

Michael Greenlee Gnirk, eleven-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gnirk of Hoskins, received a broken left leg Tuesday afternoon when he fell from a hay rack and was run over by the wheel of the rack.

The rack was being used to haul bales at the farm of Herbert Pell, Stahton. The Hoskins Rescue Unit took him to a Norfolk hospital. The break occurred near the hip.

Allen Sets Practice

Allen's Community Choir and the High School Band will practice at the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. Wednesday evening.

The practice is to get the groups ready for the vesper services Sunday, Aug. 18, which take place the night before the Dixon County Fair begins.

Music Scholarships to Area Students

Eight area youngsters were among 25 musicians who were awarded Outstanding Student Scholarships during Wayne State College's twenty-fourth annual Summer Music Camp. The camp lasted from July 28 through Aug. 4.

Area youngsters awarded scholarships were Mary Beth de Freese, Wayne; Bruce Lindefelder, Allen; Laurie Frink, Pender; Stephen Nierman, Cole; Kathy Reigle, Plainville; and Christie Froberg, Connie

Tletgen and Natalia Zautke, all of Norfolk.

Also receiving scholarships were Jane Allen and Cindy Peters of Creighton; Gary Dunker and Tom Jonas of Schuyler; Kristin Jones, Sloan, Ia.; Norma Linke of Bassett and Valerie Thorson of Council Bluffs. Students from Omaha getting scholarships were Craig Clawson; Mary Goodrich; Wendy Hanscom; Heather Jackson; John LaPuzza; Robert Midguth; Mary Pokorny; Charles Teutsch; and Jim Watkins.

TRACTOR PULL competition Thursday at the Wayne County fair attracted a full grandstand of spectators plus a field of 78 tractors and an infield crowded with observers, competitors and officials.

Police Activity Light

The Wayne Police blotter shows another case of vandalism occurring in Wayne. Monday night somebody broke the windshield and a window of a vehicle parked on Fairgrounds Avenue. Alvin Schmode reported the incident to the police Tuesday. Officer Penlerick investigated but the police were unable to determine who did the damage.

Wednesday police received a complaint about youngsters shooting rifles at the Boy Scout Camp on South Nebraska. Police advised the four young boys that they should not shoot rifles unless they have an adult with them.

Also on Wednesday police were called to the scene of an accident on Fairacres Road. About $200 damage was done to a car driven by Janice M. Prodoehl of Wayne when it was backed into by a car driven by Henry Roeg of Wayne. Both were backing out of their driveways when the accident occurred. Roeg's 1961 sedan suffered about $40 damage to the right rear fender. Prodoehl's See more POLICE, page 5

CONG. ROBERT DENNEY visited at the fair Friday, renewing acquaintances, making new ones and holding little children up so they could see themselves on closed circuit television at his campaign booth. One of the smiling youngsters who spotted herself on the TV tube was Robin Lindsay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Lindsay. Mrs. Lloyd Straight is shown at the rear of the booth.

Nitrate Problems Subject of Seminar

Nitrate problems will be the subject of a seminar Wednesday afternoon at 1 p.m. at the Northeast Station at Concord, according to Don Kubik, area extension dairy specialist at the Northeast Station.

The seminar will be called "Living With Nitrates in 1968" and will attempt to make farmers more informed about the dangers of and necessary precautions for feeding high nitrate material to livestock.

Over 70 samples of material have been taken from different areas in northeast Nebraska and these will be discussed and analyzed at the seminar.

Ulverd Alexander, area extension soils specialist, will discuss the present situation of nitrates. Walt Tolman and Bob Fritschen, area extension animal science specialists, and Kubik will discuss the correct ways of feeding high nitrate material to livestock and the precautions a farmer should take.

Laurel Woman Attending Convention

Mrs. Winton Wallin, Laurel, left Omaha Sunday night for the National Convention of Lutheran Church Women at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago. She will return Friday.

A member of the Concordia Lutheran Church in Concord, Mrs. Wallin is an official delegate from the Nebraska Synod. Rev. John Erlanson said the position is quite an honor because only about 10 or 12 people from Nebraska were chosen as delegates to the convention. She was elected delegate at the state convention in Lincoln last October. She will serve as delegate for three years.

The convention will discuss such things as the current urban and rural problems.

Suffers Many Burns Tuesday Night

Al Grashorn suffered burns over his arms, chest and back Tuesday evening when a flaming gasoline lantern was accidentally thrown at him.

Wayne Hopkins was cleaning the lantern in the basement of the Grashorn home when it ac-identally ignited. He threw it out of the basement door in an attempt to get it out of the house and prevent a fire. It accidentally hit Grashorn who was standing outside. The doctor who examined him said he suffered several degrees of burns.

order to be eligible for consideration for an appointment. This year the Senator has one vacancy to fill at the Military Academy and the Naval Academy and none at the Air Force Academy. For the vacancy at each of these academies, Senator Curtis is now entitled to nominate one principal candidate and nine alternate candidates. Due to the enactment of Public Law 90-374 during this session of Congress, this number was increased from five alternates to nine alternates. Each year the State of Nebraska is entitled to fill three vacancies at the Merchant Marine Academy and each member of the Nebraska Congressional Delegation may nominate ten young men to compete for the three openings. To be eligible for consideration, a boy must have reached his 17th birthday and not his 22nd by July 1, 1969. He must also meet scholastic and physical requirements. Young men interested in competing for an Academy nomination should write to Senator Carl T. Curtis at the New Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20510, for details.

MINDY ANDERSON was a two-time winner Thursday when she won purple awards for showing the best two-year-old Holstein cow and then took reserve champion honors in senior showmanship. Mindy is a member of the Deer Creek Valley 4-H club.

Alcoholics Are Concern of Unique Group

Northeast Nebraska may have another first if everything works out smoothly. Members of the Northeast Nebraska Family and Community Affairs Council have applied for federal funds so they can hire a full-time person to work with alcoholics. Neal Rosehart of Laurel, chairman of the council, said he was recently informed that the funds will be made available to the group. He expects the funds to be about $6,000. The group is still in the formative and planning stage, Rosehart said. But the first problem it will tackle if it can get the funds will be alcoholism, Rosehart said there is "a real need in this area for an organization like this." The council is the first in Nebraska, according to Rosehart.

scheduled a second session in Wayne, narrowed down to the problem of alcoholism. The group became interested enough in the problem to hold a third meeting for a seven-county region. The group originally thought Madison county would be in the council but Rosehart said it is made up of six counties because Madison county is in a different region. Rosehart said he has been "very pleased with the way the council is coming along." He said he has already had several churches, schools and other organizations contact him about the possibility of the council sending speakers to give talks. The council hopes to be able to incorporate into a non-profit organization later on so it can solicit funds. Rosehart also said that he has heard there are many ways and places the group can obtain money but that it takes time to find out about them. Rosehart also noted that the council may in the future be able to afford some sort of building where the full-time worker can be centered. Right now, if everything goes according to plan, the person will probably use the home of one of the members. The council is made up of Rosehart, Mrs. Ronald Ankeny of Dixon, secretary, and one representative from each county. Rosehart said he has hopes that if they can incorporate into a non-profit organization, the council will be composed of two or three representatives from each county. This would insure each county being represented at the regular monthly meetings. Tentative plans call for the council to branch out into other areas. Members hope they can later serve schools and churches in a counseling function, provide help to families having marital problems and so forth. The next meeting of the council is scheduled for Monday, September 9.

Milo Pest 'Under Control'

The severe infestation of greenbugs in Nebraska milo fields is about over, a University of Nebraska insect specialist said today. Robert F. Roselle, extension entomologist, said a small wasp, along with other natural control forces, has brought nearly all greenbug infestations in eastern Nebraska under control, and greenbugs in central and western counties should be largely wiped out soon. The minute braconid wasp lays an egg in the bodies of greenbugs (aphids), and the wasp larva which develops inside kills the bugs, Roselle explained. Dead aphid cling to the leaves, turning brown as they die. When about four of 10 aphids turn tan or light brown, the infestation is usually brought under complete control in a few days, he added. Weather or other undetermined factors this season apparently delayed the development of the natural enemy wasps until the greenbug population had grown to near-disastrous proportions in some areas, Roselle commented. Other natural enemies, especially lady beetles, lace wing larvae and a predaceous maggot also have increased in numbers and are stemming the greenbug onslaught, the NU specialist said. In addition to milo, which greenbugs had not attacked in significant numbers in Nebraska in the past, greenbugs do infest wheat, Roselle stated. However, with the high degree of natural control which seems to be developing, there should be few greenbugs left to move into fall-sown wheat, he said. "Usually, infestations in wheat are due to greenbugs in winged forms which are blown into Nebraska from the southern states," Roselle continued. "This can happen again, so it would be wise for wheat farmers to watch the fall wheat crop closely this year, because greenbug populations are present from Nebraska to Texas." Greenbugs do not attack alfalfa, Roselle said. Turnings from the greenbug battle front, Roselle warned central and southwestern Nebraska farmers to watch cornfields for western bean cutworm infestations. "Some fields have significant infestations now," he revealed. He advised farmers to look for worms in the leaf axils, tassels and silks. If the worms are present in sizeable numbers on one plant out of seven, control should be profitable. Endrin, Sevin, Dyltox and DDT granules are available for control. The choice of material will depend upon the use of the crop, Roselle said. Endrin, Dyltox or DDT should not be used on corn that might be used for silage. Sevin-treated corn can be used for silage without restrictions and fed to dairy cattle. Areas that will experience the most severe bean cutworm infestations are from Hamilton County west to Keith County, and in the Platte and Republican River valleys, Roselle concluded.

SWAY Checks to Wayne Area Men

Information has been received on two recent SWAY winners. Dean H. Boekenhauer, whose name was drawn Monday, July 15, recently reported for duty in New Mexico. He left Wayne August 3 and had to be there August 6.

He is a 1966 graduate of Wakefield High School and farmed near Wakefield until January when the Iowa Air National Guard was activated. He is married to the former Elizabeth Mau of Wayne.

St. Mark L. Dorcey's name was drawn during the drawing held Monday, July 29. He also belonged to the Iowa Air National Guard and was activated in January.

A 1960 Wayne High graduate, Dorcey obtained his B.S. degree from Wayne State College in 1966. He taught at the Emerson High School during the 1966-67 school year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Dorcey of Wayne.

Dorcey was a mechanic but he now orders parts and keeps records. He took his basic training at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas.

The Wayne Herald has not received information on several recent SWAY winners. If anybody could supply information about

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor: I received the $10 check with much appreciation and surprise and wish to express a very sincere thank you.

At the present time I am receiving training to be a light vehicle driver and hope to receive my military license very shortly.

Since entering the service, I have received a lot of priceless experience with other people and I'm sure there'll be much more to come before my two years of duty are completed.

Once again, thank you for your consideration. PVT. Darrell W. Macklin US 56545970 C-1, 4-69 Plt, 2 A-31 Fort Huachuca, Arizona 85613

Local NEA Delegates End Conference

Three Wayne people were among 300 local association delegates who took part in the Nebraska State Education Association's 17th Annual Leadership Conference held at Chadron State College.

Dr. Norma Cochran, Mrs. Walter L. Moller and Irvin C. Brandt attended the conference, which was held from Sunday through Wednesday last week.

The theme of the conference, "Leading A Unified Profession," was stressed in both the keynote address and small group sessions held during the three-day event. Dr. Cecil J. Harman, assistant executive secretary of the National Education Association, gave the keynote address.

Topics discussed included negotiations, professional rights and responsibilities, communications and improvement of instruction. Delegates were also involved in discussions on policies for representation at the annual delegate assembly, the NSEA dues structure, the chartering of local associations, and the possible changing of the date of the annual delegate assembly.

Whiting Gives Up—Wayne Wins Two

Wayne won both games against Whiting in their best two-out-of-three series. They played Emerson Sunday night at Wayne in the first of a three-game series to determine the play-off champion. The second game with Emerson will be played at Emerson Thursday night. If a third game is needed to decide the champion, the teams will flip a coin to decide where it will be played.

Emerson knocked out the Northeast Nebraska League Champions, the Homer Hawks.

Whiting forfeited the first game with Wayne because of tournament obligations. They showed up Thursday night in Wayne with only eight players, played four innings and decided to go home and give Wayne the win.

Wayne was second in the Northeast Nebraska League. Whiting ended up third and Emerson came in fourth.

Riveria '300' Starts, Stalls, Ends Fast

Norfolk's Riviera "300", postponed previously because of a wet track, took place Wednesday night with drivers from as far away as Columbus and Omaha competing for a purse of $3000. It was held up for about an hour when the lights failed.

Hoskins and Dixon drivers placed in two of the three 100-lap races.

In the first race, semi-modified, Gene Brudigan took second place. Ron B. Wilkinson of Elgin captured the first place prize. Gene Wagner came in sixth, Gerald Bruzeman 12th and Bob Taylor 14th.

In the super-modified competition Wilbert Hecke of the Skelark track in Columbus took first place honors.

Harold Brudigan drove Gene Brudigan's 1956 Studebaker in the rain-shortened final race of the "300", for late models, and captured eighth place.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

You may not agree with an editorial, but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

Now It's Your Turn

A determined move to obtain a permanent museum for the Wayne County Historical Society is under way. A site for the building is promised, on the condition that money for the building is raised.

Honor of the land is Mrs. Clarence Sorensen who said she will give the society land directly across from the Wayne Airport for the location of the building. The donation is a very generous gesture on the part of Mrs. Sorensen.

Now the people of Wayne county—and other counties, too—can show their appreciation of the need by coming through with dollars to purchase and erect the building.

Accompanying this editorial is a drawing of the proposed building. It will cost about $10,000, the amount the society has set out to raise. And if every person in the county would contribute $1.25 each the money would be on hand quickly. We know it is not that simple, however.

Individual memberships are $1 per year; family memberships are $5 (for two years; sustaining memberships $10 a year.

Each type of membership is designed to serve a specific function for the buyer, but in the end will help the county have a much-needed museum. With our world moving as fast as it does, old things soon are lost or forgotten. These old relics of history have more value as time goes on and soon become priceless, both as objects to teach our children local history as well as increasing in intrinsic value because they are rare.

To get an idea of the value of antique items, one need only visit a farm sale or household sale containing some of these pieces. The prices are often unbelievable! The value we talk of here is not the dollar value, but the dollar value does reflect the interest that is shown in such items here and across the nation.

Note the interest in roadside museums as vacationers travel. Some private museums even charge admissions that show them a profit!

Tourists are continually watching for another museum, something to show them the artifacts of the locality, relics of the past of the place in which they are visiting.

Many of these items already are on hand and many more will be loaned or donated when a suitable building to house them is completed.

Such a building will be a credit to the area and a source of pride for all Northeast Nebraska residents, and it can become a reality with little effort and cost to the general public.

Be ready for your membership purchase or donation when you are called on by a member of the Historical society.

Something unique in the way of a world's record was made in Norfolk, B. M. Kinne, a barber, shaved a man in just 17.2 seconds. It clipped the record time 10.8 seconds, the best ever done before having been the work of a Georgia tonsorial artist. Kinne has sent his time to an eastern publication, which offers a medal for the achievement.

News of The Week
Last Thursday the Ponca ball team and the Wayne College boys crossed bats and played a very fast game of ball. The bookies were a little too much for the visitors and won after a hard fought game, score 3 and 2. On Friday the same teams were to have played again, but only played a part of the first inning, being stopped by the heavy rain. Ponca had made two scores and the students had two men on bases when the game was given up, so the home team had equal chance of winning. Thursday, after the baseball game, a game of basketball took place between the Weidie and College lady teams. From what you can hear we would judge that it was a very "hard contested" game, with much hair pulling and chewing of the rag and many "out lines." That is not all, either, we are told. "To add to one of the visitors, taking a great liking to one of the students, set her pretty teeth in the derby arm of the student and left her mark to be remembered by. The game was won by the students, score 16 to 3.

and Ponca Indians. The first European explorers to leave a record of traveling through the Elkhorn Valley were the Mallet brothers, who traveled up the Missouri River from St. Louis in 1739. The brothers believed that the Missouri would eventually take them to the Spanish settlements in New Mexico, but Indians informed them of their mistake when they were at a point near the mouth of the Niobrara River. They returned south and followed the Elkhorn for part of their journey back. In 1795 the Spanish governor of the region west of the Mississippi hired a Scot, James Mackay, to explore part of the Missouri River region. Mackay, a fur trader known to his French associates as Jacques Mackay, traveled up the Missouri in the fall of 1795 and spent the winter among the Omaha Indians. In the spring of 1796—George Washington's last year as president—Mackay left the Omaha and went up the Niobrara River, traveling westward. He went some distance into what is now Cherry County before turning southeast. On his way back to the Missouri, he followed the Loup River and a river he named R. Corne du Cert. This French name translates as "River of the Elk's Horn."

The fertile black soil of the Elkhorn Valley attracted a large number of settlers who were either foreign-born or whose parents had been foreign-born. According to the 1900 Census, 79 per cent of the population of Fremont County was either foreign-born or had at least one parent of foreign birth. The percentage for Stanton County was 66.5 per cent, for Dodge County, 59.4 per cent and Madison County, 52.7 per cent.

A large proportion of these immigrants or children of immigrants were of German background. There were also significant numbers of Czechs and Swedes, and a large Irish colony was established at O'Neill in Holt County. There were also groups of Danes and Norwegians.

A rather large number of these immigrants had first settled in one of the states east of Nebraska and then had come to the Elkhorn Valley later. They thus had had some experience in American agriculture.

German-language newspapers flourished along the Elkhorn Valley until well after 1900. The Nebraska State Historical Society has files of many of these foreign-language newspapers published in Nebraska.
The Fremont, Elkhorn and Missouri Valley Railroad Company was formed in 1869 and took nearly ten years to lay track the distance of the Elkhorn. It began to build north from Fremont in 1869 and had reached Wisner in 1871. There construction stopped until 1879. The railroad company wanted a subsidy from Madison County to build its track across the northern part of the county. The residents in the southern part of the county, who could not see any benefit to themselves from such a line, finally decided to go ahead without their help, and by 1881 the line was completed to O'Neill.

VA Q & A
Q—I am the widow of a World War II veteran currently receiving a widow's pension from the Veterans Administration. How may I be considered for an aid and attendance allowance now provided for widows?
A—You should have your private physician submit a statement to the VA giving a complete account of your physical condition at present. If you are a patient in a nursing home you can qualify under the law without a medical statement. A statement from the nursing home showing that you are a patient will usually be sufficient. Generally, widows are eligible for an extra $50 a month aid and attendance allowance in addition to their pension if they are unable to care for themselves.
Q—I have kept my National Service Life Insurance policy in force as a term plan since World War II. The premiums are beginning to get much larger at the time of renewal and the premium on a permanent plan at my age is more than I can

SCENES FROM DOG DAYS IN WAYNE

'Mighty Mo' Key to Auburn Region

They're listed as Intangibles A and B, and are the major recreational resources of southeast Nebraska, where friendly residents welcome the opportunity to share their dividends with visitors.

Intangible A has to be the Mighty Mo., which forms the eastern boundary of that magic circle—the river country, contributing the elements of majestic bluffs, virgin timber, happy-go-lucky creeks, lush vegetation and abundant wildlife along the mysterious shores of the river which has dominated the lives of many generations.

The Missouri's appetite for fertile farm land is now controlled, but the waterway still offers exceptional opportunities for recreation, and access areas. Marinas and public use facilities are becoming more and more numerous. Boaters describe with enthusiasm the esthetic charm of the bluffs in autumn, splashed with colorful attire; they look with expectancy for new arrivals in the spring, bouncing lambs, bashful waterfowl and slab-tailed beaver.

Those seeking a retreat from the pressures of the sixties might well seek the seclusion of a cabin in the hills, where the sounds of nature are magnified, where unscarred bluffs produce a panorama worthy of a master's brush, and peaceful existence is full-time experience.

From Pulo to Bellevue—that's river country in southeast Nebraska.

Intangible B might be termed a derivative, for the river offered the facility for creating that resource—it's history. Certainly southeast Nebraska calls to those who wonder how and where it all started.

Let your mind wander back some hundred and forty years when fur traders and trappers used the river as their highway, establishing trading posts among the Indians; river men seeking adventure and profit; the long boat men and steamboat pilots who fought their way up the fickle Missouri, bringing more and more people to the virgin territory.

And those settlers created intangible B, for they made history in Nebraska. They built towns and forts and churches; they learned to produce their living from the soil, introducing agricultural practices not native to the midwest; ethnic groups became solid citizens, greeting, building, working for a better life. And they succeeded.

This magic circle contains the dividends of Nebraska's heritage.

From the significant blending of red man and white as being projected in Indian Cave State Park in Nemaha and Richardson counties to the metropolitan atmosphere of the capitol of the state; from breaking native grassland to the science of land and water conservation; from wagon trains and steamboats which brought immigrants from many countries to establish cities and towns, then built ribbons of concrete for rapid transportation; from settlers seeking room to breathe came create minds to build industrial giants, offer greater incentive and opportunity to those who follow.

We're enjoying those dividends. They may be collected from the lakes of the Salt-Wahoo watershed, the natural collections at Morrill Hall and the permanent record of the Nebraska State Historical Society at Lincoln, the traditions of a people as represented by the Czech Festival at Wilber, the triumph of personal achievement in the Homestead National Monument near Beatrice, the excitement and romance of the Pony Express at Rock Creek Station, the preservation and restoration of homes of prominent Nebraskans of territorial days in Brownville, the gift to the world of Arbor Day at Nebraska City; the list goes on and on.

Intangibles? No, they're very tangible. And they may be yours for the asking.

Keep It Beautiful

If America's tired people for the job, it would take the largest sea of army to keep our country free of litter. But there's no need to hire anyone. It's a job we can do for ourselves. All of us. Every family that spreads a picnic blanket. Every boatman who cruises the lakes and waterways. Every motorist who uses our roads and highways.

It is the pleasure of the U. S. Brewers Association each year to provide its fullest support to the Keep America Beautiful Campaign. Remember, Every Litter Bit Hurts. This is our land. Let's treat it right.
