America's Greatest Food Authority Now Writes for This Paper

C. Houston Goudiss

We announce with pride a new feature in this issue, "What You Eat and Why," by C. Houston Goudiss, noted food authority, radio speaker, author and lecturer, famous as the man who knows food "from soil to serving, from table to tissue." One of these articles will appear each week, and we know housewives and mothers will look forward to them for the accurate, worthwhile information they contain on foods and their relation to health. This is not a recipe column. Mr. Goudiss has designed it to serve as a link between laboratory and layman in the food field, interpreting modern scientific knowledge in the language of the home maker, giving her the elemental facts regarding new discoveries and the part played by food in building and maintaining health. Every woman wants to know what foods will benefit her family and why, and that is just the information that Mr. Goudiss will give. Watch for the articles each week, make a scrap book of them for ready reference. They contain valuable information every home maker has been wanting.

Alderson Leases Wayne Super Service Station

Ernest Alderson has leased the Wayne Super Service station from C. C. Stirtz effective last Sunday. Stirtz will continue to own and manage the bulk station and tank wagon service with office and telephone number remaining the same.

6 School Girls In Car Accident

Frieda Osborne Has Painful Injuries When Car Runs Into Ditch

Miss Frieda Osborne received painful cuts about the face which necessitated stitches when the car in which she was riding ran into the ditch five miles west of Wayne Thursday morning. The other five occupants of the car received minor cuts and bruises. The car was quite badly wrecked. Miss Caroline Osborne, who was driving the car to school was accompanied by her sisters, Frieda, Helen, and Bonnie Osborne and Esther and Helen Schroeder. Just west of the McEachen bridge on the down hill grade, Miss Osborne attempted to slow for the corner, applied the brakes and found them froze. The car got out of control and ran into the ditch. The girls were taken to a local hospital for medical treatment and all were dismissed that day except Miss Frieda Osborne who is receiving medical care for her injuries.

Make Plans for 3 Day Meet

Wayne Woman's Club Will Entertain Third District April 20-22

Convention plans for the third district Women's club conference to be held in Wayne April 20-22 are being formulated, it was announced today by Mrs. S. A. Lutgen, third district president, who will preside at the conferences. Mrs. E. J. Huntermer is local Women's club president. The convention will be held at the Methodist church.

A fine art festival program will be presented Thursday evening, April 21, at the city auditorium, the program will open at 7:30 o'clock with a half hour concert by the Wayne State Teachers college orchestra under the direction of Prof. John R. Keith. Following the concert, the Wayne Woman's club assisted by the Business and Professional Women's department will present the pageant, "Nebraska—Dream of the Pioneer."

A processional introducing the district officers and guests of the Woman's club will be held. Bess Gerhardt Morrison of Lincoln will give a 30-minute address on "Little Visits With Nebraska Writers." Mrs. William Hasebrook, state chairman of music, will sing. The evening's entertainment will close with a one-act play, "Child of the Frontier," presented by the Clarkson Woman's club under the direction of Mrs. Antonia Fonda.

Lloyd Fitch Purchases Hamer Building

Lloyd Fitch, owner of the Fitch Produce and Feed Cream station, has bought the Hamer building and has moved his feed department into the newly purchased property. His cream and testing station will occupy the original building. An inside door joins the two buildings into an enlarged feed station.

File Two Cases on District Court Docket

Two new cases were filed on the district court docket during the week, it was announced today. A suit on mechanic lien involving Carl E. Wright against Darrell K. Sevy, et al, was filed last Wednesday. A foreclosure action involving Metropolitan Life Insurance company and Caroline Woehler, et al, was filed Saturday.

Dr. Anderson Returns From Eastern Meet

Dr. J. T. Anderson, president of Wayne State Teachers college, returned Saturday evening from Atlantic City, N. J., where he attended the joint conference of the American Association of Teachers colleges and the American Association of School Administrators.

Enroute home he stopped off at Washington, D. C., and visited congress while in session. He also visited Senator George W. Norris and Congressman Karl Stefan and found them both very active and most sincere in their efforts to represent their constituents.

In answer to the query, "What is the most crucial problem facing America at the present time," Stefan answered "Unemployment and the possibility of being drawn into another world war."

At the accrediting conference, Wayne State was again accredited. Reports at the teachers' college conference show the tendency of colleges extending their curriculum to include work toward a master's degree. It was pointed out that since standards are continually being raised, teachers' colleges have no other alternative than to go along with the new trend.

School administrators are very apprehensive regarding America's probable relationship in another world war. They feel that the solution of financing our schools is through federal aid. Free schools system depends upon the retention of a democratic form of government. Administrators stated that the greatest responsibility with which the American school are faced is to teach youth to distinguish between propaganda and truth.

The general theme of the two conferences was youth problems in a democracy.

Entire Teaching Staff Re-elected for Next Year

At the regular Board of Education meeting Monday evening, the members voted favorable regarding a proposed vocational agricultural course being instituted in the Wayne high school curriculum. They formulated a tentative application for federal and state aid. A referendum for the vote of the citizens regarding the establishment of the course will be held in the near future.

All the teachers in the high school and grade departments were re-elected for the coming school year.

Change Name of Newspaper

This week we have changed the name of the Nebraska Democrat to the Wayne News. We feel that the latter name is more appropriate since the former name of the paper applied to a time when the publisher carried news from different parts of the state. With the general circulation of daily papers, this practice no longer exists. For a number of years this newspaper has been primarily a Wayne news paper. A considerable part of our mail is addressed to the Wayne Democrat. Since it is primarily a Wayne newspaper it seems to the publishers logical to call it Wayne News. We trust this will meet the approval of our friends.

Is a Large Navy Justifiable.

Because the president sent a message to congress recommending an increase in our naval establishment that would keep us in pace with the bigger armament programs of other great nations some people and some organizations are expressing deep concern.

One might think that the president was advocating this expenditure of money for his own gratification. One group even affects to believe that this is a move to lead us into war, theirs being a curious philosophy that the way to keep out of national strife is through meekness and weakness. China followed that procedure, with the result that a nation of 400,000,000 people is now being kicked around by a country having not one-fifth the population and not one-hundredth of the resources.

In the course of the hearings on the subject up at the capitol, there have been many references to our having been compelled to get into the world war. It probably does not occur to those who cite that incident that had the United States been adequately prepared, and had the central European powers known that we had as large and strong a navy as any nation on the globe, the episodes which forced us into that struggle would probably never have taken place. It was only because of the idea that the United States of America could not become an active participant in the transoceanic struggle that these powers thought they could with impunity tell our commercial vessels how and where they should go, and torpedo them without warning, and perform other acts along those lines.

The genesis of such a message as the president sent is ordinarily as follows: The navy department, being charged with the duty of protecting our interests on the sea, advises the president what it deems requisite in order that it may perform its duties efficiently in any emergency. Presumably, that is the story of the present bill.

With war clouds everywhere, and nobody knowing when they may begin to discharge their lightning, it would not be a comfortable thought to have our country practically helpless. No truer word was ever spoken than that classic remark that the second best navy is of no more use than the second best hand in a poker game. In the present combustible state of the world a country is as liable to have to fight to preserve its neutrality as to defend any other of its functions. In the desperation of war, no more respect is paid to the rights of neutrals than the peaceful nations can enforce. The smaller countries may not be able to defend themselves in direct combat, so their only recourse is to go in on the other side, which, of course, means war just as much as any other process.

World Trade at Stake

Of course, if a big, strong country like the United States were willing to abandon its foreign commerce and withdraw any promise of protection to such of its nationals as go into business abroad, it might escape involvement. But, on the other hand, it would have to sit down quietly while all the other commercial nations took the whole of the world's trade, and, incidentally, the whole of the world's prestige.

We have had half a dozen major wars in our comparatively brief history as a nation, but not one of them has been attributable to an oversized navy. On the contrary, the war of 1812, for instance, would never have come about had we been big enough and strong enough to take care of England on the seas at that remote date. We came out of the Civil war with one of the strongest navies in the world. If we hadn't had that navy, we would have had war with France when we insisted on the termination of the Maximilian empire in Mexico. Does anybody suppose that the colony-hungry powers of Europe or Asia would have kept out of the inviting field of Latin America if it had not been for the Monroe Doctrine, with the American navy behind it? And yet the Monroe Doctrine has kept the western hemisphere free from wars of aggression, and probably from greater wars that would have resulted over the division of the territorial spoils had that aggression been permitted.

A powerful navy, so far from being an incentive to war, is an essential element in what the president has described as the "search for peace". There used to be certain rules which distinguished what we call civilized warfare. These rules, and even treaties, burn up when countries find themselves engaged in a death struggle. So twenty years ago, despite the progress that the world thought it had made in the advancement of the humanities, we saw unfortified cities bombarded, civilians slain by bombs dropped from the air, peaceful merchantmen torpedoed, and poison gas established as a weapon of combat.

Naval Needs

It would be lovely if we could regard ourselves immune from war; if we could be sure that other nations, regardless of their own plans and policies, would respect the rights and protect the persons of our non-combatant citizens abroad. But history does not record any great nation that had this immunity except when it was strong enough to compel that respect. So we have always got to regard war as a possibility at least, which brings us to the very practical question of what kind of a war would cause us the least damage and the least destruction.

A big navy is expensive, but a month of actual warfare now-a-days might easily cost more than the entire price of the largest navy afloat. Assuming that, through no fault of our own, we should be forced into a struggle, it would certainly be much better for us to have that war decided by a victory the other side of the seas than one off our own harbors. That is the military reply to the suggestion that we should never fight except in the emergency of invasion or other assault on our own territory. Obviously, to get this condition we have got to have a better navy than the other fellow.

In the discussions before the committee that is framing the navy bill, it was at first suggested that there existed some secret pact for the coalition of our navy with that of Great Britain. The Secretary of State refused to declare that no such compact or compact was in existence, or could be in existence. Secretary Hull's statement was accepted. And then came the still more amazing idea that such a secret project might be under way without the secretary of state's knowledge. Partisan absurdity could certainly go no further than that, for every form of negotiations between the United States and foreign countries is conducted by the secretary of state and nobody else.

In the light of these points it would seem a large navy is justifiable.

The Prolongation of Common Education

Public education for a majority of young people in a generation has gone forward from the fourteenth to the eighteenth year. It has long been held that schools are maintained for the good of the individual, that is, so that young people of persistence and ability may be able to prepare themselves as scholars or as professional or administrative leaders.

It has also been held that schools are maintained so that the state itself may be safe in the hands of those who direct it. The colonial laws which required all children to be taught that they might be able to read, to write, and to understand the laws of God and man, were devised by the state as a means of self-protection and self-preservation.

Until the present century, these two objectives were the ones most commonly considered. Now a third objective for the public schools has been well established. It gives less consideration to the ambitions of the individual and to the developmental need of the state as an organization. It looks rather to the social welfare of all pupils. It holds that a purpose of public schools is to train children so that they will live more safely, more productively, and more happily than they would without their school education.

The changes of the last 30 years make it certain that never again will there be with us any large amount of employment for boys and girls under the eighteenth year.

As a nation, we have passed from an agrarian to an industrial civilization, but our livelihood, in Nebraska, is still agriculturally based. The children, now in school, are to live their lives in a world of people and machines. They must be able to understand and to use machines with mastery. They must know livestock and soils and markets. They must be able to live with people, to appreciate and to love them if this is possible, to endure them at any rate, for in an industrial civilization the life of each individual must be modified each day to adjust itself to the lives of the scores who share the same employment, public utilities, highways, and common activities.

In many schools, we are creating courses which will make good citizens, tolerant neighbors, interested readers, individual artists, satisfied non-professional artists, and homemakers.

In 1934, there were enrolled in the sixth grades about the same number as ten years before. The population had increased but the number of children per family had decreased. Three years later, in 1937, of these sixth grade children, over 95 per cent were high school freshmen and only 5 per cent had left school.

It is evident that not only has the high school freshman class more than doubled in number in ten years, but that also nearly all pupils of the unselected type have joined the selected pupils in high school attendance.

The high school of 1927 was for selected pupils. The high school of 1937 is for all children selected and unselected by an earlier academic or scholastic standard. The school of 1927 was a school of preparation for personal advantage. The school of 1937 is of necessity a common school for the development of all young people.

The freshmen of 1937 may not finish the high school course but all will participate for a period at least in high school offerings. Since there are now in the high schools those who will perform the agriculture, the manual, the mechanical, the monotonous labor of our state and those who will become the civic, the social, and the political workers, our high schools must be organized not for the earlier selected group, but for the much larger one which will pass from the high school into common citizenship and occupational life.

To make effective these ideals, we must attend to these immediate needs.

1. We need to quadruple opportunities for vocational training and for industrial education.
2. We need to train teachers whose interests are less in formal subject matter and more in the fulfilling of a complex industrial civilization.

We Believe in Vocational Agriculture Education

Because the environment in which the student is trained is a replica of the environment in which he will subsequently work.

Because vocational agriculture is practical education, the student uses the same tools, the same machines and does the same jobs as he will do in the occupation of farming.

Because it enables the boy to capitalize on his interests, aptitudes and intrinsic intelligence to the highest degree.

Because it trains the individual directly and specifically in the thinking habits of the occupation itself.

Because it can be given to the selected group of individuals who need it, want it, and are able to profit by it.

Because the instructor has had successful experience in the application of skills and knowledge in the processes and operations he undertakes to teach.

Because in every occupation there is a minimum of productive ability which an individual must possess in order to be successful in that occupation. Vocational agriculture develops in the student those skills which assure the ability necessary to succeed in the occupation of farming.

Because the average farm boy is practical minded and values his high school education largely by its subsequent use.

Because farming is growing to be a skilled occupation and requires basic techniques for successful and happy careers in it.

Because it will aid in stopping the drift of farm boys to the city and into even more hazardous occupational fields.

Because vocational agriculture pays greater dividends per tax dollar than other forms of education in an agrarian state.

Because this technical education can be obtained without sacrificing any of the cultural advantages of the ordinary college preparatory course.

Hospitality Builds a City of Good Will

The thought that so many school officials chose Wayne as the tournament city because of the hospitality they received as guests is significant. The modern auditorium was a deciding factor, natural, but Wayne apparently had more to offer than mere physical attractions. Evidently these educators were aware of that fact.

Good will is something worthy of effort. A city does not come into the possession of good will by chance. Just what goes into the building of it would require some thought to enumerate. What factors go to build the community good will that is noticed by outsiders might extend so far as to include contributions of those very persons.

Hospitality, or good will, must be made up from a variety of individual and social virtues. Before a city can reflect good will, the kind that sells itself, it stands to reason there must be within that city a preponderance of factors which go to build good will. No one ever heard of a city being known for its hospitality when discords predominated its inner business and social circles. Group discords grow from individual discords.

Good will is worth having. People will go a long way to stay even over night in a city known for its hospitality, and it is this city when folks flock to for conventions. A convention delegate is worth $10 a day in trade and as an ambassador of good will, he is worth an unestimable sum each day after he departs.

Every citizen of Wayne can have a part in building good will by doing his part to replace discord with harmony. By so doing one can automatically "keep company" with that group of people who contribute to the great work of making this city a better place in which to live and do business—a city known for its hospitality.

Voget Sells Two New Vertichords

Two new Vertichords have just been sold by Ernest Voget. One went into one of Wayne's finest homes.

Voget's show room is at 414 East Fifth street, the show room of America's finest new type piano—the Haddorff Vertichord. It's the original—not a copy. The design and construction is patented. Let Voget show you the Haddorff patented tone resonator and how it works. The Vertichord is the largest selling new type piano in its price class.

Vertichord is a trademark of the Haddorff Piano company. It is made in one of America's largest piano factories, if the shop space was all put on one floor it would be equal to four blocks long and a block wide.

Ernest Voget is the exclusive representative for the Vertichord in this territory. Catalogue sent on request.—Adv.

"This new Cudahy's Puritan Tender Ham is made tender by an exclusive process"

RICHER—SWEETER—FLAVOR

SO TENDER EACH BITE'S A DELIGHT

1/3 LESS COOKING TIME AND NO PARBOILING

1/3 LESS COOKING SHRINKAGE

MAKE THE PLATTER TEST

Buy a slice, a part, or a whole Puritan Tender Ham today. Bake it, boil it, or fry it. Serve it to your family without telling them it is a new process ham. If they don't find it far more delicious, tenderer, juicier than regular ham, we'll cheerfully refund your money.

Consumption of Ham Increases

Can you picture a train of 2,250 refrigerator cars, each loaded with 20,000 pounds of meat, a total of 45 million pounds? Such a train would extend approximately 17 miles.

Of course, it would be impossible to assemble a train of this kind and even if it were, it is doubtful whether all the engines on all the railroads could haul it.

Now, while a train of 2,250 cars, carrying a load of 45 million pounds is almost too much for imagination, just as it might be for the combined motive power of the railroads, it is a matter of simple fact that that is the amount of meat consumed every day in the United States. To put it another way, the American people eat approximately 16 and one-half billion pounds of meat, during a normal year, with a few more million pounds thrown in for leap year.

During the recent past meat consumption has decreased somewhat because of restricted livestock production due to feed shortages following the droughts of 1934 and 1936. However, the abundant feed crops of the past year have changed this situation and with livestock production again on the increase a more plentiful supply of meats at prices well within the consumer buying power is available.

Anticipating the growing demand for meats in keeping with the general increase, Cudahy Packing company is introducing Puritan Tender Ham, said by its makers to represent the most advanced methods in the production of this popular food. Puritan Tender Ham, according to Cudahy sales officials, is the result of extended scientific research to develop a ham of a new and unequalled deliciousness and tenderness. It is also said that Puritan Tender Ham has the further advantage of economy to the user because it can be prepared for the table with one-third less cooking time and shrink than the ordinary ham.

Puritan Tender Ham is recommended by Good Housekeeping, and dealers in this city and vicinity are featuring its sale. Dealers will be glad to supply their customers with recipe leaflets outlining easy delicious ways to preparing Puritan Tender Ham.

Two Men Fined for Failure to Stop

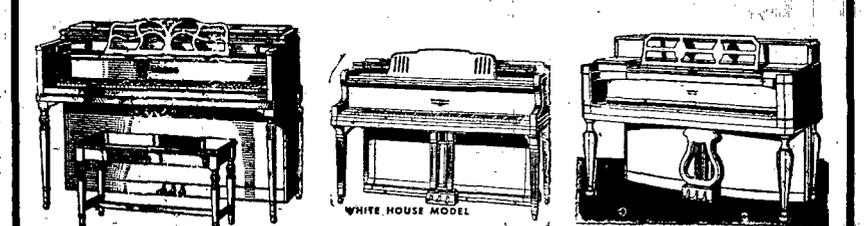

Clyde Grey, a trucker, and Clarence Mann were brought in to county court last Wednesday on charges of failing to stop at highway signs. Highway Patrolman Brt filed charges. Grey was fined $10 and costs of $1.70. Mann was also fined $10 and costs of $2.45. Grey failed to stop before crossing a railroad track on highway No. 35 and Mann failed to come to a full stop before entering highway No. 98.

Oak Troop Gives One-Act Play

Members of the Oak troop under the direction of Mrs. Russell Bartels, scout captain, is presenting "Grandma Accepts the Modern Girl" during the assembly hour of the College Training school Wednesday morning. The cast is as follows: Josephine Ahern, Grandma; Ethel Jean Olson, Mother; Margaret Costerisan, Margaret; Wanda Olson, Lola; Kathleen Cook, Dora; Bonnie Brinkman, Miss Benson, and Jacqueline Helleberg, Helen Clark.

We Beat City Piano Prices

We are from $40 to $145 Cheaper than Omaha or Sioux City on Identical Pianos

Omaha Says Specially Priced at $245
Wayne Says Every Day Price, $205

Omaha and Sioux City Price $375
Wayne's Price $285

Omaha and Sioux City Price was $495
Wayne's Price was $350

Voget does not know what Omaha or Sioux City wants for that piano they used to sell at $495 as the wholesale price has gone up. Voget's price is now, $370.

Yes, Voget Sell Pianos on Easy Terms

This shows that you cannot buy pianos at as low a price in Omaha or Sioux City as you can in Wayne. Here is why—Voget does not maintain a downtown show room; Voget has a display room in his home where he keeps pianos in stock. Voget has no salesmen to whom he pays a salary and commission. Voget is satisfied with a smaller profit. Voget buys for cash to get the discount.

Voget has a good used piano that he has taken in trade for a new Haddorff Vertichord. This piano is medium size—used only four years. It is in perfect condition. This piano, when it was bought, was listed to sell at $500. Voget is now selling it at $90. The reason of this low price, the upgrids do not sell so good any more. This is one of the best buys Voget has ever had. It's worth a lot more money. Also have one new Bush & Gerts and one new Adam Schaff discontinued model upright pianos at $135 and $165.

THREE TEAMS RECORDS SHOW GOOD SEASON

College, High School, and Prep Team Records Given

Wayne State played some fast ball in crowd-thriller games during its just completed basketball schedule, winning 12 games and losing four. Lumping the opponents score, it totals 609 with an average of 38 plus points per game. Wayne's total score was substantially larger. It was 698 points or 43 plus counters per game.

Practically as soon as the squad's basketball suits were put away for next season, Coach Hickman had his squad out for early track practice. Several stellar stars in last year's track events are back pounding the turf for the Wildcats this season.

The basketball record for the Teachers this year is as follows:

Omaha 32	Wayne 53
Midland 24	Wayne 38
Omaha 33	Wayne 41
Wesleyan 34	Wayne 35
Buena Vista 30	Wayne 44

Prep Team Drops Game to Stanton

Bulldogs Defeated in Championship Round 4th Consecutive Year

Wayne Prep Bulldogs went to the championship round in the Class B basketball tournament last week-end but the link that has trilled them for five consecutive years seemed still at their heels. For four years the Preppers have gone to the finals and have lost the last match every time. The Wayne boys are favorites for championship honors throughout the tournament, easily disposing of all opponents until they came to the Stanton five. For the first quarter of the title game Wayne walked away with Stanton, the quarter ending with Wayne far in the lead. After the quarter, however, an inspired Stanton team came back and turned tables on the Wayne boys, limiting the Bulldogs to one field goal during that period. From that time on it was Stanton's game, the Prep boys being unable to solve Stanton's tight defense and the Yellowjackets offense was far too fast. The score at the end of the game was Stanton 28, Wayne 22.

In a rather slow consolation game Ponca defeated Wakefield 25 to 18. Wakefield missed the services of Tell, the tall center, who played only about a quarter of the game.

Tournament scores were: Wednesday—Laurel 14, Winside 31; Ponca 24, Crofton 23; Emerson 25, Stanton 42; Holy Trinity 16, Coleridge 21; Wakefield 42, Hartington 28; Allen 27, Newcastle 18; Pender 47, Randolph 18; Wayne Prep 25, Wausa 12. Thursday—Winside 23, Ponca 38; Stanton 37, Coleridge 18; Wakefield 35, Allen 27; Pender 23, Wayne Prep 36. Friday—Ponca 15, Stanton 23; Wakefield 17, Wayne Prep 24. Saturday—Stanton 28, Wayne Prep 22. Consolation—Wakefield 18, Ponca 25.

Attend Wayne-Norfolk Game
James B. Grier, Miss Marjorie Grier, Miss Leona Granquist, Donald Grier, and Mrs. Hattie McNutt went to Norfolk Saturday where they attended the semi-final play-off in the Class A tournament between Wayne High and Norfolk.

It has been a veritable seven years of bad luck for the Wayne Prep Bulldogs who have for that many times during the last eight years gone to the semi-finals to meet defeat, often as the favorite of the district tournament. This year the training school, which is a Class C school, entered the Class B tournament. During the basketball season just closed Wayne Prep won 11 games in a 19 game schedule.

The schedule just completed is as follows:

Allen 13	Wayne 29
G. A. West Point 29	Wayne 18
Winnabago 35	Wayne 22
Winside 25	Wayne 32
Concord 18	Wayne 25
Pilger 33	Wayne 13
Coleridge 18	Wayne 38
Wakefield 19	Wayne 21
Wisner 27	Wayne 45
Laurel 18	Wayne 18
Waithill 46	Wayne 22
Bancroft 13	Wayne 40
Hartington 21	Wayne 44
Stanton 29	Wayne 26
Pierce 25	Wayne 19

Wayne High school closed a successful basketball season, going to the semi-finals in the Class A tournament staged at Norfolk last week-end. They won the consolation game with Albion. Wayne ranked third in the tournament. Harold Fitch was chosen all-tournament guard and Orville Graham was given honorable mention.

In an eighteen game schedule this year, Wayne High won 12 encounters and dropped six wins. Four lettermen played their last game for the blue and white this season, as they are seniors.

The stellar playing of Graham, Gildersleeve, Lessman and B. Wright will be missed in next year's lineup but several promising players and six returning lettermen gives Wayne's next year's prospects a rosy hue.

The team's record is as follows:

Wayne 34	Stanton 11
Wayne 34	Bancroft 5
Wayne 26	Laurel 10
Wayne 18	Pierce 23
Wayne 61	Wisner 21
Wayne 17	Neligh 16
Wayne 26	So. Sioux City 32
Wayne 22	Norfolk 23
Wayne 28	West Point 19
Wayne 38	Oakland 17
Wayne 45	Hartington 18
Wayne 30	Alumni 20
Wayne 32	Winnabago 41

Prep Team Drops Game to Stanton

Bulldogs Defeated in Championship Round 4th Consecutive Year

Wayne Prep Bulldogs went to the championship round in the Class B basketball tournament last week-end but the link that has trilled them for five consecutive years seemed still at their heels. For four years the Preppers have gone to the finals and have lost the last match every time. The Wayne boys are favorites for championship honors throughout the tournament, easily disposing of all opponents until they came to the Stanton five. For the first quarter of the title game Wayne walked away with Stanton, the quarter ending with Wayne far in the lead. After the quarter, however, an inspired Stanton team came back and turned tables on the Wayne boys, limiting the Bulldogs to one field goal during that period. From that time on it was Stanton's game, the Prep boys being unable to solve Stanton's tight defense and the Yellowjackets offense was far too fast. The score at the end of the game was Stanton 28, Wayne 22.

In a rather slow consolation game Ponca defeated Wakefield 25 to 18. Wakefield missed the services of Tell, the tall center, who played only about a quarter of the game.

Tournament scores were: Wednesday—Laurel 14, Winside 31; Ponca 24, Crofton 23; Emerson 25, Stanton 42; Holy Trinity 16, Coleridge 21; Wakefield 42, Hartington 28; Allen 27, Newcastle 18; Pender 47, Randolph 18; Wayne Prep 25, Wausa 12. Thursday—Winside 23, Ponca 38; Stanton 37, Coleridge 18; Wakefield 35, Allen 27; Pender 23, Wayne Prep 36. Friday—Ponca 15, Stanton 23; Wakefield 17, Wayne Prep 24. Saturday—Stanton 28, Wayne Prep 22. Consolation—Wakefield 18, Ponca 25.

MANY WAYNE PEOPLE INQUIRE, IS THIS A GOOD TIME TO BUILD

What are the prospects for building in Wayne; is this a good time to build? These questions are being asked by many Wayne people. Let us analyze these questions separately.

The volume of construction in any community is a definite indication of the community's progress. When construction business is good, the community is progressing. When the construction business is not good, the community is definitely walking backwards. There is no middle ground. Any city that doesn't definitely replace its old structures with new, or doesn't have additional housing, industrial, and commercial building in new sections, immediately gets a poor rating. The pulse of the community is always indicated by the construction work that is going on.

Depreciation and obsolescence work 24 hours every day. It is only when a community builds in new value to exceed obsolescence and depreciation that progress is being made.

Good Time to Build

Based on experience, there is only one answer to the second question—Is it a good time to build? It is a good time for any business or individual to build when he has a definite need for construction. There is no product the price of which is more definitely controlled by the law of supply and demand than construction work. The only time construction is definitely cheap and can be purchased at a bargain is at the time when nobody is buying construction work. That condition is caused by economic factors entirely outside the pale of construction and beyond its control. The failure of the construction industry to be definitely revived is the one discouraging element in the present business revival. Building construction work privately financed is nationally at about 40 per cent of normal. Until this level reaches a point somewhat near normal, it is a good time for anybody to build. At the present time, we are definitely on the up-swing and most assuredly it is a very poor time to postpone construction work if the work is needed. Advancing costs will catch it, if it is postponed. It is impossible to predict what the construction market will be even six months hence, except to say that it will not be any lower and may be considerably higher. Nothing is to be gained by postponing. Those who invested their money in legitimate construction before the depression emerged in better shape than those who invested an equal sum of money in almost any other commodity.

Need Governs Building

The time to build, as has been the case for the last 20 years, is when you need the building, no matter what the condition of the market. If you wait for a better market, it will inevitably be true that when the better market comes you will have a real reason for not building. Nobody builds on a depressed market. Building construction reached a low of 15 per cent of its normal volume because everybody refused to build at a time when building could be purchased cheaply. If you do not build now on a rising market, you will build at the top of that market, or you won't build at all, because the minute the market starts down, you will lose all inclination to build. The time to build, therefore, is now, as it always has been. Build now.

In order to give additional impetus in the field of construction, congress recently amended the National Housing Act and these amendments are now effective. Local banks and building loan agencies also have made additional liberal building loan terms. It is doubtful if there ever has been a time when building opportunities have been more liberal and attractive than they are today.

The amended National Housing Act provides that mortgages shall not provide for any annual service charge as heretofore provided. The maximum interest charge to the borrower will be 5 per cent.

The annual mortgage insurance premium will be one half of 1 per cent, calculated on the average outstanding principal obligation for the year following the date on which such premium is payable, without taking into account delinquent payments or repayments. In connection with government loans on new construction, mortgages shall not exceed $5,400. The mortgage insurance premium charge, according to the amended act, will be one-fourth of 1 per cent on the outstanding principal.

The chief change in the act is that mortgage insurance premiums becoming due will be calculated on the outstanding principal, as above, instead of on the original face amount of the mortgage.

News Briefs

Scanning our exchanges we noted that Arnold Smith of Belden was seriously injured Tuesday night on highway 20 near Jackson. As he walked around his stopped truck another truck struck him hurling him against the side of his own vehicle, breaking his back in three places, cracking seven ribs, and fracturing his shoulder bone. Cedar county's second annual spring seed show has been set for Saturday to be held at the Hartington city auditorium. Mrs. F. O. Hildur, oldest resident of Wakefield, observed her ninety-eighth birthday anniversary Monday. Dakota county bridge officials announced a toll reduction which primarily benefits Dakota countyans and Sioux City residents by making a provision for a 10 cent toll for car and driver if a book of 32 tickets is purchased. The largest crowd to attend a caucus in Scribner since the practice of party caucuses started some 12 years ago assembled at the city hall Tuesday evening to name candidates for city offices under the democratic banner. The republican caucus held at the same hour in the city hall had an attendance of 16 citizens. L. W. Eggert of Newman Grove was found dead Friday afternoon in his garage where he was asphyxiated by carbon monoxide gas from his car about which he had been working. Beginning Saturday of this week, the Spencer business men will give cash receipts on all cash purchases, and this script money will be good for the purchase of merchandise offered at auction each Saturday beginning March 12. The Tekamah board of health is enforcing rigid quarantine of all homes in which there are cases of scarlet fever in an effort to check the spread of this disease which for the second time this year has caused the city schools to be closed. A former county relief and WPA client and his family whose travel urge impelled him and his family to move to the west coast last summer were unceremoniously shipped back to Madison county by Oregon authorities when he applied for relief there. Now he is back hoping to again be given his old place on the rolls. William Ward Crabtree, of Pierce, 37-year-old WPA worker, shot and seriously wounded his estranged wife Monday morning in a truck a few miles northeast of Pierce. He then sent a bullet through his head, ending his life instantly. A. C. Carlson of Pierce, former pilot, used an old plane motor and auto parts to build a snow glider, and tests proved satisfactory as the sled does better than 30 miles per hour on a level stretch. The Winside school board accepted the resignation of Coach E. L. Jordon and Miss Theola Nuss at its regular meeting Monday. "Shorty" Leonard Beckley of Laurel as member of the Stoups City team in the Golden Gloves boxing tournament in Chicago won two bouts by decisions. Guardian Angels of West Point defeated Craig by a score of 45 to 15 to win championship honors in the Class C tournament Friday staged at West Point. It was the first district tournament victory in the history of the team's basketball competition. Harold Zechin of Stanton reports quadruplet lambs were born to one of his 1-year-old ewes last week, all four living for the first three days, one dying on the fourth day. The rest seem in perfect health.

Urge Promptness In Applying for Loan

Applications for emergency crop and feed loans may be made at the Farm Bureau office now. It is urged that anyone desiring to make an application should do so at once as it will take approximately three weeks to secure the loan. For the loans to do the most good they should be started now so that the money will be available by the first of April for spring seeding.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Many years ago, in South America, this writer was always hearing somebody mutter "Perros!" (dogs), as he passed by. It expressed his dislike of all North Americans. Upton Sinclair's book, "The Jungle," about the Chicago packing houses, had been carefully mistranslated, in a widely circulated version, which made multitudes of South Americans believe all North Americans ate dogs. Even in remote jungle towns, I found European trade scouts and salesmen making diligent use of the book. It was the nearest trade propaganda trick of the century.

The one-sided battle has continued through the decades. Late reports are that South American radio stations are belting Uncle Sam with everything at hand, and, to the same degree, apostrophizing Italy, Germany and Japan.

For this reason, there appears to be more than meets the eye in the printed story of our new airwave rearmament, and the assignment of a new short-wave channel for broadcasts to South America.

With Secretary Hull, Dr. E. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American union, pleads for "stronger cultural ties" in the first broadcast. Spanish translations follow the English version.

While all this is in the name of "peace and good-will," and official announcements carry the hint of a defensive propaganda war, it appears to be the answer—perhaps the only possible reply—to the widespread smearing campaign against the U. S. A. in Latin America.

The sixty-six-year-old Dr. Rowe is a happy choice to head America's "cultural," if not propaganda, outreach in this direction. He has become widely known and decidedly persona grata in South America in his 32 years of pleading and proselytizing for solidarity, friendship and understanding in the Americas.

He has fraternized with South Americans more than any other northerner, lecturing, writing, evangelizing and expounding his doctrines of friendly co-operation—always on the high plane of cultural and intellectual intercourse. He has been head of the Pan-American union since 1920, succeeding John Barrett.

Radio Aids in Fighting U. S. Smear

LIFE begins at forty for Gracie Fields, English Music Hall actress, who curtsies to the king and becomes a commander of the Order of the British Empire. It is another Jane Alger story, this tale of the Lancashire mill girl who became the highest-paid entertainer in the world.

Her earnings from her 5,000,000 gramophone records, and from the stage and cinema have reached $750,000 a year. Her film, "Mr. Tower of London," ran seven years.

She lives simply with her mother, who manages her affairs, and never has anything more than pocket money. Every so often she visits Rochdale, the mill town where she sang for pennies at the age of seven, and has a rollicking time, singing for her old friends.

She was a "half-timer" in the cotton mills, half the day in school and half at work.

In 1930, she made a brief appearance at the Palace theater in New York. It wasn't much of a success. She explained afterward that she had been warned in England that entire audiences in America chewed gum together and in time, with dreadful facial contortions. This frightened her and spoiled her act, although, she admitted, there was only one observable gum-chewer.

She was glad to land safely in England, where she is widely beloved and known as "Good Old Gracie."

Just a few days before her fortieth birthday, she returned home from a party at four o'clock in the morning. The milkman, the policeman on the beat and a street-sweeper ceremoniously handed her a morning paper with her name in the king's honor list. She is tall, blonde and merry.

Smallest Book Claimed. What is claimed to be the smallest book in the world has been written by a war veteran suffering from shell shock at Munich, Germany. It is half the size of an ordinary postage stamp, three-quarters of an inch thick and contains 99 pages. The tiny volume has 10,999 letters, each one-tenth of an inch in height.

New "Dead" Ball Gets Once Over

National league pitchers may look upon the new "dead" ball as a boon that will prevent batting sprees by opposing teams. These three pitchers of the New York Giants, Hal Schumacher, left, Cliff Melton, center, and Carl Hubbell, are shown looking at the new ball at their spring training camp at Hot Springs, Ark. The new "dead" ball was selected for the 1938 season in the National league at a meeting of club presidents several months ago. At that time the American league decided to retain the so-called lively ball. The dead ball is expected to reduce the advantage which hitters have enjoyed for several years over pitchers and result in a return of base-stealing and "tight" baseball.

Hitler Puts His Grenadiers on Skis

Apparently no phase of fighting is being left to chance by Dictator Adolf Hitler of Germany. Various branches of his armed forces are even now receiving war training on skis as witness this picture made on the snow-covered mountain slopes near Oberwiesenthal. Members of the police force, the army and storm troopers practice grenade throwing on skis, by using small clubs shaped like the deadly weapons. To make the exercises more interesting, the training takes the form of a contest.

To Conduct Feature
BEGINNING with this issue this paper is pleased to announce a new series of articles which we believe to be the most original and up to date food department in the country. We wanted to offer a food department that was live-interesting—different. We wanted to get away from the usual "recipe column." We believe the women of this community are primarily interested in food in its relation to health, in its effect on growing children. Information of this sort has usually been too scientific to be understood by the average person, but in this series it is presented in clear, understandable language and applied so that it will fit the average household.
C. Houston Goudiss, famous author, lecturer, and radio personality, will conduct this department each week. Many housewives will want to make scrapbooks of these articles. Don't miss a single issue.

NATIONAL CAPITAL
By Carter Field

Washington.—Hearings on the proposed United Kingdom-United States reciprocal trade agreement are set to begin here March 14. Battle-between business and the State department will grow hotter as the hearings go on. It will center around the old, old question of free trade or tariff restrictions.

This is the argument: "Is it better to protect farmers, manufacturers, and labor against competition of low-cost products from foreign countries, or let the low-priced goods in for the benefit of the public? Who is most important: producers or the public?"

Any economist can show that the American public pays annually many billions of dollars more for the goods it buys now than it would pay if prices were lowered by foreign goods brought in free of duty. But the same economist, if he were so minded, could show that free imports would soon drive agriculture, manufacturing and labor to bankruptcy. First would come general chaos, and next would come an American standard of living as low as the world average.

These opposing forces are vast and complicated. Every tariff student has a theory. But Secretary of State Cordell Hull happens to be for low tariffs, and he happens to have a reciprocal trade agreement act passed by congress, and the will of President Roosevelt to back him up. So his opinion is what counts right now. He has made 16 reciprocal agreements with other countries already, and he's going to make one with England.

This is the gist of the Hull policy: Nearly all war is caused by economic war. After the World war, the United States helped increase economic war by raising tariff walls around itself. It must now tear them down to promote trade and peace. This country and England together transact about one-fourth of all the world's business. An agreement between the two to increase that huge volume of business will have a marked effect on world trade and world peace. We cannot remain prosperous in a poverty-stricken world.

How the Plan Works

Here's how the "most-favored nation" plan works. The United States picks out the country that supplies the most of any given import. In the case of woolen goods, it's England. We cut our import duty on woolens in return for a cut by England on something we sell her, say lumber, wheat, or automobiles. Then the new lower tariffs apply to all other countries supplying less amounts of the same commodities or products. It makes business move fast, say the low-tariff men.

But American farmers and manufacturers and labor leaders howl with pain. While they struggle for volume and prices to keep going, the government opens the flood gate and foreign goods rush in to lower both. The government says we are opening up the foreign market in which you can sell more farm and factory products, with resulting benefits to labor. We'll have world-wide prosperity in place of precarious isolated prosperity. And we'll have peace instead of back-breaking taxes for armaments.

Reciprocal trade treaties are engineered by the State department, but the work of preparing statistics and holding hearings is done by the tariff commission and its reciprocity committee. The commission's shabby old building is humming. Bright young men from London lug bales of records from room to room. Woolen manufacturers arrive from New England to make sure their protests will be heard when hearings begin. Meanwhile off to England goes the astute Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy to make sure the foxy British don't trade us any wooden nickels.

Up to Broadcasters

Two obligations are now placed squarely on the shoulders of radio broadcasting, which has been anxiously waiting a definite statement of policy by the recently reorganized federal communications commission. The law was laid down by Frank R. McNinch, newly appointed chairman of the commission, in his address before the sixteenth annual convention of the National Association of Broadcasters. Radio must steer clear of monopolistic practices, and it must provide good entertainment free of moral offense.

Mr. McNinch is an administration man, loaned to the communications commission by the federal power commission, where his attitude toward public utilities was well known. Radio men feared trouble when he came over to the communications commission. Many of them are therefore agreeably surprised to hear from him what sounded like stern but friendly advice. But if any of them are involved in even the beginnings of monopoly, they are tossing in their sleep tonight, because the chairman announced that he will soon begin an Investigation of chain broadcasting. What that will reveal only the guilty parties, if any, can foretell. Meanwhile they have plenty of time and fair warning to clean house.

That domain composed of ether-space and the natural phenomenon of wave lengths is a public property and resource, as Mr. McNinch sees it. That property is loaned to private industry, first to render a service to the public, and second to earn a reasonable profit. The franchise is granted with the understanding that it will be revoked unless the company serves and behaves as the government thinks it should.

Radio on the Spot

Railroads and power were mentioned by Mr. McNinch as having gotten into trouble with the public by combining for their own interest instead of for the best public interest. He said, in effect, that the trusts had depended on political pull and the use of propaganda to get by. But it didn't work in the long run. The radio industry is more intimately related to the public than any of the older utilities, and its behavior will be more quickly noticed. Mr. McNinch said that a member of the industry told him, "Radio could not survive an Insull."

But while warning of monopoly, which would consist of certain types of chain broadcasting, of management contracts, and of pressure methods in dealing with local stations, the chairman at the same time condoned and even praised the national hookups that produce the fine programs. It is only through the commercial support of huge audiences that the world's best talent can be brought into millions of homes. Regarding advertising sales talks on the air, Mr. McNinch warned broadcasters that the public will revolt against too much talk or bad taste. Some legitimate products and services, he said, simply cannot be talked about on the air. These matters the industry must govern.

The Mae West broadcast was only an incident, but doubtless it did influence the big radio boss in his conclusions on radio ethics. He made it very clear that all creeds, religions, races, ideals and ages must be respected. This is in accord with the democratic rights of minorities. Radio men say that this constitutes a drastic limitation on what may be said and discussed over the air. But none of them argue it is unfair. In the field of music and the other arts of sound there is no limit.

Japanese Boycott

While the boycott of Japanese silk still makes news, latest figures from the Department of Commerce show that it has had very little effect. Actual imports of raw silk from Japan are only 2 per cent below normal. But the organized protest against invasion of China, chiefly evident in women's refusal to buy silk stockings, has brought about some serious consequences.

The State department, of course, is deeply concerned. This country buys about 56 per cent of Nippon's total raw silk production. Our silk bill, therefore is an important item in Japan's war chest. If the boycott should become fully effective, Japan would be no little provoked. That, plus a possible clash with Japanese salmon poachers off Alaska, plus another incident like the Panay sinking in the Orient, might cause real trouble. Conversely, too, another incident might put the boycott under way in earnest.

But there would be little the State department could do about it. Any protests from Japan would have to be answered with a shrug. For a boycott is simply a form of free speech and free press. Any action by the government to the contrary would be a departure from the democratic principle. The Mikado would get the same answer that Hitler got when he complained about Mayor LaGuardia's utterances.

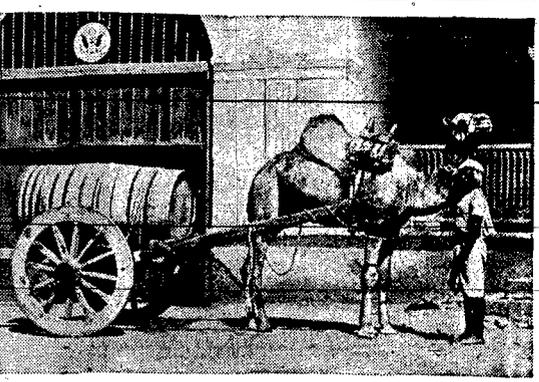

American silk manufacturers are being seriously damaged by the boycott. Fear that another incident will intensify feeling so that women will really decide to do without silk has caused store managers to issue hold orders on stockings and other silk goods. Silk mills and raw silk importers are getting stuck with supplies on hand. It is estimated that $25,000,000 of American capital invested in silk and allied industry has been frozen.

Jobs in Jeopardy

The jobs of more than 200,000 people engaged in the throwing and weaving of silk and in the manufacture and distribution of silk products are jeopardized. When the boycott first started the public supposed that finished stockings and other silk goods came directly from Japan. People did not know that American labor and industry produced the goods from Japanese raw material. This misunderstanding had the instant and remarkable effect of uniting silk capital and labor in a common front to tell the country the facts. William Green himself, president of the American Federation of Labor, had a voice in the telling.

Of course the anti-boycott drive appeared to many suspicious persons, to be in collusion with the Japanese. The textile industry is centered in New York city, and because Japan happens to have a Chamber of Commerce in that city, some critics were inspired to talk treason. But labor and employers succeeded in making their cause clear, and undoubtedly their efforts were mainly responsible for modifying the boycott.

ADEN AND ITS TANKS

"Running Water" in Aden.

Aridity and Beautiful Colors Characterize City on the Red Sea

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

A HUNDRED miles east of Bab el Mandeb, the Arab "Gate of Tears" which guards the southern exit of the Red sea, the extinct Aden volcano rises to a height of nearly 1,800 feet above the Arabian coast. It is a trade center, not only of southern Arabia, but also of Somaliland and Ethiopia.

On this desert rock-fortress, midway between Egypt and India, live the Europeans and the Indians who are garrisoning Aden, with a floating city population of Hindus, Parsis, Arabs, Greek merchants and Palestine Jews.

The sun-saturated barren rock seems to suck the life and moisture from human bodies. In 20 square miles of brown precipices and patches of sandy plain grow only a few trees, no grass, and one important flower, the Aden lily, found in remote rock crevices.

The modern town of Aden, centered around Steamer point, is connected with the old town by the five-mile Ma'ala Road. The old town lies huddled inside the crater where the rim is broken down toward the sea, and overlooks the old harbor. There, it is said, in the 1830s, the cutter from a British cruiser literally hung onto the little stone jetties with grappling irons, and a young naval officer, landing a sword in hand, at the head of his party, drove the Arabs into the mountains.

Water From the Tanks Is Sold.

Behind the town, in a gorge of the crater, arranged like a row of masonry cups, each emptying into the next lower one, is the chain of reservoirs known as the Aden tanks. They may have been built about 600 A. D., or earlier, and some were restored after 1856 by the British. Undoubtedly they were made to store the two showers or so of rain which visit Aden about every other year (the annual average is only about three inches). When the rain comes, the water is sold by auction to Arabs and others, who carry it away in tins, goatskins, or water carts.

Supplies of water, independent of these tanks, are obtained by boiling sea water and condensing the steam. This is the drinking water used by most of the white population.

The Arabs believe that each time the tanks become full there must be three deaths by drowning.

If Aden is arid, it has the compensation of being in a beautifully painted setting, for by daylight the more-than-Mediterranean blue of the water lies in violent contrast with the Vandylke browns, umbers, grays and ochres of the walls of rock, which make a perfect background for the bright dress of a crowd of Eastern people.

On a lava slope a hundred feet above the sea, you may watch incomparable sunsets beyond the serrated ashen-gray ridges of Little Aden (Jebel Ihsan), an old, broken-down cone which was once a twin to the Aden volcano (Jebel Shamshan). It now shelters in its flat sandy coves an Arab fishing village.

As you watch, some large Arab dhow with a high poop, looking like a caravel of the Spanish Armada, steals out from the inner harbor to the sound of its sweeps, to pick up the evening breeze on its way south. Later, a little group of Somali sailors, brown figures clothed in white, is seen squatting round the evening meal, a bowl of millet.

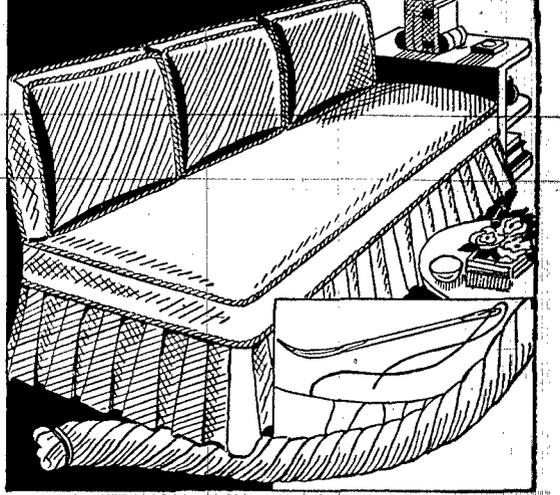

In the Cooler Evening.

Later still, the afterglow springs up from behind the line of crags, over nearly coal-black, and then brilliant rainbow rays, bars of lemon yellow, green, and pink, cut the zenith from west to east. A bright planet begins to show itself.

In the stillness, a large fish a mile away leaps a dozen feet into the air, probably trying to rid itself of parasites, and comes down upon the water with a resounding smack. From the men pulling at the oars of the creeping vessel comes the rowing chorus, "Yahudi, wa'llah" (By Allah, a Jew!).

A cool puff of air arises, the water begins to ripple into little waves, the Somali crew gets up and goes running forward to the bow, and the big triangular lateen sail rises and spreads, cutting the sky, to

HOW TO SEW

Trim Your Couch Cover in Contrasting Cord

IF SPRING is not in the air yet it soon will be. It is the season when every room in the house seems to need a lift. If your couch or daybed looks as though it has had a hard winter now is the time to give it a touch.

The couch of the type shown here may be made to fit into almost any decorating scheme if it has a smart and appropriate cover. The one shown here is ideal for a room with modern furniture or for one that follows no particular period. It would also give an interesting accent in a Colonial or provincial room. The cushions match the couch cover. A roughly woven navy blue cotton material is used and the seamlines are outlined with heavy cream colored cable cord. If you would like a gayer color scheme, use red cord with navy blue. Cream or yellow cord with brown material also makes an attractive cover.

A curved candlewick tufting needle such as is shown here at the lower right is good to use for sewing the cord in place. Thread about size 8 or 10 to match the cord should be used.

Shown is really a medium size version of an upholsterer's needle which is another piece of sewing equipment that you will find useful if you like to renovate old furniture.

So often mystifying technical details stand in the way of making things that would add beauty and comfort to your home. It is with this in mind that Mrs. Spears wrote and illustrated her book, SEWING, for the Home Decorator. With clear sketches and text it explains the simplest and most professional methods of making new slipcovers, correctly styled curtains, difficult dressing tables, pleasingly proportioned lamp shades and dozens of other things that will give your rooms new

Favorite Recipe of the Week

Pineapple Cream for Plain Cake.
Many times the dessert question is a difficult one to decide upon, and there are other times when there is some pound cake, gingerbread, or plain butter cake left that needs to be made interesting to tempt the family. When these two situations meet, you will find that pineapple cream to serve over slices of any one of the kinds of cake will be just the trick to produce a lovely dessert.

Pineapple Cream.
8 oz. can crushed pineapple
1/2 pint pastry cream
1/4 cup marmalade, jam or jelly
Drain the juice from the pineapple and save it to use for something else, or just drink it. Whip the cream until stiff. Blend the cream with the drained pineapple and the marmalade, jam or jelly. By varying the kind of jam used the whole tone or flavor of the cream can be changed, and you will find any flavor blends well with the pineapple. Serve the pineapple cream over slices of the chosen cake.

This is a splendid dessert to serve for a bridge party or a nice luncheon as well as for the family.

Modern Methuselahs

Next time you read a news story about someone dying at the age of one hundred twenty-five years, put your tongue in your cheek, says the Commentator. The best records we have of human age limits are those kept by the life insurance companies. Their records show that only 30 persons out of every 1,000,000 reach the age of one hundred. Of the millions who have held policies in the United States for 150 years there is not a single instance of anyone living beyond the age of one hundred six. It's incomplete and verbal records which set most old age records.

SORE THROAT WITH COLDS Given Fast Relief

Take 2 Bayer Tablets with a full glass of water.
Crush 3 Bayer Tablets in 1/2 glass of water—gargle twice every few hours.
The speed with which Bayer tablets act in relieving the distressing symptoms of colds and accompanying sore throat is utterly amazing... and the treatment is simple and pleasant. This is all you do. Crush and dissolve three genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets in one-third glass of water. Then gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back.

This medicinal gargle will act almost like a local anesthetic on the sore, irritated membrane of your throat. Pain eases promptly; freshness is relieved.

You will say it is remarkable. And the few cents it costs effects a big saving over expensive "throat gargles" and strong medicines. And when you buy, see that you get genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

FEEL MISERABLE?

Des Moines, Iowa—Mrs. Mary Ann Parker, 1503 Capitol Ave., says: "I feel so miserable from nervousness and headaches associated with functional disturbances of the kidneys and had hardly any strength. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription helped to strengthen me wonderfully and I had very little difficulty after its use." Buy it in liquid or tablets from your druggist or dealer. See how much calmer and stronger you feel.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Bygone Days

March 4, 1904 M. P. Ahern is home from a week's trip to Chicago where he did some heavy buying in spring drygoods.

Mrs. A. L. Tucker arrived home Friday evening, having visited her daughter, Jessie, at Mt. Vernon, Ia., on her return from the east.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bressler are home from Washington, D. C.

Mrs. O. D. Jenkins of Iola, Kan., arrived in Wayne Monday for a visit with her niece, Mrs. Grant Mears.

Fred Thompson, sr., will leave about April 1 on a trip to the old country—Germany.

Mrs. A. E. Slater goes to Chicago next week to visit her daughter, who was Mrs. Walter and who was recently married to a wealthy Chicagoan.

S. H. Alexander was in the city several days, leaving Wednesday for the southern part of the state where Mrs. Alexander and the children are visiting her parents. Sam looks well and is now on the road for the King Solomon Tunnel Developing company, a western mining concern of which he is secretary and his brother-in-law president.

Charley Bird, the handsome clerk at Harrington's returned Tuesday from a trip to California, New Mexico, etc., and reports the best time ever.

March 11, 1904 Osmond was almost completely wiped out by fire Wednesday. Joe Chace of Clear River spent Sunday with his cousin, E. R.

Chace. George Mellor has been here this week. He and R. E. K. leave tomorrow for Malvern.

The Independent Telephone company is erecting a building at the rear of the Swan store. Manager Bell and two assistants, Gus Weimers and J. A. Johnson, are here from Chicago to push work on the enterprise. A large part of the wires in the city will be laid underground.

February 8, 1903, the Wayne free public library was first opened. It has been open two days each week the entire year. During that time 512 persons have taken out reader's cards and 3,509 loans were made. When the library was first opened, it owned 162 volumes. Since then the Monday club donated 380 books and by donation and purchase the number has been swelled to over a thousand volumes.

Miss Johanna Ahern came home last Saturday from Minnesota where she has been teaching. March 18, 1904

Charley Thompson leaves tomorrow with a carload of horses for the St. Louis market.

Granville Terwilliger is home from the ranch in the west part of the state for a few days visit.

Mrs. Joseph Cullen of Geddes, S. D., has been visiting in Winfield and Wayne the past week. She leaves for her home today.

E. J. Doring at Platte, S. D., who has been visiting his sons here for a couple of weeks, returned home this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Cutler celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary next Sunday.

Mrs. Marcus Kroger has brought the house the Kroger family reside in from Fred Volpp, consideration $1,800.

Al Howser left for Clark, S. D., Tuesday with Claus Kay, Frank Kruger and a farmer from near Hoskins. They went to look for lands.

Sorghums Show Favorable Test

Tests Prove Value of Grain for Livestock Feeding

That grain sorghums possess value for livestock feeding and compare rather favorably to corn is being shown in several experiments being conducted in Nebraska. They are being run not only at the experiment stations but also at outstate points. In view of the increasing interest in the planting of grain sorghums in 1938, farmers are watching the tests closely. The Nebraska college of agriculture has a series of tests underway as has the North Platte sub-station. In addition experiments have now been completed at Gibbon and Franklin and another soon will be finished at Curtis.

Prof. William J. Loeffel of the agricultural college finished his swine experiment this month. On the basis of grain required to produce 100 pounds of gain, the whole kafir used in the test proved to be practically 95 per cent as valuable as shelled corn.

Loeffel's test not only compared the feeding value of white kafir corn to yellow shelled corn but also determined the need of grinding the former where self-feeding is followed for hogs. The kafir is bought in Kansas City. Four lots of pigs were included in the test which ran from November 3 to January 12. The first received yellow shelled corn, the second whole white kafir, the third coarsely ground kafir and the fourth finely ground white kafir. The same mineral and protein supplement was fed all lots.

Whole kafir appeared to be the most palatable grain. Pigs fed such gained 1.82 pounds a day while the corn check lot gained 1.64 pounds.

Attend Sheep-Sorghum Day Some 300 farmers attending a sheep-sorghum field day at Gibbon recently also were told that milo, compared quite favorably to corn for lamb feeding. The test was carried on in the Marshes-Ross feedlots.

The first 84 days of a trial at the North Platte station involving the feeding of grain sorghums in comparison with shelled corn to fattening pigs have just been completed. Marvel L. Baker and Cletus F. Reinmiller are in charge of the test here.

The pigs averaged approximately 45 pounds at the beginning of the test. A mixed protein supplement composed of 50 per cent tankage, 25 per cent linseed meal and 25 per cent alfalfa meal has been fed. The pigs are self-fed grain and protein mixture, free-choice.

For the first 84 days, grinding either kafir or milo has not been profitable. Definite conclusions should not be drawn until the conclusion of the trial but it seems probable that gains made by pigs fed grain sorghums will compare favorably with those made by pigs fed shelled corn but will be somewhat more expensive from the standpoint of pounds of feed required per unit of gain.

On February 22 more than 1,000 farmers from all over southwestern Nebraska attended a sorghum-livestock field day at Franklin. There they inspected hogs carried in a 101-day test wherein locally produced milo was compared to corn. In this particular instance, there was but little choice between the two feeds.

Wildlife Restoration Week Begins March 20

National wildlife restoration week will be observed throughout the United States, beginning March 20.

Dr. L. F. Perry and Prof. Chas. Chinn of Wayne are chairmen for Wayne county to promote wildlife restoration week. The state chairman for Nebraska is C. C. Pedersen, with state offices at 1700 South Twenty-fourth street, Lincoln, Nebraska. Wildlife week has been launched by the General Wildlife Federation. Its purpose is to bring together all the organizations and agencies, state and national, concerned with America's outdoor resources.

It's a pretty big program. J. N. "Ding" Darling, president of the federation, points out this first wildlife week is the real beginning of a much-needed movement.

Sportsmen have been active in conservation for many years. Hunting and fishing for sport are not responsible for the alarming decrease of wildlife. Such causes as drainage, pollution, forest fires, over grazing, excessive cultivation bring disaster upon wildlife and human life alike.

Now, joining hands in the federation, are not only sportsmen, but women's organizations, business men, farmers, boys and girls.

"The future of outdoor America," says "Ding" Darling, "is everybody's concern. Wildlife week's chief aim is educational."

Land hunger was an important reason why the early colonists flocked to America.

The craze for cultivated lands has caused some mighty tragic blunders in this country. Millions have been spent in drainage schemes that changed vast marsh areas into sunbaked mud flats. The marshes were paying dividends, in game, fish and fur. The dry flats failed to pay, all too often, and on top of drainage bonds were piled mortgages, until ruin overtook the occupants of the man-made desert.

Cou'll be hearing lots more about wildlife week between now and March 20. National director of the week is Frederick F. Jordan, 400 Madison Avenue, New York.

To Compile Accurate Kids' Clothing Sizes

Parents know it is almost impossible to purchase a child's garment that is satisfactory in size without taking the child to the store to be fitted. Age sizes marked on children's garments rarely correspond with the dimensions of a child of that age. The lack of any scientifically determined body measurements which can be used as a standard has also made possible the practice of skipping on the size of garments to meet competitive prices. Patterns for children's garments are equally unsatisfactory because size does not agree with age.

To remedy these difficulties the bureau of home economics hopes to measure about 100,000 boys and girls—ranging from 2 to 14 years in age—and from these measurements to work out practical sizes for garments and patterns.

This research is made possible by an allotment from the emergency relief appropriation of 1937 and through the cooperation of tion and the National Youth administration. Eight states and the District of Columbia, as well as various institutions in the co-operating states, are participating.

Noted Pianist to Appear Here

Winifred Christie to Play Moor 2-Keyboard Piano at College

Music lovers of Wayne and vicinity are assured an evening of marvelous music on Thursday, March 17, when the State Teachers college presents the famous European woman pianist, Winifred Christie, playing the Moor double keyboard piano.

It is heralded as gem of the school lecture course schedule during the past five or six years. Ticket reservations from neighboring northeast towns are being made early, stated school authorities today. Miss Christie is proclaimed the greatest pianist of the continent.

The double keyboard piano provides a marvelous versatility for the artist, and make possible many effects hitherto unattainable.

Winifred Christie's program includes the Tocata and Fugue in D Minor by Bach, an aria of Bach's arranged by Godowsky, Sonata Opus 31 No. 2 by Beethoven, Ballade in F Minor by Chopin, Concert Study in D Flat by Liszt, an intermezzo by Moor, Jeux d'Eaux by Ravel, The River by Davis, and the Fledermaus by Strauss, arranged by Godowsky.

Perry, Chinn Manage Local Wildlife Week

"When the topsoil goes, man goes." It was Theodore Roosevelt, pioneer in nationwide conservation, that first spoke this truth. National Wildlife Restoration week, which begins March 20, will carry to all parts of the country the message that conservation begins at the grass roots. Dr. L. F. Perry and Charles Chinn of Wayne are in charge of the activities for "Wildlife Restoration Week" in this county.

Wildlife of field, forest and stream depends on conditions that are also necessary to human life. Man made deserts are already visible in the United States, caused by unwise use of the land. Dust bowls, erosion, disaster floods—these are the symptoms of the sickness of Mother Earth that scientific restoration alone can cure.

One of the objects of the week is to raise money and all the funds from dinners and other sources will be kept by the state federations to help along their own conservation work, explains Dr. M. C. Pedersen, head of the Nebraska committee for the week.

Announce Dates for Ak-Sar-Ben Show

Ak-Sar-Ben's eleventh annual livestock and horse show will be staged at Omaha the week beginning Sunday, October 23, and ending Saturday, October 29, it was announced today by George Brandeis, president of the organization.

The dates for the show are about two weeks later than last year, but the change was necessary to avoid a conflict with the new date of the St. Louis Livestock and Horse show. The Omaha show will follow immediately after the American Royal, at Kansas City, whereas last year it preceded the Royal.

"It is necessary to arrange our dates so that we will be on a circuit with the other livestock and horse shows of this region," explained Mr. Brandeis. "Otherwise, it would be impossible for the exhibitors to participate in the show. Because of the St. Louis situation, we had to set a later date so we could remain in the circuit."

It seems rather early to be talking about the livestock and horse show, but it is very important that these dates be announced at the earliest moment, as the livestock raisers of Nebraska and Iowa who plan to compete in the show must have the information long enough in advance to start the proper feeding of the animals which they plan to show. Likewise, there are a great many meetings arranged for the week of the livestock and horse show, and the organizations conducting them must set their dates long in advance."

Show 3 Industrial Films at High School

Mr. Foster of the state game forestation and parks commission showed three talkie motion pictures at the Wayne city high school Friday afternoon. The films, The Tree Planter State, Pond Insects, Plant Growth, were educational pictures and were enjoyed by the pupils. A short film entitled "Life" depicted one day's activity of two small boys during the summer months. This film was enjoyed by the grade school pupils.

PFL Program Is Two Point Plan

New Program Replaces Pasture Improvement Contest

Nebraska's 1938 pasture-forage-livestock program is underway with an eight-point plan. It succeeds the pasture contest which has been held during the past three years.

The educational movement is being carried on through county agricultural agents. As a part of the statewide program co-operators will be enrolled in each county. The climax will be reached next fall with a pasture-forage-livestock "clinic" and banquet at Omaha. There outstanding participants will be honored.

The same agencies which sponsored the pasture contest are again sponsoring the achievement part of the 1938 plan. They include the Nebraska college of agriculture, agricultural extension service, Omaha Chamber of Commerce, Nebraska Crop Growers' association and the Nebraska Livestock Breeders' association.

Special trophies will go to the three highest ranking cooperators in the state. Certificates of award will also be given to the next 25 highest ranking cooperators. Farmers cooperating will work

Interest Grows in Rural Lighting

Installed Electricity Means Four-Point Improvement Program

New labor saving equipment is dear to the heart of any woman. There are many things one would like to have, but the farm homemaker is a practical person and there are many questions she would like to ask.

When the farm family decides to install electricity, they decide in favor of home improvement and convenience. With electricity and electrical equipment one can expect four things:

1. A saving of time and labor. For instance the electric washing machine, iron or a motor for the running of other types of improvement are examples of labor saving devices.

2. Greater convenience. Lights, and electric toaster, and refrigerator are examples of greater convenience and comfort. Appliances with automatic controls are more convenient than those which need to with their county agricultural agents in laying out a plan for pasture-forage-livestock during the entire season.

An attractive circular explaining the program is now being mailed to some 75,000 Nebraska farmers by county agricultural agents. Included are some timely questions and answers regarding pastures, forage, and livestock. The circular also explains details of the program and plans for the finish-up in Omaha next fall.

Increase in Agricultural Clubs Greater interest is being shown in sow and litter, baby beef clubs as a result of a slight increase in the number of some portions of the state and a lower cost in general. Prospects indicate at least one-half larger enrollments in these lines in 1938. Forestry clubs have more than doubled their 1937 high record.

be watched. 3. Better results. Any appliance which does not give good results is not worth having. A vacuum cleaner gets more dirt out of a rug than a broom, and a mechanical refrigerator keeps a more constant temperature than an old style ice box.

4. Some of the farm home fire hazard may be eliminated. Before installing home equipment, the farm family needs to realize that home electrical equipment and its operation will be an added cost. Electrical equipment for the home pays for itself, not in terms of dollars and cents, but in terms of satisfaction, comfort, and health.

When considering the installation of electricity for the farm home, families may well ask themselves what they have been spending for the services which electricity will replace. What are the present household operation costs. How much will it cost the family to install electricity and to secure the necessary electrical equipment.

If you are contemplating the installation of electrical equipment, your county extension agent will be glad to help you figure the probable cost for your equipment.

TIPS to Gardeners

Miscellaneous Tips

BEFORE planting, work soil deeply, making the top three or four inches as fine and loose as possible.

For better germination, pour water into the drill or furrow just before sowing. Use enough water to moisten the soil, but not enough to cause caking.

If you have had little experience and wish to try the vegetables easiest to grow, select radishes, carrots, beets, Swiss chard, and turnips. With a good-sized garden you might add spinach, peas, beans and corn.

If your garden is small and you wish to increase the total yield, try the following quick-growing vegetables:

Radish, leaf lettuce, beets, carrots, peas and beans. You can replant most of these after space has been made for them by early harvest.

Do not plant seeds deeper than directed. After planting cover seeds immediately, pressing the soil down firmly.

"Monster Out of Hand"

By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

John J. Boner of Chicago has been firing a locomotive since 1906. He says that in that time he has had many a thrill—as what railroad man from engineer right along to conductor hasn't? But the biggest thrill in all John Boner's railroading career came to him on September 10, 1910, when he was firing an engine on the Milwaukee.

John was working west out of Perry, Iowa, and early in the morning he was called to fire on a double-header coal train. John was on the lead engine, and John Cunningham was the engineer. The train, John says, consisted of forty carsloads of coal behind two Baldwin compound engines.

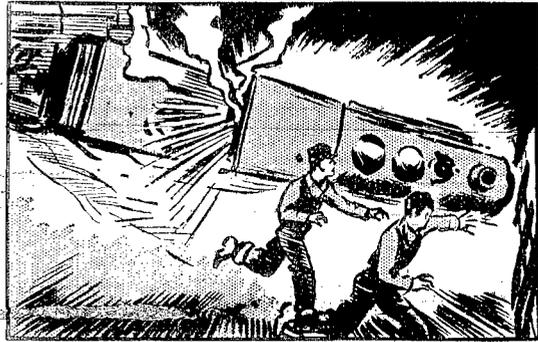

The train pulled out of Perry in some of the finest weather John had ever seen in his life. "The beauty of the day," he says, "seemed to impart something of its zest to our engines, and we made the wheels sing on those forty cars as we pushed the big locomotives along. From Perry to Council Bluffs, the road was all single track and water grades."

Up and Down the Water Grades.

For the benefit of us lubbers who don't know what a water grade is, John explains it to us. Those water grades get their name from the fact that a water tower is always set on the top of a hill whenever possible. So a train, after stopping to take on water, can get up momentum again by coasting downgrade. Water grades were just a series of ups and downs in the track, and with a heavy train you go as fast as you can turn a wheel down one hill in order to get up the next.

They cleared half a dozen of those grades, and everything was going fine. The train topped a hill east of Manning, Iowa, and John Cunningham opened the throttle and the train roared downgrade through a series of curves, gathering momentum for the next climb.

They were rounding the last curve, a mile east of Manning, when it happened. John was tossing a few scooptuls of coal into the firebox, when all of a sudden he saw John Cunningham go into action. "He was grabbing for the whistle—grabbing for the brake valve—grabbing for reverse lever," says John, "and it seemed to me as if he was grabbing for all of them at the same time.

The Lead Engine Took a Nose Dive.

Off the Track at Full Speed.

"I jumped to the left cab window. I was just in time to see a section-gang scattering to the fields—and in time to get a shower of ballast full in the face. We had struck a hand-car loaded with iron rails."

John reeled back under the force of the blow he had received. For a second or two the big engine seemed to be riding the rails. Then John felt the wheels bump off onto the ties. "The emergency brake," he says, "was almost useless. We had been tearing downhill and around those curves with the throttle as wide open as it was safe to have it on that particular stretch of track. Our speed was almost forty-five miles an hour at the time, and behind us were another locomotive and forty-heavy carsloads of coal, showing us along with the momentum they had gathered in that downhill run."

There was no hope of stopping that train, and John says that there wasn't any possibility of jumping, either. The big engine was rocking, and swaying so badly that neither John nor Cunningham could stand long enough to jump. "All we could do," he says, "was to grab whatever we could get hold of in the cab and hang onto it."

All that happened in just a couple of seconds, and things were happening so fast that John didn't even have time to think.

But afterwards he could recall vividly sensations that he wasn't even aware of at the time. "Was I scared?" he says. "I don't know. Things were coming so fast that I don't think I had time to be frightened. For more than forty feet we rode the ties, and then bumped onto a trestle bridge. We ran sixty more feet out on that, and then the lead engine—the one I was in—took a nose dive to the right, keeled over on her side and began sliding down a thirty-foot bank."

He Got Out Just in Time.

John and John Cunningham were still in the cab—still fighting for equilibrium—for a foothold that would give them a chance to jump. The engine slid down the bank and came to rest in a hog wallow beyond the right-of-way fence. The minute it stopped, John was at the window and on his way out, with John Cunningham crowding behind him.

They were out the window so fast that it seemed as if both of them had gone through together. But at that time they weren't a second too soon. Just as they cleared the cab, a steam tube let go—burst with a roar that cleared the cab out as clean as dynamite could have cleaned it, and two hundred pounds of steam pressure flooded the spot they had just left with hot, scalding death. Only a second's delay and both John and Cunningham would have died back there in the engine cab—cooked to death in an instant by the jet of live steam.

"The second engine," says John, "bumped into our tender and turned off to the left, but the crew escaped injury in almost the same miraculous manner that we did. None of the coal cars piled up on top of either engine, as they usually do in such accidents, and that was almost another miracle. Since that time I've had many a spill and been in many a wreck. In some of them I've sustained injuries. But none of those close calls ever gave me anything like the thrill I got out of this one in which I wasn't even scratched."

Farm System Solution to Yank Menace

By GEORGE A. BARCLAY

WITH anti-monopoly and trust-busting movements abroad in the land, baseball men generally would welcome with three rousing cheers any formula that would effectively break up the pennant monopoly of the New York Yankees.

Winners of the American league pennant and the world's series in 1936 and 1937, Joe McCarthy's Yankees look like such sure-fire repeaters again this year in both fields that there seems to be little chance of heading them off.

But in the future it is obvious that something must be done to improve other clubs in the American and National leagues—particularly the last three teams in each circuit—if national interest in the national sport is to be maintained. The tailenders are so hopelessly out of the pennant race from the start that the most ardent followers lose interest.

Two major suggestions have already been brought forward. One is a sort of share-the-wealth plan which proposes that the Yankee machine be broken up and the talent distributed to less fortunate clubs. Baseball men agree that this is a bad suggestion. The other way suggested to break that pennant monopoly is to build up the weaker clubs in both the American and National leagues to meet it. This can be done. And the way to do it is by the extension of the farm system.

Yanks Get Talent

The Yankees, supported by Colonel Ruppert's wealth, have constructed a splendid farm system with Newark in the International league and Kansas City in the

Joe McCarthy.

American Association as their principal training grounds for talent. These two powerful minor league clubs will continue to produce fine baseball ability every year for the Yankees.

The Yanks are one of several teams that have discovered that the proper method of supplying a winning major league club with capable talent is to own some minor league teams. Ruppert first tried paying high prices for advertised stars when he took over the Yanks. This proved too costly. The farm method has proved far better. It costs less and supplies classier material. The St. Louis Cardinals under Branch Riekey made a similar discovery a few years back and they now have the most extensive chain farm system in baseball.

The thing for the other clubs to do is to build farm systems that are as good as the Yankees or the Cardinals have and the Giants, Cubs and Indians are developing. Such a measure would eventually equalize the playing strength of the various teams and bring into a more even balance the strength of the American league and the now admittedly weaker National league.

Of course there is the alternative of a bigger scouting system for every team. But if the top clubs continue to increase their farm activities, the field for scouting will be so limited that it will be difficult to find adequate talent except on teams owned by other clubs. Scouts are said to be running into that situation already.

Baseball fans everywhere love a winner. They are content as long as their team is in the fight. But they are justly dissatisfied with teams that have no chances whatever.

Unless the problem of strengthening the tailenders is solved shortly, it is not inconceivable that major leagues be cut to six clubs each or some of the franchises moved. Moving the franchises might not remedy the situation more than temporarily. The solution is for all major league clubs to be so financed that they can establish adequate farm systems of their own.

WHAT TO EAT AND WHY

Food Provides the Key to Mental and Physical Power

You Can Be Strong, Beautiful, Wise, Rear Healthy Children Only If You Know How to Combine the Right Food Materials in the Diet

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th Street, New York.

SINCE the world began, food has been man's first consideration. For it he has fought and died. To find it he has traveled over great continents and braved unknown dangers. His quest for food has changed the map of the world and colored the history of nations. But in all of these historic struggles, he has been motivated solely by the desire to get enough food to satisfy hunger.

Today, actual hunger is rare. But hundreds of thousands of people starve in the midst of plenty because they do not realize the tremendous power of food for good or for evil.

They do not realize that as a man eats, so he is, and that his choice of food materials gives or takes away the power to live vigorously—to think clearly—to feel warmly—to be strong, healthy and wise.

It can be truly said that your food is your fate. It has the power to shape your body—to make it strong and beautiful, or weak and ugly. It has the power to influence your language, your gait, your tone of voice, in short—your life. With the right food, life becomes a glorious adventure, for it increases your leadership, intensifies your magnetic qualities, strengthens your morale, and increases your physical defenses and resistance. Without it, one drags through miserable days—never realizing even half of his potential mental and physical powers.

Food—the Fuel of Life.

The human body is a machine, far more complex than any machine devised by the mind of man. Food is the fuel which runs this amazing machine. Food is also the material used to repair worn-out parts, and to keep the intricate mechanism in good working order.

The body machine cannot be run efficiently without proper food fuel any more than a car could be run without gas, or a house be heated without oil, coal or wood.

Food also has the power to speed up or slow down the workings of the mind. It likewise influences the state of our nerves, the warmth of our affections, the type of characters we possess.

Finally, the power to have strong, healthy children is based on proper food. And nutritional scientists have discovered that the wrong food can even take away from us the greatest blessing that Nature has bestowed—our earthly immortality. For it can deprive us of the ability to bear children who will carry on after we are gone.

Six Groups of Food Substances.

What food substances are necessary to build and maintain top health—to develop the greatest physical and mental power? There are six groups of food substances which must be included in the balanced diet which promises increased health, happiness and longevity:

1. PROTEINS which build and repair body tissues. These are found in such foods as milk, eggs, meats, fish, cheese and nuts.

2. FATS which yield heat and energy. The fats are represented by butter, cream, oils and the fat of meats.

3. CARBOHYDRATES—the starches and sugars. These also supply heat and energy, and are found chiefly in such foods as bread, potatoes, cereals and sweets.

4. MINERALS which build, repair, protect and regulate. Among the minerals which are absolutely necessary to health and vigor are calcium, phosphorus, iron, copper, iodine, sulphur, manganese, magnesium, sodium and potassium. These are found in varying amounts in milk, eggs, fruits, vegetables, whole grain cereals and meats.

5. VITAMINS which are necessary for body regulation, and as a protection against dread deficiency diseases. Six have been discovered to date—A, B, C, D, E and G.

6. WATER which is a part of all body tissue and must be present in order to have the other food elements function properly.

The ideal dietary is one that includes a correct proportion of the different food elements required to supply bodily needs without any of them being supplied in excess, or in insufficient amounts.

Danger in Omitting One Essential To illustrate how important it is that not one of the necessary food substances be omitted, let me tell you how an eminent bio-chemist proved in his experimental laboratory, in one of our leading universities, that the difference between stupidity and genius depended upon the presence or absence of one vitamin.

He placed a pregnant animal upon a diet adequate in every respect, except that it lacked one of the six vitamins. As soon as her young were born and weaned, they were fed a completely adequate diet.

Then the scientist tested the mentality of the young animals. He wanted to find out whether or not their mental power had been injured in any way by the fact that their mother—during pregnancy—had been deprived of one vital food element. So he put them in a runway. To get out of this—and reach a tasty morsel at the other end—they had to make their way through a series of passages. He had already made this same test on the same type of animals born of properly fed mothers. He knew that it never took them more than 25 trials to learn their way out of the maze. Most of them had gotten out after 15 to 18 attempts.

But what lack of skill was shown by the animals whose mother had been deprived of proper food? The stupidity, of these pathetic little creatures was unbelievable. Some of them never learned to thread the maze and reach their goal, even after as many as 250 trials. They were being given—at the time—everything that was necessary to their diet. But they had entered life with minds totally unequipped to cope with the world—because their mother had not been properly fed before they were born.

Food Can Make or Mar.

This is a striking example of the power of food to make or mar existence. I could cite hundreds of other laboratory experiments, many of which have been confirmed by clinical experience.

Nor is this power of food to affect mental activity confined to prenatal life. Even if a child enters this world with a strong body and a clear mind—the wrong food during childhood has the power to wreck health.

Investigation after investigation, by leading specialists throughout the country, has proven that a surprising percentage of retarded children—those who cannot keep up with their school grades—do not really have inferior minds. They only seem stupid because the action of their minds is clogged and slowed down by sluggish, under-fed bodies.

Physical fitness is a far greater asset than material possessions. For in times of stress and trouble, those who can stand up under the physical strain win the battle. For those who collapse, all is lost.

The Homemaker's Responsibility.

Every wife and mother is therefore faced with the tremendous responsibility of keeping her family mentally and physically fit. Her husband must have the right kind of food in order to earn a living. Her own diet must be adequate and well-balanced if she is to have the energy, wisdom, and patience required of a mother at all hours of the day. Her baby will not grow into a healthy man or woman unless he or she has the right nourishment from the moment of birth. And school children can't keep up with their classes without the right food.

If you will follow this series of articles, and put into practice the principles of correct eating that I advocate, I can promise that you will increase both mental and physical efficiency, and as a result, achieve greater health and happiness for every member of your family.

Food Affects Your Body and Mind

Each morning when you awake, a new life is ahead of you. Whether that day and the days to follow will be better or worse than those that went before, depends largely upon what you eat.

Within a few hours the bread, meat, vegetables and liquids that you swallow are transformed into your personality. They begin to think, feel and act. They become YOU. What was food yesterday, today is carrying on the important business of the world.

Each meal that you eat helps or hinders the efficiency and ease with which these various duties are performed. That is why it is true that as you eat, so you are. And that is why I say that I feed a day, at your table; you LIVE DOWN TO LIFE.

How Often Should Your Furniture Be Polished?

Housewives differ on the question of "when to polish their furniture." Some have no set time for it—polishing when they think of it—or when, casting a glance about, they decide that the furniture can "stand it." Others, polish every cleaning day—which ordinarily occurs once a week. Others dedicate but one day a year to this important procedure. And still others, polish the furniture in their home regularly, once a month.

This last group is the largest—but their schedule is not sufficiently frequent. Furniture can not be polished too often! True, the outward benefit of the best oil polish—the luster—will last through a single week—and more—but this same polish, with its light oil base, preserves and "feeds" the furniture, revives it, prolongs its life! So that every application is highly beneficial to woodwork and the various pieces of fine wood in the home. Our advice, therefore, for the sake of endurance, as well as appearance, of your furniture, is "polish up" with a good oil polish at least twice a month!

Are Women Better Shoppers than Men?

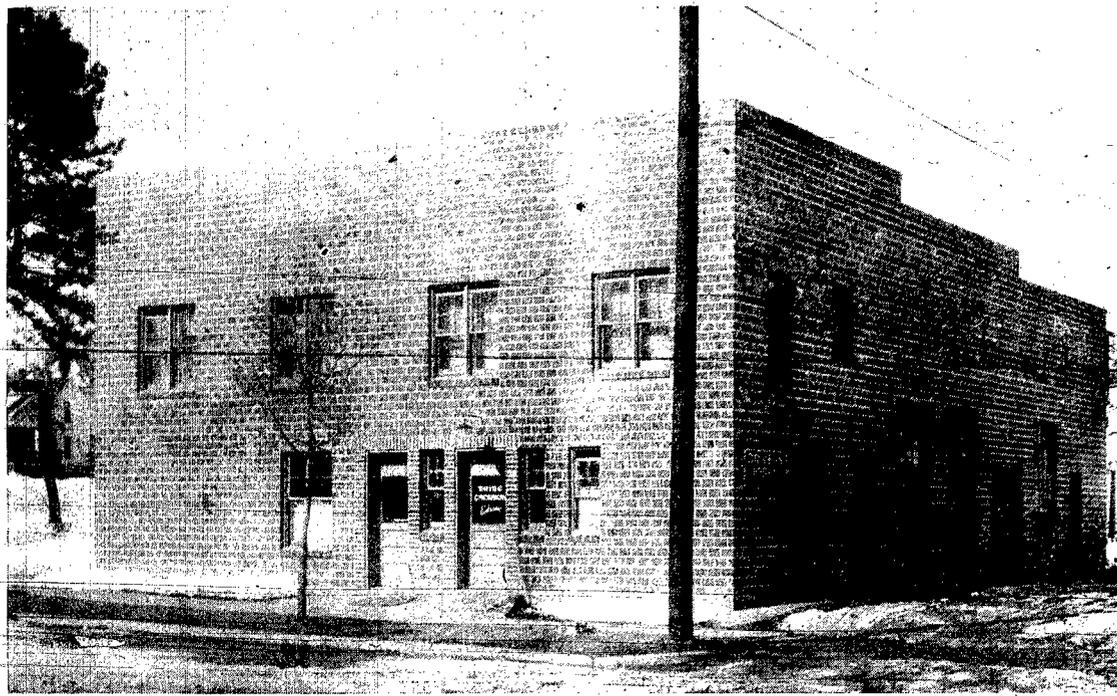

GRANTING a woman's reputation for wise buying, let's trace the methods by which she has earned it. Where does she find out about the advantages and details of electrical refrigeration? What tells her how to keep the whole household clean—rugs, floors, bathroom tiling—and have energy left for golf and parties? How does she learn about new and delicious entrees and desserts that surprise and delight her family? Where does she discover those subtleties of dress and make-up that a man appreciates but never understands?

Why, she reads the advertisements. She is a consistent, thoughtful reader of advertisements, because she has found that she can believe them—and profit thereby. Overlooking the advertisements would be depriving herself of data continuously useful in her job of Purchasing Agent to the Family. For that matter, watch a wise man buy a car or a suit or an insurance policy. Not a bad shopper himself! He reads the advertisements, too!

GRAND OPENING

As each farmer, merchant, doctor, lawyer, professor, teacher and employee contributes to a community, their contribution returns, and a perfect balance can be maintained, but when extraction, removal and deprivation continues perfect balance is lost and any condition exists.

Community progress is made by community promotion. Individual progress is made when community progress is made. Community promotion comes with individual progress. As the individual fails to make community progress, the community fails.

The Wayne Creamery is our contribution to Wayne

Edw. Seymour

Every gallon of cream we buy is made into butter or ice cream and sold in Wayne and neighboring towns. To take care of increased demands it is necessary for us to have more cream. We are depending upon the community for this supply.

What is better than a good Town, a good Church, a good School, a good Neighbor or a good Home?

A churn in which 500 pounds of butter can be churned at one time.

A good and real reason why everyone need do their best to make what we want---a better place to live.

Thursday, March 10, at 1:30 P. M. we open to Wayne a new building to be the home of the Wayne Creamery which represents eight years of endeavor by us, and eight years of community support from you. On that day we invite you to join us and celebrate the occasion.

THE CREAMERY WILL BE WHATEVER THE COMMUNITY WANTS IT TO BE, SO WE INVITE YOU TO JOIN US IN OUR EFFORT TO MAKE IT BETTER
