BUSINESSMEN'S CLUB WILL WORK FOR SCHOOL IMPROVEMENTS

Members Will Canvass City to Clarify Needs

Young Business Men's Club Endorses Project Unanimously

After casting a unanimous vote favoring the proposed Wayne school improvement at their meeting Wednesday evening, Wayne Young Business Men's club are launching a city-wide house-to-house canvass in the interest of the issue and to aid in clarifying the need of the proposed project.

A special committee composed of L. W. McNatt, chairman, D. S. Wightman, Homer Smothers, W. C. Coryell, Leslie Ellis, and Carl Nicolaisen was appointed to lay plans for the campaign. The committee will meet today.

At the meeting Wednesday, the resolutions committee presented a revised constitution which was read and will be voted upon for approval at the next regular meeting. Two major changes proposed are changing of the club name and increasing the board of directors from five to seven members.

A project committee to present worthwhile projects and enterprises to the club to act upon was appointed. The committee includes G. A. Renard, chairman; Larry Brown, L. W. McNatt, Carl Nicolaisen and K. N. Parke.

The resolution pertaining to the school improvement issue is as follows:

"WHEREAS, it has come to the attention of the Young Business Men's club of the city of Wayne, that the facilities at the Wayne city school are grossly inadequate for the present enrollment and needs of said institution, and

"WHEREAS, a remedy has been proposed to correct this situation, and in order to take advantage of the government allotment of 45 per cent of the total cost of such improvement, it is necessary that the city school district, of the city of Wayne, issue bonds to the extent of $48,000.00, and

"WHEREAS, the proposition of issuing said bonds is to be voted upon at a special election, to be held on September 23, 1938, and

"WHEREAS, the student body of our city school is entitled to reasonable, adequate facilities, which are now found lacking, and "WHEREAS, the Young Business Men's club of this city is an organization, interested in the civic welfare and the betterment of this community,

"BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that the within club go on record as favoring and approving said improvement and bind issue."

to the fifth grade. Fifth graders total 25 of which 10 are boys and 15 are girls. In art, the pupils are drawing imaginary flowers in crayola. The story hour book is "Cubby in Wonderland," which gave the highlights and points of interest in Yellowstone park.

There are 26 pupils enrolled in the sixth grade. They have started plans for a history booklet dealing with the lives of the cavemen. Howard and Richard Sala and Edmund Chinn are absent from school Friday. There are 45 girls enrolled in the Junior high girls' physical education class. All of the girls were weighed and their heights taken during Thursday's class period.

New students in Grade 8 are Dorothy Quintor of North Platte, Donald Garvin of Pender and Phillip Briggs. The eight grade art class reviewed the monochromatic, analogous, and complementary color scheme. They worked out a design which they will develop in each of these three schemes.

The seventh grade art class paid special attention to line in design. Each child made an original line design.

The high school art class made water color over paste designs which gives the effect of oil painting.

Baker's Garage Mystery Car to Thrill Fair Crowd

The last touches were being put on the "Baker's Garage Mystery Car" early Monday morning in preparation for the fair crowds. Secrecy surrounded mechanical perfection and little could be learned about the mystery car. It's going to perform however by some means of remote control, perhaps it will be radioized, at any rate the car will do a solo stunt and from what information we have it is really a free attraction in itself.

Kiwanians Will Not Take Club Stand On Community Issues

Morrison Speaks on Phy. Edu. Program For All Students

The question of appointing a committee to visit and report school conditions relative to proposed improvements with the idea of the Kiwanis club taking a stand was discussed at Monday's meeting. In debating the position of the club on such matters it was pointed out that Kiwanis is primarily a luncheon club and its program was not designed to function in matters of community issues. With this information made clear, a committee was appointed to visit the school and report its findings before the club with the understanding no vote as to the club's position would be taken.

"Jim" Morrison, new athletic director and coach of State Teachers College, emphasized a well rounded physical education program at S.T.C. which would qualify teachers to do more than coach. Such a program would encompass the training of the non-athletic type of student as well as the athletic type. Morrison brought laughter from Kiwanians with a story to the effect that Bernie Bierman, coach of the Minnesota gophers goes out over the north in the spring looking for football players.

And Bierman would inquire of boys plowing in the fields which way it was to Minneapolis. If the boy pointed in the direction of Minneapolis with his hand, the coach would thank him and walk away, but if the boy pointed the plow and pointed the gopher coach would say, "come with me."

Carrier Application Deadline Sept. 30

The United States Civil Service commission has announced an examination to fill the position of rural carrier at Carroll. The application deadline has been set for Sept. 30. The examination which will be held at Wayne will be stated on admission cards mailed to applicants after the close of receipt of applications and will be about 15 days after that date. Applications will be open only to residents in the territory of the post office where the vacancy exists and the applicant must be a resident in that territory six months prior to closing date for receipt of applications.

Farmers File Sealing Applications with Bureau

In order to reseed 1937 corn or seal the 1938 crop, cooperating farmers must file a sealing application either with the county treasurer, F. I. Moses or the county committee. A reasonable sealing fee will be assessed which will accompany the application.

Undergoes Appendectomy

Miss Jean Mines underwent an appendectomy last Monday night at a local hospital.

Public Sentiment Indicates Wide Awake Interest

News Conducts Voice of the People Interview

It was the voice of the people column the News reporter was compiling Friday when at random Wayne residents and farmers were asked the question, "What Will Wayne County's Fair Be Like This Year?"

Fair managers Cook and Bloss who have bent every effort to provide the best in program, amusement, and exhibit fields are enthusiastic about the co-operation extended them by Wayne County residents. An attendance of 15 to 20,000 people is expected at the four-day fair.

Here are some of the opinions voiced by Wayne county farmers and town people:

Martin L. Ringer: "It should be the best fair in northeast Nebraska. The excellent program, variety of exhibits, and the carnival which is a fair in itself all add to making it a really great fair."

David J. Hamer: "We're going to have a good fair."

Claude Wright: "Well from the way everyone is talking, I think that we are going to have a good fair. I hope to see a big crowd in attendance each day of the fair."

Wilbur Porterfield: "Much more spirit and interest is associated with the fair this year. The entertainment angle promises to be excellent. The merchant display tent which is a new feature offers direct merchant-farmer contact."

James B. Grier: "I think it'll be better."

Cobb Olsen: "Rainy weather and promise of a pretty good crop should lend added success to what promises to be a good fair."

Ole G. Nelson: "It should be a good fair. There seems to be a lot of exhibits which interest fair visitors and exhibitors alike."

Lloyd Bradford: "It should be a good fair. The fair committee have put great effort into making it a success. It is the general opinion that they know what makes a really good fair because they have had a lot of experience managing county fairs."

L. W. McNatt: "People around town and farmers are interested in the success of the fair and it should be the best fair we have had in five years."

H. E. Siman: "From all reports, it looks like it will be a good fair. More optimism is being shown this year."

J. J. Ahern: "I believe we will have a great fair. It has been the best advertised fair in years and of course, there has been something to talk about. The program is excellent."

G. A. Renard: "We are going to have a real county fair."

Dan Cupid Impatient

Committee Drops Hints As to What Precincts Involved

Dan Cupid has been working overtime in Wayne county in aiding the Fair committee because several Wayne county couples and a couple from one of the neighboring counties have signified their desire to be married publicly at the Wayne fair Friday night. Who the couple will be is all very much of a secret and won't be revealed until the strains of the wedding march Friday night herald the bridal procession.

But the fair committee dropped hints without mentioning names and stated that a couple on the edge of town may be the participants. One of the best guesses is a Plum Creek couple. There is considerable interest in Hunter precinct and it is rumored that the couple in Leslie may be the lucky ones. Sherman, Logan, and Brenna precincts may be the limelight attraction if a couple from one of the other is chosen.

Your guess is as good as ours and the fair committee isn't talking.

8 States Build Schools With PWA Help

Projects Totaling $7,647,716 Completed For Fall Term

New educational facilities costing $7,647,716, built with Public Works administration assistance in the eight states of this PWA region, were placed in use this week as school bells signalled the beginning of the new school year.

Large schools and small, urban and rural, in Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Montana and Wyoming, opened their doors to pupils for the first time. In many instances projects were speeded to completion in advance of the start of the fall term.

Students in nearly a hundred communities scattered over the eight states began using the new facilities, which included both new buildings replacing antiquated and crowded structures, and additions and improvements to existing buildings.

The $7,647,716 cost excluded auditoriums and gymnasiums, of which there were a considerable number. It also excluded projects undertaken but not close enough to completion for full use at this time.

All of the schools were started under the preceding Public Works administration program. Allotments already have been made for scores of others in these eight states under the 1938 PWA program, and applications for more are being received by the Regional office at Omaha in advance of the September 30 application deadline.

Completed school projects and their costs, included by states: South Dakota, two $113,727; Wyoming, four, $409,989; North Dakota, four, $196,037; Nebraska, nine, $542,462; Montana, eleven, $2,435,090; Missouri, 23, $1,464,870; Minnesota, 18, $1,286,361; Iowa, 24, $1,200,180.

Regional PWA Director R. A. Radford, of Omaha, pointed out that school construction was one of the major accomplishments of the previous PWA programs and that school applications out number other types in the 1938 program.

In its first four years, he reported, PWA helped finance about 70 per cent of all school building construction in the country. During that period allotments of nearly $300,000,000 in loans and grants provided school construction estimated to cost more than $550,000,000.

School buildings constructed under the PWA program served principally to replace obsolete buildings, replace and consolidate one-room schools, provide additional needed accommodations for pupils, and to improve existing buildings.

Primary consideration was given to replacement of unsanitary and condemned buildings and to the adequate housing of pupils unable to attend school full time because of crowded conditions. First allotments in 1937 were made on so-called fire hazard school applications.

Grade Enrollment Exceeds 250

Often termed the "hardest week of the school year," the first week of the new fall term of the Wayne Public school is "behind" both teacher and pupils. Books have been distributed, the course of study for the semester has been started, and new teachers are getting acquainted with their pupils. On Friday grade school enrollment exceeded 250 pupils.

In the kindergarten, Delores Ulrich observed her birthday Thursday. Peggy Ann Rubcek celebrated her birthday Friday. The youngsters show great interest in the clay modeling project. Betty Jean Rogge brought a turtle to school to "visit" for one day.

"What are we going to name our canary bird," is the all important question with the second graders this week. Suggested names are Dickie, Mickie, Lindy, Bing, Happy, Petey, and Taffy. A naming contest is being conducted and results will be announced in next week's paper. Nine boys and 16 girls are enrolled for second grade work. Two pupils new to the grade are Lloyd Conroy of Palisades, Colo., and Mary Elizabeth Holmes of a rural school in Stanton county.

The enrollment in the third grade totals 28 pupils. Anita del Fitch brought a fish for the nature table this week. Arlene Childs brought shells gathered on the east coast. The youngsters are organizing a circus band and are making circus booklets.

Cecil Mahnke enrolled in the fourth grade Thursday making the total enrollment 37 pupils which is the largest enrollment in any one grade. The fourth graders are working hard to become members of the Citizenship club. The members will be announced next week.

One Year $1.50 Six Months .75

Some of these days readers of this newspaper are going to learn that the News has a dual system of political philosophy. Since last November it has had two publishers. Burriss who generally confines his talents to the mechanical side of the business is about ready to take active interest in the editorial phase. This is due to the logical reason that he desires to defend his political party and to challenge certain policies of the party generally defended and approved in these columns.

This step is not to be construed as a break in harmony of the Smothers-Burriss combination but rather to evidence the fact that two persons of generally opposite political views can work side by side and still maintain independent views.

Burriss' views cling to the conservative, thus running parallel to G. O. P. principals. While those of the writer are liberal and coincide more with the Democrat principals.

Generally speaking we keep right on working while debating our political differences but now and then explanations require the use of jestures and we must use our hands so in those instances, work must necessarily be delayed until one or the other of us is convinced, or the talk becomes exhausted, or discouraged, or runs out of arguments.

Burriss' republicanism dates back to his birth while my democrat ideas go back only to the beginning of F. D. R's entry into the White House. Yes, Burriss' republicanism goes back further than that. He will tell you when his grandfather marched with Sherman down to the sea with 50 thousand men, you bet, his grandfather was republican then and he is republican yet. All of which I think is no good reason until Burriss begins quoting figures, programs, policies, etc. He begins as every good republican does with Lincoln and the slaves. I counter with the suggestion that more whites were enslaved by the republican economic mismanagement than there were blacks who were freed by the Civil War. Then he will say wait until the '40's and you will really see economic enslavement. He is thinking about paying off the New Deal debt, regimentation, etc. All of which goes to show that an editorial approving or defending the democrats does not express the combined views of the publishers of the News. And the readers of the News are not all democrats therefore there is a dual reason for the expression of dual political views of the publishers.

There will be a practical side to this policy. Neither publisher will have to scan other papers to find something challenging to write about. All either of us will have to do is read each other's copy seize a typewriter, or linotype machine, answer or begof the other's arguments, put it in the same column and in the same edition of the paper. That's service readers don't often have. The suspense of waiting a week won't usually be necessary.

Imagine reading the editorials of the same paper, one headed, "Roosevelt Saves the Nation," and in the next editorial, "Roosevelt Ruins the Nation," both with equal sincerity and conviction.

Either publisher will have a ready tongue or hand to mention complimentary characteristics of the other until it comes to political views and then he will testify the other's is rotten. It will be democracy in the nude. The kind that everyone advocates but few practice.

Live Club Takes a Positive and Active Stand

The Young Businessmen's Club of Wayne is to be congratulated upon their active participation in the coming school bond election September 28. There will probably be other organizations which will follow the step taken by this group but it will be to the credit of the club that they were the first Wayne organization to take the initiative in this project.

Undoubtedly the influence of this group will have a potent effect upon decliminating factual information regarding the school situation. Members of the club will contact every Wayne home and present the needs, costs, and benefits of the school improvement program. To us this seems a statesmanlike approach and when this is accomplished no bogging of the issue will have influence. In the action taken by the Young Businessmen's club we see a strong and influential organization shouldering a responsibility in a business-like manner.

Mayor Ringer Issues Timely Warning

A week ago Wayne Newspapers carried a timely proclamation regarding safe and sane driving. It is this type of alertness on the part of officials plus cooperation from every citizen which reduces tragic deaths from automobile accidents. Surely everyone feels a sense of responsibility to help officials maintain order in traffic and in the prevention of all auto accidents.

Here's What's Wrong With This Country

By Charles M. Kelley

Below are two articles taken from the Labor Newspaper and the Industrial News Service. Both should be of interest. We recall the exodus, a few years ago of a number of Russian born citizens of Sioux City who had come to this country, accumulated what would be considered a small fortune in Russia, and going back in the high tide of Soviet utopiasims. All of those who could get back to the good old U. S. A. came back. Americans still have some advantages.

If there is any lingering doubt concerning what is wrong with this country, it should be removed by a report issued by the National Resources Committee, a government agency which has spent four years investigating every phase of our economic life.

To make a long story short, the report shows, in the most conclusive manner, that the concentration of wealth in a few hands has gone much farther than has generally been suspected.

During the year 1936, for example, the total income of 39,000,000 families and single individuals—called "consuming units"—was $59,000,000,000.

The poorest third of these consuming units received 10 per cent of this total—and that was about the same amount received by the richest one-half of one per cent at the top.

The poorer two-thirds received 34 per cent of the aggregate income—somewhat less than the highest 10 per cent.

In other words, the aggregate purchasing power of 65 per cent of all the people at the bottom of the scale was less than that of 10 per cent of the people at the other end.

Equally sensational was the report's blunt declaration that more than two-thirds of the people are compelled to get along on incomes so low that they do not cover the purchase of the barest necessities.

The report shows that one-third of all American families and consumers had incomes of less than $780 in 1936, one-half had less than $1,070, and two-thirds had less than $1,450.

Approximately nine-tenths of the consumers received less than $2,500. At the other end of the income ladder, the report shows that about 2 per cent of all consumer units received incomes of $5,000 or over, and less than 1 per cent received $10,000 and over.

The average income of the poorest 13,000,000 consuming units dropped to the tragically low figure of $471 a year. For the middle third of the nation the average was $1,076. And for the highest third the average was $3,000.

Read these figures again, for they show that two-thirds of the consuming units in this country have an average income of only $770 with which to purchase the products of our farms, mills and factories, to pay taxes, educate children, pay doctors' bills and meet other necessities.

The families and single individuals making up the poorest third of the nation with an average income of $471, were not a distinct or unusual group, the report pointed out. On the contrary, they included all types of consumers, living in all types of communities, and belonging to all of the major occupational groups—Labor.

Take Your Pick

Those who would overthrow or extensively change the capitalist system, use as their justification the common welfare—the well-being of the average man and woman.

In the light of that fact, some figures issued by the National Industrial Conference board concerning Russia, where practically all business is owned by the government, and where private capitalism is completely unknown, are of exceptional interest.

Based in terms of United States currency, the annual income of the average Soviet worker in 1937 was $582. In that year, 1937, if he lived in the typical city of Moscow, he would have had to pay $4.37 for a pound of coffee. A pound of tea cost $10.21. A pound of bacon cost $1.45. A pound of first quality butter cost $1.81. A pair of good leather shoes cost $34.85. A woolen sweater cost $41.80. A cheap cotton shirt cost $7.74. One yard of heavy woolen cloth cost $29.26. A single linen towel cost $1.88.

How did the worker buy these excessively priced commodities out of his pitifully small income? The answer is simple—he didn't. Things that are regarded as the commonest necessities of life by any workman in this country, are unobtainable luxuries to the Russian worker. The soviet standard of living is unbelievably low. As responsible journalists have written, housing conditions, save for one or two government projects which can accommodate but a handful of the nation's vast population, are extremely bad. Ordinary clothing is cheap and inadequate, and is made of substitutes for wool, linen and leather. Good food is unobtainable. The "luxuries" can be possessed only by government officials, officers and other members of the Soviet "aristocracy."

There's the difference between the average standard of living under capitalism and under communism or socialism. Take your pick.

Gaining on Death

During the first six months of this year, 3,670 automobile deaths were prevented in this country! That is based on a comparison of motor vehicle deaths in the first half of 1938 as against the same period in 1937. The decline in fatalities that began last November carried through encouragingly into July.

So far so good. But, as the National Safety Council points out, "This is no time to quit in our fight for safety. This is just the beginning." We've won a partial victory. Unremitting effort on the part of every motorist, pedestrian, traffic judge and law enforcement officer is needed if the victory is to be ultimately complete.

Some of the most dangerous driving months lie ahead. Traffic during September is always heavy. And with the coming of the rains, snow and ice, plus the shorter daylight hours of fall and winter, motoring presents new and difficult hazards. There will be no time for standing still and praising past achievements in safety, until December 31 has passed, and the figures are all in.

A saving of 3,670 lives is a magnificent thing. And it shows that traffic accidents, the pessimists to the contrary, can be sharply reduced. During the first half of this year, there was more and better organized community and state safety work than ever before. We have gradually learned that sporadic safety campaigns solve no problem, and that permanence and continuity of effort are vital. We are learning what courteous, "fixless" law enforcement can do. And we are also learning the excellent results that follow better traffic engineering and scientific traffic control.

PERSONALITIES IN MUSIC

CHARLES WAKEFIELD CADMAN, A.S.C.A.P.
From Indian to Modern Music

COMPOSER, pianist, educator and lecturer on Indian music, Charles Wakefield Cadman, A.S.C.A.P., holds a distinguished place in the roster of American composers.

Johnstown, Pa., saw him first, descendant of a long line of Revolutionary War patriots. His music life descends from great-grandfather Wakefield, builder of the Erie pipe organ west of the Alleghenies. He was church organist in Pittsburgh. Dispatch, director of music at the Wolcott Conservatory in Denver and the University of Southern California. Educated almost entirely by Pittsburgh music teachers.

His interest in Indian music took him to the reservations at Omaha and the Nebraska. Collaborates most frequently with Heide Richmond Elliott, A.S.C.A.P., with whom he composed "At Dawning," "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water," the grand opera "Shanewis" and many other works.

Performances by great symphony orchestras over large radio networks maintain his high standing in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP), which licenses his compositions for public performance for profit. He is also a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters and Doctor of Music at University of Southern California and Wolcott Conservatory of Music, Denver. Now resides in San Diego, California. His latest orchestral work, "Dark Dancers of the Mardi Gras," with Cadman as pianist, was played twice by the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and the New York Philharmonic.

Cadman says, "Only one-fifth of all Indian thematic material is valuable in the hands of a composer, and is suitable for harmonic investment."

Crop Insurance Queries Answered

"When does my insurance start?" is a question frequently put to T. P. Roberts, county crop insurance supervisor, by Wayne county wheat producers.

His reply is: "It has already started if your premium is paid and your crop is seeded. Your FCIC policy is 'right now' insurance covering all crop hazards beyond your own control. When I send in your application and you pay the premium specified in the notice that comes back, you get a policy that is in effect from planting to harvest."

"But this insurance isn't automatic. Just as the producer seeking insurance had to apply for it, he must also pay the premium in advance before it will start protecting his 1939 yields."

The county supervisor estimates that by midnight, August 31—the deadline for receiving applications—a total of 10 applications for 1939 wheat insurance had been written in this county. They would protect producers from losses on 179 acres. This protection covers damage from jack rabbits, grasshoppers, Hessian fly, chinch bugs, wind, flood, drought, rust or smut—any crop hazard the grower cannot control.

Nebraska was second in the nation in the number of applications submitted to the branch office of the Federal Crop Insurance corporation at Kansas City, according to a recent tabulation. Ohio was the only state which had submitted a larger number at that time.

Graduation Takes Several Stars, 11 "W" Men Return, Expect Large Squad

Pictures and scenes on this page will be familiar to many returning students at State Teachers College and will undoubtedly bring back many fond memories—to the many new students who have yet to learn about traditions and school spirit, these pictures will be of special interest. Eleven of the Wildcat football players on this page are former lettermen, several others were members of former football squads but were a few minutes short of winning the coveted "W" while the rest of those pictured here have completed their football and college days and are now carrying on in the world of affairs. State Teachers football squad was expected to double its number today as newly enrolled students drew equipment. Approximately 50 men are expected to be on the Wildcat squad when the maximum number have reported. Eleven lettermen reported to mentor Morrison and 25 men have practiced twice daily this week when practice sessions were reduced to the usual one a day schedule. Six of the lettermen have won "W" namely, Bradford, fullback; Lindahl, end; Huntermer, end; Raaz, end; Wehrer, quarterback, and Mullens, tackle. Goodell veteran guard lettered in '35, '36 and '37. Johns, guard, Johnson, center and Murray, halfback, are two year veterans. Hungerford returned to school this year and was on the squad as a halfback in '33. Prospects of last year who have been out the past week are Crawford, end, Garvin, quarterback, and Mitchell, tackle. Reeves, Peterson, Gailey and Hansen, former students are four more good prospects. New candidates who reported at the opening of practice are Dahn, Cisar, Charleson, Strom, Wallace and Keagle. As a whole the Wildcat squad is light, however it is evident that lack of weight handicaps will be overcome by finesse and aggressiveness. Extremely hot weather and unseasoned condition of players has kept work thus far at a somewhat slower pace than will be the rule from now on. Coach Morrison emphasized that the spirit and mental attitude of the squad was excellent and that the boys are hard workers, and were making progress on assimilating new formation, play and techniques. With less than two weeks left to prepare for Omaha University, intensive drills are in prospect in order to present a working combination. Omaha boasts of the best squad in the school's history and expect to increase their 20 to 6 defeat they handed the Wildcats a year ago. On the other hand the Wildcats feel that enough is enough and are going to Omaha to give the hilltoppers a busy time Sept. 24.

Wayne News

Issued Weekly

HOMER SMOTHERS and VERN C. BURRIS, Publishers
Homer Smothers, Editor V. C. Burris, Manager

Entered as second class matter in 1884 at the post office at Wayne, Nebraska, under the act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription Rates:
One Year $1.50 Six Months .75

Some of these days readers of this newspaper are going to learn that the News has a dual system of political philosophy. Since last November it has had two publishers. Burris who generally confines his talents to the mechanical side of the business is about ready to take active interest in the editorial phase. This is due to the logical reason that he desires to defend his political party and to challenge certain policies of the party generally defended and approved in these columns.

This step is not to be construed as a break in harmony of the Smothers-Burris combination but rather to evidence the fact that two persons of generally opposite political views can work side by side and still maintain independent views.

Burris' views cling to the conservative, thus running parallel to G. O. P. principals. While those of the writer are liberal and coincide more with the Democrat principals.

Generally speaking we keep right on working while debating our political differences but now and then explanations require the use of jestures and we must use our hands so in those instances, work must necessarily be delayed until one or the other of us is convinced, or the talk becomes exhausted, or discouraged, or runs out of arguments.

Burris' republicanism dates back to his birth while my democrat ideas go back only to the beginning of F. D. R's entry into the White House. Yes, Burris' republicanism goes back further than that. He will tell you when his grandfather marched with Sherman down to the sea with 50 thousand men, you bet, his grandfather was republican then and he is republican yet. All of which I think is no good reason until Burris begins quoting figures, programs, policies, etc., etc. He begins as every good republican does with Lincoln and the slaves. I counter with the suggestion that more whites were enslaved by the republican economic mismanagement than there were blacks who were freed by the Civil War. Then he will say wait until the '40's and you will really see economic enslavement. He is thinking about paying off the New Deal debt, regimentation, etc. All of which goes to show that an editorial approving or defending the democrats does not express the combined views of the publishers of the News. And the readers of the News are not all democrats therefore there is a dual reason for the expression of dual political views of the publishers.

There will be a practical side to this policy. Neither publisher will have to scan other papers to find something challenging to write about. All either of us will have to do is read each other's copy seize a typewriter, or linotype machine, answer or begof the other's arguments, put it in the same column and in the same edition of the paper. That's service readers don't often have. The suspense of waiting a week won't usually be necessary.

Imagine reading the editorials of the same paper, one headed, "Roosevelt Saves the Nation," and in the next editorial, "Roosevelt Ruins the Nation," both with equal sincerity and conviction.

Either publisher will have a ready tongue or hand to mention complimentary characteristics of the other until it comes to political views and then he will testify the other's is rotten. It will be democracy in the nude. The kind that everyone advocates but few practice.

Live Club Takes a Positive and Active Stand

The Young Businessmen's Club of Wayne is to be congratulated upon their active participation in the coming school bond election September 23. There will probably be other organizations which will follow the step taken by this group but it will be to the credit of the club that they were the first Wayne organization to take the initiative in this project.

Undoubtedly the influence of this group will have a potent effect upon declaiming factual information regarding the school situation. Members of the club will contact every Wayne home and present the needs, costs, and benefits of the school improvement program. To us this seems a statesmanlike approach and when this is accomplished no befogging of the issue will have influence. In the action taken by the Young Businessmen's club, we see a strong and influential organization shouldering a responsibility in a business-like manner.

Mayor Ringer Issues Timely Warning

A week ago Wayne Newspapers carried a timely proclamation regarding safe and sane driving. It is this type of alertness on the part of officials plus cooperation from every citizen which reduces tragic deaths from automobile accidents. Surely everyone feels a sense of responsibility to help officials maintain order in traffic and in the prevention of all auto accidents.

Here's What's Wrong With This Country

By Charles M. Kelley

Below are two articles taken from the Labor Newspaper and the Industrial News Service. Both should be of interest. We recall the exodus, a few years ago of a number of Russian born citizens of Sioux City who had come to this country, accumulated what would be considered a small fortune in Russia, and going back in the high tide of Soviet utopiasms. All of those who could get back to the good old U. S. A. came back. Americans still have some advantages.

If there is any lingering doubt concerning what is wrong with this country, it should be removed by a report issued by the National Resources Committee, a government agency which has spent four years investigating every phase of our economic life.

To make a long story short, the report shows, in the most conclusive manner, that the concentration of wealth in a few hands has gone much farther than has generally been suspected. During the year 1936, for example, the total income of 39,000,000 families and single individuals—called "consuming units"—was $59,000,000,000.

The poorest third of these consuming units received 10 per cent of this total—and that was about the same amount received by the richest one-half of one per cent at the top.

The poorer two-thirds received 34 per cent of the aggregate income—somewhat less than the highest 10 per cent.

In other words, the aggregate purchasing power of 65 per cent of all the people at the bottom of the scale was less than that of 10 per cent of the people at the other end.

Equally sensational was the report's blunt declaration that more than two-thirds of the people are compelled to get along on incomes so low that they do not cover the purchase of the barest necessities.

The report shows that one-third of all American families and consumers had incomes of less than $780 in 1936, one-half had less than $1,070, and two-thirds had less than $1,450.

Approximately nine-tenths of the consumers received less than $2,500. At the other end of the income ladder, the report shows that about 2 per cent of all consumer units received incomes of $5,000 or over, and less than 1 per cent received $10,000 and over.

The average income of the poorest 13,000,000 consuming units dropped to the tragically low figure of $471 a year. For the middle third of the nation the average was $1,076. And for the highest third the average was $3,000.

Read those figures again, for they show that two-thirds of the consuming units in this country have an average income of only $770 with which to purchase the products of our farms, mills and factories, to pay taxes, educate children, pay doctors' bills and meet other necessities.

The families and single individuals making up the poorest third of the nation, with an average income of $471, were not a distinct or unusual group, the report pointed out. On the contrary, they included all types of consumers, living in all types of communities, and belonging to all of the major occupational groups—Labor.

Take Your Pick

Those who would overthrow or extensively change the capitalist system, use as their justification the common welfare—the well-being of the average man and woman.

In the light of that fact, some figures issued by the National Industrial Conference board concerning Russia, where practically all business is owned by the government, and where private capitalism is completely unknown, are of exceptional interest.

Based in terms of United States currency, the annual income of the average Soviet worker in 1937 was $582. In that year, 1937, if he lived in the typical city of Moscow, he would have had to pay $4.37 for a pound of coffee. A pound of tea cost $10.21. A pound of bacon cost $1.45. A pound of first quality butter cost $1.81. A pair of good leather shoes cost $34.85. A woolen sweater cost $41.80. A cheap cotton shirt cost $7.74. One yard of heavy woolen cloth cost $29.26. A single linen towel cost $1.88.

How did the worker buy these excessively priced commodities out of his pitifully small income? The answer is simple—he didn't. Things that are regarded as the commonest necessities of life by any workman in this country, are untouchable luxuries to the Russian worker. The soviet standard of living is unbelievably low. As responsible journalists have written, housing conditions, save for one or two government projects which can accommodate but a handful of the nation's vast population, are extremely bad. Ordinary clothing is cheap and inadequate, and is made of substitutes for wool, linen and leather. Good food is unobtainable. The "luxuries" can be possessed only by government officials, officers and other members of the Soviet "aristocracy."

Gaining on Death

During the first six months of this year, 3,670 automobile deaths were prevented in this country! That is based on a comparison of motor vehicle deaths in the first half of 1938 as against the same period in 1937. The decline in fatalities that began last November carried through encouragingly into July.

So far so good. But, as the National Safety Council points out, "This is no time to quit in our fight for safety. This is just the beginning." We've won a partial victory. Unremitting effort on the part of every motorist, pedestrian, traffic judge and law enforcement officer is needed if the victory is to be ultimately complete.

Some of the most dangerous driving months lie ahead. Traffic during September is always heavy. And with the coming of the rains, snow and ice, plus the shorter daylight hours of fall and winter, motoring presents new and difficult hazards. There will be no time for standing still and praising past achievements in safety, until December 31 has passed, and the figures are all in.

A saving of 3,670 lives is a magnificent thing. And it shows that traffic accidents, the pessimists to the contrary, can be sharply reduced. During the first half of this year, there was more and better organized community and state safety work than ever before. We have gradually learned that sporadic safety campaigns solve no problem, and that permanence and continuity of effort are vital. We are learning what courteous, "fixless" law enforcement can do. And we are also learning the excellent results that follow better traffic engineering and scientific traffic control.

PERSONALITIES IN MUSIC

CHARLES WAKEFIELD CADMAN, A.S.C.A.P.

From Indian to Modern Music

COMPOSER, pianist, educator and lecturer on Indian music, Charles Wakefield Cadman, A.S.C.A.P., holds a distinguished place in the roster of American composers.

Johnstown, Pa., saw him first, descendant of a long line of Revolutionary War patriots. His music the descends from great-grandfather Wakefield, builder of the first pipe organ west of the Alleghenies. He was church organist in Pittsburgh music critic of the Pittsburgh Dispatch, director of music at the Wolcott Conservatory in Denver and the University of Southern California. Educated almost entirely by Pittsburgh music teachers.

His interest in Indian music took him to the reservations at Omaha and W. Leavenworth. Collaborates most frequently with Nellie Richmond Eberhart, A.S.C.A.P., with whom he composed "At Dawning," "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water," the grand opera "Shanewis" and many other works.

Performances by great symphony orchestras over large radio networks maintain his high standing in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP), which licenses his compositions for public performance for profit. He is also a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters, and Doctor of Music at University of Southern California and Wolcott Conservatory of Music, Denver. Now resides in San Diego, California. His latest orchestral work, "Dark Dancers of the Mardi Gras," with Cadman as pianist, was played twice by the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and the New York Philharmonic.

Cadman says, "Only one-fifth of all Indian thematic material is valuable in the hands of a composer, and is suitable for harmonic investment."

Crop Insurance Queries Answered

"When does my insurance start?" is a question frequently put to T. P. Roberts, county crop insurance supervisor, by Wayne county wheat producers.

His reply is: "It has already started if your premium is paid and your crop is seeded. Your FCIC policy is 'right now' insurance covering all crop hazards beyond your own control. When I send in your application and you pay the premium specified in the notice that comes back, you get a policy that is in effect from planting to harvest. "But this insurance isn't automatic. Just as the producer seeking insurance had to apply for it, he must also pay the premium in advance before it will start protecting his 1939 yields."

The county supervisor estimates that by midnight, August 31—the deadline for receiving applications—a total of 10 applications for 1939 wheat insurance had been written in this county. They would protect producers from losses on 179 acres. This protection covers damage from jack rabbits, grasshoppers, Hessian fly, chinch bugs, wind, flood, drought, rust or smut—any crop hazard the grower cannot control.

Nebraska was second in the nation in the number of applications submitted to the branch office of the Federal Crop Insurance corporation at Kansas City, according to a recent tabulation. Ohio was the only state which had submitted a larger number at that time.

PERSONALITIES IN MUSIC

JOHN TASKER HOWARD, A.S.C.A.P.

A Musical Nationalist

By Daniel I. McNamara

JOHN TASKER HOWARD, A.S.C.A.P., interpreter of current trends in American musical culture, occupies an outstanding position among contemporary men of music. Author, composer, pianist, lecturer, radio speaker, he constantly reveals a spirited nationalism born of pride in the achievements of native American musicians.

His zeal for historical accuracy has made him a storm-center of numerous controversies. It was his personal effort that finally settled the dispute over the birthplace of Stephen Foster, and indicated the restored musical shrine at Pittsburgh as the building that really cradled the great American composer. Similarly he dispelled the myth of Foster's having written "My Old Kentucky Home" in Bardonia, Kentucky.

His encyclopedic work, "Our American Music," and his biographies of Stephen Foster and of Ethelbert Nevin are permanent contributions to the library of American standard literature. His musical compositions include orchestral and choral music, organ and piano pieces, songs, the music for Percy Mackaye's folk-musque, "Wakefield," and many arrangements of early American songs used in his radio broadcasts and lectures.

Born November 30, 1890, in Brooklyn, New York, grand nephew of a namesake who founded Plymouth Church of Henry Ward Beecher fame, Howard first studied music with his mother. He left Williams College after three and one-half years, before he completed work for his Bachelor's degree. In 1917 the College conferred on him an honorary degree of Master of Arts.

Brief experience in commerce convinced Howard that music was his life work. He occupied editorial posts with musical publications, then began lecturing and radio work, and the writing of books and biographical pamphlets.

His "Our American Music" is a standard reference work in schools and colleges. His library in his Glen Ridge, New Jersey, home is rich with rare historical documents, bearing on the development of music in America.

Howard's enthusiasm for modern music is stimulated by his associations in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, of which he has been a member for many years. More than one thousand creators of music are included in this organization, founded in 1914 by Victor Herbert to protect the performing rights of its members' musical works.

Howard's writing and radio broadcasts are prepared with meticulous care. "Hard writing makes easy reading" is his motto. He has found that for each minute on the air, he spends an hour in preparation.

Howard has five enthusiasms—he lists his family first (he personally teaches his daughter piano); then come contract bridge, golf, crossword puzzles and his cocker spaniel, "Tucky," an abbreviation of "My Old Kentucky Home." But the driving force of his life is his nationalism, his work for recognition of American composers.

WORLD'S COAL WILL LAST 3,700 YEARS

But Slight Output Rise Would See End in 200 Years.

Geneva.—Man need not worry about a coal shortage before the year 5638.

An international labor office report on the world's coal industry says that if the future rate of extraction does not exceed the average of 1925-35, the world's supply of bituminous and anthracite coal will last at least another 37 centuries.

If, however, the extraction rate increases by 0.5 per cent annually, the report says, it will last only six centuries; while an annual increase of 2 per cent will exhaust it in 200 years. The proved, and probable, world reserves are estimated at 4,600,000 million metric tons.

The United States has the greatest reserves, estimated at 1,975,000 million metric tons (a metric ton is 2,204.6 pounds), with Soviet Russia second with 1,075,000 million metric tons, and Germany third with 289,000 million metric tons. Next in order come Canada, 285,000 millions; China, 220,000 millions; Great Britain, 200,000 millions; and Poland, 138,000 millions.

Based on the extraction average of 1925-35, Soviet Russia will outlast all competitors. Producing 30.3 million metric tons annually, its supply is good for another 35,478 years; or 1,037 years with an annual increase in the rate of extraction of 0.5 per cent, and 330 years with an annual increase of 2 per cent.

On the same reckoning the United States, extracting 535.3 million metric tons a year, has supplies for another 3,686 years; or 593 years with an increase of 0.5 per cent in the extraction rate, and 217 years with a similar increase of 2 per cent.

Tung Oil Industry, New in the South, Is on Boom

Washington.—A new industry, which is expected to bring over $20,000,000 annually to the South, is developing in the South. C. C. Concannon, chief of the Commerce department's chemical division said upon completion of a tour of the Gulf states.

Concannon reveals the 1938 crop is expected to yield approximately 20,000,000 pounds of tung nuts. This crop is equivalent to about 4,000,000 pounds of oil, which is less than 5 per cent of the American manufacturers' yearly requirements.

Tung oil is used in the manufacture of paints, varnishes, linoleums, oilcloths, printing inks and other products.

"The tung tree is not new to the South," Concannon explained. "A few experimental trees, 30 years of age, are still bearing in certain regions, but there are practically no groves of any consequence more than eight or nine years of age. The large majority of groves now properly planted and receiving adequate care are not yet of bearing age."

Concannon warned that much money has been squandered in the tung belt in ill-starred ventures.

Little Willie, who for some months had always ended his evening prayer with "Please send me a baby brother," announced to his mother that he was tired of praying for what he did not get and that he did not believe God had any more little boys to send.

Not long afterward he was carried into his mother's room very early in the morning to see his twin brothers, who had arrived during the night. Willie looked at the two babies critically, says the Indiana Farmer's Guide, and then remarked: "It's a good thing I stopped praying when I did."

Rev. I. N. Demy says: "I have found nothing in the past 20 years that can take the place of Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills. They are a sure relief for my headache."

Sufferers from Headache, Neuralgia, Toothache, Backache, Sciatica, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuritis, Muscular Pains, Periodic Pains, write that they have used Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills with better results than they had even hoped for.

Countless American housewives would no more think of keeping house without Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills than without flour or sugar. Keep a package in your medicine cabinet and save yourself needless suffering. At Drug Stores—25c and $1.00

Begin 4-H Lamb Feeding Project

For the second consecutive year, Wayne county 4-H club members have an opportunity to participate in a western lamb feeding project which culminates next winter with shows at Omaha and Sioux City.

Four-H clubbers entered in the project will finish to market condition and weight, western range-bred feeder lambs. The animals will be on feed not less than 75 days. Choice 55 to 65 pound feeder lambs uniform in type, weight and condition should be selected during the season from August to November when such lambs are on the markets.

In the winter shows, a club member may exhibit one pen of lambs which will consist of all the surviving lambs of the original 16 started on feed. Cash prizes and ribbons go to the winning exhibitors.

Certificate Deadline Under Present Law Set for Wednesday

Transcripts of credits have been sent to 170 former Wayne State Teachers college students who are applying for certificates under the present education law, the registrar's office announced today. The new certification law becomes effective Sept. 1. All transcripts must be on file in the state department of education by Wednesday to be certified under the present law.

Transcripts have been mailed to students residing in seven states besides Nebraska, which includes Iowa, Montana, North Dakota, Michigan, South Dakota, Minnesota, and Kansas.

Two important changes become effective under the new law. One change is that no longer will certificates be issued by the state department merely on record of college hours but upon completion of a specified teachers course. Also after Sept. 1, a life time certificate will not be issued to anyone unless they hold an A B degree. Prior to this time, two-year students could receive a permanent certificate.

Sorghum Harvesting Methods Outlined

With a greatly increased acreage of both forage and grain sorghums in Wayne county this year, farmers wondering how best to harvest the crop for grain are informed this week that there is not any single method recommended. This is due to varying factors.

Several methods are considered most practical, according to Agricultural Agent Walter L. Moller. They include cutting with a binder, shocking in the field and leaving the grain there until thoroughly cured, then threshing; heading by hand or with machinery and threshing; or combining.

Cutting with a binder saves the sorghum grain in the highest degree of quality possible and also conserves roughage. A corn binder is used normally but if the crop is stunted or the variety normally short, a grain binder can be used.

Combining is usually not recommended because the crop must be left standing until the plants have been killed by frost and have had time following freezing to dry thoroughly. In addition, the combine has certain limitations. It can be used only with the shorter varieties that are lodge-resistant.

Agronomists at the Nebraska college of agriculture say that either Early Kalo or Sooner Milo, which are the most widely grown grain varieties, are adapted to combining. They can be combined when conditions are just right but in most instances the plants lodge before they are dry enough for combining.

Star Editor to Speak at Field Day

J. E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star, will be headline speaker at the Nebraska National Forest's annual field day and picnic on Sept. 18. He will speak about conservation of natural resources and reforestation.

Meanwhile plans are going forward for accommodating a big crowd at Halsey where the forest is located. There visitors will be able to inspect some 33,000 successfully planted acres of trees in the heart of the sandhills. Guided trips through the forest will be held throughout the day.

MUFFLER NEEDED

Clerk—Your wife just phoned that you must come home at once, as the gas is escaping.

Employer—Tell her to stop talking until I get there.

Wow! Mrs. Fiery was born with a temper like gunpowder. "Tell me, dear," said her husband, after one of her outbursts, "how it was I never discovered this unhappy weakness of yours during our courtship days? However did you restrain yourself?"

"Well," replied his wife, "I used to go upstairs and bite pieces out of the top of the oak dressing-table."—Stray Stories Magazine.

Appropriate Aviator (entering clothing store)—I'd like some flying clothes.

Bright Clerk—O. K. We'll start you off with a wing collar.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Forgetfulness Host—So you did get here tonight after all?

Absent-minded Professor—Yes, I meant to forget to come, but I forgot to forget it.—Boy's Life.

YOU can do the same!

"We got a telephone because we thought it would help us make more money and it certainly has."

"We sell baled hay and do custom baling and the telephone more than pays for itself by saving trips and money."

A telephone makes and saves many times over the few cents a day you pay for it. And it brings you many other benefits—visits with friends and relatives whenever you wish—protection for your property and family—peace of mind from knowing help can be called quickly in case of fire, sickness or accident.

If you don't have a telephone, write us or when you are in town drop in the telephone office for information about the service.

 Don't Neglect Them!
 Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter. The kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.
 When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, acidic urine, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.
 Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.
 The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste.
