

Wayne On Parade

"WAYNE STUDENTS SNUB FLAG CEREMONY, SCORED BY TEACHER", so blared the sensational Page 1 headlines of one of the leading state papers Monday night. The sub-head to the story added "Legionnaire Professor Rebukes Stay-Aways, Letter Draws Student Reply". Near the end of the story, the reader learns that the incident is now considered closed, and, if he has not been misled by headlines, he will have previously concluded that the story is played far beyond its value from a news standpoint. We attended the ceremony and do not consider that college students intended to "snub" it. A large number attended; most of the others probably had no thought of snubbing the event. That is entirely a matter of opinion and apparently one of the professors decided otherwise. His letter of protest to the students was answered by an unsigned mimeographed letter, which should never have been printed nor circulated as it magnified the incident far beyond its importance and led to the unfavorable publicity for the college. This can hardly be excused on the plea of youthful thoughtlessness, but should be blamed on the one or two responsible, not on the college, the student body nor the school officials.

Probably no building in Wayne serves the community as well or as often as the excellent $85,000 auditorium, which houses a variety of attractions throughout the year. Few will deny its construction was money well spent; it has helped make this city the center for both county and district sport events and attractions of all types.

Combined with the auditorium has been the friendly spirit of local citizens, which is winning for Wayne an excellent reputation as a host. If you doubt it, just notice that Class B teams in recent years have selected Wayne almost unanimously as their host for their annual tournament. Continuation of such a friendly welcome, combined with the excellent facilities now available here, will also make Wayne convention headquarters for many northeastern Nebraska organizations. And conventions, tournaments and the like are of great value to any town.

Roof repairing firms will probably do a lucrative business in Wayne when the snow finally clears away.

The melting snow revealed all the defects in roofs by seeping through holes and flowing down walls or dripping from the ceiling. As a result, several local business men received an excellent workout the other morning shoveling snow off their roofs to avert a flood below. It may be good exercise but it can hardly be classed as the type of amusement which bears much repetition.

Aside to the Wayne college student, who mailed an unsigned letter to the News last week assailing one of your school officials for what you consider an unjust group reprimand—we have no doubt that many other students agree with you. We agree to the extent that we seriously question the wisdom of the professor's action in the matter. At the same time, we do not print unsigned letters although

Debaters To Semi-Finals

Larson Wins
High Rating;
Meet Here Slated

Winning eight straight debates, the Wayne high school debate team composed of Kenneth Gamble and Ray Larson won its way into the semi-finals of the Hastings college invitational debate tournament last Friday and Saturday before being eliminated.

The Wayne debaters defeated such outstanding teams as the Geneva high school debaters, who the week previous had gone to the finals of the Doane tournament where they were beaten by Hastings. Hastings won from Grand Island in the other bracket of the Hastings tournament and was slated to meet Lincoln in the finals.

Other teams entered in this tournament were Beatrice, Kear-

Bond Issue Scrap Blocks Improvement

Delay May Result Of Loss
Of Federal Aid

The court battle over the $48,000 bond issue for the improvement program at the Wayne school continued last week with the filing of briefs in the supreme court by C. H. Hendrickson. The issue is scheduled to be used with a government grant of $39,150 for remodeling the old building and the erection of an addition.

As the bond issue has been upheld in the district court, school authorities are confident of a similar ruling by the supreme court but the appeal will undoubtedly delay construction for many months. The bonds have been sold, but a clause in the sale permits the purchaser to refuse them providing they are in litigation. Whatever action may be taken by the bond purchaser, school board members are naturally hesitant to go ahead with the project under the circumstances.

Much Money Spent
Considerable money has been spent already on the project, which, should it finally be blocked, would be virtually a complete loss to the school district. Plans have been drawn, a part of the excavation work has been completed, legal notices published, the cost of which must be added to the expense of conducting the bond issue election. Legal defense of the bond issue is another item of expense, which continues to mount.

School authorities are also fearful that the continued delay may force the district to sacrifice PWA assistance, since speed is demanded in work on government works projects.

Meanwhile, Wayne pupils continue to attend school in a building entirely inadequate. A brief inspection tour of the building would convince the most economically minded of the need of improved facilities. It is a debatable question whether or not the structure is actually safe, served as it is with huge boilers under classrooms and with little protection against fire. Frequent fire drills are held as a precaution, but a fireproof building, such as the improvement project would assure, is needed for adequate protection.

Efficiency Suffers
Small classrooms are crowded and sufficient space is not available for the most efficient arrangement of the classes. Toilet facilities are entirely inadequate for the student body. Even the only auditorium which the building affords does not have sufficient seating capacity for all the high school students.

Plans for the improvement and rearrangement of the old structure and for the addition were described by Superintendent E. W. Smith last week. The small rooms will be enlarged to accommodate the larger classes and classes will be shifted so that all the high school students are on a separate floor. Both the old and the new sections of the building will be made fireproof as nearly as possible. Sufficient space for the science classes to carry on their work will be provided along with a gymnasium and auditorium large enough to accommodate the student body. The present auditorium will be divided into a study room and a library. A new modern heating plant will be installed outside the building, thereby eliminating the hazards of the present arrangement.

One of the excellent improvements to be included will be the new kindergarten rooms, which will occupy a special section of the structure, located in a convenient place for children entering school for the first time. But all these improvements must await the pleasure of the supreme court and the settlement of the bond issue battle.

Boy Born
To Wightmans

A seven and three quarter pound boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Don Wightman Saturday night. Mrs. Wightman is the daughter of E. W. Huse, editor of the Wayne Herald. She is a graduate of the Wayne State Teachers' college.

Today's Topic

Is C. Of C. Secretary Needed Here?

Miss Verna Elefson—"If Wayne does organize a chamber of commerce, there should be an authorized man at the head, so the public would know who to contact".

F. G. Dale—"I think there is a place for a paid Chamber of Commerce secretary because there is a need for a definite localization of interest. At the present time, the activities of Wayne are more or less decentralized and widespread".

Miss Arlie Sutherland—"Where I have seen a Chamber of Commerce in operation, it has been the practice to hire someone to be the secretary. This person must be mature enough to carry on the work for the Chamber without supervision. It is necessary for this person to be able to do the work which is connected with publicity".

"It might be that there would not be enough work to occupy such a person for the full day and it might be that such an office could be kept open just afternoons and Saturdays. It might be possible to combine such an office with work similar to that of a public stenographer. It would hardly be advisable to combine such an office with another business, for it then would become a question as to which one would suffer. It might very well be the best interests of the Chamber of Commerce which would be neglected.

H. E. Siman—"If a Chamber of Commerce is to function properly, the duties of a secretary in a town of this size would be so numerous that no one could afford to attend to the duties of the organization properly without compensation. There must

Club Hears Talk On Park

Professor Is Speaker At Kiwanis Meeting

Professor John A. Moore, botany instructor at the Wayne State Teachers college, gave an interesting address on Yellowstone National Park as the feature of the luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club Monday at the Stratton hotel.

Spicing his talk with humor, Professor Moore described the geysers, falls, lakes and river, which attract thousands of visitors every year. The speaker served two summers as government naturalist assigned to the park and included interesting incidents from his experiences during that time in his talk.

The educator also told of the animals which are protected by the government and many of which are so tame that they approach the visitor without fear. He said that he found the bears the most interesting.

Dean Engstrom of the state agricultural college and Harry Gould were guests of the club and made a few remarks. Two former superintendents of school as well as the present head of the institution were among the nine guests. They are John Kemp, who served as school superintendent in Wayne nearly 30 years ago, and Ted Hook, who later held the same office. Club singing was led by William Beckenhauer.

Bowlers Score
On Fried Chicken

More than two score members of bowling teams made hundreds of chickens, the fried variety, disappear with even greater rapidity than they knock down pins and chalk up strikes Monday night. Pete Petersen, who operates the Petersen Pool Hall and Bowling Alley, was host to the members of the bowling teams at a big 'feed' in the old City hall, which extended far into the night.

These bowling parties are held several times each year and their popularity is demonstrated by the fact that they are attended nearly 100 per cent by the bowlers.

New College Building To Provide Jobs

Local PWA Workers Will Be Employed

Work on the new $100,000 student-faculty building at Wayne State Teachers college is expected to get underway during the next 10 days as soon as a work order is issued by the district PWA officials.

As the contracts provide for the use of local PWA labor whenever possible, the project will furnish employment for a large number of laborers in Wayne and vicinity who are now on the work relief rolls.

Bids Let
Some excavation work for the structure which will be erected on the west side of the cafeteria building has already been done and contracts were let at a meeting of the state board of education at Lincoln Monday. Dr. J. T. Anderson, president of the college, attended the opening of bids.

Bids were let as follows: General contract, J. L. Soderberg, Omaha, $77,309; plumbing and heating, W. G. Volkman, Norfolk, $12,577; electric, Rapid Electric company, Rapid City, S. D., $3,065.

Ready In September
The building is to be completed and ready for use by next September.

Basement of the new structure will be devoted to recreation rooms. Student organization offices, a student lounge and post-office sub-station will occupy the first floor of the west wing. The upper floor will include rooms for girls in the east wing and the north and west wings of the top floor will be converted into apartments for members of the faculty and a faculty lounge. There will be both single and double apartments.

The government grant provides $44,370 of the cost, which had to be altered somewhat due to minor changes in plans, and the remainder will be borrowed. Rentals will pay in time for the cost of the building.

County May Obtain Soil
Conservation Camp

Wayne county may obtain a soil conservation control demonstration camp, providing proper co-operation is obtained from the farmers of this county, it was indicated Monday when Dean Engstrom of the state agricultural college and Frank Gould stopped here en route to O'Neill.

Application was made a year ago by some of Wayne county's leaders for an erosion and flood control project, but at that time no CCC camp was available and hopes for such a project in this county were virtually abandoned.

However, it was indicated Monday that if sufficient interest is shown now in the project, which would be of great value to farmers throughout the county, such a camp may be obtained for this county in the near future.

135 Attend
Story Hour

About 115 children and 20 adults attended the story hour for children at the city library Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. H. E. Ley was in charge and she illustrated the stories of "Little Black Sambo" and "Ferdinand the Bull".

Peoples Party Picks Nominees For School Board, City Council

L. W. McNatt And Dr. Perry Chosen For School Board; Miller, Dr. Gillespie
And Carl Wright For Councilmen

The People's party nominated its ticket for the coming school board and city council election Monday night at a convention in the City hall, which was well attended, considering the storm, and at meetings in the three wards.

L. W. McNatt and Dr. L. F. Perry were selected at the convention as the party's entries in the school board races for the positions now held by Edward Seymour and B. W. Wright, whose terms expire in May.

Councilmen Nominees

Nominees for the three city council posts, which must be filled at the election April 4, follow:

First Ward—Walter Miller, incumbent.

Second Ward—Dr. J. T. Gillespie. William Perdue is the present second ward councilman.

Third Ward—Carl Wright. Elmer E. Galley is the present third ward councilman.

Selection of Walter Miller, popular veteran councilman, as the People's party nominee may result in the elimination of any contest in this ward as it had been predicted previously that Mr. Miller would be the likely selection of the Citizen's party for the post. He has been the successful nominee of the Citizen's party for several terms.

Contests in some of the other races may also be eliminated through the selection of the same candidate by both parties, but it is believed likely that a second nominee will be chosen in most races by the Citizen's party, which will hold its convention Wednesday night at the old City hall.

All Prominent

All candidates of the People's party are prominent Wayne citizens and should be popular entries, although the Citizen's party is the oldest of the two local groups and has usually elected its candidates in the past.

Several of the incumbents, elected previously on the Citizen's ticket, are considered likely entries of that party in the coming election.

Burr Davis was elected chairman of the People's party at the convention and Leslie Ellis was chosen as secretary.

Local Youths To Boys State

Four To Be Sent By Post
Of Legion

Four Wayne boys will be sent to Boys' State at Lincoln this year, by the Irwin Sears post of the American Legion. The boys have not been selected yet but applications for the Cornhusker Boys' State will go out to local posts soon, according to Department Adjutant R. C. Patterson. Patterson represented Nebraska at the fourth annual Boys' State conference held at national headquarters, Feb. 5.

The number of boys who will be enrolled from 20 states attending the conference in Indianapolis this month, has been estimated at 15,000, as compared with 9,000 in 1938. Approximately 50 interested Legionnaires attended this conference at which plans for this year's series of citizenship training courses were outlined.

The boys from Wayne who attended Boys' State at Lincoln last June are Herbert Welch, Roy Coryell and Junior Ray Larson. Part of the day was spent in study and the remainder in recreation. The boys were divided into even numbers to represent political parties. The candidates were installed in office after election. They were taken to different offices in Lincoln according to the positions held. All were required to study about the city, county and state government.

Some of the boys selected for this year's Boys' State may be chosen from those attending last year to act as leaders of the group.

Mrs. S. T. Rockwell was in Norfolk Wednesday on business.

Mrs. Will Roe was a Tuesday afternoon visitor at the Dean Hanson home.

Planning Board For County Seen

Unit To Help
Promote Better
Farm Conditions

Plans are being made for the organization of a Wayne county planning board in the near future similar to the boards which have been formed recently in many other Nebraska counties to handle their local agricultural problems.

Organization of the Wayne board has been delayed somewhat due to the fact that they are usually set up under the direction of the county agricultural agent. Wayne does not have such a farm agent at present and unless one is employed soon, the planning board will be organized in this county by the district extension agent, Robin Spence.

One of the chief functions of such a board is to prepare recommendations in various counties to help promote better agricultural conditions and practices which will increase the income of farm families and improve their standard of living.

After the board is organized, sub-committees will be selected, most important of which is the county land use committee, which will compile and present statistical and technical information to the planning board. This committee is composed largely of farmers and in counties, having an agricultural agent, the latter serves as secretary for the various federal, state and county agencies. Members of civic organizations participate in many places as ex-officio members.

In many counties, where such boards have been organized, an excellent response from the farmers has been reported.

Officials Are Elected At
Day Of Prayer

New officials were elected to serve the coming year at the Woman's World Day of Prayer, held Friday at St. Paul church in Wayne. They were: president, Mrs. Carlos Martin; vice president, Mrs. Fred Blair; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Claude Wright.

A good attendance was reported. The meeting opened at 10:30 in the morning. About 50 women brought their lunch at noon and the hostess church served coffee.

The meeting re-opened at 1:30 p. m. Fern Crawford played a violin solo, accompanied at the piano by Lois Thompson. Verona Halbeck and Lois Thompson sang "Sweet Hour of Prayer" accompanied at the piano by Fern Crawford. Rev. Pearson and Rev. Whitman each gave short talks. The women took part in the program of prayer as outlined.

Dead Trees
Being Replaced

The streets of Wayne should have a more attractive appearance this spring, judging from the splendid work being done by the WPA, in trimming up old trees. Wherever branches are found that are cumbersome or dead, they are cut off and hauled away.

New shade trees will replace the dead trees which are being cut down. Planting will take place as soon as advisable in the spring.

Death Claims Mrs. Brisben Late Sunday

Funeral For Prominent City
Woman Wednesday

Mrs. J. M. Brisben, prominent resident of Wayne, died in a Norfolk hospital late Sunday after a two weeks illness with pneumonia and complications. Efforts of her many friends in Wayne to save her life through blood transfusions proved vain although she rallied for a time following the transfusions.

A resident of Wayne county since her birth 39 years ago, Mrs. Brisben leaves hundreds of friends throughout the county, who mourn her death. She was a prominent member of the Eastern Star, Legion Auxiliary and the Fortnightly club.

Funeral Wednesday
Funeral services will be held at the Methodist church, of which Mrs. Brisben was a member, at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Carl G. Bader, pastor, will conduct the services and Beckenhauer's are in charge of arrangements. Burial will be in the Greenwood cemetery.

Otto Olson furnished blood for a transfusion on Monday last week. Mrs. Brisben rallied for a time but her condition again became more serious and Wednesday night it was found necessary to give her another transfusion.

Mrs. Frank Heine furnished blood for the second transfusion. Besides Mrs. Heine and Mr. Olson, the others from Wayne who went to Norfolk for blood tests to check for type were Fred Charles, George and Frank Baird, C. E. Nicholas, C. A. Orr, F. A. Mildner, Frank Heine, Lloyd Fitch, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Renard, Mrs. A. L. Jacobsen, V. S. Bressler, Mrs. R. F. Jacobs, Mrs. J. C. Johnson, Miss Margaret Day, Ernest Splittgerber, Alonzo Soden, Gene, Russell, Kenneth and Hershel Baird.

Born In County
Mrs. Brisben, nee Florence Baird, was 39 years of age at the time of her death. She was born in Wayne county and lived here all her life. She was a graduate of the Wayne high school and the Wayne State Teachers' College.

Her husband, John Brisben, died two years ago. He was buried April 7, 1937. Her father, James Baird, died April 27, 1938, and a brother, Harry Baird, died Jan. 17, 1938.

Mrs. Brisben leaves two children, John, 5 years of age, and survivors are Mrs. James Baird, her mother, who lives in Wayne and three brothers, George, Fred and Charles Baird.

Snow Storm
Invades County

Just as the heaviest snow of the year was rapidly disappearing in Wayne county under a warm sun Sunday, another snow storm and cold wave invaded this section of Nebraska Monday morning. Snow continued at intervals throughout the day and last night but was not heavy enough to arouse any fears of blocked highways.

Many of the roads in the county have been difficult to travel the past few days, however, as the melting snow left them muddy.

Acrobatics were a popular form of entertainment over the weekend in Wayne. A film of snow just deep enough to lead the unwary pedestrian to leave him to the mercy of the icy walks beneath has caused many falls. No serious accidents have been reported.

February Relief
Funds Received

The amount received by the county treasurer's office for the relief fund for the month of February, follows: State old age assistance—$1679.69; Federal old age assistance—$1660.88; State blind relief—$23.45; Federal blind relief—$23.19; state child welfare assistance—$519.50; federal child welfare assistance—$259.75.

More On Co-operation

Greater co-operation for the benefit of the community is the dominant need in Wayne, replies to that query in 'Today's Topic' column of last week's News reveal.

Five of the dozen persons interviewed mentioned co-operation among the city's greatest needs and countless others have expressed the same opinion elsewhere. Victories are never won by armies whose ranks are torn by conflict and controversy. This country has led the world in progress largely because the states and the citizens within those states have co-operated. These sound trite because we all agree.

No sales talk on co-operation should be needed. We have heard it lauded on numerous occasions and virtually everyone agrees on its importance and benefits. In short, conversationally, we are all willing to co-operate. The trouble is that most of us are prone to preach rather than practice co-operation. It's fine, for the other fellow, or when co-operation pays us dividends in the form of money, political prestige or an advantage over our competitor.

Granting that we are selfish and that most of us must see some return for our investment in co-operation, the type of united community activity which is particularly needed not only in Wayne but also in the majority of cities will pay that type of dividends both directly and indirectly.

For example, Wayne could be a much more important trading center than it is today. It could serve its trade territory better through the sponsorship of annual or even monthly entertainments, which should in most cases be free of charge. The cost would be small; the good will returns would be great.

Merchants could and should co-operate on Dollar Day events and similar trade building practices which will expand this city's trade territory. They would benefit directly and the city of Wayne would reap indirect rewards. The combined pulling power of all stores is naturally many times greater than that of one individual enterprise.

The complaint which is commonly advanced everywhere as the barrier to such events is that a few are forced to carry the load. It will always be so. A few carry the burden of nearly every beneficial activity; the other share to a lesser extent in its benefits. But if even a fair percentage of the business houses take the leadership and keep the welcome sign out for all to join, it will not take long for the majority to march along. Some will always lag, but they should not set the pace for the community as a whole.

Organization of a Chamber of Commerce or expansion of the activities of the Wayne Men's club to include more ambitious projects, which could be financed reasonably, would be another step in the right direction.

There are many other advances which might be made if minor disputes and clashes could be forgotten in the interest of the city's future.

Instead of just giving lip service to co-operation, and we are obviously guilty of the charge, let's try pulling the load together. We will travel faster that way.

Poor Uncle Sam

Poor Mr. Average American Worker, who is pitted by the government-dominated German press in frequently published articles about want and starvation in America, is strangely enough receiving far more for his labor even today than his brothers in Germany and elsewhere.

A survey by Paul Mallon, who spent months carefully investigating, reveals that in Russia the average worker gets $11 a week and in Germany he gets $12 to $15. But, in poor old United States, he gets $23.32.

Even the lowest paid worker in this country gets $4.85, the WPA minimum, while those in the same class in Russia receive only $3.60 and, under Hitler's dictatorial rule, the German gets $4.25.

But total pay tells only a part of the story. What really counts is what the pay check represents in terms of what it will buy. The dictators' slaves were found to be at even a greater disadvantage here. A pound of steak, which brings about 38 cents here, costs a dollar or more in either Russia or Germany. A pound of coffee, which costs 23 cents here, brings $12 in Russia and $1.25 in Germany. Eggs sell at $1.26 a dozen in Russia and 72 cents in Germany.

So poor old Uncle Sam is still the best guardian of his children after all from the standpoint of both human liberties, which help spell happiness, and prosperity as represented in worker's wages.

Wayne College Grows

Another step toward construction of the new student-faculty activities building at Wayne Teachers college was taken at Lincoln Monday, February 20, when bids were opened on the various contracts. Work will start as soon as the WPA regional office has approved the bids.

Wayne's college has taken advantage of the various public works programs to construct buildings long needed if the college is to continue to serve an increasing number of students, living in this section of the country. Many of these students would be denied an opportunity for a college education without this expansion program. The largest freshman class in the college's history this year supplies ample evidence of the need and the wisdom of those who are keeping the institution advancing.

As Wayne Teachers college grows, Wayne will also grow. Its benefits to the city cannot be denied and its continued growth in enrollment and facilities for improved courses help assure the city's future.

Civic Clubs Help

Wayne's civic organizations are contributing generously to the city's growth as shown in the series of articles being published in the News reviewing their past progress and relating their plans for the future.

Particularly active among these groups are the local post of the Legion and the Legion Auxiliary. The benefits of their activities have not been limited to their membership but, in many cases, have included those who need help throughout this community. To such organizations as these, all of our citizens owe a debt of gratitude, which may be paid most effectively by assisting their projects for community benefit whenever possible.

A Debt Due

The Hoffman brothers, Walter and William, who are probably the world champion breeders of prize winning cattle, deserve recognition as leaders in the livestock industry in this section of Nebraska. Those who show the champions win wide acclaim, which should at least be shared by the livestock men who spend years of labor carefully developing these superior animals.

There are hundreds of other livestock men in Wayne county, who while not as successful in the breeding of champions, are the substantial residents who contribute to the prosperity of the towns throughout this section of Nebraska. In fact, it is the farmers and livestock men, who make such cities as Wayne possible.

Wayne owes them a debt of gratitude and recognition for their efforts, which should never be forgotten. As they prosper, so will Wayne. Their welfare should be as much a concern of Wayne's citizenry as is that of local industries, which also serve this section. Joint meetings of business men and livestock men would be mutually beneficial.

OUR OWN BIG BERTHA!

What Editors Say--

That School Fund Bill

Among legislative bills which have found their way into the Unicameral hopper at Lincoln since the beginning of the present session is that providing for the use of school funds for the purchase of fair-ground debentures of the Nebraska state fair. Passage of the measure would be an unfortunate day for the schools of the state.

Under terms of legislative bill No. 158, refunding bonds or debentures issued by the State Board of Agriculture shall be deemed eligible as legal investments of school funds by the Board of Educational Lands and Funds. The revised section relating to investment of such school funds would permit investment in United States or state securities, registered county bonds in the counties of Nebraska, registered school district bonds of school districts in the state, as well as other well-protected investments.

In addition to this list, the funds might be invested in registered bonds or debentures issued by the State Board of Agriculture "to refund the indebtedness due, but not in excess thereof, on the Nebraska State Fair Grandstand debentures."

On the face, the measure might appear harmless enough since it merely "permits" purchase of the fair debentures. However, the state fair board in the past has been able to exert terrific pressure in many ways and it is only reasonable that those protecting school funds should look askance on this possibility as foreboding a future which would bring about such an investment.—Madison Star-Mail.

Education Via "Pickaback"

High college students who find it impossible to secure a college education may someday realize their dreams in a new education by remote control plan. It has been titled the "Pickaback" plan by educators of an eastern university.

Education passes from the professor to the college student (with the least possible effort on the part of either, as some say) and the college student in turn transfers his training to non-enrolled high school students. One hundred undergraduates serve on a "faculty" and conduct informal classes each week to the "pickaback non-collegians."

This new move deserves recognition. Right now it is said that ninety percent of the parents want their children to have a college education. Less than ten percent get to the higher halls of learning. Many of the enrolled students majoring in technique of teaching courses will welcome the idea as well as the students. It gives the instructor a chance to get actual knowledge in the same manner that practice teaching in actual classes gives practical knowledge.

Not only that, but word from Washington indicates that the National Youth Administration (N.Y.A.) regards the plan in a favorable light.

In a year or so, one may see a great number of the unfortunate 90 percent enrolled as "pickaback" students.—Cedar County News.

The Game Of Maps

One of the most fascinating modern pastimes, one that is educational as well as entertaining, like Chinese checkers, only much more stimulating, is the game of maps. The equipment is a globe and a tapeline or a map and a ruler. The globe is to be preferred unless the map used is properly corrected to account for the curvature of the earth.

The purpose of the game is to determine, by examination of the globe, the motives of the men who are active in world affairs today. It is really much simpler than it might seem at first glance.

For instance, as was pointed out recently, a brief study of the map of the Mediterranean area gives some hint concerning Mussolini's motives in his move to take Tunisia. That French territory juts out into the sea in the direction of Sicily in a surprising manner. It is separated from Sicily, Italian territory, by only a few miles of open sea, and almost midway between lies an Italian island. If Italy controlled Tunisia Mussolini would be the gate keeper of a barrier across the British life line from England to the far east. This gap is no Gibraltar, by any means, but it is small in terms of planes and submarines and fast torpedo boats and might be difficult to penetrate if Mussolini opposed.

But turn to a fresh field for playing the map game. Turn to a map of the Red Sea. Note the southern extremity of that sea, how the entrance is very narrow, only a few miles. If Mussolini controlled Djibuti and that portion of French Somaliland between Djibuti and Italian Somaliland, he would control the point of land opposite Aden which virtually commands the entrance to the Red sea.

England could keep its Suez and Gibraltar if Mussolini controlled the mouth of the Red sea. A few guns and planes could make it impossible to pass out of or into that sea on the route from England to India.

The map game explains many things. Its fascination grows with familiarity. One never quite realizes how weak he is on geography until he starts playing this game.—Lincoln Journal Star.

There is a small percentage of people in this country who are not certain they know exactly how a newspaper should be run. They are the ones who are running the newspapers.—Omaha World-Herald.

cepting only my wife and my mother".

The twenty-four page story carries excerpts from a number of "Father White's" well known classics. There is included Mr. White's "Thoughts of Sixty-Five". Upon that occasion he wrote: "I seem to be proud today of my constancy", and he adds: "I was born in the town where I live. I work day after day about 500 feet from my birthplace. I have lived only in five towns, Emporia, Eldorado, Lawrence, Topeka and Kansas City. I have lived in one ward for thirty-eight years, in one house for nearly thirty-four years. I have had one political party, barring the Bull Moose detour, and have lived in one church, with one wife. And so far as I know every friend of my childhood who is living is my friend today. I have never had a major quarrel with anyone, and I am not conscious of having an enemy. No one ever tried to do me wrong. No one ever betrayed me, nor so far as I know ever tried to hurt me or swindle me. I have found humanity good with much more that was fine than was false. We all have weaknesses. But I have figured that others have put up with mine so tolerably that I would be much less than fair not to make a reasonable discount for theirs."

"There's a lily statement that no one can gild!

No biographical sketch of a living man has been penned, to my knowledge, that is superior to the booklet "Father White at Seventy-One". It tells the intimate story of a good and brave man, but does not try to advance him to premature sainthood. It fills in a few faults to clear him of such a charge as a pean of praise.

In the final estimate of results the employes of "Father White" are described: "Every man Jack of the vast army who has worked for him at one time or another, excepting a few dwarfed, crabbed souls, would gladly follow him to hell and enjoy the trip" writes Mr. Hinchshaw.

There is zip and go and a tremendous lot of "human interest" in the story as is attested by the fact that your correspondent read it on a train and failed to realize that it had stopped at Washington until the friendly conductor gave me a personal reminder, and I heard him say, "Washington, everybody gets off here!"

Flying High

The National Administration is giving aid and support to everything connected with aviation. Of course the movement is being aided by the new preparedness movement so that we will be ready to go when the "next world war" opens, and keep Europe's boasted democracies from being smashed. France is buying hundreds of American planes for the coming fight.

Who Shall Judge?

In 1916 Woodrow Wilson appointed Louis D. Brandeis to the Supreme Court. Brandeis wasn't very prominent. In Washington he was spoken of as "The People's Lawyer", a term applied to him because he appeared as the champion of persons and organizations that were poor of purse. Brandeis was one of the socially-minded reformers who yearned to help his fellowmen. He might be compared to Secretary of Labor Perkins, or Harry Hopkins, who have been pulled off the bottom of the social-service pack and had their faces lifted until they are now Queen and King in the deck.

Brandeis' appointment was bitterly attacked throughout the country and he was called a "radical" and a Jew. He was guiltless of the first charge—guilty as a Jew.

After 22 years service on the bench he resigns at the age of 82, and all his countrymen acknowledge that he has been one of the greatest of all our judges.

Balance The Scales Of Justice. The LaFollette Civil Liberties committee of the senate which has moved mountains of testimony, brings forth the mousey suggestion to outlaw labor espionage.

The Dies committee would deport Bridges. That might help a little.

What this country needs most is no longer "a good 5 cent cigar", or a lot more penalties to cure simple matters of misbehavior among employes, or radical leaders like Bridges.

We need fair-and-square laws—equally fair to "all sides", and to all classes. Only laws that will balance in the scales of justice are what are wanted.

The Automobile Unloun. The wide-open break in the automobile union leaves Homer Martin, who was the leading spirit in the sitdown strikes on the outskirts. He has even solicited the support of the A.F. of L.

There will be two conventions and a big split in the automobile union, no matter which way things go. The hope of lining up the Ford motor company has faded from sight.

NEW TACTICS IN CONGRESS

Washington, D. C. February—The explanations of the "pop meeting" of democratic congressmen are being decorated with all sorts of political colors. The meeting occurred on St. Valentine's Day and it may be described as a typical gathering where the political whip lash was cracked. It was held as a direct result of the row that has been waging between the President and the democratic conservatives, who gained large additions to their ranks in the recent elections. Speaker Bankhead led the leaders who told these democrats that their absence from roll call is helping the republicans to defeat some of the President's measures. Of course that is why they stay away. The retort to the charge that they are not cooperating with the President was that the President wasn't cooperating with them. A sort of "you're another" attitude.

In Washington this matter is no mystery, because it is plain as day that while a large number of anti-New Deal democrats are anxious to hold their party together, they are determined to secure recognition of their power through concealed objections of avoiding roll calls.

The country is familiar with President Roosevelt's characteristics, and it may confidently expect that he will attack and try to "purge" his own party in congress. This may come at any time, but likely the real blasts will be deferred until he returns from his ocean trip.

It is no mystery in Washington that a break between the progressive and conservative members of congress has already begun. We are now in the beginning of a showdown that will be lasting—even through the 1940 presidential campaign.

Good Neighbors And Bad Ones

South American countries are approaching the United States in single file, because—if we must face the truth, the Lima conference of 21 republicans was not such a howling success as we might have wished it to be.

Dr. Oswaldo Aranha, minister of foreign relations of Brazil, has just talked "off the record" before the newspaper army of Washington. He is one of the outstanding diplomats of all Latin-America, and considerable prominence has been given in Washington to his visit.

Brazil is bigger in size than the United States and we must buy most of its coffee; and in turn they are good customers and good neighbors of ours. In testimony thereof the maritime commission named a ship of the Good Neighbor Fleet "Brazil".

Brazil is putting forth its best arguments to support its hopes that the new United States Export-Import bank should make large loans to Brazilian institutions to accelerate trade—a program of the Washington administration to use taxpayers funds to purchase good neighborliness, which has not so far worked in Mexico. But Dr. Aranha has nice, pretty hobbies that streamline into popular news headlines, and thrill American officials. He suggests immigration of unemployed from the United States to Brazil. He declares that Brazil is willing to offer free entry to certain American products. Sandwiched in between, he is hot in his belief that American capital will find profitable investment opportunities in Brazil.

To these suggestions the United States is friendly, particularly because Brazil resists the efforts of fascist and communist nations to gain footholds on their soil.

There are other nations in Latin-America that can present equally good cases. In fact most of them are our good neighbors. But just as a rotten apple in a barrel spreads its taint to other apples so does a bad nation in the southern hemisphere pollute the good neighbor situation. It seems natural to cover up the faults of the black sheep and try to reform them. But to what extent is this justifiable?

Mexico is our outstanding bad neighbor, and her offenses have been recited many times in this correspondence. Mexico has stolen hundreds of millions of dollars worth of American-owned properties at different times—principally American oil properties. Mexico takes these products and barbers them with enemies of democracy, in Europe. What are we doing about it?

We have a remedy! The United States has no reason left to buy Mexican silver. We don't need it. Still, Mexico sells us her silver at prices that have been inflated so high above the world market, through taxation and other processes that it costs as much as domestic silver. Why continue this folly—just "to help them out"? All the United States needs to do to bad neighbor Mexico is to stop soft-soaping her. And one way to quit soft-soaping her is to quit buying her silver.

That's a practical way to reform a bad neighbor. In doing so we would gain in greater respect from Good Neighbors like Brazil—and other republics that are standing up to scratch for the solidarity of America.

"Father White"

The nation knows William Allen White as the editor of the Emporia, Kansas, Gazette. As a newspaper editor he has written many classics of literature. William Allen White is "Father White" to a group of once-young fellows who were identified with him a score or two years ago.

"Father White at Seventy-One" was written by David Hinchshaw, who was a country correspondent for the Gazette forty years ago and for this work he relates he was "paid no cash, but it brought me the Gazette free, subscriptions to magazines, occasional books, a pass to the circus each summer when it came to Emporia, and the friendship of one who has exercised the greatest influence on my life, excepting only my wife and my mother".

Patriotic Flag Ceremony Held At Hall

Impressive Address Made By Rev. Whitman

A brief, impressive ceremony at which the Irwin Sears post of the American Legion presented an American flag to Terrace hall Wednesday night was witnessed by a small crowd of Wayne's citizens and residents of the hall.

Robert Moran, president of Terrace hall, who accepted the flag on behalf of the students residing there and Rev. James A. Whitman, whose topic was a "Tribute to the Flag and George Washington", made inspirational patriotic addresses.

What Flag Means

Carl E. Nicholaisen, post commander, made a few brief remarks on the importance of the flag and its meaning in making the presentation. Moran replied that the students realize how much the flag must mean to the Legionnaires who fought under it and for all that it represents in the World war. He assured the Legionnaires that it also had a profound influence on the students and that their gift was gratefully received.

MEN'S CLUB PROGRAM

A patriotic program, featured by Rev. James A. Whitman's "Tribute to the Flag", which he repeated at the flag presentation ceremony at Terrace Hall a few hours later, featured the regular dinner meeting of the Wayne Men's club Wednesday night. Highlights of Rev. Whitman's talk are included in this article on the flag presentation.

The Men's club also voted to sponsor the high school track meet which will be held in Wayne sometime in May. This event attracted teams from more than 30 schools last year and was one of the outstanding sports events of 1938.

Rev. Whitman described what the flag had meant during Washington's day, and assailed those who sneer at patriotism and the flag. After recalling the horror with which revolutions are viewed, he pointed out that even though this is true, all the democracies of today were children of revolutions.

It was for liberty and justice that the American revolution, which gave birth to this country and Old Glory, which represents it, was fought, he added. But, during the fight, the men from the various states battling side by side against a common enemy, naturally formed a close bond of friendship and fraternity took its place along with liberty and justice.

"And so our flag came to stand for all three, liberty, justice and fraternity", Rev. Whitman declared.

Value Of American Way

"Never in the history of our fair land has the value of the American way been so clearly defined as today; and as we look at the flag, the precious treasures of citizenship for which it stands become worth more than life itself. For them we would live, yea even die if need be, that they might be the heritage of our posterity.

"Let the weakling shrink from duty and the traitor condemn his homeland, but true patriots will hold their citizenship as a God-given estate."

Another outstanding feature of the program was the presentation of "The Development of the United States Flag" as staged by Boy Scouts who are sons of

16 Teams Launch Class B Basketball Tourney Here Wednesday

Wildcats Win Three Home Games To Take Lead In Both Conferences

Midland, Peru Teachers and Hastings Defeated In Order Last Week On Local Court; Closing Game Is With Peru There Next Saturday

Defeating Midland, Peru Teachers and Hastings college in rapid succession last week, Coach Jim Morrison's Wildcats climbed atop both the Teachers college conference and the mythical state college conference.

With only one more game on its season's schedule, the Wayne State Teachers college appears virtually certain of both championships but must upset the fast Peru team again on the latter's own court next Saturday to clinch the honors.

Beat Hastings, Peru

The Wildcats closed their home schedule Saturday night with a 38 to 33 victory over Hastings after taking a hard fought battle from Peru Thursday night, 40 to 36, and winning over Midland easily Tuesday night, 43 to 36.

After a rather slow start which cost them a few games, the Wildcats have improved rapidly until in their last contests they were beating the best teams in their conferences. Excellent defensive work has accounted for a large share of their victories and their present place at the head of both leagues. They have held opposing teams to an average of 33 points a game while managing to chalk up an average of only an additional two and a half points. Virtually all games won and lost have been by small margins as shown by the above figures.

May Enter Tourney

The Peru game next Saturday will close the Wildcats schedule but it is probable that they will compete in the Kansas City College tourney, March 13.

Hastings and Wayne battled on fairly even terms during the first half Saturday night with the Wildcats managing to pull ahead by two points at the half ended. Hastings evened the count early in the second half before the Wildcats managed to penetrate the visitors' defense with any great success. Speeding up the game during the latter part of the battle, however, the Wildcats pulled away to a safe and convincing margin of victory.

Feature Game of the Trio was Wayne State's victory over the Peru State Teachers here Thursday night, when the Wildcats won a nip and tuck battle with two field goals by Jean Huntmer in the last minute of play.

Battle Close

Wayne led throughout the close battle except near the finish when the count was tied and soon after play opened in the first half. Rembold opened the scoring for the local cagers with a one-handed basket from the corner. A few moments later, Greathouse of Peru made counters from both the field and the foul line to gain a 3 to 2 lead. Wayne took the lead again only to have the score tied at various times during the first half, but the Wildcats were holding an 18 to 15 advantage at the half.

Rembold, Marshall and Bradford found the range from the field and increased Wayne's lead to six points with but four minutes of play remaining. Then the tide shifted and Bally McIntyre and Greathouse of Peru tied the score with but one minute of play remaining.

Huntmer Breaks Tie

Huntmer ended the contest by hitting two from the field to give Wayne the contest. Rembold led the scoring for Wayne with 15 points and Greathouse, Peru center, accounted for 12 points for the visiting team.

The score follows:

Peru—36		Wayne—40

The Wildcats had little difficulty beating Midland Tuesday night, 43 to 36. The Wayne cagers led throughout the contest, the score at the half being 25 to 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Preston, daughter Beatrice and son, Jason all of Belden, took Sunday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hall.

Dwain French has entered the Wayne high school from the Concord high school. He moved to Wayne recently with his family.

Wayne High Cagers Enter Class A Tourney

Wayne High Ends Season In Victory

Local Team Whips Plainview, 50 To 13

Wayne High school closed its basketball season — aside from tournament competition — Friday by defeating the much-battered Plainview team, 50 to 13. It was a most successful season for the local cagers, who won 12 games while only dropping four, all the latter by narrow margins of three points or less.

The Plainview victory was won with little effort, as anticipated since Plainview has managed to win only one contest during the season.

Wayne found the range early in the game and was taking such a long lead that Coach Morris used his second team throughout the second half. Even the second squad had little difficulty building up the score as the final count shows.

The local cagers were playing the best brand of basketball of the season in their last game which makes the outlook for a place among the winners at the Norfolk tourney this week bright.

However, Wayne High will face plenty of stiff competition at Norfolk, having drawn probably the toughest schedule of any entry in the tournament.

The second team also had little difficulty beating Plainview's reserves in a preliminary game.

Second Team Tourney To Be Held Next Week

The basketball tournament for second teams of the Northeast Nebraska conference, which was postponed because of bad weather, is now scheduled for Monday and Tuesday evenings of next week.

Wayne will meet the Plainview team in the first round of the tournament. Wayne defeated Plainview in the closing game of the regular season last week.

Intramural Race Led By Greyhounds

But Five Teams Still In Race For Championship

Behind the sharpshooting of Captain Art Hansen, the Greyhounds have continued their winning streak and moved into undisputed possession of first place in the Intramural Basketball league at the Teachers college as the weakened Naked Five lost to the Bone Benders last week.

With two rounds remaining, five teams are still in a position to win the league championship.

The in and out team, the Demons, moved back into the race last week as they shoved the Purple Raiders into the cellar. Joe Lindahl returned to the Panther lineup and aided the failing cats to snatch one from the Pink Bunnies to keep in the race.

Shift Activity

Following the completion of the regular basketball schedule, intramural activity will be shifted to badminton, volley ball and table tennis. Entries in these sports are now being made and pairings will be announced soon.

Wayne Prep Winnebago Given Edge

But Decatur Ranked With Leading Teams

Pairings have been drawn and all preparations completed for Wayne's Class B basketball tournament which will open Wednesday afternoon in the City auditorium.

With some of the leading Class B teams in northeastern Nebraska among the 16 entries here, the Wayne tournament promises to be the outstanding event of its kind in the state.

Winnebago, Decatur, Allen and Wayne Prep are the four seeded teams. All games of the tournament, which will open with eight contests on Wednesday and close Saturday night when the finalists will clash for the championship, will be played in the City auditorium. It is expected that a class C playoff will also be held here during the B tourney.

Wayne high will journey to Norfolk this week to face a stiff schedule in the Class A tournament being held there.

The Wayne tournament schedule follows:

Ponca and Pender will open the schedule at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with the winner of that game meeting the Winnebago-Hartington High winner at 8 o'clock Thursday night. Winnebago and Hartington will open their play at 8 o'clock Wednesday night.

Newcastle and Wakefield clash at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and Coleridge and Decatur will battle at 7 o'clock that night; the winners in each case will meet at 7 o'clock the following night in the second round.

Allen and Hartington Holy Trinity mix at 6 o'clock Wednesday night while Homer and Laurel clash at 8 o'clock; the winners in these games will play their second round contest at 6 o'clock Thursday night.

Emerson and Randolph will stage the second game of the tournament, meeting at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and Winside and Wayne Prep will close the opening day's schedule at 9 o'clock that night. Winners in these two contests will play their second round game at 9 o'clock Thursday night.

The semi-finals are scheduled for 7 and 8 o'clock Friday night with the semi-finals between the two losers slated for 8 o'clock Saturday night. The championship battle will be an hour later.

The Wayne Class B tournament has always been one of the most popular in the state and with the excellent group of entries listed this year, this should be no exception. Drawings and pairings were made last Wednesday at the city school, where officials decided to hold five sessions, as listed above.

Season tickets for the tournament are selling to adults for $1.25 and children, 75 cents. Single admission tickets for adults are 35 cents, except for the finals when they will be increased to 40 cents, and 25 cents for children at each session.

The regular association trophy will be given the winner and Wayne high school has provided a second trophy for the runner-up. The third place winner will receive a basketball.

Winnebago, one of the favorite teams again this year, won last year's championship and Wayne Prep, also a favorite this year, was runner-up.

Adult season tickets for the tournament here may be purchased in Wayne at any of the following stores—Hiscox Hardware, Johnson's bakery and the Wayne book store.

Wayne Creamery Team Competing At Battle Creek

The Wayne Creamery cagers, champions of the recent Legion Town Team basketball tournament here, have entered the Battle Creek Town tourney and will meet the Genoa team in their opening game at 10 o'clock Tuesday night.

The Battle Creek meet opened Monday with Meadow Grove meeting Battle Creek and Madison CCC team playing Ewing. Norfolk and Winside drew a bye. Tuesday, Pierce meets Clear Water and Belden faces Wausa prior to the Wayne-Genoa tilt.

Sports Slants

The curtain is rapidly falling on the basketball season, which will reach its climax in Wayne this week with the Class B tourney. The tournament will be underway here with the Wayne Prep cagers as one of the favored entries while Wayne High battles in the Class A tournament at Norfolk.

All schools considered, the season has been probably the most successful in the history of Wayne. Let's take just a brief glimpse at the records.

Wayne State Teachers college, with only one game remaining on its schedule, is leading both the Teachers college conference and the state colleges' mythical circuit.

Wayne High closed its regular season last week and a total of 12 victories to its credit and only four defeats, all of which were by close margins.

Wayne Prep school lost only four games during the season and has already captured one tournament title.

The Wayne Creamery team, this town's lone entry of the Legion's Town Team tournament held here recently, crushed all opposing teams to capture the title.

All of Wayne's schools have records of which both they and Wayne should be proud. Both the players and the coaches deserve a round of applause until a more adequate demonstration of the appreciation of Wayne for their efforts is possible.

Particularly impressive is the record of the Wayne Wildcats, which faced plenty of opposition and opened the season with several defeats. Coach Jim Morrison brought the team along rapidly, however, and they have been beating their fastest rivals recently.

Wayne fans will get their final opportunity of the year to see some fast basketball this week by attending the Class B tournament, all games of which will be played in the City auditorium.

Some of the best Class B teams in northeastern Nebraska will compete in the Wayne event with the local Prep school among the favorites.

The Wayne tourney in the past has been one of the most popular in the state and a leader in attendance. With such a lineup as slated for this year's event, the games this week should be no exception. Fans will miss some excellent basketball if they fail to attend the five big sessions.

Wayne Prep Loses Battle

Emerson Wins In Extra Period Of Contest Here

Wayne Prep, one of the favorite teams in the Class B tournament to be played here this week, dropped its final home game of the season with the exception of the tourney contests, to Emerson Friday night, 23 to 21. It was only the fourth defeat of the season for the fast Prep team, which forced Emerson to play an extra period to win.

Wayne and Emerson battled on nearly even terms throughout the contest with Emerson holding a two point margin at the half. But the local cagers speeded up their game in the second half and tied the score shortly before the regular period ended.

The extra period was played with the agreement that the first team to annex two points would be the winner and Emerson turned the trick. Wahlow was high point man for Wayne. Wayne Prep's second team won easily over the Emerson seconds in a preliminary battle.

Both games were played in the college gymnasium.

REA Project Gets Underway

Corner Locations And Lines To Be Staked This Week

Actual work on the first Rural Electrification Administration project, which will include 158 miles of lines, will get underway this week, if the weather permits, according to H. W. Moeding, superintendent.

Pending the opening of bids and the letting of contracts, which is scheduled for the morning of March 2, this work will be confined to making corner locations and staking where lines will be located. Actual construction of the lines will not begin until the contracts are let.

The meeting at which contracts will be let will be held in the old City hall in Wayne. It will open at 10 o'clock and probably continue throughout the day as it will require considerable time for the REA engineers to check and compute all the bids.

Mr. Moeding emphasized the fact that the first project will not include all of the farms, which will serve eventually as it is planned to build other lines as demand warrants.

General rates, which have been recommended for adoption on the Wayne project and which will probably be approved at a meeting of the directors when the contracts are let, follow:

First 40 kilowatts or less at $3.50 per month.

Next 40 at 5.5 cents per kilowatt hour, per month.

Next 120 at 2.5 cents per kilowatt hour, per month.

Over 200 at 1.5 cents per kilowatt hour, per month.

Special rates for churches, schools, industries and other users of power who come under other classifications, are being prepared and will be announced later, probably after they have been approved by the directors.

Appointment of Dr. Benthack Wins Approval

Governor R. L. Cochran's appointment of Dr. Walter Benthack of Wayne to the state normal board won the unanimous approval of the Nebraska legislature in Lincoln Tuesday.

The action of the legislature, which was expected, followed a brief hearing before the committee for hearings at Lincoln. The committee recommended approval of the appointment and its recommendation was adopted.

Other appointees of Governor Cochran, who were approved at the same time, also by unanimous vote, are W. H. Smith of Seward as state tax commissioner, R. T. Malone, Lincoln, unemployment compensation division director, Harry Bane of Omaha, state employment service director, and N. C. Vandemoer of Lincoln, state assistance director.

Governor Cochran's selection of Dr. Benthack was lauded by both educational and civic leaders of Wayne, who are familiar with his work as president of the school board here.

Motor Cars Carry Heavy Tax Burden

Pointing out that highway transportation pays $3,401,917 more in local taxes than the railroads, the Nebraska Petroleum Industries committee announced last week figures comparing the two by counties. Wayne county's share of property taxes and registration fees is listed at $53,747 compared with the total railroad taxes in this county of only $6,592, making an excess of motor vehicle taxes over railroad taxes of $47,155.

The figures listed above do not include the state government's share of property taxes, registration fees or gasoline taxes.

According to the league, the state gasoline tax alone provided 55.37 per cent of Nebraska's total tax yield in 1936 and all motor vehicle taxes produced 72.6 per cent of the state's tax revenue in the same year.

Freshman Class Elects Students

Men's Club Leads In Civic Projects

High School Track Meet To Be Held Again

Editor's Note — Following is another of the series of articles, reviewing the accomplishments and plans of leading Wayne organizations and listing their officers and complete membership. This article deals with the Wayne Men's club.

Probably the leading organization in Wayne from the standpoint of community service and the sponsorship of outstanding events, The Wayne Men's club has an impressive list of accomplishments. It has served virtually as a Chamber of Commerce for Wayne, striving to promote good will throughout the community and to aid in the city's progress.

Among the major community events it sponsors annually is the corn husking contest, which always attracts a large crowd and wide interest throughout Wayne county, the high school track meet in which more than 30 schools participated last year and which the club voted at its last meeting to continue this year, and welfare relief for several Wayne families.

Objectives Listed

But the club has done far more than act as sponsor for such events. It has been successful to a large extent in obtaining the co-operation of its large membership in taking a definite stand on questions of public interest, particularly those which affect the city's future. Resolutions have been passed after issues have been presented to the club and discussed and debated in open sessions. Such a policy builds good will and the club's large membership enables it to speak with authority in Wayne's behalf.

The constitution of the club probably outlines best its objectives and its activities are ample evidence that these objectives are being realized. A portion of the constitution listing its purposes follows: "to bring together the business and professional men of the city of Wayne and to create and promote good fellowship among the members thereof, to co-operate with other Wayne organizations in promoting the general welfare of the community and to aid and assist civic enterprises."

Officers, Members Listed

Officers of the club are elected semi-annually to serve terms of six months. Present leaders of the organization are Allen Cook, president; John R. Keith, vice president and F. B. Decker, secretary.

Directors, who guide the policies of the club are M. C. Bloss, John T. Bressler, Allen Cook, F. B. Decker, W. F. Dierking, John R. Keith and Al Kern.

ADAPTED FROM THE METRO GOLDWYN MAYER PICTURE

SYNOPSIS — Brooks Mason, film glamour boy, and George Smith, Hawaiian planter, look so much alike that they have changed names. Brooks to avoid a personal appearance tour and to seek peace and quiet, George to acquire the polish which Cecilia Grayson, the girl he loves, thinks he lacks. While George is being observed by Brooks' fans in New York, and taken to the hospital to recuperate, Brooks falls in love with a dancer on ship-board, Dorothy March. Arriving in Honolulu, he doesn't recognize the overseer of the plantation come to meet him, and the latter thinks "George" is either drunk or crazy. Waiting detectives, in some admiration, think he's going to get away with $50,000 that from Mr. Grayson.

Chapter Six

A KISS FOR CECILIA

Brooks was glad when the uncomfortable trip to the plantation came to end. He jumped out of the auto, away from the growling Skipper, and the puzzled Wally. "I'll take the luggage around to the back," said Wally.

"All right," Brooks agreed quickly, and walked uncertainly to the front door. He did not just walk in, but rang the bell after some hesitation, and in a moment was opened by an Oriental house boy.

"Hello," said the Chinese.

"Hello, Wong, it's nice to see you," replied Brooks, treating the servant as he thought the real George Smith would. Wong merely grinned, a knowing grin that made Brooks vaguely suspicious.

"Anything wrong?"

Again Wong merely grinned, and a slight shake of the head, and took Brooks' hat and top-coat and started for the living room. Brooks followed. He was charmed with the living room, furnished in the simple style of a Hawaiian plantation cabin. "Ah, you took good care of the house while I was gone, Wong," he said familiarly.

"I don't know what it is exactly, George, but there's something different about you."

"Everything just as I left it. And, believe me, Wong, it's good to be home again. Peace and quiet. Yes, it's good, mighty good to be home." He walked about the room, touching various objects as though he were very fond of them. Only Wong kept on grinning at him. It was on his next stroll, that he was grinning at Wong. "What're you grinning at, Wong?"

"Hello, Mr. Brooks Mason," said the grinning Chinese.

"Huh?" exclaimed Brooks in a sudden gasp.

Wong, grinning still, reached into an inner pocket of his coat and brought out a letter which he handed to the amazed Brooks. He read it.

"Dear Mr. Mason: — You can trust Wong. I wrote him and explained everything, just in case you needed somebody to make things easier for you.

George Smith.

When he had finished reading, Brooks returned Wong's grin. "I was rather sickly, but still a grin. 'I see you in movies,' said Wong, meaningly.

"Yes, I'm Brooks Mason, the actor."

"I see you in movies—no actor," said the Chinese, starting for the bedroom with the luggage. Brooks followed him, resentful of the slur.

"Very funny, very funny. But remember, from now on I'm not Brooks Mason. I'm George Smith. Whatever happens, whoever asks you, under any circumstance, I'm George Smith. Understand?"

"Yes, Mr. Smith."

The bedroom was pleasantly furnished and lighted by full-length bamboo curtains. Brooks was ful." He wondered what blunder he had made to bring such an expression of amazement over her face, and hastened to add: "I mistook you terribly. My mind was always full of you. I was subconsciously seeing you, hearing you, touching you —"

"I can't believe this is you!" exclaimed Cecilia more amazed than ever. "Can this be you, the man of few words — the man who stumbled so over those few?"

"Well, Hollywood, you know — began Brooks.

Cecilia looked at him speculatively. "Hollywood, huh? Tell me," and eagerness came into her voice, "did you meet any picture people?"

"All of them. I never will forget one night at Joan Crawford's house, Norma Shearer and I —"

"You actually met Joan Crawford and Norma Shearer?"

"Why Norma and Carole — Carole Lombard were with me day and night."

"Well, no wonder you didn't have time to write to me."

"Cecilia, when I left Hawaii, I made up my mind that I'd make myself worthy of you. I was determined to come back a different man."

"Who taught you how to kiss?"

"Mickey Rooney," he grinned, and she turned away, displeased with his spoofing reply. Her eyes came to rest upon his evening clothes spread out on the bed.

"Where you getting dressed to go out or —"

He interrupted, quickly: "Why no — er — as a matter of fact, I was just going to bed. You know the trip sort of tired me —"

"You're not going to bed without saying 'Hello' to everybody. The Perkinses, the Walshes and the Bradys are all over at the house waiting to see you. I know father will just be delighted to have you back."

"Yes, but — but —"

"No buts about it," said Cecilia decisively. "You get into some clothes and hurry over. We'll be waiting for you." She gave him a light kiss on the cheek and dashed out, leaving him no time to argue.

Almost at once Wong entered the room, took the evening clothes from the bed and started to hang them up in the closet.

"Say, what are you doing?" demanded Brooks.

"Mr. Mason, not go to hotel to-night," said Wong placidly.

"Were you listening?"

"Teaching of Confucius say walls have ears, and so have Chinaman."

"Yes, well, what would Confucius do in a case like this?"

"Confucius too smart to get mixed up with more than one woman."

"Come here, voice of experience. Here's my problem: I have a table reserved at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel with a great girl, but I also have to go to Cecilia Grayson's house. What would you advise me to do?"

"I would go to Missie Grayson's house. Because Wong has already cancelled hotel reservation."

Grade School Notes

FIRST GRADE

Two vegetable dinners were served in the first grade this week. Wednesday, head lettuce, raw cabbage, string beans and hominy. Friday, parsnips, creamed onions, buttered beets. The children are responding to the menu; they all taste the new vegetables and usually finish eating all that is served them.

Ninety bottles of milk is being served in the first grade each day.

Helen Pile treated the first graders to cookie hatchets with pink frosting, Wednesday.

Attendance in the first grade is nearly normal again. Tomny Hensen is the only one absent this week.

SECOND GRADE

Eleanor Mae Kay read stories about Washington and Lincoln during story hour. Other stories were read by Phyllis Foster, Betty Lou Hoguewood, Clarence Ulrich and Bernard Nicolaisen. Nancy Perry told about seeing the faces of Lincoln and Washington on the mountains in the Black Hills of South Dakota. Mitzi Heine and Marilyn Price brought pictures showing Washington's face carved on the mountain.

The children have been writing letters and have learned correct forms and how to address envelopes. They are planning a trip to the postoffice soon.

THIRD GRADE

The third grade is starting a project of finding street fixtures and learning their uses. The first fixture to be studied was the street hydrant. They learned how and why water is turned on. They will visit a water plant in connection with this study. The next fixture to be studied will be the electric light wires and telephone wires.

The third graders who have their names listed as the best workers are: Richard Reese, Bob Bathke, Shirley Jones, Stanley Petersen, DaVee Rekofski, Carol McIntosh, Joline McGonigal and Kurt Otte.

FOURTH GRADE

The new fourth grade geography project is the study of the Amazon Valley. This is exceptionally interesting as every phase of life in the valley is practically opposite of our living in Wayne.

SIXTH GRADE

The sixth grade is going to put up a new behavior chart representing the coming of birds. Each child will represent a bird and get stars each day. Children who received one hundred percent were: Charles Horrell, Richard Sala and Bob Birdsall. Children who received ninety-five or above were Billy Allen, Eleanor Benthack, Patty Love, Jacqueline Wightman and Carla Wright.

SEVENTH GRADE

The English class is studying the works of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. They have just completed "The Courtship of Miles Standish" and are now studying "Evangeline".

Wayne On Parade

some publications resort to far worse practices and, strangely enough, are kept alive by a few merchants who parade their 'bargains' amid the filth and yet would stoutly deny they should.

Do not misunderstand us, we are not associating you nor your letter in any manner with the above practice. On the contrary, your attitude is entirely understandable. But, after all, you admit that both you and the professor agree on the only vital question involved and it is not difficult to realize how he was hurt by what probably was at its worst youthful thoughtlessness. If you and your fellow students, who feel you have been unjustly accused, would go to him in a spirit of fairness, not to apologize nor demand apologies, but to obtain a better understanding of your opposing viewpoints, that misunderstanding would disappear.

Isn't that far better than airing a controversy from which no good could possibly result? You know professors live and learn even as you and I.

Local citizens, who waded through snow to the post-office Wednesday armed with parcel post packages, were reminded that it was Washington's birthday, a holiday which local postal authorities at least observed. Stamps were in demand as many had overlooked the fact that the postoffice would be closed.

For some interesting accounts of the early days in aviation, stop for a chat with G. A. Renard, who received his training when flying was really hazardous. One of his favorite stories is about an agreement of several fliers, who were studying the new mode of transportation in Texas at the time, to stage an altitude contest. Renard was one of the group but he admits that after he had climbed far above the clouds where the earth was only a memory, he developed an overwhelming desire to contact the ground again and let the others claim the records.

"It gets mighty lonesome when you are up there", Mr. Renard explained.

But, it was these fliers who gambled their lives in what today would be called old crates not fit for flying purposes, who paved the way for the development of aviation.

No parent takes greater pride in his Johnny or Mary than does Professor Reed in his band. He makes the band members devote their energy and time to attaining perfection as nearly as possible, and doesn't shower them with praise, but he's justifiably proud of his excellent organization.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday afternoon for Karl Wolters, sr., who was found dead in bed Sunday morning at the home of his son, Carl Wolters near Altona. Services were held both at the home and the Trinity Lutheran church at Altona with the Rev. E. J. Moede and the Hiscox service in charge. Burial was in the Altona cemetery.

He had been in failing health for sometime but was not believed to be critically ill, when his body was found by his son Sunday morning.

Karl Wolters was born at Hotteln, Hannover, Germany, March 25, 1856, and was 82 years, 10 months and 25 days of age at the time of his death. He was baptized in infancy in the Lutheran faith and was confirmed at the age of 14.

He married Emelie Gemelke in December, 1885. To this union were born four children, two sons and two daughters. One daughter, Elsie, died at the age of 4. Mrs. Wolters died in Germany in the spring of 1910.

In November, 1910, Mr. Wolters and son and daughter came to this country where Carl Wolters, jr., had preceded them by five years. Since then deceased had lived with his son, Carl, a mile west and a half mile south of Altona.

Surviving Mr. Wolters are two sons, Carl of Altona, and Herman of Omaha, one daughter, Mrs. Emma Gemelke of Kimball, Neb., one daughter-in-law, 11 grandchildren and one great grandchild. The three children attended the funeral.

Pallbearers were George Roggenbach, Oscar Reinhardt, William Roggenbach, Fred Koehlmoo, Henry Brundieck and William Thies.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Erleben were in Norfolk Wednesday.

Miss Rena Johnson went to Hartington Wednesday to visit relatives.

WHY HOGS DIE; THE FIVE GREAT CAUSES OF SWINE LOSSES

Few swine raisers realize that the major share of all hog losses in this country is due to five causes—hog cholera, enteritis, influenza or pneumonia, parasites, hemorrhagic septicemia, and erysipelas.

If the farmer could keep just these five out of his herd, the increase in his annual hog profits would be enormous, and the nation's income would be multiplied by tens of millions of dollars. Here are a few suggestions that should be of value in helping the average farmer to guard his herd against these five destroyers:

Hog Cholera—Cannot be cured. The only safeguard is vaccination before an outbreak occurs. The best time to vaccinate is around weaning time, and it is best to have the work done only by a veterinarian. Symptoms of cholera—sluggishness, fever, partial paralysis, tendency of hogs to pile up.

Enteritis—A birth-borne disease. picked up in old, infected hog lots. Best preventive is to farrow and rear pigs on clean pasture, away

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up at night, leg pains, swelling—feet, ankles, tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's Pills help the kidneys to get rid of excess poisonous body waste. They are gentle to the urinary tract and tend to relieve irritation and the pain it causes. Many grateful people recommend Doan's. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Ask your druggist.

ALKA-SELTZER is also recommended for Gas on Stomach, "Morning After", Acid Indigestion, Colds, and Muscular Pains.

You will like the tangy flavor and the results when you take Alka-Seltzer. Alka-Seltzer, when dissolved in water, contains an analgesic (Sodium Acetyl-Salicylate). In addition, the alkalinizing agents in Alka-Seltzer help to relieve those everyday disorders associated with hyperacidity.

be someone to look after the program and one man can function better than a number of men. By having a paid secretary, the responsibility would be placed upon one particular person."

Walt Bressler—"I think we should have a paid secretary. To be very effective, a Chamber of Commerce should have someone at the head of it."

J. J. Steele—"Until Wayne has a Chamber of Commerce, there should be one and only one business club, with a paid secretary. That person would boost the city of Wayne and help build up the town and better business."

Minnie Strickland—"Yes, it undoubtedly would be a good thing. There is to be a great many things to be taken into consideration, among others, the person to be employed."

Allen Cook—"Where a community has a chamber of commerce and an efficient secretary, I have noticed how the community has worked together to secure many desirable things which communities lacking in coordination have been unable to obtain. Wayne is the logical center for the better things of northeast Nebraska and can well afford to build along these lines."

Don Fitch—"If Wayne had a chamber of commerce, it would be necessary to have a paid secretary, because there would be so much for a secretary to do that a man could not afford to do everything required of him unless he put in all his time on this job."

Mrs. R. F. Jacobs—"If there is to be a chamber of commerce in Wayne, I believe a paid secretary would be essential. Since Wayne has an up-to-date auditorium to bring conventions to the city, a chamber of commerce would be asset to the community."

G. B. Childs—"It would seem to me that this would be desirable. It would bring about a centralization of the civic activities of the community and would encourage the carrying on of a continuously planned program of community improvement."

Mrs. L. W. Jamieson—"Why not first let the agitators for this movement show a definite need and the probable good to the community of such an office."

Now My Dear DON'T LET THAT HEADACHE SLOW YOU DOWN

STOP IT WITH ALKA-SELTZER

Does Headache "slow you down?" You are a rare exception it does not.

One or two tablets of ALKA-SELTZER in a glass of water makes a pleasant alkalinizing solution that usually brings relief in just a few minutes.

ALKA-SELTZER is also recommended for Gas on Stomach, "Morning After", Acid Indigestion, Colds, and Muscular Pains.

You will like the tangy flavor and the results when you take Alka-Seltzer. Alka-Seltzer, when dissolved in water, contains an analgesic (Sodium Acetyl-Salicylate). In addition, the alkalinizing agents in Alka-Seltzer help to relieve those everyday disorders associated with hyperacidity.
