

Jury Rules In Single Court Trial

Judgment Of $25 Is Awarded Fred Brueckner

The jury found for the plaintiff with a judgment of $25 in the lone case which went to jury trial in the term of district court which closed last Tuesday.

Mr. Wantock had appealed from a ruling for the plaintiff in the justice of peace court of J. E. Brittain last fall.

Reduced To One

The jury session, which was originally scheduled to hear several cases, was reduced to a one trial affair when C. H. Hendrickson entered a nolo contendere plea, which was accepted.

In the Hendrickson libel case, filed by County Attorney Burr R. Davis for E. W. Huse, Wayne Publisher, Hendrickson was paroled to the Wayne county sheriff for two years by District Judge John W. Yeager with a ruling that he refrain from violating any criminal statute particularly those involving libel.

In the assault case on H. H. Siman, a similar plea was entered by Hendrickson and Judge Yeager fined him $10 and costs. City Attorney J. E. Brittain prosecuted the case.

Compromise Approved

Compromise settlement of $512.40 besides hospital and doctor bills was approved by district court for Willard P. Johnson who suffered a fracture and dislocation of the right knee while pulling wheelbarrows from the material hoist at the new college dormitory on July 7.

Only action in the case in which Hendrickson seeks to halt the city's sale of a lot to D. S. Wightman was the filing of an amended petition in which the Taxpayers' League is removed as a plaintiff but leaving Hendrickson to fight the case.

'39 Parity Payments Are Not Affected

Many farmers are contacting the Wayne County Agricultural Conservation Office and are of the opinion that the $250,000,000 appropriation which the house killed this week concerned their parity payments of 1939, which is not true.

The present debate in congress has no connection with the parity payments under the 1939 program. The congress on June 21, 1938, appropriated $212,000,000 to make parity payments in connection with the 1939 program and this money is available regardless of any action congress may take at this session.

It is hoped that this information will keep all Wayne county farmers from dropping out of the program because the parity payments for 1939 have not changed due to the action of the present congress.

Legion Is Host To Scouts, Dads

The American Legion Post of Wayne is entertaining both boy scout troops and the boys' dads at 8 p. m. Wednesday night in the City Hall.

The April shower, which arrived a day ahead of the month, combined with the many recent snows in northeastern Nebraska, make the crop outlook bright.

After all, most merchants will agree that the town's prosperity depends largely on that of the farmers. When they prosper Wayne prospers and when conditions are unfavorable for them, they are likewise unfavorable for the town.

Publication of a story in a state daily paper that Wayne had been selected for a CCC camp revived discussion of that fiery issue here again last week after those favoring the project as one which they believed would be beneficial to both business and farmers, had virtually abandoned it.

Young Smolsky, whose opinions may be debated but whose ability as a debater no one questions, dropped in for a brief chat on the CCC proposition Monday evening.

Runner-Up Honors Won

Wayne Prep Debaters Take Second Honors

Wayne Prep debaters won runner-up honors in the Class B division of the state tournament at Lincoln, being defeated in the finals in a two-one decision by the Walton debaters.

Chief credit for the excellent showing by Wayne's entries goes to Francis Smith and Joseph Kirwan, who make up the affirmative team and who defeated both the Edgar and Edison debaters.

In the four years the Prep has participated in debate, teams have been entered in the state tournament three times and have gained second place twice. Two of this year's squad, Francis Smith, a sophomore and Warren Noakes, freshman, will return next year and attempt to break the runner-up jinx.

The Wayne High debate team, which won the district debate tournament for Class A schools, found the competition with the larger schools too stiff at the state tournament and lost decisions to Norfolk, Kearney and Hastings.

Progress Made On City Park

Progress on the new city park was scarcely deterred by first spring showers last week. The difficult work of filling in the gully is nearing completion.

Many of the trees now growing are being dug up. Yesterday various species of evergreens arrived and preparations for their planting are now being made.

What Does Today's World Offer Grad?

In two months the graduates of 1939 will open the door to the school of life. What will be in store for them there is a question. Not so many years ago a college graduate was quite certain to obtain some sort of position — one that gave fairly adequate reimbursement as well as prestige and happiness.

Dr. H. D. Griffin—"The graduate of today must use his own ingenuity and create his own opportunity to a much greater extent than was true a generation ago. There are fewer ready-made positions that a few years back. For the alert, there is no lack of opportunities; but for the average graduate the outlook is not so good."

Eleanor Owen, a college senior—"Today the world offers the graduate the chance to make his own place in it—if he has the ability to use his intensive training to his best advantage. His opportunities are much less limited than they were, but increased competition makes it necessary for him to develop his own abilities to a greater extent than formerly in order to advance."

Payment For Hall Received

PWA Grant Assured For College Project

First partial payment of the Public Works Administration 45 per cent outright grant of $44,377 for the construction of the addition to Connell hall at Wayne State Teachers' college was received in Lincoln Friday by Fred W. Anderson, comptroller of the board of state normal schools, according to word received in Wayne by Dan Farrell, jr., resident engineer inspector for PWA in this district.

The check for $24,654 from the federal government marks the first actual transfer of federal funds on the new project and thus assures the fulfillment of the PWA contribution to the construction cost. The check is for 25 per cent of the total cost of the project and the payment was made after a government audit of preliminary expenses on the project was supplemented with a statement from the depository bank that the board had its full share of the cost of the project on deposit in a construction account set aside solely for this building.

When construction is 50 per cent completed the state normal school board can make application.

City Files Foreclosure Action

Foreclosure proceedings were filed against the Nebraska Central Building and Loan Association by the City of Wayne last Thursday.

During the month of March the city of Wayne purchased at a private tax sale of the treasurer of Wayne county the certificate for the following real estate: Lots 5 and 6 in block 3 original Wayne. Roy Jeffrey and Roy Cudaback are present tenants on the property, which is owned by the Nebraska Central Building and Loan Association. The place is allegedly covered with delinquent taxes which are not being collected and the City is foreclosing for taxes or property.

Agreement Is Sought On CCC Camp

Proposal Is Still Debated; Decision Awaited

Whether or not a Civilian Conservation Corps camp will be established in Wayne remained a question Monday as efforts were being continued to reach an agreement on the question.

The possibility that a camp might be established in the county but in some other town than Wayne also remained, but it was believed more likely that the state soil conservation committee would again approve a camp for this city if it was indicated that objections had been withdrawn. The committee originally approved Wayne as a site for a camp but withdrew its approval after plans for its establishment were vigorously attacked.

Both Sides

Advocates of the plan stressed the benefits to the farmers of the county and pointed to news dispatches from Beatrice stating that announcement that the CCC camp there is to be moved raised an immediate storm of protest and telegrams were prepared to send officials at Washington, a petition drafted and a protest meeting of business men and farmers called.

Argument on the other side of the question centered around the contention that a CCC camp would be a moral hazard to the community which would far outweigh its benefits. Both sides cited letters from business men, CCC youths and others in a position to know conditions at the various camps supporting their contentions.

Some progress toward reaching an agreement on the proposal was reported which indicated that a more thorough investigation would be conducted before a camp was either accepted or completely rejected.

Some leaders in the move for such a camp now believed the opposition would make it inadvisable to obtain one while others insisted the benefits to the town and county are too great to be sacrificed so easily.

Reports which were published during the past week in some state newspapers and broadcast to the effect that Wayne county was slated for a camp were termed erroneous by those in close touch with the situation. If a camp should be located here now, it would be necessary first to again have it approved by the state soil conservation committee, they explained. No such second approval has been granted.

City Pupils Enter National Art Exhibition

Joye Bush, Paul Petersen, and Donald Sund from Wayne City school have work entered in the fourth annual "Young America Paints" Art Exhibition which opened at the American Museum of Natural History on April 1 for a two week period.

The purpose of this exhibition is to demonstrate the kind of work being done and the close relationship of this work to the general studies and everyday life of the pupils. Some five hundred public, private and parochial schools are represented by more than a thousand paintings. There are entries by children all the way from kindergarten through high school, the media used being nearly as varied as the ages.

The exhibition is sponsored by a committee of Directors of Art Education of the public school systems.

State Medical Association To Meet In Wayne

The State Medical Association will meet at the Stratton hotel next Thursday for a 7 o'clock dinner and general meeting.

Dr. Wayland Hicks of Sioux City will give an address on some particular phase of medical work. This will be followed by A. L. Miller's address on "Medical Education". Dr. Miller is president of the State Medical Association.

After dinner the doctors' wives will hold a meeting in the club rooms of the City Auditorium.

CCC Work, Camp Offer Are Explained

Ahern Reviews Investigations; Describes Work

Editor's Note—The following article, written by Mr. J. J. Ahern, explains chief objectives of the CCC, the manner in which the camps are operated and relates the story behind the offer of a camp to Wayne along with results of investigations conducted by a group of business men. The question of whether or not Wayne should welcome such a camp has been the subject of heated controversy since definite announcement was made that a camp was to be moved here and officers inspected prospective sites.

By Mr. J. J. Ahern

The U. S. War department takes charge when serious floods occur. They superintend the work and spend the millions of dollars necessary to repair the damages these floods cause. A few years ago they determined it would be a great saving of money and a help in preventing loss of life and property if they spent some of their funds in holding back the water and the soil which has built up the river beds of our main rivers. In some towns along the Mississippi these river beds have been built with soil which comes from the farms until the river is as high as the second story windows of buildings. It is a tremendous expense to keep these dikes from bursting at flood times and an even greater expense to repair them.

The agricultural department welcomed such an idea because it is necessary to prevent the washing away of farm soil if the crop producing capacity of our farms is to be preserved.

Soil Control

These two agencies worked out a soil control program and the agricultural states are cooperating in it.

Nebraska is co-operating and under the supervision and direction of the state Soil Conservation committee any county can operate it.

Wayne county is one of the richest counties in the state. There is considerable loss of valuable top soil here through erosion. Until the last few years not much was thought about it but this loss becomes more serious each year and the state agricultural department, which checks such things, has been

Science Fair To Be Staged At High School

The Wayne High school Sigma Mu Gamma, science and mathematics, will present a science fair on the afternoon of April 13, and evening of April 14.

One of the features will be an "amateur radio" transmitter having an input of 200 watts operated by two licensed amateurs: Kenneth Gambia, W9MJL; Kenneth Petersen, W9ZAR. The exhibit will show the essential equipment necessary for communication with all parts of the world.

The main feature of the radio exhibit will be free radiogram service to all parts of the United States, Alaska, Philippine Islands, Canal Zone, and Hawaii. Radio can perform the same service as the telegraph. Messages can be handled quickly and efficiently by means of relaying the messages across the country through other stations. A law states that no amateur radio station may charge any fee whatsoever for this service and so messages may be sent to any city in these previously named countries absolutely free.

The radio exhibit at the Science Fair will demonstrate amateur equipment and the services given by radio.

An additional 30 watt radio-telephone transmitter is under construction at the present time and also may be completed in time for exhibiting at the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Teed and Miss Janice Mae returned home Thursday from the south where they had been visiting at different places for the past six weeks.

Light Vote Expected In City And School Board Election Today

Bids Asked On Addition To School

Board Clears Way To Speed Work On Project

The Wayne board of education cleared the way to speed work on the addition and remodeling of the city school Monday night, when they adopted a resolution advertising for bids on the structure. The notice to bidders will be found elsewhere in The News.

Bids were requested for April 28 in the belief that the case which has been delaying construction will be finally decided in supreme court by that date.

Hearing of the Wayne school bond case has been set by the supreme court of Nebraska for the week of April 17, according to word received by F. S. Berry, attorney for the school district.

Wayne voters, at a special election September 23, favored by 379 to 283 the proposal to issue bonds in the sum of $48,000 for remodeling and enlarging the city school. A federal grant of $39,150 for the project was approved October 29.

C. H. Hendrickson, chairman of the Taxpayers' League, filed an injunction in the bond issue, alleging that the lure of govern-

District 26 Wins Honors

Marjorie Caauwe Tops All Entries In Spelling Event

District 26 made an outstanding record last Saturday in the annual county spelling contest, capturing first, second, and third places. Marjorie Caauwe, winner of the county essay contest a few weeks ago, was victorious in the spelling contest, too. Marjorie is a seventh grade pupil. Deiores Peters, sixth grader in the same school, ranked second.

Eleven districts—numbers 40, 52, 61, 64, 23, 26, 68, 39, 69, 76 and 17—had a total number of 43 entrants in the contest. All these first took a written test. From this group the ten highest were selected to participate in the oral contest. Three girls tied for first place in the written test. Besides the two already mentioned there was Betty Martens, another pupil from District 26.

Miss Peters and Miss Caauwe will attend the interstate contest to be held in Sioux City, April 28. Marjorie will also compete in the state contest on the following day, April 29.

Mrs. Roy Philbin is the teacher in District 26.

Beckenhauers To Illinois

Mr. and Mrs. William Beckenhauer left last Wednesday for Lima, O. where Mr. Beckenhauer will transact business with the Superior Hearse corporation. Mrs. Beckenhauer will stop at DeKalb, Ill., where she will visit her daughter and son-in-law. Mr. Beckenhauer will come through DeKalb after Easter and both will return to Wayne.

Lippolds Leave For Philippines

Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Lippold and son will leave this morning for the Philippines. Mrs. Lippold's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Ahern will drive the young doctor and his wife to Columbus where they will board the train for the west coast. Dr. Lippold is to serve two years, foreign duty as dentist with the U. S. Navy at the Islands.

Third Ward Contest Holds Chief Interest

Although considerable interest is being shown in a few of the races in the city and school board election here today, the total vote was expected to be lighter than the last similar election when around 700 votes were cast.

Interest centers in the Third ward race where E. E. Galley, Citizens' party nominee and incumbent, is opposed by Carl E. Wright, Peoples' party entry.

Other Contest

Only other contest for councilman is in the Second ward where Robert K. Kirkman is the Citizens' party entry opposing Dr. Joe Gillespie of the Peoples' party. In the First ward, Walter S. Miller is the lone candidate, having been selected as the nominee of both the Peoples' party and the Citizens' party. Lack of opposition in this ward is expected to result in the smallest vote being cast there.

Voters in all wards will cast ballots for two of the four candidates for the two places on the board of education which are to be filled. Edward Seymour, Citizens' party nominee, is the only incumbent on the ballot. Paul Mines is the other Citizens' party nominee and L. W. McNatt and Dr. L. F. Perry are candidates of the Peoples' party.

Polling Places

Polls will open at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning and close at 8 o'clock in the evening. There has been some agitation for writing in names on the ballots against the regular nominees but little of this is anticipated since both parties are well represented.

Polling places are as follows: First ward, City Hall; Second ward, Grace Lutheran church on East Ninth; Third ward, courthouse. Because of the few candidates and the comparatively light vote expected, returns on the election should be available soon after the polls close.

Offices For County Agent Being Sought

If the county commissioners provide space in the courthouse for the offices of a county agent, the way will be cleared for immediate employment of one in Wayne county, according to officers of the County Farm Bureau, which was recently reorganized.

Arrangements have been made to employ an agent but agreement has not yet been obtained for the necessary offices in the courthouse. Representatives of the bureau plan to confer with the commissioners today on this question.

Unless office space is provided there, the plan to employ such an agent may have to be abandoned.

Kiwanians Hear Debaters Of Wayne Prep

The Wayne High debate team, which was originally scheduled to appear on the program at the luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club Monday, stepped aside for the Wayne Prep team, which captured second honors in the Class B division of the state tournament at Lincoln Friday and Saturday.

Competing in the strong Class A division, the High team, which won the district championship, lost to teams of larger state cities. But the Prep team made an excellent showing and gave Kiwanians an example of their debating, which brought honors to Wayne. Members of the Prep team, which includes Francis Smith, Joseph Kirwan, Warren Noakes and Herbert Welch, were introduced by M. W. Feddersen, high school debate coach as their coach, John Kyl, was unable to be present.

As the club is going to be host to a ladies night program on April 10, no regular meeting will be held next Monday. Elaborate preparations have been made for the inter-club ladies night event.

Highway Improvements

Only the most unreasonable advocates of a 'No Spending' program will deny that highway improvements are greatly needed in Wayne county.

Highway 15 extending south from Wayne is slated for improvement in the near future. The paving on this portion of the highway is well filled with holes and includes several sections where asphalt surface has virtually disappeared, despite the fact that work there is of recent date. The road north from Wayne may also be improved but work on it is scheduled for a later date and its need for improvement is obvious.

County roads compare favorably in most cases with similar county roads in this section of the state, although there are some which become impassible whenever the weather becomes unfavorable and which deserve more attention.

But, the main highways extending in all directions from Wayne are hardly ones of which the state may be proud. It must be remembered that these roads serve the farmers of the county as well as tourists and it is important to business in Wayne that they be kept in good condition.

Governor Cochran deserves commendation for his continual struggle to keep expenses at a minimum, not an easy task when many members of the legislature are battling for appropriations for various projects in their home communities or to benefit certain interests. Economy is needed and Nebraska's Chief Executive is doing a good job in keeping it constantly in mind.

It is also true that considerable money has been spent on highway improvements in Nebraska in recent years which could have been expended with much more beneficial results on improving the state's educational system.

These are facts which few will dispute, but Wayne county has not received its share of highway improvements in the past and it is time that some organized effort be made to get results as soon as possible. It is vitally important to business in Wayne to have first class highways, which would also serve the farmers of the county. Equally important to the farmers are the farm to market roads, which must be kept in as good condition as funds will permit.

Appropriations for highways may be reduced but some money will be spent and Wayne county should see that it obtains its long overdue share.

Coming

Summer and winter have been playing their usual game of rushing into Wayne and out again with such rapidity that they keep residents undecided whether to rake the yard and plant flowers or shovel off the snow. Lumber yards, which usually handle coal, have a problem deciding whether to urge spring building or feature the high quality of their coal. Merchants must keep both winter and spring merchandise handy to meet a demand which changes with the weather. In short, it's April in northeastern Nebraska.

But, the taste of summer which has already been received, indicates that they will not be forced to wait long before they dust off the old fan, forget about their furnaces and give cold drinks, the golf course and picnics a play.

Graduation Near

The school year is rapidly nearing a close. Seniors at the college and the two high schools are making all the thrilling preparations for that great day when they will march forward proudly for their diplomas. Then, they will map plans to continue their educational work or begin to battle the world for a living.

Present conditions, like those throughout recent years, are not the best for the graduate to tackle the world. There is still much unemployment and many who are trained for nearly every job available, but opportunity remains for those with the courage to make use of it.

Where many are failing in business, others are succeeding. The world is continuing to progress. New demands are being created and answered daily. Times are more difficult perhaps for the average student; opportunities are as great or greater than ever for the few.

There is always need for service, particularly great when general conditions are not so good. There is a place in almost any line of business for the one who is more efficient than his fellow men at that particular task.

Wayne students, graduates of both the college and the high schools, will receive their diplomas with the knowledge that they have an education above the average. Their training has been more efficient than that of the classes years ago, so, if their problems are greater than those of yesterday—and even that is a question—they are better equipped to meet and solve them. The educational leaders and their staffs in the Wayne schools have the satisfaction of knowing they have trained the boys and girls to meet the problems of today, difficult though they may be.

What Editors Say---

Calling All Business Men

In the hearings upon the question of old age assistance, Senator Mueller of Kearney offered the suggestion relief should be administered, not by the board control, but by a nonpartisan group of business men.

The suggestion has its appeal. In governmental expenditures old age assistance and relief represent the largest individual slice of the individual tax dollar. To put it under the watchful, trained, and experienced eye of a group of business men sounds mighty good. But about the first question that arises is where can a group of outstanding business men, in full possession of their faculties, be induced to sacrifice their business to take on the thankless, difficult and terribly complicated task of assuming the responsibility permanently for the administration of relief? It is a thankless job. It is more than that. It is a headache and a headache. When the call goes out to outstanding business men, it will be unanswered.—Lincoln Star.

4-H Dairy Team Finals To Be At Fair

Interest in the third annual National 4-H Dairy Production Demonstration contest, again available to club members, is greatly increased by the finals being scheduled Oct. 21-30 at the National Dairy show to be held at the San Francisco World's Fair. Conducted as before under the supervision of extension service, the activity offers attractive county, state and national awards and worthwhile training.

Both boys and girls may participate and their first step should be to apply to local leaders or the county extension agent for regulations and helps in preparing and organizing their parts.

Demonstrations must relate to breeding, growing, fitting, feeding, and judging dairy cattle and the production of milk and cream on the farm. County elimination contests must be held early enough to allow sufficient time for state selections to be made before September 15 deadline.

In addition to the awards, boys and girls may derive many other benefits such as acquiring knowledge on the best dairy practices and passing it on; gaining experience in public speaking, and developing team work and sportsmanship.

National Industries Weekly Review

The Nation's Leading Letter by J. E. Jones, Washington, D.C.

Washington, D. C., April 3—The congress appears to be in entire agreement with the President in the policies of arming to the teeth—and hoping that it will not be necessary to fire a gun or drop a bomb.

This may be a very noble attitude, despite the costs.

The more cool-headed national officials have been favorably impressed with the administration measure that imposed additional 25 per cent tariff penalties on Germany.

The wretched Hitler government has pulled its packs of trick-cards in barter-trading throughout American preserves, and we are warranted, on our own account, in striking back with economic punishments and economic boycotts. That's fair war, on our account, and entirely outside the breakdowns in European civilization.

Public And The Unions
Early hearings on the proposed amendments of the Wagner Act and the Administration of the National Labor Relations board are to be held before committees of congress. The American Federation of Labor is aggressively opposed to conditions existing in the Labor board. On the other hand the CIO doesn't want any changes.

A sensible congress can only do its duty by going ahead with the hearings, one place and battling each other's heads off in another.

The Washington belief is that the A.F. of L. and the CIO will not be able to settle their rows and consolidate their forces "in one place". That may have been a nice gesture on the part of the administration to bring them together, but the greatest public interest will be served by correcting the imperfections in the ing, and judging dairy cattle and the production of milk and cream on the farm. County elimination contests must be held early enough to allow sufficient time for state selections to be made before September 15 deadline.

In addition to the awards, boys and girls may derive many other benefits such as acquiring knowledge on the best dairy practices and passing it on; gaining experience in public speaking, and developing team work and sportsmanship.

labor laws and making them workable. That's what may be expected.

Another Panama Canal

The Panama Canal bristles with guns and fighting machines—but that doesn't stop plans before congress to make it bomb-proof. One plan provides for a "spare" canal across the isthmus, so that no ship will ever have to go round if enemies blow up any of the locks. The old sailing schooners and clippers went the long way around the Horn, and took a year for the trip, in the long, long ago. Congress regards most suggestions about the canal as fantastic schemes.

That Technological Fallacy

Way back in 1673 the "grand concern" of England was the stagecoach, which at that time was felt to threaten the saddle industry.

Nearly two and one-half centuries later came the horseless carriage to threaten and then largely supplant the buggy industry, and the truck to outdistance the wagon trade.

None would wish to revert to the "horse and buggy" era, much less to the stagecoach or horseback days. Yet there still persists, despite all the intervening evidence to the contrary, the cry against technological unemployment, the allegedly resultant evil that is supposed to stalk in the wake of industrial progress, including improved products, better equipment, more efficient methods.

Several men, each one an expert in his field, have spoken recently on this subject. Consider their authoritative opinions.

Justin W. Macklin, first assistant commissioner, United States Patent Office: "Technological unemployment is a theory, not a fact. Machines, far from destroying jobs, create them. It's a simple recognition of the simple fact that mechanization lowers costs; that the more cheaply goods are produced, the more are sold; and the more goods that are sold, the more people are employed. The highly mechanized industries, like the automotive, oil refining and printing, have been the first to recover from the depression, while the least mechanized, like building, have been the slowest. . . . The estimated million direct and indirect workers in the horse and buggy business represent only a fraction of those who owe their livelihood to the automobile."

Dr. Harold G. Moulton, President, Brookings Institute: "Whatever may have been the social and moral consequences of technological developments, aggregate employment has been enormously increased." He explained that in the United States between 1850 and 1930 the population increased from 23,000,000 to 123,000,000 and meanwhile per capita production income rose from about $250 to $700, allowance being made for changes in the level of prices.

The Widening Gaps
It is difficult to tell what will happen next in the Washington situation where there are hair-trigger differences between the President and congress. Out of a blue sky came a vote in the senate on government reorganization, with a defeat for the President of one vote—and that indicated a new chapter in the struggle between the White House and Capitol Hill, with endings that may result in an armistice, a political duel, or congressional revolt from White House control.

Congress is determined that the tax laws shall be revised downward, and it has been known, ever since the session began, that the President is against reducing the total tax incomes of the government—that he wants the spending and lending policies to continue as they are now fixed in administration plans. There's another widening gap through which all hopes of harmony may fall.

Issues are being made that will be fought through the 1940 campaign. As a matter of fact the indications are that the next national election is being kept constantly in mind by administration and congressional leaders, and that the gaps grow wider week by week.

Public Relations

In all the public buildings of our government one finds "information bureaus", "press departments", and other designations defining relations between our government and the press. Even the churches, lodges, societies and schools have found it necessary to do a large part of their own reporting for the press—or get left out of the news.

Twenty-five years ago the railroads used to close down all the avenues of information when there was a train wreck, or an accident. The result was that newspapers did the best they could under the circumstances with the result that imaginative reporters manufactured enormous tragedies out of minor accidents. Nowadays, it is useless to try to "hush up" legitimate news.

The title "public relations" hasn't made its way into the dictionaries, but it is on the way and you'll find it listed as a profession in classified telephone directories. "Public" stands for the people. "Relations" is the act of relating. That makes public relations perfectly understandable. A public relations official may balance the relations between industry and labor, or he may act to purge un-Americanism, or have something to do with the telephone, telegraph, railroad, or automobile industry. In the evolution of human and economic affairs, we are told, "There has resulted new and genuine interest in a type of approach to business problems that, for want of a better term, we call public relations."

Confirmations

All appointments made by the President have met with senate confirmations, except that of Mr. Amlie. Likely he would have slid through despite charges that he is too liberal. The reason he has been stopped is that he went on record in favor of government ownership of the railroads, thus indicating a conviction of opinion that has apparently led the senate committee to conclude that he is not the right man to fill a vacancy on the Interstate Commerce Commission, since the job of that body is to straighten out the problems of the lines and help to re-build private ownership.

Concert Given At College

Popular Event Staged Be Music Department

Last Thursday evening at 7:30 the music department of Wayne State Teachers college presented one of its concerts in the college auditorium.

Betty Ann Bard and Margaret Miller played a double piano arrangement of Victor Herbert's famous "March of the Toys". This was followed by Virginia Beckman, soprano, singing "Swiss Echo Song". This is a difficult selection due to the echo passages which require certain peculiar changes in use of the vocal chords which are not necessary in ordinary singing. Rubenstein's immortal "Melody in F" will always be an anticipated selection on any program. Bethene Stewart interpreted this, a piano solo. Elaine Lundberg, contralto, then appeared singing "Verdant Meadows" by Handel. Miss Lundberg's full low voice was properly exhibited in this composition.

Margaret Miller played a piano solo, McDowell's "Hungarian Etude" which was followed by Edwin Carstensen, tenor, singing "Acushla", a typical love song. In direct contrast was Lovallee's "Butterfly", a piano solo by Vivian Nelson. After this sprightly number the audience returned to the realms of melancholia with Betty Wright who sang the mournful "Death and the Maiden" so characteristic of its composer, Schubert.

Certainly any determination to rest in a moody state ended however, when Bernice Lyngberg initiated the piano with Copeland's tricky "Cat and the Mouse" in which one could with only a semblance of imagination see vividly the game of hide and seek played.

Jay Jacobi, baritone, gave his interpretation of "Shipmates O' Mine", a solemn number for a rich voice. This was followed by the ever popular "In a Persian Market" arranged for two pianos played by Larhylla Whitmore and Ann Hamley. Miss Hamley read a brief outline of what Kettleby the composer was attempting to portray.

Virginia Shelton sang "In the Calmness of a Vision" (from Romeo and Juliet).

Wakefield To Vote On Liquor

The Wakefield City election will be held at the usual polling places in the Wakefield city auditorium and at the rear of the bank building Tuesday.

Two members of the school board are to be chosen, L. J. Kilian, Carroll Van Valin and Floyd Clough, being those on the ballots.

Two members of the city council are to be elected although the first ward ticket shows Chas. A. Sar the nominee by both parties, unopposed. In the second ward, Robert E. Anderson on the Civic Enterprise Party ticket opposes Harry Wendel on the Citizens Party ticket.

The voters of both wards vote on the matter of allowing the sale of alcoholic liquor except beer. The ballot allows the voters a choice in voting either For or Against, the issuance of a license to sell liquor by the package.

Our Redeemer's Lutheran Church To Observe Golden Jubilee April 16

All Day Program To Be Held In Wayne

Sunday, April 16, Our Redeemer's Evangelical Lutheran church of Wayne will celebrate its 50th birthday.

The services for the celebration will begin at 10:30 a. m. in the church. Rev. A. Graber, Nashua, Ia. and Rev. R. Moehring, Grand Island, Neb. will address the congregation. Following their addresses Rev. W. F. Most, pastor, will read the church history. At 1:30 p. m. everyone will go to the City Auditorium where a program will be given and dinner will be served. The evening service will begin at 8 o'clock in the church. Rev. H. A. Teckhaus, of Tekamah, Neb. and Rev. A. Graber, one of the speakers of the morning, will give addresses. Dedication exercises directed by Rev. Most will conclude the day's activities.

The first meeting which led to the organization of this church was held in January, 1889 in a store owned by August Piepenstock. It was first called "The German Evangelical Church".

In 1899 the cornerstone for the new church was laid, and by January, 1900 the building was completed and formally dedicated. The true growth of the church has taken place since that date. In 1902 the parsonage was erected. Three years later a bell was purchased. By 1920 there had been numerous improvements, and in that year the parsonage was rebuilt and modernized, and the streets were paved.

Everything had progressed rapidly, but in 1821 the church was badly damaged by fire. However under efficient direction it was restored and remodeled, and then rededicated on May 8 of the same year. In 1927 stained glass windows were added; two years later Mr. Louis Knoll presented the church with a new altar, baptismal font, pulpit and a painting of Christ.

During the Advent season, 1936, robes were purchased for the choir. Since that time the robed choir with music from the Common Service book introduced for usage on Easter Sunday, 1937, has done much to enhance services.

The German Evangelical church became a member of the German Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Nebraska in July, 1933. At this time, the name was changed to Our Redeemer's Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The latest and one of the finest additions not only to the church but also to the services was the installation of an organ. It will be formally dedicated at the fiftieth anniversary celebration on April 16.

Wife Of Former Wayne Minister Taken By Death

Mrs. J. H. Karpenstein, 70, wife of Rev. Karpenstein who served Our Redeemer's Lutheran church as pastor from March, 1901, to December, 1912, died Friday, March 10, at Livermore sanitarium near San Francisco, where she had received treatments for five years. Funeral rites were held Monday, March

Above, Our Redeemer's Evangelical Lutheran church, dedicated January 15, 1900. Below, Rev. W. F. Most, pastor since November, 1936.

13, at Oakland, Calif. Survivors are her husband, Rev. Karpenstein, now retired, two sons, Henry, who teaches music in Sunnyvale, Calif., and conducts the choir in one of the large Lutheran churches in San Francisco, and Andrew, an accountant for the Shell Oil company in San Francisco, and two daughters. Miss Elizabeth, now teaching languages in a college at Berkeley, Calif., and Miss Katherine, librarian at the same college.

Candidates In Laurel Election

Tuesday is election day in Laurel. In the school election there are two members of the board to be selected from a list of three candidates. They are C. O. Ericson, present incumbent, B. E. Maun and A. S. Alexander. W. E. Johnson, who was nominated to succeed himself has withdrawn his name from the race after serving several years on the board.

In the village election two members are to be elected. O. F. Petersen, present mayor, is opposed by G. W. Youngberg, and Andrew Paulsen, present member of the board, is opposed by Faye P. Stewart.

Women's Vote Plays Major Role, Leaders Say

In forecasting an election, Dr. George Gallup, head of the American Institute of Public Opinion, says: "You're always right to the extent that you ignore women. Elections always come out as the men vote". The Democratic Digest, publication of the Democratic National Committee, has asked what its readers thought about this statement.

United States Senator Elbert D. Thomas says: "Anyone who assumes that the women's vote does not count in America is flying in the face of experience and history. Just where do you find the equivalents among men voters: the Democratic study groups of the YWCA, League of Women Voters, the power of women in the National Education Association, and many others? While it is true that many of these organizations are non-partisan, they all influence public opinion greatly, and public opinion moves the great independent vote which, in the final analysis, decides elections".

Mary T. Norton, representative from New Jersey, says it is absurd to say that women's vote is controlled.

Mrs. F. S. Morgan, Mrs. Mary Strickland and Miss Nell Strickland went to Sioux City Thursday to visit in the Donald Simpson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Renard and daughters attended the Paderewski concert at Omaha Thursday.

Wakefield Woman Taken By Death Sunday

Mrs. A. E. Nimrod, for 42 years a resident of Wakefield and vicinity, passed away at her home here Sunday night of last week after only a few days' illness, although she had not been in good health for some time.

They moved to Wakefield in 1897 and for a number of years farmed in this community, but moved into town in 1916. Mrs. Nimrod had been a member of the Lutheran church since early youth and joined the Salem congregation when they came to this community.

She leaves her husband and five sons. The sons are Rutherford, Harry, Clemens, Luther and Clifford, all of Wakefield except Clifford, who lives at Yankton, S. D. One son, David, died 4 years ago. There are also fourteen grandchildren, on brother, Seth Ossian of Wakefield, four sisters, two half-brothers and three half-sisters, a step-mother, other relatives and many friends of the family, who mourn her loss. Her parents, one brother, Gothard and one sister, Ida, preceded her in death.

Funeral services were conducted from the home at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and at Salem Lutheran church at 2:30 with Rev. A. L. Peterson officiating. Hymns were sung by a male quartette which included the following: Lawrence and Vern Carlson, Lawrence and Roy Hanson, Mrs. D. P. Quimby sang in Swedish.

The following acted as pall bearers: C. A. Bard, Luther Bard, Joe Johnson, Roy Sundell, Carl Anderson, and Enoch Anderson.

Burial was in the Wakefield cemetery.

Council Grants Applications For Licenses

Frank Heine was employed at a salary of $100 a month to have charge of the city parks during the summer at the regular meeting of the city council last Tuesday.

Applications of Peter Petersen and A. H. Reifkofski for on and off sale beer licenses were granted, also J. H. Rehder's for on sale. The council recommended to the state liquor control commission the applications of Wayne Ice and Cold Storage Co. for wholesale beer license and J. H. Rehder for package liquor. Beer applications of J. R. Miller, Wm. Parenti, and the partnership of Donald McGuigan and Margaret Day were set for hearing April 11.

The council approved the application of E. E. Galley for permit to build on lot 7, block 4, original Wayne.

First Spring Game Will Be Played Tomorrow

Wednesday afternoon at 4 p. m. football candidates at the college go out for their first spring football game. There will be one 11-man game, followed by a 6-man game. The latter game will be played by boys from the Training school.

Next Saturday the college track team goes to Yankton to an English meet. There will be six relay and six field events. Coach Morrison isn't sure where he is going to get four milers but he added that he was going to get the boys goggles so they won't get cinders in their eyes. He expects the Wayne boys to rate fairly high in field events.

While all these outdoor preparations are being made, volleyball fads are still making half hearted attempts to finish the tournament before "dog days set in". Then of course there are also those who are reluctant to lay aside ping pong and badminton paddles.

One of these days Doc Hesse and Keith Johnson, and Russ Vlanderson and Beverley Canning will play their respective games, which will conclude the table tennis tournament this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Meyer and daughter Lorraine were Friday evening visitors in the John Goshorn home. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Surber were Thursday evening visitors.

CCC Camp Proposal Explained By Ahern

looking ahead to a time in the not distant future when crop yields in this important county are going to be seriously cut down and they are willing to cooperate with the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the War department in a program to prevent this.

There are two programs—a permanent one and an educational one. Under the former, enough farmers in the county must be interested to form a County Soil Conservation district. About 30,000 acres of land must be represented. The farmers form a district according to state laws. They elect their own officers, who serve without pay.

The government furnishes soil and erosion engineers who maintain headquarters and offices in Wayne. Their expenses and salaries are paid by the government.

Farmers Decide The farmers in the district use their own judgment as to whether they have a soil losing problem on their farms. If a farmer requests it, these government engineers will come to his farm and make a survey and soil tests and work out a plan of erosion control and crop rotation for his farm.

Government engineers and soil experts are stationed in a county for two to five years. Any farmer can apply to them for help in solving his soil erosion problem.

problem. They will do the same engineering as is done under the permanent program and CCC labor will do the actual work without cost.

The differences in the two programs is in their permanency. The second one is called educational because it is figured that if this work is done on a number of farms during the two to five years of the programs, other farmers will see the value of it and do some similar work on their own farms.

Mr. Ringer, Mr. Ley and myself went to Lincoln a year ago and had the plan explained to us by Dean Engstrom of the soil conservation department at the state agricultural college.

At the time all the CCC camps in the state were located in other counties and the government was making no appropriations for new camps so we gave up any hopes of securing the conservation program for Wayne county.

As chairman of the agricultural committee of the Kiwanis club I reported the results of the investigation to the club and the matter was dropped.

Offer Camp To our great surprise Dean Engstrom and Dean Gould appeared in Wayne a short time ago with the information that the temporary conservation program had been approved for Wayne county and that a CCC camp, which had completed its program in another county, could be moved here to carry out the work.

Several other counties had applied for the program and we were requested to give an immediate answer as to whether we wanted it in Wayne county.

Before making any decisions, Mr. Ringer and myself (Mr. Ley being in Mexico) made an investigation of the experiences other towns were having with CCC camps.

We believe we have as much concern about the welfare of our city and schools as any one could have and we wished to make sure that a CCC camp would function here without detriment to either. A personal trip was made to Blair, where a camp has been located for three years. Interviews were had with a prominent banker and member of the City Council and we found the camp was well managed, was causing no trouble, and was doing valuable work for the county.

Boys Trained We learned that these boys, while they spent eight hours daily in the field, are not regarded as men hired for farm work and do not turn out the amount of work expected of farm hands. Their work in the field is regarded as educational to them. They learn the value and habit of work, many of them receive training in soil erosion top-

No Contest In Winside Village Election

With no contest in village election at Winside Tuesday, indications are that a comparatively small vote will be cast. H. L. Neely and Henry Fleer are assured of election as only their names will appear on the ballot for the two vacancies.

In the school election, the only contest will be between the four men nominated for the two three year vacancies, Fred Wittler, H. M. Hilpert, Art Herscheid, present members of the board and T. J. Pryor.

Dr. R. E. Gormley is unopposed for the one year term as member of the board of education, G. A. Mittelstadt, the other nominee, having declined nomination.

Benefits Seen Accordingly, an army officer and official of the government Soil Conservation department came here to investigate locations. About 10 acres were required. New buildings were to be erected at a cost of $30,000; about $10,000 of this amount would go to Wayne carpenters, plumbers, painters and electricians.

Camps Wanted The camp at Hartington has been closed but several efforts have been made to get it back. At Ames, Ia., there is a camp close to the college grounds.

Finally we reviewed the list of boys who had gone to CCC camps from Wayne county. To my astonishment I found Wayne county had sent 140 boys.

No Public Menace I believe you would agree with me if you went over the list of Wayne county CCC boys that they were no public menace. Wayne is a grand town but it could be made to look otherwise to a strange audience if our three marshals were to rectify their experiences with its boys and men.

Among the counselors in the CCC camps whom we know here in Wayne are Superintendent Smith of the high school, who served in two camps, Gomer Jones of Carroll and Charles Juronek, former superintendent of the Carroll schools.

They invite inspection of any Nebraska camp as now conducted and expressed a desire to meet with any group of Wayne people and present facts and figures to show why Nebraska camps rate first at this time in educational and administrative conduct.

Country Club Is Recreational Center

Organized In 1917, It Still Plays Major Role Editor's Note — Following is another of the series of stories describing Wayne's organizations, their accomplishments and plans, together with a list of officers. This article deals with the Country Club.

Of the several organizations in a community one of special significance is that which has for its purpose pleasure. In this respect Wayne is fortunate in having a Country Club.

The Country Club was organized in 1917 with Mr. J. T. Bressler, Sr. as its first president and Frank Morgan as secretary and treasurer. The club at that time was located in the same place as it is now—1 1/2 miles east on 7th street and about a quarter of a mile south.

The main objective of the Country Club is to maintain an attractive and useful golf course in addition to providing a delightful place for social gatherings. For the dinner parties during the month of March.

Officers and Members The following are this year's officers: William Beckenhauer, president; Dr. L. F. Perry, vice president; and C. M. Craven, secretary-treasurer.

There are golf members from Emerson, Wakefield, and Laurel as well as from Wayne. As yet the list of regular members is not complete, and for that reason is not being published at this time.

ADAPTED FROM THE METRO GOLDWYN MAYER PICTURE

SYNOPSIS — Brooks Mason, film star, is masquerading in Hawaii as George Smith, plantation owner, while Smith is impersonating him in New York. They are exact doubles. Brooks (as George) is accused of stealing $50,000 from the father of Smith's fiancée, Cecilia, while Smith (as Brooks) has announced he will marry Cecilia. However, Brooks' leading lady, out of all Brooks tries to explain matters to Dorothy March, the dancer he has fallen in love with, but she doesn't believe him. His manager won't let him talk to Smith in New York, and Wang, Smith's servant, suggests broadcasting announcement of Smith's (Brooks') early marriage to Cecilia.

Chapter Eleven

A STRAIGHT-JACKET FOR GEORGE

The Fiesta room of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel was filled on the night that Dorothy March was to make her first appearance. At a table close to the stage sat Brooks Mason, Cecilia Grayson, her father and some of their friends. Most of the guests were dancing, but Brooks was disturbed and had not even asked Cecilia if she cared to dance.

As the music stopped and the dancers resumed their seats, the leader of the band stepped to the microphone.

"Ladies and gentlemen, Aloha to you and Aloha to that lovely Dorothy March. As a special tribute to our island, she is going to dance her version of our native hula. You know it's her opening night, so let's all join in and give a Royal Hawaiian welcome." Brooks joined in the applause so warmly that Cecilia glanced at him in surprise. To him Dorothy was a vision of loveliness in the native dancing costume, and he was charmed anew by her like grace, the sinuosity of her movements, the suppleness of her body. He groaned inwardly thinking of the announcement soon to be made. If Dorothy would only see him — let him explain — if she would only listen, and believe — if Wong's scheme did not work, and he had to go through with the wedding — Dorothy appeared on the stage again to bow her acknowledgment of the cordial reception accorded her. Her eyes went to the table at which Brooks was sitting; his arm was over the back of Cecilia's chair, so that, to Dorothy, they seemed very intimate and happy. She ran quickly off the stage and into the arms of Millie, who took one glance at her face.

"Forget about him honey. I was engaged to a guy called George once. They're all alike, those Georges — only mine was different. He only wanted to be engaged — said he was allergic to marriage."

The orchestra leader spoke into the microphone again. "This is the Daily News talking to you from the dreamy shores of Honolulu. We haven't time in our brief half hour to name all the prominent guests who are here tonight, but we have a special announcement to make."

Brooks sat up straight in his chair, bracing his shoulders for the shock of what he knew was coming.

"At the same instant in New York at Bellevue Hospital, George Smith, dressed to go out, sat in an easy chair listening to the music being broadcast from the Royal Hawaiian Hotel in Honolulu, feeling very homesick. Vera, the pretty nurse, was standing close by the chair.

Joe Duffy breezed in. "Well, glamour pants, I've got everything fixed. In a few minutes I'm taking you out of here in a trunk."

The announcer's voice from the radio droned on: "We have a special announcement to make. We are signally honored by the presence of a happy young girl and a proud young man who have chosen the Fiesta Room to announce their engagement. I am going to ask the charming young couple to take a bow. Their wedding will take place on the twelfth of June... Miss Cecilia Grayson and Mr. George Smith..."

George Smith jumped from his chair as though he had been shot, exclaiming: "Good Lord!"

Joe and Vera ran to him in alarm. "Take it easy, Brooksie. What's the matter?"

"What is it?" cried George fiercely, as the applause of the audience in the Fiesta Room of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel came over the

"Honolulu." "Marriage." "Honolulu." "Honolulu." "Honolulu," said the bearded man.

"Honolulu," replied George.

"Gosh, Professor Zimmerman, you can't get him out of Honolulu," said Joe very much concerned.

"His affliction is quite common," whispered the professor. "It's the type of psychosis which is characterized by the complete loss of contact with the environment, and by the disintegration of personality. It's a clear case of achishizophrenia. You must take him to Honolulu. Perhaps there, in the environment he craves, he will regain his normal personality."

"He was never in Honolulu in his life," whispered Joe, but Professor Zimmerman nodded his head.

"That's the answer," he said.

June 12th arrived inexorably, and it was approaching the noon hour the time set for the wedding of George Smith and Cecilia Grayson. Brooks had engaged a room at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel for the ceremony. He was partly dressed, shirt tails hanging outside his trousers, and was at the telephone, speaking almost hysterically.

"Put... but it can't be late! It was supposed to land this morning! I counted on it... I don't give a darn about the ceiling. That Clipper can't do this to me!" He hung up in desperation. "Great powers, Wong! What am I going to do? The Clipper may not be here for another hour! The bride is waiting! We got to do something! Think — think fast!"

"Keep dressing," said Wong.

"(Sipping the Clipper doesn't get here)," said Brooks, now at the window listening for the whine of an airplane propeller. "Suppose it falls in the ocean."

"Mr. Smith good swimmer," said Wong.

The door bell rang, and Brooks called "Come in" into the telephone, which he had taken up again. Millie De Grasse entered. She pointed, giggling, at his shirt tail.

"Your slip is showing! You... you fiend in the grass! So you're gonna go through with it — marry that Grayson girl just because she has lovely pineapples. I think you're terrible, horrible, despicable, and that's only a hint of what I really think!"

"Tell me, Millie, please — what did Dorothy say?"

"How can she say anything? You can't talk and cry at the same time."

"I know I'm horrible, terrible... Did you hear anything?" He ran to the window.

"I hear anything. I'll let you know," said Millie. "And I hope you forget to tuck your shirt in!" And with that, she was gone.

UP YOUR BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of fluid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blots up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks unkind. A more bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name, 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Free Book From McCleary Clinic

Any one afflicted with hemorrhoids (piles), fistula, non-malignant rectal ills of any kind or colon troubles, would do well to write the McCleary Clinic, E-100 Elms Blvd., Excelsior Springs, Mo., for a copy of a book published by that institution. The book is full of valuable information — explains the nature of rectal ailments of various kinds, cautions against possibly harmful procedures, and offers suggestions helpful to any one suffering from these common ills.

The McCleary Clinic is the largest institution of its kind in the world, specializing exclusively in rectal and colon cases. Its treatment is known to thousands of former patients, who have come to it from all over the States, Canada, and many foreign lands. A written request will bring you a free copy of the book, in plain wrapper, without placing you under any obligation.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. The Doan's Pills, Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

Rev. I. N. Demy says:

I have found nothing in the past 20 years that can take the place of Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills. They are a sure relief for my headache."

Sufferers from Headache, Neuralgia, Toothache, Backache, Sciatica, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuritis, Muscular Pains, Periodic Pains, write that they have used Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills with better results than they had even hoped for.

Countless American housewives would no more think of keeping house without Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills than without flour or sugar. Keep a package in your medicine cabinet and save yourself needless suffering. At Drug Stores—25c and $1.00

Wayne. He has not changed his views although he agrees there are some benefits particularly from the standpoint of the farmers. He indicated that if an effort was made to force a camp on Wayne, he would again speak against it and avail himself of the offer of The News, the columns of which incidentally are open at all times to anyone who desires to express an opinion on either side of subjects of community interest without resorting to personal attacks.

Any move to force a camp on Wayne while any large representative group opposes it, should and would be opposed by the leaders who are advocating the location of a camp here and who have demonstrated by their work for the progress of both the city and its schools in the past that they have the best interests of the city at heart. The possibility remains, however, that differences of opinion may be ironed out.

The camp question spotlights the need of a Chamber of Commerce or some other community-wide organization at which such civic questions could be presented, discussed and solved. Many such problems arise as a city progresses and as Wayne grows, the need for such an organization will become increasingly great.

While there has been some agitation for voters of certain wards to write in names of candidates for some of the council posts which are to be filled at the election Tuesday, interest in the campaign was not as great as anticipated. Unless there is some late move to stir the voters, it is unlikely that a heavy vote will be cast. Apparently little campaigning is being done, the candidates being content to rest their cases with the voters.

With the many lines of business well represented as they are in Wayne, assuring ample competition in every line, no Trade At Home campaign should be necessary. However, it seems that records of some officials and institutions indicate they have become a bit careless in supporting firms and institutions which they call upon to support them. This sending money out of Wayne county unnecessarily is a handicap to the city's progress and prosperity—a fact it would pay to remember.

Letters voicing opinions on subjects of current interest, whether or not they agree with our opinions on the subject, are welcomed by The News and will be published, providing they conform to the same rules as articles written by members of the staff. In brief, they must be free from libel, should deal with issues and not personal attacks or advertising. As a rule, letters should be limited to 500 words. Through its Public Forum column, The News hopes to give those on both sides of every issue an opportunity to voice their opinions throughout Wayne county.

What Does Today's World Offer Grad?

Mrs. J. A. Perkins—"It is a great deal more difficult for everyone to get jobs now. There are ever so many college graduates who have been digging ditches, but that is nothing against education. It is my opinion that everyone should have an education, because even a ditch digger is better off if he is educated."

Mr. W. A. Wollenhaupt—"There is a greater challenge with no less of an opportunity."

Mrs. B. W. Wright—"There are more opportunities than ever today. I don't think the graduates are so well equipped though as they think they are."

Arlyn Nelson—"Opportunities for service are greater than they have ever been before. Whether the employed will get paid for their services is another thing. I still believe that someone who has the initiative can get work."

Fred L. Blair—"I think more graduates should be trained for some specific trade like a lumberman, groceryman or carpenter—something like that. Too many young folks come around without any knowledge of a definite trade."

Mrs. W. F. Dierking—"There is no question about the fact that jobs are harder to get now than they have been; however, opportunities for service are just as great as ever. People need the same kind of services now that they have always needed. There is a mistaken idea, I think, that those who have a college education are above manual labor. Everyone must not expect to be a part of the professional world because there are always some kinds of positions—things must be done—that are not of professional nature."

E. W. Smith—"Satisfactory business and professional connections are more difficult to make today than formerly. Jobs are relatively scarce, competition keener. College graduates and non-graduates alike face this situation. The possession of true and worthwhile education will not guarantee immediate employment to its possessor graduating from college. It is a distinct advantage to the job hunter, however, and whether secured in college or otherwise, it will register heavily on the side of success in life's long pull. Education, in any age, can never handicap the person fortunate enough to possess it."

tion for an additional 10 per cent, which is not actually paid by the government until after the project is 70 per cent completed. The final 10 per cent of PWA's 45 per cent contribution is not paid until the building is completed and the final audit made. This payment is adjusted so that the total is not more than 45 per cent of the costs which are approved by PWA auditors as eligible to be figured in the grant base.

The contribution of the federal government not only makes possible the construction of this and thousands of other new school buildings throughout the country, but already is having a marked effect on the building materials, industries and the transportation system of the country", Engineer Farrell stated. "This is in addition to the effect of increased employment locally, in which men will be working for private contractors for a prevailing, rather than a sustaining wage."

The building, a U-shaped structure which will incorporate Connell hall as the east wing, will be completed by September. The cafeteria, banquet room, student offices and lounge will occupy the first floor. A faculty lounge and apartments will be on the upper story.

J. L. Soderberg of Omaha, has the general contract for $77,309; W. G. Volkman of Norfolk, has the plumbing and heating for $12,577; and Rapid Electric Co. of Rapid City, does the electrical work for $3,065.

ment money constituted bribery. He also contended that the election was held under an invalid law and that the law really applicable called for 60 per cent majority.

In his answer in behalf of the school board Mr. Berry alleges that the charge of bribery is without merit for mere inducement is not sufficient to render any election void, and the government grant was not allowed or made until after the election, so it was not a certainty at the time of the election. The bonds are valid, Mr. Berry states, for the provisions of the law which authorized Wayne district to issue bonds is substantially the law which has been incorporated in the statutes of Nebraska for 57 years. The section of the statute regarding issuing bonds by vote of 51 per cent has come unchanged to the present, Mr. Berry answers.

The injunction was heard in November before District Judges C. H. Stewart and A. E. Wenke, both of whom ruled the election was legal. Mr. Hendrickson appealed the case to the supreme court where it will be heard the week of April 17.
