

Wayne On Parade

The coffee drinking habit continues in Wayne despite the arrival of summer weather. If some clerk informs you that the proprietor of a Wayne store is out at present but will return shortly, you may gamble safely that he's a coffee fiend, getting his daily bit of hot stimulant mixed with generous doses of conversation with his coffee-hour pal. They team up something like this, W. C. Coryell and Carl Wright; L. W. McNatt, R. L. Larson and often Alex Swan; Clarence Wright and whoever has the same urge when he's ready. You're likely to meet R. L. Kirkman and one or two of his coffee companions and there are numerous others who frequently, if less consistently, indulge.

If the darn plastering and plaster-board had only decided to part with the ceiling at the Wayne High school a few months earlier, think how the crash would have aided those supporting the bond issue. But, life is always like that. As one member of the board moaned the other day, a little jumping on the second floor by a heavyweight would have turned the trick sometime ago, but instead of contemplating any such deception, board members feared that it would fall and then they would be immediately accused of some such plot. Anyway, that's his story and he is a man whose truth and veracity there is no reason to question.

Attention is called to National Baby Week, which is being observed this week, in a group of ads on Page 6 of this edition of your News, which tempts us to bore you at length with all the cute things which help make Babs boss at the Kingsley home. One of these days we'll probably not resist the temptation, which seems to be a common parental ailment, of boasting at length about the world's greatest baby but will try to refrain until she reaches the ripe old age of one, which will be only a matter of a few weeks now. A year ago, we felt that parents were a trifle on the silly side when they lauded at length the wonderful behavior of their Bills and Marys but now it's all very understandable and very interesting, particularly if they'll surrender the floor for a similar recital of Babs' good points. It's funny how viewpoints shift.

Wayne seems to be sharing in the benefits of the CCC camp being established at Winside to the extent at least that officers of the new camp are scrambling for vacant houses here. It seems there's a house shortage at Winside and few to spare in Wayne. It all means good business for the real estate agents and house owners here and will stimulate business generally to some extent.

It's reported in reliable circles that our old friend to the west, Norfolk, is bidding seriously to play host to the third district music contest next year, which attracted a record crowd here the last weekend in April. There are only a score or more excellent reasons why the contest should remain here. In the first place, the schools competing and judges alike highly praised the efficient manner in which the contest was conducted here; entries left Wayne well pleased with the judges and the judges in turn lauded both the work of the students and officials in charge. The college has the necessary buildings, several are required for the various events, and the many students to help handle the hundreds of details which cannot be overlooked. Wayne has been a popular host; it has more adequate facilities and advantage of years of experience in past contests to recommend it. Just what can Norfolk offer to outweigh all these advantages?

Considering the number of times dark clouds have promised a heavy rain in Wayne, this city has received only a small percentage of its rainfall quota. However, one of these days such threats should result in that inch or two downpour which is needed. Some Wayne congregations have been urged to pray for rain, although the lack of moisture thus far is not regarded as serious.

Wayne's Legion post deserves a loud round of applause from Mr. Average Citizen. Seldom will you find a post which contributes so much to community pride.

Dr. Charles Druden, Omaha, will deliver the commencement address at the Wayne Prep school, Tuesday, May 30.

The college band and orchestra will play at the convocation period at 10 o'clock this morning at the open air theater on the campus. Prof. John R. Keith is in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bahe are the parents of a boy, born last Thursday at a Norfolk hospital. The baby, who has been named Theodore Lee, tips the scales at 6 pounds, 6 1/2 ounces. Mr. Bahe is employed by the Coryell Auto company as a salesman.

It was originally planned to organize the committee at the meeting last Tuesday but the small representation of farmers made it inadvisable. Majority of the farmers who had been invited to attend were busy working. One of the interesting features of the meeting was an explanation of the problems which the

What Will The Poor Grad Do?

F. E. Decker—If he has plenty of initiative and has done a good job of his high school and college work, he shouldn't have to worry too much about getting a job. If he has been going along with the idea all he needed was a diploma to get a job, then he will be sadly disillusioned. L. A. Fanske—He has as good a show as anybody in the past, better than when we graduated. The future should be brighter than when I graduated. Always a good job waiting for the right kind of youngster. If they are young and after it, they will get a job. Margaret Day—Do just like most of them who haven't a high school or college education. They can't be choosy the way times are. Fred Bartels—Anyone that is willing can always make a job if he can't get one. Clayton Kittelson—The boy should try to get a job of some sort and wait until his chance comes. The girl ought to get married. Allen Cook—So far as graduates of Wayne State Teachers College are concerned, our placement bureau is very successful in placing those who are interested in teaching. Therefore, a graduate of this college has reasonable expectancy of employment upon graduation if he expects to teach. Doris Patterson—Most of them who won't be able to get into their chosen professions will get temporary jobs. The high school graduate should go on to school if he can. J. J. Steele—Get out and dig. He can't sit down. If he cannot get what he wants, he will have to take what he can get until some future time when he might be able to realize his ambitions. Dorothy Steele—Unless you really have ambitions and push yourself ahead, it's hard to get work unless you're in the teaching profession. It's easier to get teaching positions. The better educated have a better chance to get a job.

Footings And Wall Erected

Workmen Monday completed the concrete wall and column footings for the $100,000 addition to Connell hall at Wayne State Teachers college, Dan Farrell, Jr., resident engineer for the Public Works Administration, reported to Regional Director R. A. Radford, of Omaha. The PWA is participating to the extent of an outright grant of $44,377 to the project. The footings took approximately 800 sacks, (a minimum carload) of portland cement and 175 tons of concrete gravel. Work on this and other PWA-financed projects throughout the country have been speeded up to comply with an order of Administrator Harold L. Ickes that men and materials be put to work as quickly as possible, Engineer Farrell said. Pouring of concrete subgrade walls will be the next move in

New Set Of School Bids To Be Taken

All Contractors Bid In Excess Of Funds Available

A new set of bids will be taken May 23 for the Wayne High school addition and remodeling job, it was decided Monday night by the board of education. Wayne city schools, as the result of the unsatisfactory bids received and opened last Friday afternoon. Lowest net bid received last week, after all alternates had been deducted, was that of the Kingery Construction company of Lincoln, at $91,918. The board would have available slightly more than $88,000, depending on interest, to cover construction and architectural fees if the decision on the legality of the bond election is favorable. This includes an outright grant of $39,150 the government, through the Public Works Administration, has promised if the work can be completed by December 21 of this year.

Three Bids Close

Of eight bids received covering the proposed work, three were so closely bunched that had the full amount of funds been available, the lowest bidder would depend on the number of alternates accepted. The alternates are either substitutions or omissions of parts of the work, each of which, if accepted by the board, would deduct from the base bid in determining the contract price. Garner's Candidacy

The presidential candidacy of John Nance Garner is reputedly not being taken seriously by the really tough and knowing democratic chieftains in Washington.

They are confident that the canny old vice-president will not be nominated for what they consider three good and sufficient reasons: First, they say that President Roosevelt would bitterly oppose his nomination and lead his liberal faction out of the party should the Texan be named the standard bearer; second, they declare that Garner would not be acceptable to labor, and third, they stress the fact that his nomination would cost the party the entire negro vote, not such an unimportant consideration as might be believed at first thought.

We believe that they are mistaken in the only two arguments which are sufficiently important to block Garner's nomination. First, while obviously the President would favor the nomination of a far more liberal candidate than his running-mate, we seriously doubt that once nominated, President Roosevelt would split the party in an effort to block his election. Such a move, he undoubtedly would realize, would virtually assure the election of the republican candidate. That he might allow this possibility to remain an unvoiced threat to obtain the nomination of a candidate more suitable from his standpoint, we do not question. It has always been the policy of President Roosevelt to show the club, although he seldom makes use of it since the exhibition alone generally accomplishes his aims.

In the second place, the labor vote will undoubtedly be split. Some of it will return to the republican camp; the extreme radical faction will probably offer its own candidate, but the vast majority may be expected to remain democratic. Labor's ranks are already well divided by the two labor federations. They can hardly be expected to unite politically when election day rolls around.

In the third place, the negro vote, although of importance in a close presidential race is not so powerful that it could defeat a really popular candidate.

Garner, we believe, would be a popular choice, one who could hold the majority, who while considered conservative by the extreme liberal and radical factions, would preserve the benefits which have resulted from the New Deal while discarding the unpopular trends. The vice-president is an able leader and is due chief credit for calling a halt on heavy spending and saving the supreme court from complete domination by the President. He has indicated clearly that he favors giving business the opportunity it has been seeking; that he would battle against the mounting deficit and heavy spending. And, Garner is a competent leader whose training for the great problems ahead is second to none of those mentioned as possible presidential timber.

We believe he would have the support of those who favor many of Roosevelt's reforms and do not want the country to discard them but who would stress economy within reasonable limits and give both business and agriculture the co-operation they desire.

Teachers Salaries

Nebraska has won an enviable place among the states through the practice of economy and rejection of all moves to levy either a state income tax or a sales tax. It deserves this recognition and naturally some sacrifices had to be made.

But in some respects, our state's position is far from enviable. For example, Nebraska ranks fifth from the bottom on salaries paid teachers in rural schools. Arkansas has the lowest scale of pay for rural teachers, followed in order by North Dakota, Mississippi, Kansas and Nebraska.

For this reason the following comment from the March issue of the National Education Association Research Bulletin, is particularly interesting:

"Teaching should pay enough: To attract young persons of the highest personal and professional qualifications; to hold in teaching those who continue to improve themselves thru experience, travel and further study; to permit them to live with the material and cultural surroundings commensurate with their responsibilities to youth and to the state; to provide savings whereby those incapacitated can retire in decency, making way for a new generation of teachers."

Few will disagree with this view and we question whether or not the present scale of teachers' salaries makes that possible in Nebraska.

Erosion?

Perhaps Wayne county is not suffering from soil erosion but those black clouds that have been sweeping across the county recently are not bits of ink being taken for a ride. We suspect there may be a bit of native soil mixed with the dirt from other regions which has been arriving in such generous quantities recently.

What Editors Say---

Accident Season

The season of snow and ice on the highways has passed. Over most of Nebraska warmer weather and clear roads are usual. Only traffic obstructs the long, straight highways with their smooth surfaces and long tangents. The curves have been made for speed. Travel will be heavier from now on. The vanguard of the tourists may soon be expected. Cars will be speeded up. Travel will be accelerated.

But the danger season to road users has not passed. It is just appearing. When highways are covered with snow and ice, when vision is obscured by storm, drivers are more careful. Fewer risks are taken. Speed is held to a safer pace. More regard seems to be given in dangerous weather to the other man on the road. That does not mean there are no accidents in dangerous weather, but the record will show that there are fewer serious accidents than when weather is fair and travel conditions are at their best.

There are many reasons for this that are apparent. The fact that the accident season is nearing should be a warning to all. Greater care will reduce the number of accidents.

Everyone should strive for a low accident record. Fewer crashes means that fewer people will be killed in car accidents this season and that property loss will be less. These facts, added to the personal safety of every driver and of everyone who rides the highways, should be reasons sufficient for care in driving.

Road builders and car makers have done much for us. They have given us ideal highways. They have given us mechanical perfection, or very near that mark, in cars. Only the drivers are to be feared. The human factor is still with us and must be guarded against.

Avoid the reckless driver. Give him lots of room. Do not imitate him by taking chances. You may be the one who will be hurt. —Nebraska State Journal.

THE PATIENT OLD CARRY-ALL

National Industries Weekly Review

The Nation's Leading Letter by J. E. Jones, Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C. — When Washington was a hick town before the World war and only half its present population the biggest event of the year was the annual convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Despite the fact that the Daughters of pre-war days have raised new daughters of their own, and that the scheme that qualified for membership rolls down the ages like a snowball, the old institution isn't what it used to be. During the Taft administration the Japanese cherry trees were planted, and in a quarter of a century they have become the capital's leading confusion. The only thing worse than that was the National Recovery Administration under General Hugh Johnson. He brought thousands of taxpayers "to town" and scolded so hard that they obeyed orders.

Seriously, the Daughters always produce healthy and patriotic national sentiment. This year they have been making the Liberty Bell ring out their demands.

Mrs. Roosevelt recently resigned from the organization, and when the women arrived she flew to Seattle. On the whole our impression is, after watching them perform, for many years, that they are grand old girls.

The Issue

The substance of President Roosevelt's communication to Hitler and Mussolini sums up in one paragraph, clearly expressed when he said that if the threats of the use of arms continue, it seems inevitable that much of the world must become involved in common ruin; and that all the world, victor nations, vanquished and neutral nations will suffer. The President declared: "I refuse to believe that the world is, of necessity, such a prisoner of destiny."

Washington officials do not differ greatly with the Roosevelt statements. Nevertheless, the President is being very severely criticized by friends and foes, for his failures to consult congressional and other leaders before committing the American people definitely to the Executive's personal view and declarations.

International Commitments

The President of the United States told European rulers that if they could not save themselves that the United States would try to save them from their own territorial and war tragedies. An evidence of Latin-American solidarity resulted as the nations of the Western Hemisphere joined in a chorus of approval of the President's appeal to escape the cataclysm of wars.

In administration and congressional circles the response from the Americas encourages the hope that entanglements of the Southern Republics may be straightened out. The American Continent is regarded specifically, in Washington, as our own business and our own responsibility. Red and fascist tendencies in a half dozen Central and South American republics have furnished a lot of headaches and anxieties, in Administration headquarters in Washington.

The new United States Export-Import Bank has already financed credits to Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Costa Rica, Cuba and Mexico. But Pan-America is far from a Paradise of Peace.

Charting American Industries

Announcement has been made by Harry L. Hopkins, Secretary of Commerce, that his department will make available to the Nation's business men this Summer a 1,000 page industrial survey of every county in the United States. There are 280 industries on a national basis, and 100,111 manufacturing plants in the 3,000 counties. It will surprise most persons to learn that the industry of printing and publishing has nearly 20,000 establishments, and that it leads in the entire list of "chief manufacturing industries" in the United States.

Way back in the days of 1789 when George Washington rode in his big coach, and went to town to take the office of President of the United States directly opposite from the present location of J. Pierpont Morgan's bank in New York, there was only a handful of printing establishments in the United States. Most of the inhabitants of the country were producing agricultural implements for their own use, whereas 241 establishments are now performing a better class of service for the farm population.

On April 16 a man and a horse drawn carriage started out to "copy" the Washington journey from Mount Vernon to New York. He and his companions were scheduled to arrive in New York 8 days later. The "new" George Washington of 1939 planned to travel for 8 days, over as good hard-surfaced roads as there are in the world, but he could have made the trip in anywhere from 2 to 8 hours by modern methods of travel that connect every community in our 3,000 counties.

George Washington never saw an airplane, a Diesel engine, tractor, radio, rubber tire, a piece of rayon, manufactured ice, a package of breakfast food, or even a bad or good moving picture, and he never received a telegram or telephone message.

But what a great job the old boy set in motion, despite a congress that was disgracefully nasty towards the great Washington during his second term.

Black Coal

Two years ago a wage and working hours were agreed upon for employment in the coal fields. Only reduced employment remained an issue. The most recent trouble came out of the union demands for a closed shop, and resistance by the union to the plan under which miners are assessed by the company from $1 to $2 a day when they strike in violation of contract. The public is led to believe that that was all there was at stake in the way of renewal of the dispute between the mine operators and the employers.

A Lot Of Money

At the turn of the century automobiling was looked upon as a luxury that only rich men could enjoy. It didn't turn out that way. Like Jack and his beanstalk the new inventions grew into the nation's greatest industry until motor plants are now spending one billion dollars an hour for materials, parts and supplies, a sum that splits into about 20 thousand dollars a minute. Every state in the Union gets part of the money, according to the automobile manufacturers that trace the materials to the angora goats of Texas, the iron ranges of Lake Superior, and back to the cotton growers of the South, and lumber, steel and textile mills.

To this piece of industrial news the layman can add with a truth fortified by the experiences of nearly 130 million people that "you ain't seen nothing yet". Most people who have moved forward with the new scientific age and its startling changes will agree that it would be just as hard to get along without razors and curlers, as without automobiles.

4-H Clubs Set New High Four-H club enrollment reached a new high in 1938, with 1,286,029 boys and girls listed as members in 74,594 local 4-H clubs, according to a report from the Department of Agriculture.

More than a half million of these boys and girls became members for the first time last year. This brings to approximately 7,500,000 the total number of young people who have received 4-H training since the work became nation-wide in 1914. So widespread have 4-H clubs become in the past 25 years that more than 40 per cent of the rural boys and girls reaching the average age for joining 4-H clubs last year were enrolled in the organization.

As a part of their work club members "learn by doing". They raise a pig, plant a garden, learn to sew, or acquire first-hand some other farm or home skill. In 1913, three fourths of all these farm and home projects undertaken by club members were completed — another record high.

The Relief System

Apparently the conservative Democrats and the Republicans in congress are convinced that the existing system for relief should not be continued indefinitely. What to do about it is a different matter. But a better relief system is the big political row that is growing between the White House and congress, as the second term of the President begins to count the months.

Every part of the country is pouring complaints into Washington, particularly about costs of administering relief. The conclusion seems to be plain that nothing short of a revision of the entire system will be fought for. That is why congress refused to meet the President's wishes and cut 50 million dollars off the supplementary relief bill.

The whole subject will be studied during the next few months in investigations by congress. In these investigations the New Deal and the President have political advantages over those who want changes. That is because the changes cannot be secured unless some system of state and local control, or a reform in the federal system is backed by the people of the country.

It is a tremendous undertaking to develop new public sentiment in support of a new, or revised system. And it is likely that the controversy will run through the next Presidential

FAMOUS NOVELIST IS NOTED FAMILY MAN

Dr. and Mrs. Cronin and Their Three Sons: Patrick, Andrew and Vincent.

DR. A. J. CRONIN, phenomenally successful novelist who turned from a career in medicine to writing, is married to a doctor, according to a sketch in the May issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine. They have three sons, Patrick, Andrew and Vincent.
 Dr. Cronin's first novel, "Hatter's Castle," appeared in 1931 and was immediately successful. This was followed by "Three Loves," "Grand Canary," "The Stars Look Down" and "Lady with Carnations." In 1938, Cronin wrote "The Citadel," which was widely acclaimed by critics and was on the best-seller list for many months. His new novel, a dramatic story of the nursing profession entitled "Vigil in the Night" begins serially in the May issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine.
 Dr. Cronin and his family live in a beautiful old manse, Sullington Court, in Sussex, England, where in addition to writing, Cronin farms, raises ducks, plays golf and tennis and goes fishing. He also collects modern paintings and ancient Chinese art objects.
 Dr. Cronin is a Scotsman with Irish blood and his wife is also Scotch. He spent his youth in Dumfries and Glasgow, studied medicine and became an inspector in the Welsh mines. Here he had much personal experience with hardship and man's inhumanity to man. These unforgettable experiences are reflected in his novels. Cronin says that he will always remain a doctor at heart.

FHA Loan Homes Gain

Volume In Nebraska Shows Marked Increase

"The volume of loans for the construction of new homes in Nebraska under the Federal Housing plan has increased 345 per cent the first quarter of this year over that of the first three months of 1938", said Frank S. Selby, vice-president of The National Company, Omaha.

"This is largely due to two factors", Mr. Selby continued. "First, the amendment which now makes it possible to borrow 90 per cent of the value for building a new home up to $6,000 valuation; and second, the fact that people all over the state are coming to understand better and better the advantage this Federal Housing plan really offers. Also they understand better how to go about making an application for such a loan, since there are now something more than 100 brokers in all parts of the state taking applications for these 5 per cent Federal Housing loans, which provide for a long term in which to pay, and the lowest monthly payments known in history".

Refinancing of homes, also, under the F.H.A. has shown a good increase the first quarter of this year over that of last year, according to Mr. Selby. "Refinancing volume shows an increase of 57 per cent", he said. "The Federal Housing loan volume, in both classes—new construction and refinancing combined—for Nebraska shows an increase of 147 per cent for the first three months of this year, over the first three months of last year, and it will be remembered that last year was a record year, at that, for F.H.A. loans in Nebraska".

Don Wightman and John T. Bressler, Jr. are the local brokers here for F.H.A. loans, and are two of the 100 brokers in the state that Mr. Selby mentions.

Wheat Marketing Quota Restrictions On Crop Likely

Proclamation of marketing quota restrictions on the sale of 1939 wheat crop appeared probable on the basis of generally favorable reports indicating a crop of 750 million bushels. The agriculture department's estimate of 1939 production, based on May 1 conditions, will determine whether a quota proclamation by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace will become mandatory under the 1938 farm act. The estimate will be issued May 10.

If the estimate, plus a carry-over of 275 million bushels forecast for July 1, indicates a total U. S. supply in excess of 1 billion bushels, a new test of the administration's farm program in a referendum on quotas virtually would be certain.

Three Way Race For Track Honors Expected

The Northeast Nebraska conference track meet will be held at the college field in Wayne Wednesday.

Seven schools will participate including Wayne City high, Bloomfield, Pierce, Creighton, Randolph, Hartington and Plainview.

With interest divided between track and baseball at Wayne High, Coach Morris' entries are not expected to chalk up sufficient points to win the meet but should make a good showing in several events. Roy Coryell, Harold Fitch, Chester Jensen, Everett Lindsay and John Berry are likely to annex the points which will be credited to Wayne.

Three Way Fight Seen Advance dope indicates a three-way battle for the conference championship between Pierce, Randolph and Hartington, who have strong track teams.

It will be the second meet of the year for the Wayne track team, which competed recently at Hartington.

Preliminaries will open at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning with the finals in the field events scheduled for 1:30 in the afternoon and finals in track events a half hour later.

Schedule Given The order of events with the time slated for each follows—Track events—120-yd. high hurdles, 10 a. m.; 100-yd. dash, 10:20 a. m.; 2:20-yd. dash, 10:40 a. m.; 220-yd. low hurdles, 11 a. m. Field events—High jump, pole vault, shot put and discus, 10 a. m.; broad jump, 10:30 a. m.; javelin, 11 a. m.

Wayne High Musicians Win Many Honors

While Wayne High entries in the music contest won the major share of the honors in the large group events, the school did not capture a sweepstakes championship as indicated in The News last week, officials explained later.

The contest this year was arranged to avoid special effort by the schools for sweepstakes honors. Virtually all schools were well represented and won high ratings. Judges highly praised both the entries and the efficient manner in which the contests were conducted.

From the standpoint of the directors of the various musical organizations competing, it was like old home week in Wayne as more than half dozen of the directors were formerly students at the college here.

Progress Made On New Park

With the return of good weather, rapid progress is being made on the new city park, one of the principal features of which will be a baseball field and grandstand.

If the Wayne Legion post is successful in organizing a junior league here, the new baseball field will be used for their games. The park is also being beautified by the planting of trees and shrubbery.

getting ready for the bricklayers.

Contractor J. L. Soderberg has 170 days to complete the work, which would allow him to Sept. 28. On the basis of the present progress he should be finished by Sept. 21 and if possible, he will have the building completed by September 8, he has indicated.

Eighteen men are employed to date by Mr. Soderberg, two exclusive of the contractor himself, by W. G. Volkman, plumbing-heating contractor, and one by the Rapid Electric company, electrical contractor. With the exception of three foremen, all workers employed to date reside in this locality.

PICTURES TELL GRAPHIC STORY AT THE START AND FINISH OF AK-SAR-BEN RACING!

Above is the famous Bahr starting gate which assures the thoroughbreds of getting off all at the same time and precludes the possibilities of injuries through jams. Ak-Sar-Ben will continue using this modern starting gate at its race meets together with the "Eye in the Sky"—see lower picture—camera. In a minute's time, this camera tells the judges what horse wins in any close finish.

OMAHA, Nebr., May —When the season opens at Ak-Sar-Ben field Saturday May 27 to 29 days of racing this progressive track will again present to its patrons the most modern features of any track between Chicago and the Pacific coast. The meet ends with the big Fourth of July program.

It is announced by Chairman W. H. Schellberg that a contract has been arranged for the return to Ak-Sar-Ben track of the Pacific Pari-Mutuel totalizer system, the automatic printing and recording device which proved to be so popular on its introduction here last year.

The Harvey - Eye - in - the - Sky camera will again function to provide photographic decisions for all close finishes. Earl Harvey has advised Ak-Sar-Ben that this year he will bring his new high speed equipment which will provide prints to the placing judges in about one minute's time.

The Bahr starting gate will again be used in all races, thus reducing to the minimum the possibilities of injuries to the thoroughbreds as they make their break to win or lose.

The standard of racing, like the equipment, is expected to set a new high this year, Chairman Schellberg said. Entries already received assure a class of competition never before presented at Ak-Sar-Ben.

In a recent letter to Ak-Sar-Ben racing officials, H. J. Southwick, secretary-treasurer of the Nebraska Thoroughbred Breeders association with headquarters in Friend, Nebr., said:

"My impression is that the large number of young horses on the ground at Ak-Sar-Ben field now indicates that breeding is on the up-swing in Nebraska and Iowa and I believe this is as it should be since we have a fine climate, good water and grass and, if we improve the quality there should be a good-out-look for all, Nebraska and Iowa colts."

Two important events will be sponsored by the state breeders' association, Southwick pointed out. The futurity for the two-year-olds, to which Ak-Sar-Ben has added $400 already has nine entries and it is likely more will come in. The Ak-Sar-Ben derby for Nebraska-bred three-year-olds also sponsored by the association has six entries with the closing date May 15.

There are other interests deeply concerned in the success of the annual race meet. As an example, Ak-Sar-Ben distributed approximately $30,000 to the fair boards in all of the 93 counties in the state in 1938. This money is used for the growth and development of these essential community enterprises. It is hoped that record even can be exceeded this year.

While the races are being held the Den shows will hold much of interest for the thousands of visitors who will come from Nebraska, Iowa and other states. The shows will be held each Monday night in June and July and are free to out-of-town guests.

Ak-Sar-Ben, the generous host of the great middlewest, is ready again to greet you.

Democratic Women Will Hear Congressman

Democratic women of Nebraska who attend the regional conference of Democratic women in St. Louis, Missouri, will have an opportunity to hear T. V. Smith, colorful Illinois Congressman-at-large. Mr. Smith, who has a ten-point platform of his own on women in politics, will be principal banquet speaker on the evening of May 5 at the eleven state conference of Democratic women to be held in St. Louis May 5 and 6.

Mrs. Charles G. Ryan, Grand Island, Democratic National Committeewoman, and Mrs. Earl Ketcham, Kearney, Vice Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, are making arrangements for Nebraska women who will attend the conference.

Representative Smith, who regularly debates with Senator Robert A. Taft on the radio, and who is an author, an editor, and a professor of philosophy as well as a politician, took the time and trouble to set down exactly what he thinks of many of the subjects which will be taken up by this "Two Day Institute of Government" called by the Women's Division of the Democratic National Committee.

Last big regional meeting of Democratic women before the 1940 convention, the Institute will include an open forum on party organization centering on the 50-50 plan which asks equal representation of women with men in party affairs; a panel on "How Democratic Women Can Organize Most Effectively for 1940"; a forum on neutrality; and a session titled, "Six Years of the New Deal—Answers to Critics".

COOKING RANKS HIGH AS MASCULINE HOBBY

MORE and more men are openly admitting that they enjoy cooking and are going for it as a hobby, according to Leo Nejeleski, one of the leading spirits in the restoration of man's primeval right to cook. "Not a week passes," Nejeleski says, "that I don't discover among my acquaintances and friends, more and more men who enjoy cooking. Some make a fetish of complex and involved foods. Others go in for simple dishes. But there is one thing all of them have in common—and that is the deep and sincere enjoyment they derive from the preparation of food."

It is not necessary for a man to be able to cook any and everything to qualify as a cook, Nejeleski continues in an article entitled "Come On In, Men—Cooking's Fine," in the May issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine. Many a reputation has been founded on the repeated and masterful preparation of one dish.

LEO NEJELSKI.

Nejeleski contends that the man who cooks gets more pleasure from eating. He opposes the idea that eating should be indulged in from habit and declares that a man does not have to be a gourmet to pamper his sense of taste. "Eating can be fun," Nejeleski says. "And it costs no more that way. Even a child enjoys his food more if he has some part in cooking and seasoning it."

Martindale said approximately 700 patrons will be served by the line which will total 250 miles. The original project, which serves south Cedar county, cost $200,000 and was put in operation in December.

County FSA Outlook Good

Farmers Working Way Back By Profitable Farming

Cal A. Ward, regional director of the Farm Security Administration with headquarters at Lincoln, is convinced that Wayne and Pierce County farmers who have been forced by circumstances to borrow from the FSA can and will work their own way back to profitable farming, according to Ray L. Verzal, county FSA rehabilitation supervisor who had this word from the regional director this week. Mr. Ward based his prediction on an intensive review of Wayne and Pierce county loans, records of which are kept in the regional office.

"These loans, while secured by chattel mortgages, have even stronger backing in carefully worked out farm and home management plans and in the integrity and character of the borrowers", Ward told Mr. Verzal. "We all know that various causes figured in the widespread loss of credit by farmers, as far as regular lending sources are concerned. Repeated crop failures, depression prices and soil depletion can get the best of farmers down; but most of them now see the way out through self-help. I am convinced that it is still in these good farm families and still in the soil to find the way back to security."

Ward pointed out that while hard-hit Wayne and Pierce county farmers must use the same soil that failed to maintain farm prosperity a few years ago, they are determined to use it to improved advantage through careful planning record keeping, home production of subsistence needs and intelligent diversification. He considered the funds lent by FSA as important principally because they are "just what it takes to put these plans into effective operation".

Ward reminded Mr. Verzal that the Farm Security Administration has a definite obligation to all borrowers to continue to service their loans and co-operate in every way possible. He pointed to assistance in voluntary farm debt adjustment, strengthening of co-operative marketing facilities, improvement in lease contracts, encouragement of planning and record keeping, and help toward diversification with emphasis on livestock and feed as service which the county office can perform. He said all loans are to be repaid, and that the government would have no worry on that score if the borrowers are able to put themselves back on their feet.

SLEEPING SICKNESS NOW MOST SERIOUS THREAT TO HORSES

If history repeats itself outbreaks of sleeping sickness among horses and mules will be very widespread this summer. The consequences are apt to be disastrous to horse owners unless they take advance and if owners have their horses immunized early enough, it should act as an effective curb on the disease in territories where it is used. As an added precaution, owners should keep their horses protected against mosquitoes, flies, and other insects in every way possible. Horses should be kept out of low pasture, should be kept in the barn at night, should be equipped with nets while working, and they should be sprayed with insect repellent.

jects. You'll find the post supporting virtually everything launched which is worthy of support and doing so actively — not merely passing a resolution of approval but donating services and financial support. Many such projects originate in the post such as the Boys Baseball League, now being formed, but Wayne's Legionnaires just as enthusiastically support movements for community benefit launched by other organizations. In return they deserve the support of the community in making their projects a success.

Wayne needs at least two large attractive 'Welcome To Wayne' signs on its main north and south highways. We admit the idea is as old as the hills, but have you noticed how you respond to such signs when you are motoring through the country. They immediately awaken a friendly attitude toward the town that extends you this welcome. Far better to have no sign at all, however, than one which is not really attractive or one which thunders at you that you better be very cautious in driving about the city and violate no traffic regulations or you'll be promptly arrested. Warnings about careful driving correctly worded have their important place, but a 'Thank You' sign following them leaves a far better taste than when it is missing.

Assessing is more of a task than it would seem, according to Claude Wright, who is kept busy at this time of the year listening to stories of how worthless are the material possessions of the taxpayers. It's easy to check those who have previously been assessed in Wayne but this city has from a hundred to a hundred and fifty newcomers each year who must be discovered to record their painful recitations.

There's something about a band that puts pep into any event so the marching band contest for high school musicians which is tentatively planned for Wayne this fall should be a gala occasion. The music educators who are considering sponsoring such an event will likely stage it at college homecoming so the two may be linked and a fall festival arranged.

We have repeatedly called attention to the need of a celebration in Wayne which would be particularly attractive to residents throughout this city's large trade territory. A fall festival could be arranged for the same dates as the band contest so that both attractions would appeal to visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Alderson and daughters, Myra and Arjean were at West Point Sunday visiting relatives.

Dr. J. T. Gillespie was in Sioux City Wednesday evening attending a meeting of the Iowa Optometric association of which he is a member. The meeting was held at Hotel Martin.

The public is cordially invited and a free will offering will be taken for the benefit of the Anti-Liquor League of Nebraska, which is sponsoring the program here in co-operation with several local churches.

Sentinels of Health
Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feet tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up, your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks lunk.
A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "top and up." Happiness, rest, yet activity in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Other members of the cast were: Wendell Groskurth, Joe Kirwan, Beryl Nelson, and Mary Sharer. The production staff included Catherine Kirwan, production manager, Homer Seace, Howard Whorlow, Harold Carlson, and Lowell Meyer, stage; Wendell Groskurth, Carroll Orr, lighting; John Palmquist, art; Beryl Nelson, Herbert Welch, Carol Anderson, Frederick Doctor, properties; Joe Kirwan, Glenn Geise, press; Bob Dale, Nelda Bressler, publicity; Katherine Kyle, house; Anna Ahern, Mary Sharer, Bonndell Roe, Frances Denesia, costume.

More 4-H Clubs Urged

County Boys, Girls Given Wide Selection

Efforts will be made during the next few months to organize several additional 4-H clubs in Wayne county, according to County Agent Chester Walters.

The national 4-H club enrollment was raised to a record-breaking total of 1,286,029 and Nebraska enrollment reached 24,500 in 1938. However, there are less than a dozen 4-H clubs in the county.

New Peak Hit

The county agent last week received announcement of the new national total from Extension Director W. H. Brokaw at Nebraska college of agriculture. He said that last year's record enrollment brings to approximately 7,500,000 the total number of young people who have received 4-H training since the work began on a nationwide basis in 1914.

Recent studies indicate that more than 40 per cent of the rural boys and girls in this country reaching the average age for joining 4-H clubs last year were enrolled in the organization. Four-H club members "learn to do by doing".

Rules, Subjects Listed

Each club must have five members on the same project to organize and receive a charter. At the organization meeting, officers are elected, a leader secured and a program of work adopted. Such a wide variety of classifications for clubs is offered that nearly any farm project may be handled through such a club. They include canning, clothing, cooking, homemakers, hot lunch, keep well bird, fix it, poultry, dairy, beef, swine, sheep, horse and mule, agriculture engineering, farm accounts, forestry and all the various crops including corn, potatoes, garden, tomato, small grain, sorghum, better pastures and erosion control.

Crop Insurance Broadcast Slated

The date and subject is: Saturday, May 6 - The presentation of the first crop insurance indemnity check to be issued in Nebraska. (This check will be presented to a Kearney county farmer, whose name will be announced at the time of the broadcast and who will appear on the program).

Accounting Contest Open To 4-H Clubs

An accounting contest for 4-H club members will again this year be open to Wayne county club members. Awards are offered to 4-H farm and home account keepers and to members who keep crop enterprise accounts.

To be eligible for the contest, 4-H clubbers should submit records which run for a period of 12 consecutive months, starting between December 1, 1938, and April 1, 1939. In the case of enterprise cost accounts, the records are to be kept for the production period - regardless of the date of starting.

Any bona fide 4-H club member is eligible to compete in the contest even though they may not be enrolled in an account club. Members should notify County Agricultural Agent Chester Walters promptly of their intentions to participate.

By Katharine Fisher

Director of Good Housekeeping Institute

I wonder why it is that vegetables get such a poor break. We seem to fuss openly over the rest of the meal. Yet when it comes to the vegetables, too often they look and taste as if we had left them to shift for themselves—flavorless, limp, sorely in need of seasoning.

It's a pity, too! For all that crisp, colorful vegetables ask of us is to be cooked tender in the shortest possible time, in a small amount of water, and then to be seasoned with a little care. In return they promise to come to our tables so appetizing in both color and flavor that the family, down to the youngest, will ask for a second serving.

Now, we've been cooking vegetables in our Institute kitchens for years upon years. And one of the easiest ways to cook them—at least so we find—is in a covered saucepan. I recommend it to you.

Choose one of your saucepans that will hold the vegetables comfortably; then cover the bottom of it with about an inch of water. No, we don't believe in cooking any vegetables, except greens, in a saucepan without water, for there is too much danger of their scorching or burning. Bring this water to a merry boil; then add the salt—one-half teaspoonful for every cup of water used—and, next, the vegetables. Put the cover back on, quickly bring the water to boiling again; then start counting the cooking time. Cook the vegetables until they are just tender but no more. For cooking time, see the table below.

Heed this last tip well, won't you, for when we let our vegetables simmer along for what may seem just a short time after they are done, they are likely to be ruined. So be right at hand when the clock tells you that the vegetable should be done. Test it with a fork, and if it is done, turn off the heat. The little water left in the vegetable can be boiled off with the saucepan cover off; or you can use it as part of the liquid for a sauce to be poured over the vegetable if you want one, or for gravies, or in soups.

And now we come to the last-minute touch—one I hope you will never fail to give. No vegetable, no matter how carefully you may have cooked it, is ready for its serving dish until you have critically tasted and retasted it with your family's likes as to seasonings well in mind. So get out your tasting spoons, housekeepers! For, unless I miss my guess, you will find that your vegetable needs just a sprinkle more of salt or pepper, and perhaps some butter or margarine before you can proclaim it a perfectly seasoned dish.

FROM CHICKS

TO LAYING HENS

THEY'RE chicks now—no bigger than the eggs they came from. And in a few months you'll want these chicks to be laying egg themselves. You'll want them to lay in early fall and through the winter when eggs bring a good price. And that means that these chicks have to do some high-powered growing between now and the first of September.

To help you put the best and egg capacity on these chicks, feed them Dr. Heat Foultry Fun-a-min along with their regular ration. Fun-a-min helps keep chicks healthy and hungry, keeps their appetites on edge, so that they grow like weeds. Not only that, Fun-a-min supplies an abundance of minerals for bone structure, body capacity, and feather development. Fun-a-min helps turn chicks into hens!
