WAYNE, NEBRASKA, MAY 30, 1939

Number 26

Hold your horses, here comes the parade—elephants and all. Some of the boys were probably seeing elephants, the pink and purple variety last Saturday night due to a bit of too enthusiastic celebrating of the long awaited rain. And, what a rain.

It was one of the kind that wash away the memory of the droughts which they end; that make composers of such songs as Pennies From Heaven look like a bunch of cheap skates; that turn brown fields into beautiful green ones and crop failures into bumper crops. We have seen it rain in a score of states and on hundreds of occasions previously, but we have never seen a downpour which received a more hearty reception than did Saturday's rain here.

Everywhere, everyone was wearing a fresh smile, one of those real happy kind, not the forced variety clearly mingled with doubt and only a shade of hope. One resident in the 200 block on East Third street, fearing while rain was still pouring from the skies that his trees would not receive sufficient moisture, waded out to the curb repeatedly and with little effort filled a bucket with water which was rushing down the street and poured it around his trees and flowers.

Naturally, the downpour does not mean that this year's crops are made; it does mean, however, that they are saved for the time at least. It does prove that it can rain and do a first class job of it in Wayne county. It does revive hope. The only sad thing about the whole affair is that it also means that Wayne On Parade is back. Remember, two weeks ago we promised that before you read this column again we would have a good inch of rain. That's the reason the column could not appear last week but that rain we had scheduled a week early finally arrived Saturday and if you didn't like it, go get yourself a rain next time.

Just to keep this column from being all wet, we had better shift the subject immediately.

Lincoln Firm Is Low Bidder On School Project

The Kingery Construction company of Lincoln was low bidder for the remodeling of the Wayne City school and erection of the addition to it, school board members found Tuesday night when they opened the second group of bids received. The Lincoln company's base bid was $82,972 and the board was offered 17 alternates which would reduce the total amount $5,165.

Seven bids were received in response to the second call, all bids having been rejected the first time because they exceeded the funds available. Acceptance of the bid by the board must be approved by PWA officials before construction begins and members of the board are hopeful that if a petition for a rehearing of the bond case is filed, action will be taken in the near future so that this dispute may be settled.

Few if any of the alternates offered are likely to be accepted, members said. Present plans are to rush completion of remodeling work, which may get underway June 1, for the opening of school early in September. The new addition will require an additional month or six weeks but classes would be held in the remodeled building until that time.

Heavy Rains In County End Spring Drought And Revive Hopes For Crops

Wayne Gets More Than Inch And A Quarter; Tornado Seen Between Here And Wakefield; Grasshopper Invasion Also Checked

The long and unusual spring drought, which threatened to destroy the bulk of the small grain throughout Wayne county, was broken Saturday when a downpour measuring from one to two inches in various sections of the county brought long and anxiously awaited relief. The rain was of inestimable value to Wayne county farmers.

Rainfall in Wayne Saturday measured one and a tenth inches and followed .16 of an inch precipitation in Wayne Friday. Nearly two inches of rain was reported throughout the western section of the county Friday night including Carroll and extending north beyond Laurel. A similar downpour a few miles south of Wayne was reported prior to the heavy rain here.

Corn Also Benefits Cloudy skies throughout the day permitted the moisture to soak the parched ground and in addition to saving much of the small grain was of great benefit to recently planted corn. County Agent Chester Walters declined to estimate the value of the rain but indicated that it would reach a high figure and predicted that most farmers would be surprised at the amount of small grain saved by the downpour. All agreed that had the drought continued much longer, the loss would have been heavy.

Checks Hoppers The heavy rain will also help check the invasion of grasshoppers, County Agent Walters pointed out. He urged that farmers continue to poison them, however, and not rely entirely on the downpour. Farmers have been co-operating well in getting the poison in the past few days. Seventy sacks of poison were taken to Carroll the first day distribution started and the supply was exhausted rapidly. Additional poison has been furnished. It is also available at the Theobald Lumber company in Wayne.

Saturday's heavy downpour in Wayne came during the noon hour and was accompanied by an electrical storm but no serious damage was reported. Many motorists also reported seeing a tornado sweeping a considerable distance above the ground between Wayne and Wakefield. However, no reports of the tornado having dipped and caused damage were received.

Nearby counties in northeast and central Nebraska also received heavy rains during the past few days which make the crop outlook for the state much more optimistic. The storm had its effect on Saturday's business in Wayne as majority of the farmers remained at their homes but local merchants were wearing smiles as the rain revived hopes of good crops throughout this section of the state.

Rest Of CCC Camp Members Are Due Monday With about 60 members of the CCC already at work at Winside, preparations had been completed Monday morning for the arrival of the other camp members who are due there today. Preliminary meetings with farmers in the vicinity of the camp have been held and the soil conservation program explained. Progress has also been made on the establishment of the camp and the entire group of camp members is expected to get work underway without delay.

Klawitler, 42, F. Nelson, funeral director, and Margaret McMurphy, 28, Wayne; Willard Blecke, 24, Wayne farmer, and Joy M. Lutt, 22, Wayne.

Edwin Bahe, salesman for the Coryell Auto company, was seriously injured when his car and a road maintainer crashed 3 1/2 miles west of Winside Thursday morning. Bahe was driving down a hill, coming east toward Wayne and the maintainer was reported to be moving in the same direction at the time of the crash. Mr. Bahe suffered painful and serious injuries as he was thrown over the steering wheel by the impact. His jaw was broken, several teeth knocked out and he suffered severe lacerations. He was rushed to a Norfolk hospital, where he was later reported to be recovering as rapidly as could be expected.

Two thousand poppies were purchased by the local auxiliary the money going to the war veterans in the hospitals. Portion of the money raised through their sale remains in Wayne for use of the local auxiliary post in aiding veterans and their families. Mrs. E. A. Smith Is Ousted As School Head

Principal Childs Slated As Successor

While no official confirmation of a major shakeup in the administration of the Wayne City schools could be obtained Monday from school board members, it was indicated that Superintendent E. W. Smith had not been offered a new contract to head the schools.

No reason for the failure to re-employ Mr. Smith was given by the board members of which even declined to admit that definite action had been taken. The superintendent, however, said that while he had not received definite notice that he was not being re-employed, he understood that was the case and that he had not resigned nor did he know of any reason for his ouster. It was reported in some circles that the superintendent is being sacrificed to satisfy some who have repeatedly attacked the present administration, but Ed Seymour, school board secretary, insisted no official action has been taken.

Principal Childs is reputedly slated for the position made vacant by the ouster of the present superintendent. Mr. Childs has been a popular principal and is well qualified for the position, the salary of which is being reduced several hundred dollars a year, according to reports. Superintendent Smith, who has headed the local school during the past two years while bitter controversy has been underway regarding the bond issue and improvement program, indicated that he might make a detailed statement of his position in the matter later. However, he declined to comment further than to emphasize the fact that he had not resigned the position.

NAGGING BACKACHE

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action. Don't Neglect It!

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, exposure, contagion, whatnot, keeps doctors busy, hospital is crowded. The after effects are disturbing to the kidneys and oftentimes people suffer without knowing that disordered kidney action may cause the trouble.

After colds, fever and similar ills there is an increase of body impurities the kidneys must filter from the blood. If the kidneys are overtaxed and fail to remove excess acid and other harmful waste, there is poisoning of the whole system.

Symptoms of disturbed kidney function may be nagging backache, persistent headache, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes - a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of strength and energy. Other signs of kidney trouble are frequent urination, or bladder disturbance may be burning.

First Baptist Church Has Special College Program

History And Progress Are Reviewed

Editor's Note: Following is another of the series of articles reviewing highlights in the history and plans of Wayne churches. This article deals with the First Baptist church.

When the first band of white settlers crossed the Missouri river, a Baptist minister was among them. He built a log meeting house and soon was preaching to the nearby friendly Indians. The fireplace of that first church in Nebraska still stands south of Omaha.

It was natural that when early settlers came to northeast Nebraska and Wayne county that Baptists were among them. However, a permanent church was not established until 1881 when the present church was organized. The railroad company gave the land for the building of the church.

Dedicated In 1882

The church was dedicated June 25, 1882, by Rev. O. R. Watson of Sioux City. Rev. J. F. Hellner was the first pastor. M. N. Conover, father of Mrs. G. A. Wade, was the first clerk. C. D. Martin, grandfather of C. D. Martin, was one of the first members and organizers of the church.

The new church was built in 1909. Some of the outstanding pastors since 1905 have been Rev. Parker Smith, Rev. B. P. Richardson, and the church was probably storngest during his pastorate. Rev. R. H. Pratt, Rev. F. K. Allen, Rev. A. C. Downing, Rev. W. E. Brealsted, and Rev. G. C. Powers.

The present minister, Rev. James A. Whitman, came to Wayne in January, 1937. Huge snowdrifts and zero weather greeted him and to further cool off this New England trained minister, the furnace broke down the Sunday he and his wife arrived. Rev. Whitman, having been raised on a cattle ranch in Grant county, Nebraska, and Mrs. Whitman in the Rockies, proceeded to dig in; or you might say, dig out and begin their ministry here.

For College Students

The Baptist church plans a special program to interest college students in religion. Standard leadership training courses are regularly taught in the church to cultivate and develop future leadership.

The pastor believes sincerely in the old fashioned gospel and believes "it answers and satisfies all conditions and problems of modern life if used intelligently". "It is true that most youths who have dumped overboard their ancestral faith while in college really had a very shallow knowledge of religion anyway or else a very narrow and selfish religious background", he said.

Rev. Whitman believes that history of philosophy and influence of Christianity will some day be regular and required courses in state colleges.

The pastor said that forty-seven members have been added to the roll since his arrival in Wayne. There are now 108 active members. Membership was once composed mostly of farmers and business people. The leading families either moved away or have died. In the past ten years, it has become more of a college church with a number of the faculty active in church life.

Two years ago the Wayne church sent Oscar Olsen to train for the ministry in Andover Newton Theological school, Boston. Last year Miss Ellanora Steele was sent to Berkeley Divinity school to study for missionary service.

Sermons, On Bible

Rev. Whitman preaches sermons on the Bible rather than Baptist doctrine as he believes the Bible is the final Christian authority for all churches.

Commenting on the preaching students like best, Rev. Whitman believes students prefer Bible exposition. They hear current events hashed and argued continually in school, and they cram knowledge in other fields; but in the field of religion and Bible they feel their vast ignorance, he summarized.

Speaking of the future of the Baptist church, the minister thinks that in the next twenty-five years Wayne should double in population and membership of the Baptist church will also double.

Corner Stone Laying Set

PWA Director Unable To Attend Ceremony June 1

R. A. Radford of Omaha, Regional Director, Public Works Administration, will be unable to be present at the cornerstone laying for the new dormitory-activities building, Wayne State Teachers' college, it was learned here this week.

Mr. Radford, in charge of PWA activities in eight states, wrote J. Wesley Noecker, architect's superintendent here, that due to previous engagements he would be unable to be present here June 1 for the ceremony to be conducted by the Masons. He advised that Dan Farrell, jr., resident engineer, PWA, would represent the government agency for that occasion.

Four more bricklayers were added by the contractor, John L. Soderberg, Monday morning. Brickwork below the first floor line was to be completed about noon today. Meanwhile brickwork off the first floor started late Monday in the northeast corner of the building, where the concrete first floor slab was poured last week.

Forty men are now employed on the site and the list is growing with each day.

Twenty-five years ago the dream of a young Nebraska farm boy began to take on reality when the first store of the Brown-McDonald Company was opened in Holdrege, Nebraska. Today—twenty-five years later—there are twenty-five stores in the Brown-McDonald family of stores. Twenty of these stores are located in Nebraska, two in Colorado, three in Kansas. Stores are built with the same material upon which any solid business depends for continued existence. This material is the rocklike confidence of the people. Twenty-five years ago this first store was founded upon the promise of selling dependable goods at the lowest prices possible.

We like to think that your Brown-McDonald store enjoys this kind of confidence. It is—in part—payment for the lean years and the fat years we have suffered or enjoyed with you who have made possible whatever success we have achieved. It is a comforting thought to know that a promise made is a promise kept. The policy of selling dependable goods at consistent low cash prices the year 'round, never changing, has existed for twenty-five years. It exists today.

Now we are to celebrate the Silver Jubilee, the 25th Anniversary of the founding of the company, a separate and distinct anniversary from that of your store here. Never have we made a greater effort to provide dependable goods for yourself, your family or your home, at prices more worthy of your consideration. Seeing is believing. Come and realize at first hand the substantial savings.

Mr. Hoover, Critic

Every word of Herbert Hoover adversely criticizing President Roosevelt and the present administration, and nearly every word the former president utters these days is one of adverse criticism, is being widely circulated by anti-administration newspapers. They are being repeated as if they were the words of some super-man, the truth, the whole truth and the not-to-be questioned truth.

Granting that Herbert Hoover was somewhat a victim of circumstances and was unfairly held responsible by some for failing to deliver those two chickens in every roaster and the two cars in every garage which were once promised, the former president can hardly be regarded as one of the nation's really great presidents. It may be recalled with little effort that he had the first and best chance to turn the tide of the depression before conditions reached the stage where banks throughout the nation were folding up with a sickening rapidity. It may be remembered that these same papers then bannered at regular intervals his optimistic assurances that all was really fine and later repeatedly related his statements about our rapid approach to that elusive corner around which Prosperity was waiting.

When anyone disagreed, he was hindering the return of good times by destroying confidence, lack of which was at that time allegedly the only thing that was wrong with the nation. Now, of course, all that has changed. Hurling mud at every measure, every move and virtually every statement attributed to President Roosevelt under the fair banner of protecting our liberties is becoming the chief sport of these Hoover scribes.

The former president has improved 100 per cent as a speaker and even manages to inject an occasional bit of humor into his talks. Attacking Roosevelt has made him a good public speaker but his logic hasn't kept pace with his forensic ability. Surely, his record as president isn't sufficient recommendation to give great weight to his words of criticism and they are not contributing any more to recovery than did those of Mr. Hoover's critics when he was the rent-free occupant of the White House.

Tuition Ahead

The attack of Kearney's senator on Wayne State Teachers college's appropriation in an apparently successful effort to increase the funds of the Kearney normal has indirectly led to adoption of a tuition fee for all state teachers college. The plan has been discussed previously and it is entirely probable that the brief clash over division of the funds between the two schools was only an excuse for reviving the tuition system.

Under the program adopted a $10 per semester tuition will be charged beginning in 1940 and appropriations are being reduced proportionately so that the actual funds for operating the schools will not be increased.

Few citizens will disagree with the strict economy program which has been followed by the legislature this session and it is only fair to expect the teachers colleges to carry their share of the burden. Previous drastic reductions had been made and anyone, who has investigated, will agree that Wayne State Teachers college has been operating as economically as possible to maintain any degree of efficiency in recent years. In short, this additional reduction is extremely questionable economy.

It is an easy matter to sit back and criticize the legislature, but it would be far more sensible and effective to see that the case of the colleges and the harm of charging a tuition is correctly presented to every member. Once the facts are clearly stated, we have every confidence that the senators will realize the obvious fact that such a charge is false economy.

Here is ground and good sound ground on which the teachers colleges of the state should stand together in the name of higher education for rich and poor alike.

First, it is true that $10 is an extremely small tuition to charge for the high type of education being given at the teachers colleges. But it is also true that there are hundreds of students attending these schools in the state who, along with their parents, are sacrificing now to the limit to continue their studies. To these students and their parents $10 means much; it will probably force many, who are managing to get the bare necessities now, to abandon their education. There are students in Wayne living on a pitifully small amount; many of them working much of the time they are not attending classes and studying.

Second, if this $10 tuition plan is not reconsidered, next year or the year after next the amount will probably be $20, then $30, so that legislative appropriations may be cut and a good economy record made by senators at future sessions. This is the history of such charges elsewhere; there is no reason to believe it will be different now.

Third, Education is not a privilege of democracy. It is a necessity if democracy is to be maintained. We have no sympathy with those who advocate the aristocracy of the pocketbook in education. It is one of the blessings of this great country of ours that the public school system is free. We must march onward in this direction and make higher education as general as is humanly possible, not step backward in the direction of making it a luxury.

Fourth, Nebraska needs more thoroughly qualified teachers. The low salaries paid in many communities and the lack of reasonable qualifications among their teachers in scores of cases are no less than a disgrace. Salaries paid in the teachers colleges are pitifully low considering the educational training necessary. The teachers colleges are serving a need, a great need in this state and Nebraska needs more good qualified teachers, not less.

What we and leaders in towns having teachers colleges say will naturally be viewed with suspicion since it is only to be expected that they do not want to see the enrollment of their particular school reduced. But we are in closer touch with the teachers colleges than the residents of other cities; we are in a position to know best that they are doing an excellent job with extremely limited funds and it is our duty to make others realize that this is not our problem alone. It is the state's problem, one of vital importance to the future of not only the students and today but also the state and tomorrow.

What Editors Say---

A Nervous Sort

George E. Deatherage, who press reports indicate, is the national commander of the Knights of the White Camellia, was on the witness stand for interrogation by the Dies committee.

Pointing to one of the congressional representatives, Deatherage said to Chairman Dies: "That fellow up there keeps sneering at me. I am a nervous sort and I don't like it." And as a perscription for rasping nerves, Chairman Dies said: "Well, gentlemen, don't sneer at the witness."

That is what the public pays good money for. It is not altogether a bad investment. There have been times when the Dies committee seemed headed out to sea on a trip, the main object of which was fishing, but its recent energetic efforts to uncover those stirring up racial feeling in the United States go a long way toward offsetting previous mistakes. In recent weeks the Dies committee has gotten down to business by going after those who utilize the red scare to promote their own activities.—Lincoln Star.

On The Ocean Floor

Most of the mishaps which befall submarines involve ships recently commissioned to service. That was the case in connection with the submarine Squaw which sank in 240 feet of water off Portsmouth.

The Squaw was the latest submarine to be built for the navy. And few developments produce greater drama. The simple fact wherein men are trapped on the bottom of the ocean constitutes an invitation to imagination in picturing their plight. The certainty that not all will come out alive, and the feverish efforts of rescuers furnish the remaining touches to the drama of the sea. Actually

THE BROTHERHOOD OF MAN!

National Industries Weekly Review

The Nation's Leading Letter by J. E. Jones, Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., May 30—A good deal is written and said about the economy blocs in congress. The record of the blocs covers a good many government appropriation bills, including the $6 million dollars cut from the President's relief bill. What a victory?

The other side to this story appears in the action of the senate voting 61 to 14 the $1,200,000,000 agricultural appropriation bill, thereby raising it above the vote of the House, which had appropriated $835,118,613. That sum was 7 million dollars under President Roosevelt's estimates. Now the two branches of congress will try to reach an agreement through a conference committee.

The last chapter finds the President and congress trying to agree upon some sort of "tax reform". The President insists that the total amount of taxes estimated in the budget must be voted in taxes, no matter what kind of "reforms" there may be. "Reforms" are spasmodic, since the records show the Administration recommendations may be raised, or may be lowered—as indicated above. The total amount of taxes at this session of congress is certain to be way under budget estimates.

It is an old American custom to pay public bills from the sums levied and collected by taxation that will be sufficient to bring in enough money to pay what will go out. The only change is found in streamlined annual deficits.

The Farmer And The Truck
Truck gardening bids fair to be supplanted by "truck farming".

"Just about a fourth of the trucks plying the highways are carrying farmers' products and agricultural commodities, if spot surveys from 14 widely separated states are a reliable indication of the national total", reports the publication "Automobile Facts."

A recent Farm Credit Administration bulletin summed up farm views of the motor truck as "a modern mechanism which enables them (the farmers) to meet unfavorable economic conditions by bringing transportation costs more nearly in line with their returns."

The FCA study showed a breakdown of the reasons why some 3,600 farmers in 9 states depend on truck transportation: "More prompt delivery," 43 per cent; "More convenient," 31 per cent; "Cheaper," 24 per cent; "Less handling," 20 per cent; "Produce reaches market in better condition," 10 per cent.

Chief Thomas H. MacDonald of the United States Bureau of Public Roads, testifying recently before a house appropriations committee, said that a packing plant in a small Minnesota town "has become a national packing institution on the basis of the truck and the highway". Pointing out that in Iowa areas 25 and 50 miles around packing plants are covered daily by trucks to obtain hogs and cattle direct from the farms, Chief MacDonald declared:

"The movement of raw materials to distant locations for processing, which was common in an earlier stage of our economic development, tends to give way to more numerous shorter movements, as the processing industries are brought closer to points of original production, and vice versa."

Likewise has there been a near revolution in the last decade as regards farm-to-consumer distribution, as "Automobile Facts" points out. "The relatively small load carried by each truck and the vehicle's ability to go anywhere have greatly increased the distribution of fresh produce to small cities and towns, both direct from the farm to retail stores and from city markets where long-distance shipments are brought in and redistributed by truck. Well-defined areas of such service have been mapped by agricultural authorities around all the principal cities of the country."

Besides helping the farmer, the truck has created many new jobs. A fascinating "Birth of Industries" exhibit in the Research room of the General Motors building at the New York World's Fair graphically shows how "18,000,000 jobs have been created from the work of these (inventive) pioneers". In the illuminating automobile panel is revealed the fact that commercial drivers, including truck, bus and taxicab, total 3,125,000.

Undoubtedly the truck will continue to expand its usefulness.

Spring
Fashion's custom brought out the straw hats in Washington on May 15. At about the same time Maryland had its greatest event since the triumph of Senator Tydings over the November purge, when a Maryland horse won the Preakness race. Also, on that day one thousand newspaper men including their guests, went out to a West Virginia race track and had a day's fun—in the rain. Of such lighter Spring events are happy days made—just at a time that all the people are getting "all het up" about war and other controversies. Welcome Spring!

"The People's Refuge"
The question is up: Is journalism letting the people down? A lot of reckless charges have been laid against the newspapers and general accusations are being made by political leaders that the newspapers have been betraying the people. Some of them say the radio is the thing! Most broadcasts do not indicate that experience and education are qualifications in choosing the "artists". Radio certainly goes far beyond the limit in transmitting silly programs.

Roy Howard, is one of America's most successful editors. He sees journalism as "the people's refuge". He says that the newspaper sometimes becomes "mildly intoxicated, and puffed up by its own importance". That is a fair criticism. But on the other hand the press is courageous in its opposition to what Mr. Howard calls "demagogic formula".

The people of the United States are the best informed public in the world today. Their newspapers have made them so. American newspapers strive for high ideals. It's time that assaults upon the newspapers should be met. The radio and political partisans have gone the limit in defaming the greatest of all the professions. Newspaper editors do not have to "take it", while they have a wholly convincing weapon to use in defending themselves against their traducers.

A Matter Of Ancient History
Between 1925 and 1937 the retail price of automobiles was lowered on an average of $300 a vehicle, thus saving the purchaser 30 per cent. In 1937 the purchaser was getting a bigger and better automobile.

The fruits of chemistry, research, inventions, policies and unceasing efforts founded on the basic theory that "to increase value is to enrich life" is in your auto, according to Alfred P. Sloan, jr., chairman of General Motors, who recently told about more than 150 betterments in the cars today, which make them more useful, more convenient and safer and more thrifty. "Benefits like these explain why we believe that in more and better things at lower prices for more people lies the best chance not only for our own progress but of the nation", said Mr. Sloan. He voiced the spirit of the automobile industry, when on behalf of his company he added: "We place our reliance in the approval of the people, knowing that in the best service we can render to the greatest number is the highest service we can render to ourselves."

Argentine Beef
A Washington housewife upon reading the first blast from the White House about Argentine beef laid down her newspaper and went into a chain store to investigate. She found big stocks of canned beef on the shelves. It was canned in Chicago and labeled as from "Argentine" and "Brazil".

If you make your own investigation perhaps you will find the same result.

American meat of lower grades is used for hot dogs. Argentine claims that it uses its best cuts for canned meats. Either way—and its only a short-time incident.

Business Prospects
A good many items enter into the official reports about the prospects of business for the coming months. Unemployment continues on so big a scale that there can be no real prosperity. Reports of sales from big and little business show very little change from what they were at the turn of the year. Apparently the large and small private investors are hiding their money and are afraid to buy securities. The capital structure is rather stagnant. On the whole it seems fair to report from Washington that things are "just moving along".

Economic Highlights And Trends

Happenings that Affect the Dinner Palls, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

Few Congresses in history have produced as little in so long a time as the current one. Of the dozens of major bills introduced (to say nothing of the thousands of minor bills, of which a considerable percentage falls into the crackpot category) less than half a dozen have been definitely acted upon. But that doesn't mean that Congress is lazy or incompetent or is more than ordinarily dominated by buck-passers. It does mean that one issue, of the most immense significance, has been uppermost—and so far no one has offered a solution that has met with really widespread approval. That issue is the role of the United States in today's complicated world affairs.

As Newsweek puts it, "The 76th Congress offers no more striking contrast than the calm unanimity with which it votes hundreds of millions for defense, compared with the hectic uncertainty with which it parries and postpones decisions on foreign policies. Senators and representatives who can agree on the number of ships, planes and guns needed cannot agree on what they are needed for."

The conflict between the isolationists and the nationalists has been going on for a long time. Today it is more bitter than ever—and seems destined to become constantly more so in the future. It is a known fact that this administration definitely falls into the internationalist classification—the most potent Presidential advisors, such as Ambassador Bullitt and Kennedy, seem convinced that we must eventually throw in our lot with France and England, and the sooner we do that the better off we shall be. The Republicans in Congress, led by stern isolationists Borah, Johnson and Nye, are convinced that this course is suicidal, spells the participation of the U. S. in a possible war which is not our concern. Republican opposition is not particularly important to the White House—in spite of GOP gains last November, the Democrats still have a handsome majority. But this issue has split party lines wide open. Effective Democrats such as Clark of Missouri, are as strongly isolationist in feeling as Borah. And many lesser lights in Congress, whose views have not yet been put on record, will vote for isolation when the time comes.

Still more important, judging by all the available indicators, the American people are tending isolationist in view. A recent Gallup (Institute of Public Opinion) Poll showed overwhelming disapproval of U. S. involvement in Europe's troubles. The Gallup polls have accurately indicated the drift of public feeling in the past, and many a Congressman whose prime interest is in pleasing his constituents, irrespective of what he personally thinks, is certain to cast his vote according to their findings.

Summing up, the advocates of the strictest kind of U. S. neutrality have the edge at present. Whether or not they will hold that edge depends upon many potentialities, tangible and intangible. But the force they exert today is indirectly indicated by the Administration's recent hands-off policy in the matter of neutrality legislation. Mr. Roosevelt is not giving orders now—Washington observers say he apparently feels that Congress is in no mood for dictation.

In the meantime, practically everyone seems agreed that we must build up our national defense to the limit. And Congress has voted military appropriations with a lavish hand. So far more than $1,500,000,000 has been appropriated at this session for national defense purposes. A recent bill (passed by the House, and apparently sure of Senate approval) shows the kind of fighting tools we are making. It provides for two 45,000-ton battleships—larger than anything we now have afloat—two big cruisers, a number of submarines and destroyers, hundreds of naval planes, etc.

If the Navy gets its way, the shipyards will be kept even busier. In addition to the two 45,000-ton monsters, the Admirals have asked for six 35,000-ton battleships, 18 heavy cruisers, 23 light cruisers, 150 destroyers, 56 submarines, and 8 aircraft carriers, plus 3,000 planes.

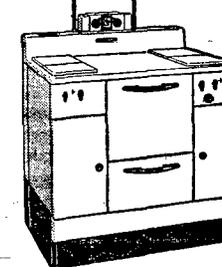

And the Army is not being neglected. Its force is to be increased to 400,000 men (this figure includes the National Guard), it is to be given more planes, and tremendous quantities of weapons, including the new Garand semi-automatic rifles of which amazing reports are heard.

So—while Congress fights to keep us out of Europe, the lawmakers are doing everything possible to make sure that Europe keeps away from us.

Wayne On Parade

Tuesday is Memorial Day, so this edition of The Wayne News is going to press early Monday morning so that employees may participate in the services. In some cases this week's issue will not reach you until after Memorial Day since there will be no mail deliveries on that date. But, we would like to add our appeal to those who do get your paper Monday to take part in the Memorial services most convenient for you. It is an occasion which everyone should observe to extent at least of paying public or private tribute to both his or her loved ones and the nation's heroes, whose sacrifices made possible the liberties we now enjoy.

Business will remain at a standstill in Wayne throughout the day Tuesday, as merchants unite in observing this national holiday.

A prominent group of Wayne's political leaders were scheduled to go on a train-ride last week with some notables of their party. But, believe it or not, a mistake was made in the advance information of the date of the notable's visit to the state, so they all missed the ride and a little political back-slapping.

The school board, it seems, has received a certain offer, but it's not for publication, so you'll have to get the details through the gossip route. Sorry. Our information and the story you will hear if you inquire a bit may both be entirely erroneous and we climbed out on a great long limb in predicting a rain so that we were forced to wait two weeks before we could proudly expand our chest and tell Carl Wright, L. W. McNatt et al, "We Told You So". Fact is we are still trying to impress that fact upon the former. "We Have It" admits we were right.

Homer Smothers, popular former publisher of your News, is selling furniture now at a rapid rate, preparatory to moving with his family to join the crowds in Oregon. He was back in Wayne a few days last week renewing friendships, and discussing the weighty problems of the world half the time and fishing the other half with the genial coach of the college, Jim Morrison, Carl Wright, Jim and Homer had a good fishing trip planned for the weekend which the rain wrecked, but they are not uttering a complaint. The rain was worth all the fishing trips for months and probably the fish weren't hungry last weekend anyway.

Fred Berry, school board attorney, deserves a vote of thanks and appreciation from the school district for the court victories which he scored in the school bond issue case. Such cases require not only much hard work but also plenty of ability and the school board attorney apparently has ample of both.

Course In Puppets Slated

Five Days Of Instruction Are Planned

Miss Cathryn Troy, superintendent of dramatics for the Chicago Park District, will give a course in making puppets at the college for the week of June 18. The making of puppets will include shadow puppets, hand puppets, fingerettes and marionettes and in dramatizing stories and events for effective visual presentation in the elementary school.

Both morning and afternoon classes will be organized, and the instruction will cover five days. On Friday evening, June 23, Miss Troy will conclude her engagement at the college by presenting her students in a lecture-recital demonstrating the use of puppets in elementary school teaching.

This course is under the auspices of the college entertainment committee, therefore there is no charge for instruction and faculty members who hold activities tickets. Others will pay an enrollment fee of one dollar. The supplies, which are simple and inexpensive, will be furnished by each student in the course.

Miss Troy was educated at Upper Iowa university, taught for five years in elementary schools, was in Little Theater work for three years, and is now serving her fourth year with the Chicago Park District.

Big 4-H Club Week Being Held

Wakefield Youth Represents County At Annual Affair

The annual 4-H Club week opened at the college of agriculture in Lincoln Sunday with between 300 and 400 club members and local leaders on hand for the festivities. Leonard Roberts from Wakefield, was selected from Wayne county.

L. I. Frisbie, state 4-H Club leader at the College of Agriculture in Lincoln arranged the big 4-H Club week. This is the 24th annual affair, one of the high-some three hundred boys and girls of the 20,000 4-H members in the state selected from nearly every county in the state.

The majority of these boys and girls will be receiving an elegant award for having completed some 4-H project at a high standard. There are members from canning clubs, clothing, cooking, girls room, hot lunch, keep well, bird, dairy, poultry, beef, swine, sheep, ag engineering, farm accounting, corn, sorghum, pasture, erosion, weed, forestry and others.

Program Highlights

These young people have a wonderful opportunity to make new acquaintances, to hear many well-known speakers and to observe new sights. Club week officially started Monday morning. Doctor A. B. Graham will speak to both the Club leaders and Club members. Mrs. Sims from Hastings will discuss a very timely subject, "The Youth of Many Nations". Since Mrs. Sims has traveled extensively in Europe, she is very well qualified for this assignment. Chancellor Boucher will address the convocation on Wednesday. There will be some class work for young folks and several sight-seeing tours around Lincoln. Many will have their first trip through the State Capitol building. A guide will accompany each group and the trip will be interesting and educational. The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce will give a banquet for the entire group on Wednesday evening. Another banquet will be given Thursday evening at the College of Agriculture. Mr. Newton Gaines of the Agricultural Extension Service will be in charge of the Vesper Services.

On Friday, the entire enrollment will go to Omaha for a trip through the packing houses, the yards and some of the business houses. The Omaha Chamber of Commerce will also give a banquet. There will be a special train for the trip to Omaha with one adult person in charge of each group of fifteen young people.

Mr. Frisbie and other members of the extension staff have made every preparation. There are enough cots set up on the two floors of the College Activities Building to accommodate the visitors. Chaperones are on duty every hour of the day. Each individual has a doctor's certificate to the effect that he is in good health and carries no contagion. Every precaution has been taken to furnish good food, sleeping quarters, transportation, entertainment, recreation, as well as the educational program.

Sorghum For Poultry

Value As Substitute For Corn Shown

Wayne county farmers will be interested in experimental work just completed at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture which shows that sorghum grain makes a satisfactory substitute for yellow corn in the standard Nebraska "8" and "8-S" poultry rations. These rations are available at the county agent's office.

Using standard rations containing large amounts of the highly important vitamin A, four sorghum grains were compared directly to yellow corn in the tests as a feed for young chicks. At the end of eight weeks, the chicks fed rations including the sorghums had gained anywhere from 85 to 96 percent as much as those fed yellow corn. Prof. Mussehl, who conducted the experiment, reported virtually no difference in amount of gains produced by three different types of grain sorghums. Sooner than produced 96 percent as much weight increase as yellow corn; Early Kalo and Orange Cane were close behind with 95 percent and 94 percent respectively. Grain from Atlas sorgo, a forage type sorghum, was the least efficient.

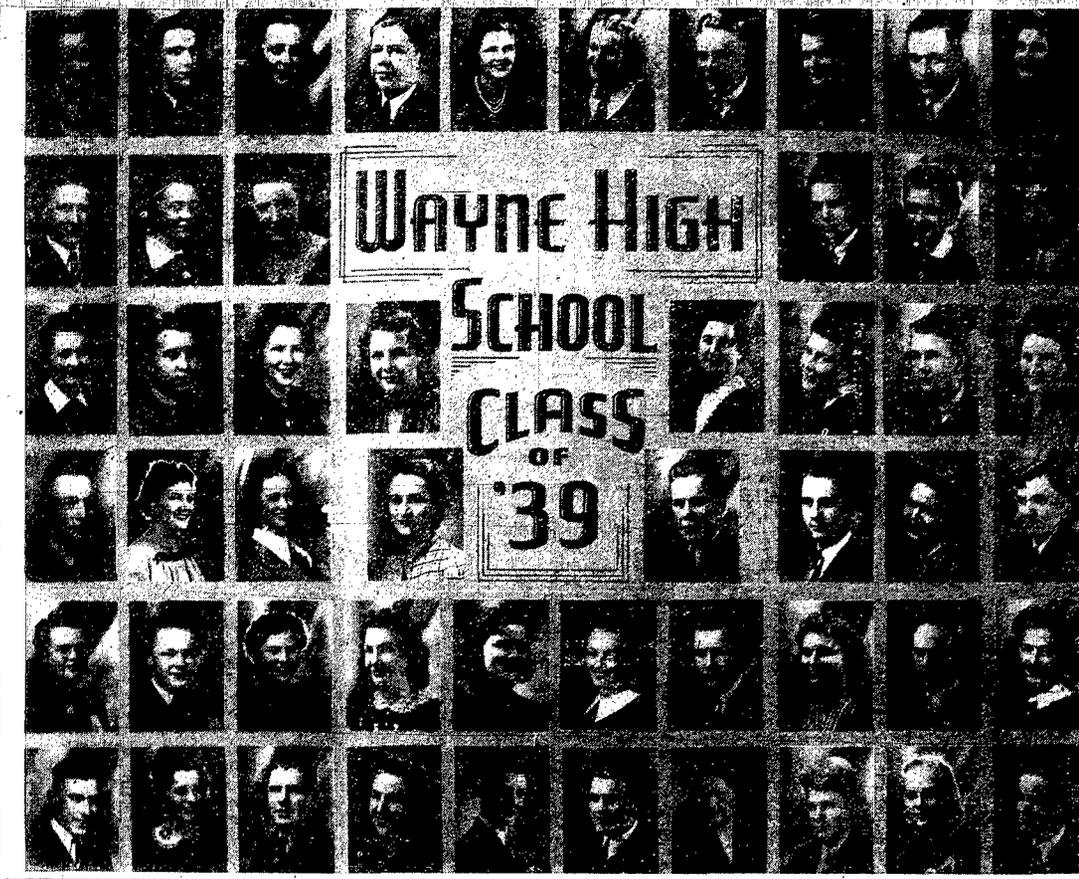

It proves only 85 percent as valuable as yellow corn. Prof. Mussehl said that yellow corn still holds a slight edge in feeding value although sorghums produced nearly as much gain in the test. Little is known yet though about other nutritional effects of the sorghums as a poultry feed and further experiments will be conducted along this line.

Homemaking Authorities To Address Meet

When more than 1,000 Nebraska women, including some from Wayne county, gather at Fremont early in June for the convention of the Nebraska Council of Home Demonstration Clubs they will hear two outstanding homemaking authorities from Washington on the program. They are Miss Mary Rokahr and Mrs. Lydia Ann Lynde. Both are with the extension service in the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Miss Rokahr is extension economist in home management and is a former Nebraskan, well known to all project club members. At one time, Miss Rokahr served as assistant state leader of home demonstration work in Nebraska. She was then state leader in Wyoming before going to Washington to take up her present work. At Fremont, Miss Rokahr will appear on the convention program several times.

Mrs. Lynde is especially trained in the fields of child development, human emotions and relationships and parent education. For eight years as a specialist in child care and training and parent education, she worked with some 60,000 farm men and women—helping them solve some of their problems with their children and family life. Mrs. Lynde has two sons.

Roses From Cuttings

Best Methods For Success Are Described

The rose admired in a neighbor's garden may flourish in yours if you can get a cutting, says E. H. Hoppert, extension horticulturist of the Nebraska college of agriculture. Green wood cuttings can be taken whenever wood has become firm. A piece from 3 to 6 inches long, with 3 buds, makes a cutting of good length. The cuts are made close below the lowest bud, and a little above the upper one. Remove all leaves except two leaflets at the top of the cutting.

Protect cuttings until planted by dropping them into water or wrapping in moist paper. Plant without delay in sand or light loamy soil, in small holes or a narrow trench, about 1 inch apart with the top bud just above the ground. The sand must be thoroughly packed around them. Water well just after planting, and enclose the cuttings to keep the leaves from wilting before roots have developed to supply the plant with moisture. For only a few cuttings many persons invert a fruit jar or glass dish over each cutting, but they must be in partial shade.

As the cuttings begin to take up moisture, admit a little air. When roots have formed freely, transplant to good soil, water well, and shade from the midday sun for a few days. Then water moderately until the plants are established.

Experienced rose growers often bud or graft desired varieties on stocks that do well under local climatic conditions, but scions and stocks must be in just the right condition for those methods to succeed. There is no reason why amateur gardeners may not learn to bud roses for their own gardens. Farmers' Bulletin 750-F, "Roses for the Home," tells how to propagate and care for roses. This publication may be obtained from County Agent Chester Walters.

Business still shows its slow, but rather steady, downward trend. That long-looked-for confidence on the part of business leaders simply hasn't appeared. Good recent sign was a strengthening of raw material prices, after a period of decline. Settlement of the great coal strike, think many economists, will be a great help to all industry.

Hail Insurance

NO MAN ever went to the poor house by paying for insurance, but many have gone broke by not carrying it.

Hail, pelting down on your grain, leaves destruction, despair, and wipes out the results of your labor for a year. The desolation in the path of a hail-storm is the best argument in favor of hail insurance.

If you do not insure, you gamble with fate. If you insure with us you cannot lose. When your crop is destroyed by hail it is gone till next year, but your expenses go on just the same.

You cannot foretell what damage the season's hailstorms will do to your crops. You cannot control the elements. A storm can destroy your crop in fifteen seconds. We can insure you in fifteen minutes. See us FIRST.
